brother John Guepe got off. Peter Guepe stopped on the platform for a few minutes to talk with him and as the train was starting he took hold of the guard rail to board the train. In some unexplainable manner he missed his footing and fell down in between the car and the platform. His clothing became caught in a journal on the car trucks and he was dragged the length of the depot platform, being crushed against the side of the walk by the movement of the train.

Mr. Guepe sustained a broken legs and is believed to have been internally injured. He had been confined in a Milwaukee hospital ever since the accident. He is survived by two brothers, John of Fond du Lac; Albert of Milwaukee; two sisters, Mrs. Theresa Doctor of Milwaukee and Miss Mary Guepe, residing at Campbell-sport.

a hard road than to attempt to keep in repair a soft road. That point has been reached in Washington County. To prove this fact engineering skill is unnecessary. One look at the tax books, as we have already seen shows that road repair expense has inthat road repair expense has in-creased 95 per cent in ten years, and only the building of a system of hard roads will stop this ex-n order to know what use is ide of a road it is necessary to ant the vehicles passing over preferably during 24 hours, on different seasons of the year, Such a count is called a traffic census. It is the scientific institute for the supervisor's zuess that the travel over the road is sometimes "heavy" and sometimes heavy are sometimes "heavy" and sometimes "heavy" and sometimes heavy are sometimes "heavy" and sometimes "heavy" and sometimes heavy are sometimes "heavy" and sometimes heavy are sometimes "heavy" and sometimes heavy are sometimes heavy a The "first week out" on this thinking trip over Washington County roads, we discover that we are spending more than $30,000 a year—$85,323.25 last year, to be exact—trying to keep soft roads in repair under new traffic conditions which require hard roads. We had not gone very far on the second week's trip before we discovered 2.795 reasons why we have roads—for every one of the 2.795 farms of Washington County is a reason—and we found the same number of reasons why we should have better roads.

the same number of reasons why we should have better roads.

Washington County began its development without roads. So did all other counties in their pioner state. The processes of growth went on until our prairies and hillsides and valleys were peopled, but always in advanced the road maker. First, the path from one cabin to another, then a strail cut through the brush from one settlement to another, and similarly a lane to market, but always the same uneven earth bottom—choking you with dust during dry seasons and miring you in mud in wet seasons.

But in road building, as in all other processes of community growth, the volume of traific must reach a certain point before hard roads are practical from a financial standpoint. There is a point in traffic growth when it belowes less expensive to build a hard road than to attempt to keep in repair a soft road. That when you actually need athing, you pay for it, whether you have it or not. We are already paying the price of hard roads because we need them, but we are not getting hard roads because we are wasting money on repairs when building for permanence would give us hard roads and stop heavy repair expense.

Next week: "Raising Money for Hard Roads."

A DISCIPLE OF PREVENTION

but her face told the story. This brave little woman has learned the tragic lesson, too late, perhaps, but still in time to protect her brood from further avages of the disease. What an eloquent lecturer she might make for the cause of prevention! What a pointed example she is to us of the toll which neglect and ignor-ance exacts of the state! Had the belated attention which the family now receives been given five years ago, there would have been no need for the county aid which they have been receiving for some ime, no demand for a widows' pension and no little children handicapped at the very start.

Prune and Apple Roly-Poly,-Roll out a rich pastry very thin, heap on it two cupfuls of finely chopped apples and a cupful of drained, stoned, and slightly chopped, stewed prunes. Roll up and place in a deep saucepan; cover with boiling water, a cupful of brown sugar and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Bake one hour and serve with whipped cream and the sauce in which it was cooked.

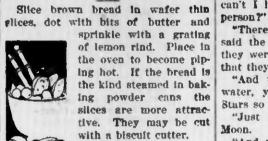

Cranberries are also delicious, spiced as one does other fruit. To three quarts of berries use three and a half pounds of brown sugar, two cupfuls of vinegar, a tablespoonful of allspice, a teaspoonful of cloves and a threeinch stick of cinnamon. The vinegat, if very acid, should be diluted. The spices may be removed before putting in the glasses if desired.

