A CHANCE TO BEAT OLD H. C. L.

An announcement made by the war department, and approved by the Secretary of War Baker, to go into effect at once, is the lower prices to be charged for surplus army food stuffs. It is the aim to keep the war department prices below the prices for similar accommodations of like grade.

The new schedule of prices shows that corned beef has fallen off from $1.93 for six pound cans to $1.75, and roast beef in six pound cans is bought down from $2.13 to $1.90. Bacon dropped from 35 cents a pound to 31 cents to 29 cents.

Postmaster General Burleson also made public in detail the program under which the postoffice will act in distributing surplus army foodstuff by parcel post. One paragraph of his instructions contains the following: "Postmasters will post notices in the lobbies of their main office and stations, if any, and secure without expense to the department as complete notices in local newspapers as possible. This publicity should be started on Aug. 15. The sale and taking of orders will begin on Aug. 18."

"In order to secure the best results," Mr. Burleson said, "and to be certain that the foodstuffs get into the hands of bonafide consumers it is necessary to utilize postoffices as distributing agencies and to leave to the individual postmaster some measure of discretion as to the actual consumers to whom sales should be made and in what quantities. All orders from consumers must be accompanied by the cash, which must include the total cost of the order and parcel post charges consumers must order in writing and itemize the foodstuffs desired."

Carriers in the city or rural delivery service may accept orders in writing. The orders received at the main office, whether from consumers direct from carriers or from substations, must be filed in the order received, as in case of a shortage of any item or items the first orders received will be given preference.

Postmasters will not sell a fraction of a bag of rice, a few pounds of flour etc.

Material which the customer claims is damaged or spoiled will be replaced by the zone surplus property officer upon affidavit of the customer, countersigned by the postmaster.

ST. MICHAELS HARVEST FESTIVAL A GRAND SUCCESS

Large crowds of friends from far and near greeted the Harvest Festival at St. Michaels last Sunday and it proved to be a grand success socially and financially. St. Michaels people entertained their friends most royally during the evening.

The lawn was decorated most attractively with Japanese lanterns and our national colors. The Dramatic Club wishes to thank all who helped to make the Festival a success. A special vote of thanks is due Mr. L. Rosenheimer and Co. of Kewaskum for supplying the grounds and hall with electric light from his Delco plant. But everybody was wishing such a plant for his home.

Remember the next entertainment by the Club: Aug. 31st and Labor Day.

WHAT ED. HARMON THINKS OF "MICKEY"

At a private showing of the famous photoplay "Mickey" which will be shown at the Opera House, Kewaskum, Wis. Sunday Aug. 24th 1919. Mr. H. C. Witwer, the brilliant and witty author, made a remark that afterwards materialized in a letter as a memorable as his famous "Baseball to Boches" stories.

"Joe ought to know about this," he said. And the following week this characteristic letter was received:

An Atlantic Port—
By the name of New York.
Dear Joe—

Well, Joe, I have just seen a movie which makes them other pictures look like osteopath views, or whatever they call them things you look at with a magnifying glass. This here is some picture, Joe. I'll tell the world, and the name of it is Mickey. Me and Jeanne went to see it on account of not being able to get seats for the Fifth Avenue Library, and maybe we ain't glad Joe. I'll say we are, only Jeanne, she's afraid that fellow would come and collect, and maybe she's right, Joe, because in this here burg you never could get nothing for nothing except we saw this for nothing. Well, Joe, they is more action in this thing than they was at the battle of the Marne, and they ain't a dull minute from the time Mickey makes her first grin at the audience till she starts on her honeymoon and the like, with the handsome and good-looking young hero, Mabel Normandy is Mickey, and she is some dame believe me! Joe, she can swim, ride, scrap, dance, and oh, boy, how she can love! Joe, if I wasn't in the war I would rather begin the movies, especially one with Mabel Normandy in it. If the leading man in Mickey gets any wages it is a outrage, because he does nothing but make love to Mabel Normandy from start to finish, and if I could do that I would pay the people which made the picture.

Well, Joe, I can't tell you all about this movie because then you would save the money and not go when they play it where you are, but I will say that they is the greatest horse race, for instance, in it I ever seen. It is the same as the real thing only better, and I bet the guy next to me fifty bucks on Mickey a place, Joe. Well, Joe, Mickey win it, pulled up, and this big stiff wouldn't pay off because he says its only a movie, and he don't think the others was tryin' Joe! if it hadn't been for Jeanne I would have bust him then and there, but he was big and tough, anyways, Joe, and they is times when discretion is better than a punch in the nose. Joe, they is also a fight in this picture between the hero and the villain which would make the war look like a game of bean bag. Joe, these guys fight with every thing but axes, and wrecks a house doin' it, whilst Mickey is hanging by her nails from the roof. Well, Joe, I got so excited they was as many people lookin' at me as at the picture, and Jeanne gets sore and says if I am so stuck on Mabel Normandy what did I get married for. Well, Joe, with that they was nothin for me to do but shut up, and anyways, they was some guys in back of me invited me to do the same, because they claimed they came to see Mickey, and not to hear me.

Joe, the first time you get a furlough go and see this here picture because Mickey is the greatest thing that was ever thrown on a screen, and the rest of them is just plain movies.

Yours truly,
ED. HARMON

ATHLETIC CLUB PERFECTS ORGANIZATION

At a meeting which was largely attended at the Opera House Tuesday evening, a club known as the Kewaskum Athletic Club" was perfected. It will be the object of the organization to promote athletic activities in this village, and to offer wholesome and social past time to the citizens of Kewaskum and community throughout the year. The number of members who have already joined same are twenty-five, and prospects for a membership of 50 to 75, in another week's time look very bright. It was agreed that a large dance be held on Friday evening, Sept. 26th for the benefit of the organization, particulars of which will be given out later. Movements are already underway for the organization of a basketball team and an indoor baseball team. Never before in the history of the village has there been such splendid material for a crack basketball team, not only one team but two or three of them. "Spatz" Miller has been appointed manager of the team and Joseph Eberle has made application for manager of all bowling teams. The matter of giving entertainments during the winter months was also discussed, and there is little doubt that the organization will give a home talent play, some time next winter, with all the old timers in the cast. More and more interest is taken in the perfecting of this club, and with the steady increase of membership, there remains no doubt that the Kewaskum Athletic Club, the first of its kind ever organized in this village will be a great success. Following are the officers who were elected at the meeting: President (for one year) Arthur Schaefer; Vice-president (for one year) Elwyn Romaine; Secretary and Treasurer (for two years) Maurice Rosenheimer. The arrangement committee appointed by the president, for the booster dance consists of the following: Joseph Eberle "Spatz" Miller and John F. Schaefer.

FORMER KEWASKUM MAN FIGURES IN $5000 LAW SUIT

Miller, is one of the principals in a $5000 law suit at Milwaukee, where he is now conducting an undertaking parlor. Richard G. Strandt and Christ Ische with him are named the defendants in a $5000 suit for damages filed in circuit court on Tuesday of this week, by Minnie Schultz for injuries received on Aug. 13, 1917. She asserts that on that day, while she was returning from a funeral, the automobile in which she was riding was struck by another car. It is reported that Mr. Zwaska was the undertaker at the funeral, Ische the owner of the funeral car and Strandt the driver.

RETURNED FROM AUTO TRIP TO NEW YORK

They visited in and around New York for a week, and left on Tuesday, July 29th, for home, reaching here on Tuesday of this week, a distance of 1487 miles and together with 333 miles which they rode around New York, makes a total mileage of 3081 miles covered by the party. They used a total of 308 1/2 gallons of gasoline and 27 1/2 quarts of oil on the trip. —Hartford Press.

PASSENGER COACH DERAILED HERE

An accident, which might have resulted in serious injury, and probable death to some of the occupants, occurred here last Sunday evening, when passenger train No. 218, due here at 7:02 P. M., south bound Sunday only, had the rear coach derailed when pulling into the north end switch to meet the north bound passenger train due here at 6:27, which happened to be late. As soon as the train had pulled into the siding, the rear brakeman threw the switch too soon, causing a derail throw under the last coach, the rear trucks jumped the track and swerved to one side, sliding down a three foot embankment, and was pulled along in this manner for about two rods. When the train came to a stop the rear coach was leaning over to one side, and only for the fact that the front wheels stayed on the track the car would have tipped over. Although a great deal of excitement prevailed among the passengers for a short time, none of them fared any the worse, and were loaded into another coach, and soon were on their way toward Milwaukee. The coach was detached from the rest of the train and left here until Monday, when a wrecking crew from Milwaukee placed it back on the track again. No damage was done to the track except that a few ties were badly smashed and had to be replaced by new ones.

