UNITED IN MATRIMONY

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the St. John's Lutheran church at New Fane, on Sunday afternoon, August 15th, when Rev. C. J. Gutekunst united in holy bonds of matrimony Miss Esther L. Bleck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bleck of New Fane, and Mr. Herbert Haack, also residing near New Fane. The bride was attended by her sister, Helen as maid of honor, and Misses Frances Schaefer of Fond du Lac and Ernest Sepenhauer as bridesmaids. The groom was attended by his brother Erwin as best man, and Paul Bleck, cousin of the bride, and Arnold Haack, cousin of the groom as ushers. Miss Lillian Moltenhauer acted as flower girl, carrying a large basket of satin and ribbon roses, while Miss Dorothy Gutekunst was ring bearer, carrying the rings in a white lily.

The decorations at the church were of ferns and cut flowers.

The bride was prettily dressed in a silk messaline and georgette gown with beaded trimmings, and wore a corsage bouquet of bridal roses and sweet peas. Miss Helen Bleck was attired in a blue crepe de chine dress with beaded trimmings and wore a corsage bouquet of tea roses. Miss Ernest Moltenhauer wore a silk crepe de chine salmon colored dress, while Miss Frances Schaefer wore a yellow silk messaline dress with lace trimmings, both bridesmaids wore corsage bouquets of pink sweet peas.

After the ceremony the bride and groom were accompanied to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dinner was served at 7:30 o'clock, after which the event was celebrated in a most enjoyable way, music, singing and playing various games formed the main part of the evening. The happy couple will go to housekeeping on the groom's farm near New Fane, where they will be at home for company on August 15th. They have our best wishes for a prosperous and happy married life.

BIG MOTOR TRUCK OVERTURNS AND BURNS NEAR HERE SUNDAY

A large motor moving van, owned by the W. L. Evans Express line, of Fond du Lac, loaded down with valuable household furniture overturned about one-half mile north of this village, on what is known as the Schleif hill and together with nearly all of its contents was destroyed by fire last Sunday forenoon at about 11:00 o'clock.

Mr. Evans, driver of the truck, and his companions, Gust Radtke and Mathews Scholzen, owner of the furniture, started away from Fond du Lac about six o'clock in the morning. Shortly after they had started from 129 Mary's avenue where the furniture was loaded, they experienced trouble with their motor. Thinking, however, that things would probably adjust themselves while traveling on the road, they continued on their journey. When they reached the Schleif hill part of which they had climbed about three-quarters way, the engine stopped and when the brake refused to hold the machine started to back down the hill. The big van backed against an embankment and turned over on its side and burst into flames. The fire spread so rapidly that it was impossible for the occupants to save all the furniture, in fact they were lucky in saving what they did. The driver of the truck was pinned beneath the machine and shortly after he had been dragged from underneath same, the

OPTION TAKEN ON SANATORIUM SITES

Washington county has been picked by the Tri-county Sanatorium committee for having the most favorable sites for the building of a sanatorium. This certainly speaks well for our county, for none of the three hundred sites in view in the three counties, could compare with those in Washington Co. The sites on which options have been taken are, Jos. Rosenheimer property located just north of Schleisingerville on the Schleisingerville-Cedar Lake road, consisting of 20 acres. The land lies west of the road and practically all of it is hills and deep ravines covered with a heavy growth of timber. Like other property it has an east and south side slope. This site is but a distance from Cedar Lake, and is on the trunk line road and a short distance from the Soo Line railroad station. The other site in view is the Chas. Storck property, known as the village park of Schleisingerville. This tract of land consists of 23 acres and is located just south of Schleisingerville, a short distance from the Soo Line depot and fronts upon the Hartford-Ackerville trunk line highway, and a mile west of the Fond du Lac road. All of this land is covered with virgin timber, and has a high elevation with slopes to the east and south. Two sites offered in Dodge county are the park at Mayville and the camp grounds of the Lutheran synod at Lomira. No information is thus far given out of the sites offered in Fond du Lac county. Final selections of these sites will soon be taken, in which it is thought that the sites picked in Washington county, will very likely be the ones the committee will choose, as both of them answer the requirements suitable for the building of a sanatorium.

