

WILSON AGAIN IS MADE PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Inducted into Office With Due Ceremony.

PATRIOTISM MARKS THE DAY

Vice President Marshall First Takes the Oath—Imposing Inaugural Parade Is Largely Military in Its Nature—Flags and Illumination.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington, March 5.—Woodrow Wilson has been inaugurated president of the United States for the second time, and Thomas R. Marshall has come into his own as vice president of the United States for the second time in company with the chief executive.

For several nights prior to the inauguration, Washington was a flood of light. Thousands of American citizens came to the capital of their nation from all over the United States to witness the ceremonies attending the inauguration. The situation of the country in reference to its foreign relations added more than a touch of seriousness and a distinct flavor of patriotism to the entire proceedings. Washington is a city of flags at all times, but it became ten times a city of flags one day before the ceremonies of inauguration.

President Wilson drove from the White House to the capitol with his wife at his side. In the carriage with him were two members of the congressional committee which had general charge of the ceremonies, and of which Senator Overman of North Carolina is chairman.

Vice President Marshall, with Mrs. Marshall in the carriage with him, was escorted in like manner to the capitol.

Big Crowds, Many Flags.

From an early hour the sidewalks were crowded with persons waiting to see the president and "the first lady of the land" pass along the avenue to the place of the oath-taking. All the windows commanding a view of Pennsylvania avenue also were crowded with onlookers. The red, white and blue was everywhere in evidence. The only foreign flags to be seen in Washington were those flying from the flagpoles of the foreign embassies and legations which, even though they are located in the city through they are recognized as being foreign territory.

Vice President Marshall was sworn into office before the inauguration of the president. The exercises took place in the senate chamber. The legislative day of March 3, so far as the senate was concerned, had been continued by recesses until the hour of 12 noon of the calendar day March 5.

The president pro tempore of the senate presided at the ceremonies preceding the administering of the oath to the vice president-elect. The president of the United States, the members of the cabinet, the foreign ambassadors and other notable guests occupied seats ate door, the main corridors of the senate and through the rotunda of the capitol to the place set for the oath-taking. On reaching the inaugural stand, Woodrow Wilson took a place directly in front of Edward D. White, the chief justice of the United States, and the chief clerk of the Supreme court, James D. Maher. The sergeant-at-arms of the senate and the congressional committee on arrangements were immediately on the left of the president. The vice president, the associate justices of the Supreme Court and the members of the senate sat upon his right.

When all were assembled Chief Justice White, having in his right hand the open Bible upon which the hands of many former presidents have rested, advanced to Woodrow Wilson and administered to him this oath, which is imposed by the Constitution of the United States:

"You do solemnly swear that you will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States and will to the best of your ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Woodrow Wilson said in a firm voice, "I do," and he became for the second time president of the United States of America.

Then the president delivered his inaugural address and on its conclusion he made his way with Mrs. Wilson to his carriage and was driven slowly to the White House at the head of the procession formed in honor of the inaugural ceremonies.

Luncheon Deferred for Parade. In years past the presidential party always has entered the White House for luncheon prior to the review of the parade from the stand in front of the executive mansion. This invariably in the past caused such a delay that it was decided this year to do away with the luncheon feature.

President Wilson with Mrs. Wilson, the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall, and two members of his cabinet went immediately to the little inclosed structure, much like a sentry box, which had been built in the middle of the great grandstand in front of the White House and from which the chief executive viewed the parades.

It was the gravity of the situation in connection with our foreign affairs which gave to the inaugural ceremonies their serious tone and patriotic features. The parade of the day was largely military in its nature, although there were in the procession many bodies which in a sense might be said to represent the spirit of industrial preparedness of the United States for any eventuality which might come.

Make-up of the Procession. At the forefront of the parade as it left the capitol were, of course, the president and the vice president of the United States with their guards of honor. Major General Hugh L. Scott, U. S. army, was the grand marshal of the occasion. George R. Linkins was the marshal of the civic organizations which took part in the marching ceremonies.

Immediately preceding the carriages of the presidential and vice presidential parties and of Col. Robert N. Harper, inaugural chairman, was the famous United States Marine band. The president had as his guard of honor the squadron of the Second United States Cavalry.

The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall were escorted by the Black Horse troop of the Cutler Military academy, Indiana, the state of which the vice president and his wife are natives.

The West Point cadets and the Annapolis cadets took part in the procession. In addition to these young soldier and sailor organizations there was as large a representation of the forces of the United States as properly could be spared from post and garrison duty. In addition there were troops from Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, and some other states of the Union representing the National Guard.

A patriotic and picturesque feature of the ceremonies attending the inauguration was supplied by the rapidly thinning ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic. In years past the soldiers of the war between the states have made the entire length of the line of march, but this year the distance which they tramped was shortened. They added to the picture of the parade as they moved by the presidential reviewing stand with their old flags above them.

At night Washington was aglow with fireworks and with the combined effects of gas and electric light illuminations. In addition searchlights showed the heavens here and there, and one great shaft of light illuminated the apex of the Washington monument while another lighted up and brought into bold relief the dome of the capitol.

WILSON WARNS OF U. S. PERIL

President in Inaugural Address Demands Free Seas.

FIRM FOR JUSTICE TO ALL

Principle of Peace Found Only in Equality of All Peoples—Governments Derive Power From Consent of the Governed.

Washington, March 6.—President Wilson's inaugural address was as follows:

"My Fellow Citizens: The four years which have elapsed since last I stood in this place have been crowded with counsel and action of the most vital interest and consequence. Perhaps no equal period in our history has been so fruitful of important reforms in our economic and industrial life or so full of significant changes in the spirit and purpose of our political action.

"We have sought very thoughtfully to set our house in order, correct the grosser errors and abuses of our industrial life, liberate and quicken the processes of our politics to a broader view of the people's essential interests. It is a record of singular distinction. But I shall not attempt to review it. It speaks for itself and will be of increasing influence as the years go by.

"This is not the time for retrospect. It is time, rather, to speak our thoughts and purposes concerning the present and the immediate future.

Drawn From Domestic Issues.

"Although we have centered counsel and action with such unusual concentration and success upon the great problems of domestic legislation to which we addressed ourselves four years ago, other matters have more and more forced themselves upon our attention, matters lying outside our own life as a nation and over which we had no control, but which, despite our wish to keep free of them, have drawn us more and more irresistibly into their own current and influence.

"It has been impossible to avoid them. They have affected the life of the whole world. They have shaken men everywhere with a passion and an apprehension they never knew before. It has been hard to preserve calm counsel while the thought of our own people swayed this way and that under their influence. We are a composite and cosmopolitan people. We are of the blood of all nations that are at war. The currents of our trade run quick at all seasons back and forth between us and them. The war inevitably set its mark from the first alike upon our minds, our industries, our commerce, our politics and our social action. To be indifferent to it or independent of it was out of the question.

U. S. Not a Part of the War.

"And yet all the while we have been conscious that we were not part of it. In that consciousness, despite many divisions, we have drawn closer together. We have been deeply wronged upon the seas, but we have not wished to wrong or injure in return; we have retained throughout the consciousness of standing in some sort apart, intent upon an interest that transcended the immediate issues of the war itself. As some of the injuries done us have become intolerable we have still been clear that we wished nothing for ourselves that we were not ready to demand for all mankind: fair dealing, justice, the freedom to live and be safe against organized wrong.

"It is in this spirit and with this thought that we have grown more and more aware, more and more certain, that the part we wished to play was the part of those who mean to vindicate and fortify peace. We have been obliged to arm ourselves to make good our claim to a certain minimum of right and of freedom of action. We stand firm in armed neutrality since it seems that in no other way we can demonstrate what it is we insist upon and cannot forego. We may not be drawn on, by circumstances, not by our own pride or desire, to a more active assertion of our rights as we see them and a more immediate association with the great struggle itself. But nothing will alter our thought or our purpose. They are too clear to be obscured. They are too deeply rooted in the principles of our national life to be altered. We desire neither conquest nor advantage. We wish nothing that can be had only at the cost of another people. We have always professed unselfish purpose and we covet the opportunity to prove that our professions are sincere.

Americans Provincials No Longer.

