HOLDUP AT BEECHWOOD PRESENTS LOVING CUP

Hold up Men Are Fined When They Attempt to Hold Up Oscar Muench of Beechwood Near Feuerhammer's

Last Wednesday evening Oscar Muench of Beechwood had an experience which he will long remember. He in the afternoon came to Kewaskum to deliver some hogs to John Stuppling, the local butcher, and left for his home between nine and ten o'clock. When in the swamp just west of Ferdinand Feuerhammer on the New Fane road he was ordered to halt by two men, one on each side of the road, who threw a flash light at him, but instead of stopping Mr. Muench gave his horses the whip and managed to escape. He states that he was, however, followed by the two men, but they were unable to catch him.

It has been reported that he was warned by some one in the village before leaving for his home to be careful of holdups as several of these occurrences have occurred lately.

Routes No. 1 and 4, when with automobile to leave at 7:45 a. m. and return by 10:30 a. m. Hereafter all carriers left at 7 a. m. The reason for the change is no doubt on account of the heavy parcel post and other mail that is received from train No. 108 due at the village at 7:32 a. m. All patrons of the routes should be governed accordingly.

A "Swift" Answer

Some of the boys are still trying to settle the question of why a chicken crosses the road. To put an end to the discussion, The Leader will give the correct answer. A chicken crosses the road to keep from passing a young rooster with a cap on the back of his head and a cigarette in his mouth, who has a habit of standing by the wayside and passing flip remarks about chickens as they pass by. Waukegan Leader.

EVERY BODY NEEDS A FAITHFUL FOREIGN AND COLD REMEDY

INSURANCE FEES ARE LOWERED

A Very Important Change Has Been Made in The Postal Laws and Regulations Affecting Parcel Post

Postmaster Geo. H. Schmidt last Sunday received notice from the post office department at Washington, D. C., calling his attention to Order No. 8098, dated August 20, 1915, promulgating an amendment to paragraph 2, Section 488, Postal Laws and Regulations as follows:

Effective September 1st, parcel post shall not be registers, but may be insured against loss in an amount equivalent to its actual value, but not to exceed $5 in any one case on payment of a fee of 3 cents not to exceed $25 on payment of a fee of 5 cents; not to exceed $50 on payment of a fee of 10 cents, or not to exceed $100 on payment of a fee of 25 cents, in addition to the postage, both to be prepaid by stamps affixed; but indemnity will not be allowed in cases of loss of such mail addressed to the Philippine Islands, unless the loss occurred in the postal service of the United States.

This amendment provides that the following indemnity will be paid for loss of insured parcels mailed on and after September 1, 1915:

Covered by a 3 cent fee value up to $5.

Covered by a 5 cent fee value up to $25.

Covered by a 10 cent fee value up to $50.

Covered by a 25 cent fee value up to $100.

The changes made from previous regulations are that now parcels with a value up to $5 will cost only three cents extra to insure, while heretofore a fee of 6 cents was charged. The other change is that parcels may be insured for an actual value up to $100 heretofore being only insured for an actual value up to $50. The insurance fee from 50c to $100 is 25 cents.

Another feature of the parcel post inaugurated on September 1st is that upon request of a sender of an ordinary fourth class parcel a receipt be given upon payment of an extra fee of 1 cent to be affixed with postage. The purpose of this receipt is to provide senders of parcels a record evidencing their mailing. This insurance does not in any way insure the parcel as to its integrity while in the mails and receipt is obtained from the address upon the delivery. Patrons who desire either of these latter facilities must be advised to insure their parcels.

Parcels now with dimensions of 24 inches girth and width combined are now eligible to the mails.

BOOSTERS TAKE OUR VILLAGE BY STORM

West Bend Citizens Pay Kewaskum a Royal Visit on Thursday

About sixty of West Bend Boosters, Boosting the Washington County Fair for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, September 6th, 7th and 8th, together with the West Bend City Band stormed this village on Thursday morning and entertained the citizens of our hamlet in a very elaborate manner. They came here via fifteen automobiles, when arriving in the village all horns of the various automobiles sounded and drove to East Main street, where all alighted and paraded through our principal streets. All the way various boosters stopped in the different business places and paid a visit. Circulars were distributed advertising the fair, the boosters certainly will be repaid for their efforts. Come again West Bend, you are certainly welcomed.

NOTES

President Schroeder and Secretary Jos. F. Huber of the Agricultural Society headed the procession up Main street.

Editor Huber was found looking for a Lyre, not a "Liar".

Bumske Pick is there when it comes to delivering an address. Especially with gestures.

Cashier E. H. Rosenheimer and Editor Geo. H. Schmidt received special congratulations. Wonder who will ask the boosters.

John P. Klassen, former resident and citizen of this village, was among the Boosters. He had a hearty hand shake with John.

HOSE BUYERS DID NOT SHOW UP

The European horse buyers did not make their appearance in the village last Wednesday, as they advertised they would. What the reason was for their non-appearance we have been unable to find out. The buyers, however, were at West Bend, the preceding day, according to the following clipping from the West Bend News, 1912:

The buyers of horses for the European war were in this city on Tuesday and could not find horses to suit them, either in looks or price.

The non-appearance of the buyers was quite a disappointment, as there were several hundred people here, a good many of whom had horses for sale.

Horse Races at The Fair

That the horse races at the County Fair at West Bend next week will be the best ever held there appears now to be a fully warranted statement. Thirty horses of very good record have been entered. This exceeds all expectations. The fine new race track which is considered the best half mile track in the state, the running and elegant buildings that flank it and the concourse of swift pacers and trotters will make this year's horse races a spectacle of uncommon interest.

HAD FAITH IN THE PEASANT

Great Russian Novelist Held Firmly to Belief in the Wisdom of the Simple.

