MISS LEILA WRIGHT MARRIED

Kewaskum Young Lady Joined in Wedlock to James Hickey. They Will Reside at Milwaukee

The marriage of Miss Leila Wright to Mr. James E. Hickey of Wauwatosa was solemnized at Milwaukee Saturday at 9 a. m., July 29, 1916. Rev. N. D. Beecher officiating. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Wright and is well known throughout this vicinity being a graduate of the local public schools and of the West Bend high school. From a minor position which she held with the telephone Co. of Wisconsin, she accepted one of responsibility with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., of the United States holding the position of chief operator at Milwaukee and instructor in Chicago for several years. The newly married couple left immediately for an extended wedding tour to Yellow Stone National Park and various other points of interest. After Sept. 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Hickey will reside in Milwaukee where the groom has held a responsible position in the office of the American Express Co. for the past 15 years. We extend to them our heartiest congratulations and best wishes for much happiness and prosperity in their wedded life.

Mich. Burke is Satisfactory

(Taken from West Bend Pilot, of July 28, 1916.) From Mayville comes a report that Senator Barwig will run as a candidate for Congress against Hon. Michael M. Burke. Just why Mr. Barwig should wish to wrest the office from such an able and painstaking representative as Mr. Burke has proven himself, does not seem clear to anyone in West Bend or in all Washington County. Were Mr. Burke negligent in office or incompetent there might be a bare excuse for Mr. Barwig's wishing to defeat him, but so well has Mr. Burke represented the district that none of his Washington constituents are even hinting that they desire a change. If ability counts and faithfulness is to be rewarded, then we can see but one result in case Mr. Barwig's name appears on the primary election ballot and that is that Mr. Burke will be nominated almost unanimously. We do not deny Mr. Barwig's aspirations, but we can understand his motives. The Hon. Mr. Burke has given the best there is in him, which is a lot, and we hope Washington county and all other counties of the Second Congressional District will in all fairness stand by him. He will get the votes of hundreds of Republicans and no Democrats ought to hesitate for a moment in giving him their loyal support.

Game Warden George F. Hal Sporting New Motorcycle

One can now see Game Warden Geo. F. Hal flying around this section of the state astride a brand new motorcycle which was recently presented him by the Wisconsin Conservation Commission for use in his work. He has had a side wheel attached, but states that he is having the time of his life on his new mount, as it is yet "bit curvy" and threatens to ditch him occasionally. Another thing that George likes about the machine is that motorists threaten to run over him if he does not get out of the road, and from his low vantage point he misses none of the dust of passing cars. Of course, it must be admitted that George will be able to make trips around the country and get to out-of-the-way places with his new machine, that he could never make with his car—Hartford Times.

The Ruse That Worked

Stories of the Greatest Cases in the Career of Thomas Furlong, the Famous Railroad Detective, Told by Himself

Copyright by W. G. Chapman

"WOULD YOU MIND MY STANDING BY YOUR BOILER TO GET WARMED?"

The ruse which I am about to describe was perpetrated by me at the time when I was chief of police of Oil City, Pa., and resulted in the apprehension of an anonymous letter-writer. The case was more serious than that, however, for the property of a number of men, valued at several hundred thousand dollars, and the lives of an entire city as well, were imperiled.

One cold winter morning in the month of February I received a visit from a gentleman named Sam Ackert. Mr. Ackert was well known in the district, being the owner of a large oil lease, on the Towles farm, as it was called, situated upon the Plummer road, to the northeast of Oil City, and in Venango county.

Mr. Ackert was considered to be at that time one of the largest oil operators in the district. He was operating from twelve to fifteen oil wells, all of which were producing large quantities of oil. Some of it was being pumped while others were flowing wells. One of the latter kind was producing as much as four hundred barrels a day, and at that time crude oil was selling at the well for about eight dollars a barrel.

Ackert employed a large number of men to attend to the wells and to look after his general interests. Some of these men were employed as engineers, being generally known in the oil regions as pumpers. To operate each well two of these pumpers were required, each man working for 12 hours at a stretch. Their work was divided into watches, and men who were so employed usually lived in houses or shanties adjacent to the wells at which they were employed.

The cause of Mr. Ackert's visit to me was that some months previously he had received a threatening letter in his mail. It stated that unless he would discharge his superintendent, a man named Joseph Sullivan, and thoroughly competent and trustworthy, the property would be destroyed by fire or by other methods. Mr. Ackert paid no attention to this letter, which was followed in the course of time by three others of the same threatening character, each one being anonymous, and each demanding the discharge of the superintendent, Sullivan. The three letters followed each other at intervals of four or five days. As Sullivan was not only a competent man but thoroughly reliable and of good character as well, Mr. Ackert paid no attention to these letters, but laid them aside in his desk.

A short time after the receipt of the last anonymous letter one of Mr. Ackert's oil tanks, containing at the time from four to five hundred barrels of crude oil, was emptied one night, at a time between midnight and daylight, by some person who had gone to the tank and opening what was known as the lower faucet. This faucet, which was two inches in diameter, entered the tank at a point about six inches above the bottom. It was placed there for the purpose of drawing off the salt water at the bottom of the oil. All oil wells in that locality which did not flow but were operated by pumping produced a certain percentage of salt water, which came up with the oil out of the ground. Salt water being heavier than oil, it immediately settled to the bottom of the tank and for this reason, when the tank had become nearly filled with the mixture, it was the duty of the men employed as pumpers to open the salt water faucet at the bottom of the tank and let the salt water escape through it. The oil thus settling down and making room for a fresh influx above.

On the night when this tank was emptied in the manner described, there was about three feet of snow on the ground. The weather was cold, and the snow had been heaped up around the tank by the wind, so that it was piled about four feet above the salt water faucet at the bottom. The constant drawing off of the salt water had thoroughly saturated the ground for a space of two or three square feet under the faucet, and the ground was soft and muddy, since the saturated earth would not freeze on account of the large quantities of salt which had intermingled with the dirt. Salt and snow form a muddy slush which does not harden.

When the faucet was opened the salt water ran out, followed by the total contents of oil within the tank, amounting, as has been stated, to four or five hundred barrels. This oil, which was highly inflammable, even in its crude state, ran down into a ravine, which was thickly dotted with oil wells, partly belonging to Mr. Ackert and partly to other producers, for the distance of more than a mile. Had this stream, in the course of its journey, reached any of the fires that were under the boilers of the pumping stations, it would instantly have been converted into a fiery river, carrying destruction all along the mile of its course, destroying hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property, and probably sacrificing many lives.

Mr. Ackert called upon me on the morning after this occurrence. "I have not the slightest idea who was dastardly enough to commit this malicious act," he said. "I am not aware that I have an enemy on earth."

He begged me to use all possible efforts to discover who the person was and to bring him to justice. He then told of having received the anonymous letters, which he laid before me. I at once perceived that they were all written upon the same brand of paper, in a legible and penmanlike manner, and evidently by the same hand and pen.

By the end of the third day of my investigations, I had hit upon a clue. Joseph Sullivan, the superintendent, had employed two engineers whose names were George and Henry Book. George was a young man, married, and living in a cottage on the leased property, near the well. Henry, his brother, was single, and lived with George and his wife. They were both employed on the same well as pumpers. George, who was employed on the day watch, was considered a very good engineer and a reliable man, while his younger brother, Henry, though known to be competent and energetic, was not nearly so reliable. He had been found asleep while on duty by Superintendent Sullivan on various occasions, for which he was several times reprimanded, and finally discharged from the service. It was subsequent to his discharge that Mr. Ackert had received the first of the anonymous letters.

In addition to the attempt to destroy property or, at any rate, to the draining off of Mr. Ackert's tank, there had been the theft of oil well tools and other material on the Ackert and adjacent leases. This corroborated the supposition that the perpetrator of these acts was familiar with that portion of the oil territory. In fact, everything pointed to Henry Book as the guilty man.

Being familiar with the manner in which oil leases were operated, I donned the suit of an oil driller, consisting of overalls spattered over with sand pumpings, which gives the wearer the general appearance of a bill-poster. Thus equipped, I set forth on a cold night in February, the thermometer at the time standing below zero. My objective was the pumping house of a well where I knew George Book would be on duty until midnight, when he would retire, to be succeeded by the man who had taken the position formerly held by his brother, Henry.