"There are many things still to do at home, to clarify our own politics and give new vitality to the industrial processes of our own life, and we shall do them as time and opportunity serve; but we realize that the greatest things that remain to be done must be done with the whole world for a stage and in co-operation with the wide and universal forces of mankind and we are making our spirits ready for those things. They will follow in the immediate wake of the war itself and will set civilization up again. We are provincials no longer. The tragic events of the thirty months of vital turmoil through which we have just passed have made us citizens of the world. There can be no turning back. Our own fortunes as a nation are involved, whether we would have it so or not.

"And yet we are not the less Americans on that account. We shall be the more American if we but remain true to the principles in which we have been bred. They are not the principles of a province or of a single continent. We have known and boasted all along that they were the principles of a liberated mankind.

Sets Forth American Principles. "These, therefore, are the things we shall stand for, whether in war or in peace:

"That all nations are equally interested in the peace of the world and in the political stability of free peoples, and equally responsible for their maintenance.

"That the essential principle of peace is the actual equality of nations in all matters of right or privilege.

"That peace cannot securely or justly rest upon an armed balance of power.

"That governments derive all their just powers from the consent of the governed and that no other powers should be supported by the common thought, purpose or power of the family of nations.

"That the seas should be equally free and safe for the use of all peoples, under rules set up by common agreement and consent, and that, so far as practicable, they should be accessible to all upon equal terms.

For Limitation of Armament. "That national armaments should be limited to the necessities of national order and domestic safety.

"That the community of interest and of power upon which peace must henceforth depend imposes upon each nation the duty of seeing to it that all influences proceeding from its own citizens meant to encourage or assist violence in other states should be sternly and effectually suppressed and prevented.

"I need not argue these principles to you, my fellow countrymen; they are our own, part and parcel of your own thinking and your own motive in affairs. They spring up native among us. Upon this platform of purpose and of action we can stand together.

SENATORS KILL ARMED SHIP BILL WITH FILIBUSTER

President Plans to Equip U. S. Vessels Despite Congress.

SOLONS ISSUE MANIFESTO

Seventy-Six Lawmakers Tell Power That They Wanted to Vote Power to the President, But Were Prevented by Rules of the Senate—La Follette Talks Bill to Death.

Washington, March 5.—President Wilson will arm American merchant ships and take whatever other steps he deems necessary to protect them, even though the senate failed to pass the armed neutrality bill giving him specific authority, according to administration leaders. The president is confident he has the power to take this action, and believes the vote on the bill in the house and the general attitude in the senate show him that congress is behind him.

Twelve senators, led by Senator La Follette and encouraged by Senator Stone, Democratic chairman of the foreign relations committee, in a filibuster denounced by President Wilson's spokesmen as the most reprehensible in the history of any civilized nation, defied the will of an overwhelming majority in congress up to the last minute on Sunday, and denied to the president a law authorizing him to arm American merchant ships to meet the German submarine menace.

Yielding throughout 20 hours of continuous session to appeals that their defiance of the president would be humiliating to the country; uncompromising in a crisis described to them as the most serious of the nation since the Civil war, La Follette of Wisconsin and his small group of supporters refused a majority of their colleagues an opportunity to vote on the armed neutrality bill.

It died with the Sixty-fourth congress at noon Sunday.

To fix responsibility before the country, 76 senators, 30 Republicans and 46 Democrats, signed a manifesto proclaiming to the world that they favored passage of this measure.

This declaration, embodied in the record of the senate, referred to the fact that the house on Thursday night had passed a similar bill by a vote of 403 to 13. Under the rules of the senate allowing unlimited debate it appears to be impossible to obtain a vote previous to noon March 4, 1917, when this session of congress expires.

"We desire the statement entered on the record to establish the fact that the senate favored the legislation and would pass it if a vote could be obtained."

Those Who Signed Manifesto. The 76 senators who signed the manifesto were:

Democrats—Ashurst, Bankhead, Beckham, Broussard, Bryan, Chamberlain, Chilton, Fletcher, Hardwick, Hitchcock, Hollis, Hughes, Husting, James and Johnson (S. D.), Kern, Lea, Lee, Lewis and Martin (Va.), Martine (N. J.), Myers, Newlands, Norborne, Owen, Phelan, Pittman, Zomerene, Ransdell, Reed, Robinson, Sausbury, Shafer, Sheppard, Shields, Simmons and Smith (Ga.), Smith (Md.), Smith (S. C.), Swanson, Thomas, Thompson, Tillman, Underwood, Walsh and Williams—46.

Republicans—Borah, Brady, Brandegee, Catron, Clark, Colt, Curtis, Dillingham, DuPont, Fall, Fernald, Harding, Jones, Lodge, McComber, McLean, Nelson, Oliver, Page, Poinsett, Sherman, Smith (Mich.), Smoot, Sterling, Sutherland, Townsend, Wadsworth, Warren, Watson and Weeks—30.

Hours before the end senators who fought throughout the night to break down the filibuster conceived a way to thwart La Follette's well-laid plans to occupy the center of the legislative stage at the climax of the bitter fight.

Its execution brought the session to a dramatic end, with La Follette fighting vainly for a chance to deliver a speech on which he had worked many days. He saw friends of the doomed legislation inflict the death blow which he planned.

Instead of La Follette, Senator Hitchcock, leader of the majority in favor of the bill, talked out the waning hours of the session. Timing his opportunity to the minute, Senator La Follette entered the senate chamber shortly after nine o'clock Sunday morning, prepared to take the center of the stage for the last act of the tragedy. When the moment he had chosen arrived he addressed the chamber but Senator Hitchcock prevented his recognition.

AUSTRIAN REPLY DEFIANT TO U. S.

Vienna Government Backs Berlin in U-Boat War.

ALL ARMED SHIPS PIRATES

Note to America Says Assurances in the Ancona Case Will Be Kept, But With Certain Reservations.

London, March 7.—The American ambassador at Vienna has been handed the reply of the Austrian government to the American note inquiring as to the position of the Austrian government in regard to unrestricted submarine warfare, according to a Vienna dispatch to Reuters by way of Amsterdam.

The reply declares that neutrals are responsible for losses they suffer by entering territory where warlike operations are taking place.

The American note, which was dispatched from Vienna on February 18, asked specifically whether the Austrian assurances given following the sinking of the Ancona and the Persia had been nullified.

The reply of Austria states that promises made in previous notes concerning the warning to neutral vessels do not apply to armed merchant ships, which may be considered as pirates and sunk accordingly.

The reply says "that whatever attitude the Washington cabinet may take as to individual questions raised here," the Austro-Hungarian government is "essentially in accord with the American government in regard to the protection of neutrals against endangering their lives." The memorandum then maintains that "neutral subjects have to bear themselves all losses they suffer by entering territory where warlike operations are taking place."

Only Neutral Ships Safeguarded. After a lengthy discussion of the British blockade, which it declares is illegal, the memorandum continues: "The principle that neutrals should enjoy in war time the advantages of the freedom of the seas refers only to neutral vessels and not to neutral persons aboard enemy vessels."

The reply further contends that belligerents are entitled to decide for themselves what measures should be taken against an enemy in sea traffic, and concludes:

"In such cases neutrals have no other legitimate interests, and therefore no other legal claim than that a belligerent inform them in time of a prohibition directed to an enemy, so that they can avoid intrusting their lives and their goods to enemy vessels."

Adheres to Former Policy. The Austrian memorandum referring to the note on the Ancona case, says that it "strictly adheres to the assurance already given."

At the same time Austria calls attention to the fact that at the time of the Ancona incident it stated that it "reserved the right to bring up later for discussion difficult international questions which arise in connection with submarine warfare." The memorandum then adds:

"If the Austro-Hungarian government now refers to this reservation and briefly discusses the question of the sinking of the enemy vessels to which that note refers it is guided by a desire to show the American government that now, as heretofore, it strictly adheres to the assurance already given and endeavors, by clearing up that important question because it touches the laws of humanity, to avoid misunderstanding between the monarchy and the American union."

The reply of the Austrian government to the second American note in regard to the sinking of the Ancona contained the following paragraph: "The Austro-Hungarian government can positively concur in the principle that enemy private vessels, so far as they do not flee or offer resistance, shall not be destroyed before the persons aboard are secured."

