MISS GROTH FOR SUPERINTENDENT

Miss Alva Groth is a graduate of the West Bend High School and of the Milwaukee Normal School. On account of her high standing as an educator she was appointed Superintendent of Schools in 1917 by State Supt. C. P. Cary to succeed Geo. T. Carlin, who resigned.

HARTFORD BOYS TELL OF ATTITUDE OF A BONE DRY NATION

The following poem clipped from the Hartford Press tells of the attitude the soldiers in France are taking toward making the nation bone dry, claiming they left their home town in good shape, and want to know why it is to be otherwise.

Don't Vote The Old Town Dry From far across the ocean We are sending an appeal About a thing that's going on, To tell the way we feel.

We left the good old U. S. A. To go, to do, or die, And since the boys have gone away They want to vote in France.

We left the town in damn good shape The day we said "Good-Bye" And we're coming back again 'Till 'Till Sweet'

Or know the reason why, We came over here to do a job And here we're going to stay Until everything is squared up In a "Yankee Doodle" way.

It makes us sure to hear 'em say (Well, I guess she's going dry—) And to think we cannot do a thing No matter how we try.

When we sailed away and came across We left our town to you; To take good care of everything Is what we expect you to do.

Don't put our home town on the bum While we're away in France. Why not wait till we all get back And give the boys a chance.

If they vote her dry and dim the lights And put the ban on beer, What are you going to tell the boys When we come from 'Over Here'?

When we get back and meet old friends, It will be a grand 'Hello' And I guess we'll all go straight to bed.

For there'll be no place to go. This is the vote all our Pals Who are fighting tooth and eye, For God's sake do us a favor. Don't Vote The Old Town Dry.

LOCAL BOYS ARRIVE FROM OVERSEAS

Sergeant Edwin Backus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Backus of this village returned home from overseas duty on Wednesday, from Camp Grant where he was honorably discharged. Edwin is the first Kewaskum boy to return home from the firing line in France.

He enlisted in Co. E, Pond du Lac on June 20th, 1916, and left for Camp Douglas on July 14th, the same year, from here he was sent to the Mexican border where he served until Feb. 17, 1917, when he returned home. After war broke out with Germany, he was again called to the colors, being on the reserve list of Company E, and assigned. He was assigned to Company M, of Pond du Lac, 5th Wisconsin, the company left for Camp Douglas on Aug. 16th, 1917, and in Sept. of the same year they were transferred to Camp Mac Arthur, Waco, Texas.

It was at this place where the 32nd division was organized consisting of Wisconsin and Michigan men. Co. M, was then changed to Co. D, 119th Machine Gun Battalion. After several months of training here the 32nd Division was sent overseas during the forepart of February 1918, landing in France on Feb. 24th, 1918, and went into training there until May 10th, when the first units of the division entered the front line trenches at Alsace.

The 32nd Division remained at the firing line until the armistice was signed on Nov. 11th. Sergt. Backus, however, remained there until Aug. 8th, when he was taken sick on account of drinking gassed water, after being at a base hospital for four and one-half months he was sent to the States, arriving at Newport News, Va., in Feb. 1919, and was discharged at Camp Grant on March 20th. Sergt. Backus was in the service just thirty-three months, during the time he was at the front he took part in many important battles. He has many interesting and thrilling stories to tell of the experiences that befell him and his company while in active service.

William Krahn, brother of Mrs. Adolph Backhaus of this village, arrived here on Wednesday evening from his home in Loyal, Wis. Mr. Krahn received his honorable discharge on March 13th at Camp Grant. He enlisted in the service in Marshfield on Sept. 1st, 1917, and left for Camp Douglas the same month, where he was assigned to the Headquarters Department 127th Inf. United States Military Band, in which he played a French horn. This band has a leader one of the best musicians and instructors in the country, Theodore Steinmetz of Marshfield. On Oct. 1st 1917 the company was sent to Camp Mac Arthur, Waco, Texas, where they remained for four months, when they were sent to Camp Merritt, New Jersey, from there they were sent overseas, landing in France on Feb. 27th, 1918, shortly after arriving overseas the band traveled through the greater part of France visiting all the most important cities playing concert music until the month of April when they were ordered to enter the front line trenches. As a musician he was not expected to take part in any of the actual fighting, it became his duty, however, to take care of the wounded soldiers who were lying on the battle field. Mr. Krahn stated that after one of the battles fought in which the Americans advanced eighteen miles, his regiment had picked up 1400 wounded soldiers in one day. He was at the front line trenches six months, when on Oct. 15th, 1918, while in the faithful performance of his duty, he was shot through the right leg just below the hip by a sharp shell, breaking the bone and inflicting a large flesh wound, he laid on the battle field for eight hours before medical aid could reach him, when he was taken to a base hospital where he remained until the 23rd day of Feb. when he was sent back to the States, arriving at New York on Feb. 22, from where he was transferred to Camp Merritt, New Jersey, then to Camp Grant, where he was finally released from further military service.

LOCAL GUARDS LOSE FAST GAME

The local city basket ball five went to Schleiserville last week Saturday evening where they met defeat at the hands of the strong A. C. team of that place by a score of 19 to 29, in what proved to be the hardest and best exhibition game of basket ball ever played on the Schleiserville floor. Both teams went into the game full of pep, with the strong determination of winning. The first half started off with lots of team work and sensational plays, neither side being able to score until after several minutes of play, the score being close throughout the first half and ended 12 to 16 with the Slinger team in the lead. In the second half the locals were only able to score seven points against the A. C.'s 13. Even though the Slinger team won by ten points, they openly admitted that the Kewaskum team was the first one they met this season who gave them the hardest fight thus far experienced. They credited the locals with being one of the cleanest bunch of players they had so far met. The large crowd which had assembled to witness the game, speaks very highly of our boys and felt satisfied with having been treated to a real game of basket ball so far witnessed upon their floor.

The Slinger team will play the local quintette a return game at the Opera House on Saturday evening, April 5th. This will be the closing game of the season, and promises to be doubly interesting, because two of the strongest teams of this county will clash in the championship game of the county. So if you are looking for a game full of pep, and team work, backed up with lots of excitement and some of the most sensational playing known to amateur basket ball, here is your chance, the last and only chance this season. Reserve your date for that night and be convinced.

WOUNDED MEN WERE BRAVE

Capt. Ulrich Sonn, who has just returned from France, and whose home is in Milwaukee, stated while on a visit with his brother Edward Senn at Campellsport, that the Base Hospital 22 of Milwaukee of which he was a member, had only one death from all the cases cared for, resulting from wounds received in action, the rest being flu, gas and pneumonia casualties. Capt. Senn speaks highly of the American boys and tells how often men were whistling and singing, and were brought in with an arm or leg shot off. One case in particular came to his attention, that of a Kentucky soldier who had both legs shot off at the hips, after the second day he spent a good share of his time singing, even though he was compelled to lie on his chest and face on account of his injuries. He also speaks very highly of the colored troops that were sent to this hospital. They were an ever happy bunch and with their natural ability to entertain, passed many hours for the other boys. Every evening three American passenger trains brought in the wounded.

MOTHERS

Should see that the whole family take at least 3 or 4 doses of a thorough, purifying, system cleaning medicine this spring. Now is the time. The family will be healthier, happier, and get along better if the blood is given a thorough purifying, the stomach and bowels cleaned out, and the germs of Winter, accumulated in the system, taken away. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea is one of the very best and surest Spring medicines to take. Get it and see the difference in the whole family. Their color will be better, they'll feel fine and be well and happy. —Edw. C. Miller.

J. H. SCHNORENBERG ANSWERS CHARGES

To the Voters of Washington County, and in particular to the readers of the West Bend News: In the West Bend News of March 26th, under the heading "Speaking of a Candidate for County Judge," the editor of the News makes an unenviable personal attack upon the writer, who is a candidate for County Judge, and undertakes to set forth the facts concerning a certain law suit in which I was interested as a party.