Tolstoy, the great Russian novelist, spent his whole life in close communion with the peasants and was persuaded that all the wisdom he might have attained concerning life, its true meaning and its true aim, was due to this fact. He knew the peasant soul; he spoke and he wrote, especially in his religious and moral works, the language of the peasants. He always says, speaking of truth, that he means "the simple peasant truth." He considers the work of the peasant the only dignified labor and he never ceased to investigate the simple thoughts and the clear judgments of the true workers, the peasants. At the very end of his life, when he left his home he walked with his daughter through a village and said

SNAKE CHARMER IS BITTEN

Circus Employee Breathes by Means of Tube as Result of Swollen Tongue.

Pocatello, Idaho.—George Horner, who is employed by the Campbell Carnival company as a snake charmer, went out into the hills near here with a companion, and captured eight rattlesnakes. Horner wanted to extract the fangs of the reptiles, and had succeeded by using his teeth on the first few, when a particularly squirmy one bit him on the lip and tongue. As a consequence he is considering himself lucky to be breathing, even by means of a tube put through a hole in his windpipe. As soon as he was bitten, Horner was taken to Dr. A. F. Newton. The doctor administered antidotes and labored with the man for three hours. Horner's tongue became so swollen that he could not breathe and Doctor Newton found it necessary to cut a hole in the man's windpipe.

GERMAN SOAP FROM SUGAR

Discovery That Promises to Be of Immense Importance to Country in the Midst of War.

The discovery is announced of a method of manufacture of soap from sugar, of which Germany has plenty, instead of from oil, which is scarce. In the past it has been possible to use sugar only in soaps that had little value. By the new method, it is claimed, the soap produced is not only fine and delicate, but it acts as efficiently in salt water as in fresh—a fact that may make the soap valuable for the navy. Articles that formerly had to be sent to chemical laundries can now be washed with the new kind of soap. The finest kinds of silks, it is alleged, not only are not harmed by it, but their colors are brought out brilliantly and as new. In addition, the sugar soap seems to be responsible for a minimum of the wear and tear occasioned by old-fashioned cleansing soaps.

RUINED RUSSIAN DEFENSES AT JAROSLAV

In an effort to check the Germans, the Russian forces entrenched themselves in what they believed was an impregnable position just behind Jaroslavl, a fortified city in Galicia. The Germans forced their positions, however, and compelled the Russians to flee before them. In the upper photograph a group of German soldiers are seen approaching the scene of death wrought by their guns in driving out the Russians, while on the lower photograph two German officers are seen contemplating the havoc wrought by the forces in their successful forward movement.

GALICIAN JEWS RETURNING TO THEIR HOMES

In the rear of the German army which triumphantly made its entry into Galicia and Russia were thousands of Jewish refugees who had fled from their homes before the soldiers of the czar. "DEAD" MAN WALKS TO COURT

Identification in Chicago May Be Only Trick of the "Heathen Chinese."

Chicago—As the jury was completed to try Harry Eng Hong, charged with the murder of Mock Chung in a Chinese gambling house in 1913, an Oriental walked into Judge Barrett's room in the criminal court building and announced that he was Mock Chung. His announcement caused a sensation. The attorney for the defendant told the court that the man who was killed was Jung Long and a marriage license also would be introduced in evidence to prove that the supposed murdered man is among the living. According to Assistant State's Attorney John O'Brien the state hopes to prove that Mock Chung was really murdered and that the man who appeared in court possesses the same name as the dead man.

WHISTLING BURGLAR CAUGHT

Bandit Who Went About His Work Quite Merrily Now in Jail.

Redding, Cal.—John Hooper was arrested at The Dalles, Ore., charged with being the "whistling burglar" who compelled Gordon Jacobs, manager of the Jones company store at Hornbrook, Cal., near here, to march from his home to the store, open the safe and permit the robber to take with him cash and gold dust to the amount of $700.

While taking Jacobs to the store and on his way out of town with the loot the robber whistled merrily and aroused no suspicion. The robbery was committed on June 23. Hooper, according to the police at The Dalles, was paroled from Folsom penitentiary last year.

WAS MAN OF PECULIAR MIND

De Quincey Had Good and Bad Qualities Mingled in a Really Marvellous Manner.

De Quincey, who wrote "The Confession of an Opium Eater," and other works now considered English classics, was a strange, ill-balanced person. Vernon Lee says of him that he had an incapacity for holding his tongue on irrelevant matters, which is a sign of intellectual weakness.

He had also a marked incapacity for keeping his irrelevant emotions (especially the vituperative ones) to himself, which is a mark of moral vulgarity.

He had a manifest tendency to talk big, and at the same time to mix slang with grandiloquence in situations where no humorous effect can be obtained by this proceeding.

Yet, withal, these traits are redeemed by his great subtlety of thought, his tragic depth of feeling and occasionally his marvelous power of seeing and saying.

Many Gates in Norway. A curious feature to travelers on the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

