LETTER FROM C. E. KRAHN

Is Enjoying Trip. Will Return About Thanksgiving Time. Meets Former Citizens of Kewaskum

The editor is in receipt of a letter from Chas. E. Krahn, dated at Los Angeles, Cal., November 14th, which reads as follows: "Friend George:—I just arrived here from Anaheim and will be on my way home after spending a few days more in Los Angeles. I saw much of California the past four weeks and am almost as tired as I am almost as happy. The climate is what infatuates me most, especially in Southern California. Sunshine every day with a temperature about 80 and cool nights, so that you can sleep comfortably under cover. Anaheim, however, has all the amenities. You can pick fruits and flowers in the valleys and see snow on the mountains 50 miles away."

Orange County, the Frostless Belt, in which Anaheim is located is the garden spot of all California and the richest county in the state. The main products in Orange County are oranges, Walnuts, lemons and olives. The land must be irrigated about eight months in the year. Anaheim orange growers and others have an abundance of pure cheap water, the average cost per acre being $6 an acre. In addition to the abundant supply of water from gravity system there are hundreds of ranches supplied by means of wells and pumping plants, so that there can never be a dry year in the Anaheim section. Late picking oranges, walnuts and sugar beets are just being brought in to Anaheim now. Fruit and nuts are handled by an association formed by the farmers. One farmer there had 63 tons of walnuts. Walnuts bring from 6 to 13 cents per lb., oranges about $1.00 per case.

Anaheim is a very thriving city with over 5000 inhabitants. It is the only city in Orange County that is wet. Seven retail stores and five wholesale liquor houses do a land office business. The saloon license is $75 per month payable monthly. In Los Angeles $175 per month. The population of Anaheim is mostly Germans, many of them former Wisconsinites.

California has the finest public highways in the country. All leading roads are asphalt paved. Daily auto buses are run between Los Angeles to San Diego. Los Angeles papers are also delivered at San Diego and intermediate points by auto. William Stark, a former citizen of Kewaskum, who conducts the leading saloon there, is one of the five wives of Anaheim. He is a city council man and takes much interest in public affairs and always looks out for the welfare of his city. He has also been very successful in business in Anaheim. Besides a well established business, he owns a beautiful home and a twenty acre orange grove. The latter will bring him big returns in a few years.

I spent four days at San Diego. I visited the fair on the day Edison and Ford were there. It always over to Tulumana, Mexico, a little hamlet with a military fort with Villa soldiers in control. The inhabitants there live entirely off from tourists. Every gambling device you can think of is run wide open. The San Diego fair doesn't amount to much.

I will leave here Saturday and will attend the Mormons church Sunday and leave for Colorado about Tuesday. Expect to be home Thanksgiving.

The motion pictures reproduced by the Modern Woodmen of America entitled "The Man Who Came Back from the War on the Trenches" was very interesting as well as educational. Those who sent the pictures pronounce it one of the best and most educational pictures they ever seen. The picture was secured only by special arrangement of the local camp of the Modern Woodmen.

LOCALS TAKE TWO GAMES

The Basket Ball Games Last Week Friday Evening Resulted in a Double Victory for Kewaskum

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a basket ball game in this village was present at the double header in the opera house last week Friday evening. The games resulted in a double victory for Kewaskum.

The boys game, which was between Random Lake High School and the local High School was very interesting from start to finish and was no one's game until the last minute of play. The score at the end of the first half was 6 to 6. Up to a few minutes of the final half the score stood 8 to 8, when Random Lake scored 11 point on a free throw, and Kewaskum followed by a field goal and a short time after made the final score of the game getting a free throw, score ending 9 to 11 in favor of the locals. As far as the stars are concerned we must admit that each team's player of both teams are entitled to mention. The game was one of the fastest and most interesting games of basket ball ever played here between two high school teams.

The girls game between the Mayville High School and the local high school girls resulted in a walk away for the local aggregation, the final score being 14 to 0. It looked like a shut out, but the referee was kind enough at the last minute of play to announce a foul on the local girls, which resulted in a free throw for Mayville, giving them their only score. Talk about your championship girls team. The quintette is there and we see no reason why they should not have a walk away for the honors. A more enthusiastic aggregation cannot be found. The girls are expert basket throwers and play a very strong defensive as well as offensive game.

