THE COUNTY EDUCATIONAL LISTENING POST

All the schools of the county will be visited before the first of November. School clerks who are in need of registers can secure them by dropping a card to the superintendent's office. As leaders (school boards) of the community you have an opportunity to serve the nation by bringing people together in the school house.

J. H. Pulicher, Vice-Pres. Marshall-Isley Bank. Our people must freely exchange their views in groups both large and small. One of the finest and best places for such exchanges of views is the community center meeting at the school house.

State Supt. C. P. Cary. Let every school send in some exhibits for the fair. If you have nothing, get something ready between now and the fair time.

There are scallawags and loafers in every school. They wander about a great deal. Invent tricks to the amusement of other children and the disgust of the teacher. Those young lads have brains and intelligence. Get them if you can. Direct their energies. Lead them. Anybody can expel them. Make a man out of a scallawag and you are doing an unusual thing.

We stepped into a room the other day of some fifty children. Some were sitting at tables in the front of the room. The teacher was teaching two grades with two classes from an upper room. We stayed one hour and no note of discord, no shadow of disorder was apparent. The classes moved quietly, no time was lost, the children were prepared; so was the teacher. It seemed always, and in everything she did, as if any other woman could do it. That is the culmination of art in teaching.

The Fillmore State Graded school held its annual fair last Thursday afternoon and evening. It was the gathering in of the best of the district in sewing community, cooking and agricultural products. County Agent Mr. Geo. Blank judged the farm products, and Miss Olga Haug, the supervising teacher and Mrs. Jennie Buckley judged the sewing, canning, cooking and floral exhibits.

To make the best, contagious, is the big purpose of fairs. That the best is contagious in this school district was indicated by the excellence of all the entries. In the evening the people of the whole community met for a two hour social, after which Supt. Buckley gave a short talk. Try out some kind of an evening meeting for your self and find out that it is worth while.

We listened to an orator some time ago. He coined a most beautiful paragraph descriptive of the school building and its ground. It was thrilling but it was not true. To be effective you must be honest in your descriptions. We have learned to recognize the country school and its ground when we come on to them unexpectedly. A plain weather beaten box 24 feet wide 30 feet long and 12 feet high with two small buildings to the rear of it. You have to let your imagination run riot to see the beautiful in that.

TOWNFOLK AND THE COUNTY FAIR

Let The Institution Help To Unite Urban And Rural Interests.

The missions of the coming County Fair to be held at West Bend on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday Oct. 7, 8, 9, and 10, are diversified and increasingly important. They are recreative, educational and preparative for the demands of life, and consolidative with regard to urban and rural interests. The educational and preparative missions have already been sufficiently emphasized, the recreative features were lined up in the last article, and the consolidative or uniting object of the Fair is to be taken up now.

The "biggest and best", and certainly the most promising, of all our county fairs is less than two weeks off and it is high time for us city folks and the folks of all the other urban places in the county, to sit down and lay plans how to make it yield the most for all parties concerned. As we remarked once before, the County Fair is the golden opportunity which not only knocks at our door but comes right in and sits down at our parlor, as did the Indians of yore in the cabins of the settlers. Let us make use of a suggestion that repeatedly has been driven home to us in lectures during the past few years. It is very well to listen to and applaud good lectures, but it is better yet and profitable to put in practice the excellent suggestions made by the lecturers.

In these lectures we have been told that the business men and manufacturers of the city should establish a closer community of interests with the farming population, that our commercial life should not separate itself from the agricultural pursuits, but freely mix with them and form more intimate relations. As we understand it, it is part of the program of our local business men to get in closer touch with the farmers within a large radius around Kewaskum, from whom we may in fairness expect trade, if we deserve it.

We ask again: Is there a more splendid chance for our merchants and manufacturers to try out this new idea (it really is a very old idea, only polished up to suit the occasion) of interweaving urban and rural interests? The visitors of the County Fair come from an area of 432 square miles, extending fifteen miles south, twelve miles west, eight miles north, and seven miles east. Most of the representative part of our county's population is among them. They mainly come to enjoy themselves, yet it must not be a hollow enjoyment that bursts like a soap bubble but an enjoyment that, after the glitter and thrill have passed away, leaves some constructive, applicable beneficial residue. And at least part of this should consist in a strengthened sense of the community of interest between the business men and manufacturers and the farmers, not only of Kewaskum but also of the other mercantile and industrial centers of the county.

Farmers are the wealthiest class of our population. They are willing buyers, if they can get their article, and if the price is right. If they are approached in the right way, if they can be convinced that it is better for our mutual welfare to let the home business men and manufacturers fill the orders, they will agree to this, for the progressive farmer grasps the new ideas as readily as any other man.

We say again: One of the missions of the County Fair is to form a connecting link between the town and the country, between commerce and agriculture. If that link is strong, it will be for the best of both sides concerned, and it will tend to bring harmony into factions that often fought themselves. Fights are always the results of misunderstandings. Let us all, business men and all others who are not lucky enough to be farmers, improve the coming County Fair on Oct. 7, 8, 9, and 10 by showing our farmer friends how much we appreciate their good will toward us, and how eager we are to deserve it.

NO ACCIDENT WEEKS

Arrangements are under way by the Chicago & North Western Railway to conduct a national railroad accident prevention drive on all railroads under federal control during the two weeks period, October 18-31. The plan is to stop all accidents during that time by meetings, publicity and the definite instructions of all employees and of the public in general, with one definite object in view, that everyone will understand that safety is the most important thing to consider in the operation of railroads.

LIGHTNING DOES MUCH DAMAGE

This vicinity, last week Saturday, was swept by the most severe electrical and rain storm of the season. The heavy downpour of rain started on Saturday morning, when it rained for about an hour. On Saturday night and Sunday another heavy shower took place which had every resemblance of a cloudburst. The rain storm was accompanied by heavy thunder showers. Lightning doing considerable damage throughout this section. On Saturday morning at about eight o'clock lightning struck the former Fred Andrae residence now owned by A. L. Rosenheimer, located east of Railroad street in this village, damaging same to the extent of about $20. Outside of a severe shock none of the occupants of the building were injured. The residence of Chas. Geidel, located on North Fond du Lac Ave., was also struck but no serious damage was done. The same morning Henry Kirchner, who formerly owned the American House in this village, but now owner of the John Killing farm near Kohlsville, where he now resides had one of his horses killed by lightning while his hired man was returning home from the cheese factory nearby. It was also reported here that a bolt of lightning struck the large chimney of the White House Milk Condensery at West Bend, slightly damaging same. The residence of Joseph Reinartz at West Bend was also slightly damaged by a bolt of lightning.

This was the first rainfall that Kewaskum and vicinity has had since the Fourth of July, and although it came late, it was greatly needed. Late potatoes that still bear green vines will continue to improve, unless damaged by frost. The rain will also help the cabbage, carrots and other root crops. It freshened up the pastures which were practically exhausted. Besides this it will make fall plowing much easier and serve to wind up this work much faster, although a considerable amount of this work has already been done.

