

IMPORTANT HIGH-WAY LEGISLATION

Article No. 1.

This is the first of a series of four articles covering the important highway legislation enacted by the 1919 session of the legislature. A reading of them will show that many vital changes have been made.

A survey of the highway legislation enacted by the 1919 session of the legislature shows that many important bills have been passed, making changes in our highway laws, township, county and state. The outstanding measures enacted or changes made are incorporated in the following bills:

The passage of a bill enlarging the State Trunk Highway System from 5,000 to not to exceed 7,500 miles, revising legislation regarding bridges, regulating the dangerous signboard evil, and re-adjusting the allotment of the State Trunk Highway maintenance fund.

A bill providing for a state tax of $1,700,000, annually for three years, to be spent in 1920, 1921, and 1922, to meet allotments made by the United States government.

A bill regulating highway traffic, the size, weight, tires and speed of vehicles.

A bill completely re-writing our town road laws, and eliminating our old road district, pay-your-road-taxes-in-labor-system. This is a highly important measure.

The joint legislative Highway Committee worked studiously on the many highway problems, with the active cooperation of State Highway Engineer A. R. Hirst. The legislature showed a most friendly attitude, and the 1919 session accomplished much toward highway improvement.

The first big piece of highway legislation to be taken up in this session was known as Bill 379S, and provided that the State Trunk Highway System should be increased from 5,000 to not to exceed 7,500 miles. In selecting the new mileage the same procedure will be followed as in laying out the original system.

The determination will rest with a joint legislative committee of five members, acting in conjunction with the Wisconsin Highway Commission, and hearings will be held throughout the state to determine where additional mileage shall be placed on the system.

In another bill was incorporated additional financing for the construction of the State Trunk Highway System. Two years ago when the original State Trunk Highway act was passed, to conform with the provisions of the Federal Aid Road Act, it was necessary for the state to raise the sum of $1,925,000 to meet the federal appropriation of an equal amount. This was raised by the diversion of the three quarters of the automobile license fees, which theretofore went to the counties, to the state highway fund, and the raising of the fee to $10.00 per car. This law also required that the counties should raise an amount equal to that raised by the state and federal government, making a total of $5,776,248 for construction on the State Trunk Highways, one third from each of the units of government mentioned.

Under an act of Congress passed last March increasing the federal appropriation, Wisconsin was allotted, in addition to the original amount, $5,091,786, to be spent in the three years 1920, 1921, and 1922, for highway construction. The state is required to equal this amount. To do this, a bill has been passed by the legislature providing for the levying of a tax of $1,700,000 available for use in the three years 1920, 1921, and 1922, and making a total of $5,100,000. As in the original State Trunk Highway Act, the counties are required to raise an equal amount making a total of $15,275,358 made this available by the present legislature for construction on the State Trunk Highway System, the federal government, the state, and the counties each paying one third. As under the act of two years ago noted above, $5,776,248 was made available, this means a total of $21,051,606 spent or to be spent on State Trunk Highway construction in the years 1918 to 1922 inclusive.

The State Trunk Highway Act of 1917 marked the beginning. It gave us the skeleton of a great state highway system, provided for the road-marking, provided for the patrol maintenance, and made available the initial appropriation for construction, the additional appropriation will enable construction to be pushed rapidly.

Considerable time elapsed and nothing was heard or said about his recommendation. During the drive at the Argonne Forest, orders were issued that men who were not graduates of officers schools were not to be promoted except in case of extraordinary and unusual work. After the Armistice was signed he was again recommended. The recommendation was withheld until he reached home, when he received word that his recommendation had been granted for the office of second lieutenant, which made his home coming doubly happy. FATHER LAUER LAID AT REST

Rev. Anthony J. Lauer, pastor of Sacred Heart congregation of Allenton, died last Sunday after having been ill about six weeks, suffering from gall stones. Father Lauer was born in this village on July 18, 1875.

After leaving Kewaskum he resided for some time in Milwaukee, and after having been ordained to the priesthood in 1910 he was assigned to the congregation at St. Anthony, from which parish he also served St. Mathias' congregation in the town of West Bend. He continued at St. Anthony until 1917, in which year he took charge of the newly-organized Sacred Heart congregation at Allenton.

Rev. Lauer is survived by his mother, Mrs. M. Lauer of Allenton, and by one sister, Mrs. R. Porkorny, of Milwaukee. The funeral services were held in Sacred Heart church at Allenton on Wednesday morning, about fifty priests from various parts of the state attended the funeral. The funeral high mass was sung by Monsignore Joseph Rainer, Rector of St. Francis' Seminary, assisted by Rev. Edward Rodenkirch of St. Francis, Wis., as subdeacon. Rev. P. Burelbach of St. Lawrence, Wis., acted as Master of ceremonies. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. N. Maas of Rubicon, Wis. Interment was made in the cemetery at St. Michaels.

Rev. Lauer was very well known in this community, having spent his annual summer vacations at the Harter homestead in the town of Auburn. A number of relatives and friends from this community attended the funeral at Allenton Wednesday. Rev. Lauer was also acting chaplain of the Knights of Columbus at West Bend, who attended the funeral in a body.

The sad and untimely death of this beloved pastor has brought sorrow not only to the members of his former and present parishes, but to all who knew him. His ever pleasing disposition and cheerfulness won him a host of friends, while his general conduct in the several parishes in which he served made him beloved to all the members. Father Lauer was truly a splendid priest and an ideal citizen, and it is to be regretted that his life could not be spared so that he might continue his great influence for good and for the general welfare of mankind.

The very large attendance at his funeral gave unmistakable proof of the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him, and the regret and anguish at his death was plainly to be noticed on all who had gathered to pay him their last tribute of respect.

There is a general unanimity among experts that early treatment of chronic and long standing diseases is imperative. Why let your chronic sickness run you down to such a condition that you will have to pay the penalty of neglect. Dr. Karass, the well known Milwaukee Expert treats all diseases of the heart, lungs, stomach, liver, kidneys, brain, nerves, skin, including rheumatism, epilepsy, paralysis, catarrh, asthma, deafness, head noises, adenoids, weak lungs, stomach trouble, bloating, persistent head aches, blood diseases, eczema and special diseases. The doctor treats without operation goitre, gall stones, piles, rupture, tumors, appendicitis, and special diseases of women. Dr. Karass makes a thorough examination of all who call and if he finds that he can cure you he will treat the case, if however he finds that there is no cure, he will refuse treatment. Many cases who have been given up by others, and quickly cured by Dr. Karass. Examination free to all who call. Dr. Karass will be in his office every Wednesday. Hours 9 A. M. to 2 P. M.—Adv.

LAWS REGARDING DISTILLED SPIRITS

There has been considerable discussion in the daily and weekly papers recently about the sale of distilled spirits, wines and fermented liquors after June 30th, 1919. Retail liquor dealers and others concerned do not appear to understand the provisions of the Act of November 21st, 1918.

This Act provides among other things that "after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred and nineteen, until the conclusion of the present war and thereafter until the termination of demobilization, the date of which shall be determined and proclaimed by the president of the United States, for the purpose of conserving the man power of the nation, and to increase efficiency in the production of arms, munitions, ships, food and clothing for the Army and Navy, it shall be unlawful to sell for beverage purposes any distilled spirits, and during said time no distilled spirits held in bond shall be removed therefrom for beverage purposes except for export."

"After June 30th, 1919, until the termination of demobilization, the date of which shall be determined and proclaimed by the President of the United States, no beer, wine or other intoxicating malt or vinous liquor shall be sold for beverage purposes except for export."

Any person who violates any of the foregoing provisions shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding one year or by fine not exceeding $1000.00 or both such imprisonment and fine.

The fact that any person or firm has filed an application and paid special tax as a liquor dealer for the fiscal year commencing July 1st, 1919, and ending June 30th, 1920, will not carry with it any privileges and will not exempt them from the penalties provided for in the law.

