Are You One of Them?

There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a weak or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. R. Searl, Baldwinville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets: "I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle home and the first dose relieved me wonderfully, and I kept on taking them until I was cured." These tablets do not relieve pain, but after the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.

The moving of the factory into a different building was made necessary on account of the increased amount of business of the company. Three temporary office buildings, providing working space for 6,250 persons have been built in 10 weeks in Washington, D. C., by the construction division of the Army, without the employment of a contractor. The new color insignia for the Army Air Service consists of a pair of horizontal bronze wings, with a silver two-bladed propeller placed vertically on them. It is worn by officers and enlisted men of the Department of Military Aeronautics and the Bureau of Aircraft Production. The hat cord for enlisted men will be green and black.

KEWASKUM GOES OVER THE TOP

The village of Kewaskum, like many other communities, has again shown its loyalty to the government by going over the top in the War Savings drive, which closed last week Friday. Complete figures show that the village has oversubscribed its quota of $15,000 by $1,585. The method used to carry out this campaign was under the checking up system, the government followed this plan so as to put the War Savings drive within the reach of every property owner and wage earner to do his share in raising the money. Under this system it was possible to tell who the persons were who failed to do their share and under orders of the Treasury Department were compelled to state in their own hand writing why they were unable to pledge the amount they were assessed. George H. Schmidt, chairman of the Washington County War Savings Committee, stated that there were fewer slackers this time than there were in any previous campaign undertaken.

Incomplete returns show that the town of Kewaskum has also gone over the top. Mr. Schmidt stated that he had not received complete returns from the county, but indications are that Washington County will have over subscribed its quota by a big margin.

Great credit is due to the various committees of the village for their splendid work in carrying out this campaign to a successful conclusion.

Group 4, composed of the town of Erin, Hartford and Polk and the city of Hartford and the village of Schleisingerville went over the top by over $24,000. Their allotment was $137,000 and they raised over $161,000. A. A. Hauser of Hartford was chairman of the group.

ATTENTION FARMERS!

The Wash. Co. Agr. Adv. Board, appointed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, fully realizes that farmers stand greatly in need of help during haying, harvesting and silo filling time. Take notice, therefore, that this committee has made arrangements to have a supply of laboring men ready to go out on 24 hours notice. The Committee have selected the best men available and has a complete list from which to make the selections. It is not claimed that all of the men selected will be able to do a full day's work, but the charges for their services will be according to the character of the work they are able to do. The maximum wages per day have been fixed at $3.00, but the wages will be sealed down, as above stated, according to what the services rendered are actually worth. In case farmers need help, they will please apply to John Klessig, Kewaskum, Wis., the evening before the help is needed. Every effort will be made to supply the demand.

BIG FIRE AT NEW FANE

Fire of unknown origin, completely destroyed the barn on the August Heberer farm at New Fane on Tuesday evening, July 2nd, 1918. The fire was first noticed by John F. Schaefer of this village and Florian Furcht of Chicago, who saw smoke and flames shooting from the roof of the building when passing by the place on their way home from a fishing trip. They at once gave the alarm, but when help arrived the fire had gained too much headway to save any of the stock and contents, which included three of Mr. Heberer's best horses, two pigs, two calves, one bull, one truck wagon and a gasoline engine. A granary which was standing close by also caught fire and was completely destroyed, together with some barley, wheat and oats. The dwelling house, which was a short distance away from the barn, was at one time in great danger of being destroyed, only for the heroic efforts of the neighbors in fighting the blaze was it saved. The loss to Mr. Heberer amounts to about $3500, which is partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Heberer wishes to express his sincere thanks and appreciation to all friends and neighbors for their good work in assisting at the fire, and saving the dwelling house and other buildings close by.

He was born in Germany, Feb. 8, 1849. He was a former resident of Campbellsport but moved to the town of Wayne, Washington county several years ago at which place he resided forty-five years.

He is survived by his wife and 7 children, Mrs. Anna Martin of Kewaskum, Joseph, of Wayne, Frank and Andrew of Campbellsport and Veronica, Wenzel and John at home, and four grand children.

Honeck, Kilian Honeck and wife of West Bend, Mrs. Charles Brussel of Wayne, Mrs. S. Hawig and Mr. and Mrs. John Hawig of Wayne.

LETTER FROM THE TRENCHES

In the Trenches
June 7, 1918.

Dear Folks:—

Received your letter June 2nd, which was dated May 1st and was glad to hear from you. The last one I wrote to you was the first Sunday in May. I suppose you have it by this time. We moved about four times since then and every time during the night, several times we started late at night and hiked all night until about 5 o'clock in the morning. We are now at the real place, right at the firing line in trenches and are going to stay here for a short length of time. There is a lot of excitement going on here. There is gas coming over and shooting and bombardin. You ought to see the shell holes in the ground here, caused by the explosion of artillery sharpnels. They are about ten feet deep and ten feet in diameter. It is something awful. There are also a lot of aeroplane fights going on. I tell you by thinking over how everything is worked out it is certainly a great thing. It certainly means be on the watchout and head down at all times. I am on the night shift from nine in the evening until five in the morning. We have to be awake all the time and dare not make a noise or talk or smoke. We sleep during the day time in underground dugouts. This is about all I can say about trench work. I'll write to you as soon as our time is up in here and let you know how I am getting along. I suppose then we will go to a rest camp for quite a while, until our time comes to go in again. Well how is everybody I hope they are all well. I suppose you have nice weather now and everybody is working hard.

So Peter Haug had to answer the call too? What did he do with his jewelry store? Is Carlie at Sparta Wis. yet? What is he doing there? I haven't heard from him since I am in France. I suppose you people around there are going out auto riding quite often, since everybody has a car. Give them all my best regards and I'll have to close now. From Private Jos. Westerman Co. D. 120 Machine Gun B'n., 32 Division. A. E. F.

U. S. RAIDS ON MARNE WORRY HUNS—PERSHING

FOE USING FIRE AND GAS

Number of Small Attacks on Americans Repulsed With Losses to the Enemy—Germans Attempt to Make Friends With Our Men.

With the American Armies in France, July 2.—American negro troops proved their value as fighters in the line east of Verdun on June 12, it is now permissible to state. The Germans attempted a raid in that sector, but were completely repulsed by the negroes.

The Boches began a terrific bombardment at one minute after midnight, throwing over between 3,000 and 4,000 shells from guns ranging in size from 67 to 340 millimeters. The bombardment was concentrated on small areas. Many of the shells made holes from ten to fifteen feet across.

The Americans had only two wounded.

U. S. Raids Worry Huns.

Washington, July 2.—Descriptive information of activity by the different sectors occupied by the American forces was given in General Pershing's communique. It follows:

"Section A.—Except for the increase of artillery activity on both sides in the Chateau Thierry region there is nothing to report.

"Section B.—In the Chateau Thierry region June 27 to 28 there was no special activity other than of the hostile air forces and of the artillery on both sides.

"The German artillery fire was in fact lighter than on the preceding day. Shrapnel and gas were used in moderate quantities. A large part of the hostile fire was concentrated on our lines in the general direction of Bourresches and Triangle farm.

Enemy Is Nervous.

"South of the Marne, between the evening of June 27 and June 28, it was noticeable that the activity of the enemy had increased, while a certain nervousness on his part was also observed. His artillery was constantly active throughout the breadth of our sector and as on the preceding day paid special attention to our positions on the left.

"In the last named region the use of shrapnel was again marked. German airplanes were again busy along our front, although somewhat less so than during the days preceding.

"Very energetic efforts are being made by the Germans to prevent further crossings of the river on the part of our troops.

Use Trench Mortars.

"The enemy's trench mortars were in action for a short time during the early afternoon.

"For our troops operating in the vicinity of Colmar the days of June 26 and 27 were marked chiefly by the attempts of the enemy to raid our lines. On the night of June 25 and 26 a large German patrol made a determined attack, which was repulsed after two hours of brisk fighting.

"The Germans sustained heavy casualties.

"Another feature of the attack was the use by the Germans of liquid fire. This was a complete failure, none of the fire reaching our troops.

"During the night of June 26 to June 27, a battle raged took place between 11 o'clock in the evening and one o'clock in the morning.

"It is reported that the Germans at one point have been attempting to make friends with our men. In the morning of June 25 they made signs signifying 'Good morning.'

