YOUNG STUDENT TAKES OWN LIFE

Apparently in good health Miss Violet Hangartner daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hangartner, 371 Morris street, fourteen year old pupil at the High School took her own life Tuesday morning by drinking the contents of an ounce bottle of carbolic acid.

Miss Hangartner had been in good health, but seemed somewhat despondent for the past few days. This morning she called a friend and told her she would not be able to attend school this morning. When asked why she wasn't going she said, "I can't tell you why." A little later she appeared at the High School and went directly to one of the toilet rooms. There she was found at 9:30 o'clock by one of the teachers. She was in a semi-conscious condition at that time. Medical aid was summoned at once, and the girl was taken to the hospital, where she succumbed after fifteen minutes. A coroner's examination showed that she had taken most of the contents of an ounce bottle of carbolic acid.

The body was taken to the Candish Undertaking parlors. The untimely death of Miss Hangartner comes as a shock to her many friends. She was beloved by her classmates for her bright disposition and friendly manner. She was born in this city, and has spent her life here, attending the public schools and later the High School. She was a Freshman in the High School this year.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hangartner, one sister Lillie M. and one brother, Walter and the following aunts and uncles: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pohlman, Mrs. Prosch all of this city; J. J. Prosch of Marathon, Wisconsin; Mrs. Lena Weiss of Rockford, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Busch, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Martin, Miss Louise Hangartner of Campbellsport; Mrs. Lydia Petri of Wayne, Wis.; Charles Hangartner of Garber, Okla.; Mrs. Mary Senft of Topoka, Kan., and Arnold Hangartner of Chicago.

Members of the little girl's family and her friends can throw no light whatever on the affair. The family was naturally prostrated by the terrible news. Neither the father nor the mother were in condition to speak of the affair, and her companions and friends were utterly unable to ascribe any reason for her rash act.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

DUNDEE

Mrs. Albert Newton died Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at her home in Dundee, after a lingering illness of seven weeks. She is survived by her husband, three sons, Leon and Alvin of Mayville, and Bert of Dundee; also one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Calhoun of Mayville. There are also two brothers, Louis Kinyon of Oakfield, and John of Brandon. One sister, Mrs. Charles Lighthall of Fargo, N. D. The funeral was held on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence and then the body was taken to Mayville, where services were held at the Methodist church. Rev. F. Dunkley officiated and interment was held at Mount Pleasant cemetery.

ROAD TO HAPPINESS.

Be amiable, cheerful and good natured and you are much more likely to be happy. You will find this difficult, if not impossible, however, when you are constantly troubled with constipation. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and get rid of that and it will be easy. These tablets not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

The allotment of meat purchases for the Army, Navy, and Marine Corp and the allies has been consolidated in a single bureau, with headquarters in Chicago.

HEARING IS HELD IN MATHIEU CASE

John Mathieu of this village, charged with first degree murder, was arraigned in Justice Carew's Court on Tuesday afternoon, as the result of the killing of his wife, Mrs. Christina Mathieu who died from the gun shot wound April 9.

The examination Monday afternoon was merely preliminary for, because of the nature of the case it cannot be tried in a justice court. Mrs. Mary Grissman, sister of Mrs. Mathieu, who resides at 130 Rose street, Fond du Lac and who was present at the time that her sister was shot, was the first witness. She told the whole story of the affair which ran in part as follows: "A strange man brought Mathieu to the house as the deceased Mrs. Mathieu was planting slips out in the shed. There was some discussion as to why Mrs. Mathieu had not sent some dogs out to Arthur's who resides in the country. Mrs. Mathieu said that she did not see why it was necessary for the defendant to come there to torment her.

Mrs. Mathieu then returned to her work of planting slips and took some of them and put them on the window sill. Mathieu followed her, according to Mrs. Grissman.

Finally Mr. Mathieu accused the deceased of having taken goods that did not belong to her which she denied. One thing led to another. Finally Mrs. Grissman told Mathieu that he could not stay in the house. Mathieu then proposed to rent a few rooms in the city and live with his wife. Mrs. Mathieu said that he had not supported her in Kewaskum and couldn't in the city and that she had been his slave for 19 years and would live with him no longer. At this moment Mr. Mathieu is supposed to have pulled out a gun and shot his wife. Two more shots were fired, one going into the wall and the other into the china closet, and with a fourth shot Mr. Mathieu attempted to end his own life by placing the gun upon his chest and firing.

The bullet wound inflicted upon Mrs. Mathieu entered the right breast' Chief of Police Nolan then testified that he had been called to the scene and found the .32 caliber revolver with the four shots discharged. Mrs. Grissman also testified that the gun which was shown was similar to the one that was used in the shooting. Mathieu was bound over for trial in the circuit court and is being held without bail.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

HEN AND LITTLE CHICKS BRING IN GOOD MONEY

The hen and little chicks, donated to the local Red Cross, by Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Campbell of St. Michaels, and which were disposed of at the Republican House last Saturday evening were awarded to Wm. Endlich; who in turn donated same back to the Red Cross, and the outfit was auctioned off to the highest bidder by Auctioneer Geo. F. Brandt. R. L. Davies, being the highest bidder, was given the flock which according to the price they brought will be a very valuable acquisition to almost anybody's henery. The entire proceeds of the raffle amounted to $62.50. Landlord W. F. Schultz and Dr. Geo. F. Brandt had charge of the affair and turned over the entire amount to the Red Cross. The local unit feel very grateful to the Messrs. Schultz and Brandt for their aid and also to Mr. and Mrs. Campbell for their very liberal donation.

FIRST TO ADOPT FATHERLESS CHILD OF FRANCE

J. B. Day is the first one from this city to adopt one of the "Fatherless Children of France." Mr. Day signed one of the adoption cards last Friday, and Tuesday received word from Madison that he has been assigned Jaquet Perisse. The age of the child and the place of his residence will be supplied to Mr. Day later. The condition of the little child back of the battle line of France, whose homes have been laid waste by the Kaiser's hordes, is appealing to many Americans. The children have lost their fathers through the war but their mothers are trying to keep the homes together. The sum of $36.50 will support a child for a year. Mr. Day is to be commended for his efforts to help, and no doubt others will follow his example.—Hartford Press.