The visitors, both Random Lake and Mayville, came with a bunch of rooters. A more gentlemanly and ladylike fans never were present at a local game. They all were satisfied with the result and say the best team won. Compliments could be heard amongst these fans that the girls team are certainly in the running for the state championship.

New Law Firm

A matter of interest to the legal profession particularly, as well as to citizens of this vicinity generally, occurred last week when the law firms of Hustung and Brother of Mayville and Hustung & Hustung of Fond du Lac consolidated for the practice of law. Both firms will hereafter practice under the firm name of Hustung & Hustung, with offices both at Mayville and Fond du Lac, the latter office remaining in charge of Bonduel A. Hustung; with B. J. and G. B. Hustung in charge of the Mayville office.

This step was made necessary when it became evident that upon the election of Paul O. Hustung to the United States Senate, he would not give such attention to the practice of law as the large and important business of his firm demands. And now that he will soon leave for Washington, he has invited B. J. and G. B. Hustung to take his place and practice at Mayville.

Be very careful to see that they are correct, then place them with money in an envelope, with your name on the outside, and deposit it in the sealed ballot box. The committee on county highways Monday evening withdrew their original report on the appropriation of the 1916 road fund, and offered a substitute report which was adopted and which provides for the repair of the North Fond du Lac section of the concrete highway leading to Oshkosh. The committee pared down the allowance to the north end of the Oshkosh road in the town of Friendship $1500 which is believed enough to cover the cost of rebuilding the road to Oshkosh. This leaves the north end appropriation at $6,500. The other appropriations were made without change over the original report.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 18.—Thirty-one men perished as the result of a dust explosion on Tuesday in the North-western Improvement company's coal mine at Ravensdale, this county. Forty were imprisoned.

Special Deputy Sheriff Allan Stark telephoned the sheriff's office from Ravensdale that hope of rescuing the entombed miners had been abandoned. He said the explosion was caused by coal dust.

The spot where the explosion occurred is approximately 800 feet below the first level, where the rescue parties are working. Superintendent George Scott is leading the working parties in person.

William Short, state secretary of the miners' union, departed for Ravensdale by automobile.

"The men are imprisoned in the third level, according to telephone information received at my office," said Short, "and there is little hope for the imprisoned miners owing to gas. The rescue parties have been unable to penetrate beyond the first level owing to the debris.

Fire was burning fiercely in the mine. Around the mouth of the shaft are several hundred women and children. Four bodies have been recovered and five perhaps fatally burned were taken out, with twenty-seven still entombed, with scarcely a chance of being rescued alive.

A LETTER TO THE CITY

Cleveland Plain Dealer

ADMITTS LINER ATTACK

VIENNA ACCEPTS RESPONSIBILITY FOR ANCONA LOSS.

Rome Government Declares Sinking of Steamer Is an Act of War by Berlin.

Vienna (via Berlin and Sayville), Nov. 16.—The Austro-Hungarian admiralty on Sunday issued the following statement: "The foreign press is spreading false reports regarding the sinking of the Ancona. The incident occurred as follows: Our submarine fired one shot before the steamer's prow, whereupon the steamer died at full speed in compliance with orders from the Italian authorities, which state that ships shall flee or sink the submarine.

The submarine pursued the steamer and continued firing. The steamer stopped only after it had been hit several times. The submarine then allowed the passengers and crew 45 minutes in which to abandon the steamer, on which panic reigned. However, only the small boats were lowered and crew. A great number of boats—probably sufficient to have saved all the passengers—remained unoccupied.

After fifty minutes the submarine, on the approach of another steamer, submerged and torpedoed the Ancona, which sank after forty-five minutes.

If any passengers lost their lives this was the fault of the crew, because the steamer tried to escape when it was ordered to stop, and even then the crew only saved themselves, leaving the passengers.

Foreign press reports that the submarine fired on the lifeboats are inventions. When the steamer stopped the submarine ceased firing.

Rome, Nov. 16.—The Italian government issued the following statement regarding the sinking of the Italian liner Ancona: "The Ancona did not attempt to escape, but stopped within a short distance after the firing of the first shell. The liner was torpedoed while boats were being lowered and 100 passengers were still on board.