"They had deposited some kittens on the parapets of the small posts and threw a package of cigarets into one of our barbed wire entanglements. Our soldiers do not reciprocate these attentions.

"Raiding activity has not been above normal on either side."

ADMITS GERMANY CAN'T WIN

General Count Von Montgelas Thinks Neither Side Will Be Victor.

Amsterdam, July 2.—Discussing sympathetically in the Berlin Tageblatt the recent pamphlet written by Viscount Grey on "The League of Nations," General Count von Montgelas says that the only way aim worth the immense sacrifices involved is the prevention for all time of a repetition of the four years of terror which the world is experiencing.

"Even the inexperienced eye must see that in war, such as it has become in our time, one side may indeed gain victories, but neither can win," says the count.

Doctor Gladden Near to Death.
Columbus, O., July 2.—Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden, eminent Congregational divine of this city, is still hovering at the point of death, following a second stroke of paralysis. His physician announced that his death is only a matter of hours.

LATINS WIN VICTORY

THREE HEIGHTS AND 2,000 AUSTRILIANS CAPTURED.

Formidable Positions on Monte Del Rosso, Monte Di Val Bella and Di Chelo Taken.

Rome, July 2.—The official report issued by the army headquarters, telling of Italian victories in the north, says:

"On the Asiago plateau our troops opened action again. The formidable Col del Rosso was carried with spirit. Col di Chelo was the theater of a bitter struggle throughout the whole day. In the end the bravery of our troops conquered the enemy's stubborn resistance, and the contested positions remained in our hands.

"About midday and in the afternoon the enemy launched two heavy attacks against Monte di Val Bella, but the enemy masses, mowed down by our artillery fire, were completely arrested by our infantry and forced to retire.

"Our airplanes daringly participated in all phases of the fighting.

"The losses suffered by the enemy on Saturday and Sunday are ascertained to have been exceptionally heavy. Eighty-five officers and 1,935 men were made prisoner. Our losses, thanks to the decisiveness of the attack and excellent co-operation of the artillery, were very slight.

"On the remainder of the front the fighting activity was normal. In the Doane valley and in the region of Giuducaria we surprised small enemy posts, securing a few prisoners and machine guns. In the Meugna region an enemy attack was repulsed.

Vienna, July 2.—The Austrian war office admits the complete evacuation by the Austrian forces of the two important strategic positions of Col del Rosso and Monte di Val Bella, on the western end of the Italian front.

LONDON ENTERTAINS YANKS

Parliamentary Secretary and Admiral Sims Make Addresses at Theater.

London, July 2.—American troops in the London district were entertained at the Palace theater Sunday evening and addresses were made by Vice Admiral Sims, commander of the American naval forces in the war zone, and T. J. MacNamara, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty.

Admiral Sims said he would like to express on behalf of the Americans their gratitude to the British people for the spirit in which they had welcomed the American forces. Whenever the Americans had gone the British people had offered them the hand of welcome. The admiral added: "This war is promoting a good understanding between the two countries. The British people have not always understood us perfectly and the same is true of what we know about the British, but we now believe the Britisher is a pretty good fellow."

TO TAKE OVER ALL WIRES

Pending Strike of Telegraphers Causes President Wilson to Take Drastic Action.

Washington, July 2.—At the request of President Wilson the house interstate commerce committee favorably reported to the house the Aswell resolution giving the president power to take over telegraph, telephone, cable and radio systems. Letters from President Wilson, Postmaster General Burleson, Secretary of War Baker and Secretary of the Navy Daniels were read to the committee by Chairman Sims at its meeting. All said they believed the power granted in the resolution to be necessary to prevent suspension of service and to guard military secrets and government communications from the enemy.

Action on the Aswell resolution, empowering the president to take over the telegraph lines was postponed until late today.

WILSON HITS 8-HOUR DAY

President Vetoes Bill Because It Would Add to Clerks' Seven-Hour Schedule.

Washington, July 2.—President Wilson vetoed the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill on account of a provision increasing the hours of work for government clerks from seven to eight hours a day.

In his veto message the president said that since the outset of the war he had called upon all employers to see that there was no change in conditions unfavorable to laborers, he did not feel justified in assenting to a measure in which the United States itself makes such a change.

An effort to override the veto in the house was defeated, 246 to 30.

WOULD RAISE WHEAT PRICE

Senate by Overwhelming Majority Refuses to Yield to House Opposition.

Washington, July 2.—The senate by an overwhelming majority refused to yield to house opposition to an increase in the government's minimum guaranty for wheat to $2.50 per bushel. A motion of Majority Leader Martin proposing to instruct the senate conference to abandon the senate price increase amendment to the annual agricultural bill was defeated 46 to 18.

HOSPITAL SHIP

IS TORPEDOED; 234 MISSING

British Steamer Llandovery Castle Sunk by U-Boat.

ONLY 24 SURVIVORS LANDED

Vessel Was Homeward Bound From Canada and Carried Eight Medical Corps Men and Fourteen Woman Nurses—American Boat Lost.

London, July 2.—A German submarine sank the British hospital ship Llandovery Castle, 116 miles southwest of Fastnet, June 27, the British admiralty announced.

The Llandovery Castle was homeward bound from Canada. It carried 258 persons. This total includes 80 Canadian army medical corps men and 14 woman nurses.

One boat containing 24 survivors has reached port. [The Llandovery Castle was 11,423 tons gross and was built at Glasgow in 1914 for the Union Castle Mail Steamship service. The vessel was 500 feet long, 63 feet beam and 37 feet deep.]

Twenty-Four Out of 258 Landed.

The admiralty announcement follows:

"About 10:30 o'clock on June 27, 116 miles southwest of Fastnet, the hospital ship Llandovery Castle was torpedoed by an enemy submarine and sank in about ten minutes. She was homeward bound from Canada and therefore there were no sick or wounded on board, but her crew consisted of 164 officers and men and she carried 80 Canadian army medicals and 14 female nurses.

"Of this total of 258 only one boat containing 24 survivors has so far reached port. Search is still being made and there is a bare possibility that others may yet be found.

"It is to be noted that in this, as indeed in all instances, the German submarine had a perfect right to stop and search the hospital ship under The Hague convention, but she preferred to torpedo the Llandovery Castle."

Set Adrift 116 Miles Out.

Subsequently the admiralty issued the following comment on the sinking: "Germany's awful debt to the world continues to grow. Another hospital ship has been torpedoed, this time 116 miles from the nearest land, and her people turned adrift in their boats, to sink or swim as they best might. And though, as it happened, she was a Canadian hospital ship returning from Halifax with no wounded on board, the tale of crime reveals a wanton deliberation on the part of the submarine commander, and almost suggests the hope on his part that he would find her full of injured and helpless men."

U. S. Steamer "U" Boat Victim.

New York, July 2.—The American steamship George L. Eaton of 2,608 tons gross has been sunk, presumably by a German submarine, in European waters, according to information received in shipping circles here. She left an American port for France about two weeks ago.

ALLIES MAKE NEW GAINS

British Make Successful Attack on German Lines Near Bouzincourt—French Win on Marne.

With the British Army in France, July 2.—In a successful minor operation north of Albert the British attacked the German lines near Bouzincourt and forced the enemy back from an important position on the high ground southeast of that town.

The drive was entirely successful and the British consolidated themselves in the new defenses, which included virtually all of the highest ground, as well as some farther down to the southwest.

Paris, July 2.—French troops carried out an operation on the Marne front south of the Ourcq which resulted in the improvement of the French positions in the vicinity of Passy-en-Vaux.

Taking the aggressive south of the Aisne, the French captured a German strong point near Cutry, southwest of Soissons, adding to their recent gains in this sector.

FRENCH BAG 21 AIRPLANES

Drop Twenty-Two Tons of Bombs on German Airdromes and Railway.

Paris, July 2.—The French airmen have played their part in the increased aerial activity which has been displayed along the front in the last few days. Sunday they brought down or put out of action 21 German planes and set on fire six captive balloons, according to the war office announcement.

The statement says: "On June 30 21 German airplanes were brought down or put out of action and six captive balloons were set on fire. The following night our bombing machines dropped 22 tons of projectiles on aviation grounds in Pearly, the Rye railway station and omnibus depots at Villers-Carbonnel, where a violent explosion occurred."

