THE COUNTY EDUCATIONAL LISTENING POST

Washington Co. has a county nurse. During the year a portion of her time will be devoted to work in the schools along health lines.

Every good business institution has a mailing list. If it has something to sell, the state and county superintendents are managers of the biggest business in the state and county respectively.

Wake up, is good advice to the school boards and superintendents as well as school children. We may have a wide-awake teacher and a sleepy school district or a wide-awake school district and a sleepy school board.

Keep up! The strong school district of to-day is the one that braced up ten years ago; looked up, ever since, with a vision that awakens, quickens, and inspires.

The introduction of the new school text should be completed this year. School clerks can order direct from your home dealers.

It is the business of each member to take an interest in the work in his town and make plans for the collection of the material in time for the fair.

The committee organized by electing Miss Elizabeth Frey, Pres. and Miss Agnes Salter, Sec.

There is still a scarcity of teachers. Ten school districts are in want of teachers, and no teachers are available to supply them.

Great changes take place in twenty-five years. During the administration of ex-Supt. C. F. Leins there were as high as one hundred and fifty applicants for teaching positions.

The hut of the savage is a place to eat in and sleep in. The civilized man selects a spot on which to plant, to build to educate, a home is created.

That many sufferers are unnecessarily operated on, who could have been cured with out this to frequent use of the knife, is the claim of Dr. Karass, the well known Specialist.

John W. Schaefer & Sons of this village have started a truck delivery between Kewaskum and West Bend.

The Campbellsport Separato Company No. 28, W. S. G. R., which was organized about a year ago was mustered out last week Friday evening under orders from Adjutant General Holway.

ONLY SENATE CAN END WAR--WILSON

President Has No Power to Annul Act of Congress.

FALL'S QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Upper Chamber's Failure to Act is the Only Bar to Ending Present State—German Colonies Taken In Trust.

Washington, Aug. 22.—President Wilson has not the power to declare peace by proclamation, nor could he consent in any circumstances to take such a course prior to the ratification of a formal treaty of peace by the senate. The president so wrote Senator Fall in answer to one of the 20 written questions the senator presented at the White House conference Tuesday.

Replying to another question, the president said the provision of the treaty that it should come into force after ratification by Germany and three of the principal associated powers operated merely to establish peace between those ratifying powers, and that it was "questionable whether it can be said that the League of Nations is in any true sense created by the association of only three of the allied and associated governments."

Peace Would Cut H. C. L.
 As to the question of when normal conditions might be restored, the president said he could only express the confident opinion that immediate ratification of the treaty and acceptance of the covenant of the league, as written, would "certainly within the near future reduce the cost of living," both in this country and abroad, through the restoration of production and commerce to normal.

To Senator Fall's questions relating to the disposition of Germany's possessions, the president said the arrangement in the treaty conveyed no title to the allied or associated powers, but merely "trusts disposition of the territory in question to their decision."

"Germany's renunciation in favor of the principal allied and associated powers," the president continued, "of her rights and titles to her overseas possessions is meant similarly to operate as vesting in those powers a trusteeship with respect to their final disposition and government."

Question of Procedure.
 Unless Mr. Wilson absolutely reverses himself, the struggle between him and the senate must center for the next week or month entirely on a simple question of procedure. The president holds most of the cards—the Constitution gives him a big advantage in being able to negotiate and sign peace treaties. It isn't like a domestic law that can be passed over his veto by two-thirds vote. No such conflict between the executive and legislative branches of the government involving so many signatories to a treaty has occurred before, and the legal consequences are enough to make many international lawyers rich in fees for years to come. Commercial as well as financial relations will be subject to varied interpretations.

Here Are the Twenty Queries.
 The 20 questions answered by President Wilson, which were submitted to him by Senator Fall at the conference held at the White House Tuesday, are in brief as follows:

Questions I to IV—Could not the president, with the assent of congress, proclaim a status of peace with Germany and permit the resumption of trade?

Question V asks the president to define the establishment of the League of Nations and state "how many nations will have to ratify the peace treaty before such establishment will be perfected."

Question VI—Will the League of Nations reduce the high cost of living in the United States?

Asks About Neutrals.
 Question VII—What do Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland think of the League of Nations? Will they join, and when?

Questions VIII and IX deal with the resumption of commerce with Germany.

Question X asks if certain committees as stipulated in the league have been appointed and inquires to whom they make report.

Questions XI and XII—To whom does Germany renounce certain territorial rights which it is required to renounce under the treaty?

Question XIII inquires as to the disposition of overseas possessions by the United States.

Question XIV—What disposition is made of Germany's foreign possessions?

Questions XV, XVI and XVII ask for interpretations of certain phases of the league and the reason for the appointment of certain commissions.

Questions XVIII, XIX and XX—Why was the United States made a party in the appointment and fulfillment of certain missions in the settlement of foreign plebiscite questions?

"I feel constrained to say in reply to your first question not only that in my judgment I have not the power by proclamation to declare that peace exists, but that I could in no circumstances consent to take such a course prior to the ratification of a formal treaty of peace. I feel it due to perfect frankness to say that it would in my opinion put a stain upon our national honor which we never could efface if, after sending our men to the battle field to fight the common cause, we should abandon our associates in the war in the settlement of the terms of peace and disassociate ourselves from all responsibility with regard to those terms."

"I respectfully suggest that, having said this, I have in effect answered also your second, third and fourth questions so far as I myself am concerned."

Peace When Treaty is Ratified.
 "Permit me to answer your fifth question by saying that the provisions of the treaty to which you refer operate merely to establish peace between the powers ratifying, and that it is questionable whether it can be said that the League of Nations is in any true sense created by the association of only three of the allied and associated governments."

"In reply to your sixth question, I can only express the confident opinion that the immediate adoption of the treaty, along with the articles of the covenant of the league as written, would certainly within the near future reduce the cost of living in this country as elsewhere, by restoring production and commerce to their normal strength and freedom."

"For your convenience, I will number the remaining paragraphs of this letter as the questions to which they are intended to reply are numbered."

"VII. I have had no official information as to whether Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, or Switzerland will join the league."

"VIII. I answered your eighth question in reply to a question asked me at our conference the other day. (This question referred to licensing of exports to Germany.)"

"IX. In February, 1917, Spain was requested to take charge of American interests in Germany through her diplomatic and consular representatives, and no other arrangement has since been made."

"X. The committee to prepare plans for the organization of the league, for the establishment of the seat of the league and for the proceedings of the first meeting of the assembly, has been appointed, but has not reported."

"XI. Article 118 of the peace treaty, part IV, under which Germany renounces all her rights to territory formerly belonging to herself or to her allies was understood, so far as special provision was not made in the treaty itself, for its disposition, as constituting principal allied and associated powers the authority by which such disposition should ultimately be determined. It conveys no title to those powers, but merely intrusts the disposition of the territory in question to their decision."

"XII. Germany's renunciation in favor of the principal allied and associated powers of her rights and titles to her overseas possessions is meant similarly to operate as vesting in those powers a trusteeship with respect to their final disposition and government."

League to Pass on Disposition.
 "XIII. There has been a provisional agreement as to the disposition of these overseas possessions, whose confirmation and execution is dependent upon the approval of the League of Nations, and the United States is a party to that provisional agreement."