ORDERS GERMAN TO TRIAL

U. S. Supreme Court Decides Against Werner Horn, Who Dynamited Bridge Near Vanceboro.

Washington, March 7.—Werner Horn, the German reservist lieutenant who dynamited the international bridge near Vanceboro, Me., in 1915, lost his habeas corpus suit in the Supreme court in which he sought to avoid being tried at Boston for alleged transportation of explosives on passenger trains. The court did not decide Horn's contentions that, in a belligerent act against Canada, his German army commission exempted him from American prosecution and made him punishable only by the state department. The court said Horn's appeal was not authorized, and dismissed it.

GIVES A MONOLITH TO POPE

Evidence of Early Christianity in China Presented to Benedict by New York Woman.

After presenting to Pope Benedict a two-ton monolith, the gift of Mrs. George Leary of New York city, Rev. Father George W. Waring, chaplain of the Eleventh cavalry, U. S. A., stationed at Governor's Island, has returned. "The monolith," he said, "is a reproduction of a monument erected at Cinn-Fu, China, in the seventh century, by Nestorian heretics of the Christian faith. The inscriptions on the big stone, in Chinese and Assyrian, prove conclusively that Christianity had obtained a foothold in China at that early period. The monolith was brought here by Dr. Fritz Holm, and for eight years it was exhibited at the American Museum of Art. Then it was purchased by Mrs. Leary, in whose behalf I took it to Rome to present it to the pope, who had it set up in the Vatican museum."

So well pleased was the pope with the monolith that he conferred upon Father Waring the cross Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice and gave to him an autographed photograph.

MOTHER! LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have as well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

Pay Up Your Debts.

If you have $5, or more or less, for which you have no pressing need, go and pay a debt with it. That is the best use you can make of money, unless you are naked or starving. Now is the time to obey the Bible injunction, "Owe no man anything." That is in the Bible, but from the way some debtors spend money they don't seem to know it or care for it. If they have a dollar extra, it goes for a pleasure or a convenience. The duty to pay someone they owe never occurs to them. Nor does it occur to them that every unsettled debt is a drag on a community. Everybody has to pay interest on it.

People have to pay more for their sugar and coffee because other people owe the grocer and won't pay, according to the editor of the Ohio State Journal. It is one of the items in the high cost of living. And then there is a wholesale public policy in scattering the money around. It will help find work for some poor man and help some other debtor pay his debt. So pay up now.

HEART OF THE SUNSET

By REX BEACH

Author of "The Spoilers," "The Iron Trail," "The Silver Horde," Etc.

Blaze, in truth, was embarrassed by the size of his holdings, but he shook his head. "No, I'm too old to go rumpagin' after new gods. I ain't got the imagination to raise anything more complicated than a mortgage; but if I was younger, I'd organize myself up and do away with that Ed Austin. I'd sure help him on an untimely end, and then I'd marry them pecan groves, and blooded herds, and drug-store orchards. She certainly is a heart-breakin' device, with her red hair, and red lips—"

"Father!" Paloma was deeply shocked.
Complete isolation, of course, Alaire had found to be impossible, even though her ranch lay far from the traveled roads and her Mexican guards were not encouraging to visitors. Business inevitably brought her into contact with a considerable number of people, and of these the one she saw most frequently was Judge Ellsworth of Brownsville, her attorney.

It was perhaps a week after Ed had left for San Antonio that Alaire felt the need of Ellsworth's counsel, and sent for him. Ellsworth was a kindly man of fifty-five, with a forceful chin and a drooping, heavy-lidded eye that could either blaze or twinkle. Judge Ellsworth knew more than any four men in that part of Texas; information had a way of seeking him out. He was a good lawyer, too, and yet his knowledge of human nature he considered far more important than law. His mind was like a full granary, and every grain lay where he could put his hand upon it.

He motored out from Brownsville, and after ridding himself of dust, insisted upon spending the interval before dinner in an inspection of Alaire's latest ranch improvements. Not until dinner was over did he inquire the reason for his summons.

"It's about La Feria. General Longorio has confiscated my stock," Alaire told him. "So I was afraid of this very thing, and so I was preparing to bring the stock over. Still—I never thought they'd actually confiscate it."
"Husn't Ed done enough to provoke confiscation?" asked the judge. "I have it pretty straight that he's giving money to the rebel junta and lending every assistance he can to their cause."

"I didn't know he'd actually done anything. How mad!"
"Yes—for a man with interests in federal territory. But Ed always does the wrong thing, you know."

"Then I presume this confiscation is in the nature of a reprisal. But the stock is mine, not Ed's. I want your help in taking up the matter with Washington."

Ellsworth was pessimistic. "It won't do any good, my dear," he said. "You won't be paid for your cattle."
"Then I shall go to La Feria."
"No!" The judge shook his head decidedly.

"I've been there a hundred times. The federals have been more than courteous."
"Longorio has a bad reputation. I strongly advise against your going. You'd better send some man."

"Whom can I send?" asked Alaire. "You know my situation."
The judge considered a moment before replying. "I can't go, for I'm busy in court. You could probably accomplish more than anybody else, if Longorio will listen to reason, and, after all, you are a person of such importance that I dare say you'd be safe. But it will be a hard trip, and you won't know whether you are in rebel or in federal territory."

"Well, people here are asking whether Texas is in the United States or Mexico," Alaire said, lightly. "Sometimes I hardly know." After a moment she continued: "Since you know everything and everybody, I wonder if you ever met a David Law?"
Ellsworth nodded.

"He asked me the same thing about you. Well, I haven't seen much of Dave since he grew up, he's such a roamer."
"He said his parents were murdered by the Guadalupees."

"Yes. It happened a good many years ago, and certainly they both met a violent end. I was instrumental in saving what property Frank Law left, but it didn't last Dave very long. He's right careless in money matters. Dave's a fine fellow in some ways—most ways, I believe, but—"

The judge lost himself in frowning meditation.
"I have never known you to damn a friend or a client with such faint praise," said Alaire.

"Oh, I don't mean it that way. I'm almost like one of Dave's kin, and I've been keenly interested in watching his traits develop. I'm interested in heredity. I've watched it in Ed's case, for instance. If you know the parents it's easy to read their children." Again

ALAIRE AUSTIN MEETS GEN. LONGORIO OF THE MEXICAN FEDERAL ARMY WHEN SHE GOES TO LA FERIA AND CAPTIVATES HIM COMPLETELY

Mrs. Alaire Austin, a handsome young matron, mistress of Las Palmas ranch, gets lost in the Texas desert and after an all-day struggle wanders into the little camp of David Law, a ranger hunting a Mexican murderer. Circumstances force her to stay 24 hours in camp. Law catches his man, kills another, and escorts her home. "Young Ed," Austin, drunken wastrel, upbraids his wife and makes insinuations concerning the ranger officer. Austin is secretly in league with Mexican rebels. Mrs. Austin starts for La Feria, her ranch in Mexico, to secure damages for cattle confiscated by Mexican federals.

he lapsed into silence, nodding to himself. "Yes, nature mixes her prescriptions like any druggist. I'm glad you and Ed—have no babies."
Alaire murmured something unintelligible.

CHAPTER V.

A Journey, and a Dark Man.

Alaire's preparations for the journey to La Feria were made with little delay. Owing to the condition of affairs across the border, Ellsworth had thought it well to provide her with letters from the most influential Mexicans in the neighborhood; what is more, in order to pave her way toward a settlement of her claim he succeeded in getting a telegram through to Mexico City—Ellsworth's influence was not bounded by the Rio Grande.

Alaire took Dolores with her, and for male escort she selected, after some deliberation, Jose Sanchez, her horse-breaker. Benito could not well be spared. Sanchez had some force and initiative, at least and Alaire had no reason to doubt his loyalty. The party went to Pueblo by motor. On the following day, Alaire secured her passports from the federal headquarters across the Rio Grande, while Jose attended to the railroad tickets. On the second morning after leaving home the party was borne southward into Mexico.

