Versailles, June 28.-The peace treaty has been signed.

The world war, which for more than four years ravaged the greater part of Europe, was ended officially at 3:45 o'clock today, when cannon boomed, announcing that the last plenipotentiary to the conference had affixed his signature to the peace

The delegates, in addition to signing the world peace treaty, also affixed their signature to the Rhine protocol and the Polish undertaking. Germans First to Sign.

drafted and the president of the conference has stated in writing that the text that is about to be signed now is to be signed now is identical with the 200 copies that have been delivered to the German delegation,

"The signatures will be given now, and they amount to a solemn undertaking faithfully and loyally to execute the conditions embodied by this treaty of peace.

"I now invite the delegates of the German reich to sign the treaty."

The credentials of the new German delegates were approved by the peace conference authorities during the forenoon and everything was virtually in readiness here at an early hour for the ceremony set for three o'clock in the afternoon. The morning had been a cloudy one, but shortly before midday the clouds began to break and the and the 600 guests and newspaper corindication were that the afternoon of the momentous ceremony would be bright and sunny.

Soldiers Stand Near Foch. The soldiers stood in the embrasures of the windows overlooking the chateau park, a few feet from their commander in chief, Marshal Foch, who was seated with the French delegation CITE OPINION OF PALMER at the peace table.

A change in the program was introduced as a result of the attitude taken FOES FIRST TO FIX NAMES by the German government, press and public toward the execution and binding validity of the treaty. The German plenipotentiaries, instead of being regarded from the moment of signature as representatives of a formally friendly power with which diplomatic relations have been renewed, left the hall after the signature separately by the door through which they entered, not joining the general procession of delegates to the terrace of the chateau to watch the playing of the great fountain of Versailles

Only Formality to Germans.

For the Germans peace was regarded as concluded from the moment of ratification, since the German government had announced that it would sign the treaty only under protest and German political leaders had declared their intention to work to undermine the provisions of the treaty.

The peace table-a huge hollow rectangle with its open side facing the windows in the hall-had tawny yellow coverings blending with the rich browns, blues and yellows of the anthe first to sign, had affixed their tique hangings of the room and the rugs covering the dais. from the earth. In the center of the great horseshoe sat Clemenceau, the French premier. At his right sat President Wilson. On premier.

Across the room and just in front of the section reserved for the guests the German delegates were seated. The contrast was very sharp. The old Prussian arrogance was not revealed by the members of the German cabinet who had assumed the duty of salvaging what was left of their country.

Seating of Envoys. The seating arrangement of the delegates was as follows:

On President Wilson's side of the table: Secretary Lansing, Colonel House, peace conference, that they would not Henry White, General Bliss, and after them the French, Italian, Belgian and Greek delegates.

The streets, as usual, were heavily guarded by troops. Through packed lanes of humanity the delegates passed, one by one, their motors flounting the flags of practically all nations except those which made up the central powers and the few neutrals not represented.

Great Crowd at Versailles.

The greatest crowd that has assembled in Versailles since the days of the French revolution swarmed in from Paris early today for the ceremony attending the signing of peace by the allied and German delegates in the historic Palace of Versailles.

Long before dawn throngs began pushing their way into the city and surging up against the lines of French cavalry and infantry guarding all approaches to the palace and the CALIFORNIA BREWERIES OUIT Hotel Reservoir, a block away, where the headquarters of the German peace mission awaited the arrival of Foreign Minister Mueller and the new peace delegates from Berlin.

The magnificent old chateau that housed the kings of France before the revolution had been gorgeously fitted for the occasion. Rare tapestries, rich carpets and superb furniture were placed in all the apartments through which the allied and German delegates respondents were to make their approach to the hall.

FATE OF WETS IN HANDS OF SENATE

Dry Spell Hangs on Ratification of Treaty.

It is Said in Washington That Resumption of the Liquor Traffic Rests With the Action of the Upper House.

Chicago, July 2.-A Washington dispatch to the Chicago Daily News

"The senate of the United States alone can say when the prohibition regulation which has just gone into effect can be removed. A proclamation of a state of peace depends upon the exchange of ratifications of the peace treaty. Until the senate has ratified the peace treaty President Wilson will not proclaim that America has emerged from a state of war.

"This action is forecast by Attorney General Palmer himself. As the principal law officer of the government and legal adviser of the president he has rendered a judgment that it will be unlawful to trade with the enemy until peace has been proclaimed.

Trading With Enemy Act.

