

State Dep't of Education By State Superintendent

To School Officers, Editors, and All Others Who May Be Interested: "Is it true that Wisconsin stands low (30th) from the top among the states in the United States in the matter of the education of its children?" This is a query that has come to me often since the recent announcement of the Russell Sage Foundation. In the first place I should like to state what this Report does not do: 1. It does not tell or attempt to tell how good or how poor the work in our Wisconsin schools is. The men who figured out the results probably never saw the inside of a Wisconsin class room.

2. They took no note of our private or parochial schools and the pupils that attend them. Such pupils are "not in school" according to the Report, and the money cost of educating this large group was in no way credited to the state.

3. The Report relates to the expenditure of money for teachers' salaries and other school purposes (in country and city) in the grade and high schools. It takes no account of the attendance of children (all children of school age) in the public schools between the ages of 5 and 18. This was for the year 1918. Needless to say, all states were treated in the same way in the Report, and the results are therefore relatively fairly comparable.

Wisconsin's Rank (from top)	Percentage of total school population attending public schools
29	Average days attended per child daily
36	Days schools were open
8	Attendance in high schools
10	Boys and girls in high schools
17	Average expenditure per child attending
30	Average expenditure per child of school age
31	Average expenditure per teacher employed
26	Average expenditure per pupil for non-salary items
27	Teachers' salaries per month (12 in the year)
30	Items on which we are below average

General or average rank of Wisconsin among the 48 states of the Union for the year 1918 on the items mentioned above, 30th from the top. What can you do to improve your rating?

What, then, causes our low standing according to the report? From a study of the above ratings it will be seen that the reply is (1) that we are not spending as much money as most other states for elementary and high school purposes; (2) we are not putting our pupils into the schools and keeping them there as well as the average state does. Five items relate to expenditure of money by boards of education and five to attendance of pupils.

We have been too conservative in spending money, and too careless about getting children into school. That, in a nut shell, is the story of our low rating.

Who is responsible? Every man and woman in the state who has helped to keep down the salaries of teachers' salaries, etc., and every careless parent who has allowed his children to go to school irregularly or stop too early, and every officer whose duty it was to see that children attend school, but did not do so.

The remedy is plain that anybody can see what it is to increase our expenditures for elementary and high school purposes, and see to it that children go to school—at least during the compulsory school age (7 to 14). Every school board that employed a teacher for the year 1918 at a salary of less than $600 for the year was pulling us down below the average for the United States, and every board that employed teachers at more than this was helping to keep up our standing.

Of course the larger and wealthier cities would, all over the country, help to raise the general level. The average salary for the whole state that year on a twelve month basis was $41.05. For Minnesota it was $51.24, and for Illinois it was $66.95. In other words, teachers in Illinois got 50 per cent better salaries on the average than did Wisconsin teachers. A teacher who gets only two-thirds as much salary as a poorer teacher? I do not know; but in the long run she is likely to be. Have we not been too economical in Wisconsin? Will it not sooner or later tell against the children of the state and the state itself? I think so. We have been saying so for years. We have been economical and we have probably got more than our money's worth, in past years, but we cannot continue to do so, for many of our best teachers are leaving for other states or going in other business. Since 1918 we have made rapid strides in salaries, but other states have done the same.

C. P. CARY, State Supt.

WHICH AUTO HAS RIGHT OF WAY

There are thousands of people driving automobiles, and yet there are very few of them who know the rules of the road, many believing that the car on the main traveled street has the right of way over all others. This is absurd, as in many places it would be impossible to ascertain which was the main traveled road. The rule everywhere, except possibly in some cities where local ordinance regulate traffic and where traffic policemen are stationed is that the car approaching from the right has the right of way. It is easy to remember. The law is simple and is a mighty good one to remember and follow. It is impossible for a driver to look two ways at once, so the law makes it so that he simply has to observe whether a car is approaching from the right, and if so to give it the right of way.

COUNTY HOLSTEIN BREEDERS MEET

Next Tuesday, June 22, the Washington County Holstein Breeders' association will hold their annual picnic and summer meet at Wittig Brothers' farm, half a mile south and one mile west of Thompson in the town of Erin. That section of the county has become a prominent Holstein center, and as a recognition of the fact and an encouragement the association decided to have their summer doings this year over there. The selection of the place will have the additional advantage of bringing the members into one of the most picturesque parts of the country. Wittig Brothers on their part will do their best to make the visitors feel perfectly at home on their farm.

The business meeting will be called to order at eleven o'clock in the morning and will be followed by a talk by Mr. H. J. Clover of the Wisconsin Dairy Council.

At twelve o'clock a recess of an hour will be made for a picnic lunch. The visitors will bring their lunch along, and coffee and milk will be served free of charge.

At one o'clock a talk will be given on "Why and How Should We Do Official Testing by R. H. Harris of the University of Wisconsin. This will be followed by a Cow Judging Contest and another talk by the Wisconsin Holstein Breeders' Association.

The committee appointed at the winter meeting to investigate the advisability of holding a Holstein sale will make its report at this meeting.

Complete arrangements have been made by the executive committee to insure a good as well as a profitable time for everybody in attendance. It will be a most desirable opportunity to spend a day among pleasant and interesting people, all working along a prominent line of animal husbandry which enables the farmer to be interested in Holstein breeding. Next Tuesday is the day.

THE FARM LABOR QUESTION

The past season has shown that the question of labor on the farm is one of vital importance. Seven million farms in this country needed additional labor. Some relief was afforded through the release from the army of thousands of men who were either employed in outdoor work previous to the war or who through their army experience have come to prefer outdoor work to that which they were doing before they entered the army. But the problem was not entirely solved in this way, as the supply of labor released through the demobilization of the army fell short of the amount needed by the American farmer.

The obvious solution to this problem lies in making the farm attractive to labor and in making full use of all labor saving devices at the service of the farmers. Factory hours and factory wages still attract labor despite the fact that the actual working conditions are the least healthful than those on the farm. And of course city life, too, is a powerful attraction. The farmer, however, is not at the disadvantage he once was. The tractor and other improved farm implements have made it possible to do the work of a team with less labor. The use of small electric light and power plants which not only give light and cheerful light as that enjoyed in the city but which furnish power for pumping, churning, milking, separating, washing and a hundred other tasks which used to make farm life drudgery. On these improvements rest the farmer's chance of securing the help he needs.

OWNED A "STILL": ARRESTED

Frank Bongart, a mason, who has for some time been plying his trade in this city, was arrested at Milwaukee one evening last week by federal authorities on the charge of having a small newly-made still in his arms. Bongart's evidence, and an affidavit made and signed by him, is believed to have led to the raid at 320 Chestnut street, where material said to be sufficient for fifteen copper stills was confiscated. According to Bongart's affidavit, two Milwaukee businessmen, one manufacturer of plumbers' supplies the other a retail dealer in hardware, are implicated in the sale of still making materials. Bongart affirms that he was directed to a hardware store. At the store he was sent to several departments, passed from one clerk to another. One of the clerks was a woman, says, who finally led him to a copper-smith on an upper floor of the building. The copper-smith sold him the kettle and cooling vat necessary to the still and directed him to the factory where he could buy the copper tubing. It was further advised that Bongart told the salesman that he wanted a still, and that the smith agreed to weld the material together for him. He said that he obtained the material, and that the copper-smith put it together. The total cost of a still is $13, according to the receipts from the dealers attached to the affidavit.—West Bend Pilot.