HORSE HAS SERVICE STRIPE

Benjamin Brandt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brandt of the town of Wayne, who was recently discharged from the army, and who is now employed in the foundry of C. G. Brieman in Juneau, Wis., is caring for a horse that is attracting unusual interest to the people of that community, and upon which is placed an inestimable value. The horse was used in France by a captain at the front lines and in one of the battles the officer was shot. Mr. Brandt, in some manner got hold of the horse and brought same with him to Juneau. The animal has an honorable discharge and also has been awarded the overseas service stripes. It has been suggested by the arrangement committee of the Juneau home coming which will be held there on July 1st, in honor of the returned soldiers, sailors and marines that Mr. Brandt and the horse with a war record lead the parade.

IN MEMORY

The following poem is in memory of the late Frank Ramel, who died at his home in New Fane on June 26, 1919.

The one we loved so well,
And just how much we miss him
Is more than tongue can tell,
The Heavenly Master called him,
He claimed him for his own
And now dwells with Angels,
Beside the Great White Throne.
Sad hearts he left behind him,
To plod life's weary way,
To prepare ourselves to meet him,
Who took him home to stay,
And all our journey's ended,
And all our trouble o'er,
Hope in Heaven to meet him,
And dwell forever more.

INHERITANCE TAX RATE BILL KILLED

Senate Votes Down Measure Which Triples Cost.

NEW SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Would Impose Tax of $10 on All Men Between Ages of 21 and 60 Who Did Not Participate in the World War.

Madison.—The Arnold bill, which would triple the inheritance tax rates in Wisconsin, has been killed by a vote of 11 to 10, which means that the inheritance tax rates will not be disturbed by the present session of the legislature.

The original inheritance tax measure provided for a 300 per cent increase of the present rates. Some time ago Severson offered an amendment which doubled the present rates. The Severson amendment was adopted at that time and became the bill. At the last session Pons offered an amendment to increase the present rates 50 per cent. The Pons amendment was rejected by a vote of 11 to 9. The Arnold inheritance bill was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 11 to 10.

A sixth soldier bonus bill appeared in the senate when Senator George L. Buck, Racine, offered a substitute measure providing for a tax levy of $10 each on every man between the ages of twenty-one and sixty who did not participate in the world war. The bill provides for raising the balance of the $15,000,000 necessary by taxation. The Buck bill, like other measures on the subject, provides for payment of $10 for each month of service for all Wisconsin men and women who served in the war.

"A lot of people have told how patriotic they are and how much they wish they could do something to help the soldiers who did the actual fighting and training. I am going to give these people a chance," said Senator Buck.

The senate killed the Burke bill providing for appointment of a commission and making an appropriation for the dedication of the state capitol. It advanced a new bill by Spogmo recognizing Christian Science under the workmen's compensator law on the option of the employers. It concurred in the H. E. Johnson bill increasing the rate for the care of the inmates of the home of the feeble-minded to $4.25 a week.

The senate may be compelled to institute proceedings against senators who willfully absent themselves from the sessions. The senate was under a call of the house and Senator J. Henry Bennett refused to return. On motion of Senator Jennings a committee has been appointed to ascertain what proceedings could be brought against Senator Bennett or any other senator who was willfully absent. Action will probably be taken by the senate this week.

By a vote of 40 to 28, the assembly sent to third reading, after a hot debate, the Bennett bill, which provides that interurban street railways may operate upon city streets without a franchise by securing from the railroad commission an indeterminate permit. By securing an indeterminate permit the city loses all right and control over the interurban lines and can place no limitations or restrictions over such lines. The granting of an indeterminate permit is in effect a perpetual franchise.

Assemblyman Kaney tried to kill the bill and he was backed up by Assemblyman Knappe, who contended that the passage would take away the rights of the city over interurban companies using the city streets. Assemblyman Otto, Buckley and Nolan favored the passage of the measure. The assembly, by a vote of 20 to 44, refused to kill the bill. Ehlman attempted to have the bill laid over until the next calendar day, but the house refused and the measure was sent to third reading by a vote of 40 to 28.

By a vote of 40 to 25 the assembly, following an hour of discussion, killed the Children primary election bill legalizing the holding of party conventions and providing for election of delegates to county and state conventions by the use of the primary system.

The bill was supported by Assemblyman Chilsen and was opposed by Assemblymen Axel Johnson and G. H. Hood. No substitute was offered to the bill, as was suggested some days ago, and vote was taken upon the original measure.

The assembly concurred in the Edwards amendment to the Severson bill relating to the secrecy clause of the state income tax law. Edwards attempted to kill the bill. A roll call was demanded and the house refused to kill the bill by a vote of 38 to 29.

Conference Ordered on Market Bills.
The senate refused to recede from its position in favor of the Skogmo marketing commission bill, and so informed the assembly asking for a conference. Speaker Young named C. C. Coe, J. C. Hanson and A. L. Best as assembly conferees and Lieutenant Governor Dithmar named Senators Skogmo, Kueck and Hilgrien. A report to both houses, to include amendments to either the Skogmo or Coe bills, or a substitute amendment on which all factions can agree, is expected this week.

Plan to Put Soldiers on Farms.

A measure intended to make it easy for soldiers to purchase land and giving them 40 years in which to repay the state for the land has been introduced in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature. The bill is authored by Assemblyman Orrin Fletcher, La Crosse. The measure carries a biennial appropriation of $1,000,000 with which to purchase lands to put soldiers on farms in Wisconsin.

Under the terms of the bill the present land settlement board is to administer the provisions of the law. In order to aid and provide for the returned soldiers and sailors who have been honorably discharged, and as a just and fitting reward in the manner of pay, bonus or reward for their services to the state and to the nation, and to provide reasonable opportunity for employment, the board may acquire agricultural lands suitable for colonization, together with any water rights and rights of way, and convey such land to discharged soldiers and sailors and their dependents.

The land settlement board is given authority to set aside certain areas of land for town site purposes; the board is directed to advertise in the newspapers for lands; may sell the lands to soldiers; may prepare all or any part of land for drainage or cultivation; may furnish the seeds, plants, fences and erect buildings and other improvements necessary. The board may also make loans on the security of stock and farm implements.

Every purchaser must be an actual resident upon such land within six months after date of his contract. The contract of sale to soldiers shall provide that the purchase price of the land shall be paid in amortization plans over a period of 40 years and bearing 5 per cent interest, computation as to payment being those used by the federal land bank.

The bill provides that there is appropriated from the general fund to the Wisconsin land settlement board on July 1, 1919, $500,000, and on July 1, 1920, $500,000, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the proposed measure.

Concurrence was given in the assembly to the bill appropriating $500,000 for care of the wounded, sick and convalescent soldiers, sailors and marines from Wisconsin. The bill now goes to the governor for his approval.

Adopts Gross Negligence Bill.

The senate has adopted the Bird amendment to the Severson gross negligence bill and has passed the measure. The Bird amendment applies the rule of comparative negligence to all accidents at railroad crossings. One member said that it will be possible to assess more damages than heretofore against the railroad companies for accidents. The present federal law recognizes the rule of comparative negligence as applied to interstate railway employees, and it is believed the proposed law will be satisfactory.

Good Wages for Farm Hands.

"Salaries of $100 a month with board, room, washing and gasoline for the hired man's car are not uncommon among Wisconsin farmers," said James S. Miller of Madison, acting federal director of the United States employment service. "There is no unemployment problem in this state," he declared. "The bulk of farm labor is placed at $60 to as high as $85 a month." The two main problems, securing work for discharged service men and for bartenders seeking different occupation, are being easily met, according to Mr. Miller.

New "Blue Sky" Law Proposed.

What may be Wisconsin's new "blue sky" law, to protect the investors of the state from unsound and too risky investments, was recommended for passage in the form of a substitute to the Coe bill along similar lines by the judiciary committee of the assembly. "The substitute divides securities into two classes, those of established and earning propositions and those of new and unproven schemes," said Mr. Coe, its author, in explaining the new bill.

Senate Passes Whey Butter Bill.

The Olson whey butter bill was amended to require a label reading "Whey Cream Butter" and passed the senate after several amendments and substitute amendments were defeated. The bill now goes to the assembly, where the original Olson whey butter bill, offered by Assemblyman Olson, brother of the senator, was killed early in the session. Dairy and Food Commissioner George J. Weigle offered no objection to the insertion of the word cream in the label.