Before making my way from Oil City to the Ackert property, I visited a meat market in the town, where I asked for five cents' worth of liver.

"There's a pet cat that seems to have adopted me," I explained to the meat market owner. "She stays round my place and cries for food regularly at meal times, and so I guess it's up to me to see that she gets it."

Having planked down my nickel, I received the chunk of liver which the proprietor cut off and wrapped up in a piece of paper. I took it around the corner, where I made further intrusions into it with my jackknife. A small slice I placed in the hollow of my right hand. I then cut a thin piece and spread it on the back of the same hand, which I afterward tightly bandaged with a piece of white muslin. The liver soiled the tightly-drawn bandage, which gave the appearance of a wound extremely inflamed and sore. I then tied two handkerchiefs together and improvised a sling in which I could put my right hand at the right time. So equipped I left Oil City, passing unrecognized through the streets by reason of my costume, and walked through the darkness and bitter cold to the pumping house on the Ackert property, where I arrived a few minutes after nine in the evening.

Inside the pumping house George Book was seated alone in a large easy chair, close to the boiler, which was fired and well lighted with natural gas, and was kept warm and neat. He was reading a novel when I entered.

The engine house was located only a few feet off the main road that ran between Oil City and the neighboring town of Plummer, and it was not an unusual thing for oil men, or any other men for the matter of that, to stop at the door while passing, to get a drink or to warm themselves, especially on a February night with zero temperature. Book, looking up from his book, was consequently not in the least surprised to see another of his fraternity—as he imagined me to be—standing at the door at that hour in the evening.

"Would you mind my standing by your boiler to get warmed?" I asked. "Not a bit," responded George Book. "It's mighty cold outside, and I'll be glad of your company. Where do you work?" he continued, eyeing me closely, and a little suspiciously at first.

"I have been working on the Foster farm," I replied, naming a property which was situated on the Allegheny river, about fifteen miles southwest of Oil City.

"How did you get hurt?" asked Book immediately afterward, observing the bandaged hand, which I had slipped into the sling just before entering the pumping house.

I muttered something inaudibly and stood nearer to the boiler. After a period of silence I said in a slow manner, as a man uses who is about to reveal a confidence:

"You have been mighty kind in allowing me to get warm in front of your boiler, and you look to me like you would not get a fellow into trouble by giving him away, so I will tell you all about it. You see," I continued, "I am a driller, and I was working under a superintendent. We had some trouble over a girl, and he had a gun. He shot me through the hand."

With that I pulled my hand out of the sling and showed him the bandage, to which the liver, adhering, had given a hideously stained appearance, while the liver itself looked like a chunk of raw and quivering flesh. "Gracious! You've got an awful hand there!" said George Book, looking at the liver and the bandage and shuddering. "You ought to have it attended to at once."

"I'm going to have it attended to when I reach Petroleum Center," I answered. "I don't want to stop on the way, either, because of the other fellow. I shot him, but I don't know whether he is dead or not; in fact, I didn't wait to see. I left immediately he dropped, and have walked the entire distance, only stopping long enough to get a cup of coffee at the eating house in the Oil City depot."

Book's sympathy was now fully aroused, for he was really a good-hearted fellow. "You must be awful hungry," he said

EACH DEMANDED THE DISCHARGE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

"Not very," I answered. "I have some good friends at Petroleum Center who will feed me and look after me, and keep me under cover while the police are searching for me; and I guess they will get a doctor, too. What is worrying me most just now is that I cannot write with my left hand, and I want to write a letter. You see, my folks live at Fort Erie, Canada, which is just across the Niagara river, opposite Buffalo. I have been saving my money and sending it to my people at Fort Erie, and they have it all deposited in a bank at Buffalo, to my credit. I have several hundred dollars there, and if I could only write a letter tonight and mail it on the early morning train tomorrow morning, it would reach Fort Erie tomorrow night. My friends could then send me all the money I need, which I would receive the day after tomorrow at Petroleum Center."

George Book was thoroughly taken off guard. "I am a pretty good penman and would be glad to write the letter for you," he answered. This, as a matter of fact, I knew already, for I had learned that George Book was a good scholar, having been a country school teacher some years before in his native county, Crawford county, Pennsylvania. He was also considered an extra good penman. At the same time, it was on Henry and not on George that the suspicion had naturally fallen.

George Book excused himself and returned to his room, which he reached, returning in a few minutes with letter paper, envelopes and a big lunch for two, including a pot of coffee. We ate the lunch together, and then I produced cigars from my pocket, and we lit up. After we had finished George Book started to write the letter at my dictation. In dictating this I used as many words as I could which had been used in the anonymous letters, with whose contents I of course thoroughly familiarized myself.

I at once perceived that George Book was using the same quality of paper as that upon which all the anonymous letters had been written and, in consequence, did not make my letter very long. I also perceived, before three lines had been set down, that he used the same handwriting, the same kind of ink and, in all probability, the same pen as had been used previously. It was now obvious that the letters had been written by George. Whether or not he had drawn the oil out of the tank had still to be shown, and that was the more serious offense, by far.

When the letter had been written Book addressed the envelope, inclosed the missive, and sealed and stamped it. Apparently profusely grateful, I thanked him and departed in the direction of Petroleum Center, but in reality toward Oil City, which I reached early the following morning after I had set out.

During the course of the forenoon I submitted the dictated letter, which I had taken away, as though to post it, together with the anonymous letters which had been sent to Mr. Ackert, to a writing expert who was connected with the First National bank of Oil City. He compared the four and said without hesitation that they had all been written by the same person. That afternoon I went back to the Ackert lease, knowing that George Book would be off duty and in bed, and that, in consequence, there would be no probability of my meeting him. Approaching the emptied tank, I carefully shoveled the snow from around the salt water faucet and, when I got down to the muddy ground, I found very distinct traces of a No. 8 boot. The boots had been very recently half soled, and the shoemaker who had made the repairs had drawn three nails in a row across the center of the half sole, as his trade mark and sign manual.

Returning to Oil City, I made diligent inquiries among the shoemakers of the town. There was not a large number of men who did repair work of the rough and ready type which was required by the men employed in the oil leases, and after a short investigation the man who had soled the shoes was discovered. He at once remembered having repaired a pair of shoes for Henry Book a couple of days before the oil tank had been emptied.

It developed then that both the brothers were in the conspiracy, the one having written the letters and the other having acted upon the threat contained in them. Undoubtedly George Book had been more or less a tool in his brother's hands, for with a wife and a good position he had no reason to feel a grudge against his employer on account of the superintendent.

I at once procured a warrant for the arrest of the Book brothers, and that night returned to the Ackert lease, this was a sleigh and accompanied by two officers. Arriving about 11 o'clock I found George Book in the pumping house on duty, as he had been the night before, and at once arrested him. I then proceeded to George's house, where I found his brother Henry in bed and arrested him also. After this the house, which was a one story building with an attic, was thoroughly searched, and wagon loads of loot were found, all of it taken from the Ackert and adjacent leases. This was afterward identified by the owners as having disappeared from time to time.

After a preliminary hearing the Book brothers were committed to the county jail in default of bail.

Henry Book soon confessed to the emptying of the oil tank and George to the writing of the anonymous letters. There seemed no doubt of their conviction. However about a week before the trial was to have begun there was a jail delivery from the county jail at Franklin, Pa., fifteen or more prisoners making their escape, among them being the Book brothers. They boarded a northbound freight train on the A. & G. W. railroad, now known as the Erie. When at a point about twenty miles north of Franklin this freight train collided with another train and in the wreck Henry Book was killed instantly, while George was so badly hurt that he died the following day.

This was the ending of the Book case, which occupied in all only six days of my time.

Members of Parker Family Have Proved Themselves Capable in Places of Responsibility.

Foremost among the "red bloods" are the Parkers—father and son. They come of a line of distinguished ancestors, of the Seneca tribe of the Iroquois stock. Frederick E. Parker, the father, is a nephew of Gen. Ell Parker, Grant's military secretary and the co-worker of Lewis H. Morgan. He is a man of fine presence and attainments. A resident of White Plains, N. Y., he has been a potent factor for clean government and social reform in his community. Mr. Parker holds the responsible position of statistician in the department of revenue of the New York Central railroad, having charge of all offices, including more than a thousand agents, between Chicago and New York.