LIFELESS BODY OF BOY FOUND IN CORN FIELD

FOND DU LAC—The lifeless body of Ben Zuelke, 19 years old, his shirt and underwear drawn up over his head, was found in a corn field near Oakfield on Thursday. ## TO BUILD EXHIBITION BARN ON FAIR GROUNDS

Plans have been made by the Washington County Agricultural Society to erect a large exhibition barn on the fair grounds. The new building will be two hundred feet long, fifty-six feet wide and about twenty feet high. The roof will have a superstructure for lighting and ventilation. There will be five entrances to the building, two at the front, two at the rear and one at the side. The interior will be divided into stalls of which a number will be removable. The number of rows of stalls will be four, one running along each wall the full length of the building and two in the middle, with ample walls between the stalls to provide for the visitors. It is estimated that the new barn will house about two hundred head of cattle. This addition to the fair grounds ought to prove a valuable asset toward the success of Washington County's fairs, as heretofore the exhibition of stock was very small on account of the poor protection offered to the stock by the old stalls.

HORSE RACES AT WEST BEND.

On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 17th the third number of the seasons horse races will be held at the fair grounds at West Bend, under the auspices of the West Bend Driving Association. Three special races are on the program. There will be one one-mile heat, and two half mile heats, each of which promises to be a close race from start to finish. Admission to the grounds including grand stand will be 35 cents. These will be the last matinee races before the county fair, at which some of the horses now on the tracks, will participate in the county fair races, to help swell the interest of that particular sport.

CHAPTER XV—Continued.

His uneasiness increased to consternation when he discovered that Sprouse had not yet put in an appearance. What had become of the man? He could not help feeling, however, that somehow the little agent would suddenly pop out of the chimney in his room, or sneak in through a crack under the door—and laugh at his fears.

Shortly before the noon hour, Peter Ames halted the old automobile from Green Fancy in front of the Tavern and out stepped O'Dowd, followed by no less a personage than the pseudo Mr. Loeb. There were a number of traveling bags in the tonneau of the car.

Catching sight of Barnes, the Irishman shouted a genial greeting.

"The top of the morning to ye. You remember Mr. Loeb, don't you? Mr. Curtis' secretary. Mr. Loeb is leaving us for a few days on business. Good morning, Mr. Boneface," he called out to Putnam Jones who approached at that juncture. "We are sadly in want of gasoline."

Barnes caught the look that the Irishman shot at him out of the corner of his eye.

"Perhaps you'd better see that the accounts don't give us short measure, Mr. Loeb," said O'Dowd. Loeb hesitated for a second, and then, evidently in obedience to a command from the speaker's eye, moved off to where Peter was opening the intake. O'Dowd lowered his voice. "Barnes, I let you off last night, and I let her off as well. In return, I ask you to hold your tongue until the man down there gets a fair start. A day's start and—"

"Are you in danger, too, O'Dowd?"

"To be sure—but I love it. I can always squirm out of tight places."

"I would not deliberately put you in Jeopardy, O'Dowd."

"See here, I am going back to that house up yonder. There is still work for me there. What I'm after now is to get him on the train at Hornville. I'll be here again at four o'clock, on my word of honor. Trust me, Barnes."

"Do you mean to say that you are coming back here to run the risk of being—"

"We've had word that the government has men on the way. Why, bang it all, Barnes, don't you know who it was that engineered that whole business last night?"

Barnes smiled. "I do. He is a secret agent from the embassy—"

"Secret granny!" almost shouted O'Dowd. "He is the slickest, cleverest crook that ever drew the breath of life. And he's got away with the jewels, for which you can whistle in vain, I'm thinking."

"For heaven's sake, O'Dowd—" began Barnes, his blood like ice in his veins.

"But don't take my word for it. Ask her—upstairs there, God bless her!—ask her if she knows Chester"

He Was Known to Her as a Thief of International Fame.

Nalsmith. She'll tell ye, my bucko. He's been standing guard outside her window for the past three nights. He's—"

"Now I know you are mistaken," cried Barnes, a wave of relief surging over him. "He has been in this tavern every night—"

"Sure he has. But answer me, did ye ever see him here after eleven in the evening? You did not—not until last night, anyhow. In the struggle he had with Nicholas last night he was recognized. That's why poor old Nicholas is lying dead up there at the house now—and will have a decent burial unbeknownst to anybody but his friends."

"Good God, O'Dowd, you can't mean that he—"

"He stuck a knife in his neck. The dirty snake! And the chief trusted him as no crook ever was trusted before. In the name of God, Barnes, how did you happen to fall in with the villain?"

Barnes passed his hand over his brow, dazed. "He—he represented himself as a book agent," he mumbled, striving to collect himself. "Jones knew him. Said he had been around here for weeks. I—"

"That's the man," said O'Dowd, scowling. "He trotted all over the county, selling books. For the love of it, do ye think? Not much. He had other fish to fry, you may be sure. Barnes, if we ever lay hands on that friend of yours—well, he won't have to fry in hell. He'll be burnt alive. Thank God, my mind's at rest on one score. She didn't skip out with him. They all think he did. Not one of them suspects that she came away with you. There is plenty of evidence that she let him in through her window—"

"All ready, O'Dowd," called Loeb. "Come along, please."

"Coming," said the Irishman. "Don't blame yourself, old man. See you later, Barnes. So long!"

CHAPTER XVI.

The First Wayfarer Takes a Shrine, Confesses, and Visits an Oath.

How was he to find the courage to impart the appalling news to her? He was now convinced beyond all doubt that the so-called Sprouse had made off with the priceless treasure and that only a miracle could bring about its recovery. He realized to what extent he had been shaped into a tool to be used by the master craftsman. He saw through the whole Machiavellian scheme, and he was also now morally certain that Sprouse would have sacrificed him without the slightest hesitation.

In the event that anything went wrong with their enterprise, the man would have shot him dead and earned the gratitude and commendation of his associates! He would have been glorified and not crucified by his friends.

With a heavy heart he mounted the stairs. At the top he paused to deliberate. Would it not be better to keep her in ignorance? What was to be gained by revealing to her the— But Miss Thackeray was luring him on to destruction. She stood outside the door and beckoned. Then she closed the door from the outside, and Barnes was alone with the cousin of kings and queens and princes.

"I feared you had deserted me," she said, holding out her hand to him as he strode across the room.

"I saw no occasion to disturb your rest," he mumbled.

"I have been peeping," she said, looking at him searchingly. "Where is Mr. Loeb going, Mr. Barnes?"

"O'Dowd says he is to be gone for a few days on business," he equivocated. "He will not return," she said quietly. "He is a coward at heart. Oh, I know him well," she went on, scorn in her voice.

"Was I wrong in not trying to stop him?" he asked.

She pondered this for a moment. "No," she said, but he caught the dubious note in her voice. "It is just as well, perhaps, that he should disappear. His flight today spurs—but we are more interested in the man Sprouse. Has he returned?"

"No, Miss Cameron," said he ruefully. And then, without a single reservation, he laid bare the story of Sprouse's defection. When he inquired if she had heard of the man known as Chester Nalsmith, she confirmed his worst fear by describing him as the guard who watched beneath her window. He was known to her as a thief of international fame.

"You were no match for Chester Nalsmith. Do not look so glum. The shrewdest police officers in Europe have never been able to cope with him. Why should you despair?"

He sprang to his feet. "By gad, he hasn't got away with it yet," he grated. "I will run this scoundrel down if I have to devote the remainder of my life to the task."

She sighed. "Alas, I fear that I shall have to tell you a little more about this wonderful man you know as Sprouse. Six months ago the friends and supporters of the legitimate successor to our country's throne consummated a plan whereby the crown jewels and certain documents of state were surreptitiously removed from the palace vaults. Instead of depositing the treasure in Paris, it was sent to this country in charge of a group of men whose fealty could not be questioned. The man you know as Loeb is in reality my cousin. I have known him all my life. He is the youngest brother of the pretender to the throne, and a cousin of the prince who is held prisoner by the Austrians. This prince has a brother also, and it was to him that I was supposed to deliver the jewels. I traveled from New York, but not alone as you may suspect. I was carefully protected from the time I left my hotel there until—well, until I arrived in Boston.

"While there I received a secret message from friends in Canada directing me to go to Spanish Falls, where I would be met and conducted by Prince Sebastian himself to the place called Green Fancy, which was near the Canadian border. A safe escort would be provided for us, and we would be on British soil within a few hours after our meeting. It is only necessary to add that when I arrived at Green Fancy I met Prince Ugo—and understood! I had carefully covered my tracks after leaving Boston. My real friends were, and still are, completely in the dark as to my movements, so skillfully was the trick managed.