He states that there was a contest between myself and two brothers on the one side against our mother on the other side, and wishes his readers to infer that we had wronged and mistreated our mother. He, however, fails to state that there was another brother interested in the matter, and against whom we were really making the contest, and the details omitted by the editor are of importance to a correct understanding of the matter. The facts are that my father had made a will in which the widow was named as executrix, and which gave her the use of so much of the estate as she required for her support during her lifetime. The estate amounted to about $30,000. Myself and another one of the brothers were named as trustees to take charge of the estate following the death of the widow, with directions to divide the estate equally between the four sons. At the time of the death of my father, the widow was an aged person, unable to write, and read handwriting. The estate consisted mostly of mortgages and other securities. The fourth brother lived outside of the State, but had such complete control of the widow that we were kept in total ignorance of the affairs. We saw that the brother was trying to get control of the estate and to take the executrix and the assets out of the state with him, and we suggested to her that another person be appointed executrix with the widow, but our request was refused. For the purpose of defending our interests in the estate we retained Sawyer & Sawyer as our attorneys and had a special administrator appointed who took charge of the estate and kept it in his possession until our rights were granted by an amicable settlement.

The following item was taken from the Milwaukee Sentinel of Thursday morning, giving an account of the death of Otto Neu, a Milwaukee grocer, whose body was found in Lake Five, Washington county on Wednesday afternoon: The body of Otto Neu, 42 years old, 1412 Twenty-first street, grocer, was found in Lake Five, Washington county, Wednesday afternoon. Neu, according to relatives left Milwaukee Monday afternoon in his automobile, bound for the home of his brother-in-law, Chester Lowe, near Platteville. He arrived at Paul Koch's hotel on the Colgate road at Lake Five at 3:30 o'clock where he stayed until 6 o'clock Monday night. The following morning his automobile was found in a shed in the rear of the hotel. On the seat of his machine were found his keys and other belongings.

CANDIDATE FOR JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT

Julius Theodore Dithmar, has announced his candidacy for Justice of the Supreme Court. He has practiced law for 27 years, served as assistant Attorney General for five years under Walter C. Owen, Spencer Haven and John J. Blaine, served as County Judge and District Attorney of Juneau County and as city Attorney of Elroy. He is in favor of a progressive court, a fair and speedy trial of cases, and is opposed to judicial autocracy. He is in favor of a liberal construction of the constitution and laws so as to make the will of the people more effective and to safeguard human rights and liberties. He is a strong believer that the courts should be more responsive to the people and should be slow to declare their legislative enactments unconstitutional. He believes that the farmers, the workmen, the producers, and the consumers, have a constitutional and legal right to organize in order to secure economic, industrial and political justice.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Baseball has again become popular among the boys of the High School. Miss Celesta Martin is accompanist for Miss Flaherty's singing at present. Edna Roehndorf and Della Buddenberger were pleasant callers at our high school Tuesday. April 11th, you will please remember, is the date you have set aside for the high school entertainment.

Raymond Quandt and Elmer Martin who have joined the boys' Working Reserve, have left school and are now working on farms.

Have you seen a High School basket ball game this year? If not don't miss the chance to attend the game Friday night when our girls basket ball team is going to play Plymouth basket ball team.

Three out of every four children in this country are suffering from some physical defect which might be prevented or corrected, according to school health authorities. Health inspection of all children attending schools should be mandatory. No child should be permitted to grow into manhood or womanhood, seriously handicapped because of some physical defect that might have been remedied in childhood. Medical inspection or health inspection of school children by school nurses in many communities is a blessing to physically defective. There are many children in rural schools, suffering from defective eyesight, diseased tonsils, adenoids, improper care of teeth, improper clothing, etc. Would not such an inspection be in order in the schools of Kewaskum?

The following letter was received this week by the Statesman from Christ Tischhauser of Madison, South Dakota, in which he and Henry G. Mueller, a close friend of Mr. Tischhauser and a former resident of Wayne, express deep sympathy to Mr. Wm. Petri and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kippenhan of Wayne in their recent bereavement, the loss of their sons: Madison, S. D., March 20, 1919.

I promised in another letter long ago to write you of happenings in Madison, South Dakota, but my ideas of writing have since then changed, and have come to feel it to be my duty to send a letter of sympathy to our former friends in Wayne. Mr. Henry G. Mueller was at my house the other night and I showed him your worthy paper and the photos of those dear boys and also read the obituary in the previous issue to him, and I do say we feel for those dear folks in Wayne, Mrs. Wm. Petri and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kippenhan, in losing their promising boys, so suddenly, we can feel their deep sorrow and loss. And our wish is: May the loving Heavenly Father give them strength to bear their sorrows peacefully, with the sweet hopes to meet them again in Yonder Heavenly Home, where there is no more sorrow nor death, but everlasting life and peace. From loving and sympathizing friends.

Christ Tischhauser, Henry G. Mueller.

The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Frank Zwaska, 2201 Center street, Wednesday afternoon.

LETTERS FROM THE BOYS OVER THERE

Rev. Caslos of Wayne is in receipt of the following letter from Sergt. Ralph Petri: Sessenhausen, Germany Feb. 28th, 1919. Dear Pastor:— Owing to the fact that we were welcomed with all the back paper work after the Armistice was signed and placed into the Army of Occupation to proceed to the Rhine I was somewhat disappointed that my letter writing had to a certain extent been shortened.

But the most significant thing about the American Expeditionary Force in France at this moment is that it is a happy army. The American doughboy is the most universally smiling character in civilization today. Even his complaints and groanings are half-smiling jokes on himself to conceal the real seriousness of his situation. General hardships he meets and accepts without a word.

Since crossing the ocean our troops have undergone everything of discomfort and difficulty, more than that evicting of danger and pain, which they would have considered unendurable at home. Worse rather than better probably lies before them. They are not the least little bit down-hearted. They are ten times gladder here than when they were ten times more comfortable back in the States. The barometer of joy in the army goes up as steadily as the thermometer of comfort goes down. American boys in France are happy, without any reason for it. That is to say, without any outward reason. The reason is inside them. And it is a mighty reason too.

The happiness of the American army in France and Germany is the comfort that naturally accompanies unselfishness. The soldier is happy just because he has quit thinking about getting rich, about making a name for himself, about "beating the other fellow to it", about "putting one over" on his rival. He is connected up at last with something vastly bigger than himself. It was the smallness of his stake in life that was pinching his soul. But now, in contrast with that old squeezed-up interest in just what was his, the soldier has become partner with the enormous business of remaking the earth. No wonder he is expanded and exhilarated. But the biggest reason of all the American soldier's being happy is because he has discovered the joys of comradeship. Of course, he had friendships at home, but never such a friendship as he has today with his "buddy" in the army. For this is his first absolutely unlimited friendship.

In the closest of associations known to civil life there has always been a certain reservation. Something has been implied of obligation to give and take. An acquaintance who took more than he gave was soon marked off the list as undesirable. But all that's gone by the board in the army. No keeping tabs there. "Buddy" may have the whole outfit if he wants it, everything from shelter-half to mess-kit, even one's life if that's what he needs. Dying for a comrade in the army is as reasonable as asking a friend to dinner outside the army.

EXCELLENT RECORD OF M. T. BUCKLEY

M. T. Buckley, principal of the North Side High School of Hartford, candidate for County Superintendent of schools of Washington county, was in the village last week Friday making his acquaintance with the voters of this village highly recommended, not only by the citizens of Hartford, but by the following prominent citizens of Wisconsin:

J. L. Gillin, Professor of Sociology University of Wisconsin says the following: When I first became acquainted with Mr. Buckley he was Superintendent of schools at Sauk City, Wisconsin. He made a great success of his school work there in every way. Not only was he a fine teacher and a good administrator but he had an interest in the welfare of the community and established the first successful community center in Wisconsin. From University Bulletin No. 582.

The Community spirit has an unusual leader—a man with a civic passion—a man, who with infinite patience, courage and self-sacrifice has developed the community spirit in the town. He is the principal of the High School, M. T. Buckley.

Harford High School Board: We know if Mr. Buckley is elected county superintendent, he will bring to that office, a vision, scholarship, and experience that are necessary elements in a county superintendent.

Gov. E. L. Philipp: If every school man had the abilities for social organization and capacity of accomplishment that Mr. Buckley possesses, would approve of legislation making school principals, the community secretaries. Madison State Journal.

The University of Wisconsin gave Sauk City the distinction of holding the first Community Institute because the town possessed the two things necessary for the institute's success: A Community consciousness and a community leader, M. T. Buckley, Superintendent of School.

Gov. Creel in Harper's Weekly: "What is the Foremost City of America? Your answer will be New York with its millions of people, Chicago the great railroad center, or some other industrial city. You are mistaken. A city at the bend of the Wisconsin River, without pretention has had distinction. During the last two years it has found itself. It was present when it put on its community pageant last month (Oct. 2, 1916) 600 people out of 1000 took part in the program before an audience of 8000 people. The social engineer is M. T. Buckley, principal of the high school. He is an expert community organizer.

