RECEIVES LETTER FROM GERMANY

The following letter was received by Henry L. Kohl from Kohlville on April 7th, from his friend, Pvt. Wm. P. Friedemann, Co. B, 120th Machine Gun Battalion, Army of Occupation, now stationed at Sehl, Germany:

Sehl, Germany, Mar. 23, 1919

Dear Friend Henry:

Received your most welcome letter some time ago, and but for the fact that we have been busy all the time would have answered sooner to let you know that I am in good health and spirits, for a genuine American doughboy never gets downhearted, and hope the same of all my friends at Kohlville. Will relate some of my experiences I had since I stepped on "terra firma" over here on May 14, 1918, when we landed at Calais, France, and were given a few days of rest and then sent to La Fume, where we were connected with the 16th Irish brigade, after which we were fully equipped for active service. We went into training for three weeks with the English and then were sent to the town of Armentieres, where we were given more training. On the evening of July 17th, we were all called to get ready with full field equipment and about dusk, we started with both Infantry regiments in our brigade, everybody thinking we were going out to some maneuvers. Hiking all night we finally stopped at a check, the next morning and received orders that we were to get ready to follow the 58th Infantry "over the top". At 4:30 A. M. everybody was ready, realizing that at last we would get a chance at the Germans, to do or to die for the cause we were sent over here. After being in the front lines for six days during which time things happened of which we never had dreamed of before, we were sent in reserve for a few days, after which we took the front lines again, and after eight more days of hard fighting the division was relieved Aug. 13, and sent to a French town back of the lines. This battle was called "The Second Battle of the Marne." Talk about h—, I sure thought it was when all those shells started to explode all around us, but I think the Germans got a letter dose than we did. Waiting for replacements we again went into training and got ready for the next move, and after having received men from other companies we again went to the front, hiking all night and resting during the day, usually hiking in some woods so that the German planes could not locate us and soon we were back again in range of the big guns. Being on that front which was the great "St. Mihiel Drive" we were met in reserve and did not have to do very much hard fighting, but when called upon we were always there with the goods. And on the 12th of September we were relieved and went back to some woods but never were out of shell fire.

The worst of it was rain and mud. Sleeping outside made it rather uncomfortable, clothes being wet all the time, but the boys trying to buck up courage and looking for better days. On the night of Sept. 24, we left for what proved to be the battle of the Meuse-Argonne, and on the night of Sept. 25, three thousand six hundred and fifty artillery pieces opened a barrage, blowing up barbed wire entanglements, dug outs and all obstacles in the way of the infantry, and the next morning at 5:30 the infantry made their charge and captured over thirty-five thousand prisoners which were taken by surprise and held by the artillery, and after many days of hard fighting our division finally reached its objective for which it had been detailed. During this fight it was so rainy and muddy that infantry men often had to help pull cannons through places where it was almost impossible to get them through with horses. Our division was relieved Oct. 22, and then went to Efrainville for rest, and on Nov. 3, again started for the front. On Nov. 8, we were ordered to turn back and heard an occasional rumor that the Germans had quit the game. On Nov. 11 we landed in a blowup town, where we were informed that all hostilities had ceased at eleven o'clock that day. Everybody was glad that the war was over, but that we soon could go home, but instead we were ordered to get ready to move into Germany again, and as our march into Germany began, and as we were going through mud I think it will rival "Sherman's March from Atlanta to the Sea" for the mud, with out cursing the Kaiser and his autocratic followers, and on the 22nd of Dec. we came to Sehl where we are at present. The Germans as a whole have been kind to us as our hike and made it as comfortable as they could for the yanks. On March 18, our division was inspected by Gen. Pershing, who gave us a special award, expressed his thanks for our excellent and untiring appearance, for the excellent work done at the front, and last but not least for the good work we are doing in the Army of Occupation and hoping it will be no distant date when we all can return to the dear old U. S. with our victorious won, one a great military victory and the other a great moral victory, and that everybody ought to be proud to belong to a division that has a record like the 4th division. Well I guess I must close for tonight, hoping that we will see each other soon. So for the time, love and best regards to all from your friend Private Wm. P. Friedemann.

FURNITURE STORE CHANGES HANDS

A deal was consummated last week Friday afternoon, whereby Herman W. Meilahn disposed of his furniture stock and business and undertaking and embalming business, located in the Mrs. Nic. Marx building on upper Main street of this village, to Clemens Reinders of West Bend. Possession was given the owner at once.

Mr. Meilahn purchased the furniture and undertaking establishment from John Muehleis and Co., eleven and one-half years ago, and has since that time worked up a large trade, one that was well and favorably known throughout the entire community. His many friends here regret to learn of his retirement from the furniture and undertaking business. Mr. Meilahn is undecided as to what he intends to do.