"XIV. The only agreement between France and Great Britain with regard to African territory, of which I am cognizant, concerns the redistribution of rights already possessed by those countries on that continent. The provisional agreement referred to in the preceding paragraph covers all the German overseas possessions in Africa as well as elsewhere."

"XV. No mention was made in connection with the settlement of the Saar basin of the service of an American member of the commission of five to be set up there."

"XVI. It was deemed wise that the United States should be represented by one member of the commission for settling the new frontier lines of Belgium and Germany, because of the universal opinion that America's representative would add to the commission a useful element of entirely disinterested judgment."

League to Pick Saar Commission.
 "XVII. The choice of the commission for the Saar basin was left to the council of the League of Nations, because the Saar basin is for 15 years to be directly under the care and direction of the League of Nations."

"XVIII. Article 83 does in effect provide that five of the members of the commission of seven to fix the boundaries between Poland and Czechoslovakia should be nominated by certain countries because there are five principal allied and associated powers, and the nomination of five representatives by those powers means the nomination of one representative by each of those powers."

"XIX. No such commission has yet been appointed. (The commission referred to is that for the fixing of the Polish boundaries.)"

"XX. It was deemed wise that the United States should have a representative on the commission set up to exercise authority over the plebiscite of Upper Silesia for the same reason that I have given with regard to the commission for settling the frontier line of Belgium and Germany."

"Sincerely yours,
 'WOODROW WILSON.'

PRESIDENT'S TRUCE OFFER IS REJECTED

Plea Made by Wilson to Shopmen Is Turned Down.

RAIL STRIKE VOTE ORDERED

Pending Issuance of an Official Strike Vote It Was Urgently Requested by International Officers That Men Stay on Jobs.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The committee of 100, representing the railroad shopmen, informed Director General Hines that they could not accept as a basis of settlement of their demands the rates submitted to them by President Wilson.

Results of the negotiations here were communicated to the union locals throughout the country with instructions that a strike vote should be taken immediately to determine whether the president's proposals should be accepted.

Pending the counting of an official strike vote, it was urged by international officers that all men should remain on their jobs.

Director General Hines, according to a letter sent to the locals, told the committee that the proposition, as presented by the president, was final, and that there would be no wage increases granted to any other class of railroad employees, as a class, but in the event of unjust equalities, as between individuals, adjustments involving increases to equalize rates of pay would be made where justified.

Statement by Committee.
 The committee thereupon informed the locals that the director general had been advised that his proposition could not be accepted as a basis of settlement by them and continued:

"Practically every class of railroad employees have now submitted requests for very substantial increases over existing rates of pay. It is well that our members give very serious consideration to this fact. If there is to be any additional general increase in the wages of railroad employees, the federated shop trades will receive the same consideration. Don't fail to give this statement careful thought and don't forget that if the federated shop trades become involved in a strike now, you are striking alone to force an increase for the 2,000,000 railroad employees."

"In view of the foregoing facts, the statements contained in the president's letter and the responsibility that must be assumed, if a suspension of work is to take place, your executive council has decided that it would fail in its duty were it to authorize a strike until the membership have had an opportunity to decide their course of action on this proposition."

Promise to Enforce Decision.
 "It is not our intention to shirk any of our responsibilities as executive officers and the wishes of a constitutional majority of the membership, expressed by their vote as hereinafter directed, will be carried out."

The letter then gives instructions for an immediate summoning of the members of the various locals to take a secret vote. It was pointed out that owing to the large numbers involved, it must be understood that the respective international organizations would not be obliged to pay regular strike benefits beyond the limits of the funds available for that purpose.

GOMPERS BACK FROM EUROPE

Arrives in New York on Transport George Washington—Confers With Glenn E. Plum.

New York, Aug. 27.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived on the transport George Washington from Brest, immediately after his arrival Mr. Gompers went into conference with Glenn E. Plum, of Chicago, author of the railroad brotherhoods' plan for nationalization of the railroads. Also at the conference were former Representative Edward Keating of Colorado and several brotherhood officials.

SIX ACCUSED NEGROES FREED

Were Part of 14 Colored Soldiers Held at Camp Grant for Assault on White Woman.

Camp Grant, Ill., Aug. 27.—Aquit of six of the 14 Camp Grant negro soldiers, charged with assaulting a white woman here in May, 1918, was indicated by the release from arrest of half a dozen of the defendants.

Six of the remaining eight soldiers are reported to have been convicted upon charges which may carry the death penalty. The other two are expected to be released from arrest shortly.

MANY MARMALADES.

Marmalades may be prepared from various kinds of fruit. The apple is perhaps the best known. A conserve which is a marmalade of mixtures of fruit is always an addition to any menu. Here are a few worth keeping and handing down:

Orange Marmalade.—Take one dozen oranges, half a dozen lemons, peel very thin and remove the white inner rind. Chop the rind very fine, or put through the meat grinder; also grind the pulp. To a pint of pulp and rind add one and one-quarter pints of water; boil twenty minutes. Remove from the heat and let stand twenty-four hours, then measure and add one and one-quarter quarts of sugar to one quart of pulp. Boil an hour and a half, or until the fruit is thick. Store as jelly.

Amber Marmalade.—Take one each of large grapefruit, orange and lemon, wash and wipe and cut fine, shred the peeling in thin strips, discarding the seeds. Add three and a half quarts of cold water and let stand overnight. The next day cook until the peel is very tender and again set aside overnight. The next day add five pounds of sugar and cook until the sirup is thick. Store as jelly.

Tomato Conserve.—Take four quarts of ripe, fine tomatoes; add four pounds of sugar, six large lemons and one cupful of raisins. Prepare as usual and cook until thick. Seal in glasses.

Four seeds I drop in every hill;
 One for the worm to harm,
 One for the frost to kill,
 And two for the barn.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

A delicious way of serving beets, the tender young ones, is to cook them until tender; then chop and return to the fire, pour over a well-seasoned French dressing and serve as a vegetable.

Creamed Eggs With Sardines.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter, add one-fourth of a cupful of bread crumbs and a cupful of thin cream, bring to the boiling point, then add two hard-cooked eggs finely chopped, a half a box of sardines freed from the skin and bones, and salt, pepper and paprika to taste. Bring again to the boiling point and serve at once.

Drop Cookies.—Cream one-fourth of a cupful of shortening, add one-third of a cupful of ginger slrup and half a cupful of strained honey with one egg slightly beaten. Mix and sift two and three-fourths cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one teaspoonful of soda and half a teaspoonful of salt. Add to the first mixture, beat well, drop from the tip of a teaspoon onto a buttered sheet and bake in a moderate oven.

Spanish Ragout.—In a deep casserole put some fat or oil, slice a few onions and add a clove or two of garlic, a little mace, salt and pepper, brown well then lay on top of these vegetables a pig's liver with very little water, just enough to keep from burning. Cover and cook two hours. The liver will shrink and absorb most of the contents of the pan. When cold it slices nicely.

Newport Pound Cake.—Cream seven-eighths of a cupful of butter, add one and a half cupfuls of flour gradually, and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat the yolks of five eggs until thick and lemon-colored and add one and a half cupfuls of powdered sugar gradually. Combine the mixtures, add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and sift over one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat thoroughly, turn into a deep buttered cake pan and bake one hour in a moderate oven.

