THE COUNTY EDUCATIONAL LISTENING POST

Nothing will more mar the work of her, who undertakes to teach a topic than a confused or fleeting notion of what she is to teach.

You can bluff part of your pupils all the time, all your pupils part of the time but you can not bluff all your pupils all the time.

Do not burn up those old tattered readers. Breathe anew the breath of life into them. Paste each lesson on plain stiff paper and you will have some excellent supplementary reading material.

Some schools give their teachers a day off for the purpose of visiting other schools. It is a good thing to do.

The superintendent and supervising teacher will go out chuck full of sympathy for their co-workers in the schools.

The first school fair of the year will be held for the town of Farmington at Fillmore State Graded School.

DOCTOR CHANGES VISITING DAYS

Owing to the large amount of work in his Milwaukee office, Dr. Karass, the well known Specialist in the treatment of Chronic and long standing diseases, will be in his Kewaskum office every Friday instead of on Wednesdays as before.

—Dr. A. D. Backus has traded his new Dodge Sedan for a 12-cylinder Kissel touring car on which he is having a winter top put on.

AN AIRPLANE AT THE COUNTY FAIR

The big drawing card in the list of special attractions engaged for the forthcoming County Fair to be held at West Bend October 7, 8, 9, and 10, will be an aeroplane that will make two daily flights, "loop the loop", and go through all evolutions, gyrations, spiral drops, etc., that make the spectators hold their breath and cause their hearts to stop for moments in their amazement over the dare-devil stunts.

In accordance with the plans for a greater Washington County Fair, the management had to look for an attraction greater than any ever secured for the event. Their choice of course had to fall on the most astounding invention of the age, the flying machine.

The management was lucky to engage a string of other highly interesting and sensational attractions, all comprised in the George Harrison Greater Shows of Minneapolis.

STATE MAKES OWN AUTO NUMBER PLATES

Machinery has been installed and Wisconsin has a new industry in operation at its state prison at Waupun, making the auto license plates for the state. It will employ several inmates during the year. The plant has a capacity of 1,000 plates a day.

AUCTION SALE

On Thursday, Sept. 25, 1919, beginning at 1 p. m., sharp, the undersigned will sell at Public Auction on his farm located 3 miles west of Campbellsport and 2 miles east of Ashford, his personal property too numerous to mention.

WHAT THE COUNTY PAPERS THINK OF US

The following articles clipped from the county papers have the following to say about Kewaskum's proposed industrial activities:

The village of Kewaskum will next season branch out as an industrial center which bears watching. For years the village has had men of wealth, but it was not until lately that plans were formulated to start enterprises which would give employment to hundreds of hands.

At a meeting of the citizens of Kewaskum held this week, $100,000 in stock was subscribed in fifteen minutes for the erection of an aluminum plant to be built in that village.

No out side capital is interested in the business. A. L. Rosenheimer, President of the Kewaskum Bank, Dr. N. E. Hausmann and B. H. Rosenheimer are the leaders in the enterprise.

Money interests of Kewaskum are promoting the erection of an aluminum ware factory. At the head of them are the Rosenheimers, and according to the Statesman, the villagers raised $100,000 worth of stock within fifteen minutes, and "everyone in the village was clamoring for more."

DEATH OF HENRY SCHNEIDER

Word was received here Friday of the death of Henry Schneider, a former business man of this village. Mr. Schneider died Friday morning at six o'clock, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Benike, in the town of West Bend, after an illness of one year's duration with heart trouble.

AT DAYTON, OHIO, THE HOME OF DELCO LIGHT.

Robert Fitzsimmons who recently joined the L. Rosenheimer Delco Light organization, is at present spending two weeks at the Delco plant in Dayton, Ohio. His object is to study the plant in detail, and upon his return to Kewaskum enter the field as an active salesman.

EXTENSIVE BUILDING OPERATIONS ARE UNDER WAY

Kewaskum's building and industrial boom is fast gaining headway and will reach its climax next spring when the real building activities commence. A. G. Koch, our enterprising general merchandise establishment, are erecting a large building, 32 x 60 feet near their present store building, and it is expected same will be finished by the end of next week.

The newly organized Aluminum Company of Kewaskum has secured options on building sites in the village and excavating for a modern one-story fire-proof factory building 100 x 200 feet, will be commenced this fall.

A new 100 x 100 foot building is contemplated by the L. Rosenheimer firm on their newly acquired property on the corner of Main street and Fond du Lac avenue.

The new residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Epps on the corner of West Water and Wilhelmina streets is nearly completed and will be ready for occupancy before winter sets in.

Several other new residences are being contemplated for next summer, as is also the new telephone exchange for the Theresa Union Telephone company which will be erected on the former Dave Casey property on Main street.

Each and every individual of the village has become possessed with the spirit of progress and the desire to see our beautiful little city grow, and are all working in harmony to that end.

CAMPBELLSPORT MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO., ENTERS ITS 24th YEAR OF BUSINESS

The Campbellsport Mutual Fire Insurance Company was organized July 30th, 1895, and commenced issuing policies on Sept. 18th, 1895, on which date $105,500.00 insurance took effect.

Since organization the company has written over 58,200 policies, aggregating over $50,650,000.00 insurance, and gross premiums have amounted to over $440,000.00, and as the company charges only 75 per cent of the board rates, the members or policy holders have been saved in premiums over $325,000.00.

The company has paid 1350 losses, amounting to $221,462.70 but has gross assets of about $60,000.00. It has a reserve of $26,000.00, and surplus of about $26,000.00, or total admitted net assets of over $52,000.00.

The interest and discount earnings have amounted to about $16,800.00, and the company has a commodious fire proof office building, erected in 1913, valued at $5,000.00.

Nearly 3,000 policies have been issued the present year, amounting to over $2,650,000.00, and there are at present over 6200 policies in force, aggregating nearly $6,000,000.00 insurance on the company's books.

Less than $75.00 has been charged off the books, as bad accounts, in 24 years, of a total of over $440,000.00 of gross premiums.

The officers and directors are O. G. Hendricks, Pres., L. C. Kohler, Vice-Pres., H. A. Wrucke, Sec'y., John H. Paas, Treas., E. F. Martin, Samuel Grossen, C. R. Van De Zande, Wm. Weidle, F. H. Haskin, of whom Sec'y. Wrucke and Treas. Paas have held their respective offices since organization.

The company has been in business 24 years, and is one of the leading mutuals of Wisconsin, writing business in the entire state, at 75 per cent of the tariff rates, thus saving the assured 25 per cent when writing the insurance.

The company has a record of prompt and efficient service, and prompt payment of losses.

BOUQUETS

The Statesman has received the following bouquets from several of its exchanges upon entering into its 25th year of journalism:

GOOD LUCK BOYS

The Kewaskum Statesman entered its 25th year of publication last week. We extend our heartfelt congratulations to its publishers, Messrs. Harbeck & Schaefer.—The Random Lake Times.

VOLUME 25

With its last week's issue the Kewaskum Statesman began its twenty-fifth year. The Statesman is one of the best weekly papers coming to our desk, well filled with good reading matter and has a good run of advertising. We hope the Statesman will have many more birthdays.—Hartford Press.

WACOUSTA

Henry Andler of Oklahoma is visiting relatives here.

V. O. Bell spent Saturday with friends at Woodside.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ford were Campbellsport callers Tuesday.

Mrs. Josephine DeGroat of Fond du Lac is visiting relatives here this week.

Martin Engels and Fred Buslaff made a business trip to St. Cloud on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buslaff and family spent Sunday with relatives at Fond du Lac.

Rev. John Pieper of Stillwater, Minn. spent a few days of last week with his friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Eastman of Oregon are visiting at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. Julia Allen and family.

Mrs. Albert Guepe and family of Milwaukee and Miss Mary Guepe of Campbellsport called on friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Burnett and children returned home Sunday, after a two weeks' visit with relatives in Minnesota.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haskins at Campbellsport on Monday, where they celebrated Mr. and Mrs. Haskin's golden wedding jubilee.

The venerable couple were married in Fond du Lac fifty years ago. J. W. Bell of Campbellsport, who was best man at the time, and Mrs. Sarah Reed of Fond du Lac acting as bridesmaid were in attendance at the anniversary.

The home was prettily decorated in white and gold while the dining room was made doubly attractive by the large cake which adorned the center of the table. Six grand daughters, attired in white aprons and gold caps, daintily served a bounteous five-course dinner, beginning promptly at high noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Haskins were the recipients of many beautiful and useful presents which will often bring back to them fond and pleasant memories.

Among the guests were many old time friends and members of the family. The daughters are: Carrie (Mrs. George Romaine, Lois (Mrs. E. F. Van Gilder) and Edna, wife of the late Frank Meeck, all of Waupun; Aurilla (Mrs. Ralph Romaine) and Elizabeth (Mrs. Rob Raymond) of Campbellsport. There were also fifteen grand children and four great grand children present.

Mr. and Mrs. Haskin's early married life was spent in Clark County, the trip being made from Mr. Haskin's father's home by team. They made for themselves a pioneer home in the uncut forests of Clark county, where all their children were born and reared. After twenty years there, they moved to Westfield, Wis., where they spent one year when they moved to Fond du Lac county where they have since resided.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Haskin enjoy good health and it is the wish of their many relatives and friends that they may both live to celebrate their diamond anniversary.

