HUMANE SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Since we organized our County Humane Society in November 1913, the world passed through many important stages, in fact it seems, as a world of brutality and selfishness, must go and the prospects for a better world are bright. I hope the golden age is nearer than we all expect. But there is always in sight of better days danger for the present.

The people forget so easily the momentary distresses and pass idly on, thinking the work is done—and the work will not be done. Therefore we appeal to everybody to do a good thing as long as we can, and especially in great days, in days of great changes and evolutions, a good many people need the leadership of a good hearted fellow. Let our society be a leader for the week.

That our work is not yet done, will be shown by the reports of our agents. A good many cases, far more as the most of you ever thought, could be possible in our county will they report. And these reports show you at the same time how well your dollar for this work is spent, and their reports should furthermore encourage everybody to do their utmost to stamp out in our county all deeds of unjust and unkindness among humane beings and animals.

At present we have three acting agents, Dr. Wehle of West Bend, W. Melcher of Hartford and Dr. Lynch of Allenton. Dr. Lynch is at present not among us, as he followed a call of our government to do great humane work among the wounded soldiers in France, and carry over to Europe the American spirit of humanity and justice.

It seems to me there is a growing sentiment following our work in the county, at least it looks so, as I can state that our membership is larger than in the past year. Last year we reported 204 members and this year 302, a gain of 98. But we are not satisfied with this number, our goal is 500 members. To my great regret Dr. Benson has discontinued the Humane Herald. It was in my opinion a mistake to drop the paper and I hope that at the next meeting on Nov. 21, 1918 at 8 a. m. in the Commercial hall at West Bend we will find means and ways to bring Humane thoughts through literature into every Washington county home and especially reports showing what our society does.

Last year I sent out in the interest of our society 604 letters, post cards and printed matter and made a good many calls in behalf of our work. 85 cases were reported by the agents. A new board of directors will be elected. The present board consists of C. E. Leins, President, West Bend, Wis.; H. E. Kuhn, Hartford, Wis., Vice-president; E. A. Kuhn, Hartford, Wis., Secretary and Treasurer; E. C. Schauer, Hartford, Wis.; G. A. Kuechenmeister, West Bend, Wis.

I earnestly ask you to elect somebody else in my place as secretary and treasurer, not because I am tired of doing Humane work, but I feel I cannot devote as much time as I should I know there are men in our county very capable for this position. I will give him all the support I can. I hope our society will be more able in the future to do what is written in the society's motto: "Prevent Cruelty," "Protect the Helpless" and "Promote Humane Education."

E. Kuhn, Secretary and Treasurer.

NOTICE

Meeting of the Town Board of Audit will be held on the 1st Tuesday, being the 3rd day of December, 1918, in Fred Witzig's barber shop, Kewaskum, Wis., instead of Adolph Backhaus' hall as stated in our last week's issue, to settle all claims and charges against the town.

Adolph Habeck, Clerk.

WITH THE WEEK'S DEAR DEPARTED

After a short illness with the influenza which later developed into pneumonia, John Pesch, one of Campbellsport's prominent businessmen and who for the past eight years has been assessor of that village, passed away in death at his home there last week Thursday evening at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Pesch was born on October 3, 1857, at New Fane, he moved to Campbellsport in 1882, where he has been in the machine business ever since and for the past several years helped his son John in the garage business. Deceased is survived by two daughters and one son, namely: Mary Pesch, Mrs. K. Beisbier and John, all residing at Campbellsport. Besides these he leaves to mourn his untimely death three brothers and one sister as follows: Peter and Elizabeth of Newburg; William of New Fane and John of St. Michaels.

The funeral was held on Monday morning at 10 o'clock with services in the St. Matthew's Catholic church. Rev. July officiated, interment was made in the Union cemetery.

The Campbellsport branch of Catholic Knights of which Mr. Pesch was a member attended the funeral in a body. The following members of said order acted as pall bearers: Joseph Bauer, Joseph Voltz, Frank Becker, William Campbell, Henry Liebel, Jr., and Joe. Kleinhans.

Relatives from out of town who attended the funeral are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. William Pesch of New Fane, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pesch of Newburg, Mrs. Adam Uelmen and children of Kewaskum, and Mrs. Adam Leiden of Milwaukee.

IS REPORTED IN A DYING CONDITION.

Reports reaching this village state that ex-Congressman Michael E. Burke is hovering between life and death at his home in Beaver Dam, with odds heavily against him. Mr. Burke suffered a breakdown two years ago, and had been confined in a state institution at Madison up to about four months ago when his condition seemed to be so much better that he was sent to his home. Since then he has shown a remarkable improvement and was about his home city as usual, when he suffered a relapse last week. Mr. Burke has hundreds of close friends in this vicinity who sincerely hope that his condition will take a turn for the better.

TENDERS RESIGNATION AS CASHIER

R. B. Ellis, who for the past two years has successfully managed the banking affairs as cashier of the First State Bank of Campbellsport, has tendered his resignation to the directors of that bank, same to take effect December 1st. Mr. Ellis has accepted a position as bank examiner with the State Banking department, with a territory comprising the southeast portion of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis will move to Milwaukee next week, where they intend to make their future home.

Byron H. Glass, who has been assistant cashier of the bank since it was established nineteen years ago, will act as cashier until the annual meeting of the stockholders which will be held the forepart of January next, at which time a permanent cashier will be appointed. Mr. Glass' position will be taken by Chas. Seering of Campbellsport until a new cashier has been appointed.

WILL COME BACK SHORTLY FOR MORE STOCK

County Agent Geo. A. Blank on Tuesday morning received a telegram from County Agent H. C. Foudren of Jennings, Louisiana, announcing the arrival, in good condition, of the stock recently bought in Washington county, 83 head of graded and purebred dairy cattle. The purchases are more than pleased with the stock the message goes on saying, and Mr. Foudren expects to return in a week or ten days to buy two more carloads of stock from our dairy cattle breeders.—West Bend News.

CHILDREN'S WAR SAVING CRUSADE

Although hostilities are over, War Savings stamps, as government securities, will be issued again next year.

According to J. H. Puelicher, state director of war savings the war savings campaign has attracted such great success in creating patriots and transforming habits of people from waste and extravagance into thrift, that the government has decided to put the war savings campaign on a permanent basis.

"Under the new loan organization the War Savings society is expected to be the main agency, not only for selling stamps continuously and regularly, but also for teaching the importance of saving and investing. Every man, woman and child in the country will be expected to be a member of some War Saving society and to invest weekly in some form of war saving securities. So great is the need of greater saving that plans have been formed for organizing the entire country into a great army of savers.

"The 1919 stamp will be in blue, instead of green of 1918, so it will be easy to distinguish between the two issues. It will be a little smaller than the present stamp, for mechanical reasons. The new series will have the vignette of Franklin, the apostle of saving, instead of Washington. It seems particularly appropriate that Franklin's picture should be used, and it is necessary to use a picture, as this is one of the chief precautions against counterfeiting.

"The same thrift stamps and thrift cards will continue in use and be exchanged for $5 War Savings stamps as at present. The 1919 series will mature in 1924.

It is partly to clear up the entire issue of green War Savings stamps before the end of the year that the Children's Crusade, from Dec. 2nd, to the 7th, has been planned. The children, are enthusiastic salesmen and it is hoped will put Wisconsin over the top as much by their help as with the co-operation of their elders.

SHEBOYGAN MOURNS JUDGE J. M. GIBLIN

Judge John M. Giblin 70 years old, is dead at Sheboygan. Judge Giblin had an eventful life. He was born in the town of Rolling Prairie, Washington county, and later moved with his parents to Kewaskum, where he received his early education. Thirty-six years ago he married Miss Julia Lane of Oshkosh and moved to Sheboygan.

He followed the mercantile business for a few years and for a number of years served as justice of the peace and later as municipal judge for three terms.

Judge Giblin inaugurated the "stone pile", where law breakers were compelled to work out the costs of their maintenance and it was he who introduced and aided in establishing the probationary office. The funeral services were held on Thanksgiving day.—Evening Wisconsin.

POSTMASTER GOTTSCEKER IS DEAD AT SHEBOYGAN

Postmaster Frank Gottsceker died at St. Nicholas hospital Tuesday after a brief illness. Mr. Gottsceker for nearly sixty years has been identified with the National Democrats, a German publication, and as its editor became widely known throughout Wisconsin. He was deputy revenue collector under Cleveland and a member of the Democratic state central committee some years ago.—Evening Wisconsin.

CONSTRUCTION BAN REMOVED

An announcement given out by the War Industries Board, regarding the restriction on building operations in city and country, states that the restriction has been lifted. No permits are necessary for future building. Anyone who desires to build can take advantage of the opportunity without fear of violating the building restrictions.

An announcement made by Postmaster General Burleson, states that night telegrams may now be sent from coast to coast at the rate of fifty cents for ten words, and will be delivered at their destination by post office carriers. The cheapest rate heretofore was one dollar.

LETTER FROM THE BATTLE-FIELDS OF FRANCE

Mrs. Catherine Harter is in receipt of the following letter from her son Rev. Sylvester Harter from some where in France.

France, Nov. 6, 1918.

Mrs. Catherine Harter, Kewaskum, Wisconsin.

Sweetheart Mother: I am still resting at the delightful Chateau d'Aux, Louplande, not far from Paris. I have been on the road for a long time now, and God knows I am willing to rest for a while. The war is still busy with its dread destructive forces, and will continue for some time in spite of Turkey's and Austria's complete surrenders. But Germany is apparently dying, even though it dies hard, the Kaiser and his sons, the only part of Germany not yet bleeding, holding hard to the thrones they themselves destroyed by their hellish cruelty and disgustingly hardheaded ambitions. And to the boys of our beloved United States belongs the victory. Maimed bodies will return to the Homeland. But they will be glorious wounds, speaking to the world of the love of liberty, and of the love for the poor devastated lands of Belgium and France. Many of our boys will come back marked by brutal war. But the mothers should smile through their tears, for those marks are the badges of self sacrifice in a cause of love. And if many do not return—Ah, that is indeed hard to bear! They had to die some time, though, and how could they die in a better cause, a better, more holy death "Greater love than this no man hath than that he lay down his life for his friend." They lie in hallowed graves, the flag of their country waving proudly over them, the gratitude of a French people clothing them with the royal garments of everlasting sweet memories. "Here lies one of the Sammy boys, who shed his blood, who gave his life, for our own mothers, and wives and sweethearts and sisters might be safe from the bloody hands of a dead enemy. May he rest in peace!" And God will not forget that gift of love, that supreme sacrifice—it is too similar to that of his own Beloved One.

How are the dear ones back home? What would I not give today just to walk along the old familiar roads again, to smile with others in our mutual love, to take my sweetheart mother in my arms and pour into her ears the love I've held during these past sixteen months. Sweetheart mother! You will be glad when this war ends, as will all in the homeland, as will all the ideas what this war is in its barbarity. The devastated homes, the ruins of cities, cathedrals, countries, lands, the cripples, the graves—Oh, what a sin this world must be guilty of to demand such an atonement. I do not know how long it will be before I am to return, for the Chaplain may be amongst the last to return. The hundreds of wounded will still want me when the rest have already come back to the firesides of homes. I will have to remain until the clouds have all been blown away. And so I will close with love and kisses to you and all.

Your Soldier Boy, Sylvester.

REAL ESTATE DEALS

A. L. Rosenheimer and J. B. Day, our widely and favorably known real estate dealers were quite busy the past two weeks, buying and selling a number of farms in the towns of Osceola, Farmington and Wayne. On Wednesday, November 20th, they purchased the Frank Rahn 60 acre farm located in the town of Wayne. This farm contains very choice land with good modern buildings, and will be sold to any one at a very reasonable price if taken at once. About a week ago they purchased the Jacob Hanson 80 2-3 acre farm, located in the town of Farmington, which will also be sold reasonable if taken at once.

AUCTION SALE

Commencing at nine o'clock a. m., sharp, on Tuesday, December 10, 1918, the undersigned will sell at Public Auction on his farm located five miles south of Kewaskum, 3 1/2 miles east of Kohlsville and seven miles northwest of West Bend in the town of Barton, all of his personal property. For further particulars see large bills. Terms easy and made known on day of sale.

