UNITED IN THE HOLY BONDS OF MATRIMONY

Remmel-Bath

On last Tuesday, June 12th at 9 o'clock in the morning, occurred the marriage of Miss Lorene Remmel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Remmel, and Louis Bath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bath, both of this village, at the Holy Trinity church, Rev. Ph. Vogt pronouncing the words which made them man and wife. Miss Lorene Remmel, a cousin of the bride, acted as maid of honor, and was attired in a gown of pink crepe de chine, wearing a corsage bouquet of sweet peas. Miss Marie Herman of Milwaukee, a cousin of the groom was bridesmaid, and wore a white crepe de chine gown and corsage bouquet of sweet peas. Matt Remmel of Milwaukee, a cousin of the bride, was best man and Gregory Harter, also a cousin of the bride, was groomsmen. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white crepe de chine and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. After the ceremony at the church the bridal party partook of a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nic. Remmel, and is very well known and popular among her large circle of acquaintances. The groom is well liked and industrious and is employed in the machine shop of Mr. Remmel. The young couple will make their home in the village. The Statesman and the many friends of the contracting parties extend heartiest congratulations and well wishes for a happy and prosperous future.

Seefeldt-Redilus

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Ev. Luth. St. Lucas church last week Saturday, June 9th, 1917, when Rev. Greve united in holy bonds of matrimony Miss Emma Seefeldt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Seefeldt, of the town of Kewaskum, and Frank Redilus of Hartford. The bride, dressed in white silk crepe de chine trimmed with silver lace and netting, carrying a bouquet of roses and ferns, was attended by Miss Lillie Seefeldt, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Misses Frieda Redilus, sister of the groom and Lena Seefeldt, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids. The maid of honor was gowned in a pink tussel silk and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. The bridesmaids wore pink and light blue silk dresses and carried white and pink carnations. The groom was best man and Louis Seefeldt and Erwin Ramthan acted as ushers. After the ceremony the young couple, together with about 100 invited guests repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where the occasion was celebrated. The house was prettily decorated with white and pink crepe paper and lilacs, with a wedding bell in the center of the dining room. The newly weds will go to house-keeping at Hartford, where the groom has employment, and will be at home to their many friends June 14.

Wick-Welzien

Holy Angel's Catholic church, West Bend was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday morning, June 12th, at 10 o'clock, when Miss Rose C. Wick, of the town of West Bend and Mr. Joseph Welzien of this village were united in the bonds of matrimony by Rev. P. J. Stupfel. The bride was attended by Miss Ottile Wick and Adella C. Wepke, while Fred Wick and to Mrs. act as groomsmen. After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, just east of West Bend, at which only the nearest relatives were present.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wick. She is an accomplished young lady and will no doubt make a model housewife. The groom is the proprietor of the former Gas Guth barber shop here. He has gained a large number of friends since he has been among us, who all wish the young couple a bright and happy future. They will go to house-keeping in the rooms above the Statesman office, formerly occupied by Geo. H. Schmidt and family.

PRICE OF LEGALS INCREASED

In conformity with all papers published in the state, the Statesman will increase the rates on all legal publication matter on and after June 1, 1917, to comply with the increase recently granted by the Wisconsin legislature. The new prices to be charged will be 75 per cent for the first insertion and 50 cents per cent for each subsequent insertion. The old rates were 60 cents per folio and 35 cents per folio.

Signed,

KEWASKUM STATESMAN

LIBERTY LOAN IS PRICE OF PEACE

We are in this war and we can't get out of it without getting beaten badly or winning conclusively. It is a finish fight.

When a nation goes into a finish fight with the tremendously powerful Central European powers it means to win or losing, to pay the war debts of a victorious Germany.

A nice mess we will be in should the submarine starve out England, should Russia conclude a separate peace and release a million million veterans from the western front, and should France, thus exposed, utterly collapse. The Central powers would then release France and England and our crushed trade only on condition that the United States raise huge levies as war indemnities to pay Germany's debts.

It doesn't matter how this situation came about. The thing now to do is to prevent a terrible misadventure from overtaking us. Americans want peace. We can have peace now only in one of two ways, by victory or by defeat.

We have to pay huge sums as the price of peace. We will pay these sums to ourselves in the form of national loans, or we will pay them to the Central powers in the form of war levies in case our allies are defeated and our trade is posted for redemption only on Germany's terms.

When we start out to war with the ruthless militarism of Germany we had better not start out empty-handed. Every man, woman and child in the United States has a formidable enemy confronting him or her, a ruthless enemy whose path we have crossed. He is trained, efficient, experienced, desperate and vastly powerful. It is going to take every dollar we can spare to defeat this Dragon.

The American who desires to lie down after having invited Germany to crush him will best do so by avoiding the obligation to subscribe to the Liberty Loan. In this way he can see to it that our soldiers shall lack food, clothing, equipment and ammunition to just that degree. In this way he can ensure the stagnation of domestic industry in Germany. In this way he can undermine the prestige of the United States and of government by democracy for which this nation stands.

What American wishes himself labeled? None. It is the subscriber of every month to invest $50 or $100 or 500 dollars in a Liberty Loan bond, a readily convertible bond, a first mortgage on the United States, and to pay for it out of his additional savings. Subscribe for every month. Have your wife subscribe for one. Teach your sons thrift by buying one for them.

All roads lead to Barton on Sunday, for on that date the people of our neighboring village will be lost to about five hundred uniformed volunteer firemen, members of the Badger State Volunteer Firemen's association. Eight companies of firemen will attend and over $100 will be awarded in cash prizes. Races will start promptly at 10 o'clock a. m., to be followed by dinner at the visiting companies' headquarters. A monster parade will be held at 1 o'clock. This will be followed by dancing in two halls, free platform performances and carnival attractions by the Leidman & Pollie Greater Shows. There will be something doing every minute, so be sure to swing into the romantic little village on Sunday June 17. Saturday will be known as "carnival day" and no end of fun is assured all who come. There will be dancing in two halls in the evening. Everybody is invited.

Moves to This Village
S. Moses, who for the past several years has been buying scrap iron in this village, has decided to make Kewaskum his permanent home. He this week moved his family and household furniture from Sheboygan to this place, in the home of Mrs. Fred Andrus Sr., residence on North Fond du Lac Ave. Mr. Moses came to this village a few years ago, a perfect stranger, and has since then built up a good business, which success, no doubt accounts for his decision in making this village his future home. We welcome Mr. Moses and family to our hamlet, and wish him continued success. Anyone having various kinds of scrap iron to sell kindly leave their orders at his home or phone No. 1019.

Receives Appointment
Gust Benke, of this city, received the appointment last night as alderman to fill the unexpired term of William Radke, resigned. He will take part in the first next regular meeting of the council. Gust, who has been alderman once before, as well as sheriff of the county and had ought to make a very capable city official. He has lived here practically all his life and therefore should be fully conversant with the wants of this thriving little city—Hartford Times.

BELOW ARE GIVEN PARTS OF THE VARIOUS ESSAYS OF THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1917

Following is a synopsis of the various parts of the program rendered by the graduating class of the local high school at the Opera House last week Wednesday evening:

Presidents Address by Harry Schaefer: "Classmates, Students and Friends: The Class of 1917 greets you all, and welcomes you this evening to our Commencement exercises.

We as a class feel thankful to the state which has provided a means by which we could obtain an education. We also appreciate the work and sacrifice of our parents, the advice and guidance of our teachers. To the school board we return thanks for the means they have provided, such as book and apparatus.

We have learned during our four years of high school life that work wins and that in order to be successful, we must put forth our best efforts, and concentrate all our thoughts upon the chosen task. We have obtained much knowledge from our course that will aid us in our future trials of life. Our aims and ideals are higher and we feel that by reason of what we have done here, we shall be more useful citizens.

We get some idea of the importance of transportation, if all steamships, railroads and automobiles would cease to operate for a short time of several days. What would happen? The cities would not get their supply of food, coal and other factors necessary for maintenance of life. Consider all the people that merely are dependent on transportation. This operation would stop, life would again return to the primitive stage. The old ways of transportation would have to be produced, no advancement would be made, everything would be a stand still. One can thank our ancestors for our condition of life.

Class Will, Louis Opgenorth. With the motto, "It is more blessed to give than to receive" in our minds we the class of 1917 here in your presence assembled on this night, our last night as students of the Kewaskum High School, bequeath to the under graduates articles as we deem to be of material and spiritual assistance in the onward march to their commencement. We realize fully that our gifts can never, in any sense measure up to the magnitude of all we have acquired during our high school days, but we, in the spirit of helpfulness, mean to leave to those still living in this old world of things, gifts that will make them kindly recall their association with us who will have gone outward into the school of life and who are no longer their fellow students as we have been during the short years past.