CEDEBURG EDITOR DEAD

Alex Horn, postmaster of Cedeburg and publisher of the Cedeburg News, passed away in death, after an illness of a few days at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. W. Baker, at Milwaukee, last week Friday evening. Mr. Horn was taken ill while attending the state fair at Milwaukee. He was 57 years old and was the son of the late Senator Fred W. Horn. In 1885 he was married to Miss Sophia Barreman of Milwaukee. In 1915 he was appointed post master of Cedeburg by President Wilson, and in 1919 he was re-appointed. Mr. Horn is survived by six daughters, as follows: Mrs. A. W. Baker and Mrs. J. C. Schroeder of Milwaukee; Mrs. Charles Pretty and Miss Ruth Horn of Louisville, Ky.; Clara and Josephine Horn of Cedeburg, and one son, Adlai S. Horn, Cedeburg. He also leaves one brother, William H. Horn, Cedeburg, and two sisters, Mrs. N. Altenhofen, Cedeburg, and Mrs. C. Toll, Milwaukee. His body was interred at Cedeburg last Monday.

On motion the Board adjourned. Edw. C. Miller, Village Clerk.

EVERYTHING IS IN READINESS FOR THE BIG BOOSTER DANCE

Everything is now in readiness for the Big Booster dance at the South Side Park hall on Friday evening, Sept. 26th. The members of the club have worked hard to make this dance a most pleasant and enjoyable affair for all who will attend. Every member of the club will make it a point to show all a pleasant time. The Kewaskum Sextette, who will furnish the music for this occasion, is an orchestra composed of musicians who thoroughly understand music and know how to handle it. This the members of the club guarantee, for reason that the organization is a new one and to deceive the people at the very start would prove costly to the club in the future. Refreshments of all kinds will be served. Remember the day and date.

JOHNSON SPEAKS IN DES MOINES

California Senator Sees "British World" in Treaty.

BORAH RUSHES TO CAPITAL

Idaho Solon Who Was to Have Occupied the Platform With Johnson Called Back to Washington by Telegram From Lodge.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 16.—In ratification of the League of Nations covenant as it now stands, Senator Hiram Johnson of California sees the establishment of a "British world."

That's what he told 8,000 men and women who gathered at the Coliseum here to hear him answer the pro-league arguments presented in the same hall nine days ago by President Wilson.

If the average audience is representative of the sentiment of a community, it appears from demonstration evidence offered during this Johnson speaking tour that the peace pact is not entirely popular in the middle West.

His speech here represented no exception in this regard. The demonstrative part of the crowd roared out prolonged acquiescence with the orator, when he hammered a fist into a palm and shouted:

Gains for Britain.

"By the treaty Great Britain becomes possessed of a fourth of the earth's surface; she gains ownership of an overwhelming preponderance of the peoples of the earth."

"Great Britain proudly contemplates out of this peace a British world," the speaker went on after quiet had been restored. "Shall we who neither ask for nor get anything from the peace, guarantee this British world with our wealth and our man power?"

Again came the shouting from the audience, that finally reduced itself into a hoarse chorus of "aos."

Mr. Johnson denied that the League of Nations was a body calculated to prevent war.

Great War Trust.

"Actually, it is a gigantic war trust," he insisted. In its very creation it is stripped of every idealistic purpose it ever had. It contains within itself germs of future wars. And, worst of all, it rivets upon millions of peoples a chain of tyranny and cement for all time unjust and wicked annexations."

"The league is a great world economic trust, wherein a few men sitting in secret may control the destinies of peoples. The league does in no place concern itself with peoples whose past wrongs and future rights were so eloquently portrayed by the president."

"The league can never mean the end of discontent or the cessation of war, for peoples held in cruel subjection like the Koreans or Chinese will ever be striving for their liberty and their self-determination, for which we talked so much and did so little."

"This league means that the greatest democracy in the world—our country—must not only continue a party to the denial of these peoples' rights whenever they are asserted, but to our diplomatic denial we will add denial economically, and by force of arms."

"The president tells us we must sacrifice and throw in our destinies with the rest of the world. Why? The very query evokes from league enthusiasts angry retort. But they will not enlighten us. They prefer to hint darkly at our motives, and deny even our good faith."

"We are demanding none of the spoils of war," he cried. "But, in the name of America, let us at least refuse to be treated as part of the spoils. I do not quarrel with our allies for seeking Germany pay the full price. I do quarrel with those who propose to require our blood and our treasure for all time in the future to preserve the booty of the war to England, France, Japan and Italy."

Replies to Newspaper.

A Des Moines newspaper attacked the stand of the reservationists as to Shantung; the paper's editor charged that Japan only received railroad and harbor rights, and in no way really encroached upon the rights of China. The senator's answer to this was characteristic. "Any man who defends the Shantung agreement is mentally crooked," he said. "We may not help China directly by refusing to ratify the covenant but, at least, then we will not be party to a fraud. This Shantung question is not one concerning benefits conferred. It is a question of meeting a moral issue as Americans should meet it. Because you can't prevent a burglar by no reason why you should go into partnership with a burglar."

Borah Called Back.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho had arranged to meet Senator Johnson here and speak with him at the Coliseum. The Idaho senator was summoned to Washington, however, by Senator Lodge, who felt that the developments in the capital within the last several days required presence of the gall anti-league forces. In a telegram from Chicago Senator Borah wired Senator Johnson that he would keep him in daily touch with the Washington situation and that for the present Mr. Johnson could continue his speaking tour without sacrificing his anti-league interests in the senate.

The KITCHEN CABINET

A pebble falling in the brook Has turned the course of many a stream. The dew-drop hanging on a shoot, Has warped the giant oak forever.

CELERY COMBINATIONS.

Celery is said to be especially good for sufferers from nervousness and rheumatism. It is a vegetable found in the market all the year and is usually reasonable in price. It is especially good as a salad vegetable and combines with all vegetables and fruits because of its nutty flavor. Served as a fresh, crisp relish it is perhaps at its best. Curled by cutting small stalks in two-inch lengths and fringing the ends it makes a most attractive garnish. Let the celery stand in cold water for a time and the fringes will curl. The ways of combining celery with other foods is numberless. The following are suggestive:

Celery Sandwiches.—Take half a cupful of white, crisp and tender celery, cut very fine; add one-fourth of a cupful of minced nuts—peanuts are best—one and one-half tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise dressing; salt and cayenne to taste. Mix until well blended and use as sandwich filling on white buttered bread.

Celery Fritters.—Barbolf the celery until nearly cooked; after cutting into three-inch pieces season with salt and pepper and dip in fritter batter. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Serve hot.

Creamed Celery in a Cheese Shell.—Use the shell of a pineapple or Edam cheese for a receptacle. Cook the celery until tender; add it to a rich cream sauce with a cupful of parboiled oysters. Pour into the shell, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are brown. Do not have the oven too hot or the cheese will melt or burn and the beauty of the dish will be spoiled.

Celery and Grapefruit Salad.—Take three sections of grapefruit with the membrane removed; arrange in a nest of head lettuce with nicely shredded celery and a few shredded almonds that have been blanched. Put a ball of mayonnaise in the center and serve well chilled.

Scrambled Eggs With Celery.—Melt one tablespoonful of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of chopped celery; cook slowly for 15 minutes; add four eggs, a half cupful of milk, stir until set, season with salt, pepper and butter and serve at once.

Celery parboiled and used as an escalloped dish with white sauce and cheese is a dish good enough to serve more frequently.

People who do not take time to eat and sleep, presently are obliged to take time to die. People who from false notions of economy live upon improper food, are shortly put to the greater expense of a funeral.—Olive Green.

"CAN'T TELL HOW AN OYSTER MAKES HIS SHELL? NO! NOR I NEITHER."

"A DOZEN OF DIVINE POINTS."

May is the spawning season for oysters and in June, July and August they are never as good, lacking flavor, which is nature's way of protecting her own.

Of the ways of cooking and serving oysters there is no end. For a light supper, served from the chafing dish, they seem especially adapted.

Royal Stew.—Plate the oysters in the chafing dish with enough of the liquor to float them in the pan. Chop a head of celery, add a heaping tablespoonful of chopped red pepper. As the liquor in the pan is heating, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper to season, and when thoroughly hot fill the pan with sweet milk. Add the celery and pepper and when boiling hot and well blended add a spoonful of currant jelly and serve at once.

Oyster Taddle.—Dice one-quarter of a pound of salt pork and cook slowly until well tried out. Add one pint of sliced raw potatoes, cover and cook in the fat until tender. Pour in a pint of hot milk, thicken with a tablespoonful each of butter and flour cooked together. Add a pint of oysters and when the edges curl, season and serve at once.

Creole Oysters.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add a slice of onion minced, and cook until a pale yellow. Add a teaspoonful of flour and a cupful of tomato. When well cooked add a pint of drained oysters and cook until the edges curl. Add a drop of tabasco sauce, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley and serve on toast.

Oyster Short Cake.—Make a short-cake baked in thinner layers than the regular cake. Split and butter generously as soon as baked. Curl the oysters in their own liquor and arrange them on the cake; cover and pour over a thickened white sauce, using the liquor and milk or cream with butter and flour cooked together for thickening.