APPEAL TO SURRENDER WHEAT FLOUR

Geo. H. Schmidt, Assistant Federal Food Administrator for Washington County, has received an urgent appeal to ask all householders to surrender all wheat flour they hold which they do not absolutely need. The appeal is made from Washington for all who hold more flour than is essential for present use to give it up as a patriotic act to the grocer from whom they made the purchase, releasing an equal amount of flour for forwarding to France for our boys in the trenches and for our allies.

There are a large number of loyal American Citizens who will be pleased to avail themselves of this opportunity to return all surplus or excess supplies of flour they may now have. Many will gladly make sacrifices in making such returns.

There are unfortunately others who must be reminded that there is a specific Federal Law against "hoarding" which provides a penalty of $5,000.00 fine or two years' imprisonment or both for Hoarders. (Those who have more than their reasonable needs, particularly applicable to flour)

A final opportunity is now given to such persons to surrender their surplus supply of flour and thus protect themselves against the possibility of prosecution in the Federal Court. But we know that the feeling of our Wisconsin people is such that they will respond without drastic action.

At this moment, our boys, your sons and relatives, are fighting with their backs against the wall, against the invading German hordes. The French people and the French armies have had their rations cut down to the bone and even our own boys during this terrible struggle now going on are in danger of being out of food if we do not respond to the call of our Government.

The plan in short is that the request that all householders return every pound of wheat flour that they own, which is unbroken in original packages of twenty-four and one-half pounds or multiples thereof. The person so offering returned flour provided such price does not exceed twelve dollars per barrel.

Dealers will keep an exact record of all such lost specifying the name and address of persons returning flour; amount, brand, type of package. The flour so received by dealers may be at once put in the regular channels of trade and disposed of, being sold regularly with substitutes with a knowledge that equal amounts will be at once released for foreign shipment.

Flour returned by farmers ground from their own wheat shall be paid on the basis of the present price of wheat at local elevator or mill plus the cost of grinding and milling.

Flour reports should be mailed each Monday to the county food administrator, and if any dealer is unwilling to receive this flour, that fact should be immediately reported.

LETTER FROM JOS. WESTERMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Westerman of St. Bridgets received the following letter from their son, Private Joseph Westerman from France:

Dear Folks:—

"I just received your first letter since I am over here, last Thursday it was dated sometime in February, the same time we were at Camp Merritt, New Jersey. And Friday I got your other one dated March 14. About that box of candy and the helmet I didn't get them yet, maybe I will get same later or maybe it is lost. I only got one Statesman since I am here, and that was last Tuesday, from the last week in February. So you got that card which I left at Hoboken, New Jersey the day we left port. I wrote two letters since I am over here you must have received them by this time. Our letters go without stamps. We are here nearly six weeks now. We moved three times since we are here. At the first place we only stayed two days then we had a three days' ride and moved to a place about 2 1/2 miles from a town. There we had to sleep in a farmer's barn for three weeks and didn't do anything except clear ground and build barracks and make roads for others to come in and during all that time we didn't have nothing but cold and disagreeable weather and rain nearly every day, the company had to go out nearly every day rain or shine, but I was lucky enough to get out of it. I only worked three days then I got sick and laid around for two and one-half weeks, I had a swollen tonsil and couldn't eat or drink a thing for four days and then I lived on bread soaked in milk for nearly 2 weeks I was nearly starved to death. There was a doctor coming around every morning to attend to sick men in the company and he took care of me. Now I am alright again and can eat the same as before. Last week we had another days' ride and now we are right in a little town, we are all spread apart around town living in sheds and stone buildings because that's all they have in this country. We have no beds or cots here; we sleep right on the ground floors, of course we have hay and straw enough to make a nice bed. The weather now is nice and warm and it has quit raining. Our Battalion known as the 119th Machine Gun Ba. is now split up, our company is transferred to the 120th Machine Gun Ba., they are all in this town with us, the other three companies of our Battalion got transferred into different Machine Gun Ba. This Battalion has their Battalion Priest with them and half of our company are Catholics, so we all had a chance to make our Easter duty this morning. That's the first chance we had to go to church since we are here. We can go every Sunday as long as we are in training camps. I can't give you much information about what we are doing or where we are located, although we can say a little more now than we could at first when we got here, we weren't allowed to write hardly anything not even that we were in France and the date on a letter and the date we landed. We landed the 4th of March, it took us just two weeks to get across. It is a very nice country here only the buildings are all old stone buildings and the people live old fashioned. The stuff here is just like nothing compared to U. S. We can't buy anything decent to smoke and very seldom can buy any fruit or candy. I wish you could send me some good American cigars, cigarettes and some standard smoking tobacco. We had one pay day since we are here and it was all French money, it's altogether different than U. S. Well I didn't quite get my letter finished Sunday, so I'll have to finish it tonight. It rained again last night and a little all day, and was cold again today I suppose it will stay that way again for a while. I suppose you have nice weather or are busy seeding. How is Ed and everybody give them all my best regards. So Carl is at Camp Grant yet. I thought sure he was on the way over here soon. Well I'll have to close now with regards to all from,

Private Jos. Westerman,

Co. D, 120th Machine Gun Ba. 32nd, Division, A. E. F.

BRAVERY OF FOREFATHERS LIVES AGAIN IN DEEDS OF AMERICANS

Yankee Troops in France Laugh at Shell Fire, Jest at Shrapnel Spraying and Take Whatever Comes With Bold, Courageous Spirit That Makes Them Invincible—Sergeant Braves Death to Save His Horses.

With the American Army in France, plunged from their world of sham battles, training camps and dreams to a meliorism of fierce realities, the American soldiers are proving they are made of the same stuff which carried their forefathers through the tests of the trying periods of American history, writes Don Martin in the New York Herald.

I have seen them in action. I have seen them under shell fire which literally sprayed them with flying earth and shrapnel, and their relatives and friends back in New York, California, Maine, Florida, Montana or wherever you please, may take the word of an eyewitness that they have already taken their places among the most valorous and sturdy fighters of this gigantic world war.

Very recently I visited them in a little village as close to the enemy lines as units can be quartered. I had gone to see the artillerymen at their task and instead of anticipated tranquility ran into the fiercest kind of excitement—the first these particular Yankees had known. It all burst suddenly and unexpectedly, just as most war developments break.

Shells Break 1,200 Yards Away. From the rear window of headquarters in charge of an American captain and a French officer shells could be seen breaking on a sloping hillside. The nearest one while I was observing fell perhaps 1,200 feet away. They were aimed at an American battery.