Salutatory by Hilda Quandt "On this day the sixth of June, a day long to linger in the memory of the class of 1917, we bid you parents and friends all a most cordial and hearty welcome.

Like our forefathers have tread rugged paths in the wilderness breaking narrow toilsome trails and at last receiving their reward. The accomplishment of their aim so we to have trodden the trail of our goal which we have reached tonight. Though it hasted us a four long, yet pleasurable years of striving was not in vain. Although we must now put aside memories and the fading scenes behind us, a message of hope will always be recalled as a source of comfort and pleasure whatever the future may have in store for us. All the smaller burdens of our school life which have successfully gone by will doubtless be followed by greater burdens in the path, called life."

Probably we will live to see the time when things will be done according to Thomas Edison ideas. He is of the opinion that coal should be used to generate electricity by power houses situated at the mines. Edison claims that steam engines, dynamo and wire conductors can transform the heat of coal to electricity and deliver it thousands of miles away at a fraction of the present cost of freight. All the work of heating and propelling machinery now done by coal, may be done by coal generated electricity at a smaller cost and a greater convenience. The state of Wisconsin will probably lead all other states in electrical developments because of the advantages in getting power from natural resources. It is claimed that there is enough water power in Wisconsin to run all the railroads and other machines electrically.

Class Prophecy by Aug. Bilgo. "I had taken home a copy of Scientific American because it contained a very interesting article on the submarine. It has always been my ambition to see one of these wonderful boats in operation and to take a trip in one would surely be the greatest pleasure imaginable to me. So after I had prepared my lessons for the next day, I picked up my Scientific American and settled down comfortably for an evening's reading, about the great 'Boats of the World'.

Outside the wind was moaning dismally through the trees, while ever and anon a creaking board or rattling window pane told of a stormy and disagreeable day. The weather was getting on the clock on my desk ticked toward the hour of midnight. I read and read about the mechanism of one of these little submarine plungers until I was quite sure that I had fairly good idea of how they were operated. I was just wondering which lever I would operate next and what the results of that movement would mean when the desk chairs and furniture of the room in which I sat began to whirl and creak and change in appearances and I felt a terrible sinking sensation come over me. Have you ever gone down with?

Classmates: Tonight we have assembled for the last time as a class after tonight we shall enter the world as individuals. During our high school years we have depended on our teachers to solve the difficulties too hard for us, now we are ordered to advance.

Our life work lies before us. We have chosen as our class colors, gold and green. Gold is symbolic of the past, the present and the future of our class. The past years were truly golden years and the recollection of the happy days that we have spent together will ever brighten our pathway. The gloom of the present sadness is dispelled by a golden glow on the sky of the future. As the future beckons us on, let us follow with undaunted courage. Gold is a precious metal. It stands for everything that is beautiful, good and true. Green is the color of life and vitality. It also signifies hope. Let us press with confidence and hopeful promise into the future, ever mindful of our class colors Gold and Green. During these four years we have learned to know and value one another. We have shared our pleasures and sorrows. Tonight our farewells must be spoken. We are drawn together now as we never have before and the last handshake has a new thrill in it. We have long been fellow students together. Let us not cease to be fellow students as we go out to our work. The moment of parting has come. No amount of experience can make parting painless, nor yet give us words for what we have felt, and from least to heart let there be breathed a silent, last farewell.

Probably we will live to see the time when things will be done according to Thomas Edison ideas. He is of the opinion that coal should be used to generate electricity by power houses situated at the mines. Edison claims that steam engines, dynamo and wire conductors can transform the heat of coal to electricity and deliver it thousands of miles away at a fraction of the present cost of freight. DOROTHY DALTON IN "THE JUNGLE CHILD"

A girl of Spanish parentage, lost while a child in the jungles of Brazil, during an exploration expedition is reared by an old woman of a half civilized tribe of Indians. She grows up to be a woman of superhuman strength. This Amazon later falls in love with a miscreant doctor who learns of the girl's antecedents and the great wealth awaiting her. His marriage to the Amazon, her education, the doctor's perjury and punishment, form the basis of a stirring denouement.

Nusz-Backhaus
After the close of the quiet morning service, the Lutheran church at Waldo was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Sunday, June 10th, at high noon.

When Miss Amanda C. Nusz, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malinda Nusz and Reinhard J. Backhaus, oldest son of Mrs. C. Backhaus were united in the bonds of matrimony. With soft strains of music by Mrs. Halboth throughout the ceremony the solemn words were spoken by Rev. Halboth, which united for life two of the most popular young people of Waldo. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Amanda Klein, as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Ella Wolf, cousin of the groom and Miss Malinda Weber, cousin of the bride. The best man was Emil Backhaus, while Wm. Nusz Jr. and Oscar Backhaus acted as groomsmen. The bride is a pretty, young lady and was becomingly attired in white crepe de chine with a white shadow lace and pearls from which fell a bridal veil caught with natural orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and swansons. The maid of honor wore a peach green voile dress and carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations. The groom and his attendants wore blue serge suits. After the services at the church, the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride, where a four course dinner was served. The parlor and dining room were tastefully decorated with crepe paper and cut flowers, the color scheme being green and white. The young couple will reside one mile south of Waldo on the homestead where the groom and his brothers are working the 160 acre farm of their mother. They will be at home to their friends after July 1st. May a happy future await them, is the wish of their many friends. Those from away who attended the wedding was Ella Wolf of Cecil.

CARD OF THANKS
I, the undersigned, desire to express my sincere thanks to all those who so willingly assisted me during the illness, death and burial of my beloved wife, Mrs. Anna Klockenbush, for the many floral offerings to the pall bearers, for Rev. Falbisoner for his kind words of consolation and to all those who showed their last respect by attending the funeral.
Lorenz Klockenbush.

MANY ANSWER THE FINAL SUMMONS

Mrs. Anna Klockenbush
On last week Saturday, June 9, 1917, the angel of death called away Mrs. Anna Maria Klockenbush, who after a lingering illness of two months duration with Bright's disease, died at her home at St. Killian.

Deceased was born January 1st, 1855, on a farm 2 1/2 miles west of St. Killian. She was married to Lorenz Klockenbush, on May 5th, 1877, shortly after their marriage they made their home on a farm where she lived up to the time of her death.

Mrs. Klockenbush leaves to mourn her loss her grief stricken husband, three brothers and two sisters, namely: Killian, Philipp and And. Strobel, Mrs. Gottlieb Berg and Mrs. Kathryn Beisler. Mrs. Klockenbush was a lady of good character, one who had won many friends, who held her in high esteem and respect.

The funeral was held Tuesday at 10 a. m., with services in the St. Killian Church. Interment was made in the congregation's cemetery. Rev. F. Falbisoner officiating. Her many friends extend heartfelt sympathy to the surviving relatives.

The pall bearers were, Joe Berg of Ashford, And. Strachota, Lorenz Strobel, Leo Strobel, Albert German and Philip Beisler.
Those who attended the funeral from afar were: Mrs. John Altenlofen of Milwaukee, Mrs. John Weber of Kenosha, Wis., Mrs. Roy Spuler and Philip Strobel Jr., of Hartford, Miss Angela Beisler of Evanston, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Strobel, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kaas and Mrs. Frank Kaas and Mrs. Frank Kaas of New Paine, Killian Strobel and wife of Eden, and a large number from Kewaskum, Campbellsport, Ashford, Lomira, Theresa and Wayne.

Magdalen Reindl
Magdalena Reindl passed away in death, last week Saturday, at 5 a. m., at the home of her sister Mrs. Anna Wagner at St. Killian. Cause of her death being a stroke of paralysis.
Deceased was born on November 2, 1842, in Germany. She immigrated to America in the year 1856 and settled on a farm in the town of Wayne, where she resided up to several years ago when she made her home with her sister at St. Killian.

Magdalen Reindl leaves to mourn one sister Mrs. Anna Wagner and one brother, Wenzel Reindl.
Deceased was a kind neighbor, a true christian and had a host of friends by whom she was well liked.
The funeral was held Monday at 10 a. m., with services in the St. Killian church. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery, Rev. F. Falbisoner officiating.
Her friends extend heartfelt sympathy to the surviving relatives.

The pall bearers were Killian Strobel, H. Strobel, Roy Boegel, Wm. Weiland, And. Flasch and Jacob Felix.
Joseph Nicholas Mayer.
Last Wednesday evening, the Angel of Death, entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Mayer, of the village, and took therefrom the tender life of their little son, Joseph Nicholas. Although the little one had only reached the age of one month and thirteen days, he had endeared himself to his parents and all who had known him. (For some time the child had been suffering with spinal meningitis.) The funeral will be held today, Saturday, at 10 o'clock from the Holy Trinity church with interment in the Catholic cemetery. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in this their hour of sadness.