"And now for Chester Nalsmith. It was he who, acting for the misguided loyalists and recommended by certain young aristocrats who by virtue of their own dissipations had come to know him as a man of infinite resourcefulness and daring, planned and carried out the pillaging of the palace vaults. Almost under the noses of the foreign guards he succeeded in obtaining the jewels. No doubt he could have made off with them at that time, but he shrewdly preferred to have them brought to America by some one else. It would have been impossible for him to dispose of them in Europe. You see how cunning he is?"

"He was no doubt thwarted in his design to waylay me on the road from Spanish Falls by a singular occurrence in this tavern. He was attacked in his room here, overpowered, bound and gagged by two men. He knew the men. They were thieves as clever and as merciless as himself. They too were watching for me. I do not know how these men learned of my intention to come to Green Fancy."

"They came to the Tavern four or five days before your arrival at Green Fancy," Barnes interrupted. "Sprouse told me that they were secret service men from abroad and that he was working with them. My theory is this, and I think it is justified by events: The men were really secret agents, sent here to watch the movements of the gang up there. They came upon Sprouse and recognized him. On the day mentioned they overpowered him and forced him to reveal certain facts connected with affairs at Green Fancy. Possibly he led them to believe that you were one of the conspirators. They waited for your arrival and then risked the hazardous trip to Green Fancy. They were discovered and shot."

"I believe you are right," she cried. "Then we have accounted for Mr. Sprouse, and I am no longer interested in the unravelling of the mystery surrounding the deaths of Roon and Paul," said Barnes. "There is nothing to keep me here any longer, Miss Cameron. I suggest that you allow me to escort you at once to your friends, wherever they are—"

"She was opposed to this plan. While there was still a chance that Sprouse might be apprehended in the neighborhood, or the possibility of his being caught by the relentless pursuers, she declined to leave.

CHAPTER XVII.

The Second Wayfarer Is Transformed.

O'Dowd returned late in the afternoon. He was in a hurry to get back to Green Fancy; there was no mistaking his uneasiness.

"For the love of heaven, Barnes, get her away from here as soon as possible, and do it as secretly as you can," he said. "I may as well tell you that she is in more danger from the government secret service than from anyone up yonder."

"She may prefer to face the music, O'Dowd. If I know her at all, she will refuse to run away."

"Then ye'll have to kidnap her," said the Irishman earnestly. "There will be men swarming here from both sides of the border by tomorrow night or next day. It's the gospel truth, and it's going to be bad for all of us if we're here when they come."

"Who is she, O'Dowd? Man to man, tell me the truth. I want to know just where I stand."

O'Dowd hesitated, looked around from the palace vaults. Instead of depositing the treasure in Paris, it was sent to this country in charge of a group of men whose fealty could not be questioned. The man you know as Loeb is in reality my cousin. I have known him all my life. He is the youngest brother of the pretender to the throne, and a cousin of the prince who is held prisoner by the Austrians. This prince has a brother also, and it was to him that I was supposed to deliver the jewels. I traveled from New York, but not alone as you may suspect. I was carefully protected from the time I left my hotel there until—well, until I arrived in Boston.

"While there I received a secret message from friends in Canada directing me to go to Spanish Falls, where I would be met and conducted by Prince Sebastian himself to the place called Green Fancy, which was near the Canadian border. A safe escort would be provided for us, and we would be on British soil within a few hours after our meeting. It is only necessary to add that when I arrived at Green Fancy I met Prince Ugo—and understood! I had carefully covered my tracks after leaving Boston. My real friends were, and still are, completely in the dark as to my movements, so skillfully was the trick managed.

"Thanks. Don't issue any rash invitations. I might take you up."

Barnes started upstairs as soon as O'Dowd was off, urged by an eagerness that put wings on his feet and a thrill of excitement in his blood. Halfway up he stopped short. A new condition confronted him. What was the proper way to approach a person of royal blood? He would have to think.

Pausing at her door, he was at once aware of voices inside the room.

He rapped on the door, but so timorously that nothing came of it. His second effort was productive. He heard Miss Thackeray say "good gracious," and, after a moment, Miss Cameron's subdued: "What is it?"

"May I come in?" he inquired, rather ashamed of his vigor. "It's only Barnes."

"Come in," was her lively response. "It was awfully good of you, Miss Thackeray, to let me hear your lines. I think you will be a great success in the part."

"Thanks," said Miss Thackeray dryly. "I'll come in again and let you hear me in the third act." She went out, mumbling her lines as she passed Barnes without seeing him.

"I hope you will feel able to leave this place tomorrow, countess. We must get away almost immediately."

"Ah, you have been listening to O'Dowd, I see."

"Yes, he tells me it will be dangerous to—"

"He is right. It would be difficult for me to clear myself. No one would believe that I did not deliberately make off with the jewels. They would say that I—oh, it is too dreadful!"

"Don't worry about that," he exclaimed. "You have me to testify that—"

"How little you know of intrigue," she cried. "They would laugh at you and say that you were merely another fool who had lost his head over a woman. They would say that I duped you—"

"No!" he cried vehemently. "You people know better than you think. You are disheartened, discouraged. Things will look brighter tomorrow."

"I don't know what I should do without you," she said.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Mr. Sprouse Continues to Be Perplexing, but Puts His Nose to the Ground.

Barnes was abroad early. He was at breakfast when Peter Ames called up. An inspiration seized him when the chauffeur mentioned the wholesale exodus; he hired Peter forthwith and ordered him to report immediately—with the car. He was going up to Green Fancy for Miss Cameron's wardrobe.

Two minutes after Peter drove up to the Tavern he was on the way back to Green Fancy again, and seated beside him was Thomas Kingsbury Barnes, his new master.

There was not a sign of hymar yet about the place. Peter accompanied him upstairs to the room recently occupied by Miss Cameron.

They found two small leather trunks, thickly belabored, in the room upstairs. Both were locked.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Whatever channel the mind sets itself in, the life will follow; for it is invariably true that life always follows the thought—Trine.

HELPFUL HINTS.

To the average cook with little imagination and less ingenuity a bowl of chicken broth, a half-dozen cold boiled potatoes, a cupful of tomato, a wedge of cheese will appear like "the primrose upon the river's brim, a simple primrose it was to him, and it was nothing more." It is neither possible nor is it wise to carry a large number of recipes or proportions of ingredients in one's mind, but the efficient woman will have a card index, a notebook or a chart on which she notes the possibilities of various small amounts of materials which in other homes are thrown out, left to spoil or are used carelessly in foods so that their charm of flavor is lost.

The pleasant thing about this system is that it is always growing, new dishes will occur to one and the list will grow. Then when going to the ice chest and finding a bowl of chicken broth, visions of all the savory dishes which may be seasoned with that savory food will be realized in some good dish, as it takes but a moment to turn to the recipe.

Another helpful convenience of the card catalogue idea is to have the system carried out in other ways in the household. Under linen put cards labeled "bed linen," on the card numbers of sheets, pillowslips, size and where they are. This is not only a convenience when absent to pass on, but in case of fire loss to give a correct inventory.

Attached to the medicine chest should be a card always where it can be found at once, especially where there are many little people, giving first aids in case of accident and antidotes for common poisons. The older children should be taught how to use this knowledge, as often lives are lost because nobody knew what to do quickly. It is a frequently noted fact that the people who know what to do or where to go to find out, rarely take time to go into hysterics in an emergency; they are too busy doing things. Start a card catalogue house and see what a pleasure it is to be methodical. It is not necessary to have an expensive filing cabinet.

We invite what we fear, the same as by different attitude of mind we invite and attract the influences and conditions we desire.—R. W. Trine

SUMMER SALAD WITH DRESSINGS

We all enjoy something different in salads and the ingenious cook is ever combining new materials to make appetizing dishes.

Virginia Salad.—Cut cold cooked potato in cubes, using one and a half cupfuls, add one cooked cauliflower flower cut in quarters.

Marinate each of these vegetables separately in French dressing, using four tablespoonfuls of olive oil and two of tarragon vinegar, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of pepper sauce and half a teaspoonful of salt. Cut one and one-half cupfuls of chicken in small pieces and mix with the marinated potato, with mayonnaise seasoned with catsup. Place the chicken mixture in the center of the dish, cover with tomato mayonnaise and garnish with cauliflower and lettuce with one tomato arranged alternately. Decorate with one hard-boiled egg, cut in eighths, and nasturtium seeds.