"It's nothing," said the captain, a stalwart, handsome man, who only a few years ago was a renowned football player in a Michigan university. "They throw over a few shells every day, but they never hit the town."

With the musical hissing of the shells for an accompaniment we conversed about news in America and had luncheon—a good luncheon, too. There was no talk of war. Beside the table at which we ate was a sagging cot with wrinkled blankets. The captain sleeps there.

"Sometimes at night," he said, "the shelling is pretty heavy and it's hard to sleep, but I'm getting used to it."

Clerk Indifferent to Shelling. Just beside the open window in the rear—the window was more like a barn door than a window and had no glass—a clerk was peering away at a typewriter. The dropping of the shells made no impression upon him. At home, I learned, he is a clerk in an express office—a little, well-groomed youth who has dreams of future commercial greatness.

"These shells come a little too close for comfort, don't they?" I observed. "They won't get any nearer."

To a war amateur the spectacle of shells striking so near yet coming no nearer, when it would have been so easy to blow the town to bits, was a matter of wonder.

"Yes, they could hit the town, of course," was the captain's comment, "but they never have shelled it. Sort of an unwritten understanding, I imagine. They have towns similarly situated which we could shell, but they don't want them shelled."

Other understandings were that the Germans spare some towns because their own people have property in them. Whatever may be the reason for sparing certain towns all reasoning was wrong with respect to this particular village where I was having luncheon. We had just finished when a noncommissioned officer entered the upstairs room, considerably out of breath, but in no way excited, and after saluting said:

Battery Connections Broken. "Our battery is being shelled with gas and telephone connections have been broken."

Hurried orders were issued. It was all done quickly and quietly. The football player, now a captain, acted as if he were coaching an old team at school. Presently men were seen scurrying off through the fields toward the shell-swept zone wherein the batteries lay. They dropped that two or three times, but all crossed the danger belt safely and disappeared in the more thickly sattered region. This action had just been put into effect when another soldier appeared before the captain and, saluting and standing erect, said:

"I have to report, sir, that the shell fire is becoming more severe. Shells are now falling in the village."

The nearby whizz of the flying things and the boom and crash at the end of the street gave terrifying emphasis to the sharp cut words of the soldier. No one was so vexing as to ask about the "unwritten understanding" not to bomb the town. Where shells had been falling at the rate of two every three minutes, they were now dropping at the rate of four or five a minute. They were striking in many parts of the village.

There being nothing to do in the town word was given to evacuate. In a moment French and Americans were streaming slowly off into the fields and along the roadways and in five minutes only a few American and French officers and ambulances were to be seen in the streets, which were frequently filled with clouds of brick dust and flying bits of masonry and steel.

Just then the great French guns began to add their boom to the din of the enemy artillery. One, two, three, four, five and on up to twenty came the ripping, tearing detonations. First a flash, then a whine, then a spongy roar from somewhere "over there." In the midst of the fanfare and scurry a sergeant—and it is permissible to state that he came from Missouri—stepped up to the captain, who was directing his men to places of safety or to neighboring sections, and said:

"There are 50 horses in a very dangerous position. What shall be done with them?"

"It is too dangerous to risk a trip—leave them."

Refuses to Desert Horses. The sergeant paused a moment. A look of disappointment came into his eyes. I learned later that he has always loved horses.

"I can get them out," he said, looking the captain straight in the eye.

There was no further conversation. The sergeant trotted off up the street into what might well have been the pit of death. A few minutes later he came into view again behind a galloping string of horses which shot off into a field to join a pack of mules which slowly and with traditional persistency had been moving nearer the spot where shells were falling with greatest frequency.

And over in the batteries, around which shells had been falling for several hours, the artillerymen had taken to their duzons, where they were sitting about like gnomes with their gas masks in position. Gas shells had been dropping all about them, but fortunately the wind was such as to whiff it away from them.

With others I moved down the road a few hundred feet and entered a grazing field, where I stood with about 90 boys from various parts of the United States. We could see the German shells falling not far away and could see the flash and hear the boom of the allied guns.

Gazing at the people moving across the fields, a soldier from Chicago—in every regiment there are men from practically every state and every big city back home—said sententiously:

"If the people at home could see this and then realize that their own fathers, mothers and children'll get the same thing if the Germans ain't licked I guess we'd have an army of twenty million, huh?"

Shortly there was a lull in the fighting. In the period of quiet which came there was a release of the tension which had been quite successfully camouflaged. Everyone broke out in comment, such as does a person who has just come through a painful dental operation.

"What's the news from back home?" one of the privates asked me.

"What do you want to hear about?" I asked.

"Has Grover Alexander gone in the army?"

"Where'd they bury Bob Fitzsimmons?"

"Did Teddy Roosevelt get over that operation?"

"Is it true they've cut down the salaries of baseball players?"

Just News From Home Wanted. These four questions came quickly from four different soldiers and when they were answered the boys seemed satisfied that everything at home is all right.

Unimportant subjects were dropped instantly when a shell splattered over the earth a few hundred feet away, causing everyone to move to a new region. In a minute the bombardment was fiercer than before. Down in the narrow valley immediately in the path of the shells' flight five Frenchmen were planting vegetables. The bombardment made no alteration in their movements.

At the end of three hours, when dusk was gathering, the firing was being maintained from both sides, but the explosives were no longer dropping in the village, and the soldiers moved back into their billets and their places of occupation.

One who was privileged to go to the next village and thence to return to a region of complete security could not help realizing how different was his lot from that of the hundreds of young Americans—courageous all, too—who have no alternative but to return to the village which, as I have said, could be completely blown off the face of France if such were the determination of the Huns who were belaboring with their guns only two miles away.

MINERS STRIKE BECAUSE OF SLACKER EXEMPTION

Gebu, Wyo.—This little mining town is 100 per cent patriotic. An assistant postmaster was given a deferred draft classification because of his job. All the miners in the village—200 strong—went out on strike as a result.

The strike lasted 36 hours until the assistant postmaster agreed to enlist. Whereupon the miners called a mass meeting and voted money from the union treasury to care for the man's family during his absence. Only four of the 200 strikers were born in America.

AVERAGE AN ACRE AN HOUR

New Records Set for British Plowing With Tractors in Spring Tests.

London.—New English records for tractor plowing were set in the annual spring tests at the new government tractor school of instruction at Mossley Hill. Two types of light tractor plow of the model adopted by the government as most suitable for British requirements worked for 12 consecutive hours.