THE WRONG PERCH

NO CHANGE IN DRAFT FORMER CZAR SLAIN

SECRETARY BAKER HAS NEW ARMY PROGRAM.

War Chief Declares 3,300,000 Men Will Be in the Service by August.

Washington, June 28.—After Secretary Baker and General March had opposed revision of draft age limits and announced that within 90 days the war department would submit a new and enlarged army program, the senate military committee on Wednesday voted against any legislation to change the draft age limits from twenty-one and thirty-one years to twenty and forty years.

Senator Chamberlain announced that it is proposed to call in August 800,000 draft men, in September 150,000, in October 150,000, in November 150,000 and in December 125,000.

These, he said, are expected to exhaust class 1. Secretary Baker gave figures stating that in August, when the final call on men in class 1 will have exhausted that class, there will be 3,300,000 men in the army and the highest estimate of the number of American troops which will be in France by that time is 1,450,000.

Secretary Baker said an "enlarged" program for the army is planned in a formal statement made after he had been closeted with the committee for nearly three hours with his aids.

MAY TRAIN ALL U. S. YOUTHS

President Reported Preparing to Advocate Universal Military Training as War Measure.

Washington, June 29.—President Wilson, it was learned from an authoritative source, is preparing to advocate universal military training as a war measure.

The tentative plan of the administration is to submit to congress at an early date a bill extending the draft age and also establishing universal military training for American youths below the draft age. It transpired on Thursday that the prospective embodiment of this plan in an administration measure accounted for Secretary of War Baker's urgent recommendation that the senate postpone action on the proposed extension of the draft age until the war department completes a survey of national man power and brings in a comprehensive scheme for the expansion of the army.

The general staff of the army is now formulating the entire plan for the development of the armies which must be relied upon to defeat Germany.

MAY BAR BEER IN 90 DAYS

Senate Agricultural Committee Agrees on Prohibition Rider for Appropriation Bill.

Washington, June 29.—The senate agricultural committee on Thursday agreed upon an amendment to the emergency agricultural appropriation bill providing for national prohibition.

Under the amendment the manufacture and sale of whisky and wine would be prohibited after June 30, 1919, and the manufacture and sale of beer three months after the approval of the bill by the president.

The amendment was framed by Senator Norris of Nebraska as a substitute for one by Senator Jones of Washington, and was adopted by the committee by a vote of 8 to 3.

Chairman Gore said that an effort would be made to bring the bill up for consideration at once.

SENATE DEFEATS

DRAFT AGE RAISE

Fall Amendment to Army Measure Is Rejected by Vote of 49 to 25.

SHIP SHORTAGE IS FEARED

Senator Warren Warns Vessels for Troop Movement to France Soon Will Be Reduced by Expiration of Contracts With Allies.

Washington, July 1.—The senate on Friday, by a vote of 49 to 25, rejected the Fall amendment making the draft age limits twenty to forty years, in lieu of the present limits of twenty-one to thirty-one years.

With the defeat of this amendment the chief obstacle to the passage of the $12,000,000,000 army bill was removed.

A test vote on a motion of Senator Hardwick of Georgia put the senate on record in favor of lowering the draft age limit below twenty-one years. Senator Hardwick moved to substitute twenty-one years for twenty years as the minimum age limit in the Fall amendment. His motion was rejected by a vote of 41 to 33.

Several amendments offered to the Fall amendment were voted down. Senator New of Indiana proposed an amendment involving the principle of universal military training. It provided for the training of young men beginning at twenty years. Senator Warren of Wyoming spoke against it.

Senator Warren warned the senate that shipping for troop movement to France soon would be reduced by the expiration of contracts with the allied governments.

The New amendment was voted down without a roll call. Senator Hitchcock brought up his amendment designed to remove embarrassing international complications by exempting neutrals from the draft. After some modifications, which may be revised, it was adopted, 43 to 16.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota declared for an army of 5,000,000 men. "And by that I mean 5,000,000 fighting men," he explained; "not 5,000,000 men of whom only 60 per cent are fighting men."

U-BOAT IS BEATEN—SCHWAB

Master Shipbuilder Says America Will Be Greatest Maritime Nation in the World.

Chicago, July 1.—Charles M. Schwab, master shipbuilder of the world and premier business man, came to Chicago spreading the spirit of victory.

"The submarine?" he said in response to a query. "It's beaten already. I seldom make predictions, and I'm not breaking that rule now. I'm simply telling you a fact."

"And about the shipbuilding program?" he was asked. "We will launch between 90 and 100 ships on July 4," he said, "with a total tonnage of over 500,000. The United States in time will be the greatest maritime nation in the world. The American flag, which has virtually been driven from the seas of commerce, will be seen in every port in the world after the war. It will revolutionize our whole national life."

CONGRESS VOTES

$21,000,000,000

Huge Sums Provided for War Work in Bills Passed by Senate.

$12,000,000,000 FOR ARMY

Measure Would Also Authorize President to Organize Volunteer Slavic and Russian Legions—Crowder to Be Promoted.

Washington, July 2.—Saturday was a $21,000,000,000 day in congress, the biggest "money day" in the history of any legislative body in the world's history.

The usually deliberate senate set the pace by:

Passing the $12,000,000,000 army bill. Adopting the conference report on the $3,000,000,000 sundry civil bill. Giving the final O. K. to the $1,501,300,000 naval appropriation bill. Passing the $5,000,000,000 fortifications bill.

This made effective, so far as the senate is concerned, $21,500,000,000 in appropriations, the bulk of it for prosecution of the war.

The house helped by adopting the $1,500,000,000 navy bill conference report and sundry civil report.

Among important legislative provisions added by the senate to the bill, many of which the house leaders already have agreed to accept, are the following:

Authorizing the president to organize volunteer Slavic and Russian legions.

Proposing the rank of lieutenant general for Provost Marshal General Crowder in recognition of his selective draft administration.

Providing for training and equipping of foreign troops, designed especially for the so-called pan-American army.

Amending the draft law to have quotas based on the number of men in class 1, instead of on state population.

ACCUSED OF PROFITEERING

Report by Federal Board Declares Meat Packers 'Have Preyed Upon People Unconscionably.'

Washington, July 2.—Investigations carefully conducted have led to the conclusion that profiteering exists among American industries at the present time, due in part to advantage being taken of "war pressure for heavy production" and in part to "inordinate greed and barefaced fraud," the federal trade commission announced in a report sent to the senate.

The report was submitted in response to a resolution asking the commission to furnish the senate with all figures and information relative to profiteering, in order that steps might be taken to remedy present conditions.

The report declares that unprecedented profits are shown in a survey of the packing industry. In this connection it is said: "Five meat packers, Armour, Swift, Morris, Wilson and Cudahy and their subsidiary and affiliated companies have monopolistic control of the meat industry and are reaching out for like domination in other products. Their manipulations of the market embrace every device that is useful to them, without regard to law. Their reward expressed in terms of profit, reveal that four of these concern have pocketed in 1915-1916-1917 $140,000,000. However delicate a definition is framed for 'profiteering,' these packers have preyed upon the people unconscionably."

The products investigated, and which the report covers, are steel, copper, zinc, nickel, sulphur, lumber, coal, flour, canned milk and canned salmon. Salaries and bonus paid high officials also were the subject of inquiry.

Price fixing by the government, the report says, has tended to prevent the market from running away, but at the same time it strengthens the stronger factors in industry in their positions and enriches them by profits which are without precedent.

WHEAT PRICES ARE RAISED

RAINBOW'S END A NOVEL BY REX BLACH

THE IRON TRAIL THE SPOILERS HEART OF THE SUNSET ETC.

"We've been talking about food," Leslie Branch advised his commanding officer.

"You are hungry, then?" Norine confessed that she was. "I'm starving!" said she.

"God be praised! I know where there is a goat, not two leagues away!" said the colonel.

"But I don't want a goat," Norine complained. "I want—well, pickles, and jam, and sardines, and—candy, and—tooth-powder!"

Lopez furrowed his brows and lost himself in thought. Later, while the others were talking, he drew Ramos aside and for a while they kept their heads together.

When O'Reilly joined Judson for supper the latter met him with a broad grin on his face. "Well," said he, "you can get ready to saddle up when the moon rises."