Mississippi Valley Conference on Tuberculosis to Be Held in Indianapolis

Plans are being completed here by Governor Ralston, the Chamber of Commerce and the Indiana Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis for the reception of 1,000 or more delegates to the Mississippi Valley Conference on Tuberculosis to be held in this city September 28th and 30th and October 1st. The convention is expected to be the largest gathering of anti-tuberculosis workers ever held in America. Eighteen Middle Western States are included in the Conference and in each state, the governor is appointing from fifteen to forty delegates. There will be in addition, large representations from the health boards, hospital corps and anti-tuberculosis societies in each state.
The program for the three days will touch upon nearly every phase of the greatest of all preventable diseases which each year reaps a toll of approximately 100,000 human lives in the Mississippi Valley. Physicians will discuss the best ways of diagnosing tuberculosis in the early stages while there is yet room for hope that the patient may be restored to health. Nurses and social service workers will lay strong emphasis on the prevention of the disease as applied to housing and working conditions. Representatives from anti-tuberculosis societies will bring out the best method of educating the public to the need for stringent preventive measures. Labor leaders and widely known men from the world of commerce will join in a discussion of the topic "The Best Tuberculosis Prevention," a subject that will also be handled by newspaper men of prominence, life insurance experts, city builders, delegates from state organizations of women, physicians and nurses. The address of welcome will be delivered by Governor Ralston of Indiana; responses will be made by a number of visiting governors and then the Conference will proceed speedily to get down to brass tacks. Theories and far fetched notions concerning the white plague will have little place in the discussion but on the other hand the simple, every day problems which affect the patient, the physician, the nurse, the social workers, and the community purse will be given extended consideration.
Several tuberculosis clinics for the study of incipient cases of tuberculosis will be held during the Conference. Following a discussion of Red Cross Christmas Seal campaign methods for raising money with which to finance the crusade against consumption, the delegates will review the Indianapolis Disease Prevention Day parade which takes place on the afternoon of Friday, October 1st.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER STAR Barn Fixtures Stalls and Litter Carriers Low 20th Century Manure Spreader A Durable Machine THE Low 20th Century spreader is durable because it is built almost entirely of steel. The main frame is steel, braced with steel. Both front and rear trucks are steel. All driving parts are steel. The controlling levers and even the seat are of steel. The only wood entering into the construction of this machine is used in the sides of the box, the apron slats, the beater bars, and the tongue. In these places the kind of wood used is more durable than steel. Besides being durable the Low 20th Century spreader is without exception the most efficient spreader on the market. The features that make it durable and efficient will have to be seen to be thoroughly understood. We have a sample machine set up, and can show you what these features are better than we can tell you in fifty advertisements. Come in and see the machine. L. ROSENHEIMER Kewaskum, Wisconsin

WILL BOW TO U. S.

GERMANY AND GREAT BRITAIN TO MAKE CONCESSIONS TO UNITED STATES.

MEDIATION HOPE IS SEEN

Modification of Blockade and Submarine Warfare May Lead Wilson Again to Offer His Good Offices.

Washington, Sept. 1.—State department officials expressed the opinion that the way is being cleared rapidly for another effort by the United States to get England and Germany to agree to the principle of the freedom of the seas with direct bearing on the reopening of neutral trade with Germany.

A long cable message was received by Secretary of State Lansing from Ambassador Gerard relating to the Arabic case and was of sufficient importance to require a visit of Mr. Lansing to the White House.

After the receipt of this dispatch from Mr. Gerard, the British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice called on the state department trade advisers and on other officials of the state department.

After these two developments, it was indicated very strongly that Great Britain was willing to modify the orders in council so far as they affected the export of dye stuffs from Germany and millions of dollars worth of goods held at Rotterdam under contract for shipment to the United States.

State department authorities, reading between the lines of what they have from the German foreign office, seem to think that Germany will frankly disavow the act of the commander of the submarine who attacked the Arabic if he did not give the warning required by international law and demanded by this government.

BATTLE HIGH IN THE AIR

Italians and Austrians Fight Hand-to-Hand Combat on Edge of Precipices.

Rome, Sept. 1.—Fighting on the edge of precipices and engaging in hand-to-hand combats on crags high in the air, the Italian soldiers attempting to take the Austrian positions on Monte Rombon, in the upper Isontzo region, are slowly but steadily gaining ground, according to a dispatch received from Udine.

The Alpine troops have already ascended the mountain for 5,000 feet but the Austrians hold the summit 2,000 feet above. An entire company of Alpine troops was swept away Saturday when the Austrians loosened an avalanche of rocks.

Another company narrowly escaped the same fate, but these men ascended the steep path made by the avalanche and gained 1,000 feet before the Austrians were able to check them with their rifle fire.

SEE PLOT IN MILL FIRES

Government Starts Investigation of Destruction of Munitions Factories.

Washington, Sept. 1.—That a well-organized plot exists to destroy munition factories that are turning out supplies for the allies is the belief of officials here who have been investigating the various German propaganda charges.

The wrecking of the American Powder company's glazing mill at Acton, Mass., which will tie up that plant for several weeks, destruction of a black powder mill at Upper Haddley, a suburb of Wilmington, Del., with the death of two men following close on explosions and fires at half a dozen other points during the last week are considered far more than mere coincidences. And, although officials refuse point blank to discuss the matter, it was learned from an unimpeachable source that an investigation already has been started.

Mrs. Pershing was a daughter of Senator Warren of Wyoming. Her husband, commanding the Eighth brigade, U. S. infantry, is at El Paso, Tex., in charge of the border troops.

JOHN D. LONG PASSES AWAY

Secretary of the Navy Under McKinley and Former Governor of Massachusetts Succumbs.

Hingham, Mass., Aug. 31.—John D. Long, former secretary of the navy, and former governor of Massachusetts, died at his home here on Saturday. Mr. Long returned from a trip to Maine suffering from an intestinal trouble. John D. Long was secretary of the navy during the Spanish-American war. Mr. Long was called to the head of the navy department when President McKinley took office in March, 1897, and also served a year in the cabinet of President Roosevelt.

Mr. Long was born in Buckfield, Me., in 1828. Settled in Boston after his graduation from Harvard, he served four terms in the state legislature; was three terms speaker of the house; was lieutenant governor, and in 1879 defeated Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, the Democratic candidate for governor, by a plurality of 13,000. He was twice re-elected with large pluralities, and sent to congress for three terms.

1,000 DIE ON TRANSPORT?

British Vessel Carrying 2,000 Canadians Reported Torpedoed Off Scilly Islands.

Berlin, by wireless, Aug. 31.—Passengers who arrived at Amsterdam on the Holland-American steamship Ryndam, brought a report that a British transport carrying 2,000 Canadian troops was torpedoed on August 15 off the Scilly islands. It is said that about 1,000 were saved.

No hint has come from British sources of the foregoing report. While it is possible that had such an event occurred, the British censors might have withheld the news, this is improbable in view of the fact that official announcements were made promptly of the torpedoing of the British transport Royal George in the Aegean sea, with the loss of about 1,000 men.