OSCAR MUENCH WINS SUIT

Oscar Muench of Beechwood, was awarded $140 damages against Aloys Pierron of Random Lake, by a jury in court at Plymouth last week. Mr. Muench alleges that Mr. Pierron crippled one of his cows on May 23rd, while his eleven-year-old son Milton was driving the herd to pasture on his farm. Milton, who was the star witness stated that Mr. Pierron drove through his father's herd of 23 cows at the rate of 25 miles per hour, striking one of the animals and fracturing its leg. The plaintiff asked $200 damages. The value of the cow was fixed at $150, and $50 for the veterinarian's charges and other expenses. Dr. Geo. F. Brandt of Kewaskum, treated the cow, and claimed that it was worth $150 before the accident and placed its value at $35 now.

The defense claimed that the cows were not being driven to pasture, instead were pasturing along the road where the accident happened. He stated that the boy was sitting on top of a gate, while the cows were grazing by the road side. He also testified that he used reasonable care in avoiding the accident and admitted that he was traveling at the rate of 20 miles per hour.

A. F. Schrage, veterinarian of Plymouth testified as an expert witness for the defense. He gave the value of the cow before the accident as $100 and today its value is $60.

NO TRESPASSING

I wish to inform the public that I will allow no hunting on my premises, either with dog or without. Anyone caught doing same will be prosecuted according to law. Last year several sheep were killed on my place and were left lay, which will not be tolerated in the future.—Fred Ziebeck, Jr., R. 3, Campbellsport, Wis.

SUBSCRIBER For The STATESMAN

THREE APPOINTMENTS TO BE MADE FOR MIDSHIPMEN

Congressman Edward Voigt announces that he has three appointments to make for midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. He has arranged with the Civil Service Commission of Wisconsin to hold preliminary examinations for him at convenient points in the district on November 1st, 1919.

The course at Annapolis is four years. On graduation these young men are commissioned as officers in the navy. The course of tuition offered at the Academy is the very best, and of its kind is the equivalent of a University course. The Government furnishes quarters at the Academy and pays $780 per year, and makes a further allowance for rations.

Candidates for Annapolis must be not less than sixteen and not more than twenty years of age on April 1, 1920. Candidates must be citizens of the United States and reside in the Second Congressional District, and must have a high school education or its equivalent.

Mr. Voigt will appoint the young men who pass the best examination. Those who are appointed will then have to pass the official entrance examination in February, 1920. Candidates must also be physically perfect. Anyone who passes the examination successfully will be examined by the Naval authorities free of charge upon a certificate from Mr. Voigt.

Young men desiring to take the examination are requested to write for further information to the Civil Service Commission, Madison, Wisconsin. Mr. Voigt will supply a copy of the regulations governing admission to Annapolis, and sample examination questions, to anyone who will write him at Washington.

COUNTY BOARD IN SPECIAL SESSION

The County Board of Washington County met in special session at the court house at West Bend on Monday, for the purpose of designating those stretches of the State Highway systems in this county which are to receive concrete pavements next year. The board decided to have the Milwaukee-West Bend road and the West Bend-Hartford road paved next year. The pavement on the former will begin at the end of the three-mile concrete road stretch in course of construction in the town of Germantown and run up to West Bend, along Highways 15 and 55. The paving of the Hartford road is to start at the junction of the Ackerville road with Highway 55, on the line of Polk and Jackson townships. This road runs through Ackerville and to Franklin street in the village of Schleisingerville, and d from the intersection of Highways 15 and 78 west on the latter to Hartford. The board also agreed to employ a competent engineer as assistant to the county highway commissioner and the State Road and Bridge Committee, whose duty it will be to make surveys and plans, and in supervising construction.

FUNERAL OF HENRY SCHNEIDER

The funeral of Henry Schneider, who passed away in death last week Friday morning at six o'clock, Sept. 19th, 1919, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Benike, in the town of Barton, was held Monday afternoon at one o'clock from the residence with services at the Ev. Peace church at 1:30. Rev. Mohme officiated. Interment was made in the congregation's cemetery.

Mr. Schneider had been in ill health for several years, but not of a serious nature, until about a year ago when heart trouble set in and his condition became worse until he finally succumbed at the ripe old age of 73 years, 3 months and 9 days. Deceased was born on June 10th, 1846, in Neidernhall, Germany. In the year 1852 he immigrated to America with his parents and made his home on a farm in the town of Wayne. On March 10th, 1875, he was married to Miss Friedericka Guenther. In 1895 he came to Kewaskum, where he established himself in the saloon business, being manager of the Kewaskum Opera House and the South Side Park and hall. He was treasurer of the village of Kewaskum for several years and also of the town of Wayne during his residence there. On August 6th, 1902 his wife passed away in death. In 1909 Mr. Schneider disposed of his business in this village and made his home with his children. A few years after he had disposed of his saloon property, he left for the state of Florida, in the expectation of restoring his former good health, but to no avail. After spending several years in the "Sunny South" he returned to Wisconsin, making his home with his daughter, Mrs. Henry Benike in the town of Barton, where he resided until his death. Mr. Schneider was the father of thirteen children, two of whom died in infancy. The names of those surviving are as follows: Mary (Mrs. Paul Wernicke) of Brooksville, Florida; Lena (Mrs. Wm. Backus) of Eau Claire, Wis.; Barbara (Mrs. August Falk) of West Bend, Wis.; Alma (Mrs. Ben. Wilkens) of Plainfield, Wis.; Frieda (Mrs. Albert Jankee) of Athens, Wis.; Lydia (Mrs. Edward Fritz) of Milwaukee, Wis.; Katie (Mrs. Emil Samuel) of Milwaukee, Wis.; Theodore in Hudson, Nevada; Walter, of Kewaskum; Jennie (Mrs. Henry Benike) of the town of Barton; and William of Chicago, Ill. One sister, Mrs. Christian Meyer of Athens, Wis., also survives him.

Mr. Schneider was well known throughout this entire community. He was a man of upright and candid character. He well filled his place as an honorable man while in our midst, and at all times gave his best as a husband, father and citizen. Although suffering for many years he bore his agony with patience until to the very last. His children, to whom he was closely attached, will ever keep sacred the recollection of him as he was in life.

IN MEMORY

Tis hard to break its tender cord,
When love has bound the heart.
Tis hard, so hard to speak the words,
We must forever part.
Dearest loved one, we have laid thee,
In thy peaceful graves' embrace,
But thy memory will be cherished
Till we see thy heavenly face.

NEW EDUCATIONAL BILL IS EXPLAINED

The following summary of the new bonus educational law will give a good idea of what is required of the soldiers and nurses who plan to take up studies under the provisions of the new act:

"The Legislature has made it possible for any honorably discharged, released, or furloughed soldier or sailor who served in the recent war for at least three months under the Red Cross in this country or overseas, to continue his schooling and to receive $30 a month for not to exceed four school years while in attendance at an educational institution. No person shall receive a bonus after July 1, 1924. Application may be filed at any time within six months after Oct. 1, 1919, or they must be filed sixty days prior to the opening of a semester, term or quarter at which a student proposes to enter an educational institution, and to receive the educational bonus provided under the Educational Bonus Law.