HIDE THEIR REAL FAVORITES

Claim Made That Few Literary Men Tell the Truth When Asked a Leading Question.

Now and again men of letters and other persons more or less in the public eye are requested to put themselves to the question and to write out a list of their favorite characters in fiction. Sometimes they are bidden to stand and deliver the names of stalwart heroes, and sometimes they are desired to lisp lovingly a list of

And as these men of letters and other persons more or less in the public eve are human, after all, and therefore hypocrites, they are likely to go on the stand with no intention of telling the whole truth, says Scribner's Magazine. Their secret delight may be in the mysterious vengeances of Nick of the Woods; yet this is what they would never dare comess, so they get out a search warrant and they take up a collection of their thoughts in order to produce as their first choice Achilles or Ulysses, Gargantua or Marius the Epicurean.

They are equally lacking in frankness where they volunteer to name a bevy of herolnes. They may make a bluff of indifference to beauty by putting in Jane Eyre; but no one of them would be bold enough to acknowledge his sneaking fondness for Becky Sharp, that most fascinating villainess.

Thackeray tried to make us dislike Mrs. Rawdon Crawley, thereby incuring the reproach of Taine-to the effect that her creator did not love Becky as Balzac loved Mme. Marneffe. Yet, try as hard as he could, Thackeray fulled to arouse in the average sensual man any detestation for the Impersonator of Clytemnestra at the Gaunt House theatricals. In fact, if the average sensual man had his choice, he would rather take in to dinner Becky than the blameless Amelia. beloved by the long-suffering Major

G OD AND EVIL IN JEALOUSY

All Right When It Spurs to Greater Efforts; Wrong When It Becomes Unreasoning.

Jealousy develops very early in our lives. In fact, even as children, we felt jealous of other children-of their pretty clothes, their toys and play-

In our schooldays, because of jealousy over the rapid advancement of other pupils, we have worked harder perhaps, so that we, too, might reach higher marks in our studies; thus we have gone ahead of our schoolmates.

Because we have been jealous of our neighbor's prosperity, we have developed ambition; because we have been jealous of wife or husband, we have tried more strenuously to please them; because we have jealously guarded our country's honor, we have secured a place second to none among the nations of the world.

Jealousy is a subtle passion, and must be carefully analyzed. We must never lose sight of the fact that it is a devastating monster, which if allowed to fasten itself upon our imagination too strongly, will grow to terranc proportions.

The force that is expressed in jealousy may if wisely governed and guided into helpful channels, become the source of achievement that shall uplift and aid in the world's work, while if left to take its destructive course it may bring down the walls of the temple about the ears of an embryonic Samson. Unreasoning jealousy is a blighting

Traveling Insects.

Ship cargoes are often responsible for the introduction of new species of insects in different lands. Banana bunches often hide poisonous reptiles Campbelisport, 1 mile east of Endand insects which travel long dismore, 5 miles north of Kewaskum, tances, only to bite or sting the hand of some receiver of fruit. Often they escape alive and breed their kind. Many venomous snakes have thus been introduced into lands where none existed before. Strange creatures have been imported on the blooms of orchids, and West Indian insects have traveled in easter lily blossoms. Destructive moths migrate in fruit ships, the tropics followed by a swarm of stoves, oil stoves, heaters are butterflies. Out of sight of the shore, other household articles. they hid in the cabins and holds, emerging 40 days later when the ship reached England. Thus originated quite a new species of butterfly in the British isles.

Where He Drew the Line. Mr. Giltstock had made money. Therefore, he must have a bigger house and it must be built for him by the best architect in the town. In due course the architect arrived with elaborate plans, which he explained to the puzzled merchant Giltsock," he concluded, "is the drawing room. Where shall we put the drawing room?" But Mr. Giltstock laid a firm hand on the desk.