AUSTRIANS IN RETREAT

ITALIANS PUSHING FOE BACK AT TWO POINTS.

Teutons Blow Up Bridges and Destroy Railroads as They Retire—Storm Monte Rombon.

Milan, Aug. 30.—The Austrians are in full retreat at two points. One is in the Val Sugana, where they are blowing up bridges and viaducts and destroying all roads and railways as they retire. The other is in the region of the upper Isontzo, where the Italian Alpini are wresting an important mountain summit from the Austrian grip.

The latest official reports show that the Italians are now well advanced beyond Plezzo and are attacking the summit of Monte Rombon, 6,000 feet high, which overlooks the valley of the Coritenza, a tributary of the Isontzo, and also commands the highway that culminates in Predil pass at a height of 3,500 feet and thence descends into the Zebach valley, where the Italians captured positions about a week ago.

The Austrians are in a precarious position at Tarvis, as well as at Tolmino and Goritz, not to mention the strong series of defenses they lost in the Val Sugana.

TRY TO WRECK TRAIN

PLOT TO BLOW UP POWDER FOR THE ALLIES BALKED AT GARY, IND.

RAILS WERE TAMPERED WITH

Employee of the Aetna Works Discovers Damaged Track—Plants Are Placed Under Heavy Guard—Excitement Running High.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 31.—An apparent attempt to wreck a train carrying enough gunpowder to blow up the whole city of Gary was discovered on Saturday at the height of excitement which has developed with the secret agitation and spying revealed in the search for the motive and murderers in the case of Rev. Edmund Kayser. Fifty feet north of the Aetna Powder works, three miles east of Gary, the storm center of plots against shipment of war munitions to England, an effort to derail a train due to leave the works Sunday for the East was discovered.

The rivets of a plate holding together the two rails had been pried or chiseled off and the end of one of the rails had been crowbarred about six inches out of line.

The discovery was made before the train started by Anton Slazatoski, an employee of the powder works.

Armed guards are marching about the plants and spies are at work for both parties of the European strife. Eighty per cent of the Gary population is composed of foreigners, almost all of whom have personal and warm interests in the outcome, and everybody in Gary suspects his neighbor of being a foreign secret service agent.

Excitement is running high in the remote quarters of the city, and numerous fights and firearm scrapes have followed the disclosures and conjectures.

Acton, Mass., Aug. 31.—The glazing mill of the American Powder company was blown up at 3:30 o'clock Sunday. Murray Ballou, president of the company, would not attempt to place the responsibility. Armed guards are now patrolling the vicinity of the mills.

Military Property Being Removed, Says Dispatch—Orita Stronghold Is Taken.

Petrograd, Aug. 30.—Grodno is being evacuated. Only sufficient troops to delay the German advance are now in the fortress. Military property has been removed.

Orita, a Russian fortress guarding the Niemen river between Kovno and Grodno, has been captured by the Germans, the general staff reported at Berlin. The fall of this city, on the bank of the Niemen, opens the way for another drive toward Vilna, to the northeast, and Grodno, to the south.

For the second time the German admiralty issued a statement at Berlin declaring that the Russian admiralty claim that the battle cruiser Moltke and other German warships had been destroyed in the Gulf of Riga, is a "fake."

RECORD WILL BE KEPT

GOV. TO OPEN BOOKS TO KEEP TAB ON MONEY SPENT.

Plans System Whereby Expenditures of All Departments Will Be Accurately Disclosed.

Madison—Close tabs to be kept on the expenditures of each state board and department, according to a plan outlined in a statement given out by Gov. Philipp.

The statement, after explaining how the $5,000 appropriation for ascertaining the financial condition of the state at the end of each year had inadvertently been repealed, says:

"It is my purpose to open a set of books crediting to every board or department the sum which each is authorized to receive and which is available for the total expenses of the department. An itemized statement of all expenditures is to be furnished monthly by each board or department. This will be charged back against the fund credited. The balance remaining in the fund will at all times be readily determined. It is my purpose to see that state finances are conducted in the same manner as a well regulated business institution would conduct its affairs."

FIRE THREATENS VILLAGE

Black Creek, Wis., Is Nearly Wiped Out by Blaze of Unknown Origin.

RIGHT TO SEARCH GRANTED

Attorney General Rules, However, Warden Should Not Be Too Suspicious.

Madison—If a game warden has good reason to believe that a traveler has fish or game concealed illicitly in his suit case, satchel, trunk or carpet bag, he, the game warden, is given authority under the police regulation to make search and discover if his suspicion is well founded. Such is the opinion of Atty.-Gen. Owen given to the conservation commission.

The attorney general offers a word of caution in a suggestion that the game warden must not permit his curiosity to lead him to unwarranted exploration, in other words, must not search the gripsacks of the way farer just for the fun of the thing.

"Quite likely," he answered. "But our first object must be to rediscover Muriel. Would it not be best to send an urgent wire to the address where I always write? She would then reply here, no doubt. I've told you practically everything, my dear old fellow. The facts of the affair can be made known only by Muriel. I tell you, we must find her."

"Yes, we must—at all hazards!" I said. "Let's go across to the telegraph office opposite Charing Cross. It's open always." And we rose and walked out along the Strand, now nearly deserted, and dispatched an urgent message to Muriel at an address in Hurlingham road, Fulham.

Afterwards we stood outside on the curb, still talking, I loath to part from him, when there passed by in the shadow two men in dark overcoats, who crossed the road behind us to the front of Charing Cross station, and then continued on towards Trafalgar square.

