LIEUT. JOHANNES ARRIVES AT NEW YORK

Mrs. Jacob Johannes of Milwaukee received a cablegram from her husband, First Lieut. Jacob Johannes, stating that he had landed safely at New York. The same day Lieut. Johannes telephoned to his wife saying that he expects to be mustered out of military service in March. He was a member of the 32nd division and was in France 18 months, during which time he fought on three battle fronts. When he arrives home he will have many interesting and thrilling experiences to tell, which will also appear in the columns of the Statesman. Mr. Johannes was wounded by a shrapnel shell during the early stage of the war, and was confined to a hospital for several months. He is a brother of Mich. Johannes, residing 3 miles south of this village, who together with the many friends of the Lieutenant are eagerly awaiting his return.

TWO MORE KEWASKUM OVERSEAS SOLDIERS RETURN HOME

Edwin "Spatz" Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Miller of the town of Kewaskum, returned home from Camp Grant on Wednesday evening, where he was honorably discharged. Edwin left for Camp Grant on Sept. 7th, 1917, being one of the first men to be called into service from this village. He was assigned to the 331st field artillery at the latter place.

Carl Westerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Westerman Sr., of St. Bridget's returned home on Thursday evening from Camp Grant, where he also was honorably discharged from further military service. Carl left here in Oct. 1917, for Camp Grant, where he was assigned to the 331st field artillery.

Both young men were stationed at Camp Grant until May 15th, 1918, when their company was ordered to go with the artillery on a march which consisted of 5000 men, to Camp Robinson, Wis., where they remained for 3 months and were then transferred to Ed to Camp Mills, N. Y. On Sept. 17, 1918, they were sent overseas, and landed at Liverpool, England the same month, from where they were sent across the English Channel to France, arriving at Cherbourg a few weeks later. They were in France five months when the armistice was signed, during which time they traveled through the southern part of France, visiting many large and beautiful cities including Bordeaux. They were members of the noted Blackhawk Division, one of the best drilled divisions in the United States army. On Jan. 19, 1919 they set sail for the states landing at New York on Feb. 6, from where they were transferred to Camp Grant to be discharged.

Both young men are prominent citizens of this village. Mr. Miller, previous to his entering military service was employed as clerk in the A. G. Koch store, he also is a star base ball and basket ball player. Mr. Westerman, formerly conducted a livery business in this village in partnership with his brother Edward, who now resides on a farm west of this village. At the time Carl was called into service he was forced to dispose of his livery business. Both young men are undecided as to what occupation they will take up in the future. The many friends and relatives of the young men are glad indeed to welcome them back home.

RETURNS HOME FROM FRANCE

Corporal Frank Brodzeller of Lomira who was mustered out of military service at Camp Grant on January 5th, spent several days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Math Beisbier and family.

Corporal Brodzeller is a son of Mrs. John Brodzeller of Lomira. He left for Camp Mills, N. Y., in October 1917, where he was stationed for several months, when he was sent overseas, landing at Brest in May 1918.

On July 14, 1918, he entered the front line trenches at Chateau Thierry where he took part in several pitched battles, on August 7th, 1918, he was wounded on his right hip in the battle of Fismes. After being in a hospital at Angers for several months he was sent back to the states, leaving France on September 22, 1918, and arrived at Newport News, Va., on October 3rd, 1918, he was immediately transferred to Fort Des Moines, Iowa, for two months, before he was taken to Camp Grant, where he was honorably discharged from further military service.

Mr. Brodzeller has seen lots of action while in the trenches, and certainly has many interesting stories to tell on the life of a soldier while on the fighting line, the experiences are such that a civilian cannot conceive what it actually means to be a soldier in active service. He stated that he was wounded on a Wednesday afternoon, and did not receive medical aid until the following Friday evening and then only after having crawled on hands and knees from the firing line back to the third line trenches, a distance of about three quarters of a mile. When he arrived at the latter place he was completely exhausted from loss of blood, and not having anything to eat or drink from the time he was wounded.

Mr. Brodzeller has a large scar on his right hip, which is about an inch deep and about five inches long, and although the wound is completely healed up, he still limps a little as the result of his injuries.

Corporal Brodzeller wears the overseas stripe the wound stripe and over his left shoulder and breast he carries the French citation cord, which signifies that the 4th division was cited in action by the French army, in the Chateau Thierry drive.

Lieutenant Dr. B. O. Bendixen, who enlisted in the medical corps of the United States army several months ago, returned home this week, having received his honorable discharge. Lieut. Bendixen left for Macon, Ga., early last fall, where he was stationed in a hospital several months and was then transferred to the United States General Hospital at Chicago, and afterwards was stationed in a base hospital at Ft. Sheridan, where he remained until he was discharged. He is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Strupp, residing three miles south of this village, previous to his enlistment he practiced medicine at Dundee, where he had worked up a good business. Whether or not he will again return to Dundee to resume his practice we were unable to learn.

GETTING RID OF COLDS

The easiest and quickest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract a second cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger of this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed and stay in bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on.

ESSENTIALS IN SCHOOL HABITS

The most important thing about a school is its spirit, which is felt rather than seen, says Supt. C. P. Cary. The school spirit must be habitually clean, earnest, cheerful, honest, ambitious, industrious, and in harmony with good ideals and purposes. The school spirit must be sufficiently liberal to allow development of individuality and the growth of strong personal characters. The school spirit must be generally disposed towards the unfortunate and not inclined to look down upon the less well to do pupils.

To reach a standard of 100 per cent of efficiency:

1. In the Recitation:

Pupils must have the habit of attending strictly to the business of the recitation. They must have the habit of being prepared upon the lesson when they come to the recitation. They must have the habit of reciting with natural expression from the lesson topics, without depending upon the teacher for questions and promptings. They must have the habit of wanting to understand clearly the thought in the lesson, the recitations made by other members of the class and the explanations made by the teacher. They must have the habit of preparing well all written work which they do, giving special attention to penmanship, spelling, capital letters and neatness. They must have the habit of doing blackboard work neatly and arranging it well. They must have the habit of standing erect while reciting; and of sitting, not sprawling in the seat, while not reciting. They must have the habit of going to, and returning from the recitations in a prompt and orderly manner.

2. In the seats during the study period:

Pupils must have the habit of studying earnestly and diligently. They must have the habit of expecting that every one will attend to his own business, act quietly with good will, and in accord with the rules and sentiment of both the teacher and the school. They must have the habit of appreciating and enjoying a clean, comfortable, well ventilated and equipped school room.

3. In the school room at recess:

Pupils must have the habit of leaving the school room and taking part in the play. They must have the habit of refraining from scuffling or running in the school room at recess.

4. On the playgrounds:

Pupils must have the habit of taking part in the play. They must have the habit of playing fair, treating others kindly and generously and of engaging in no profane or vulgar language. They must have the habit of dropping all play and going directly into school at the first stroke of the bell.

MEN NEAR DEATH ON TRANSPORT

Yanks Pray as U. S. S. Louisville Barely Escapes Sinking in Gale-Torn Sea.

NEGROES SING REVIVAL HYMNS

Vessel Listed So Much That the "Abandon Ship" Signal Was Automatically Sounded and Troops Prepared to Take Boats.

New York, Feb. 17.—After being battered for three days by terrific gales the transports Matsela and Louisville and the cruiser Huntington arrived here, carrying a total of 7,402 troops. The Matsela brought back the Sixty-eighth Coast artillery complete with 37 officers and 1,792 enlisted men, over 1,000 of whom are ill-nonsans. They had not been in action. In addition there are 200 sick and wounded slated to go to Camp Dodge, and 139 convalescents bound for Camp Grant.