Mustard Pickles.—To a gallon of vinegar add one-half cupful of mustard, one cupful of salt and two cupfuls of brown sugar. Drop in the pickles as they are gathered; cover with horseradish leaves.

Be sure to put in store for winter a few quarts of cherries prepared as follows: Wash the cherries unstemmed and place in a fruit jar; half fill the jar with good vinegar and fill with cold water, add a teaspoonful of salt to a quart and sea as usual. They make a delicious pickle to serve in the place of olives.

THE JOY OF MOTHERHOOD

Came to this Woman after Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore Her Health

Ellensburg, Wash.—"After I was married I was not well for a long time and a good deal of the time was not able to go about. Our greatest desire was to have a child in our home and one day my husband came back from town with a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and wanted me to try it. Made in the U. S. A. I brought relief from my troubles. I improved in health so I could do my housework; we now have a little one, all of which I owe to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.—Mrs. O. S. Johnson, R. No. 3, Ellensburg, Wash. There are women everywhere who are longed for children in their homes yet are denied this happiness on account of some functional disorder which in most cases would readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Agreed With the Doctor.
 Mr. Griffin had spent an anxious afternoon at the office and hurried home at an unusually early hour.

"How do you feel, dear? What did the doctor say?" he asked his wife.

"Oh, he asked me to put out my tongue," she murmured.

"And after looking at it he said: 'Overworked!'"

Mr. Griffin heaved an audible sigh of relief.

"I have perfect faith in that doctor," he said firmly. "You will have to give it a rest."

COULD NOT SLEEP

Mr. Schlessner in Misery From Kidney Complaint. Doan's Gave Complete Relief.

"Heavy work brought on my kidney complaint," says Wm. Schlessner, 6608 Suburban Ave., Westlawn, Mo. "One morning when showing a horse I was taken with a sudden pain in my back and fell flat on my back. I had been hit with a trip hammer, I couldn't have suffered more. I stayed in the house for five weeks and the pain was wearing the life out of me. At times, I couldn't get a wink of sleep because of the misery and I had to get up every few moments to pass the secretions that were highly colored, of foul odor, filled with sandy sediment and terribly scalding. My bladder felt as though it were a stone. The pain brought stupor and a reeling sensation in my head; the torture of it cannot be described. If I got onto my feet I couldn't walk but felt as though I was a flutter and everything would turn black. My head ached so it seemed as though my eyes were being dragged out. I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and I was soon rid of all the trouble."

Samoans Liked Ice Cream Sodas.

A member of the United States medical corps, recently returned to Ellensburg, Kas., reports that ice cream sodas have made a profound impression upon the Samoans. The officer was detailed in charge of the soda fountain of the solitary drug store at the Pago Pago naval station, and reports that his patients took much more kindly to the sodas than to the anti-influenza serum which he was obliged to dispense.

A Final Word to The Voters of Washington County

On next Tuesday you will be called upon to vote for bonding Washington County for the construction of a permanent road system. The highways of a community affect all classes of people and good roads will return large dividends on the investment.

How Will It Benefit the Farmer?

Permanent highways will lighten the loads, hasten the journeys, bring the markets closer, increase social enjoyments, enable him to market his produce when prices are high, lengthen the travel season, improve the schools and build up the neighborhood. Experience of other counties has proved this.

How will It Benefit the Wage Earner?

Good roads enable the wage earner to get more and better farm products, quick delivery would mean fresher supplies, they will be brought closer to the producers and they can easily reach the farms and buy their supplies.

If any voter doubts the value of permanent roads he can easily be convinced of their worth by making a trip a few miles north into Outagamie County which has constructed sixty miles of concrete road under the bonding system and is constructing thirty additional miles this year.

Finally, remember that you are now paying and have been paying for the past few years approximately $1.16 per $1000.00 valuation for road construction purposes while under the proposed system the average cost will be $1.85 per $1000.00 assessed valuation, a difference of only 69c, or a total of $6.50 for the man with an assessed valuation of $10,000.00.

Remember, your interest and favorable opinion are good, but it will take VOTES to pass the bond issue.

HOW IT IS PROPOSED TO BOND THE COUNTY

The proposal to bond Washington County for $2,000,000 to build a system of hard surfaced roads is a very simple one. There is not a farmer or business man in the county hardly, who at some time or other has not bonded—which is the same as borrowing money—to buy or improve his farm or to carry on his business. It amounts to this: You need good roads now, and you are going to borrow the money to get them, and take time to pay for them.

If the people on September 2nd vote in favor of the bond issue, it will mean that they authorize the County Board to issue bonds to borrow money to build roads in a total of $2,000,000. This money is to be spent over a five year period, and it is proposed to take twenty years to pay it back.

Get the thought out of your head that the Board is going to sell $2,000,000 worth of bonds at once. They are not. If you had $4,000 worth of improvements to make on your farm, and you decided you would do $2,000 worth of this this year and $2,000 worth next year, you would not go and borrow the whole $4,000 this year and next year $2,000 more, and save interest. That is just what the County Board will do under the bond issue plan.

Under this plan the board would in 1920 sell $400,000 worth of the bonds drawing 5 per cent interest. If the people wished to buy these bonds they could do so. In 1921 they would sell $400,000 more, and again in 1922, 1923, and 1924 the same amount. This money would be used to build the roads from year to year, and only a sufficient amount of bonds would be sold to provide for the building fund. Thus at the end of five years the roads would be built.

About the retirement of the payment of the bonds. They would be paid off in sums of $100,000 a year. Beginning with 1921, $100,000 of the bonds would be retired, and the same amount each year up to 1940.

Some people seem to think that the State and Federal Aid would be lost if the county bonds. It will not. The State Aid would be utilized to retire the bonds, and the Federal Aid would be utilized in building roads. Thus in the year 1920 Washington County would receive $41,000 under the Federal Aid laws. She would sell $400,000 worth of bonds. She would do $441,000 worth of construction. In the same year the county would receive $9,500 State Aid, and use that to retire the bonds.

There is another feature to which attention should be called. Under the new Washington County, beginning next year, will receive $275 per mile for the maintenance of her State Trunk Highway. It will not cost over $125 per mile to maintain these highways—$40 for the surface and $85 for the shoulders. The difference will be used by the county to retire bonds. Thus when twenty miles of concrete is built on a trunk highway the county receiving $275 a mile for its maintenance, and it costing only $125, will save $150 a mile or $3,000, which it can use to retire the bonds. In twenty years this will amount to $362,000, which you save by building good roads and use to retire bonds.

While the bond issue will be in the sum of $2,000,000, as you will receive $41,500 a year under the federal law for construction, it means that in the five year period you will spend on construction $2,255,000.

IF YOU ARE SICK AND SUFFERING COME TO ME AND I WILL HELP YOU.

If you are sick and suffering from some chronic or longstanding disease and have received no help whatever, I want you to come to me, let me make an examination of you and if I can cure you I will honestly tell you so, if I cannot help you I will tell you. I treat all diseases of the heart, lungs, stomach, liver, kidneys, nerves, brain, including rheumatism, epilepsy, paralysis, catarrh, asthma, deafness, head noises, stomach trouble, weak lungs, eczema, bowel trouble, and special diseases. I treat with out operation goitre, gall stones, rupture, piles, tumors and special diseases of women. I don't care what doctor treated you, what he told you, or what medicines you have taken. If you are sick come to me for an examination which is FREE, and I will tell you honestly just what can be done for you. I am in my office in the Republican House, Kewaskum, Wis., every Wednesday, Hours 9 A. M. to 2 P. M.—Dr. Karass—Adv.