Another little lamb has gone. To dwell with Him who gave us. Another little darling baby. Is sheltered in the grave. God needed one more angel child. Amidst His shining band. And so He bent with loving smile. And clasped our darling's hand.

MAY PASS ARMORY BILL OVER VETO

Senator Wilcox Believes Sentiment Strong for the Measure. Governor Declares Buildings Are Not Needed in Time of War and Will Deprive State of Valuable Workmen.

Madison—In spite of Governor Philipp's veto Senator Roy P. Wilcox of Eau Claire believes that the sentiment throughout the state in favor of the Wilcox armory bill is sufficient to pass the measure of the veto in the senate and possibly in the house. The armory bill provides for an expenditure of not to exceed $50,000 annually in the construction of armories.

The cities must donate a free site and pay one-half of the cost of construction, but in no case shall the cost of construction appropriated by the state exceed $17,500 to any one city. Governor Philipp claims that the real necessity for armories in time of war is less than in time of peace.

"For the state to employ labor in building armories," continues the governor, "or other buildings, when it is so badly needed in raising and harvesting food products, manufacturing munitions, and in other lines of production, made imperative by the war, is, in my judgment, not only poor public policy, but also directly contrary to the policy so far pursued by the state to stimulate production."

The governor points out that building materials are higher at the present time than at the time he was inaugurated as governor. In conclusion, the governor says: "For the reason that this bill would add to the burden of the taxpayers a sum for military purposes not absolutely necessary at a time when he will be called upon to contribute for war purposes to the limit of his ability to pay; that it would take men from the field of active production where they are so sorely needed at the present time, and that in addition it would compel the state to purchase material for the construction of buildings at a time when the cost thereof is far above normal prices, I feel that I cannot give this bill my approval."

Encroachment was given to the Reimbursement bill empowering the railroad commission to establish grade and street crossings looking to future separation in the city of Milwaukee. The Whittingham bill providing for reclamation of cutover lands was engrossed. Final passage was given to the assembly amendment to the Huber bill empowering school districts to hold more than one special meeting annually.

New Lunch Bill. The senate has already passed a new bill to take the place of the measure to give free lunches for school children vetoed by the governor. The new measure is fathered by Senator Bray. It obviates the executive's objections. It is statewide in application and will come up in the house the latter part of this week. The new bill provides that the board of education of any city, however organized, or the district board of any school district may provide lunches for children attending the public schools at a price to cover the cost of the food, provided that indigent children or children of poor parents may receive such lunches at such price and under such conditions as the board of education or the district board may determine.

The creation of a special legislative committee to make inquiry during the legislative interim into the marketing question is proposed in a joint resolution. With legislative committees proposed on taxation, social insurance and grade reduction questions, this resolution, if adopted, will make four special legislative committees sitting during the legislative interim. Senator Skogmo is the author of the marketing committee resolution.

Counties Get Emergency Men. Four more counties will have emergency food agents. These are M. H. Scott for Manitowish county, A. C. Oosterhuis for Sheboygan county, J. L. Torrey for Iowa county and A. H. Alberts for Washburn county.

Mr. Scott came originally from Iowa and is a practical stockman. Mr. Oosterhuis is a native of Wisconsin and a member of the animal husbandry department of the university for several years. Iowa county's food agent, J. L. Torrey, is well known as the secretary of the Wisconsin Shorthorn Breeders' association.

Less than fifteen counties of the state are now without specialists to aid their county defense councils in pushing vigorous food-producing programs. Would Change Date. Senator Wilkinson has introduced a new bill providing that the standard fire insurance policy law enacted by the present session of the legislature shall not become effective until January 1, 1918. The bill as originally passed provided that it should go into effect July 1, 1917. Owing to the fact that the New York legislature has passed a similar law to take effect January 1, 1918, Commissioner Cleary deemed it expedient to delay the time when the Wisconsin standard fire policy shall become effective and a bill to make this change will be passed.

MAY PASS ARMORY BILL OVER VETO

Senator Wilcox Believes Sentiment Strong for the Measure. Governor Declares Buildings Are Not Needed in Time of War and Will Deprive State of Valuable Workmen.

PHILIPP GIVES HIS REASONS

Madison—In spite of Governor Philipp's veto Senator Roy P. Wilcox of Eau Claire believes that the sentiment throughout the state in favor of the Wilcox armory bill is sufficient to pass the measure of the veto in the senate and possibly in the house. The armory bill provides for an expenditure of not to exceed $50,000 annually in the construction of armories.

The cities must donate a free site and pay one-half of the cost of construction, but in no case shall the cost of construction appropriated by the state exceed $17,500 to any one city. Governor Philipp claims that the real necessity for armories in time of war is less than in time of peace.

RECONSIDERS AMENDMENT

The assembly reconsidered the vote by which it concurred in the Skogmo amendment to the Everett bill which creates a workmen's compensation insurance board, and by a vote of 34 to 23 killed the amendment. The bill now goes back to the senate and probably will go to a conference. The measure is one of the most important of the session and involves one of the planks in the Republican platform in the last state campaign.

The following bills were passed: The Hansen bill relating to boards of police and fire commissioners in cities of the second, third and fourth classes; the Otto bill relating to the distribution of railroad maps; the Otto bill giving cities in counties having a population of 250,000 or over the right to set aside certain territory for residence, business and factory districts; the Kent bill relating to the widening of streets and the Benney bill relating to mortgages.

The committee bill relating to children employed in street trades, which applied to cities of the second class, was killed. The Perry resolution to amend the constitution to remove limitations on the length of terms of county superintendents of schools was sent to a third reading.

The assembly killed the Anderson resolution providing for daily sessions, because of the statement that the "promise of a short and businesslike session had not been fulfilled."

Would Alter School Rule. The senate has voted to change the organization and supervision of the industrial board of education which has charge of the continuation and evening schools of the state.

After a determined fight the senate by a vote of 15 to 13 rejected the Albers substitute regarded as a compromise measure. The Albers substitute provided that industrial education should be under the supervision of the state board of education and officials belonging to the state superintendent's office. The Bray substitute which was adopted provides for the creation of a new board of nine members, to be appointed by the governor, three to be employers, three to be employees, and three to be practical farmers. The ex-officio members will be the state superintendent and a member of the industrial commission. State Superintendent Cary is opposed to the bill which was adopted in the senate, and will issue a statement to the public against the measure before it comes up for consideration in the assembly.

By a vote of 18 to 7 the senate rejected the Bray amendment for the state fair appropriation bill. This amendment would have continued the fair during war time. The bill as passed carried an appropriation of $125,000 annually for the operation of the fair.

After a long debate the assembly concurred in the senate bill appropriating $381,110 annually for university extension, and $25,000 annually for work to be called for by the state council of defense. The latter work occasioned considerable debate and an amendment was finally incorporated providing that $20,000 of the money can be used for no other purpose than work called for by the state council of defense.

The assembly agreed to the senate amendment which retained the appropriation of $5,000 for the teaching of Hellenistic Greek and the Semitic languages at the university and released from its position. This university bill, which is one of the largest appropriation measures at every session, now goes to the governor.

The joint committee on finance has introduced in the senate nine bills appropriating $735,515 for lands and buildings for the university, state normal schools and charitable and penal institutions.

Fight on Fair Bill Amendment. There will be a fight to prevent the passage of the amendment which has been proposed by Senator Bray to the state fair appropriation bill for the suspension of the state fair while the war continues.

Several senators will take the floor and protest vigorously that the war should not make any difference with such functions as a state fair.

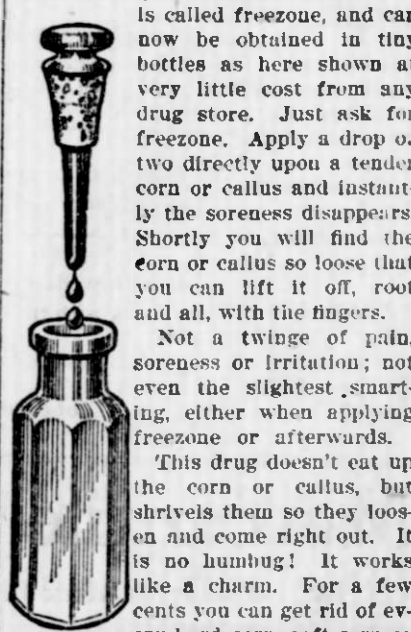

Patriotic women of Wisconsin accomplished more in a few hours on Tuesday (registration day) than the legislature of Wisconsin has been able to accomplish in two months. These women distributed upwards of 150,000 copies of President Wilson's war message at the polls. Every man who registered was given a copy of the war message. Since early in April the Wisconsin legislature has been attempting to agree on a bill to print 100,000 copies of the message.