"The submarine being German, Germany has opened hostilities against Italy without a declaration of war."

Mr. Churchill declared there was no reason to be discouraged with the progress of the war.

"We are passing through a bad time," he said, "but it will probably be worse before it is better."

LOD KITCHENER HIT

CHURCHILL PUTS RESPONSIBILITY FOR ANTWERP EXPEDITION ON WAR SECRETARY.

FRENCH OFFICIALS BLAMED

Ousted Sea Lord Says Whole Cabinet Decided on the Dardanelles Campaign—Violent Attack on Kitchener by Sir Arthur Markham.

London, Nov. 17.—Winston Spencer Churchill, former first lord of the British admiralty, against whom more bitter criticism has been launched than by any other man in the English government since the war began, made his speech of defense on Monday in the house of commons.

Mr. Churchill put full responsibility for the disastrous Antwerp expedition upon Lord Kitchener, the secretary of state for war, and the French government.

The former first lord of the admiralty also denied personal responsibility for the Dardanelles enterprise.

"The proposition to send an expedition to the Dardanelles to open up the way to Constantinople was profoundly, maturely and elaborately considered," declared Mr. Churchill.

It had been charged that Mr. Churchill acted too quickly and too much upon his own initiative in adding the expeditions to Antwerp and the Dardanelles.

As to the Antwerp enterprise, Mr. Churchill said: "The idea of sending a relieving army to save Antwerp from capture by the Germans originated with Lord Kitchener and the French government. That the expedition arrived too late to save the Belgian city was not my fault."

Mr. Churchill declared that he always consulted the first sea lord of the admiralty before making any official move.

Following Churchill's sensational speech Sir Arthur Markham made the most violent attack on Earl Kitchener yet heard.

Markham told members of the commons he was convinced Kitchener was responsible for both the Antwerp and Dardanelles "blunders," and that he also was guilty of withholding information. "I am convinced," added Sir Arthur, "that while Kitchener, who accepts no advice, remains at the war office we will not win this war."

"I think I ought not to leave the country without referring to certain incidents at the admiralty in the direction of the war which occurred during my period at the admiralty," said Mr. Churchill.

He declared that the Dardanelles enterprise was framed merely by experienced technical minds. The attack was decided on at a war council held on January 23, at which Lord Fisher was present.

"It was a legitimate war gamble for a prize of incalculable value, which had a reasonable chance of winning on that basis."

PASSES BAD CHECK

COUNTERFEIT MAN OF CLOTH SWINDLES RACINE WOMAN.

Pretending He Was Arranging Series of Religious Revivals, Stranger Puts Over Forgery.

Racine.—A man who gave the name of Thomas Kelley and posed as an evangelist went the limit in securing $6 by crooked methods from Mrs. Martha Enos. After defrauding the woman out of the money he knelt down in prayer in the home, and while he was rather crude in his praying, managed to deceive the members of the household.

According to the story of Mrs. Enos, the man stated that he was an evangelist and had arranged to hold religious meetings for two weeks. He wished to secure a room for that length of time and decided to take the one shown him.

The rent was $2 a week and he tendered a check for $10 in payment for two weeks. Mrs. Enos did not have $6 to give him in change and went out and borrowed enough from a neighbor.

After inquiring what time the family retired so as to return before the doors were locked, he knelt down and offered a prayer. Members of the Enos family took part in the prayer service and nothing further was thought of the matter until after the man had departed. Then they began to feel suspicious and informed neighbors of the occurrence. As his praying was rather bunglesome the neighbors feared Mrs. Enos had been defrauded and was told to inform the police, which she did. The fellow failed to return and has not been seen since.

The THOUSANDTH WOMAN BY ERNEST W. HORNING Author of The AMATEUR CRACKSMAN, RAFFLES, Etc. ILLUSTRATIONS BY O. IRWIN MYERS

SYNOPSIS.