A Bilious Attack

When you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible head ache. Take three of Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. They only cost a quarter.—Adv.

Oiling the 'Wheels.

No one can afford to let another person exceed in politeness, and there is nothing in the world that will oil the wheels of life like the lubricant of courtesy. Try it in your daily life and see. No one will chide you for not being in good form, even if you should slip in a few obsolete terms. For in this busy age each one is an arbiter of fashion himself. It would be a refreshing thing to introduce a few of the old-fashioned variety of social amenities—at least it would be refreshing to the elders of some of the boys and girls of the period.

PLYMOUTH SELF-FEED ENSILAGE CUTTERS

"Plymouth" Feed Cutters are the result of twenty-five years' experience and practical study of conditions and needs in the farm and dairy field. They embrace every advantage known to other similar machines, and many vital features which are original with us and can be had only in the "Plymouth Self-Feed." Below are some mighty strong points for you to think about before you buy a feed cutter.

AUTOMATIC SELF-FEED—This feature consists of a traveling feed chain, made of heavy iron slats securely riveted to a chain which passes over the lower feed roller. Throw the fodder into the feed box and the "Plymouth" does the rest.

DANGER-PROOF SELF-FEED ROLLERS—Here's another strong feature original with the "Plymouth." It consists of four large rollers of cast iron. The traveling feed chain passes over the lower hind roller, just passing the lower front roller, which is six inches in diameter, and smooth. The two upper and lower hind rollers are ribbed. The 8-inch automatic roller at the top, to the rear, is a special feature of the "Plymouth." It acts as a lever or weight to keep the fodder passing through continuously, depending on its own gravity to keep the material going through without a hitch. Two coil springs serve to exert an even and steady pressure on the automatic roller as the volume of fodder increases in going through. The spring feature is entirely automatic, and is only to be had in the "Plymouth." It absolutely prevents clogging.

Correct Lubrication Adds Life and Power to Your Tractor

YOUR tractor represents a large investment which must be protected. You can protect it best by care in the selection of the lubricants used to eliminate friction from the moving parts. By using the correct oil you not only increase the life of your machine, but you add to its power, for much power is used in overcoming friction.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) manufacturers three lubricating oils for tractors.

Heavy Polarine Oil Stanolind Tractor Oil Extra Heavy Polarine Oil

One of these oils has the correct lubricating body for your particular tractor. The nearest Standard Oil representative has a chart, prepared by our Engineering Staff, indicating which of these oils will enable your tractor to give the best results, and he will be glad to show it to you.

Write for 100-page book "Tractor Lubrication." It is free and will be of great interest and usefulness to you. Read it carefully, apply the information given, and you will be able to keep your tractor in service longer.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

We Vouch for Them

Of all the tires that are made, —why do you suppose we prefer to sell United States Tires?

Because they are made by the biggest rubber company in the world. And they know how to build good tires.

They have choice of materials,—they have immense facilities,—they employ many exclusive methods.

They can go to greater lengths in testing, improving and perfecting the things that make good tires.

We find it good business to sell United States Tires.

And—you will find it good business to buy them. They are here—a tire for every need.

Notice of Referendum Election.

Office of County Clerk, August 26th, 1919.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY:

Notice is hereby given that a referendum election is to be held in the several towns, wards, villages, and election precincts in the County of Washington, on the 2nd day of September, 1919, at which the questions given below are to be voted for. The questions to be voted for have been certified to or filed in this office, and are designated in the sample ballot below.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS.

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters:

- A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot which must have indorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.
- If a voter has a question upon a question submitted to a vote of the people by making a cross (X) or mark in the square at the right of the answer which he intends to give.
- The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot is spoiled, it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all shall be issued to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memoranda to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.
- After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed indorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place.
- A voter who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking same, to be chosen by the voter; and if he declares that he is totally blind, he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion, as to such person's disability.
- The following is a facsimile of the official ballot:

SAMPLE

Official Referendum Ballot

If you desire to vote for any question make a cross (X) or other mark in the square after the word "yes"; if you desire to vote against any question make a cross (X) or other mark in the square after the word "no".

Shall there be levied in the year 1919, a mill tax of not to exceed three mills on the dollar and an income tax sufficient to raise an aggregate sum of approximately fifteen million dollars to be paid by the state to Wisconsin soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses as stated in chapter 667 of the laws of 1919?

Yes No

Shall Washington County issue Bonds in the amount of $2,000,000 under the provisions of Sec. 1317m-12 and Sec. 1317m-12a, Statutes, for the original improvement of portions of the County System of Prospective State Highways and the State Trunk Highway System, in accordance with Resolution No. 5, adopted by the County Board July 18th, 1919?

For Bonds Against Bonds

R. G. KRAEMER, County Clerk.

—On Sunday Aug. 31st, the annual mission feast in the Ev. Peace Church will be held. Service in the forenoon will commence at 10:00 o'clock and will be conducted by Rev. J. J. Jackson. The afternoon service will begin at 2:30; and will be conducted by Rev. Kuecherer of Jackson.

—There will be lots of enjoyment for both young and old, at the South Side ball hall on Sunday evening, September 21st, when the famous orchestra, with a superb reputation, "Pat Netzel's" orchestra of Water-town will be here to furnish the music for said dance. This is a rare treat to have an orchestra of this kind come to this village. They made a decided hit during their first engagement here several months ago, and although the managers of both the North and South Side halls have been trying to re-engage them, were disappointed for this group of accomplished musicians had all dates booked. So don't miss this opportunity, for it may be a long time before these popular musicians will again make their appearance here.

Barnes listened at the door until he heard the water clattering down the stairway, and then went swiftly down the hall to No. 30. Mr. Prosser was sleeping just as soundly and as resoundingly as at midnight!

"By gad!" he muttered, half-awake. Everything was as clear as day to him now. Bolting into his own room, he closed the door and stood stockstill for many minutes, trying to picture the scene in the cottage.

He found a letter in his box when he went downstairs, after stuffing the tin box deep into his pocket. Before he sat the envelope he knew that Sprouse was the writer. The message was brief:

"After due consideration, I feel that it would be a mistake for you to abandon your present duties at this time. It might be misunderstood. Stick to the company until something better turns up. With this thought in view I withdraw the two days' limit mentioned recently to you, and extend the time to one week. Yours very truly,
 "J. H. WILSON."

"Gad, the fellow thinks of everything," said Barnes to himself. "He is positively uncanny."

He read between the lines, and saw there a distinct warning. It had not occurred to him that his plan to leave for New York that day with Miss Cameron might be attended by disastrous results.

But the jewels? What of them? He could not go gallivanting about the country with a half million dollars' worth of precious stones in his possession.

He spent the early part of the forenoon in wandering nervously about the hotel—upstairs and down. The jewels were locked in his pack upstairs. He went up to his room half a dozen times and almost instantly walked down again, after satisfying himself that the pack had not been rifled.