Batteries A, B, C and D, field and staff, supply company and the medical detachment of the Three Hundred and Fifty-first field artillery and the One Hundred and Sixty-seventh field artillery brigade headquarters returned on the Louisville, which also had aboard nearly 200 wounded men, several of whom were members of the Thirty-third division.

On Thursday night the Louisville ran into a gale that smashed four of the lifeboats and caused the ship to list so badly that all lights went out. The vessel listed so much that the "abandon ship" signal was automatically given and the troops prepared to get into the boats.

At one time, officers said, it appeared certain the Louisville would capsize. The negro artillerymen of the Three Hundred and Fifty-first began to pray and to sing revival hymns. For 12 hours the transport had to heave to. Every man on board was seasick. Thirty-nine bedridden wounded suffered agonies.

Half of the One Hundred and Sixty-third and the One Hundred and Sixty-first infantry regiments were on the Huntington.

Illinois "regulars" who came in on the Matsela were a disgruntled lot because they did not get a chance to see service at the front.

"If the war had lasted only two weeks more we'd have been there," said Lieut. Harry Cooper of Chicago. The only other officer in the regiment was Lieut. Charles A. Sheppard of Edwardsville, Ill.

GERMANY BLIND TO ISOLATION

Premier Eisner of Bavaria Replies to Recent Attacks of Berlin Press.

Munich, Feb. 18.—Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian premier, on his return to Munich from the recent socialist conference held at Berne, made reply to attacks in the German press concerning his speech at Berne.

Eisner said the Germans did not realize to what a degree they were isolated from the world and what terrible misfortune there was of German politics outside Germany. The Germans, he added, did not realize to what extent the allies considered the German revolution a pure comedy, and said that it will be thus while the German leaders remain the same as those who conducted Germany's odious war policy.

Mr. Mayer was extremely reticent to discuss his plans.

MINERS' WORK PRAISED

MEN DID FULL WAR DUTY, SAYS LANE.

Secretary Declares Coal Workers Braved Perils Great as Did Soldiers at Front.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The casualty list of the American coal mining army for 1918, reported to Secretary Lane of the department of the interior by the bureau of mines, includes 2,375 men killed.

"This is the penalty paid by one peaceful industry during a year of war," said Secretary Lane, "and it emphasizes the hardy appreciation of the worker in the mining industry who did his full duty during the war braved perils as did the soldier at the front, and quite as willingly went to the supreme sacrifice."

"When the war was on we Americans created many slogans and not the least among them was that 'Coal will win the war.' The war has won, and in its winning there will always stand forth the brilliant achievement and patriotic effort of the American coal miner. With a little more than three-quarters of a million men in this army, with only 3,000 more men than employed in the year before, these men succeeded in bringing down from the earth 34,000,000 more tons of coal than in 1917, a tremendous factor in bringing the war to a speedy close. The total production of coal was 685,900,000 tons, the greatest production ever achieved.

"For every life lost there was 256,000 tons of coal produced. There was a decrease of 233 deaths from explosions of gas and coal dust.

"It is rather curious, but true," said the secretary, "that with the mines operating to capacity, there is less liability of a high death rate for the reason that the great activity tends to prevent accumulations of gas in the old workings and compels the maintenance of better roof conditions."

NAVY PLANS OCEAN FLIGHT

Secretary Daniels Says Movement is Already Under Way for Transatlantic Trip.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The navy department will not consider loaning Capt. B. B. Ipsner the HC-1 or any other seaplane for the purpose of attempting a transatlantic flight, Secretary Daniels announced. Secretary Daniels said the decision was prompted by the fact that plans already are under way for a transatlantic flight by navy aviators. These plans were proceeding satisfactorily, he said.

GERMANS ACCEPT NEW ARMISTICE

Terms Agreed to as the Time Limit Draws Near; Minister Resigns.

HUNS AGAIN BOW TO FOCH

Dispatches From Germany Show Treves Conference Was Occasion for Revival of Old Prussian Swastibuckling.

Paris, Feb. 19.—"Marshal Foch," says the official communique of the supreme war council, "informed the ministers of the allied and associated powers of the acceptance by the Germans of the conditions for the renewal of the armistice." By the terms of the new agreement, which constitutes the third renewal of the armistice, the Germans must promptly and strictly fulfill all the clauses of the contracts of November 11, December 12 and January 16.

Germany has again bowed to Foch. The armistice renewal was signed at Treves, after the German commission, headed by Matthias Erzberger, had tried to the last to bargain, quibble, protest and even threaten.

"Sign on the dotted line," was the answer of Foch to all these attempts, and finally, as the time of grace was almost up, the Germans, still protesting, signed.

The agreement prolongs the armistice indefinitely, but gives the allies the right to break off the truce at three days' notice if Germany does not religiously live up both to the spirit and the letter of the terms as laid down by Foch.

Dispatches from Germany show the Treves conference was the occasion for a considerable revival of the old Prussian swastibuckling spirit. Impotent as they are, the militarists had begun again to talk of the "shining sword" and the "wrath of the German people, once they are stirred."

Indeed, there are rumors of a cabinet crisis due to the signing of the new agreement.

Count von Breckdorff-Rantau, the foreign minister, a man of proved liberal and anti-junk tendencies, but pledged to a program of "peace without humiliation," saw that program endangered by yielding to the allied demands on the armistice renewal, and is said to have threatened his resignation.

One report, unconfirmed, has it he carried out his threat as soon as he heard that the German signatures were affixed to the document.

Hindenburg, still the commanding figure in the "fatherland" from the military standpoint, is curbed by the new agreement, for it stipulates that the offensive against the Poles must be discontinued forthwith. It is also understood to contain demands for German evacuation of territories claimed by the Poles.

London, Feb. 19.—The terms of the new military treaty to be imposed on Germany as a part of the final peace conditions will, according to the Daily Mail's Paris correspondent, include, in addition to the destruction of the fortifications of Heligoland and the Kiel canal and the opening of the canal to traffic, the immediate surrender of certain warships which have not yet been given up as required and the conversion of the status of the German fleet in the Scapa flow from that of internment to surrender.

U. S. TO QUIT RUSSIA

POSITION STRENGTHENED PREPARATORY TO WITHDRAWAL.

Baker Says All Americans Will Be Out of Country This Spring.

Archangel, Feb. 18.—The anarchists are increasing their efforts to destroy the morale of the new Russian conscript soldiers as well as of the American and British troops. Anarchist propaganda, well written and printed in English, has been distributed mysteriously among the various allied units.

Leaflets distributed in villages on the Omega front, where American forces are operating, call upon the American soldiers to organize soldiers' committees and demand of the officers that they be returned home as the war with Germany is over and there is no reason for remaining in Russia.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Steps toward strengthening the position of American and allied troops in northern Russia as a preliminary to their safe withdrawal in the near future are under way at the direction of the supreme war council.

To facilitate the withdrawal, additional forces are being dispatched to the scene. Great Britain is sending 2,400 troops and the United States railroad engineer units numbering about 500 men to keep lines of communication open to the sea.

Secretary Baker notified the house military committee that President Wilson had informed him of the plans, and again gave assurance that the American soldiers were in no danger of being cut off.

Secretary Baker, transmitting this information from President Wilson to the house military committee, said all the American soldiers should be out of Russia this spring.

German Spartacans Ouder General Strike in the Ruhr District—Fortify Water Works.

Copenhagen, Feb. 19.—A general strike has been declared in all of the Ruhr industrial district along the Rhine and the Spartacans have occupied Bochum, Hamburg and a number of other places, according to a report from Berlin. The Spartacans are reported to be fortifying the water works and electric power houses at Dueseldorf, Mulheim and Hamburg and are preparing to resist the government troops that are being sent into the district. The anti-government leaders have given orders that no capitulation by the government be demanded.