"All the penalties of the trading with the enemy act remain in force until the peace treaty has been ratifled; likewise all other measures whose phraseology would seem to indicate that a proclamation of a state of peace is necessary before restrictive provisions are removed will be wiped off the statute books only when the senate itself has removed the single obstacle to peace-ratification of the peace treaty which President

Wilson is bringing back from Europe. "In the ordinary course of events the present dry spell would end in that demobilization will be complete eral Graves, commanding the American on the sale of liquor requires a proc- war department the engagement follamation that the war has ended. Nostlie political party. Delays have been foremost because of the expressed opposition of a number of Republican senators to certain provisions of the peace treaty relating to a League of Nations. President Wilson, therefore, is expected to tell the people of America that action by the senate alone can bring them all the fruits of peace and particularly the removal of all the restrictions unavoidably imposed by the war."

Washington, June 30.-The senate began consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill which, as reported out of committee, carries provisions for a vigorous campaign by the department of justice against anarchists.

In addition to $300,000 as a special fund to be devoted to the rounding up and deportation of dangerous allens, the committee recommended an increase of from $1,400,000 to $2,000,-000 in the amount to be used by the department of justice in general suppression of crime.

The bill also provides for continuing permanently war-time regulations as to purchase, storage, manufacture, sale and distribution of explosives, under the direction of the bureau of mines.

The naval appropriation bill was passed in the senate virtually as reported by the committee, and now goes to conference. Its total of about $644.-000,000 is $44,000,000 more than the house bill provides, and a stiff fight in conference is anticipated.

WILSON SAILS FOR AMERICA

President Bids Good-By to French Soil; Has Big Convoy.

GREETED BY OFFICIALS

Departure of the Party Causes Little Excitement at Brest-"This is America," President Said When He Reached the Deck.

Brest, July 1.-President Wilson. he tredty with Germany signed, sailed from Brest on his return to the United States. The U. S. S. George Washington, carrying the presidential party, steamed from the harbor at 2:20 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The departure of the president caused little excitement. There was little cheering and applause from the several thousands who had gathered at the embarkation pier. A procession of socialists, singing the "Internationale," debouched from the Rue Siam as the president walked across the pier. The president waved his sik hat to the paraders.

Gathered on the wharf were French and American officials. The first to greet the president were Admiral H. Salaun and Admiral E. N. Benoit of the French navy. Rear Admiral A. S. Halstead of the American navy and Maj. Gen. E. A. Helmick and Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler greeted the president in turn.

Mrs. Wilson was presented with a bouquet of Brittany roses by Mrs. Josephine Lewis of Cincinnati, O., representing the American Red Cross in France.

Mrs. Wilson wore a navy blue tallored dress and a handsome but simple little hat, apparently the latest creation from the Rue de la Paix. She smiled and thanked Mrs. Lewis and Oatsthen chatted briefly with her. Mrs. Wilson appeared tired and fatigued and apparently was in a hurry to reach the launch.

The band of the Tenth Chasseurs played "The Star-Spangled Bonner" and "The Marseillaise" as the president descended the steps in the launch. As the launch went into stream a company of marines and veterans of the Yser presented arms. while cries of "Vive Wilson!" "Vive Amerique!" "Vive La Paix!" arose. The president stood aft on the launch waving his hat at the crowd D on the national bridge. "This is America," were the president's words as he shook hands with Capt. Edward McCauley aboard the George Washington. The president and Mrs. Wilson retired to their state-

"DO NOT DESERT ME!"

Synopsis.-Thomas K. Barnes, a wealthy young New Yorker, on a walking trip in New England near the Canadian border, is given a lift in an automobile by a mysterious and attractive girl bound for a house called Green Fancy. At Hart's tavern Barnes finds a stranded troupe of "barn-storming" actors, of which Lyndon Rushcroft is the star and "Miss Thackeray" the leading lady. They are doing hotel work for their board. He learns Green Fancy is a house of mystery. That night two mounted men leave the tavern under odd circumstances. One is brought back dying. Barnes comes under suspicion. He stays to help clear up the mystery. O'Dowd of Green Fancy says that that place of mystery is not concerned in any way. Barnes gets into the Green Fancy grounds and sees the mysterious girl. She gives him the cut direct and O'Dowd politely ejects him from the grounds. Enter another man of mystery, Mr. Sprouse, "book agent."

CHAPTER VIII-Continued.