Clemens Reinders, the new owner, is a young married man of West Bend and came to this village, not as a stranger to the citizens of this village and therefore needs no introduction. He is a man who has had considerable experience in the furniture and undertaking and embalming business. He graduated from the Johnson College of Embalming of Milwaukee, being a licensed embalmer, was in the employ of Kapfer & Zwaska for two years and the past three years for Kapfer & Manning of West Bend.

Mr. Reinders will handle a complete line of up-to-date furniture, and do all kinds of repair work.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinders will move their household furniture to this village as soon as they can get a house. The Statesman, together with the citizens of this village welcome Mr. and Mrs. Reinders and wish them an abundance of success in their new field of occupation.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Having purchased the furniture stock and undertaking and embalming business from Herman W. Meilahn last week Friday afternoon, located in the Mrs. Nic. Marx building on upper Main street in the village of Kewaskum, I wish to announce to the public that I have taken possession of same, and the liberal patronage already given me the past week is highly appreciated and for which I express my hearty thanks. I have come to Kewaskum with good will to all and malice to none, I come not as a perfect stranger to the good citizens of this village and community. I have had considerable experience in the furniture and undertaking business, am a graduate of the Johnson College of Embalming of Milwaukee, I worked for Kapfer & Zwaska for two years, and for Kapfer & Manning of West Bend for three years. I will at all times keep a new line of up-to-date furniture, sewing machines, Edison phonographs and records in stock, will do all kinds of repair work and guarantee all work nicely, neatly and promptly done. I invite everyone to call on me at my store and get acquainted, for I want to know all the people in my territory and I want all the people to know me. I have just recently returned from service in the United States army and am here with a strong desire to remain here, I solicit your business.

DRIVEN OUT OF HOME BY FIRE

In last Monday evening's Sentinel appeared the following item which may be of interest to our readers:

The lives of several persons were endangered when a fire broke out in a dwelling house at 1109 Thirty-fifth street at 3 o'clock Monday morning.

The fire, which started in the basement, soon enveloped the building and gained great headway before firemen arrived.

In jumping out of the second story window George Muehlebauer severely cut his right hand when he broke the glass in the window.

The family of Mrs. N. Goring, living in the same building, escaped from their burning home. The loss is estimated at about $500.

It is believed spontaneous combustion in rubbish accumulated in the basement started the fire.

Mrs. N. Goring is the mother of Mrs. Albert Oppenorth of this village.

TEACHERS AND SICK CHILDREN

Teachers' rights and duties in regard to sick children and diseases are not well known. This is also true in regard to parents and guardians. Health conditions are so serious just now that we publish rules 17, 18 and 19 of the State Board of Health school laws of 1918. (A careful study of these rules of the state board in this law book would be very helpful if the rules were followed.)

Rule 17. All teachers, school authorities, and health officers having jurisdiction shall not permit the attendance in any private parochial or public school, any pupil afflicted with a severe cough, a severe cold, iten, lice or other vermin, or any contagious skin disease, or who is filthy in body or clothing, or who has a dangerous contagious or infectious disease. The teacher in all schools shall, without delay send home any pupil who is obviously sick, even if the ailment is unknown, and said teacher shall inform the parents or guardian of said pupil and also the local health officer as speedily as possible, and said health officer shall examine into the case and take such action as is reasonable and necessary for the benefit of the pupils and to prevent the spread of disease.

TWO PEACE PACTS DRAWN BY ALLIES

Envoys Confer on Last Questions Awaiting Settlement.

BIG FOUR NEAR THE FINISH

First Document Concerns the Hung Only—The Second Will Be Signed by Austrian, Bulgarian and Turkish Delegates.

Paris, April 16.—The peace treaty will be divided into two parts, according to the latest information in the French press.

The first part will concern Germany, and will include a clause by which she will pledge herself to comply with all agreements to be concluded with her former allies. The second part will not concern Germany directly, and will be signed only by the Austrian, Bulgarian and Turkish delegates.

German Formally Invited. A formal invitation was sent by the council of labor of four to the German government to send representatives to Versailles for the meeting of the peace congress April 25. No reply had been received up to last night, but it is expected the German delegation will reach Versailles about April 24.

The complete German peace mission probably will number about 200 persons. The German delegates while at Versailles will reside in a wing of the Hotel Des Reservoirs, adjoining the prefecture of police, according to arrangements announced by Paul Dutas, general secretary of the peace conference.

French delegates will occupy the rest of the hotel, once the home of Mme. de Pompadour.

Most of the French and other delegates probably will go to Versailles daily to attend the meetings with the German delegates at the Trianon Palace hotel, where the supreme war council has had its headquarters. The meetings with the Germans, it seems probable, will continue ten or fifteen days.

The treaty will be signed in the famous Hall of Mirrors in the palace at Versailles.

Debate Adriatic Question. The council of four took up the question of the Adriatic again. Arthur J. Balfour, secretary for foreign affairs, took the place of Premier Lloyd George, who went to London.