The son, Arthur C. Parker, a brilliant young archeologist, since his appointment to the New York State museum, has practically created a new archeological museum. He is a writer of note, editor general of the American Indian Magazine, a member of the American Ethnological and Sociological societies, the 1916 medalist of Chicago University for Indian research and one of the ten American archeologists appointed to the Pan-American Scientific congress.—Christian Herald.

REFRESHMENTS WERE ON HIM

Wall Street Man, Aptly Designated by Smart Youngster, Had to Acknowledge a Hit.

Samuel O'Keefe, a retired Wall Street man, is almost a daily visitor at the Hospital for Joint Diseases, One Hundred and Twenty-Fourth street and Madison avenue, New York, where a friend is receiving treatment. There are many invalid children at the hospital and Mr. O'Keefe often takes them candy, and on one memorable occasion imported a consignment of charlotte russe.

A day or two following the charlotte russe festival he visited the children's ward again, and was greeted by loud shouts of approval. His arrival was first noted by a little boy, said by the nurses to be "as smart as a whip," who shouted gleefully:

"Oh, look! Here comes the charlotte russet!"

Under the circumstances Mr. O'Keefe felt that any further refreshments ought to be "on him."

RANCHING

Cattle and Horse Ranching in Western Canada—Steers Brought 10 Cents a Pound on the Seattle Market.

That big money is made by the large cattle rancher in Western Canada, and also by the small farmer as well, is shown by the undisputed facts presented from time to time. A rancher, near Gleichen, Alberta, who commenced in a small way nine years ago, recently disposed of 1,243 cattle at a total of $101,304.50, and this was only his surplus stock for the present season.

A December shipment of 217 head of ranch steers brought the owner an average of over $50 per head. They were taken straight from the range without any grain feeding and were in excellent condition to be sold for the Christmas trade. Another shipment of 190 head, averaging $70 each, was made to Seattle. The highest price paid on the Seattle market was for an Alburton steer, which weighed 1,700 lbs., and brought the fancy price of 10c per lb., or $170.

Six carloads of live stock from ranches 65 miles from Pincher, Alberta, shipped to Spokane, excited keen competition there on account of their exceptional quality. The price realized was $10.023. American dealers say they must look to Canada for beef supplies.

A livestock firm, which has shipped over 2,000 head of beef cattle to the American farmer since the middle of November, reports a splendid reception of Alberta stock in the United States.

A carload of choice Alberta steers were sold early in January for shipment to the British Columbia coast at $3.70 per 100 lbs. and, later on, a lot from Carstairs brought $6.90—the highest price paid since the spring of 1915. Shipments from Calgary livestock yards during 1915 were: Horses, $6,775; cattle, $30,577; hogs, 144,515; sheep, 12,410. A course in agriculture and livestock demonstration which has been conducted by the Provincial Dept. of Agriculture here was well attended, showing the interest taken by city residents in agricultural progress.

John Young, of Sidney, Man., gives his experiences in sheep-raising as follows, as quoted in a local paper:

"I bought a bunch of fifty ewes, which cost me $202.50. With this little flock I demonstrated just what can be done in the sheep business. This fall I sold fifty fat lambs at $6.50 per head, $325, and 18 of the best ewe lambs, which I kept, I value at $8.00 per head, $144. The wool sold at an average of $2.07 per ton, $103.50. This makes the very nice total of $572.50."

"They ran out nearly every day all winter. The value of hay and oats was small, and one can make them very comfortable through the winter with very little expense. For shelter I have a shed, about 125 feet long and 14 feet wide, which I cover with straw. This gives them protection from the cold winds; yet it is always cool enough to be healthy."

"I intend going in more for sheep this fall, as I believe them to be the most profitable stock on the farm."

Desire of farmers and ranchers to increase their sheep holdings is indicated by the sale of 2,500 head recently at $9.00 each. High wool prices and profitable demand for mutton are the reason given for such a figure.

Manitoba sheep breeders arranged last year for the Provincial Department of Agriculture to handle their wool output on a co-operative basis and obtained most satisfactory results. About 75,000 lbs. of wool were handled, netting the shippers over 25c per lb.—Advertisement.

Attractive Headgear Which is Especially Adapted for the Motor Car, Though It May Be Worn on Other Occasions, Resembles the Oriental Turban—Leghorn Hats Make Their Usual Midsummer Appearance.

A bit of headgear has appeared which is called a motor car cap and also an opera cap; from which we may infer that its designers intended it to serve several purposes. It is a length of chiffon to be wrapped about the head, like an oriental turban, and the aim of its existence is to keep the coiffure from being mussed. Whenever a lady is en route to any function in her merry career, that requires an uncovered and well-coiffed head, this soft, shape known in millinery parlance as the "flop," which is the general designation given to wide-brimmed hats that are not soft enough to need a wire support. Neither is the brim of the "flop" rigid and stiff. The weight of the straw causes it to undulate or curve a little, and hence the name. This makes a picture hat, dear to the heart of young women, and so good to look at that it is permanently good style.

easily adjusted cap ought to prove useful.

The length of chiffon or sheer silk-muslin is just sufficient to wrap twice about the head. It is shirred into a little fullness at the front where a large round ornament is placed to be used in fastening the cap. At each end the length of chiffon is gathered over rings. These may be of light metal or covered with crocheted silk. By bringing the ends of chiffon around the head and fastening the rings over the ornament, or cabochon, as it is called, the cap is adjusted to the head. In the picture the manner of putting it on is shown, as well as the cap after it is adjusted.

This model is not quite substantial enough for motoring in an open car. The newest caps or hats for this wear are made of silk. They have soft crowns and silk-covered visors that pro-

But the leghorn does not always appear as a flop, as witness the hat at the top of the group above. Here it has been blocked into a small shape resembling the "coolie" hat—a Chinese inspiration. As shown in the picture, the underbrim is bordered with a flange of light blue crepe and there are rows of light blue ribbon in ruffles over the top. The band and full bow of narrow black velvet ribbon give the required depth of color to a cool-looking and elegant hat.

The hat at the left is a flop, simple and almost unadorned. It is faced with white crepe. It would be a pity to break any of its beautiful lines, and therefore a single and magnificent rose is painted on it, as lifelike as the reflection of the wonderful reality in an artist's eye.

In the last hat pictured, a flop is shown, bedecked with trimmings that are liked for the dressiest hats. The underbrim is covered with a shirred facing of crepe georgette, and a pretty flourish of it falls from the upper brim about the edge. A cool-looking wreath of airy ostrich feathers encircles the crown. It matches in color the crepe, and the crepe may be any one of the lovely pale colors worn in midsummer.

A leghorn hat left over from a previous season, or showing marks of wear, might be successfully remodeled by trimming it like this hat.

Motor veils are of thin chiffon, usually gathered on an elastic band which fits about the hat, and they hang straight down about the face, when they are not blowing about. But motorists appear to be less careful to keep the face and eyes veiled than in times past. A head muffled in a long heavy veil is rarely seen these days when everybody goes everywhere in a car of some kind.

In the heart of the summer, no matter what styles may prevail, the leghorn hat always appears, and is always welcome. It returns to us in the

New Type of Shoes for the Army First Used by Turkish Soldiers

Old and New Types of Shoes Supplied by Uncle Sam to His Soldiers on the Mexican Border—The New Shoe is Distinguished by the Fact That It is Hob-Nailed.

Uncle Sam has adopted a new type of shoe for the regulars and militia-men in Mexican service, in the hope that they will last longer than three weeks, which has been the average life of the old army shoes in Mexico. The war department has ordered 250,000 shoes of this type and a large number already have been delivered.

The new shoes are similar to those now used by the allies in Europe, although they were first used by the Turkish armies. There are several distinguishing features to the new shoe. For one thing it is hob-nailed while all the shoes formerly in use in the army were smooth. Another unusual feature is that the smooth surface of the leather is turned on the inside of the shoe. This affords a smooth surface to the foot and dispenses with a lining, which has been responsible for most of the sore feet in the army. The flesh side of the leather being on the outside gives the shoe a very rough appearance, making it undesirable for garrison duty or dress parade. The present shoe probably will be retained for garrison service, as it has proved the most comfortable footwear ever issued to the army for use under ordinary conditions.

The new shoe is much heavier than the old one. The old shoe weighs two pounds and three ounces while the new one tips the scales at three pounds and seven ounces.