The revolution had ravaged most of northern Mexico; long rows of rusting trucks and twisted car skeletons beside the track showed how the railway's rolling stock had suffered in this particular vicinity; and as the train penetrated farther south temporary trestles and the charred ruins of station houses spoke even more eloquently of the struggle. Now and then a steel water tank, pierced with loopholes and ripped by cannon balls, showed where some detachment had made a stand. There was a military guard on the train, too—a dozen unkempt soldiers loaded down with rifles and bandoliers of cartridges, and several officers, neatly dressed in khaki, who rode in the first-class coach and occupied themselves by making eyes at the women.

At its frequent stops the train was besieged by the customary crowd of curious persons; the same noisy hucksters dealt out enchiladas, tortillas, cold cheeses and coffee from the same dirty baskets and pans; even their outstretched hands seemed to bear the familiar grime of ante-bellum days. The coaches were crowded; women fanned themselves unceasingly; their men snored, open-mouthed, over the backs of the seats, and the aisles were full of snuffling, snuffling children.

As for the country itself, it was dying. The ranches were stripped of stock, no carts creaked along the highways, and the roads, like the little farms, were growing up to weeds.

Alaire felt herself color faintly, for the man seemed to be scanning her from head to foot, taking in every detail of her face and form, and as he did so his expression remained unaltered. For what seemed a full minute Longorio stood rooted; then the stiff-voiced cap was swept from his head; he bowed with the grace of a courtier until Alaire saw the part in his oily black hair.

"Senora! A thousand apologies for my delay," he said. "Caramba! I did not dream—I did not understand your message." He continued to regard her with that same queer intensity.
"You are General Longorio?" Alaire was surprised to note that her voice quavered uncertainly, and annoyed to feel her face still flushing.
"Your obedient servant."

Longorio, with a brusque command, routed out the occupants of the seat ahead, and, reversing the back, took a position facing Alaire. Another order and the men who had accompanied him withdrew up the aisle. There was no mistaking his admiration. He seemed enchanted by her pale beauty, her rich, red hair held him fascinated, and with Latin boldness he made his feelings crassly manifest.

"You probably know why I wished to see you," Alaire began.
Longorio shook his head in vague denial.

"It is regarding my ranch, La Feria." Seeing that the name conveyed nothing, she explained, "I am told that your army confiscated my cattle."
"Ah, yes! Now I understand." The Mexican nodded mechanically, but it was plain that he was not heeding her words in the least. As if to shut out a vision or to escape some dazzling sight, he closed his eyes. Alaire wondered if the fellow had been drinking. She turned to Dolores to find that good woman wearing an expression of stupefaction. It was very queer; it made Alaire extremely ill at ease.

Longorio opened his eyes and passed a brown hand across his brow as if to brush away perverse fancies that bothered with his thoughts. Alaire noticed that one of his fingers was decorated with a magnificent diamond-and-ruby ring, and this interested her queerly. No ordinary man could it be as you would talk to a man. When I heard about this raid I came to look into it—to see you, or whoever is in charge of this district, and to make a claim for damages."

"Valgame Dios! This is amazing." There is nothing extraordinary about it, that I can see."

SHOULD PLAN TO SAVE CRIMINAL

Address by John Cudahy, Candidate for Lieut.-Governor.

TALKS TO CITY OFFICIALS.

Declares That New System Seeks Reclamation of Humanity—Two Purposes Are, First, the Protection of Society, and, Second, the Reformation of the Criminal.

In an address on "Crime in the Cities," delivered in Oshkosh Aug. 17 by John Cudahy, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor of Wisconsin to the Wisconsin League of Municipalities, Mr. Cudahy said:

"Crime is older than any of the civic problems that concern our cities, for it is as old as life itself. It is as universal as sin and as widespread. The treatment of crime and the handling of criminals are peculiarly a municipal affair because it is especially within the cities that life is intricate and complex, and compliance with the many laws of these modern times is not always easy.

"In Milwaukee, a city known all over the country for the peace abiding characteristics of its citizens, during the past year there were 11,292 arrests, and our city pays out annually as its crime bill—that is, it expends for the regulation of crime and the maintenance of penal institutions—nearly $89,000.

"The past fifty years have marked an epoch in material advancement. Life in the cities has become more attractive, more easy, more comfortable and more worth living. The science of municipal government has improved. We have made our cities more beautiful and we have safeguarded health at every hand, and yet two problems of life as old as the world remain with us today as they were at the beginning of time.

"The poor you have always with you," and the same might be said of crime. Crime and the criminal are present today just as ever before. Crime is not decreasing. It is increasing. There are nearly three times as many criminals now as there were fifty years ago, and every year sees an increase in offenders of the criminal law, an increase entirely disproportionate to the increase in our population.

Old System Has Failed.

The old system of dealing with criminals has failed. If we judge by results, and it has failed ignominiously. The criminal law goes upon the assumption that one convicted and sentenced for crime is a free agent—that he has deliberately and with premeditation chosen the course of conduct that has placed him before the bar of justice for judgment. If one is entirely sane before the tribunal of the criminal law, insanity is recognized by the law, but mental sickness is not. There are every year hundreds of broken down, discouraged, hopeless human wrecks who are passing through our criminal courts in Wisconsin and who could never be conscientiously pronounced insane, yet these persons in justice to themselves and more in justice to society, should not be treated as criminals. They are incapable of meeting the test of the criminal law. They cannot choose between right and wrong.

When you find that a convict at Waupun has served six consecutive terms for horse thieving and that it is not uncommon at all for prisoners at the house of correction in Milwaukee to have a record which shows twenty, thirty and forty convictions for drunk and disorderly conduct it is time to inquire into the criminal capacity of such prisoners. A great many of them don't need prison bars. They are physically sick, mentally sick, socially sick, and they need the services of a physician.

Two years ago at Boston there was installed in connection with the criminal courts there which was called "a medical service department." It was under the direction of Dr. Victor Anderson. By many it was looked upon as a fresh start and its utter failure was freely predicted, but after a year of trial the criminal judges found that Dr. Anderson and his department were absolutely indispensable. Now the legislature of Massachusetts has created permanently this medical service department, and the judges say that the criminal courts of Boston would be unworkable without it. During two years Dr. Anderson has examined 941 cases, and of this number only ninety has he pronounced mentally sound.

Based on Wrong Principle.

These mentally defective offenders whom we now treat as criminals demand attention as a distinct class of unfortunate who find their way into our courts. To send them to a penal institution for thirty, sixty or ninety days is not protecting society. They are returned after their period of incarceration to the world no better equipped to conduct themselves in accordance with the laws of society than when they were committed.

The old system of the administration of the criminal law has failed because it was based upon a wrong principle. It was founded upon the basis of revenge. Retribution, retaliation and renaissance were the only objects

Stephen Leonard of this place passed away in death at the St. Agnes hospital, Pond du Lac, last Monday. About three weeks ago, Mr. Leonard froze his feet, a few days later he consulted a doctor, who advised him to go to the hospital at once for treatment. However, Mr. Leonard did not think his condition so serious until last week Tuesday, (or about 2 weeks later) when he called for the doctor again, who took him to the hospital at once for treatment. He was then too weak to undergo an operation and died last Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Mr. Leonard, who had reached his 44th year, was born on their farm near here on Feb. 28, 1873. He was unmarried and leaves to mourn his loss, five brothers and one sister, namely: Mike on the home farm, John and Martin of Milwaukee, Dennis of Oconomowoc, Jas. of Illinois and Mary, Mrs. Fredrich of Milwaukee. The body was sent home on the Soo line to Theresa on the same day and from there taken to his home. Mr. Leonard lived with his brother Mike on a farm, two miles southwest of here and was well known in this vicinity. The funeral was held on Wednesday from the St. Kilian church. Rev. P. Falbisoner officiating. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery. The pall bearers were: John Darmody, Mike Darmody, George German, Albert German, Adolph Batzler, Geo. Murphy. The funeral was largely attended by neighbors and friends of the deceased. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the sorrowing relatives.

Saves Eggs

Royal Baking Powder makes it possible to produce appetizing and wholesome cakes, muffins, cornbread, etc., with fewer eggs than are usually required.