Mr. Buckley was born in Washington County forty-three years ago. He started teaching school in 1896 at Boltonville, as a principal of the County Graded Schools, and was elected principal at Lone Rock in 1901, continued as principal for five years. Built up the Schools' interest of the town, making the school a four year high school, instead of the three years. Upon the recommendation of the Assistant State Superintendent he was made principal of the Schools of Sauk City, after being there three years, he was elected Community leader of their Club.

Later in connection with his school work, he was Civic Secretary of the Sauk City Community, was responsible for the social and economic progress of the community. This work was so successful that the University of Wisconsin pioneered its first Community Institution in Sauk City. The progress and execution of the four day's Community Program was formulated by Mr. Buckley, Dr. Gillin of the University stated the work was of such value, that the University used the Community Center of progress in Sauk City as an illustration of what a real Community Center was.

Badger State Happenings

Madison—The state of Wisconsin ranks second among all the states in the number of French war orphans adopted during the last quarter of 1918, leading all states except New York, according to the February bulletin of the Fatherless Children of France. Figures for various leading states are as follows: New York, 2,139 orphans adopted; Wisconsin, 1,999; Ohio, 1,721; Illinois, 1,720; California, 859. The western district of the state of which Madison is the headquarters, adopted 1,095 war orphans. The eastern district, which centers in Milwaukee, adopted 904. The city of Madison adopted 934, as compared with 806 adopted by Milwaukee.

Green Bay—A movement is being pressed to include the Fox river district in the plans for a deep water route from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic. The tentative plan provides for a ship canal from Oshkosh to Green Bay. From here freight transport service would pass through Green Bay to Lake Michigan and thence east via the Straits of Mackinac. Such an improvement, added to the Canadian-American deep waterway plan, would mean direct traffic for the Fox river region.

Stevens Point—Nomination papers for L. A. Gordon as a candidate for the office of county superintendent have been filed and his address is put down as "Bordeaux, France." Although serving in the army overseas, Gordon seeks office at home, believing he will be discharged in time to serve if elected. His business is stated to be "United States soldier." Nomination papers were filed here by his father and were signed by 135 voters.

Stevens Point—A course in Americanization has been introduced at the state Normal school here and will be offered throughout the remainder of the school year. It is confined entirely to instruction on questions of modern political problems, current literature, war and international affairs and industrial and social unrest. Every student in the school will be compelled to attend the course.

Fond du Lac—A city beautiful campaign, recently launched here, is meeting with success, in excess of that expected by those who have initiated the undertaking. The campaign which has as one of its main features an effort to have sightly lawns and pleasant out-door surroundings in the city, is being supported by the Association of Commerce and other local organizations.

Stevens Point—Residents of Stevens Point and other cities of the Wisconsin river valley have begun a movement which they hope will result in the enactment of legislation preventing pollution of the Wisconsin river by industrial waste from paper mills. The conservation commission has promised that by July 1 devices will be installed to prevent the pollution.

Oshkosh—No relatives of Roderick Gaines, resident of the town of Omro, but an inmate of the Winnebago county asylum when he died, have applied for administration of the estate, which amounts to about $500. County Clerk G. W. Mannel filed a petition asking that E. D. Pingry, town chairman, be named administrator that the county may receive the money due for care.

Madison—The state board of health has named John Jepson, proprietor of the Hotel Superior barber shop, Superior, as member of the state board of barber examiners, to succeed A. T. Le Due, Eau Claire, resigned. Other members are: William L. Smith, former Milwaukee assemblyman, and A. N. Berens, Stevens Point.

Kenosha—Youths with imaginations along bandit and cowboy lines must be careful. In a test case here, it was held that toy guns which imitate the real thing must not be used by children, and that their use will cause arrest and six months in jail. Such toys come under the concealed weapons act.

Eau Claire—Pending a motion for a new trial, George H. Clauson, Pleasant Valley farmer, bound guilty in United States court on four counts of violating the espionage act, was released under $25,000 bonds. He was charged with denouncing President Wilson and the government.

Kenosha—Milton Brunner, member of Boy Scout troop, No. 2, won $25 in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s contest for the best letter written on "How I Helped the Government in Selling War Savings Stamps." He also possesses several scout medals and other awards.

Stevens Point—More than half the faculty members of the local high school will resign at the close of the present school year. Of a force of fifteen instructors seven women and one man will seek teaching positions elsewhere or enter other lines of work.

Oshkosh—School children of Oshkosh collected pennies to buy records for the talking machine at the Army and Navy club. When the boxes were opened the total was found to be $66.48.

OVER 13,000 CASES IN STATE

Judge Stevens of Madison, in State-Sent to Solons, Says 6,500 Persons Are in Need of Institutional Care.

Madison—By appeals through letters and petitions the Wisconsin legislature is being called upon this week to increase the appropriation for the care of the feeble-minded so that the multiplying population from this class may be abated. Heading the committee asking for an increase of appropriation is Judge E. Ray Stevens, Madison.

"Everything vital to your interest is being neglected in Wisconsin," says the statement of Judge Stevens sent to the legislative body. "Wisconsin has more than 13,000 feeble-minded. At least 6,500 of these should have institutional care. They are costing the state approximately $500,000 a year in crime and $300,000 in pauperism. "The superintendent of the state home for the feeble-minded has rejected 1,500 of certified imbecility because of lack of room. The capacity of the two homes for the feeble-minded, the one at Chippewa Falls and the other at Union Grove, is only 1,300. "The feeble-minded usually marry. They average seven to eight children, while normal families average from three to four. There is no chance for normal offspring from two feeble-minded parents. "Unless Wisconsin provides adequate institutional care for the feeble-minded it will continue to be menaced by the rapid increase of feeble-minded persons, with an ever-increasing cost to the state. "Why hesitate to spend $125,000 a year to check a menace which is actually costing the state $800,000 a year? Is this good business?"

The social legislative committee of the Wisconsin state conference of social work is composed of: Judge E. Ray Stevens, circuit court, Madison, chairman; Miss Edith Foster, juvenile protective association, Milwaukee; Judge A. C. Hoppman, superior court, Madison; Miss Evelyn Johnson, Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, Milwaukee; Mrs. C. M. Rosing, central council of social agencies, Milwaukee; Mrs. Edwin Thompson, secretary woman's committee state council of defense, La Crosse; Mr. L. M. Prince, state home for dependent children, Sparta, and Mrs. K. L. VanWyck, Associated Charities, Milwaukee.

There was no opposition at the hearing of Senator Albert J. Pullen's bill authorizing the commissioner of agriculture to appoint a state humane agent to superintend and assist in the organization of county humane societies. The bill provides an annual appropriation of $5,000 for the expenses of the department.

Mr. Pullen who is president of the Fond du Lac County Humane society, declared that the passage of the bill would mean that the finances collected would double if not triple the amount of the appropriation the first year. He said that only 10 of the 71 counties now have humane societies and that there is room for a great deal of missionary work.

Senator Clair Bird of Wausau appeared before the senate reconstruction committee in support of his bill relating to the construction of community houses. He states, however, that since he had drafted the bill he saw several places where some minor amendments would strengthen it and asked to have the matter laid over until he can prepare the amendments. The request was granted.

Revival of the fight for a four-year medical course in the university is heralded by a bill in the senate which repeals the two-year limitation now imposed, and provides that the course shall embrace such additional branches as the regents may determine. An effort made at the last session to broaden the course was defeated.

The state life fund will be made the medium for soldiers' insurance if an amendment to the Maslakowski bill to create a corps of state agents and so-called is approved by the legislature. That the state life fund will be continued was indicated when the assembly refused to pass a bill to abolish it.

Assemblyman Czorzewski offered the amendment for soldiers' insurance. It provides that the agents shall make a particular effort to induce soldiers, sailors and marines who are residents of the state to convert their army insurance into state life policies. The amendment places a $10,000 limit on policies.

Tobacco Firm Bankrupt. The J. F. Borden company, leaf tobacco dealers of Jamesville, filed a petition and schedules in bankruptcy in the United States district court. Liabilities were shown to be $204,000 assets $169,000. C. F. Lamb was appointed referee.

Alleges High Interest on Small Loans. That a total of 85 per cent interest per annum may now be charged on small loans under the laws of Wisconsin was the assertion made before the assembly committee on insurance and banking by H. D. Maddock, secretary of the Kenosha Associated Charities, while arguing in favor of the P. N. Anderson bill regulating the business of the small loan agents. The bill, he declared, was the one worked out and developed by the Russell Sage foundation and had proven a success in every state where it has been tried.