For the next three days and nights rehearsals were in full swing, with scarcely a moment's let-up. And so the time crept by, up to the night of the performance. Miss Cameron remained in ignorance of the close proximity of the jewels, and the police of Crowndale remained in even denser ignorance as to the whereabouts of all his spare cash and an excellent gold watch.

No time was lost by the countess in getting word to her compatriots in New York. Barnes posted a dozen letters for her; each contained the tidings of her safety and the assurance that she would soon follow in person.

Those three days and nights were full of joy and enchantment for Barnes. He actually debased himself by wishing that the Rushcroft company might find it imperative to go on rehearsing for weeks in that dim, enchanted temple.

He sat for hours in one of the most uncomfortable seats he had ever known, devouring with hungry eyes the shadowy, interested face so close to his own—and never tired.

On the afternoon of the dress rehearsal he led her, after an hour of almost insupportable repression, to the rear of the auditorium. Dropping into the seat beside her he blurted out, almost in anguish:

"I can't stand it any longer. I cannot be near you without—why, I—well, it is more than I can struggle against, that's all. You've either got to send me away altogether or—let me love you without restraint. I tell you I can't go on as I am now. You know I love you, don't you? You know I worship you. Don't be frightened. I just had to tell you today. I should have gone mad if I had tried to keep it up any longer." He waited breathlessly for her to speak. She sat silent and rigid, looking straight before her. "Is it hopeless?" he went on at last, huskily. "Must I ask your forgiveness for my presumption—and go away from you?"

She turned to him and laid her hand upon his arm.

"Am I not like other women? Why should I forgive you for loving me? Doesn't every woman want to be loved? No, no, my friend! Wait! A moment ago I was so weak and tremble that I thought I—oh, I was afraid for myself. Now I am quite calm and sensible. See how well I have myself in hand? I do not tremble, I am strong. We may now discuss ourselves calmly, sensibly. Oh! What are you doing?"

"I too am strong," he whispered. "I am sure of my ground now, and I am not afraid."

He had clasped the hand that rested on his sleeve and, as he pressed it to his heart, his other arm stole over her shoulders and drew her close to his triumphant body. For an instant

CHAPTER XXI.

The End in Sight.

Barnes, soaring beyond all previous heights of exaltation, ranged dizzily between "front" and "back" at the Grand opera house that evening. He was in the "wings" with her, whispering in her delighted ear; in the dressing-room, listening to her soft words of encouragement to the excited leading lady; on the narrow stairs leading up to the stage, assisting her to mount them; and all the time he was dreaming the moment when he would awake and find it all a dream.

There was an annoying fly in his olfactory, however. "I love you," she had said simply. "I want more than anything else in all the world to be your wife. But I cannot promise now. I must have time to think, time to—"

"Why should you require more time than I?" he persisted. "What is time to us? Why make wanton waste of it?"

"I know that I cannot find happiness except with you," she replied. "No matter what happens to me, I shall always love you, I shall never forget the joy of this. But—I cannot promise now," she finished gently and kissed him.

Between the second and third acts Tommy Gray rushed back with the box-office statement. The gross was $350. The instant that fact became known to Mr. Rushcroft he informed Barnes that they had a "knockout," a gold mine, and that never in all his career had he known a season to start off so auspiciously as this one.

Three days later Barnes and "Miss Jones" said farewell to the strollers and boarded a day train for New York city. They left the company in a condition of prosperity. The show was averaging two hundred dollars nightly and Mr. Rushcroft was already booking return engagements for the early fall. He was looking forward to a tour of Europe at the close of the war.

"It's now a quarter to five," said Barnes after the greeting and presentation. "Drop me at the Fifth Avenue bank, Edith. I want to leave something in my safety box downstairs. Sha'n't be more than five minutes."

He got down from the automobile at Forty-fourth street and shot across the sidewalk into the bank, casting quick, apprehensive glances through the five o'clock crowd on the avenue as he sprinted. In his hand he lugged the heavy, weatherbeaten pack. His sister and the countess stared after him in amazement.

Presently he emerged from the bank, still carrying the bag. He was beaming. A certain worried, haggard expression had vanished from his face, and for the first time in eight hours he treated his traveling wardrobe with scorn and indifference.

"Thank God, they're off my mind at last," he cried. "That is the first good, long breath I've had in a week. No, not now. It's a long story and I can't tell it in Fifth Avenue. It would be extremely annoying to have both of you die of heart failure with all these people looking on."

He felt her hand on his arm, and knew that she was looking at him with wide, incredulous eyes, but he faced straight ahead. He was terribly afraid that the girl beside him was preparing to shed tears of joy and relief. He could feel her searching in her jacket pocket for a handkerchief.

Mrs. Courtney was not only curious but apprehensive. She hadn't the faintest idea who Miss Cameron was, nor where her brother had picked her up. But she saw at a glance that she was lovely, and her soul was filled with strange misgivings. She was like all sisters who have pet bachelor brothers. She hoped that poor Tom hadn't gone and made a fool of himself.

The few minutes' conversation she had with the stranger only served to increase her alarm. Miss Cameron's voice and smile—and her eyes!—were positively alluring.

She had had a night letter from Tom that morning in which he said that he was bringing a young lady friend down from the north—and would she meet them at the station and put her up for a couple of days? That was all she knew of the dazzling stranger up to the moment she saw her. Immediately after that she knew by intuition a great deal more about her than Tom could have told in volumes of correspondence. She knew, also, that Tom was lost forever!

"Now tell me," said the countess the instant they entered the Courtney apartment. She gripped both of his arms with her firm little hands and looked straight into his eyes, eagerly, hopefully. She had forgotten Mrs. Courtney's presence, she had not taken the time to remove her hat or jacket.

"Let's all sit down," said he. "My knees are unaccountably weak. Come along, Edie. Listen to the romance of my life."

And when the story was finished the countess took his hand in hers and held it to her cool cheek. The tears were still drowning her eyes.

"Oh, you poor dear! Was that why you grew so haggard and pale and hollow-eyed?"

"Partly," said he with great significance.

"And you had them in your pack all the time? You—"

"I had Sprouse's most solemn word not to touch them for a week. He is the only man I feared. He is the only one who could have—"

"May I use your telephone, Mrs. Courtney?" cried she suddenly. She sprang to her feet, quivering with excitement. "Pray forgive me for being so ill-mannered, but I—I must call up one or two people at once. They are my friends. You will understand, I am sure."

Barnes was pacing the floor nervously when his sister returned after conducting her new guest to the room prepared for her. The countess was at the telephone before the door closed behind her hostess.

"I wish you had been a little more explicit in your telegram, Tom," she said peevishly. "If I had known who she is I wouldn't have put her in that room. Now I shall have to move Aunt Kate back into tomorrow and give Miss Cameron the big one at the end of the hall." Which goes to prove that Tom's sister was a bit of a snob in her way. "Stop walking like that and come here." She faced him accusingly. "Have you told all there is to tell, sir?"

"Can't you see for yourself, Edie, that I'm in love with her? Desperately, horribly, madly in love with her."