The widest possible opportunity is offered such persons to obtain an education. They may attend any elementary or public high school, county training school, or agricultural school, any vocational school, any State Normal School, Stout Institute, Wisconsin Mining School, the State University, or any college or institution in the State at which an S. A. T. C. unit was organized and maintained by the Government or any other institution of high school or collegiate grade in the state not run for profit.

To be eligible for the educational bonus, a soldier, sailor, marine, or nurse must have the following qualifications:

- (1) Entered the service before November 1, 1918.
- (2) Discharged subsequent to April 7, 1917.
- (3) Terminated service under honorable conditions.
- (4) Resident of the State at time of entrance into service.
- (5) Served at least three months.

In computing the amount of service a person rendered, no credit is given for the time spent as follows:

- (1) While in the S. A. T. C.
- (2) While doing civilian work at civilian pay.

Persons who enlisted or were inducted into the military or naval service outside of the State of Wisconsin must prove their residence in the State by filing affidavits of two citizens of the State, not relatives, that they were bona fide residents of the State, and stating the period of residence of the applicant.

The bonus will be paid at the end of each month of attendance at a educational institution.

Attendance at an evening school will not entitle one to the bonus. Persons are not entitled to the educational bonus while taking correspondence courses without cost under the provisions of the Act.

Persons taking the $10 a month bonus may take correspondence work or evening work without cost, in accordance with the law. Persons accepting the $10 a month bonus cannot take advantage of the Educational Bonus Law until they have returned the amount received to the State Treasurer.

Each student pays his own tuition incidental and laboratory fees, his own board and lodging.

Persons may secure the bonus of $30 a month while attending high school.

Bonus students will be required to take a regular course, though they may supplement their income by odd jobs and other outside work.

In order to secure the aid, each person must fill out an application blank, have his statements acknowledged before some one authorized to administer oaths, and file it together with a certified copy of his discharge, with the State Board of Education. Upon receipt of the application and the discharge, if it appears that the applicant is entitled to the aid, he will be assigned to the school of his choice, if conditions will permit. If not, he will be assigned to the institution of his second choice, or to such an institution as in the judgement of the Board under the circumstances will best suit his needs. Notification of the assignment of the student will be sent to him and to the institution to which he is assigned. The first assignment will be for one year, and may be renewed annually for three years upon application to the State Board of Education.

Application blanks and discharge blanks may be secured from any county superintendent, city superintendent, principal of high school, principal of county training or agricultural school,

TO THE SHARKS!

Synopsis—The man who tells this story—call him the hero, for short—is visiting his friend, John Saunders, British official in Nassau, Bahama Islands. Charlie Webster, a local merchant, completes the trio of friends. Conversation turning upon buried treasure, Saunders produces a written document, purporting to be the death-bed statement of Henry P. Tobias, a successful pirate, made by him in 1859. It gives two spots where two millions and a half of treasure were buried by him and his companions. The conversation of the three friends is overheard by a pock-marked stranger. The document disappears. Saunders, however, has a copy. The hero, determined to seek the buried treasure, charts the auxiliary schooner, Magie Darling. The pock-marked man is taken on as a passenger for Spanish Wells. Negro Tom catches and cures a "sucking fish" as a mascot for the hero; it has the virtue of keeping off the ghost of the pirate who always guards pirate treasure. On the voyage somebody empties the gasoline tank and the hero starts things. He and the passenger clash. He lands the passenger, who leaves a manifesto bearing the signature, "Henry P. Tobias, Jr." With a new crew, the Magie Darling sails and is passed by another schooner, the Susan B. The hero lands on Dead Men's Shoals.

"I can't afford to give you that, Theodore."

"I'd die for dat," he declared.

"Take this handkerchief instead," but, meanwhile, my eyes were opening. "Take this instead, Theodore," I suggested.

"I'd die for dat," he repeated, touching the tie.

His voice and touch made me sick and afraid, just as people in a lunatic asylum make one afraid.

"Look out!" murmured Tom at my elbow.

And just then I noticed hiding in some bushes of seven-year apple trees, two faces I had good reason to know. I had barely time to pull out the commandant's revolver from my pocket. I knew it was to be either the pockmarked genius or the engineer. But for the moment I was not to be sure which one I had hit. For, as my gun went off, something heavy came down on my head, and for the time I was shut off from whatever else was going on.

"Which did I hit, Tom?" were my first words as I came back to the glory of the world; but I didn't say them for a long time, and, from what Tom told me, it was a wonder I ever said them at all.

"There he is, sar," said Tom, pointing to a long, dark figure stretched out near by. "I'm afraid he's not the man you were looking for."

"Poor fellow!" I said; it was George, the engineer; "I'm sorry—but I saw the muzzies of their guns sticking out of the bush there. It was they or me."

"That no lie, sar, and if it hadn't been for that suckin' fish's skin you wouldn't be here now."

"It didn't save me from a pretty good one on the head, Tom, did it?"

"No, sar, but that was just it—if it hadn't been for that knock on the head, pulling you down just that minute, that char pockmarked fellow would have got you. As it was, he grazed your cheek and got one of his own men killed by mistake—the very fellow that hit you. There he is—over there."

"And who's that other, Tom?" I asked, pointing to another dark figure a few yards away.

"That's the captain, sar."

"The captain? Oh, I'm sorry for that. God knows I'm sorry for that."

"Yes, sar, he was one of the finest gentlemen I ever known was Captain Tomlinson; a brave man and a good navigator. And he'd taken a powerful fancy to you, for when you got that crack on the head he picked up your gun and began blazing away, with words I should never have expected from a religious man. The others, except our special friend—"

"Let's call him Tobias from now on, Tom," I interposed.

"Well, him, sar, kept his nerve, but the others ran for the boats as if the devil was after them; but the captain's gun was quicker, and only four of them got to the Susan B. The other two fell on their faces, as if something had tripped them up, in a couple of feet of water. But just then Tobias hit the captain in the heart; ah! if only he had one of those skins—but he always laughed off such things as superstitions."

"There was only me and Tobias then, and the dog, for the engineer boy had gone on his knees to the Susan B. fellows at the first crack, and begged them to take him away with them. There was no one left but Tobias and the dog and me, and I was sure my end was not far off, for I was never much of a shot."

"As God is my witness, sar, I was ready to die, and there was a moment when I thought that the time had come; but Tobias suddenly walked away to the top of the bluff and called out to the Susan B., that was just running up her sails. At his word they put out a boat for him, and while he waited he came down the hill toward me and the dog, that stood growling over you; and for sure I thought it was the end. But he said: 'Tell that fellow there that I'm not going to kill a defenseless man. He might have killed me once but he didn't. It's bound to be one of us some day or other, but, despite me all the likes—I'm not such a cur as he thinks me; and if he only likes to keep out of my way I'm willing to keep out of his. Tell him when he wakes up that as long as he gives up going after what belongs to me—for it was my grandfather's—he is safe, but the minute he sets his foot or hand on mine, it's either his life or mine.' And then he turned away and was rowed to the Susan B., and they soon sailed away."