LEATHER NOVELTY MFG CO. BOOMING

The Leather Novelty Manufacturing Company of this village, is now doing a large and extensive business in the manufacture of leather goods, under the able management and supervision of Mr. Herman Gilbert, who is a thoroughly experienced practical pocket book maker. The company started operation in the Mrs. Emma Altenhofen building on East Main street next to the bridge, on September 24, 1917, at that time employing seven people. Since its organization it experienced a steady growth, and more help had to be continually added in order to turn out enough product to supply the demand. A year after the company commenced operation, the marked increase in the manufacture of goods gave warning that the building which they then occupied was too small to enable them to supply future demands, and it was found necessary to look for larger quarters. The two-story building, a quarter of a mile from the factory, across the street, and formerly used as a paint shop, was rented, remodeled and turned into an ideal factory to answer the needs of the company. The first floor is being used for workmen, while the second floor is being used for storage rooms. In a visit to the factory by one of the members of the Statesman staff, we were informed that the company is now in a very flourishing condition. The ever increasing demands for their finished product finds the company's new quarters too small to supply the demand. There is an unlimited demand for their goods, which is evidenced by the fact that their products are sold throughout the United States and Canada. The factory is equipped with the latest and most modern machinery which enables the turning out of a complete line of leather goods. Even though this country has been facing a shortage of help, the Leather Novelty company has not found each to be the case. The factory now employs thirty-six people, which is all that their present quarters can accommodate. All of whom are good, reliable and competent workers, who will understand their chosen vocation. New applicants are applying daily and are either turned away or their names are placed on file to fill future vacancies. Mr. Gilbert now has fifteen names on file. As soon as the high cost of building material allows, the company is strongly contemplating the building of a large up-to-date, fire-proof factory here, which will enable them to employ one hundred or more people. At present the company will try to get along as best they can until such time when prices will warrant the putting up of a mammoth building. With the increasing demand for the manufactured products of this concern there remains no doubt that within the course of a few years, the company will rank second to none in the state. Here is wishing them continued success.

STORM DOES DAMAGE

The severe wind and electrical storm which swept over this section of the state last Sunday evening at about 10:30 o'clock, did considerable damage to property in the southern part of Washington county. The village of Jackson was hit about the hardest. The village was practically cut off from outside communication. Telephone and electric wires were completely demolished. A blacksmith shop owned by William Gilbert was unroofed and the roof carried across the street by the wind and hurled against the front of the residence of George Reichert, completely destroying the front of the building. None of the family who were in the house at the time were injured, as they had left for the back of the building when the crash came. A large number of trees were also blown down. In other sections of the county the damage done was not so great, outside of trees being blown over and silos unroofed no other damage was reported.

Write for Catalog

The building of this new line has caused no little excitement among the farmers, who have already signed, and to those whose place the line will pass and especially to the citizens of New Fane. All are enthusiastic and take a deep interest in the construction of same, which will bring to their homes the everyday comforts that city people are enjoying. It will be only a matter of a short time when the little village of New Fane, will have electric lights burning in every home and street lights to illuminate the town. A large number of farmers in that vicinity are already making plans to have spurs built from the main line to their farm homes. This alone gives anyone ample reason to believe that the entire country will soon be a net work of electric wires, and the kerosene lamps, lanterns, steam and gasoline engines are slowly and surely dying a natural death. The current to be furnished will be alternating. The company will at the start be able to furnish consumers power for any size of any size that they may need on the farm. Besides this line to New Fane the company is at present negotiating with farmers for two more lines out of the village.

ELECTRIC COMPANY GOING TO EXPAND

With the remodeling of the power plant and the installing of a new 300 H. P. Nonberg Todd Uni-Flow engine and 250 K. V. H. Westinghouse 2300 Volt Alternating current generator, the Kewaskum Electric Light Company will soon be in a position to furnish twenty-four hour current to the best of satisfaction. With this new equipment the company is not only in a position to furnish light and power to the citizens of this village, but are anticipating the building of various lines out of Kewaskum to a number of inland towns in this community. The first line to be constructed from this village will be to New Fane, for which a franchise from the town of Auburn and Kewaskum has already been granted. The company expects to start the work of building this line in about two weeks when the necessary material for the construction of same will be here. Before the line has been set, the line, however, new poles will first be erected through the lower or east end of this village, to replace the old ones. The new poles will be much higher and will equal the height of those to be used for the new line. As soon as all poles have been set the work of stretching the new copper wire will be started. The first wire will be extended from the transmission line. The new line will be built along the river road, as far north as John Klein's corner, from where it will extend east as far as Moldenauer's church, then north to Frank Ehner's place, then east past the New Fane saw mill, through New Fane to the home of William Pick, a distance of about four and one-half miles. The company expects to have the line completed in the first part of September. Up to the present time fifteen consumers have already signed to have the new lighting and power system installed. Prospects look very bright, that by the time the line is completed, at least twenty to twenty-two consumers will be on the list. With the installation of this new system, the consumers will be in a position to have their pumping, sawing feed cutting, washing, ironing, etc., done by electricity, thereby saving time, labor and money, and at the same time enjoy all the modern comforts and conveniences of the present age.

HOW WARREN G. HARDING WAS NOMINATED BY THE REPUBLICANS

Story of the National Convention at Chicago, the Struggle to Build a Platform and the Selection of a Ticket.

GOVERNOR COOLIDGE GIVEN SECOND PLACE

Wood, Lowden and Johnson, Leaders in the Early Balloting, Eliminated at the Behest of a Senatorial Coterie and a Dark Horse Wins the Race.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

For President—WARREN G. HARDING OF Ohio.

For Vice President—CALVIN COOLIDGE OF Massachusetts.

There is the ticket with which the Republicans hope and intend to regain possession of the national government next fall.

For president, a man from the home state of many presidents, a statesman of long experience and solid reputation, who has been a member of the United States senate since 1914, a member of the "old guard" who stands well with the Republicans who are in control of the senate.

For vice president, the governor of the Bay state, who was virtually unknown to the nation at large until the strike of Boston policemen and his vigorous course in its suppression gave him a vast amount of publicity and made him the favorite son of Massachusetts in the balloting for first place on the ticket.

The gentlemen now stand before the electors of the country on a platform that is so broad that it embraces nearly every topic and issue of the day, though there are those who assert that, though they are planks are perfunctory in tone. Its builders, however, maintain that there is no danger of the candidates falling through the weak spots, and it may be that, with some judicious straddling and side-stepping, this will prove true.

Struggle Over the Platform.

Seldom, if ever, has the choice of a presidential candidate been so closely connected with the building of the platform—or it might be more exact to say the rejection of a candidate. For if Hiram Johnson and his supporters could have compelled the adoption of just the plank they demanded on the League of Nations issue, the California senator, and his alone, could with consistency have insisted to go before the people standing on the platform. As it was, his threat to bolt the party caused a long deadlock in the deliberations of the committee on resolutions and at last forced the adoption of a plank based on the cabined suggestion of Elihu Root. That wise man had gone to Europe, but kept in close touch with the doings in Chicago and at the crucial moment his plan was presented to Johnson, Borah, McCormick and the other "irreconcilables" and accepted by them.

The resolution as finally incorporated in the platform, almost without a quiver, completely avoids any pledge to ratify the treaty of peace and the league covenant with or without reservations, strongly indorses the action of the Republican senators in that regard and promises that the party will work for some kind of international arrangement for the peaceful adjustment of disputes between nations without the sacrifice of American sovereignty. Thus, as will be soon, the way is left open for an administration elected on this platform to do almost anything it sees fit in this regard, except to ratify a treaty and league covenant such as President Wilson brought home from Paris.

Wilson's Policies Scored.

For the rest, the platform, in brief, scores President Wilson and the Democratic administration for their unpreparedness for war and for the equally unprepared condition of the nation for the autocratic assumption of authority by the president, the platform pledges the restoration of constitutional government. The Republican congress with the problems caused by the president's course.

The farmers gained their requested support for the extension of farm loans and the right to engage in co-operative marketing and buying.

The industrial plank was the subject of much discussion. Some of the committee members, presumably speaking for big business, favored a plank for the prevention of strikes by law. Governor Allen and others wanted the Kansas industrial court plan indorsed. And President Gompers traveled all the way to Chicago to tell the committee what kind of plank the American Federation of Labor demanded. None of these requests were satisfied, but the plank adopted recognizes the justice of collective bargaining and continues:

"The strike, or the lockout, as a means of settling industrial disputes, inflicts such loss and suffering on the community as to justify government initiative to reduce its frequency and limit its consequences.