"What do you mean?" "The colonel took Miss Evans at her word. We're going to raid San Antonio de los Banos—two hundred of us—to get her some pickles, and jam, and candy, and tooth-powder."

Certain histories of the Cuban War for independence speak of "The Battle of San Antonio de los Banos." It is quite a stirring story to read and it has but one fault, a fault, by the way, not uncommon in histories—it is mainly untrue.

In the first place, the engagement was in no sense a battle, but merely a raid. The number of troops engaged was, perhaps, one-fifth of the generous total ascribed by the historians, and as a military maneuver it served no purpose whatsoever.

Nevertheless, since the affair had a direct bearing upon the fortunes of several people connected with this story, it is, perhaps, worth relating.

Lopez and his troop approached the town in the early morning. As they deployed for the attack the colonel issued private instructions to certain members of his command.

"O'Reilly, you and Senor Branch will enter one grocery store after another. You will purchase that jam, those sardines, and whatever else you think Miss Evans would like.

Captain Judson, you and Major Ramos will go to the apothecary shop—I understand there is a very good one—and look for tooth-powder and candy and the like. I shall see that the streets are cleared, then I shall endeavor to discover some pickles; but as God is my true judge, I doubt if there is such a thing this side of Habana."

Leslie Branch, whose temper had not improved with the long night ride, inquired, caustically: "Do you expect us to buy the groceries? Well, I'm broke, and so is O'Reilly. If you don't give us some change, colonel, we'll have to open a charge account in your name."

"Caramba!" muttered Lopez. "I intended to borrow from you gentlemen. Well, never mind—we'll commandeer what we wish in the name of the republic."

Lopez' attack proved a complete surprise, both to the citizens and the garrison of the town. The rebel bugle gave the first warning of what was afoot, and before the Castilian troops who were loitering off duty could reach their quarters, before the citizens could take cover or the shopkeepers close and bar their heavy wooden shutters, two hundred ragged horsemen were yelling down the streets.

There followed a typical Cuban engagement—ten shouts to one shot. There was a mad charge on the heels of the scurrying populace, a scattering pop-pop of rifles, cheers, cries, shrieks of defiance and far-flung insults directed at the fortinas.

O'Reilly, with Branch and Jacket close at his heels, whirled his horse into the first bodega he came to. The store was stocked with general merchandise, but its owner, evidently a Spaniard, did not tarry to set a price upon any of it.

As the three horsemen came clattering in at the front he went flying out at the rear, and, although O'Reilly called reassuringly after him, his only answer was the slamming of a back door, followed by swiftly diminishing cries of fright.

tunity for loot Jacket's soul flamed savagely and he swept the shelves bare as he went.

"Hey, Leslie! Get something to carry this stuff in," O'Reilly directed over his shoulder.

Spurred by O'Reilly's tone and by a lively rattle of rifle-shots outside, Leslie disappeared into the living-quarters at the back of the store.

A moment later he emerged with a huge armful of bedclothes, evidently snatched at random. Trailing behind him, like a bridal veil, was a mosquito-net, which in his haste he had torn from its fastenings.

"I guess this is poor!" he exulted. "Bedding! Pillows! Mosquito-net! I'll sleep comfortable after this."

Dumping his burden of sheets, blankets, and brilliantly colored cotton quilts upon the floor, Branch selected two of the stoutest and began to knot the corners together.

He had scarcely finished when Judson reined in at the door and called to O'Reilly: "We've cleaned out the drug store. Better get a move on you, for we may have to run any minute. I've just heard about some Cuban prisoners in the calaboose. Gimme a hand and we'll let 'em out."

Sharing in the general consternation at the attack, the jail guards had disappeared, leaving Lopez' men free to break into the prison. When O'Reilly joined them the work was well under way. Seizing whatever implements they could find, Judson and O'Reilly went from cell to cell, battering, prying, smashing, leaving their comrades to rescue the inmates.

While the Americans smashed lock after lock, their comrades dragged the astonished inmates from their kennels, hustled them into the street, and took them up behind their saddles.

The raid was over, "retreat" was sounding, when Judson and O'Reilly ran out of the prison, remounted, and joined their comrades, who were streaming back toward the plaza.

Colonel Lopez galloped up to inquire, anxiously, "Did you find those eatables, eh?"

"Yes, sir, and a lot more." "Good! But I failed. Pickles? Caramba! Nobody here ever heard of one!"

"Did we lose any men?" Judson asked. "Not one. But Ramos was badly cut."

"So? Then he got to close quarters with some Spaniard?" "Oh no!" The colonel grinned. "He was in too great a hurry and broke open a show-case with his fist."

The retreating Cubans still maintained their uproar, discharging their rifles into the air, shrieking defiance at their invisible foes, and voicing insult.

O'Reilly, among the last to cross the zone of fire, was just congratulating himself upon the fortunate outcome of the skirmish when he saw Colonel Lopez ride to the crest of a knoll, rise in his stirrups and, lifting his cupped hands to his lips, direct a loud shout back toward the town.

Lopez was followed by several of his men, who likewise began to yell and to wave their arms excitedly.

Johnnie turned to discover that Leslie Branch had lagged far behind, and now, as if to cap his fantastic performances, had dismounted and was descending the river bank to a place where a large washing had been spread upon the stones to dry.

He was quick exposed, and a spiteful crackle from the nearest blockhouse showed that the Spaniards were determined to bring him down. Mauder bullets ricocheted among the rocks—even from this distance their sharp explosions were audible—others broke the surface of the stream into little geysers, as if a school of fish were leaping.

When Johnnie looked on in breathless apprehension Branch appropriated several suits that promised to fit him; then he climbed up the bank, remounted his horse, and ambled slowly out of range.

Now this was precisely the sort of harebrained exploit which delights a Cuban audience. When Leslie, the hero, and reminded O'Reilly that nature has a blessed way of building up a resistance to environment. As a result of her good cheer O'Reilly managed to enjoy a night's sleep.

He was up at daylight to offer his services in caring for Esteban Varona, but Norine declined them.

"His fever is down a little and he has taken some nourishment," she reported.

"That food you boys risked your silly lives for may come in handy, after all."

"I dare say he won't be able to talk to me today," O'Reilly ventured.

"Not today, nor for many days, I'm afraid."

"If you don't mind, then, I'll hang around and listen to what he says," he told her, wistfully. "He might drop a word about Rosa."

"To be sure, so far he's scarcely mentioned her. I can't understand nunch that he says, of course, but Mrs. Ruiz tells me it's all jumbled and quite unintelligible."

It was a balmy, languid morning about two weeks after O'Reilly's return to the City Among the Leaves. In a hammock swung between two trees Esteban Varona lay, listening to the admonitions of his nurse.

Johnnie O'Reilly had just bade them both a hearty good morning and now Norine was saying: "One hour, no more. You had a temperature again last night, and it came from talking too much. Remember, it takes me just one hour to make my rounds, and if you are not through with your tales of blood and battle when I get back you'll have to finish them tomorrow." With a nod and a smile she left.

As Esteban looked after her his white teeth gleamed and his hollow face lit up.

"She brings me new life," he told O'Reilly. "She is so strong, so healthy, so full of life herself. She is wonderful! When I first saw her bending over me I thought I was dreaming. Some times, even yet, I think she cannot be real. But she is, eh?"

"She is quite substantial," O'Reilly smiled. "All the sick fellows talk as you do."

Esteban looked up quickly; his face darkened. "She—er—nurses others, eh? I'm not the only one?"

"Well, hardly."

There was a brief pause; then Esteban shifted his position and his tone changed. "Tell me, have you heard any news?"

"Not yet, but we will hear some before long I'm sure."

"Your faith does as much for me as this lady's care. But when you go away, when I'm alone, when I begin to think—"

CHAPTER XV. Norine Takes Charge. During the next few days O'Reilly had reason to bless the happy chance which had brought Norine Evans to Cuba.

During the return journey from San Antonio de los Banos he had discovered how really ill Esteban Varona was, how weak his hold upon life.

After listening to his ravings, O'Reilly began to fear that the poor fellow's mind was permanently affected. It was an appalling possibility, one to which he could not reconcile himself.

To think that somewhere in that fevered brain was perhaps locked the truth about Rosa's fate, if not the secret of her whereabouts, and yet to be unable to write an intelligent answer to a single question, was intolerable. The hours of that ride were among the longest O'Reilly had ever passed.