Cazale, on the steamer Kaiser Fritz, homeward bound from Australia, cries out in his sleep that Henry Craven, who years before ruined his father and himself, is dead, and finds that Hilton Toye, who shares the stateroom with him, knows Craven and also Blanche Macnair, a former neighbor and playmate. When the daily papers come aboard at Southampton Toye reads that Craven has been murdered and calls Cazale's dream second sight. He thinks of doing a little amateur detective work on the case himself. In the train to town he discusses the murder, which was committed at Cazale's old home. Toye bears from Cazale that Scruton, who had been Cazale's friend and the spokesman for Craven's disposition, has been released from prison. Cazale goes down the river and meets Blanche. Toye also comes to see her and tells Cazale that Scruton has been arrested, but as he doesn't believe the old clerk is guilty he is going to look out for himself. Cazale and Blanche go to Cazale's old home and meet Mr. Drinkwater of Scotland Yard. Cazale tells the murder was committed there. Blanche tells her secret passage he knew as a boy and leads the way through it. In town Toye, talking with Cazale about the murder, suggests finger prints as a means of trapping the murderer and succeeds in securing a print of Cazale's hand. Toye traces Craven's movements while a passenger on the Kaiser Fritz, finds that he left the boat before the murder and returned just after it, and warns him.

CHAPTER X.

The Week of Their Lives.

"Toye's gone back to Italy," said Cazale. "He says he may be away only a week. Let's make it the week of our lives!"

The scene was the little room it pleased Blanche to call her parlor, and the time a preposterously early hour of the following forenoon. Cazale in her sunny saugery rather suggested another extravagant taxicab. Blanche saw only his worn, excited face; and her own was not at its best in her sheer amazement.

"Hally!" she ejaculated. "When did he go?"

"Nine o'clock last night."

"But—she checked herself—"I simply can't understand it, that's all!"

"Why? Have you seen him since the other afternoon?"

His manner might have explained those other two remarks, now bothering her when it was too late to notice them; on the other hand, she was by no means sure that it did. He might simply dislike Toye, and that again might explain his extraordinary heat over the argument at Littleford. Blanche began to feel the stir, somewhat heavily charged with explanations, either demanded or desired; they were things she hated, and she determined not to add to them if she could help it.

"I haven't set eyes on him again," she said. "But he's been seen here—in a taxi."

"Who saw him?"

"Martha—if she's not mistaken."

This was a little disingenuous, as will appear; but that impetuous Sweep was in a perpetual hurry to know something else.

"When was this, Blanche?"

"Just about dark—say seven or so. She owns it was about dark," said Blanche, though she felt ashamed of herself.

"Well, it's just possible. He left me about six; said he had to see someone, too, now I think of it. But I'd give a bit to know what he was doing messing about down here at the last moment!"

Blanche liked this as little as anything that Cazale had said yet, and he had said nothing that she did like this morning. But there were allowances to be made for him, she knew. And yet to strengthen her knowledge, or rather to let him confirm it for her, either by word or by his silence, she stated a certain case for him aloud.

"Poor old Sweep," she laughed. "It's a shame that you should have come home to be worried like this."

"I am worried," he said simply.

"I think it's just splendid, all you're doing for that poor man, but especially the way you're doing it."

"I wish to God you wouldn't say that, Blanche."

He paid her the compliment of speaking exactly as he would have spoken to a man; or rather, she happened to be the woman to take it as a compliment.

"But I do say it, Sweep. I've heard all about it from Charlie. He rang me up last night."

"You're on the telephone, are you?"

"Everybody is in these days. Where have you lived? Oh, I forgot! And she laughed. Anything to lift this dust of theirs out of the minor key!"

"But what does old Charlie really think of the case? That's more to the point," said Cazale uneasily.

"Well, he seemed to fear there was no chance of bail before the adjourned hearing. But I rather gathered he was not going to be in it himself."

themselves, and that seemed shocking to Martha "unless something was coming of it." She had just sense enough to keep her conditional clause to herself.

Yet if they were only out to enjoy themselves, in the way Miss Blanche vowed and declared (more shame for her), they certainly had done wonders for a start. Martha could hardly credit all they said they had done, and as an embittered pedestrian there was nothing that she would "put past" one of those nasty motors. It said very little for Mr. Cazale, by the way in Martha's private opinion, that he should take her Miss Blanche out in a car at all, if he had turned out as well as she had hoped, and meant anything, a nice boat on the river would have been better for them both than all that tearing through the air in a cloud of smoky dust; it would also have been much less expensive, and far more "the thing."