Meantime Mrs. H. H. Morgan, the woman member of the Wisconsin council of defense, got busy. Through her interest a wealthy Chicago woman agreed to pay for the printing of 150,000 copies. On Tuesday, when the men went to the polls to register under the draft, they found the women of the state co-operating with Mrs. Morgan, distributing the copies. While the legislature delayed, women had accomplished the work.

Increases State Board. The senate, after hours of debate, engrossed the Staudenmeyer substitute to the central board of education bill. This increases the membership on the state board of education to nine members, one of whom shall be a woman. Power of the board is limited to making the educational budget and to present it to the legislature and passing on the necessity for new buildings at institutions. The bill of Mr. Burnett permitting exchange of newspaper advertising for railroad mileage was concurred in by the senate. The argument over this bill was prolonged.

PAIN? NOT A BIT! LIFT YOUR CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF. No humbug! Apply few drops then just lift them away with fingers.

This new drug is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. It is called freezeone, and can now be obtained in tiny bottles as here shown at very little cost from any drug store. Just ask for freezeone. Apply a drop or two directly upon a tender corn or callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off, root and all, with the fingers.

Not a twinge of pain, soreness or irritation; not even the slightest smarting, either when applying freezeone or afterwards. This drug doesn't eat up the corn or callus, but shrives them so they loosen and come right out. It is no humbug! It works like a charm. For a few cents you can get rid of every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses or bottom of your feet. It never disappoints and never burns, bites or inflames. If your druggist hasn't any freezeone yet, tell him to get a little bottle for you from his wholesale house.—adv.

A Woman's Opportunity

The complexion of Wall street's big organization that works from nine to five is slowly changing as men after men drop out to take up military service. The inroads which have already been made in staffs of the big banking institutions are not serious, but the prospect of losing many more employees in the next few weeks or months is being discussed by employers, and it is the general view that most of the vacancies must be filled by women, says a New York news letter. One of the largest national banks has lost 50 men to Plattsburg and Madison, has 75 more who are in militia organizations, and who will soon leave, and has 400 who are liable to conscription. A prominent trust company has lost upward of 100 men, including the senior vice president, and expects the total to be more than 300 before the end of the year. Plans are being made to fill many departments with girls, who have been found more satisfactory than men in work that is much the same day after day.

Cheaper Than Potatoes.

Carl J. Carter, prosecuting attorney of Bartholomew county, passed a delivery truck from a grocery. In the rear of the truck were a half-dozen oil cans and on the end of each spout was a gumdrop. "What's the idea?" Carter asked the man in charge. "Gumdrops are cheaper than potatoes," he replied.—Indianapolis News.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable. The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Time to Get Rid of Them. "Taking any high-school boys from the city to work on your farm, Farmer Comtassel?" "Yes, I think I kiaz git my money's worth out of 'em, providin' I git rid of 'em before the apples begin ter git ripe."

CULTIVATE! CULTIVATE! Produce More Food. But at the Lowest Cost.

A trip through most of the grain growing districts of Western Canada, and information received from authentic sources, reveals that the spring seeding of wheat, barley and oats is finished and the grain is having a most rapid growth. Men of farming experience here say that the conditions are similar to those years when there was an abundant harvest reaped. During the past year a number of new settlers came into the country, and they will undoubtedly have a good crop this year. This added to the normal acreage, made considerably less by the lack of labor owing to the number who have gone to the front, will give a fair general yield. It is surprising the growth that this country is capable of producing.

Wheat has this spring germinated and shown three or four inches growth in five or six days, and with anything like favorable weather, harvesting should commence about the 15th of August, or a little over one hundred days from first seeding. Hundreds of farmers throughout this vast country paid for their entire holdings out of one year's crop and it would not be surprising if the same experience met a great many more this year.

The best authorities on the wheat situation give it as their opinion that for many years to come, wheat prices will be high. They base their opinion on a scientific calculation and their reasoning seems to be sound. Anyway, it is quite evident that for some years to come, the producer of wheat will be amply rewarded for any effort he may make to develop this branch of agricultural industry. Money may be made on the high-priced lands of the wheat-growing districts of the United States, but it is a question if these high-priced lands would not be more profitably employed in other branches of farming than in growing the smaller grains, leaving it to lands just as productive for wheat, less expensive to operate, and with a much smaller initial price, to provide the world with this necessity of life. Here is where Western Canada, with its vast rich fertile plains, its low railway rates, its exceptionally good shipping privileges, its excellent climate, and its perfect social conditions, has a combination of advantages not possessed by any other portion of the continent.

Furthermore, these lands, of unequalled quality, are extraordinarily cheap, which fact alone would not cure to undertake farming on so extensive a scale there is the free homestead which offers him all the opportunity for which he is looking. The prospective purchaser will have no difficulty at all in making a selection of a fine piece of land, well located and convenient to transportation, which may be had for from $15 to $25 an acre, and the railway companies or other holders of large tracts are always glad to sell on easy terms. Or if he desires a farm that is already under cultivation and improved, many such are to be had from farmers who already have made comfortable fortunes and are ready to retire. It is not to the grain grower only that Western Canada offers great opportunities. If one wishes to go in for cattle raising, there are great stretches of range land both free and for lease; and in many sections of the country there are the finest of grazing lands that may be purchased at very low prices. The appeal which has been sent out both by the United States and Canadian governments, for an unstated, unlimited production of food stuffs to prevent what might otherwise be a famine throughout this great continent—and then consequently, throughout the world—should in itself arouse all the ambition and desire in the heart and soul of the man who is not fighting at the front, to produce all he can. In addition, there is the potent fact that no chances are being taken in answering the appeal. Take it from either standpoint you answer the country's call, although not fighting, and you are also insured against any loss by the high prices that are bound to exist for some time. Whether it be in the United States on its excellent grain lands or in Canada on its splendid grain lands, all should do their best.—Advertisement.

Daniel Schied Dies
Daniel Schied, who after a short illness with appendicitis and kidney trouble, on last week Saturday, June 9, at 5 a. m. answered the final call from the angel of death at the St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, to which place he had been removed shortly after he was taken sick.
Deceased was born on March 25, 1867, in the town of Ashford, where he resided up to the time of his death. On June 4th, 1889, Mr. Schied was united in marriage to Miss Kathryn Bremser. This union was blessed with three children, all of whom together with their mother survive, and whose names are Charles and Michael at home, and Anna, Mrs. Wm. C. Backhaus, residing in the town of Kewaskum. Besides these he leaves to mourn his untimely death, three brothers, Joe, Peter and John, two sisters, Mrs. Mike Gantenbein, all residing in the town of Ashford, and Mrs. John Tischer of Black Creek and two grand children.
Mr. Schied was a strong, diligent man, a very thoughtful about his family, a hard worker and a true friend, always ready to help those in need, he never complained over hardships that at times crept into the pages of his life's career.
The funeral, which was largely attended, was held on Tuesday, June 12, with services in the German Reformed church at Wayne. Interment was made in the congregation's cemetery. Rev. Castlos officiating.
Mrs. Schied joins his countless friends in extending heartfelt sympathy to the surviving relatives.

CARD OF THANKS.
We, the undersigned desire to express our sincere thanks to all those who so willingly assisted us during our recent bereavement, the illness, death and burial of our beloved husband and father, Daniel Schied, for the beautiful floral offerings, for the pall bearers and especially to the Rev. Castlos for his kind words of consolation, to the M. W. A. for their words of sympathy, and to all those who showed their last respect by attending the funeral.
Mrs. Daniel Schied and children.

EXPENSIVE PASTURE.
(National Crop Improvement Service.)
When you stop to consider that an acre of pasture will feed a cow, but that same acre will raise ten tons of silage during the time the cow is feeding on it, it would seem that a grass cafeteria would be the most expensive way to feed your stock.

MORE FEED, MORE MILK.
(National Crop Improvement Service.)
Cows of a decided dairy type will return the greatest profit when fed to their full capacity.—Nebraska Experiment Station.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)
Ordinarily, silage will correct the tendency to costiveness. When it is not sufficiently effective for this purpose, add enough old process oil meal to keep the droppings moderately soft, but not necessarily loose. Usually all that is needed is to increase the allowance of concentrates.

There are always two sides to every question. If the government insists on more bran in flour, bossy will have to turn to still more artificial bran.