But Norine Evans gave him new heart. She took complete charge of the sick man upon his arrival in camp; then in her brisk, matter-of-fact way she directed O'Reilly to go and get some much-needed rest.

Esteban was ill, very ill, she admitted; there was no competent doctor near, and her own facilities for nursing were primitive indeed; nevertheless, she expressed confidence that she could cure him, and reminded O'Reilly that nature has a blessed way of building up a resistance to environment.

As a result of her good cheer O'Reilly managed to enjoy a night's sleep. He was up at daylight to offer his services in caring for Esteban Varona, but Norine declined them.

"His fever is down a little and he has taken some nourishment," she reported.

"Not yet, but we will hear some before long I'm sure."

"Your faith does as much for me as this lady's care. But when you go away, when I'm alone, when I begin to think—"

"It is very simple, amigo. Let me see: I had finished telling you about the fight at La Joya. I was telling you how I failed. Some good people found me a few hours after I lost consciousness. They supposed I had been attacked by guerrillas and left for dead. Finding that I still had life in me, they took me home with them. They were old friends from Matanzas by the name of Valdes—cultured people who had fled the city and were hiding in the mangula like the rest of us."

"Not Valdes, the notary?" "The very same. Alberto Valdes and his four daughters. Heaven guided them to me. Alberto was an old man; he had hard work to provide food for his girls. Nevertheless, he refused to abandon me. Oh, they were faithful, patient people! You see, I had walked east instead of west, and now I was miles away from home, and the country between was swarming with Spaniards who were burning, destroying, killing. You wouldn't know Matanzas, O'Reilly. It is a desert."

"I finally became able to drag myself around the hut. But I had no means of sending word to Rosa, and the uncertainty nearly made me crazy. My clothes had rotted from me; my bones were just under the skin. I must have been a shocking sight. Then one day there came a fellow traveling east with messages for Gomez. He was one of Lopez' men, and he told me that Lopez had gone to the Rubi Hills with Maceo, and that there were none of our men left in the province. He told me other things, too. It was from him that I learned—"

Esteban Varona's thin hands clutched the edges of his hammock and he rolled his head weakly from side to side. "It was he who told me about Rosa. He said that Cobo had ravaged the Yumuri and that my sister—was gone!"

"There, there! We know better now," O'Reilly said, soothingly.

"It was a hideous story, a story of rape, murder. I wonder that I didn't go mad. It never occurred to me to doubt, and as a matter of fact the fellow was honest enough; he really believed what he told me. After the man had finished I felt the desire to get away from all I had known and loved, to leave Matanzas for new fields and give what was left of me to the cause. I was free to enlist, since I couldn't reach Lopez, and I came to join our forces in the Orient."

"That is how you found me in this province. Lopez' men never delivered these dispatches, for we were taken crossing the trocha—at least I was taken, for Pablo was killed. They'd have made an end of me, too, I dare say, only I was so weak. It seems a century since that night. My memory doesn't serve me very well from that point, for they jalled me, and I grew worse. I was out of my head a good deal."

The two men fell silent for a while. Esteban lay with closed eyes, exhausted. O'Reilly gave himself up to frowning thought. His thoughts were not pleasant; he could not, for the life of him, believe in Rosa's safety so implicitly as he had led Esteban to suppose; his efforts to cheer the other had sapped his own supply of hope, leaving him a prey to black misgivings. He was glad when Norine Evans' return put an end to his speculations.

"Have you harrowed this poor man's feelings sufficiently for once?" she inquired of O'Reilly.

"I have. I'll agree to talk about nothing unpleasant hereafter," Esteban turned to his nurse. "There is something I want to tell you both."

"Wait until tomorrow," Norine advised.

But he persisted: "No! I must tell it now. First, however, did either of you discover an old coin in any of my pockets—an old Spanish doubloon?"

"That doubloon again!" Norine lifted her hands protestingly, and cast a meaning look at O'Reilly. "You talked about nothing else for a whole week. Let me feel your pulse."

Esteban surrendered his hand with suspicious readiness.

"You were flat broke when we got you," O'Reilly declared.

"Probably. I seem to remember that somebody stole it."

"Doubloons! Pieces of eight! Golden guineas!" exclaimed Norine. "Why those are pirate coins! They remind me of Treasure Island; of Long John Silver and his wooden leg; of Ben Gunn and all the rest."

Esteban smiled uncomprehendingly. "Yes? Well, this has to do with treasure of the Varonas. My father buried it. He was very rich, you know, and he was afraid of the Spaniards. O'Reilly knows the story."

Johnnie assented with a grunt. "Sure! I know all about it." (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Don't Ask Personal Questions. Never presume upon your intimacy with another to ask personal questions. No matter how good friends two may be, both have certain matters which they prefer to keep to themselves. The presumption which, under the excuse of intimacy, pushes its way into the privacies of the spirit is unworthy of you. Respect your friends' reserves, and insist that they shall respect yours.

"Diseased Meat." There is a wide difference in the terms "diseased meat" and "meat from diseased animals." In fresh pork for instance, the absence of live trichinae cannot be guaranteed by the vendor from any known practical method of inspection, but if the meat is properly cooked any trichinae present are killed and hence cannot produce disease.

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. John Schlosser from their son, Joe, somewhere in France:

June 8 1918.

My Dear Parents:—

I want to write a few lines and let you know that I am well and hope that you are the same and let you know that I received a letter from home and saw in the letter that Helen received a baby boy. I was glad of it and am sending my best wishes and good luck for Helen and Joseph. We are having nice weather over here in France. The farmers are busy cutting hay and the rye looks good. The farmers over here where we were, hitch their milking cows on the wagon and haul the hay to their barns. It looks awful funny. If we would do that with our cows we wouldn't have any hay left on the wagon. The little boys drive them from 8 to 9 years old. We were in the trenches 13 days and nights. The first night seemed kind of funny to me but it was alright when I had put in a few nights. We all hope that the war will end soon and wishing you good luck and sending my best regards to all. Also my best regards to my sisters and brothers.

From your son,
Joseph Schlosser.

The three had gone for a boat ride, and when about 200 feet from the shore, the boat capsized, throwing the occupants into eight feet of water. The husband together with several others, who were standing on shore when the boat tipped, immediately rushed to the scene, but arrived too late to save them from drowning. The bodies were taken to the home of Anton Seifert, and later removed to the Gilroy, Senn and Smith undertaking parlor at Campbellsport, from where they were shipped to their home at Milwaukee.

YANKEE TROOPS WIN HIGH PRAISE

French and British Impressed by Splendid Enterprise and Initiation.

HEROIC DEEDS ARE PREDICTED

General Says American Spirit at Critical Moment Served to Maintain Morale of French at Chateau Thierry.

London.—The behavior of the American troops at Chateau Thierry has demonstrated more than anything that has happened on the American front the splendid initiative and enterprise with which the American army is endowed, and nothing has aroused the keener enthusiasm of the commander, says the Daily Mail correspondent with the American army in France.

He quotes an unnamed French general as saying that the American spirit and enterprise at a critical moment served to maintain the morale of the French troops around Chateau Thierry.

Among the incidents of the engagement the correspondent mentions is the steadiness and persistence of the American machine gun fire in the streets of Chateau Thierry. Company after company of the enemy marching abreast, repeatedly tried to advance, but recoiled sorely shattered before the fire of the American gunners. The streets were strewn with German dead and wounded and the American officers estimate they inflicted at least 1,000 casualties.

Predicts Heroic Deeds.

When a bridge across the Marne was blown up, the correspondent adds, the Americans were left on the northern bank with the enemy in front of them and the river at their backs. Carrying their guns, the Americans descended to the lower banks of the river, and under enemy machine gun and artillery fire succeeded in reaching the next bridge.

The correspondent predicts that much will be heard of the deeds of the Americans in the next few days, and adds:

"American troops fresh from the United States continue to arrive with regularity and in numbers more than sufficient to justify renewed confidence in the ultimate triumph of the entente. The Americans at this moment are distributed over a very wide front.

"In some sectors entire American divisions form one unit, holding a certain extent of line, while elsewhere they are brigaded with French and British regiments. In the Lunerville and Toul sectors the Americans hold very difficult salients—in the Toul sector completely dominated by the German artillery on Montsec. The Germans recently have been drenching these positions with gas, but the Americans stood firm and won the ready appreciation of all observers."

