Cause of Despondency
Despondency is often caused by indigestion and constipation, and quickly disappears when Chamberlain's Tablets are taken. These tablets strengthen the indigestion and move the bowels.

BAD ACCIDENT NARROWLY AVERTED

Last Tuesday evening a very bad accident was narrowly averted at the Main street bridge when an auto which was racing with another, struck one side of the span a glancing blow. Had the driver of the car struck the bridge a little more full there might have been a serious loss of life. As it was only slight damage was done to one of the autos and to the bridge. This practice of speeding down Main street and across the bridge is becoming a nuisance and ought to be stopped before some one gets killed. There have been several narrow escapes near the bridge and it is high time these speed bugs are brought to realize that there is a village ordinance prohibiting this practice. Carelessness in driving cars through the village at break neck speed is getting to be a mania with some, and the sooner a stop is put to the habit just so soon will the pedestrians and teams feel more safety in appearing on our streets. Now as a last word let there be no more of this reckless driving in the village. Remember "Safety First" is the best motto to follow.

Food Conservation

In the last three years the average retail price of food has gone up about one hundred and twenty-five per cent. The rise in prices since January 1917 has been unprecedented, there having been a rise of over fifty per cent in the past few months.

There is a world-wide shortage in food supplies, and it is my judgment that even with proper control and economy prevailing retail prices will not drop, but may even go higher. In 1916 the average price paid to farmers for wheat was about $1.25 per bushel, but food gamblers drove this price up to over $3.00 per bushel. Mr. Hoover states that in the first five months of 1917 food speculators robbed the people of this country of $250,000,000. My opinion is that the amount is very much larger.

In this situation it is not only patriotic, but it becomes a matter of self interest for every household to aid in the conservation of the food supply.

At this time I especially advise all families to can a large supply of vegetables and fruits. It is my opinion that canned goods will rise even higher in price, proportionately, than other foods, on account of the high price of containers, labor, etc., entering into their production.

There has recently come into use the so called "cold pack" method of canning. This method is different from the old fashioned preserving, and it saves time, labor and expense. No thick syrups are necessary. Fruits may be put up in their syrups. Vegetables may be put up in salt water recommend this cold pack method, as it is the cheapest and safest.

I am at present sending out thousands of farmers' bulletins on the subject of canning and drying fruits and vegetables, but I have not the names of all persons in the district who may want them. I shall be glad to send these bulletins to any one who will drop me a postal card. Address me "Edward Voigt, House Office Building, Washington, D. C." and be sure to write your name and address plainly.

AUTO STOLEN THEN ABANDONED

Sheriff Worthing of Fond du Lac was asked Friday morning to hunt up a lost automobile stolen from Bader and Krueger at Campbellsport Thursday night. When the heat was started word came that the machine, with a pronounced case of engine trouble and one flat tire was found three miles north of Campbellsport Friday morning.

The car was taken from in front of the livery barn sometime before midnight. Its absence was first discovered about 1 o'clock Friday morning. It is believed the parties taking the car found when the machine broke down that it would be impossible to make a get away, so they abandoned the car on the side of the road. The machine was a Ford and painted white, which would make it conspicuous.

Get Kilbourn Current
At 5 o'clock last Tuesday night a continuous twenty-four electrical service was inaugurated at Campbellsport when current was turned on the power station at Kilbourn.

The power wire carries a voltage up to 2300, and is employed for both lighting and power purposes. Twenty street lights in Campbellsport village operate off the system and nearly all of the business places and residences.

The same system will in the near future furnish light and power at Eden and Marblehead, the plan being to extend the circuit to those villages.

MILK CONDENSORY AT CAMPBELLSPORT

Libbey, McNeil & Libbey will erect a milk condensory to be in operation before the snow flies.

The authority for this statement is P. C. Krueger, a company representative who was in Campbellsport Wednesday for the purpose of signing up farmers who will furnish the condensory with milk. It is said the company has options of sites which adjoin the railroad track. Patrons will be solicited for a radius of ten miles about Campbellsport.

Mr. Krueger declared that the industry at Campbellsport will mean an investment of $100,000 and that between thirty and fifty men will be employed.

Miss Koepke Married

Last Wednesday, July 25th occurred the marriage of Miss Adela A. Koepke, daughter of Mrs. Wm. Koepke of this town and Fred M. Wick of Milwaukee. The marriage was performed at West Bend Rev. Stapfel officiating. Miss Virginia Koepke, dressed in yellow, Missene silk and carrying a light pink sweet peas, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was attended by John Wick. The bride was very prettily gowned and carried a bouquet of yellow ward roses. After the ceremony the immediate relatives of the bridal couple were entertained at the home of the bride's mother. The house was tastefully decorated throughout with red, white and blue. The bride is a very popular young lady in this vicinity and no doubt will make an excellent companion to the man she has chosen for her husband. Although not very well acquainted with the groom we understand he is an industrious young machinist at Milwaukee, at which place the young couple will make their future home. We extend our warmest congratulations to the happy couple.

ASHFORD MAN HAS AUTO ACCIDENT

Kilian Strobel of Ashford, narrowly escaped serious injury when his car turned turtle last Tuesday night about a half mile east of Eden.

Mr. Strobel was returning home alone from Fond du Lac about 12 o'clock at night when his car turned over, and he was pinned beneath it. Uninjured except for bad cuts about the face and in one leg, he was able to free himself and make his way to a nearby farmhouse where he received medical attention. The auto was badly broken as a result of the accident.

Will Organize Calf Club

Here is a chance for fifteen boys or girls in Washington county to own a fine pure bred Holstein heifer.

According to the plan proposed at its last annual picnic, the Washington County Holstein-Friesian Breeder's Association has completed the organization of a boys' and girls' calf club, and is now ready to distribute fifteen pure bred Holstein heifers to the boys and girls of Washington county free.

Boys and girls now is your chance to become the owner of a pure bred heifer. Do not let this opportunity pass you by. Fill out the following requests for the rules of the club and an application blank and get in line to secure one of these fine heifers.

Mr. John Gehl, secretary Holstein-Friesian Association, West Bend, Wisconsin.

Dear Sir: Please send me rules governing the boys' and girls' calf club and an application blank. Yours truly,

PASSING OF PROMINENT RESIDENTS

John A. Christnacht
The village of Allenton lost one of its most representative and esteemed men when John A. Christnacht passed away in death last Thursday, July 19, 1917 at 10:05 in the evening. About a year ago last Christmas he had suffered a stroke of paralysis, and he had not been able to overcome the effects, his vital forces gradually ebbing away until the peaceful end came.

Deceased was born at Hartford, this county, on October 4, 1853. He came to the town of Addison in 1875 and to Allenton in 1883, where for many years he conducted a hotel and became very prominent and a leader among his fellow citizens. On May 21, 1878, he was united in marriage to Miss Izena Wright, the ceremony taking place at West Bend. He leaves his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Alfred Zimmel of Allenton and Mrs. Jos. M. Wolf of Milwaukee.

Mr. Christnacht was a genial man and possessed of a noble character. Nobody learned to know him but to respect and like him. His fellow citizens acknowledged his personal worth and probity by electing him supervisor of the town of Addison, and for many years he held the chairmanship of the board of supervisors of that town. He also was postmaster at Allenton for 27 years and he was the president and founder of the Allenton State Bank. His public career was an honorable and efficient one. His family life was without reproach, duty and love mixed in it in true proportions, and the splendid effects showed themselves in his children. He will long be remembered as a man who has not lived in vain and who helped to make life worth while.

The funeral was held last Monday morning with a solemn requiem mass at St. Anthony's Catholic church, town of Addison, celebrated by Rev. William Eggers of Juneau, assisted by Revs. Burelbach, Groff and Lauer. Interment was made in the Neno cemetery. A large cortege accompanied the remains to their last resting place.—West Bend News.

