JUNE WEDDINGS QUITE NUMEROUS

BLOEDORN-PROST WEDDING

The St. John's Lutheran church at West Bend was the scene of a very pretty June wedding last week Saturday afternoon, when Rev. E. Hoyer pronounced the words that united in marriage Arnold Prost, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Prost of the town of Barton, and Miss Margaret Bloedorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bloedorn, also of the town of Barton. The bride was attended by Miss Meta Bloedorn as maid of honor and the Misses Viola Schultz and Elsie Kolibe, as bridesmaids. The groom was attended by Urban Prost as best man and Wilmer Prost and Harvey Doerge as groomsmen. The bride was beautifully dressed in a white Charmeuse gown and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and sweet peas while her attendants were attired in crepe de chine and carried pink and Ward roses. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The groom is well known in this village and community and his large host of friends extend best wishes for a happy married life. The young couple will make their future home on the groom's farm in the town of Kewaskum.

A pretty June wedding was that of Miss Margaret Schrauth, and Alfred Schroeder, both of Barton, which was solemnized in the Catholic church at Dacada, Sheboygan county Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock. JUDGE BACKUS TALKS ON TRAINING OF BOYS

Judge A. C. Backus, of Milwaukee in an address "On Errors and Training", delivered on Sunday evening at the First Methodist church at Milwaukee had the following to say:

"The responsibility rests with the parents to foster this movement of the Boy Scouts," "for it keeps them away from evil associations and gives them the wholesome, healthy training which every boy needs as he grows into manhood.

"When our boy participates in the activities of the Scouts he at once receives a gradual training and education that benefits him mentally, morally and physically, harmoniously developing him into manhood and citizenship.

"Throughout the whole world I do not know of any movement which will contribute more to the welfare of the boyhood of America than the Boy Scouts.

"Every parent should see that the boys of the family are members of this excellent organization.

"With every boy in America enrolled in the Boy Scouts the security of the nation is assured."

AUBURN HOME GLADDENED

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Dickmann, residing in the town of Auburn was thrown into gladness, when their son Emil returned home on Wednesday from Camp Grant, where he was honorably discharged from further military service. Emil left home on July 23, 1918, for Camp Grant, where he was assigned to Co. A, 342nd Inf. After being in training here for several weeks was transferred to an eastern camp, where on Sept. 9, he left for overseas duty, arriving at Liverpool, England on Sept. 21st. A few days later he was transferred to Bordeaux, France, here he was transferred to the 80th division, Co. D, 318th Inf. On Nov. 1st, 1918 he entered the front lines at Argonne Forest, where he took part in a drive and where his division advanced about 30 kilometers. After a week's fighting here he was sent to a rest camp for a week, after which he was sent on a 14-day hike to Asaniers, arriving here Dec. 1, where he remained until April 1st, 1919, in the army of occupation. In April he was sent to Mayet and from there to Brest for embarkation, setting sail for the states on May 17, and landing at Newport News, Va., on May 27th. After a three-days stay here he was sent to Camp Lee, Va., and from there to Camp Grant where he was mustered out of service on June 10th. Emil is the only one to our knowledge, from this vicinity who was sent overseas as rapidly as he was, only a few months elapsed from the time he left home until he was on the firing line. Although he has had considerable experience he is glad to get home.

Dear Uncle-Dad: Lord-ees, how this sunshine, these green leaves, these perfumed breezes of Sunny France remind me more and more of home—Hartsville! Were I with you again I might be there sitting on the porch with you and Uncle Joe, the Aunts, my kid-sisters and the boy! Were I back there with you all,—well, I suppose I would be satisfied except for the one thought—I shall have to leave sometime again. Can you remember me there eating those innumerable apples, those puffs of popcorn, the "bread and milk" made especially for the BOY,—too lazy to get up in the morning to eat the food of the laborers? Can you still remember him that worked with you side by side in the golden fields, sat with you in the shady places when Uncle Joe had trouble with the binder "Oo-yonder" meaning on the other side of the field? Can you remember how you used to let me put my line in the best fish holes even though you had to sit out the whole afternoon with "narry a nibble?" Lord-ees, Uncle-dad! What a life that was—what a world that was for me!

I know that the sparrows sing just as brightly, that the birds sing just as delightfully, that earth is just as glad out there in the homeland—at Hartsville, even though the BOY happens to be thousands of miles away, heartsick and alone, longing with the same old boyish longing that was his when the school days kept him from you there. I know that every generation is gradually undoing the old chain of memory; bettering the things that had to be bettered, apparently truer to the present time in its changes; but I know that were I there again I would find everything just the same delightful same. And so I am simply longing, longing, longing, for the day when I shall see all that earthly heaven again.

Here there is just work for me. To day is Sunday. I spent the day doing good, I hope. Early this morning I had a Communion service outside of Hartsville, even though the BOY happens to be thousands of miles away, heartsick and alone, longing with the same old boyish longing that was his when the school days kept him from you there. I know that every generation is gradually undoing the old chain of memory; bettering the things that had to be bettered, apparently truer to the present time in its changes; but I know that were I there again I would find everything just the same delightful same. And so I am simply longing, longing, longing, for the day when I shall see all that earthly heaven again.

PLYMOUTH TO HAVE IMMENSE FACTORY

Plymouth will in the near future boast of having the largest factory ever built in the history of that enterprising city, and which when completed will mean an increase of about 4,000 population. The C. F. Kade Fixture and Show Case Company's plant of that place will be converted into a phonograph factory, by a corporation capitalized at half a million dollars. The officials of the C. F. Kade company are: Charles Kade, President; Arthur Kade, General Manager; and Charles Kade, Jr., Secretary and Treasurer. The placing of this new enterprise in that city will play an important part in the future history of Plymouth, for with the united efforts of other workers the storekeepers will enjoy greater prosperity, building of new homes will be boosted, and upon its success other factories will consider the matter of locating there.

Manufacturers throughout the United States are looking for after-war trade, and a large number of them are contemplating of branching out their plants in smaller communities within the next year or two. Here is a chance for all villages and cities who are considering the matter of having factories locate, to come in touch with these large concerns and bid for that trade while the opportunity is offered. It is factories and new industries that will increase the amount of business in the city or village, increase the growth; increase the valuation of property, and lastly it opens the door for other concerns to look over the field and locate there.