"Look here, my boy, I draw the line somewhere. You've made plans for a sale. smoking room, when I don't smoke; a music room, when I can't even play a J. mouth organ; a nursery, when I ain't got a nurse, and a pantry, when I don't pant. But I'm blamed if I'm going to let you put up a drawing room, when I can't even draw a straight line!"-Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

GEN. FRED FUNSTON DIES SUDDENLY AT SAN ANTONIO HOTEL

Drops Unconscious While Playing With Child.

ACUTE INDIGESTION, CAUSE

Commander of American Troops on the Border Was Captured by Spaniards in 1896 and Escaped Death by Swallowing Letter.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 20.-Gen. Frederick Funston, commander of the southern department, died here last night, a few minutes after he collapsed while in a local hotel, where he had gone with a party of friends. Attending physicians say the cause of death was acute indigestion.

General Funston had just finished dinner and was playing with a child when he fell unconscious.

Funston Always a Fighter. Not until 1896, when the Cuban insurrection was at its height, did Frederick Funston become known throughout the United States as a first-class fighting man, but his friends in Kansas-where he spent his early manhood -long had so classified him.

As a student at the University of Kansas, when he weighed less than 100 pounds, he conquered a 200-pound "bad man" who threatened him with a razor. To add to the giant's humiliation, Funston marched him through the streets of Lawrence, Kan., at the point of a revolver, to a police station.

A few years later, while city editor of a paper in Fort Smith, Ark., young Funston stirred up intense feeling by attacking editorially the publication's own political party leaders during the absence of his editor in chief.

Held on Despite Threats, Many threats are said to have been made against Funston and the newspaper property, but he remained on guard until his superior returned, and then turned over the plant, unharmed, Incidentally, Funston also resigned. Funston's first experience on the firing line came in Cuba, where he commanded General Gomez' artillery with remarkable results.

Captured by Spanlards.

Captured by Spaniards on his way to Havana, he escaped death by swallowing a letter to the president of Cuba which would have proved his

While a colonel of the famous Twentieth Kansas volunteer infantry in the Philippine war Funston performed feats of bravery that brought him the title of brigadier general. His capture of Aguinaldo and his fording of the Rio Grande river at Columpit under fire featured his work, Funston has been described by his superiors as absolutely fearless. Ever ready to plunge into danger, he cared little whether his force equaled that of his opponent. One day, the story goes, when it appeared certain the Fillpinos would destroy three companies under Funston's command, Gen. Harrison Gray Otis inquired of the colonel how long he could hold his position.

Repulses Filipinos. "Intil I am mustered out!" Funston replied; and he made good by repulsing the Filipinos.

When the volunteers were discharged, Funston retained his rank as member of the regular army. As a regular, he made a mark by maintaining order in San Francisco during proposition providing that they will SCORES BRYAN IN HOUSE the disaster of 1906. When trouble in Mexico made it necessary to send an American expedition to Vera Cruz in April, 1914, General Funston was put in command of the troops. He was military governor of Vera Cruz until November, 1914.

Late in 1914 he was made a major general and appointed commander of the southern department.

In March, 1916, he was given command of the United States troops along the border of Mexico and also from Carthage. of the troops sent into Mexico in pursuit of Villa.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT, BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Make It Thick, Glossy, Wavy, Luxuriant and Remove Dandruff-Real Surprise for You.

Your hair becomes light, wayy, fluf fy, abundant and appears as soft. lurtrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this-moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair-fine and downy at first-yes-but really new hair-growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any store and just try it. Adv.

THE RANGER SHOWS WHAT A DESPERATE MAN HE IS WHEN PROVOKED TO VIOLENT ACTION

Mrs. Alaire Austin, a handsome young matron, gets lost in the Texas desert and after an all-day struggle wanders into the little camp of David Law, a ranger officer, hunting a Mexican murderer. Circumstances force her to stay there overnight. She finds the ranger an interesting character.

"No. Only the place where it stood." "Sho'! You must have traveled right smart for such a young lady." He beamed amiably upon her.