"With the black flag at the peak, I suppose, Tom," said I. "Well, that was a fine speech, quite a flight of oratory, and I'm sure I'm obliged to him for the life that's still worth having. In spite of this ungodly aching in my head. But how about the poor captain there! Where does all his eloquence come in there? He can't call it self-defense. They were waiting ready to murder us, as you saw. I'm afraid the captain and the law between them are all that is necessary to cook the goose of our friend Henry P. Tobias, Jr., without any help from me—though, as the captain died for me, I should prefer they allowed me to make it a personal matter."

"It's the beginning of the price," said Tom.

"The beginning of the price?"

"It's the dead hand," continued Tom; "I told you, you'll remember, that wherever treasure is there's a ghost of a dead man keeping guard and waiting till another dead man comes along to take up sentry duty so to say. The ghost is getting busy. And it makes me think that we're coming pretty near to the treasure, or we wouldn't have had all this happen. Mark me, the treasure's near by—or the ghost wouldn't be so malicious."

And then, looking around where the captain and the engineer and Silly Theodore lay, I said:

"The first thing we've got to do is to bury these poor fellows; but where," I added, "are the other two that fell in the water?"

"Oh," said Tom, "a couple of sharks got them just before you woke up."

CHAPTER VII.

In Which Tom and I Attend Several Funerals.

When Tom and I came to look over the ground with a view to finding a burial place for the dead I realized with grim emphasis the truth of Charlie Webster's remarks—in those snuggly nights that seemed so remote and far away—the nature of the soil which would have to be gone over in quest of my treasure. No wonder he had spoken of dynamite.

"Why, Tom," I said, "there isn't a wheelbarrow load of real soil in a square mile. We couldn't dig a grave for a dog in stuff like this," and, as I spoke, the pebblelike rock under my feet clanged and echoed with a metallic sound.

"Come along, Tom, I can't stand any more of this. We'll have to leave our funerals till tomorrow, and get aboard for the night"—for the Magie Darling was still floating there serenely, as though men and their violence had no existence on the planet.

"We'd better cover them up, against the turkey buzzards," said Tom, two of those unsavory birds rising in the air as we returned to the shore. We did this as well as we were able with rocks and the wreckage of an old boat strewn on the beach.

I don't think two men were ever so glad of the morning, driving before it the haunted night. After breakfast our first thought was naturally to the sad and disagreeable business before us.

"I tell you what I've been thinking, sar," said Tom, as we rowed ashore, and I managed to pull down a turkey buzzard that rose at our approach—happily our coverings had proved fairly effective—"I've been thinking that the only one of the three that really matters is the captain, and we can find sufficient soil for him in one of those big holes."

"How about the others?"

"Well, to tell the truth, I was thinking that sharks are good enough for them."

"They deserve no better, Tom, and I think we may as well get rid of them first."

So it was done as we said, and carrying them by the feet and shoulders to the edge of the bluff—George, and Silly Theodore, and the nameless giant who had knocked me down so opportunely—we skillfully flung them in, and they glided off with scarce a splash.

Then we turned to the poor captain and carried him as gently as we could over the rough ground to the biggest of the banana holes, as the natives call them, and there we were able to dig him a fairly respectable grave.

Tom and Sailor and I were now, to the best of our belief, alone on the island, and a lonelier spot it would be hard to imagine, or one touched at certain hours with a fairer beauty—a beauty wraithlike and, like a sea shell, haunted with the marvel of the sea.

First we went over our stores, and, thanks to those poor dead mouths that did not need to be reckoned with any more, we had plenty of everything to last us for at least a month, not to speak of fishing, at which Tom was an expert.

When, however, we turned to our plans for the treasure hunting we soon came to a dead stop. The indications given by Tobias seemed, in the face of such a terrain, naive to a degree. Possibly the land had changed since his day. Some little, of course, it must have done. Tom and I went over Tobias' directions again and there was the compass carved on the rock, and the cross. There was something definite—something which, if it was ever there at all, was there still—for in that climate the weather leaves things unperished almost as in Egypt.

Sitting on the highest bluff we could find, Tom and I looked around.

"That compass is somewhere among these infernal rocks—if it ever was carved there at all—that's one thing certain, Tom; but look at the rocks!"

Over twenty miles of rocks north and south, and from two to six from east to west. A more hopeless job the we reached the boat at sunset we had scarce strength left to eat our supper and roll into our bunks. A machete is a heavy weapon that needs no little skill in handling with economy of force, and Tom, who had been brought up to it, was, in spite of his years, a better practitioner than I.

I have already hinted at the kind of devil's underbrush we had to cut our way through, but no words can do justice to the almost intelligent stubbornness with which those weird growths opposed us. It really seemed as though they were inspired by a diabolic will-force pitting itself against our will, vegetable incarnation of evil strength and fury and cunning.

Day after day Tom and I returned home dead beat, with hardly a tired word to exchange with each other.

We had now been at it for about a fortnight, and I loved the old chap more every day for the grit and courage with which he supported our terrible labors and kept up his spirits. Once or twice we had made fancied discoveries which we called off to the sea, and once or twice we had tried some blasting on rocks that seemed to suggest mysterious tunnelings into the earth. But it had all proved a vain thing and a weariness of the flesh. And the ghost of John P. Tobias still kept his secret.

CHAPTER VIII.

An Unfinished Game of Cards.

One evening as I returned to the ship unusually worn out and disheartened I asked Tom how the stores were holding out. He answered cheerfully that they would last another week and leave us enough to get home.

"Well, shall we stick out the other week or not, Tom? I don't want to kill you, and I confess I'm nearly all in myself."

"May as well stick it out, sar, now we've gone so far. Then we'll have done all we can, and there's a certain satisfaction in doing that, sar."

So next morning we went at it again, and the next, and the next again, and then on the fourth day, when our week was drawing to its close, something at last happened to change the grim rotinosity of our days.

It was shortly after the lunch hour, Tom and I, who were now working too far apart to hear each other's halloos, had fired our revolvers once or twice to show that all was right with us. But, for no reason I can give, I suddenly got a feeling that all was not right with the old man, so I fired my revolver and gave him time for a reply. But there was no answer. Again I fired. Still no answer. I was on the point of firing again when I heard something coming through the brush behind me. It was Sailor racing toward me over the jagged rocks. Evidently there was something wrong.

"Something wrong with old Tom, Sailor?" I asked, as though he could answer me. And indeed he did answer as plainly as dog could do, wagging his tail and whining and turning to go back with me in the direction whence he had come.

"Off we go, then, old chap," and as he ran ahead, I followed him as fast as I could.

It took me the best part of an hour to get to where Tom had been working. Sailor brushed his way ahead, pushing through the scrub with canine importance. Presently, at the top of a slight elevation, I came among the bushes to a softer spot where the soil had given way, and saw that it was the mouth of a shaft like a wide chimney flue, the earth of which had evidently fallen in. Here Sailor stopped and whined, pawing the earth, and at the same time I heard a moaning underneath.