JOHN SCHMIDT, Prop. Geo. F. Brandt, Auctioneer.

MARRIED AT WAUKEGAN

In the Waukegan marriage licenses in the Milwaukee Sentinel of Wednesday, Nov. 27, 1918, we noticed the license of Arthur Koch and Miss Emma Liermann of Beechwood, and Arthur E. Stagy of Random Lake and Miss Martha Hintz of Beechwood. The above mentioned are some of the town of Scott's most prominent citizens. Mr. Koch is the youngest son of Mrs. Chas. Koch of Beechwood, where he is employed in the mercantile business. Miss Liermann is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Liermann of Beechwood, a prominent farmer of that place. The young couple will make their future home in Beechwood. Mr. Stagy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Stagy of Beechwood, and Miss Hintz is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hintz, both parties are well and favorably known farmers of Beechwood. Mr. and Mrs. Stagy will make their home on the groom's farm in Beechwood.

The many friends of the young couples extend best wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

DID YOU SEE THEM?

Many people witnessed the beautiful phenomenon in the skies Monday evening, the moon being encircled by a broad band of red, white and blue, the colors being very distinct. The cause of this is unknown, but coming as it did upon the night of the allied victory over Germany, it seemed to many a sign that the Almighty gave to his favored people.—Oceanonovae Enterprise.

GREATLY BENEFITED BY CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS.

"I am thankful for the good I have received by using Chamberlain's Tablets. About two years ago when I began taking them I was suffering a great deal from distress after eating, and from headache and a tired, languid feeling due to indigestion and a torpid liver. Chamberlain's Tablets corrected these disorders in a short time, and since taking two bottles of them my health has been good," writes Mrs. M. P. Harwood, Auburn, N. Y.

GREGORY HILMES DIES IN FRANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hilmes of St. Michaels received a cablegram on Thursday morning from France announcing the death of their son, Private Gregory Hilmes, who died in France on October 14th, 1918, of pneumonia. Mr. Hilmes was drafted into the service last fall, and until recently was stationed at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill. A complete obituary will appear in our next week's issue. The cablegram reads as follows:

Washington, D. C.

Mr. Frank Hilmes, Kewaskum, Wis. Deeply regret to inform you that it is officially reported that Private Gregory L. Hilmes, Field Artillery, died of pneumonia, October 14, 1918. Harris, The Adj. General.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Two tests were given to the Com'l Arithmetic class during the week.

Elmer Martin has been added to our enrollment list as a Freshman.

Pupils who have neither been absent nor tardy the first eleven weeks of school

The Sophomores are writing the different forms of letters as composition work.

Miss Schultz was detained from school on Thursday afternoon on account of illness.

Many pupils are absent from school due to the epidemic which has again spread through the town.

Belinda Belger was the first one of the Seniors to appear in giving her rhetorical. She talked on the subject, "Why we must save coal."

Report cards were given to the students Tuesday. These are the first reports of the school year, and every student was anxious to see the marks.

The pupils all seem to rejoice that Thanksgiving Day is a holiday for all of them. This will give them a chance to eat their turkey in peace.

The Physics class had a very un-welcome visitor on Monday. The visitor made such a sudden appearance that it frightened some of the students—it was only a mouse.

The new large Webster's Dictionary is now taking the place of the old one on the library table. This dictionary was presented to the high school by the last year's Juniors.

High School:

Leo Brodzeller, Agnes Stoffel, Edna Brunner, Esther Raether, Sylvia Marx, Isabella Miller, Ralph Rosenheimer, Cecil Runte, Marie Schield, Cresence Stoffel, Arnold Boegel, Norma Bunkelmann and Raymond Quade.

Grammar Room—Adela Radtke, Margaret Schlosser, Edward Brandt, Myron Porschbacher, Mirian Schaefer and Elizabeth Quade.

Intermediate Room—Erna Quade, Marvin Martin, Grace Krahn, Maude Hausmann, Edward Metzger, Bernice Porschbacher, Florence Rosenheimer, and Norma Knoebel.

Primary Dept.—Ray Porschbacher, Ralph Kohn, Frank Groth, Reuben Schaefer, Carl Theis, Ruth Rosenheimer and Georgia Schmidt.

THE WAR SAVINGS STAMP SALE

Each pupil of the public schools is expected to sell at least two war savings stamps, or their equivalent in thrift stamps during this crusade which will be conducted from December 2nd to 7th. Reports will be made to their respective post master.

Each child who sells the two war savings stamps will receive a certificate of patriotic service. For children who sell more than two of the war savings stamps, or their equivalent in thrift stamps, there will be a "plus" certificate, this certificate to indicate just how many stamps he has sold.

Each child will thus have memento showing the part he or she played in this great world war, even as the soldiers receive medals for exceptional work.

I call upon every Committeeman of Washington County War Saving Committee to assist the school children in completing the quota of Washington County.

"REMEMBER THE DATE, 'DECEMBER 2nd to DECEMBER 7th'."

Edward F. Russell, Chairman of the War Savings Committee of Washington County.

SLEEP AND REST.

One of the most common causes of insomnia and restlessness is indigestion. Take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper and see if you do not rest better and sleep better. They only cost a quarter.

WITH OUR COUNTY SCHOOLS

The teachers throughout the county are doing much to create community interest and in teaching rules of parliamentary practice by organizing formal school societies. The following schools report such activities: "Town Hall School", Dist. No. 9, Jackson organized the "East Jackson Dramatic Club." Officers have been elected and the first open meeting will be held on November 22 at 7:45 P. M.

A Civics Society was organized in the Richfield State Graded School. The organization is called "Richfield Junior Citizens". A president, secretary and treasurer have been elected.

A school society was organized in District No. 6 and 8, Richfield; they held their first meeting on Friday, Nov. 15, 1918.

Dist. No. 5, Town of Hartford, Mary Russell, teacher, held a service flag dedication program on November 20. A flag was purchased by teacher and pupils of the school containing nine service stars representing the boys of the district who have entered the service of Uncle Sam, viz: Herbert Hahn, Robert Schodron, Emil Uber, Peter Rettler, Arthur Russell, Theodore Mago, Peter Mago, Harry Regenfuss and Peter Jochan. The appropriate program consisting of flag salute, patriotic songs, recitations and readings were given. At the close of the exercises, Miss Russell read a letter concerning the Red Cross Auxiliary, and money was collected for the Junior Red Cross organization.

The children and teacher, Aurilla Dickmann, in District No. 2, Kewaskum, are showing great interest in Reading Circle Work. They have organized a club called "Prairie Villa Busybody" and twelve children together with Miss Dickmann are reading. The school also reports the following items:—A change in many of our textbooks has been made which will make our work more interesting. Odela Zunaich, Esther Zunaich, Olive Wendorf, Vineta Klein and Wilmar Falk received perfect attendance certificates on Friday.—The Primary and Intermediate grades made Thanksgiving booklets this week.

War Savings Societies were organized in the following schools: The Rusco School District No. 3 and 8, West Bend has 29 members organized Nov. 15. District No. 2, Trenton organized on November 16.

The seventh and eighth grade classes in No. 2, Trenton have started farm accounts which they will keep for the remainder of the year. Warm lunches are being served to the children in this school.

Office of Co. Supt. of Schools, Washington Co., West Bend, Wis. Nov. 23, 1918.

To School Officers and Teachers:—

The fourteenth annual School Board Convention of Washington County will be held at the Mermac Theater in the Washington House Building at West Bend, Wisconsin on Tuesday, December 3, 1918.

FIRST U. S. MEN SAIL FOR HOME

Several Thousand American Soldiers Cheered by Crowds at Liverpool.

52,169 YANKS DIE IN WAR

General March Says Pershing Is Authorized to Send Back All Troops Not Needed for Army of Occupation.

Liverpool, Nov. 25.—Several thousand American soldiers sailed for home Friday on the liners Lapland and Minnehaha. It was a stirring scene as the men marched from the railway station and local camps to the landing stage amid the rousing cheers from the throngs of people along the streets.

Washington, Nov. 25.—General March announced that authority had been given to General Pershing to send back home all such troops as will not be needed in making up the army of occupation. He said that General Pershing had indicated that the following units would be required:

Divisions 84, 86, 87, 31, 34, 38, 39, 76, 8; coast artillery regiments 46, 47, 49, 50, 75 and 76; field artillery brigades 65 and 103.

In addition General Pershing indicated that the following general classes of troops will be returned:

Railroad artillery troops, army artillery troops, gas troops, tank corps, air forces and those divisions which were broken up to be used as replacements for other divisions which had been active service.

Troops returning immediately from England, General March said, will include virtually all of the air squadrons, 16 construction companies, one post-makers detachment, one Handley-Page training station and several photographic and radio sections.

The composition of divisions designated for return as far as known, is as follows:

Thirty-first (Georgia, Alabama and Florida); Thirty-fourth (Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota); Thirty-eighth (Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia); Seventy-sixth (New England); Seventy-eighth (West New York, New Jersey and Delaware).

General March announced that among the divisions that will be returned from France as not needed for the army of occupation will be the Eighty-sixth (Blackhawk) division.

The Eighty-sixth was trained at Camp Grant and includes many Chicago and northern Illinois troops.

Total casualties in the American expeditionary forces up to the signing of the armistice were divided as follows:

Killed and died of wounds, 36,154; died of disease, 13,811; died from other causes, 2,204; wounded, 179,625; prisoners, 2,163; missing, 1,190.

The American forces in France, General March said, had taken 44,000 German prisoners in round numbers and 1,400 guns. He added that the casualties among the American forces in Northern Russia were not severe, contrary to reports and that encouraging accounts of the situation of the forces there had been received.

Movement of troops from France will be expedited in every way, the chief of staff said, and he added that they will not "sneak into the country, either." Taking up the present advance of the allies' forces, General March pointed out that the American army is heading for Coblenz, the center bridgehead on the Rhine, where it should arrive about December 1.

Demobilization of the forces at home is proceeding steadily.

Washington, Nov. 25.—General Pershing's communique says: "Headquarters American Expeditionary Forces, Nov. 25.—The 3d army continued its progress through the grand duchy of Luxembourg to the line Ingeldorf-Detzdorf-Renich-Schengen.

(Renich is on the Prussian frontier.)

U. S. SIGNAL MEN CROSS LINE

Units Cross German Border at Several Places—Rhenish Prussians Appear Friendly.

American Army of Occupation, Nov. 25.—The German frontier was crossed at several places by American signal corps units and ambulance workers. Short trips were made into Rhenish Prussia, where the inhabitants are reported to have shown the Americans every consideration.

Wires to Berlin Cut

London, Nov. 25.—Traffic and telegraph connection between Germany and Switzerland are reported interrupted. Berlin and other German cities are said to be the scenes of serious trouble.

"Flu" Masks Off in Frisco

San Francisco, Nov. 25.—At a signal given by whistles and bells, residents of San Francisco came from behind their gauze influenza masks worn since October 25, when the board of health proclaimed the epidemic ended.

To Fight Telegraph Merger

New York, Nov. 25.—Suits against the government is planned by Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph-Cable company, if a merger of the Western Union and the Postal is attempted, he announced.

FOE SURRENDERS FLEET TO ALLIES

American Squadron Helps French and British Take Over 71 Warships.

SHIP DESTROYED BY MINE

Enemy Craft Taken to the Firth of Forth and Interned—Thirty-Nine U-Boats Given Up by the Enemy.

London, Nov. 23.—The German fleet surrendered to the British consisted of nine battleships, five battle cruisers, seven light cruisers and 50 destroyers. One German destroyer while on its way across the North sea with the other ships of the German high seas fleet to surrender to the allies struck a mine. The warship was badly damaged and sank.

Germany's high seas fleet, after its surrender to the allied navies, was brought to the Firth of Forth. The British grand fleet and five American battleships and three French warships, in two long columns, escorted the 71 German vessels to their anchorage.