"We deny the right to strike against the government; but the rights and interests of all government employees must be safeguarded by impartial laws and tribunals."

On Economy and H. C. of L.

The failure of the administration to retrench during the post-war period and the addition of thousands of special chair warmers are derided and the party pledges itself to a policy of economy and a carefully planned readjustment. The need of an executive budget and condensation of the presidential veto that defeated this financial reform was coupled with caustic characterization of the manner in which the president, according to the Republicans, clings to his wartime powers. Revision of taxation also is demanded.

Coming to the great issue of the high cost of living, the committee drew up a declaration to the effect that the present conditions are the result of an inflation of the currency and of credit which the party pledges itself to correct by deflation, the prevention of unreasonable profits and the stimulation of private thrift by a change in the income tax law. The party reaffirmed its belief in the protective tariff, and pledged the encouragement of an American merchant marine by the application of the workman's compensation act and the exemption from canal tolls of the merchant marine.

Profit-sharing was condemned, government ownership of railways opposed, waterways encouraged and the regulation of industry and commerce promised in order to prevent monopolies. Its assumption of trade relations with every nation with which America is at peace was pledged. No changes were promised in the existing immigration laws, but the bettering of naturalization laws was favored, and the party went on record as favoring a policy by which American women who marry foreigners shall not lose their citizenship. The government's authority to deport and exclude undesirable aliens was upheld, but assurance was given that the rights of free speech, free press and free assembly will not be abridged.

What They Said of Mexico.

A large number of minor topics were handled in the platform, and it denounces the plank on Mexico. It denounces very severely with President Wilson's policy and pledged that the party will not recognize any Mexican government unless the lives and property of Americans there are protected. Armenia came next in the list of planks. Deep sympathy was expressed for the Armenians, but the president was condemned for asking for authority to accept an Armenian mandate and it was added that the Republican party was unalterably against the acceptance of a mandate for any country in Europe or Asia.

The men who fought in the great war were assured of the party's deep gratitude and were promised liberal legislation for the care of the disabled, maimed and dependents. Though William Jennings Bryan was present throughout the active life of the convention with the avowed purpose of persuading the Republicans to insert a "dry" plank in their platform, he failed—possibly because the timely decision of the Supreme court seemed to render unnecessary any explicit declaration. The convention merely declared that all laws should be enforced, and let it go at that.

Women and Irish Displeased.

Two other elements also were disappointed. These were the suffragists and the friends of the Irish "republic." The former, under the leadership of the heads of the woman's party, were in Chicago in strength and during the entire week maintained around the Coliseum a line of pickets bearing banners that warned the Republicans that the women demanded the franchise and would be satisfied with no less. A plank was inserted in the platform urging Republican legislatures that have not acted to ratify the suffrage amendment, but this did not appease the ladies. In the last few moments of a session they dropped from a balcony a great yellow banner on which was the statement that they wanted votes, not planks. As for the Irish, they, too, made a big demonstration in Chicago, and De Valera, the president of their "republic" was there to deliver a speech before a great gathering. But something went wrong with the planks; and the plank which was tentatively shaped for the platform suited them so little that it was omitted entirely and nothing put in its place. There was a story that this resolution had been drawn up by Justice Colahan of New York in the hope that it would be usable and that the Democrats in San Francisco would be enabled to take advantage of the circumstance. So, though considerable space has been given to the platform of the Republican party, it is not because it must be considered as a great or a particularly strong program.

Lots of men and women in the party are far from pleased with many parts of it, and it must be confessed that the water failed to find anyone who was crazed with enthusiasm over it.

The story of this convention would be intensely interesting if it could tell all the truth about the secret influences that governed its actions. On the surface it was not a very exciting affair, and the enthusiastic outbursts that characterized some of its sessions appeared too often to be facades. For five days the 14,000 delegates, alternates, seat-holders and possessors of tickets that allowed them to stand about the few open places and hamper everyone else gathered faithfully in the Coliseum, prepared to hovel with glee over expected times and triumphs. But most of the time all they could do was to cheer for their favorite on occasion and try to keep up with the strong-lunged cheer and song leader who had been brought up from Camp Devens.

Boased by Senators.

From the first it was heralded as that most unusual thing, an unbossed convention. All the experts asserted that the delegates were going to do as they pleased and that the old-time leadership was impotent. For a day or two this seemed true, but then the senatorial coterie got into action, and from that time to the end what was done was generally what it wished done. To start with Senator Lodge was selected as temporary chairman, and was continued permanently in the place, the entire temporary organization being retained. On the all-important committee on resolutions there were numerous senators and ex-senators, and they pretty much dictated the makeup of the platform. In the selection of the ticket their influence was seen and felt in every move and every shift of votes, clear down to the moment when Senator Harding received the ballots that made him the convention's choice. All this time the greatest of the old-time party bosses still alive, Senator Philander Knox, lay on a sick bed in his Philadelphia home. But a direct telephone wire was run into that room and there was scarcely an hour of the day or night when he was not in communication with his friend, John T. King. He knew all that was going on, and it is fair to assume that in most cases he knew beforehand that it was going to go on. What happened, happened because he willed that it should happen. This is not written exactly in criticism, for it may be that what Penrose decreed will suit the party and result in its victory in November. But the fact cannot be blinked that some eminent Democrats who attended the convention went away with grins of satisfaction decorating their faces.

Logic Was Too Scholarly.

To go back to the beginning again, something must be said of the keynote address by Chairman Lodge. It was one of the most scholarly efforts of its kind, and the great mass of the delegates, to say nothing of the audience, utterly failed to comprehend it. The senator did not once descend to the level of most of his hearers, and consequently he was enthused to arouse any great measure of enthusiasm.

It was noticeable that this address, as well as every other speech and the platform as well, devoted to the Democratic party as is usually the case, but to President Wilson. It was always his acts and his policies that were condemned—and the language used in dealing with him was scorching. Of course, the reason for this is that, from the viewpoint of the Republicans, Mr. Wilson has been the Democratic party for the last seven years.

The first day found three candidates in the forefront of the race for the nomination, and while the preliminaries were completed their workers were straining every nerve to have them make the best possible show on the first ballot. These men were Governor Lowden of Illinois, General Leonard Wood and Senator Hiram Johnson of California. From their elaborate headquarters in the hotels swarms of men and women flocked to the Coliseum with banners and buttons and literature. Each of them was certain of victory—for public consumption—but each of them knew in his heart that he could not win if the senatorial bosses had their way. All the rest of the possible candidates really ranked as dark horses. They included Herbert Hoover, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, Gov. Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, Senator Poindexter of Washington, Senator Howard Sutherland of West Virginia, Governor Sprout of Pennsylvania, Senator Philander Knox of Pennsylvania and Senator La Follette of Wisconsin. A long enough list in all conscience. From these dark horses, it was predicted, would emerge the winner, and the prophecy was fulfilled.

Routine Work, Then Oratory.

It required three days to get through with the preliminary work of the gathering and to have the platform built, read and adopted. The latter took place on Thursday. As has been said, the resolutions met with almost unanimous approval. A young man from Milwaukee was the only dissenting member of the committee and he presented a minority report that embodied many of the policies advocated by La Follette. The audience did not want to hear him, and he took advantage of their impatience to try to plant himself in the position of a martyr, but Chairman Lodge cleverly forestalled this, and the minority report was speedily dumped into the waste basket.

Friday was the day of oratory. Men who thought themselves eloquent and others who really were eloquent mounted the speaker's platform in procession throughout most of the day to place before the convention the names and qualifications of the candidates. In many cases women were among those who seconded the nominations, and usually they acquitted themselves much more to the satisfaction of their hearers than did the men, for they were brief, snappy and graceful of address.