Wheat bran is a dear feed. Barley and rye by-products are more economical.

Poverty holds a mortgage on the feeder who can see nothing but the price. Some feeds are as cheap as $50 as other at $25 per ton.

When you buy hay for cows it usually costs more than grain by-products, although it costs half as much per ton.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)
It is a fair assumption that any farmer who talks against mixed feeds does not know what a mixed feed ought to be. There is no danger of any man buying a fraudulent feed. The state laws are very stringent on this point and if any man has any doubt as to the value of a feed, all he has to do is to write his State Experiment Station and get the truth.

The Average Way.
One trouble with the country is the way so many of our young men feel that there's no chance to get to the top in this era of combination, consolidation and big business, and so contentedly settle down to do as little work as possible.—Ohio State Journal.

THIS SAFELY REMOVES WORMS
Worms are common disease of children and every mother should know their symptoms. Sallow complexion with dark circles under eyes, irregular bowel movement with stomach hard or swollen, grinding teeth or itching mouth mean that Kickapoo Worm Killer is needed at once. It is a mildly laxative remedy in candy tablet form that children like. Kills and removes the worms and lets the child grow strong and healthy. At druggists, 25c.

—According to an opinion just given by Dist. Atty. Harry Sautloff of Dane county, no near beer can be sold in any of the cities, towns or villages going dry the first of next month.

THE EVILS OF CONSTIPATION

Constipation is one of the main reasons why the average human life is below 40 years. Leaving waste material in the body, poisons the system and blood and makes us liable to sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and muddy skin. When you note these symptoms, try Dr. King's New Life Pills. They give prompt relief, are mild non-gripping in action, add tone to your system and clear the complexion. At your druggist, 25c.

KING CONSTANTINE ABDICATES THRONE; SECOND SON RULES

French Troops Land at Athens After Monarch Resigns.

WILL GO TO SWITZERLAND

Brother-in-Law of Kaiser Surrenders Throne as Allies' Envoy Arrives to Demand Concession and Soldiers March into Capital.

Athens, June 13.—King Constantine has abdicated in favor of his second son, Prince Alexander. His abdication was the result of a demand, made by the entente allies.

Premier Zaimis made the announcement of the resignation and designation of his successor. He said also that Constantine and Crown Prince George would leave the country.

May Go to Switzerland. Constantine has expressed the intention of embarking on a British warship and proceeding to Switzerland by way of Italy. Allied troops have occupied Ellassona without resistance. There has been no disorders in Athens up to the present.

Alexander, the new king, was born August 1, 1893. He is a captain in the first regiment of artillery in the Greek army.

Career of Constantine. King Constantine's abdication is the culmination of his quarrel with the entente allies, which stretches back to Turkey's entrance into the great war, and is perhaps the last political act of a royal career marked by a series of ups and downs.

Constantine is believed to be strongly pro-German. He was educated by German tutors at Leipzig and married a Prussian princess, a sister of Kaiser Wilhelm. His entourage is largely pro-German, many of the army officers having been trained in the Teutonic empire.

Constantine's people are, however, divided. A portion, prompted perhaps by loyalty to the crown, have supported the king in his efforts to keep the nation out of the war, or at least not to participate in the conflict on the side of the entente.

Venezelos' Following. A strong party, however, led by the statesman Venezelos, is not only pro-ally but pro-ally.

Effort after effort was made by the entente and the Venezelists to force Constantine to draw his sword against the central powers, especially since the entente troops landed at Saloniki, tardily taking up operations in the Balkans following the collapse of the Gallipoli campaign. But encouraged by his queen and the Teutonic league, he resisted on to see his power wane, his subjects break into revolt and his army locked up in the Peloponnese, where it could not attack the entente forces from the rear, as it was suspected the Germanic court clique had planned to do, particularly after the outbreak last year of the military against the entente expedition occupying Athens.

Since then Constantine has been almost helpless in his realm, entente emissaries keeping sharp eyes on his every move, even going so far as to take over the food distribution of the country, and finally comes his abdication.

Name Significant. Constantine was born in Athens on August 3, 1893, the name Constantine being given him as an indication of the ambitions of the recently liberated nation to extend its sway to include the capital of the Turkish empire, and succeeded his father, George I, on the throne after his parents' assassination at Saloniki in 1913.

King George, a Danish prince, had been placed on the throne largely through the instrumentality of Great Britain. He was a brother of dowager Queen Alexandra and married a Russian princess. Despite the British and Russian influences at court, however, Constantine was sent to Germany to be educated.

The new crown prince first came into prominence at the time of the Greek war with Turkey in the late nineties.

Greece Unprepared. Constantine had tried to prevent the conflict, knowing the Hellenic army to be ill-prepared, but popular clamor brought about the clash.

Greece was disastrously defeated, and it was claimed that Constantine, who was commander of the land forces, showed the white feather at the front.

However, he regained the national favor in the Balkan troubles of 1912, when at the head of 10,000 Greeks, he captured Saloniki, which was defended by 32,000 Turks.

So great was the enthusiasm aroused by this feat that Greeks in America raised several thousand dollars, with which was purchased a gift sword for the prince, inscribed, "To Constantine, the Liberator."

French Occupy Athens. Paris, June 13.—French re-enforcements have been landed in Greece, it was officially announced. French military authorities have taken over control of the food situation in Greece and large bodies of French troops have been moved into Athens.

A dispatch to the Havas agency from Athens says:

"M. Jonnart has had a long conference with Premier Zaimis. He intimated that the entente desired greater security for the army of the east and the re-establishment of unity in the Greek kingdom. He appealed to the patriotism of M. Zaimis to see that these objects were obtained peacefully."

"M. Jonnart announced that military forces had been placed at his disposition to establish control of the Isthmus of Corinth and to maintain order in Athens. These forces were landed Monday without incident."

Jonnart's Failure Hinted. London, June 13.—Belated dispatches from Reuter's correspondent at Athens received in London report a visit by Senator Jonnart of France to Saloniki and indicate he was expected later to visit Athens.

Senator Jonnart represents France, England and Russia as high commissioner of the powers protecting Greece, and the purpose of his trip to Athens, as stated in the dispatches, was to make final diplomatic efforts to establish an understanding with royalist Greece.

The messages seem to show that Greece is now passing through a grave crisis, and the possible failure of Senator Jonnart's mission is hinted at.

A Paris dispatch received on Monday reported the arrival of Senator Jonnart in Athens with plenary authority from the protecting powers of Greece to deal with the situation.

RUSS ROU GERMAN STAFF

Petrograd Declares Batteries Are Active Against Foes on the Western Front.

Petrograd, June 13.—The war office report says the Russian batteries shelled the village of Meerishki on the Russo-Galician front, caused a big fire and put to flight the German military staff quartered there. Enemy supply wagons near the village of Nikovitch were also shelled, causing explosions. The loss of a battle plane southeast of Jacobstadt through artillery fire is mentioned, the aviator being killed, the burning of a captive balloon northeast of Gallez being also reported.

Berlin, July 13.—An attack by German seaplanes on Russian bases in the Baltic is announced by the admiralty. The places shelled were Libau and Arensburg on Bessel island, at the entrance to the Gulf of Riga. Part of the military buildings were wrecked.

DANIELS CHALLENGES CRITICS

Declares Navy Equipment Very Best, and Intimates Disgruntled Fusilier-Marked Report.

Washington, June 13.—A challenge to critics of the navy to prove its equipment is defective was Secretary Daniels' reply to insinuations growing out of the charge that someone has been able to abstract from the department's files important naval secrets. Secretary Daniels particularly defended the fuses now in use on Uncle Sam's warships. He declared they are the best procurable, and have been indorsed by Rear Admirals Twining, Strauss and Earle, who have successively been chief of ordnance. He further intimated that a disgruntled fusilier might have been the man who wrote Senator Frelinghuysen.

FRENCH WAR BILL 20 BILLION

That is Total of Credits up to Third Quarter of 1917, Says Report From Paris.

Paris, June 13.—The French chamber of deputies has already voted 100,000,000 francs ($20,000,000,000) in war credit, according to a report made by Raoul Peret, reporter for the budget committee of the chamber of deputies. This sum includes the credits for the third quarter of 1917 and 7,000,000,000 francs advanced to France's allies.

RUSS WAR MISSION HERE

Commission Sent to the United States Arrives at Pacific Port.

A Pacific Port, June 13.—The Russian war mission to the United States arrived at a Pacific port.

Kaiser Says Break Foe's Will. Amsterdam, June 13.—"We still cling to the one thought with which we are all imbued—and that is to break the enemy's will to war," declared the kaiser in an address to German troops under his son, Prince Eitel Friedrich, according to Berlin dispatches.