Fried Oysters.—Try dipping the oysters in milk instead of egg and then in crumbs and fry in hot butter; the change will be very agreeable.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE ROOSTER'S IDEAS.

Nick and Nancy had come home again. They had left their cousins feeling very happy for all now were such good friends, and they were better friends than ever before after the visit, which made everything very nice to tell to Daddy. Some of the animals from the barnyard belonging to the house where the cousins lived, had been taken over by Daddy, for the cousins were going to move to the city, and they wanted their animals to be among friends. They had only taken their dog with them.

Mr. Benjamin Bacon and Sir Percival Pork, now two of the leading pigs of the pig pen were having a fight over some food, but Mr. Red Crown Rooster was paying no attention to them. Nick and Nancy had been feeding all the animals and now they were listening to Mr. Rooster, who was talking at the top of his voice, or crowing, as his talk is usually called.

"In the good old days," said Mr. Rooster, "folks paid attention to me. They may think a lot of Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen now that her eggs have become so scarce, but they don't pay half enough attention to a good-natured, kindly old rooster."

"Now, last summer I had a narrow escape. I was crossing the road when one of those horrible dust throwers came along. By a dust thrower I mean a motor car or an automobile, or whatever it is they are called."

"This one had the usual horrid horn attached to it and how that horn did toot. I hurried out of the way and I was almost nearly run over. Dear me, but it was a narrow escape. I might have lost my life. True, they did warn me they were coming."

"But what uppish creatures motors are. The very idea of telling a fellow to get out of the way in such a rude manner. And think of the service I have always done people."

"I have awakened them in the morning. True, they have grumbled. They have said that just because I was an early riser it was no reason I should try to wake people up. But I knew what was good for them."

"I knew they shouldn't be staying in bed so long. I knew they should be getting up and enjoying the sunlight and working and not wasting time. I feel a friendly feeling for that alarm clock Nick and Nancy talk about. That alarm clock gets abused too. It seems to my rooster mind that alarm clocks lead very sad lives. They see that children aren't late to school and that men aren't late to business and that ladies see that the breakfast is on time but do they get thanked for it?"

"Not a bit of it. I've heard people say, 'Oh, I could have killed that old alarm clock this morning. I was having a nice sleep and it didn't care, in the least.'"

"Now, the alarm clock was doing its duty. It was seeing that whoever was in the room with it wasn't late. That was most important. So I feel a friendly feeling for the alarm clock for I have been abused, too."

"But I could stand all that if only I could still be the king of the barnyard. Now that motors have come along the motor horn is treating us all as slaves, making us rush this way and that, from one side of the road to the other. I am against all things modern. I'm for the good old days when a crowing rooster was thought to be a creature worth while."

"It may be all right for Miss Fidgety Fashionable Hen to live in these modern days, but they are sad days for the rooster."

"What are you crowing about, old Red Crown?" asked Nick.

"Yes, you have a lot to say for yourself," said Nancy.

"I'm dreading the summer and the automobiles," said Red Crown.

"But the summer has just past," said Nancy, "you shouldn't be so upset, and you do seem upset about something. I guess I'll give you an extra handful of grain."

"I'm dreading next summer," said Red Crown, "but I feel a little better now. I've two good friends in a good old barnyard, after all. Maybe the automobile will go out of date and the motor birds of the air, the airplanes will take their places. Then they'll toot their horns for creatures to get off the clouds and the good old roosters of the barnyard will rule as they used to rule. In that case I'm for the days to come."

"But I do dread next summer, for this last one has been a hard, hard one," he ended.

It doesn't do any good to hurry unless you have something to do when you get there.—Topeka Capital.

Mary Still Lives.

Mary was the star Junior Red Cross pupil in her school in a mid-western city. She held the record for Junior Red Cross work, and applied to hold the record as a Banner Knight in the health crusade. One morning recently Mary saw her teacher on the street and, running up to her, said: "Good morning, teacher," and in a great hurry, as if fearing she might forget, added: "Oh! Miss Bow, I've taken my ten breaths and I'm still breathing."

Back Given Out?

Housework is too hard for a woman who is half sick, nervous and always tired. But it keeps piling up, and gives weak kidneys no time to recover. If your back is lame and aching and your kidneys irregular, if you have "blue spells," sick headaches, nervousness, dizziness and rheumatic pains, use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have done wonders for thousands of worn out women.

A Wisconsin Case

Mrs. Andrew Nelson, Kenosha, Wis., says: "The kidney action was irregular and I had severe pain across my joints. My complexion became sallow and I had sick headaches and was confined to bed unable to turn without help. Puffy sacs appeared beneath my eyes. My doctor told I would have to undergo an operation but before that I started using Doan's Kidney Pills. This medicine cured me entirely."

EATONIC (FOR YOUR ACID-STOMACH)

Descriptive Power.

"Now," asked a teacher, "who can tell me what an oyster is?" There was silence for a moment. Then little Billy raised his hand. "I know!" he triumphantly announced. "An oyster is a fish built like a nut!"

The Cuticura Toilet Trio

Having cleared your skin keep it clear by making Cuticura your every-day toilet preparations. The soap to cleanse and purify, the Ointment to soothe and heal, the Talcum to powder and perfume. No toilet table is complete without them. 25c everywhere.—Adv.

You may succeed when others don't believe in you, but you will never succeed when you don't believe in yourself.

Lots of men, after laying up something for a rainy day get discouraged because it does not rain.

Your conduct toward others is determined by your respect for yourself.

United States Has Monopoly.

Neither Great Britain, France nor Italy has been able to find workable helium fields. Russia may have them, but that is doubtful. Germany has none. The United States seems to have the monopoly, and investigation by scientists of the United States Geological Survey tends to show that we have all we need. Great Britain may continue of necessity to fill her gas bags with the deadly hydrogen, pending the time when she can buy helium of the United States; but here in America we hope soon to bid farewell forever to hydrogen and all its tragic evils.

Odoriferous Epidemic.

"A friend of mine has kept himself and his family immune from influenza in a district sorely smitten by eating spring onions."—Glasgow (Scotland) Evening Post.

Had a Reason.

"I stopped in at the drug store to buy a cigar," said a College avenue nun. "Behind me rushed in a lad about five years old. Right up to the clerk he went, yelling: 'Mister, you gave me a penny too much change a while ago!'"

"The clerk looked at him a minute and said: 'That's your good luck and for being honest enough to tell me, you may keep the penny.'"

"The lad still had a troubled look on his face and soon explained it by saying: 'But I bought a penny balloon with it and I wanted to know if you would take it back. They are selling larger ones down at the next drug store for a penny.'—Indianapolis News.

HESS Welded Steel FURNACES

Pipeless Furnaces—Warm the whole house with one register—no cellar pipes—no air ducts.

Pipe Furnaces—Heat with separate pipes and registers for different rooms.

Circulating Room Heaters—Stand in the rooms to be heated and warm and circulate, rapidly, the air of the whole room. Made with fresh air and ventilation, for schools, churches, stores, etc. Every part of the room is warmed alike.

All types of Hess Heaters are made with the same interior construction—RIVETED AND WELDED SEAMS, that never open and leak.

Firebrick Lined Fireboxes, that accumulate heat and burn the gases; efficient and economical even with the cheapest fuel.

Large Grate Areas, with convenient and simple rocking grate bars.

Low Down Fire-Door—no high lifting of fuel.

Large Humidifier, that evaporates plenty of water. Humidity in the home is essential to health.

Low Price—Direct From Factory to You—for cash, Liberty Bonds or easy monthly payments.

HESS WELDED STEEL FURNACES

After Being Relieved of Organic Trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Oregon, Ill.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for an organic trouble which pulled me down until I could not put my foot to the floor and could scarcely do my work, and as I live on a small farm and raise six hundred chickens every year it made it very hard for me."

"I saw the Compound advertised in our paper, and tried it. It has restored my health so I can do all my work and I am so grateful that I am recommending it to my friends."—Mrs. D. M. ALTERS, R. R. 4, Oregon, Ill.

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs. This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 200 years GOLD MEDAL HAZELDEN OIL has been relieving the weaknesses and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction.

REFUSED TO BE MIXED UP

Spectator at Moving Picture Show Saw Trouble Ahead and Didn't Want to Witness It.

"I saw you at the moving picture show last evening," said the fat plumber, "but when I looked for you a little later I missed you."

"Yes, I got up and went home." "When was that?" "I left when the villain began to lay a snare for the wife of the man who had to stay at his office on account of business."

WHERE HE WOULD GET COLOR

Mr. Gloom Seems to Have Definite Opinion of Denizens of Certain Kansas City Locality.

"If I were a sensational preacher, and wanted more notoriety than I was getting," a trifle grimly said J. Fuller Gloom, "I would not waste my time infesting boxing matches, rowdy dances and the like. Instead, I would array myself in a gulleless countenance and a set of false neck whiskers. In my right hand I would wear a cane of weeping willow with a hook on one end and a thimble on the other. With my left hand I would clutch by the ears such a gripsack as we seldom see in real life. Of course, I would wear other and equally appropriate garments. And thus arrayed I would ramble around in the vicinity of the Union station, and let the denizens of that locality play with me. I fancy that in a short spell I would accumulate more novel experiences that I could otherwise acquire in a year's time."—Kansas City Star.