EXTENSION TO JULY 15 TO MAKE TAX RETURNS

An additional extension of thirty days to July 15 was given on Tuesday to partnerships and corporations having fiscal years ending January 31, February 28, March 31, or April 30, for making tax returns. The extension does not operate, however, to delay payment of tax installments.

EDWARD HEISE SUCCESSFUL TO OPERATION

Announcement was made in this village last Thursday morning of the death of Edward William Heise which occurred at the St. Agnes Hospital, Fond du Lac, on Thursday morning, June 12th. Mr. Heise had gone to the hospital six days ago, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. Although the operation turned out successfully, the deceased did not gain sufficient strength to bear him through the crisis, and the end came peacefully at an early hour in the morning. Mr. Heise was born in the town of Scott, on August 4, 1864, and was therefore practically a young man, having reached the age of 55 years, 10 months and 8 days. Deceased came to this village about 17 years ago, on March 17, 1902, and had made this place his home ever since. In October 1890, he was joined in wedlock to Miss Minnie Glander, who together with one daughter, Alma (Mrs. Edward Klug) of the town of Scott, survive. Mr. Heise was always a man of quiet disposition, and very devoted to his family and home ties. He will be greatly missed from the home circle and by his countless friends who had gained his lasting and true friendship. The funeral will be held tomorrow (Sunday) at 1 P. M., from the Ev. Luth. St. Lucas church. Rev. F. Greve will officiate. Interment will be held in the congregation's cemetery. May his soul rest in peace and glory in his home above.

County Agent Blank has called a meeting, to be held at the court house in the city of West Bend next Monday evening, June 16, at 8 o'clock, the object of which is to divide the West Bend Cow Testing association. The association now includes farmers who reside a considerable distance from West Bend, and it is argued that if those members are willing an association can be formed at Kewaskum and Fillmore, the new associations to be made up of members now affiliated with the West Bend association. A. J. Craemer of Madison, who has charge of Cow Testing associations in Wisconsin, has been booked for a lecture. Mr. Craemer has a practical knowledge of dairying and will have something of interest to say to the farmers. Washington county now has associations at West Bend, Rockfield, Richfield and Kohlville, and if the sentiment at next Monday's meeting is favorable this number will be increased by three, the new associations to be composed of farmers of Fillmore, Kewaskum and town Hartford. Farmers interested in dairying are requested to attend next Monday evening's meeting. With seven associations Washington county would take the lead in Wisconsin, as there is no county in the state which has anywhere near that number.

STATE MAY NOT BE ON BONE DRY LIST

Mulberger Bill Would Legalize Traffic in Beer and Wine.

ACT CALLS FOR AN ELECTION

Present Liquor Laws Would Stand if Constitutional Amendment Fails

Madison.—The Wisconsin senate committee on state affairs has recommended for passage, by a vote of 4 to 3, a prohibition enforcement measure which recognizes beer containing not more than 2.75 per cent of alcohol as a nonintoxicant.

The committee recommends the prohibition enforcement measure containing the 2.75 per cent beer clause, in place of the Olson measure, which was desired by the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League.

The recommendation of the committee has brought the dry forces upstanding. It means a legislative battle royal when the measures are finally taken up for consideration.

Under the terms of the Mulberger bill recommended for passage by the committee, the question whether the provisions of the measure shall continue to be in force and effect from and after January 21, 1921, shall be submitted to a vote of the people at the November election in 1920.

The vote of the committee was 4 to 3 for the Mulberger amendment, as follows:

For the Mulberger amendment—Senators Stevens, Arnold, Mulberger and Bilgier—4.

Against the Mulberger amendment—Roethke, Olson and Denhardt—3.

There were several substitutes pending before the state affairs committee when it took action.

The Burke substitute providing for 2.75 per cent beer was unanimously recommended for indefinite postponement.

The Olson substitute, which has the backing of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League and which provides for the enforcement of the dry laws through the attorney general's office, was recommended for indefinite postponement by a vote of 4 to 3.

The Mulberger substitute was then adopted in place of the original Bennett measure which was introduced early in the session.

Five G. O. P. Seek Executive Seat.

It is now certain there will be at least five candidates for the Republican nomination for governor and possibly six if efforts on the part of some to get a returned soldier to make the race succeed.

So far J. N. Tittmore, Omro, president of the Wisconsin and National Societies of Equity is the only one who has so far definitely announced his candidacy. He declared, when defeated for the nomination for governor last fall, that he would be a candidate again in 1920 and every two years until he is elected.

The other men who are sure to be candidates for the Republican nomination are Lieutenant Governor Dittmar, Secretary of State Merlin Hull, Lawrence C. Whitte, executive secretary and former speaker of the house, and Senator Roy P. Wilcox. Eau Claire, who ran a close race with Governor Philipp.

Dittmar will be the La Follette candidate and is depending upon his own strength, having been elected lieutenant governor three times.

Secretary of State Hull has not announced his candidacy, but members of the assembly, who have been seen in consultation with him frequently during the session, make no secret of it.

From present indications Whitte will be forced into the race by his many friends.

Although Senator Wilcox has not announced his candidacy and probably will not do so for months, it is generally conceded he is even now a candidate, and his closest friends admit he will be in the race.

Returned soldiers are said to be divided on the question of running one of their number for the Republican nomination for governor. A boom was attempted for Brig. Gen. C. R. Boardman, Oshkosh, but he has declared he will not be a candidate, and reports have been received here that the same persons will try to get Col. William Mitchell Lewis, Racine, to seek the nomination.

For lieutenant governor, Senator A. J. Pullen, who served in the medical corps, will be a candidate, while former Senator C. H. Everett, Racine, who made the race with Wilcox in 1918, will likely enter the race again and friends of Senator A. H. Wilkinson, Bayfield, are urging him to enter the field.

C. E. Shaffer, Madison, chief clerk of the assembly, is being mentioned for secretary of state, as is also Assistant Secretary W. B. Naylor of Tomah.

Accept State Child Labor Permits.