NEW RECORDS MADE BY FOREIGN TRADE

Total for Fiscal Year Is More Than Six and a Half Billion Dollars.

BIG GAINS IN SOME LINES

Thirteen Classes of Articles Comprise Larger Part of All Exports—Iron and Steel Lead.

All previous records were broken by the foreign trade of the United States for the fiscal year ending with June, 1916, according to figures compiled by Uncle Sam.

Exports for the fiscal year amounted to $4,345,000,000 and the imports were valued at $2,180,000,000, making a total foreign trade for the year of over $6,500,000,000, which is much larger than any previous total in the history of American commerce. These figures were announced by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce, with the explanation that the figures included for June are an estimate based on the final May statistics.

It was in 1872 that the foreign trade of the United States first exceeded $1,000,000,000. By 1900 it had crossed the $2,000,000,000 mark, by 1907 had exceeded $3,000,000,000, and by 1913 had risen above $4,000,000,000, remaining round that level until the year just ended, when the $6,000,000,000 mark was exceeded. Imports first exceeded $1,000,000,000 value in 1903, and are now a little more than twice as much as at that time. Exports first rose above $1,000,000,000 value in 1892 and are now four times as much as in that year.

Leading Articles of Export.

Thirteen great classes of exported articles yield a total estimated at $3,024,000,000 dollars for 1916, as against $1,321,000,000 for all other articles. The following table shows the remarkable increases which have occurred in exports of this group during the last two years:

Big Gain in Horses.

Horses exported show an indicated total for 1916 of $73,000,000 against $64,000,000 in 1915 and $39,000,000 in 1914. Like comparisons for other important classes, stated in millions, give: leather manufactures, 66, 55, and 21; coal, 65, 56, 60; wood and manufactures, 61, 50, 103; oats and oatmeal, 53, 60, 1; wool manufactures, 54, 27, 5; tobacco, unmanufactured, 48, 44, 5; zinc manufactures, 44, 21, 1; rubber manufactures, 36, 15, 12; fruits, 36, 34, 31; corn and cornmeal, 32, 41, 8; electrical goods, 30, 20, 25; railway cars, 27, 3, 11; paper and manufactures, 27, 20, 21; vegetable oils, 28, 29, 16; dairy products, 25, 14, 3; mules, 23, 13, 1; fiber manufactures, 18, 10, 32; agricultural implements, 12, 12, 13; cutlery, 10, 10, 10; iron manufactures, 10, 10, 10; boots and shoes, 10, 10, 10; and miscellaneous, 10, 10, 10.

Cotton Acreage Increased.

A considerably larger cotton crop in the United States in 1916 than in 1915 is indicated by the estimate of the crop reporting board of the bureau of crop estimates of the department of agriculture that the area of cotton in cultivation this year is about 35,000,000 acres, as compared with 32,707,000 acres in 1915. This is an increase of 3,287,000 acres, or 12.1 per cent.

SHE HAD THE BARGAIN BUG

Mrs. Winniger Knew Just Exactly Where and How to Get What Father Wanted.

Mrs. Gangway Winniger, the bargain fiend, who had married G. Winniger because it was such a reasonable way of getting a big house in the city, answered a ring at her electric doorbell, installed only last week at a special bargain rate.

"Why, father!" exclaimed Mrs. Winniger. "When did you leave Doopburg?"

"I took the 11:30 to town," replied Constable Wings of Doopburg. "I been 'lected sheriff, and the Morning Buzz wants my picture. I want a swell picture took by the swellest photographer in town. Sompl'n that want make me look too natural."

"O, father, I tell you!" cried his daughter. "Go around to any one of the Beezer-Wiggles grocery stores and buy three pounds of tea, and they'll give you an order to have your picture taken, free!"

"But don't I tell you I want the swellest—"

"Well, Abe Smith has opened up a little photograph studio, and this week he's giving pictures away for nothing providing you buy the frame from him. The frame only costs $18.40, and just think—"

"But, consarn it, datter—"

"I know, father! I know where there's a perfectly elegant second-hand portrait in oils, all finished, for only $8.94. I can get the man to paint in a bald spot and paint out the side whiskers and it will look just like you."

And Constable Wings clasped a hand to his dizzy brow.—Detroit Free Press.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher In Use for Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Shrewd Purchasing.

Little seven-year-old Fred, who lives in one of Zanesville's suburbs, had been ailing and his mother decided that he needed a dose of castor oil.

Fred was told that if he were to take the castor oil without complaint, he would get 5 cents to spend for candy.

Then his mother sent him to the corner drug store with 15 cents—10 cents for the oil and 5 cents for candy.

Arriving at the drug store, Fred decided to buy the sweetmeats first, and told the clerk that he wanted a nickel's worth of candy.

"What kind of candy do you want?" asked the clerk.

"Gimme the kind you get the most for a nickel," answered Fred.

The clerk complied, and then Fred said, rather reluctantly:

"Now gimme some castor oil. I want the kind you get the least for a dime."

Modern Way.

"Do you wait for inspiration before writing your novels?" we asked the distinguished author.

"Not at all," he replied. "I merely wait for the advance check from my publishers."

Bumper Grain Crops

Good Markets—High Prices

Prizes Awarded to Western Canada for Wheat, Oats, Barley, Alfalfa and Grasses

The winings of Western Canada at the Soil Products Exposition at Denver were easily made. The most comprised Wheat, Oats, Barley and Grasses, the most important being the prizes for Wheat and Oats and sweep stake on Alfalfa.

No less important than the splendid quality of Western Canada's wheat and other grains, is the excellence of the cattle fed and fattened on the grasses of that country. A recent shipment of cattle to Chicago topped the market in that city for quality and price.

Western Canada produced in 1915 one-third as much wheat as all of the United States, or over 300,000,000 bushels.

Canada in proportion to population has a greater exportable surplus of wheat this year than any country in the world, and at present prices you can figure out the revenue for the producer. In Western Canada you will find good markets, splendid schools, exceptional social conditions, perfect climate and other great attractions. There is no war tax on land and no conscription.

EDITORIAL

I am willing, no matter what my personal fortunes may be, to play for the verdict of mankind. Personally, it will be a matter of indifference to me what the verdict on the 7th of November is, provided I feel any degree of confidence that when a later jury sits, I shall get their judgment in my favor. Not in my favor personally—what difference does that make?—but in my favor as an honest and conscientious spokesman of a great nation.—WOODROW WILSON

Gustave Scherick, editor of the Plymouth Reporter of Plymouth, last week received the glad news that he has been nominated by President Wilson for congressman of the City of Plymouth. Mr. Scherick is now awaiting confirmation by the Senate, after which he will then soon take charge of the office. The appointment of Mr. Scherick for congressman of Plymouth is in heavy accord with the citizens of his city. Mr. Scherick is one of the strongest democrats of Sheboygan county and well deserved the honor bestowed upon him. His appointment was recommended by Congressman M. E. Burke. Congratulations Gust.

At the coming primaries there will be two candidates for the Democratic ticket in the second district, Mr. M. E. Burke, of Beaver Dam, the present incumbent; and Byron Barwig of Mayville. Every Democratic voter, who is a supporter of President Wilson should by all means stand by Mr. Burke, as Mr. Burke is a strong supporter of the President. Why send another man to Congress, when the present member, Mr. Burke has at all times served his constituents? Mr. Burke's record in the House is to be greatly complimented. It is a record that the second district should be proud of. His past record alone should be worthy of your support. When talking politics and going to the polls next September remember the slogan "Stand By Burke."

Will Mr. Hughes explain, if American prosperity is a war-time product, why bank deposits in North Dakota and South Dakota since 1912 have grown 70 per cent, while Delaware, where the DuPont powder works are located is the only state in the Union showing a decrease of bank deposits in the past four years.

To-morrow, Sunday, is that Monster Firemen's picnic. The entire community should turn out to help make this a success. The picnic is being run for a good cause. The payment of the new fire chemical engine, a very needy apparatus. Have your friends come with you.

Will some Republican spell-binder kindly explain how the 57 per cent increase in building improvements in the Northwest this year is due to the European war?

A good time to get your newspaper debt off your mind by stepping into the office or sending in your $1.50 to pay for another year.

Perhaps the 100 per cent increase in bank deposits in Oklahoma since 1912 is due to the European war munition business. Perhaps.