FOE REJECT NEW TERMS; THEN SIGN

German Cabinet at First Decided to Fight Allies.

NOW PLAN TO CUT ARMY

Party Leaders Were Consulted and Compelled a Reversal of the War-Like Decision to "Take Chances" on Military Moves.

Paris, Feb. 19.—The Italian delegation states in an official note to the peace conference that Italy cannot accept arbitration with the Jugo-Slavs of Italian claims in Dalmatia.

Weimar, Feb. 19.—The German cabinet voted early Sunday morning to reject the allies' terms for the renewal of the armistice and take the chances of a military advance being ordered by the allies. After consultation with the party leaders, however, the decision was changed, and Sunday night orders were issued that the armistice be signed.

Draft Almost Completed.

Paris, Feb. 19.—The special commission of the supreme council, charged with drafting the terms of a definite armistice which will hold good until peace preliminaries are signed, has almost completed its task and it is possible, says a Havas report, that Marshal Foch will be able to notify the Germans on Thursday or Friday of the military and naval terms, which will be essentially those of the preliminary treaty. It is understood that the terms will include clauses by which Germany will be allowed to maintain only 250,000 men under arms to keep order. All war material beyond what is necessary to equip these troops would, according to report, be placed under control of the allies, who will also hold Germany's munition factories.

German Army Now 200,000.

Treves, Feb. 19.—Although the disarmament question was not raised at the armistice conference here, Matthias Erzberger, one of the German commissioners, volunteered a statement that the German army consisted of only 200,000 men, 40 per cent of whom were of doubtful value. He said that the German army had been demobilized too quickly and that it was inadequate to maintain order in the country.

Apart from the conference, Erzberger made a number of declarations, saying particularly that the political future of Germany was fixed by President Wilson's "fourteen points." He asserted that Germany would henceforth be a new country, adding that it would be genuinely democratic and would loyally participate in the League of Nations on the principle of political and economical equality. He said that Germany was ready to agree to disarmament on land and sea and in the air.

Under the new terms for the renewal of the armistice as presented to the Germans by Marshal Foch Germany must abandon all offensive movements against the Poles and also must prohibit her troops from crossing the Russian frontier at a certain line.

"Can't Renew War"—Erzberger.

London, Feb. 19.—Matthias Erzberger has returned to Weimar from Treves, according to a German wireless message picked up here. After his return he appeared before the national assembly and read the text of the new armistice agreement. When he had finished the reading Erzberger is reported to have said:

"I do not wish any member of this house to ever have to live through such heavy hours as it was my fate to live at Treves. The German commission's activity was kept to the narrowest limits, as Marshal Foch declined to extend the period and declared he was unable to alter anything in the stipulations, since the conditions had been framed by the chiefs of the allied governments. Marshal Foch's interpreter stated that President Wilson had approved the conditions of the new armistice."

After saying that he signed the agreement in accordance with the government's instructions, after handing to Marshal Foch a note of protest, Erzberger said:

"This is the message, little gratifying in itself, which I have had to bring. The world knows Germany does not wish and is unable to conduct a fresh war, but though it is possible to render us defenseless we must not be made helpless."

JUST AS AN AFTERTHOUGHT

Army Mail Clerk Suddenly Struck With an Idea That Was Little Short of Brilliant.

Two privates met the company mail clerk on the road. "Any mail for me?" asked the first private.

"The mail orderly put on his spectacles, looked through a bunch of letters and handed one to the questioner.

"Any for me?" queried the second private.

The custodian of the mails readjusted the spectacles on his nose, looked once more through the pack of letters and said there was not.

"Not even a newspaper?" insisted the private.

Again he looked through the packages and finally said:

"None, none for you."

"The privates had gone but a few steps on their way when the orderly yelled after them:

"Hey, there! Darned if I know you! What's your name, anyhow?"

"I think it is," was the reply, "but I don't know what they'll think at the studio. Suppose you read it and decide for yourself."

THE LIGHT IN THE CLEARING
A TALE OF THE NORTH COUNTRY IN THE TIME OF SILAS WRIGHT
By IRVING BACHELLER

AUTHOR OF EBEN HOLDEN, D'RI AND I, DAKREL OF THE BLESSED ISLES, KEEPING UP WITH LIZZIE, ETC., ETC.

BARTON GETS NEW INSPIRATION FROM THE THE WORDS OF THE GREAT SILAS WRIGHT.

Synopsis.—Barton Baynes, an orphan, goes to live with his uncle, Peabody Baynes, and his Aunt Deel on a farm on Ratterroad, in a neighborhood called Lickitysplit, about the year 1826. He meets Sally Dunkelberg, about his own age, but socially of a class above the Bayneses, and is fascinated by her pretty face and fine clothes. Barton also meets Rovin Kate, known in the neighborhood as the "Silent Woman." Amos Grimshaw, a young son of the richest man in the township, is a visitor at the Baynes home and Rovin Kate tells the boys' fortunes, predicting a bright future for Barton and death on the gallows for Amos. Reproved for an act of boyish mischief, Barton runs away, intending to make his home with the Dunkelbergs. He reaches Canton and falls asleep on a porch. There he is found by Silas Wright, Jr., a man prominent in public affairs, who, knowing Peabody Baynes, takes Barton home after buying him new clothes. Silas Wright evinces much interest in Barton and sends a box of books and magazines to the Baynes home. A short time later the election of Mr. Wright to the United States senate is announced. Barton learns of a wonderful power known as "Money," and how through its possession Grimshaw is the most powerful man in the community. Grimshaw threatens to take the Baynes farm if a note which he holds is not paid.

To Aunt Deel wagon grease was the worst enemy of a happy and respectable home.

We hitched our team to the grass-hopper spring wagon and set out on our journey. It was a warm, hazy Indian-summer day in November. As we passed "the mill" we saw the Silent Woman looking out of the little window of her room above the blacksmith shop—a low, weather-stained, frame building, hard by the main road, with a narrow hanging stair on the side of it.

"She keeps watch by the window when she ain't travellin'," said Uncle Peabody. "Knows all that's goin' on—that woman—knows who goes to the village an' how long they stay. When Grimshaw goes by they say she bustles off down the road in her rags. She looks like a sick dog herself, but I've heard that she keeps that room o' hers just as neat as a pin."

Near the village we passed a smart-looking buggy, drawn by a spry-footed horse in shiny harness. Then I noticed with a pang that our wagon was covered with dry mud and that our horses were rather bony and our harness a kind of lead color. So I was in an humble state of mind when we entered the village.

There was a crowd of men and women in front of Mr. Wright's office and through its open door I saw many of his fellow townsmen. We waited at the door for a few minutes. I crowded in while Uncle Peabody stood talking to a villager. The Senator caught sight of me and came to my side and put his hand on my head and said:

"Hello, Bart! How you've grown! and how handsome you look! Where's your uncle?"

"He's there by the door," I answered.

"Well, he's go and see him," Mr. Wright was stouter and grayer and grander than when I had seen him last. He was dressed in black broadcloth and wore a big beaver hat and high collar and his hair was almost white. I remember vividly his clear, kindly, gray eyes and ruddy cheeks.

"Baynes, I'm glad to see you," he said heartily. "Did ye bring me any jerked meat?"

"Didn't think of it," said Uncle Peabody. "But I've got a nice young doe all jerked an' if you're fond o' jerk I'll bring ye down some to-morrow."

"I'd like to take some to Washington, but I wouldn't have you bring it so far."

"I'd like to bring it—I want a chance to talk with ye for half an hour or such a matter," said my uncle. "I've got a little trouble on my hands."

The Senator took us into his office and introduced us to the leading men of the county.