On the roll call of states Arizona yielded to Kansas, and Governor Henry J. Allen stepped up to nominate General Wood. Though obviously nervous and not quite adequate of voice, he did his excellent subject full justice, setting forth specially the full record the general had made in Cuba and the Philippines, and his preparedness for war when the great conflict broke out.

Though obviously nervous and not quite adequate of voice, he did his excellent subject full justice, setting forth specially the full record the general had made in Cuba and the Philippines, and his preparedness for war when the great conflict broke out.

"We heard from him no platitudes about a million men springing to arms over night," cried Allen, and everyone strained for a look at Mr. Bryan, who sat in the press stand close to the speaker.

The governor went on to describe Wood's skillful training of an army and his unselfish and uncompromising devotion to duty when he was kept from going to Europe in command of the boys whom he had taught how to fight and conquer. He also recounted the general's success in quelling labor and race disturbances within the last year or so, and dwelt on his popularity with the very men whom he had been sent to quiet.

Wood's Feathery Ovation.

As the governor ceased speaking a storm of applause broke out, and another storm of red and green feathers from the rafters all over the house. The Wood delegates marched through the aisles, led by Beveridge of Indiana and Frank Hitchcock of Ohio, and sang for half an hour. "If Wood drops feathers, I suppose Johnson will drop light wings and beams from the rafters," laughed Mr. Bryan, and someone said: "Get your cup ready, then, William!"

The demonstration was calmed at last—really it did not seem very spontaneous—and after Frank Knox of New Hampshire had made a second speech, the first of the convention's women orators appeared. She was Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson of New York, sister of the late Colonel Roosevelt. With much of the colonel's fire and vim, she told the crowd that Wood should be the next president, and she told it so well that prolonged applause rewarded her efforts.

Governor Lowden's turn came next, and the honor of presenting his name was entrusted to Congressman Rodenberg of Illinois, a big man with a big voice who made an old-fashioned speech that hit the audience in the right way. He, too, had an excellent subject, whose cause was handicapped only by the revelations of excessive expenditures brought out by the senate committee at the instigation of Johnson and his friends.

Lowden's ovation outlasted that for Wood, but was no more enthusiastic. It was featured by a display of banners and portraits of the candidate and by a pretty girl in a white sweater who was carried on men's shoulders at the head of the parades. Lowden, too, had a woman among his seconders, Mrs. Fletcher Dohms of Chicago, a clever politician and good speaker. Then Governor Morrow of Kentucky told why the Republicans of his state loved Lowden and wanted him for president.

Johnson's Sponsor a Failure.

Charles S. Wheeler of San Francisco had been deputed to place Senator Johnson in nomination, and much was expected of him, because a reputation for fiery eloquence had preceded him. But, though his address was smooth and his voice pleasing, he evoked the worst failure of the entire convention. He evoked some cheering from the galleries by a denunciation of the League of Nations, but soon after made the gross mistake of twitting the reservationists on having been resolved by Johnson in the committee on resolutions. The delegates did not relish that, nor did most of the others in the hall. Then he made an unfortunate allusion to the campaign expenditure revelations, and as those had hit most of the candidates, their friends resented it with boos and hisses. Mr. Wheeler snuggly waited for the row to cease, and proceeded to finish an address that was fully twice as long as it should have been. His poor performance cast a wet blanket on the planned demonstration, and the California delegates, accompanied by a few others, marched rather sally through the aisles, listlessly waving flags.

Far better than Wheeler's was the speech by Thomas D. Schall, the Illinois congressman from Minneapolis, and better, also, were the

WOMEN TELL OF PROGRESS

Interesting Speeches Made at International Woman Suffrage Congress at Geneva, Switzerland.

Geneva, Switzerland.—Women of the orient spoke at a meeting of the International Woman Suffrage congress, delegates from Japan, India and Turkey, discussing the situation and the trials of women in their respective countries. The progress made in recent years in education, hygiene and brief talks by Richard Doherty of New Jersey, Charles P. O'Neil of Michigan and Mrs. Katherine Phillips Edson of California.

Now began the parade of dark horses. They were led forth as follows: Calvin Coolidge, by Speaker Gillette of the house of representatives; and Mrs. Alexander Peiffer; Butler, by Ogden Mills of New York; Pritchard, by Marion Butler of North Carolina; Hoover by Judge Nathan L. Miller of New York; Harding by Frank Willer of Ohio; Sprout, by William H. Schaffer; Poindexter, by George H. Walker, and Sutherland, by Joseph M. Sanders. When Wisconsin was reached on the roll call the clerk paused expectantly, but no one appeared to nominate La Follette, and the crowd nominated Coolidge.

Balloting Is Begun.

The powers that were decreed that day before adjournment, and in an excited hush the call of the states was begun. The hush did not last, however, for every considerable vote for any one aspirant was greeted with the cheers of his friends.

As had been foretold, Wood led on the first ballot with 287½ votes. Lowden was second with 213½, and Johnson gathered in 137½. The others in general were recorded the votes of their home states and a few more of the Wisconsin delegation 24 voted for La Follette; and it may as well be recorded here that those 24 delegates kept voting for La Follette.

To the bitter end. And every time the announcement was greeted with groans and hisses from the galleries.

In the following three ballots Wood climbed to 314½, which the wise ones said was about his maximum strength. Lowden also increased his vote, going up to 288, while Johnson reached 140½. The votes for the dark horses did not vary to any great extent though Butler lost steadily and Pritchard soon dropped out entirely. By this time everyone was ready for a rest and the convention adjourned the Saturday morning.

Saturday to Harding.

The crowd filled the Coliseum to suffocation on what was destined to be the final day of the convention. For it was felt that the conferences of the preceding night would be fruitless. The senatorial coterie had been in session many hours and they had picked on Harding as the nominee. In the early ballots of Saturday the thud did not gain rapidly, and all were waiting for the moment when the big delegations from New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts would find the time to vote for a break. The men from the Keystone state had been voting solidly for Sprout, for the bosses were not decided between him and Harding. And the New Yorkers really did not know to whom to throw their strength.

Johnson's vote dwindled gradually, and then the Lowden column suddenly began to go to pieces. He was really the victim of the shift, for the Wood delegations stood by the general almost to the last moment. On the ninth ballot it was seen that Harding could be "put across," so the uncertain ones climbed into the band wagon on the tenth and gave the Ohio senator a grand total of 674½, which was 181½ more than necessary to nominate.

The hubbub was deafening and after Pennsylvania put 60 votes in the Harding column the clerks could scarcely complete the roll call. At its finish the usual motion to make the choice unanimous was made, but those 24 La Follette men from Wisconsin voted in the negative and marred the vote count.

Coolidge Gets Second Place.

There still remained the task of selecting a vice presidential candidate. Senator Leuroot of Wisconsin, Governor Allen of Kansas, Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts and Col. Harry Anderson of Virginia were placed in nomination and the roll of the states was called. Leuroot received a good vote, but Coolidge was the evident favorite and long before the roll was completed his nomination was assured. The 24 La Follette men voted for Senator Leuroot.

With some difficulty Chairman Lodge, whose voice was gone, managed to hold the delegates together long enough to pass the usual resolutions of thanks to the officials of the convention and to the city of Chicago, and then the republican convention of 1920 came to an end.

Convention Well Handled.

The management of the convention hall really deserved thanks, for the seating, the policing and the other arrangements were the best ever seen in such gatherings. The Coliseum was handsomely decorated and well lighted and the comfort of the delegates and guests was as well looked after as could be expected. Of course the usual swarm of sergeants of arms was present, clogging up the aisles and getting in the way of the workers, but that is inevitable, for the distribution of those badges is a prerequisite of the local Republicans. It was no worse this time than usual. The doors were in charge of a force of ex-service men under the command of General Ryan, and their work was done with military efficiency.