DISAPPOINTED

Grandma—What did you think of church this morning?
Kid—I didn't like the organ very much.

DESERVED TO BE PARDONED

Quick-Witted Youngster Must Have Heard of Boast the Surgeon Was Fond of Making.

This Indianapolis physician boasts that he would rather do surgical work than eat. Even the children in the neighborhood know of this, as is proved by the following story:

Recently some of the neighboring boys were playing ball in front of his office. Suddenly the ball went wild and crashed through one of the physician's plate glass windows. Of course the doctor was furious and he expressed his feelings to the wee fellow who had thrown it. "Haven't I told you fellows that this would happen some day," he demanded.

"The little boy nodded his head. "Then what have you to say for yourself?" was the next thrust.

"The little fellow, untripped, swallowed and finally sobbed out: "Well, I thought maybe I would hit one of your patients."

ANY OLD JOB

A convalescent plying the intriguing streets of Boston with a full cargo of liquor on board, observed a legend which ran, "Murderer Wanted," and taking time by the forelock, entered the station house and said to the sergeant:

"I'll take that job."

"What do you know of Elijah?" "He went for a cruise with a widow."

WISCONSIN STATE NEWS

Washburn—The Du Pont Co., owners of the chemical and munitions plant at Barksdale, is putting on 150 men, dismantling the five TNT lines and will also dismantle several of the extra acid buildings that were in use during the war. These TNT plants and acid lines consist of 40 or 50 buildings and will require from two to three months to dismantle and ship the material away. The majority of the equipment and machinery will be shipped east and consigned to the United States navy.

Madison—A rehearing has been granted by the railroad commission to the Northwestern road on the Racine grade separation case. From stipulations filed by the company and the town of Mount Pleasant, the commission ordered a separation of grades, the railroad company to pay $17,000. The company now says that the commission did not fully understand the stipulation. The rehearing will be held in Racine Sept. 24.

Milwaukee—Wisconsin's sixty-ninth annual state fair, which closed Sept. 13, after a whirlwind week as to attendance and interest, presented the supreme achievement in state expositions. The gate receipts totaled $88,306.50 and with other sources of income the gross receipts amounted to approximately $140,000. The expenses were met with this amount, this year being the first time that the fair paid for itself.

Eau Claire—Approval of a project to build a hospital at Madison costing several thousand dollars as a memorial to the late Miss Mary Stoeber of Madison, who died during the flu epidemic last winter, was voted by the West Wisconsin Methodist Episcopal conference. The hospital, which will be built within two blocks of the Capitol square, will specialize in maternity work and children's diseases.

Oshkosh—Discovery that a pupil in the Franklin public school on the south side has smallpox has caused considerable anxiety in that section of the city. The health department has fumigated and disinfected the school and all teachers and pupils not vaccinated will have to undergo the inoculation or stay away for at least twenty-five days. There are only a few cases of the disease in the city.

Green Bay—Anticipating that fish dealers will be handicapped by shortage of ice next season, the Pond Fish company has been incorporated to establish a commercial fish pond on the east shore of Green Bay, near the mouth of Fox river, and will plant perch and carp this fall. Permission has been granted to the company to operate the pond by the Wisconsin Conservation commission.

Madison—Banks, lawyers and officials are giving their services free to soldiers in filling out blank forms required under the soldiers' bonus law. Many blanks have been sent to the banks and the boys of these communities can fill them out at the banks. "We think this is a good plan, and want to thank the people for aiding the boys," said Col. John G. Salsman.

Watertown—A demand for a 10 per cent increase in wages and reinstatement of several discharged employees was made by unionized employees of the G. B. Lewis Co., makers of bee supplies, in a walkout here. The strike is the first following unionizing of all factory workers here. The demands were not met and the factory is operating with an emergency force.

Appleton—Lieut. Francis Bradford, son of Attorney and Mrs. F. S. Bradford, is one of the lieutenants in "Pershing's Pets," who paraded in Paris, London and New York. An effort has been made to keep him in the army, but his father prefers him to take up a civil occupation. He had just finished high school when he went to the first training camp.

Racine—The J. I. Case Plow works and the Walls Tractor company have been merged into a new corporation to be known as the J. I. Case Plow Works company. Articles of incorporation have been prepared. Harry M. Wallis is to be president and general manager of the new company. The capital stock is believed to be about $5,000,000.

Kenosha—An invitation to visit this city on his midwestern tour was telegraphed to Cardinal Mercier by Kenosha council, No. 973, Knights of Columbus.

Noenah—Rev. F. J. Turner, former pastor of the First Methodist church here, has been appointed superintendent of the Janesville district.

La Crosse—Mayor A. A. Bentley has proposed a plan to unite six civic and trade associations of La Crosse into one body, to promote big projects, although each organization is to be retained separately to work out its own policies. He submitted the plan to the Chamber of Commerce.

Racine—Judge William Smeding, Jr., municipal court, resigned to Gov. Philipp to take effect Oct. 1, desiring to retire because of ill health. Guy Benson, Fulton Thompson and W. W. Storms are candidates for the place.

Eau Claire—Simultaneously with the announcement of his appointment by State Banking Commissioner Marshal Cousins of Madison as state bank examiner, it was announced here that Rev. Philip Henry Linley, former pastor of Christ Episcopal Church here and who served as chaplain overseas with the famous Thirty second division during the war with such distinction, has retired permanently from the ministry and will hereafter devote himself to business.

Madison—Walter Alexander, Milwaukee, former Wisconsin railroad commissioner and recently discharged as a major in the army, has been named chief of the motor transportation bureau of the Wisconsin highway commission at a salary of $4,000 a year. Mr. Alexander was formerly master mechanic of the Milwaukee road. His work will be chiefly in the maintenance of hundreds of automobiles and trucks owned and operated by the highway commission.

Madison—EX-soldiers who were overseas on March 1 last, are not exempt from the provisions of the state income tax law requiring that reports be filed with the county assessors before that date in the opinion of County Assessor Harry Jerome and members of the Tax Commission and of the Attorney General's Department who stated that where there is no exemption in the law none can be made.

Madison—Two Chinese women students will enroll at the University of Wisconsin at the opening of the new year on Oct. 1, according to notification recently received by the university. They will be included in the quota of twelve new Chinese government students to be sent to the university this fall. Nearly thirty Chinese will then be pursuing studies at Wisconsin.

Milladore—Adam Shidel, three miles south of this village, is dead of injuries received when he was attacked by an infuriated bull. His left leg was broken and left hip mutilated, ribs on his right side broken and his body badly torn. A son, Richard, found the body on the ground and the animal still making attacks. The widow and ten children survive.

Madison—John C. Callahan, secretary of the Board of Vocational Instruction, has announced two appointments. G. S. Gehrand of Madison has been named as superintendent of agricultural education at a salary of $3,000 a year and Margaret Johnson of Ellenworth has been chosen as superintendent of home economics at a salary of $1,000 a year.

Rhineland—Following their action in endorsing the treaty of peace with Germany, delegates from Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan, attending a district convention of the International Timberworkers' Union here, have wired senators representing their respective states in Washington advising them of their attitude.

La Crosse—Announcement is made here that the Mathews Manufacturing Company of Cleveland, O., would erect a factory to employ 300 skilled cabinetmakers. They will manufacture furniture. The firm will have two factory buildings here, which with the stock and equipment, will be valued at $500,000.

Kenosha—Four or five sailors said to have escaped from the brig at Great Lakes Naval Training station were captured by police at Kenosha. The sailors obtained civilian clothes, it is said, from the washroom of the Nash Motor company. Four shots were fired at two of the men before they surrendered.

Madison—The bureau of child welfare in the Wisconsin state board of health, authorized by the last legislature is now being organized and will be directed by Mrs. H. H. Morgat of Madison. Her appointment was made recently by the board and she is expected to take charge soon.

Madison—Among the first of the 300 applying for hunting licenses at the office of the county clerk were Miss Della Crabtree, Madison, and Mrs. A. J. Blaskhey, Marshall. Following her application for a hunting license, Miss Crabtree requested that she also be granted a marriage license.

Madison—Dr. F. C. Rinker, member of the staff of the medical clinic of the University of Wisconsin for more than six years and chief of medical instruction of the University Extension division, has just resigned to enter private medical practice in Norfolk, Va.

Fond du Lac—Jacob Heruman, who pleaded guilty to the murder of Benjamin Zweifel at Oakfield on Aug. 14, was sentenced to life in Waupun penitentiary.

Noenah—The police here have started a crusade against spitting on sidewalks.

Superior—Five coaches of the Great Northern railway's Gopher State express were derailed at Brook Park, about fifty miles south of here. None of the passengers or train crew were seriously injured. The wreck was caused by a broken arch bar on the engine tank.