"Is that you, Tom?" I called. Thank God, the old chap was not dead at all events.

"Thank the Lord, it's you, sar," he cried. "I'm all right, but I've had a bad fall—and I can't seem able to move."

"Hold on and keep up your heart—I'll be with you in a minute," I called down to him.

A certain variety of seaweed, known in Ireland as "topp," has been recommended by a famous physician as a cure for rheumatism and throat affections if eaten hot, whilst in some parts of England and Wales a variety of seaweed, known as "liver," has been in demand for years as a vegetable. Served with roast meats it is said to be extremely palatable.

Critic Coins New Word.
Tired of the hackneyed phrase, a "gripping" story, originated by some weary critic and eagerly snatched up by book advertisers, it has remained for a Boston dramatic critic to discover a new term. He has found a play that is "riveting" in its intensity of interest.

Looking for a Telephone.

I was looking for a public telephone and thought I would find one in a large office building. I walked through and at last saw a public telephone sign, and as I was in a hurry I rushed through the doors and found myself in the middle of a saloon. The bartender looked up and said: "What'll you have, miss?" I was so surprised that I could not speak for a few minutes, but finally said I was looking for a public telephone. As I was backing out the elevator starter saw me and, as he knew me, asked if I was in for an eye-opener. I then decided my telephoning could wait, and rushed out of the building.—Exchange.

When I cannot get a dinner to suit my taste, I get a taste to suit my dinner.—Washington Irving.

RE-SERVING SMALL AMOUNTS OF MEAT.

A cupful or two of any kind of well-cooked meat may make a most tasty dish if carefully prepared.

Chicken Goulash.—Cut into dice two medium-sized uncooked potatoes. Put into a frying pan two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, and when hot add the potato dice. Stir, to keep from burning, and cook five minutes. Then add a dash of paprika, a cupful of boiling water, a crushed clove of garlic, a cupful of cold cooked chicken chopped fine, and salt to taste. Cover and cook until the potatoes are done, stirring frequently.

Spanish Chicken.—Make a sauce of one tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour and two cupfuls of water in which a little beef extract has been dissolved. Add one cupful of cooked chicken cut fine, one small onion cut in slices and parboiled, one pint of milk and two tablespoonfuls of cooked peas. Beat thoroughly and serve on toast.

Beef Friedsoles.—Take two cupfuls of cold cooked beef minced fine, season with salt and pepper, sage, thyme, lemon juice and grated onion. Add half a cupful of cold boiled rice, or dry bread crumbs and one egg well beaten. Add a little water if needed, to make a paste. Form into flat cakes and fry in hot fat.

French Beef Hash.—Prepare as usual, and fill a buttered baking dish or individual dishes two-thirds full. Cover the top with seasoned mashed potato made very light with the white of an egg beaten to a stiff froth. Bake in a hot oven until the potato is puffed and brown.

Deviled Chicken.—Make a sauce of salt, pepper, dry mustard, paprika, grated lemon peel, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and a few drops of tabasco. When very hot, add some cubes of cold cooked chicken and cook until heated through. Add a tablespoonful of butter and serve. Pork, veal or beef may be served in the same way.

Is it rainy, little flower?
Be glad of rain:
Too much sun would wither thee.
'Twill shine again,
The clouds are very thick, 'tis true;
But just behind them smiles the blue.

SOME SIMPLE SALADS.

An ear of corn and a potato or two, with French dressing, makes a tasty small salad. If this does not make enough to serve, cut a small tomato for each salad into the form of a flower and sprinkle the salad over this; add a bit of boiled dressing and place the whole on a crisp lettuce leaf. Behold, a salad!

Egg and Cabbage Salad.—Cook six eggs hard; when cold, cut in two lengthwise and take out the yolks. Rub the yolks through a sieve, season with salt and pepper and grated onion and mix to a paste with mayonnaise. Moist into small balls and set aside.

Shred the whites of the eggs with a sharp knife and add twice as much shredded cabbage. Mix with mayonnaise; arrange on a bed of lettuce and drop the egg balls on the salad.

Cabbage Salad.—Chop a firm head of cabbage very fine, with one good-sized onion. Brown a thick slice of salt pork, cut in small dice, until crisp and brown. Pour the sizzling hot fat over the cabbage; stir and mix well, adding salt and cayenne; taste to be sure it is well seasoned, then pour a third of a cupful of boiling hot vinegar over all and garnish the top with the bits of brown cubes. Serve at once.

Shredded Cabbage With Cream.—Shred crisp, firm cabbage as fine as possible; let it stand in ice water to chill, then drain; add sweet cream, sugar and enough vinegar to give it a snappy flavor and serve as a salad. Sour cream, if not too highly flavored may be used, omitting the vinegar.

Cabbage and Green Pepper Salad.—Shred finely a crisp, hard head of cabbage and mix with half as much or less of green pepper. Serve on lettuce with a highly seasoned boiled dressing and garnish with minced red pepper.

Cabbage and Potato Salad.—Cut a large, perfect head of cabbage into a bowl-shaped receptacle. Chop the cabbage, add equal parts of cold boiled potato, a good, well-seasoned dressing and a finely minced cucumber and onion. Fill the cabbage bowl, place a nest of lettuce, chill and serve.

JOHNSON SPEAKS IN MINNESOTA

Talks in Morning at St. Paul; Duluth in Evening.

RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

California Senator Cuts His Speaking Tour Short in Order to Lead Fight in Senate for His Amendment.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 20.—Senator Hiram Johnson announced at the conclusion of his speech here that he would not complete his speaking engagements in the West, but would return to Washington to lead the fight in the senate for the adoption of his amendment to the League of Nations covenant relative to the voting power of the United States and England. He made the decision regardless of telegrams from Senator Lodge and Senator Knox urging him to continue to the coast and assuring him they would champion his amendment.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 20.—As Senator Hiram Johnson's speaking campaign against unreserved ratification of the League of Nations covenant approaches its termination, it becomes evident that the Californian has definitely sounded the sentiment of the middle West on the subject of ratification.

In his two addresses in Minnesota in the morning at St. Paul before the state legislature sitting in joint session and at night here before an audience that packed the local armory—the attitude of those who heard him was positive, and apparently representative of that of the people of the state. And the members of the Minnesota house and senate and the men and women who made up his audience at Duluth, again and again answered his attacks upon the league and the peace treaty by getting on their feet and shrieking approbation of his arguments.

The senator believes that the situation as he seems to have found it in Minnesota is similar to that in every other state he has visited. He is convinced, he says, that the people here are against flat acceptance of the covenant and against it by large majority, although they were openly for the league two months ago.

Change of Attitude.
"This change of attitude," he said here, "has been brought about not by me or by my oratory but just because the real truth about the league is at last becoming a matter of common understanding."

A reflection of the shift of opinion in this state was seen during the general assembly address. Several months ago the Minnesota state legislature passed a resolution endorsing the league and pledging support to the president's program for unannounced acceptance of the document. During the speech all but several members of the assembly jumped to their feet upon four occasions and shouted and stamped their feet as Mr. Johnson called for allegiance to his anti-league doctrine, which he proclaimed, as "Just American."