The sanatorium will be erected in 5 units and will cost between $350,000 and $400,000. There will be a sanatorium proper with quarters for one hundred patients. The doctor in charge will have a separate place of residence besides there will be a central heating plant and quarters for the employees. All buildings will be constructed of brick and steel, and when completed will be the finest in the state.

MANY PROMINENT PEOPLE FROM THIS VICINITY PASS AWAY IN DEATH

After six months of extreme suffering from cancer of the spleen, the angel of death came as a welcome guest on Monday afternoon, August 16, 1920 to relieve William J. Schmidt, a highly respected and esteemed citizen of the town of Kewaskum from his pains. Mr. Schmidt was taken sick about six months ago but nothing serious was thought of his illness, however, until his condition began to grow worse, and the best of medical attention failed to bring results in checking the disease. As a last resort he left for Milwaukee about a week prior to his death where an X-ray examination was taken. Followed by an operation at the St. Mary's hospital, all of the pain was of no avail and his condition growing worse until he finally succumbed on Monday afternoon, Mr. Schmidt was born on October 16, 1867, in the town of Kewaskum, where he resided all his life. He had attained the age of 52 years on 11 months. On September 4th, 1913, he was united in marriage to Miss Ida Kloke of Campbellsport. Three children were born of this union, namely: Sylvia, aged six years, Lilly, aged three years, and Harvey, two months old, all of whom together with their grief stricken mother survive. Besides these he leaves to mourn his untimely death, two sisters, Louisa (Mrs. Emil Backhaus) of this village and Amelia (Mrs. William Probst) of town of Barton. Mr. Schmidt was one of the town of Kewaskum's most progressive and prominent farmers. He was a man of good sound business principles, a hard and conscientious worker, always taking great pride in the maintenance and upkeep of his farm. He was a strictly home man. As the head of a family he fulfilled his duties completely. The most enjoyable moments of his life were those when the opportunity presented itself to make his family comfortable and happy, and as a result he had one of the most modern and up-to-date homes in the state. His absence will long be felt most keenly by those nearest to him. The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the family residence with services in the Ev. Peace church, Rev. H. L. Barth officiated. Interment was made in the congregation's cemetery. The bereaved family and surviving relatives have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

COUNTY FAIR IS A-COMING

This is the blessed time of the year when barns and granaries are filling up with the harvest, and the country papers are filling up with notices and articles on the advent of the county fair. The Washington County Fair this year will be held at West Bend on October 5, 6, 7, and 8, and it therefore is not any too early to start telling people about it. Although this is an old institution, its beginning dating back to 1858, and although it is as sure to come as Christmas or tax-paying time, it needs the press to announce it and get people into the right mood for it, which is a combination of holiday joy, pride in showing things, pleasure in meeting everybody, high-strung expectations of amusement and excitement, and a touch of receptiveness for the helpful lessons and the inspiration the institution may offer.

Washington county today is not exactly what it was only a few years ago—an almost exclusively agricultural county. New industries have been coming in and settling down among us in the dozen. There are instances where highly modern manufacturing plants appear to have been dumped into what was formerly a useless wilderness, with primitiveness still crowding up to the front door steps. Some of the new industries, like condenseries and canneries, are first cousins to agriculture, while others are of a very distant, or at least general relationship. But this change will not affect the mission of the County Fair. If our industries have increased in importance, agriculture has not lagged behind, and if one would measure the ratio one holds to the other closely, he would find that in spite of the increase of industries, agriculture was the gainer. As the County Fair exhibitions are not only agricultural but also industrial, it will be interesting to note how far they will reflect the greater industrial inroads and the changed conditions in agriculture and its branches.