SEEK DRAFT DODGERS

U. S. OFFICERS ORDERED TO ARREST MEN WHO FAILED TO REGISTER.

VIOLATORS FACE JAIL TERM

Fifty Members of Farmers and Laborers' Protective Association of Texas Indicted for Conspiracy Against Government.

Washington, June 12.—Orders for the arrest of every man between the ages of twenty-one and thirty inclusive who cannot show a certificate of registration for war service were issued on Monday by the provost marshal general.

A demand that organized labor be represented on the exemption boards that will weed out those selected for the army draft was voiced by Samuel Gompers. He said that unless persons familiar with workers' problems are given places on these boards grave injustice will be done.

The United States today holds almost a million unnaturalized Germans or aliens of countries allied with Germany who are males above twenty-one, according to a census report.

The total number of aliens born in Germany or countries allied with her is 4,652,000, or 4 1/2 per cent of the United States' population.

Actual alien enemies (Germans) number 2,349,000, of whom 1,136,000 are males twenty-one years old.

First Arrest Made at Chicago. Chicago, June 12.—Chicago's first known draft-dodger was arrested and taken before the United States authorities to explain his failure to register. He is Klemen Formiller of 4252 North Kedzie avenue.

Deputies from the office of the United States marshal, officers from the local bureau of the department of justice and city police began stopping on the street men who looked to be between twenty-one and thirty-one years of age.

Where those questioned were of military age and could not show the blue card signifying they had registered, they were arrested and locked up, with the promise that justice will be done speedily.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph B. Fleming said that all most likely would be given a year's sentence in a federal prison and that they then would be automatically registered and impressed into the army.

55 Indicted in Texas. Dallas, Tex., June 12.—Fifty-five white men, members of the Farmers and Laborers' Protective association, were indicted on seven counts by the federal grand jury here for conspiracy against the government. W. A. Bergfeldt, a mail carrier of Haskell, Tex., also was indicted for threatening the life of the president. The protective association was recently broken up by federal officials because it was suspected of opposing the selective draft law.

KILLED IN SINN FEIN RIOT

Arrest of Count Plunkett and Other Leaders Costs Police Inspector His Life.

Dublin, June 12.—Police Inspector Mills was fatally injured while preventing the holding of a meeting called to protest against the imprisonment of Irish rebels. He died soon after. Several Sinn Feiners were arrested.

Lieutenant General Mahon, commander of the British forces in Ireland, had forbidden the holding of the meeting, but in spite of his order 2,000 persons gathered opposite Liberty hall.

Count Plunkett, member of parliament and Sinn Feiner, who was arrested in connection with the revolt of last year; Cathal Brugha, James Kenny, Rory Kelly and Martin Walsh were arrested.

BALFAUR BACK IN LONDON

Foreign Secretary Praises Treatment While on Visit in the United States.

London, June 11.—Foreign Secretary Balfour arrived here after his voyage from America, which, he said, was without incident.

"What was even more pleasant than not seeing a submarine was the fact that the sea was smooth," he said. He is noted as a bad sailor.

Asked about his mission to America, he said: "I was more kindly treated than any man ever was before. I cannot put my appreciation too high. Everything is going splendidly in America."

CHEER UP

QUAKE DESTROYS CITY GEN. PERSHING SAFE

SAN SALVADOR, CAPITAL OF REPUBLIC, IN RUINS.

Towns Within Radius of Thirty Miles Are Wrecked—Volcano Apparently in Eruption.

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua, June 11.—Many lives were lost in the destruction by earthquake of the city of San Salvador and several other towns in Salvador, according to meager advice received here.

San Salvador, the capital of the Republic of Salvador, has a population of more than 60,000.

A dispatch from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, says that in addition to the wiping out of San Salvador, the towns of Quezaltenango, Nejapa, Suchelcho, Palsnal, Arsenios and Kejiancos also were destroyed.

An operator who reached the edge of the destroyed zone reported that San Salvador was in ruins, and that everything within a radius of 30 miles had been destroyed by the earthquake.

From Sanseuntepeque, in north central Salvador, flames were seen rising apparently from a volcano in the neighborhood of San Salvador.

HUGE TASK AHEAD FOR U. S.

Colonel Fabry of French Army Says America Will Send Great Force to France.

Paris, June 9.—A great army is to be sent from the United States, which will occupy an ever-increasing section of the fighting front, according to a statement from Colonel Fabry, printed in the Petit Parisien. Colonel Fabry said that General Pershing, the American commander, will have an arduous task, but that he will have a big army, which will be strengthened from time to time with fresh contingents from the United States. It will be no mere expeditionary corps.

Colonel Fabry accompanied Marshal Joffre to the United States.

BECOMES MILITARY CENSOR

Brig. Gen. Frank McIntyre Assumes Duties as Department Head, Relieving Major McArthur.

Washington, June 9.—Brigadier General McIntyre, chief of the insular bureau of the war department, formally assumed additional duties as chief military censor, relieving Maj. Douglas McArthur of the general staff, an engineer officer who will devote himself hereafter to the regular staff duties to which he was assigned. General McIntyre has been in charge of censorship regulations on the Mexican border, including the scrutiny of telephone and telegraph messages.

ADOPTS FOOD CONTROL BILL

House Committee on Agriculture Agree to Measure With Maximum Price Provision Out.

Washington, June 13.—The administration's food control bill providing for a minimum price for food products, but with provision for a maximum price eliminated was adopted by the house committee on agriculture on Monday. The minimum or guaranteed price provision will be enforced through proclamation which the president may issue in his discretion.

Quake Empties Terni, Italy.

Rome, June 13.—Four violent earthquake shocks caused a panic at Terni. Dispatches received here say considerable damage was done to property. All inhabitants of the town fled to the open fields.

$37,277,500 Day for War.

London, June 13.—England is spending $37,277,500 a day in the war. Bonar Law told the house of commons. Since the beginning of the war Britain has borrowed from the United States $2,300,000,000.

Three Americans Saved.

London, June 12.—Three American survivors from the British steamer Manchester Miller, torpedoed on June 5, have been landed. They are John Hayes, Boston; John Morris, Brooklyn, and Farrell of Philadelphia.

GERMANY MUST UNDO WRONGS IT INFLICTED, ASSERTS PRESIDENT IN NOTE TO RUSSIA.

KAISER PLOTS FOR PEACE

Demands Change in Pre-War Status Quo to Conform With Human Rights—Opposes Indemnities Except as Reparation.

Washington, June 12.—President Wilson in a communication to the new government of Russia has made plain the war aims of the United States and its position on "no annexations, no indemnities." The principal terms on which the United States insist are:

"No territory must change hands except for the purpose of securing those who inhabit it a fair chance of life and liberty."

"No indemnities must be insisted on except those that constitute payment for manifest wrong done."

"No readjustments of power must be made except such as will tend to secure the further peace of the world and the future welfare and happiness of its people."

The president's communication was delivered to the Russian government at Petrograd. It is in part as follows:

"The ruling classes in Germany have begun of late to profess a liberality and justice of purpose, but only to preserve the power they have set up in Germany and the selfish advantages which they have wrongly gained for themselves and their private projects of power all the way from Berlin to Bagdad and beyond."

"Government after government has, by their influence, without open conquest of its territory, been linked together in a net of intrigue directed against nothing less than the peace and liberality of the world. The meshes of that intrigue must be broken."

"The day has come to conquer or submit. If the forces of autocracy can divide us they will overcome us; if we stand together victory is certain, and the liberty which victory will secure. We can afford then to be generous, but we cannot afford then or now to be weak or omit any single guarantee of justice and security."

$3,000,000 BABY IS KILLED

Kidnaped Infant Found Dead in Unused Well in Suburbs of Springfield.

Springfield, Mo., June 12.—The body of "Buddie" Keet, fourteen-months-old heir to a $3,000,000 fortune, was found in an unused well behind the deserted Crenshaw mansion on the edge of the city.

A mob quickly formed to avenge the baby's death, but the authorities were too quick for it. Those under arrest were spirited away to another jail. The prisoners now in the hands of Sheriff Webb are Claude J. Piersol, Taylor B. Adams, Cleus Adams, Maxine Adams, Mrs. Allie Adams and Sam McGinnis.

MEXICANS BLOW UP A TRAIN

Eight Persons Killed; Americans Among the Injured, According to Report.

Laredo, Tex., June 11.—Eight persons were killed, many injured on May 29 when a party of unidentified Mexicans dynamited a passenger train near Uruapan, state of Michoacan, Mexico, according to parties that have arrived here. Among the Americans reported injured were a man named Scarborough, said to be a magazine writer, and H. L. Martin, both of Kansas City.