The surrendered German fleet later was taken to the Scapa flow.

The announcement of the surrender of the German fleet was made officially by the admiralty in this statement:

"The commander in chief of the grand fleet has reported that at 9:30 o'clock this morning he met the first and main installment of the German high seas fleet, which is surrendering for internment."

The fleet which witnessed the surrender consisted of some 400 ships, including 60 dreadnaughts, 50 light cruisers and nearly 200 destroyers. Admiral Sir David Beatty, commander of the grand fleet, was on the Queen Elizabeth.

The names of the battleships, battle cruisers and light cruisers which have been surrendered to the allies have not been announced officially. However, a telegram received in Amsterdam from Berlin Sunday named these as among the surrendered fleet:

Battleships—Kaiser, 24,113 tons; Kaiserin, 24,113 tons; Kronprinz Wilhelm, 25,000 tons; Prinzregent Luitpold, 24,113 tons; Markgraf, 25,293 tons; Grosser Kurfuerst, 25,293 tons; Bayern, 28,000 tons; Koenig, 25,293 tons; and Friedrich der Grosse, 24,113 tons.

Battle cruisers—Hindenburg, about 27,000 tons; Derfflinger, 28,000 tons; Seydlitz, 25,000 tons; Moltke, 23,000 tons; and Von der Tann, 18,800 tons.

Light cruisers—Bremen, 4,000 tons; Brummer, 4,000 tons; Frankfurt, 5,400 tons; Koeln, tonnage uncertain; Dresden, tonnage uncertain; and Emden, 5,400 tons.

Another flotilla of 19 U-boats was surrendered to a British squadron. A twentieth broke down on the way.

London, Nov. 22.—Twenty German submarines are berthed in the harbor of Harwich. They were the first unit to surrender in compliance with the armistice treaty. They surrendered on the high seas and were escorted into port by British naval vessels. The remainder of the U-boats to be handed over in accordance with the armistice terms will be given up later.

NEARLY BILLION TO THE GOOD

Nation Subscribed $6,989,875,200 to the Fourth Liberty Loan—Alien Property Figured.

Washington, Nov. 21.—The fourth Liberty loan was oversubscribed nearly $1,000,000,000. The approximate final figures announced by the treasury department are $6,989,875,200, which represents an oversubscription of 16.48 per cent. An interesting fact revealed is that purchases of Liberty bonds of the fourth loan direct from the treasury department amounted to $33,329,850. A good part of this sum represents re-investment by the alien property custodian of funds belonging to enemy aliens.

PARIS PREPARES FOR WILSON

EX-TEUTONIC RULERS WHO ABDICATED

The kaisers, kings and princes who, up to date, have been upset by the Mittel-Europa earthquake are as follows:

Czar Nicholas of Russia abdicated March 16, 1917; later slain and reported cast into a Siberian coal mine.

Kaiser Wilhelm, German emperor and king of Prussia; abdicated November 9; now an unwelcome guest in Holland.

Ferdinand of Bulgaria; abdicated October 4, 1918; now studying botany in a secluded chateau. His son and successor, Boris, quit the throne November 1, 1918.

Constantine of Greece; abdicated June 12, 1917; now in Switzerland.

King Wilhelm II of Wurtemberg; abdicated November 8.

King Friedrich August III of Saxony; dethroned November 11.

King Ludwig III of Bavaria; abdicated November 11; present whereabouts unannounced.

Duke Ernst August of Brunswick, ex-kaiser's son-in-law; followed lead of father-in-law November 11.

Grand Duke Friedrich August of Oldenburg; dethroned November 9.

Grand Duke Friedrich Franz IV of Mecklenburg-Schwerin; abdicated November 11.

Prinz Heinrich XXVII of Reuss; quit November 13.

Grand Duke William Ernst, Saxe-Weimar; out November 13.

Leopold, Lippe-Deimold; abdicated November 13.

Prinz Friedrich, Waldeck-Pyrmont; out November 14.

Prinz Adolphe, Schaumbourg-Lippe; abdicated November 16.

Duke Charles Edward of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha; abdicated November 16.

Grand Duke Friedrich II of Baden; ousted November 17.

CUT IN WAR TAX BILL NEW GERMAN REVOLT

$500,000,000 REDUCTION MADE IN REVENUE MEASURE.

Luxury and Gasoline Levies Eliminated—Tobacco Rate Lowered—Amusement Tax Reduced.

Washington, Nov. 25.—A $500,000,000 reduction in the new war revenue bill was made by the senate finance committee in revising the measure downward to the $8,000,000,000 total for 1919 proposed by Secretary McAdoo.

Among important eliminations were: The house luxury schedule levying 20 per cent on costly clothing and other merchandise, estimated to raise $184,785,000.

The house tax of 2 cents a gallon on gasoline, to yield $40,000,000. Reduction from 10 to 5 per cent, or about $200,000,000 in revenue, in rates on many articles classed as self-luxuries.

A reduction of about one-half in the house rates on tobacco, a cut of about $54,000,000.

The committee reduced from 10 to 5 per cent the house rates on the following semi-luxuries:

Piano players, phonographs, electric gramophone films, candy, portable electric fans, thermos bottles, slot machines and toilet soaps and powders.

The chewing gum rate was cut from 4 to 3 per cent; that on hunting and bowie knives from 100 to 10 per cent; on firearms and ammunition, from 25 to 10 per cent; on sculpture, paintings and statuary, from 10 to 5 per cent.

No change was made in the 5 per cent sales tax on automobiles, tires and accessories, nor in the 10 per cent levy on sporting goods, liveries, tapestries, textiles, yachts and motorboats.

The 10 per cent sales tax on precious stones, jewelry and imitations, clocks, watches, open glasses and similar articles was reduced to 5 per cent.

After tentatively deciding on reduction of the amusement taxes, the committee finally determined to leave them unchanged as already reduced from the house figures.

NO COAL SHORTAGE IN U. S.

Fuel Outlook for This Winter Is Better Than at Any Time since 1915.

Washington, Nov. 23.—There will be no dearth of coal this winter, in the opinion of the railroad administration. In a report issued here on railroad operations for the month of October, 1918, Hale Holden, director of railroads for the central western region, says that the coal outlook for the coming winter is better than at any time since 1915; that the country is stocked with a greater supply of coal than ever known before; that the mines are producing more than ever before in their history, and that the railway administration is confident that there will be no lack of fuel through failure of transportation.

KIEV TAKEN FROM BOLSHEVIKI

Ukrainian Rulers Are Overthrown By Astrakhan Troops Under General Denikine.

Copenhagen, Nov. 22.—The Ukrainian government has been overturned and Kiev has been captured by troops from Astrakhan, according to Kiev dispatches to Swedish newspapers. The Ukrainian national assembly has fled and a provisional government has been established by the capture of the city where the troops apparently are commanded by General Denikine, leader of the antibolshevik forces.

Fifteen Liners Lost in War

New York, Nov. 23.—Fifteen steamships aggregating 206,750 gross tons, were lost by the Unard line during the war. Of these, all except two were classed as war losses, having been sunk by torpedoes or mines.

Colonel Crews Quits Army

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Col. Ralph Crews of Chicago has resigned from the army ordnance department to resume his law practice, according to a telegram. Colonel Crew will take up residence in New York.

Capital Punishment in Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 25.—Arizona voters have restored capital punishment to the laws of the state by a vote of two to one. It was shown here on Friday, when complete official returns on the election were tabulated.

Art and Excellence in Single Frocks

Sometimes a great designer chooses to show just what simple means will serve the ends of genius. Here is a simple afternoon gown of gray satin that has beauty and distinction written in all its lines and in every other item of its make-up. A great name appears on the small satin tip that is the signature to this lovely frock, and it gives the wearer a gratifying assurance of being correctly dressed. But the experienced student of fashions does not need to see it—art and excellence are written all over the gown and everyone can infer that the name of an artist belongs to it.

It takes good quality in the satin to achieve the effect sought in this very unpretentious but aristocratic bit of designing; this is imperative; but in color there is considerable latitude. As pictured it is in a light gray, but the lovely terra cotta or henna tones, the new "celestial" blues—virile and lovely—and the deep amethyst shades would be as effective as gray. But gray is the best choice when the frock is expected to meet the requirements of many functions, and for other colors the choice of fur would be different, a dark fur as seal or black lynx, probably.

The gown is made in two pieces and of the skirt there is nothing to say but that it is plain, shapely and perfectly adjusted. The overdress has a rather short tunic joined to the bodice under a girde of satin. But this description is altogether inadequate if it doesn't include mention of the fine management of the lines in this overdress. The tunic is banded with fur—what is called taupe lynx. The sleeves are of georgette crepe with deep cuffs of satin. The "V" shaped opening of the bodice is outlined with embroidery in gray silk and silver and the same embroidery appears on the cuffs. The little chemisette is of plain georgette. There is an interesting finishing touch in the girde, where it is slipped through large rings covered with silk, crocheted over them. Two long ends, finished with silk and silver tassels, complete the girde and these popular flowing ends are placed at the right side. The accessories worn with a frock of this kind must be well considered—hose and hat may not be chosen at random.

Cozy Furs and Wraps for Children

Small girls, never too small to enjoy their pretty finery, are bobbing up on the promenade and in the parks, dressed in their new winter clothes. They are anticipating the snow with cozy furs and coats and bright hats and bonnets, destined to make them look like gay winter flowers against a white background, when it flies. Their millinery is colorful and often their coats are in light tones and the shoes of the small fry, more often than not, have white uppers with black vamps. Rose, bright blues and the brown and castor colors are much in evidence in millinery and we may promise ourselves a liberal sprinkling of red tones as the winter advances. Solomon in all his glory may have been arrayed as gorgeously as one of these youngsters, but he never was better suited or happier over it.

Of all her belongings the little girl seems to get the most pure joy out of her neckpieces and muffs. Almost as soon as she can walk they are ready for her. What woman cannot recall the first fur set that came into her possession—usually at Christmas time, and her unmixd delight in it? Nothing but the first parasol and the first pocketbook can bring the same thrill to the childish heart. Here are at least two good hints for the holidays:

Squirrel, beaver, imitation ermine, krimmer and other inexpensive skins are appropriate for children and are liked best. There are many others, including those that have acquired names given them by the furriers, and the fine thing about them is that they are within the reach of nearly all people. For little girls of three and over there are miniature round muffs and flat scarfs that are delightfully cozy. So far as styles are concerned there is little variation in children's furs—they are much alike until the miss is well advanced in the flapper stage. The set illustrated is a familiar and reliable type for little folks. It is a long, crinkly white fur that looks best on the youngest wearers, where it usually finds itself in the company of bright-hued broadcloth coats and velvet hats or bonnets more or less fluffy with frills.

Julia Bottomley

Make Over Old Clothes.

To be up-to-date these days your community should have an old-clothes clinic, the department of agriculture suggests. Not the amount you spend on clothes but the amount you save is the criterion by which you are judged in this year of war. The home demonstration agents usually hold the clinics, and old garments are brought, ripped and made over by the women under their direction.

TRUE FISH STORY.

"Splash, splash," said Tommy, the fish.

"Splash, splash," said Johnny, the other fish.

They were both swimming around a beautiful pool of a sunken garden in a part of the country where it was almost always warm.

"You know," said Tommy, and then he paused and waved a fin.

"What do I know?" asked Johnny.

"I'm going to tell you," said Tommy, "but I had to stop to wave a fin to young Sammy Fish, who just swam by. I don't want to be a snob, you know."

"What's a snob?" asked Johnny.

"A snob," said Tommy, "is a creature who thinks himself so fine that he won't speak pleasantly to his neighbors or his acquaintances or his friends. In fact, he doesn't think his friends are quite as good as he is."

"I wouldn't like a snob," said Johnny.

"No, you wouldn't, for you're sensible," said Tommy. "If you want to know the truth I will tell it to you."

"I would love to know the truth," said Johnny.

"The truth is that any creature who is silly enough to be a snob is too foolish to be a fine person," said Tommy, splashing hard.

"I believe you," said Tommy. "I believe you."