As the light of the street lamp fell upon them I recognized the face of one as that of a person I had seen before, yet I was not at all certain, and my failure to remember whom the passer-by resembled prevented me from saying anything further to Jack than:

"A fellow I know has just gone by, I think." "Who?" "The man who was with friends tonight," he answered. "After all, old chap, it does one good to come back to our dear, dirty old town again. We abuse it when we are here, and talk of the life in Paris and Vienna and Brussels, but when we are away there is no place on earth so dear to us, for it is 'home.' But there?" he laughed. "I'm actually growing romantic. Ah! if we could only find Muriel! But we must tomorrow. Tanta! I shall go around to the club and sleep, for I haven't fixed on any dignified yet. Come in at ten tomorrow, and we will decide upon some plan. One thing is plainly certain—Elma must at once be got out of Russia. She's certainly in deadly peril of her life there."

"Now, tell the truth. In this affair, Olinto, our interests are mutual, are they not?" He nodded, after a moment's hesitation. "And you know also a man named Archer—who is sometimes known as Hornby, or Woodroffe—as well as a friend of his called Chatter?" "Si, signore," he said. "I have met them all to my regret."

"And have you ever met a Russian—a certain Baron Oberg, and his niece, Elma Heath?" "His niece? She isn't his niece," "Then who is she?" I demanded. "How do I know? I have seen her once or twice. But she's dead, isn't she? She knew the secret of those men, and they intended to kill her. I tried to prevent them taking her away on the yacht, and I would have gone to the police—only I dare not because my own hands were not quite clean. I knew they intended to silence her, but I was powerless to save her, poor young lady. They took her on board Leithcourt's yacht, the Iris, and they sailed for the Mediterranean, I believe."

"And what was your connection with them?" "Well, I was Leithcourt's servant," was his reply. "I was steward on the Iris for a year, until I suppose they thought that I began to see too much, and then I was placed in a position ashore."

"And what did you see?" "More than I care to tell, signore. If they were arrested I should be arrested, too, you see." "But I mean to solve the mystery, Olinto," I said fiercely, for I was in no trifling mood. "I'll fathom it if it costs me my life." "If the signor solves it, then I cannot be charged with revealing the truth," was the man's diplomatic reply. "But I fear they are far too wary."

"Arnilda has lost her life. Surely that is sufficient incentive for you to bring them all to justice?" "Of course. But if the law falls upon me, it will also afflict you. I explained the terrible affliction to which my love had been subjected by those heartless brutes, whereupon he cried enthusiastically: 'Then she is not dead! She can tell us everything!'" "But cannot you tell us?" "But what is the use, if we have no clear proof?" was his evasive reply. I could see plainly that he feared being implicated in some extraordinary plot, the exact nature of which he so steadfastly refused to reveal to me.

"You know I carry this," and I drew out my revolver from my hip pocket. "But, signore, have a care for yourself," cried the Italian, laying his hand upon my arm. "You are a marked man. Ah! do I not know," he exclaimed breathlessly. "If you go out you may run right into—well, the fatal accident."

"Never fear, Olinto," I replied reassuringly. "I shall keep my eyes wide open. Here, in London, one's life is safer than anywhere else in the world, perhaps—certainly safer than in some places I could name in your own country, eh?" at which he grinned.

The next moment he grew serious again, and said: "I only warn the signore that if he goes out it is at his own peril."

"Then let it be so," I laughed, feeling self-confident that no one could lead me into a trap. I was neither a foreigner nor a country cousin. I knew London too well. He was silent and shook his head; then, after telling me that he was still at the same restaurant in Westbourne Grove, he took his departure, warning me once more not to go forth.

Half an hour later, disregarding his words, I strode out into the Strand, and again walked round to the "Juniper." The short, wintry day had ended, the gas lamps were lit and the darkness of night was gradually creeping on.

Jack had not been to the club, and I began now to grow thoroughly uneasy. He had parted from me at the corner of the Strand with only a few minutes' walk before him, and yet he had apparently disappeared. My first impulse was to drive to Notting Hill to inquire of Muriel if she had news of him, but somehow the Italian's warning words made me wonder if he had met with foul play.

I suddenly recollected those two men who had passed by as we had talked, and how that the features of one had seemed strangely familiar. Therefore I took a cab to the police station down at Whitehall and made inquiry of the inspector on duty in the big, bare office with its glaring gas jets in wire globes. He heard me to the end, then turning back the book of "occurrences" before him, glanced through the ruled entries.

"I should think this is the gentleman, sir," he said. And he read to me the entry as follows: P. C. 42A reports that at 2.37 a. m., while on duty outside the National Gallery, he heard a revolver shot, followed by a man's cry. He ran to the corner of Suffolk street, where he found a gentleman lying upon the pavement suffering from a serious shot-wound in the chest and quite unconscious. He obtained the assistance of P. C's 23A and 23B, and the gentleman, who was not identified, was taken to the Charing Cross hospital, where the house surgeon expressed a doubt whether he could live. Neither P. C's recollect having noticed any suspicious-looking person in the vicinity.

JOHN PERVALIC, Inspector. I waited for no more, but rushed round to the hospital in the cab, and was, five minutes later, taken along the ward, where I identified poor Jack lying in bed, white-faced and unconscious. "The doctor was here a quarter of an hour ago," whispered the sister. "And he fears he is sinking." "He has uttered no words," I asked anxiously. "Made no statement?" "None. He has never regained consciousness, and I fear, sir, he never will. It is a case of deliberate murder, the police told me early this morning." I clenched my fists and swore a fierce revenge for that dastardly act. And as I stood beside the narrow bed, I realized that what Olinto had said regarding my own peril was the actual truth. I was a marked man. Was I never to penetrate that inscrutable and ever-increasing mystery?

"Then they have followed him, after all! They have deceived me, and now, as they intend to take him from me, I will myself protect him. You, Mr. Gregg, have been in peril of your life, that I know, but Jack's enemies are yours, and they shall not go unpunished. May I see him?"

"I fear not, but I will ask at the hospital." And after the exchange of some further explanations we took a hansom back to Charing Cross. At first the sister refused to allow Muriel to see the patient, but she then consented, and the distressed girl in the black coat and hat crept on tiptoe to the bedside.

"He was conscious for a quarter of an hour or so," whispered the nurse who sat there. "He asked after some lady named Muriel."