J. William Dreikosen

J. William Dreikosen of Ashford died at 1:30 p. m. Saturday of dropsy. Mr. Dreikosen was born at Cologne, Germany, January 9, 1843. He came to America in 1872 and was married at Fond du Lac to Miss Petronella Esser, also born at Cologne, Germany. She died February 25, 1913.

Mr. Dreikosen is survived by five sons and six daughters. They are: William of Ashford; Mrs. Nickolas Zehren of Ashland; Peter Dreikosen of Elmore; Mrs. Peter Hilbert, Ashford; Mrs. Cecelia Schultz, Lomira; John Dreikosen, Marathon City, Wis.; Anthony Dreikosen, Ashford; Mrs. John Keding, Lomira; Michael Dreikosen, Wauwatosa; Mrs. Andrew Hebringer, Wauwatosa; and Mrs. J. J. Fleming, Wyosena, Wis.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at Ashford, Rev. Theo. Toeller officiated, assisted by Rev. Peter Theisen and Rev. A. Rassbach of Lomira.

STATE COUNCIL OF DEFENSE URGES SAVING

The State Council of Defense speaks for immediate and earnest cooperation in effecting a necessary Economy of Man, Money, and Vehicles by Reducing the Number of Deliveries in Retail Stores.

It is common knowledge that there is totally unnecessary service demanded and given in the retail trade. Both the merchant and the customer are responsible. The merchant in that he has never discouraged unnecessary service; the customer in that he has come to expect the store to do for him what he ought to do for himself; and both the merchant and the customer will benefit by its elimination.

The cost of delivery for retail stores in Wisconsin is from 6 to 10 cents per stop. Dry goods stores can do with a single delivery daily and grocery stores with not more than two. The wide introduction of co-operation or central deliveries in small cities and towns reduces the delivery cost by 40 per cent to 50 per cent.

This item ranges all the way from 40 to 30 per cent of the total sales. Every wholesale baker in the state has pledged himself not to accept the return of unsold bread. Grocers and dry goods merchants should take similar step.

These two economies—REDUCTION OF DELIVERY AND REFUSAL TO ACCEPT RETURN GOODS—will (1) release men and equipment for government service, (2) make possible a substantial reduction of price to the consumer, and (3) enable the merchant to sell more goods at less expense.

Avoiding Brain Storms

One of the first effects of war is a rapid shifting of values. Much that has been gradually instilled into our minds and habits through the slow processes of civilization we are called upon to abandon on a moment's notice. The young man's fighting instincts for example, which were restrained by the strong arm of law, are on the outbreak of war, rekindled by every device.

Along with the necessary abandonment of ordinarily praiseworthy characteristics there goes some other ideals and interests which there is no need to abandon. Indeed, some of these things are absolutely necessary to the maintenance of life and sanity during war times. Among these are physical play and recreation.

If there is a time when people need to play to keep healthy bodies and minds it is during such times of stress as war brings. And yet sensitive people feel a sneaking sense of shame over their desire and necessity for play. It seems comparable to smiles at a funeral.

In some splendid war pictures recently exhibited in Milwaukee, I was struck especially by the playfulness of the British soldiers. It has been said that nothing but actual fighting will keep these irrepressible Tommies from football and other sports. Somebody has said that the Allies will win largely because the Anglo-Saxon is a lover of outdoor sports and that in the long run the sportsmen will win.

War is a depressing business and an increased amount of sanity will doubtless result from it, not alone among the soldiers themselves but among others with sensitive nervous system. If this be so, it is but common sense for people to keep their balance as completely as possible. And it is a scientific fact that clean, wholesome play is one of the best mental balance producers.

258 FIRST NUMBER OUT

Secretary Baker Takes Out Initial Number—Drawing Continues All Day Friday and Throughout Night.

Long List of Numbers Given in Order as Drawn, From Which Those Who Will Be Called to Serve in First Army Will Be Selected.

Washington, July 24.—The drawing for the big United States army was not completed until early Saturday morning. The drawing began at 9:45 Friday morning, and continued throughout the day and night. Altogether 10,500 numbers were drawn from the big fish bowl. It was officially stated that the first 1,000 numbers drawn represented more than 1,000,000 men, and it is not considered probable that men representing any number drawn after the first 2,000 will be called before any exemption board for the first army.

In only a small number of the largest districts will the numbers above a few thousand affect registrants. Of the 4,577 registration districts throughout the country the largest has something over 10,000 numbers, while the smallest has only about 185, and the average is about 3,000.

The following list shows the numbers in the order in which they were drawn. The first number in each case represents the order in which the second, or red-link, registry, number was taken from the bowl. Four numbers are given in each line. Beginning with the first number, which was drawn by Secretary Baker.

OUR ADVERTISING COLUMNS are read by the people because it gives them the news of absorbing interest. People no longer go looking about for things they want—they go to their newspaper for information as to where such things may be found. This method saves time and trouble. If you want to bring your wares to the attention of this community, our advertising columns

Should Contain Your Ad

The Sum and Substance of being a subscriber to this paper is that you and your family become attached to it. The paper becomes a member of the family and its coming each week will be as welcome as the arrival of anyone that is dear. It will keep you informed on the doings of the community and the bargains of the merchants regularly advertised will enable you to save many times the cost of the subscription.

HOME OF HART SCHAFFNER & MARX CLOTHES

Can a man of simple and inherited tastes, born and raised in the country, in the solitude of the hills, with no desire for the cities and crowded places of the world, with no longing to mingle with his fellow men or to absorb their conventional vices and virtues, understand the call which prompts men and women to work out their destinies in the melting pots of the world—to strive for the things which the multitude seeks?

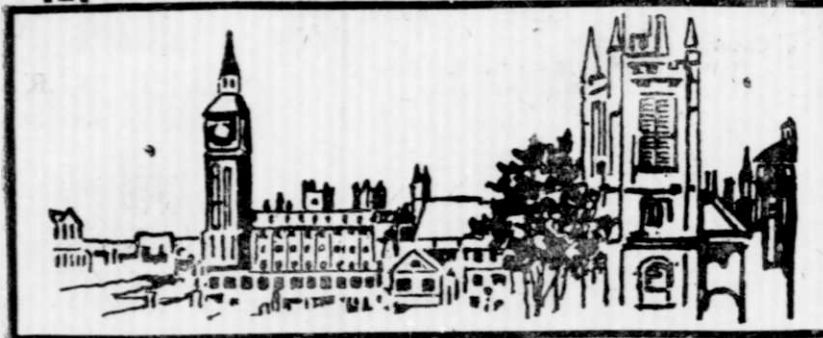

The Hillman

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

is a remarkable romance of a young man of agricultural inclinations and desires who is swept into the mad maelstrom of a metropolis through love of a beautiful woman. You will not be content until you know how this master of story-telling has worked out a most unusual plot.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

BOY SCOUTS AND WAR

In an official statement just issued, telling what the boy scouts will do in case of war, the national council of the Boy Scouts of America makes it clear that no distinctive or definite part will be taken by the scouts in any military operations, and that no local organizations will have authority to involve scouts in such service. It is stated that it will be the privilege and pleasure of each member to volunteer his services for co-operation with the local civic authorities, and that the training which scouts have had will make them efficient and dependable in doing such work as—
Rendering first aid to the sick or injured.
Sending messages by wire, wireless, or semaphore.
Co-operating in the protection of property by accepting definite assignments for the purpose of giving alarm in the case of danger.
Acting as messengers and co-operating with agencies organized for relief work.

ON RELIEF DUTY.

TAMING OF "HOOLIGANS."