O. K. Planning and Statue Bills.

The assembly passed the Coe bill providing for a department of rural planning within the state department of agriculture. It concurred in the Dennhart bill appropriating $15,000 for the erection of a monument of James D. Doty, the founder of Wisconsin. The statue is to be erected at Menasha, Doty's old home.

School Measure Introduced.

A bill of considerable interest to most cities of Wisconsin is that by Eber Simpson, Oshkosh, which, after passage in the assembly, under suspension of rules, was placed on the senate calendar. It gives boards of education complete control over selection of school sites defining of school districts and authority to employ school janitors, and vesting school principals with authority over the care and maintenance of schools, even to supervision over janitors.

NEWS OF THE BADGER STATE

Antigo — Chester Burt, Antigo, an American soldier in Russia, was compelled to be the messenger of Bolsheviks, but thereby rejoined his unit. He had been captured, together with C. H. Batchelor, Kansas City, when a third Yank, Walter Yellerman, Chicago, was killed. The Bolsheviks retained Batchelor and sent Burt to the American lines with information that Batchelor would be freed when captured Bolsheviks were let go. Burt said Batchelor was well treated. These incidents transpired after a fight between 25 Americans and 200 Bolsheviks 100 miles north of Vladivostok.

Chetek—Agitation for a municipally owned light and power system has resulted in a proposition from the Chetek Light and Power Co. for sale of the distribution system to the city for $9,000. The question of purchasing the system and bonding the city will be submitted to the voters next month.

Oshkosh—S. D. Boreham, Fond du Lac, is the new commander of the Wisconsin department of the United Spanish War Veterans, and his home city is the meeting place for the twenty-first state encampment in 1920. That was decided at a business session of the three-day program here.

Bangor — A. A. Miller of this village reports that his strawberries are netting him $300 an acre.

Watertown — With completion of preliminary organization, the Jefferson County Good Roads association outlined an extensive campaign for bettering roads. A state engineer has been assigned to Highway 19 and will remain until the road to Ixonia is in condition. Committees are to be named to gain support for good roads expenditures through the following channels: Organization of the county; education through the press, public meetings and lectures and organization work for votes.

Appleton—An additional $1,000 to the $6,000 available for the homecoming demonstration for Outagamie county soldiers and sailors July 4 has been provided by the city council. The demonstration will be the most elaborate ever attempted here. Street decorations will cost $3,000 and fireworks $1,500. A war camp is to be established on Lawrence college campus and huts will be erected by the Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army and Jewish Welfare board.

Stevens Point—Maj. George D. Whiteside, Plover, former assemblyman, has been awarded the medal of honor by the French government, for distinguished service in hospital work in France. The maturity value of the stamps sold in Outagamie county during the year 1918 was $774,550.

Appleton—Disinclination of farmers to experiment with flax raising is responsible for abandonment of the plan to establish a flax ginning factory in Appleton. Dr. J. B. Crowe, Chicago inventor of a flax gin, who was endeavoring to promote the factory, has gone to Oregon, where he has been promised support. He offered to erect a factory, financed by local people, if farmers would agree to raise 4,000 acres of flaxseed each year.

Over 8,000 were fed at the barbecue given in the afternoon at the high school grounds. Three dances were held at night. It was the biggest day in the history of Shawano.

Superior—Due to increased cost of conducting mission work, the Lutheran Brethren church convention decided against adding to the number of missionaries in the field next year. Construction of one or two buildings at the church's Bible school in Grand Forks, N. D., was authorized and it was decided to start a fund for the needy within the denomination.

KIDNEYS WEAKENING? BETTER LOOK OUT!

Kidney and bladder troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow upon you, slowly but steadily, undermining your health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease.

Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you feel that you are entirely free from pain.

This well-known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1638 the government of the Netherlands granted a special charter authorizing its sale. The good housewife of Holland would almost as soon be without food as without her "Real Dutch Drops," as she quaintly calls GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Their use restores strength and is responsible in a great measure for the sturdy, robust health of the Hollanders.

Do not delay. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Take them as directed, and if you are not satisfied with results your druggist will gladly refund your money. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on the box and accept no other. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

London Doctors Eager to Examine Brain of Man Known as Human Encyclopedia.

Of course you have heard of Datas, the human encyclopedia—the man who can memorize and reel off dates quicker than the fire of a machine gun; the man on whose head the doctors have placed a price of £2,000? "But I am not anxious to sell it yet for dissection," Datas told a writer for London Tit-Bits the other day. "It is worth more to me than £2,000."

Datas has lately been devouring war facts and had just added a couple of thousands in two and a half hours to his repertoire when we met. "For an outlay of twopenny," he said, "I bought a little book on a bookstall, called Two Thousand Facts About the War. I bought it and read the list through in two and a half hours and then knew it by heart."

There is no doubt about it. I tested Datas with the book in my hand, and no matter what question I asked him—dates of battles, air raids, names of ships sunk, famous generals' careers—he answered them without hesitation, says the writer. Datas has had many amusing and curious experiences, but the most extraordinary was the friendly dinner he shared with John Lee, the Babbaconbe murderer, and the late James Barry, the executioner who tried to hang

Lee three times but failed. "Berry, after ceasing to be an executioner, set up at Bradford as a phrenologist and character reader," said Datas. His card bore the words: "Heads examined." He examined a good many heads in his time.

Dressed to Kill in "Shell-Cloth."

Shell-cloth is the name of a new fabric being manufactured in England. The stuff is a fine serge and an essential part of projectiles. And now that the war is over the stuff is going into the making of clothes instead of shells, says the Philadelphia North American. It ought to make "staggeringly" good-looking clothes, don't you think? One woman might say quite truly to another: "Oh, my dear, she was dressed to kill, all in shellcloth."

Boy's Bill of Fare.

George Bailey, answering the inquiry, "What is good for a boy to eat?" says: "At this time of the year, according to the theories extant in North Carolina in 1870, a boy should have daily plenty of green fruit, pine rosin, young cucumbers, raw new potatoes, green blackberries, doughnuts, branch water and two hours in the swimming hole."—Atlanta Constitution.

INDIGESTION

Caused by Acid-Stomach

Millions of people—in fact about 8 out of 10—suffer more or less from indigestion, acute or chronic. Nearly every case is caused by Acid-Stomach.

There are other stomach disorders which also are sure signs of Acid-Stomach—belching, heartburn, bloating after eating, food repeating, sour, gassy stomach. There are many ailments which, while they do not cause much distress in the stomach itself, are, nevertheless, traceable to an acid-stomach. Among these are nervousness, biliousness, cirrhosis of the liver, rheumatism, impoverished blood, weakness, insomnia, melancholia and a long train of physical and mental miseries that keep the victims in miserable health year after year.

The right thing to do is to attack these ailments at their source—get rid of the acid-stomach. A wonderful medicine, called EATONIC now makes it easy to do this.

One of hundreds of thousands of grateful users of EATONIC writes: "I have been troubled with intestinal indigestion for about nine years and have spent quite a sum for medicine, but without relief. After using EATONIC for a few days the gas and pains in my bowels disappeared. EATONIC is just the remedy I needed."

We have thousands of letters telling of these marvelous benefits. Try EATONIC and you, too, will be just as enthusiastic in its praise. Your druggist has EATONIC. Get a big 50c box from him today. He will refund your money if you are not satisfied.

That Might Help.

Gwendoline de Vere gazed out of the window at the drizzling rain and the sloping streets and sighed dismally, as she pondered on the misery of things in general.

"Aye, I am heart hungry," she murmured in thrilling accents to herself. "What, I wonder, can alleviate these terrible pangs of heart hunger?"

Just then a voice came from the kitchen: "Come on, Gwen! Dinner's ready. Got liver and bacon today!"

Peace Epigrams.

At a dinner the other night to Edward Price Bell, the well-known American journalist, several epigrams were related about the peace terms. The Americans described it as "a peace with a punch." An English speaker said he had heard it described as "a peace with a vengeance."