Wisconsin has been officially designated by the commissioner of Internal Revenue as one of the states in which child labor permits, issued by state authorities, will be accepted as complying with the provisions of the new federal child labor tax law.

The law provides a 10 per cent tax on net profits of all corporations, partnerships and individuals who employ children below fourteen years of age in any mill, cannery, workshop, factory or manufacturing establishment, or below sixteen in any mine. The same tax is imposed if children between fourteen and sixteen years are employed more than eight hours per day, or at night work, or more than six days a week.

This federal law is identical with the child labor law which was declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme court a few months ago, except that the penalty now provided is a tax of 10 per cent on net profits instead of a heavy fine.

"This new law," said George P. Haubrecht, chairman of the industrial commission, "makes it more important than ever for Wisconsin employers to observe strictly the provisions of the state child labor law. The commissioner of Internal Revenue has given us formal notice that permits issued by the industrial commission and its deputies will be accepted as complying with the federal law. If employees, however, do not observe the state law, they will find they are up against a 10 per cent tax on their net profits."

The industrial commission urges that no minors be employed unless the employer has documentary proof of age.

State Will Have 10,000 in Guard.

Six regiments of infantry, one regiment each of cavalry, light artillery, heavy artillery and battalions of engineers, signal corps, machine gun and regulation special units, together with an aero squadron, are included in reorganization plans of the Wisconsin National Guard, announced by Adj. Gen. Orlando Holway.

Approximately 10,400 officers and men will be recruited with 8,000 in reserve. One-year enlistments will be provided through the new arrangement. Officers with overseas fighting experience may enter the guard at their regular army rating.

Two field hospitals and two ambulance companies, a headquarters company and supply company will be created.

Liquor Men Plan for Future.

Retail liquor dealers of Wisconsin do not expect to have prohibition and to display their faith that the state and country will remain wet they have decided to meet at Appleton in 1920. This was the action taken at the closing session at Sheboygan of the State Retail Liquor Dealers' Protective association. W. J. Gleason was re-elected president. Other officers who were also re-elected are: William Schmidbauer, Milwaukee, vice president; C. A. Hartwig, Manitowoc, treasurer; Oscar Morris, secretary.

News of the Badger State

Marinette — Gen. Joshua Hodgins, quartermaster general of Wisconsin for ten years and chief of the Marinette fire department, passed away unexpectedly at his home here, at the age of 63 years. He had been ill for some time with heart disease, but had been feeling unusually well and cheerful on the day of his death. Gen. Hodgins was born in Kincardine, Canada, in 1856 and came to Wisconsin with his parents in the late sixties. He was educated in the public schools of Appleton, and later attended Milton college at Milton Junction. He came to Marinette in 1873 and engaged in the hardware business. He was a member of the Marinette fire department for more than 40 years and was chief for nearly 20 years.

Madison — A circular in the State Historical library issued during 1830, describing the attractiveness of Dane county lands, seems to be a genuine record of current prices. After praising the lands that could be bought from the government at $1.25 per acre, the report concludes: "Madison is the only town, and is a delightful situation. It contains two stores, three public houses, three groceries, one steam mill, and in all, thirty-five buildings. Prices the past season have ranged as follows: Corn, per bushel, $1.25; oats, 75c; potatoes $1 per bushel; butter, 37 1/2 to 62 1/2 cents; eggs, 37 1/2 cents per dozen; pork and beef, from 7 to 12 cents per pound."

Janesville — Definite arrangements for the establishment of a public health dispensary at Janesville have been completed and it is expected to be opened within thirty days. Final action was taken at a meeting of medical men of the city, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, city council, Rotary club, Red Cross and Woman's club. They voted unanimously in favor of Dr. M. A. Cunningham's motion that it go on record in favor of establishing a dispensary.

Appleton — Stockholders of Appleton State bank, organized in 1913, authorized an increase of its capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000. Superior — When Roy Gleason, Superior policeman, woke up he found himself in jail, arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge. Gleason, it is charged, got into a row, which forced the calling of the regular patrolman.

Wausau — Fishing is prime in northern Wisconsin. Bass are biting freely, wall-eyed pike of large size are responding to the efforts of the fishermen. Some muskellunge are also being taken. Good reports come from practically every section of the lake country and fishing in the rivers is also satisfactory. The brook trout have apparently abandoned the larger streams because of the hot weather and are mostly found in the small streams and brooks.

Kenosha — The organization of a nationwide federation of the Catholic women's clubs of the United States was started by the 200 members of the Catholic women's clubs of the state of Wisconsin who attended the state convention at the Elks' club in Kenosha. The Wisconsin organization, according to the action taken at the gathering will suggest this union to the various state organizations of the country.

Manitowoc — Twenty-three saloonkeepers here are willing to take a chance and filed applications for saloon licenses for the coming year. They expect that some action will be taken by the city council to reimburse them if the dry amendment takes effect in January, 1920. They express no fear that the country will be dry after July 1.

Superior — A suit for $440 for liquor shipped to Superior, seized by the police and sold for the benefit of the police pension fund, was filed in Superior court by Goodhart-Hartman Co., Chicago. The consignment of liquor was sent to a liquor dealer at Oliver last August, but confiscated at South Superior station of the Soo line.

COCA-COLA WILL BE USED TO CHRISTEN ENGINE

Program Will Feature Exercises at Fire Hall on Wednesday.

[From Nashville, Tennessee.] Ann Dallas Dudley, the new fire engine at the Waverly-Belmont fire hall, will be christened on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with appropriate exercises. Mrs. Gullford Dudley, for whom the engine gets its name, is one of the state's pioneer suffrage workers and it is due to her untiring work that partial suffrage was given the women of Tennessee. Mrs. Miles Williams, a resident of the twenty-first ward, is chairman of arrangements, and also a pioneer suffragist, and little Judith Winston Folk, the 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reau Folk, also a pioneer suffragist and the youngest member of the Nashville organization, has been chosen sponsor. Miss Folk has selected as her maids the following young girls, daughters of prominent suffrage leaders: Travana Dudley, Lenore Kenny, Kate Barkdale, Harriet Ingram, Mary Sue Cantrell, Jane Davis and Elizabeth Smith.