A plan for selling surplus stocks of raw materials of the allies to the German government prior to the signing of the peace treaty has been approved by the supreme economic council.

A special committee will perfect the arrangements in conjunction with the blockade and finance sections of the economic council.

Belgium Gets Seat. The official statement on the work of the council says:

"The supreme economic council held its fifth meeting at the ministry of commerce, under the chairmanship of Vance McCormick.

"It was decided, in view of the large number of questions coming before the council which particularly affect Belgium, that the Belgium government should be invited to nominate a representative who shall have the right to attend the meeting of the council and of its sections.

"The disposal of surplus stocks of raw material in possession of the allied governments for sale to the German government during the period prior to the treaty of peace, under arrangements to be worked out by a special committee in conjunction with the blockade and finance sections of the council, was approved.

Received Relief Measures. "The director general of relief submitted a review of relief measures effected by the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy during March, through the co-ordination of the supreme economic council, which shows supplies amounting to more than 388,000 tons, to a total value of $111,280,000, were distributed. (Director General Hoover's figures recently given out were 388,041 tons to the value of $85,100,000.)

"The council considered the measures necessary to increase the supplies, finance and shipping required for the following months.

"The council again considered the serious deficiencies in the Italian coal situation, and a committee was appointed to devise definite measures for the immediate increase of the insufficient supply."

FREE 46 MILITARY OFFENDERS

Inmates of Disciplinary Barracks at Fort Leavenworth Released—Sixty More to Follow.

Leavenworth, Kan., April 16.—Forty-six inmates of the disciplinary barracks here were released following a review of the cases begun two months ago. Sixty more will be released, it was announced. The men released include many who took part in the barracks strikes in January. They are listed as military offenders.

Strike at Danzig Comes to End, Berlin, April 16.—The strike at Danzig came to an end and work was resumed in all industries. Railroad traffic in that district again is normal.

BAKER IS IN PARIS

SAYS HE WILL KEEP ONLY VOLUNTEERS ON RHINE.

No Draft Men to Stay in Germany—Talks of Disposition of Government Property.

Paris, April 16.—American troops to the number of 275,000 are returning to the United States from Europe during the present month. Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, said on his arrival in Paris on Brest.

In May, he added, the number will fall to 250,000 because of lack of transports, but in June the number probably will rise to 800,000, which will be maintained as the monthly rate until all of the 1,400,000 men still here are returned.

The secretary said that if any agreement should be reached by which American troops would participate in the defense of the Rhine indefinitely, undoubtedly the only soldiers used would be those who volunteered for such service.

Mr. Baker said he was in France to participate in the work of the American liquidation committee. He expects to go to Coblenz and the former fighting front for General Pershing and to return to the United States within ten days.

The secretary of war declared that no decision had yet been reached as to what disposition would be made of the docks, warehouses and other permanent improvements constructed in France by the United States government.

He said that large quantities of captured guns and other war material would be taken to the United States as trophies. Much American heavy artillery equipment also will be returned, but no decision has yet been made as to the disposal of automobiles and motortrucks.

Belgium, the secretary said, is to get large quantities of cotton goods and foodstuffs from the American army.

FIFTY SHIPS FOR U. S. FLIGHT

Admiral Mayo to Place Destroyers on Atlantic to Aid Naval Airplanes Next Month.

Washington, April 16.—Admiral Henry T. Mayo, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, which arrived Monday in New York, will come to Washington to discuss with navy department officials the arrangements and location of warships in the Atlantic ocean for the overseas flight of naval seaplanes next month.

The number of warships to be used as guides and patrols during the flight has not been announced, but it probably will not be less than fifty. Plans are to place destroyers less than 200 miles apart over the entire route and at least one fuel ship will be on the course so as to replenish the fuel supply of the seaplanes should that become necessary.

OFFICIAL SUMMARY ISSUED IN PARIS GIVING TERMS OF WORLD PEACE PACT

Paris, April 14.—The following official summary of the covenant of the league of nations was issued on Saturday:

"1. The league of nations is founded in order to promote international co-operation and to secure peace. The league will include: (A) The belligerent states named in a document annexed to the covenant; (B) all the neutral states so named, and (C) in the future, any self-governing country whose admission is approved by two-thirds of the states already members of the league."

"A state may withdraw from the league, providing it has kept its obligations to date, on giving two years' notice."

"2. The league will act through an assembly comprising not more than three representatives of each of the member states, each state having only one vote, and a council comprising, for the present, one representative of each of the five great powers and each of four other powers as selected from time to time by the assembly. "The number of powers of each class represented on the council may be increased by the unanimous consent of the council and a majority of the assembly. Other powers have the right to sit as members of the council during the decision of matters in which they are especially interested."

"In the council, as in the assembly, each state will have only one vote. Both these bodies are to meet at stated intervals (the council at least once a year), and at other times if required; both can deal with any matter that is of international interest or threatens the peace of the world; the decision of both must be unanimous, except in certain specified cases, matters of procedure, for instance, being decided by a majority vote."