I may add as the expression of the feelings of the ordinary man who has had to work through the 10,000 words, that it is a peace that passeth understanding.—Manchester Guardian.

Which Had Which?

Mother had taken Joe and John to the doctor's for an examination as the teacher had suggested. At the supper table that night she reported the verdict to father. "The doctor says they have adenoids and bad tonsils," she told him.

Father looked surprised but before he could speak, up piped six-year-old John. "Which one of them is mine, mom, and which one is Joe's?"

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE GRAY WOLF.

"It's not nearly so thrilling," said the gray wolf.

"What isn't so thrilling?" asked the prairie wolf.

"I said it isn't nearly so thrilling," said the gray wolf.

"Well, what isn't nearly so thrilling?" asked the prairie wolf.

"There, now, you have asked the question correctly," said the gray wolf.

"Then won't you reward me and tell me the answer?" asked the prairie wolf.

"I will indeed," said the gray wolf, and then smacked his lips together as though he were quite through talking.

"Do tell me, then, don't stop," said the prairie wolf.

"I mean," said the gray wolf, who is the hero of this story, and was known simply as the gray wolf, "that the zoo isn't nearly so thrilling as the wild, free life is."

"I could have told you that myself," said the prairie wolf.

"Now, listen to me, Prairie Wolf, said the gray wolf, "there are many creatures and many people who are always saying:

"Oh, that is no better than I could have done, or I could have said as much as that, or I was just going to say that."

"In many cases it might be quite true, but I don't like a creature to try to get the credit of something some one else has done.

"Just suppose a person made a fine speech and some cross, jealous person said:

"Oh, I could have done as well as that. He said nothing new, well, that wouldn't be nice at all. Now we aren't nice in one way, but we don't pretend we're something we aren't. Take my advice, Young Prairie, and don't try to get credit for what some one else does."

"I guess your advice is good," admitted the prairie wolf.

"Ah," said the gray wolf, "I am known by many names. I am sometimes called a black wolf and sometimes a white wolf because my family move from place to place and because we act a little differently in a number of little ways and look differently in different places."

"You're mighty fond of that word different," said the prairie wolf.

"Don't be rude, Young Prairie," said the gray wolf. "For I wish to tell you that what they call me means but little to me. For oh, I have been a great creature in my day."

"What was your day?" asked the prairie wolf. "Was it Christmas or Thanksgiving or what?"

"You think you're smart," said the gray wolf, "but let me tell you that I don't wish to pay any attention to such remarks."

"I wish to tell you that when I was free I was the danger of many a cattle ranch. Ah, what hunts and feasts and sport I have had.

"And another thing I wish to tell you is that my family are interesting and they're just as wild as I was.

"They, too, love cattle and sheep, just as I loved cattle and sheep, and though here in the zoo, they don't give me a chance to show my love for these animals, I can think happily of the days back when I had my chances and took them.

"And not only the days—no—the nights were even more important. Ah, such nights! Such feasts!"

"I guess some are glad you are safe in the zoo," said the prairie wolf.

"I don't care about 'some,'" said the gray wolf, "for I am a gray wolf and the gray wolves only care for themselves and each other. That is quite enough, quite."

"I suppose in your opinion it is," ended the prairie wolf.

Think Best of Others.

Unjust suspicions sometimes injure their object, but they invariably harm the one who indulges them. To shelter an ungenerous thought about another, harms ourselves. If we fall into the way of putting the worst construction on what others do, of interpreting their words to mean something disagreeable and painful, we are warring and dwarfing our own natures. Trust and kindly confidence not only draw the best out of others, but make the best of ourselves.—Selected.

So He Can.

A gentleman who was visiting a school in a mining village, asked the question: "Can the leopard change his spots?"

"No, sir," said all the children—all except little Dan Lewis, who persisted in keeping up his hand. The visitor to satisfy him asked: "Well, Dan, can the leopard change his spots?"

"Please, sir," replied Dan, "when he gets tired of one spot, can't he go to another?"

What He Required.

After reading a poem about a little boy who was so happy because there were lovely flowers, beautiful birds, blue sky and running brooks, eight year old William remarked:

"Those things would never make me happy, Miss Jones."

"Why, William," replied his teacher, "what would it take to make you happy?"

"Saturdays!" was the prompt reply.—Harper's.

MIGHT GET IT RIGHT SOON

Youthful Sunday School Teacher by No Means Disconcerted by First Rather Wild Statement.

She is fifteen and teaches a Sunday school class of ten little girls. That they might "learn to keep and do them," she bade them commit the twelve commandments. The day for the utterance of the "twelve" statutes arrived.

The little girl on the end seat was called on first. Glibly she repeated the ten. There was a pause. She was waiting for the approval of her teacher.

"Give the other two," firmly commanded this elderly personage. "My mother said there were only ten, and that was more than anyone could keep, and she knows," retorted the assured little end-seat girl.

Nonchalantly the teacher began turning the pages of Revelation. She was working to Deuteronomy.

"Certainly there are but ten commandments. How stupid. I was thinking of Proverbs. You know, my dears, there are twelve of those."

Matter of Jurisdiction.

At the master painters and decorators' banquet the other evening one of the guests said to a companion:

"I notice a couple of doctors in the gathering."

"Yes, I saw them, too," the other replied.

"How do you account for their presence here?"

"Oh, we are obliged to be very strict on account of the union."

"How does that affect the doctors?"

"Every doctor must have a working card, you know, so he will be able to print with iodine."—Youngstown Telegram.

Pardonable Curiosity.

"Gabe Sogback got hold of a drink or two of bone-dry icker tuther evening and went home and threw himself on the bed, face down," related a citizen of Sandy Mush, Ark. "As soon as he was asleep his wife took and tied him fast by the four corners, spread out like a capital letter 'X,' and beat and manled him with a wagon spoke till she mighty nigh snuffed him flat. A passel of us fellows going by heered the hooraw, and, 'towing a varmint was killing somebody, vent in, and sorter persuaded Mizus Sogback to turn Gabe loose. She said she had whipped him 'cuz she loved him. I reckon that was all right, but I'm sorter curious to know what she'd-a-did to him if she'd-p'tul—hated him."—Kansas City Star.

Care and Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little-ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrups was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

An Improved PIPELESS FURNACE Different—Better

This welded steel furnace warms the connecting rooms all from one hot-and-cold-air register—the same as other pipeless heaters—but it DOES MORE.

Every house has a detached room—a bath room—kitchen—bedroom, not opening into the main rooms, and the ordinary pipeless furnace does not reach that detached room.

The Hess Does It

When required, we divide our heating chamber into two compartments, using the smaller compartment for the detached room. The heat is then regulated and sent where it is wanted, thus overcoming the fault of the pipeless method.

There Are Many Other Valuable Features in the HESS FURNACES—Such as: The WELDED and RIVETED steel radiator. Never leaks—every seam permanently welded, as tight as a glass bottle.

The brick lined fire-box; retains heat for the combustion of gases—which means you can burn ANYTHING, hard or soft coal, coke, slack, lignite, wood, etc.

The separate and open grate bars promote good combustion and economize in the use of fuel.

The simplicity of the heater reduces cost of installing and maintaining.

Any part of the heater, fire-box, grates, etc., can be readily removed or replaced, without taking the heater apart.

We sell FROM FACTORY TO USER, at factory prices, for cash, Liberty Bonds or on monthly payments.

Ask for our free 48 page illustrated hand book on furnace heating. It will give you a lot of valuable information.

—The following may be of interest to local people owning autos, who are liable to be hailed into police court when caught driving their car past a stationary street car in the city of Fond du Lac, as the city ordinance of Fond du Lac to that effect has been enforced, and last week Thursday Roy Washburn of that city paid a fine of $13.95 for violating said ordinance. So beware.

—With last week's issue of the Campbellsport News marked the beginning of its 12th year of existence during which time the News, has been going on a steadily upward trend until it now ranks with some of the best weeklies in the state. Great credit is due Brother Sullivan for his untiring efforts in bringing the News up to a high standard which is a great credit to the village of Campbellsport. The Statesman wishes Brother Sullivan continued success in the field of journalism.