"Of course," said Tommy. "I have been here so long in this sunken pool of this garden that I know my mistress and an mot in the least shy."

"Some creatures can't help being shy, but they can help being snobs," he added.

"You started in to tell me that I knew something which you were going to say," said Johnny. "Then you stopped to wave a fin to Mr. Sammy Fish, and we got talking and splashing about other things."

"That's so," said Tommy, "we did. Well, I was going to tell you that you knew I was very tame."

"I knew that and I know that," said Johnny. "Pray continue."

They both swam slowly about in the lovely sunken pool, which was a beautiful pond, a little below the level of the ground.

"My mistress always fed me choice little bits from her hand, and she always laughed when I splashed hard after each bit of food I was given, for she knew I was saying: 'Thank you for the goodies, mistress dear.'"

"Then I became so tame she could put her hand down in the water and stroke me, and I would wiggle my fins delightedly."

"I thought she had two hands," said Johnny.

"So she has," answered Tommy. "What makes you say that?"

"Because," said Johnny, "you said she put her hand in the water and stroked you."

"To be sure I did," said Tommy, "and that is quite true. She has two hands, but she only strokes me with one at a time. She chooses between her two hands and then decides to put one into the water. At least that is what I suppose she does. Oh, what a very particular fish you are, to make sure that I don't mean the mistress has only one hand!"

"Ah, I thought I would have a little joke," said Johnny.

Tommy grinned, a funny, fishy grin, and his eyes looked very shiny and queer.

"Do you know," he said, "that folks don't believe I am so tame until my mistress shows them! They don't think a fish could be as tame as all that. But more than that, my mistress puts her mouth in the pool just a little way and I put my mouth up a little bit and we have a nice water kiss, my mistress and I. I am really a very unusually tame fish, but all of this is true, as you know."

"I know that every word of it is true," said Johnny.

And it all was true, for this is a really, really true story!

Music's Proper Sphere.

Music is more than an art; it is an instinct. Beneath the savage's primitive delight in the tom tom and the musician's intellectual enjoyment of a Bach fugue, is the same underlying principle—a spontaneous love of rhythm and the desire to express it. To create exquisite harmonies is the heaven-born gift of genius—the divine heritage of one man in a thousand. To interpret another's work is a talent, developed only by years of hard work and infinite patience. To listen to the perfect interpretation of a great composer is a blessed privilege.

WEAK KIDNEYS MEAN A WEAK BODY

When you're fifty, your body begins to creak a little at the hinges. Motion is more slow and deliberate. "Not so young as I used to be" is a frequent and unwelcome thought. Certain bodily functions upon which good health and good spirits so much depend, are impaired. The weak spot is generally the bladder. Urinary symptoms show themselves. Painful and annoying complications in other organs arise. This is particularly true with elderly people. If you only know how, this trouble can be obviated.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been relieving the inconvenience and pain due to advancing years. It is a standard, old-time home remedy, and needs no introduction. It is now put up in odorless, tasteless capsules. These are easier and more pleasant to take than the oil in bottles.

Each capsule contains about one dose of five drops. Take them just like you would any pill, with a small swallow of water. They soak into the system and throw off the poisons which are making you old before your time. They will quickly relieve

News of the Badger State

Madison—The state food administration has appointed a committee of six, two to represent the millers, bakers and wholesale dealers in handling the surplus supply of substitutes to be taken over by the United States Grain Corporation for shipment to Europe. Among the substitutes listed are Victory barley, patent rye, dark rye, white and yellow corn flour, cream of wheat and white and yellow corn meal. As 60 per cent of the bread used in Wisconsin is made of rye flour it is probable no rye will be taken over. No buckwheat will be taken and it is likely no corn meal.

Madison—The United States Grain Corporation has ordered the price of flour raised 13 cents a barrel in Wisconsin and that of mill feeds, including bran, middlings, Red Dog and mixed feeds $1.90 per ton, with a few exceptions. Notice to this effect was sent to the county food administrators and millers by the state food administration.

Madison—With the ending of the war plans are being discussed for the dedication of Wisconsin's handsome new capitol. M. F. Blumenfeld, superintendent of public property, who will have charge of the matter, has consulted Gov. E. L. Phillip and it is now proposed to hold the dedication early next summer, probably in June, while the legislature is in session.

Madison—The discovery of errors in the returns from Crawford and Racine counties necessitating sending them back to the county canvassing boards for correction, and the delay of the returns from Oneida county will delay the work of the state canvassing board. A discrepancy of 1,800 votes was discovered in the returns from Racine county for governor.

Green Bay—The United States supreme court has affirmed the judgment of the Brown county circuit court in the case of Mary O'Connor, who sued the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road to recover for the death of her husband, Frank O'Connor, engineer, who was killed July 26, 1913, when his train was wrecked at Cataline. The judgment amounts to $9,000 and costs.

Green Bay—Fishermen's coats, which were hung near a stove in a fishhouse of the Wisconsin Fishing company caught fire and started a conflagration which caused a loss of $20,000. About 400,000 pounds of frozen fish were damaged, and the plant was burned to the ground. The loss is half covered by insurance.

Green Bay—Rufus H. Kellogg, secretary and treasurer of the Northwest Engineering Works, which is building tugs for the Emergency Fleet corporation, died of pneumonia following influenza. He was 29 years old. Mr. Kellogg was one of Green Bay's young men who became prominent during war.

De Pere—Arnold Runge and Louis Miller, two prosperous farmers of the town of Glenmore, were instantly killed in an automobile accident near this place, while returning to their homes. Their automobile ran into a bank at the side of the road and both men were thrown out and their necks broken.

Darlington—Miss Helene Parkinson Peck, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Peck of this city, died of pneumonia at Washington, D. C., on Nov. 13. She volunteered her service to the government, enlisting as yeoman, first class, United States naval reserve force, in July.

Madison—That the number of soldiers absent from the training camps without leave has increased since the signing of the armistice is the official word received here and all officers and even citizens are being appealed to to assist in the apprehension of such soldiers.

Madison—The new uniform building and loan mortgage drafted by a committee of building and loan officials and the building and loan examiner in the department of banking at the request of the registers of deeds of the state was approved by Attorney General Spencer Haven.

Madison—The application of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat & Power company for authority to increase the rates on electric power furnished to the Kimberly-Clark company at Neenah, Appleton and Kimberly was heard by Railroad Commissioner John S. Allen.

Madison—Belated reports from various sections of the state showed Wisconsin's total to be $4,522,440 in the united war work campaign, according to State Executive Chairman Emerson Eila.

Madison—In a signed statement Supt. C. P. Cary charges the "Prussification of American Education." He quotes extensively from German authority to show that the system of education in Wisconsin at present has the earmarks of the German plan.

Green Bay—Lieut. Reginald J. Calkins, the only Green Bay aviator in active service in France, was killed on the last day of the war in an airplane accident according to an official telegram received by his mother, Mrs. Bertha Calkins.

Madison—In the presence of members of the family, the faculty of the university and visitors from all parts of the United States, Charles Richard Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, was laid to rest in the family lot in Forest Hill cemetery. The last rites were impressive. The funeral cortege was one of the largest ever held in the city. Men and women prominent in educational and political life of the state came from every section of Wisconsin to pay tribute to the man who had done so much for the great state institution. Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago officiated at the library and Dr. George G. Foster, pastor of the Unitar church, conducted the services at Forest Hill cemetery. The services were public. Three thousand uniformed members of the S. A. T. C. formed the guard of honor.

Madison—Tax rates range from 7.2 to 40 mills in Wisconsin's various cities and the assessed valuation of property ranges from 64.8 to 110 per cent, according to a report of the tax levies and rates in the state's 128 cities prepared by the municipal reference bureau of the University of Wisconsin extension division. Tables presented in the report show the population, assessed valuation, per cent of true value, total general taxes, general city taxes, school taxes, special assessment, income taxes and rates in all the cities of the state. The material was prepared in answer to the demand expressed by city officials for such tables to assist them in preparing budgets.

Madison—Changes have been made by the state food administration in wheat milling regulations. Millers are allowed to store wheat ninety days instead of sixty, and they may keep a ninety days' supply of unsold wheat on hand. The may sell a ninety days' supply of wheat flour to dealers and bakers instead of sixty days' stock under the old regulation. The interim between a contract and delivery of wheat flour has been extended from thirty to ninety days. Gluten and self-rising flours may now be manufactured without a permit.

La Crosse—Thirty-seven years after he started in La Crosse as a printer, D. B. Worthington, owner and publisher of The La Crosse News, came back for his first visit as a witness before the federal grand jury. Mr. Worthington is one of four notable newspapermen who started their careers on the old La Crosse News. The others were Henry E. Legler, late public librarian of Chicago; Alexander Nevins, one of the editors of The Chicago Herald and Tribune, and W. A. Bowditch, for a generation connected with Milwaukee newspapers.

Marinette—Colon Seibel, son of Patrol Officer Joseph A. Seibel, and his cousin, Harry Kennedy of Milwaukee, formerly of Marinette, were wounded in the same battle in France. Seibel arrived at Camp Dodge, Des Moines, Ia., a few weeks ago for treatment and is expected home on a furlough soon. His cousin is expected at the same camp from overseas in the near future.

Beloit—Rover, a faithful little black and tan dog and the family pet at the John M. Noss farm, seven miles northwest of Beloit, is dead. The whining and barking of the animal woke the Misses Minnie and Jessie Noss and their brothers, Lewis and Gilbert, while flames were consuming the house. The family escaped, but the dog was burned.

Racine—Miss Enid Allen, former Racine girl, has been cited for bravery at the battle front. The head of one of the divisions of the Y. M. C. A. writes to the Rev. C. A. Capwell, minister of Miss Allen: "The work of your niece, Enid Allen, at the battle of the Marne, has won for her a special recommendation. She has made a splendid record for herself."

Madison—M. A. Kent, of the University of Iowa has been appointed athletic coach at the University of Wisconsin to assist Coach G. S. Lowman in football, baseball and basketball. He has coached at Haskell and Carleton colleges, and for the past five years has been basketball coach at the University of Iowa.

Fond du Lac—John Horn was found guilty in the Circuit court of violation of the espionage act and fined $300 and costs. Horn was charged with selling to the Rev. C. A. Capwell, minister of the church, a list of names of soldiers in action in France, deserved to die. The jury recommended leniency.

Kenosha—The Kenosha county board unanimously passed a resolution for the erection of a new county court house and jail. The cost is estimated at $350,000 and the work is to be started just as soon as the building season opens in the spring.

Rhineland—Samuel Wolfgram of Lenox is alleged to have refused to participate in a peace celebration. Unknown persons daubed his store front with yellow paint.

Manitowish—Henry Muhlolland, county food administrator, who has been serving without pay and who expects to continue his duties, presented a communication to the county board asking that he be paid $500 for his work. At present no compensation is allowed for this office.

La Crosse—Over 400 persons in the western district of Wisconsin, including 100 in La Crosse, are being investigated by department of justice agents to determine their fitness to become citizens.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs." and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

Russians Back to Barter.
The loss of money and the great depreciation of the Russian ruble have compelled the soviet government to resort to the primitive form of trade—exchange of goods. This form has been applied in Russia in a limited degree, because of lack of manufactured articles, the government giving the peasants agricultural machinery, leather goods, nails, matches and other such necessities and receiving the equivalent value in grain. It is the intention of the soviet department of food to introduce the exchange of goods system into international trade, and for this purpose it sent a special emissary to Norway to negotiate with the Norwegian government.

American Clocks in Demand.
A jewelry house in Bordeaux, France, has closed a deal with a large manufacturing firm in New England for an order for alarm clocks, the total purchase amounting to 250,000 francs or $48,250 at normal exchange. The order is the result of the efforts of the American consul at Bordeaux to open a market for American jewelry manufacturers in France.
There is said to be a dearth of alarm clocks in France and in French colonial possessions. This is due to the inability of French dealers to obtain importations from their former sources of supply in enemy countries. The Bordeaux firm said it placed this initial order as a means of ascertaining the quality of American clocks and their suitability as to price and wear for the French market.