Twilight Hunting Held Illegal. Assemblyman Eber Simpson, Oshkosh, received a letter from D. F. Houston, secretary of agriculture, saying the department could not consistently adopt any regulation permitting twilight hunting. It would be therefore seriously with birds reaching their night feeding grounds, he said. "Wild fowl formerly obtained food during the day, but incessant shooting has changed their habits," says Mr. Houston. "A state law permitting twilight hunting of migratory birds after sundown would conflict with federal law."

Through use of B-K as outlined in our Bulletin 52, "Contagious Abortion," is the most certain means known of controlling Contagious Abortion, preventing Bacteremia, and removing Retained Afterbirth. Complete irrigation of the uterus and vaginal tract is easy with B-K. B-K kills the infecting germs and foul odors—kills the uterus—over the spine and adjoins—no straining, no pain, no danger. B-K is much more effective and safer to use than Iodoform, carbolic acid, Lugol's solution or "oil-car" disinfectants, which do not cleanse the uterus, but merely make it more acid. # APT DESCRIPTION OF PASTOR

Child's Characterization Well Drawn, Though Possibly Not Flattering to the Good Man.

Little Caroline and her grandmother went to church one Sunday morning, recently. It had been some time since the small lady had attended and things and faces were new and strange.

After returning home she sat in a quiet study. "What are you thinking of, dear?" grandma asked.

"Who was that fluffy man?" was the reply. "What man, pet? I do not know which one you mean."

"That man, I mean." Caroline said with an indignant frown. "I can't tell, dear, which one that is."

"Well," said Little Caroline, evidently fully disgusted, "I mean the fluffy man that talks while we keep still."

The pastor happened to be a rather short, stout man with a good supply of hair and this was her unusual way of describing him.

Lessens Life's Beauty. The failure to express what we feel of love and admiration, and the expression of feeling due to impatience, not of the spirit, but of overtaxed nerves, are causes of the loss of much that helps to make life beautiful.—The Outlook.

No Choice. "I suppose she is the gray mare in that family." "Don't know about that, they're both old nags."

GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOME TABLE.

The value of wholesome food well prepared and well seasoned, cannot be overestimated.

Veronique Soup.—Add one cupful of stewed and strained tomatoes, to which is added one-eighth teaspoonful of soda, to three cupfuls of veal broth. Thicken with one and one-half tablespoons each of butter and flour cooked together; then add one and one-half teaspoonsful of salt, a dash of cayenne, one-half cupful of cooked rice, one and one-half pimentos cut in strips, and one-fourth cupful of heavy cream.

Rhubarb Tapioca Pudding.—Soak two-thirds cupful of pearl tapioca over night in cold water to cover. Drain, put in a double boiler, add one and one-fourth cupfuls of boiling water and two-thirds teaspoonful of salt; cook until the tapioca has absorbed the water. Peel rhubarb and cut in one-fourth inch pieces—there should be three cupfuls; then sprinkle with one-third cupful of sugar. Add to the tapioca and cook until the tapioca is transparent and rhubarb soft. Turn into a serving dish and accompany with sugar and thin cream.

Meat Loaf.—Chop one pound of veal and two pounds of beef. Mix and add one cupful of bread crumbs, one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper and three eggs slightly beaten. Shape in loaf, put in pan and lay across the top six slices of fat salt pork. Roast one and one-half hours, basting every ten minutes at first with one-half cupful of hot water and the fat in the pan. Remove to a hot platter, pour around a tomato or brown sauce and garnish with parsley.

Stuffed Figs.—Mash cream cheese moisten with heavy cream and season highly with salt and cayenne; make into balls three-fourths inch in diameter. Wash and dry figs, make an incision in each and stuff with the cheese balls. Arrange in piles on a plate covered with a lace paper doily.

And the finest fellow of all would be the one who could be glad to have lived because the world was chiefly miserable, and his life had come to help some one who needed it.—George Eliot.

MORE STRAWBERRY DISHES.

A pint of nice berries will furnish plenty of dessert for a family of five or six, if the berries are used wisely. A most dainty dessert is either angel food or sponge cake cut in rounds, heaped with crushed berries mixed with whipped cream or the berries may be covered with the cream.

Cottage Pudding Strawberry Sauce.—Bake a cottage pudding in an angel cake pan, or a simple sponge cake mixture may be used. Remove from the pan to a serving dish, fill the center with sweetened and flavored whipped cream and pour around it a sauce using some crushed berries to make juice sugar and a few sliced or quartered berries. Keep warm until serving time.

Strawberry Ice Cream.—Wash, hull and mash one quart of berries. Sprinkle with a cup of sugar and let stand for three hours, then mash and squeeze through a double thickness of cheesecloth. Mix one and one-half cupfuls of heavy cream, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, the whites of four eggs, beaten stiff and a little salt. Freeze to a mush, then add the strawberry juice and continue freezing. More sugar may be added if the fruit is quite acid.

Steamed Rice-Strawberry Sauce.—Cook one cupful of rice in milk until well done but whole. For the sauce take three tablespoonsful of softened butter, add one cupful of powdered sugar, mixing it until creamy; then stir in a half cupful of whipped cream and a pint of sliced strawberries, which have been slightly sweetened. Serve at once.

Lenox Strawberries.—Fill sherbet glasses with sliced strawberries that have been well chilled. Pour over the following mixture: Mix the juice of half an orange, four tablespoonsful of sugar and a tablespoonful of charged water. Garnish with a ring of piped whipped cream around the edge. At low this quantity for each portion.

A few strawberries add much to the appearance and flavor of any fresh salad, and as a garnish for ice cream nothing is nicer than fresh berries crushed with sugar, using equal parts of each. Berries, the small ones, when crushed and mixed with equal parts of sugar, will keep indefinitely if in a cool place. This preserve may be used in countless ways.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussing mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy. The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs. It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses. It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

If you need a medicine, you should have the best. On sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to try this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

Improved Surgical Device.

The treatment of broken and otherwise injured arms has been somewhat facilitated by the invention of a new splint, which is a mechanical device ready for instant use in any case without regard to its character. It is in the event of war, where a great number of cases are to be treated as quickly as possible, that this new device will be of the greatest value. It is adjusted to the body of the patient. It can be used on either arm and may be adjusted to any position in which it may be desired to hold the injured arm. It is a combination of metal rods, with suitable joints and hinges, so that the arm is properly supported and protected at all times.

HUNGARY DECLARES WAR ON ENTENTE, JOINS RUSSIANS

Great Army of Reds Said to Be Ready for Battle.

LARGE ESTATES ARE SEIZED

Reports Say Several Regiments of Czechoslovaks, Inspired by Bolshevik Propaganda, Have Joined the Reds.

Vienna, March 24.—The Hungarian government is reported to have signed a proclamation "acknowledging a state of war between Hungary and the entente powers."

The Karolyi cabinet, according to latest word from Budapest, has been succeeded by a new coalition government, which is joining hands with the Russian troops reported to be marching into Hungary.

The entire country has been placed under a state of siege.

"Red" Army Ready.

A great Russian bolshevik army is reported to be ready between Brody and Stanislaw.

Several regiments of Czechoslovaks, inspired by bolshevik propaganda, have mutinied and gone over to the reds. They are now in Hungary.

There is danger, according to dispatches, of the red wave spreading through the ranks of the Czechoslovak army in the south, owing to extensive agitation carried on for months by Lenin and his lieutenants.

Karolyi Stirs Masses.

Count Michael Karolyi, before resigning as premier, which office he has held ever since the overthrow of the Hapsburg monarchy, issued a proclamation urging a "world war of the proletariat for justice," and pleading for support of the Hungarian masses against the decision of the Paris peace congress to occupy Hungary.

Soviets Pick Chief.

Copenhagen, March 24.—Alexander Gorbat has assumed the presidency of the Hungarian revolutionary government of workers, peasants and soldiers' councils, with Bela Kun as foreign commissary and Joseph Pogany as war commissary, according to Budapest dispatches.

It is reported that Kun has applied to Lenin for armed assistance against the allied armies, which have occupied the greater part of Hungary for the purpose of putting down the bolshevik uprising.

The formation of the new Hungarian soviet government followed the resignation of the Karolyi cabinet Friday as a result of the new boundaries between Hungary and Roumania fixed at Paris.

Rioting Begins.

Rioting throughout Hungary has accompanied the change in government, according to reports reaching here.