The English "Hooligan" corresponds to the American rough neck. He is the fellow who drapes himself about the corner saloon, spits tobacco juice on the pavement and makes obnoxious remarks about passers-by.
Gen. Sir Robert Baden Powell has long devoted a part of his time to the taming of young "Hooligans." The taming of lions, tigers and other large pussy cats would be easier but he feels that it would be less profitable from the standpoint of the nation.
His recipe for doing the job is: First, catch your Hooligan; second, make him an associate member of a scout troop; third, let him become a scout as soon as he qualifies, which in 90 per cent of the cases has been found to be about a week or two.
Many of them have already been rewarded for public service. It is a pathetic sight to see a real Hooligan who has been a "bobby biter" suddenly turn into an orderly for the police—a "copper's companion," as one of them called himself.

NOTES OF THE SCOUTS.

A scout! He enjoys a hike through the woods more than he does a walk over the city's streets. He can tell north or south or east or west by the "signs." He can tie a knot that will hold, he can climb a tree which seems impossible to others, he can swim a river, he can pitch a tent, he can mend a tear in his trousers, he can tell you which fruits and seeds are poisonous and which are not, he can sight north-bearing trees at a distance; if living near ocean or lake he can reef a sail or take his trick at the wheel, and if near any body of water at all he can pull an oar or use paddles and sculls; in the woods he knows the names of birds and animals; in the water he tells you the different varieties of fish.
The Boy Scouts of Ruston, La., have written Dr. Oscar Dowling, president of the state board of health, saying that they have secured the state mosquito survey of their town and propose to eradicate mosquitoes and flies. With this object in view, they have requested the state board of health to detail an inspector to assist them in starting the work.
It is stated that Iowa is the home of at least 351 different varieties of birds. The Boy Scouts of that state claim that there are at least 370 varieties of birds in the state and intend to prove their statement. They will make notes on all birds that they see and send these to some central office where they will be carefully studied and arranged.
Boy Scouts of Waycross, Ga., have induced one of the local papers to allow them to get out a Scout edition. The boys are furnishing the news and will see to it that their own edition has a large circulation.

Sugar From Wood.
Now they're making sugar out of wood. Chemists have found that they can take a ton of sawdust and get a quarter of a ton of sugar out of it. The process consists of putting the sawdust into a closed retort and subjecting it to digestion with a weak solution of sulphurous acid under a pressure of from ninety to one hundred pounds to the square inch. Eighty per cent of the sugar thus obtained is fermentable. The product is called "saccharose."

Not of Courses but Dishes.
Three courses seem to have been the customary menu in medieval times for a state banquet, less ceremonial feasts comprising only two, and no private dinner more than one. But each course might comprise from eight to a dozen different dishes. Thus at the wedding banquet of Henry V there were only three courses, yet over 30 different dishes are mentioned in the records, irrespective of fruits and viands.—London Chronicle.

Radium Emanations.
The emanations from radium cannot be stopped, but as scarcely any exhaustion of the material is appreciable, despite the fact that a stream of energy is constantly passing off from it, this is of small consequence. If the rays were allowed to escape promiscuously, however, they might do considerable damage; in order to confine them, therefore, a safe has been constructed with a thick lining of lead inside the steel.

Reducing the Household.
Some little folks were playing "keeping house." Robert was papa, Jane mamma. After much difficulty in managing so large a brood, Papa Robert finally burst out with: "Say, there are too many children in the family—one of you will have to be the dog!"

Remarkable Linguist.
The greatest of all linguistic geniuses was undoubtedly Giuseppe Mezzofanti, who died in 1849. Not only could the wonderful Italian read 50 or 60 different languages, besides many dialects, but he could also speak and write them with astonishing fluency. It was contended that Mezzofanti could converse with natives of practically every quarter of the globe.

Thrift Thought.
Get the thrift habit—the broad thrift habit, now; practice it thoughtfully; waste not the little things; find the joy that a growing bank account brings; invest your savings safely and profitably; remember tomorrow but forget not today; spend for the things that last and find the secret of the broader thrift that makes for better living. It is the only thrift worth while.

This machine has been put in on trial and more may be said of it next week after a thorough trial has been given it.

The Food Pledge Card

The thought uppermost in our minds now is food conservation and the Hoover food pledge card. Conservation in the home may be the decisive factor in this war.

As 90 per cent of the ultimate food consumption of the country is in the hands of the women, it is fitting that we make the first move in this food campaign.

We must not wait for a group of politicians to finish a game of football with the food administration bill, but we may begin at once not only in our own homes but by enlisting others. We are asked by the President to sign the food pledge card, which is not a definite pledge but merely expresses our willingness to assist the food administration in any way in our power.

Many people have the idea we are to be asked to starve ourselves. But the motto of the food administration is, "Eat plenty, wisely and without waste."

We know that many women do not know food values and on the restricted diets many will find necessary there will be a great number of under nourished people especially children, and we must now more than ever bring up healthy children to take the places that are to be left vacant soon.

By signing the food pledge card the women will keep in touch with the food administrator who will from time to time issue suggestions as to substitutes to use, etc. His wonderful experience in food distribution in Belgium has taught him much.

We may now always feel that it is necessary for us to follow him, but we must remember that we are under military orders now and must follow our commander and chief, the President. He has asked us to help in this way and it is our duty to follow as does the soldier the order of his commanding officer even though it does not correspond with his personal opinions.

The first card of directions has been issued. We are a bit slow in getting our cards signed owing to a delay in waiting for a decision from the State Council of Defense as to service registration cards. A million food pledge cards have already been signed throughout the country. To follow the suggestions on the first card of directions are extracts from it.

SAVE THE WHEAT.—One wheatless meal a day. Use corn, oatmeal, rye or barley bread, and nonwheat breakfast foods. Order bread 24 hours in advance so your baker will not bake beyond his needs. Cut the loaf on the table and only as required. Use stale bread for cooking, toast, etc.

Eat less cake and pastry.

Our wheat harvest is far below normal. If each person weekly saves one pound of wheat flour that means 150,000,000 more bushels for the allies to mix in their bread. This will help them to save DEMOCRACY.

The people of England and France have not learned to use corn as we have. Columbus found corn on the Island of Hayti so we have grown up accustomed to the use of corn and it is no hardship for us to use it. In 1914 an English seed catalog said this of corn, which they call maize, "It is a very popular vegetable in the United States and would no doubt become so here if given a trial." Last year there were a number of varieties of sweet corn listed. It would be the kind thing for us to do to use the corn and save the wheat for them. At this time it would be decidedly unfair to expect them to become accustomed to anything new when they are fighting so hard.

SAVE THE MEAT.—Beef, mutton, or pork not more than once daily. Use freely vegetables and fish. At the meat meal serve smaller portions, and stews instead of steaks. Make made dishes of all left overs. Do this and there will be meat enough for everyone at a reasonable price.

We are today killing the dairy cows and female calves as the result of high prices. Therefore eat less and eat no young meat. If we save an ounce of meat each day per person we will have additional supply equal to 2,200,000 cattle.

Many of us do not know the value of vegetables in the diet. They contain material for building the bones, for making firm muscles and putting red corpuscles into the blood and material that helps the digestion of food. We know that the woody fiber of vegetables acts as a cleanser of the body. And so if we give up meat and substitute more vegetables, we will find ourselves healthier for it, and anything that is an aid to health should not be a hardship.

SAVE THE MILK.—The children must have milk. Use every drop. Use butter milk and sour milk for cooking and making cottage cheese. Use less cream.

The reason we are asked to use less cream is that the separator milk is not generally used for human food, and of course this makes a great shortage of milk.

SAVE THE FATS.—We are the world's great fat wasters. Fat is food. Butter is essential for the growth and health of children. Use butter on the table as usual but not for cooking. Other fats are as good. Reduce use of fried foods. Soap contains fats. Do not waste it. Make your own washing soap at home out of the saved fats.

Use one-third ounce less per day of animal fat and 375,000 tons will be saved yearly.

The method of making soap now is very simple, taking only a few minutes to complete the task.

SAVE THE SUGAR.—Sugar is scarcer. We use today three times as much per person as our allies. So there may be enough for all at reasonable price, use less candy and sweet drinks. Do not stint sugar in putting up fruit and jams. They will save butter.