Later on in the evening three of the countess' friends arrived at the Courtney home to pay their respects to their fair compatriot and to discuss the crown jewels. They came and brought with them the consoling information that arrangements were practically completed for the delivery of the jewels into the custody of the French embassy at Washington, through whose intervention they were to be allowed to leave the United States without the formalities usually observed in cases of suspected smuggling. Upon the arrival in America of trusted messengers from Paris, headed by no less a personage than the ambassador himself, the imperial treasure was to pass into hands that would carry it safely to France. Prince Sebastian, still in Halifax, had been apprised by telegraph of the recovery of the jewels, and was expected to sail for England by the earliest steamer.

And while the visitors at the Courtney house were lifting their glasses to toast the prince they loved, and, in turn, the beautiful cousin who had braved so much and fared so luckily, and the tall wayfarer who had come into her life, a small man was stooping over a rifed knapsack in a room far downtown, glumly regarding the result of an unusually hazardous undertaking, even for one who could perform such miracles as he. Scratching his chin, he grinned—for he was the kind who bears disappointment with a grin—and sat himself down at the big library table in the center of the room. Carefully selecting a pen-point he wrote:

"It will be quite obvious to you that I called unexpectedly tonight. The week was up, you see. I take the liberty of leaving under the paperweight at my elbow a two-dollar bill. It ought to be ample payment for the damage done to your faithful traveling companion. Have the necessary stitches taken in the gash and you will find the kit as good as new. I was more or less certain not to find what I was after, but as I have done no irreparable injury I am sure you will forgive my love of adventure and excitement. It was really quite difficult to get from the fire escape to your window, but it was a delightful experience. Try crawling along that ten-inch ledge yourself some day and see if it isn't productive of a pleasant thrill. I shall not forget your promise to return good for evil some day. God knows I hope I may never be in a position to test your sincerity. We may meet again, and I hope under agreeable circumstances. Kindly pay my deepest respects to the Countess Tod, and believe me to be,

"Yours very respectfully,

"P. S.—I saw O'Dowd today. He left a message for you and the countess. Tell them, said he, that I ask God's blessing for them forever. He was off tomorrow for Brazil. He was very much relieved when he heard that I did not get the jewels the first time I went after them, and immensely entertained by my jolly description of how I went after the second. By the way, you will be interested to learn that he has cut loose from the crowd he was trailing with. Mostly nuts, he says. Dynamiting munition plants in Canada was a grand project, says he, and it would have come to something if the d—d women had only left the d—d men alone. The explosives are O'Dowd's."

Ten hours before Barnes found this illuminating message on his library table he stood at the window of a lofty Park avenue apartment building, his arm about the slender, yielding figure of the only other occupant of the room. Pointing out over the black housetops, he directed her attention to the myriad lights in the upper floors of a great hostelry to the south and west and said:

"That is where you are going to live, darling."

sister's arm, he led her from the room. Then he came swiftly back to the outstretched arms of the exile.

"A very brief New York engagement," he whispered in her ear, he knew not how long afterward. Her head was pressed against his shoulder, her eyes were closed, her lips parted in the ecstasy of passion.

"Yes," she breathed, so faintly that he barely heard the strongest word ever put into the language of man.

Half an hour later he was speeding down the avenue in a taxi. His blood was singing, his heart was bursting with joy—his head was light, for the feel of her was still in his arms, the voice of her in his enraptured ears.

He was hurrying homeward to the "diggings" he was soon to desert forever. He was to spend the night at his sister's apartment. When he issued forth from his "diggings" at half-past seven he was attired in evening clothes, and there was not a woman in all New York, young or old, who would have denied him a second glance.

ONE MAN THAT REALLY KNEW

Would Have Been Better for Jinks if His Fourth Friend Had Been First He Met.

First Friend—Hello, Jinks, that's a bad cold you have. Soak your feet in boiling water and drink a pint of hot vinegar and treacle. It's a sure cure.

Second Friend (a few moments later)—By Jove, Jinks, you ought to do something for that cold! Take a big dose of quinine—sure thing every time.

Third Friend (ten minutes later)—I say, Jinks, there's no use coughing yourself into the grave like that. Get a bottle of Curelquick—stop it in ten minutes.

Fourth Friend—Got a bad cold, haven't you?
 Jinks (after waiting some time)—Well, do you know a sure cure?
 Fourth Friend (hoarsely)—No. There's no cure. Got a bad cold myself.—Pearson's Weekly.

BELCHING
 Caused by Acid-Stomach

Let EATONIC, the wonderful modern stomach remedy, give you quick relief from disgusting belching, food-repelling, indigestion, bloated, gassy stomach, dyspepsia, heartburn and other stomach miseries. They are all caused by Acid-Stomach from which about nine people out of ten suffer in one way or another. One writes as follows: "Before I used EATONIC, I could not eat a bite without belching it right up, sour and bitter. I have not had a bit of trouble since the first tablet."

Millions are victims of Acid-Stomach without knowing it. They are weak and ailing, have poor digestion, bodies improperly nourished although they may eat heartily. Grave disorders are likely to follow if an acid-stomach is neglected. Curious of the liver, intestinal congestion, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach—these are only a few of the many ailments often caused by Acid-Stomach.

A sufferer from Catarrh of the stomach of 11 year standing writes: "I had catarrh of the stomach for 11 long years and I never found anything to do me any good—just temporary relief—until I used EATONIC. It is a wonderful remedy and I do not want to be without it."

If you are not feeling quite right—lack energy and enthusiasm and "don't know just where to locate the trouble—try EATONIC and see how much better you will feel in every way."

At all drug stores—a big box for 50c and a small box for 25c.

HAD AN EYE TO THE FUTURE

Farmer May Not Have Known Much About Music, But He Was a Bear on Economy.

A hard-working farmer in Ohio had sent his son to a good school of music so that he might receive the best instruction from the beginning. It was necessary to buy a violin for him, but he was such a little chap that his teacher thought that a so-called "half violin" would do. The father, whose resources had been badly taxed, was loath to part with the money for the instrument, but finally did so.

The lad made rapid progress, and became so proficient that a half-violin was no longer good enough for him. Again he went to the music store with his father, to whom the salesman showed the entire stock of violins. The parent was apparently dissatisfied with all of them, and his gaze wandered around the shop seeking for something better. Finally he saw a violin.

"Well, take that big violin there," said he, as a smile of satisfaction spread over his countenance. "The boy won't outgrow that right away."

Sizing Up Father.

Little Johnny has a sister of whom he is very proud. His mother the other day heard him talking to the infant and this was what he said:

"It's too bad you can't go anywhere. You can't go to the movies; you can't go to see General Edwards. You haven't seen any big men at all—only uncle and father, and they ain't so very big."

How papa learned of the incident hasn't been disclosed, but it can be imagined that mother, for a while, had a large sized twinkle in her eye.

A man sometimes loses his head, but a woman never loses her tongue.

Matrimony is a great institution; it makes a man forget his other troubles.

DUEL INDEFINITELY PUT OFF

How Wisconsin Congressman Turned Challenge to Deadly Combat Into Matter of Ridicule.

The story of the Potter-Pryor duel, the famous challenge of Civil war times whereby a Wisconsin congressman by ridicule put dueling in disrepute, recalled by the death of one of the participants, is told in interesting style in the June number of the Wisconsin Magazine of History, quarterly publication of the State Historical society.