Tomato Jelly Salad.—Take two cupfuls of tomato juice, either fresh or canned; to it add one-fourth cupful of mild vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of gelatin, a tablespoonful of sugar, bit of bayleaf, leaves from two stalks of celery, two slices of onion and one and one-half tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Stir and cook over heat until the gelatin is dissolved, then strain. Set jelly in crushed ice and when it begins to stiffen, add fresh raw dandelion leaves cut in bits. Mold the jelly; when firm turn out on a platter and garnish with cooked egg, green pepper and scallions which have been cut in pieces and fringed at each end, then put into ice water to curl. Cabbage may be used instead of dandelion leaves.

Joe's Dressing.—Take one teaspoonful each of salt and mustard, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, a dash of cayenne, a whole egg, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of corn oil, half a cupful of evaporated milk, one-fourth cupful each of vinegar and water. Mix the dry ingredients and then cook all together in a double boiler.

Hot Salmon With Egg Sauce.—Set the can of salmon in a saucepan of boiling water and cook for half an hour. Cut the can close; drain off the liquid and turn out the fish in a solid piece on a hot dish. Surround with well seasoned buttered peas, and serve with an egg sauce. This is a rich white sauce, using some of the liquid from the can and milk, then add one hard-boiled egg mashed, and put through a sieve. Garnish with parsley.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the articles did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

Grow Wheat in Western Canada

One Crop Often Pays for the Land

Western Canada offers the greatest advantage to home seekers. Large profits are assured. You can buy on easy payment terms.

Fertile Land at $15 to $30 per Acre—Land similar to that which through many years has averaged from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Hundreds of cases are on record where in Western Canada a single crop has paid the cost of land and production. The Governments of the Dominion and Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta want the farmer to prosper, and extend every possible encouragement and help to Grain Growing and Stock Raising.

Though Western Canada offers land at such low figures, the high prices of grain, cattle, sheep and hogs will remain.

Plans for the purchase of stock may be had at low interest; there are good shipping facilities; best of markets; free schools; churches; splendid climate; low taxation (more on improvements).

Friends Gave Her Up Mrs. Hoffman's Recovery From Dropsy a Surprise. She Used Doan's.

"I was in dreadful shape," says Mrs. W. B. Hoffman, 680 Oakley Ave., Hammond, Ill. "There was a sickening pain across the small of my back and when I stooped over, knife-like twinges near my groin drove me wild. I had large puffs under my eyes and my body bloated badly all over. My feet were swollen to twice their natural size and the skin looked shiny. When I pressed it down, it left a dent there and I knew I was bad off with dropsy."

"My friends didn't think I would live very long. I doctored with three different physicians and they didn't help me and I was discouraged. Nobody knows the torture I went through. I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and I was cured. I felt fine. As the swelling went down, my appetite picked up and I was soon perfectly healthy. WISCONSIN STATE NEWS

Beaver Dam—Dodge county is probably the largest cheese manufacturing county in the United States, according to a recent report of Dairy and Food Commissioner G. J. Weigle. Wisconsin now has 2,500 cheese factories, 1,000 creameries and 54 condenseries. Growth of the dairy industry within the last few years has been phenomenal according to a statement made by Mr. Weigle. The commissioner has predicted that within a few years Wisconsin as the leading dairy state of the union, will be producing more than $100,000,000 in dairy products annually.

Janesville—Every member of the family of Dr. C. B. Clark of Janesville, including Mrs. Clark, saw active service in the war. Dr. Clark returned from France, after having been in the medical corps service for fifteen months. His twin sons, Harry and Charles enlisted when they were 19 years old and went overseas with the Prairie division. The mother had charge of a hostess house in a southern cantonment. The return of Dr. Clark marked a complete reunion of the family.

Appleton—Waterpower of the Oconto river is to be developed by the newly organized Oconto River Public Service company, of which F. F. Becker, Kaukauna; Charles H. Hartley, Appleton, and Ralph R. Hartley, Oshkosh, are incorporators. The company contemplates the erection of a hydraulic power plant on the Oconto river and construction of electric lines to several nearby cities and villages.

Madison—The opening of a co-operative grocery store is being planned by the University Employees' Association, an organization of stenographers, clerks, janitors, and other employees of the University of Wisconsin who are not members of the instructional staff. If the plan is carried out, it will be but another addition to the co-operative enterprises carried on by the association for the benefit of its members.

Stoughton—Stoughton is to have a health clinic as a result of a recent community campaign conducted by the Dane county chapter of the Red Cross and the University of Wisconsin. The clinic is to be directed by a committee of representatives of business, education, women's organizations, physicians and other interests of the city. The city council has appropriated $1,000 for its establishment.

Racine—A girl baby about 10 weeks old was found abandoned in an ice wagon here. The baby was placed in a box surrounded by a package of cream of wheat, a bottle of milk and a box of crackers. Attached to the baby's clothing was a note which read: "Please feed me on cream of wheat, milk and crackers." The baby, which had six toes on each foot was taken to the Maternity home.

Madison—A larger proportion of men students than usual is seen in the present summer session enrollment at the University of Wisconsin, largely because, it is thought, that many returned soldiers are doing summer work to catch up in courses interrupted by the war. Of the 3,204 students enrolled, 1,355, or more than 42 per cent, are men, according to statistics just prepared.

Marinette—There is a project under discussion among employers of girls in manufacturing institutions to erect a hotel exclusively for working girls' use. Desirable boarding places are scarce in the city. Some concerns claim they can not secure sufficient female help owing to the poor housing facilities for them here.

Rhineland—Gus and Peter Hedeon found an old copper spear which had stuck in the tire of their automobile and punctured it on the Eagle river road. The spear is a genuine old Indian relic, so hard that the finest file hardly touches it. It was evidently dragged to the surface by road machinery.

Oshkosh—L. P. Whitcomb has been re-elected director of industrial education here at a salary of $2,700. The work of the industrial board of education and the board of education proper is combined under the one director.

Racine—Ewald Rasmussen 23 years old, was drowned while in bathing at Horlick's dam near here. He was trying to swim across the river. Other bathers attempted to rescue him but were too late.

Baraboo—Baraboo is facing an ice famine, according to the report of the local ice dealers who say that they have only enough ice on hand to last to the end of the present month.

Sheboygan—County Agent Martin Hoppert has discovered the presence of hog cholera on several farms. Dr. Purcell of the national bureau of animal industry has arrived to make investigations and order quarantines. Vaccination is recommended as a solution of the problem.

Rhineland—The La Plant Choate Stamp Machine Manufacturing company, Cedar Rapids, Ia., has established a branch distributing house in this city. William E. Raven is in charge of the new business concern.

Racine—The entire estate of Fredrick Robinson, formerly vice president and general manager of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine company, with the exception of $5,000 is bequeathed to the widow, Mrs. Lillian Bull Robinson, and a son and daughter, by the will filed for probate. It is said that the estate is valued at over $3,000,000. To Elsie Nowak Johnson, who has been in the employ of the Robinson household for several years, was bequeathed $5,000.

Kenosha—Army men in Kenosha have started to organize a state cavalry troop. This movement is under the leadership of Lieut. F. W. Steiner; and several applications have been signed. All former service men are urged to enlist. According to a new law Kenosha is entitled to at least three companies of the state guard. It is assumed by military leaders here that two of these will be infantry, and the other either artillery or cavalry.

Janesville—His entire family in service during the war—this is the record of Dr. C. B. Clark, who has just returned from fifteen months' service overseas in the medical corps. His twin sons, Harry and Charles, enlisted in the Prairie division when 19. Mrs. Clark had charge of a hostess house in a southern cantonment. The entire family is now reunited.

Madison—The state railroad commission has been appealed to by the common council of Beloit to compel the Beloit Water Gas and Electric Co. to extend its services on numerous streets where pavements are to be laid. The council charges because of failure of the utility company to press its work, street improvements are being delayed.

Racine—Importation of potatoes, rutabagas, apples and possibly flour and sugar into Racine by railroad lots, to be sold under municipal control at city markets, is being considered by city officials. Food bought by the city would be sold at cost, plus the freight charge. The city sealer would have charge of the sale.

La Crosse—Live carp are being sold by Mississippi river fishermen here for 22 cents a pound, the highest price ever paid. A few years ago fishermen were glad to get 3 and 4 cents a pound for this rough fish. Smoked carp is now regarded as a delicacy, and the live fish command big prices in eastern markets.

La Crosse—Conrad Hauge, Caledonia, who claims to be the champion ski jumper of Minnesota, brought two quarts of his private stock of whisky and his automobile to La Crosse. In two hours he skied into police court, charged with running the car at forty-five miles an hour. He paid a fine of $25 and costs.