The spirit and morale of the American soldiers wounded in the Cantigny battle, 90 per cent of whom will recover, is wonderful. The first question they ask the surgeon is:

"Doc, when will I be able to go back after the Germans who fixed me?"

Two young privates were waiting their turn to enter the operating-room of a large American hospital in Paris. One said:

"I have been over the top three times, and it is the greatest sport I ever had. Fix me up quick because I want to go back after the Boches again."

The second soldier, who had a serious wound in the thigh, said:

"If I do not return to the trenches I have the satisfaction of knowing"

BRITON PRAISES "YANK DOC"

Officer of Essex Regiment Says Lieut. C. T. McCarthy Is Brave and Beloved.

London, England.—An officer of the Ninth Essex regiment, in a letter written home, pays tribute to an American officer serving with the regiment.

"Lieut. C. T. McCarthy, medical officer of our regiment," says the letter, "is one of the first Americans serving in France to obtain the British military cross. He was attached to our regiment last December. Our 'Yank doc,' as we call him, is one of the best of men. He is loved by all the officers and men.

"He is strict, but never has anybody been wounded or sick without the doctor going to him, no matter what the shelling or other conditions. He obtained the military cross for magnificent work in the recent Albert fighting. He went to the front with our regiment in motor busses to meet the Boche and during the worst period our regiment has known he was always in front with his medical aid. At one time he had his aid post in a quarry right in our front line and always where the fighting was worst he was with the wounded. In slack times he made tea and carried it to those who could not make it themselves. Never does he miss an opportunity of performing a kind act. Here's to our 'Yank doc.'" that I fixed three—two bayoneted and one shot. I am satisfied."

The soldier probably will recover, but he will never cross bayonets with the Germans again, as he will lose his leg.

Show Great Daring.

Many American officers and privates showed great daring and fortitude in withstanding the German attacks along the Marne at Chateau Thierry and Jaulgonne.

Capt. John R. Mendenhall of New Rochelle, N. Y., went without sleep for three days and remained steadily at the head of his company during that time.

Corp. Jules Mangold of McDonald, Pa., was sent out to investigate German snipers under a heavy fire from the American line. He found the snipers, pointed them out to his comrades and the Germans fired no more.

Capt. George Wakeline, the French liaison officer with the American unit, stood by the Americans in the thick of the fight, encouraging and cheering them. The Americans, he said, showed most wonderful fighting spirit and were jolly, even laughing and joking while a perfect hell raged around them.

HE WAS FOR GERMANY— GOT TAR AND FEATHERS

Vicksburg, Miss.—"I am for Germany and I am awaiting the day—and it won't be more than two or three years at most—when Germany invades the United States. Germany will make a real country out of this slipshod, grafting nation."

This statement, accredited to W. M. Wilkerson, caused him to be taken from a passenger train and treated to a coat of tar and feathers. He was then committed to jail.

THREE SONS ARE FIGHTING

Mother Wants to Engage in Some War Work That Will Take Her to France.

St. Paul, Minn.—Mrs. P. Holstrom of No. 630 Conway street has three sons fighting for Uncle Sam, and she herself is planning to go into some kind of war work that will take her to France.

Ernest Holstrom, a graduate of Cornell university, went to France with an engineering unit, and during a phase of the present German offensive twenty-two American engineers were killed around him, but he came through unscathed. He was promoted for his bravery under fire from second to first lieutenant.

Harry Holstrom, twenty-two years old, is on the ocean somewhere chasing submarines.

Ben Holstrom, twenty years old, who joined his brother in the fight against the Kaiser, though he is not of draft age, is in the aviation section and now is awaiting orders.

All of the boys graduated from Mechanic Arts High school. The two latter attended Cornell university.

GERMAN PRISON CAMPS WHERE YANKS ARE HELD

Bureau of Prisoners' Relief American Red Cross

Of these 27 German prison camps in which Americans now are held Tuelch, near Danzig, is the chief prison camp for our captured boys uniform, according to advices reaching the American Red Cross. In each of the camps shown by a black square on the map and in one small camp which cannot be located, there are either captured soldiers or else American men taken from submarine merchantmen. The Red Cross had direct reports from 231 men in these camps at the beginning of June, and to each sending through its prisoners' relief warehouses at Berne, 200 pounds of food a week and is supplying clothing, comforts, tobacco, and, in fact, everything the men need. In supplying captured soldiers and sailors the Red Cross acts as the transmitting agency for the army or the navy, which furnishes the supplies. In addition to the prisoners actually on its records, the Red Cross believes that there are some 200 additional American prisoners in Germany who have not yet reached the prison camps where they are to be located permanently. The Red Cross, however, is already prepared to care for them as soon as reported, and in fact has stocked in Berne or in transit enough to maintain 22,000 prisoners. If a stock of Red Cross packages of food and clothing in charge of three of our captured boys, who are appointed a Red Cross relief committee for that prison camp. Similar reserve stocks will be placed in other prisons as it becomes evident that they are to be used centers for imprisoned Americans, who thus will be fed and clothed immediately.

HAS FIVE SONS IN FRANCE

Kansas Town Presents Parents With Fine Flag at Public Celebration.

Hays, Kan.—A silk service flag of five stars was formally presented by the City of Hays to Mr. and Mrs. Anton Gross at a celebration here recently which packed the largest theater. Five of their sons are already in the army and a sixth will enlist as soon as the school where he is teaching closes for the summer. This will make six of the eight Gross sons in the service of Uncle Sam.

One is already in France and another is supposed to have sailed.

Mrs. Gross, the mother, responded to a speech of presentation. She thanked the people of Hays and said she deemed it a privilege to have been the mother of the men who would help to make the right more powerful than force and aggression.

Martin Gross is with the 137th infantry. John is in France in the heavy artillery. Theodore is at Jefferson bar racks. Paul is supposed to have sailed for France, and Jacob is at Camp Greene, N. C.

ETHER MAKES QUICK CURE

Negro, Trying to Avoid Draft, Forgets About Back Disease When He Comes To.

Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga.—A Georgia negro selectman was being examined by the medical officers and developed a strange case of spinal deformity. He declared he had been afflicted for years. When tried at drill he was so drawn and bent in the back that military service seemed an impossibility. He was taken to the hospital and told an apparently straight story of his affliction. A light dose of ether was administered. When the negro returned to semiconsciousness he raised up, stretched himself perfectly straight, walked about the room, and acted normally. Reminded that he was thought a cripple he again lapsed into a horrible looking deformed soldier, but this time it did not work. "Boss," he said, "dat medsun you-all gimme sho' cured me quick."

SHEARERS ASK $60 A DAY

Are Now Making $40 a Day Trimming Sheep in Idaho, but Want More.

Boise, Idaho.—Sheep shearers in Idaho are making $40 a day, and if their demands for more wages are met they will make $60 a day, according to J. B. Whitson, a sheepman, in a complaint to the state council of defense. Sheepmen declare they have information indicating a state-wide sheep-shearing combination has been built up.

Shearers are getting 15 cents a head and by using machines each man can shear from 200 to 300 head of sheep a day. The shearers have made a demand for an increase to 20 cents a head. In addition, the boss of the crew is paid for boarding his men, which will bring the charge to about 28 cents a head, say the sheep owners.

A Case for Hoover.

Albany, N. Y.—Heedling only spruce with its blossoms and bird song Thomas Farrell, eleven, and Fred Redmond, nine, followed the call of road. They were found asleep in haystack six miles away from home, holding closely six eggs.

Practical Garb for Outdooring

There are middies, smocks, sweaters and coats for outdooring, that is, for all sorts of sport and recreation wear. And their comrades are skirts, bloomers or breeches, according to the sort of service to be required of them. For tennis and golf, skirts that will wash again and again and come out as fresh and unfaded as when they were new, have not been rivaled as yet by bloomers or breeches—for some other sports, skirts are a thing of the past. With these washable skirts plus blouses are worn and swagger little coats made of summer flannel, serge or other materials—and, of course, sweater or sweater coats.