Everyone had good things to say about the music supplied by John A. Hand's band, which was stationed in a lofty little gallery. On occasion it was led by John Hand third, a sturdy chap in brilliant uniform who used the baton presented to his father, Armin Hand, by Theodore Roosevelt at the Progressive convention. It was made of wood from trees on the "River of Loubet," which the colonel discovered.

public life was shown to be important, and great enthusiasm was aroused by a masterly address by Mrs. Naidu, the Indian poetess, whose work is known in America. After the oriental feature of the session had been completed, Mrs. Josephine Daniels, wife of the American secretary of the navy, spoke, bringing a message of sympathy to the congress from President Wilson, who appointed her America's official delegate. The congress will be in session for some weeks.

GREAT TRIUMPH FOR WOMEN

Female Representatives and Alternates Have Recognized Position in Republican National Convention.

Eight years ago four lone women, two from California and two from the state of Washington, were delegates to the national Republican convention. Four years ago thousands of women marched through the dreary streets to demonstrate their faith in the ultimate triumph of the principle of the national suffrage. Frigate of faith can remove mountains has already been ratified by 35 of the 36 states necessary to make operative the Susan B. Anthony amendment and that the 1920 convention seated 28 regularly accredited representatives and 127 alternates.

Four years ago women stood on the side lines, having no official part in the proceedings. This year they were welcomed, as the equals of their brothers.

Gen. John J. Pershing for the Democratic nomination was set in motion here. It was announced that Edward E. Goltra, national Democratic committee man from Missouri, will go to Washington to invite General Pershing to attend the San Francisco con-

Pershing is a native of Missouri and the men behind this movement claim he is eligible for nomination as a Democrat, although he has no definite party alignment.

Prominent Democrats here said the fact that Senator Warren of Wyoming is Pershing's father-in-law has led to the impression that Pershing was a Republican, but that this impression was without foundation in fact. The general is a Democrat.

Yellow Men Sleep By JEREMY LANE

CON LOSES HIS MAP. Synopsis.— John Levington, a poet, visionary and impractical, and Mary Martin, the daughter of rich and worldly parents, hear the call of love and unite their lives.

CHAPTER IV The Feathered Needle. The Esurta Queen was neither the largest nor the newest ship afloat. The Pacific was inclined to handle her roughly.

Often after that Levington glanced across at Chee Ming in the dining saloon or passed him on deck. A perfect lack of relation was preserved between them, as if they had never met before.

Levington's pulse was slow. One side of his body felt dead. Everything was thick and puffy to his touch, and a pain ran deep into his head.

The porter spilled out a glass of brandy for him, keeping the bottle for himself, to finish up later. Levington sat up shakily. This movement brought a prickling sensation to his shoulder, and he fumbled there.

From far away, he recollected the story of Andrew March, and the dart from desert rangers. A note to that effect, delicate weapon had been clinging long while to his own shoulder.

The shock of his loss, and the realization that he had been feather-striken by the Chinese, hastened the return of full faculties, a painful process. He threw off the feeling that weighed him down, dressed as rapidly as he could.

He was serious now, as if all the warm tides of life had flooded away from him. His treasured map was gone. The Gobi would be meaningless without it.

In five minutes the river boat would clear. The sodden air was cloven with far hoots and near replies. The final barrier of coal was run up the plank.

"You little feather-sticker put me to sleep." "You have no business in Asia," said the other, steadily in good English.

It was late the next day when they reached the inner line of the Great Wall, where arrangements were made to join a merchant caravan on its westward journey.

It was one of the final fogs for Peking, and winter was ready to harden down. There would be weeks of bitter weather.

It was daylight when Levington slept. It was still daylight when he awakened. Somehow, the matter of the plain envelope came to his mind.

The Chinese had torn the covering, but the contents had not been what he wanted. Why, then, had March made so much of the matter?

He was serious now, as if all the warm tides of life had flooded away from him. His treasured map was gone. The Gobi would be meaningless without it.

Among the red shadows, one might purchase a hundred horses or a pocketful of chestnuts, silks from the South or figured linen from the North.

"In the dynamics of human affairs," said a learned man, "two qualities are essential to greatness—power and promptitude."

Plymouth Self-Feed ENSILAGE CUTTERS

"Plymouth" Feed Cutters are the result of twenty-five years' experience and practical study of conditions and needs in the farm and dairy field. They embrace every advantage known to other similar machines, and many vital features which are original with us and can be had only in the "Plymouth Self-Feed." Below are some mighty strong points for you to think about before you buy a feed cutter:

AUTOMATIC SELF-FEED—This feature consists of a traveling feed chain, made of heavy iron slats securely riveted to a chain which passes over the lower feed roller. Throw the fodder into the feed box and the "Plymouth" does the rest.

DANGER-PROOF SELF-FEED ROLLERS—Here's another strong feature original with the "Plymouth." It consists of four large rollers of cast iron. The traveling feed chain passes over the lower hind roller, just passing the lower front roller, which is six inches in diameter, and smooth. The two upper and lower hind rollers are ribbed. The 8-inch automatic roller at the top, to the rear, is a special feature of the "Plymouth." It acts as a lever or weight to keep the fodder passing through continuously, depending on its own gravity to keep the material going through without a hitch. Two coil springs serve to exert an even and steady pressure on the automatic roller as the volume of fodder increases in going through. The spring feature is entirely automatic, and is only to be had in the "Plymouth." It absolutely prevents clogging.

Cut This Out and Take It With You.

A man often forgets the exact name of the article he wishes to purchase, and as a last resort takes something else instead. That is always disappointing and unsatisfactory. The safe way is to cut this out and take it with you so as to make sure of getting Chamberlain's Tablets. You will find nothing quite so satisfactory for constipation and indigestion.—Adv.

—A real new fish story came to light in Hustisford this week. We'll explode it, about as follows: While angling without a bait Herman Schindlauer pulled up his fishing line and lo and behold, a bed spring was caught on the bare hook. You think this is the fish story? Nix. Listen. In this bed spring a carp had entered and stuck tight so that when Mr. Schindlauer drew up his fishing line, he was the carp a sure-enough prisoner. Catching carp without bait and without being hooked in Hustisford waters beats the dickens.—Hustisford News.

PLATFORM ON WHICH G. O. P. MAKES STAND

Party's Principles Enunciated by National Convention at Chicago.

"UNPREPAREDNESS" CHARGED

Plank Covering the League of Nations is Considered in the Nature of a Compromise—Strong Stand on Mexico.

Here is the platform adopted by the Republican national convention in session at Chicago:

The Republican party, assembled in representative national convention, reaffirms its unyielding devotion to the Constitution of the United States and to the guarantees of civil, political, and religious liberty therein contained. It will resist all overtures to overthrow the foundations of the government or to weaken the force of its controlling principles and laws.

For seven years the national government has been controlled by the Democratic party, during that period a war of unparalleled magnitude has devastated the foundations of civilization, desolated the population of Europe, and left in its train economic misery and suffering second only to war itself.

Unpreparedness for War. The outstanding feature of the Democratic administration has been complete unpreparedness for war and complete unpreparedness for peace.

Inexcusable failure to make timely preparation in the chief indictment against the Democratic administration in the conduct of the war. For our associates protected us, both on land and sea, during the war, and for our participation, and furnished us to the very day of the armistice with munitions, planes, and other material, and the impertinent of victory itself, and in an enormous waste of public funds literally poured into the breach created by gross neglect. Today it is reflected in our huge tax burden and in the high cost of living.

Unpreparedness for Peace. Peace found the administration as unprepared for peace as it was for war. The country demanded an early and systematic return to a peace time basis. This called for the most intelligent planning. All three have been lacking. While the country has been left to drift, the Democratic administration has continued on a war time basis. The administration has not demobilized the army of peace holders. It continues a method of financing which was indefensible during the period of reconstruction. It has enacted legislation to meet the emergency of war to continue its arbitrary and ineffectual control over the nation's production and peace, and to carry confusion into industrial life.