—The dance at the North Side Park hall last Sunday evening was a grand success. The music furnished by Al. Gabler's Traveling orchestra of Sheboygan was pleasing and full of life and pep, which not only now, but even more so after the nation has gone bone dry, is the sort of music that takes, because it will have the power of living up the merry-makers at dances. The orchestra consists of five pieces and everyone of the members is an accomplished and finished musician. The orchestra certainly is entitled to a packed house wherever they may chance to play.

The Doctor Away From Home When Most Needed.

People are often very much disappointed to find that their family physician is away from home when they most need his services. Diseases like pain in the stomach and bowels, colic and diarrhea require prompt treatment, and have in many instances proven fatal before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. The right way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. No physician can prescribe a better medicine for these diseases. By having it in the house you escape much pain and suffering and all risk. Buy it now; it may save life.

To Prevent Belching.
Make a regular habit of eating slowly, masticate your food thoroughly, and you may have no further trouble. If you should, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper.

IRONGLAD MEASURE FRAMED IN HOUSE

Drastic Bill to Enforce the Anti-Liquor Law.

$3,500,000 FUND PROVIDED

Any Beverage Containing More than One-Half of 1 Per Cent of Alcohol is Declared to Be Intoxicating.

Washington, June 26.—Drastic legislation for the strict enforcement of both war-time and constitutional prohibition was completed by the House Judiciary committee. With only slight modifications the bill Chairman Volstead will submit to the house is the same as that proposed by the ultra dries.

An appropriation of $3,500,000 is provided to carry out the act. The main provisions of the bill are:

Any beverage containing more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol is "intoxicating liquor."

When the war-time prohibition act or constitutional prohibition goes into effect, it shall be unlawful to "manufacture, sell, barter, give away, transport, import, export, deliver, furnish, receive or possess any intoxicating liquor except as authorized by this act." The only exceptions are for medicinal, scientific or sacramental purposes, or where liquor is stored in private homes before prohibition goes into effect, for private use.

Punishments Provided.

Punishments for violations are as follows:
A fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500 for the first offense, and a fine of not less than $200 nor more than $1,000, with imprisonment from 30 to 90 days, for the second offense.

A fine of not less than $500 and imprisonment from six months to two years is provided for the subsequent offenses. In addition, courts may require bonds as security that violators will not again break the law for one year.

Enforcement of the prohibition law is lodged with the commissioner of Internal Revenue and the department of Justice.

Patent and proprietary medicine manufacturers must prove to the commissioner that their products cannot be used in place of intoxicating liquor.

Liquor may be prescribed for medicinal purposes only by reputable physicians, and not more than one prescription shall be given every ten days. Pharmacists filling these prescriptions must be licensed.

Permits must be obtained to manufacture liquor for legal purposes, bond being required. Transportation permits also are required, both being furnished by the prohibition commissioner. Records of all transportation must be submitted.

Must Be Clearly Labeled.

All liquor must be clearly labeled as such when sold for legal purposes. Ten days after the passage of the act all liquor illegally held must have been disposed of, or it shall be considered violation of the law. All liquor legally held must be reported to the prohibition commissioner.

Railroad and express companies are not permitted to deliver liquor except on sworn affidavit and permit that it is for legal purposes.

Advertisement of intoxicating liquor, by any method, or telling anyone where he can get a drink is prohibited. Billboards with liquor ads must be removed, or enforcement officers have the power to paint them over or remove them.

Any picture of a brewery, distillery, bottle, keg, barrel or box or other receptacle designed to serve as an advertisement thereof, is illegal.
No formulas or recipes for making liquor, and any tablets, substances, compounds or preparations for the same purpose may be sold.

Curb on Newspapers.

No newspaper or periodical can print "statements concerning the manufacture or distribution of alcoholic liquors, for which the paper receives compensation, unless with the article is the following statement, printed as paid advertising."

Drinking of liquor in public or in a railroad train, automobile, dining car or vestibule of a train is prohibited and conductors are given the power to arrest.

Any person injured by an intoxicated person can bring suit for damages against the person who sold or assisted in procuring the liquor for the intoxicated person.

Bootleggers shall be fined not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 and imprisoned for not less than one month nor more than a year.

Any violation of the act on leased premises shall constitute a forfeiture of the lease.

Here's Search Provision.

Search for liquor may be made on a warrant issued by a federal court, a court of record or a United States commissioner.

Liquor seized may be destroyed or turned over to the government for scientific or medical purposes, upon conviction of the holder.

All vehicles used for illegally transporting liquor, including motor cars, boats, buggies and airplanes shall be seized by the officers, and disposition ordered by the court.

STORY SHOCKS COURT

COCCHI TELLS GRUESOME TALE AT ITALIAN TRIAL.

Declares He Saw Body of Ruth Cruger So He Could Get It Through Door.

Bologna, June 26.—The trial of Alfred Cocchi, charged with the murder of Ruth Cruger in New York, in 1917, has been interrupted for an indefinite period to enable the court to examine the American court records with reference to testimony given in the Cocchi case regarding Cocchi's wife.

There was a spirited exchange between Sig. Bagnoli, president of the court, and Cocchi over the latter's change of attitude toward the crime, in which the court spoke vehemently in citing incidents narrated in the confession made by Cocchi and the findings of American tribunals.

Cocchi told of having saved the body of Miss Cruger so that he might hide it. Then he broke down, crying in a broken voice:

"I took the body and tried to conceal it in the cellar, but the door was not large enough and I saved the body in two. The girl was dead when this was done."

Then followed a discussion between Sig. Bagnoli and Cocchi as to whether the girl was dead before her body was dismembered. The whole courtroom was agitated at the prisoner's narration, but Cocchi proceeded with his story rapidly, being apparently very nervous.

Dispatches received from Bologna stated that Alfred Cocchi had appeared before the court and jury and declared that his wife was guilty of the murder of Ruth Cruger, a New York girl, who was slain in Cocchi's bicycle repair shop in New York city in 1917. It evidently is the purpose of the court to examine the record of the inquiry made in the case of Mrs. Cocchi by a New York grand jury, which exonerated her.

SERVICE ABROAD CALLED OFF

Orders for Enlistment of Volunteer Recruits to Be Withdrawn by Government.

Washington, June 26.—Offer of service in Europe to recruits obtained under volunteer enlistment will be withdrawn under orders prepared by the war department. The policy of sending regular officers overseas to relieve those in the American expeditionary forces also will be abandoned. This action was said to have resulted from the improved situation in Europe growing out of the imminent signing of the peace treaty.

In the orders officers here foresaw an early return of all troops now abroad excepting the comparatively small American contribution to the army of occupation.

"HOW HATH THE MIGHTY FALLEN"

FOE SINKS OWN SHIPS MANY DIE IN TORNADO

WAR VESSELS SURRENDERED DURING ARMISTICE ARE SUNK.

Huns Reported to Have Also Destroyed Craft at Wilhelmshaven and Other Points.

Wielmar, June 24.—The German warships which were not surrendered to the allies and which have been anchored off Kiel, Wilhelmshaven and other points, have been sunk by German sailors manning them, according to a report received here from a reliable authority.

According to the reports there were twelve German war vessels, besides destroyers, which were in German waters, not having been turned over to the entente under the armistice provisions.

Admiral von Reuter, commander of the surrendered German fleet, says he issued an order to sink the ships, and did so because at the beginning of the war the German emperor directed that no German warship should fall into the enemy's hands. He says that he believed from newspaper reports that the armistice had been ended.

London, June 24.—More than 100 German sailors are believed to have perished while trying to escape in lifeboats after the scuttling of the German fleet at Scapa Flow. Some bodies have been washed ashore and have been buried. A German four-master, the Evening News learns, appeared three miles off Scapa last Wednesday and gave signs to the German warships. The inference is that this mystery vessel conveyed the order for the sinking of the fleet. A German wireless message picked up says the German crews went to England in the belief the ships were to be preserved to the fatherland, but when they found out this was not so they sank them in preference to surrender.

Some of the boats were caught by gunfire from the British guardships, and a number of their occupants killed or wounded. The others, including the German rear admiral, are under arrest aboard British warships.