In many recipes the number of eggs may be reduced and excellent results obtained by adding an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder, about a teaspoon, for each egg omitted. The following tested recipe is a practical illustration:

SPONGE CAKE
DIRECTIONS—Bowl sugar and water until syrup spins a thread and add to the stiffly beaten whites of eggs, beating until the mixture is cold. Stir together three times the flour, salt and baking powder; beat yolks of eggs until thick; add a little at a time four mixture and egg yolks alternately to white of egg mixture, stirring after each addition. Add 1/2 cup cold water and flavoring. Mix lightly and bake in moderate oven one hour.

The old method called for 6 eggs and no baking powder

Kewaskum Bowlers Win

A team of jolly bowlers from Fond du Lac journeyed to this village last Sunday afternoon to play a match game with an All Star team of this village, were successful in winning two out of three games, but lost on total pins in the manner the visitors started off to bowl it looked as though they would win all the games, but in the second game however, they lost their bowling eye, and the locals defeated them by over a hundred pins which total the Fordy boys were unable to overcome. The visitors took the defeat in a sportsman like manner.

In the evening the locals played a match game with a strong team from West Bend on the home alley, and again defeated them. Keep it up boys you are doing fine.

Got Something You Want to Sell?

Most people have a piece of furniture, a farm implement, or something else which they have discarded and which they no longer want.

WHY NOT SELL THEM?

Somebody wants those very things which have become of no use to you. Why not try to find that somebody by putting a want advertisement in THIS NEWSPAPER?

"CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

For sick headache, bad breath, Sour Stomach and constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now. No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish bowels—you always get the desired results with Cascarets.

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable. Take Cascarets to-night; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your inside organs of all the bile, gases and constipated matter which is producing the misery.

A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. All stores sell Cascarets. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a cleansing, too. Adv.

Where It Couldn't Be Seen.

It was a hot summer day—with that peculiar kind of heat common to the Atlantic slope. Five big, stout gentlemen were going up to the top of a New York building. The sweat was pouring from their foreheads, and their handkerchiefs looked like Coney Island bathing-suits hung out to dry. "I wish there was a beer saloon in this elevator," remarked one fat gentleman. "Yes, boy, you ought to have a keg of beer about this elevator," chimed in another. The boy looked at the five fat men and then remarked, solemnly: "Oh, I guess there's over a keg of beer to this elevator now."

Don't Neglect Kidneys

Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Prescription, Overcomes Kidney Trouble

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

The kidneys should receive some assistance when needed. We take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich, heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, maybe weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. There is nothing else like it. It is Dr. Kilmer's prescription used in private practice and it is sure to benefit you. Get a bottle from your druggist.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Adv.

His Epitaph.

A recent automobile accident in an upstate county resulted in the death of the driver and the injury of two passengers.

The coroner summoned several witnesses, among them a farmer living near the scene of the accident. There was voluminous testimony regarding the high speed at which the car traveled. Witnesses said, too, that the road was in bad repair. The coroner finally reached the farmer who lived near the scene.

"What would you say about this accident, Mr. Swiggert?" the coroner asked.

"Well, if I was writin' that young man's epitaph," the witness drawled, "I'd say he died trying to get 60 miles out of a 10-mile road."—Indianapolis News.

German Plot Against United States

Berlin's Order to Its Mexico City Minister to Form a German-Mexico-Japanese Alliance Against the United States if the Break Came Between the Kaiser's Government and Washington.

Washington.—Following is the text of the instructions sent by German Foreign Minister Zimmermann at Berlin to Minister von Eckhardt in Mexico City, ordering the latter to propose to Carranza the projected alliance between Germany, Japan and Mexico:

"Berlin, Jan. 19, 1917.—On the 1st of February we intend to begin submarine warfare unrestricted. In spite of this it is our intention to endeavor to keep neutral the United States of America. "If this attempt is not successful we propose an alliance on the following basis with Mexico: That we shall make war together and together make peace. We shall give general financial support, and it is understood that Mexico is to reconquer the lost territory in New Mexico, Texas, and Arizona. The details are left to you for settlement.

"You are instructed to inform the president of Mexico of the above in the greatest confidence as soon as it is certain that there will be an outbreak of war with the United States and suggest that the president of Mexico, on his own initiative, should communicate with Japan suggesting adherence at once to this plan; at the same time, offer to mediate between Germany and Japan.

"Please call to the attention of the president of Mexico that the employment of ruthless submarine warfare now promises to compel England to make peace in a few months.

"ZIMMERMANN."

GERMANY URGED MEXICO AND JAPS TO FIGHT AMERICA

PLAN TO RECONQUER STATES

Kaiser's Foreign Minister Offered Carranza Financial Support in Attempt to Regain Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.—President Has Copy of Instructions Outlining Details of Gigantic Plot.

Washington, March 3.—Senator Swanson of Virginia announced in the senate today that he had been authorized by the president to state the Zimmermann note of January 19, 1917, inviting Mexico to join Germany in war against the United States as published this morning was textually correct.

Washington, March 3.—The Western Newspaper Union was enabled to reveal last Friday morning that Germany, in planning unrestricted submarine warfare and counting its consequences, proposed an alliance with Mexico and Japan to make war on the United States if this country should not remain neutral.

Japan, through Mexican mediation, was to be urged to abandon her allies and join in the attack on the United States.

Mexico, for her reward, was to receive general financial support from Germany, reconquer Texas, New Mexico and Arizona—lost provinces—and share in the victorious peace terms Germany contemplated.

Details of the Plot.

Details were left to German Minister von Eckhardt in Mexico City, who by instructions signed by German Foreign Minister Zimmermann at Berlin January 19, 1917, was directed to propose the alliance with Mexico to General Carranza and suggest that Mexico seek to bring Japan into the plot.

These instructions were transmitted to Von Eckhardt through Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador here, now on his way home to Germany under a safe conduct obtained from his enemies by the country against which he was plotting war.

Pictures World Dominion.

Germany pictured to Mexico by broad intimation England and the entire allies defeated; Germany and her allies triumphant and in world domination by the instrument of unrestricted warfare.

A copy of Secretary Zimmermann's instructions to Von Eckhardt, sent through Von Bernstorff, is in possession of the United States government. The document has been in the hands of the government since President Wilson broke off diplomatic relations with Germany. It has been kept secret while the president has been asking congress for full authority to deal with Germany, and while congress has been hesitating. It was in the president's hands while Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg was declaring that the United States had placed an interpretation on the submarine declaration "never intended by Germany" and that Germany had promoted and honored friendly relations with the United States "as an heirloom from Frederick the Great."

Of itself, if there were no other, it is considered a sufficient answer to the German chancellor's plaint that the United States "brusquely" broke off relations without giving "authentic" reasons for its action.

The document supplies the missing link to many separate chains of circumstances, which until now have seemed to lead to no definite point.

It sheds new light upon the frequently reported but indefinite movements of the Mexican government to couple its situation with the friction between the United States and Japan.

It adds another chapter to the celebrated report of Jules Cambon, French ambassador in Berlin before the war, of Germany's world-wide plans for stirring strife on every continent where they might aid her in the struggle for world domination which she dreamed was close at hand.

It adds a climax to the operations of Count von Bernstorff and the German embassy in this country, which have been colored with passport frauds, charges of dynamite plots and intrigue, the full extent of which never has been published.

Emphasizes Our Perils.

It gives new credence to persistent reports of submarine bases on Mexican territory in the Gulf of Mexico; it takes cognizance of a fact long recognized by American army chiefs, that if Japan ever undertook to invade the United States it probably would be through Mexico, over the border and into the Mississippi valley to split the country in two.

It recalls that Count von Bernstorff when handed his passports was very reluctant to return to Germany, but expressed a preference for a ban in Cuba.

It gives a new explanation to the repeated arrests on the border of men charged by American military authorities with being German intelligence agents.

Last of all, it seems to show a connection with General Carranza's recent proposal to neutrals that exports of food and munitions to the entente allies be cut off, and an intimation that he might stop the supply of oil, so vital to the British navy, which is exported from the Tampico fields.

What Will Congress Do?

What congress will do, and how members of congress who openly have sympathized with Germany in their opposition to clothing the president with full authority to protect American rights will regard the revelation of Germany's machinations to attack the United States is the subject of the keenest interest.