In connection with these reflections it is pleasant to state that our County Fair is receiving rapidly increasing attention from business houses and manufacturers throughout the county, who never before paid attention to it; it is really surprising how people not directly connected with farming suddenly realize the opportunities offered by the County Fair. This is another proof that the institution not only holds its own through all vicissitudes but is increasing in importance and is gaining in recognition as the decades roll by.

Preparations for the coming County Fair are now being rapidly increasing and they have been going on for some time. The fact is that as soon as one Fair is over, plans are laid for the next, and these occupy the secretary of the Agricultural society more or less during the entire intervening twelvemonth. The officers earnestly try to make each Fair better than the last one, and to do this is not easy. They have now so far advanced in their preparations that they can again assure of a Fair that will be "brighter and better than ever before," and they believe they have the goods to back up the statement in all it stands for.

OTHER AUTO ACCIDENTS IN CO.

While on their way home from Big Cedar Lake to Milwaukee, E. H. Karrer, owner of a Cadillac car which was driven by his son, met with a very serious accident, last Sunday evening, near Schleimer's corner, about three miles south of West Bend. The driver instead of turning the corner sped ahead into a ditch, overturning the car and buried beneath it Miss Velma Brown, of Neenah, who had been a guest of the Karrer family. Miss Brown suffered a fractured spine, which paralyzed her from the waist down, she also received minor injuries about her head and shoulders. She was removed to the Merten hospital, where hopes for her recovery are entertained. The top and windshield of the car were demolished.

Dr. William Hausmann, wife and daughter June Rose and son Paul, met with an auto accident Sunday afternoon at about 2:30 o'clock which might have proven a serious one. The Hausmann family were on their way to Cedar Lake and when near August Richter's place in the town of Barton, the car in some manner left the road and turned turtle. The occupants escaped with minor bruises. The top and windshield were badly damaged and the right fender was bent.

MEET WITH INJURIES WHEN SCAFFOLD FALLS

While Charles Russ and Oscar Kocher were at work in the Kewaskum Aluminum Factory, on Wednesday afternoon, lathing the ceiling of the office on the second floor, the scaffold on which they were working suddenly gave way, and both men fell about eight feet onto the cement floor. Mr. Russ fractured his right arm at the elbow, while Mr. Kocher received a sprained ankle of the left leg. The injured parties were immediately taken to the office of Dr. N. E. Hausmann, where medical attention was given them. The doctor immediately took them to Fond du Lac where an X-ray examination was taken and the injured parts set. The men were taken to their respective homes the same day where they are getting along as well as can be expected. We hope that no more serious consequences may result from their injuries.

A. J. Wolf, an employee at the Kessel Car Factory, had his Ford car stolen last week Tuesday. Mr. Wolf resides a short distance west of the city of Hartford, and was in the habit of driving his car to work each day, and had always parked it in the yard near the factory. When he stepped out of the factory Tuesday evening and got ready to drive home he found his car gone. The disappearance of the car was immediately reported to Policeman Cook but no clue as to the whereabouts of the car has been found.

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

The success of the fall wheat crop depends largely upon getting the crop into the ground at the earliest possible date. Wheat will do best if sown the last week of August or the first of September and should be in by September 15.

The great superiority of pedigreed grains over the common types of grains has been fully demonstrated many times and your County Agent strongly recommends the growing of pedigreed grains. He has a list of the growers of pedigreed wheat and rye in Washington County, and in the state. Write or phone him your needs, and have him get you good seed to sow this fall.

Says Anthrax Is Not Fatal

Importance of Early Treatment Is Emphasized by New York Specialist.

SERUM CURES 100 PER CENT

Inspection of Hides and Furs Under Government Regulation Is Urged by Doctor—Cure Takes About Ten Days.

New York.—Dr. Douglas Symmers, director of the pathological laboratories of Bellevue and allied hospitals, said that the case of Frederick H. Post, polo player, who was discharged as cured of anthrax from Bellevue, was most important in that it may emphasize that anthrax is not a "fatal" disease.