In the morning he spoke to the representatives of the people of the state. In the evening he addressed the people directly. Like the morning address, the night speech was received with intense enthusiasm. The armory, which normally seats 4,000 persons, contained a crowd estimated at 5,000.

Mr. Johnson relieved himself here as usual, of his aversion for subjugating the United States to European and Asiatic domination.

"We are the only solvent, going national concern," he said, "and yet we have formed a partnership with bankrupt nations. And these bankrupts, after our late experience in meddling and muddling in European and Asiatic politics, have come secretly to detest us and to despise us."

Could Compose Better League.
Several times in his speeches, he has said he would have composed a League of Nations covenant that would not be an affront to America and would represent the people of the world, rather than the rulers. Along this line he suggested that a "war referendum" would be an ideal element in such a proposed document, provided that every signatory agreed to it.

"Give the women of the world, who bear the greatest burdens of a war, opportunity to decide whether they will send their sons and husbands against the sons and husbands of others," he suggested. "But this present league does not consider the people of the world nor the mothers and husbands of the soldiers of the generation, nor the next. This league goes further from the people, rather than closer to them; it is a league of rulers, sitting in secret, formulating war plans in order to maintain their territorial grabs and to reach out for further gains."

KNOW SOMETHING ABOUT IT WAR HAD WROUGHT CHANGE

Englishman Need Not Have Been Surprised at Acquaintance's Knowledge of "Jim Bludso."

In his book, "Winnowed Memories," Sir Evelyn Wood relates how he once met a quiet American gentleman in England, and they began to talk of American poetry. Sir Evelyn mentioned the well-known poem "Jim Bludso," which he highly eulogized.

"My enthusiastic praise of the poem excited, I thought, an appreciative purr in my companion, but he remarked quietly:
"Jim was a fine fellow."
"I said, 'Or the author made him so?'"

"Oh, but he was."
"Why, was he real?"
"Yes, I knew him well."
"But don't you think that the poet embellished Jim's act?"

"No; I am sure he did not."
"Well, but how can you be sure?"
"And he replied quickly, 'I wrote it.'"

The gentleman to whom Sir Evelyn was speaking proved to be Col. John Hay, author of the "Pike County Ballads," who was then the United States ambassador in London.

The Devastated Areas.
"Yes," observed the sergeant major (volunteer) to the unwilling working party (retainable), "some of you lads don't seem to realize that you're being off. You might be on the Rhine 'aving 'yuns of 'ate sung at you all day long. You might be on the Somme, working side by side with Chinks and Jerries. Instead of 'ere you are in lovely country, good society, beaucoup estamblyns an' beaucoup mademolles. An' still you won't put your backs into it. Very well, if you want a change you shall 'ave one. I'll 'ave the whole lot of you transferred to the demonstrated areas!"—Manchester Guardian.

Tyranny often defeats its own aims.

Where Poor Sermons Come From.
The little group on the steps of Saymouth's general store and post office were discussing the ministers' convention, then in session at the state capital, and Squire Lane, who had been "assessed" for his share of Rev. Mr. Lamb's expenses, said that in his opinion there were a good many better ways of spending five days.

"Cheaper, too," he added feelingly. After a sigh of sympathy had completed a circle of the little group, Joe Tollins, who in village estimate, "wa'n't all there," asked "what they held them conventions for, anyway?"

"They meet once a year to swap sermons," replied the squire. "Now I know why we get such poor ones!" said Joe, momentarily enlightened. "Mr. Lamb never did amount to anything in a trade."—Youth's Companion.

STUDENTS EARN OWN WAY

No Reason Why Healthy, Ambitious Wisconsin Boy or Girl Should Not Go to College.

Few colleges in the United States have such large percentages of students earning their way through school as have the Wisconsin colleges. For example, nearly 90 per cent of the students at Northland College are either totally or partly dependent upon their own resources. At Beloit College nearly 70 per cent of the students make their own way. At Carroll College 40 per cent students are dependent upon themselves.

Because of the opportunities for self-help in the college towns of Wisconsin, there is really little reason why any healthy young man or woman living in Wisconsin should not go to college.

The Wisconsin Colleges Associated are today acquainting the people of Wisconsin with the functions, opportunities, problems and needs of the small college.

The eight institutions which are members of the Wisconsin Colleges Associated have 442 men and women on their faculties. How to hold these teachers with such small salaries as they can offer, is one of the serious problems facing the Wisconsin college president today.

Of the 3,182 graduates of Marquette University 959 are engaged in the practice of medicine, 833 are dentists and 356 are nurses.

COLLEGES LOSE TEACHERS

Poor Salaries Forcing Professors to Abandon Teaching and to Enter Business World.

BY DR. WILLIAM T. FOSTER
President, Reed College, Portland, Oregon.

Our colleges have done their jobs too well. They have trained men so successfully that when they desire to hold one of these men for their own use, they can no longer do it. The teacher finds that there are any number of positions awaiting him in the world of business at salaries that are very much higher than the maximum that his college will ever be able to pay him.

Large numbers of students who never thought of going to college before the war are seeking higher education and are coming to our schools of higher learning in great numbers. The teaching staffs, on the other hand, are smaller than they were before the war. Men have left to enter all branches of service, and they are not coming back to the poverty of a teacher.

In Wisconsin, eight colleges, denominational and non-denominational, Protestant and Catholic, have banded together to work out their common problems.

Of the 1,380 living alumni of Beloit College, 380 are teaching. This is one of the arguments for the voluntarily maintained college.

Of the 700 living alumni of Carroll College 48 are in the Government service.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Leifer were pleasantly surprised by their children Sunday. The occasion being their 40th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Leifer attended the services at the church in the morning, and on returning home they found their house decorated with bitter sweet, and were greeted by the song entitled "Bis hieter hat mich Gott gebrocht", sung by the children. Those who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Otto Leifer and sons Leland, Norbert and Lorenz, and daughter Clara of Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. Hy. Torke and daughters Alma, Erna and Irene and son Walter of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leifer and family, of Random Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Donath and family of Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Capelle and family of Adell; Mrs. Adelia Holz and children Althia and Howard of here; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Leifer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leifer and family of here, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Molkenhine of West Bend; and Richard and Walter Leifer at home; Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Capelle of Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dettman and family of Random Lake; Rev. and Mrs. Heschke and family. The following poem was received by Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Leifer from their daughter Ida of Montana:

Out of Eternal silence,
From the realms of the unborn,
Two lives came forth,
Down from that cloud-veiled region
Came they forth into earth, life yet moved apart.

Chanced then a meeting of these lives at the verge of years mature
As man and maid, love drew them close and soon these two in holy wedlock joined, as man and wife.
Time swept them and closer grew the tie that first had drawn them, made them one,
Out of their union still the stream of race life onward flowed,
Their children came, mother, wife and sweetheart still, and comrade ever true.