"Here," said the Senator as he put his hand on my head, "is a coming man in the Democratic party."

The great men laughed at my blushing and we came away with a deep sense of pride in us. At last I felt equal to the ordeal of meeting the Dunkelbergs. My uncle must have shared my feeling, for, to my delight, he went straight to the basement store above which was the modest sign: "H. Dunkelberg, Produce."

"Well I swan!" said the merchant in the treble voice which I remembered so well. "This is Bart and Peabody! How are you?"

"Pretty well," I answered, my uncle being too slow of speech to suit my sense of propriety. "How is Sally?"

The two men laughed heartily, much to my embarrassment.

"He's getting right down to business," said my uncle.

"I'm not afraid of him."

We kissed each other and, again, that well-remembered touch of her hair upon my face! But the feel of her warm lips upon my own—that was so different and so sweet to remember in the lonely days that followed! Fast flows the river to the sea when youth is sailing on it. They had shoved me out of the quiet cove into the swift current—those dear, kindly, thoughtless people. Sally ran away into the house as their laughter continued and my uncle and I walked down the street. How happy I was!

I observed with satisfaction that the village boys did not make fun of me when I passed them as they did when I wore the petticoat trousers. Mr. and Mrs. Wright came along with the crowd, by and by, and Colonel Medad Moody. We had supper with the Senator on the seat with us. He and my uncle began to talk about the tightness of money and the banking laws and I remember a remark of my uncle, for there was that in his tone which I could never forget:

"We poor people are trusting you to look out for us—we poor people are trusting you to see that we get treated fair. We're havin' a hard time."

My uncle told him about the note and the visit of Mr. Grimshaw and of his threats and upbraidings.

"Did he say that in Bart's hearing?" asked the Senator.

"Ayes—right out plain."

"Too bad! I'm going to tell you frankly, Baynes, that the best thing I know about you is your conduct toward this boy. I like it. The next best thing is the fact that you signed the note. It was bad business but it was good Christian conduct to help your friend. Don't regret it. You were poor and of an age when the boy's pranks were troublesome to both of you, but you took him in. I'll lend you the interest and try to get another holder for the mortgage on one condition. You must let me attend to Bart's schooling. I want to be boss about that. We have a great schoolmaster in Canton and when Bart is a little older I want him to go there to school. I'll try to find him a place where he can work for his board."

"We'll miss Bart but we'll be tickled to death—there's no two ways about that," said Uncle Peabody.

The Senator tested my arithmetic and grammar and geography as we rode along in the darkness and said by and by:

"You'll have to work hard, Bart. You'll have to take your book into the field as I did. After every row of corn I learned a rule of syntax or arithmetic or a fact in geography while I rested, and my thought and memory took hold of it as I plied the hoe. I don't want you to stop the reading, but from now on you must spend half of every evening on your lessons."

As I was going to bed the Senator called me to him and said:

"I shall be gone when you are up in the morning. It may be a long time before I see you; I shall leave something for you in a sealed envelope with your name on it. You are not to open the envelope until you go away to school. I know how you will feel that first day. When night falls you will think of your aunt and uncle and be very lonely. When you go to your room for the night I want you to sit down all by yourself and open the envelope and read what I shall write. They will be, I think, the most impressive words you ever read. You will think them over but you will not understand them for a long time. Ask every wise man you meet to explain them to you, for all your happiness will depend upon your understanding of those few words in the envelope."

In the morning Aunt Deel put it in my hands.

"I wonder what in the world he wrote there—ayes!" said she. "We must keep it careful—ayes!—I'll put it in my trunk an' give it to ye when ye go to Canton to school."

"Has Mr. Wright gone?" I asked rather sadly.

"Ayes! Land o' mercy! He went away long before daylight with a lot o' jerked meat in a pack basket—ayes! Yer uncle is goin' down to the village to see 'bout the mortgage this afternoon, ayas!"

It was a Saturday and I spent its hours cording wood in the shed, pausing now and then for a look into my grammar.

What a day it was!—the first of many like it. I never think of those days without saying to myself: "What a God's blessing a man like Silas Wright can be in the community in which his heart and soul are as an open book!"

As the evening came on I took a long look at my cords. The shed was nearly half full of them. Four rules of syntax, also, had been carefully stored away in my brain. I said them over as I hurried down into the pasture with old Shep and brought in the cows. I got through milking just as Uncle Peabody came. I saw with joy that his face was cheerful.

"Tip!" he shouted as he stopped his team at the barn door, where Aunt Deel and I were standing. "We ain't got much to worry about now. I've got the interest money right here in my pocket."

We unhitched and went in to supper. I was hoping that Aunt Deel would speak of my work but she seemed not to think of it.

I went out on the porch and stood looking down with a sad countenance. Aunt Deel followed me.

"We, Bart!" she exclaimed. "You're too tired to eat—ayes! Be ye sick?" I shook my head.

"Peabody," she called, "this boy has worked like a beaver every minute since you left—ayes he has! I never see anything to beat it—never! I want you to come right out into the woodshed an' see what he's done—this minute—ayes!"

I followed them into the shed.

"Why of all things!" my uncle exclaimed. "He's worked like a naller, ain't he?"

There were tears in his eyes when he took my hand in his rough palm and squeezed it and said:

"Sometimes I wish ye was little again so I could take ye up in my arms an' kiss ye just as I used to. Horace Dunkelberg says that you're the best-lookin' boy he ever see."

I repeated the rules I had learned as we went to the table.

"I'm goin' to be like Silas Wright if I can," I added.

"That's the idee!" said Uncle Peabody. "You keep on as you've started an' everybody'll milk into your pail."

I kept on—not with the vigor of that first day with its new inspiration—but with growing strength and effectiveness. Nights and mornings and Saturdays I worked with a will and my book in my pocket or at the side of the field and was, I know, a help of some value on the farm. My scholarship improved rapidly and that year I went about as far as I could hope to go in the little school at Leonard's Corners.

"I wouldn't wonder if of Kate was right about our boy," said Aunt Deel one day when she saw me with my book in the field.

I began to know that that of Kate had somehow been at work in my soul—subconsciously as I would now put it. I was trying to put truth into the prophecy. As I look at the whole matter these days I can see that Mr. Grimshaw himself was a help no less important to me, for it was a sharp spur with which he continued to prod us.

CHAPTER VI.

My Second Peril.

One day Mr. Grimshaw came out in the field to see my uncle. They walked away to the shade of a tree while the hired man and I went on with the hoeing. I could hear the harsh voice of the money-lender speaking in loud and angry tones and presently he went away.

"What's the rip?" I asked as my uncle returned looking very sober.

"We won't talk about it now," he answered.

In the candle-light of the evening Uncle Peabody said:

"Grimshaw has demanded his mortgage money an' he wants it in gold coin. We'll have to git it some way, I dunno how."

"Why of all things!" my aunt exclaimed. "How are we goin' to git all that money—these hard times—ayes! I'd like to know!"

"Well, I can't tell ye," said Uncle Peabody. "I guess he can't forgive us for savin' Rodney Barnes."

"What did he say?" I asked.

"Why, he says we hadn't no business to hire a man to help us. He says you an' me ought to do all the work here. He thinks I ought to took you out o' school long ago."

"I can stay out o' school and keep on with my lessons," I said.

"Not an' please him. He was mad when he see ye with a book in yer hand out there in the corn-field."

What were we to do now? I spent the first sad night of my life undoing the plans which had been so dear to me but not so dear as my aunt and uncle. I decided to give all my life and strength to the saving of the farm. I would still try to be great, but not as great as the Senator.

"Tip!" he shouted as he stopped his team at the barn door, where Aunt Deel and I were standing. "We ain't got much to worry about now. I've got the interest money right here in my pocket."