Won't Bar "Use" of Liquor.

Washington, June 26.—Provision in the bill for enforcement of war-time prohibition which would have prevented the "use" by a citizen of liquor in his own home was stricken out by the house judiciary committee.

LABOR DEMANDS 44-HOUR WEEK

Would Include Workers in All Crafts Throughout United States.

TO PREVENT UNEMPLOYMENT

Railway Brotherhoods to Join the Federation, Increasing the Membership by 500,000—Telegraphers Pledged Support.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 25.—The American Federation of Labor at the closing session here of its annual convention plied itself to obtain a general 44-hour week for workers in all crafts throughout the United States and for employees in the government service.

The demand was based on a determination to prevent unemployment, which the delegates declared is one of the two primary causes of industrial unrest.

The other cause is the decreased purchasing power of the dollar. Manufacturers and employers were urged to "bridge the gap" and increase wages "without any controversy."

Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, was greeted with a roar of cheers late in the day when he announced from the platform that three of the four great railroad brotherhoods—the engineers, conductors and trainmen—had applied for charters in the federation.

The fourth brotherhood—the firemen—was meeting at Denver, he said, to consider a similar application. If the firemen followed the example of the other brotherhoods, the ranks of the federation will be increased by 500,000 men.

Delegates were of the opinion that with the entry of the brotherhoods the federation will back the demand of the railway men for government ownership and control of the roads. This subject has been referred to the executive council with instructions to formulate a policy.

The convention pledged its support to the striking commercial telegraph operators and appointed a committee to confer with Postmaster General Burleson in the hope of obtaining for the telegraphers the same concessions which have been granted to electrical and telephone workers.

A resolution was adopted requesting congress to investigate the alleged suppression of free speech and other American institutions in western Pennsylvania, while another resolution severely criticized municipal officials in Toledo for employing discharged soldiers in uniform to perform civil police duty in a strike.

The convention turned down a resolution introduced by Seattle delegates which would have put the American Federation of Labor on record as being in favor of prohibition.

The convention also adopted a resolution changing the A. F. of L. constitution so as to permit disciplinary action against unions which show radical tendencies. The executive council is authorized to revoke the charter of any central union or body of delegates which calls a strike or attempts to take a strike vote which would, if successful, cause a walkout of affiliated bodies.

Another resolution denounced "deplorable conditions" in the railway mail service and asked that congress pass laws providing for a standard pay for railway mail clerks.

GERMANS BURN FRENCH FLAGS

Violate Armistice Terms by Destroying Emblems Seized in Franco-Prussian War.

WARNS OF Foe TREACHERY

Press Tell Allies to Be on Guard Even After Peace is Signed—Sinking of Fleet Cited—Plan to Punish Huns.

Paris, June 26.—Word of the burning of certain French battle flags by the Germans has been received here. Peace conference opinion is apparently unanimous that this is a distinct violation of the peace treaty, inasmuch as that document stipulated that the flags should be returned to France by Germany. It is probable that a commission will be appointed to consider taking action in the matter.

Presumably the foregoing refers to French battle flags taken by the Germans in the war of 1870-71. Article 245 of the peace treaty, in the original draft, stipulated that within six months after the treaty should take effect Germany must restore to France the trophies, works of art, etc., carried from France by the Germans in the Franco-Prussian war, "particularly the French flags."

The council of three, after discussing the sinking of the German fleet at Scapa Flow and considering measures to be taken if the armistice was violated, has referred questions relative to the sinking of the war vessels to a commission of experts which will determine whether or not the armistice conditions were disregarded.

London, June 26.—Admiral von Reuter, in command of the German fleet scuttled and sunk in the Scapa Flow, will be court-martialed for having broken the armistice conditions, says the Daily Mail.

The newspaper adds that the details of the trial of the admiral will be arranged by the allied council in Paris. The German admiralty denies the rumor in circulation in Paris and elsewhere that the Germans have sunk the remainder of their warships in German harbors.

Profound distrust of Germany is the predominant note in London press comments on the German government's decision to sign the treaty of peace.

The Germans proved themselves treacherous throughout the war, the latest instance being the sinking of their interned fleet in Scapa Flow. Therefore it is contended it would be premature to celebrate peace until the treaty is actually signed. Even afterward, it is said, the allies must be continually on guard until the last penalty is paid.

The German Officers' association has asked the Dutch government not to deliver the former German emperor to the allies. In a telegram officers of the association said: "We can protect the kaiser with our bodies, but we rely upon the generosity of the Dutch people."

The announcement of the agreement to sign the peace terms resulted in patriotic demonstrations throughout Germany, Copenhagen reports. In Berlin, Munich and other large cities processions formed and marched along the principal streets, the participants singing war songs and cheering the generals of the old empire.

VILLA TROOPS ARE DEFEATED

Sixty-Three Rebels Slain, Many Others Wounded; Force Routed at Villa Ahumada.

El Paso, Tex., June 26.—Sixty-three Villa rebels were killed and many more wounded in a fight between federal troops and Villa forces for possession of Villa Ahumada, according to an official military dispatch given here. In a fight which lasted three hours federal cavalry, charging the Villa positions inside the town, forced the rebels to retire. Villa representatives here asserted that the Villa forces killed 16 federal officers and track workmen.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bipro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bipro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bipro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION: Although bipro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

GREEN FANCY

BY GEORGE BARR MC CUTCHEON

Author of "GRAUSTARK," "THE HOLLOW OF HER HAND," "THE PRINCE OF GRAUSTARK," ETC.

Copyright by Dodd, Mead and Company, Inc.

THE CUT DIRECT

Synopsis.—Thomas K. Barnes, a wealthy young New Yorker, on a walking trip in New England near the Canadian border, is given a lift in an automobile by a mysterious and attractive girl bound for a house called Green Fancy. At Hart's tavern Barnes finds a stranded troupe of "barn-storming" actors, of which Lyndon Ruschcroft is the star and "Miss Thackeray" the leading lady. They are doing hotel work for their board. He learns Green Fancy is a house of mystery. That night two mounted men leave the tavern under odd circumstances. One is shot dead near by; the other is brought back dying. Barnes comes under suspicion. He stays to help clear up the mystery. O'Dowd of Green Fancy says that that place of mystery is not concerned in any way. Barnes gets into the Green Fancy grounds and sees the mysterious girl.

CHAPTER VII.

Spun-Gold Hair, Blue Eyes and Various Encounters.

She was quite unaware of his presence, and yet he was directly in her path, though some distance away. Her head was bent; her men was thoughtful, her stride slow and aimless.

She was slender, graceful and evidently quite tall, although she seemed a pigmy among the towering giants that attended her stroll. Her hands were thrust deep into the pocket of a white duck skirt. A glance revealed white shoes and trim ankles in blue. She wore no hat. Her hair was like spun gold, thick, wavy and shimmering in the subdued light.

Suddenly she stopped and looked up. He had a full view of her face as she gazed about as if startled by some unexpected, even alarming sound. For a second or two he held his breath, stunned by the amazing loveliness that was revealed to him. Then she discovered him standing there.

In a flash he realized that he was face to face with the stranger of the day before. He took two or three impulsive steps forward, his hand going to his hat—and then halted. Evidently his senses had deceived him. There was no smile in her eyes—and yet he could have sworn that it was there an instant before. Instead there was a level stare.

"I am sorry if I startled—" he began.

The figure of a man appeared as if discharged bodily from some magic tree-trunk, and stood directly in his path—a tall, rugged man in overalls was he, who held a spade in his hand and eyed him intently. Without another glance in his direction the first and more pleasing vision turned on her heel and continued her stroll, snatching off to the right, her fair head once more bent in study, her back eloquently indifferent to the gaze that followed her.

"Who do you want to see?" inquired the man with the spade.

Before Barnes could reply a hearty voice accosted him from behind. He whirled and saw O'Dowd approaching, not twenty yards away. The Irishman's face was aglow with pleasure.

"I knew I couldn't be mistaken in the shape of you," he cried, advancing with outstretched hand. "You've got the breadth of a dockhand in your shoulders and the trimness of a prize fighter in your waist."