"The girl at my side burst into low sobbing. "Tell him," she said, "that Muriel is here—that she has seen him, and is waiting for him to recover."

Day succeeded day, and although I was not allowed to visit my friend, I was told that he was very slowly progressing. I dined at the Hotel Cecil, begging duty for news of Elma. Only once did a letter come from her, a brief, well-written note, from which it appeared that she was quite well and happy, although she longed to be able to go out. The princess was very kind indeed to her, and she added, was making secret arrangements for her escape across the Russian frontier into Germany.

I saw Muriel many times, but never once did she refer to Rannoch or her sudden departure. Her only thought was of the man she loved. One afternoon, ten days after the attempt upon Jack, I was allowed to sit by his bedside and question him. "Ah, Gordon, old fellow!" he said faintly. "I've had a narrow escape—by but I did not heed it. I somehow trusted the fellow." Jack, now thoroughly recovered, called almost daily at Bassett road, and would often bring Muriel to the Cecil to tea or to luncheon. Often I inquired the whereabouts of her father and of Hilton Chater, but she declared herself in entire ignorance, and believed they were abroad.

One afternoon, shortly before Christmas, as we were sitting in the American bar of the hotel, my friend told me that Muriel had invited us to tea at her cousin's that afternoon, and accordingly we went there in company. As we sat together Muriel a smart figure in pale blue gown, poured tea for us and chatted more merrily, I thought, than ever before. She seemed quick and nervous and yet full of happiness, as she should indeed have been, for Jack Durnford was one of the best fellows in the world, and his restoration to health little short of miraculous.

"Gordon," he said to me with a sudden seriousness when tea had ended, and we had placed down our cups. "I want to tell you something—something I've been longing always to tell you, and now I have got dear Muriel's consent. I want to tell you about her father and his friends."

"And about Elma, too?" I said in quick eagerness. "Yes, tell me everything." "No, not everything, for I don't know it myself. But what I know I will explain as briefly as I can, and leave you to form your own conclusions. It is a strange story, a strange—most amazing story. When I myself became first cognizant of the mystery I was on board the flagship the Renown, under Admiral Sir John Fisher. We were lying in Malta when there arrived the English yacht Iris, owned by Mr. Philip Leithcourt, and among those on board cruising for pleasure were Mr. Martin Woodroffe, Mr. Hilton Chater, and the owner's wife and daughter Muriel.

"Muriel and I met first at a tennis party, and afterwards frequently at various houses in Malta, for anyone who goes there and entertains is soon entertained in return. A mutual attachment sprang up between Muriel and myself," he said, placing his hand tenderly upon her and smiling, "and we often met in secret and took long walks, until quite suddenly Leithcourt said that it was necessary to sail for Smyrna to pick up some friends who had been traveling in Palestine. The night they sailed a great consternation was caused on the island by the news that the safe in the admiral superintendent's office had been opened by expert safe-breakers, and certain most important secret documents stolen."

"Well," I asked, much interested. "Again, two months later, when the villa of the prince of Montenegro at Palermo, was broken into and the whole of the famous jewels of the princess stolen, it was a very strange fact that the Iris was at the moment in that port. But it was not until the third occasion, when the yacht was at Villefranche, and our squadron being at Toulon I got four days' leave to go along the Riviera, that my suspicions were aroused, for at the very hour when I was dining at the London house at Nice with Muriel and a schoolfellow of hers, Elma Heath, who was spending the winter there with a lady who was Baron Oberg's cousin, that a great robbery was committed in one of the big hotels up at Cimiez, the wife of an American millionaire losing jewels valued at thirty thousand pounds. Then the robberies, coincident with the visit of the yacht, aroused my strong suspicion. I remarked the nature of those documents stolen from Malta, and recognized that they could only be of service to a foreign government. Then came the Leithcourt incident of which you told me, when the name had been changed to the Lola, and she had been repainted. I made searching inquiry and found that on the evening she was purposely run aground in order to strike up a friendship at the consulate, a Russian gunboat was lying in the vicinity. The consul's safe was rifled, and the scheme certainly was to transfer anything obtained from it to the Russian gunboat."

"But what was in the safe?" I asked. "Unfortunately nothing. But you see they knew that our squadron was due in Leithcourt, and that some extremely important dispatches were on the way to the admiral—secret orders based upon the decision of the British cabinet as to the vexed question of Russian ships passing the Dardanelles—they expected that they would be lodged in the safe until the arrival of the squadron, as they always are. They were, however, bitterly disappointed because the dispatches had not arrived."

"And then?" "And then?" "Must be Durable." "Lenders say, I've been carrying that O. U.'s of yours until they are about worn out." "Barrows—Sorry, old man. Next time I'll use better paper."

ernoon, and darkness overtook him before he reached home. As it is a sin to ride on the Sabbath, the rabbi for a moment was perplexed what to do. Then he uttered a command, and to the right of him and to the left of him it was Sabbath, in front of him and in back of him it was Sabbath, but where the rabbi rode it was not Sabbath!"

High Rents in Cities. The enormous rise in London rents, none rich and poor alike, during the past five years is shown by statistics issued by the Board of Trade. Lord Altondale, who three years ago paid $5,500 a year for his house in Piccadilly, now pays $8,250. The rent of the United States club, which until 1904 was $725, is now $19,150, and that of St. James street and King street, is $15,000 a year. One must, however, go to New York to find the most highly rented tenement in the world—Mr. Murray Guggenheim, who pays $25,000 a year for his residence at the corner of Fifth avenue and Eighty-first street.

NOT SABBATH FOR THE RABBI. Miracle Had to Be Performed to Keep Him From Breaking Law, and He Did It. A gabbie, the special messenger of a miracle-performing rabbi, so the story is told, came to a village and all the idlers gathered around him. The conversation fell upon the subject of miracles. "I heard of a wonderful miracle," said one of the villagers, "who performed great miracles. One day he was out walking, when clouds gathered and before he could find shelter it commenced to rain. The rabbi did not have an umbrella with him, and not wishing to get drenched he uttered a command. And to the right of him and to the left of him it was Sabbath, in front of him and in back of him it was Sabbath, but where the rabbi rode it was not Sabbath!"