We unhitched and went in to supper. I was hoping that Aunt Deel would speak of my work but she seemed not to think of it.

I went out on the porch and stood looking down with a sad countenance. Aunt Deel followed me.

"We, Bart!" she exclaimed. "You're too tired to eat—ayes! Be ye sick?" I shook my head.

"Peabody," she called, "this boy has worked like a beaver every minute since you left—ayes he has! I never see anything to beat it—never! I want you to come right out into the woodshed an' see what he's done—this minute—ayes!"

MORE GOOD SALADS.

Fruit and vegetables are absolutely essential to good health and should not be considered an extravagance. This does not mean buying them out of season, however, for there are always fruits to be had in the markets that are reasonable in price and are nutritious.

Mock Lobster Salad.—Mix two cupsful of cold flaked cooked haddock with two cupsful of celery, add two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped pimento, season with salt, paprika and add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and let stand half an hour. Add a cupful of mayonnaise and serve at once. Garnish with lemon slices decorated with paprika.

New York Salad.—Arrange four slices of pineapple on lettuce leaves. Cut one-half cupful of celery into long slender strips and mix with one-half cupful of nut meats. Pile in the center of the pineapple and garnish with four sections freed from its membrane, laid symmetrically on the pineapple. The dressing is passed separately.

Marshmallow Salad.—Cut two oranges in halves, remove the pulp carefully leaving the cups. Cut a slice of pineapple and eight marshmallows in bits, chop one-fourth cupful of nuts, skin and seed one-half cupful of white grapes, mix with the orange pulp and a little dressing. Fill the cups, cover with dressing and cross with two strips of canned pimento. Place a half grape on the center of the salad and bits of chopped parsley between the strips of pimento.

Nut Fruit Salad.—Take one cupful of cooked peas, one cupful of celery, cut in cubes, one cupful of walnut meats and one cupful of shredded orange. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Chicken Salad.—Cut chicken into bits, using two cupfuls, add one cupful of celery, one cupful of sliced cucumber and two tablespoonfuls of capers. Season with salt and pepper and mix with a boiled or mayonnaise dressing to which an equal quantity of whipped cream has been added. Serve on lettuce.

Friendship supple the place of everything to those who know how to make the right use of it; it makes your prosperity more happy and it makes your adversity more easy.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Gelatin is an easily digested food and one especially good for desserts after a hearty meal.

Jellied Prunes.—Wash one pound of prunes, soak in cold water overnight and cook until tender; cut each prune into three or four pieces (discarding the stones). There should be about five cupfuls of the prunes and liquid. Dissolve one package of gelatin softened in one cupful of cold water in the hot prune juice; add one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of orange marmalade or the juice of one lemon; stir until it begins to thicken, then turn into a mold. Set aside in a cool place. When unmolded serve with sugar and cream or a boiled custard.

Date Cornmeal Pudding.—Scald one pint of milk and pour over one-half cupful of cornmeal, add one tablespoonful of butter, a cupful of sugar, half a teaspoonful of cinnamon and three-fourths of a cupful of dates cut in pieces. Lastly add two well-beaten eggs and bake in a buttered baking dish until the consistency of ordinary custard. Serve with a hard sauce.

Casserole of Rice and Veal.—Line a mold slightly greased with steamed rice. Fill the center with two cupfuls of cold cooked, chopped veal, seasoned with salt, pepper, celery salt, cayenne, onion and lemon juice. Add one-fourth of a cupful of cracker crumbs, one egg slightly beaten and enough hot stock or water to moisten. Cover the meat with rice, cover the rice with a buttered paper to keep out the moisture, and steam 45 minutes. Serve on a platter surrounded with tomato sauce.

Tomato Sauce.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, and when well-blended and cooked add one cupful of strained tomato which has been cooked with a slice of onion for flavor. Cook all together, add one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper.

Cream of Celery With Almonds.—Cook two cupfuls of chopped celery until tender, then drain. Add a tablespoonful of corn starch mixed with a cupful of cream and one cupful of almond meats blanched and chopped. Cook until thick. Season with salt and paprika.

Peach Custard.—Arrange alternate layers of cake and sections of canned peaches in a dish and cover with a boiled custard. Bananas, sweet oranges or preserves of various kinds may be used in place of the peaches.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISSONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

High Cost of Eating.

"Is the ban off on meat?" asked the stout man in the restaurant?

"It is, sir," replied the polite waiter. "Bring me three dollars' worth of beef, then."

"Sorry, sir. We don't serve any half portions."

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says: "Take for example, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

All lights are equipped to turn on without matches, while the gas range is operated exactly as are similar ranges in city homes everywhere. This is unquestionably the most desirable, practical and economical lighting and cooking service available for country home use—a claim amply attested by the fact that the Carbide Plant always has and still does out-sell all rival "light systems" after fifteen years of strenuous competition.

These plants are sold direct from the factory to you by a field representative; by this you save the dealer's profits and the cost of a plant complete with stove, iron and fixtures and installed ready for use, is very low. Liberty Bonds accepted at par.

DREADFUL COUGH CURED

A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olsen, Marysville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy Jezz caught a severe cold and coughed dreadfully for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it is just fine for children."

It is claimed that had he been bitten in the palm of the hand death would undoubtedly have followed, the poison of the tarantula being so deadly.

HAS PLAN TO AID RETURNING YANKS

Senator Nye's Bill Patterned After S. A. T. C. System.

OFFERS EDUCATION TO MEN

Soldiers Who Were Unable to Finish Their Studies Could Attend a School or University and Be Paid $30 a Month.

Madison—A bill to aid the returning soldiers in completing their educational courses, broken off by entrance of the war, and to help others secure an education which will assist them in life will be offered in the senate this week by Senator R. J. Nye of Superior.

The idea of the bill offered is taken from the educational feature of the S. A. T. C. system. Under that plan soldiers were sent to the university and normal schools, given special training along certain lines and paid a salary of $30 a month while attending. The Nye bill contains the same feature. To Wisconsin soldiers returning who desire an education in university and normal schools he proposes to send them to school and pay them $30 a month, as was done under the S. A. T. C. system.

"I think the state of Wisconsin wants to do something of real service for its soldiers who are returning," said State Senator R. J. Nye. "Many of these boys who entered the service were students in the university, in the normal schools, and some were seniors in the high schools of this state. Their educational program of life was broken in. This bill will give them assistance in completing their educational program and will fit them to become better citizens."

Several bills have been introduced in both houses of the legislature to aid returning soldiers. Senator Oscar L. Olson of Blanchardville has offered a measure to have the state pay the insurance of soldiers for a period of two years. Senator L. E. Cunningham of Beloit has offered a bill to have the state advance three months' pay to honorably discharged soldiers. Governor Philipp's message to the legislature showed that 118,000 soldiers have gone direct into the service from Wisconsin. He declares, however, that a conservative estimate shows that 10,000 additional men from Wisconsin went into the service in the states of Illinois, Minnesota and Michigan, and perhaps from other commonwealths. This gives a grand total of 128,000 Wisconsin men in the service. Assuming an average three months' pay of $100, which military men estimate to be conservative, the expenditure would amount to $12,800,000. Senator Cunningham points out, however, that congress is moving slow and would reimburse the state for the amount expended.

Both houses of the legislature have adopted a resolution asking congress to pass a law giving three months' pay to returning soldiers upon their honorable discharge. Another bill has been offered which provides that returning soldiers shall be given educational instruction in the higher institutions of Wisconsin without tuition. Another bill which is pending before the senate provides that soldiers in the world war shall be given preference in the making of appointments from civil service lists. Senator Schultz has a measure which seeks to have the state, county and municipality furnish employment to soldiers who are unable to find employment otherwise.