"The league will have a permanent secretariat, under a secretary general. The secretariat and all other bodies under the league may include women, equally with men. A permanent court of international justice and various permanent commissions and bureaus are also to be established."

"3. The member states agree: "(A) To reduce their armaments, plans for such reduction being suggested by the council, but only adopted with the consent of the states themselves, and thereafter not to increase them without the concurrence of the council."

"(B) To exchange full information of their existing armies and their naval and military programs."

"(C) To respect each other's territory and personal independence, and to guarantee them against foreign aggression."

"(D) To submit all international disputes either to arbitration or to inquiry by the council, which latter, however, may not pronounce an opinion on any dispute whose subject matter falls solely within a state's domestic jurisdiction; in no case to go to war till three months after an award, or a unanimous recommendation has been made, and even then not to go to war with a state which accepts the award or recommendation."

"(E) To regard a state which has broken the covenant as having committed an act of war against the league, to break off all economic and other relations with it, and to allow free passage through their territories to the troops of those states which are contributing armed force on behalf of the league. The council is to recommend what amount of force, if any, should be applied by the several governments concerned, but the approval of the latter is necessary. [States not members of the league will be invited to accept the obligations of the league for the purpose of particular disputes, and, if they fail to comply, may be forced.]"

"(F) Not to consider any treaty binding till it has been communicated to the league, which will then proceed to publish it; to admit the right of the assembly to advise the reconsideration of treaties and international conditions which do not accord with present needs, and to be bound by no obligations inconsistent with the covenant."

"A state which breaks its agreement may be expelled from the league by the council."

"4. The covenant does not affect the validity of international engagements, such as treaties of arbitration or regional understandings like the Monroe Doctrine, for securing the maintenance of peace."

"5. The former German colonies and the territories of the Ottoman empire are to be administered in the interests of civilization by states which are willing to be mandatories of the league, which will exercise a general supervision."

"6. The member states accept certain responsibilities with regard to labor conditions, the treatment of natives, the white slave traffic, the opium traffic, the arms traffic with uncivilized and semi-civilized countries, transit and trade conditions, public health and Red Cross societies."

"7. The league is recognized as the central body interested in co-ordinating and assisting international activities generally."

"8. Amendments to the covenant require the approval of all the states on the council and a simple majority of those in the assembly. States which signify their dissent from amendments thus approved are not bound by them, but, in this case, cease to be members of the league."

Paris, April 16.—A statement by President Wilson in behalf of the Council of Four says the questions of peace are so near complete solution that they will be quickly and finally drafted.

The announcement was contained in an official bulletin, which added that the German plenipotentiaries had been invited to meet at Versailles on April 25.

HOW'S YOUR BLOOD? Pimples and Eruptions Mean Bad Blood

People who have impure or impoverished blood should be careful to take only a temperance remedy made of wild roots and barks such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is and has been for nearly 50 years. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

The first day you start to take this reliable medicine, impure germs and accumulation begin to separate in the blood and are then expelled through the eliminative organs.

In place of the impurities, the arteries and veins gradually get fresh vitalized blood and the action of this good blood on the skin means that pimples, boils, carbuncles, eczema, rash, acne and all skin blemishes will disappear.

Then you must remember that when the blood is right, the liver, stomach, bowels and kidneys become healthy, active and vigorous and you will have no more trouble with indigestion, backache, headache.

Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to-day at any medicine dealer, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10c for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Grand Rapids, Wis.—"I am a great believer in Dr. Pierce's medicines. When in a delicate condition, I had several very bad. I took 'Golden Medical Discovery' and it cured me and I have never had any trace of it since. When my baby was born he was broken out. I gave him the 'Discovery' and it cured him, also. I don't think my child would have lived only for this remedy. After the birth of baby I was miserable. I would have pains and headaches. I took medicines but got no relief. Finally, I began taking 'Favorite Prescription' and in the next month I was all right—felt fine, and have been well ever since."

MOB KILLS SAXONY OFFICIAL

Minister of War Neuring Hurlled Into the Elbe and Shot to Death—Five Killed in Dresden.

Copenhagen, April 14.—Herr Neuring, war minister in the government of Saxony, was killed at Dresden by disgruntled soldiers to whom the minister had refused a hearing. The war ministry was stormed by demonstrators, who dragged out Herr Neuring and threw him into the Elbe, where he was shot and killed as he tried to swim to the bank.

Wounded patients in the Dresden hospitals, says the Dresden dispatch, collected in the morning in the Theater square to protest against an order issued by Herr Neuring to the effect that the wounded in future should receive only peace-time pay.

A state of siege has been proclaimed in Dresden.

Five persons were killed in the disorders, but eventually the demonstrators dispersed when the minister of worship promised a deputation that all the demands of the soldiers should be granted—old rates of pay and adequate food rations.