Wouldn't Have Sister Hurt. When Walter was a tiny fellow he accompanied his older sister to the dentist's. She was to have a tooth extracted and as the dentist commenced to pull Helen began to scream. Instantly, she fell, Walter scrambled from his chair and grabbed the dentist by the leg, begging with all his might, he shouted fiercely: "You beser stop dat if you know what's dood for you!"

INCREASE RANGE OF VISION. New Night Glasses Are Said to Be Four Times as Effective as the Old Ones. Night telescopes four times as effective as those that have long been in use by marine officers have been perfected comparatively recently and are now in practical service. It hardly seems possible that a telescope could be of much use in bringing nearer or making more distinct a distant ship or building at night, but the modern night glasses do give an astonishing amount of assistance to the eye. Under the old theory, any attempt to magnify a distant object very much—over three or four diameters, for instance—would be disastrous, because only so much light could come to the eye from the distant object; and spreading this scanty light over a wide space by much magnifying would simply result in blurring the object, making indistinct objects even less distinct. The new glasses avoid this trouble by using the principle of adapting the

Die "World" hat auch schon in Erfahrung gebracht, daß Verhufe gemacht wurden, Fonds aufzubringen, um eine Nachrichtenagentur, die nicht von London kontrolliert wird, und ein unabhängiges anglo-amerikanisches Blatt wie "The Evening Mail" zu erwerben. Die "World" behauptet ferner, daß die Briten in den amerikanischen Waffen- und Munitionsfabriken von Agenten, die in Deutschland Solde ziehen, angestellt worden seien. Die "World" bleibt natürlich für die meisten ihrer Behauptungen die Beweise schuldig, weil sie eben keine zu erbringen weiß, und in einem Leitartikel sagt sie selbst:

Staatssekretär Lansing erklärte, daß die in der "New York World" enthaltene Angabe, der Präsident habe ihn angewiesen, in seinem Departement eine Untersuchung anzustellen, um mehrere "deutsche Espione", die sich unter den Angestellten befinden, zu ermitteln, unwarhaft sei. Der Präsident habe keine derartige Ordre gegeben. Es waren etwa zwanzig Zeitungs-Korrespondenten gegenwärtig, darunter Vertreter aller großen New Yorker Zeitungen. Man hielt bei den "Entfaltungen" nicht eben weidlich drauflos geschwindelt.

England kontrolliert jetzt die Kupferproduktion. Bekanntlich ist die den Engländern gelungene, ein Liebesentkommen mit der Almagamat Copper Company, der größten Kupferproduzentin des Nordens zu treffen, das darauf hinausgeht, die gesamte amerikanische Kupferproduktion unter englische Kontrolle zu bringen. England ist nunmehr Herr über die Kupfererzeugung der Welt und sicherlich werden wir später die Folgen davon zu spüren bekommen. Heute freilich zündet diese englische Wähele ihre Spitze vor allem gegen Deutschland; zu Stande konnte sie aber nur mit Hilfe "neutraler amerikanischer Würger" kommen.

Gemeine politische Spekulatione britischer Zeitungen. Es sieht schlimm um die Sache Englands und seiner Allierten. THE RANCHER FINDS THE GOOD JUDGE OK ON CONUNDRUMS

JUDGE, WHY IS A LOT OF FELLERS WHO USE ORDINARY TOBACCO LIKE THAT BULL YEARLINT?

BECAUSE THEY'RE ALWAYS CHEWING ON A BIG CUD.

SAYS the man, who's learned how good rich tobacco really is:

"Tie your bull on the outside and come on in where the good tobacco is. You've been wasting your opportunity with unnecessary grinding and spitting; rest your jaws and content your soul with a little nibble of the Real Tobacco Chew."

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR W-B CUT CHEWING TOBACCO. IT IS THE NEW REAL TOBACCO CHEW—CUT LONG SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes. How it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

(Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.)

MAMMOTH AUTOMOBILE SHOW TO BE A BIG FEATURE OF THE STATE FAIR

All of Machinery Hall, a Total of 32,000 Square Feet of Space, to be Devoted to Motor Vehicles--$10,000 Worth of Decorations to be Used.

FAIR READY SEPT. 12.

In order that the 1915 State Fair will be ready when the gates open at 9 o'clock A. M., Sept. 13, instructions have been issued to all department superintendents that their departments must be ready for the public on Sept. 12.

Any exhibit or concession that is not ready by 9 o'clock of the morning of Sept. 12 will be ordered from the grounds.

Every official and employe will be carefully schooled in their duties, and the big fair will be run as though it had been in operation for six months.

Milwaukee, Aug. 29.—The first exposition of 1915 automobile models from more than seventy-five of the leading automobile factories in the United States will be conducted during the Wisconsin State Fair, Sept. 13 to 17, inclusive. In this respect the Wisconsin State Fair will lead all others, even taking from New York and Chicago the laurels for first exhibiting the coming year's models which have been their privilege since the inception of the motor car as a method of transportation.

George W. Browne, the Wisconsin distributor of the Overland, John G. Wallager, representing the Studebaker and Frank J. Edwards, the Kissel Kar, have been appointed a show committee by the Milwaukee Automobile Dealers to organize and present the exposition, and it is announced that at least 160 models, representing the product of between 75 and 90 factories and valued at close to a half million dollars, will be on the show floor at Machinery Hall.

Attempts have been made by the management of previous State Fairs to conduct an automobile show representative of the industry in Wisconsin. Little success has attended these efforts. However, less than 25 per cent of the automobiles marketed in Wisconsin being exhibited on the fair grounds during any State Fair of the past.