Two Rivers—Four companies of state troops were brought to Maunabo, and held ready to be taken to this city in case of disorder as a result of strikes at four large manufacturing plants here.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

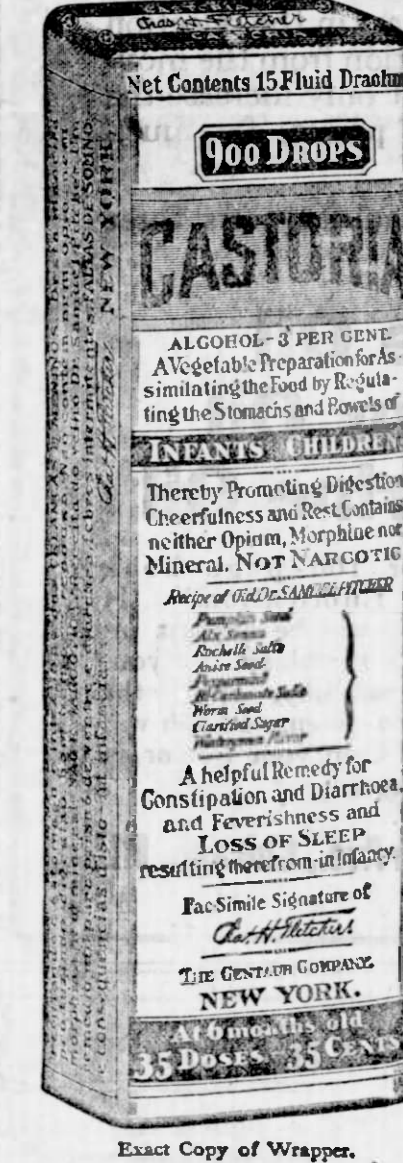

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet. A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!

Good Advice. A school teacher was visiting the boy scout camp at Kinnebrewsaw a few weeks back. The boys were feeding her with blackberries and in every way trying to make her enjoy her visit. One little fellow, more interested than the others, gave her the following advice: "And, say, while you're here you want to get good and tanned. You won't have to wash your neck and ears then, for the dirt doesn't show."—Indianapolis News.

Old Bridge Stood for Centuries. The new London bridge was opened on August 1, 1831. This replaced the celebrated old bridge, built more than eight centuries before. It had 18 solid stone piers, with bulky stone arches and was covered from end to end with buildings. On the "Tailor's gate," at one end, the heads of traitors were shown. It was removed on account of its obstruction to navigation.

Always Have the "Dough." Ways of the Hopi Indians of northern New Mexico, their food and religious customs, was the subject of an address in Kansas City, Mo., the other night by Miss Ethel Ryan, for years a Baptist missionary on the Hopi reservation. "The Hopi women delight in decorating their shoes with 10-cent pieces," Miss Ryan said. "The shoes, which resemble moccasins, often have as many as five dimes on each. "They have a way of sewing quarters to their dresses and using them as buttons. When they go to market and find themselves short of money they simply cut of a button." And they're never broke! Glory be! The man who boasts of being a cynic is not very dangerous.

Amén! All Alone. I have sung soprano for years in a church choir. One Sunday morning, while in a service, the minister announced a hymn, which was on the bottom of the page, the third verse being on the opposite page, at the top. At the end of the second verse (not seeing the third verse) I sang "Amén!" all alone. Everyone, even the minister laughed, the organist went on playing the third verse. When time to sing the amen I let the rest of the choir sing amen. People were still laughing, and it was the most embarrassing moment in my life.—Chicago Tribune.

Alternate Insomnia. Admiral Sims said at a dinner in Washington: "And another frequent cause of divorce is alternate insomnia." "Alternate insomnia?" said a nerve specialist incredulously. "Pshaw, admiral, what the deuce is that?" "Alternate insomnia," the admiral explained, "is a complaint common to a great many husbands and wives. Whichever goes to sleep first keeps the other awake all night snoring."

Correct Lubrication Adds Life and Power to Your Tractor

YOUR tractor represents a large investment which must be protected. You can protect it best by care in the selection of the lubricants used to eliminate friction from the moving parts. By using the correct oil you not only increase the life of your machine, but you add to its power, for much power is used in overcoming friction.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) manufacturers three lubricating oils for tractors.

Heavy Polarine Oil Stanolind Tractor Oil Extra Heavy Polarine Oil

One of these oils has the correct lubricating body for your particular tractor. The nearest Standard Oil representative has a chart, prepared by our Engineering Staff, indicating which of these oils will enable your tractor to give the best results, and he will be glad to show it to you.

Write for 100-page book "Tractor Lubrication." It is free and will be of great interest and usefulness to you. Read it carefully, apply the information given, and you will be able to keep your tractor in service longer.

Order for Hearing Final Settlement and to Determine Inheritance Tax.

STATE OF WISCONSIN - WASHINGTON
County Court - In Probate
In the Matter of the Estate of John Coulter Sr., Deceased.

On application of Lena Coulter, administratrix of the estate of said John Coulter, Sr., deceased, praying that a time and place be fixed to hear and determine the cash value of said estate, the amount of inheritance tax to which the same is liable and for the adjustment and allowance of her administration account, and the assignment of the residue of said estate to such persons as are by law entitled to the same.

It is Ordered, That said application be heard at a regular term of said court, to be held at the Court House in the city of West Bend in said county, on the first Tuesday of October, A. D. 1919.

It is Further Ordered, That notice of said hearing be given to all persons interested by publication of a notice of said hearing for three successive weeks, once in each week, before said day of hearing in the Kewaskum Statesman, a weekly newspaper printed in the village of Kewaskum, in said county, and by mailing a copy of this order to all persons interested in said estate and to the Tax Commission of said state and to the Public Administrator of said county at least twenty days before said day of hearing.

Dated September 2nd, A. D. 1919.

By the Court, P. O'MEARA, County Judge, 2-13-3

G. A. Kuechenmeister, Attorney.

YOU SHOULD KNOW THE BLUE-SKY LAW

a decided step forward for Wisconsin:

PROVISIONS IN BRIEF:

1. No one can sell securities without a permit from the Railroad Commission.
2. With the exception of exempted securities (which includes farm mortgages, municipal bonds, church bonds, etc.) securities are issued under the following restrictions:

A. All securities must be approved by the Railroad Commission
B. Propositions submitted to the Commission are handled in one of three ways:

First. If the investment is bad it cannot be sold in Wisconsin.

Second. If companies issuing securities are not known to have a record of past success the securities must be sold as "speculative" or Class B securities.

Third. If the company has a good record of earnings and has property of sufficient value the securities are approved as Class A securities.

(Note: The Commission by law cannot recommend)

Benefits of the Law:

1. The sale of "wild-cat" preferred stocks is prohibited.
2. The law guarantees that those who buy "speculative" securities will know it.
3. Good investments will be available to investors.
4. Reliable loan and bond companies will not have to contend with "get-rich-quick" agents and brokers.

NOW—

All details of the West Bend Aluminum Company bond issue were submitted to the Railroad Commission on August 13, 1919. On August 28th the Commission granted permit to sell these bonds as Class A securities.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

This not only one of the best and most efficient medicines for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, but is also pleasant to take, which is important when a medicine must be given to young children. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been in use for many years and has met with much favor wherever its good qualities have become known. Many mothers have given it their unqualified endorsement. Wm. Scruby, Chillicothe, Mo., writes: "I have raised three children, have always used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and found it to be the best for coughs, colds and croup. It is pleasant to take. Both adults and children like it. My wife and I have always felt safe from cough with it in the house." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic.

PIECES OF EIGHT

BEING THE AUTHENTIC NARRATIVE OF A TREASURE DISCOVERED IN THE BAHAMA ISLANDS IN THE YEAR 1903—NOW FIRST GIVEN TO THE PUBLIC.

Richard Le Gallienne

DEAD MEN'S SHOES.

Synopsis—The man who tells this story—call him the hero, for short—is visiting his friend John Saunders, British official in Nassau, Bahama Islands. Charles Webster, a local merchant, completes the tale of friends. Conversation turning upon buried pirate treasure, Saunders produces a written document purporting to be the death-bed statement of Henry P. Tobias, a successful pirate, made by him in 1859. It gives two spots where two millions and a half of treasure were buried by him and his companions. The conversation of the three friends is overheard by a stranger, whose face is deeply pitted by small pox. The document disappears. Saunders, however, has a copy of it. The hero determines to go in search of the pirate treasure and charter the Magic Darling, a trim two-masted schooner. The pock-marked man is taken on board as a passenger bound for Spanish Wells. Old Tom catches a sucking fish, of great virtue as a mascot in connection with the seeking of buried pirate treasure.

CHAPTER V.

In Which We Begin to Understand Our Unwelcome Passenger.

As I yawned and looked out of my cabin soon after dawn, about 4:30 next morning, there was no wind at all, and no hope of wind.

As I stood out of the cabin hatch, however, there was enough breeze to flutter a piece of paper that had been caught in the mainsail halyard; it fluttered there lonely in the morning. Nothing else was astir but it and I, and I took it up in my hand idly. As I did so George reared his head forward.

"Morning, George," I said; "I guess we've got to run on gasoline today."

"There ain't no gasoline, sir. It's run out in the night."

"The tanks were filled when we started, weren't they?" I asked.

"Yes, sir."

"We can't have used them up so soon . . ."

"No, sir—but someone has turned the cocks . . ."

I stood dazed for a moment, wondering how this could have happened—then a thought slowly dawned upon me.

"Who has charge of them?" I said.

George looked a little stupid, then defiant.