Neenah—it took a fish disease expert from the state hatcheries to tell what was killing off the prize rainbow and speckled trout in Louis Herzinger's private pond here. The expert diagnoses the "epidemic" not as one of the diseases among the finny beauties but caused by the gulls and kingfishers.

La Crosse—High prices for all kinds of shells has started a revival of the clam fishing industry along the Mississippi river. Shells that brought $7 and $8 per ton when the clam beds were so thick that one could make a haul every mile or two are now worth $50 and $60 a ton.

Rhineland—Private Thomas Stafford, serving with Co. L 127th infantry, has been awarded the D. S. C. for exceptional heroism under fire, at Juvigny, France, Sept. 1, 1918. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stafford.

La Crosse—Because of the dry weather, and an epidemic of potato bugs, the county potato crop will be small. Many vines are growing entirely to stalks, while others yield potatoes the size of marbles.

Oshkosh—This city is all spruced up and need no longer hide its head in shame. The new street cars, fifteen of them, have arrived. They replace cars, some of which have been in operation since 1897.

Barron—The Barron Co-operative Creamery Company the past month paid to the farmers for cream $98, 844.63. Every pound of this cream is hauled by team or truck and none is shipped in by rail.

Beloit—Hiram Simmons, former Beloit college student, who refused to perform military duty at Camp Grant and was sent to prison at Leavenworth as a conscientious objector, has been released.

Madison—With the filing of the brief of the State of Wisconsin with the Attorney General of Minnesota (the state has opened its right to claim certain lands near Superior now claimed by the State of Minnesota. The matter will be argued in the United States Supreme Court in October. The question involved is the boundary line of Minnesota between Superior and Duluth. If the contention of the state is upheld about $10,000,000 worth of property will go on the Wisconsin tax roll as dock and other improvements have been built there.

Precautions. "What is all this straw doing in the road? Somebody ill?" asked the man passing. "Hush!" said the man at the gate, holding up a warning finger. "There's a young man calling on my daughter tonight who has been coming to see her for six years. He's very easily frightened. We hope he's going to propose tonight, and we are taking every precaution against his being startled!"

Belated Proof. "I see where I was severely wounded in the war," remarked a discharged soldier. "Are you just now finding that out?" "Of course not; but it's some satisfaction to have a casualty list in my home paper corroborate the statements I've been making for six months to friends and members of my family."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A SUMMER COLD. A cold in the summer time, as everybody knows, is the hardest kind of a cold to get rid of. The best and quickest way is to go to bed and stay there if you can, with a bottle of "Boschee's Syrup" handy to insure a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectation in the morning.

But if you can't stay in bed you must keep out of draughts, avoid sudden changes, eat sparingly of simple food and take occasional doses of Boschee's Syrup, which you can buy at any store where medicine is sold, a safe and efficient remedy, made in America for more than fifty years. Keep it handy.—Adv.

Slow Populace. "You seem down on your town." "Consarn the place," said the village pessimist. "Th' folks in this burg are dead on their feet. I don't believe we could even git out a full attendance to a lynchin' bee!"

AMERICANS MAKING GOOD AT SIXTY-FIVE

Don't worry about old age. A sound man is good at any age. Keep your body in good condition and you can be as hale and hearty and able to "do your bit" as when you were a young fellow.

Affections of the kidneys and bladder are among the leading causes of early or helpless age. Keep them clean and the other organs in working condition, and you will have nothing to fear.

Drive the poisonous wastes from the system and avoid acid accumulations. Take GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules periodically and you will find that you are as good as the next fellow. Your spirits will be rejuvenated, your muscles strong and your mind keen enough for any task.

GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will do the work. But be sure to get the original imported GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are reliable and should help you, or your money will be refunded. For sale by most druggists, in sealed packages three sizes.—Adv.

A Step Forward in Clothing Service to Men

Our Mr. Albert Bloedorn has just returned from Chicago with his diploma certifying to the fact that he mastered the course in salesmanship and store service conducted by A. B. Kirschbaum Co., makers of Kirschbaum Clothes.

In our resolve to keep this store in the vanguard of progress as regards service to the public, we have left no stone unturned. Mr. Bloedorn's journey to Chicago is just one bit of evidence to this effect.

He will be able to tell each individual customer exactly what color, what style, what pattern, is best suited to his figure, his type, his personality, his complexion. He will be able to tell the stout man the right sort of clothes to wear. He will be able to give similar service to the thin man—the tall—the short man—all men.

In short, the salesman will be able to grasp quickly the needs of each case.

We shall look forward with pleasure to demonstrating to you the results of this intensive education.

A Bilious Attack

When you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible head ache. Take three of Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. They only cost a quarter.—Adv.

HIGH PRICES DECLARED TO BE ARTIFICIAL

President Addresses Congress on Subject of High Cost of Living.

LAW IS NOT ADEQUATE

Chief Executive Declares "Vicious Practices" Are Responsible for Perilous Situation Which Faces the Nation—Makes Impor-

Washington. — Addressing congress and proposing remedies to check the high cost of living, President Wilson declared that existing laws were inadequate and that high prices were not justified by shortage of supplies, present or prospective, but were created in many cases "artificially and deliberately" by "vicious practices."

The president recommended that the food control act be extended to peace time operation and that congress exclude from interstate as well as intrastate shipments goods which did not comply with its provisions.

His address was as follows: Gentlemen of the Congress: I have sought this opportunity to address you because it is clearly my duty to call your attention to the present cost of living and to urge upon you with all the persuasive force of which I am capable the legislative measures which would be most effective in controlling it and bringing it down.

The prices of the people of this country are paying for everything that it is necessary for them to use in order to live are not justified by a shortage in supply, either present or prospective, and are in many cases artificially and deliberately created by vicious practices which ought immediately to be checked by law.

They constitute a burden upon us which is the more unbearable because we know that it is unjustly imposed by those who have the power and that it can be vigorously and effectively controlled and made to square with the actual conditions of supply and demand.

Profiteers Lawbreakers. Some of the methods by which these prices are produced are already illegal, some are criminal, and those who employ them will be energetically proceeded against. But there have not been brought under the law, and should be dealt with at once by legislation.

I need not recite the particulars of this critical matter; the prices demanded are paid at the sources of supply, at the factory, in the food markets, at the shops, in the restaurants and hotels, alike in the city and in the country. They are the talk of every domestic circle and of every group of casual acquaintances even. It is a matter of familiar knowledge that a process has set in which is likely, unless something is done, to push prices and rents and the whole cost of living higher and higher, and to bring about a condition which there is no logical or natural end.

With the increase in the prices of the necessities of life come demands for increases in wages demands which are justified if there be no other means of enabling men to live.

Upon the increase of wages there follows close an increase in the price of products whose producers have been accorded the increase—not a proportionate increase, for the manufacturer does not content himself with that, but an increase considerably greater than the added wage cost and for which the added wage cost is offsettingly hardly more than an excuse.

The laborers who do not get an increase in pay when they demand it are likely to strike, and the strike only makes matters worse.

It checks production; it affects the railways it prevents distribution and strips the markets, so that there is presently nothing to buy, and there is another excessive addition to prices resulting from the scarcity.

Conditions Not "Natural." These are facts and forces with which we have become only too familiar, but we are not justified because of our familiarity with them or because of any hasty and shallow conclusion that they are "natural" and inevitable. In fitting indignity by and letting them work their will, we are doing nothing to check them, and we can do to check, correct or reverse them.

I have sought this opportunity to inform the congress what the executive is doing by way of remedying the situation, and to suggest where effective legal remedies are lacking and may be supplied.

We must, I think, frankly admit that there is no complete remedy to be had from legislation and executive action. The free processes of supply and demand will not operate of themselves, and no legislative or executive action can force them into full and natural operation until there is peace.

"There is now neither peace nor war. All the world is waiting—with what unnumbered fears and haunting doubts who can adequately say?—waiting to know when it shall have peace and what kind of peace it will be when it comes—a peace in which a nation shall make shift for itself as it can, or a peace buttressed and supported by the will and consent of the nations that have the power and the power to do and to enforce what is right. Politically, economically, socially, the world is on the operating table, and it has not been possible to administer any anesthetic. It is conscious. It even watches the capital operation upon which it knows that its hopes of healthful life depend. It cannot think its business out or make plans or give intelligent and provident direction to its affairs while in such a case. Where there is no peace of mind there can be no energy in endeavor.