Hard Work Alone Never Kills
Hard work never killed anybody. But hard work with irregular hours and neglect of rest does weaken the kidneys and keeps one tired, miserable and half sick. If your back aches, if you have headaches, dizziness and urinary disorders—don't wait. Help the weakened kidneys before dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease attacks you. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands and are used the world over.

A Wisconsin Case
Mrs. Jane Smith, 67 years old, says: "For years I had kidney and bladder trouble, which gradually grew worse. The pains in my limbs were acute and I had twinges in my back that almost doubled me up. My back ached and was sore and I was weak all the time. I had dizzy spells and headaches. My feet and ankles were badly swollen and I lost in weight. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and the drooping eyelids disappeared and my kidneys acted regularly."

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxury.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—Adv.

SPANISH INFLUENZA

Do Not Fear When Fighting a German or a Germ!

By DR. M. COOK.

The cool fighter always wins and so there is no need to become panic-stricken. Avoid fear and crowds. Exercise in the fresh air and practice the three C's: A Clean Mouth, a Clean Skin and Clean Bowels. To carry off the poisons that accumulate within the body and to ward off an attack of the influenza bacillus, take a good liver regulator to move the bowels. Such a one is made up of May-apple, leaves of aloë, root of Jalap, and is to be had at any drug store, and called "Pleasant Purgative Pellets."

If a bad cold develops, go to bed, wrap up well, drink freely of hot lemonade and take a hot mustard foot-bath. Have the bedroom warm but well ventilated. Obtain at the nearest drug store "Auric Tablets" to flush the kidneys and control the pains and aches. Take an "Auric" tablet every two hours, together with copious drinks of lemonade. If a true case of influenza, the food should be simple, such as broths, milk, buttermilk and ice-cream; but it is important that food be given regularly in order to keep up patient's strength and vitality. After the acute attack has passed, which is generally from three to seven days, the system should be built up by the use of a good iron tonic, such as "Frolic" tablets, to be obtained at some drug stores, or that well known blood-maker and herbal tonic made from roots and barks of forest trees—sold everywhere as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Here was how the girl worked it on her husband's suitors: 'There goes our minister,' she said. 'He's very poor. I wish I could hand him a five.' 'Let me do it,' exclaimed the youth unhesitatingly, in a fervor of benevolence, 'Oh, Archie, that is too sudden,' huddled the sweet young thing, and what chance did he have?'—The Outlook.

KEPT PLEDGE TO SEND BREAD

American Nation Maintained Allied Loaf Through Self-Denial at Home Table.

AVERTED EUROPEAN DESPAIR

With Military Demands Upon Ocean Shipping Relieved, World is Able to Return to Normal White Wheat Bread.

Since the advent of the latest wheat crop the only limitation upon American exports to Europe has been the shortage of shipping. Between July 1 and October 10 we shipped 65,580,000 bushels. If the rate should continue until the end of the fiscal year we will have furnished the Allies with more than 237,500,000 bushels of wheat and flour in terms of wheat.

The result of increased production and conservation efforts in the United States has been that with the cessation of hostilities we are able to return to a normal wheat diet. Supplies that have accumulated in Australia, Argentine and other hitherto inaccessible markets may be tapped by ships released from transport service, and European demand for American wheat probably will not exceed our normal surplus. There is wheat enough available to have a white loaf at the common table.

Last year the tale was different. Only by the greatest possible savings and sacrifice were we able to keep a steady stream of wheat and flour moving across the sea. We found ourselves at the beginning of the harvest year with an unusually short crop. Even the most optimistic statisticians figured that we had a bare surplus of 20,000,000 bushels. And yet Europe was facing the probability of a bread famine—and in Europe bread is by far the most important article in the diet.

All of this surplus had left the country early in the fall. By the first of the year we had managed to ship a little more than 50,000,000 bushels by practicing the utmost economy at home—by wheatless days, wheatless meals, heavy substitution of other cereals and by sacrifice at almost every meal throughout the country.

In January the late Lord Rhonda, then British Food Controller, cabled that only if we sent an additional 75,000,000 bushels before July 1 could he take the responsibility of assuring his people that they would be fed.

The response of the American people was 85,000,000 bushels safely delivered overseas between January 1 and July 1. Out of a harvest which gave us only 20,000,000 bushels surplus we actually shipped 141,000,000 bushels.

Thus did America fulfill her pledge that the Allied bread ration could be maintained, and already the American people are demonstrating that, with an awakened war conscience, last year's figures will be bettered.

Our exports since a country entered the war have justly had a statement made by the Food Administration shortly after its organization, outlining the principles and policies that would govern the solution of this country's food problem.

"The whole foundation of democracy," declared the Food Administration, "lies in the individual initiative of its people and their willingness to serve the interests of the nation with complete self-effacement in the time of emergency. Democracy can yield to discipline, and we can solve this food problem for our own people and for the Allies in this way. To have done so will have been a greater service than our immediate objective, for we have demonstrated the righteousness of our faith and our ability to defend ourselves without being Prussianized."

Sending to Europe 141,000,000 bushels of wheat from a surplus of approximately nothing was the outstanding exploit of the American food army in the critical year of the war.

GREATEST OPPORTUNITY WOMEN EVER HAD.

It was given to the women of this country to perform the greatest service in the winning of the war—safely to win women in the history of the wars of the world—to feed the warriors and the war sufferers. By the arts of peace, the practice of simple, homely virtues the womanhood of a whole nation served humanity in its profoundest struggle for peace and freedom.

FIRST CALL TO FOOD ARMY.

This co-operation and service I ask of all in full confidence that America will render more for flag and freedom than king or ridden people surrender at capitulation.—Herbert Hoover, Aug. 21st 1917.

A year ago voluntary food control was a daring adventure in democracy during the year an established proof of democratic efficiency.

KEPT PLEDGE TO SEND BREAD

American Nation Maintained Allied Loaf Through Self-Denial at Home Table.

AVERTED EUROPEAN DESPAIR

With Military Demands Upon Ocean Shipping Relieved, World is Able to Return to Normal White Wheat Bread.

Since the advent of the latest wheat crop the only limitation upon American exports to Europe has been the shortage of shipping. Between July 1 and October 10 we shipped 85,480,325 bushels. If this rate should continue until the end of the fiscal year we will have furnished the Allies with more than 237,500,000 bushels of wheat and flour in terms of wheat.

The result of increased production and conservation efforts in the United States has been that with the cessation of hostilities we are able to return to a normal wheat diet. Supplies that have accumulated in Australia, Argentine and other hitherto inaccessible markets may be tapped by ships released from transport service, and European demand for American wheat probably will not exceed our normal surplus. There is wheat enough available to have a white loaf at the common table.

But last year the tale was different. Only by the greatest possible saving and sacrifice were we able to keep a steady stream of wheat and flour moving across the sea. We found our selves at the beginning of the harvest year with an unusually short crop. Even the most optimistic statisticians figured that we had a bare surplus of 20,000,000 bushels. And yet Europe was facing the probability of a bread famine—and in Europe bread is by far the most important article in the diet.

All of this surplus had left the country early in the fall. By the first of the year we had managed to ship a little more than 50,000,000 bushels by practicing the utmost economy at home—by wheatless days, wheatless meals, heavy substitution of other cereals and by sacrifice at almost every meal throughout the country.

In January the late Lord Rindhead, then British Food Controller, called that only if we sent an additional 75,000,000 bushels before July 1 could he take the responsibility of assuring his people that they would be fed.

The response of the American people was 85,000,000 bushels safely delivered overseas between January 1 and July 1. Out of a harvest which gave us only 20,000,000 bushels surplus we actually shipped 141,000,000 bushels.

Thus did America fulfill her pledge that the Allied bread ration could be maintained, and already the American people are demonstrating that, with an awakened war conscience, last year's figures will be bettered.

Our exports since a country entered the war have justified a statement made by the Food Administration shortly after its completion, outlining the principles and policies that would govern the solution of this country's food problem.

"The whole foundation of democracy," declared the Food Administration, "lies in the individual initiative of its people and their willingness to serve the interests of the nation with complete self-effacement in the time of emergency. Democracy can yield to discipline, and we can solve this food problem for our own people and for the Allies in this way. To have done so will have been a greater service than our immediate objective, for we have demonstrated the righteousness of our faith and our ability to defend ourselves without being Prussianized."

Sending to Europe 141,000,000 bushels of wheat from a surplus of approximately nothing was the outstanding exploit of the American food army in the critical year of the war.

GREATEST OPPORTUNITY WOMEN EVER HAD.

It was given to the women of this country to perform the greatest service in the winning of the war—safely to any women in the history of the wars of the world—to feed the warriors and the war sufferers. By the arts of peace, the practice of simple homely virtues the womanhood of a whole nation served humanity in its profoundest struggle for peace and freedom.

FIRST CALL TO FOOD ARMY.

This co-operation and service I ask of all in full confidence that America will render more for flag and freedom than King ridden people surrender at compulsion.—Herbert Hoover. August 10, 1917.

A year ago voluntary food control was a daring adventure in democracy during the year an established proof of democratic efficiency.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts through the blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

M'ADOO RESIGNS DUAL POST; SAYS PAY INSUFFICIENT

Declares Salary Too Small for Needs of Holder.

GUESSES AS TO SUCCESSOR

Wilson Accepts Resignation to Take Effect January 1—Will Probably Appoint Two Men to Succeed His Son-in-Law.

Washington, Nov. 23.—William G. McAdoo has resigned office as secretary of the treasury and director general of railroads, to leave the treasury on the appointment of a successor and the railroad administration on January 1 next.

President Wilson has accepted Mr. McAdoo's resignation. The secretary plans to take about three months' rest and then may resume the practice of law in New York.

Mr. McAdoo explained to newspaper correspondents that he had intended to resign before March 4, 1917, but remained because of pressing war problems.

As yet there is no suggestion of who Mr. McAdoo's successor may be, either as secretary of the treasury or as director general.

Mr. McAdoo announced his resignation at a conference with newspaper correspondents and made public correspondence between himself and President Wilson.

Secretary McAdoo's Letter. Secretary McAdoo's letter of resignation and the president's letter accepting it follows:

November 14, 1918. "Dear Mr. President: "Now that an armistice has been signed and peace is assured, I feel at liberty to apprise you of my desire to return as soon as possible to private life.

"I have been conscious for some time of the necessity of this step, but of course I could not consider it while the country was at war.

"For almost six years I have worked incessantly under the pressure of great responsibilities. Their exacting have drawn heavily on my strength. The inadequate compensation allowed by law to cabinet officers (as you know, I receive no compensation as director general of railroads) and the very burdensome cost of living in Washington have so depleted my personal resources that I am obliged to reckon with the facts of the situation.

"For Sake of Family." "I do not wish to convey the impression that there is any actual impairment of my health, because such is not the fact. As a result of long overwork I need a reasonable period of genuine rest to replenish my energy. But more than this, I must, for the sake of my family, get back to private life to retrieve my personal fortunes.

"I cannot secure the required rest nor the opportunity to look after my long neglected private affairs unless I am relieved of my present responsibilities.

"I am anxious to have my retirement effected with the least possible inconvenience to yourself and to the public service, but it would be, I think, wise to accept my resignation now as secretary of the treasury to become effective upon the appointment and qualification of my successor so that he may have the opportunity and advantage of participating promptly in the formation of the policies that should govern the future work of the treasury.

"I would suggest that my resignation as director general of railroads become effective January 1, 1919, or upon the appointment of my successor.

"I hope you will understand, my dear Mr. President, that I would permit nothing but the most imperative demands to force my withdrawal from public life. Always I shall cherish as the greatest honor of my career the opportunity you have so generously given me to serve the country under your leadership in these epochal times.

"Affectionately yours, (Signed) "W. G. M'ADOO, "The President, the White House, "November 21, 1918.

"My dear Mr. Secretary: "I was not unprepared for your letter of the 14th, because you had more than once, of course, discussed with me the circumstances which have long made it a serious personal sacrifice for you to remain in office. I knew that only your high and exacting sense of duty had kept you here until the immediate tasks of the war should be over. But I am none the less distressed.