The ground was a light soil and the tractors were required to pull four-furrow plows, the depth of the furrow being six inches and the land fairly level, but slightly rocky.

The work accomplished averaged 11.75 acres each, and the fuel consumption was 2.46 gallons per acre. The engines were run continuously for 12 hours.

THROUGH STORM WITH BABY

Aged Pennsylvania Woman Walks 12 Miles to Get Relief for Family.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Mrs. Margaret Kemp, a widow of fifty-two years and the mother of six children, walked 12 miles over the snow-crueted mountain roads with her youngest child in her arms just to get warm.

When she got here she pleaded for some means of getting warmth for the rest of her family, which she said was freezing in the shack called "home" on Bald mountain.

The mother and her baby were sent to the United Charities and relief was dispatched to the children. They had neither shoes nor stockings, little underwear and ragged outer garments, and were huddled under a few old horse blankets and quilts. All were brought here.

HAS SMALLEST FEET IN ARMY

Man at Camp Meade Has Plenty of Room in Smallest Shoe "Q."

Camp Meade, Md.—Fighting men at Camp Meade take due pride in their celebrities, but there is one distinctive man here who hates to be told about his distinction. It is Arthur L. Bunn of the Twenty-eighth engineers.

Bunn is distinguished as the man with the smallest foot in the whole United States army. Socks size three and a half just fit Bunn, and his feet have plenty of room to spare in the smallest shoes the "Q. M." issues.

Crossbar taffetas and all the glugging patterns in taffetas that are classed as "gingham taffetas," appearing at just the time when the mood of the public made their success certain. Women are in the humor for quiet and conservative dressing and gingham taffetas are the most unpretentious of silks. This modest, unassuming quality is merely a matter of suggestion—they borrow it from the gingham they imitate in colors and patterns. They "fit in" to provide the simple frocks and practical separate skirts that are to furnish the coolest clothes for mid-summer. This silk interpretation of cotton goods has a distinction of its own.

The light-weight separate skirt of silk, worn with the sheer blouse of crepe or filmy cotton, spells comfort for the warmest weather joined to neatness that looks cool. The skirt portrayed in the picture shows a colored cross-bar taffeta which resolves into a big plaid with its narrow bars of white running in groups of two and three bars each, over the surface. It is a good model for a slender figure with the bars running in an up-and-down and straight horizontal direction about the figure. A girde which widens into a yoke, a tunic with much unevenness in length, and a wide sash end, finished with a silk tassel, make this a somewhat complicated affair made entirely of the taffetas. Nevertheless it looks like gingham and announces itself as merely a neat and comfortable article with no presumption of importance. It is to be recognized as a part of every summer outfit. Worn with sheer white-blouses and with white low shoes and thin silk stockings it will prove refreshing to look at and the least burdensome of all summer clothes.

Gingham taffetas are at their best made up in simple ways. We have long since learned that simplicity does not mean an absence of cleverness or originality. These, in conjunction with simplicity, make skirts of gingham taffetas an allurement that discriminating dressers are not likely to overlook when they assemble their summer wardrobes.

America's resources in the production of millinery and millinery materials are being put more and more to the test as it becomes more and more difficult to get space for shipping goods from Europe. So far the public has not suffered any lack of hats or trim-the slices. It is bound with crepe georgette in pink and its crown is entirely covered with the crepe which has been made into French folds and braided. Clusters of small roses are set about the crown and a bow of wide, soft satin ribbon is placed under the brim at the back, making this hat a good choice for the debutante. The bow at the back might be replaced with flowers to make the hat less youthful looking.

The little black hat of Ibsert belongs to the present season—we have not seen its like before. It is faced with dark natter blue divyvetin. Little, black, enameled wings, poised in pairs all over it, show that it is prepared to move in any direction, before winds from all quarters of the compass.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

PETER GNOME'S CLUB.

A great many of the new members of Peter Gnome's club, which was called the Every-Day-Is-Nice club, did not know just how the club had been started in the first place.

They all knew Peter Gnome and Billie Brownie were the very best of friends, and that as soon as Peter had started his club, the brownies had been the first to join.

They knew that Peter Gnome hated weather grumblers and since belonging to the club they thought weather grumblers were very foolish. They had found that there never was a day upon which one could not enjoy something.

And they had discovered how much happier they always were to live every day as it came along. Yes, they thought the club was splendid and they were happy to belong to it.

Still they were new members and they did want to find out how the club started in the very first place of all. And so they asked Peter Gnome if he would tell them.

He agreed and they called a meeting to make sure that all members would hear of the first days and of the starting of the club.

"You are right," said Peter, "when you say that Billie Brownie and the other brownies were the first members. And I will tell you the story I told them. It holds the reason for starting the club."

Peter Gnome cleared his throat, put on his spectacles and with one foot upon a low stump and the other on the ground he began: "I once had a talk with the King of the Clouds," he said, "and this is what he told me:

"Peter," he said, as the rain drops fell over me, for he can't talk unless it rains—that is he can't talk outside his home in the clouds. Peter," he said again, "I feel very sad at times."

"Why, Cloud King?" I asked. "Because Peter," he said, "they don't like me down on the earth. Now the sun is popular. He's a jolly, warm-hearted old fellow and they like him. But they don't care much for me."

"Oh, Cloud King," I said, "you mustn't be discouraged. And you mustn't be unhappy. What would the farmers do without you? Think how you help the crops. And think too, how the flowers love you. You make them grow. You give them drinks of water."

"How often too I have heard the birds chirp for water. Their little mouths would be so dry and they would open their beaks and beg you to look after them. What would the streams and lakes and ponds do without you! Lots of things love you, Cloud King. Don't weep too much. Weep tears of joy but not tears of unhappiness."

"He felt better after this and said, 'Peter Gnome, you have done my damp heart good. I am glad you think I am of use in the world and that I am liked. For sometimes I feel no one likes me at all. They complain of the rainy days and they call it bad weather. And oh, dear me, I'm not bad, and it hurts my feelings to hear them call me bad!'"

"Dear Cloud King, you must cheer up," I told him. "You must remember that your work is appreciated even if there are some folks who don't like you. But they're the weather grumblers, Cloud King, and you simply mustn't pay one scrap of attention to them."