At the christening not champagne but a bottle of coca-cola will be broken and the maids will shower the engine with yellow flowers. Speeches will be made by Mayor William Gupton, Commissioner Tompkins and Chief A. A. Rosetta. Mrs. Dudley, a member of the national suffrage organization, and Mrs. Reau Folk, chairman of the city organization, will be honor guests of the occasion.—Adv.

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART; IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ill-suffering people today can be traced back to the kidney trouble. The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters of your blood. If the poisons which are swept from the tissues by the blood are not eliminated through the kidneys, disease of one form or another will claim you as a victim. Kidney disease is usually indicated by weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gait stumbles, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago. All these derangements are nature's signals that the kidneys need help. You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The soothing, healing oil stimulates the kidneys, relieves inflammation and destroys the germs which have caused it. Go to your druggist today and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In twenty-four hours you should feel health and vigor returning. After you feel somewhat improved continue to take one or two capsules each day, so as to keep the first-class condition and ward off the danger of other attacks. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. Three sizes. Money refunded if they do not help you.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

IDEAL FARM LANDS

Minnesota Man at Last Found What He Sought.

After Long Search, the Wondrous Productiveness of Western Canada Was Pointed Out, and He Is Going There.

He farmed for a number of years near Windom, Minnesota, and as Mr. O. S. Marcy told it, he had done well. He had made sufficient money to see him and his wife through their remaining days.

"But there were the boys," said Mrs. Marcy, "and six of them, too—some of the six not yet back from 'overseas.' Yes, we are proud of them," the fond mother said, "but, oh! my, we had no girl," and she bemoaned that. These boys had to be looked after. "Why not settle them about you in your own neighborhood? You have good land there, splendid neighbors, and everything that might be desired."

"Yes, that is all true," replied this estimable lady, "but the land is so high-priced we couldn't afford to buy there, although worth every cent asked for it. You see we have six boys, and they are good ones, too."

So, one day, three years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Marcy rigged up the automobile for a touring trip. They wanted to investigate for the boys' benefit. The journey lasted for a year. It took them through Arizona with its varied scenery, its climatic and agricultural attractions; into the canyons of Colorado they went, and the agricultural possibilities there aroused a large amount of interest. Still undecided, down into the valleys of California the automobile went. Fruit orchards were plentiful, grain fields were attractive, but the psychological time had not arrived. Reversing their way, they passed through Washington, Oregon and Montana and home. "Oh, yes," Mr. Marcy said, "we had a delightful time, enjoyed it all but the day and night up in Colorado, when we were held up by a wonderful snowstorm; we and six others. Planking the snow embankment, we came through safely, if a trifle inconvenient."

It was interesting to hear these people talk. Their practical minds showed that they had not lacked opportunities for observation. They could not find what they wanted for the boys. When he was between twenty and twenty-five years of age, Mr. Marcy pictured to himself the kind of a home he wanted. He reared a family of boys and had yet to find such a place. His year's journey had been fruitless in that respect.

One day he decided he would try what Western Canada could do. He had read of it, and he had friends there who had done well. He toured the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. He saw the vast prairies, yielding their twenty and twenty-five, and as high as forty bushels of wheat, with enormous yields of other grains. The north central country, which afforded the grass and the shelter that made stock-raising a valuable adjunct to the growing of grain, was visited. Interviews were had with the settlers, many from his own home district, and all were satisfied.

Only the other day he arranged for a car in which he would lead his effects to be taken to the Alberta farm he had purchased when on his visit. Mrs. Marcy goes with him, and the six boys will follow. He found the place he had pictured in his mind when he was twenty or twenty-five years old. "I was unable to find it until I made my Western Canada visit. I bought the farm, and I am satisfied. When I saw a carload of four-year-old steers brought into the Edmonton market, weighing 1,700 pounds, that had never been inside a building nor fed a bit of grain, I was glad I had made up my mind."—Advertisement.

FAVORITE FOOD.

Sherbets, parfaits, mousses, and frappes are not always in the market and no matter how they may be made, the different flavors of ice cream, an occasional frozen dish prepared at home is a treat. Here is one:

Lemon Sherbet.—Take a quart of milk, good rich milk of course; two cupsfuls of sugar and the juice of three lemons. Stir all together, regardless of the curdled appearance, and freeze. The freezing will result in a velvety smooth sherbet called Velvet, but most of us pronounce it "so good."

Beaten Biscuit.—Into a pint of flour stir a teaspoonful of salt, and a cupful of cold water. Work to a stiff dough, transfer to a floured board and with a rolling pin beat the dough for 15 minutes, turning and folding so that the dough may receive the treatment in all parts. Cut into biscuit, prick with a fork and bake a light brown.

Cheery Pudding.—Mix together the following ingredients: one and one-third cupsfuls of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of milk, two cupsfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, the yolk of an egg and the white beaten stiff and folded in. Pour this batter over a quart of berries from which the juice has been drained, and steam one hour. To make the sauce add a tablespoonful of flour with the same amount of sugar well mixed to the juice, cook stirring until well blended, add butter and nutmeg for seasoning. Cook until smooth.

Vanities.—Beat three eggs until light, add a tablespoonful of sugar, one of cold water, and a pinch of salt. Stir in flour to make a stiff dough. Knead well and roll out after dividing it into four portions. Roll very thin—as thin as paper, tear off a piece the size of the hand and drop into hot fat to brown. The more irregular they are the prettier. When brown sift powdered sugar over them and serve. Kept in a closely covered can they will keep crisp some time.

A pretty dessert is bananas cut in halves lengthwise and raspberry jam used; spread sandwich fashion. Put two halves together, lay on a plate and cover with whipped cream.

There is a shady side of life,
And a sunny side as well,
And 'tis for every one to say
On which side he'd choose to dwell;
For every one unto himself
Commits a grievous sin,
Who bars the blessed sunshine out
And shuts the shadows in.
—Josephine Pollard.

THE SUNDAY EVENING MEAL.

The family meal for Sunday night is one which admits of much variety, depending upon the appetites and tastes of those served. In some homes bread and milk is the usual Sunday night lunch with a bit of cake for a finish. There are other families who enjoy mush and milk even during the warm weather. Whatever is served one must bear in mind that it must not be anything very hearty.