U-BOAT LEAVES U. S.

SUBMARINE DEUTSCHLAND ON WAY TO GERMANY WITH BIG CARGO.

ALLIED WARSHIPS WAITING

United States Cutter and Police Boat Escort Submarine to See That She Is Not Damaged in Her Trip Through American Waters.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 3.—The German merchant submarine Deutschland departed on Tuesday on her perilous voyage to her home port. The start was made after several hours of waiting for better tidal conditions.

When the subsea boat untied from her mooring and started slowly on her way she was escorted by several government boats.

The police boat Laumon was on one side; the United States cutter Apache on the other. The tug Timmins, "guardian angel" for the submarine, led the procession to the outer harbor, where a small fleet of British and French warships, lying outside the three-mile limit, were prepared to make an attempt to sink the German ship the moment she passed out of United States territory.

The Deutschland has fooled the waiting warships and puffed out the Virginia apes at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night, eluding the hostile fleet with ridiculous ease.

As peacefully as a ferryboat the Deutschland dived into the open sea, homeward bound for Germany. She apparently was unobserved by the allied patrol waiting just outside the three-mile limit.

HANGED AS TRAITOR

SIR ROGER CASEMENT, LEADER OF IRISH RISING, PAYS WITH LIFE.

LAST APPEAL IS DENIED

One-Time British Knight Executed in Courtyard of Pentonville Prison by a Barber—Execution Was Private—Becomes Catholic.

London, Aug. 4.—Sir Roger Casement was executed as a traitor at 9:07 o'clock Thursday morning in the yard of Pentonville prison.

The last moments of the condemned man were not without interest. Overnight the public hangman, a man named Ellis of Rochdale, who is a hairdresser when he is not hanging people, arrived at the prison. Ellis received a fee of £5 (£25) from the undersheriff, who was supposed to do the gruesome work, but under the traditional custom had the privilege of hiring someone to do it for him.

Early in the morning Ellis tested the scaffold with a bag of sand of exactly the same weight as Casement. The prisoner was aroused about seven o'clock, and, performing his toilet, received a visit from the governor of the prison, O. R. M. Davis. Then he was asked what he wanted for breakfast.

In the last moments Casement was visited by a Roman Catholic priest—the prisoner recently embraced the Catholic faith. The two remained closeted together until a few minutes before nine o'clock.

Then a medical officer, the undersheriff and the hangman entered. The hangman lost no time commencing his duties. Sir Roger's arms were strapped to his side and he took his place in the solemn procession to the scaffold, a short distance from the cell. As the procession moved on, the clergyman read the burial service.

The condemned man stepped on the scaffold; his legs were pinioned, then the rope was placed around his neck. Lastly the white hood was placed over the condemned man's head.

While this was going on the chaplain recited prayers, and with a few moments after arriving at the scaffold the executioner touched the spring and the unfortunate man was hurled into eternity.

RUSS CHECKED ON STOKHOOD

Attacks on Sallet Northeast of Kovel Railway Broken, Says Official Berlin Statement.

London, Aug. 4.—Several Russian attacks on the Stokhod railway northeast of the Kovel-Rovna railway were broken down completely under the German's curtain of fire, according to the official statement issued by the German war office in Berlin. The Russians assaulted the positions between Witoniez and Tura Turia, regardless of heavy losses, says the statement, but all efforts proved futile. Russian troops also were completely repulsed in repeated operations southwest of Plinsk, on both sides of Lake Nobel, in the region of Lubieszow, on the Stokhod, according to the Berlin statement.

Attacks by the Russians in the region west of Wisnolowca, on the Stokhod, and near Wilesno, on the Koropla, also failed, according to the same statement.

Petrograd, via London, Aug. 4.—Attempts made by small German detachments to attack the Russian positions on the western front were repelled by rifle fire, the Russian official statement issued says.

RAIL MEN ASK MEDIATION

Conference Will Be Resumed in Hope of Averting Strike—Vote for Walkout.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Labor leaders representing employees of big trunk line railroad on Wednesday notified the United States board of mediation and conciliation that the men had agreed to a resumption of conferences for settlement of all differences, the next meeting to be held in New York August 8.

The agreement was a result of the board's informal request several days ago that the employees and employers try again to avoid a strike.

Approximately half the 400,000 ballots cast by the railroad employees in New York on the question of a nationwide strike have been counted. A preponderant number of those voting favor striking.

The largest number of votes cast thus far in favor of striking come from southern members. An official of the Southern Association of Trainmen said 90% per cent of the members of four orders of railway workers of the South favor a strike.

BIG LOSS BY BLAST BANDIT GANG ROUTED

DYNAMITE AND SHRAPNEL GO UP IN NEW YORK HARBOR.

Scores of Persons Injured When Inferno Is Loosed on Black Tom Island.

New York, Aug. 1.—Property loss estimated at $25,000,000 was caused early Sunday morning by a series of terrific explosions of ammunition awaiting shipment to the entente allies and stored on Black Tom Island, a small strip of land jutting into New York bay off Jersey City.

Two are known to be dead and at least two more are missing. Scores of persons were injured.

The detonations, which were felt in five states, began with a continuous rapid fire of small shells, the blowing up of great quantities of dynamite, trinitrotoluene, and other high explosives, followed by the bursting of thousands of shrapnel shells, which literally showered the surrounding country and waters for many miles around.

Fire that started soon after the first great crash, which spread death and desolation in its wake, destroyed 13 of the huge warehouses of the National Storage company on Black Tom Island, in which was stored merchandise valued at between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000.

The flames, shooting into the clouds, were reflected against New York's "skyscraper" of the towering office buildings, which only a few moments before were shaken to their foundations by an earthquake. Miles of streets in Manhattan alone were strewn with broken glass and shattered signs.

The cause of the disaster had not been determined. Officials of the National Storage company and the Lehigh Valley railroad, which also suffered heavily through loss of property, declared, however, that reports to them showed a fire started shortly after one o'clock on a barge belonging to an independent towing company that had been moored alongside a dock used by the railroad company to transfer ammunition shipments from trains to vessels in the harbor.

Verdun Battle Is Resumed. Paris, Aug. 3.—While the French captured one German trench on the Somme front, the center of the great activity in France was once more the objective of a violent battle. British forces which had penetrated German positions on a narrow front west of Fourreaux wood were driven out again.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Notice of a real war on print paper manufacturers was given by newspaper publishers of the United States at an open hearing before the federal trade commission. HANGED AS TRAITOR

SIR ROGER CASEMENT, LEADER OF IRISH RISING, PAYS WITH LIFE.

LAST APPEAL IS DENIED

One-Time British Knight Executed in Courtyard of Pentonville Prison by a Barber—Execution Was Private—Becomes Catholic.

London, Aug. 4.—Sir Roger Casement was executed as a traitor at 9:07 o'clock Thursday morning in the yard of Pentonville prison.

The last moments of the condemned man were not without interest.

Overnight the public hangman, a man named Ellis of Rochdale, who is a hairdresser when he is not hanging people, arrived at the prison.

Early in the morning Ellis tested the scaffold with a bag of sand of exactly the same weight as Casement.

The prisoner was aroused about seven o'clock, and, performing his toilet, received a visit from the governor of the prison, O. R. M. Davis.

In the last moments Casement was visited by a Roman Catholic priest—the prisoner recently embraced the Catholic faith.

Then a medical officer, the undersheriff and the hangman entered.

The hangman lost no time commencing his duties. Sir Roger's arms were strapped to his side and he took his place in the solemn procession to the scaffold.

As the procession moved on, the clergyman read the burial service.

The condemned man stepped on the scaffold; his legs were pinned, then the rope was placed around his neck.

Lastly the white hood was placed over the condemned man's head.

While this was going on the chaplain recited prayers, and with a few moments after arriving at the scaffold the executioner touched the spring and the unfortunate man was hurled into eternity.

BIG LOSS BY BLAST BANDIT GANG ROUTED

DYNAMITE AND SHRAPNEL GO UP IN NEW YORK HARBOR.

Scores of Persons Injured When Inferno Is Loosed on Black Tom Island.

New York, Aug. 1.—Property loss estimated at $25,000,000 was caused early Sunday morning by a series of terrific explosions of ammunition awaiting shipment to the entente allies and stored on Black Tom island.

Two are known to be dead and at least two more are missing. Scores of persons were injured.