In Budapest, which has not as yet been occupied by the allied forces, mobs Saturday stormed the post office and other public buildings and destroyed the monuments erected to Honved heroes.

All Power Is Taken.

A dispatch from Budapest gives the proclamation of the new Hungarian government as follows:

"The proletariat of Hungary from today has taken all power in its own hands. By the decision of the Paris conference to occupy Hungary the provisioning of revolutionary Hungary becomes utterly impossible.

"Under these circumstances the sole means open for the Hungarian government is a dictatorship of the proletariat.

Seize All Big Estates.

"Legislative, executive and judicial authority will be exercised by a dictatorship of the workers, peasants and soldiers' councils.

"The revolutionary government council will begin forthwith work for the realization of communist socialism.

"The council decrees the socialization of large estates, mines, big industries, banks and transport lines, declares complete solidarity with the Russian soviet government, and offers to contract an armed alliance with the proletariat of Russia."

"Appeal to People."

The proclamation by Count Karolyi announcing the resignation of the Hungarian cabinet, of which he was the head, after referring to the decision of the peace conference at Paris to occupy Hungarian territory, says, according to a dispatch from Vienna:

"The entente mission declared that it intends to regard the demarcation line as the political frontier. The aim of further occupation of the country is manifestly to make Hungary the jumping-off ground and the region of operations against the Russian soviet army which is fighting on our frontier. The land evacuated by us, however, is to be the pay of the Czech troops by means of whom the Russian soviet army is to be overcome.

"As provisional president of the Hungarian people's republic, I turn, as against the Paris peace conference, to the proletariat of the world for justice and support."

Calls All Neighbors.

Paris, March 24.—The proclamation of the new HUNGARIAN government invites the workmen and peasants of Bohemia, Roumania, Serbia and Croatia to form an armed alliance against the aristocracy, land owners and dynasties. It requests also that the workmen of Austria and Germany follow the lead of Hungary in breaking off relations with the Paris peace conference.

They are requested to rally with the Moscow government and constitute a soviet republic and to resist, arms in hand, the "imperialist conquerors."

The proclamation says the government will enforce the proletariat's dictates against Hungarian land owners and capitalists, the Roumanian aristocracy and the Czech bourgeoisie.

The document ends by urging each workman and peasant to work in order to produce or to enlist in the army.

Troops Maintain Quiet. Copenhagen, March 24.—A dispatch from Budapest dated Friday said that at that time order was being maintained by the troops and the National Guard.

The revolutionary government, it was stated, had issued a prohibition against the carrying of arms, making the penalty for disobedience five years' penal servitude and a fine of 50,500 kronen.

Other dispatches announce that order prevails in the country districts around Budapest.

Newspapers in Budapest have ceased publication.

Martial Law Declared. Amsterdam, March 24.—When the Hungarian cabinet, headed by Count Karolyi as provisional president, resigned late in the week, the governing party, comprising socialists and communists, proclaimed martial law throughout the entire country, according to a dispatch from Budapest.

Under the title of "Hungarian Socialist party" the socialists and communists have combined and will administer the country.

Blockade Is Suppressed. Rome, March 24.—The Austrian foreign office has been informed by the Italian armistice commission that the associated powers have decided unanimously to suppress the blockade of Austria and Hungary, says a semi-official dispatch received here from Vienna.

Advices received here from Vienna are to the effect that the council of ministers has decided to seize provisionally for the purposes of state administration the real and personal property of the reigning families in Austria, and also of the archdukes living abroad. The incomes from the real estate received will be paid the owners.

Give Tarnopol to Reds. London, March 24.—The Chronicle's Copenhagen correspondent says that, according to a Berlin message to the Post, the Hungarian crisis may affect the whole of Europe. The new government is said to have admitted the Russian Red army into Tarnopol, near the Galician frontier.

The Berlin correspondent of the Copenhagen Ostskifteuden says the decision for the revolution was taken Friday afternoon, when the Hungarian government learned the French, Roumanian and Czech troops were to occupy parts of Hungary in order to stem bolshevism.

According to one story the plans were completed by Russian agents, who were in Budapest ostensibly as members of the Russian Red Cross, but who were acting under orders from Moscow.

Lenine the Real Ruler. The new socialist and communist rulers find the machinery of the soviet government ready, but they only nominally will run the machine, the director being Lenine.

According to the correspondent quoted, it is rumored a number of Czech regiments in the north of Hungary mutinied and it is feared the news of what happened in Hungary will have an inflammatory effect in the Czech state, where bolshevism has raised its head more boldly than in any other country outside of Russia.

The correspondent concludes the message rather ominously. In Vienna, he says, these events are followed with extreme tension. The populace there has shown great patience under great sufferings, but even the greatest patience can give way.

DISCHARGE WILSON'S DRIVER

Private Mitchell of Texas, Who Aced as President's Chauffeur, Is Out of Army.

San Antonio, Tex., March 24.—Private La Mitchell of Victoria, Tex., was acted as chauffeur for President Wilson on the chief executive's first trip to Paris, arrived in San Antonio and will be discharged in a few days. He says while abroad he was saluted by major generals and other high dignitaries frequently, which amused the privates attached to President Wilson's party immensely.

REDS CALL WORLD REVOLT

Leaders Issue a Proclamation Calling for Rise Against the Entente Allies.

Berlin, March 24.—Leaders of the socialist-communist party have issued a proclamation calling upon the bolsheviks of the world to rise against the "imperialism of the entente allies."

A general mobilization of Spartacist military forces has been ordered. Several prominent persons who attempted to oppose the mobilization have been executed by the Spartacists.

U.S. RETAINS RIGHT TO BAR ORIENTALS

Amendment Makes Clear Power to Control Immigration.

MONROE DOCTRINE IS SAFE

Article X Will Be Amended to Safeguard the Principle—Objections of Senator Lodge to Form of Covenant Are Considered.

Paris, March 26.—An American amendment to protect nations against the influx of foreign labor was adopted by the league of nations commission.

It affirms the right of any country in the league to control such matters as solely within domestic jurisdiction.

President Wilson would have offered the amendment at the meeting of the league of nations commission sooner, but discovered a slight imperfection in the text.

Virtually all the commissions and subcommissions of the peace conference are waiting for instructions from the supreme council in order to close and submit their reports.

The American peace delegation, it is understood, has definitely agreed upon the amendment it will offer to article X of the covenant of the league of nations to safeguard the Monroe doctrine.

The amendment provides that agreements under the covenant shall not be construed as an infringement upon the principles of international policies heretofore generally recognized.

Article X of the draft of the league of nations covenant reads as follows: "The high contracting parties shall undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all states, members of the league. In case of any such aggression, or in case of any threat of danger of such aggression, the executive council shall advise upon the means by which the obligation shall be fulfilled."

Push Work on League Pact. During a three-hour session Monday night the league of nations commission, considering proposed amendments to the covenant, disposed tentatively of the first sixteen sections.

A number of changes in form were agreed upon which the members of the commission believe will meet more than 50 per cent of the objections offered by Senator Lodge and other American senators.

The official statement says: "The twelfth meeting of the league of nations commission, which was the second meeting held to consider amendments to the draft of the covenant, took place at the Hotel de Crillon at 8:30 p. m. on Monday, March 24. Amendments to the articles from IX to XVI of the covenant were considered, so that two-thirds of the draft have been examined. The next meeting of the commission has been provisionally fixed for Wednesday, March 26, at 3 p. m."

Advocates of the league of nations maintain that it is in no way retarding progress to peace, as the obstacles to the treaty are questions of principle, on which the premiers thus far have been unable to secure an agreement.

The Japanese amendment to secure the equality of races belonging to the league was not considered, and no action was taken on the proposed French amendment for the creation of an international military staff.

The entire covenant, when amended and agreed upon by the commission, will be submitted to a drafting committee which will put it into more definite legal form before its submission to the supreme council.

President Wilson was in attendance at the session, at which suggestions from neutral nations, as well as beligerents were discussed.

The war council again dealt with Poland. It is understood that the plan for a Polish corridor across Prussia to the Baltic will prevail.

Wilson Pushes Peace Work. All the delegations to the peace conference are very anxious regarding the situation in eastern Europe and are impressed with the necessity of quickly doing something to hasten the return of normal conditions to the rest of Europe.

President Wilson and Premiers Lloyd George, Clemenceau and Orlando have decided they will hold two sessions daily to bring to a conclusion in the shortest possible time the principal questions concerning the Franco-German and the Italo-Yugo-Slav frontiers, reparations and the league of nations.