If everyone in America saves one ounce of sugar daily, it means 1,100,000 tons for the year.

It is definitely known that breakfast foods are much more healthful if eaten without sugar, and by gradually reducing the amount of sugar used on them we may make a great saving.

SAVE THE FUEL.—Coal comes from a distance and our railways are overburdened hauling war material. Help relieve them by burning fewer fires. Use wood when you can get it.

It would be possible for many people to close rooms in their houses this fall and winter to save fuel.

USE THE PERISHABLE FOODS. Fruits and vegetables we have in abundance. As a nation we eat too little green stuffs. Double their use and improve your health. Store potatoes and other roots properly and they will keep. Begin now to can or dry all surplus garden products.

This is one of the most important suggestions made, as we should use this summer the foods which cannot be stored.

Use local supplies—patronize your local producer. Distance means money. Buy perishable food from the neighborhood nearest you and thus save transportation.

Every day we have reported to us the shortage of cars. Cars are being used for transportation of food, material and munitions to the coast, and it is highly important that we use the foods which are produced and canned at home in order to relieve the shipping, and in order to leave the factory canned goods to be shipped to the

"Oh, I've been napping there in that chair, where I could keep one eye on you. I'm terribly selfish; I can't bear to lose one minute." After a while she said: "I've made a discovery. Father O'Malley snores dreadfully. Juanito never heard anything like it, and it frightened him nearly to death. He says the father must be a very fierce man to growl so loudly. He says, too, that he likes me much better than his mother."

It seemed to Dave that the bliss of this awakening and the sweet intimacy of this one moment more rewarded him for all he had gone through.

"I've been busy, too," she was saying. "I sent Juan to the village to learn the news, and it's not very nice. It's good we stopped here. He says Neuvo Pueblo has been destroyed, and the federal forces are all moving south, away from the border. So our troubles aren't over yet. We must reach the river tonight."

"Yes, by all means."
"Juan is going with us as guide."
"You arranged everything while I snoozed, eh? I'm ashamed of myself."

Alaire nodded, then pretended to frown darkly. "You ought to be," she told him.

"My wife?" He laid his lips against her hair.

They were standing beside the window, speechless, oblivious to all except their great love, when Dolores entered to tell them that supper was ready and that the horses were saddled.

CHAPTER XXV.

The Dawn.

Juan Garcia proved to be a good guide, and he saved the refugees many miles on their road to the Rio Grande. But every farm and every village was a menace, and at first they were forced to make numerous detours. As the night grew older, however, they rode a straighter course, urging their horses to the limit, hoping against hope to reach the border before daylight overtook them. This they might have done had it not been for Father O'Malley and Dolores, who were unused to the saddle and unable to maintain the pace Juan set for them.

About midnight the party stopped on the crest of a flinty ridge to give their horses breath and to estimate their progress. The night was fine and clear; outlined against the sky were the stulks of countless sotol-plants standing slim and bare, like the upright lances of an army at rest; ahead the road meandered across a mesa, covered with grama grass and black, formless blot of shrubbery.

Father O'Malley groaned and shifted his weight. "Juan tells me we'll never reach Romero by morning, at this rate," he said; and Dave was forced to agree. "I think you and he and Alaire had better go on and leave Dolores and me to follow as best we can."

Dolores plaintively seconded this suggestion. "I would rather be burned at the stake than suffer these agonies," she confessed. "My bones are broken. The devil is in this horse." She began to weep softly. "Go, senora. Save yourself! It is my accursed fat stomach that hinders me. Tell Benito that I perished breathing his name, and see to it, when he remarries, that he retains none of my treasures."

Alaire reassured her by saying: "We won't leave you. Be brave and make the best of it."

"Yes, grit your teeth and hold on." Dave echoed. "We'll manage to make it somehow."

But progress was far slower than it should have been, and the elder woman continued to lag behind, voicing her distress in groans and lamentations. The priest, who was made of sterner stuff, did his best to bear his tortures cheerfully.

In spite of their efforts the first rosy herald of dawn discovered them still a long way from the river and just entering a more thickly settled country. Daylight came swiftly, and Juan finally gave them warning.

"We can't go on; the danger is too great," he told them. "If the soldiers are still in Romero, what then?"

"Have you no friends hereabouts who would take us in?" Dave inquired. The Mexican shook his head.

Dave considered for a moment. "You must hide here," he told his companions, "while I ride on to Romero and see what can be done. I suspect Blanco's troops have left, and in that case everything will be all right."

"Suppose they haven't?" Alaire inquired. All night she had been in the lightest of moods, and had steadily refused to take their perils seriously. Now her smile chased the frown from her husband's face.

"Well, perhaps I'll have breakfast with them," he laughed.

"Silly. I won't let you go," she told him, firmly; and, reading the expression in her face, he felt a dizzy wonder. "We'll find a nice secluded spot; then we'll sit down and wait for night to come. We'll pretend we're having a picnic."

Dolores sighed at the suggestion.

"That would be heaven, but there can be no sitting down for me."

Garcia, who had been standing in his stirrups scanning the long, flat road ahead, spoke sharply: "Caramba! Here come those very soldiers now! See!"

Far away, but evidently approaching at a smart gait, was a body of mounted men. After one look at them Dave cried:

"Into the brush, quick!" He hurried his companions ahead of him, and when they had gone perhaps a hundred yards from the road he took Juan's repeater, saying: "Ride in a little way farther and wait. I'm going back. If you hear me shoot, break for the river. Ride hard and keep under cover as much as possible." Before they could remount he had wheeled Montrosa and was gone.

This was luck, he told himself. Ten miles more and they would have been safe, for the Rio Grande is not a difficult river either to ford or to swim. He dismounted and made his way on foot to a point where he could command a view, but he had barely established himself when he found Alaire at his side.

"Go back," he told her. But she would not, and so they waited together. There were perhaps a dozen men in the approaching squad, and Dave saw that they were heavily accoutred. They rode fast, too, and at their head galloped a large man under a wide-brimmed felt hat. It soon became evident that the soldiers were not uniformed. Therefore, Dave reasoned, they were not federals, but more probably some rebel scouting band from the south, and yet—He rubbed his eyes and stared again.

Dave pressed forward eagerly, incredulously; the next instant he had broken cover with a shout. Alaire was at his side, clapping her hands and laughing with excitement.

The cavalcade halted; the big man tumbled from his saddle and came straddling through the high grass, waving his hat and yelling.

"Blaze! You old scoundrel!" Dave cried, and seized one of the ranchman's palms while Alaire shook the other.

"Say! We're right glad to see you all," Jones exclaimed. "We reckoned you might be havin' a sort of unpleasantness with Longorio, so we organized up and came to get you."

The other horsemen were crowding close now, and their greetings were noisy. There were the two Guzman boys, Benito Gonzalez, Phil Strange, and a number of Jonesville's younger and more adventurous colon.

In the midst of the tumultuous greeting for his wife, and for the relief of his anxiety by calling her name, Father O'Malley, then, in answer to the questions showered upon him, he swiftly sketched the story of Alaire's rescue and their flight from La Feria.

When he had finished, Blaze Jones drew a deep breath. "We're mighty glad you got out safe, but you've kicked the legs from under one of my pet ambitions. I sure had planned to nail Longorio's hide on my barn door. Yes, and you've taken the bread out of the mouths of the space writers and sob sisters from here to Hudson's bay. Miz Austin, your picture's in every newspaper in the country, and, believe me, it's the worst atrocity of the war."

"War!" Father O'Malley had joined the group now, and he asked, "Has war been declared?"