Flounders Helplessly. Under the leadership of necessity or superior wisdom, executive usurpation of legislative and judicial functions still undermines our institutions. Eighteen months after the armistice, with its wartime powers unbridled, its war-time departments undiminished, and its army of place holders still mobilized, the administration continues to flounder helplessly.

The demonstrated incapacity of the Democratic party to destroy the public confidence, and produced a feeling of distrust and lack of confidence in the government, and to delay the return to normal conditions.

Never has our nation been confronted with greater problems. The people are entitled to know the facts, and the parties propose solving these problems. To that end, the Republican party declares its policies and program to be as follows:

Constitutional Government. We undertake to end executive autocracy and to restore to the people the constitutional government.

The policies herein declared will be carried out by the Republican party governments, each acting within its constitutional powers.

Congress Reconstruction. Despite the unconstitutional and dictatorial course of the president and the parasitic obstruction of the Democratic administration, the Republican majority has enacted a program of constructive legislation which has nullified the vindictive vetoes of the president.

The Republican party has met the problems presented by the administration unprepared for peace. It has repealed the greatest part of the war legislation. It has enacted a transportation act, making possible the operation of the country, the operation of which under the present administration is a wasteful and extravagant and wasteful in the highest degree. The transportation act made possible the settlement of wage disputes, partially nullified, however, by the president's delay in appointing a board created by the act. This delay precipitated the outlay railroad strike.

We stopped the outlay of public treasure recklessly poured into the lap of an inept shipping industry, and laid the foundations for the creation of a great merchant marine. We took from the income tax the amount of $100,000,000,000, and the administration of the telegraph and telephone lines of the country, and reduced the cost of postage and increased the pay of the postal employees—the poorest paid of public servants. We provided pensions for superannuated and retired civil service employees, and reorganized them on a peace footing and provided for the maintenance of a powerful and efficient navy.

Passed Suffrage Amendment. The Republican congress established by law a permanent national board of the department of labor. We submitted to the country the constitutional amendment for women's suffrage, and re-elected 29 of the 36 legislatures which ratified it to date.

Legislation for the relief of the consumers of paper, for the extension of the power of the government over the food control act, for broadening the scope of the war risk insurance act, better provision for the disabled and aged veterans of the Civil war, and for the better support of the maternal and insured of the great war, and for making practical the vocational rehabilitation act that has been enacted by the Republican congress.

We passed an oil leasing and water power bill to unlock the great potentialities of the great untapped resources of the country; we have sought to check the privilege of the administration to realize upon the assets of the government, and to husband the revenues derived from taxation. The Republican congress has been responsible for cuts in the estimates for government expenditure, nearly $100,000,000 since the signing of the armistice.

We enacted a national executive budget law, we strengthened the federal reserve act, to permit banks to lend needed assistance to the unemployed, and financial corporations to develop export trade, and, finally, amended the rules of the senate and house, which will reform the procedure and guarantee more efficient and responsible government.

Agriculture. A large and contented body of farm proprietors is the backbone of the nation. National greatness and economic independence demand a population distributed between industry and the farm, and sharing on equal terms the proceeds of the nation's production, and the efforts of both. Neither can prosper at the expense of the other without inviting ruin to both.

The crisis of the present agricultural condition lies in price, labor, and credit. The Republican party believes that this condition can be improved and agricultural production encouraged by the right to form co-operative associations for marketing their products subject to regulation by federal authority; the securing of the agricultural price with a view to reducing the frequency of abnormal fluctuations; the authorization of associations for the extension of personal credit; a national inquiry on the condition of rail, water, and motor transportation with a view to facilitating for receiving, handling, and marketing the products of the farm; the encouragement of the export trade, and the encouragement of the production and importation of fertilizers and other essential farm supplies.

The federal farm loan act should be so administered as to facilitate the acquisition of land by farmers, and to become owners and proprietors, and thus minimize the evils of farm tenantry.

Industrial Relations. There are two different conceptions of the relations of capital and labor. The one is contractual, and emphasizes the diversity of interests of employer and employee. The other is that of co-operation, and emphasizes the common interest of both.

We recognize the justice of collective bargaining as a means of promoting peace and stability in our industrial relations, and realizing the harmonious relations between employers and employees, and realizing the right of all to organize for their mutual protection and benefit.

The strike or the lockout, as a means of settling industrial disputes, inflicts such injury on the community as to justify government initiative to reduce its frequency and limit its consequences. We favor the establishment of public utilities. We deny the right to strike against the public utility, and the rights and interests of all government employees should be safeguarded by impartial laws and tribunals.

Public Utilities. In public utilities we favor the establishment of an impartial tribunal to settle all disputes between the public and the utility. We favor the establishment of an impartial tribunal to settle all disputes between the public and the utility. We favor the establishment of an impartial tribunal to settle all disputes between the public and the utility.

National Economy. A Republican congress reduced the national debt for the fiscal year 1920 almost three billion dollars, and for the fiscal year 1921 over a billion and a quarter dollars. It is our policy to reduce the national debt to zero, and to provide for the future by a sound and conservative financial policy.

Waterways. We declare it to be our policy to encourage the development of the waterways of the United States, and to provide for the future by a sound and conservative financial policy.

Regulation of Industry and Commerce. We approve in general the existing federal legislation which regulates the activities of the various industries and commerce, and we favor the establishment of an impartial tribunal to settle all disputes between the public and the utility.

Executive Budget. We congratulate the Republican congress for the establishment of a permanent national board of the department of labor. We submitted to the country the constitutional amendment for women's suffrage, and re-elected 29 of the 36 legislatures which ratified it to date.

War Powers of the President. The president clings tenaciously to his autocratic war-time powers. His veto of the resolution declaring peace and his refusal to sign the bill repealing the war-time legislation, no longer necessary, evidence his determination to restore to the nation and to the world a state of war.

Reduction in Tax. We favor the application of the workman's compensation act to the merchant marine, and we favor the application of the workman's compensation act to the merchant marine, and we favor the application of the workman's compensation act to the merchant marine.

Immigration. The standard of living and the standard of citizenship of a nation are its most precious possessions, and the preservation of these possessions is the first duty of our government.

Women in Industry. Women have special problems of employment which make necessary special legislation. We favor the establishment of a permanent national board of the department of labor.

Merchant Marine. The national defense and our foreign commerce require a strong and efficient merchant marine. We favor the establishment of a permanent national board of the department of labor.

Postal Service. We commend the present administration for its restoration of the efficiency of the postal service, and we favor the establishment of a permanent national board of the department of labor.

Disregard of Life Claimed. No more striking illustration can be found of the disregard of the lives of American boys or of American girls, than the policy of the administration in the case of the Russian revolution.

For that tired feeling which afflicts so many at this season of the year, a tonic is good, but take it from dandelion greens, spinach and tender green vegetables. For the sleepless, the hot egg nog will be found most soothing. Beat an egg very light, add one cupful of scalded milk, a pinch of salt and a little sugar if liked, with a grating of nutmeg. Add the milk, a little at a time, heating well. Serve hot. The blood is drawn from the brain to the stomach and the sleepless sleep.

Baked Beans With Sausage and Hamburger.—Take hamburger steak and pork sausage, half and half. Place in a small onion cover with a layer of meat, then a layer of beans, another layer of meat and beans. Add salt, mustard, molasses and water as usual to the bean pot and bake all day slowly.

Roast Beef With Onions.—Put a rolled roast of beef in a baking pan and surround it with even-sized onions. Bake, basting as usual, basting the onions as well. Serve with the onions as a garnish to the platter of roast. Potatoes may be added and roasted with the onions, if desired.

Banking and Currency. The fact is that the war, to a great extent, was financed by policy of inflation through certificate borrowing from the treasury, and bonds issued at artificial rates sustained by the low discount rates established by the federal reserve board. The consequence of this policy since the armistice has been the administration open to severe criticism.