"From what I hear the man Paul was shot through the lungs, directly from in front. The bullet went straight through his body. He was riding very rapidly down the road, and comfortable, as if intended for When he came to a point not far men only, and they were covered with above the crossroads he was fired rich, gay materials; the hangings at upon. It is safe to assume that he the windows were of deep blue and was looking intently ahead, trying to gold; the walls an unobtrusive cream make out the crossing. He was not color, almost literally thatched with shot from the side of the road, gentlemen, but from the middle of it. The bullet came from a point almost directly in front of him, and not from Mr. Curtis' property here to the left | They passed at least four doors beor Mr. Conley's on the right. The chances are that Paul did not accompany Roon to the meeting place up the road. He remained near the horses. That's how he managed to get away so the crossrouds to settle with him. But we're wasting time with all this gling on that score, bedad."

In the course of time the party, travpublic road, came within sight of the green dwelling among the trees, Barnes' interest revived. His second view of the house increased his wonnot actually located it among the trees for him he would have been at a loss to discover it. although it was immediately in front of him and in direct line of vision.

De Soto was seen approaching through the green sea, his hend appearing and disappearing intermittently in the lelows formed by the undulating underbrush. He shook hands with Barnes a moment later.

"I'm glad you had the sense to bring Mr. Barnes with you, O'Dowd," said he. "You didn't mention him when you telephoned that you were personally conducting a sightseeing party. I tried to catch you afterward on the telephone, but you had left the Tavern. Mrs. Collier wanted me to ask you to capture Mr. Barnes for dinner tonight."

"Mrs. Collier is the sister of Mr. Curtis," explained O'Dowd, Then he turned upon De Soto incredulously. "For the love of Pat," he cried, "what's come over them? Why, I made so bold as to suggest last night that you were a chap worth cultivating. Barnes -and that you wouldn't be long in the neighborhood-but to save your feelings I'll not repeat what they said, the two of them. What changed them over, De Soto?"

"A chance remark of Miss Cameron's at lunch today. She wondered if Barnes could be the chap who wrote the articles about Peru and the Incas, or something of the sort, and that set them to looking up the back numbers of the Geographic Magazine in Mr. Curtis' library. Not only did they find the articles but they found your picture. I had no difficulty in deciding that you were one and the same. The atmosphere cleared in a jiffy. It became even clearer when it was discovered that you have had a few ancestors and are received in good societyboth here and abroad, as the late Frederic Townsend Martin would have said. I hereby officially present the result of subsequent deliberation. Mr. Barnes is invited to dine with us to-

Barnes' heart was still pounding rapidly as he made the rueful admismon that he "didn't have a thing to wear." He couldn't think of accepting the gracious invitation-

easily have been mistaken for a waiter

Much'to Barnes' surprise and disappointment—the interior of the house failed to sustain the bewildering effect produced by the exterior. The entrance hall and the living room into which he was conducted by the two men were singularly like others that he had seen. The latter, for example, was of ordinary dimensions, furnished with a thought for comfort rather than elegance or even good taste. The couches and chairs were low and deep etchings.

The stairs were thickly carpeted. At the top his guide turned to the left and led the way down a long corridor. fore O'Dowd stopped and threw open the fifth on that side of the hall. There were still two more doors beyond.

"Suggests a hotel, doesn't It?" said the Irishman, standing aside for quickly. It remained for the man at Barnes to enter. "All of the sleeping apartments are on this floor, and the baths and boudoirs and what not. The twaddle of mine. crackled in the cavernous fireplace at about its cheerful, grateful blaze were the ladles of Green Fancy.

The girl of his thoughts was there, standing slightly aloof from the others, but evidently amused by the tale with which De Soto was regaling them. She was smiling; Barnes saw "If they'll take me as I am," began the sapphire lights sparkling in her eyes and experienced a sensation that was wofully akin to confusion.

And, while turn responded with one faintly sugtainly would have been recorded by a bright retorts to O'Dowd's sallies, and you will be welcome again at any time less sensitive person than Barnes as marveled at the ease and composure

In reply to his perfunctory "delighted, I'm sure, etc.," she said quite clearly: "Oh, now I remember. I was sure You are the magic gentleman who sprang like a mushroom out of the earth early yesterday afternoon."

"And frightened you," he said; whereupon you vanished like the mushroom that is gobbled up by the predatory glutton."

He had thrilled at the sound of her voice. It was the low, deliberate voice of the woman of the crossroads, and, as before, he caught the almost imperceptible accent. The rad gleam from the blazing logs fell upon her shining hair; it glistened like gold. She wore a simple evening gown of white, softened over the shoulders and neck with a fall of rare valenciennes lace. There was no jewelry-not even a ring on her slender, tapering fingers.