"I see," I said; and, suddenly, without remembering Charlie Webster's advice not to lose your temper with a negro—I realized that this was no accident, but a deliberate trick, something indeed in the nature of a miniature mutiny. That fluttering paper I had picked from the halyard lay near my breakfast table. I had only half read it. Now its import came to me with full force. I had no firearms with me. Having a quick temper, I have made it a habit all my life never to carry a gun—because they go off so easily. But one most essential part of a gentleman's education had been mine, so I applied it instantly on George, with the result that a well-directed blow under the peak of the jaw sent him sprawling, and for awhile speechless, in the cockpit.

"No gasoline?" I said.

And then my passenger—I must give him credit for the courage—put up his head forward, and called out:

"I protest against that; it's a cowardly outrage. You wouldn't dare to do it to a white man."

"Oh, I see," I rejoined. "So you are the author of this precious paper here, are you? Come over here and talk it over, if you've the courage."

"I've got the courage," he answered, in a shaking voice.

"All right," I said; "you're safe for the present—and, George, who is so fond of sleep, will take quite a nap for a while, I think."

"You English brute!" he said.

"You English brute!" he said; and the words had impelled me to invite him aft; for I cannot deny a certain admiration for him that had mysteriously grown up in me.

"Come here!" I said, "for your life is safe for the time being. I would like to discuss this paper with you."

He came and we read it together, fluttering as he read it forward to the engineer and to the deckhand. It began:

"Think how many we are! Think what we could do! If isn't either that we haven't intelligence—if only we were to use it. We don't lack leaders—we don't lack courage—we don't lack martyrs; all are ready—"

I stopped reading.

"Why don't you start then?" I asked.

"We're waiting for Jannich," he answered; "she's almost ready."

"It sounds a pretty good idea to me," I remarked. "From your point of view. From your point of view, remember, I said; but you mustn't think that yours is mine—not for one moment—O dear no! On the contrary, my point of view is that of the gov-error of Nassau, or his representative, quite nearby, at Harbour Island, isn't it?"

My pock-marked friend grew a trifle green as I said this.

"We have sails still, remember," I resumed. "George and the lost gasoline are not everything. Five hours, with anything of a wind, would bring us to Harbour Island, and—with this paper in my hand it would be—what do you think yourself? The galleons?"

My friend grew grave at that, and seemed to be thinking hard inside, making resolutions the full force of which I didn't understand till later, but the immediate result of which was a graciousness of manner which did not entirely deceive me.

"Oh," he said, "I don't think you quite mean that. You're impulsive—as when you hit that poor boy down there—"

"Well," I observed, "I'm willing to treat you better than you deserve. So, I'll say nothing about this, if you like" (pointing to the manuscript), "and if the wind holds, put you ashore tomorrow at Spanish Wells. I like you in spite of myself. Is it a bargain?"

On this we parted, and, as I thought, with a certain friendliness on both sides.

There was no sailing wind, so there was nothing to do but stay where we were all day. I spent most of the time in my cabin, reading a novel, and, soon after nine, I fell asleep in a frame of mind unaccountably trustful.

I suppose that I had been asleep about three hours when I was disturbed by a tremendous roar. It was the Magic Darling, a trim two-masted schooner. The pock-marked man is taken on board as a passenger bound for Spanish Wells. Old Tom catches a sucking fish, of great virtue as a mascot in connection with the seeking of buried pirate treasure.

"Well, there was nothing to hurt you in that," I said. "Did you take it half and half with water, as I told you?"

"I did indeed, sir."

"It's very funny," I said. And then as he began to write and stiffen, I called out to Tom: "Get some rum, Tom, and make it boiling hot, quick—quick! We must get him into a sweat."

Very soon we did. Then I said to Tom:

"What do you make out of this smell that's coming from him, Tom?"

"Kerosene, sir," said Tom.

"I thought the very same," I said. Tom beckoned me to go with him to the galley, and showed me several quart bottles of water standing on a shelf.

"Two of these were kerosene," he said "and I suppose Cap made a mistake" for one looked as clear as the other.

Then I took one of them back to the captain.

"Was it a bottle like this you mixed with the claret?" I asked.

"Sure it was, sir," he answered, writhing hard with the cramps.

"But man!" I said. "Couldn't you tell the difference between that and water?"

"I thought it tasted funny, boss, but I wasn't used to claret."

And then we had to laugh again, and I thought old Tom would die.

"A nigger's stomach and his head," said the commandant, "are about the same. I really don't know which is the stronger."

The captain didn't die, though he came pretty near to it. In fact, he took so long getting on his feet, that we couldn't wait for him; so we had practically to look out for a new crew, with the exception of Tom, and Sallor. The commandant proved a good friend to us in this, choosing three somewhat characterless men, with good "characters."

As we said goodby, with a spanking southwest breeze blowing, I could see that he was a little anxious about me.

"Take care of yourself," he said, "for you must remember none of us can take care of you. There's no settlement where you're going—no telegraph or wireless; you could be murdered, and none of us hear of it for a month, or forever. And the fellows you're after are a dangerous lot, take my word for it. Keep a good watch on your guns, and we'll be on the lookout for the first news of you, and anything we can do we'll be there, you bet."

"Certainly I'd like a few sponges," I said.

"I'm going ashore," I said.

"I'm going with you too," said the captain. "But look after your guns. There's going to be something doing—quiet as it looks."

So we rowed ashore, and there was Theodore capering in front of a pile of sponges, but no other face that I knew. But there were seven or eight negroes whose looks I took no great liking to.

"Like some fancy sponges to send home?" said one of these, coming up to me. "Cost you five times as much in Nassau."

"Certainly I'd like a few sponges," I said.

And then Theodore came up to me, looking as though he had lost his mind over the rather fancy silk tie I happened to be wearing.

"Give me dat!" he said, touching it, like a crazy man.

"manifesto," which had been forgotten in all the turmoil, I could not escape a certain thrill as I read the signature—for it was: "Henry P. Tobias, Jr."

That night we made Harbour Island, and met that welcome that can only be met at the lonely ends of the earth.

The commandant and the clergyman took me under their wings on the spot, and, though there was a good hotel, the commandant didn't consider it good enough for me.

I liked the attitude they took toward my adventure. Their comments on "Henry P. Tobias, Jr." and the paper I had with me, were specially enlightening.

"The black men themselves," they both agreed, "are all right, except, of course, here and there. It's fellows like this precious Tobias, real white trash—the negroes' name for them is apt enough—that are the danger for the friendship of both races. And it's the vein of a sort of a literary idealism in a fellow like Tobias that makes him the more dangerous. He's not all to the bad—"

"I couldn't help thinking that too," I interrupted.

"Oh, no," they said, "but he's a bit mad, too. That's his trouble. He's got a personal, as well as an abstract, grudge against the British government."

"Treasurer?" I inquired.

"How did you know?" they asked.

"Never mind; I somehow got the idea."

"Take a word of advice. Have a few guns with you, for you're liable to need them."

"I agree," I remarked. "I'll take the guns all right, but I'm afraid I'll need some more crew. I mean I'll want an engineer, and another deck-hand."

And, just as I said this, there came up some one post-haste from the village; some one, too, that wanted the clergyman, as well as me, for my captain was ill, and at the point of death.

"What on earth can be the trouble?" I said, but, the three of us, including the commandant went.

We found the captain lying in his berth, writhing with cramps.

"What on earth have you been doing with yourself, Cap?" I asked.

"I did nothing, sir, but eat my dinner, and drink that claret you were kind enough to give me."

"The half-bottle of claret?"

"Yes, sir, the very same."

"Well, there was nothing to hurt you in that," I said. "Did you take it half and half with water, as I told you?"

"I did indeed, sir."

"It's very funny," I said. And then as he began to write and stiffen, I called out to Tom: "Get some rum, Tom, and make it boiling hot, quick—quick! We must get him into a sweat."

Very soon we did. Then I said to Tom:

great deal to have lent it me, and it was right as the things we love.

Then I called Tom to me: "How about that sucking fish, Tom?" I asked.

"It's just cured, sir," he said. "I was going to offer it to you this lunch time. It's dried out fine; couldn't be better. I'll bring it to you this minute." And he went and was back again in a moment. "You must wear it right over your heart," he said, "and you'll see there's not a bullet can get near it. It's never been known for a bullet to go through a sucking fish. It's God's truth."

"But, Tom," I said, "how about you?"

"I've worn one here, sir, for twenty years, and you can see for yourself"—and he bared the brown chest beneath which beat the heart that like nothing else in the world has made me believe in God."

We awoke to a dawn that was a rose planted in the sky by the mysterious hand that seems to love to give the fairest thing the loneliest setting.

But there was no wind, so that day we ran on gasoline. We had some fifty miles to go to where the narrative pointed, a smaller cay, the cay known in old days as "Dead Men's Shoes"—but since known by another name which, for various reasons, I do not deem it polite to divulge—near the end of the long cay down which we were running.

About twilight we dropped anchor in another quiet bay, so much like that of the night before, as all the bays and cays are along that coast, that you need to have sailed them from boy-hood to know one from another.

The cove we were looking for, known by the cheery name of Dead Men's Shoes, proved farther off than we expected, so that we didn't come to it till toward the middle of the next afternoon, an afternoon of the most innocent gold that has ever thrown its soft radiance over an earth inhabited for the most part by ruffians and scoundrels. We soon found that we were not alone in the cove.