"He really felt quite joyful after this and pattered down to the earth with his army of raindrops and his grandchildren, the Mist family, quite merrily. But I thought I would have a club which would please the old weather man, the sun, the moon, the clouds, and it would make all of us happier if we went right ahead and enjoyed each day as it came along—for we must have weather of some kind or other!"

"So that is how the club started. All the rules and regulations you know."

"Yes, indeed," said all the members as they proudly patting their badges which read "Every-day-is-nice."

Men 50 Years Old in Armies.

The extent of France's self-sacrifice is indicated by an incident related by a writer in the Manchester Guardian. A friend, a French business man of some eighty years, has now had his sons with France for many months. Recent events made it necessary to secure again the assistance of the eldest, and a petition was addressed to the French military authorities for this son's release into civil life. The discharge was at length granted—in time, he informed a friend, for my son to celebrate his fiftieth birthday."

To drive a tank, handle the guns, and sweep over the enemy trenches, takes strong nerves, good rich blood, a good stomach, liver and kidneys. When the time comes, the man with red blood in his veins "is up and at it." He has iron nerves for hardships—an interest in his work grips him. That's the way you feel when you have taken a blood and nerve tonic, made up of Blood root, Golden Seal, Stone root, Cherry bark, and rolled into a sugar-coated tablet and sold in sixty-cent vials by almost all druggists for past fifty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This tonic, in liquid or tablet form, is just what you need this spring to give you vim, vigor and vitality. At the fall end of a hard winter, no wonder you feel "run-down," blue, out of sorts. Try this "Medical Discovery" of Dr. Pierce's. Don't wait! To-day is the day to begin! A little "pep," and you laugh and live.

The best means to oil the machinery of the body, put tone into the liver, kidneys and circulatory system, is to first practice a good house-cleaning. I know of nothing better as a laxative than a vegetable pill made up of May-apple, leaves of aloe and jalap. This is commonly sold by all druggists as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and should be taken at least once a week to clear the twenty-five feet of intestines. You will thus clean the system—expel the poisons and keep well. Now is the time to clean house. Give yourself a spring house cleaning.—Adv.

SENTIMENTAL ALL RIGHT, BUT—

Youngster's Reason for Buying Carnations Knocked All Paths Out of the Incident.

He was a poorly dressed youngster of perhaps fourteen years.

His trousers were shabby, and there was only one button on his thin coat. He wasn't tall enough to push through the crowd of women around the bargain counter where fresh carnations were on sale at two cents each.

Finally a saleswoman saw the grimy hand reaching out, with six moist pennies and a shiny dime in it, and in answer to his "I want eight, please, all colors," he received an assortment of pink, red and white flowers, all showing more or less the effect of rough handling.

A woman who stood near by built up a pretty little story about him. She was certain he was a little newsboy, and that the flowers were for his mother, who probably was ill in a free hospital.

Tenderly the child adjusted the tissue paper around the carnations, and a queer little smile curved his lips. "Are your pretty flowers for your mother, little boy?" asked the sentimental bystander.

"Naw," answered the youth with an implish grin, "they're for my girl."

Knew What He Wanted. In Seventh avenue one of the first requisites for satisfactory existence is to learn the language. Seventh avenue has a language of its own and the great difficulty of mastering it is that it is so much like English that it becomes unusually confusing.

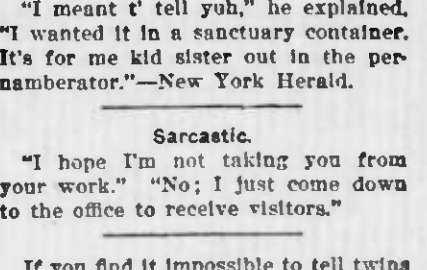

A roughly dressed boy of twelve wandered into a drug store at Thirty-fourth street and approached the soda fountain. There was a crowd about it, but he forced his way through and ordered "bonnella" soda.

The clerk after some delay provided it, but the boy immediately objected that the drink was not for him.

"I meant 't' tell yuh," he explained. "I wanted it in a sanctuary container. It's for me kid sister out in the pen-namatorator."—New York Herald.

A Business Should be as Big as Its Job

If bigness is of benefit to the public it should be commended.

The size of a business depends upon the needs which that business is called upon to serve. A business should be as big as its job. You do not drive tacks with a pile-driver—or piles with a tack-hammer.

Swift & Company's growth has been the natural and inevitable result of national and international needs.

Large-scale production and distribution are necessary to convert the live stock of the West into meat and by-products, and to distribute them over long distances to the consuming centers of the East and abroad.

Only an organization like that of Swift & Company, with its many packing plants, hundreds of distributing houses, and thousands of refrigerator cars, would have been able to handle the varying seasonal supplies of live stock and meet the present war emergency by supplying, without interruption:

First—The U. S. soldiers and the Allies in Europe by shipping as much as 800 carloads of meat products in a single week!

Second—The cantonments in the United States.

Third—The retailers upon whom the American public depends for its daily supply of meat.

But many people ask—Do producers and consumers pay too much for the complex service rendered?

Everyone, we believe, concedes the efficiency of the Swift & Company organization—in performing a big job in a big way at a minimum of expense.

Swift & Company's total profit in 1917 was less than 4 cents on each dollar of sales of meat and by-products. Elimination of this profit would have had practically no effect on live stock and meat prices.

Do you believe that this service can be rendered for less by any other conceivable method of organization or operation?

These questions and others are answered fully and frankly in the Swift & Company 1918 Year Book sent free on request.

HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK IN WISCONSIN

Eau Claire—At the recent spring election the voters gave an overwhelming majority in favor of bonding the city for $10,000 to establish a fuel plant. No campaign was made for or against the proposition. The belief that a decided decrease in the cost of fuel would follow inauguration of such a plant is evidently what gave the proposition such an overwhelming victory.

Appleton—Consolidation of the two breweries of Appleton may be expected this year. The Walter Brewing Co. and the Appleton Brewing Co. received letters from Secretary McAdoo suggesting the merger. The letters say the move would be in line with the national conservation policy in that it would reduce consumption of food and fuel.

Sparta—Twenty-two sticks of dynamite were found on the tracks of the Milwaukee road at the entrance of the quarter-mile tunnel between this place and Tomah. They would have wrecked the tunnel had not the watchman discovered them a few minutes before the fast mail went through. A short time before the discovery a freight train had gone through.