Mrs. Collier, the hostess, was an elderly, heavy-featured woman, decidedly overdressed. Mrs. Van Dyke, her daughter, was a woman of thirty, tall, dark and handsome in a bold, dashing sort of way. The lackadaisical gentleman with the mustache turned out to be her husband.

"My brother is unable to be with us tonight, Mt. Barnes," explained Mrs. Collier. "Mr. O'Dowd may have told you that he is an invalid. Quite rarely is he well enough to leave his room. He has begged me to present his apologies and regrets to you. Another time, perhaps, you will give him the pleasure he is missing tonight."

De Soto's cocktails came in. Miss Cameron did not take one. O'Dowd proposed a toast.

"To the rascals who went gunning for the other rascals. But for them we should be short at least one member of this agreeable company."

It was rather startling. Barnes' glass stopped half way to his lips. An instant later he drained it. He accepted the toast as a compliment from the whilom Irishman, and not as a tribute to the prowess of those mysterious marksmen.

The table in the spacious dining room was one of those long, narrow Italian boards, unmistakably antique and equally rare. Sixteen or eighteen out crowding, and when the seven took their places wide intervals separated them. No effort had been made by the hostess to bring her guests close together, as might have been done by using one end or the center of the table. The serving plates were of silver. Especially beautiful were the and he will tell you that I am quite long-stemmed water goblets and the graceful champagne glasses. They were blue and white and of a design and quality no longer obtainable except at great cost. The esthetic Barnes was not slow to appreciate the rarity of the glassware and the chaste beauty of the serving plates. The man Nicholas was evidently the butler, despite his Seventh avenue manner. He was assisted in serving by two stalwart and amazingly clumsy footmen, of similar ilk and nationality. On seeing these additional men servants Barnes began figuratively to count on his fingers the retainers he had so far encountered on the place. Already he had seen six, all of them powerful, rugged fellows. It struck nim as extraordinary, and in a way significant, that there should be so many men at Green Fancy.

Much to his disappointment he was not placed near Miss Cameron at table. Indeed she was seated as far away from him as possible. There was a place set between him and De Soto. for symmetry's sake, Barnes concluded. In this he was mistaken; they had barely seated themselves when Mrs. Collier remarked:

"Mr. Curtis' secretary usually joins us here for coffee. He has his dinner with my brother, and then, poor man, comes in for a brief period of relaxation. When my brother is in one of his bad spells poor Mr. Loeb doesn't have much time to himself."

Loeh, the private secretary, came in for coffee. He was a tall, spare man of thirty, pallidly handsome, with dark, studious eyes and features of an unmistakably Hebraic cast, as his name might have foretold. His teeth were marvelously white and his slow smile attractive. More than once during the hour that Loeb spent with them Barnes formed and dismissed a stubborn ever-recurring opinion that the man was not a Jew. Certainly he the end of the living room and grouped was not an American Jew. His voice, his manner of speech, his every action stamped him as one born and bred in a land far from Broadway and its counterparts. If a Jew he was of the east as it is measured from Rome-

While he was trying to invent a pretext for drawing her apart from the others she calmly ordered Van Dyke to relinquish his place on the couch beside her to Barnes.

"Come and sit beside me, Mr. Barnes," she called out gayly, "I will not blie you or scratch you or harm you in any way. Ask Mr. O'Dowd, docile. I don't hite, do I, Mr. O'Dowd?"

"You do," said O'Dowd promptly. "You do more than that. You devour, Bedad I have to look in a mirror to convince meself that you haven't swallowed me whole. That's another way of telling you, Barnes, that she'll absorb you entirely."

For a few minutes she chided him for his unseemly aversion. He was beginning to think that he had been mistaken in her motive, and that after all she was merely satisfying her vanity. Suddenly, and as she smiled into his eyes, she said, lowering her voice slightly:

"Do not appear surprised at anything I may say to you. Smile as if we were uttering the stillest nonsense. So much depends upon it, Mr. Barnes."

Barnes, "bound forever," makes suggestions to the girl that promise excitement.

Staving Off Old Age.

Among many other extraordinary plans for prolonging one's stay on this interesting planet, may be mentioned that of a South African farmer who advised people to eat every day four pounds of bananas steeped in sweetened whisky, and that of a professor in the University of Pennsylvania who believed that much could be done in the way of staving off old age by frequently having one's feet tickled!