Such a proposal as Germany instructed her minister to make to Mexico borders on an act of war, if, actually, it is not one.

No doubt exists here now that the persistent reports during the last two years of the operations of German agents not alone in Mexico but all through Central America and the West Indies are based on fact.

There is now no doubt whatever that the proposed alliance with Mexico was known to high Mexican officials who are distinguished for their anti-Americanism. Among them are Rafael Zubaran, Carranza's minister to Germany, and Luis Cabrera, Carranza's minister of finance.

The Hand of Mexico.

It is apparent that the proposal had taken definite form when Zubaran returned to Mexico City from Berlin recently. His return from his foreign post was covered by the fact that Carranza had called in many of his diplomats for "conferences."

It was declared by a high Japanese authority on Wednesday night that if the German proposal of an alliance ever reached Tokyo it was regarded as merely a new exhibition of German "kultur" and that it was thrown in the wastebasket where it belonged.

He asserted no such proposal had been made to the embassy here and that if it had been no attention would have been paid to it.

He said: "The whole idea was absolutely preposterous."

In order to make an alliance with Germany, he added, it would be necessary for Japan to break from the allies and negotiate a separate peace with the Teutonic powers. But above all that, he said, the Japanese sincerely desired friendly relations with the United States.

DOINGS OF THE LATE CONGRESS

Notable for Response to the Demand for Preparedness.

AUTHORIZED A GREAT NAVY

Provided Also for Increase and Reorganization of Army—Some of the Momentous Economic Statutes That Were Passed.

Washington, March 5.—The Sixty-fourth congress, which has passed into the annals of things that were, will be long remembered as the congress which responded to the demand for national preparedness. While economic statutes of pith and moment have been written into the law of the land, preparedness measures, inspired by the European war, out-top all other legislation.

Although ample provision has been made for fortifications, and authority has been granted by congress to more than double the standing army of the United States from a commercial to a fighting nation has been wrought by the naval increases authorized. The congress now expired has authorized Uncle Sam eventually the peer of any nation on earth in sea power, excepting, perhaps, Great Britain.

In the two sessions comprising the Sixty-fourth congress there have been authorized and appropriated for no less than 118 war craft. Nor is this all. The first session adopted a three-year-building program, the construction of which should be undertaken prior to July 1, 1918. This program included this allotment of fighting ships: Ten battleships, six torpedo-boat destroyers, nine fleet submarines, 58 coast submarines, one experimental submarine (Neff system), three fuel ships, one repair ship, one transport, one hospital ship, two destroyer tenders, one fleet submarine tender, two ammunition ships, two gunboats.

Naval Vessels Appropriated For. By the act which adopted this building program congress appropriated for four battleships, four battle cruisers, four scout cruisers, 20 destroyers, 30 submarines, and one each of these craft: Experimental submarine, fuel ship, hospital ship, ammunition ship, and gunboat. During the second session provision was made for three battleships, one battle cruiser, three scout cruisers, 15 destroyers, one destroyer tender, one submarine tender and 18 submarines.

The Sixty-fifth congress adopts the three-year program the remainder of the units for the reorganized battle fleet will be appropriated for next year. Staggering sums have been required to meet these demands, the naval appropriation for the second session of the expired congress alone amounting to almost a round half-billion dollars.

So great have been these expenditures that the ordinary sources of revenue are not sufficient and a special revenue measure had to be passed. Representative Kitchin, majority leader and chairman of the house ways and means committee, a small-navy man, in drafting the revenue measure and pressing it to passage through the house charged full responsibility for the measure to the advocates of preparedness.

Increase of the Army.

Increase of the regular army and its reorganizations under the national defense act were less striking than the naval increases. But the regular army was increased from an authorized peace strength of 100,000 to an authorized peace strength of 216,000, capable of expansion in war time to 256,000. After prolonged agitation for preparedness both on land and sea, the consensus of the military experts was that the United States with its enormous length of coast line must rely on its fleet to defend its shores.

In the discussions that preparedness agitation in congress provoked it was again and again demonstrated that the temper of the American people is absolutely against a big standing army. Former Secretary Garrison formulated and laid before congress with President Wilson's approval a scheme for a Continental army to be recruited and trained under the universal military training principle. Representative Hay of Virginia, then chairman of the powerful house military committee, opposed the Continental army idea and substituted for it in the national defense act, the federalization of the National Guard. Mr. Hay won President Wilson over to his way of thinking—the Federalized National Guard became the second line of the land defenses and Secretary Garrison resigned from the cabinet.

Other Notable Acts.

Although preparedness was the keynote of legislation, the Sixty-fourth congress found time also to enact a ship purchase bill, the Adamson eight-hour railroad law, a child labor law, a measure to forbid the immigration of illiterate aliens, a rural credits bill, a vocational educational bill and an act reorganizing the government of Porto Rico and extending citizenship to the islanders.

The ship purchase bill established a government shipping board to supervise shipping matters generally. It appropriated $50,000,000 to be obtained from the sale of Panama canal bonds for the purchase or construction of ships to be leased to private individuals in an effort to restore the American merchant marine.

The Adamson eight-hour railroad law was enacted on the eve of adjournment of the first session of the last congress. The enactment of the measure prevented a nationwide, railroad strike. It, however, has never become effective. Between the time of its enactment and the time for the commencement of its operation, January 1 last, the constitutionality of the measure was challenged by the railroads, and the whole matter is now pending in the Supreme court.

Supplemental railroad legislation, proposed by President Wilson in his annual message last December, failed of enactment. This legislation would have provided for the prevention of strikes by compulsory legislation. It was heartily opposed by all of the bodies of organized labor which had previously sought the eight-hour railroad law.

Child Labor and Immigration.

The child labor law barred from interstate commerce all products of children under sixteen years of age in mines or of children under fourteen in factories.

The passage of the Immigration bill with its literacy test was accomplished over President Wilson's second veto. The literacy feature had been a subject of controversy between the executive and legislative branches of the government for the past twenty years. Presidents Taft and Cleveland both vetoed immigration measures because they carried the literacy feature, which all three presidents thought was not a proper measure of the fitness of aliens for admission to the United States.

The federal farm-loan act, commonly called the rural-credits bill, created 12 federal land banks with $750,000 capital each. The bill provides a system whereby loans may be made to farmers for productive purposes through national farm-loan associations. It will meet more particularly the needs of agriculturists in the West and South.

Under the vocational educational act the federal government on a gradually increasing scale covers every state appropriation dollar for dollar for secondary school instruction in agriculture and the mechanical and industrial arts.

On the eve of adjournment congress passed the post-office appropriation bill, with an amendment making "home dry" all states having prohibitory laws. This measure was introduced in the senate by Senator Reed of Missouri. Its unexpected enactment had the effect of absolutely prohibiting the shipment in interstate commerce of intoxicants into states or territories which forbid the manufacture or sale of liquor.

It also closes the mails to all liquor advertising, including newspaper advertising. Neither can letters soliciting liquor orders be carried in the mails.

Sixteen Senators Retire.

Sixteen senators have now discarded their togas and prefixed their titles with "ex." This disturbance of personnel reduces but does not upset the Democratic control of the upper house. The Democratic majority of 16 is cut to 12, leaving out of consideration such senators and senators-elect as La Follette, Hiram Johnson, Poindexter and Norris, officially classed as Republicans but not always voting according to classification.

Among the nationally known senators now retired to private life are Clarence D. Clark of Wyoming, who has served in the senate continuously since January 23, 1893; Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota, one of the original Progressives; Luke Lea of Tennessee, now only thirty-seven years old, known as the "Baby Senator"; James E. Hart of New Jersey, who acquired fame early in his senatorial career by his staunch defense of applejack as a beverage, and John W. Kern of Indiana, who has been Democratic leader of the senate.

"Needing no introduction" among the new senators are Hiram Johnson of California, Frank B. Kellogg, "trust buster," of Minnesota, and Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania. Unlike the rest of the senators-elect, "their reputations are made;" all they need to do is to "live up to 'em."

WRITERS BEHIND THE TIMES

Complaint Made That They Have Taken No Cognizance of Changes Occurring in Dialects.