But, there, to see and hear the child after the first day! She looked so bonny that for a time Martha really believed that Mr. Cazale had "spoken," and allowed herself to admire him also as he drove off later with his wicked lamps alight. But Blanche would only go on and on about her day, the glories of the Ripley road and the grandeur of Hindhead. She had brought back heaps of heather and bunches of leaves just beginning to turn; they were all over the little house before Cazale had been gone ten minutes. But Blanche hadn't forgotten her poor old Martha; she was not one to forget people, especially when she loved and yet had to snub them. Martha's portion was picture postcards of the Gibbet and other landmarks of the day.

"And if you're good," said Blanche, "you shall have some every day, and an album to keep them in forever and ever. And won't that be nice when it's all over, and Mr. Cazale's gone back to Australia?"

Crueler anticlimax was never planned, but Martha's face had brought it on her; and now it remained to make her see for herself what an incomparably good time they were having.

Above all was it delightful to feel that their beloved car was waiting for them outside, to whirl them where they liked; for quite early in the week (and this was a glaring aggravation in Martha's eyes) Cazale had taken lodgings for himself and driver in those very Neil Gwynne Cottages where Hilton Toye had stayed before him.

CHAPTER XI.

The Thousandth Man.

It had been new life to them, but now it was all over. It was the last evening of their week, and they were spending it rather silently on Blanche's balcony.

"I make it at least three hundred," said Cazale, and knocked out a pipe that might have been a gag. "You see, we were very seldom under fifty!"

"Speak for yourself, please! My longevity's a tender point," said Blanche, who looked as though she had no business to have her hair up, as she sat in a pale cross-fire between a lamp and her lighted room.

Cazale protested that he had only meant their mileage in the car; he made himself extremely intelligible now, as he often would when she rallied him in a serious voice.

"Well, it's been a heavenly time," she assured him just once more. "And tomorrow it's pretty sure to come all right about Scruton, isn't it?"

"Yes! Tomorrow we shall probably have Toye back," he answered with grim inconsequence.

"What has that to do with it, Walter?"

"Oh, nothing, of course."

But still his tone was grim and heavy, with a schoolboy irony that he would not explain but could not keep to himself. So Mr. Toye must be turned out of the conversation, though it was not Blanche who had dragged him in. She wished people would stick to their point.

"There's one thing I've rather wanted to ask you," she began.

"Yes?" said Cazale.

"You said the other day that it would mean worry for you in any case—after tomorrow—whether the charge is dismissed or not?"

His weaker chair creaked under him.

"I don't see why it should," she persisted. "If the case falls through."

"Well, that's where I come in," he had to say.

"Surely you mean just the other way about? If they commit the man for trial, then you do come in. I know. It's like your goodness."

"I wish you wouldn't say that! It hurts me!"

"Then will you explain yourself? It's not fair to tell me so much, and then to leave out just the bit that's making you miserable!"

Authority on Steel Production.

Sir Robert Hadfield, who has been selected by the British government to assume charge of the engineering works that it has obtained power to take over for the manufacture of war material is one of the greatest living authorities on the production of steel. In addition to the Bessemer medal which is the blue ribbon of the Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain, he has received equally high awards from similar societies in almost every country of the civilized world. Inventor of manganese steel, he is chairman of the Hadfield Steel Foundry company Ltd., at Sheffield, one of the biggest ordnance and projectile concerns in the United Kingdom. In fact, in the world.

"The shadow of the bag moved lightly across the waves. There were no varying air currents, and the ship kept smoothly on with an even motion.

"The sea beneath gave an added sense of security, as though, if need were, it would break our fall.

"Even the mechanics, men hardened to every form of danger, seemed touched by a feeling of awe and were silent; they had nothing to do but gaze across the sea, as the even roar of the motors told that all was well.

A Group of Baby Belongings

The baby inspires the greatest number of dainty gifts at Christmas time, nearly all of them the handwork of those who welcome him.

A book in which the important affairs of the new arrival are to be put on record, a hanger for safety pins of several sizes, a pair of armlets, and some brightly colored toys suspended by gay ribbons, are pictured above in the group of baby belongings.