Beloit—Negotiations are now pending between the United States war department and the officials of Beloit college to have 200 soldiers receive intensive instructions at the college during the next four months. The fine equipment of the college would be used and additional equipment installed. The men would be trained in radio work and motor mechanics.

Green Bay—Although approaching his eightieth year, Louis Berendsen of Green Bay continues actively at his work as a city salesman for the Northern Paper Mills of this city. Mr. Berendsen is believed to be the oldest salesman in Wisconsin. He prides himself on a record of not having missed a day on the job in the last twenty years.

Madison—The board of veterinary examiners of the State Department of Agriculture has closed the examination of graduate veterinarians for licenses to practice veterinary medicine and surgery within the state. Fifty-three veterinarians took the examinations, out of which number forty-two passed and were granted licenses.

Milwaukee—Thirty-nine Wisconsin men have been wounded in battles in France, some of them severely, twenty-eight of whom are from Fond du Lac, and eleven from other cities in the state, according to information from Washington on Sunday night, May 5, which included the day's list of casualties.

Marinette—Sam Barto, an Austrian, arrested at Niagara, was given ten days in the workhouse by Judge Daily, and at the end of his term will be turned over to the federal authorities. He refused to fill out his questionnaire and is also accused of making disloyal remarks.

Fond du Lac—At a conference of Republicans of the Sixth district held here, Florian Lampert of Oshkosh now member of the city council there under the commission plan, was endorsed as candidate for congress. The district is now represented by J. H. Davidson of Oshkosh.

Marinette—At the close of a Liberty loan meeting in Grover, the national hymn was started. Three young men failed to rise. The presiding officer requested them to stand which they did. Fearing violence at the end of the meeting the men escaped through a window and fled.

Marinette—The Marinette & Menominee Box company now has a force of forty girls at work in its factory doing the lighter handling of lumber and box shooks. This is the first time that female labor has been employed in the local wood working institutions.

Neenah—Henry Winters, prominent Weyauwega farmer, died from injuries received when he drove his team and wagon in front of Soo Line passenger train at Weyauwega. The horses were killed and Winters was thrown a hundred feet up the track.

Berlin—The Berlin Evening Journal is conducting a campaign to change the name of this city to Boston. It invited suggestions as to what the citizens wished to have the city called.

Madison—More than $3,500,000 in government war risk insurance has been taken out by the selective draft men now attending the university army training school.

Marinette—The Inland Sheep company of Wausaukee was organized last week. The company owns 800 acres of grazing land two miles from Wausaukee and already has several hundred head of sheep on the ranch. It is the second sheep ranch started in the county.

Madison—The Wisconsin railroad commission had requested Dr. H. A. Garfield, federal fuel administrator, to conduct a thorough examination into the cost of handling coal on the docks. The commission has been forced to grant many utility companies permission to increase their rates on account of the increased cost of coal. The commission acted at the suggestion of the Wisconsin public utility operators.

Madison—The state council of defense is making every effort to solve the problem of marketing the surplus of the 1917 potato crop. Marketing agents have been sent to potato shipping centers, to help producers find a ready market. P. C. Eldredge of Milwaukee, a member of the council, reports no car shortage, and there should be no scarcity of potatoes anywhere.

Madison—Under the May draft call announced by Provost Marshall Crowder of Washington, Wisconsin will furnish approximately 10,000 men, according to Adjt.-Gen. Orlando Holway. Gen. Holway also announced that the counties will furnish their respective quotas based on population and not upon the number of men in Class 1.

Madison—Banking Commissioner A. E. Kuoht has refused to grant charters to several new state banks recently where banks are already established in the district on the ground that if the people have any excess money at this time of war it should be invested in government securities and not in bank stocks.

Green Bay—The memory of William Kirkhoff, an employe of the Lawson Aircraft corporation, was honored in an unusual manner at his funeral, when Alfred Lawson, piloting a military tractor biplane, hovered over the mourners, strewing flowers upon the grave.

Madison—Both parties in an application for a marriage license in Wisconsin must appear in person before the county clerk or make sworn statements before a notary, according to an opinion of the attorney general to John W. Soderburg, district attorney of Barron county.

Beloit—Announcement was made by Fairbanks, Morse & Co., that every employe who continues with the company for a year will receive a bonus of 10 per cent of his wages in quarterly payments. The bonus does not apply to those whose salaries exceed $2,100 per year.

Madison—James B. Borden, assistant state superintendent of schools and recently named assistant dean of the University College of Agriculture was elected secretary of the State Council of Defense at a special meeting.

Marinette—Edwin Arens of Amberg, who wrote the local draft board in answer to a call to service that he would be unable to come, has been brought here by Sheriff Hallen. His case will be investigated by the board and action taken later.

La Crosse—Coal users of La Crosse were saved from $3 to $4 a ton for coal when the Chamber of Commerce succeeded in having La Crosse continued in a district which makes it possible to obtain fuel from the Illinois fields.

Milwaukee—Beginning May 1 the eight-hour work day with ten hours pay went into effect in the meat packing houses of Milwaukee and Cudahy about 3,000 workers will be benefited by this arrangement.

Spooner—T. H. Fielding, Washburn county food administrator, member of the County Council of Defense and a prominent banker and merchant, died suddenly at his home here of heart failure.

Eau Claire—Fire of unknown origin destroyed a big barn, thirty-two head of valuable dairy cattle, six horses, machinery and other property on the farm of Ole Torgerson, fourteen miles south of here. The total loss is $8,000.

La Crosse—Pursuant to orders from Director of Railroads McAdoo, strong guards were placed at all of the bridges on the transcontinental railroads which cross the Mississippi and the Black rivers here.

Beloit—Beloit college will establish a summer school to be opened this season. Practically the entire plant will be used. It is expected that military units will also use the school this summer.

Milwaukee—Winnebago county farmers report their crop conditions excellent. Planting, except corn, is about completed in that county.

Racine—When arraigned on the charge of stealing jewelry valued at from $6,000 to $8,000, Robert Reed waived examination. Most of the jewelry was recovered. It was taken from the residence of Harry M. Wallis, president of the Case Plow works.

HER "FRAME-UP" ON DOLLY

Small Girl Had Learned Early in Life That There Are Times to Dodge Responsibility.