"She's changed her paint," said Tom, at my elbow. And, looking round, I saw that our rakish schooner with the black hull was now white as a dove; and in that soft golden water, hardly a foot and a half deep, five shadowy forms floated, with outstretched fins like huge bats. Our engineer, who was already wading fearlessly in the water, beautifully naked, "shooed" them off like chickens. But it was soon to be evident that more dangerous foes waited for us on the shore.

Yet there was seemingly nothing there but a pile of sponges, and a few black men. The Susan E. had changed her color, it was true, but she was a well-known sponger, and I noticed no one that I recognized.

There was one foolish fellow that reminded me of my shakely deckhand, whom I had always thought out of his mind, standing there on his head on the rocks, and waving his legs to attract attention.

"Why! There's Silly Theodore," called out the captain.

"I'm going ashore," I said.

"I'm going with you too," said the captain. "But look after your guns. There's going to be something doing—quiet as it looks."

So we rowed ashore, and there was Theodore capering in front of a pile of sponges, but no other face that I knew. But there were seven or eight negroes whose looks I took no great liking to.

And then Theodore came up to me, looking as though he had lost his mind over the rather fancy silk tie I happened to be wearing.

Events prove that the sucking fish is quite necessary, as mascots are in great demand

PALL OVER TOUR OF THE PRESIDENT

Two Members of Party Killed Near Portland, Ore.

AUTOMOBILES IN COLLISION

James R. Patterson, Owner of Car, and Ben. F. Allen, a Washington Newspaper Man, Are Victims—Two Others Injured.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 16.—Driven at breakneck speed along the Columbia highway, 12 miles from here, an automobile bearing three of the Washington newspaper correspondents accompanying President Wilson's party left the road, turned turtle on an incline and left two dead and three injured men in its wake.

Ben. F. Allen, for 15 years the Washington correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, was instantly killed, as was James R. Patterson, seventy-three years old, the owner and driver of the car.

The injured were Robert T. Small, Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger; Stanley M. Reynolds, Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, and Arthur D. Sullivan, a reporter for the Portland News. Both Mr. Small and Mr. Reynolds will recover.

The tragedy cast a pall over the entire presidential party and the president made only a short address here this noon and this evening.

Arrangements Poor.

For the first time on the trip the presidential party met poor arrangements here.

The pilot car which guided the party 30 miles from here to Crown Point, a site which gives an extensive view of the Columbia river, hit up a pace that approximated 40 miles an hour at times and members of the president's party were fearful for his safety.

The road in spots is very narrow and over steep hills and inclines, and for this reason the drivers were cautioned to preserve a slow rate of speed.

The accident occurred shortly after the president left the Multnomah county fair grounds near the town of Gresham, and this is why it happened.

In every town where the president has spoken, local committees have arranged an automobile procession in advance for his party and all persons on the special train are assigned to a certain numbered car in each town. In car number seven were Messrs. Allen, Small, Reynolds and David Lawrence.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post, when they approached number seven car here, they found that the majority of its seats were taken by local townspeople.

Mr. Lawrence decided not to go on the drive, while Allen, Small and Reynolds sought another motor and obtained seats in No. 18 in the procession.

On the return from Crown Point, Patterson's car had some engine trouble and was slightly delayed. When repairs were made he attempted to regain his place in line and speeded up. The motor, a large, seven passenger car had a clear roadway for a time, but meanwhile other motorists anxious to glide out from cross roads to trail the president had edged in. One of those was C. H. Barnett and it stalled in the middle of the highway. Patterson tried to avoid a collision but his car was traveling at such a high rate of speed that it left the road.

Mr. Allen was in the front seat as was Patterson. The three other men were in the rear seat and were thrown clear of the car, which after turning turtle, righted itself on the road.

President in Friendly Territory.

President Wilson was in friendly territory here. There was nothing of the "blue Monday" evident in the reception that the people of this city gave him, both at his appearance on the streets here at nine o'clock in the morning, when he spoke at luncheon and again at night in his address at the Auditorium.

Two short but peppery addresses were made by the president as a result of the warm greetings. He again reiterated that he had not the slightest doubt that the treaty ultimately will be ratified by the senate.

In all of his addresses he emphasized the fact that until the treaty was out of the way there could be no hope of normal conditions prevailing in the world.

He made a direct bid to the reservationists in the United States senate to come to his aid in order that peace might be ratified immediately.

"I call upon them—the honest men, the sincere men—to stand with me and fulfill the hopes and traditions of the United States."

There was no diminution of the fighting spirit, though he said his goal was peace—peace protected by a League of Nations.

The president used his non-political argument for the treaty and drove home his point with these words:

"If anyone thinks of this treaty with the 1920 elections in mind, I want to declare I separate myself from him."

With some of the men criticizing the treaty the president said his contact with them was "a contest of interpretation." He had respect for these men, he said, "for they are just as good Americans as I am." But concerning some of the other opponents of the treaty, the president said: "I haven't any respect at all for them."

Washington, D. C.—An appeal for "Justice for Fiume" has been cabled to Senator Lodge by Andrao Ossola, serving at Paris as plenipotentiary for Fiume at the peace conference.

London.—Through confidential and official sources the British foreign office has learned the first news of a definite rupture among the Russian bolsheviks. Advice from British agents reveal in detail an open rebellion against the central soviet government which threatens to overthrow the League-Treaty combine.

WALLIS

AMERICA'S FOREMOST TRACTOR

WHAT THE WALLIS WILL DO

THE WALLIS, America's Foremost Tractor, will solve your labor problem. It will increase your profit-acres by reducing your pasture land, allowing it to be used for cash crops. It will save time, work, and crops. Wallis will do your plowing, laying, reaping and other work at exactly the right time, and just when weather and soil conditions are at their best. Perhaps the biggest job on any farm is the plowing. With the Wallis an acre an hour, under average conditions, is turned in even, perfect furrows. A sub-soiler may be used where it would be impossible with horses. Thus plow-pan is broken up and growing conditions vastly improved. The Wallis is designed for a working speed of 2 1/2 miles an hour, pulling three 14-inch bottoms, turning a furrow six inches or deeper under favorable conditions. Or it will pull 2 bottoms, to the same depth, at a speed of about 3 miles per hour under the same soil conditions. In both cases the day's work will average about 10 acres. But plowing is by no means all the work a Wallis will do. In discing, harrowing, hay cutting, harvesting, seeding, etc., and in many belt jobs the Wallis is ever useful.

PLYMOUTH SELF-FEED ENSILAGE CUTTERS

"Plymouth" Feed Cutters are the result of twenty-five years' experience and practical study of conditions and needs in the farm and dairy field. They embrace every advantage known to other similar machines, and many vital features which are original with us and can be had only in the "Plymouth Self-Feed." Below are some mighty strong points for you to think about before you buy a feed cutter.

AUTOMATIC SELF-FEED—This feature consists of a traveling feed chain, made of heavy iron slats securely riveted to a chain which passes over the lower feed roller. Throw the fodder into the feed box and the "Plymouth" does the rest.

DANGER-PROOF SELF-FEED ROLLERS—Here's another strong feature original with the "Plymouth." It consists of four large rollers of cast iron. The traveling feed chain passes over the lower hind roller, just passing the lower front roller, which is six inches in diameter, and smooth. The two upper and lower hind rollers are ribbed. The 8-inch automatic roller at the top, to the rear, is a special feature of the "Plymouth." It acts as a lever or weight to keep the fodder passing through continuously, depending on its own gravity to keep the material going through without a hitch. Two coil springs serve to exert an even and steady pressure on the automatic roller as the volume of fodder increases in going through. The spring feature is entirely automatic, and is only to be had in the "Plymouth." It absolutely prevents clogging.

ELECTRICITY BEST OF FARM SERVANTS

Thousands of Farm Homes Already Have Electric Plants. Satisfied Users Influence Farmers in Buying.

A traveler through the country today notices one thing more than any other, and that is the number of farms where electric service is now used. A few years ago, three or four at most, the coal-oil lantern and lamp and the long-handled wooden pump which stood in the barnyard, and froze up solid every winter, were symbols of the farm, just as the street car and the department store are symbols of the city. With the farm were associated ideas of old-fashioned ways of doing things, of hard work and long hours.

But what a change has taken place! Drive out into the country at night and look at the farm houses you pass. In a great many of them, instead of the dim glow that used to come from one or two windows, or the bobbing point of light that marked a lantern being carried up to the house from the barn, you will see the whole place brightly lighted. Drive into the barnyard. Instead of waiting while someone at the house lights a lantern and comes out, you'll suddenly find the whole yard flooded with light from an electric lamp on a pole in the center of the yard, or perhaps on a corner of the barn. And when your host comes out you'll find that he has turned on the yard light from inside the house.

Then he'll take you through the house and barns and show you what a difference electricity can make on the farm.

As you go through the country you will find a surprisingly large number of farms electrically equipped. And nearly all of this equipment has been put in within the last three or four years. One manufacturer alone announces "over seventy-five thousand satisfied users," a surprising fact in view of the farmer's well-known tendency to make a long and thorough investigation before he buys anything in the way of farm equipment.

What, then, is the reason for this rapid increase in the rural use of electricity? Simply this, that electricity has proved to be wonderfully useful on the farm. Much more so, in fact, than in city homes.