The ministers of foreign affairs, who have heretofore been included in important conferences, will not be present during the premiers' meeting this week.

The terms of the report which it will make to the peace conference were decided upon by the commission on international labor legislation, which adopted a resolution thanking the chairman, Samuel Gompers, for his work.

U. S. CASUALTIES 269,714

Of These 70,725 Men Are Dead, 193,684 Wounded and 5,404 Missing.

Washington, March 25.—A complete summary of American casualties appears in the official report, giving the total to date as 269,714.

The killed in action number 31,922; died from disease, 1,826; died from accident and other causes, 3,625; wounded in action, 193,684; missing in action, not including prisoners, 5,405.

From this it appears that the number of missing men in the American army is only a little more than 2 per cent of the total casualties.

German Bolsheviks Make Regular Remittances of Large Amounts to Spread Revolt.

Geneva, March 25.—From the headquarters of the Egyptian party in Switzerland large sums of German bolshevik money are being sent regularly to Egypt to spread the revolt there.

A strange conference is scheduled for this week at Bern. Delegates of the five vanquished nations will meet to discuss the armistice conditions.

SWAY OF SOVIET COMPLETE

Masaryk, First President of Czechoslovaks, Is Reported Out—Moscow and Hungarian Capital Linked.

Copenhagen, March 25.—A dispatch from Budapest says the soviet government has occupied all theaters and music halls and arranged for revolutionary plays and addresses on the significance of the revolution. All the dispatches received from the various sources indicate that the uprising in Hungary was not a spontaneous revolt, but was carefully engineered by the Russian bolshevik leaders, with more than a probability of help from Germany.

Copenhagen, March 25.—A Czechoslovak army has been sent against Hungary, according to an official report received in Vienna and forwarded here.

T. G. Masaryk, the president of Czechoslovakia, has resigned, according to a report received here from Berlin.

Prof. Thomas G. Masaryk was elected president of the Czechoslovak government October 20, 1918, while he was in the United States. He was inaugurated president at Prague, December 22.

Release Bolshevick Agent. Karl Radek, the leading Russian bolshevik agent in Germany, who was arrested on February 13, in connection with the Spartacist uprising, has been released by the German government, according to a Berlin dispatch.

This message reports fresh agitation by the German Spartacists coincident with the Hungarian revolution and reports that in these circumstances the release of Radek has created a bad impression.

The authorities, the dispatch adds, say that Radek entered Germany in a perfectly regular manner and that they have no reason for keeping him under arrest.

Some reports of the new Spartacist agitation reported are a serious strike in Lubek, riots in Stettin and the threat of a general strike in Breslau.

At the first meeting of the new Hungarian government in Berlin says, a soldiers and workmen's council for the Hungary was appointed, according to plans entered into with the agents of Lenin. The council immediately started preparation of a bill for the socialization of all industrial activities.

Links Moscow and Budapest. Reports of wireless exchanges between Nikolai Lenin, the bolshevik premier of Russia, and the foreign representative of the new Hungarian communist government are received in advices from Budapest.

Lenine was told that the Hungarian proletariat had seized power and had introduced a proletarian dictatorship. Greetings were sent to Lenin as "leader of the international proletariat."

In greeting the Russian proletariat the new Hungarian government expressed solidarity with the revolutionary movement.

In his reply, Lenin stated that he had submitted the Hungarian greeting to the bolshevik congress at Moscow, which had received it with great enthusiasm. He added:

"In order to communicate between Moscow and Budapest and report on the military situation, it is necessary to maintain permanent wireless communication between the two cities." He concluded by extending "communist greetings and a handshake."

The communists of Vienna held a meeting of sympathy with the proletariat dictatorship in Hungary Sunday morning, according to a Vienna dispatch. The demonstration developed into a manifestation against the entente. There was no disturbance, however, the message declares.

Send Monitors to Budapest. Paris, March 25.—The peace conference has been advised by entente agents of the critical situation in Hungary. Some street fighting in Budapest has been reported.

While the lives of entente nationals are said still to be safe it is urged that they need the protection which would be afforded by monitors proceeding up the Danube from Serbian ports.

Such monitors, according to advices received here, are already on their way up the river.

German Foreign Minister Sends Under Secretary to Moscow to Negotiate Terms.

Paris, March 25.—Count von Brockdorff Rantzau, the German foreign minister, has sent Carl Kuntze, one of the undersecretaries in the foreign ministry, to Moscow to see the chief of the soviet government and to furnish an accurate report on the situation which will allow the foreign minister to study the methods as to the bringing about of closer political and economic relations with the bolshevik government, says a Zurich dispatch to the Matin.

I stayed in the house for five weeks and the pain was wearing the life out of me. At times, I couldn't get a wink of sleep because of the misery and I had to get up every few moments to pass the secretions that were highly colored, of foul odor, filled with sandy sediment and terribly itching. My bladder felt as though it were on fire. The pain brought stupor and a reeling sensation in my head; the torture of it cannot be described. If I got onto my feet I couldn't walk but felt dizzy and all in a flutter and everything would turn black. My head ached so it seemed as though my eyes were being dragged out. I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and I was soon rid of all the trouble."

CHAPTER X.

A Party and—My Fourth Peril

It was a rainy Sunday. In the middle of the afternoon Uncle Peabody and I had set out in our spring buggy with the family umbrella—a faded but sacred implement, always carefully dried, after using, and hung in the clothes press. We were drenched to the skin in spite of the umbrella. It was still raining when we arrived at the familiar door in Ashery lane. Uncle Peabody wouldn't stop.

He hurried away. We pioneers rarely stopped or even turned out for the weather.

"Come in," said the voice of the schoolmaster at the door. "There's good weather under this roof."

He saw my plight as I entered. "I'm like a shaggy dog that's been in swimming," I said.

"Upon my word, boy, we're in luck," remarked the schoolmaster.

I looked up at him.

"Michael Henry's clothes!—sure, they're just the thing for you!"

I followed him upstairs, wondering how it had happened that Michael Henry had clothes.

He took me into his room and brought some handsome, soft clothes out of a press with shirt, socks and boots to match.

"There, my liddle buck," said he, "put them on."

"These will soon dry on me," I said.

"Put them on—ye laggard! Michael Henry told me to give them to you. It's the birthday night o' little Ruth, my boy. There's a big cake with candles and chicken pie and jellied cookies and all the like o' that. Put them on. A wet boy at the feast would dampen the whole proceedings."

I put them on and with a great sense of relief and comfort. They were an admirable fit—too perfect for an accident, although at the time I thought only of their grandeur as I stood surveying myself in the looking-glass. They were of blue cloth and I saw that they went well with my blond hair and light skin. I was putting on my collar and necktie when Mr. Hackett returned.

We went below and the table was very grand with its great frosted cake and its candles, in shiny brass sticks, and its jellied and preserves with the gleam of polished pewter among them. Mrs. Hackett and all the children, save Ruth, were waiting for us in the dining room.

"Now sit down here, all o' ye, with Michael Henry," said the schoolmaster. "The little lady will be impatient. I'll go and get her and God help us to make her remember the day."

He was gone a moment, only when he came back with Ruth in lovely white dress and slippers and gay with ribbons, and the silver beads of Mary on her neck. We clapped our hands and cheered and, in the excitement of the moment, John tipped over his drinking glass and shattered it on the floor.

"Never mind, my brave lad—no glass ever perished in a better cause. God bless you!"

We ate and jested and talked, and the sound of our laughter drowned the cry of the wind in the chimney and the drumming of the rain upon the windows.

Next morning my clothes, which had been hung by the kitchen stove, were damp and wrinkled. Mr. Hackett came to my room before I had risen.

"Michael Henry would rather see his clothes hanging on a good boy than on a nail in the closet," said he. "Sure they give no comfort to the nail at all."

"I guess mine are dry now," I answered.

"They're wet and heavy, boy. No son o' Baldr could keep a light heart in them. Sure ye'd be as much out o' place as a sunbeam in a cave o' bats. If ye care not for your own comfort think o' the poor lad in the green chair. He's that proud and pleased to see them on ye it would be a shame to reject his offer. Sure, if they were dry yer own garments would be good enough, God knows, but Michael Henry loves the look o' ye in these togs, and then the president is in town."

That evening he discovered a big stain, black as ink, on my coat and trousers. Mr. Hackett expressed the opinion that it might have come from the umbrella, but I am quite sure that he had spotted them to save me from the last homemade suit I ever wore, save in rough work, and keep Michael Henry's on my back. In any event I wore them no more save at chore time.