The conversation in the lobby of a Washington hotel turned to the subject of dodging responsibility, when this anecdote was fittingly related by Representative Frank D. Scott of Michigan:

"Some time since a fond mother returned from an afternoon call and found her five-year-old daughter huddled up in a big armchair, crying bitterly. 'Why, Bessie,' exclaimed the mother, taking the little one in her arms, 'what in the world is the matter?' 'Somefin awful has happened,' sobbed the youngster, nestling closer to her mother. 'I—I—'

"That's all right, darling," condescendingly responded the mother. 'Tell me all about it.' 'It was my dolly,' was the tearful explanation of Bessie. 'She got away from me and broke a dish in the pantry.'

As She Is Spoke. American tourists who are shaky as to their French, have often been embarrassed by the voluble replies which their carefully studied phrases bring forth from French lips. Just now the tables are frequently turned and the French man or woman is puzzled by the fluent American vernacular. An example: Yankee trooper: "Parly you English, mademoiselle?" French maid: "Yes, a vairy beetle." Y. T.: "Good work! Say, could you put me wise where I could line up against some spiffy eats in this burg?"

Joke. The other day a well-known music hall artist was chatting to a London journalist whose paper is not always to be relied upon for accuracy of statements.

You have my heartfelt thanks, and may everyone that has this trouble see this and give Peterson's Ointment, that is worth a hundred dollars or more a box, a trial."—Sincerely yours, A. ATTENTION! Sick Women

To do your duty during these trying times your health should be your first consideration. These two women tell how they found health.

Hellam, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and a displacement. I felt all run down and was very weak. I had been treated by a physician without results, so decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and felt better right away. I am keeping house since last April and doing all my housework, where before I was unable to do any work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly the best medicine a woman can take when in this condition. I give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. E. R. CRUMLING, R. No. 1, Hellam, Pa.

Lowell, Mich.—"I suffered from cramps and dragging down pains, was irregular and had female weakness and displacement. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which gave me relief at once and restored my health. I should like to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies to all suffering women who are troubled in a similar way."—Mrs. ELISE HEIM, R. No. 6, Box 83, Lowell, Mich.

Dear Sister and Parents:—
Received your letter and Statesman and was glad to hear from you. I am O. K. yet. Just got home from church, so I thought I'd write a letter before dinner. We work on the big guns now, the gun barrel is 10 inch shots and is 36 feet long, and the shells weigh 617 pounds, and the powder sacks 80 pounds a piece, we didn't shoot as yet, only got a form like the shells, we practice how to load them. The other day one of the soldiers who was in camp before we got here shot a real shell, after the shot had been fired we had to clean the gun. We did not work on Friday, Liberty Day, the whole company went down to the baseball grounds where they heard a peach of a band playing with a large number of people in attendance, there must have been at least 100 automobiles at the place, coming from all parts of the country. I met Richard Leifer that day, he is getting awful fat and so am I, also seen Earl Heinze of Cecil. There are 108 men in the company where I am, we have off every Thursday and Saturday afternoon.

I have no uniform yet for none of the suits they had fit me, so have to wear a pair of blue overalls and a jacket. Guess I will close my letter for dinner is now ready. With regards from your brother and son Nic.

PROPER FOOD FOR WEAK STOMACHS

The proper food for one man may be all wrong for another. Every one should adopt a diet suited to his age and occupation. Those who have weak stomachs need to be especially careful and should eat slowly and masticate their food thoroughly. It is also important that they keep their bowels regular. When they become constipated or when they feel dull and stupid after eating, they should take Chamberlain's Tablets to strengthen the stomach and move the bowels. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect.

The Justly Famous Perfection Milking Machine

WHY FARMERS BUY MILKING MACHINES

Why do men change methods in business? Is it not to make a gain of some kind? Most assuredly. The gain may be in making work easier, cutting down the hours of labor, taking out of work its hardships, adopting better work methods, but always having in mind the adding to the bank account.

Farmers buy milkers for one and all of these reasons. Every farmer who reads and keeps abreast of the times, knows that our present methods of farming and dairying are exceedingly wasteful in time lost, land fertility lost, crop profits lost through small returns per acre, failure to get the greatest returns possible from help employed, etc.

Therefore, the coming of the milking machine is a big thing for the farmer. It has as great a meaning to him, if he will but study its possibilities, as did the change he made years ago in cutting his grain with a reaper and binder instead of a scythe and cradle. And one of the best things about it is that it benefits alike both the big and the little farmer. Each one can profit in proportion to the size of his farm.

While the saving of drudgery and disagreeable work is a fine thing—while the time saved and independence from the farm help trouble is worth all the milking machine costs to put in—that is not the biggest gain the wide-awake farmer makes.

The biggest thing of all is the possibilities the milking machine puts in every farmer's hands in the way of largely increasing his cash returns per acre by a gradual adoption of intensive farming methods such as will enable him to double or treble the returns he gets from each acre.

While farmers generally have done well, still every successful one knows he has not obtained anywhere near what he could get were he able to use his land, time and labor to the best advantage. Owning a dependable, properly constructed milking machine fully and satisfactorily answers this question which you have asked yourself more times than one.

But mind you, just owning any old kind of a so-called milker, won't do. Not by a whole lot.

THE ONLY MILKING MACHINE THAT CAN POSSIBLY BE PERMANENTLY SUCCESSFUL IS THE ONE THAT DRAWS THE MILK JUST AS THE CALF SUCKS.

RAINBOW'S END A NOVEL BY REX BEACH

THE IRON TRAIL, THE SPOILERS, HEART OF THE SUNSET ETC.

ESTEBAN'S CONNECTION WITH THE INSURRECTOS BRINGS DISASTER UPON HIMSELF AND ROSA.

Synopsis.—Don Esteban Varona, a Cuban planter, hides his wealth—money, jewels and title deeds—in a well on his estate. The hiding place is known only to Sebastian, a slave. Don Esteban's wife dies at the birth of twins, Esteban and Rosa. Don Esteban marries the mercenary Donna Isabel, who tries unsuccessfully to wring the secret of the hidden treasure from Sebastian. Angered at his refusal, she urges Don Esteban to sell Evangelina, Sebastian's daughter. Don Esteban refuses, but in the course of a gambling orgie, he risks Evangelina at cards and loses. Crazy by the loss of his daughter, Sebastian kills Don Esteban and is himself killed. Many years pass and Donna Isabel is unable to find the hidden treasure. Don Mario, rich sugar merchant, seeks to marry Rosa, who has returned from school in the United States. Johnnie O'Reilly, an American, who loves Rosa, wins her promise to wait for him until he can return from New York.