HEALTH DUTY OF SCHOOL AND HOME

"Far from interfering with home authority, the school must be an adjunct to the home in all those activities that make for the well-balanced growth of men and women," says the February 15 issue of the New York State Department's Bulletin to the schools, which is given over wholly to health work.

"It is not by preaching but by practice that we succeed in training the young plant into healthy and sturdy growth. We have come to realize that it is absurd to make our schoolhouses sanitary and 'modern' while we neglect the newest and most scientific advances in the conversation of the individual. The medical inspector, the school nurse, and the well-informed teacher are necessary agencies to conserve and promote the bodily growth and welfare of children. By their united vigilance we hope to exclude from the school premises unsanitary influences that can be controlled by modern skill, to prevent the development of physical defects in children, and to correct every remediable defect that impedes their progress in school and that can be discovered by expert medical examination.

"The medical inspection of schools is a rank effort to build up the child's body as well as his mind, to strengthen him for the physical stress and strain of modern life as well as for the demands that may be made upon his intellectual powers. We believe that the school should return the child to his home at the age of 14 to 18 years in better physical condition than when he entered the primary grade. We hope also that this service of health direction will reach down into the kindergarten, and extend its protecting influence around our young people throughout their entire course of study."

IF I WERE A FARMER.

If I were a farmer I would keep at hand a few reliable medicines for minor ailments that are not so serious as to require the attention of a physician, such as Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, colds and croup.

Chamberlain's Liniment for sprains, bruises and rheumatic pains.

Chamberlain's Tablets for stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation.

By having these articles at hand it would often save the trouble of a trip to town in the busiest season or in the night, and would enable me to treat slight ailments as soon as they appear, and thereby avoid the more serious diseases that so often follow.

TO THE PUBLIC

From Ex-Marshall Brandt

People are asking me nearly every day what wrong I have done that caused my being deforated for appointment as Village Marshal. For the benefit of those who have been interested in my work, and to the gentle readers of this paper, I wish to state that in my candid opinion it looks like a framed-up affair, as they surely could not have found fault with the work done during my eighteen years as marshal of this village. Some time ago, a few members of the old board accused me of being in the ring with the Campbellsport boys in helping them to steal the silent policemen from the streets of this village last summer furthermore, some of our great citizens of this village even made remarks to the effect that I should be taken into court for prosecution for same. As soon as I learned of what was going on, I immediately got busy, and went to Campbellsport where I met the boys, telling them that I was blamed for their work done. The Campbellsport men were surprised to think that I would be accused of anything they themselves were alone responsible for they never at no time had even mentioned my name or given me a thought, and in order to clear me of being wrongfully accused they issued the following sworn statement: State of Wisconsin, County of Fond du Lac, ss.

James Farrell being duly sworn on oath says that he is a resident of Campbellsport, Wisconsin; that he has been informed that certain rumors are being circulated that George Brandt, the village marshal of Kewaskum, Wisconsin, tipped him off that warrants were about to be issued or had been issued against certain Campbellsport men for taking certain 'iron policemen' from the village of Kewaskum during the summer of 1918, that to his best knowledge the said George Brandt did not tip off the said James Farrell or any other Campbellsport man about any such proceeding; that the purported statements of the detectives hired by the Kewaskum Board is not correct, in so far as the said James Farrell knows or believes that the said George Brandt did not know who the Campbellsport men were that might have been implicated in removing said 'iron policemen'.

James Farrell.

Sworn to and subscribed to before me this 24th day of March 1919.

Herman Haug,
Notary Public.

A few days later the local board held their regular monthly meeting, all members being present except one, who claimed to be sick, yet he was able to handle heavy freight the next day. The village clerk read the oath to the board, and when he had finished reading same, I asked the board if they had anything to say, and for a time there came no reply, until finally one remarked "Ich Weis Mal Nix," there you are. Today I invite any one to go to either one of the four members for information, and this is the excuse they may have in store for you: No. 1. Well he arrested my boy one and fined him $1 and cost, for driving around the corner 40 miles per hour, that's all I have against him then go to the second one, and he may tell you, "I have nothing against him only he spends all his money at Schultz's and not by me" the third may say "well I really can't say nothing and have nothing against him. Now you come by the fourth one, he may express himself in this manner: "Well you know he is a d— good fellow, but know the trouble with me is I know everybody else faults only not my own, and he had the office long enough.

Gentle readers this is as much as I could say about my defeat, the rest you probably know yourself from my past record that I was an officer who feared no man, and was very lucky in capturing the greatest "yegs" in the United States.

THE LIGHT IN THE CLEARING

A TALE OF THE NORTH COUNTRY
IN THE TIME OF SILAS WRIGHT

By
IRVING BACHELLER

AUTHOR OF
"BEN HOLDEN, D'RI AND I, DARREL OF THE BLESSED ISLES, KEEPING UP WITH LIZZIE, ETC., ETC."

So saying he handed me this letter:
"Canterbury, Vt.,
"June 1.