HEART OF THE SUNSET By REX BEACH Author of "The Spoiler," "The Iron Trail," "The Silver Horde," Etc.

Years of experience had taught him to be always alert, even during his moments of deepest preoccupation, and so, from force of habit, when he came to the pump-house road he carefully scanned it.

Dave looked out of the thicket and straight across the clearing to the Morales house. Leaving Montrosa's reins hanging, he opened the door and entered without knocking.

Rosa was recovering from her first surprise, and now her black brows drew together in anger. "No one has come. You are the first. And have you no manners to stride into a respectable house?"

Dave broke in harshly: "Rosa, you're lying. Jose Sanchez has been here within an hour. Where is he?"

Rosa recoiled, and the breath caught in her throat like a sob. "I'll tell you nothing," she said in a thin voice.

"You know why. He killed Don Eduardo, and then he rode here. Come! I know everything."

"Lies! Lies!" Rosa's voice grew shrill. "Out of this house! I know you. It was you who betrayed Panfilo, and his blood is on your hands, assassin!"

Rosa screamed again; she writhed; she tried to sink her teeth into her captor's flesh.

have been, across the Rio Grande—with Rosa and all her fine clothes, eh? Now you will be hanged. Well, that is how fortune goes."

The horse-breaker tossed his head and shrugged with a brave assumption of indifference; he laughed shortly. "You can prove nothing."

"Yes," continued Dave, "and Rosa will go to prison, too. Now—suppose I should let you go? Would you help me? In ten minutes you could be safe."

He inclined his head toward the muddy, silent river outside. "Would you be willing to help me?"

Jose's brows lifted. "What's this you are saying?" he inquired, eagerly. "I would only ask you a few questions."

"What questions?" "Where is Senora Austin?" Jose's face became blank. "I don't know."

"Oh yes, you do. She started for La Feria. But—did she get there? Or did Longorio have other plans for her?"

"By heaven! You will tell me!" Seizing his prisoner by the throat, he pinned him to the wall; then with his free hand he cocked Longorio's revolver and thrust its muzzle against Jose's body.

"Tell me!" he repeated. His countenance was so distorted, his expression so maniacal, that Jose felt his way had come to a dead end.

For a moment the two men remained so; then Dave seemed to regain control of himself and the murder light flickered out of his eyes.

Jose picked himself up, cursing his captor eloquently. "You gringos don't know how to die," he said. "Death? Pah! We must die some time. And supposing I do know something about the senora, do you think you can force me to speak? Torture wouldn't open my lips."

Law did not trust himself to reply; and the horse-breaker went on with growing defiance: "I am innocent of any crime; therefore I am brave. But you—the blood of innocent men means nothing to you—Panfilo's murder proves that—so complete your work. Make an end of me."

"Be still!" Dave commanded, thickly. But the fellow's hatred was out of bounds now, and by the bitterness of his vituperation he seemed to invite death.

"Will you tell me, or will you force me to wring the truth out of you?" Jose answered by spitting at his captor; then he gritted an unspeakable epithet from between his teeth.

Dave addressed him with an air of finality. "You killed that man and your life is forfeit, so it doesn't make much difference whether I take it or whether the state takes it. You are brave enough to die—most of you Mexicans are—but the state can't force you to speak, eh? Now I reckon it would take more than water to make a Mexican talk."

"Jose was hired for the work; he laid for Ed Austin in the pecan grove and shot him as he passed."

"Hired! Why this hombre needs quick lungin', don't he? I told 'em at Las Palmas that you'd rounded up the guilty party, so I reckon they'll be here in a few minutes. We'll just stretch this horse-wrangler, and save the county some expense." Law shrugged. "Do you like with him, but it isn't necessary. He'll confess in regulation form, I'm sure. I had to work fast to learn what became of Mrs. Austin."

"Miz Austin? What's happened to her?" Dave's voice changed; there was a sudden quickening of his words. "They've got her, Blaze. They waited until they had her safe before they killed Ed."

"Not whisky; water. I'm going to give you a drink of water." "What cupers?"

"When you've drunk enough you'll tell me why you killed your employer and where General Longorio has taken his wife. Yes, and everything else I want to know."

Jose drew his lips back in a snarl of rage and pain, and Dave realized that further words were useless. He felt a certain pity for his victim and no little admiration for his courage, but such feelings were of small consequence as against his agonizing fears for Alaire's safety.

Inside of ten minutes Jose piloted his automobile into the clearing beside the river, and leaving his motor running, leaped from the car.

Dave met him at the door of the Morales house and briefly told him the story of Jose's capture.

"That's quick work," the rancher cried, admiringly. "Why, Ed ain't cold yet! You gave him the water-cure, eh? Now I reckon it would take more than water to make a Mexican talk."

"Jose was hired for the work; he laid for Ed Austin in the pecan grove and shot him as he passed."

"Hired! Why this hombre needs quick lungin', don't he? I told 'em at Las Palmas that you'd rounded up the guilty party, so I reckon they'll be here in a few minutes. We'll just stretch this horse-wrangler, and save the county some expense."

"Do you like with him, but it isn't necessary. He'll confess in regulation form, I'm sure. I had to work fast to learn what became of Mrs. Austin."

"Miz Austin? What's happened to her?" Dave's voice changed; there was a sudden quickening of his words. "They've got her, Blaze. They waited until they had her safe before they killed Ed."

"They? Who are you talkin' about?" "I mean Longorio and his outfit. He's got her over yonder," Dave flung out a trembling hand toward the river.

"Seeing that his hearer failed to comprehend, he explained, swiftly: "He's crazy about her—got one of those Mexican infatuations, you know what that means. He couldn't stand her from Las Palmas—she wouldn't have anything to do with him—so he used that old cattle deal as an excuse to get her across the border. Then he put Ed out of the way. She went of her own accord, and she didn't tell Austin, because they were having trouble. She's gone to La Feria, Blaze."

"La Feria! Then she's in for it." Dave nodded his agreement; for the first time Blaze noted how white and cold was his friend's face.

"Longorio must have foreseen what was coming," Dave went on. "That country's aflame; Americans aren't safe over there. If war is declared, a good many of them will never be heard from. He knows that. He's got her safe. She can't get out."

Blaze was very grave when next he spoke. "Dave, this is bad—bad. I can't understand what made her go. Why, she must have been out of her head. But we've got to do something. We've got to burn the wires to Washington—yes, and to Mexico City. We must get the government to send soldiers after her. What have we got 'em for, anyhow?"

"Washington won't do anything. What can be done when there are thousands of American women in the same danger? What steps can the government take with diplomatic relations suspended? Those grocers are filling their jails with our people—rounding 'em up for the day of the big break. No, Longorio saw it all coming—he's no fool. He's got her; she's in there—trapped."

"But human nature is weak. For the first time in his life Jose Sanchez felt terror—a terror too awful to be endured—and he made the sign."

He was no longer the insolent defier, the challenger, but an imploring wretch, whose last powers of resistance had been completely shattered. His frightened eyes were glued to that devilish vessel in which his manhood had dissolved, the fear of it made a woman of him.

BROKE GERMAN LINE

Details of Important Allied Victory Before Ypres.

OLD SCORE IS WIPED OUT

Capture of Messines Ridges Peculiarly Gratifying, as It Was the Scene of Former British Defeat—Defenses Shattered.

With the British Armies in France. June 7.—In one of the most elaborately planned and daringly executed maneuvers of the war Sir Douglas Haig's forces have dealt a mighty blow against the German line in Belgium, and been rewarded with notable gains in terrain and the capture of more than 5,000 prisoners and numerous guns of various caliber.

The Germans, though apparently aware that the blow was coming and seemingly prepared to meet it, were driven from their nearly three years' hold on Messines ridge, opposite "poor old" Ypres. Ypres in a sense was avenged today, for Messines ridge has been the vantage point from which the Germans have poured torrents of shells into the stricken city.

The attack was accompanied by all the arts and devices of latter-day war. The enemy guns and gun crews had been bathed for days in gas shells sent over by the long-range British guns.

The night was filled with red incendiary flames. Shells that splattered lead in streams crashed in appalling numbers about the heads of the defending soldiers. High-explosive and shrapnel fire was carried out with such rapidity that the earth writhed under the force of the attack.

Mines that had taken two years to dig and fill with an overwhelming explosive broke into an avalanche of flaming destruction in the half light of dawn. This was indeed an Ypres day of retaliation and victory for the vicious sufferings of two years and eight months.

Gunners Strip to Waist. It was a day of intense heat, and the gunners worked stripped to the waist. The attack went forward with clock-like regularity.