"I shall not allow our intimate personal relations to deprive me of the pleasure of saying that in my judgment the country has never had an able, a more resourceful and yet prudent, a more uniformly efficient secretary of the treasury, and I say this remembering all the able, devoted and distinguished men who preceded you.

"I have kept your letter a number of days in order to suggest, if I could, some other solution of your difficulty than the one you have now felt obliged to resort to. But I have not been able to think of any. I cannot ask you to make further sacrifices, serious as the loss of the government will be in your retirement.

"I also, for the same reasons, accept your resignation as director general of railroads to take effect, as you suggest, on the first of January next, or when your successor is appointed.

"The whole country admires, I am sure, as I do, the skill and executive capacity with which you have handled the great and complex problem of the unified administration of the railroads under the stress of war uses, and will regret, as I do to see you leave that post just as the crest of its difficulty is passed.

"For the distinguished, disinterested and altogether admirable service you have rendered the country in both posts, and especially for the way in which you guided the treasury through all the perplexities and problems of the financing of a war which has been without precedent alike in kind and in scope, I thank you with a sense of gratitude that comes from the very bottom of my heart.

"Gratefully and affectionately yours, "WOODROW WILSON, "Hon. William G. McAdoo, "Secretary of the Treasury."

Says He Tells All Reasons. Mr. McAdoo explained to the correspondent that he had "absolutely no other reasons" than those specified in his letter for the retirement.

He said he realized many varied rumors usually accompanied the resignation of an official, but he emphasized again and again that he had no motive or purpose except those mentioned.

He said he hated to "quit the job" just at this time and disliked officially to disassociate himself from the president, but added that he considered it necessary of providing a living for his wife and family make this imperative.

A moment later one correspondent suggested: "Well, it is too bad, Mr. Secretary, that as a railroad man you could not have shared in the wage increase which you gave to every one else."

Hadn't Looked Around for Job. Then, for the first time, Mr. McAdoo brightened and explained his reluctance to take the action. He said he had not yet "looked around for a job, as most prudent men do before quitting," but declared he felt like taking at least a three months' rest before "looking for work." He said he hoped to leave Washington soon after January 1.

Mr. McAdoo said he had no idea who would be his "successor or successors."

It is entirely probable that the president may fill separately the offices of secretary of the treasury and director general of railroads.

William Gibbs McAdoo was born near Marietta, Ga., October 31, 1863, just as the Civil war was drawing to a close. His father fought as a lieutenant of volunteers in the Confederacy. After the Civil war the McAdoo family found themselves financially stranded at Millidgeville, Ga., and finally moved to Knoxville, Tenn., where the father took a position as professor of English and history in the University of Tennessee that he might give his children an education.

Young McAdoo became a student at the university, but left in his junior year to become deputy clerk in the United States circuit court so that he could study law. He was admitted to the bar when he was twenty-one and soon became counsel for a rail way company.

Went to New York in 1892. He practiced at Chattanooga, Tenn., until 1892, and then removed to New York.

The young lawyer found his great opportunity in an abandoned tunnel that had been run a few hundred feet under the Hudson river in an effort to connect Manhattan island with New Jersey.

He took hold of it, raised $70,000,000 to complete it, and by 1908 had built four "tubes" connecting uptown and downtown New York with the railroads whose termini were in New Jersey, and whose only access to New York previously had been by ferry.

These tubes are still called the "McAdoo tunnels."

His success won him the position of president of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad company, which operated the tubes.

Mr. McAdoo became actively interested in New York politics, and was a delegate to the Democratic national convention that nominated President Wilson at Baltimore in 1912. He accepted the post of vice chairman of the Democratic national committee under the presidential campaign opened, and to his work was credited in a large measure the Democratic success.

After the election he was offered the secretaryship of the treasury, which he accepted, taking office with the rest of the cabinet March 6, 1913.

PRINCE LEOPOLD IS INTERNED Commander of Germany's Eastern Army Is Locked Up by the Bolsheviks.

Berne, Nov. 21.—The bolsheviks have interned Prince Leopold of Bavaria, who commanded Germany's eastern front, and General von Hoffmann, Germany's military spokesman at Brest-Litovsk, the Berner Bund, says. The prince is held at Raudanawarts, near Kovno, and the general in the latter fortress.

DEMAND FOR THE KAISER'S HEAD; MUST BE TRIED

Cry for Punishment Follows Proof That Germany Began the War.

OTHER WAR CHIEFS ON LIST

Von Bethmann-Hollweg, Von Jagow and Zimmermann Are Also Included With the Hohenzollerns—Ludendorff Quits Germany for Sweden — Moderates Beat Bolsheviki.

London, Nov. 27.—It is understood that the question of the extradition of the former German emperor is being considered by British law officers of the crown, who are working in close co-operation with the French authorities. Action in the premises was taken immediately after the flight of the former emperor to Holland.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—"We demand the immediate convening of a revolutionary tribunal for the purpose of passing sentence on the Hohenzollerns, father and son, and on Von Bethmann-Hollweg," says the Red Flag, the organ of Dr. Karl Liebknecht, in commenting on disclosures made in Munich concerning the complicity of Germany in bringing about the war. "William II must be commanded to return and give an account before this tribunal."

The Spartacus organ also demands a reckoning with the socialist leaders—Albert, David, Molkenbuhr and others—for participation in propaganda calculated to absolve Germany from responsibility for causing the war.

German Denial Called "Lie." "We have been told that Germany had no knowledge of Austria's ultimatum to Serbia. It was a lie," says the Vorwaerter, "Berlin was said to have advised Vienna to go slow. It was a lie. On the contrary, Berlin incited Vienna."

In the course of his proclamation William II declared in the midst of peace we are attacked by the enemy. A base, impudent, bottomless, shameless lie.

"And does this band of mass murderers who in the progress of the revolution and through the generosity of the German people managed to escape unhurt really still believe it can once more establish its bloodstained, lie-decked rule?"

The organ of the independent socialists, Die Freiheit, says: "They committed high treason. We cannot lay hands on William and his son, but it is to be hoped that they will yet be brought to justice. Their fortunes, however, must be confiscated. Doctor von Bethmann-Hollweg (former chancellor), Von Jagow and Zimmermann (former German foreign secretaries), who were their tools, must forthwith be arrested and brought into court."

General Ludendorff Quits Germany. Copenhagen, Nov. 27.—General Ludendorff, reputed to have been long the actual directing head of Germany's military affairs, has quit German soil, according to the Frankfurt Gazette. It says he has left Samsmitz, Prussia, for Sweden. His titular position in the German military system was that of first quartermaster general.

Chancellor Ebert is reported in a dispatch from the semi-official Wolff bureau of Berlin as having addressed a conference of about seventy delegates from various parts of Germany, who gathered in the chancellor's palace, and to have urged co-operation throughout the whole former empire in dealing with the present situation. He declared the summoning of a national assembly was necessary to secure the co-operation of the central administration and the federated states.

Doctor Solf, minister of foreign affairs, declared the situation was extremely threatening, owing both to the "enemy's will to destroy" Germany and the separatist movements in that country.

Kurt Eisner, Bavarian socialist premier, protested sharply that both Herr Ebert and Doctor Solf were compromised by being representatives of the old regime.

Moderates Defeat Bolsheviki. Berlin, Nov. 27.—Reports of tests of strength between the conservative elements and the independent and "bolshevik" socialists in various parts of Germany continues to indicate that, as far as mere numbers go, the extremists are almost negligible.

The elections to the soldiers' and workmen's council in Dresden on Sunday show that the extremists polled only 4,200 votes, against 56,400 for the old socialists. Both groups of independents won only three or four seats in the council of fifty.

Bavaria Bares Hun Guilt. London, Nov. 27.—Publication of official reports from the Bavarian minister at Berlin to his home government confirm evidence already in the hands of the entente that Germany and Austria conspired to bring about the war. It was for this reason that the terms of Austria's ultimatum to Serbia were made so drastic that hostilities were bound to follow.

BOLSHEVIKI SEIZE GERMANY; EBERT'S RULE OVERTHROWN

Liebknecht Appeals to Soldiers to Fight Bourgeoisie.

WORKMEN GIVEN CONTROL

Revolts in England and France Are Among the Demands—Agitation Is the Official Propaganda of the Extremists.

Berlin, Nov. 26.—Dr. Carl Liebknecht, the radical socialist leader, is devoting himself primarily at present to an effort to influence the men returning from the front. His henchmen comprise a small army of Red soldiers who are accused of packing various meetings to push through resolutions and other measures calculated to embarrass the present government.

Liebknecht's agitation in its entirety is the official propaganda of the Spartacus group of extreme radicals. He chiefly directs his attacks at the proposed national assembly.

The indications so far, however, are that his effort to win over the returning soldiers has failed. Sunday's meetings were marked by the violent opposition of soldiers, who declared they had been attracted to the meeting under false pretenses.

The radical leader's oratory is forceful and vindictive. His principal appeal to the proletariat runs thus:

"Did the bourgeoisie while in power permit you to have a voice in the government? No; then the working man must not allow it to have a say now. We need a government of soldiers and workmen, one typifying the proletariat, which will not have to bow down before the entente.

"There must be no dickerings with entente imperialism. We will dispose of that just as we did of the German autocracy. The revolution is bound also to reach the entente countries, but we, who made the Russians waste whole years, are demanding that the revolution break out in England and France within 24 hours."

Socialists Court Army. The council of the people's commissioners welcomes the returning troops with a proclamation, saying:

"You marched into the field for the fatherland when you had nothing to say and a handful of autocrats had the power in their hands and distributed the booty among themselves. You had to fight in silence, while hundreds of thousands at your side had to die.

"Today you return to your own country, where in the future only the people themselves will have anything to say. Germany free, our socialist public will join the league of nations. You will find not only all the political rights you hitherto have been deprived of, but the fatherland shall also be your property economically."

The proclamation is signed by Chancellor Friedrich Ebert, Hugo Haase, Philipp Scheidemann, Wilhelm Dittman, Lunsberg and Barth, all members of the ministry.

Agreement Is Signed. Copenhagen, Nov. 25.—An agreement has been reached between the German soldiers' and workmen's council and the government, it is officially announced in Berlin.

The agreement provides: "1. All political power is to be in the hands of the German socialist republic and the soldiers' and workmen's council.

"2. Their aim is to defend and develop what has been accomplished by the revolution and to suppress all counter-revolutionary activity.

"3. Pending the election of representatives of the soldiers' and workmen's councils to an executive council of the German republic, the executive council in Berlin is to exercise its functions.

"4. The appointment and dismissal of the members of the various legislative bodies of the republic and until the final constitution is established, of Prussia, are to be made by the central executive council, which also has the right of control.

"5. Before the cabinet appoints assistant ministers the executive council must be consulted.

"6. A convention of deputies drawn from the soldiers' and workmen's council is to be summoned as soon as possible."

German newspapers report that the united workers' and sailors' councils have proclaimed Oldenburg, Oestfriesland, Bremen, Hamburg and Schleswig-Holstein a republic. The capital will be at Hamburg.

(The districts named comprise all the North sea coast of the German empire from Holland to Denmark. Bremen and Hamburg are the two most important German shipping ports and are free cities. The Kiel canal traverses Holstein.)

Spartacus Group Strikes. Stockholm, Nov. 26.—Adherent of the Spartacus group at Berlin attempted on Friday evening to seize the Berlin police presidency. Several persons were killed or injured.

Supreme Court Takes Recess. Washington, Nov. 26.—The Supreme court recessed for Thanksgiving until December 9.

EX-GOV. WILLIAM D. HOARD IS DEAD

WAS WISCONSIN'S GRAND OLD MAN AND NOTED AS A FARM EXPERT.

REACHED AGE OF 83 YEARS

Beaten for Re-Election for Governor by Geo. W. Peck in Bitter Fight Over Bennett Law—Newspaper Work Occupied Last Years.

Fort Atkinson—William Dempster Hoard, former governor of Wisconsin from 1889-1891 known throughout the country as the man who put the state on the dairy map, died at his home here, Mr. Hoard had been ill for a long time and his death was not unexpected.