Seating himself on one of the old stone benches, the young man lit a cigarette and composed himself to wait. He sat there for a long time, grumbling inwardly, for the night was damp and he was sleepy; but at last a figure stole out of the gloom and joined him. The newcomer was a ragged negro, dressed in the fashion of the poorer country people.

"Well, Asensio, I thought you'd never come. I'll get a fever from this!" Esteban said irritably. "It is a long way, Don Esteban, and Evangelina made me wait until dark. I tell you we have to be careful these days."

CHAPTER V.

A Cry From the Wilderness. New York seemed almost like a foreign city to Johnnie O'Reilly when he stepped out into it on the morning after his arrival. For one thing it was bleak and cold; the north wind, hailing direct from Baffin's bay, had teeth, and it bit so cruelly that he was glad when he found shelter in the building which housed the offices of the Carter Importing company. The truth is O'Reilly was not only cold but frightened.

CHAPTER VI.

Esteban was taken aback, but it was plain that he was not in the least frightened. "They haven't caught me yet," he laughed. "You say you intend to arrest me also?" Rosa eyed the caller anxiously. "Exactly?"

open moonlight; then he sighed with relief: "Ah-h! Now I see! It is my stepmother. She is asleep." For a moment or two they watched the progress of the white-robed figure; then Esteban stirred and rose from his seat. "She's too close to that well. There is—" He started forward a pace or two. "They say people who walk at night go mad if they're awakened too suddenly, and yet—"

When the somnambulist's deliberate progress toward the mouth of the well continued he called her name softly. "Donna Isabel!" Then he repeated it louder. "Donna Isabel! Wake up!" The woman seemed to hear and yet not to hear. She turned her head to listen, but continued to walk.

Don Sebastian's curse had come true; Donna Isabel had met the fate he had called down upon her that day when he hung exhausted in his chains and when the flies tormented him. The treasure for which the woman had intrigued so tirelessly had been her death. Furthermore, as if in grimdest irony, she had been permitted at the very last to find it. Living, she had searched to no purpose whatsoever; dying, she had almost grasped it in her arms.

Once the first excitement had abated and a messenger had been sent to town, Cueto drew Esteban aside and questioned him. "A shocking tragedy and most peculiar," said the overseer. "Nothing could amaze me more. Tell me, how did you come to be there at such an hour, eh?"

Esteban saw the malevolent curiosity in Cueto's face and started. "That is my affair. Surely you don't think—"

Esteban was taken aback, but it was plain that he was not in the least frightened. "They haven't caught me yet," he laughed. "You say you intend to arrest me also?" Rosa eyed the caller anxiously. "Exactly?"

Your Accuser Is None Other Than Pancho Cueto.

of your own affairs than of mine. I intend to have a careful reckoning with you. I think you know I have a good head for figures." Turning his back upon the elder man, he walked away.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Some neglect the gift that is in them because they are so busy in looking for the gift that is in somebody else.—C. H. Spurgeon.

POTATO DISHES.

We are asked to increase the use of potatoes because of a good supply at present in many sections. This will save grain and as potatoes are rich in starch they may help in the saving of bread.

Panned Potatoes.—Cut cold boiled potatoes in quarter inch slices, dredge lightly with flour and fry in a little hot fat. When light brown, heap on the side of the pan, let stand a few minutes, then turn out as an omelet. Sprinkle with salt and serve at once.

Mashed Potatoes with a little codfish may be made into cakes and browned on both sides. Scalloped Potatoes.—Wash and pare the potatoes, cut in slices and let them stand a half hour in cold water. Drain, then put a layer of the potatoes in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and dot with bits of oleo or any butter substitute, adding a little grated cheese or a few sliced hard-cooked eggs to make a more nourishing dish. Repeat until the dish is full, then cover with hot milk and bake in a moderate oven one and a fourth hours.

Potato Salad.—Mix cold boiled potato, a little chopped onion, a cucumber and a little celery or some chopped green pepper; one or all of these will make a good salad. Garnish with hard-cooked egg and make a boiled dressing, using the vinegar left from any sweet pickled cucumbers. The spice and flavor make a dressing especially good. For variety, cold beets, chopped parsley, cooked carrots or fresh carrot finely ground, or in fact any vegetable, may be added to the potato without hurting its palatability.

Leftover peas and beans with a slice of tomato for a garnish may be used in combination with potato. A hot potato salad is especially well liked. Here one may use any fat, olive or corn oil and heat the spiced vinegar to pour over the potatoes.

GOOD EATS TO SAVE MEATS.

The variety of beans which are now grown, each having a flavor of its own, making a variety, so that "to not know beans" these days is a well deserved opprobrium. The soy bean is rich in fat and much richer in protein than other beans. They have been milk and butter to the Oriental people and we are just beginning to know their value. There are also the lima, kidney and navy beans, as well as a dozen varieties of various colors and names that we may grow in our gardens this summer.

Black Soy Bean Soup.—Take a cupful of cooked black soy beans, four cupfuls of water, one-half an onion, a stalk of celery, a teaspoonful of salt, a half-teaspoonful of pepper, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of mustard and a tablespoonful of fat. Cook the onion in the fat; add the beans, water and seasonings. Simmer one hour. Serve hot. They should be well soaked and cooked in the same water, as much of the nutriment of any vegetable is wasted by throwing away the water in which it was cooked.

Lima Beans en Casserole.—Soak one cupful of lima beans, cook until soft, then drain. Brown one onion, minced in a quarter of a pound of salt pork cut in cubes. Add the beans and two-thirds of a cupful of the bean liquor, pour in a greased baking dish and bake until brown.

Bean Roast.—Take a cupful of stewed beans and a cupful of peanuts, put them through a meat chopper, add a half-cupful of bread crumbs, a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and a half-cupful of milk; shape into a loaf and bake 30 minutes. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

Peanut Butter Soup.—Take a cupful of peanut butter, three cupfuls of milk, two teaspoonfuls of salt, a dash of pepper, a tablespoonful of flour mixed with the peanut butter; cook all together and whip well with an egg beater. Celery water or minced onion may be added for flavor.

For twenty-five years he was baggage man at the North Western depot, and he conducted a hardware business in the village for 18 years. The members of the I. O. O. F. presented him with a rocker and the citizens gave Mr. Boeckler a Morris chair.