"Not yet, but we've got hopes." To Alaire Blaze explained: "Ellsworth's in Washington, wavin' the Stars and Stripes and singin' battle hymns, but I reckon the government figures that the original of these newspaper pictures would be safe anywhere. Well, we've got our own ideas in Jonesville, so some of us assembled ourselves and declared war on our own hook. These gentlemen"—Blaze waved his hand proudly at his neighbors—"constitute the Jonesville Guards, the finest body of American men that has invaded Mexican soil since me and Dave went after Ricardo Guzman's remains. Blamed if I ain't sorry you sidetracked our expedition."

It was evident, from the words of the others, that the Jonesville Guards were indeed quite as heedless of international complications as was their commander. One and all were highly incensed at Longorio's perfidy, and, had Alaire suggested such a thing, it was patent that they would have ridden on La Feria and exacted a reckoning from him.

Such proof of friendship affected her deeply, and it was not until they were all under way back toward Romero that she felt she had made her appreciation fully known. When she reflected that these men were some of the very neighbors whom she had shunned and slighted, and whose honest interest she had so habitually misconstrued all these years, it seemed very strange that they should feel the least concern over her. It gave her a new appreciation of their chivalry and their worth; it filled her with a humble desire to know them better and to strengthen herself in their regard. Then, too, the esteem in which they held Dave—her husband—gratified her intensely. It made no more difference to them than to her that he was a poor man, a man without authority or position; they evidently saw and loved in him the qualities which she saw and loved. And that was as it should be.

They were gentle and considerate men, too, as she discovered when they told her, bit by bit, what had happened during her absence. She learned, much to her relief, that Ed's funeral had been held, and that all the distressing details of the inquiry had been attended to. Jose Sanchez, it appeared, had confessed freely. Although her new friends made plain their indignation at the manner of Ed's taking away, they likewise let her know that they considered his death only a slight loss, either to her or to the community. Not one of them pretended it was anything except a blessing.

The journey drew to an end very quickly. Romero, deserted now by its garrison, stirred and stared sleepily at the invaders, but concerned itself with their presence no more than to wonder why they laughed and talked so sprightly. Plainly, these gringos were a barbarous race of people, what with their rushing here and there, and with their loud, senseless laughter. God had wisely placed them beyond the Rio Grande, said the citizens of Romero.

The crossing was made; Alaire found herself in Texas once again, and it seemed to her that the sun had never been so bright, the air so clear, the sky so high, the world so smiling, as here and now. The men who had ridden forth to seek her were smiling, too, and they were shaking her hands and congratulating her. Even the Guzman boys, who were shy in the presence of American ladies, were wishing her the best of fortune and the greatest of happiness.

Blaze Jones was the last to leave. With especial emphasis upon her name, she said: "Miz Austin, Paloma and me would like to have you come to our house and stay until you feel like goin' back to Las Palmas."

When Alaire declined with moistened eyes, explaining that she could not well accept his invitation, he signified his understanding.

"We're goin' to see a lot of you, just the same," he promised her, "cause we feel as if you sort of belonged to us. There's a lot of good people in this part of Texas, and them that ain't so good, God and the rangers is slowly weedin' 'em out. We don't always know the ones we like best until something happens to 'em, but if you'd heard the prayers the folks of Jonesville have been sayin' lately you'd know you was our favorite." Then, with a meaning twinkle in his eye, he told her, gravely: "It seems a pity that I ain't younger and better-lookin'. I would sure cut short your grief." Then he raised his hat and rode away, chuckling.

Alaire turned to Dave in dismay. "He knows!" she cried.

"I'm afraid they all know. But don't worry; they'll respect our wishes."

Father O'Malley had ridden on ahead with Benito and Dolores; Dave and Alaire followed leisurely. Now that the moment of their parting was at hand, they lingered by the way, delaying it as long as possible, feeling a natural constraint at what was in their minds.

"How long—will it be?" he asked her, finally. "How long before I can really have you for my own?"

Alaire smiled into his eyes. "Not long. But you'll be patient, won't you, dear?"

He took her hand in his and they rode on silently, a song in the heart of each of them.

(THE END.)

The Geologists' Clock.

The fossil shells of the early invertebrates are always of great importance to geologists, for they indicate the period in which the rock beds that contain them were formed—in other words, the age of the rock. Every fossiliferous rock bed contains characteristic forms, or groups of forms, that determine the period in which it was laid or sand. The economic importance of geology has been repeatedly shown. In the earlier exploitation of anthracite coal, thousands of dollars were wasted searching for coal beds in New York until the geologist of the state showed that the beds in that state could not contain coal, since the fossils showed that they belonged to the Devonian age, whereas the Pennsylvania anthracite coal beds are of the Carboniferous age, a much later period. That discovery stopped the useless expenditure. The study of the animal and plant remains that are embedded in the rocks has thus become an important part of geology, and although the specialists engaged in the study are few, their work is of the highest importance.

How Houses Explode.

The most remarkable phenomenon connected with tornadoes is the explosion of houses, which literally burst, scattering their fragments in all directions. Sometimes substantial dwellings are carried high into the air and then explode. It is now understood that this is due to the fact that the "funnel cloud" (revolving at a rate of at least 500 miles an hour) has a vacuum inside. Thus it sucks up everything in its path, even emptying wells. It sucks all the air from around a house over which it passes, and the house (a vacuum being thus created outside of it) promptly explodes, owing to the pressure of the air, at 30 pounds to the square inch, from within. The house, in a word, is transformed into a bomb.

Just So.

"You are constantly surrounded by jesters, sir."

"Yes, always got my wits about me," responded the king, who was something of the sort himself.

THIS SEAL HAD CURIOSITY

Mammal Got Into Trouble Through Nosing Around Too Promiscuously Among Strangers.

Seals are very plentiful among the Orkneys, and are sometimes caught when asleep on the skerries. They are attracted by musical sounds, and at one time a considerable number were said to make their appearance in the bay of Hoy when the bell of the parish church close by was rung.

Seals are usually much on their guard against the approach of men, but when unmolested frequently come close to boats or people ashore. An instance of this occurred recently off Skrälling bay, in Sandwick, where some javels were at haddock fishing, a writer in the Edinburgh Scotsman says.

A seal made its appearance, and showed great curiosity as to what was going on. It swam repeatedly between two boats a short distance apart, and ultimately devoted its attention to one of them, diving under the boat and coming up first on one side and then on the other. At last it made a spring at a fish which was being hauled out of the water on a hand line. It failed to get a proper hold, but the fish was thrown back to afford another chance, which the seal quickly seized. It kept so near that eventually one of the fishermen got hold of its tail, and by the assistance of another it was taken into the boat.

It was a young one, about three feet in length. It did not seem to appreciate its new quarters, and made strenuous efforts to escape, but was kept a prisoner until the fishing ceased, and then taken ashore. Subsequently the seal was restored to its native element, which it seemed to appreciate all the more after its detention.

Trial by Ordeal in Early Days.

Trial by ordeal goes back to earliest days, and in the Book of Numbers there is a case recorded of a Hebrew woman having been required to submit to a test. Among the Hindus the ordeal has been practiced by fire, by water, by poison or drinking water in which deities had been washed, by chewing rice, by hot oil, by red-hot iron, and by drawing two images out of a jar. Livingstone described the practice as being common among all negro races north of the Zambesi, the natives having the greatest faith in its efficacy. And it has not always failed, or the trepidation of the criminal before the dread ordeal has frequently betrayed him.

On Floor of the Ocean.

It is believed that an enormous extent of the bed of the ocean is covered with lava and pumice stone. Still more remarkable is it to find the floor of the ocean covered in many parts with the dust of meteorites. These bodies whirl about in the heavens like miniature comets, and are for the most part broken into innumerable fragments.

ASKS FIVE BILLIONS FOR 1,000,000 MEN TO SEND TO FRANCE

Unexpected Demands by McAdoo Halt Revenue Bill.

WILL HIT EXCESS PROFITS

Army to Be Made Up of the First Draft of 500,000, the National Guard and the Regular Army.