The record book is made by covering cardboard with white mottled silk. A stork is painted on the front cover, and plain heavy white paper provides the leaves. Satin ribbon in light blue or pink is sewed to each cover to fasten them together.

Narrow satin ribbon shirres over flat elastic cord forms the armlets. Each is finished with a full rosette.

Pins with black heads, beads, or regulation artificial eyes are used, and bits of lamb's wool or fur provide the required hair. A dog and monkey are pictured here, made of white cotton flannel, also outlines of patterns for cutting them. Each animal is made of three pieces; the two sides and a piece to be sewed underneath. This last has a slit in it for turning the figure right side out after the pieces are machine stitched together. After it is stuffed this opening is sewed up. Almost any animal may be made in this way.

The DAIRY

SANITATION IN DAIRY HOUSE

Extreme Care and Cleanliness Should Be Observed to Prevent Entrance of Bacteria Into Milk.

Unless considerable care is taken large numbers of bacteria may find their way into the milk during the process of milking. Cows should be milked in clean, well-lighted stables.

After grooming and before milking, the udders, flanks, and bellies of the cows should be carefully wiped with a damp cloth to remove any dust or loose hairs which might fall into the milk pail. Only those persons who are free from communicable disease should be allowed to handle milk or even enter the stable or dairy house.

After the cows are prepared for milking each milker should thoroughly wash his hands and put on a pair of clean overalls and a jumper or wear a suit which is used for no other purpose. The suit must be kept clean and occasionally sterilized with steam or by boiling in water. The milking stool must also be clean, to avoid soiling the milker's hands.

The small-top milk pail is a necessity in the production of clean milk, as it presents only a small opening into which dust and dirt may fall from the air or from the cow's body. It has been found by experience that the use of this kind of pail greatly reduces the number of bacteria in milk from average dairies. Many types of milk pails are for sale, but a tin can can convert an ordinary pail into a small-top pail by the addition of a hood.

Nothing Unusual. Any pretty girls at the hotel where you spent the summer?"

"Yes, indeed," replied the man whose few remaining strands of hair were laid out to the best advantage. "Did they show you any attention?"

"They showed me just as little as they could."

"Tough luck!"

"I rather expected it. You see, they were waitresses."

Worse Yet. "Can't you think of any worse pest than the seven-year locusts?"

"I should say so. Just think of a ten-year installment purchase!"

The parents of a baby are the only successful conversational opponents of the man who wishes to talk about himself.

Achy Joints Give Warning. A creaky joint often predicts rain. It also foretells inward trouble. It may mean that the kidneys are not filtering the blood and are allowing poisonous acid to clog the blood and cause rheumatism.

Bad backs, rheumatic pains, sore aching joints, headaches, dizziness, nervous troubles, heart fluttering, and urinary disorders are some of the effects of weak kidneys and if nothing is done there is danger of dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the most widely used, the best recommended kidney remedy in the world.

Make the Liver Do its Duty. Nine times in ten when the liver is right the stomach and bowels are right. CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS gently but firmly compel a lazy liver to do its duty. Cures Constipation, Indigestion, Sick Headache, and Distress After Eating. SMALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE. Genuine must bear Signature.

For Success With Dairy. The right kind of a man will feed his cows liberally of economically produced feed and he will have a silo. He will care for them properly and breed them properly, and gradually improve his herd year by year, and there seems to be no limit to this, at least the limit has not been reached as yet.

Keep Record of Everything. Keeping production records is only half the work. How much did it cost you to feed that cow that gave you 6,000 pounds of milk last year? Keep records and keep them right.

Working in Salt. If you use a barrel churn, sprinkle the salt in on the butter after you have drawn off the buttermilk and washed the butter. Then turn the churn as you do to gather the butter. You will find that you have worked in the salt more evenly than you can by the old method, and this way is easier and quicker.

Milk With Dry Hands. Be sure to milk with dry hands. Dipping the fingers in the milk means dirty milk.

A Wise Man The wise man always prepares for a run of hard luck. Anybody can get along when prices are good, when work is plentiful, when crops are good, when business is brisk, then it's all easy enough. WESTERN CANADA CONTINUES TO WIN

The 1915 Yield of Grain Keeps Western Canada to the Front.