Roger A. Pryor, the Virginia congressman who figured in the episode, died a few months ago in New York city. It was he upon whom John Fox Potter of East Troy, Walworth county, then representative of the First Congressional district of Wisconsin, during April, 1860, brought nationwide ridicule in answer to a challenge to a duel. Congressman Potter offered to fight with bowie knives at a distance of four feet, but Pryor refused because they were "so demilitarized vulgar."

Most of Mr. Potter's bowie knives, including the one he purchased for the duel and others sent to him after the affair, are now on exhibit in the State Historical museum, Madison.

As his relatives and friends are aware, George Wharton Pepper is a nonsmoker.

Not long ago Mr. Pepper was about to entertain some distinguished guests when he delighted to honor.

His first move in the direction of their entertainment was to procure and send to the house some particularly choice Havana cigars, which "set him back" to the tune of 50 cents each. But it seems the cigars arrived before it was made known at home that the guests were expected.

That evening Mrs. Pepper said to her husband: "Some cigars came for you today—evidently a gift from some one. Knowing you didn't smoke, I gave them to men who were working in the house."—Philadelphia Ledger.

WISCONSIN STATE NEWS

Stanley — "Ninety-day corn," the dream of the northern Wisconsin farmer, has become a reality in the Stanley country. Alvin Shilts, farmer, six miles south of this city, plucked full ripe ears of corn, Aug. 13, from a six-acre field which was planted May 14. Mr. Shilts states that the entire field of Golden Glow corn is now ready for the harvest, and that there are fine full ears on every stalk just as good as the sample which he brought into the city to show incredulous friends. He has lived in the Stanley country for a good many years and he is "hep" to weather conditions around northern Wisconsin. He says there will be no frost until the moon changes in the middle of September, and that every one who planted corn this year will be able to harvest it.

Janesville — Edward Murray, 17, "Briek Bat Bandit" who pleaded guilty to robbing at least five soldiers in the last few months, was sentenced to ten years at Green Bay reformatory by Judge Maxfield. The boy said that he and a companion made a specialty of robbing discharged soldiers. He explained that their method was to lead an intoxicated service man to some out of the way place, knock him senseless with a brick and take his money. A companion of Murray is in jail.

Appleton — Vaudeville tickets at Appleton theaters were raised 5 cents to meet the increased cost of operation as a result of a strike of ten stage hands and motion picture operators. The men refused to return until their demand for $30 a week was met. They had been receiving $21 under three-year contract, that expired Aug. 12. A demand for increased pay, presented by musicians, was also granted. The theaters were dark two nights as a result of the strike.

Fond du Lac — Two counterfeiters worked the town, passing $1 bills raised to fives by pasting the figure five over the one and camouflaging the writing of "one dollar." According to police, the visitors cleaned up $50 in a few hours. When one was passed to a cigar clerk he put it in his bill and next day took it to a bank. The cashier, on counting the deposit for a second time, pulled off one of the figures.

Green Bay — In memory of their brother, M. J. McCormick, the Misses Sarah and Amelia McCormick will erect the McCormick Memorial home at a cost of $100,000, for aged people. It was announced by Bishop Paul P. Rhode of the Green Bay Catholic diocese. The home will be built in the town of Allouez. M. J. McCormick was the founder of the Northern Paper mills. Mr. McCormick died in 1907.

Madison — E. A. Fitzpatrick, secretary of the state board of education, has started a survey of the educational facilities of the state for Gov. E. L. Philipp. Gov. Philipp wants the information to aid him in deciding on the feasibility of calling a special session of the legislature to enact legislation providing for free tuition for all Wisconsin soldiers and sailors who served in the world war.

Madison — The Wisconsin Supreme Court will begin its fall sessions on Oct. 7. Arguments will be made in about the first thirty cases that week and an adjournment will be taken for about three weeks. The court will announce its first decision about Nov. 1. The calendar of cases for consideration is not as long as two years ago. The war litigation has put a stop to much litigation.

Wausau — A War Savings stamp society has been organized at Elderon, with E. J. Benson as president. It will work in conjunction with the Elderon community of which Mr. Benson is president. One of the good results of the club has been the removal of all stone from highways within several miles of the village, the work being done by squads under the command of Boy Scouts.

Beloit — Jerry Sullivan's mother-in-law presented the court with a tooth which she alleged Jerry had knocked out when he hit her. "Jerry" asked the judge "did you strike this woman?" "Judge," cried Jerry, "I never laid hands on her." The jury viewed the tooth. "Guilty," they decided. Sullivan paid his fine.

Racine — The Common Council has voted to force all saloons to take out a city license for the coming year. The cost of the license, $500, is so high that it is believed fully one-half of the 125 saloons in Racine will withdraw their applications, and retire from business.

Eau Claire — Peter A. Skroch, a thresherman operating near Whitehall, had the flesh torn off his right arm from the elbow to the shoulder, two ribs broken and was badly shaken up when his sleeve caught in some machinery.

Antigo — W. E. Butterfield has leased to George C. Burke, Minneapolis, the Butterfield and Antigo hotels, which are under joint management, and sold to him the furnishings and equipment. Mr. Burke takes possession on Sept. 1.

Madison — Owners of elm and maple trees who find small reddish or light colored bunches on the leaves will have to rest as easily as possible for a while, says G. L. Fluke, entomologist at the Wisconsin experiment station, for no control measures for this particular trouble have been found. The bunches are galls caused by small mites which look like tiny spiders. They live within the galls and cannot be reached by sprays.

Ashland — Mrs. Nick Vamosh, 45, living at the Highland settlement, was instantly killed when struck by lightning while standing in a field of oats. Mrs. Vamosh and her husband had been shocking oats. They were hurrying to finish the work before the storm became too fierce. They were holding opposite sides of the same bundle when the accident occurred, but Mr. Vamosh was only dazed by the bolt.

Fond du Lac — The quota of sixty-five members for a unit in the Wisconsin National guard was filled when six young men signed. The company, known as Co. F, will contain only about half the number of old Co. E. Capt. A. R. Brunett, who served with the One Hundred Fiftieth Machine Gun battalion, Forty-second division is to be in charge. Through his efforts the company has been formed.

Kenosha — Zion City police played havoc with the Kenosha-Chicago "beer caravan," when fifteen special policemen from that city hid behind a barn, and surprised the drivers of fourteen trucks carrying beer from Kenosha to Chicago. The trucks were covered with canvas, but the police arrested twenty-six men, held the trucks, carrying more than 50,000 pounds of beer.

Rhineland — After traveling more than 400 miles by automobile and motor boat the state conservation inspectors consisting of Secretary of State Merin Hull, State Treasurer Johnson, Attorney General Blaine, and accompanied by Lieut. Gen. E. F. Dithmar, have returned to Madison after a two weeks' inspection of state owned lands in northern Wisconsin.

Racine — Judge Belden, of the First judicial circuit, has refused the appointment as commissioner to Denmark, tended him by Judge Halsey of Milwaukee, to take depositions in the case of Theodore Johnson's will. The will leaves an estate of $50,000 to Mrs. Thomas Hahn of this city. A contest over the will is being heard in the Supreme court.

Wausau — Money has been raised by local automobilists to open up a section of road in the town of Flieth, which will give a road from Wausau to Mosinee, on the west side of the Wisconsin river. The Chamber of Commerce, which is fathering a general plan of road improvement, also will experiment with gravel on several streets in this city.