When Joseph Vance, of whom De Morgan wrote a book, was a boy in London, the local dialect was like this:

"He's a-join' for to fight Mr. Gunn beyond the Pinnerforty works, and you better look sharp if you want for to see anythink."

Vance went away to South America and returned after many years to find the jargon altered to this pattern:

"It (the noise) was a lily with a bibby fighting another lily and both was took off to the Styton."

All American dialects have changed in 50 years as that of London did, with the possible exception of the tongue spoken in the southern Appalachian country. Yet, to judge by American comic papers and the gentlemen of the stage, our dialects are as immutable as the stars. They change no more than the faces of great cliffs.

Why would it not be a good idea to appoint a committee to wait on editors of humorous periodicals and the writers of plays and point out to them politely that they speak the language of people long in their graves and superseded?—Toledo Blade.

Robbing the Cradle.

Reports from Maine show that 1,750,000 young balsam firs were shipped from the state this year to be used as Christmas trees. The first shipment of Christmas trees from Maine began about a dozen years ago and the number sent out was about 500. Maine is a large state and her forests are vast, but if the Christmas tree industry continues to grow or, indeed, keeps on at the present rate, it will not be many years before this wholesale destruction of the young trees and the extensive lumbering that is going on will exhaust her forest resources. MADE $5,000 OUT OF HOGS

On His Western Canadian Farm.

It is getting to be a long drawn out story, the way that Western Canadian farmers have made money. Many of them a few years ago, came to the country with little more than their few household effects, probably a team of horses and a cow or two, and sufficient money to do them for a few months, until they got a start. Hundreds of such can be pointed out, who today have splendid homes, well equipped farms, the latest machinery and an automobile. Here is the case of A. E. Merriam, formerly of Devil's Lake, N. D. He didn't leave there because the land was poor, or farming not a success, for all who know that country are aware that it is an excellent country. He wanted to expand, to take advantage of the cheap land that Western Canada offers. And that same story has appealed to hundreds of others who have had like success with Mr. Merriam. But his story, and he signs it, too, is:

"I came to Alberta in the Spring of 1909 from Devil's Lake, North Dakota, locating on my farm near Dalroy. "I arrived with six head of horses and two head of cattle and about $1,500. Since then, I have increased my live stock to seven head of horses, four head of cattle, and about one hundred head of hogs, a four-roomed house, good barn with all modern improvements, a feed grinder, elevator, chopper, fanning mill, etc. I have increased my original capital at least four times more since coming here. "From the feeding of hogs during the last year, I had a gross return of $5,000.

"I first started grain farming, but during the past four years I have made hogs my specialty, and you may see by the foregoing statement for 1916 that I have not done so badly.

"Land has increased at least twenty per cent in value during the past few years, now selling for from $25 to $35 per acre, with nominal taxes of about $27 a quarter section yearly.

"The climate here is better than Dakota in that we do not have so much dry wind; the winters are similar to Dakota.

"As for farming in general, the growing and feeding of live stock is more sure than the grain farming, if continued year after year, and if every farmer follows this he will be ahead of the grain growers in the long run. Taking everything into consideration, I feel satisfied with my success in Alberta."

(Sgd.) A. E. MERRIAM. Dalroy, Alberta, Jan. 12th, 1917.

There will be the greatest demand for farm labor in Western Canada during the early spring, and, in fact, all season until November, and the highest wages will be paid. There is an absolute guarantee by the Canadian Government that those who go to Canada for this purpose need have no fear of conscription.—Advertisement.

Sure Cure.

A nervous man at the opera sat behind a pair of those persons who explain the plot until his endurance was exhausted. Then he leaned forward and said:

"Excuse me, will you speak a little louder? Sometimes the music prevents my hearing what you say."

PAIN? NOT A BIT! LIFT YOUR CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

No humbug! Apply few drops then just lift them away with fingers.

This new drug is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. It is called freezone, and can now be obtained in tiny bottles as here shown at very little cost from any drug store. Just ask for freezone. Apply a drop or two directly upon a tender corn or callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off, root and all, with the fingers.

Not a twinge of pain, soreness or irritation; not even the slightest smarting, either when applying freezone or afterwards.

This drug doesn't eat up the corn or callus, but shrivels them so they loosen and come right off. It is no humbug! It works like a charm. For a few cents you can get rid of every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses on bottom of your feet. It never disappoints and never burns, bites or inflames. If your druggist hasn't any freezone yet, tell him to get a little bottle for you from his wholesale house.—adv.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

To give pleasure to a single heart by a single kind act is better than a thousand head-bowings in prayer.—Thomas Carlyle.

CAKE FILLINGS.

There are so many hundreds of cake fillings that it seems strange that the average cook will use a few so frequently to the exclusion of the other nine hundred and ninety-nine.

Whipped cream for a filling is a general favorite, and may be varied by adding fresh chopped fruit like pineapple, bananas or strawberries, or any well-drained canned fruit, not too juicy to spoil the consistency of the cream.

A boiled frosting with nuts and raisins or figs and dates or shredded pineapple; in fact almost any fruit or nuts may be added to boiled frosting, giving a variety.

Prune Filling.—Boil together a cupful of sugar and a quarter of a cupful of the juice from stewed prunes, pour this sirup boiling hot at the soft ball stage over a white of an egg that has been beaten stiff, when it begins to stiffen add a half cupful of stewed prunes, drained and pitted, then cut in small bits. Beat until cold, add a few pecans and when thick spread over the cake.

A chocolate cake with an orange filling is a combination well enjoyed. The filling may be made in the form of a cream with the rind and juice for flavor or it may be made as follows: Rub two cubes of loaf sugar over an orange to extract all the oil, then dissolve the sugar in the juice of a lemon. Add enough confectioner's sugar to make a thick icing, cover the cake with thin slices of orange and put on the filling. The cake may be garnished with slices of glazed orange or candy orange slices.

Delicious Pineapple Filling.—Take four tablespoonsful of pineapple juice, a cupful of sugar, boil until it boils and then pour boiling hot over the well beaten white of an egg. Drain the pineapple until all the juice is removed and stir this into the boiled frosting, beating all the while.

Sour Cream Filling.—Cook together a cupful each of brown sugar and sour cream, when thick stir in a cupful of hickorynuts and spread on a sheet of cake or use as filling for a layer cake. This is especially delicious.

Mayonnaise.—Beat the yolk of one egg with a teaspoonful of cold water, add one-half teaspoonful of salt, paprika and mustard to taste, add a cupful of olive oil, a little at a time, beating well, add two tablespoonfuls each of lemon juice and vinegar, alternating with the oil. Mayonnaise is flat and insipid unless properly seasoned. All sorts of seasonings used in French dressing may be added to it.

If there is one thing in existence more miserable than another, it most unquestionably is the being compelled to rise by candle light.—Dickens.

SOME FAVORITE RECIPES.

We do not all enjoy the same dishes, but perhaps there will be a few in this column which you will find new and like to try.

Carrot Pudding.—Take a cupful each of grated carrots, potatoes, brown sugar, chopped suet, stoned raisins and currants, two cupfuls of flour, a teaspoonful of mixed spices, half a teaspoonful each of nutmeg and salt, a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of boiling water; mix well and add a cupful of cherries, pineapple or peaches and steam three hours. Serve with any desired sauce.

Khaki Pudding.—Peel, core and slice six apples; put them into a saucepan with four tablespoonfuls of sugar, two of butter and two of candied lemon peel, or the grated rind; add a quarter of a cupful of water and cook until smooth; put through a sieve and add three egg yolks. Line a deep pudding dish with pastry, put in the apples and bake until the eggs are set. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff, then add three tablespoonfuls of sugar, place on top of the pudding, decorate with candied peel and brown in the oven until a pale yellow.

Date Pudding.—Take a cupful of sour milk, two-thirds of a cupful of sugar and a teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in a little warm water; then add a pound of stoned and chopped dates, and two cupfuls of graham flour. Steam for two hours, then dry off in the oven for a few minutes. This may be re-steamed several times. Serve with a hard sauce.