A simple little salad which is wholesome and appetizing is stewed prunes served on lettuce with a little mayonnaise dressing. Another even simpler is cottage cheese with dates; no salad dressing is needed for this salad. Arrange the well-seasoned cheese on lettuce and decorate with washed and stoned dates.

If the night is chilly a bowl of hot soup of any kind will be relished. Hot cocoa or tea or hot milk are good drinks for a night lunch.

Sandwiches of different kinds are in great favor. Figs and nuts ground together, mixed with cream to moisten, a bit of salt, makes a good filling.

For a simple dessert a dish of sauce or berries, fresh fruit or preserved, with a plain sponge cake, dropped or baked in gem pans will be found satisfying.

For a special occasion, sponge cakes baked in gem pans, the top cut off and some of the crumb scooped out, then filled with sweetened whipped cream or some other favorite filling, cream or some other favorite filling, serve with a salad or hot soup. Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth, add a cupful of grated cheese, add very lightly, season with salt and paprika and spread on long salted crackers. Bake until brown. Serve hot or cold.

Cheese Fingers.—These are nice to serve with a salad or hot soup. Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth, add a cupful of grated cheese, add very lightly, season with salt and paprika and spread on long salted crackers. Bake until brown. Serve hot or cold.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE TOADS

"We don't get to work as quickly as the Frogs do, eh?" asked Tillie Toad.

"No," said Teeny Toad, "we don't. We lay our eggs very much later than frogs do. And we have our own ways of doing things."

"So much better than copying others," said Tillie Toad.

"Did you have a nice sleep?" asked Teeny Toad.

"Fine," said Tillie Toad. "How about you?"

"I had a nice sleep, too," said Teeny Toad. "And now I am anxious to go into the gardens and to drive away all the naughty bugs and insects which hurt the gardens and the flowers."

"I hope folks know we love their gardens and help them a great deal," said Tillie Toad.

"They are finding it out," said Teeny Toad. "I know that in the garden where I go the lady who owns the garden always says:

"Oh, I am so glad to see that dear little toad. The toads always help me with my garden and drive away the little creatures who do it harm."

"Yes," said Tillie Toad, "we do help, and we drive away the little creatures so they will never come back."

"That's so," said Teeny Toad, "we swallow them, we do! The very best way of getting rid of them."

And the two toads squeaked and grunted and said:

"We hope folks will know how much we want to help and will be good to us and not hurt us because we're not beautiful."

Now the toads laid their eggs in strings and the toad tadpoles were darker than the frogs. They had slender tails and larger bodies than frogs and were very proud of themselves because they were so different.

"I think we are something like an old saying," said Teeny Toad.

"What old saying?" asked Tillie Toad.

"There is an old saying," said Teeny Toad, "which goes something like this: 'I mean the words go something like this: 'Handsome is that handsome does.'"

"I never heard of that saying," said Tillie Toad. "Do you know what it means?"

"I do," squeaked Teeny Toad. "Then won't you explain it to me?"

"I will gladly," said Teeny Toad. "I am waiting to hear it," said Tillie Toad.

"I will keep you waiting no longer," said Teeny Toad.

"That is good," said Tillie Toad.

"When it is said of a creature that he or she is handsome it is very nice indeed, because it means that that creature is beautiful."

"It is fine to be beautiful if one can be beautiful. But everyone is not born beautiful and everyone doesn't add beauty like some add height and size and fatness."

"Now I think there must have been some people at some time who thought that all they had to do was to look beautiful and to be admired, for there must have been some reason for saying that saying in the first place."

"There must have been," agreed Tillie Toad.

"Well," continued Teeny Toad, "I think that there must have been some other creatures who were not beautiful but who did a great deal of good."

"And so to make the people who were handsome and who did nothing ashamed of themselves, and in order to make those who were not handsome glad that they were useful and nice, they started the saying which I've just told to you."

"Now we aren't handsome, but we do handsome work. We destroy tadpoles and germs which would hurt the gardens and so we hope folks will love us and will know that we do our best handsome work all the time to make up for not being handsome ourselves."

"Yes," said Tillie Toad. "I think that saying fits us perfectly and now let us live up to it and see what handsome work we can do today to help people with their gardens."

So Tillie Toad and Teeny Toad went off to do their work for the grown-ups and the children who owned and loved their gardens.

Starting Over.

It is hard to acknowledge that we have been mistaken and must start over. And yet if we find that we are on the wrong path, the sooner we face about the better. If we started wrong, going ahead only means regret. In such cases let us go bravely back to the beginning and start over.—Girl's Companion.

That Dear Little Toad.

"I had a nice sleep, too," said Teeny Toad. "And now I am anxious to go into the gardens and to drive away all the naughty bugs and insects which hurt the gardens and the flowers."

"I hope folks know we love their gardens and help them a great deal," said Tillie Toad.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Adv.

America Leads.
The method of pressing American cottonseed oil is typical of the way bot-pressed oils are made, and the machinery and process used in the production of this oil in the United States are superior to those of any other country. Plants of American design and construction are in operation in Europe, Asia Minor, India and China.

May Use Cottonseed Oil.
In the United States the yellow unbleached palm oil is used very largely in the tin plate industry. So far it is almost the only substance which has been found satisfactory as a flux on the discharge side of the pots of melted tin through which the sheet iron plates are passed to receive their coats of tin. Recent experiments with hydrogenated cottonseed oil, however, indicate that our tin plate industry will be independent of this foreign-controlled oil.

Fat and Oil Production.
The production of the animal fats, exclusive of butterfat, equal to 70 per cent of the vegetable oil output of the United States in 1912, rose in 1917 to nearly 80 per cent. Including butter, in 1912 the quantity of animal fats was approximately twice as great as that of vegetable oils, while in 1917 the production of the two classes of fats and oils was nearly the same.

The Cause.
"How was it Mrs. Binus got into such deep water?"

"I guess it was because of her falling off in her bridge play."

LALLEY LIGHT and POWER

The Great Electric Labor-Saving Device for Farmers

OVER 12,000 PROGRESSIVE FARMERS IN 1918 EXPRESSED THEIR PREFERENCE FOR LALLEY ELECTRICITY BY PURCHASING A LALLEY PLANT

The biggest and best thing the Lalley does for them is to save time and labor and money.