Wyoming Led All States,

Women acted as jurors in America almost half a century ago. The first grand jury which included members of the "weaker" sex was impaneled at Laramie, Wyo., 48 years ago. The territory of Wyoming was organized in 1868 out of part of Dakota, Utah, and Idaho, and one of the first official acts of the new territorial government was to grant women the right to vote and hold office.

WHAT FOODS GO TOGETHER

We should avoid in our menu planning to serve today a cream soup, ful entirely from children, but dishes well liked but difficult of digestion may be for the children, without an entirely different menu. Concentrated foods should be served with something which will serve to dilute them, hence the custom of serving dry crackers with cheese or combined with a white sauce on toast, mixed with rice. macaroni, hominy, bread and milk in various dishes. Butter, another concentrated food, is used on bread and potatoes. Small portions of food of various kinds can be digested where large ones would cause trouble.

The most important thing for the housewife to see to each day is that her family has well balanced meals, or if a light meal one time, make it up in the next so that the daily average is well kept.

used sparingly and never given to children.

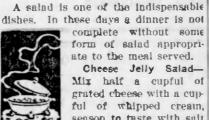

Serving meals in courses helps to enhance the artistic effect, and is of ten easier than getting the meal all on at once. The last course should be like the hist word-one that leaves a sweet and pleasant taste in the mouth and a desire to have more. The woman who studies food combinations and proper serving of them will enjoy a trip to some tea room or hotel to see some new garnishment or new dish which it will be her pleas ure to repeat for her family.

The housewife who plans her meals a week or a month ahead has the opportunity to give her family the best of balanced meals.

A good rule to remember in serving food is never to give the same dish or flavor twice in the same meal if it is of pronounced flavor even if served in entirely different form, for no one enjoys a tomato salad following a tomato conserve on the same table. Each food should be cooked to develop its own particular flavor and not be served as smothered in season.

Yes, indeed, more often than you think. Because ACID-STOMACH, starting with indigestion, heartburn, belching, food-repeating, bloat and gas, if not checked, will eventually affect every vital organ of the body. Severe, blinding, splitting headaches are, therefore, of frequent occurrence as a result of this upset condition.

Take EATONIC. It quickly banishes acid-stomach with its sour bloat, pain and gas.

It aids digestion—helps the etomach get full strength from every mouthful of food you eat. Millions of people are miserable, weak, sick and ailing because of ACID-STOMACH. #### STILL FAITHFUL TO STUARTS?

Pretender of That Line to Britain's Throne Is Now Prince Rupert of Bavaria.

There was once to be found, in Britain, a little group of romantic sentimentalists who remained faithful to the Stuart line, and celebrated on Janpary 30 a kind of Jacobite feast day. A writer in the Living Age remembers seeing postage stamps bearing the likeness of the "pretender," who happened to be a princess of Bavaria. These were attached to the envelope by the side of the official postage stamp, thus constituting a source of annoyance to the serious-minded Victoria.

INCREASE WEIGHT AND VITALITY WITH PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

The average person is beginning to realize more and more that the lack of physical strength and nerve exhaustion (frequently evidenced by excessive thinness) are the direct cause not only of the fallure to succeed in life's struggle for the necessities of existence, but also for the handicap in one's social aspirations. Compare the thin, sickly, angular frame with the well rounded form which is usually accompanied by the bloom of health and attractiveness.

That millions of people are conscious of this handicap is evident from the continued appearance in newspapers and magazines of many suggestions proposing various remedies in food or medicine or exercises, either of which might or might not be appropriate for a given case.

Authorities, however, agree that healthy nerve tissue is absolutely essential to a strong, robust body and mind. Weak nerves, while indicated by a multitude of different symptoms, more immediately and generally result in lack of energy, sleeplessness, irritability, depression, etc., which conditions gradually consume the healthy fiesh, leaving ugly hollows, a fat chest, bony neck and scrawny arms and legs.

chest, bony neck and scrawny arms and legs.

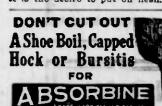

Our bodies need more phosphate than most of them are able to extract from the foods we eat nowadays, and many opinions affirm that there is nothing which may be taken into the human system that so effectively supplies this deficiency as the pure organic phosphate known as bitro-phosphate and sold by good druggists everywhere.

The essential phosphoric food elements in bitro-phosphate assimilated by the nerve cells should soon produce a pleasing change in nerve energy and hence increased vitality and strength. With the burdens of nervousness, sleeplessness.