"Dear Sir—I am interested in the boy Barton Baynes. Good words about him have been flying around like pigeons. When school is out I would like to hear from you, what is the record? What do you think of the soul in him? What kind of work is best for it? If you will let me maybe I can help the plans of God a little. That is my business and yours. Thanking you for reading this, I am, as ever,
"God's humble servant,

"KATE FULLERTON."

"Why, this is the writing of the Silent Woman," I said before I had read the letter half through.

"Rovin' Kate?"
"Rovin' Kate; I never knew her other name, but I saw her handwriting long ago."

"But look—this is a neatly written, well-worded letter and the sheet is as white and clean as the new snow. Uncanny woman! They say she carries the power of God in her right hand. So do all the wronged."

"I wonder why Kate is asking about me," I said.
"Never mind the reason. She is your friend and let us thank God for it. Think how she came to yer help in the old barn an' say a thousand prayers, my lad."

Having come to the first flight of the uplands, he left me with many a kind word—how much they mean to a boy who is choosing his way with a growing sense of loneliness!

I reached the warm welcome of our little home just in time for dinner. They were expecting me and it was a regular company dinner—chicken pie and strawberry shortcake.

How well I remember that hour with the doors open and the sun shining brightly on the blossoming fields and the joy of man and bird and beast in the return of summer and the talk about the late visit of Alma Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln!

While we were eating I told them about the letter of old Kate.

"Fullerton! Aunt Deel exclaimed. "Are ye sure that was the name, Bart?"

"Yes."
"Godness gracious sakes alive!" She and Uncle Peabody gave each other looks of surprised inquiry.

"Do you know anybody by that name?" I asked.

"We used to," said Aunt Deel as she resumed her eating. "Can't be she's one of the Sam Fullertons, can it?"

"Oh, prob'ly not," said Uncle Peabody. "Back East they're more Fullertons than ye could shake a stick at."

A week later we had our raising. Uncle Peabody did not want a public raising, but Aunt Deel had had her way. We had hewed and mortised and holed the timbers for our new home.

The neighbors came with pikes and helped to raise and stay and cover them. A great amount of human kindness went into the beams and rafters of that home and of others like it. I knew that The Thing was still alive in the neighborhood, but even that could not paralyze the helpful hands of those people. Indeed, what was said of my Uncle Peabody was nothing more or less than a kind of conversational firewood. I cannot think that any one really believed it.

We had a cheerful day. A barrel of hard cider had been set up in the dooryard, and I remember that some drank it too freely. The hee-hee of the men as they lifted on the pikes and the sound of the hammer and beetle rang in the air from morning until night.

Mrs. Rodney Barnes and Mrs. Dorothy came to help Aunt Deel with the cooking and a great dinner was served on an improvised table in the dooryard, where the stove was set up. The shingles and sheathes and clapboard were on before the day ended.

Uncle Peabody and I sat in the floors and stairway and partitions. More than once in the days we were working together I tried to tell him what Sally had told me, but my courage failed.

The day came, shortly, when I had to speak out, and I took the straight way of my duty as the needle of the compass pointed. It was the end of a summer day and we had watched the dusk fill the valley and come creeping up the slant, slinking the bowlders and thorn tops in its flood, one by one. As we sat looking out of the open door that evening I told them what Sally had told me of the evil report which had traveled through the two towns.

"Damn, little souled, narner contracted—" Uncle Peabody, speaking in a low, sad tone, but with deep feeling, cut off this highly promising opinion before it was half expressed, and rose and went to the water nail and drank.

"As long as we're honest we don't care what they say," he remarked as he returned to his chair.

"If they won't believe us, we ought to show 'em the papers—ayes," said Aunt Deel.

"Thunder an' Jehu! I wouldn't go 'round the town tryin' to prove that I ain't a thief," said Uncle Peabody. "It wouldn't make no difference. They've got to have somethin' to play with. If they want to use my name for a bean bag let 'em as long as they do it when I ain't lookin'. I wouldn't wonder if they got some hands by an' by."

I never heard him speak of it again. Indeed, although I knew the topic was often in our thoughts it was never mentioned in our home but once after that, to my knowledge.

We sat for a long time thinking as the night came on.

That week a letter came to me from the senator, announcing the day of Mrs. Wright's arrival in Canton and asking me to meet and assist her in getting the house to rights. I did so. She was a pleasant-faced, amiable woman and a most enterprising house cleaner. I remember that my first task was mending the wheelbarrow.

"I don't know what Silas would do if he were to get home and find his wheelbarrow broken," said she. "It is almost an inseparable companion of his."

The schoolmaster and his family were fishing and camping upon the river, and so I lived at the senator's house with Mrs. Wright and her mother until he arrived. What a wonderful house it was, in my view! I was awed by its size and splendor, its soft carpets and shiny brass and mahogany. Yet it was very simple.