Washington, July 25.—An American army of 1,000,000 men for service abroad at once, instead of the 500,000 contemplated for the first draft, is fore-shadowed by the government's request for an additional $5,000,000,000 made to the senate finance committee.

The first million men are to be made up of the first draft army of 500,000, the National Guard and the regulars. It is improbable that the first draft will be increased, but the government is arranging its finances for other drafts without the necessity of going to congress again for money.

Additional $2,000,000,000 to Allies.

Secretary McAdoo, committee members stated, told the finance committee it was estimated that an additional credit of $2,000,000,000 to be loaned to the allies also would be requested.

In addition to the war and navy estimates, members of the senate appropriations committee said the shipping board had already submitted estimates for additional appropriations of $500,000,000. For the board $800,000,000 already has been authorized.

Estimates for revenues in the war bill provide only for the first 500,000 men for eight months beginning July 1. The new estimates are designed to provide for the first army of a half million for an entire year, and in addition, for the second call of 500,000 men, because it would be necessary to buy their equipment before or soon after they are drafted.

In addition to the war department's additional estimates, the navy department is preparing estimates calling for $100,000,000 additional.

Billion More in Taxes.

It was learned unofficially that one plan under consideration is a raise by taxation a billion dollars more than the bill now provides and to authorize the government to make a new loan of $2,500,000,000.

Whether the loan would be in the form of new bonds or short term certificates has not been determined nor has the rate of interest.

The new taxes probably will be raised from excess profits, estates and income taxes.

Until the war and navy estimates are complete it is impossible to say when the greatest revenue raising measure ever considered by the government will go forward.

After hearing Secretary McAdoo, the committee agreed to hold up the bill until the new war estimates are received.

Official figures are said to show that excess profits in the United States are now at the rate of $5,000,000,000 a year.

War Management Is Assailed.

In a bitter debate between Democrats and Republicans on Senator Penrose's resolution to investigate the committee on public information, Senator Penrose asserted that administration of both war and navy departments was marked by indecision and inefficiency. He proposed a deep investigation.

Senator James (Dem.) of Kentucky, replying, referred to "copperheads and sniping" in the senate and said Senator Penrose was attempting to play "peanut politics" by making baseless charges.

The starting point of the debate was Senator Penrose's resolution attacking the official account of the fight between German submarines and American transports on the way to France. From that it branched out into a wide range of war topics and developed considerable adverse criticism of the administration from the Republicans, culminating in a vigorous speech by Senator James criticizing Senators Penrose and Lodge.

"If this spirit of criticism of those in charge of war continues," said Senator James, "America will be crippled at home—right in this chamber."

ANTIDRAFT PLOT UNCOVERED

Oklahoma Farmers Are Said to Be Organizing and Euying High-Powered Rifles.

Chickasha, Okla., July 25.—The sheriff's office here has started a rigid investigation of reports that an organized attempt to defeat the draft by armed resistance is being formed in the southern part of this county.

It is asserted that several secret meetings have been held and the members of the meeting pledged themselves to protestance. Sheriff's office reports say a number of high-powered rifles have been shipped into the community recently, and that farmers have been selling their cattle and buying firearms.

No More German Coal for Holland.

Amsterdam, July 25.—Germany has stopped the export of coal to Holland.

CALL STATE GUARDS

100,000 MORE TAKEN INTO FEDERAL SERVICE.

Militiamen of Nineteen States and the District of Columbia Summoned by Uncle Sam.

Washington, July 25.—Nearly 100,000 additional National Guardsmen were called into the federal service today by the war department as the second increment of state troops from 19 states and the District of Columbia. The state of Idaho is also included, but its Guard is now in the federal service doing guard duty.

Illinois and Massachusetts are the largest states called, the former making a division of 15,485 men. Massachusetts, although having a larger Guard than Illinois—15,740—is scheduled to go into camp with the militia of Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Vermont. A redistribution of this division undoubtedly will be made.

The Guard units which will be trained follow:

Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Vermont (Fifth division) to Charlotte, N. C.

New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and District of Columbia (eighth division) to Anniston, Ala.

North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee (Ninth division) to Greenville, S. C.

Illinois (Eleventh division) to Houston, Tex.

Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming (Twentieth division) to Palo Alto.

The third increment of the National Guard, comprising 17 states, will be called into service August 5, when all state troops will be drafted.

Brig. Gen. William Mann, chief of the militia bureau, has advised the general staff of the availability of 64 brigadier generals to be named to command the brigades of the converted National Guardsmen. These officers, with 16 major generals to command the 16 National Guard divisions, soon are to be nominated by the president.

GERMAN LOSSES ARE AWFUL

Crown Prince Sacrificing His Men Recklessly on the Aisne River Front.

Paris, July 25.—German losses, since their counter-offensive was opened against the French on the Aisne river front, are estimated by competent military critics at from 80,000 to 100,000 men. These figures include killed, wounded and prisoners.

With a recklessness that transcends all conceptions of humanity, the German crown prince flung his picked troops against the powerfully fortified French positions on the heights north of the Aisne, seeing them mowed down under the pitiless rain of steel from the French guns.

Dispatches from the front today reported extremely violent cannonades along the Chemin des Dames.

The Germans, following their custom, fired more than eight hundred shells into Reims Monday, many of them crashing into the wrecked cathedral. They bombarded Nancy, also, using one of their famous 20-mile-range guns. It was stated in dispatches from that sector that there were no casualties, although some houses were wrecked.

French aviators are searching for the location of this monster cannon, and when its emplacement is found it will be bombarded from the air. Earlier in the war a long-range gun that was used for bombarding Dunkirk was put out of action by airmen after its location was discovered.

CASH EXTORTED FROM SERBIA

Formal Charges Made Against Austria and Bulgaria, as Basis for After-War Claims.

Washington, July 25.—Serbia, in a formal note made public at the state department, charges Austria and Bulgaria with an illegal economic exploitation of occupied provinces, and gives notice that it "reserves the right of claiming at the time of the peace negotiations an indemnity corresponding to the damage inflicted on both the Serbian state and its subjects by these flagrant violations of public international law."

The note giving the first official glimpse behind the scenes in occupied Serbia claims that over $30,000,000 has been illegally extorted, as well as $1,200,000 in the form of forced subscriptions to Austrian war loans and the Austrian and Bulgarian Red Cross.

Serbian trade is stated to have been ruined by the abolition of the Serbian moratorium for the purpose of allowing enemy merchants to collect immediately with six per cent interest debts, estimated at $24,000,000.

U. S. SHIP SINKS BIG DIVER

Paris Dispatch Says American Steamer Sent Submarine to the Bottom.

Paris, July 25.—An American steamer recently sank a large German submarine, according to a dispatch to the Temps from Havre. While on a voyage from the United States the steamer was attacked by a submarine, and, replying to its fire, sent 25 shells at the under-water boat, which assumed a perpendicular position and disappeared beneath the water.

IDEA JUST SUITED DR. HALE

Famous Minister Declares That He Had Always Wanted His Church Called "The Exeter Club."

The sexton of Edward Everett Hale's church suffered from that convenient form of deafness that prevented a man from hearing what he does not wish to hear and enables him to hear what he does wish to hear. Occasionally, when sweeping the sidewalk in front of the church, some stranger would ask him for information, and his usual answer was a wave of the hand. "I'm totally deaf, totally deaf. You will have to ask someone in the church."

It often happened that Doctor Hale, in the midst of a busy day, would find the luncheon hour at hand and an important appointment still unmet. It was his custom to invite his caller into his study, and ask the janitress to make an oyster stew. The sexton resented Doctor Hale's informality.

The time came for a new sign to be placed on the front of the church, and Doctor Hale and the assistant pastor were standing in the vestry aisle discussing just what the wording of it should be. To their surprise the conversation was suddenly interrupted by the deaf sexton who stood far enough away to make doubtful the ability of a normal person's overhearing what had been said. "I'll tell you what to put on that sign!" he exclaimed. "Come in! Everybody welcome! Meals served at all hours of the day and night!"