Law and Order. The equality of all men under the law has always been a policy of the Republican party. Without obedience to law and maintenance of order, our country must be impotently and speedily destroyed.

Roads and Highways. We favor liberal appropriations in co-operation with the states for the construction of highways, which will bring about a more efficient and better marketing of farm products, improvement in rural postal delivery, and a more efficient military defense.

Conservation. Conservation is a Republican policy. It began with the passage of the reclamation act signed by President Roosevelt. The Republican party has always been in the forefront of the conservation movement.

The Service Men. We hold in imperishable remembrance the valor and the patriotism of the soldiers and sailors of America who gave us the great war for human liberty, and we pledge ourselves to discharge to the fullest extent our obligations to the nation justly should fulfill, in appreciation of the services rendered by its defenders.

For Association of Women. The association of women stands for agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world. We believe that the association of women should be based upon international justice and provide methods which shall make possible the development of law and the decision of impartial courts, and the decision of impartial courts, and the decision of impartial courts.

Praises Senators' Actions. That covenant repudiated to a degree which has never been equalled in the history of the world, and which has never been equalled in the history of the world, and which has never been equalled in the history of the world.

Women Suffrage. We welcome women into full participation in the government of the United States. We urge Republican governors whose states have not yet granted women the right of suffrage to immediately call special sessions of their legislatures for the purpose of amending their constitutions to grant the right of suffrage to women.

Social Progress. The supreme duty of the nation is the betterment of its people. We favor an enlightened measure of social and industrial justice. Although the federal government should not be a law unto itself, they affect the welfare and interests of the nation as a whole.

Women in Industry. Women have special problems of employment which make necessary special legislation. We favor the establishment of a permanent national board of the department of labor.

Merchant Marine. The national defense and our foreign commerce require a strong and efficient merchant marine. We favor the establishment of a permanent national board of the department of labor.

come genuinely American, and adequate tests for determining the alien's fitness for American citizenship should be provided. An alien woman should not be granted citizenship by marriage to an alien resident in the United States.

For the world in general food is prepared and eaten at home, and no matter how many farmers and butchers and sailors and teamsters and grocers have conspired to provide us with good food, the one cook in the kitchen may vitiate the product in an hour—Helen Campbell.

Origin of Coal. After an exhaustive study of a number of coal seams, James Lomax concludes that almost all had their origin in vegetable matter deposited on the spot, the coal substance being formed by the dropping of leaves, twigs, ferns and fruits, in the shape of seeds and fructiferous cones mainly from large trees.

ALL HE COULD DO FOR HIM WILLING TO GO HALF WAY

According to This, Prospects of Thrifty Genes Getting a Drink Didn't Seem to Be Promising.

"How can I go about it to get a drink in this town?" asked a recently arrived gent, who looked as if he needed irrigation.
"Well," replied the landlord of the Petuni tavern, "I'll tell you what you might do: Go to the second corner up the street, pass around it and go to the alley about half-way, and you'll come to a gate standing open, a crack in a fence made out of old bill-board lumber. Go in through the gate and along to a cellar back of the shanty standing in the lot. Lift the cellar door and go down the steps, whistle three times, and a dirty feller will come with a lantern, and look you over and tell you that there ain't nothin' doing in this dod-blasted town since the blanky-bank prohibitionists got on size-fired active. This is the best I can do for you, Mr. Dryer."—Houston Post.

British Silver Currency.
Owing to the rise in the price of silver, the British government finds it impossible to mint silver coins except at a great loss so it plans to reduce the fineness. Silver which before the war cost less than 30 pence an ounce, now costs about 88 pence (respectively $0.60 and $1.76). The British money has been 0.925 fine; it is proposed to make it 0.900 fine in the future. With silver at present prices, the intrinsic value of a shilling 0.900 fine will be greater than that of a shilling 0.925 fine before the war.

WISCONSIN STATE NEWS

Eau Claire—Kegler company dry goods merchants, employing 50 women, have bought a cottage two miles from the car line in one of the prettiest summer places here for the use of their women employees during the summer. New furnishings, including what the girls call the most complete kitchen imaginable, have been installed. Sixteen can be accommodated in the sleeping quarters and the grounds are spacious enough to permit many tents. The girls will sign up in groups for vacations, week-ends and holiday outings at the cottage.

Madison—With the close of schools, hundreds of boys and girls are seeking summer employment, and as a birth certificate proving age is required, the state board of health has been kept busy supplying certified copies of birth records. An average of twenty certificates are being issued daily. Because of inadequate reporting in the past, only 50 per cent of the records are on file and in such cases a blank form is given out to be filled in by the parent or attending physician, giving the essential facts regarding the birth.

Monroe—Dr. A. J. Pullen, of Fond du Lac, has announced that he will be a Republican candidate for lieutenant governor. At the outbreak of the war he was serving as state senator and immediately, the first member of the legislature, volunteered his services, and was commissioned in March, 1917, in the medical corps. Upon resuming his place in the senate he introduced a bill which provides that every returned-soldier be paid a bonus of $10 for every month that they were in service.

Fond du Lac—Permanent organization of the Fond du Lac County Farm bureau, second county organization of the kind to be started in Wisconsin, was effected at a meeting at the courthouse, Fond du Lac. C. A. Peterson, Rosendale, temporary chairman of the organization, was elected president; Ed Bruins, Alto, vice-president; C. W. Keys, Empire, treasurer; and M. Michaels, Taycheda, secretary.

Rhineland—Many new settlers have located in the western part of Oneida county this spring. Most of them came from Indiana, and are converting the cut-over lands into valuable farms. Settlers are engaging in sheep raising. Real estate men say that the land sales in Oneida and adjoining counties have been unusually heavy since the fore part of the present year.

Chippewa Falls—Incited by the success of the last cattle sale held here, members of the Chippewa County Breeders' association are planning to import cattle this winter from Great Britain for introduction in herds here. Included in the shipment will be Scotch cattle and also some of the milking strain from Cumberland, in the north of England.

Beaver Dam—Work has begun on seven new residences by the Western Malleables Co. These will be used for employees who wish to rent houses. The Western Malleables will build forty new homes in Beaver Dam this summer on account of the home shortage. New streets will be laid out, pavements built and all conveniences installed.

Tomah—A case which has attracted county-wide interest, that of Eva Dillworth against John Crawley, farmer, was settled in Judge Richard's court in favor of the former. Mrs. Dillworth sued Crawley for wages for work performed as housekeeper and farm hand for eight years. The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff of $250.

Manitowoc—John Haase, who is 81 years old and has lived in Manitowoc county seventy years, has sold his farm at Rockland and has gone to Milwaukee to spend his declining days with his son, Adolph Haase. His wife, who is almost as old as himself, is with him. He is one of the survivors of the Civil war.

Washburn—With the installation of a large wireless station on Devils Island by the government, work on which will be started in a few weeks, the signal service system and other means of safety for mariners on this portion of Lake Superior and Chequamegon Bay will be as near perfect as possible.

Manitowoc—Two cases on the June calendar of circuit court have been disposed of by death. The only criminal case listed, that of the state vs. Michael Hanlon, and a divorce case, Minnie Peterson vs. Peter Peterson, were stricken from the calendar on account of the death of Hanlon and Mrs. Peterson.

Appleton—Nearly $800,000 worth of property in Appleton and Outagamie county changed ownership in May. The exact amount was $783,473 as taken from the records in the office of the register of deeds. The total number of instruments recorded was 772.

Antigo—H. H. Theisen, who has been principal of the Superior, Nebraska, high school, has accepted the principalship of the Antigo high school, to which he was elected. He succeeds E. F. Merbach, elected principal of the Marinette high school.

Coleman—The Coleman Canning Co. has been organized for canning sweet corn and beans. It is capitalized at $60,000. H. J. Setner is president; H. C. Sorenson, vice-president; R. A. Greb, general manager, secretary and treasurer.