Must Know Terms of Peace. There can be no confidence in industry, no calculable basis for credits, no confident buying, no assurance of employment, no certain prospect of employment, no normal restoration of business, no hopeful attempt at reconstruction or a proper reorganization of the disturbed elements of enterprise until peace has been established, and so far as may be guaranteed. Our national life has no doubt been radically disturbed and dismembered, and the national life of other peoples who the war more directly affected, with all its terrible ravaging and destructive force, but it has been nevertheless profoundly affected and disorganized, and our industry, our credits, our productive capany, our economic processes are inextricably interwoven with those of other nations and peoples—most intimately of all with the nations and peoples upon whom the chief burden and confusion of the war fell, and who are now most dependent upon the cooperative action of the world.

Exports Greatest in History. We are just now shipping more goods out of our ports to foreign markets than ever shipped before—not foodstuffs merely, but also and more of every sort; but this is no index of what our foreign sales will continue to be or of the effect the volume of our exports will have upon the world's economy. It is impossible yet to predict how far or how long foreign purchasers will be able to find the money or the credit to pay for or sustain such purchases on such a scale, nor soon or to what extent foreign manufacturers can resume their former production, foreign farmers get their accustomed crops from their own fields, foreign mines resume their former output, foreign merchants set up again their old machinery of trade with the ends of the earth. All these things must remain uncertain until peace is established and the nations of the world have concerted the methods by which normal life and industry are to be restored.

All that we shall do in the meantime to restrain profiteering and put the life of our people upon a tolerable footing will be makeshift and provisional. That can be no settled condition here or elsewhere until the treaty of peace is out of the way and the work of liquidating the war has become the chief concern of our government and of the other governments of the world. Until then business will inevitably remain speculative and swayed by this policy and again that, with heavy losses or heavy gains, as it may chance, and the consumer must take care of both the gains and the losses. There can be no peace prices so long as our whole financial and economic system is on a war basis.

Europe Must Know Situation. "Europe will not, cannot recover her capital or put her restless, distracted peoples to work until she knows exactly where she stands in respect to peace, and what we will do is for her the chief question upon which her quietude of mind and confidence of purpose depends. While there is any possibility that the peace terms may be changed or may be held long in abeyance, or may not be enforced because of divisions of opinion among the powers associated against her, it is idle to look for permanent relief.

Points Out Present Duty. But what we can do we should do, and should do at once. And there is a great deal that we can do provisionally although it be. Wheat shipments and credits to facilitate the purchase of our wheat and will be limited and controlled in such a way as not to raise the price of wheat to a level higher than here. The government has the power, within certain limits, to regulate that. We cannot deny wheat to foreign peoples who are in need of it, and we do not wish to do so; but, fortunately, though the wheat crop is not what we hoped it would be, it is abundant if handled with provident care. The price of wheat is lower in the United States than in Europe, and with proper management can be kept so.

Immediate Relief Measures. By way of immediate relief, surplus stocks of both food and clothing in the hands of the government will be sold and of course sold at prices at which there is no profit. And by way of a more permanent correction of prices surplus stocks in private hands will be drawn out of storage and put upon the market. Fortunately under the terms of the food control act the hearing of foodstuffs can be checked and prevented, and they will be, with the greatest energy. Foodstuffs can be drawn out of storage and sold by legal action which the department of justice will institute wherever necessary; and as soon as the situation is systematically dealt with it is not likely that the courts will often have to be resorted to. Much of the accumulating of stocks has no doubt been due to the sort of speculation which always results from uncertainty. Great surpluses were accumulated because it was impossible to foresee what the market would disclose and dealers were determined to be ready for whatever might happen, as well as eager to reap the full advantage of rising prices. They will now see the disadvantage, as well as the danger, of holding off from the new process of distribution.

Some very interesting and significant facts with regard to stocks on hand and the rise of prices in the face of abundance have been disclosed by the inquiries of the department of agriculture, the department of labor and the federal trade commission.

They seem to justify the statement that in the case of many necessary commodities effective means have been found to prevent the normal operation of the law of supply and demand.

It would serve as a useful example to the other communities of this country, as well as a greatly relieving relief to the congress were to regulate all such matters very fully for the District of Columbia, where its legislative authority is without limit.

Would Have Prices Plainly Marked. I would also recommend that it be required that all goods destined for interstate commerce should be plainly marked where their form or package makes it possible to be plainly marked with the price at which they left the hands of the producer. Such a requirement would bear a close analogy to certain provisions of the pure food act, by which it is required that certain detailed information be given on the labels of packages of foods and drugs.

And it does not seem to me that we could continue ourselves to detailed measures of this kind, if it is indeed our purpose to assume national control of the processes of distribution. I take it for granted that that is our purpose and our duty. Nothing less will suffice. We need not hesitate to handle a national question in a national way. We should go beyond the measures I have suggested. We should formulate a law requiring a federal license of corporations engaged in interstate commerce and embodying in the license, or in the conditions under which it is to be issued, specific regulations designed to secure competitive selling and prevent unconscionable profits in the method of marketing.

Law Would Do Much. Such a law would afford a welcome opportunity to effect other much-needed reforms in the business of interstate shipment and in the methods of corporations which are engaged in it, but for the moment I confine my recommendations to the object immediately in hand, which is to let the cost of living.

May I not add that there is a bill now pending before the congress which, if passed, would do much to stop speculation in the purchase and sale of commodities for profit, and to prevent profiteering by the method of marketing.

gress, I need hardly say, with very critical and very difficult matters. We should go forward with confidence along the road we see, but we should also seek to comprehend the whole of the scene amidst which we act. There is no ground for some of the fearful forecasts I hear uttered about me, but the condition of the world is unquestionably very grave and serious, and the situation of our own country is exceptionally fortunate. We of all peoples can afford to keep our heads and to determine upon moderate and sensible courses of action which will insure us against the passions and distempers which are working such deep unhappiness for some of the distressed nations on the other side of the sea.

But we may be involved in their distresses unless we help, and help with energy and intelligence. Disregarding the surplus stock in the hands of the government, there was a greater supply of foodstuffs in this country on June 1 of this year than at the same date last year. In the combined total of a number of the most important foods in dry and cold storage the excess is quite 19 per cent. And yet prices have risen.

The supply of fresh eggs on hand in June of this year, for example, was greater by nearly 10 per cent than the supply on hand at the same time last year, and yet the wholesale price of eggs was 40 cents a dozen, as against 30 cents a year ago. The stock of frozen fowls had increased more than 20 per cent, and yet the prices had risen also from 34 cents per pound to 37 cents. The supply of creamery butter had increased 12 per cent and the price from 41 to 33 cents per pound. In some cases there had been an augmented 3 per cent and the price had gone up from $3 a barrel to $36 a barrel. Canned corn had increased in stock nearly 50 per cent and remained substantially the same in price.

Food Prices Drops Not Enough. In a few foodstuffs the prices had declined, but in proportion in which the supply had increased. For example, the stock of canned tomatoes had increased 100 per cent, and yet the price had declined only 25 cents per dozen cans. In some cases there had been the usual result of an increase of price following a decrease of supply, but in almost every instance the increase of price had been disproportionate to the decrease in stock.

Law Department Active. The attorney general has been making a careful study of the situation as a whole and of the laws that can be applied to better it. He has found that, under the stimulation and temptation of exceptional circumstances, combinations of producers and combinations of traders have been formed for the control of supplies and of prices, and that, under restraint of trade, and against these prosecutions will be promptly instituted and actively pushed which will in all likelihood have a prompt and salutary effect. There is reason to believe that the prices of leather, of coal, of lumber and of textiles have been materially affected by the concerted and cooperative action of the producers and marketers of these and other universally necessary commodities which it will be possible to redress. No faithful and energetic effort will be spared to accomplish this necessary result. I trust that there will not be many cases in which prosecution will be necessary. Public action will no doubt cause many who have hitherto been content with illegal methods to abandon them promptly and of their own motion.

Publicity Will Do Much. And publicity can accomplish a great deal. The purchaser can often take care of himself if he knows the facts and influences he is dealing with. The dealers are not disinclined to do anything, either singly or collectively, that may be necessary for their self-protection. The department of commerce, the department of agriculture, the department of labor and the federal trade commission can do a great deal toward supplying the public systematically and at short intervals with information regarding the actual supply of particular commodities that is in existence and available with regard to supplies which are in straits, but with regard to the methods of price fixing which are being used by dealers in certain foodstuffs and other necessities.

Retailers in Part to Blame. There can be little doubt that retailers are in part—sometimes in large part—responsible for exorbitant prices, and it is quite practicable for the government through the agencies I have mentioned, to supply the public with full information as to the prices at which retailers buy and sell, and in order that it may be known just what margin of profit they are demanding. Opinions and concerted action on the part of purchasers can probably do the rest.