"All right," said Doctor Hale quickly. "That's what we will do. I've always wanted to call the church 'The Exeter Club!'"—Youth's Companion.

Of No Value.

A reporter of a Canadian publication, who was not devoid of the sense of irony, was giving a detailed account of a recent automobile race. He concluded his article in this manner:

A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Woman Saved From a Serious Surgical Operation.

Louisville, Ky.—"For four years I suffered from female trouble, headaches, and nervousness. I could not sleep, had no appetite and it hurt me to walk. If I tried to do any work, I would have to lie down before it was finished. The doctors said I would have to be operated on and I simply broke down. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the result is I feel like a new woman. I am well and strong, do all my own house work and have an eight pound baby girl. I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which every woman dreads."—Mrs. NELLIE FISBACK, 1621 Christy Ave., Louisville, Ky.

Everyone naturally dreads the surgeon's knife. Sometimes nothing else will do, but many times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved the patient and made an operation unnecessary.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Beauty is not undervalued in the home life. Whatever brings the dweller into a finer life, what educates his eye, or hand or ear, whatever purifies or enlarges him, will well find a place there.

SANDWICH FILLINGS.

Chop fine two large sardines, one cupful of boiled ham and two small cucumber pickles. Make a paste by adding a tablespoonful of mayonnaise. Spread on thinly sliced white bread, lightly buttered.

Take a pint of finely chopped turkey meat, one-half cupful of finely ground almonds, blanched, mix with cream or mayonnaise. Spread on brown bread that has been buttered.

Chop the desired quantity of olives, mix with mayonnaise and spread on thin slices of buttered bread.

Chop equal quantities of veal and tongue, moisten with the stock from the tongue and season well with salt, paprika, a bit of scraped onion and nutmeg. Spread on thinly sliced buttered bread.

Add one cupful of finely ground ham to two cupfuls of chicken, also finely chopped. Add a piece of green pepper finely chopped, and mix with mayonnaise. Spread on buttered graham bread.

Neufchatel cheese softened with a little cream makes a delicious filling. Use one-half the quantity of pecans finely minced, a few chopped olives, and spread on buttered brown bread.

Soften a little cream cheese with cream and spread on buttered white bread cut in thin slices. Then cover the cheese with bits of chopped preserved ginger and candied-lemon peel.

Crisp lettuce leaves dipped in French dressing and served at once for sandwich filling are most desirable.

Chop three hard-boiled eggs, season with onion juice, and softened butter, spread on buttered bread.

Chop equal parts of pecans and celery and mix with mayonnaise which has been well seasoned with grated lemon peel. Spread on thin buttered slices of white bread.

Inefficiency in the home is as great a danger to the state as quackery in medicine.

SOME GOOD OLD SOUTHERN RECIPES.

Creole Tongue.—Boil a fresh beef tongue, and after skinning it and trimming it carefully, add the following sauce: Into a double boiler put a glass of currant jelly and a cupful of orange juice, a quarter of a cupful of lemon juice, a tablespoonful of raisins, a quarter of a pound each of butter, currants, citron, chopped almonds, all well blended, and soak in the fruit juice and pour over the tongue, after it has become well heated.

Coquilles of Chicken.—Stew cold chicken with mushrooms, cut up and all highly seasoned with butter, pepper, salt and a tablespoonful of rich cream for each ramekin. Put the chicken in the ramekins, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake; serve hot with green peas.

Chilli Sauce.—Pare a dozen large tomatoes and peel two onions; add four medium sized peppers, all chopped. Stir and add two tablespoonfuls of salt, two of sugar, one tablespoonful of cinnamon and three cupfuls of vinegar. Boil for half an hour, stirring often. Bottle and seal.

Lobster Sauce.—Have ready a pint of lobster meat, fresh or canned. Heat a tablespoonful of butter, add a tablespoonful of chopped onion, one green pepper and a half cupful of rich tomato sauce. Cook for five minutes, then add a cupful of clear chicken broth, cook five minutes longer, then add the lobster and salt to taste. As soon as it is heated through, it is ready to serve.

Cheese Omelet.—A cupful of cheese, a cupful of cream, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and an egg beaten very light, seasoned with salt mixed quickly and put into a buttered baking dish to bake, makes a most dainty supper dish.

Orange Salad.—Cut thick rounds of orange, rind and all, and place a thin slice of Southern onion of the same size, sandwich fashion, between two slices. Place on lettuce and serve with French dressing.

And Heroes Are So Few. Often the boy who needs a hero to follow is the one who may be the worst fellow in the community if the need be not supplied. For a boy must have his hero.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Wanted to Blow It Out. A novel corn cure was tried by a girl in Hawarden (Scotland) recently. She was suspected of having stolen a quantity of high explosive, and when on trial explained that she took it to cure a corn.

SPECIAL SESSION MAY BE CALLED

War Conditions Likely to Require Meeting of the Legislature This Fall.

EMERGENCIES MUST BE MET

Such Extra Sessions Were Necessary During the Civil War—Governor Philipp Will Not Act Unless It Is Absolutely Necessary.

Madison.—The legislature of Wisconsin will be called into extra session to meet any emergencies arising out of the war.

Governor Philipp said the lawmakers will not be called back until absolutely necessary, yet the general opinion is that with the war another session within a year is probable, during the Civil war the state held annual, instead of biennial, sessions of the legislature and yet two adjourned and two or three extra sessions were necessary to meet emergencies.

Game Bill to Come Up. The big fish and game bill which was signed by the governor will be the subject of discussion when the legislature is again called into extra session. The protest of lake shore fishermen against the provisions of the bill prompted the governor to tell Senator Timothy Burke of Green Bay that in case of a legislative call the fish bill would be one of the measures which he would include.

The governor did not feel that the measure should be sent back to the legislature during the closing days but agreed that if there was a call for a special session fish laws would be one of the things that would be included.

Object to Perch Provision. One of the objections made against the fish and game law is that the size of perch caught commercially is increased from seven to eight inches.

Fishermen of the vicinity of Green Bay have made such a protest against the bill, and the conservation commission has agreed with much of the protest, that in case of a special session this feature of the law will again be considered.

While military matters will probably necessitate the call of the legislature, a number of other subjects may need consideration. The effect of the federal food enactments may necessitate changes in some of Wisconsin's laws.

To Investigate Coal Situation. Indications are that investigations will be made into the coal situation, the present paper situation and other staple articles of necessity. While no application has yet been made to the attorney general for beginning investigations of this character, it is evident from the interest manifested in different sections of the state in the measure that such investigations against the price-boosting monopolies will be asked for at once.

Governor Philipp has signed the Baxter bill creating a state cement purchasing commission. This law allows this commission to purchase cement for the state and it is believed that by this method many thousands of dollars can be saved to the county and to the state.

Governor Philipp has vetoed the Saugen bill to increase the rates of allowance to be paid by the state to the county for the care of the chronic insane cared for in county institutions. He also vetoed the bill which provides that appeals shall be made from probate courts to the supreme court without the intermediary of the circuit court. Both vetoes have been sustained.

"This increase was made upon the theory that it is justified by the increased cost of living," declared the governor, in vetoing the Saugen bill. "If the state's interests had been properly protected by this bill by giving it the same increased allowance that is given to the county the proposed law would not have produced as great an inequality and I would have given it my approval."

Regulates Fairs. Evidently the legislature was anxious to pass a law regulating the conduct of fairs, expositions and carnivals by societies and associations receiving state aid. Discovery was made at the executive office that two identical bills on this subject, one from the senate and one from the assembly, had passed during the rush days of the session. The assembly recalled one of these bills so that it could be nonconcurrent.