They shook hands. "I fear I am trespassing," said Barnes. His glance went over his shoulder as he spoke. The man with the spade had been swallowed up by the earth! He could not have vanished more quickly in any other way. Off among the trees were intermittent flashes of blue and white.

"I am quite sure you are," said O'Dowd promptly but without a trace of unfriendliness in his manner. "Be-dad, loving him as I do, I can't help saying that Curtis is a bally old crank. Mind ye, I'd say it to his face—I often do, for the matter of that. Of course," he went on seriously, "he is a sick man, poor devil. You see I've known him for a dozen years and more, and he likes me, though God knows why, unless it may be that I once did him a good turn in London."

"Sufficient excuse for reparation, I should say," smiled Barnes.

"I introduced the lad to me only sister," said O'Dowd, "and she kept him happy for the next ten years. No doubt I also provided Mr. Curtis with three grandchildren he might never have had but for my graciousness." A look of distress came into his merry eyes. "By Jove, I'd like nothing better than to ask you in to have a dish of tea—it's teatime, I'm sure—but I'd no more think of doing it than I'd consider cutting off my head. He doesn't like strangers. He—"

"My dear fellow, don't distress yourself," cried Barnes heartily. "There isn't the least reason in the world why—"

"You see, the poor old chap asks us up here once or twice a year—that is to say, De Soto and me—to keep his sister from filling the house up with men he can't endure. So long as we occupy the only available rooms, he argues, she can't stuff them full of objectionables. Twice a year she comes for a month, in the late fall and early spring."

"Why does he continue to live in this out-of-the-world spot? He is an old man, I take it, and ill?"

"You wouldn't be wondering if you knew the man," said O'Dowd. "He is a scholar, a dreamer, a sufferer. He's not a very old man at that. Not more than sixty-five."

"He certainly has a fanciful streak in him, building a place like that," said Barnes, looking not at the house but into the thicket above. There was no sign of the blue and white and the spun gold that still defied exclusion from his mind's eye. He had not recovered from the thrill into which the vision of loveliness plunged him. He was still a trifle dazed and distraught.

"Right you are," agreed O'Dowd; "the queerest streak in the world. It's his notion of simplicity."

"Green Fancy. Is that the name he gave the place or does it spring from—"

"'Twas christened by me own sister, Mr. Barnes, the first time she was here, two years ago. I'll walk with you to the fence beyond if you've no objections," said O'Dowd genially, and linked his arm through that of Barnes.

The latter was at once subtly aware of the fact that he was being deliberately conducted from the grounds. Moreover, he was now convinced that O'Dowd had been close upon his heels from the instant he entered them. There was something uncanny in the feeling that possessed him. Such espionage as this signified something deep and imperative in the presence not only of O'Dowd but the jack-in-the-box gardener a few minutes earlier.

His mind was still full of the lovely stranger about whom O'Dowd had so manifestly lied over the telephone.

"I must ask you to apologize to the young lady on whom I blundered a few moments ago, Mr. O'Dowd. She must have been startled. Pray convey to her my solicitude and excuses."

"The Irishman. "Our most charming and seductive guest," he went on. "Be-dad, of the two of you, I'll stake my head you were startled the most. Coming suddenly upon such rare loveliness is almost equivalent to being struck by a bolt of lightning. More than one painter of portraits has said that she is the most beautiful woman in the world. Mayhap you have heard of her. She is Miss Cameron of New Orleans, a friend of Mrs. Van Dyke. We have quite an enchanting house party, Mr. Barnes, if you consider no more than the feminine side of it. By the way, have you heard when the coroner is to hold his inquests?"

"Nothing definite. He may wait a week," said Barnes.

"I suppose you'll stick around until it's over," ventured O'Dowd. Barnes thought he detected a slight harshness in his voice.

"I have quite made up my mind to stay until the mystery is entirely cleared up," he said. "The case is so interesting that I don't want to miss a shred of it."

"I don't blame ye," said O'Dowd heartily. "I'd like nothing better myself than to mix up in it. The next time you plan to pay us a visit, telephone in advance. I may be able to persuade my host that you're a decent, law-abiding, educated gentleman, and he'll consent to receive you at Green Fancy. Good day to ye," and he shook hands with the departing trespasser.

"Takin' a walk?" was the landlord's greeting as Barnes mounted the tavern steps at dusk.

"Going over the grounds of last night's affair," responded Barnes, pausing.

As he entered the door he was acutely aware of an intense stare leveled at him from behind by the landlord of Hart's Tavern. Half way up the stairway he stopped short and with difficulty repressed the exclamation that rose to his lips.

He had recalled a significant incident of the night before. Almost immediately after the departure of Roon and Paul from the Tavern Putnam Jones had made his way to the telephone behind the desk and had called a number in a loud, brisk voice, but the subsequent conversation was carried on in subdued tones, attended by haste and occasional furtive glances in the direction of the taproom.

Upon reaching his room Barnes permitted the suppressed emotion to escape his lips in the shape of a soft whistle, which if it could have been translated into words would have said: "By Gad, why haven't I thought of it before? He sent out the warning that Roon and Paul were on the way! And I'd like to bet my last dollar that someone at Green Fancy had the other end of the wire."

Mr. Ruschcroft was giving Hamlet's address to the players, in the taproom when Barnes came downstairs at nine o'clock.

A small, dark man who sat alone at a table in the corner caught Barnes' eye and smiled almost mournfully. He was undoubtedly a stranger; his action was meant to convey to Barnes the information that he too was from a distant and sophisticated community and that a bond of sympathy existed between them.

Putnam Jones spoke suddenly at Barnes' shoulder. He started involuntarily. The man was beginning to get on his nerves. He seemed to be dogging his footsteps with ceaseless persistence.

"That fellow over there in the corner," said Jones softly, "is a book agent from your town. He sold me a set of Dickens when he was here last time, about six weeks ago. A year's subscription to two magazines thrown in. By gosh, these book agents are slick ones."

"He's a shrewd-looking chap," commented Barnes.

"Says he won't be satisfied till he's made this section of the country the most cultured, refined spot in the United States," said Jones dolefully. "Excuse me. There goes the telephone. Maybe it's news from the sheriff."

With the spasmodic tinkling of the telephone bell the book agent arose and made his way to the little office. Barnes glanced over his shoulder a moment later and saw him studying the register. The pulse of his sleek head, however, suggested a listening attitude. Putnam Jones, not four feet away, was speaking into the telephone receiver. As the receiver was restored to its hook Barnes turned again. Jones and the book agent were examining the register, their heads almost meeting from opposite sides of the desk.

The latter straightened up, stretched his arms, yawned, and announced in a loud tone that he guessed he'd stop out and get a bit of fresh air before turning in.

"Any news?" inquired Barnes, approaching the desk after the door had closed behind the book agent.

"It wasn't the sheriff," replied Jones shortly, and immediately resumed his interrupted discourse on books and book agents. Ten minutes elapsed before the landlord's garrulity was checked by the sound of an automobile coming to a stop in front of the house. Barnes turned expectantly toward the door. Almost immediately the car started again, with a loud shifting of gears, and a moment later the door opened to admit, not a fresh arrival but the little book agent.

"Party trying to make Hornville tonight," he announced casually. "Well, good night. See you in the morning."

Barnes was not in a position to doubt the fellow's word, for the car unmistakably had gone on toward Hornville. He waited a few minutes after the man disappeared up the narrow stairway, and then proceeded to test his powers of divination. He was as sure as he could be sure of anything that had not actually come to pass that in a short time the automobile would again pass the tavern, but this time from the direction of Hornville.

Lighting a cigarette he strolled outside. He had barely time to take a position at the darkened end of the porch before the sounds of an approaching machine came to his ears. A second or two later the lights swung around the bend in the road a quarter of a mile above Hart's Tavern, and down came the car at a high rate of speed. It dashed past the tavern with a great roar and rattle and shot off into the darkness beyond. As if rushed through the dim circle of light in front of the tavern Barnes succeeded in obtaining a brief but convincing view of the car. That glance was enough, however. He would have been willing to go before a jury and swear that it was the same car that had deposited him at Hart's Tavern the day before.