Hurley—Approximately 100 descriptions of property on which no taxes were paid for 1919 were disposed of at the annual tax sale conducted here. More than $5,000 was realized by the sale.

Crandon—Twenty-five calves, seventeen of which are Guernseys and eight Holsteins, have been purchased and turned over to the Boys' and Girls' Calf clubs. The county banks loaned the money for the purchase of the animals. These calves are now the property of boys and girls of the county; they to care for them and keep complete records. Experience throughout the country shows that this plan of distributing calves to youngsters promotes business education, introduces pure bred and high grade stock into the communities and is the means of keeping many of the young folks on the farms.

Madison—The division of markets is warning beekeepers all over the state that the standards established for comb and extracted honey must be lived up to strictly. Copies of the grade schedule are about ready for distribution. The only stamps that can be used in marking honey containers are issued by the division of markets to beekeepers at cost. The division reports that the loss of many colonies of bees last winter will probably cut down the marketable surplus of honey in the state this year.

Tomahawk—Thirty cans of pike fry from the government fish hatchery at Duluth were planted in waters near Tomahawk. Twelve of the cans were placed in Somo lake and tributary streams and the remainder in Mualakong creek and lake. This is the largest shipment made from the Duluth hatchery this year. It is estimated that there are 50,000 fry to the can and if only a small percentage develop into fish, this shipment alone would provide good fishing for Tomahawk sportsmen for many years.

Wausau—John Keough, an inmate of the Marathon county asylum went fishing and committed suicide in Big Rib river. He removed his wooden leg, tied a bandage about his mouth, wrapped the anchor chain about his waist and dropped from his boat. The body was recovered. The deceased was sent to the Winnebago state hospital from Stevens Point, but was transferred here in 1896. He has no known relatives.

Tomah—The Woman's Civic Improvement club of Tomah has given to this city a twenty acre plot of ground containing the old council table of the Indians, thereby securing forever the preservation of this historic spot. The table is a mound sixty feet high and ninety feet long and is covered with a growth of elm and oak trees.

Racine—Mrs. Marie Newell was granted a divorce from Dr. Frank Newell, a physician of Burlington, Wis. The court ordered the defendant to pay Mrs. Newell $2,000 and $125 a month alimony. Charges of cruel and inhuman treatment and intoxication were alleged in the complaint. A Burlington woman also was mentioned.

Kenosha—Love balked at the altar here when Pasquale Pennoit, 32 years old, failed to show up and left Julia Paradise, comely widow of 47, vainly "waiting at the church." Now the police are looking for Pennoit who is alleged to be taken with him $1,600, the total savings of the couple during what was believed an ideal romance.

Appleton—Increase in telephone rates in every community in the Appleton district will be sought by the Wisconsin Telephone company before the end of the summer. Application for authority to increase charges in Little Chute, near here, is the first of a series of such applications to be filed with the railroad commission.

The bullet pierced Kirk's heart.

INVESTMENTS

In the present period of the adjustment of the country's industrial and commercial affairs it is well for investors to exercise the utmost caution in the selection of investments.

Investors should scan these securities very carefully. Where there is the least doubt, caution will dictate looking a little farther for an investment where safety and peace of mind are absolutely assured. Preferring to sacrifice a part of big income to a greater degree of safety, the conservative investor prospers to a larger extent in the end than the investor whose first thought is income, the quality of the security being a minor consideration.

Write for booklet, "Investment Steps," and for detail circulars describing the First Mortgage 6% Real Estate Serial Notes of $100 and $500 denominations we are offering and recommend as conservative, high-grade, safe investments.

The Mercantile Trust Company is a member of the Federal Reserve System, and by reason of such membership is under the supervision of the United States Government. History of Petroleum Industry.
The story of the petroleum industry in the United States dates back to 1859, when, on August 28, oil was struck in the Drake well, near Titusville, in northwestern Pennsylvania. When the pumping began the oil flowed in a tiny stream of 40, and later only 15, barrels a day; 5,000,000 barrels were produced in 1870, 25,000,000 in 1880, 45,000,000 in 1890, 65,000,000 in 1900, 200,000,000 in 1910 and 356,000,000 barrels in 1918. The output last year is perhaps 30,000,000 barrels in excess of the 1918 record.

Safe in Unsuspected Danger.
Writing of accidents to persons employed in industrial plants, Dr. C. Widmer says in Therapie der Gegenwart (Berlin) that the experience of countless cases embues us to slightest injury unconsciously, and only when we focus our consciousness on the reaction to the occurrence is injury liable to result.

You Don't Have to Gamble When You Buy Roofing

Trying to fill a four-flush may be good poker, but you can't afford to apply the same principle to buying roofing. And you don't have to.

Certain-teed Roofing offers you a fair and square buy. Its merits are on the table—all above board—everybody knows them.

Certain-teed Roofing is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to weight. That guarantee is backed by the largest manufacturers of prepared roofing in the world. In no case has Certain-teed ever been known to wear out on the roof.

Certain-teed Roofing is weather-proof, fire-retarding and spark-proof. It gives real roofing protection.

Certain-teed Means Known Value

There's no gamble in that proposition. What do you get when you buy private brands? What will they do? You know nothing about them.

If you are willing to buy cheap roofing, get it at a fair price. We make a third-grade roofing, called Guard Roofing, which is satisfactory where long life is not required. It looks as good as any roofing. It is priced and sold strictly on the basis of third-grade roofing.

Any responsible dealer can get either Certain-teed or Guard for you quickly from a nearby Certain-teed warehouse or jobber. He gets it when he wants it and he gets what he wants. He can afford to sell you at a fair price.

What a lot of argument there used to be about a woman driving an automobile

TODAY she can "make a train" or fix a tire as well as anybody.

As soon as a luxury becomes a necessity the point of view changes.

Two or three years ago you would have listened to more varying opinions about tires than you could shake a stick at. Mileages, construction, treads and whatnot.

It's different now. Tire users are working towards a unanimous feeling.

You express it one way—the man down the street another. But sifted down it amounts to this:

That the only way to settle your tire problem is to get a tire of known value and stick to it.

We recommend and sell U. S. Tires because their value is known.

There's no guess about it.

It was the U. S. quality policy which led to the perfection of the straight-side automobile tire, the pneumatic truck tire—two of the greatest additions to tire value that have ever been made.

As representatives of the oldest and largest rubber concern in the world, we are in a position to tell you something about tire values. Come in some day and talk to us.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel: In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco. For front wheels—The U. S. Plain. For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cord.

To Keep American Ships on the Seas

For the first time since the Civil War we have a real merchant marine. It cost us $3,000,000,000 to get it.

The farmer, manufacturer, laborer—every American is interested in holding our position on the seas.

As a first step in this direction it is necessary to modify those articles of existing commercial treaties which have operated to thwart the upbuilding of our merchant marine—By giving the notice of termination for which the several treaties provide.

This action is directed in the constructive Shipping Bill now before Congress.

Which declares it to be the policy of the United States "to do whatever may be necessary to develop and encourage" a merchant marine.

This policy deserves the support of every American.

Lacking this support the present effort to maintain our merchant marine may suffer the fate of many ineffective attempts of the past.

Send for a copy of "For an American Merchant Marine."

"I Got Real Mad When I Lost My Setting Hen", Mrs. Hannan.

Booze Is Not a Good Cure.

From the Ames Iowa Intelligencer.

When a man comes to you all doubled up with pain and declares he will die in your presence unless you procure him a drink of whiskey, send him to a doctor or else give him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. There is a mistaken notion among a whole lot of people that booze is the best remedy for colic and stomach ache.—Adv.

"I went into the hen house one morning and found my favorite setter dead. I got real mad. Went to the store, bought some RAT-SNAP and in a week I got six dead rats. Everybody who raises poultry should keep RAT-SNAP." Three sizes 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold and guaranteed by Edw. C. Miller and Hy. Ramthun, Kewaskum, Wis.—Adv.