The coat's the thing this year, that has almost absorbed the attention of those who specialize in designing sport clothes. And it has been presented in a variety of new styles so that when it is slipped on over a skirt and blouse it tones up the costume, lending it neatness. Sleeveless coats of satin and velvet were among these new ideas and have proved themselves successful. Among new arrivals the simple but swagger little coat shown in the picture, need not fear comparison with coats of more costly goods—it has some points of advantage over them. It is made of summer flannel in any of the gay bright colors and touched up with white in pearl buttons, plique collar and arrow-head finish of pockets.

Just the skirt for this coat is shown with it. It is of heavy white plique and fastens at the middle of the front where a row of white pearl buttons finishes the overlapped seam. There are any number of sport hats that will top off this practical and pretty outfit. But its youthful wearer has chosen a tam of white corduroy, one of the "blue devil" models that embodies much dash. Its long tassel matches the coat in color. Where something more dignified is needed, for an older woman, one of the coconut braids in white embroidered with yarn or silk flowers against the crown, would make a good choice, and there is the perennial Panama with handsome band or scarf that belongs to all summers.

The Isabella Color.

Once a Spanish princess vowed not to change her lingerie till a certain war was won, and as that took many months, the result was that fashionable Spanish ladies of the time, who looked to this princess for leadership in the matter of dress, soon came to adopt a yellowish-brown sort of linen for their kerchiefs, tuckers, wimples and other similar apparel. The princess' name was Isabella, and this fashionable shade was known as Isabella color, and one occasionally hears this name applied in Paris even to this day to a sort of yellowish-brown that really does look like linen that had been dedicated to a laundryless existence. Although we have had every shade of lingerie, we have not yet had this color. The next thing to it, and something that surely wouldn't appeal to all womankind, is the new lingerie of nickel-gray that has been put on the shelves of one or two of the exclusive women's shops. There is a complete set of this gray underwear in crepe de chine

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BEE WORLD.

"Buzz, buzz," said little Mr. Bee. "Buzz, buzz," answered Brother Bee.

"Here, here, get to work, get to work," said Miss Bee to her sister.

"I am hurrying as fast as I can," buzzed her sister, Mr. Bee.

"There is a great deal of work to do," said Miss Bee.

"I know it, I know it," said Sister Bee.

"What are they talking about?" asked Baby Brother Bee.

"Nothing, my dear," answered Mr. Bee.

"Can people or bees talk about nothing?" asked Baby Brother Bee.

"Dear me, dear me," said Mr. Bee; "now isn't that just like a bright child! He is asking such a clever question."

"Of course, dear Baby Bee," said Mr. Bee; "you are quite right. They aren't talking about nothing. What I really meant to tell you was that what they were talking about need not be noticed by you. But I didn't say just that, and you were so clever you wanted to know just what I did mean by what I said."

"I really don't understand even now," said Baby Bee. "I am afraid I am not as clever as you think."

"Yes, you are clever, buzz, buzz, you are clever," said Mr. Bee, and Brother Bee said:

"Buzz, buzz, you are a clever baby brother. You are a smart little bee."

"I am not so smart just doing nothing, am I?" asked Baby Bee.

"Ah, buzz, buzz, that is what makes you so smart—that and the bright questions you ask!"

"I feel very stupid," said Baby Bee.

"Listen, my dear little Bee, and I will tell you," said Mr. Bee. And all this time the sister bees were saying to each other:

"Hurry, hurry, buzz, buzz, work and work! There is no time to waste, buzz, buzz. There is no time to waste!"

And in the center of all the other bees was a beautiful Queen Bee who was constantly fed the most delicious of goodies and who never did anything but eat all she could get and lay eggs so there would be more bees all the time.

In a way she was doing something—for she was making many subjects for her kingdom. She was having a big and splendid kingdom of bees over which to reign, and she knew that if she didn't do her part and didn't have plenty of subjects, they would take her off the throne and make another bee the Queen.

But Mr. Bee, Brother Bee and all the other Mr. Bees were doing absolutely nothing at all. The new little bees who kept coming into the bee world were made assistant workers to the ones who were already working so hard. But none of the Mr. Bees, or the male bees did any work at all.

"Baby Bee," Mr. Bee said, "we aren't supposed to work. In the Bee World only the ladies do the work. It's a fine, sensible arrangement I think. We can be lazy and do nothing. There is something very fine about doing nothing when we see others about us so very busy. They rush about in such a hurried, common fashion! We're such little gentlemen."

Baby Bee listened. He was a little male bee, and later on he would be a full-grown Mr. Bee. How dreadful his life was going to be.

"Must I be a little gentleman bee?" he asked.

"Of course!" exclaimed Brother Bee, and Mr. Bee buzzed.

"Isn't it simply magnificent?"

"I'd rather work," said the little bee. "It's so stupid to do nothing, and there's no fun in being lazy. I wish I'd been born a working bee."

But after a while he became used to his laziness and was a regular little male bee—doing nothing. But, oh, how often he envied the ones who could work, and how often he wished he hadn't been born a gentleman bee.

"If I had my way," he said, "I would only make my enemies gentleman bees if it always meant they couldn't do any work."

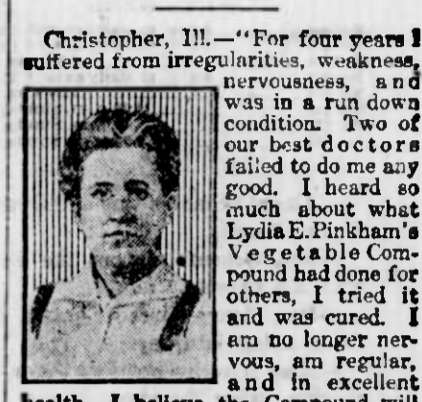

But of course, one poor little baby bee couldn't change all the rules of the Bee World!

WHY BALL CAN BE CURVED

Presence of Irregularities on the Sphere Alone Makes the Feat a Possibility.

If it were not for "mountains" on a baseball much larger in proportion than any mountains on earth the clever pitcher could not get so much as a sixteenth of an inch curve in it.

If a baseball were a perfect sphere the best pitcher in the world could not make it curve a hair's breadth other than the natural curve produced by gravity. The reason the baseball curves, says the American Boy, is because it is covered with "mountains."

There are great peaks and ridges, valleys and cliffs, gullies and craters all over it. Magnified 10,000 diameters, all these things may be seen, and they present a far more rugged landscape than any mountainous region in the world. It looks like an exaggerated combination of the Grand Canyon, Red Lands, Alps and Rockies.

It is these irregularities that make it possible for a pitcher to curve his baseball. Of course he knows how to hold and throw it, but in passing through the air the friction strikes upon these rugged edges even though they have to be magnified 10,000 diameters to be seen with the naked eye, and cause such a pressure as to make the ball leave its natural course.

One of the great drawbacks in this world is that a man never knows it is too late until it is too late.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Spent Yeast Put to Many Uses.

The spent yeast which collects in breweries and distilleries is put through a process which turns it into the form of buttons, doorbell plates and knife handles. Formerly this left-over material was considered to be a bothersome waste; now it is utilized, every bit of it. As it is gathered from the vats the yeast is of a dirty, gray-brown color. The first operation is to dye it and then to work it over until it assumes the form of powder and can be hot pressed into any form. In this stage it is called "ernolith." It may be saved, scraped, filed, drilled, engraved, turned to an edge and polished.—Popular Science Monthly.

Doan's, However, Restored Mr. Roulston to Good Health. Results Have Lasted.

"Mornings I was so stiff and sore I could hardly get up," says A. C. Roulston, prop. blacksmith shop, 2840 Washington St., Roxbury, Mass. "The sharp pains through my kidneys were so bad I often thought I wouldn't be able to get to work. I couldn't rest comfortably and turned and tossed from one side to the other, with a dull, dragging backache. There were a few puffy spots under my eyes and I felt worn out all the time. The kidney secretions passed too often and were otherwise unnatural. Four or five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. I can honestly recommend Doan's for they have surely done me a world of good."

HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK IN WISCONSIN

La Crosse—At a banquet attended by leading La Crosse business men Gov. E. L. Philipp denounced profiteers, saying large war profits should be made impossible by law and that no one should think of amassing a great fortune in war time. Referring to the shortage of labor on farms, the governor said every one must be ready to do farm work if necessary. He also said the state is doing all in its power to obtain a sufficient supply of hard coal to meet demands, but that many people may have to use soft coal this winter. He declared the state will have 83,000 men in service by Aug. 1. This number includes the July draft figures. He predicted that Wisconsin will furnish 200,000 men without increasing or diminishing the military ages.