The great publicity that has been given to the grain yields of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the three provinces that comprise that portion of Western Canada...

The grain crop of the three provinces has now been harvested, and sufficient of it has been threshed so that it is no longer a matter of estimate as to the returns.

Mr. Elmır Seller, a farmer south of Strassburg, Sask., has harvested 5,465 bushels No. 1 hard wheat from 160 acres.

Jas. A. Benner, near Daysland, Alberta, says his wheat went over 40 bushels to the acre, with an all round crop of 33 bushels to the acre.

Scores of reports give yields fully as large as those given above. A large field of spring wheat near Lethbridge averaged 63 bushels, another 59 and a third 56 bushels per acre.

When the story of this year's threshing is completed some extraordinary yields will be heard of. One farmer west of Unity, Saskatchewan, threshed 10,000 bushels of No. 1 northern from 200 acres...

It was not in wheat alone that there were extraordinary yields. A farmer living south of Wadena, Sask., harvested 900 bushels of oats from ten acres.

As is pointed out by a Toronto paper Canada's great good fortune and splendid service as the Granary of the Empire are revealed in the record harvest from her rich fields of wheat and other grains.

The same satisfactory and highly important success has been attained in other grain crops. The aggregate yield of oats is 481,935,500 bushels from the 11,365,000 acres under crop.

At this same exposition, there were shown some excellent samples of fodder corn, grown in the Swift Current district. Topping the range cattle market in Chicago a short time ago is another of the feats accomplished by Western Canada this year.

On Wednesday, October 13, Clay, Robinson and company sold at Chicago for E. H. Maunsell, Macleod, Alberta, a consignment of cattle, 17 head of which, averaging 1,420 pounds, brought $8.90 per hundredweight...

It is one thing to produce crops such as are referred to, and another to get them to market. The facilities of Western Canada are excellent. The railway companies, of which there are three, the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific, have the mark of efficiency stamped upon all their work.

NEW STATE GAME LAW IS VIOLATED

DOES ARE SHOT BY HUNTERS AND CARCASSES LEFT TO ROT IN WOODS.

BUCK LAW IS CONDEMNED

Hunters Returning From Woods Tell of Slaughter of Does—Hard to Distinguish Bucks From Does at 300 Feet.

Superior.—That hunters are shooting at deer without stopping to ascertain the sex, and that large numbers of does have been killed and the carcasses left in the woods to rot is the assertion made by sportsmen returning from the woods of Douglas county.

W. B. Banks, Jr., who was hunting in the vicinity of Patzau, reported seeing the carcasses of six does lying in the woods where he was hunting. The carcasses were those of deer killed since the hunting season opened, it was judged from their condition.

"It is a fool law," said H. B. Evans, commenting on the "one buck" statute passed by the last legislature. "More does will be killed this year than ever and the carcasses will be left in the woods to rot."

A. L. Gilmore also doubted the wisdom of the law. "Hunters coming back from the woods tell of seeing numerous carcasses of does left there to rot by hunters who killed them before they ascertained whether or not the animals were bucks," said he.

Man and Woman Get Away With Tray Containing Forty-eight Stones Valued at $2,500.

Kenosha.—Facts in connection with the most daring Wisconsin jewel robbery in years were made public here by the police.

Raymond Stark, employed as watchmaker, was alone in the store at the time the robbery is supposed to have taken place. A man entered with a fashionably dressed woman and asked to look at cut glass, and Stark took them to the rear part of the store.

The man finally selected a cut glass vase and made a deposit on it, giving the name of "H. Morgan" and an address in Kenosha.

WORK TO BE SLACK IN NORTH WOODS

CURTAINMENT IN LOGGING OPERATIONS AND SLACK DEMAND IS CAUSE.

BOOM HOME GROWN PRODUCT

Estimated That 487,550,000 Feet of Logs Will Be Cut as Against 545,782,000 in 1914.

Oshkosh.—Present indications are that logging operations for the coming winter will be curtailed to an extent that only about 487,550,000 feet of logs will be cut against 545,782,000 feet cut last year.

The chief reason assigned is slack demand for all kinds of lumber. The large amount of western and southern lumber being used in the state also "puts a crimp" into the industry.