He came to Wisconsin sixty-one years ago, going first to Oak Grove and then to Lake Mills. He was born at Stockbridge, N. Y., Oct. 10, 1835, the son of a Methodist minister.

Returning from the Civil war, Mr. Hoard started business at Columbus and in 1870 established a weekly newspaper at Lake Mills.

In 1873 he removed to Fort Atkinson to establish the Jefferson County Union, which has been one of the leading weekly newspapers of Wisconsin.

He served as United States Deputy Marshal in 1870 and was sergeant-at-arms of the state senate in 1872.

He was secretary of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association for many years, having founded the organization.

Mr. Hoard also was active in the Wisconsin Editorial association and in farmers' institutes.

For more than thirty years, Mr. Hoard fought consistently for purebred cattle, and his untiring labor added to his influence among the farmers of the state did much to eliminate inferior and impure-bred cattle. He was known by many as "the apple of the Jersey cow," but his work was far more extensive than the mere advocacy of this brand of cattle.

Ex-Gov. W. D. Hoard.

He was an early advocate of the use of the silo by farmers and to his work in that record is accredited indirectly much of the wealth of the herd-owners of the state. He was the founder of Hoard's Dairyman, perhaps the most influential dairy journal in the country.

As a boy, Mr. Hoard learned the Indian dialects. When he first came to Wisconsin he supported himself by teaching singing and working on farms and in the back woods.

When the Civil war broke out, Mr. Hoard joined the Union colors, enlisted with the Fourth Wisconsin regiment as a member of the band. After a year, the war department dispensed with that branch of military service and young Hoard re-enlisted in Co. A, First New York Light Artillery, and served until the close of the war.

He served a year as head of the Wisconsin branch of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Although he had not been unusually active in politics, Mr. Hoard was nominated for governor on the Republican ticket in 1888 and elected by a plurality of more than 20,000 votes. During his administration, he was the pivot around which was waged the so-called Bennett law fight, one of the bitterest political struggles in the state's history.

The Bennett law, enacted during his administration, provided compulsory attendance at school of every child in the state between 7 to 14 years for at least twelve weeks in each year. He was re-nominated for the governor's chair but was defeated by Geo. W. Peck, together with his entire state ticket in a campaign in which the Bennett law was the outstanding issue.

In 1915, Mr. Hoard was unanimously named as the most famous Badger to be honored at the Panama-Pacific exposition, San Francisco, by a special commission appointed by Gov. E. L. Phillip.

Mr. Hoard was married in 1860 to Agnes Elizabeth Bragg, daughter of William D. Bragg, Lake Mills, Wis. Three sons, Halbert L. Hoard, editor of the Jefferson County Union; Arthur R. Hoard, proprietor of Hoard's creameries, and Frank W. Hoard of the W. D. Hoard company, survive his death. Nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive.

CHAPTER XVI. Captured by the Moewe.

When the tugs had cast off and after a while we had dropped our pilot, I said to myself: "Now we are off, and it's the States for me—end of the line—far as we go—IF—"

I got up about four o'clock the next morning, which was Sunday, December 10, 1916—a date I do not think I will ever forget.

As soon as I was dressed I went down to the forecastle peak and from there into the paint locker, where I found some rope. Then back again on deck, and made myself a hammock, which I rigged up on the boat deck, figuring that I would have a nice sun bath, as the weather had at last turned clear.

As soon as I had the hammock strung I went down to the baker and had a nice chat with him—and stole a few hot buns, which was what I was really after—and away to the galley for breakfast. I was almost exactly amidships, sitting on an old orange box. I had not been there long when Old Chips, the ship's carpenter, stuck his head in the door and sang out, "Ship on the starboard bow." I did not pay any attention to him, because ships on the starboard bow were no novelty to me, or on the port either. Chips was not crazy about looking at her, either, for he came in and sat on another box and began scoffing. He said he thought she was a tramp and that she flew the British flag astern.

I ate all I could get hold of and went out on deck. I stepped out of the galley just in time to see the fun. The ship was just opposite us when away went our wireless and some of the boats on the starboard side, and then, boom! boom! and we heard the report of the guns. I heard the shrill whistling around us just as I had many a time before. I jumped back in the galley and Chips and the cook were shaking so hard they made the pans rattle.

When the firing stopped I went up to the boat deck. I had on all of my clothing, but instead of shoes I was wearing a pair of wooden clogs. The men and boys were crazy—rushing around the deck and knocking each other down, and everybody getting in everybody else's way. We lowered our Jacob's ladders, but some of the men and boys were already in the water. Why they jumped I do not know.

Then the German raider Moewe headed right in toward us and I thought she was going to ram us, but she backed water about thirty yards away. She lowered a lifeboat and it made for the Georgic, passing our men in the water as they came and crushing them on the head with boat-hooks when they could reach them. I noticed that there were red kegs in the German boat.

When the lifeboat reached the Jacob's ladders I went over to the port side of the Georgic and then the Germans came over the side and hoisted up the kegs. The Germans were armed with bayonets and revolvers. Some of them went down into the engine room and opened the sea cocks. About this time some of the Limeys came up from the poop deck and I told them to stay where I was and that the Germans would take us over in lifeboats. Another squad of Germans hoisted sight of the dynamite kegs on their shoulders and down into No. 5 hold with them.

Mean time the Germans saw us up on the boat deck and came up after us. And over went the Limeys. But I waited and one or two more waited with me. When the Germans came up to us they had their revolvers out and were waving them around and yelling, "Gott strafe England!" and talking about "schweinhunde." Then, the first thing I knew, I was kicked off into the sea. I slipped off my trousers and coat and clogs, and believe me, it was not a case of all dressed up and no place to go!

Then I swam hard and caught up to the Limeys who had jumped first. They were asking each other if they were downhearted and answering, "Not a bit of it, me lads," and trying to sing, "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag," only they could not do much slipping on account of the waves that surged into their mouths every time they opened them. That was just like Limeys, though.

Some of the boys were just climbing up the Jacob's ladder on the Moewe when the old Georgic let out an awful roar and up went the deck and the hatches high in the air in splinters. One fellow let go his hold on the ladder and went down and he never came up. The Germans were making for the Moewe in the lifeboat and we reached it just before they did. Up the ladder we went and over the side and the first thing we caught sight of was the German revolvers in our faces drilling us all into one.

The lifeboat brought back the ship's papers from the Georgic and we had roll call. They kept us up on deck in our wet underwear and it was very cold indeed. Then the first mate and the old man and one of the German officers called off the names and we found we had fifty missing.

The Boche commander had gall enough to say that he was not there to kill men but to sink all ships that were supplying the allies! He said England was trying to starve Germany, but that they would never succeed and that Germany would starve the allies very soon.

After roll call some of us asked the Germans for clothes, or at least a place to dry ourselves in, but Fritz could not see us for the dust on the ocean and we just had to stand there and shiver till we shook the deck, almost. Then I went and sat down on the pipes that feed the deck winches. They had quite a head of steam in them and I was beginning to feel more comfortable when I got a good clout alongside of the head for sitting there and trying to keep warm. It was a German garby and he started calling me all the various kinds of schweinhunde he could think of and he could think of a lot.

Finally they mustered us all on another part of the deck, then drilled us down into the forecastle and read the martial law of Germany to us. At least I guess that is what it was. It might have been the "Help Wanted—Dog Catchers" column from the Berlin Lokal Taggabelle for all most of us knew or cared. It shows what cards the Germans are—reading all those four-to-the-pound words to us shivering garbles, who did not give a dime a dozen whether we heard them or not. Fritz is like some other hot sketches—he is funniest when he does not mean to be. Every German is a vaudeville skit when he acts natural.

There were hammocks there and we jumped into them to get warm, but the Germans came down with their revolvers and bayonets and took the hammocks away and poured water on the decks and told us to sleep there. They could not have done a worse trick than that.

Then they put locks on the portholes and told us that anyone caught fiddling with the locks would be shot at once. This was because we might sight a British or French man-of-war at any time and as the Moewe was sailing under the British flag and trying to keep out of ports they did not want us at the ports signaling our own warships for help. If they had bucked any of the allied ships and had a fight we would have died down there like rats.

The Moewe had already captured the Voltair, Mount Temple, Cambrian Range and the King George and had the crews of these vessels between decks with us. These men told us how the Germans were treating them and it looked to me as though the evening would be spent in playing games and a pleasant time would be had by all—not.

The crew of the Mount Temple were on deck working when the raider suddenly opened fire on them. Two or three men jumped into the water and the Germans turned a gun on them while they were swimming and killed them. That was just a sample of what had happened to them.

The men now began running up and down in a line to keep warm, but I took a little run on my own hook and treated myself to as much of a one-way of the ship as I could. I do not believe the Moewe had more than a three-fourths-inch armor plate, but behind that she had three rows of pig iron, which made about a foot in thickness. There was nothing but cable strung along the deck and when I saw that I would have given anything to have had a crack at her with a 14-inch naval. And I sure wished hard enough that one of our ships would slip up on us, whether we were caught between decks or not. I went aft as far as the sentry would let me and I saw that she had three spare six-inch guns under the poop deck and two six-inch pieces mounted astern. The guns were mounted on an elevator and when the time came they ran the elevator up until the guns were on a level with the poop deck, but otherwise they were out of sight from other ships.

For our first meal they slung a big feed bag half full of ship biscuit—hardtack—to us and some dixies of bread. After this festival we began roaming up and down the deck again, because it was the only way to keep warm. I guess we looked like some of the advertisements in magazines, where they show a whole family sitting around a Christmas tree in their underwear and telling each other that Whosis Unions—the Roomy Kind—were just what they wanted from Santy. Only we did not have any Christmas tree to sit around. We must have looked funny, though, and I would have had a good laugh if I had not been so cold.

We could not go to sleep because the decks were wet, nor could we sit down with any comfort for the same reason. Besides, we thought we might be bucked up against a British or a French cruiser at any minute and most of us thought we would stay up and get an eye full before we started for Davy's well-known locker.

About two bells the following morning the Moewe's engines began to groan and shake her up a bit and we could hear the blades jump out of the water every once in a while and tear away. She went ahead in this way for some time and we were hoping she was trying to get away from a cruiser and some of us were pulling for the cruiser to win and others hoping the Moewe would get her heels clear and keep us from getting ours.

The Huns were running up and down the deck yelling like wild men and one of our men began to yell too. He was delicious and after he yelled a bit he jumped up and made a pass at the sentry, who shot at him but missed. The shot missed me too, but not very much. Then they dragged the delicious man up on deck and Lord knows what they did with him, because we never saw him again. But we did not hear any shouting that they might have made in shooting him.

Then the Huns began shelling and they kept it up for some time. Then they ordered us up on deck to see the ship they had been firing at and when we came up the companion way they were just bringing the other ship's skipper aboard. It was the French courier St. Theodore, hove to off the starboard side with a prize crew from the Moewe aboard and wiggling to the raider.

Then the Huns began shouting and they roared us below deck again. The place where we had been was filled with smoke, from what or why I do not know, but it was almost impossible to breathe in it. When the smoke cleared up a bit the Marathon started again, for we were still in our underwear only. One of the boys had asked Fritz for clothing and Fritz said the English had tough enough skins and they did not need clothing. Then he said: "Wait until you see what our German winters are like."

The following morning the engines began to tear away again and the guns started firing. After a while the firing stopped and the engines too, and after an hour they had the old man of the Yarrowdale aboard. She was a British ship chartered by the French and bound for Brest and Liverpool with a very valuable cargo aboard—airplanes, ammunition, food and automobiles.

When they rousted us on deck again the St. Theodore was still in sight, but she had the Yarrowdale for company. Both were trailing behind us and keeping pretty close on. While we were on deck we saw the German sailors at work on the main deck making about ten rafts and when they began to place fine of hardtack on the rafts, a tin to each, we imagined they were going to heave us over the side and let us go on the rafts. But instead they began telling us we would land in the States and then they roared us between decks again.