With the advent of the change in management this condition will be eliminated and the Wisconsin State Fair will present for the inspection of visitors and prospective owners every make of automobile offered for sale by the dealers of the state.

This will be accomplished through the Milwaukee Automobile Dealers, into which organization has taken a large of Machinery hall and under its auspices there will be exhibited pleasure cars, motor trucks, automobile accessories, motorcycles, portable garages and detachable motors.

Machinery hall will be devoted exclusively to the automobile and all its accessories. The building is 350 feet long by 150 feet wide and 25,000 square feet of space will be devoted to exhibit.

hibits covering every phase of the motor industry, from the simplest device to the monster caterpillar trucks manufactured in Wisconsin for the warring nations of Europe.

Arrangements have been made to enclose the monster fire proof building on all sides. This action of the State Fair has been responsible for the automobile industry deciding to make a complete and comprehensive exposition of the products of more than a hundred automobile factories. With the building enclosed it will be possible to exhibit the new show models from the various factories for the first time this season, and gasoline and electric pleasure cars will be at the State Fair this year which otherwise would not be exhibited until the annual automobile show of the Milwaukee Automobile Dealers association in January.

Heretofore no attempt has been made in the direction of decorating Machinery hall during the State Fair. This year, however, the Milwaukee dealers will transfer all of its elaborate show paraphernalia from the Auditorium to the State Fair grounds. This decorative scheme has cost the Milwaukee dealers approximately $10,000, and patrons of the State Fair who have never had the opportunity of seeing the elaborate style and decoration of a mid-winter auto show in the metropolis will have this spectacular feature as one of the compensations for their visit to the Fair this year.

The color scheme of the decorations will be in olive green, gold and mahogany with shades of green and maroon blending with the stronger colors. The electrical effects of the Milwaukee Auditorium Show will also be produced at the State Fair, making the exposition of the motor industry the foremost spectacle of the coming agricultural exposition.

FAIR IS TOO BIG.

No one possibly can see all of the 1915 Wisconsin State Fair in one day. It is too big.

In addition to the Fair proper, which will be the best the state ever has given, and a mammoth automobile show, there will be a battle in the sky between two aviators, 4,000 feet from each, and eighteen other big special attractions. Then there will be a fine array of clean, worthwhile paid shows.

On Monday the best racing motor-cyclists in the United States will compete in three big events.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday there will be harness and running races.

Music will be furnished by eighteen bands and four orchestras. The national colors will float from every building and tent.

Wisconsin growers won nine gold, 41 silver and 27 bronze medals in the grain show at the Panama Pacific Exposition. Fully 90 per cent of the prize winning grains and forage crops were produced by members of the Agricultural Experiment Association cooperating with the Experiment Station.

Some Fires and Their Lessons

The report of this department for the last fiscal year as usual reveals some startling facts. During the fiscal year there were 3,123 fires reported and a total fire loss of $4,361,195. 2,028 fires were dwelling and barns, doing a damage of $2,323,415; so that about two-thirds of the number of fires and one-half of the total losses occurred in buildings housing human beings and domestic animals. In such fires many lives are sacrificed annually on the altar of carelessness. Just a short time ago we received the sad news, that a defective fire-place in a summer cottage at Lake Delton caused a fire in which three children lost their lives. We are momentarily shocked at such news, then forthwith we forget all about it and neglect the cause.

Analyzing the cause of these fires more closely, we find, that 196 fires causing a loss of $1,059,770 were due to defective heating plants, boilers, furnaces, stoves, fire places, stove pipes, hot-air pipes, smokestacks, chimneys and sparks from the last two named. This department has often called attention to the proper and safe installation of heating plants, the proper construction of chimneys, and the necessity of cleaning these out regularly.

There were 2 lightning losses on rodded buildings with a loss of $5,800, and 334 on buildings not rodded with a loss of $464,240. This record again emphasizes in the strongest manner the efficiency of lightning rods, when properly installed.

84 fires causing a loss of $411,245 were due to defective electric work and bad wiring, again showing the necessity of having all work done by a competent and reliable electrician. Children playing with matches were responsible for 142 fires and a fire loss of $74,150. Carelessness of grown-up children with matches, and mice and matches caused 151 fires and a loss of $107,975.

These statistics again teach the necessity of keeping matches away from young children and of greater care in the use of matches even by adults.

Smokers' carelessness caused 66 fires and a fire loss of $74,836. Cleaning with gasoline and sundry gasoline explosions caused 69 fires and a fire loss of $92,415, showing the great necessity of proper storage, handling and use of this most dangerous of all inflammable liquids.

Kerosene lamp, lantern and stove explosions caused 117 fires with a loss of $84,970, showing clearly that kerosene likewise is not free from danger.

These fires or at least the large majority of them and the consequent fire waste could have been prevented had proper care been exercised.

Let therefore the foregoing figures teach us all a lesson, looking towards using more care and caution for the prevention of fire waste in all the walks of life. Dated August 27, 1915.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

To be sure of having seed corn next spring, since the backward seasons have made a mature crop harvest somewhat doubtful, it will be well for Wisconsin farmers to save any seed left over from the last planting, and to pick the first ears that ripen in their crops this fall.

As soon as the corn is well dentured it may be taken, and if it is then properly cured it will germinate well next spring. An easy method of curing is to string the ears and hang them in the kitchen or attic until they are dry.

In the opinion of A. L. Stone of the agronomy department of the college of agriculture it is advisable at first to pick most of the ripest ears. Even if they are not of the best type and conformation it will be better to have these ears than to buy unknown seed from outside the state. If the first seeds selected can be made, the first ears picked can be used for feed.

These cool mornings remind us that one of these days we may have urged need of a place for some frosted corn. As much of it as possible should go into silo and without unnecessary delay.

During 1914 about 8,600 blue prints of plans of barns, hog houses, poultry buildings, and other farm structures were furnished upon request to Wisconsin farmers by the agricultural engineering department of the university of Wisconsin.