The bill provides that the secretary of state is authorized, with the consent of the governor, to deputize any employee or inspector otherwise in the employ of the state to make inspection of any fair, exposition or exhibit of any association receiving state aid.

Building Inspection. A considerable number of bills were passed relating to building inspection, fire prevention and housing. One bill defines more clearly the power of the industrial commission to supervise building operations throughout the state. Another bill transfers the work of fire prevention from the insurance department to the industrial commission. Still another act allows cities to establish city plan commissions, with authority to lay out residential and business districts, and a fourth bill allows Milwaukee to proceed at once with this work of districting the city.

Three Banks Taken Over.

Three state banks were taken over by the banking department through order of Banking Commissioner A. E. Kuolt today on the charge that the banks were not safely conducted under section 2022 of the statutes. The banks were taken over are Preston state bank, Preston, total deposits $91,862.21; Readstown bank, Readstown, total deposits $102,355.59; State Bank of Hersey, total deposits $29,052.08. This action was taken by the banking department for the purpose of conserving the assets of these banks and avoiding, if possible, a serious loss to depositors with a possibility of reorganizing and reopening the banks within a short time.

"It appears that within the past two or three months and as late as July 7, a certain Minneapolis corporation purchased the controlling interest in these institutions, although this fact was not properly reported to the banking department, nor was the stock transferred in accordance with the law," says Commissioner A. E. Kuolt in an official statement issued this noon. "This, however, was discovered by examinations made by the commissioners of the banking department who found this corporation kiting checks with certain Minnesota banks in which they were interested. A thorough examination was made and the Minnesota banking department notified and a conference had with that department. "As soon as this corporation secured control of these banks they proceeded to invest the funds in worthless securities of numerous subsidiary corporations organizing for the purpose of deceiving the public and with the evident intention of eventually looting the banks of all their funds. The banking department has tried hard to keep promoters from other states from gaining control over the Wisconsin state banks and this but another evidence of the danger of listening to strangers about whom you know nothing. The stock not having been legally transferred the old stockholders and directors will be held for any loss to depositors if they occur. Serious loss is not expected, and there is no cause for alarm for the banks, as a rule, are in splendid condition."

New Guard Officers Named.

Governor Philipp on Wednesday commissioned 23 new officers to serve in the Wisconsin troops. The officers commissioned are as follows:

George C. Eilers, St. Francis, captain, with rank of first lieutenant, Fifth infantry; Walter Gauginski, Milwaukee, captain of Company I, Fifth infantry; Alfred E. Quartz, Milwaukee, captain of machine gun company, Fifth infantry; Thomas E. Sweetman, Milwaukee, first lieutenant of machine gun company, Fifth infantry; Edmund T. Casark, Milwaukee, second lieutenant, assigned to Fifth infantry; Dr. Raymond R. Kenney, Milwaukee, first lieutenant, medical corps; Dr. James Philipp Dean, Madison, first lieutenant, medical corps; Jerome H. Cole, Milwaukee, first lieutenant, battalion adjutant, Fifth infantry; William F. Rowles, Galesville, captain Company L, Sixth infantry; William W. Wisner, Bayward, captain Company H, sixth infantry; Herman G. Helstrom, Eau Claire, first lieutenant of infantry, Company K, Sixth infantry, station Durand; Lyman W. Pole, Ashland, first lieutenant Company G, Sixth infantry; Wilber R. Winch, Meunish, first lieutenant Company E, Fourth infantry; James T. Hale, Watertown, first lieutenant Company E, Fifth infantry; Frank A. Inda, Wautoma, second lieutenant Company L, Fifth infantry; Ralph H. Drum, Ladysmith, first lieutenant, Troop K, First cavalry; Frank H. Faucher, Racine, first lieutenant, Dental corps; Joseph Bombuski, Berlin, second lieutenant Company G, Sixth infantry; Lawrence V. Murphy, Watertown, second lieutenant Company E, Fifth infantry; Scott A. Cairy, Plattville, first lieutenant Company I, Fourth infantry; William M. Uptegrove, Ashland, captain Company G, Sixth infantry; Louis Self, Mellen, second lieutenant Company C, Sixth infantry.

State Insane Patients Increase.

There was a slight increase in the insane population of the state in state and county institutions, during the past month, according to the report of the state board of control. The total number of insane in institutional care increased from 8,069 to 8,111. There are 124 on the waiting lists for admission to the tubercular sanitariums in the state. The total number of people in the state under institutional care is 12,284 as compared with 12,254 last month.

Hanson Has Record.

Carl Hanson, the war-horse of the assembly, has left for his home in Manitowoc, after concluding his fourth consecutive term in the assembly. He completes his fourth term with his record of not missing a roll call remaining untroubled.

To Protect Medical Students.

Believing that service in the army will seriously interfere with the future of medical students who will be needed, both during the war and after peace is declared, the state council of defense has suggested to Washington that furloughs be granted for such students selected in the draft. Resolutions setting forth the facts were presented by medical men making this request and were adopted. The action follows the protest of deans of medical schools all over the country including the University of Wisconsin.

Poultry Flocks Smaller.

Reports recently gathered concerning 5,238 flocks of poultry on farms and in small towns in all parts of the country show that the average number of hens per flock this year is 107, as compared with 146 in 1914. This information, which was obtained by an incubator manufacturer in the middle West, indicates that shortage of supply has been an important factor in producing present high prices for poultry and eggs. It appears that a very considerable number of poultry raisers have sacrificed many of their hens for the sake of immediate profits—a policy the effects of which are now being felt by the entire country.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

You can't afford to neglect kidney weakness and make it easy for gravel, dropsy or Bright's disease to take you. Get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills today. They have helped thousands. They should help you.

Personal Reports of Real Cases

A WISCONSIN CASE. Emery Newkirk, retired farmer, State St., Mauston, Wis., says: "I know Doan's Kidney Pills are good for I have used them and had fine results. I had weak kidneys and had pains across my back. My kidneys were in bad shape, too, as was shown by the condition of the secretions. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I used them and was soon rid of the pains and other trouble. I improved in every way and am glad to say that I have had no return attacks of the complaint."

A MICHIGAN CASE. Mrs. Anna Wright, 412 Vermont Ave., Detroit, Mich., says: "Several years ago I was suffering from kidney trouble. There was a bearing-down pain in my back and the kidney secretions contained sediment. I tired easily, had no energy and had trouble in breathing. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I tried them and they helped me from the start. Four or five boxes made a complete cure and I am glad to say that the cure has been permanent."

1,500 FEET OF TRACTORS TO BE SEEN AT THE STATE FAIR

1,200 Acres Will Be Used For Morning Demonstrations, Electric Trains Carrying Crowds to Them From the Fair Grounds - Aids Farmer in Solving Labor Problem.

Milwaukee, July 30.-Farm labor has been and is scarce, and the Wisconsin farmer more than ever is interested in machinery that takes the place of the farm hand, who isn't to be found.

YEAR'S GREATEST AUTO SHOW.

The Auto Show at the Wisconsin State Fair will be the largest given in the world in 1917. In addition to the 52,000 square feet of new cars, there will be 50,000 square feet of secondhand cars.

demostration that should be seen by every farmer in the Badger State. The show of tractors will occupy a space in the center of the fair grounds with a frontage of 1,500 feet.

every make of tractor of which there are over fifty, sold in Wisconsin, and perhaps many makes not yet on sale in this state.

Simply showing a tractor does not suffice, so officials of the State Fair have obtained 1,200 acres of land west of the fair grounds for demonstrations during the mornings of Fair week.

This land lies along the Interurban railway, and electric trains will leave the main gates of the State Fair every half hour up to noon carrying people to the demonstrations.

No other State Fair in the United States has taken up the tractor idea, but many are planning to follow Wisconsin's example next year.

Wisconsin Fair officials are striving each year to make the State Fair stronger industrially as well as along agricultural lines, and the tractor show and demonstration is a result of this policy.