Sally came and went, with the Willis boy, and gave no heed to me. In her eyes I had no more substance than a ghost, it seemed to me, although I caught her, often, looking at me. I judged that her father had given her a bad report of us and had some regrets, in spite of my knowledge that we were right, although they related mostly to Amos.

Next afternoon I saw Mr. Wright and the president walking back and forth on the bridge as they talked together. A number of men stood in front of the blacksmith shop, by the river shore, watching them, as I passed, on my way to the mill on an errand. The two statesmen were in broadcloth and white linen and beaver hats. They stopped as I approached them.

"Well, partner, we shall be leaving in an hour or so," said Mr. Wright as he gave me his hand. "You may look for me here soon after the close of the session. Take care of yourself and go often to see Mrs. Wright and obey your captain and remember me to your aunt and uncle."

"See that you keep coming, my good boy," said the president as he gave me his hand, with playful reference, no doubt, to Mr. Wright's remark that I was a coming man.

"Bart, I've some wheat to be thrashed in the barn on the back lot," said the senator as I was leaving them. "You can do it Saturdays, if you care to, at a shilling an hour. Stack the straw out of doors until you've finished, then put it back in the bay. Winnow the wheat carefully and sack it and bring it down to the granary and I'll settle with you when I return."

I remember that a number of men who worked in Grimshaw's sawmill were passing as we spoke.

"Yes, sir," I answered, much elated by the prospect of earning money. The examination of Amos was set down for Monday and the people of the village were stirred and shaken by wildest rumors regarding the evidence to be adduced. Every day men and women stopped me in the street to ask what I knew of the murder. I followed the advice of Bishop Perkins and kept my knowledge to myself.

Saturday came, and when the chores were done I went alone to the grain barn in the back lot of the senator's farm with flail and measure and broom and fork and shovel and sacks and my luncheon, in a pushcart, with all of which Mrs. Wright had provided me.

It was a lonely place with woods on three sides of the field and a road on the other. I kept laying down beds of wheat on the barn floor and beating them out with the flail until the sun was well over the roof, when I sat down to eat my luncheon. Then I swept up the grain and winnowed out the chaff and filled one of my sacks. That done, I covered the floor, again and the thump of the flail eased my loneliness until in the middle of the afternoon two of my schoolmates came and asked me to go swimming with them. The river was not forty rods away and a good trail led to the swimming hole. It was a warm, bright day and I was hot and thirsty. The thought of cool waters and friendly companionship was too much for me. I went with them and stayed with them longer than I intended. I remember saying as I dressed that I should have to work late and go without my supper in order to finish my stint.

It was almost dark when I was putting the last sack of wheat into my cart, in the gloomy barn and getting ready to go.

A rustling in the straw where I stood stopped me suddenly. I heard stealthy footsteps in the darkness. I stood my ground and demanded: "Who's there?"

I saw a form approaching in the gloom with feet as noiseless as a cat's.

"I had time to raise my flail and bring it down upon the head of the leader."

I took a step backward and, seeing that it was a woman, stopped.

"It's Kate," came in a hoarse whisper as I recognized her form and staff.

"Run, boy—they have just come out o' the woods. I saw them. They will take you away. Run."

She had picked up the flail, and now she put it in my hands and gave me a push toward the door. I ran, and none too quickly, for I had not gone fifty feet from the barn in the stubble when I heard them coming after me, whoever they were. I saw that they were gaining and turned quickly. I had time to raise my flail and bring it down upon the head of the leader, who fell as I had seen a beef fall under the ax. Another man stopped beyond the reach of my flail and, after a second's hesitation, turned and ran away in the darkness.

I could hear or see no other motion in the field. I turned and ran on down the slope toward the village. In a moment I saw someone coming out of the maple grove at the field's end, just ahead, with a lantern.

Then I heard the voice of the schoolmaster saying: "Is it you, my lad?"

"Yes," I answered, as I came up to him and Mary, in a condition of breathless excitement.

I told them of the curious adventure I had had.

"Come quick," said the schoolmaster. "Let's go back and find the man in the stubble."

I remembered that I had struck the path in my flight just before stopping to swing the flail. The man must have fallen very near it. Soon we found where he had been lying and drops of fresh blood on the stubble.

"Hush," said the schoolmaster. We listened and heard a wagon rattling at a wild pace down the road toward the river.

"There he goes," said Mr. Hackett. "His companions have carried him away. Ye'd be riding in that wagon now, yourself, my brave lad, if ye hadn't a made a lucky bit with the flail—God bless ye!"

"What would they 'a' done with me?" I asked.

"Oh, I reckon they'd 'a' took ye off, lad, and kep' ye for a year or so until Amos was out o' danger," said Mr. Hackett. "Maybe they'd drowned ye in the river down there an' left yer clothes on the bank to make it look like an honest drowning. The devil knows what they'd 'a' done with ye, liddle buck. We'll have to keep an eye on ye now, every day until the trial is over—sure we will. Come, we'll go up to the barn and see if Kate is there."

Just then we heard the receding wagon go roaring over the bridge on Little river. Mary shuddered with fright. The schoolmaster reassured us by saying:

"Don't be afraid. I brought my gun in case we'd meet a painter. But the danger is past."

He drew a long pistol from his coat pocket and held it in the light of the lantern.

The loaded cart stood in the middle of the barn floor, where I had left it, but old Kate had gone. We closed the barn, drawing the cart along with us. When we came into the edge of the village I began to reflect upon the strange part out of which I had so luckily escaped. It gave me a heavy sense of responsibility and of the wickedness of men.

I thought of old Kate and her broken silence. For once I had heard her speak. I could feel my flesh tingle when I thought of her quick words and her hoarse, passionate whisper.

I knew, or thought I knew, why she took such care of me. She was in league with the gallows and could not bear to see it cheated of its prey. For some reason she hated the Grimshaws. I had seen the hate in her eyes the day she dogged along behind the old money lender through the streets of the village when her pointing finger had seemed to say to me: "There, there is the man who has brought me to this. He has put these rags upon my back, this fire in my heart, this wild look in my eyes. Wait and you will see what I will put upon him."

I knew that old Kate was not the irresponsible, witless creature that people thought her to be. I had begun to think of her with a kind of awe as one gifted above all others. One by one the things she had said of the future seemed to be coming true.

As we were going into the house the schoolmaster said:

"Now, Mary, you take this lantern and go across the street to the house o' Deacon Binks, the constable. You'll find him asleep by the kitchen stove. Arrest his slumbers, but not rudely, and, when he has come to, tell him that I have news o' the devil."

Deacon Binks arrived, a fat man with a big, round body and a very wise and serious countenance between his temple and neck and suggesting parentheses of hair, as if his head and its accessories were in the nature of a side issue. He and the schoolmaster went out of doors and must have talked together while I was eating a bowl of bread and milk which Mrs. Hackett had brought to me.

When I went to bed, by and by, I heard somebody snoring on the little porch under my window. The first sound that reached my ear at the break of dawn was the snoring of some sleeper. I dressed and went below and found the constable in the coonskin overcoat asleep on the porch with a long-barreled gun at his side. While I stood there the schoolmaster came around the corner of the house from the garden. He put his hand on the deacon's shoulder and gave him a little shake.

"Awake, ye limb o' the law," he demanded. "Prayer is better than sleep."

The deacon arose and stretched himself and cleared his throat and as usual an air of alertness and said it was a fine morning, which it was not, the sky being overcast and the air dark and chilly. Mr. Hackett removed his greatcoat and threw it on the stoop saying:

"Deacon, you lay there. From now on I'm constable and ready for any act that may be necessary to maintain the law. I can be as severe as Napoleon Bonaparte and as cunning as Satan, if I have to be."

While I was milking the deacon sat on a bucket in the doorway of the stable and snored until I had finished. He awoke when I loosed the cow and the constable went back to the pasture with me, yawning with his hand over his mouth much of the way. The deacon leaned his elbow on the top of the pen and snored again, lightly, while I mixed the feed for the pigs.

Mr. Hackett met us at the kitchen door, where Deacon Binks said to him: "If you'll look after the boy today I'll go home and get a little rest."

"God bless yer soul, ye had a busy night," said the schoolmaster with a smile.

He added as he went into the house: "I never knew a man to rest with more energy and persistence. It was a perfect flood o' rest. It kept me awake until long after midnight."

CHAPTER XI.

The Spirit of Michael Henry and Others.