Several measures have been offered upon the subject of the erection of memorials to soldiers of the world war. Senator A. J. Pullen of Fond du Lac has a bill which permits counties and municipalities to appropriate money for the erection of a memorial. Senator Roy P. Wilcox of Eau Claire is the author of a bill appropriating $60,000 for the erection of armories to the state, and that such armories should contain a roll call of the soldiers who entered the service from that locality. Senator Claire B. Bird of Wausau has a bill for the erection of social center community houses which shall be dedicated to the honor of the soldiers from that community in the world war. One assembly bill provides that dentists and nurses who did service in the world war shall be permitted to return to this state and continue to practice their profession without the formality of a required examination to obtain a license.

Governor Philipp will receive this week the Donnelly bill, which has already passed both houses of the legislature, providing that municipalities shall furnish free the use of auditoriums to welcome returning soldiers. The governor will approve the measure.

New Bills Offered in Assembly. Nolan—Extending the right to file indeterminate permits and surrender franchises to interurbans which have not previously come under the law.

Olmstead—Permits the removal and quarantine of animals alleged to be afflicted with tuberculosis, which now ought to be slaughtered under the law.

Lorfeld—Appropriating to John Lorfeld $200 expenses in an election contest.

Porter—Permitting the Third school district setting for the settlement of disputed questions.

Porter—Compelling personal service as a school district meeting.

Ballard—Repealing the state council of defense act.

Knappe—Making gross negligence the only bar to recovery in actions against a railroad corporation for negligence.

Czarvinski—Giving the state board of health control over all water and ice supplies.

Bowman—Permitting the use of trading stamps.

$38,000,000 U. S. Road Fund.

With more than $48,000,000 now appropriated by congress for federal aid in road building, less than forty-five miles of roads have been completed under the federal aid plan, according to the division of public works and construction development of the department of labor.

Such states as have been allotted federal aid on approved projects, the department submits, are in a position to give general business a great stimulus and effectively to combat the ill-effects of general unemployment by immediately getting the road-building work under way.

In the middle West the status of road-building projects in so far as they come under the federal aid arrangement is as follows:

Wisconsin—Projects approved by the federal government, 48; mileage, 2,915; estimated cost, $1,663,467; federal aid, $554,643; projects and mileage completed, none; total allotment of federal aid, $1,276,900; paid to state from federal fund, $72,237.

Illinois—Projects approved by federal government, 5; mileage, 178.5; estimated cost, $2,946,311; federal aid, $1,321,000; projects and mileage completed, none; total allotment of federal aid, $2,195,322.

Indiana—Projects approved by federal government, 7; mileage, 30.23; estimated cost, $797,430; federal aid, $302,300; projects and mileage completed, none; total allotment of federal aid, $1,333,440.

Normal Presidents' New Policies.

Presidents of the new state normal schools in semi-annual meeting here with the state board of normal school regents, recommended policies as to conduct of summer sessions, three and four year training courses for teachers and a uniform salary schedule. Increases in salaries were recommended, but particularly it was suggested that a uniform schedule based on subject taught, previous experience and training necessary to teach the subject, be adopted so applicants would know what their opportunities were upon entering the Wisconsin normal school system.

Building projects for recommendation to the state board of education were discussed. Though the regents and presidents would not commit themselves, these are said to be a science hall at Superior, a training department at Oshkosh, a commercial school at Whitewater and a training school at River Falls.

Hope to Control Packing Industry.

The Wisconsin legislature is determined to enact some measure to control the meat packing industry in Wisconsin and the sale of sites to packers of other states within Wisconsin. C. Bennett has asked for the appointment of a legislative committee of seven members to make an investigation but has served notice that he is working on a bill which will fully control the packers. Senator Arnold introduced a bill raising the income tax exemption for unmarried men to $1,500 and for a husband and wife to $2,000.

$100 for Returned Soldiers.

A bill authorizing Wisconsin cities by a majority vote of their common councils, to grant a sum not exceeding $100 to each former employee upon his return from military service, has been drawn by Assistant City Attorney Mattison of Milwaukee. Alderman John Koerner recently introduced a resolution in the common council providing that municipal employees should be given $100 by the city of Milwaukee upon their discharge from the army or navy. It was held at that time that the resolution was not legal.

Opposition to Dog Tax Bill.

There will be much opposition to the Kandutsch bill offered at this session of the legislature for taxing dogs. The measure provides for a $2 annual tax on males and a $4 tax on females. This bill has the backing of the Wisconsin Sheep Growers' association, which claims that many sheep are killed by dogs. Under the terms of the bill, the license money collected in each county would be used to pay a farmer who had suffered damage by dogs. The bill has been before several recent sessions of the legislature.

Ask Inquiry Into Lower Prices.

Herman Roethel, Kiel, offered a resolution in the assembly requesting the federal trade commission to investigate the cheese industry and ascertain why prices have dropped from 35 and 38 cents to 27 and 28 cents, when warehouses are bulging, and people in Europe starving, and while farmers are being charged wartime prices for feed. J. F. Buckley protested against inquiries into food prices going down. "I'm glad they are going down; keep 'em there," he said.

Protest Theatricals in German.

Resolutions protesting against a proposed revival of theatrical performances in the German language by a stock company at a Milwaukee theater were made by the board of managers of the Wisconsin Society Sons of the American Revolution.

New Measure in the House.

Porter—Compelling personal service as a school district meeting.

Ballard—Repealing the state council of defense act.

Knappe—Making gross negligence the only bar to recovery in actions against a railroad corporation for negligence.

Czarvinski—Giving the state board of health control over all water and ice supplies.

Bowman—Permitting the use of trading stamps.

LAND OF WEALTH

Western Canada Has Unbounded Possibilities.

Glorious Opportunities for the Stock Raiser, the Wheat Grower, and the Mixed Farmer—its Fields to Feed the World.

Before there were any cattle in Alberta, or it was known that it was possible to feed them outside all the year round, the Indian hunters could always find the buffalo during the winter months pasturing in the foothills. In the summer the herds wandered on the plains and fed on the prairie grasses. The plains have since become grain fields, but the foothill district extending north from the international boundary for a thousand miles will always be a natural feeding ground for live stock. In the southern part of Alberta the altitude is greater than in the more northerly districts, but while the herds in the south have winter tracts of treeless pasturage, in the north from Red Deer on into the Peace river country there are more trees, a richer vegetation and more natural shelter.

Those who have been advocating stock raising and mixed farming for the past few years point to the number of hogs marketed as an evidence of the increased production of the Western Provinces. They may also take credit for the increase in cattle and sheep, which is very great, but perhaps not so marked as what has been accomplished in hog raising. For the first six months alone last year about half a million hogs were shipped from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. A very conservative estimate value of these animals to the farmer would be $25.00 a head.

The Canadian West is fast forging to the front of the wheat-producing countries of the world, and "No. 1 hard" is without doubt the best wheat in the market today. When it is considered that the three hundred and forty-three thousand bushel crop of 1915 was from only eleven million acres of her hundreds of millions of acres, it gives an idea of what her future will be.

It is felt, however, that on account of the great money there will undoubtedly be in growing wheat during the next few years there is a possibility that farmers may be tempted to drop the growing of coarser grains, which might result in less stock being raised. Every effort is being made by the Agricultural Departments of the various provinces to impress on the farmers that forage crops and coarse feed in abundance mean production of flesh and milk, and that in the long run the great future of the Western Provinces lies in mixed farming which will find her prosperity on a more enduring basis.