Sparta—George B. Hall of this city and William G. Hall of Parkers Prairie, Minn., twin brothers, celebrated their eightieth birthday at the home of George Hall, in this city, recently. William Hall is a veteran of the civil war, having served four years in Company D, Eighth Wisconsin Infantry. Thirty relatives gathered for the birthday dinner party. Each of the two brothers has five children. George has eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild. William has fourteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Out of a family of eleven boys the twin brothers are the only ones living.

Milwaukee—Three candidates will fight it out in the primary for the Republican nomination for governor, Gov. E. L. Philipp, Senator Roy P. Wilcox and J. N. Tittmeyer. E. J. Gross, who announced himself as the La Follette candidate for governor, will be with drawn, according to the latest report from Madison, where the La Follette leaders held a conference. Lieut. Gov. E. E. Dittmar is said to have dropped his gubernatorial aspirations and will run for re-election as lieutenant governor.

Mayville—Postmaster Paul A. Herbert of this city was almost instantly killed when he was struck by a large touring car in front of the postoffice. Mr. Herbert had alighted from his automobile and in attempting to pass around it, was struck by the other car. He died shortly after. He was 40 years old, and was appointed two years ago, upon the recommendation of the late Senator Paul Husting.

Madison—One of the most comprehensive surveys ever made of the health resources and actual conditions in Wisconsin is about to be started by the health and recreation department of the woman's committee, Wisconsin state council of defense, working in co-operation with the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association and the state board of health.

Madison—Under instructions from Herbert Hoover, federal food administrator, the Wisconsin food administration ordered $17,514 pounds (more than 458 tons) of sugar taken from Jiffy Jell company and White Rock Mineral Springs company of Waukesha, and distributed to relieve the threatened sugar famine in the state.

Sheboygan—What is said to be one of the largest and most beautiful club houses in Wisconsin, was dedicated recently in the village of Kohler, Sheboygan County. It is the "American Club," erected by the Kohler Improvement company to provide a home for the employes of the large Kohler company plant.

Marinette—The noteworthy record of never having been absent nor tardy during her twelve years of grade and high school work and a year in training abroad belongs to Miss Pearl Aagaard of this city who was graduated recently from the Marinette Training school.

Janesville—Nearly 200 German aliens registered in this city during the registration period. Two hundred and seventeen men registered during the period for registering of male alien enemies.

Madison—Madison has been selected as the next meeting place of the Inter-association of Governmental Labor Officials next spring, according to Chairman George P. Hambrecht of the industrial commission.

Beloit—Two Beloit college boys, Lieut. Manderson Diller and Sergeant Pilot Glenn N. Sutterly, United States flying men, have been decorated for deeds of valor in France.

Superior—Superior's sixty saloons, two wholesale liquor houses and six brewery agencies closed their doors Saturday night, June 29, voted out at the spring election by a margin of thirty-four votes.

New London—The community of Manawa has learned by "bitter experience" that all patriotic speakers are not patriotic, or even honest. A committee arranged to have a traveling "patriotic" speaker deliver an address, for which he was to receive his expenses and $5 or $10, depending on the size of the donation. Before a large audience he delivered an eloquent appeal for a large Red Cross collection and $100 was taken up for the cause and given to the speaker. He kept it.

Fond du Lac—The Wisconsin Pharmaceutical association, in convention at Elkhart Lake, adopted loyalty resolutions, and at the same time asked the president to grant commissions to registered pharmacists entering the service, commensurate with their ability to serve. They argued that pharmacists are entitled to commissioned ranks, in lieu of the fact that it takes five years to prepare one's self for registration.

At least one day of the week is planned to be spent on nearby farms by business men and employes. This assistance so far as can be will be furnished without cost to the farmer.

Chippewa Falls—The Chippewa Woolen Mills has received a government contract to make 10,000 woolen blankets for the soldiers. This will necessarily make a temporary shortage of the famous Chippewa macinaw, as practically the entire factory will be devoted to making blankets. The contract price for the order is $72,000.

Wausau—A very unusual record in attendance which has few equals in that made by Elroy McFaul, a graduate of the local high school this year. He started in school when he was not yet 5 years old and from that day until he graduated from high school last month he has not missed a day nor ever been tardy.

New London—The strawberry crop this year in this vicinity is proving a failure, due to the early ice and sleet which destroyed most of the plants. Only a few cases have been shipped this year compared to hundreds in former years. New plants are being put in to replace the old.

Pewaukee—A federal dog tax of $5 is suggested by George McKerron of this city. A tax of $5 per head on half of the dogs of this country would yield some $50,000,000 revenue, and the destruction of 10,000,000 slacker dogs would save from $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 in food.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Not a truth has to art or to science been given. But brows have ached for it, and souls toiled and striven.

FISH WAYS FOR FISH DAYS.

One must learn how to judge a fish in the market and be able to tell a fresh one from the stale variety. The fish must be firm, eyes bright, as well as the gills. The man who likes fish soft may have taste, but it is all bad. The sooner a fish is scaled after coming from the water the easier it is done. Take a small sharp knife and scale from the tail to the head. Pouring boiling water over the fish is recommended as an easy way to loosen the scales, but the fish must not lie in the water more than an instant. Hold knife in a slanting position while scaling and the work will be easier. One old fisherman uses a common curry comb to remove the scales; it hastens the process.

Fish, after scaling, should be split and the entrails removed, washing thoroughly; but not allowing it to lie in the water, as it will soon lose its flavor. Those of us who have eaten brook trout which have been caught, cleaned and fried within an hour, know how delicious fish can be.

When fish is to be boiled, lay it in a thin piece of cheesecloth, tie it well and put into a kettle of water. A bay leaf, pepper korns, onion or parsley may be used for seasoning. Simmer gently, allowing ten minutes to the pound for cooking. Lift out carefully, remove the cloth and garnish with lemon quarters and parsley.

To fry fish, dip it in seasoned cornmeal, then fry in any sweet fat, seasoning it well while cooking.

Salt fish should be soaked in water and softened by slow cooking; if boiled rapidly the fiber will be toughened.

Fish Salad—Cut the pieces of boiled fish in bits, or flake with two forks, season with lemon juice and arrange lightly on a bed of watercress. Peel and boil three large potatoes; drain, mash and beat until light, season with salt, two tablespoonfuls of corn oil, the yolks of two eggs well beaten and a tablespoonful of vinegar, beating well while adding. Pour this over the fish and serve.

Self codfish, served in a white sauce, using sour cream in place of the usual milk, is most tasty dish.

Knowledge and wisdom, far from being one. Have oft times no connection. Knowledge dwells in heads replete with thoughts of other men. Wisdom in minds attentive to their own. —William Cowper.

SUMMER DISHES.

When vegetables are so plentiful one need not fear monotony in the diet.

Green Peas Cooked With Lettuce.—Have ready a quart of fresh peas and a head of lettuce. Shred the leaves coarsely and place the peas over the fire in boiling water; add a small onion and a bunch of parsley, cover and cook for 25 minutes, or until the peas are tender. Cream a fourth of a cupful of fat. Add a teaspoonful of salt, a fourth of a cupful of flour (corn flour) and pepper to taste; add a little hot liquor from the peas and when smooth add to the dish of peas and simmer three minutes. Just before serving add three tablespoonfuls of butter substitute and turn into a vegetable dish. Serve hot.

Rochester Soup—This is a rich dinner soup. Blanch two-thirds of a cupful of almonds, chop and pound in a mortar. Add gradually while pounding four tablespoonfuls of milk and a half teaspoonful of salt; then add three cupfuls of chicken stock, one sliced onion and three stalks of celery broken in bits. Simmer an hour then rub through a sieve and bind with three tablespoonfuls of butter substitute and three of flour well blended. Cook until the starch is well done and serve hot.

Asparagus Salad.—Tie a bunch of asparagus tips together and steam until tender. Cut rings of tomato or red pepper, slip the stalks into the rings, lay on a lettuce leaf and serve with salad dressing.

Creamed Onions.—Take two bunches of young green onions, cook and serve in a butter or white sauce as one does asparagus, making a most tasty dish; serve on toast. A few young onions with asparagus will help out when there is not enough of the asparagus to serve, and the combination is especially good.