Because the Lalley is primarily and continuously a farm economy, the number of Lalley owners is increasing by thousands.

There is nothing experimental about Lalley Light. There is nothing uncertain about the savings it effects.

Lalley Light is eight years old, and more. It has been used that long by farmers and others.

Lalley Light is a complete unit—engine and generator—with 15-cell storage battery. It supplies amperage electricity for lights, water pump, washing machines, sweeper, steam separator, fanning mill, iron, etc., etc.

Used by the United States Government

Lalley Light was particularly efficient in operating X-ray equipment in hospitals in France, because of the steady, reliable electric current it furnished, and because it is so quiet in operation.

These users gladly acknowledge that its merits are far superior—that it is a real investment, because of its positive economies; and that it is highly efficient in its work.

ARMY CHAPLAIN WRITES TO THE HOMELAND

year long I was ailing in Milwaukee and at St. Johns; but as soon as I left those worlds to rush to you,—you know how well I could become just as soon as I could shed my shoes and stockings, put on the little overalls and the big hat. And my dear Aunts,—they are surely well, surely awaiting me with the same smile as of yore. Tell me how it could ever be different? The kid sisters, my sisters ever since my dear old dad, and their dear mother left us so long ago,—they are well, I know, since another dear heart told me that one was even like "a little wild rose." The boy back there,—what a boy he must be by this time!

Well, don't let the home fires grow smaller, since the time must come soon that will count me aboard a ship bound for the U. S. A. Keep the sunshine shining, keep the dear smiles smiling, keep the happy hearts laughing with the flowers, and the birds, and the homeland, just as it all was in the golden days that passed so swiftly by. The boy will be the same, that I promise you, in heart, in soul, in love. I have the little happy scene all arranged in my mind. There are my sweetheart mother and Aunt Rose beneath the mulberry tree in the left with Helen and Mamie, Lucille and Crescence on the right wing, beneath the other tree. Once Frank is on my left and Uncle Joe on my right with Jerome and his big brother taking the center of the picture, not because it happens to be the place of honor but because the boy just returned safely from a long exile. We are all seated between the two posts on the front veranda. Behind me watching lest her boy be harmed is my god-mother, dear Aunt Kate, and she is smiling because her boy has returned safely from the war. Only one is standing, only one speaking, Aunt Helen, mother—Aunt of Hartersville, is welcoming the wanderer home. I hear the words of welcome, so simple, so short, so dear, "Welcome home, our boy!" and then I bow my head and two grey eyes close to hide the tears that ought not fall when one ought to be less a boy. Did I forget the cousins? Well, no; but so many of them have taken partners since I left a few years ago that I fear to offend. And many more might be doing the same unless I hurry home to save just a couple for myself.

While I am seeking to put into words the thoughts that are surging up in my heart and brain, an auto horn draws attention away for a moment. And there come Don and family, Louis and family, and sure enough, my old Uncle and Aunt Remmel. Glories! What more could a fellow want? There might be others; but I have to stop with my picture since to ask for the others would be taking too much from the rest of the world to center all about that home of love. So I will stop with this where it lies.

The third page,—what would mother say if she saw all that I have written to Uncle Frank? She will surely think that I am growing unfair to her even though I write, and have written at least once a week to her ever since I crossed the ocean.

Give my love to all. Tell them to remember the boy in heart and prayers, and always. So I remain ever, your boy,
Sylvester Harter, Chaplain, U. S. A.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well."
"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."
—Mrs. MARISSA BOYD, 1421 5th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.
If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service.

Living Monstrosities.

Instances where a living creature appears to consist of two similar parts capable of a certain degree of separate life are cited by many authorities. It is noted that this phenomenon occurs abnormally and occasionally even among human beings. Instances are Helena and Judith, the Hungarian sisters (1701-1723), the famous Siamese twins (1814-1874), the South Carolina negroes Millie and Christina, and the Bohemian sisters, Rosalie and Josepha.

Often the union is so much closer that the consolidated individuals do not survive long after birth. Among the lower animals the phenomenon is far more common than it is among human beings, and it is thought possible that by persistent selection and breeding a race of double monsters might be established.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bipro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as Bipro-Phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphorus, food elements, Bipro-Phosphate should produce welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION.—Although Bipro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Tragedy and Mystery.

Synopsis.—Thomas K. Barnes, a wealthy young New Yorker, on a walking trip in New England near the Canadian border, is given a lift in an automobile by a mysterious and attractive girl bound for a house called Green Fancy. At Hart's tavern Barnes finds a stranded troupe of "barn-storming" actors, of which Lyndon Ruschcroft is the star and "Miss Thackeray" the leading lady. They are doing hotel work for their board. He learns Green Fancy is a house of mystery. That night two mounted men leave the tavern under odd circumstances. A little later one of the two riders is brought back dying, the other having been killed. Both have been shot. The whole affair is most mysterious.

"They was hitched jest about a hundred yards below Mr. Curtis' property, on the off side o' the road. I hadn't any more'n got to our front gate when I heard some one running in the road up there behind me. 'Fore I knowed what was happenin', bang went a gun. I almost jumped out'n my boots. The runnin' had stopped. The horses was rarin' an' tearing so I thought I'd—"

"Where'd the shot come from?" demanded Jones.

"Up the road some'eres, I couldn't swear just where. Must'a been up by the road that cuts in to Green Fancy. So I thought I'd hustle in an' see if pa was awake, an' git my gun. Jest then pa stuck his head out'n the window an' yelled what the hell's the matter. You betcher life I sung out who I was mighty quick, 'cause pa's purty s'pry with a gun an' I didn't want him takin' me fer burglars sneaking around the house. While we wuz talkin' there one o' the hosses started our way lickety-split, an' in about two seconds it went by us. It was purty dark, but we see plain as day that there was a man in the saddle, bendin' low over the boss' neck and shoutin' to it. We waited a couple o' minutes, wonderin' what to do, an' listenin' to the boss gittin' furdur and furdur away in the direction of the cross-roads. Then 'way down there by the pike we heard another shot. Right there an' then pa said he'd put on his clothes an' we'd set out to see what it was all about."