Ours are those lives;
Ours to be cherished still with broader, deeper onward flow, until the end,
Until the end,
Children and children's children then
Shall live on after us,
Adown the years we shall live on in them beyond our span of earthly days and they again,
Joining with other lives project, the essence of our lives in endless flow, Love hath done this, that love which first did draw, then bind us close,
in undying love;
Comrade of many years let joy be ours
this day,
Our wedding day, roses for you I bring a pledge of love still true,
How and for aye.
Forty years did you say?
Then came we all to bring greetings
and prayer of blessing,
May the union continue theirs adown
to life's journey's end,
With love and laughter and song,
thus move your life along.
From Mr. and Mrs. Joe. Hamm and family.

YOU SHOULD KNOW THE BLUE-SKY LAW

a decided step forward for Wisconsin.

PROVISIONS IN BRIEF:

1. No one can sell securities without a permit from the Railroad Commission.
2. With the exception of exempted securities (which includes farm mortgages, municipal bonds, church bonds, etc.) securities are issued under the following restrictions:

- A. All securities must be approved by the Railroad Commission
- B. Propositions submitted to the Commission are handled in one of three ways:

- First. If the investment is bad it cannot be sold in Wisconsin.
 - Second. If companies issuing securities are not known to have a record of past success the securities must be sold as "speculative" or Class B securities.
 - Third. If the company has a good record of earnings and has property of sufficient value the securities are approved as Class A securities.
- (Note: The Commission by law cannot recommend)

Benefits of the Law:

1. The sale of "wild-cat" preferred stocks is prohibited.
2. The law guarantees that those who buy "speculative" securities will know it.
3. Good investments will be available to investors.
4. Reliable loan and bond companies will not have to contend with "get-rich-quick" agents and brokers.

NOW—

All details of the West Bend Aluminum Company bond issue were submitted to the Railroad Commission on August 13, 1919. On August 28th the Commission granted permit to sell these bonds as Class A securities.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
This is not only one of the best and most efficient medicines for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, but is also pleasant to take, which is important when a medicine must be given to young children. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been in use for many years and has met with much favor wherever its good qualities have been known. Many mothers have given it their unqualified endorsement. Wm. Sewby, Chillicothe, Mo., writes: "I have raised three children, have always used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and found it to be the best for coughs, colds and croup. It is pleasant to take. Both adults and children like it. My wife and I have always felt safe from croup with it in the house." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic.

SEVEN SHOT IN STRIKE RIOTING

Guards Raid Mill Pickets at New Castle (Pa.) Carnegie Mills.

STRIKE FAILS IN BIG PLANTS

Union Leaders Claim 284,000 Men Are Out All Over Country, but Many of the Large Plants Continue Operations.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 24.—William Z. Foster, secretary of the national committee for organizing iron and steel workers, gave out the following figures as indicating the number of men on strike:

Chicago district 60,000 Cleveland 30,000 Youngstown proper 15,000 Youngstown district, including Sharon, Farrell, New Castle, Strassburg, Butler, Canton and Massillon 50,000

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 24.—The great steel strike, less than twenty-four hours old, saw its first tragedy when guards at mills of the Carnegie Steel company in New Castle engaged in a shooting duel with strikers and their sympathizers.

Seven persons were struck by bullets, two of them women. Six of the injured were seriously hurt. All were removed to the New Castle hospital.

The strikers had taken a stand on Moravia street, opposite the mill buildings. Deputy sheriffs and plant guards were stationed just in front of the property of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The leaders of a strike claim that from 75,000 to 85,000 men had quit work in the Chicago district; that all plants in Gary, Indiana Harbor, East Chicago, Joliet, South Chicago, Evanston, Milwaukee, Waukegan, DeKalb and Sterling were shut down.

WILSON RUNS INTO SIZZLING WEATHER

Blistering Sun Out on Run From Sacramento to Reno.

GREAT WELCOME IN NEVADA

Dense Crowds Greet the President at All Cities and Towns—Sees Orkales Working in Fields—Makes Hit With Children.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 23.—A blistering sun sizzled President Wilson over the California boundary line into this city late last night. It made the all-steel cars of the "White House Special" resemble bake ovens, but with all its heat it did not exceed in temperature the warmth of the welcome given the president at every little town, cross roads and village through which the train passed.

The president and members of his party were swallowed up in smoke for three miles when the train burrowed its way through the great forest fires that are raging in the Sierra Nevada mountains.

Soon after the special reached Dutch Flat, the famous old mining town which once claimed Mark Twain and Bret Harte among its foremost citizens, it came into view of the pine and fir forests of the mountains. A great funnel of smoke that rolled dark, heavy clouds over the highest peaks, was the first indication of the fires.

The president had only one set speech for the day. It was given to a large and enthusiastic audience here. Shortly after noon, however, when the train pulled into Sacramento, the president appeared on the observation platform of the Mayflower and addressed a crowd of 5,000 persons. His speech did not exceed 500 words.

People Out En Masse. It took the president's train nearly one-half hour to go through Sacramento and the California capital was out en masse to see him. Thousands of school children and grown folk, too, lined the tracks and cheered him as the train went slowly. The same outpouring of people occurred and more, at Stockton, Lodi and other towns and cities in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys.

The children caught the words instantly, took up the tune, and there after the crowd was always "four feet back" from the "Mayflower." "Four feet back" was the slogan. "Four feet back, four feet back. Four, four, four feet back."

CARDINAL GUISTINI

Cardinal Guistini, the newly appointed envoy extraordinary of the Vatican to Jerusalem. To many observers in Paris the sending of the cardinal to Jerusalem means to indicate that there is a project towards the restoration of Catholicism in Asia Minor and northern Africa.

SOME STRIKE FIGURES

HALF MILLION MEN ARE AFFECTED BY THE WALKOUT. Statistics Show Average Pay of U. S. Steel Corporation Workers is $6.23 a Day.

New York, Sept. 23.—Plants of the United States Steel corporation, central figure in the strike, are located in Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, Maryland, Massachusetts, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Connecticut, Alabama, California, Kansas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, West Virginia, Delaware, New York, and Ontario, Canada.

It was estimated that the number of workers affected directly or indirectly by the strike will aggregate half a million. The average daily pay of the corporation's employees, including the administrative and selling force, is $6.23, according to a recent report to the directors. This is an increase of 116 per cent since 1914, when the average was $2.88. The average annual pay in 1918 was $1,950.

Iron ore properties of the corporation are mainly in the Lake Superior district, the southern region of Alabama and Georgia. Coal and coke properties are located in Pennsylvania, Virginia, Colorado, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Extensive coking and gas plants are also owned and controlled in a number of states and at several lake ports there are extensive ore docks. Seven ocean-going steamers and operated smaller craft are owned and operated together with more than 1,000 miles of railroad.

The subsidiary companies of the corporation are the Carnegie Steel, Illinois Steel, Universal Portland Cement, Indiana Steel, Minnesota Steel, Lorain Steel, National Tube, National Steel and Wire, American Sheet and Tin Plate company, Sharon Tin Plate, American Bridge, Union Steel, Clairton Steel, Clairton By-Product Coke, Federal Sheetpiling, Canadian Steel, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad, Fairfield Steel and Chickasaw Shipbuilding, in addition to its coal, coke, iron, ore and transportation properties. The railroads include the Bessemer & Lake Erie, Elgin, Joliet & Eastern, Duluth & Iron Range and the Duluth, Missabe & Northern.