I hoed the garden and cleared its paths and mowed the dooryard and did some painting in the house.

The senator returned to Canton that evening on the Watertown stage. He greeted me with a fatherly warmth. Again I felt that strong appeal to my eye in his broadcloth and fine linen and beaver hat and in the splendid dignity and courtesy of his manners.

"I've had good reports of you, Bart, and I'm very glad to see you," he said. "I believe your own marks have been excellent in the last year," I ventured.

"Poorer than I could wish. The teacher has been very kind to me," he laughed. "What have you been studying?"

"Latin (I always mentioned the Latin first), algebra, arithmetic, grammar, geography and history."

He asked about my aunt and uncle and I told him of all that had befallen us, save the one thing of which I had spoken only with him and Sally.

"I shall go up to see them soon," he said.

The people of the little village had learned that he preferred to be let alone when he had just returned over the long, wearisome way from the scene of his labors. So we had the evening to ourselves.

Mrs. Wright, being weary after the day's work, went to bed early and, at his request, I sat with the senator by and make up a statement of all the time you have given me?"

I made out the statement very neatly and carefully and put it in his hands.

"That is well done," said he. "I shall wish you to stay until the day after tomorrow, if you will. So you will please add another day."

I amended the statement and he paid me the handsome sum of seven dollars. I remember that after I went to my room that night I stitched up the opening in my jacket pocket, which contained my wealth, with the needle and thread which Aunt Deel had put in my bundle, and slept with the jacket under my mattress.

CHAPTER XV.

I Use My Own Compass at a Fork in the Road.

Swiftly now I move across the border into manhood—a serious, eager, restless manhood. It was the fashion of the young those days.

Mr. Wright came up for a day's fishing in July. My uncle and I took him up the river.

While we ate our luncheon he described Jackson and spoke of the famous cheese which he had kept on a table in the vestibule of the White House for his callers. He described his fellow senators—Webster, Clay, Rives, Calhoun and Benton. I remember that Webster was, in his view, the least of them, although at his best the greatest orator. We had a delightful day, and when I drove back to the village with him that night he told me that I could go into the office of Wright & Baldwin after harvesting.

"It will do for a start," he said. "A little later I shall try to find a better place for you."

My life went on with little in it worth recording until the letter came. I speak of it as "the letter," because of its effect upon my career. It was from Sally, and it said:

"Dear Bart: It's all over for a long time, perhaps forever—that will depend on you. I shall be true to you, if you really love me, even if I have to wait many, many years. Mother and father saw and read your letter. They say we are too young to be thinking about love and that we have got to stop it. How can I stop it? I guess I would have to stop living. But we shall have to depend upon our memories now. I hope that yours is as good as mine. Father says no more letters without his permission, and he stamped his foot so hard that I think he must have made a dent in the floor. Talk about slavery—what do you think of that? Mother says that we must wait—that it would make father a great deal of trouble if it were known that I allowed you to write. I guess the soul of old Grimshaw is still following you. Well, we must stretch out that lovely day as far as we can. On the third day of June, 1844, we shall both be twenty-one—and I suppose that we can do as we please then. The day is a long way off, but I will agree to meet you that day at eleven in the morning under the old pine on the river where I met you that day and you told me that you loved me. If either or both should die our souls will know where to find each other. If you will solemnly promise, write these words and only these to my mother—Amour omnia vincit, but do not sign your name."

"SALLY."

What a serious matter it seemed to me then! I remember that it gave me a rather slow foot. I wrote the words very neatly and plainly on a sheet of paper and mailed it to Mrs. Dunkelberg. I wondered if Sally would stand firm, and longed to know the secrets of the future. More than ever I was resolved to be the principal witness in some great matter, as my friend in Ashery lane had put it.

I was eight months with Wright & Baldwin when I was offered a clerkship in the office of Judge Westbrook, at Cobleskill, in Schoharie county, at two hundred a year and my board. I knew not then just how the offer had come, but knew that the senator must have recommended me. I know now that he wanted a reliable witness of the rent troubles which were growing acute in Schoharie, Delaware and Columbia counties.

It was a trial to go so far from home, as Aunt Deel put it, but both my aunt and uncle agreed that it was "for the best."

How it wrung my heart, when Mr. Purvis and I got into the stage at Canton, to see my aunt and uncle standing by the front wheel looking up at me. How old and lonely and forlorn they looked! Aunt Deel had her purse in her hand. I remember how she took a dollar out of it—I suppose it was the only dollar she had—and looked at it a moment and then handed it up to me.

"You better take it," she said. "I'm 'fraid you won't have enough."

How her hand and lips trembled! I have always kept that dollar.

I couldn't see them as we drove away. The judge received me kindly and gave Purvis a job in his garden. I was able to take his dictation in shorthand and spent most of my time in taking down contracts and correspondence and drafting them into proper form, which I had the knack of doing rather neatly. I was impressed by the immensity of certain towns in the neighborhood, and there were some temptations in my way. Many people, and especially the prominent men, indulged in ardent spirits.