Madison — Commissioner of Banking Marshall Cousins has approved an amendment to the articles of incorporation of the Wisconsin Trust Company, Milwaukee, consolidating under the name of First Wisconsin Trust Company, and increasing the capital from $500,000 to $800,000.

Oshkosh — Edmund Brelowski, 7 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louise Brelowski, Utica, met death by strangulation. His mother had left him on the bed. Returning she found that he had crawled down to the foot of the bed and had caught his head between the iron crossbar of the bed and the mattress and was hanging.

Marinette — Since Dec. 13, the United War workers of Marinette, including the Knights of Columbus, Y. M. C. A., Salvation Army and other war bodies, have fed more than 5,000 soldiers passing through. Three trains are met daily and the returning soldiers aboard are given substantial lunches, including hot coffee.

Portage — John Shehan, 15, while diving in a slough of the Wisconsin river near the city, struck his head against a rock. When he did not return to the surface of the stream his brother and a companion dived after him and bringing him to the surface, succeeded after several hours of work, in bringing him to.

Rhineland — The board of vocational education in Rhineland has authorized the purchase of turning lathes, gas engines and other machinery to be used in the additional courses of sheet metal work, gas engineering and general mechanical engineering in the vocational school this year.

Sheboygan — Grocery stores must stop the sale of near beer and other beverages of that kind, or face prosecution, according to action taken by the common council. Saloon keepers will be issued licenses, many already obtained permits to sell intoxicating liquors.

Kenosha — Following an announcement from the Wisconsin Gas and Electric Co. that the company would give the city no estimate on the purchase price for the public utilities, city officials announced that the state railway commission will be called on to set a price on the street car lines, gas, electric and heating plants. A vote on whether the people favor public ownership will be held Sept. 2. The citizens favor public ownership another election on whether the utilities shall be purchased will be held in April, 1920.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

SAVING A TAIL.

Nancy had been a little bit worried over Sir Benjamin Bacon's right eye, which had looked at her in such a funny way the day before.

"I'm sure that pig thought I was up to something," she said to herself. And that evening she spoke to her aunt, the mother of Jack and Marian. "I don't believe that pig thought we wanted to give him a party at all, though the other pigs may have thought so. But he acted as though we were just doing it to appear fine and as though he didn't think we were at all."

"Oh," laughed Marian's mother, and Jack's mother, too, for that matter, "I imagine the pigs were glad to have a party and didn't stop to think why you gave it to them!"

Now, Nick was in Jack's class in school during the few days of the children's visit, and Nancy was in Marian's.

It was after school the following day that Marian said she had something quite special to do at home, and she wished Nancy wouldn't bother to hurry back but would stay and play with the other girls.

She behaved so queerly about it that Nancy couldn't imagine what was the trouble. "Can't I come along, too?" she asked, but Marian said: "I'd feel much better if you played with the others."

Nancy rushed up to Nick as soon as he came out of school. "Oh, Nick," she said, "something is the matter with Marian. She behaves so queerly. She said she wanted to have me play with the other girls, for she had something special to do at home. She really wouldn't let me go home with her. I would have been mad only she was just too queer for anything. I don't understand."

"Jack was the same way, Nancy; let's go back, anyway and see what is up."

They hurried down a street, running most of the way and then turned down another and ran almost all of five more blocks to reach their cousins' home.

Nick went half-way down the hall when he bumped straight into Jack coming up from the cellar stairs. He was holding in his arms the little fox terrier Marian had just bought a week before with her birthday money. The dog was only a tiny puppy still, a lovely little soft white puppy with one brown ear and one black one and two black spots on his soft white back.

"Oh, did Buster get hurt?" Nick shouted. Buster, of course, was the small, gay, naughty, happy puppy.

"No, he didn't," said Jack. "And it's none of your business, anyway. You're visitors even if you are our cousins. And we'd planned about this long before you came."

"That's so," said Marian, who came up behind Jack. "If we want to have Buster's tail cut, it's no one's business but our own. It was just like you, two to find out somehow."

"Going to have his tail cut?" gasped Nancy, and burst into tears.

"Yes, fox terriers look absurd with long tails," said Jack; "everyone says so. And, besides, he'll be all well in a week, quite well."

"And for the sake of a little style," said Nick, his teeth clenched tightly together, "you'd let that dog suffer for a whole week. I just wish I could cut off a part of your arm, that's what I do."

"The bones are soft," murmured Marian. "He'd look foolish with a tail, so everyone says."

"What do you care what everyone says?" screamed Nick; "you are two horrid, cruel children, and if you don't let that poor puppy, who has never done you any harm, and who is at your mercy, alone, we'll never be your visitors any more, and you'll never be friends of ours. We mean it, too."

And they did mean it, for they didn't care what anyone thought of them as long as they saved the puppy from being hurt.

But after Nick and Nancy had told Jack and Marian of the suffering it would mean for Buster, of course they didn't do such a cruel thing. They weren't really cruel, only they didn't know that such a thing hurt dreadfully. They had never been told the real truth, and they were glad they had heard it in time!

Is it Possible to Legislate Life and Brains?

Swift & Company is primarily an organization of men, not a collection of brick, mortar, and machinery.

Packing Plants, their equipment and usefulness are only outward symbols of the intelligence, life - long experience, and right purpose of the men who compose the organization and of those who direct it.

Will not Government direction of the packing industry, now contemplated by Congress, take over the empty husk of physical property and equipment and sacrifice the initiative, experience and devotion of these men, which is the life itself of the industry?

What legislation, what political adroitness could replace such life and brains, once driven out?

Velvet Always Hits a 3 Bagger: Sight! Smell!! Taste!!!

THEN it's easy to get to the home-plate, right where you snuggle down in an old coat and slippers to enjoy life.

To begin with, Velvet Tobacco, in its jolly red tin, has a wholesome generous look to it. Nothing namby-pamby about it. A red-blooded tin full of red-blooded tobacco, for red-blooded folks.

Open it up—and you get the fragrance that Nature stored in the tobacco during eight changing seasons, while it mellowed in great wooden hogsheads.

And say! It's great! That good, natural fragrance of Kentucky's wonder tobacco—Burley—King of Pipe-land. No camouflage about it. No dolling up.

Pack a pipeload. Light up and you'll get the fragrance of real tobacco—the incense to solid comfort.

And a mild, pleasant taste, that only our Nature-ageing method can impart. You will never taste a finer cigarette than the one you roll with Velvet.

Fifteen cents a tin—not a cent more.

Batter up!

A friendly pipeful makes even the umpire seem almost human.

Brunswick Principles In Fine Tire Making

The reason you are interested in the name on your tire is that it identifies the maker. By knowing the maker you can judge his ideals of manufacture.

The only secret of a super-tire lies in the principles of the maker. His standards decide the quality. For there are no secrets in the tire industry.

What you get depends on what is behind the name on your tire. Brunswick, as you know, means a very old concern, jealous of its good name. Since 1845 the House of Brunswick has been famous the world over for the quality of its products.

The Brunswick Tire is all that you expect—and more. Your first one will be a revelation. You'll agree that you've never known a better. And you'll tell your friends. So spread the news among motorists. The Brunswick is the most welcome tire that ever came to market.

Try one Brunswick Tire. Learn how good a tire can be built. And remember, it costs no more than like-type tires.