Having guessed correctly in the one instance he allowed himself another and even bolder guess—the little book agent had either received a message from or delivered one to the occupant or driver of the car from Green Fancy.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Note, Some Fancies and an Expedition in Quest of Facts.

He started upstairs, his mind full of the events and conjectures of the day. As he entered the room his eyes fell upon a white envelope at his feet. It had been slipped under the door since he left the room an hour before.

Tense reminder from the prudent Mr. Jones! His bill for the day! He picked it up, glanced at the inscription, and at once altered his opinion. His full name was there in the handwriting of a woman. For a moment he was puzzled; then he thought of Miss Thackeray. A note of thanks, no doubt, unpleasantly fulsome? Vaguely annoyed, he ripped open the envelope and read:

"In case I do not have the opportunity to speak with you tonight, this is to let you know that the little man who says he is a book agent was in your room for three-quarters of an hour while you were away this afternoon. You'd better see if anything is missing. M. T."

He made a hasty but careful examination of his effects. There was not the slightest evidence that his pack had been opened or even disturbed. If the little book agent spent three-quarters of an hour in the room he managed most effectually to cover up all traces of his visit.

Barnes did not go to sleep until long after midnight. He now regarded himself as definitely committed to a combination of sinister and piquant enterprises, not the least of which was to know about the mysterious young woman at Green Fancy.

The next day he, with other lodgers in the Tavern, was put through an examination by the police and county officials from St. Elizabeth, and notified that, while he was not under suspicion or surveillance, it would be necessary for him to remain in the "bailwick" until detectives, already on the way, were satisfied that he possessed no knowledge that would be useful to them in clearing up what had now assumed the dignity of a "national problem."

O'Dowd rode down from Green Fancy and created quite a sensation among the officials by announcing that they had a perfect right to extend their search for clues to all parts of his estate, and that he was deeply interested in the outcome of their investigations.

The sheriff said he would like to "run over the ground a bit" that very afternoon if it was agreeable to Mr. O'Dowd.

O'Dowd stayed to dinner. (Dinner was served in the middle of the day at Hart's Tavern.) He made a great impression upon Lyndon Ruschcroft, who, with his daughter, joined the two men. Indeed, the palavering Irishman extended himself in the effort to make himself agreeable. He was vastly interested in the stage, he declared. As a matter of fact he had been told a thousand times that he ought to go on the stage. . . .

The little book agent came in while they were at table. He sat down in a corner of the dining room and busied himself with his subscription lists while waiting for the meal to be served. He was still poring over them, frowning intently, when Barnes and the others left the room.

Barnes walked out beside Miss Thackeray.

"The tailor-made gown is an improvement," he said to her. He was thinking that she was a very pretty girl, after all.

"The frock usually makes the woman," she said slowly, "but not always the lady."

He thought of that remark more than once during the course of an afternoon spent in the woods about Green Fancy.

O'Dowd virtually commanded the expedition. It was he who thought of everything. First of all, he led the party to the corner of the estate nearest the point where Paul was shot from his horse. Sitting in his saddle he called the attention of the other riders to what appeared to be a most significant fact in connection with the killing of this man.

Barnes again visits Green Fancy and meets with a very different reception, which is, however, quite as mystifying.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Tea Popular British Beverage.

Tea is the most popular of British beverages, and in spite of William Cobbett's lament that "tea shops" were being substituted for wholesome small beer to the detriment of the populace in his day, "the cup that cheers" is the staple drink of all classes. It cannot be said that there has been any marked deterioration of English people through constant indulgence in tea.

Daily Thought.

The commander of the forces of a large state may be carried off; but the will of even a common man cannot be taken from him.—Confucius.

Only the possessions which we use are of present value to us. A man may have a money fortune, and yet be poverty-stricken in the very things which that money would buy him. The money is his all the time; but it is of little or no value to him because he lets it alone.

WHAT TO EAT.

There are few people who feel that a meal has been satisfying that is not finished with some kind of dessert, and usually feel if none is provided that the dinner is not a success.

Peach Sherbet.—Put a pound of sugar and a quart of water on to boil 20 minutes; let cool, then add one and one-half cups of peach pulp, the strained juice of an orange and the juice of half a lemon. Freeze.

Date Crackers.—Put a pound of washed and pitted dates, with a cupful of sugar and half a cupful of water, in a sauce pan and cook until soft and smooth. Cool. Cream a cupful of shortening, add a cup of brown sugar, two and one-half cupfuls of rolled oats which have been parched to a light brown, two cupfuls of flour; stir and mix well; add a teaspoonful of soda to half a cupful of hot water and stir into the mixture. Roll out, cut and place a spoonful of the fruit on a conky, cover with another, then bake.

Mint Sherbet.—Soak half a cup of chopped mint leaves in the juice of two lemons and three oranges half an hour. Boil two cupfuls of sugar and a cup of water five minutes, then pour over the other ingredients. When cold strain into a freezer, add the grated rind of the fruit and the white of an egg beaten stiff with a cup of whipped cream. This sherbet may be served as a dessert or as an accompaniment to a lamb roast.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The food supply would be probably better selected, varied and cooked, if the daily supervision were allotted definitely to one who has been trained for the purpose, and chosen because of capacity for the office.

Cake is to the appetite what mirth is to the melancholy.

CAKE MAKING.

Just a word to those who are yet inexperienced in the art of cake making. First of all, have all the materials to be used ready at hand before beginning, or in the midst you will find some important ingredient missing which will need a change of plans.

Most cooks have very standard recipe which they will vary with flavoring, spice or fruit, or bake in different sized tins with different fillings or frostings, which will give a large variety.

The time was when much creaming of butter and stirring of sugar and butter was thought the only way to make a butter cake, but these busy days are teaching us many ways of simplifying our work, and cake making must keep pace. The shortening, if softened—not melted—will mix with the sugar and it takes but a short time to cream it; add a little hot water or milk if hurried for time and then give the mixture a good beating, adding the eggs beaten and give another good beating. A fair cake, good enough for every-day use, is one using three tablespoonfuls of butter or butter substitute, one cupful of sugar, half a cupful of milk, two eggs, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a cupful and three-quarters of sifted flour. Add flavoring and bake in a hot oven. A circle of well-greased paper placed in the layer tins, as well as deeper tins, will help to remove the cake without breaking.

A cake that is baked with as little flour as will hold it up makes a much more tender and delicate one. The baking is a most important factor in good cake making. Have the oven very hot for layer cake and bake from 10 to 12 minutes. For a loaf cake which needs 40 minutes to bake, divide the time into quarters. The first ten minutes see that the cake begins to rise, the second ten minutes it finishes rising and begins to brown, the third ten minutes it finishes browning and begins to shrink from the pan, then the last ten or quarter it finishes baking. If a cake crackles as if still cooking when taken from the oven, put it back for a few minutes.

Fruit Layer Cake.—For a delicious cake to use for company or on special occasions, this is excellent. Cream a cupful of shortening, add two cupfuls of warmed sugar to hasten the creaming, add six well beaten eggs, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, a cupful of milk, a teaspoonful of vanilla and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Beat well and bake in three layers.

Only the possessions which we use are of present value to us. A man may have a money fortune, and yet be poverty-stricken in the very things which that money would buy him. The money is his all the time; but it is of little or no value to him because he lets it alone.

RECEIVE LETTER FROM FRENCH ORPHAN

The following letter was received by the women of the Council of Defense of District No. 7, of the town of Auburn:

Cheral Shervael, April 22, 1919.

My Dear Sir:—

I have just received your money order today for which I thank you very much for the kindness that you have had for me in sending it to me for the misfortune that I just had of losing my poor pa. In spite of everything I have had much pleasure in making the acquaintance of my dear God-father in America. I will never forget him for being so good to me. Accept my dear Sir the best remembrance and thanks of your little God-daughter,

Augustine Ducher.

A little love, a little wealth, A little home for you and me, It's all I ask, except good health. Which comes with Rocky Mountain Tea.—Edw. C. Miller.