"Well, pa come out with my gun an' his'n an' we walks up to where I seen the hosses. Shore 'nough, one o' 'em was still hitched to the fence, an' 't'other was gone. We stood around a minute or two examinin' the boss an' then pa says let's go up the road a ways an' see if we c'n see anything. An' by gosh, we hadn't gone more'n fifty feet afore we come plumb on a man layin' in the middle of the road. Pa shook him an' he didn't let out a sound. He was warm, but dender'n a tombstone. I wuz fer leavin' him there till we c'd git the coroner, but pa says no. We'd carry him down to our porch an' lay him there, so's he'd be out o' danger. I jumps on Polly an' lights out fer here, Mr. Jones, to telephone up to Saint Liz fer the sheriff an' the coroner, not givin' a dang what I run into on the way. Polly hitched somethin' terrible jest afore we got to the pike an' I come derved near bein' throwed. An' right there 'side the road was this feller, all in a heap. Thinks I, you poor cuss, you must'a tried to stop that feller on hossback an' he plunked you. That accounted fer the second shot. The thing that worries all of us is did the same man do the shootin', or was there two o' 'em, one waitin' down the cross-roads?"

"Must have been two," said Jones, thoughtfully. "The same man couldn't have got down there ahead of him, that's sure. Did anybody go up to Green Fancy to make inquiries?"

"Twasn't necessary. Mr. Curtis heard the shootin' an' jest before we left he sent a man out to see what it was all about. The old skeezicks that's been drivin' his car lately come down half-dressed. He said nothin' out of the way had happened up at Green Fancy."

"It's most mysterious," said Barnes, glancing round the circle of awed faces. "There must have been some one lying in wait for these men, and with a very definite purpose in mind."

"Strikes me," said Jones, "that these two men were up to some kind of dirty work themselves, else why did they say they were goin' to Spanish Falls? They wore queer actin' men, I'll have to say that."

His eyes met Barnes' and there was a queer light in them.

"You don't happen to know anything about this, do you, Mr. Barnes?" he demanded, suddenly.

CHAPTER V.

The Farm-Boy Tells a Ghastly Story and an Irishman Enters. Barnes stared. "What do you mean?" he demanded sharply.

"I mean just what I said. What do you know about this business?"
"How should I know anything about it?"
"Well, we don't know who you are, nor what you're doing up here, nor what your real profession is. That's why I ask the question."
"I see," said Barnes, after a moment. He grasped the situation and he admitted to himself that Jones had cause for his suspicions. "It has occurred to you that I may be a detective or a secret service man, isn't that the case? Well, I am neither. Did you know any more about these two men, Mr. Jones, than you know about me?"

"I don't know anything about 'em." "What was their business?"
"Mr. Roon was lookin' for a place to bring his daughter who has consumption. He didn't want to take her to a regular consumptive community, he said, an' so he was lookin' for a quiet place where she wouldn't be associatin' with lungers all the time. That was his business, Mr. Barnes, an' I guess you'd call it respectable, wouldn't you?"

"Perfectly. But why should he be troubled by my presence here?"
"Miss Thackeray put an end to the discussion in a most effectual manner."
"Oh, for the Lord's sake, cut it out! Wait till he's dead, can't you?" she whispered fiercely. "You've got all the time in the world to talk, and he hasn't more than ten minutes left to breathe unless that rube doctor gets here pretty soon. I think he's going now. Keep still, all of you. Is he breathing, Mr. Barnes? That awful cough just now seemed to—" Her eyes were fixed on the still face.

"Why—why, how tightly he holds my hand! I can't get it away—he must be alive, Mr. Barnes. Where is that silly doctor?"

Barnes unclasped the rigid fingers of the man called Andrew Paul, and, shaking his head sadly, drew her away from the improvised bed. He and the shivering Mr. Dillingford conducted her to the dining room, where a single kerosene lamp gave out a feeble, rather ghastly light.

"Would you like a little brandy?" inquired Barnes, as she sat down huddled in the chair he pulled out for her. "I have a flask upstairs in my—"

"I never touch it," she said. "I'm all right. My legs wobble a little but I sit down Mr. Barnes. I've got something to say to you and I'd better say it now, because it may come in pretty handy for you later on. Don't let those women come in here, Dilly."

"This afternoon I walked up in the woods back of the tavern to go over some lines in a new piece we are to do later on—God knows when! I could see the house from where I was sitting. Roon's windows were plainly visible. I saw Roon standing at a window looking toward the cross-roads with a pair of field-glasses. Every once in awhile he would turn to Paul, who stood beside him with a notebook, and say something to him. Paul wrote it down. Then he would look again, turning the glasses this way and that. Suddenly my eyes almost popped out of my head. Paul had gone away from the window. He came back and he had a couple of revolvers in his hands. They stood there for a few minutes carefully examining the weapons and reloading them with fresh cartridges. Just as I was about to start down to the house—it was a little after six o'clock, and getting awfully dark and overcast—Roon took up the glasses again. He seemed to be excited and called his companion. Paul grabbed the glasses and looked down the road. They both became very much excited, pointing and ges-tulating, and taking turn about with the glasses."

"About six o'clock, you say?" said Barnes, greatly interested.

"It was a quarter after six when I got back to the house. I spoke to Mr. Bacon about what I'd seen and he said he believed they were German spies, up to some kind of mischief along the Canadian border. Then about half an hour later you came to the tavern. I saw Roon sneak out to the head of the stairs and listen to your conversation with Jones when you registered. That gave me an idea. It was you they were watching the road for."

Barnes held up his hand for silence. "Listen," he said in a low voice. "I will tell you who they were looking for." As briefly as possible he recounted his experience with the strange young woman at the cross-roads.

"From the beginning I have connected this tragedy with the place called Green Fancy. I'll stake my last penny that they have been hanging around here waiting for the arrival of that young woman. They knew she was coming and they doubtless knew what she was bringing with her. What do you know about Green Fancy?"

He was vastly excited. His active imagination was creating all sorts of possibilities and complications, deceptions and intrigues.