At the examination of Amos Grimshaw my knowledge was committed to the records and ceased to be a source of danger to me. Grimshaw came to the village that day. On my way to the courtroom I saw him walking slowly, with bent head as I had seen him before, followed by old Kate. She carried her staff in her left hand while the forefinger of her right hand was pointing him out. Silent as a ghost and as unheeded—one would say—she followed his steps.

I observed that old Kate sat on a front seat with her hand to her ear and Grimshaw beside his lawyer at a big table and that when she looked at him her lips moved in a strange unuttered whisper of her spirit. Her face filled with joy as one damning detail after another came out in the evidence.

The facts hereinbefore alleged, and others, were proved, for the tracks fitted the shoes of Amos. The facts fitted the shoes of Amos. The facts fitted the shoes of Amos. The time of his trial was not determined.

I wrote a good hand those days and the leading merchant of the village engaged me to post his books every Saturday at ten cents an hour. Thenceforward until Christmas I gave my free days to that task. I estimated the sun that I should earn and planned to divide it in equal parts and proudly present it to my aunt and uncle on Christmas day.

One Saturday while I was at work on the big ledger of the merchant I ran upon this item:

October 2—S. Wright—To one suit of clothes for Michael Henry from measures furnished by E. Robinson. Shirts to match ..... $14.25
Shirts to match ..... 1.75

I knew then the history of the suit of clothes which I had worn since that rainy October night, for I remembered that Sam Robinson, the tailor, had measured me at our house and made up the cloth of Aunt Deel's weaving.

I observed, also, that numerous articles—a load of wood, two sacks of flour, three pairs of boots, one coat, ten pounds of salt pork and four bushels of potatoes—all for "Michael Henry"—had been charged to Silas Wright.

So by the merest chance I learned that the invisible "Michael Henry" was the almoner of the modest statesman and really the spirit of Silas Wright feeding the hungry and clothing the naked and warming the cold house, in the absence of its owner. It was the heart of Wright joined to that of the schoolmaster, which sat in the green chair.

I fear that my work suffered a moment's interruption, for just then I began to know the great heart of the senator. Its warmth was in the clothing that covered my back, its delicacy in the ignorance of those who had shared its benefactions.

THE PROUD BOOTS.

"Hello, right boot," "Hello, left boot," "Hello, hello, hello."

So the boots squeaked and creaked while Eric slept so soundly in bed. They had been put side by side, quite carefully, at the foot of Eric's bed, on the floor.

"Wasn't that the best compliment you ever received?" asked the first boot.

"It most certainly was," said the second boot. "And wasn't it the best compliment you ever received too?"

"Indeed it was," said the first boot. "We both got exactly the same compliment," said the right boot, which had been the speaker called the second boot, while the left boot had been the speaker called the first boot.

"We did," said the left boot. "Neither of us can be envious or jealous of the other. We were spoken of together."

"In the very same breath," said the right boot.

"In the very same word," said the left boot.

"We didn't have big photographs taken," said the right boot.

"Well, we're not big boots," said the left boot. "We belong to Eric, and Eric is a boy, not a big man. Some day, of course, if all goes well, he will be a big man."

"Why do you say, if all goes well?" asked the right boot.

"It makes my conversation sound so much finer," said the left boot. "I must be very careful where I walk—that is, I must be very careful how I talk. The words rhyme, you know."

"I know now you tell me," said the right boot, "but boots don't as a rule know much about poetry. We're not high up enough for poetry. Poetry is usually written about clouds and the sky. We are simple boots, quite satisfied to walk our humble way along the earth or the floor."

"We walk where Eric has us walk," said the left boot.

"That's true enough," agreed the right boot.

"How did it all come about?" asked the left boot.

"What are you talking about?" asked the right boot.

"The photographs, of course," said the left boot. "You were listening then better than I was, for I was standing on my toe and trying not to fall over. I wasn't paying much attention to anything else for a minute."

"You mean," said the right boot, "that Eric was standing on one toe,

SCHOOL COLUMN

The Writing, Spelling and Arithmetic Contests which were conducted by Superintendent Alva Groth in the towns of Polk, Hartford, Erin, Richfield, Germantown and Jackson the past week were a splendid success so far as school representation and co-operation from teachers in the various towns is concerned. The community spirit shown in the majority of towns was very good. This sort of friendly inter-school competition should be encouraged as much good will result from this kind of work.

Principal Kathryn Riley and Miss Ruth Ryan of Plat deserve special credit for the splendid school spirit shown by their school at the Richfield contest. The contestants from District No. 7 came to Richfield accompanied by about twenty-five people from their district.

Principal H. H. Snyder of South Germantown also deserves special mention for the fine community spirit manifested in the large crowd which filled the hall of the Insurance Building at Germantown on the evening of the contest. All the schools in the town were represented except District No. 3.

The school house in District No. 9, Jackson was too small for the large crowd of interested parents and friends who were present at the town of Jackson contest on Saturday evening, so the Town Hall was used for the purpose in order to accommodate the crowd. Sixteen contestants participated and all schools were represented except District No. 10. Miss Ruth Gull, the teacher in District No. 9, Jackson, has been doing active community work, the result of which was shown in this gathering.

In spite of the bad roads during the forepart of the week, the contest held in the town of Polk was well attended. Mr. Geo. Thoma, the teacher in charge at Cedar Creek had prepared an interesting program with the teachers in the town, consisting of school work.

The teachers in charge of the Hartford and Erin contests were unable to give their meetings sufficient publicity but notwithstanding this, both contests were fairly well attended and 50 per cent of the schools were represented in each town.

The winners in each town to represent that town in the county contest are as follows:
Town of Polk, District No. 1, Myrtle Lenz, Average 78 per cent; Town of Germantown, District No. 5, Walter Kaun, Average 85 per cent; Town of Hartford, District No. 6, Adella Weger, Average 75 per cent; Town of Richfield, Districts No. 6 and 8, Edna Shatz, Average 76 per cent and Hanna Kuenzi, Average 76 per cent; Town of Erin, District No. 3, Claire Guille, Average 73 per cent; Town of Jackson, District No. 5, Lucile Lorenz, Average 83 per cent.

The work done by the teachers in Spelling the past year showed great improvement. This was due in part to the fact that teachers were urged by the county superintendent to teach children to spell words which are commonly used, and are often misspelled, instead of having them spend their time on a great many difficult words which they never use. Over half of the fifty contestants had a standing of 90 per cent or over in Spelling.

The Arithmetic work which was a test in both accuracy and speed, was not as satisfactory as we had expected. More emphasis will have to be placed on farm problems, like finding the capacity of a bin of grain or a silo, or problems in measuring hay or cord wood, etc.

These contests will be continued for the rest of the month in the remaining towns of the county. The schedule follows:

March 24th, Trenton, District No. 1, Miss Belle Schachly, teacher; March 25th, Farmington, District No. 5, Fillmore State Graded School; March 26th, Kewaskum, District No. 5, Kewaskum Village grades; March 27th, Wayne, District No. 5, Wayne Center School; March 28th, Addison, District No. 10, Allenton School; March 29th, Barton, District No. 1, Barton State Graded School; March 31st, West Bend, District No. 10, Oak, Knell School.

Reported by Miss Ethel Weiss, teacher of District No. 5, Barton.

The box social held last Wednesday evening at the Golden Oak School, Dist. No. 1, Barton, was a very successful and enjoyable affair. Twenty-two boxes were sold. This netted the school $48.90.

Lorenz Kluever and Elmer Abel will represent the Golden Oak School at the Arithmetic, Spelling and Writing Contest to be held at Barton on Saturday night, March 29th. The school is planning on furnishing several numbers for the program also.

"Your own horse-sense ought to tell you what is the best value when a small chew of Real Gravelly tastes so good, and lasts so much longer than a big

Good taste, smaller chew, longer life is what makes Genuine Gravelly cost less to chew than ordinary plug.

FORGOT WHAT HE NEEDED

From the Republican, Mt. Gilead, Ohio: The editor had an interesting experience some time ago, when a young gentleman came to this office and asked for a copy of the Morrow County Republican. He scrutinized it carefully when a copy was handed him, and then said: "Now I know!" "What is it you are looking for," we inquired. "My wife sent me after a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I forgot the name. I went to several stores and the clerks named over everything in the line on the shelf except 'Chamberlain's'. I'll try again, and I'll never go home without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." The Republican would suggest to the proprietors of stores, that they post their clerks, and never let them substitute. Customers lose faith in stores where substituting is permitted, to say nothing of the injustice to makers of good goods and the disappointment of customers.