The British casualties were slight. Three out of four of the casualties were reported to be walking cases, who would return to duty in a few days.

The attack began at dawn, and the setting was as picturesque as can well be imagined. The day before had been hot and sultry. Toward evening there was a series of thunder storms which extended well into the night, the lightning mingling with the flashes of the guns, but the thunder being virtually unnoted amid the din of the cannon.

A full moon struggled continually to break through the heavy clouds which scudded across the velvety night sky.

On the way to the front were all the familiar pictures of the war—endless trains of motor trucks; all varieties of horse transport, the British soldiers marching to battle light of heart and singing songs familiar in every American community.

In the shadow of an old windmill which has withstood the storms of a century and been undaunted by nearly three years of war, the correspondent witnessed the last phases of the seven-day preliminary bombardment and the final outburst of the guns which sent the British infantry confidently on their way to new successes in fighting the greatest military nation the world has ever known.

From the German line the same lazy, looping rocket signals were ascending to illuminate the treacherous bit of ground between the trenches known as No Man's Land. This nightly "strafing" had been going on so long that the enemy considered it entirely normal and took no alarm. Occasionally blue and yellow rockets would be flung into the air by Germans holding the front line.

One by one the guns became silent. There was the old "grandmother" howitzer of enormous caliber, which kept breaking the peace at five-minute intervals, the shock of each succeeding explosion and the shriek of the heavy shells being emphasized by the silence which lay over all the surrounding country.

Like Volcanoes in Eruption. Day was scarcely breaking when from the dimly visible ridge a score of fiery volcanoes seemed suddenly to spring from the earth. The night had been filled with strange noises and still stranger sights, but these masses of flame, leaping from the ground, had a meaning all their own. They were the spectacular outward and visible evidences of more than a million pounds of high explosives which had been buried deep in mines below the enemy's positions for months.

All the world appeared lurid and horrible under the sinister glow. The earth shook as if torn by a great seismic disturbance. It was not a single shock. The force of the explosion actually set the earth rocking to and fro, and under the influence of the giant guns, which immediately began to roar from far and near, the trembling continued indefinitely. It was 3:10 o'clock when this final terrific bombardment began.

It has seemed that the battle of the Somme attained the ultimate in the close assembly of war weapons, but this sudden outpouring on Messines ridge was beyond all calculation. The lighter field guns far forward set up a perfect curtain fire, under which the assaulting troops trudged confidently to their allotted goals. Further back the deep-throated heavies began to pour out torrents of high explosive shells on the German trenches and communications, while still other guns—enough to win any ordinary battle—confined themselves solely to the task of deluging German guns and gunners in baths of gas fired in shells of every conceivable caliber.

"So! Torture, eh? Good. I can believe it of you. Well, a slow fire will not make me speak."

"No. A fire would be too easy, Jose."

THE GOOD JUDGE FINDS W-B TOBACCO POPULAR AT THE POST EXCHANGE.

COLONEL, I HEARD YOU SPEAK OF WANTING SOME W-B CUT TOBACCO. GIVE ME A BOX AND HERE IT IS!

SERGEANT, YOUR LOYALTY IS APPRECIATED. I SHALL RECOMMEND YOUR PROMOTION.

YOUR soldier is all business, from reveille to taps—no room for excess baggage with him. He has no use for a big plug of coarse leaf, all loaded up with heavy syrup—what he wants is tobacco satisfaction. The little sappy chew of W-B CUT checks up with his idea of what's good. Out on a lonely outpost, it's mighty social and satisfying; and my, how it does last!

Sour Stomach

This is a mild form of indigestion. It is usually brought on by eating too rapidly or too much of food not suited to your digestive organs. If you will eat slowly, masticate your food thoroughly, eat but little meat and none at all for supper, you will more than likely avoid the sour stomach without taking any medicine whatever. When you have sour stomach take one of Chamberlain's Tablets to aid digestion.

Essays of the Class of 1917

an elevator so fast that it felt as though your heart was throbbing down in your big toe and as though the bottom had suddenly gone out of the whole rig—ma-rot and you were sinking. Horribly into an emptiness indescribable? Well, that was the sensation that came over me, not only that but a wild, raving, moaning sound filled my ears as of water swishing and beating and rusting on as I sank and sank and sank into what seemed to me later was not today but a period about ten years ahead, in other words the Land of Tomorrow.

My room, my magazine, even the suit I had worn were all changed in appearance. My suit was a waterproof affair similar to those I had read about in my room had changed to an engine room and I was operating levers and landing machinery like a regular hero, through a little window at my left I saw grayish blue water rushing and swirling by and I knew that my greatest desire was being fulfilled, O! more than that! Not only was I having a ride in a submarine, I was really and truly operating the machinery and was lead engineer in a regular monstrous gray monarch of the sea.

Class History by Mae Raether: "Some parts of the world are renowned for their beauty. We visit them to satisfy our inherent love for the picturesque. Some again are famous as the scenes of great and stirring events which have made history; those we visit to stand entranced in the presence of the great spirits of old. Still other parts attract us strongly because of the vivid kaleidoscope of their modern life and customs. But what shall we say of our high school, glowing with life and contemporaneous interest; and yet all quick with the memory of the glorious past."

It was during the year 1903 that the war of "Education" was declared and the final result is portrayed tonight "Victory". There were twelve staunch volunteers who entered into service under the commandship of Jennie Hennig, now Mrs. E. C. Miller. Their only weapons of defense were their pointed spears more commonly known as pencils and a black breastplate bound with red felt in other words a slate. As soldiers of a regular army they carried their knapsacks composed of tin dinner pails and the soldiers yet untrained were also unaccustomed to this peculiar knapsack and the usual result was a low plateau at the school floor. When the signal to advance was given, in other words, the ringing of the school bell, our army prepared for the struggle. Not knowing the laws and customs of a soldier, violations were punished by being court martialed. When on patrol in other words, reciting in class, we were often punished and had to stand on the floor or in a corner for not knowing our lessons.

Thus our primitive stage passed and we entered the third regiment under the commandship of Florida Gutl, now Mrs. John F. Schaefer. People; the history of the class of 1917 but a part of the history of the Kewaskum High School, and now fellow students of the class of this year will soon separate never again to be united in the school room. May prosperity and happiness attend both teachers and scholars in their future career.

If someone should ask you in a spirit of jest, What days of your life you considered the best. Without hesitation your answer would be, The days spent in school seem the happiest to me. As the thoughts of your childhood sweet memories recall, 'Tis the days spent with schoolmates that seem best of all. With teachers and playmates and tasks to prepare, and never a care. And so as we leave our dear high school tonight. A feeling of sadness touches our hearts so light. And we pause as we take up our new life's career. To look back and ponder old memories so dear. Four years we have crossed the old bridge every day. While the river kept splashing and winding its way. Four years found us climbing the old High School stair. That snow storms and sunshine day of darkness or fair. From Freshmen to Seniors what bright days we passed. And now we have finished, this commencement at last. We're leaving our High School our teachers so kind. Tonight we must part each his life's work to find. As a class we've been loyal and faithful and true. The days spent in High School we never will rue. And we'll stand by our teachers our class and our school. As we strive to do right with "Success" as our goal.

Momentoes by Ralph Schaefer: "The class of 1917 has this day ventured on its life's journey. Whether we anchor is not known. We have of course all pledged ourselves to succeed in whatever vocation we may choose. As a class we hope ever to remain loyal to each other. The class of 1917 can ever be proud of the fact that it worked naturally towards a final goal. Of course it is natural that in striving for that goal, each member of the class has matured his ideal. He has probably done most of his schoolwork with that end or aim in view. We have worked hard and faithful as a class not only to realize our own ideals but to make it possible for each and everyone to realize his. Since we have become so attached to each other, it is my purpose to make such gifts as will be of the

Why Pay the Peddler or Canvasser Twice These Prices?

You can save a good deal of money by buying your stock tonic at this store, instead of paying the peddler big, fancy prices for goods of unknown quality. Look at these prices for that old reliable and guaranteed stock conditioner and worm expeller—

DR. HESS STOCK TONIC

25 pound pail costs $2.00

100 lb. drum costs $6.50

Remember, we have no peddler's wagon and horses; expenses to pay. That's why we can sell you Dr. Hess Stock Tonic at these rock-bottom prices.

Here is another point, Mr. Farmer, we want to emphasize, that is: Dr. Hess Stock Tonic is highly concentrated; it goes farther, as the small dose quantity proves. Dr. Hess Stock Tonic is to put your animals in a thriving condition, make the ailing ones healthy and expel the worms—otherwise you get your money back right here at our store. We also handle