Mixed farming has always been the rule in the Eastern Provinces where the formation of the land invites variety of crop, but it has not been as common in the Western Provinces, though the practice has grown in recent years. Hitherto the man raising wheat from the rich soil has purchased most of his household food and necessities, his energies being devoted to getting every possible bushel of grain out of every foot of his land, and he has paid prices for his supplies that have made a big dent in his profits. It has now dawned on him that he can raise vegetables and poultry, and supply his own table; that with very little effort he can raise a lot of garden produce and in a very simple manner solve his own problem of the cost of living. Further, that there is an increasing market for domestic necessities such as poultry, eggs, butter, milk and cheese, which command very high prices, and that there are other roads to prosperity besides that through the wheat field.

In 1916 Canada imported 7,989,203 pounds of butter, most of it from as far away as New Zealand, and for the first time in 60 years failed to ship butter to England, a condition due to the home consumption, which is estimated to be increasing at the rate of $3,000,000 worth a year, being greatly in excess of the increased supply. This condition has brought about a change in farming methods that is far-reaching, and will result in greatly increased production all round of the necessities demanded by the home market.

Natural Resources.

One of the most important considerations to the farmer is fuel. In northern Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, where portions of the country are well wooded, the settler has little difficulty in getting all the wood he requires and thousands of men find employment in the winter cutting wood, which is shipped all over the prairie portions of the provinces. There is an abundance of coal throughout the country. It is estimated that the coal deposits in Alberta cover over 81,000 square miles and represent an available tonnage of over ten hundred thousand million tons, while those in Saskatchewan cover an area of 13,000 miles, containing over 50,000,000 tons. In Manitoba the coal reserve is not as large, but even there 160,000,000 tons is considered a conservative estimate. At the present time these deposits are only worked to a small extent, but there is no doubt that they will be a great feature in upbuilding the country and will exercise a powerful influence on its commerce.

It is a common thing in the coal districts for farmers to get their coal supply off their own farm. Near Edmonton, for example, the farmers not only supply themselves, but they carry coal to the city market and find it a considerable source of revenue to the winter time. The Edmonton coal fields under and around the city have an estimated content of sixty thousand million tons. Farmers sell the coal at $4 a ton for domestic use.

The pioneer of Western Canada knew little of the enjoyments of life, compared with the farmer in that country today. The continual extension of railway lines affords facilities undreamed of a few years ago, closing up the gaps of communication, creating immense business for the East in the West and the West in the East, and drawing the farmer all the time nearer to the zones of commerce. In creating wider markets the railways are doing more than any other agency can do for Western Canada and the country as a whole. The products of the farms, which are now readily marketed, and the vast train of employment that follows the enlargement of the farming industry, is creating new agricultural centers and causing towns and cities of importance to grow all along its lines.

An admirable system of agricultural instruction has been developed through the efforts of the Dominion government and the various provincial Departments of Agriculture. This forms part of the educational system of Western Canada and is doing much for all branches of agriculture. Experimental farms have been established at various points in the provinces, which have done wonders in developing improved methods of farming.

The result has been a great awakening to the necessity of better methods of tillage, scientific stock raising and dairying. Farmers are beginning to realize that to get what they are entitled to out of the land, they must adopt scientific methods, and as a result, careful seed selection, proper rotation and summer fallow is the order of the day. Under the favorable conditions generally anticipated, prospects point to an all round increase in production that will leave a great deal of money in the hands of the western farmer this year, and prosperity for Western Canada as a whole. It will be years before Europe will make up arrears in agricultural production, caused by the enforced idleness and wholesale destruction, and Western Canada will play a big part in filling the void.

The result of the continued shortage in cattle, the future price of beef and the solution of the perplexing problem of feeding the world are vital questions uppermost in the minds of many thinking people today.

There is no doubt that the wide acres of Western Canada can, and will, be made to play an important part in bringing about a proper balance in supply and demand. In the northern parts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and in Alberta are many thousands of acres of the richest pasture in the world, well watered and treated by the sunniest of climates. These rolling hills for the greater part are still unpeopled and untroubled by the hoofs of domestic animals.

One of the causes assigned for the decline in stock-raising is the reduction in the areas available for grazing on account of so many big ranches being converted into farms. Experiments conducted at Vermilion, Alberta, would rather go to show that the old grazing grounds were too large, and that the feeding is really better when the animal is confined to a comparatively limited area, providing the pasturage is of the right kind and there is plenty of water.—Advertisement.

Forty Five Years of Success The astonishing Record of PERUNA

Not a cure-all, but a rational remedy for catarrh and all inflammation and congestion of the mucous membranes.

Catarrh attacks the mucous linings, in any organ, in any part of the body. It is not, as some imagine, confined to the nose and throat, although nasal catarrh is the most common form and afflicts many people.

Unchecked catarrh soon breaks down the tissue and destroys the organs or part. Evidence of the ravages of catarrh are all around us. Without desire to frighten anyone, we say: "Guard yourself against catarrh as you would against the dread plague. Fortify your system. Take Peruna."

Instead of trying to cover his confusion, the hostess called attention to it pointedly by looking down the table and saying loudly:

Meetings of the body of delegates shall be held at the seat of the league or at such other places as may be found convenient, and shall consist of representatives of the high contracting parties. Each of the high contracting parties shall have one vote, but may have not more than three representatives.

Article III.

The executive council shall consist of representatives of the United States of America, the British empire, France, Italy and Japan, together with representatives of four other states, members of the league. The selection of these four states shall be made by the body of delegates on such principles and in such manner as they think fit. Article VIII.

The high contracting parties recognize the principle that the maintenance of peace will require the reduction of national armaments to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common consent of international obligations, having special regard to the geographical situation and circumstances of each state; and the executive council shall formulate plans for effecting such reduction.

The executive council shall also determine for the consideration and action of the several governments what military equipment and armaments are fair and reasonable in proportion to the scale of forces laid down in the program of disarmament; and these limits, when adopted, shall not be exceeded without the permission of the executive council.

The high contracting parties agree that the manufacture by private enterprise of munitions and implements of war lends itself to grave objections, and direct the executive council to advise how the evil effects attendant upon such manufacture can be prevented, due regard being had to the necessities of those countries which are not able to manufacture for themselves the munitions and implements of war necessary for their safety.

Article IX.

A permanent commission shall be constituted to advise the league on the execution of the provisions of Article Eight and on military and naval questions generally.

Article X.

The high contracting parties shall undertake to respect and preserve, as against external aggression, the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all states, members of the league. In case of any such aggression, or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the executive council shall advise upon the means by which the obligation shall be fulfilled.

Article XI.

Any war or threat of war, whether immediately affecting any of the high contracting parties or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to the league, and the high contracting parties reserve the right to take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations.

Article XII.

The high contracting parties agree that should disputes arise between them which cannot be adjusted by the ordinary processes of diplomacy, they will in no case resort to war without previously submitting the questions and matters involved either to arbitration or to inquiry by the executive council, and until three months after the award by the arbitrators or a recommendation by the executive council; and that they will not even resort to war against a member of the league which complies with the award of arbitration or the recommendation of the executive council.

Article XIII.

The high contracting parties, whenever any dispute or difficulty shall arise between them which they recognize to be suitable for arbitration, and which cannot be satisfactorily settled by diplomacy, will submit the whole matter to arbitration. For this purpose the court of arbitration to which the case is referred shall be the court agreed on by the parties or stipulated in any convention existing between them. The high contracting parties agree that they will carry out in full good faith any award that may be rendered. In the event of any failure to carry out the award, the executive council shall propose what steps can best be taken to give effect thereto.

Article XIV.

The executive council shall formulate plans for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice and this court shall, when established, be competent to hear and determine any matter which the parties recognize as suitable for the submission to it for arbitration under the foregoing article.

Article XV.