The detonations, which were felt in five states, began with a continuous rapid fire of small shells, the blowing up of great quantities of dynamite, trinitrotoluene, and other high explosives, followed by the bursting of thousands of shrapnel shells.

The flames, shooting into the clouds, were reflected against New York's "skyscraper" of the towering office buildings, which only a few moments before were shaken to their foundations by an earthquake.

The cause of the disaster had not been determined. Officials of the National Storage company and the Lehigh Valley railroad, which also suffered heavily through loss of property, declared, however, that reports to them showed a fire started shortly after one o'clock on a barge belonging to an independent towing company that had been moored alongside a dock used by the railroad company to transfer ammunition shipments from trains to vessels in the harbor.

British forces which had penetrated German positions on a narrow front in the west of Fourcaux wood were driven out again.

WISCONSIN TROOPS WIN MORE PRAISE

Camp of Badger Brigade Declared Most Sanitary of All State Soldiers.

NOT A BIT OF REFUSE FOUND

As a Result of Work of Medical Officers There Are No Places Where Disease-Carrying Insects Can Feed.

San Antonio, Tex.—The Wisconsin troops, which have won high praise from the regular army chiefs since their arrival in Texas because of their good conduct and appearance, have gained still another distinction. The camp of the Wisconsin brigade has been declared the most sanitary of any of the state troops on the border.

The sanitary officers of the Wisconsin brigade have worked unremittingly to bring the sanitary conditions of the camp to such a state that there would be no room for improvement. There is not a speck of refuse in the whole camp. And as a result there is no place where flies or other disease-carrying insects may feed. Carelessness will not be tolerated.

Organize Football Team.

A football team has been organized in Company C, First Infantry, of White-water. The members are:

Sergeant Roy Brown, right end and manager; Corporal Merton Ridge, captain and quarterback; Corporal Harold Keller, center and coach; Private Henry Ellendorf, right guard; Sergeant L. Siegman, left guard; Private Guy Humphrey, left tackle; Private Harry Dutch, right tackle; Private Junius Jamieson, left end; Sergeant W. Rhode, right halfback; Corporal H. Boll, left halfback; Private E. Faynter, fullback.

Ridge and Keller were formerly members of the allstate normal championship team.

Badgers Give Dress Drills.

An honor was conferred upon the Wisconsin troops when they were chosen to give the first of a series of dress drills in the Fort Sam Houston quadrangle, which were ordered for the Wisconsin and Illinois troops by General Funston. The First Wisconsin regiment gave the first drill and the Second and Third followed on succeeding nights. The drills were witnessed by hundreds of officers and men of the regular army and the guard.

Badgers Surprise Army Men.

Army officers here were surprised when they learned that Wisconsin recruits had all received some instruction in target practice before leaving Camp Douglas. Practically no other state soldiers had such training before being sent to Texas.

Credit is given Gen. Orlando Holway and Maj. Robert B. McCoy, chief instructor of rifle practice, for their efforts to give the recruits all the training possible in the short time they had to make them better soldiers. Every recruit had some practice on the range. This was not given with the view of making them marksmen as the time was too short, but to familiarize them with the rifle as many of them had never had an army rifle or any other kind of rifle in their hands before enlisting when mobilization was ordered.

This training will be a big advantage to the Wisconsin men when they are taken out for rifle practice in Texas. Many men in other regiments will have to start where the Wisconsin men started at Camp Douglas, with the inevitable result that the Badgers will stand in the lead. For instance the Wisconsin men are thoroughly familiar with the principles of shooting, such as proper breathing, proper method of pressing the trigger and holding the rifle to prevent great jabs and hard kicking, setting sights for various distances and figuring windage. All this must be learned before a recruit can hope to hit a target.

Wisconsin Brigade Gets Horses.

The Wisconsin brigade will receive 150 horses in a few weeks, following a government contract for $15,000,000 for 72,000 horses, delivery of which is now in progress. Border raids will not take the Badgers south, at least until after rifle practice, officers declare. The men expect to make a 30-mile hike to Leon Springs for rifle practice. Sixteen hundred recruits are to get special training in shooting.

Troops Have Good Record.

The conduct of the Wisconsin soldiers who are encamped at Camp Wilson here has attracted the attention of regular army officers. The Badger troops have made almost a perfect record since they have been in camp and the officers of the brigade are more than pleased with the showing that has been made.

NOTES FROM BORDER CAMP.

Beloit college is represented by six men in Company L, First Infantry, of Beloit. The students are: Sergeant Royce Merriman, Corporal John Thompson, Private Glenn Birkett, Corporal William Van Lone, Privates Albert Cowan and Howard Neade.

Corporal George Hannes of Company R, Second Infantry, has been promoted to sergeant. Privates Herbert Mathewig and Peter Jergensen of the same command have been made corporals.

The summary court which tries soldiers and noncommissioned officers charged with minor offenses, has practically been idle. It is safe to estimate that no more than ten soldiers have been haled into the court before Lieut. Col. Peter F. Plasecki. The offense of which most of the men have so far been guilty is getting in after taps. For this infraction of army rules the men are usually disciplined by the company commander with five days in the company street at hard labor or a small fine is inflicted.

In Battery A Capt. Phillip Westphal appoints one of his lieutenants to sit in the summary court as does Capt. Carl Penner of the troop.

Some May Become Regulars.

Some of the Wisconsin Guard may not go back home when the Badger soldiers are released from service on the border. The indications at present are that many of the officers of the state troops will join the regular army and make soldiering their profession. Attention of the Wisconsin officers has been turned in this direction by the announcement that General Funston has received permission from the war department to draft second lieutenants in the militia service to second lieutenants in the regular service.

Under the recent army bill all second lieutenants in the regular service were made first lieutenants and the result was that the entire regular army is at the present time without second lieutenants. Officers figure that it is a great chance to be drafted into the entire service and especially among the younger officers that matter of transferring is being seriously considered. Second lieutenant's pay is $170 a month.

The authorization from the war department will make room for hundreds of second lieutenants. In the regular artillery especially there is great need of lieutenants. It is not known whether or not an examination will be required of militia officers desiring to enter the regular service, but it is the opinion from the tenor of the advice from Washington that no examination will be required.

Correspondents Must Give Bond.

Each correspondent in camp with Wisconsin brigade must give bond to insure that he will send to his paper nothing but correct reports of the events in the Wisconsin camp. This is the order of General Richardson, commander of the Wisconsin brigade. Every newspaper correspondent also must file his credentials at headquarters.

General Richardson became incensed at the reports of suffering which he said had been sent back to Wisconsin by newspaper correspondents in the camp, and the order requiring credentials and bond was the result.

General Richardson asserts that there is no foundation for the reports that have been sent out from here that the men are not properly treated and are becoming dissatisfied. He asserts that these reports were sent out by some correspondents who were endeavoring to manufacture a sensation without any foundation in fact.

All the correspondents in camp deny that they have been guilty, and each accuses the others of being the fakery.

Battery Members Will Stick.

Members of Battery A who are eligible for discharge under the provisions for the release of soldiers who have dependents will not leave the service, according to Capt. Phillip C. Westfall. He declares that inasmuch as the people of the state will aid families of soldiers, the artillerymen will remain in service. They do not consider this charity, but believe that the state should see that the families of soldiers are cared for. If there were an air of charity about it, the men would not accept, but they look at it in an entirely different way.

Badger Engineer in Illinois Camp.

Wisconsin men were surprised when they discovered Eugene H. Noyes, Marquette, son of Editor and Mrs. Frank Noyes of the Marinette Eagle-Star, serving as regimental sergeant major of the First Illinois Field artillery. He is a University of Wisconsin graduate of 1913, and while at college was colonel of the regiment of cadets. He is a member of Scabbard and Blade, national military fraternity, and of Tau Beta Pi, honorary scholastic engineering fraternity. He enlisted in Chicago, where he is employed as an engineer with a construction corporation.

Saw Service in Germany.

Emil Doebler, a private in Company E, First Infantry, spent three years in the German marine corps before coming to the United States. He entered the service in 1905 and spent the last 28 months of his time in China. He has not been in the United States long, but is a model soldier because of the excellent training he received before coming to this country.