Congress Must Supply Funds. That is, these agencies may perform this indispensable service provided the congress will supply them with the necessary funds to prosecute their inquiries and keep their price lists up to date. Hitherto the appropriation committee of the house have not always, I fear, seen the full value of these inquiries, and the departments and commissions have been very much straitened for means to render this service. That adequate funds be provided by appropriation for this purpose, and provided as promptly as possible, is one of the things which I am amplying the present distressing conditions of livelihood that I come to urge, in this attempt to concert with you the best ways to serve the country in this emergency.

It is one of the absolutely necessary means, underlying many others, and can be supplied at once, and it is imperative that the government can exercise restraint and guidance.

Let me urge, in the first place, that the present foodstuff control act should be extended both as to the period of time during which it shall remain in operation and as to the commodities to which it shall apply.

Its provision against hoarding should be made to apply not only to food but also to feed stuffs, to fuel, to clothing, and to many other commodities which are indisputably necessary to life. It stands now it is limited in operation to the period of the war and becomes inoperative upon the formal proclamation of peace. But I should like to see it made permanent within the constitutional power of the congress to make similar permanent provisions and regulations with regard to all goods destined for interstate commerce and to exclude them from interstate shipment if the requirements of the law are not complied with.

Some such regulation is imperatively necessary. The abuses that have grown up in the manipulation of prices by the withholding of commodities and the consequent rise of price cannot otherwise be effectively prevented. There can be no doubt of either the necessity or the legitimacy of such measures. It is not necessary to repeat the fact, also, that although the present act prohibits profiteering, the prohibition is accompanied by no penalty. It is clearly in the public interest that a penalty should be provided which will be persuasive.

It would materially add to the servability of the law, for the purpose we now have in view, if it were also prescribed that all goods released from storage for interstate shipment should have plainly marked upon the package the selling or market price at which they went into storage. By this means the purchaser would always be able to learn what profits stood between him and the producer or the wholesale dealer.

The world must pay for the appalling destruction wrought by the great war, and we are part of the world. We must pay our share. For five years now the industry of all Europe has been slack and idling. The normal crops have not been produced, the normal quantities of manufactured goods has not been turned out.

Not until there are the usual crops and the usual production of manufactured goods on the other side of the Atlantic can Europe return to the former conditions; and it was upon the former conditions that the people of our own country and our relations with Europe were built up.

We must face the fact that unless we help Europe to get back to her normal life and production a chaos will ensue there which will inevitably be communicated to this country. For the present, it is manifest, we must quicken, not slacken, our own production.

U. S. Must Hold World Steady. We, and we almost alone, now hold the world steady. Upon our steadfastness and self-possession depend the affairs of nations everywhere. It is in this supreme crisis—this crisis for all mankind—that American must prove her mettle.

The world is a world confused, distracted, she must show herself self-possessed, self-contained, capable of sober and effective action. She saved Europe from the chaos of a world confused, distracted, she must show herself self-possessed, self-contained, capable of sober and effective action. She saved Europe from the chaos of a world confused, distracted, she must show herself self-possessed, self-contained, capable of sober and effective action.

In saving Europe she will have herself, as she did upon the battlefields of the world, a force of a free people. We need light, not heat, in these solemn times of self-examination and saving action.

Must Be No Threats. There must be no threats. Let there be only intelligent counsel, and let the best reasons win, not the strongest brute force. The world has just destroyed the force of a military junta. It will live under no other. All that is arbitrary and coercive is in the discard. Those who seek to employ it only prepare their own destruction.

We cannot hastily and overnight revolutionize all the processes of our economic life. We shall not attempt to do so. These are days of deep excitement and extraordinary stress, but with us these are things of the surface.

The silent masses of our great people know that the old streets and old ways and old control are still there, firm against violence or any disordered action that would throw their affairs into confusion. In serene confidence they will readily find themselves no matter what the circumstances, and that they will address themselves to the tasks of peace with the same devotion and the same stalwart preference for what is right that they displayed to the admiration of the whole world in the midst of war.

Sinister Influences at Work. And I enter another confident hope. I have spoken today chiefly of measures of imperative regulation and legal compulsion, of prosecutions and the sharp correction of selfish processes; and these no doubt are necessary.

But there are other forces that we may count on besides those resident in the department of justice. We have just fully awakened to what has been going on and to the influences, many of them very selfish and sinister, that have been growing in the shadows of our life, an intolerable burden on the mass of our people.

To have brought it all into the open will increase the greater part of the result we seek.

I appeal with entire confidence to our producers, our middlemen and our merchants to deal fairly with the people. It is their opportunity to show that they comprehend, that they intend to act justly, and that they have the public interest sincerely at heart.

And I do not doubt that housekeepers all over the country, and everyone who buys the things he daily stands in need of will presently exercising a greater vigilance, more thoughtful economy, a more discriminating care as to the market in which he buys or the merchant with whom he traded than he has hitherto exercised.

Labor Must Consider. I believe, too, that the more extreme leaders of organized labor will presently yield to a sober second thought, and like the great mass of their associates, think and act like true Americans. They will see that strikes undertaken for more than a momentary gain, a more discriminating care as to the market in which he buys or the merchant with whom he traded than he has hitherto exercised.

The worst thing, the most fatal thing—that can be done now is to stop or interrupt production, or to interfere with the distribution of goods by the railways and the shipping of the country.

We are all involved in the distressing results of the high cost of living and we must unite, not divide, to correct it.

There are many things that ought to be corrected in the relations between capital and labor, in respect of wages and conditions of labor and other things even more far-reaching, and I, for one, am ready to go into conference about these matters with any group of my fellow countrymen who know what they are talking about and are willing to remedy existing conditions by frank counsel rather than by violent contest.

General Interest First. No remedy is possible while men are in a temper, and there can be no settlement which does not have as its basis justice and standard the general interest.

Must All Work Together. Threats and undue insistence upon the interest of a single class make settlement impossible. As I have hitherto had occasion to say to the congress, that the industry and life of our people and of the world is in jeopardy, and that the interests of employers and workmen are to go on in a perpetual contest, as antagonists. They must, on one plan or another, be effectively associated. If we are not steady and self-possessed and business sense enough to work out that result?

In the meantime—now and in the days of reconstruction and recuperation that are ahead of us—let us resort more and more to frank and intimate counsel and make ourselves a great and united force in the life of the world. It will not then have looked to us for leadership in vain.

CARNEGIE DIES AT LENOX, MASS.

Steel Leader Succumbs From Pneumonia at Summer Home, "Shadow Brook."

HAD BEEN ILL MANY MONTHS

Introduced Bessemer Process of Making Steel and Revolutionized the Industry—Last Ambition Was to Die Poor.

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 11.—Andrew Carnegie died at his summer home, "Shadow Brook," here at 7 o'clock this morning. The cause of death was bronchial pneumonia.

Mr. Carnegie, who was 84 years old, had been under the constant care of physicians and nurses for several months.

Mr. Carnegie was one of the world's richest men. His last ambition was to die "poor." He gave millions to Carnegie libraries and various charitable funds.

Andrew Carnegie was born Nov. 25, 1835, at Dunfermline, Fifeshire, Scotland. In 1848 he was brought to America by his parents, who settled in Pittsburgh, Pa.

His first work was as a weaver's assistant in a cotton factory in Allegheny, Pa. In 1851 he took a more responsible position as a messenger boy for the Ohio Telegraph company in Pittsburgh.

During this time he learned telegraphy. Later he entered the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad and became an operator. Here he advanced rapidly and soon was superintendent of the Pittsburgh division of the road.

He joined Mr. Woodruff, inventor of the sleeping car, in organizing the Woodruff Sleeping Car company. Here he gained the nucleus for his fortune. He began careful investments in oil lands and increased his means.

Then the civil war came. Mr. Carnegie offered his services and was made superintendent of military railways, and government telegraph lines in the east.

After the war he developed iron works of various kinds and established at Pittsburgh the Keystone Bridge works and the Union Iron works. It was then that he introduced into this country the famous Bessemer process for making steel. This was in 1863.

The Bessemer process revolutionized the steel industry and made him the steel king of the world, laying the foundation of his huge fortune.

A few years later he was the principal owner of the Homestead and Edgar Thompson Steel works and other large plants. He was head of Carnegie, Phipps & Co. and Carnegie Bros. & Co. These interests were consolidated in 1890 in the Carnegie Steel company.

CHINESE STRIKE BY HUNS Mackensen and 8,000 Other Officers Teach 5,000,000 Men How to Fight.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Field Marshal von Mackensen and 8,000 German officers have been in China since early spring training a Chinese army of 5,000,000 men, according to a letter Dr. E. L. Scharf of Washington announced today he had just received from his brother in Germany. The letter stated: "General Mackensen has just returned from China, where he went early in the spring, at the invitation of the Chinese government, with 8,000 German officers to organize and drill an army of 5,000,000 men."