If there should arise between states members of the league any dispute likely to lead to rupture, which is not submitted to arbitration as above, the high contracting parties agree that they will refer the matter to the executive council; either party to the dispute may give notice of the existence of the dispute to the secretary general, who will make all necessary arrangements for a full investigation and consideration thereof. For this purpose the parties agree to communicate to the secretary general, as promptly as possible, statements of their case with all the relevant facts and papers, and the executive council may forthwith direct the publication thereof.

Article XVI.

Where the efforts of the council lead to the settlement of the dispute, a statement shall be published indicating the nature of the dispute and the terms of settlement, together with such explanations as may be appropriate. If the dispute has not been settled, a report by the council shall be published, setting forth with all necessary facts and explanations the recommendations which the council thinks just and proper for the settlement of the dispute. If the report is unanimously agreed to by the members of the council other than the parties to the dispute, the high contracting parties agree that they will not go to war with any party which complies with the recommendations, and that if any party shall refuse to comply, the council shall propose measures necessary to give effect to the recommendations.

Article XVII.

If the dispute has not been settled, a report by the council shall be published, setting forth with all necessary facts and explanations the recommendations which the council thinks just and proper for the settlement of the dispute. If the report is unanimously agreed to by the members of the council other than the parties to the dispute, the high contracting parties agree that they will not go to war with any party which complies with the recommendations, and that if any party shall refuse to comply, the council shall propose measures necessary to give effect to the recommendations.

Article XVIII.

Amendments to this covenant will take effect when ratified by the states whose representatives compose the executive council and by three-fourths of the states whose representatives compose the body of delegates.

body of delegates. The dispute shall be referred at the request of either party to the dispute, provided that such request must be made within fourteen days after the submission of the dispute. In any case referred to the body of delegates all the provisions of this article and of Article Twelve relating to the action and powers of the executive council shall apply to the action and powers of the body of delegates.

Article XVI.

Should any of the high contracting parties break or disregard its covenants under Article XII it shall thereby ipso facto be deemed to have committed an act of war against all the other members of the league, which hereby undertake immediately to subject it to the severest military and naval force, the prohibition of all intercourse between their nationals and the nationals of the covenant-breaking state, and the prevention of all financial, commercial or personal intercourse between the nationals of the covenant-breaking state and the nationals of any other state, whether a member of the league or not.

It shall be the duty of the executive council, in such case to recommend what military or naval force the members of the league shall severally contribute to the armed forces to be used to protect the covenants of the league.

Article XVII.

In the event of dispute between one state member of the league and another state which is not a member of the league the high contracting parties agree that the state or states not members of the league shall be invited to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purposes of such dispute upon such conditions as the executive council may deem just and upon acceptance of any such invitation the above provisions shall be applied with such modifications as may be deemed necessary by the league.

In the event of a power so invited refusing to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purposes of the dispute, the executive council may take such action and make such recommendations as it shall deem just and proper.

Article XVIII.

The high contracting parties agree that the league shall be entrusted with general supervision of the trade in arms and ammunition with the countries in which the production of such arms is necessary in the common interest.

Article XIX.

To those colonies and territories which as a consequence of the late war have ceased to be under the sovereignty of the states which formerly governed them and which are inhabited by peoples not yet able to stand by themselves under the strenuous conditions of the modern world, there should be placed, as a safeguard for the wellbeing and development of such peoples, a sacred trust of civilization and that securities for the performance of this trust should be embodied in the constitution of the league.

The best method of giving practical effect to this principle is that the tutelage of such peoples should be entrusted to advanced nations who by reason of their resources, their experience or their geographical position, can best undertake this responsibility, and that this tutelage should be exercised by them as mandatory on behalf of the league.

Certain communities formerly belonging to the Turkish empire have reached a stage of development which their existence as independent nations can be provisionally recognized, subject to the rendering of administrative advice and assistance by mandatory power until such time as they are able to stand alone. The wishes of the communities must be a principal consideration in the selection of the mandatory power.

There are territories, such as southwest Africa and certain of the south Pacific islands, which, owing to the sparseness of their population, or their small size, or their remoteness from the centers of civilization, or other geographical conditions, are best administered under the mandatory system, and that the tutelage should be exercised by them as mandatory on behalf of the league.

The high contracting parties will endeavor to secure and maintain fair and humane conditions of labor for men, women and children, both in their own countries and in all countries to which their commercial and industrial relations extend, and to that end agree to establish as part of the organization of the league a permanent bureau of labor.

Article XXI.

The high contracting parties agree that provision shall be made through the instrumentality of the league to secure and maintain fair and equitable treatment for the commerce of all states members of the league, having in mind, among other things, special arrangements with regard to the necessities of the regions devastated during the war of 1914-1918.

Article XXII.

The high contracting parties agree to place under the control of the league of international bureaus general treaties if the parties to such treaties consent. Furthermore, they agree that all such international bureaus to be constituted in future shall be placed under control of the league.

Article XXIII.

The high contracting parties agree that every treaty or international engagement entered into hereafter by any state member of the league shall be forthwith registered with the secretary general, and as soon as possible published by him, and that no such treaty or international engagement shall be binding until so registered.

Article XXIV.

It shall be the right of the body of delegates from time to time to advise the reconsideration by states members of the league of treaties which have become inapplicable, and of international conditions of which the continuance may endanger the peace of the world.

Article XXV.

The high contracting parties severally agree that the present covenant is accepted as abrogating all obligations inter se which are inconsistent with the terms thereof, and solemnly engage that they will not hereafter enter into any engagements inconsistent with the terms thereof. In case any of the powers signatory hereto or subsequently admitted to the league shall, before coming a party to this covenant, have entered into any obligations which are inconsistent with the terms of this covenant, it shall be the duty of such power to take immediate steps to procure its release from such obligations.

Article XXVI.

Amendments to this covenant will take effect when ratified by the states whose representatives compose the executive council and by three-fourths of the states whose representatives compose the body of delegates.

Perilous Possibility. "According to the theory of eugenics," said the presiding elder, "if four forbears had exercised sufficient care and judgment in mating, you might today be the proud father of a family of giants."

"Good Lord, parson! Hold on! hold on!" cried Gap Johnson of Kumpus Ridge. "As it is, my fourteen children eat me out of house and home and lick me every time they take the trouble to team up and gang me. And burping if I see anything in that to be proud about, let alone having fourteen giants on my hands."—Kansas City Star.

One Change. "What will happen, do you think, after the country goes dry?" "I don't know exactly, but a lot of fellows probably won't find it as necessary to go to New York as they seem to now."

Weekly Health Talks GOING BACK TO NATURE

BY DR. W. LUCAS.

People get sick because they go away from Nature, and the only way to get well is to go back. Something grows out of the ground in the form of vegetation to cure almost every ill. Some of these vegetable growths are understood by man, and some are not. Animals, it would seem, know what to do when they are sick better than men and women. Observers have noted that a sick horse, dog or cat will stop eating food and seek out some vegetable growth in the field or yard, which, when found and eaten, often restores appetite and health. Haven't you seen these animals do this very thing yourself?

Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found the herbs and roots provided by Nature to overcome constipation, and he had these vegetables collected and made up of Mayapple, leaves of Aloe, root of Jalap, into little white sugar-coated pills, that he called Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. You must understand that when your intestines are stopped up, poisons and decayed matter are imprisoned in your system, and these are carried by the blood throughout your body. Thus does your head ache, you get dizzy, you can't sleep, your skin may break out, your appetite declines, you get tired and despondent. As a matter of fact, you may get sick all over. Don't you see how useless all this suffering is? All that is often needed is a few of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which he has placed in all drug stores for your convenience and health. Try them by all means. They are probably the very thing you need right now.