Private H. H. Albright of Company L, First Infantry of Neenah, is one of the veterans of the company. He was a charter member of the company, which was organized in 1902 and has been with it ever since. He has been in the National Guard 13 years and is a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

Corporal Thomas L. Richert of Company D, First Infantry, Milwaukee, has been promoted to sergeant. Private Joseph Noll of the same company has been made corporal.

PAINTS GERMANY STILL HOPEFUL

British Observer Says People's Faith in the Cause Strong as Ever.

HATE FOR BRITAIN GROWS

Peace Desired, But It Must Be on Terms Dictated by Teutons—Confidence in Official Management Is Still Absolute.

London.—The Times publishes the following account of the true condition of Germany "from an unimpeachable source. The article is based on the experience of an observer who recently reached Switzerland, after having lived in Germany and enjoyed special facilities for observation from the beginning of the war. He says:

"The press of German Switzerland, from which my first impressions of the outer world were derived, certainly tells the impartial truth in sufficient degree to save its readers from sharing German illusions. What more can be asked of a neutral press?

"Scarcely less astonishing than the discovery that the position of the allies is not what Germans believe it to be is the mistaken conception prevalent in some allied countries of the real condition of Germany and of the state of mind of the German people.

"Unless I am entirely mistaken—and my experience of life in Germany has been continuous—no essential change in public feeling has taken place among the German masses since the beginning of the war; or, if there has been a change it has not been in the direction of discouragement. The utmost which ordinary Germans can be got to say is that 'it is high time that peace were made,' but they mean, of course, a German peace, one which shall consolidate and correspond to German victories. They not only feel that they are victorious, but they are firmly persuaded that they cannot be beaten.

"It must not be supposed that the German people have an uneasy conscience. The imperial chancellor's declaration of the war that Germany was 'doing wrong' in invading Belgium was never taken as a confession of guilt. His phrase that 'necessity knows no law' meant and still means to Germans that Germany found herself in a condition of what is called Notwehr—that is to say, of legitimate self-defense.

"Surrounded by a ring of jealous enemies who had conspired to assault and crush her, they claimed that her only chance was in breaking through the ring by all possible means and of vindicating by the sword her right to free existence."

"At first it was thought that the war would be short and triumphant. Confidence in the army and in its chiefs was boundless. Illustrated papers represented the spirit of Bismarck as brooding over Paris and pointing the way to a repetition of the mighty deeds of 1870 and 1871. The battle of the Marne was taken as a proof that the task might be longer and harder than had at first been supposed, but all talk of a German reverse was checked by the explanation that, on the Marne, the German armies had merely stayed their advance for a time, in order to take up positions carefully selected 15 years earlier by the foresight of the German staff.

"As time went on the conviction grew and deepened that Germany was fighting for her very existence. Though obliged by the necessities of the situation to attack, the view constantly inculcated upon the people was that Germany was and is on the defensive.

"Gradually the bitterness of feeling toward England increased. It is now intense. The Germans had been hopeful that in the event of a European war, England would at least be neutral. Some even dreamed that England might be on their side. They never imagined that she would declare war upon them.

"Now nothing short of thorough military defeat will convince the German people that they can be beaten. Otherwise there will be no peace except on Germany's own terms. The people are prepared to suffer, much as they may dislike the inconvenience to which the war has put them. This is particularly true of states like Bavaria, where I spent some time before leaving the country.

"If the Bavarians could be given a smashing blow there might be a rapid end of the war, but they are now as persuaded as they were at the beginning, that their generals and their soldiers cannot be defeated. Even a Prussian defeat would not make much impression in Bavaria unless the Bavarian armies were defeated at the same time.

"Popular confidence in official management and in the official accounts of things is still absolute."

ENDS HIKE OF 10,000 MILES

Young Prohibition Lecturer Joins Expedition in Chase of Villa Bandits.

St. Paul, Minn.—One of the interesting figures at the recent Prohibition convention here was Laurence P. Mc-

Gahan, twenty-two years old, and a Prohibition lecturer. McGahan arrived here after a "hike" of 10,000 miles. The young hiker was plodding along a road 32 miles north of Columbus, N. M., when he learned of the raid on that town by Villa and his bandits. He joined a sheriff's posse and a detachment of the state militia scouting for Villa. He accompanied the punitive force far into the Mexican desert and later returned with them. "A type of bush growing on the desert in Mexico," he says, "resembles a horse and rider, and several times we were deluded into believing we had sighted the bandit chief. Even the sheriff shot at a bush which he thought was a Villa bandit." McGahan wore out six pairs of shoes on his walking trip.

IRISH EVEN TO MINUTES

Dislike of British Orders by the Hibernian Shown in Daylight Service.

London.—An instance of the grudging hesitation with which the irascible Irishman obeys any regulation of the disliked Saxon is given by a writer in the Daily Chronicle.

Soon after the daylight saving bill under which the clocks of the United Kingdom were put forward an hour went into effect an Englishwoman living in Tipperary found her gardener in a gloomy mood. She asked him whether he had put his clock "on."

"The gardener evaded the question, evidently preferring to talk about the roses. The mistress protested, and finally pressed the question and made the man face her.

"Yes, my lady," said the patriot at last. "I did. I put it on half an hour."

DESCRIBES LONG TRIP BY SLEDGE

Prof. Tanquary Tells of Hardships to MacMillan Party in Arctic.

CROCKER LAND IS A MIRAGE

One Hundred Dogs Used in 1,300-Mile Journey Across Melville Bay to Holstenborg—Long Wait for Relief Ship.

New York.—Bronzed by the exposure to wind and weather, but otherwise bearing no signs of his three years' stay in the Arctic as a member of the Crocker Land expedition under the leadership of Donald B. MacMillan, Prof. Maurice C. Tanquary, who recently returned to New York told of his trip from Etah by dog team and of the work of the expedition.

Professor Tanquary expressed the satisfaction of the members of the expedition at the success which had attended them. While Crocker Land, he said, is doubtless a myth, the mirages in that vicinity were of such brilliancy that they deceived completely those who were in search of land and it was necessary to see them disappear by approaching them to know that land did not exist.

"By arrangements which were made when we were landed at Etah," said Professor Tanquary, "we were to pursue our work for two years, when a relief ship was to come for us.

Long Wait for Relief Ship.

"We were all waiting in Etah, our headquarters, for the relief ship which was to come for us in 1915. When August passed and no ship arrived we gave up all hope of being brought out that year. We found out later that the George B. Cluett, which had been sent out for us, had been forced to stop at North Star bay, about one hundred and fifty miles south of Etah, because her propeller shaft had broken. Dr. Edmund O. Hovey of the museum was on the Cluett, and he arranged with Mr. Peter Freuchen, who has charge of the Danish expedition base at North Star bay, to take him to Etah in a motor boat.

"On the morning of September 15, when the motor boat arrived in Etah, Mr. MacMillan had gone south along the shore to hunt walrus and Doctor Hunt had gone on a long trip north after caribou. As it was imperative that we start at once if we wanted to get away before the ice shut us in, those of us who were at Etah got our supplies aboard the motor boat as quickly as possible, leaving Mr. MacMillan and Doctor Hunt to look after their things at Etah or join us later if they wished.

"We reached North Star bay and the Cluett on September 17, but could not start from there on account of a storm which held us two days.

"When we finally did start in the Cluett the ice at Cape York was so bad that we could not put through and anchored in an extremely precarious position under the shadow of a tall cliff at the entrance to Parker Snow bay. The captain made several attempts to continue south through the ice, but we had to take refuge in Parker Snow bay and the ship was finally iceed in there on October 1.

Start on Long Trip.

"Both Mr. MacMillan and Doctor Hunt visited us there, coming down from Etah by sleds, and it was determined that four of us were to attempt the trip by sled across Melville bay and along the coast of Danish Greenland to Holstenborg, a distance of about 1,300 miles, where we could get the first ship out for Copenhagen. The Cluett was so crippled that it could not make the trip north to Etah.

"We finally decided to take eight sledges, drawn by nearly one hundred dogs, and the party was to be composed of Doctor Hovey, Mr. Allen, Ensign Green and myself. We left Parker Snow bay on January 16 and under Cape York the first day.

"On March 3 we reached Umisak. There we met the high priest of Greenland, Knud Balle, who was just starting south to his home at Egedesminde and who volunteered to guide us. We reached Egedesminde on March 21 and were taken into Mr. Balle's home as his guests. It was decided that we should remain there until the annual Danish mail left to catch the boat at Holstenborg.