The letter said that the field marshal's object in returning to Germany at this time was to obtain additional officers for the work in China.

CHICAGO STRIKE ENDS

STOCK YARDS QUIET WHEN SOLDIERS ARE WITHDRAWN. Leaders of the Unions Satisfied and Men Return to Work—Race Riots Over.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Conditions in the stockyards district appeared to be again on a normal basis following the withdrawal of the police and deputy sheriffs from guard duty in the district. Numbers of Sunday shift workers, who previously walked out, returned to work. No trouble of any kind was experienced.

Lieut. Ben Enright of the Stock Yards station, in charge of the detail surrounding the yards, said the only policemen near the stock yards were those outside the packing district, and that they were the patrolmen who have been regularly assigned for years. The only policemen inside the yards were the special guards hired by the packers.

"The men will all report for work," J. W. Johnstone, secretary of the Stock Yards Labor council, said. "We have gained the concession to obtain which the men walked out and there will be no more trouble, we hope. There is no race feeling whatever among the workers, so far as I know, and there will be no racial outbreak of any nature in the yards if we can prevent it."

The Stock Yards, New City and Deering stations all reported "no trouble" in their districts.

Union headquarters at Forty-eighth and Paulina streets was virtually deserted during the day.

NEW KING RULES HUNGARY Archduke Joseph Forms Ministry to Replace Peidl Government—Peasants Hunt Communists.

Budapest, Aug. 8.—The allies' mission in this city delegated government authority to Archduke Joseph Wednesday night, when the Peidl government resigned.

Paris, Aug. 8.—The peace conference was advised that the newly formed Hungarian cabinet, headed by Jules Peidl, had been overthrown and that Archduke Joseph had established a ministry in Budapest.

The message to the conference regarding the cabinet stated that the members of the social democratic government, while they were in session at the national palace, were arrested by Hungarian police. The coup d'etat was carried out without disorder.

Peasants are reported to be hunting down communists who have fled to the country from Budapest. It is alleged that they are being incited in this work by the Roumanians.

ATTACK JEWS IN BUDAPEST Many Are Beaten in the Streets—Country Swept Bare of Food by Roumanians.

Budapest, Aug. 11.—The Roumanians have swept the country bare of provisions for miles around Budapest. The American food mission at Vienna, in response to urgent appeals, has undertaken to feed the school children of Budapest.

Anti-Jewish feeling is of the strongest in Budapest. Many Jews have been beaten in the streets after having been dragged from cabs and trams, the Roumanian troops looking on laughingly and inciting the Hungarians to further attacks on the Jews.

Illinois Bank Is Held Up. Chicago, Aug. 11.—Five youthful white bandits and one elderly negro held up the South Holland Trust and Savings bank, South Holland, Ill., and escaped with about $7,000, of which $3,000 was in cash.

North Dakota Buys Flour Mill. Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 11.—The state of North Dakota, through the State Mill and Elevator association, has purchased a flour mill and is now locating four large mills and terminal elevator.

Red Cross Nurse Honored. Amiens, Aug. 12.—Twenty villages in the Somme district have bestowed the title "honorary citizen" on Elks Stuart of Washington, who served as an American Red Cross nurse in this region.

BUICK 1920 SERIES WINS EN-THUSIASTIC APPROVAL OF BRANCH MANAGERS AND DIS-TRIBUTORS.

"If any one gets ahead of our 1920
Model K series, they have got to go some." That was the expression of nearly every branch manager and distributor who was in attendance at their big annual convention at Flint, Michigan, June 26th to 28th.

Fresh from their respective territories where they had completed their victory in selling and delivering the great output of the Buick Motor Company for the past season—the results of which found everyone eager to learn what their company had to offer them for the new season. Curiosity prevailed among the visitors and there was a mysterious feeling existing all around the great Buick plant. The large "secret room" of the sales department was locked and barred, shades upon windows were tightly drawn, not even affording a single peek to satisfy desire.

A convention program had been placed in the hands of every branch manager and distributor, days before.
It told just enough information to bring all of them to Flint on time.

The convention convened promptly Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in the beautiful assembly room in the new administration building, which has been dedicated to the Branch Managers. General Sales Manager, E. T. Strong, presided. Short addresses were given by President,
W. P. Chrysler and General Manager, H. H. Bassett. The general order of business followed.

Every model of the new "K" series and the production output was completely discussed. Sales organization and Promotion work were completely covered along the Buick plans and policies covering distribution for the 19-20 season.

A noon luncheon was served in the handsome auditorium followed by a review of the improvements and an inspection of the new models where the Branch Managers and Distributors cut loose with a big cheer when they received their first glimpse of the beautiful line of cars which they shortly will offer to their trade. The men gathered in excited groups around each different type of car.
Doors were opened and into the wide comfortable seats they slid. The new type steering wheels were tested, horns were tooted, the improved upholstery examined, hoods raised, and motors carefully checked—in fact, as every new improvement was noted, much feeling of satisfaction and approval prevailed.

their faith in those for whom they

WHEREAS, The burden of taxes

Cure for Dysentery

"While I was in Ashland, Kansas, a gentleman overheard me speaking of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes William Whelan, of Des Moines, Iowa. "He told me in detail of what it had done for his family, but more especially his daughter who was lying at the point of death with a violent attack of dysentery, and had been given up by the family physician. Some of his neighbors advised him to give Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, a trial which he did, and fully believes that by doing so he saved his child. He stated that he also used this remedy himself with gratifying results"—Adv.

Why Have Tractor Troubles?

LUBRICATING oil is inexpensive — the cost of a burned-out bearing will pay for the lubricants necessary to keep the machine in order for months.
The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) manufactures three lubricating oils for tractors—

Heavy Polarine Oil
Stanolind Tractor Oil
Extra Heavy Polarine Oil

One of these three is the correct oil for your tractor.

Our Engineering Staff has prepared a chart showing which one will give the best results in your particular tractor. The nearest Standard Oil representative will be glad to show it to you.

Write for "Tractor Lubrication," which you will find a valuable reference book of 100 pages and we believe it will save you many days of tractor idleness with the resultant money loss.

It's free to you for the asking.

Now All You Good Fellows, Come Fill Up Your Pipes

15c

The Velvet tin is twice as big as shown here

If ever men are "Tom" and "Bill" to each other, it's when good pipes are a-going. If ever good pipes go their best, 'tis when Velvet's in the bowl.

For Velvet is a mighty friendly smoke. Kentucky Burley is the leaf that Nature made for pipes. Wholesome and hearty, honest as the day. And Velvet is that same good Burley leaf, brought to mellow middle age.

For eight long seasons Velvet "meditates" in wooden hogsheads, throwing off the rawness of "young" tobacco—truly "ageing in the wood." Out Velvet comes—cool, calm and generous—the tobacco Nature made good, kept good and made better.

Velvet's sweetness is the sweetness of good tobacco, not "put on" like "frosting" on a cake. Its mildness comes from natural ageing, not from having the life baked out. Its fragrance is true tobacco fragrance, not a perfume. And Velvet makes an A Number One cigarette. Roll one.

As good old Velvet Joe says:

"Fill yo' heart with friendly thoughts,
Yo' mouth with friendly smoke—
An' let the old world wag."

The Most Welcome Tire That Ever Came to Market

Men Who Appreciate Superlative Values Prefer The Brunswick

In every great tire factory, the chief question is: "How much can we give for the money?" And the product depends on the policy adopted.

Every man who has become acquainted with Brunswick Tires knows that Brunswick standards are again evident. This famous concern—noted as a leader in every line it entered since 1845—has once more proved that its policy is right.

A perfect tire is simply a matter of knowledge and standards and skill. No secrets nor patents prevent making an ideal tire.

But standards come first. For in tire making there is vast room for skimping, for subtle economies, for hidden shortcomings. Makers without the highest standards don't build high-grade tires.

The Brunswick organization of tire makers includes a brilliant staff of technical experts. Not a man among them has spent less than 20 years in handling rubber.

Each is a master of his craft. And the new ideas they bring to the attention of Brunswick directors receive sincere consideration.

Every proved betterment is adopted unanimsously.

The Brunswick Tire is a combination of acknowledged features—plus Brunswick standards of manufacture.

The result is a super-tire, the like of which you have never known before. The kind of a tire you will gladly join in welcoming.

Yet Brunswicks cost no more than like-type tires.

Try ONE Brunswick. We promise a surprise. And we feel certain that you will want ALL Brunswicks.

Then good tires will have a new meaning to you.