There was something winning about this young man's modesty, and something flattering in his respectful admiration. He seemed, also, to know his place, a fact which was even more in his favor. Undoubtedly he had force and ability; probably his love of adventure and a happy lack of settled purpose had led him to neglect his more commonplace opportunities and sent him into the Ranger service. This man had been denied what she termed education; therefore she decided to put one in his way.

"Do you like to read?" she asked

"Say! It's my favorite form of exercise." Law's blue-gray eyes were expressionless, his face was bland. "Why?"

"I have a great many books at Las tiful cook book. It is sent free to Palmas. You might enjoy some of them." "Now that's nice of you, ma'am.

Senator Overman of South Carolina Passage of Drastic Espionage Bill.

Washington, Feb. 21.-President Wilson has sent a letter to Chairman Stone of the senate foreign relations committee urging action during this session of congress on the treaty to indemnify Colombia for the separation from Panama. The president's request is said to have been based on fear of complications that may arise on the l'anama canal if the relations between Germany and this government result in war. The president is said to have made it clear that German agents in Colombia hand and cuffed the Mexican to his are already active with a view to makknees. Then he leaped upon him, as ing trouble for this government along the canal.

The failure of the senate, through the opposition of Republican senators led by Senator Lodge, to ratify the treaty whereby Colombia was to receive $15,000,000 in payment for the loss of Panama and the canal rights, has, it is said, aroused much hostility to this country among induential persons in Colombia, of which the German Mother Gray's Powders agents have not been slow to take advantage.

Opposing amendments by Senator Cummins to temper some of the stringent provisions of the espionage bill pending in the senate, Senator Overman of North Carolina declared he had been told there were 100,000 spies in the United States and that it was absolutely essential that drastic laws be enacted to protect naval stations. submarine bases and other national de-

ECHO OF TITANIC DISASTER

Researches of Ice Patrol Boats Have Exploded Many Theories Held

After the loss of the giant White Star liner Titanic in April, 1912, by striking an iceberg, there was much discussion in Europe and America as to the possibility of adopting measures to lessen the likelihood of such disasters in the future, says P. T. McGrath in the American Review of Reviews. An Mr. and Mrs. Peter Boegel were the "international conference for the saving of life at sea," which was held at London, resulted, among other things, noon with Mr. and Mrs. Otto Backhaus in an undertaking by the principal marine powers of the world to maintain an ice patrol on the north Atlantic from February to June in each year.

It was agreed that this ice patrol should be carried out by the United States on behelf of the various countries represented, the cost to be borne by them pro rata, Britain to pay 25 per cent of the total, Germany, France and the United States 15 per cent each and Austria, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Mrs. F. Fleischmann returned home Italy, Holland, Norway, Russia and

The American authorities inaugurated this patrol service with the naval scout cruisers Birmingham and Chester, but later assigned the revenue cutters Seneca and Miami to this duty, Mr. and Mrs. Christ. Mathieu and which ships have since continued it. The first season St. Johns was chosen for the work, but ultimately it was found more convenient to utilize Halifax, Nova Scotia, because the area patrolled was south of St. Johns and extended farther south as the season advanced and the armadas of icebergs became more numerous.

A theory exploded by the ice pasons, Carroll and Vincent, spent Sun trol ships is that the proximity of ice day afternoon with Mrs. Helen Schill. is marked by a notable lowering of air Mr. and Mis. Julius Kloke, Mr. and temperature. Experiments covering Mrs. William Geidel and children and three years have proved that such is Arnold Spradou spent a pleasant Mon not the case, and that as a rule there day evening with Mr. and Mrs. Mike is little or no change in the temperature of the air near an iceberg. Equally fallacious is the idea that the presence of a berg is denoted by a lowering of the temperature of the water. As a matter of fact the very contrary is the case.

Other theories, as that echoes indicate the presence of bergs, that ice discloses itself through what is known as the "ice blink" and that submarine "ears" on ships will reveal the nearness of ice by its peculiar motion through the waves have been proved equally unfounded. In truth, the testimony of the commanders of these patrol ships is that the only safe way to navigate regions of icebergs is to stop during thick weather and to run very clowly on dark nights.