We had near us there a little section of the old world which was trying, in a half-hearted fashion, to maintain itself in the midst of a democracy. It was the manorial life of the patroons—a relic of ancient feudalism which had its beginning in 1629, when the West Indies company issued its charter of privileges and exemptions. That charter offered to any member of the company who should, within four years, bring fifty adults to the New Netherlands and establish them along the Hudson, a liberal grant of land, to be called a manor, of which the owner or patroon should be full proprietor and chief magistrate. The settlers were to be exempt from taxation for ten years, but under bond to stay in one place and develop it. In the beginning the patroon built houses and barns and furnished cattle, seed and tools. The tenants for themselves and their heirs agreed to pay him a fixed rent forever in stock and produce and, further, to grind at the owner's mill and neither to hunt nor fish.

Judge Westbrook, in whose office I worked, was counsel and collector for the patroons, notably for the manors of Livingston and Van Rensselaer—two little kingdoms in the heart of the great republic.

Mr. Louis Latour of Jefferson county whom I had met in the company of Mr. Dunkelberg, came during my last year there to study law in the office of the judge, a privilege for which he was indebted to the influence of Senator Wright, I understood. He was a gay Lothario, always boasting of his love affairs, and I had little to do with him.

One day in May near the end of my two years in Cobleskill Judge Westbrook gave me two writs to serve on settlers in the neighborhood of Baldwin Heights for nonpayment of rent. He told me what I knew, that there was bitter feeling against the patroons in that vicinity and that I might encounter opposition to the service of the writs. If so I was not to press the matter, but bring them back and he would give them to the sheriff.

"I do not insist on your taking this task upon you," he added. "I want a man of tact to go and talk with these people and get their point of view. If you don't care to undertake it I'll send another man."

"I think I would enjoy the task," I said in ignorance of that hornet's nest back in the hills.

"Take Purvis with you," he said. "He can take care of the horses, and as those back-country folk are a little lawless it will be just as well to have a witness with you. They tell me that Purvis is a man of nerve and vigor."

I had drafted my letters for the day and was about to close my desk and start on my journey when Louis Latour came in and announced that he had brought the writs from the judge and was going with me.

"I wouldn't miss it for a thousand dollars," he remarked. "By Jove! I think we'll have a bully time."

"I don't object to your going but you must remember that I am in command," I said, a little taken back, for I had no good opinion either of his prudence or his company.

"The judge told me that I could go but that I should be under your orders," he answered. "I'm not going to be a fool. I'm trying to establish a reputation for good sense myself."

We got our dinners and set out soon after one o'clock. I had read the deeds of the men we were to visit. They were brothers and lived on adjoining farms with leases which covered three hundred and fifty acres of land. Their great-grandfather had agreed to pay a yearly rent forever of sixty-two bushels of good, sweet, merchantable, winter wheat, eight yearling cattle and four sheep in good flesh and sixteen fat hens, all to be delivered in the city of Albany on the first day of January of each year. So, feeling that I was engaged in a just cause, I bravely determined to serve the writs if possible.

I rode in silence, thinking of Sally and of those beautiful days now receding into the past and of my aunt and uncle. I had written a letter to them every week and one or the other had answered it. Between the lines I had detected the note of loneliness. They had told me the small news of the countryside. How narrow and monotonous it all seemed to me then! Rodney Barnes had bought a new farm; John Artell had been hurt in a runaway; my white mare had got a spavin!

"Hello, mister!"

I started out of my reveries with a little jump of surprise. A big, rough-dressed, bearded man stood in the middle of the road with a gun on his shoulder.

It is altogether a good sign that we seem to be making so great a catchword of "pre-war" says London Daily News. And yet are we not suppose to have entered on a new ideal in which post-war will be a much greater thing than pre-war?

WORK is a PLEASURE

with a Colt Cooking and Lighting Plant, one that will give you a bright light in every room in the house and barn, and a stove and iron in the kitchen, to make house work a pleasure without the use of high speed machinery or noises around your buildings. There are hundreds of thousands in use all over the United States, and are on the permitted list of the National Board of Fire Underwriters under Class A and are also endorsed by a good many responsible old line insurance companies as a safe light and the gas is non-poisonous and no one will be over-come from it.

All lights are equipped to turn on without matches, while the gas range is operated exactly as are similar ranges in city homes everywhere. This is unquestionably the most desirable, practical and economical lighting and cooking service available for country home use—a claim amply attested by the fact that the Carbide Plant always has and still does out-sell all rival "light systems" after fifteen years of strenuous competition.

These plants are sold direct from the factory to you by a field representative; by this you save the dealer's profits and the cost of a plant complete with stove, iron and fixtures and installed ready for use, is very low. Liberty Bonds accepted at par.

When in Kewaskum, call at the Republican House, and ask for

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Drug-gists, 75c.