Bacon was the one who answered. "People live up there and since we've been here two or three men visitors have come down from the place to sample our stock of wet goods. I talked with a couple of 'em day before yesterday. They were out for a horseback ride and stopped here for a mug of ale."

"Were they foreigners?" inquired Barnes.

"If you want to call an Irishman a foreigner, I'll have to say one of them was. He had a beautiful brogue. The other was an American, I'm sure. Yesterday they rode past here with a couple of swell-looking women. I saw them turn up the road to Green Fancy."

The arrival of four or five men, who stamped into the already crowded hallway from the porch outside, claimed the attention of the quartette. Among them was the doctor who, they were soon to discover, was also the coroner of the county. A very officious deputy sheriff was also in the group.

Mr. Jones called out from the doorway. "Mr. Barnes, you're wanted in there."

"All right," he responded. The doctor had been working over the prostrate form on the tables. As Barnes entered the room, he looked up and declared that the man was dead.

"This is Mr. Barnes," said Putnam Jones, indicating the tall traveler with discussion in a short jerk of his thumb.

"I am from the sheriff's office," said the man who stood beside the doctor. The rest of the crowd evidently had been ordered to stand back from the tables. "Did you ever see this man before?"

"Not until he was carried in here an hour ago."

"What's your business up here, Mr. Barnes?"

"I have no business up here. I just happened to stroll in this evening."

rest or even detention, you would have a nasty time defending yourself in a civil suit for damages. I shall remain here, as you suggest, but only for the purpose of aiding you in getting to the bottom of this affair."

Standing on Jim Conley's front porch a little after sunrise, Barnes made the following declaration:

"Everything goes to show that these men were up here for one of two reasons. They were either trying to prevent or to enact a crime. The latter is my belief. They were afraid of me. Why? Because they believed I was trailing them and likely to spoil their game. Gentlemen, those fellows were here for the purpose of robbing the place you call Green Fancy."

"What's that?" came a rich, mellow voice from the outskirts of the crowd. A man pushed his way through and confronted Barnes. He was a tall, good-looking fellow of thirty-five, and it was apparent that he had dressed in haste. "My name is O'Dowd, and I am a guest of Mr. Curtis at Green Fancy. Why do you think they meant to rob his place?"

"Well," began Barnes dryly, "it would seem that his place is the only one in the neighborhood that would bear robbing. My name is Barnes. Of course, Mr. O'Dowd, it is mere speculation on my part."

"But who shot the man?" demanded the Irishman. "He certainly wasn't winged by anyone from our place. Why, Lord love you, sir, there isn't a soul at Green Fancy who could shoot a thief if he saw one. This is Mr. De Soto, also a guest at Green Fancy. He will, I think, bear me out in upsetting your theory."

A second man approached, shaking his head vigorously. He was a thin, pale man with a singularly scholastic face. Quite an unprepossessing, unsanguinary person, thought Barnes.

"Mr. Curtis' chauffeur, I think it was, said the killing occurred just above this house," said he, visibly excited. "Green Fancy is at least a mile from here, isn't it? You don't shoot burglars a mile from the place they are planning to rob, do you?"

"Bedad," Said O'Dowd, "It Beats the Devil."

"I'll admit it's a bit out of reason," said Barnes. "The second man could only have been shot by some one who was lying in wait for him."

"Bedad," said O'Dowd, "it beats the devil. There's something big in this thing, Mr. Barnes—something a long shot bigger than any of us suspects."

"You'll find that it resolves itself into a problem for Washington to solve," said De Soto darkly. "Nothing local about it, take my word for it. These men were up to some international devilment. There'll be a stir in Washington over this, sure as anything."

"What time was it that you heard the shots up at Green Fancy?" ventured Barnes.

"Lord love you," cried O'Dowd, "we didn't hear a sound. Mr. Curtis, who has insomnia the worst way, poor devil, heard them and sent some one out to see what all the racket was about. The man, it seems, made such a devil of a racket when he came home with the news that the whole house was up in pajamas and peignoirs."

"I think I have a slight acquaintance with the chauffeur," said Barnes. "He gave me the most thrilling motor ride I've ever experienced. Gad, I'll never forget it."

MOTORS INSTEAD OF DOGS

Trip Over the Cascades in a Gasoline Sleigh Was a Distinct Success.

A spectacular trial trip was recently made across the Cascades in a motor sleigh, and a number of photographs, taken at various stages of the journey, are reproduced in Popular Mechanica. The achievement of the motor sleigh was almost as amazing as that of the first army tank, conquering, as it did, all kinds of obstacles. Skimming the surface of snowfalls, old or new, the strange little vehicle broke its way through primeval passes with never a stumble. The rescue of an automobile, hopelessly stalled in the drifts of Snoqualmie pass, was a mere incident in its progress. Crossing a deep gully on a pair of hemlock poles was but one of the day's adventures. The intended substitution of the motor sleigh for the dog drawn sledges of Alaska's snow-bound post trails means more to the people of that great territory than may be generally realized. Jack London and others have limned the marmoset as a romantic figure; but the followers of the trail know well he is never that. It is the elimination of much human hardship, as well as canine inefficiency, that recommends the gasoline method.

Quick Action Called For. When an angler drops a line he hopes to get an answer right away.

Time's Changes. Philosophically said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge. "Just father day, as it were, nobody thought anything in perticular if a feller took a demjohna to church under the back seat of his wagon, and after the sermon had grown sorter drowsome winked a few of his friends outside to help him lap it up and fool around and swap horses and mebbey fight a little in a general way.

"But now, by girt, if he even smells of patent medicine on a week day he's got to produce the omenok and pint out the place whur it says he's got the deadly disease that he claims to have taken the medicine for."—Kansas City Star.

Proud of His "Profession." "Burglars who served in the army are going back to their old trade," said a London police official the other day. "These men deliberately elect to live by stealing because they find it adventures. It was with the same spirit that they joined the army. At least one convicted burglar won the Victoria cross." Confirmation of this characteristic is provided by a captain in a famous fighting regiment, who declares that one of the bravest men in his company, a corporal with a D.C.M. and other honors, declared himself a professional thief. "His one regret," remarked the officer, "was that the recruiting authorities would not let him describe his occupation on his attestation papers as 'burglar.'"