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR OF WISCONSIN

The war has, we hope, determined that peoples driven from their countries by brutal invasion shall have the right to return, possess their lands in established peace, and live their own national and political life.

For 3,000 years the Armenians, who are probably the most ancient Christian people in the world, have formed a barrier against the Paganism of the Orient, and have been for over 500 years the most industrious and intelligent people in the Turkish Empire. The refusal of the Armenians to fight with Turkey against the Allies, let loose upon these helpless people a crusade of torture and murder so diabolical as to be impossible of description. Over 4,000,000 of them have been massacred, their young women have been dragged into nameless captivity; and of the survivors, 1,500,000 are starving to death, dying by the thousands daily. If we let these people perish, we will be completing the work the Turk set out to do. This for Americans must be an impossible thing. At this point the war for us is not yet over.

There are now 450,000 helpless, starving little orphans in Armenia with no one to look to for aid but America. This country has never had a greater opportunity than is hers now in caring for these 450,000 children, and in building in the heart of Asia a nation, the influence of which will permeate throughout the continent. With Turkey in unrest, all of Asia is in turmoil. With Asia in arms Europe must necessarily become embroiled, and when Europe goes to war, America now knows only too well the result for her in life-blood and material resources. If we save these people we save the world; let them perish and the world will be lost to the dread of war for another generation. It is not going to be a brief task to make this nation of children self-supporting and independent, and to instill into them idealism of government and life, but it is a task decidedly worth while.

To save the life of one of these orphans costs only seventeen cents a day or $5.00 per month. The American Committee for Armenian-Syrian Relief is incorporated by special Act of Congress, and is responsible to Congress for report of its work. Its remittances are sent through the State Department; its accounts in Asia are audited by American Consular Agents. Wisconsin headquarters have been established at 212 Baker Block, Racine. Mr. Walter J. Kasten of Milwaukee is State Treasurer.

I urge upon every household in Wisconsin, that can spare the money from its own requirements, to give a helping hand to these starving children to the extent of agreeing to pay each month the sum necessary to maintain one young life. They are truly poor and they belong to the lowly. Said the Master: "As ye do unto the least of these, so do ye unto Me." Dated August 30, 1919.

E. L. PHILIPP,
Governor.

Why Brunswick Tires Win Preference

There are two main reasons—one, the name itself, which certifies superfine value—the other, that time tells the same story.

Thus reputation and performance unite in giving you all you expect—and more.

Yet Brunswicks cost no more than like-type tires. Many motorists would pay more readily, but the Brunswick idea is to GIVE the utmost, rather than to GET the utmost. And this has been true since 1845. You can appreciate what Brunswick Standards mean by trying ONE Brunswick Tire. It will be a revelation. You'll agree that you could not buy a better, regardless of price.

And, like other motorists, you'll decide to have ALL Brunswicks. Then you'll know supreme satisfaction from your tires—longer life, minimum trouble, lower cost.

For a Weak Stomach

The great relief afforded by Chamberlain's Tablets in a multitude of cases has fully proven the great value of this preparation for a weak stomach and impaired digestion. In many cases this relief has become permanent and the sufferers have been completely restored to health.

COLLEGE HEADS TO VISIT TEN CITIES

PRESIDENTS OF EIGHT STATE INSTITUTIONS TO TOUR THE ENTIRE STATE.

WANT STATE TO KNOW NEEDS

Money Needed Badly to Pay Larger Salaries to Faculty Members. Schools Unable to Handle Large Student Bodies.

Presidents of the eight institutions which are members of the Wisconsin Colleges Associated, which is today engaged in a state-wide campaign of education to acquaint the people of Wisconsin with the needs and problems of the small college, will visit and speak in ten cities of the state beginning Monday, September 22.

The party will consist of Dr. Melvin A. Brannon, president of Beloit College and president of the Wisconsin Colleges Associated; Rev. Albert C. Fox, president, Campion College; Dr. Herbert P. Houghton, president, Carroll College; Dr. Samuel Piantz, president, Lawrence College; Rev. Herbert C. Noonan, president, Marquette University; Dr. William C. Deland, president Milton College and secretary of the Wisconsin Colleges Associated; J. D. Brownell, president, Northland College, and Dr. Henry C. Culbertson, president, Ripon College.

The itinerary follows: September 22, Superior; Sept. 23, Eau Claire; Sept. 24, Wausau; Sept. 25, Green Bay; Sept. 26, Oshkosh; Sept. 27, Grand Rapids; Sept. 28, La Crosse; Sept. 30, Prairie du Chien; Oct. 1, Janesville and Oct. 2, Milwaukee.

These presidents will attempt to inform the people of the state exactly what is the part played by a small college in the state's educational system. To illustrate: Of the 5,000 living alumni of these eight institutions more than one-fourth are in the professions. The ministry, education and social service is largely dependent upon the small college for new men and women.

These presidents will recall the part that the Wisconsin small college played in helping to win the war. Nearly 9,000 students and alumni of these eight institutions served with the colors during the war. While the college served it suffered loss of income and today faces most serious problems.

October 24-31 is the date set when these eight institutions will raise in this country $5,000,000 for combined use, the money to be distributed on a basis of student hours. The money will be used in constructing new buildings and in getting new equipment, in increasing the salaries of members of the faculties and in getting larger and more competent faculties, and in increasing endowments.

Wisconsin is the first state to undertake such an ambitious enterprise and as a result is commanding the attention of the nation.

"Will Wisconsin again lead the way?" is the question asked.

WHY GO TO COLLEGE?

The average salary per year of the non-educated man in the United States is $400. The average salary of the high school graduate is $1,000 yearly. The average college graduate of the United States received $1,800 annually. Hence for the outlay of the four years of high school, according to averages, a man receives about two dollars a day for the rest of his life, and for money returns on the four college years the graduate by averages is due to add $700 a year to his income until he dies. All of which is reason for giving thought to the Wisconsin Colleges Associated.

COLLEGE STARTS IN HOTEL.

Campion College, at Prairie du Chien, one of the eight members of the Wisconsin Colleges Associated which is engaged in a state-wide educational campaign to acquaint the people of the state with the problems of the small college, was started in a building which was originally a hotel, then a hospital, then a state normal school, then an independent school. The school failed and the building was turned over to the Fathers of the Society of Jesus and since then the college has moved steadily ahead.

VALUE OF EDUCATION.

Thinking men and women of today should consider the value of an education in a light quite aside from its monetary value. Clear thinking, good judgment, leadership and executive training and administrative ability are largely the results of college training. Another argument for the Wisconsin Colleges Associated.

WORTH OF EDUCATION.

Less than one man in 500 in this country has a college education, and yet this small fraction of the people has produced 22 per cent of our representatives, 46 per cent of our senators, 65 per cent of our presidents and 79 per cent of the judges of the Supreme Court.

"The small college is the one having the strongest influence on men."—Former Vice-President Fairbanks.