Electric light is not only superior to all others as a light, but is much more convenient, much safer, and, in farm usage, saves a great amount of time. The difference between turning a switch at the house and lighting a lantern has already been mentioned, and this greater convenience is found throughout. Upstairs lights can be switched on from the lower hall, and even the barn may be lighted from the house.

This convenience effects a great saving of time. The daily cleaning and filling of lamps is no longer necessary. There is no walking from barn to the house to get a lantern. And in the barn itself, it is found that the well-placed electric lamps make every movement surer and faster, saving nearly half the time it used to take to do the chores.

Electric light is safer, too, particularly in the barn, where the hazard of fire from an overturned lantern was formerly very great.

But electric power on the farm is even more useful than electric light. An automatic water system will pump every drop of water formerly pumped by hand, supplying water under pressure at faucets all over the house and barns. Electric motors will do the milking, separating, churning, washing and sweeping, will turn the corn sheller, fanning mill and grindstone. Electric irons, fans, toasters and percolators also make the household work much easier.

All of this electric service is enjoyed on the farm at a low cost and with practically no bother. The best of the farm electric plants show a very low running cost and are practically trouble free. Their engines are cooled by air, which does away with the trouble of carrying water and the danger of over-heating or freezing. They burn kerosene for fuel. Direct connection of the generator and engine, automatic lubrication, self cranking and self stopping are other features of up-to-date lighting plants, which makes them easy to care for and operate. And of course with each engine and generator is a storage battery which furnishes light and power at all times of the day and night whether the generator is running or not.

Where the plant has been properly designed and made, the owner is assured of satisfactory service. And he's not slow to tell his neighbors about the kind of satisfaction he's getting. The result is that where one good plant goes into a rural community it is usually followed by several more. That there are reliable plants on the market is indicated by the figures quoted above. And they surely show, too, that the farmer as a class is taking an interest in the subject of electricity for the farm.

HEATING PLANT AND CHIMNEY

Fire is a destroyer of your homes and endangers the lives of those dear to you.

Heating plant fire hazards are still the largest one cause of the Wisconsin fires and fire waste.

Over 29 per cent of the 1918 Wisconsin fires and about 19 per cent of the fire waste were due to such hazards. The following statistics from the 1918 Wisconsin fire reports clearly point out these defects and the much needed remedies for the guidance and instruction of the fire inspectors and all citizens.

Without the full and active co-operation of the individual property owners throughout the state this commission and your fire departments can do but little to improve this bad record of needless waste and destruction. A study of this table is urged upon all.

Causes of Fires	No. of Fires	Loss
Ashes against wood	26	$9,690
Chimneys burning out	29	19,815
Defective chimneys	270	422,755
Sparks from chimneys	224	178,795
Defective fire places	7	5,905
Defective furnaces	80	167,190
Hot-air pipes near wood	5	30,285
Stoves near woodwork	146	199,655
Defective stove pipes	22	14,129
Stove pipes near woodwork	61	56,470
Clothing hung near stove	16	16,360
	866	$1,141,040

These fires were due to carelessness and easily preventable causes.

Regrettable as this needless waste of property is, sadder still is Wisconsin's record of lives lost and bodily injuries in fires.

According to newspaper accounts, in 1918, 46 persons died and 94 were injured in fires in this state.

When you consider these sad facts, your carelessness becomes CRIMINAL carelessness.

Will those dear to you be the next to be offered as sacrifice on the altar of carelessness? Then will you be haunted the rest of your days.

Before heating fires are again started we urge fire chiefs and all citizens to make a thorough inspection of heating plants and chimneys, and to see to it that all fire hazards are corrected promptly.

Protect homes, property and lives.

MUST MAKE APPLICATION FOR BONUS

The following letter was received by the Statesman from John Salaman, secretary of the Service Recognition board, which is of interest to all who are entitled to a bonus. The letter reads as follows:

"The Service Recognition Board directs me to invite your special attention to the provisions of Chapter 667, Laws of 1919, providing a bonus to be paid to Wisconsin soldiers for service during the war against Germany and to request that you give publicity to the fact that the Service Recognition Board desires that each soldier or nurse make application for blanks on which to make his claim at once.

"The law also provides that the bonus be paid to the heirs of deceased soldiers, the surviving widow, child or children, mother or dependent father, in the order named; the Board requests that the heirs communicate with the Service Recognition Board, Capitol, Madison, to arrange for perfecting their claims.

"This procedure of requiring application for these forms to be made by the claimants is necessary as nearly all the records in regard to this military service were required to be shipped to Washington and are not now available for use in the state.

NEW LAW ON AUTO LIGHTS

A new section has been added to the statutes relating to lights on automobiles which reads in part as follows:

1. From thirty minutes after sunset until thirty minutes before sunrise no automobile, motor cycle, or other similar motor vehicle shall be driven upon or occupy any public highway in this state, unless such vehicle is provided with sufficient lights of such designs and so adjusted and operated as to render the use of the highway by such vehicles safe for all the public.

2. The minimum requirements for head-lamps on any automobile or other similar motor vehicle, except motor cycles, while being driven upon the highway, shall be such as to enable the driver to clearly distinguish a person, vehicle or any other substantial object one hundred feet ahead, and design, adjustment and operation of such head lamps shall be such as to avoid, dangerous glare or dazzle.

Trials All Have Value.

Trials without discover forces within. Says Victor Hugo: "There are instincts for all the crises of life." A deep perplexity awakens a flash of insight; a bitter opposition sets the soul on fire; a grave peril opens our eyes to horses and chariots of fire; a severe catastrophe evokes a heroism of which the sufferer had not thought himself capable.—W. L. Watkinson.

The Secret of a Superlative Tire

The whole question of a super-tire is a matter of principles. For there is nothing exclusive in the industry. No patents, no secret formulas prevent a conscientious maker from building the best.

But cost and competition modify ideals. The Brunswick idea is to pay perfection's price and get it.

That has been the Brunswick policy since 1845. And it accounts for the growing preference for Brunswick Tires. Motorists expect the utmost from a tire bearing the name of Brunswick—and get it.

You, too, will be convinced by your first Brunswick, that here is an extraordinary tire, and that more money cannot buy a better.

Better tires of their type are impossible—or better tubes. That we guarantee.

Try ONE Brunswick—learn how it excels.

WISCONSIN SETS PACE FOR COLLEGES OF THE NATION

DR. SAMUEL PLANTZ, President, Lawrence College.

Rev. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence College, one of the eight institutions which are members of the Wisconsin Colleges Associated which is acquainting the people of the state with the small college problem, is a graduate of Lawrence College—class of 1880—and of Boston University. Dr. Plantz, who was elected president of Lawrence College in 1894, is one of the best known educators in the middle west.
Lawrence College like the other institutions in the state, is this year crowded to capacity. New buildings are needed, more modern equipment is in demand, more teachers are wanted, rooms are needed for the students—all in all, Dr. Plantz and his associates are confronted with innumerable problems which are common to the colleges and universities of Wisconsin.
The Wisconsin colleges are the only institutions in America which have banded together to work out their common problems. Wisconsin's enterprise is attracting the attention of the educational world. College presidents throughout the nation are watching the success of the Wisconsin colleges. It is known that the Wisconsin plan will be used in many other states.

NORTHLAND FACILITIES TAXED BEYOND CAPACITY

College in North Doing Remarkable Piece of Work With Inadequate Buildings and Equipment.

BY J. D. BROWNELL, President, Northland College.

Northland College, one of the eight institutions which are members of the Wisconsin Colleges Associated, which is today engaged in a campaign to familiarize the people of Wisconsin with the problems of the voluntarily maintained college, is one of the distinctive missionary colleges in the State. Its function is primarily to give higher training to the children of the foreign population in the north. This is a task of Americanization, which is vital to the best development of the community in the northern half of the State.
It stands alone, the only college of any description, north of Appleton, with a rapidly developing rural population and fast growing commercial interests. Already its facilities are entirely inadequate to meet the demands made upon it.
Ninety per cent of the students are entirely self-supporting. Three principal industries managed by the college—the manufacture of concrete blocks, commercial printing, and the college farm and dairy—provide the means of self-support. An industrial endowment of $50,000 will provide added equipment and support to enable double the number of students now cared for to earn their way.
One additional building is imperative to provide auditorium and dormitory facilities. The library of 8,600 volumes should be doubled and a permanent fund of $10,000 provided for upkeep and the purchase of books.
The endowment of $108,000 should be multiplied by five that the faculty can be increased to keep pace with the growth and a "living salary scale" be established for faculty members. At present the scale of $800 to $1,500 is lower than the wage of ordinary laborers.
Northland College is now doing for the immigrant population of North Wisconsin what Tuskegee Institute is doing for the colored race in the South,—is the statement made by one of the leading educators of the State.

THE ADVANTAGE OF COLLEGE.
The child without training has only one chance in 150,000 of performing distinguished service; with elementary education his chances are multiplied by four, and with a high school education training by 87. Finally, a college education creates an opportunity 800 times stronger than that of the uneducated worker. All of which is additional reason why the appeal of the Wisconsin Colleges Associated for an adequate endowment should meet with a generous response.

"In my judgment the best college work is done in institutions with an attendance of about 300."—Elihu Root, former Secretary of State.

Of the 396 graduates of Milton College 20 are college presidents and professors.