We had only been there a short time when some of the German officers came down and asked if any of the men would volunteer to go firing on the Yarrowdale and we almost mobbed them to take us. They began putting down the names of the men who were to go and I talked them into putting mine down too. Then I felt about five hundred pounds lighter.

Five o'clock came and by that time I had forgotten to do any worrying. We received our usual rations and most of us who had volunteered figured that we would receive clothes and shoes. In the morning an officer came down below and read out the names of those who were to go and I felt even lighter when he called mine. We were each given a life belt and mustered on deck.

The sea was pretty nasty and some of the men had narrow escapes from falling between the Moewe and the lifeboats when the swells rocked us. One man fell from the ladder and broke his neck on the gunwale of the lifeboat. They took over boat after boat to the Yarrowdale until finally we were all there. Then they mustered us on deck and warned us not to start anything, because they had a time bomb in the engine room and two on the bridge. Meantime they had brought over several boatloads of hardtack and we threw it into No. 3 hold. This was to be our food for some time.

CHAPTER XVII. Landed in Germany.

They had a coolie crew on the Yarrowdale and when they rousted them on deck the coolies began to pray, and though it is nothing to laugh at I could not help but chuckle at the way some of them went about talking to their various gods. They were beginning to smell danger and were pretty nervous. Every one of the coolies had a cane and a pair of Palm Beach trousers. The Huns were loading them in the lifeboats to be taken back to the Moewe with their sea bags and one of them got too nervous and was slow about getting into the lifeboat, so the Germans shot him without saying a word.

Then the Germans called out the names of those who had volunteered to go stoking and this included me. We were drilled down the fiddlely into the fire room. The fiddlely is a shaft that runs from the main deck of a ship to the engine room. I looked around a bit and saw a German standing very far from the fiddlely, so I asked him if he would be given shoes. He said no. Then I asked him if we had to fire in our bare feet and he said yes—that we did not need shoes. Then he went into the engine room.

I looked at the narrow passage he went through and at the narrow passage of the fiddlely to the main deck and I talked to my feet like I used to at Dixmude. I said: "Feet, do your duty." They did it and I flew up the fiddlely. I never wanted to see that stoke hole again.

I sneaked up to where the rest of the fellows were and the guards drilled us into No. 4 hold. There was nothing but ammunition in it. They batted the hatches down on us, which made the hold waterproof. And as that made it practically airtight the only air the 500 of us got was through the ventilators. That hold was certainly foul.

They next day some of the men had got cigarettes somewhere. In a few minutes they were as well as the rest had lit up and were puffing away in great style. I divided a cigarette with another fellow. Remember, we were sitting and standing on ammunition all this time. It shows how much we cared whether school kept or not.

The Germans saw the smoke coming out of the ventilators and they were crazy with fright. A gang of them laid below and rousted us out with whips.

They lined us up on deck and read us the riot act.

They drilled us down into the coal bunkers. It was stupely terrible there. Coal dust to breathe and eat and sleep on.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Looking too far ahead is likely to bring doubt-doubt of our ability and fear of the road. To do our best with what is just before us is the surest rule of success for that which is further on.

USE UP THE SMALL PORTIONS.

HERE the family is small and the recipe for ordinary things should serve five or six, it is economy to divide the recipe when preparing the food or hold over the dish will appeal to the taste. The same kind of food, no matter how good, loses its charm if it appears too often. Here is a true demonstration of "familiarity breeds contempt."

When beans are laked it seems a better economy to bake with the bean pot well filled, than a small dish, as both will bake in about the same time. Beans may be set away in cool weather or near ice and kept for a week in good condition, then their reappearance will be welcome.

A good-sized cabbage may be divided, shredded, and served as coldslaw one day, then the third or fourth day another portion may be cooked and seasoned with salt, sweet fat and milk; then if there is any left it may be chopped and added to potato or tomato or other vegetable as a salad.

In these days, when it is a crime to waste any food that may be eaten, one may substitute corn oil for olive oil, thus saving quite an amount if oil is used freely.

Instead of using the bread for toast when it is slightly stale, try steaming it and serve it well buttered and a nicely seasoned dish of stewed tomatoes poured over it. A few slices of bread buttered and placed in a baking dish and a custard, using an egg to a cupful of milk, salt and cayenne pepper to taste, poured over it, a half cupful of grated cheese, sprinkled over and baked until the custard is set, make a good hot supper dish and is wholesome as well as economical.

When a cupful of leftover meat of any kind is at hand, add it to two cupfuls of cooked macaroni, a white or brown sauce and seasoning of onion, salt and pepper. Baked until thoroughly hot, it is a dish that will be sustaining enough for a main dish.

Small bits of leftover pastry may be rolled into tart or turnover pies, thus having a variety of filling in small portions of jelly, jam or fruit are waiting to be saved.

When making spice cake or molasses cookies use the cupful of cold coffee left from breakfast, for the liquid, saving milk for other foods.

A man compares courtship to running after a street car. He will put every energy into the chase, but when his outstretched hand catches the rail all effort is over. He takes his place naturally and is content. He does not look around and say, "Oh, what a beautiful, swift, comfortable car, and keep on beating his delight all the way to his destination. But a woman under the circumstances will pay her fare with radiant gratitude, exclaiming to the journey end: "Oh, I'm so glad I caught it."

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE.

APPLES in various forms furnish a great variety of dishes, from soup to dessert.

Apples Baked With Bread.—Remove the cores from good-sized apples, fill with jam and dot with bits of butter substitute. Place round slices of stale bread in a baking dish and put an apple on each slice. Pour scalded milk to which sugar has been added over the bread and bake in the oven until the apples are soft. Serve in the dish in which it was baked.

Corn Waffles.—Sift a cupful of corn flour with a teaspoonful of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs with a cupful of milk. Mix in a cupful of canned corn, strained dry. Melt and add a tablespoonful of fat and the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Fill the waffle iron two-thirds full, and when baked a golden brown, serve with honey or lemon sirup. The liquid strained from the can of corn will make a delicious soup, adding milk and seasonings.

Banana Custard Pie.—Fill an unbaked pastry shell three-fourths full of sliced bananas. Sprinkle a few drops of lemon juice over them and add half a cupful of strained honey, a pinch of salt and a few drops of lemon extract, and enough milk to fill the tart, with a beaten egg added.

Baked Hominy.—Take two cupfuls of cold cooked hominy, the small cracked grain variety, or one of the larger grains; two cupfuls of milk, a tablespoonful each of fat and sugar, a sprinkling of salt and two egg yolks. Beat well, then fold in the stiffly-beaten whites and bake in a buttered dish.

Salt mackerel soaked in plenty of water overnight, skin side up, then put to bake for twenty minutes with cream, makes a breakfast dish hard to equal.

Save the whey from cottage cheese to use in place of milk in cakes, gems, muffins, gingerbread and doughnuts.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles."

"I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."

"Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 6th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio, writes: 'Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.'"

"If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years' experience is at your service."

A bachelor says that the only certainty about woman is her uncertainty. Quite True. "This prohibition movement is a serious problem." "Yes, it requires sober thought."

To Come Later. Patience—Is that young man I saw Peggy with today the one she's engaged to? Patience—I guess so. Patience—But why isn't he fighting? Patience—Oh, dear; they're not married yet.—Yonkers Statesman.

Woman's Work. Well, I've got more respect for my wife than I ever had before in all my life. How in the world a woman will live a lifetime with a man and wash dishes three times a day without rebelling I don't know. I never knew what a slave's task washing dishes was until I got to Frange and had to wash my own mess kit.—Soldier writing to the Stars and Stripes.

Not After That. "War has evidently no terrors for your husband, Mrs. Grim." "No; we have two girls in the next flat taking singing lessons, a woman pianist on the floor above practices scales five hours a day, a man below plays the trombone every night and there are nine phonographs in the building. He said he wanted to go somewhere where he could have a little rest and quiet."

His Excuse. One Camp Custer rookie claimed he should have a deferred classification and to substantiate his allegation referred to Deuteronomy 24:5: "When a man hath taken a new wife he shall not go to war, neither shall he be charged with any business, but he shall be free at home for one year and shall cheer up his wife which he has taken." "Well," said one of the army clerks after sizing up the bird making the claim, "I guess she would need cheering up if she picked off that lemon."

IMPORTANT NEWS FROM KENTUCKY

During September, 1918, a total of 232 new wells was completed of which 232 wells are commercially productive, indicating a successful completion of 87%. This is a remarkable accomplishment and compares favorably with the most prolific districts in the world. On October 25 last, 518 new wells were in process of drilling. For the week ending October 12, the Cumberland Pipe Line delivered to refineries 88,236 barrels of crude petroleum, or an average daily run of 12,602 barrels, each barrel of which was worth $2.50. Indications point to the production of Kentucky for the year 1918 exceeding FIVE MILLION BARRELS, a marked increase over the year 1917, and the value of the 1918 production will exceed

THIRTEEN MILLION DOLLARS

We gave notice in our last week's advertisement that the price of BOSTON-KENTUCKY Treasury shares would advance to fifteen cents. THE PRICE HAS ADVANCED exactly in accordance with our announcement and we now offer the second allotment of BOSTON-KENTUCKY Treasury Shares at FIFTEEN CENTS PER SHARE. To those who did not grasp the opportunity offered last week at Ten Cents we say

What Determines Meat and Live-Stock Prices?

Some stock men still think that Swift & Company—and other big packers—can pay as little for live-stock as they wish.

Some consumers are still led to believe that the packers can charge as much for dressed meat as they wish.

This is not true. These prices are fixed by a law of human nature as old as human nature itself—the law of supply and demand.

When more people want meat than there is meat to be had, the scramble along the line to get it for them sends prices up. When there is more meat than there are people who want it, the scramble all along the line to get rid of it within a few days, while it is still fresh, sends prices down.

When prices of meat go up, Swift & Company not only can pay the producer more, but has to pay him more, or some other packer will.

Similarly, when prices recede all down the line Swift & Company cannot continue to pay the producer the same prices as before, and still remain in the packing business.

All the packer can do is to keep the expense of turning stock into meat at a minimum, so that the consumer can get as much as possible for his money, and the producer as much as possible for his live-stock.

Thanks to its splendid plants, modern methods, branch houses, car routes, fleet of refrigerator cars, experience and organization, Swift & Company is able to pay for live cattle 90 per cent of what it receives for beef and by-products, and to cover expense of production and distribution, as well as its profit (a small fraction of a cent per pound), out of the other 10 per cent.

Swift & Company, U. S. A.

PROVED SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY

Voluntary Basis of Food Saving Showed Heart of America Beat True for Freedom.

To the voluntary service and sacrifice of the American people must be attributed the continued health, strength and morale of the Allied armies and the civil populace.

Upon this spirit of service and sacrifice will depend Europe's fate in the months to come. In the past year we have carried out an export program, the magnitude of which is almost beyond comprehension. But with the new demands that have come, with the liberation of nations freed from German oppression, our exports must be almost doubled. Instead of 11,820,000 tons, we must ship twenty million tons of food to Europe in the coming year—as much as can be pushed through our ports.

If the Allies had not been fed by America, it would have been impossible for them to maintain their defense against Germany.

Meeting this world need on a purely voluntary basis, the American people have conclusively proved that democracy is a success and that in time of need it will rise to its own defense.

If there were no other accomplishment to its credit the very fact that it has shown the strength of democracy has in itself more than justified the existence of the Food Administration in the eyes of the world.

Less than four months after the United States declared war the United States Food Administrator expressed his determination to meet America's food problem on a basis of voluntary action and reiterated his confidence that awakened democracy would prove irresistible.

"Many thinking Americans," said Mr. Hoover, "and the whole world have been watching anxiously the last four months in the fear that democratic America could not organize to meet autocratic Germany. Germany has been confident that it could not be done. Contrary proof is immediately at our door, and our people have already demonstrated their ability to mobilize, organize, endure and prepare voluntarily and efficiently in many directions and upon the mere word of inspiration aside from the remarkable assemblage of our Army and finances."

The history of the Food Administration has clearly shown that the trust of those who put their faith in democracy has not been misplaced.