Yankee Float.—Scald a quart of milk. Mix together three egg yolks a cupful of sugar, and vanilla and nutmeg to flavor. Cook a tablespoonful of cornstarch, mixed with two tablespoonfuls of cold milk; cook in the hot milk until well cooked, then mix all together and pour into a serving dish. Beat the whites of the eggs very stiff; drop by spoonfuls on top of boiling water to cook; then lift carefully and place on top of the pudding. Serve very cold.

Cold boiled fish mixed with salad dressing and served on lettuce makes a fine salad.

Catarrh for Years No Relief

Three Bottles PERUNA Made Me Well.

medicine for it, but they did me no good. In reading one of Dr. Hartman's books entitled 'Winter Catarrh,' I discovered that Peruna was good for catarrh. After I had taken only three bottles of Peruna I was cured of the catarrh. I had advised everybody troubled with catarrh to take Dr. Hartman's Peruna, as it is a sure cure for catarrh. "Friends to whom I recommend Peruna tell me that it is also good for headache, dizziness, and pain in the stomach." "Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets."

HEALTHY CHILDREN

come from healthy mothers. And mothers will certainly be healthy if they will take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Nothing can equal this medicine in building up a woman's strength, in regulating and assisting all her natural functions, and in putting in perfect order every part of the female system. It lessens the pains and burdens, supports and strengthens weak, nursing mothers. It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and bracing nervine.

Castor oil is good for children or adults, and especially good for aged people. A pleasant form of a vegetable laxative that is to be had at any drug store, was invented by Dr. Pierce, who put together May-apple (podophyllum), aloes, jalap, etc., and they can be had for little money. They contain no calomel and are of vegetable constituents, therefore harmless.

ONE FRIEND TELLS ANOTHER WHY W-B CUT TOBACCO IS BEST AND CHEAPEST

MY POUCH OF W-B CUT TOBACCO ISN'T AS BIG AS YOUR LOOSE PAPER SACK, BUT ITS BETTER AND CHEAPER, BECAUSE IT SATISFIES AND LASTS LONGER.

HERE'S something curious about W-B CUT Chewing—it takes less out of your pocket and puts a better chew into your mouth. No big plug sagging your pocket, no big wad sagging your cheek. Half as much of this rich tobacco goes twice as far as ordinary plug. W-B saves your silver and gives you a silver-lining feeling of happiness all over. You can't help from telling your friends about W-B.

THE EGGLESS CAKE

High Cost of Living Reduced by Several Millions. The prestige of the hen is being curtailed in a new and interesting way. She lays a billion eggs or so for the human race each year, and, under world war conditions, the price of eggs per dozen to consumers had approached a dollar in some parts of the United States and has reached the prohibitive price of two dollars or more in the belligerent countries. Therefore when the high cost of living looms large in the public eye, unusual importance is attached to the announcement of the best baking powder company in the world that it has evolved a ready and practical way for the housewife to save, in the aggregate, many millions of dollars in household expenses through the use of more Royal Baking Powder and less eggs. Months of experimenting have elicited a large number of recipes for the making of home baked products with fewer eggs, and these recipes are being distributed gratis. It is claimed that they prove conclusively that the baking powder saves eggs—in some cakes about half the cost of the eggs is saved. In recipes calling for the use of eggs, the number can be reduced almost through the use of healthful, appetizing cakes, muffins, corn bread, etc., obtained by using a small additional quantity, about a teaspoon, of Royal baking powder in place of each egg omitted. The acme, or top-notch achievement, in this connection is an eggless, milkless, butterless cake that is pronounced by all who have tasted it to be delicious and wholesome. Its appetizing quality, its claim to be surprising to the housewife who tries it according to the recipe given. The idea of using more Royal baking powder and less eggs in cooking is not entirely new, but the elaborate enlarging and perfecting of the idea just accomplished renders it a very present help, meeting the necessities of the housewife of moderate means in a time of soaring food prices. In the British Isles the news has been received with enthusiasm. The baking powder company, while not being accused of being an out and out philanthropist in the matter, is pointed out as having provided the means of effecting a saving in the household affairs in a way that benefits everybody and harms nobody—except it be the pride of the autocratic hen. The company only completed its experiments recently, and already the announcements are being spread broadcast in the newspapers, which it will be remembered, many years ago made the name of Royal Baking Powder a household word all over the world.

HOT SCHOOL LUNCHES

(Miss Maynard Downes)

"I can't tell you what the Hot Lunch has meant to my school," writes a rural school teacher. "We started serving last fall. We had a social to raise the money for equipment. Some of the fathers and mothers were skeptical over this new notion of cooking in the school house. Now, however, they are as enthusiastic as I am. After several months of serving hot lunches, I find that my pupils look better and do better work than they did last year. The afternoon work does not drag as it formerly did. There are less than the customary number of 'tired out' and 'run down' pupils. The Hot Lunch in rural schools has both health and educational value. For the child who must carry his noon lunch, the addition of a hot dish means increased body nourishment and consequently renewed zest for the lessons of the afternoon. One article of food, to supplement the cold lunch brought from home, is prepared by the pupils each day, under the direction of the teacher. This dish may be cocoa, a creamed soup, a cooked cereal, or even potatoes or other vegetables prepared in various ways. The preparation of the hot dish may be included in the cooking lessons which are now a part of the instruction in many rural schools. The teacher is given an opportunity to teach her pupils correct table behavior. A taste for simple, wholesome dishes, in preference to highly seasoned, poorly cooked, or otherwise indigestible food may be cultivated in the school, and coffee, pickles, pie and other articles not desirable for children be gradually eliminated. When the children bring plates, cups, spoons, etc., from home the equipment necessary for serving from twenty to thirty pupils costs about $10.00. Material used in preparation of the hot dish is usually furnished by the children in turn. The expense and work required to serve a hot lunch is, therefore, inconsiderable. The direct benefit to the children and the indirect profit to the community are great. The Hot Lunch idea is spreading rapidly through the rural schools of Wisconsin. It is comparatively an innovation, yet its benefit is so pronounced that each day adds to the number of schools adopting it.

A Bilious Attack

When you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. They only cost a quarter.

The Pneumonia Season

The cold, damp weather of March seems to be the most favorable for pneumonia germ. Now is the time to be careful. Pneumonia often results from a cold. HITCH TO THE HOUSE OF HILL

SPRING OPENING Saturday, March 10th

THE Formal Opening of HILLS will be held this coming Saturday and you cannot afford to miss it. Picturesqueness in dress reaches the highest point of its charm in the new Spring suits, coats and dresses, the best examples of which we will have to show you Saturday. While the display is distinctive and authentic we have culled the "chaff from the wheat" and present to you only the latest vogue—it is enough, we think, that the over-favored and so-called popular models will be shown in profusion everywhere. What you will see at this display will represent the most distinctive Spring vogue as the leaders of the world of fashion recognize it in New York. We earnestly invite your attendance at this important Style Show.

Worms Make Children Fretful

Children suffering from worms are dull and irritable, puny and weak, often grind their teeth and cry out in sleep, being a constant source of worry to their parents. Kickapoo Worm Killer is a mild laxative remedy in candy tablet form that children like to take. Promptly effective, it kills and moves the worm from the system. Irregular appetite and general malaise, lack of interest in play are sure signs of worms. Believe your child of this burden. At all druggists, 25c.

Why Pay the Peddler or Canvasser Twice These Prices?

You can save a good deal of money by buying your stock tonic at this store, instead of paying the peddler big, fancy prices for goods of unknown quality. Look at these prices for that old reliable and guaranteed stock conditioner and worm expeller—

DR. HESS STOCK TONIC
25 pound pail costs $2.00
100 lb. drum costs $6.50

Remember, we have no peddler's wagon and horses' expenses to pay. That's why we can sell you Dr. Hess Stock Tonic at these rock-bottom prices.

Here is another point, Mr. Farmer, we want to emphasize, that is: Dr. Hess Stock Tonic is highly concentrated; it goes farther, as the small dose quantity proves. Dr. Hess Stock Tonic is to put your animals in a thriving condition, make the milking easy and healthy and expel the worms—otherwise you get your money back right here at our store. We also handle

Dr. Hess Dip and Disinfectant
Dr. Hess Poultry Pan-a-see
Dr. Hess Instant Louse Killer