"When the time came to leave it was not deemed advisable to have all three of us make the trip out. We saw that it was possible to get one man through and it was decided that I should come.

"I reached Copenhagen on May 20. When I got in touch by cable with the National museum I was advised to make arrangements for a relief ship to go to Etah and bring out the other members of the party and the specimens which we had collected. I finally succeeded in chartering the Denmark, a small steamship, powerfully built for ice work. They will get the other members of the expedition late in the summer."

BEST AVAILABLE BREEDING MATERIAL

College Dale, Bred and Exhibited by Kansas Agricultural College.

(By FRANK D. TOMSON.) There is a growing inclination on the part of various Oklahoma oil producers whose daily incomes have reached large proportions, to invest a portion of their profits in purebred beef cattle, for they have proved liberal bidders in the various sales where they have been represented.

It is generally known that the beef producers of Argentina and other South American countries are looking to the United States for their supply of breeding stock. For many years they depended almost wholly upon the British Isles for their seed stock, but gradually they have turned their attention to this country, and the various breed associations, particularly the Shorthorn association, have co-operated with them and have filled large orders during the past year.

At a recent Iowa Shorthorn sale in which 48 Shorthorns were sold at an average of $1,074 per head, the Oklahoma oil men and Francisco V. Maissa, Buenos Aires, Argentina, competed for various high class entries with the result that prices gradually mounted upward, as indicated by the average of over $1,000. It should be understood that the representatives of these large interests are most discriminating in their selections and are not offering liberal bids merely to get rid of their money, but, on the other hand, are determined to secure the best representatives of the breed, considered from both the standpoint of individual merit and the strength of the pedigree. They draw marked distinction between seed of a high order and the ordinary standard. This is a day when good seed is at a premium because knowledge of the reproductive powers of good seed is more widely disseminated than ever before.

The cattle breeder who has bred his herd along intelligent lines with this fact clearly in mind is today reaping his reward and apparently we are only at the threshold of a period of discrimination and broad expansion. It is a wholesome fact that in all of the more important sales, the more discriminating breeders are competing sharply with the Argentine buyers and the representatives of the oil interests, and it is to their credit that many of the most desired breeding animals retain their home in the old-established breeding ground of the central West—a source from which our people may continue to obtain the best available breeding material.

BEST TIME TO PICK PIGS FOR BREEDING

To Improve Swine Herd, Select Stock From Offspring of Very Best Sows.

The best time to pick out the pigs that are to be used for future breeding is when they are still running with the sow. To improve your herd choose stock from the offspring of your best sows. If you wait until the pigs are grown and running in one herd you will have lost track of the different litters, unless you mark all of the pigs. When you make the selection while the litters are still separate you need to mark only the future breeders.

It is best to select from the largest litters, other things being equal. The pigs from such litters are likely to inherit their mother's prolificacy. Pick the strongest and liveliest members of each litter. The ones that shoulder their way to the front teats where the richest milk is are likely to be the best doers.

It is well to select and mark more pigs than you are going to need for breeding. Some are fairly certain to die, or be injured or fail to make good the promise of infancy. Make sure that the sows selected have the full number of sound teats—at least ten—for this not only indicates good mothering ability, but is considered a sign that a sow will have large litters.

CHOLERA OUTBREAK FOLLOWS NEW CORN

Disease May Gain Foothold If Hog's Resistance Is Reduced by Unwise Feeding.

(By E. R. SPENCE, Missouri College of Agriculture.)

Hog cholera is not a direct result of feeding new corn. It may gain a foothold more readily if the hog's resistance is reduced by unwise feeding, but the disease itself can result only from infection with a specific, invisible germ, obtained directly or indirectly from other hogs.

If the herd is thrown off feed by eating too much green corn, or by eating corn that is immature, the disease will be more readily contracted, and it is often noted that a new outbreak of cholera follows the first use of new corn for hogs.

Avoid danger by changing the kind or amount of feed gradually. Feed the hogs some new corn for a while before turning them into the field. Young shoats may be turned into corn that is not down too badly with less preliminary feeding than the older hogs that can break down corn more quickly.

Cow Must Be Contented.

That a dairy cow must be contented in order to do her best work at the mill is generally understood amongst milkers and dairy owners, and it is getting to be understood also in other quarters.

Loss by Old Machines.

The worn-out separator or the machine of poor make often causes enough loss in one season to more than pay for a new machine of a reputable make.

WEED OUT ALL THE UNPROFITABLE COWS

Selection on Dairy Records Will Give Accurate Results—Easy Matter to Weigh.

The old saying has it "there is no time like the present." That this applies with telling force to the selection of good dairy cows will be admitted by every thoughtful dairyman. Selection may be made on the evidence of certain well-known external indications of good milking qualities, with special attention paid to the udder, loin, skin, barrel, etc.

But no matter how skilled the expert judge of dairy "quality" in a cow may be, he is not infallible as to the amount of hard cash that anyone can in the herd will earn in a year. He may be, as well as the ordinary dairy farmer, considerably mistaken in his judgment. One system will give accurate results, that of selection on dairy records. It is easy to weigh and sample; it is easy to add up a few figures for each cow; it is easy to compare such totals, and it is eminently satisfactory to know for certain which cows are best to keep and breed from.

Now is the time to act, prepare to keep records all season.—From bulletin of the Canadian Department of Agriculture.

GIVE YOUNG HORSES BEST OF ATTENTION

Furnish Ample Shelter and Dry Bed—Clover and Alfalfa Make Good Roughage.

(By D. J. KAYS, Ohio Experiment Station.)

With the demand for good draft horses advancing, the young colts should receive the best of care to insure rapid and complete development. Many colts will be taken from pastures with a goodly store of fat, only to be turned to a strawpile for feed and shelter. On the other hand, a few colts may be ruined by heavy feeding in the stalls, where they cannot take exercise.

The ideal shelter for colts is a tightly built shed open to the south, where the animals may go in or out at their own pleasure, and where they may have the run of a lot for exercise. A dry bed and a protection from cold winds and rain is all that is needed. Clover and alfalfa make good roughage for colts, with a grain ration of two parts oats and one bran added.

There is little danger of overfeeding a colt if room for proper exercise is given. Growth can be made more cheaply during the first year than at any other time, and feed should not be spared.

They dropped from their noble brows. The part that was so tempting to the boys was, the fish would come up to the surface look them in the eye, take a drink as if to say "Good Friends," so they came to the conclusion if they can quench their thirst with a cooling beverage, why not we? They loaded themselves into the car and came to this village to partake of the drink that makes Proseport famous. When ready to depart for home they could laugh and sing and do most anything.

HEALTH BULLETIN, No. 154.

Infantile Paralysis and Running Noses

Infantile paralysis, an epidemic of which has been raging in New York, is another of the diseases of childhood which authorities in their entry through nose and throat and are passed on to new victims by the mucous discharges of patients suffering from them. The list is a long one, including nearly every contagious disease of childhood. Measles, mumps, scarlet fever, whooping cough, throat, tonsillitis, pneumonia, grippe and common colds are doubtless spread in this manner.

In the warnings concerning infantile paralysis great emphasis is placed on viewing every child who shows symptoms of a "common cold," during an epidemic, with suspicion. This is especially important as it is now believed that infections with the germs of infantile paralysis never go to paralysis and that a child, supposedly with nothing but a common cold, may infect another child who may die or become helplessly crippled from this terrible disease.

I wish that I might persuade every parent and teacher to respect the possible danger that lies in "running noses" of childhood. As yet Wisconsin has escaped an epidemic of infantile paralysis this year, but it may come. The other diseases, however, we have in great numbers each year. Our need of preventing them is still greater than preventing infantile paralysis, in spite of publicity the latter disease is now receiving.

Every child with a "common cold" who shows any signs of feverishness, who acts listless whose appetite is poor, is a suspicious character and should be excluded from contact with others. He should be put to bed, for his own sake and for the sake of other children, until his temperature is normal. And yet, one of the most intelligent school teachers I know, spared with the desire of good attendance and high scholarship, urged her children not to stay out of school for "common colds." Until she and her kind and parents, generally, come to have a better appreciation of the relative greater value of life and health, we shall continue to slaughter and cripple our children by contagious diseases—Infantile paralysis among the others.
