Decide right now to put your dairyon a profit basis. Go after 100% health in your milk cows. Maximum profits are impossible without maximum health.

You do not need a veterinary for most of the ailments common among dairy cows. Barrenness, Retained Afterbirth, Lost Appetite, Scouring, Bunches, Abortion. etc., are nearly always a direct result of impaired organs of digestion and reproduction.

You can successfully treat and e'iminate these diseases yourself with the aid of Kow-Kure. This well-known cow medicine acts directly on the affected organs and promptly restores a normal condition. The occasional use of Kow-Kure is a sure preventive of most cow ailments. Take one of your backward cows and put it to the test. You'll be surprised at the increased milk yield that comes with restored health.

favorable conclusion more attention can now be given to the agricultural and industrial development of Western Canada, which were checked by the troublous times of the past four years. Now that these are over, the proper development of the country will be continued.

True, much agricultural progress has duction has been greatly increased, the grown, and with each succeeding year the dairying and wool industries have this forward march, many phases of development have been held in check. been greatly hampered by shortage of labor, and, under the circumstances, what they have achieved can only be described as marvelous.

Excepting those industries closely ailied to agriculture, such as butter and cheese manufacture, industrial activity in the Prairie Provinces has been almost at a standstill. And even in these branches extensions have been strictly limited to those of urgent necessity. Building has been considerably curtailed, especially in the towns and cities, though many commodious and up-to-date dwellings, barns and other buildings have been erected by farmers in the country. Indeed, the amount of building farmers have done is one of the outward signs of their prosperity; but considerably more of it would have been done had not the more important work of food produc tion received priority in the labor available. has been almost entirely suspended. With more help available, and the use of the labor-saving devices that have been adopted during the last few years great advances in the agricultural development of Western Canada might be looked for even if no new settlers were expected; but the coming of thousands of prospective settlers who have hitherto been deterred only by the unsettled conditions from making their homes in this last great West will give a considerable impetus to every phase of agriculture in these Prairie Provinces.

Hand in haud with the development of agriculture, there will be a renewal of industrial activity. For the establishment of such industries as sugar refineries, canneries, and many other industries for the utilization of the products of the land, as well as for the extension of the already important industries of butter and cheese manufacture, are splendid opportunitles. Mining, lumbering, quarrying, the manufacture of clay products are also a few industries capable of considerable growth, and to which greater attention can now be devoted.

To provide accommodation for pres ent business requirements alone would keep the building trade busy for a long time, but with further development in the cities it is impossible to foresee any slackness in any branch of this trade. And the number of farmers whose needs have outgrown their present accommodation and who have been awaiting an opportunity to replace their buildings by larger and more modern ones is considerable and constantly increasing. Municipal work will be gradually resumed, and the railways have much work in contemplation. All this points to a period of great prosperity in Western Canada-agricultural and industrial prosperity. The former is the more important, for on it the latter depends. Being primarily an agricultural country, Western Canada will probably pass through the readjustment period with little difficulty. There is no reason to believe that farming will be less remunerative than it has been in the past; there are, on the other hand, many good and sound reasons for believing that the returns will be as large as ever. One thing is certain: Intelligent farming on the fertile prairies of Western Canada, requiring as it does the smallest possible capital outlay compared with that required to get a start in older settled countries, will continue to be one of the quickest and surest ways to independence that can be followed by the average man .- Advertisement.

"I know he means to propose," she said wrathfully, not addressing anyone in particular, and she slammed ber book into the corner.

"I thought last night that he was just on the verge of saying something -but then-I've thought that a dozen times before now and nothing ever came of it!"

She got out of the hammock and picked up the much-despised book. "I suppose I might just as well finish my story," she said half aloud, "it's a good one, too-but every time I think of Bob Harwood it makes me so angry I can't even read."

The afternoon wore on, and Anne was aroused from her reading by the cheery whistle of the gray-haired postman as he came up the path on his afternoon rounds. "Anyfhing for me, Mr. Hobbs?" she

"Why, it 'pears to me like it's your Aunt Martha's writing," said the old man, scrutinizing the letter closely. "Wonder what she's got to be writing about?" he observed, as he handed over the missive, and he stood there walting to hear the news. For wasn't he nostman-and as such expected to know who got letters-and where they were from-and what they were about? That was Mossville etiquette, established of old, and far be it from Silas Hobbs to neglect his duty in this regard.

"You must be a mind reader. Mr. Hobbs," said Anne, glancing through her letter. "It is from Aunt Martha. and she wants me to come and spend a week with her.

"Now, you take my advice, Anne, and go right along," said the old mun, wisely shaking his head. "You know what you've told me 'bout a certain young man-well, this'll be just the thing. If I was you, I'd go right up and get ready now, and I wouldn't say nothin' about it, neither. Take my advice now, and run along and pack. You just stay up at the farm for a week or ten days, and don't write him a word, and I guess that'll bring him to his senses if anything ever will."

"Why, I do think that you are right, Mr. Hobbs. It's the very thing," said the girl, getting quite excited at the

You can take an onion seed and a pansy seed, and plant them side by side in the same spot of ground. In one case, you get an onion, with its peculiarly strong odor, and in the other you get a flower o rare beauty. You can plant a poppy seed and get opium (a dangerous, habit forming drug), or you can plant a rhubarh seed and get something that helps constipation. No scientist, living or dead, can explain these musteries of Nature. Behind the invisible life germ in each seed is hidden the deep secret that nobody understands. Everything growing out of the ground seems in tended for some use in establishing natural conditions. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all through treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This of medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening drains, bearing-down pains, periodical irregularities, pelvic inflammations, and for the many common to women in all ages of life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is made of lady's slipper root, black cohosh root, unicorn root, blue cohosh root and Oregon grape root. Women who take this standrd remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it.

Favorite Prescription should have the full confidence of every woman in America because it contains no alcohol and no marmade this standard modicine, that whisky and morphine are injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies, Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel,

"I'm going away for a week or so, Mary," said Anne, as she/entered the spotless kitchen where Mary reigned supreme, "but it's to be a dead secret, and if you'll come up and help me pack before you go out, so that I can get away, I'll give you my purple hat that you liked so much."

"Oh, thank you, Miss Anne," said Mary, "and indeed I'll help you."

So they packed, and when all was done, Mary went off to prepare for her "evening out."

Down the street that evening sauntored Mr Robert Harwoold, He had decided to call upon Anne. She did not expect him, very true, but still he was sure she would be glad to see him. She always was.

Enjoying his after-dinner cigar he turned the corner of her street and gazed over at the house.

Just then the door opened and down the steps lightly tripped a young woman. He would have recognized Anne anywhere by the purple hat that she wore.

"Good gracious, what's that !" muttered Bob Harwood, as he stepped back into the shudow.

"Anne-and a man! Oh, what a stepped in and cut me out. Well, it but by Joye! I won't give her up so easily. I'll ask her to marry me to night if I have to sit up all night and wait for her to come home," and he strode across the street and gave the bell a jerk that made it resound through the whole house.

"Oh, I gave that to Mary," said Anne carclessly, "although I always did like that hat, and I'm rather sorry now that I gave It away."

"Sorry," said Bob with a whoop well, I'm not. In fact, you don't know what it means to me that you did give it away." But Anne did not unsist of an explanation.