"Mr. Post's case was diagnosed in time," Doctor Symmers said. "That is the most important thing. Get an anthrax case early enough and a cure is practically certain. This is the fifth case to be cured in Bellevue with the serum prepared by the United States department of animal industry."

"I would like to make it as emphatic as possible in this connection that use in newspapers of the phrase 'deadly anthrax' has a bad effect not only on the public generally but on any patient that may be under treatment. You see a sufferer from anthrax is fully conscious throughout the disease. It is just as clear mentally as any one else to perhaps the last hour, if it chances to be a case that was not taken in time and cannot be cured. That is a peculiarity of anthrax."

Bad for Morale.
"Now, in Mr. Post's case, he was feeling in excellent spirits, and he wanted the newspapers. There was no reasonable excuse for not giving them to him. When he got them he read about 'deadly anthrax' and that it wouldn't be known for ten days whether he would live or not, and it wasn't particularly good medicine for his morale. Mr. Post, it happened, was a man of fine courage, high intelligence and rare gameness. He was a splendid patient, so reading about the mythical deadliness of anthrax in the newspaper accounts didn't have as bad an effect on him as it might."

"But there are other patients suffering from anthrax here and there about the country, and the chances are there will be more in Bellevue. The public should be educated as to what the disease really is."

"Anthrax, at the outset, is manifested by a characteristic lesion at the point of inoculation. This usually is on the face, as in Mr. Post's case. It looks like an ordinary pimple, red and itching. Within a day or so the pimple breaks down into a large, blackish ulcer surrounded by an enormous but painless swelling."

"That one pimple and swelling is all the visible sign there may be of the disease. But if the swelling is on the cheek, as in Mr. Post's case, it may be enormous, closing the eye."

"Now, if the disease is taken right there, a cure is practically certain. No one with any such symptoms should wait an instant. Any one who has seen the characteristic lesion of anthrax could not fail to identify it instantly across a room."

Serum Is Effective.
"At Bellevue the percentage of cures with the government serum is 100 per cent. Of the 20 cases treated in the last three years seven have died. But the last five, which are the only ones in which the serum has been used, have been cured."

"The disease is caused by a large, spore-bearing bacillus, very resistant to all forms of disinfection. It yields most readily to steam under pressure. The probability is that Mr. Post was infected by a shaving brush. Proper disinfection of the brush would have ruined it."

"Disinfection of hides and furs for anthrax should be a matter of government regulation," said Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, who had listened to the discussion. "It is very nearly impossible to disinfect without destroying the object disinfected. I know of only one process and it is a long one. About the only thing I can see for any one to do at the present time is to take a chance—and if he contracts anthrax get proper treatment with the serum immediately. It is easy to cure it if it is diagnosed in time."

"There aren't enough cases to alarm any one," Doctor Symmers said. "But it crops up here and there all over the country, and the newspapers call it 'deadly' and every one gets worried. Mr. Post came to the hospital on the fourth day of the disease, and he was in time. The earlier the better, however. Where it gets dangerous is when the infection gets into the blood. The cure takes about ten days."

Doctor Symmers said that the anthrax bacillus first was discovered in 1875. It really is cultivated, in a laboratory, he added.

Cook on Lost Boat Picked Up in the Open Sea

Jacksonville, Fla.—A Greek cook, member of the crew of the tug Winthrop, which went down off Cape Henry, July 15, was brought here by the steamer Kokomo. The Greek was picked up in the open sea shortly after the Winthrop foundered. Other members of the crew who were picked up by a steamer and landed at Norfolk had reported the cook and a mess boy as drowned.

Santa Catalina island, together with a prehistoric toothbrush, is evidence of the early-day activity of women, according to Ralph Glidden, who made the discoveries while searching Indian graves on the island for the Hoyo foundation.

The bristles of the toothbrush were gill fibers from the jawbone of the stingaree and the "puff" probably would seem heavy today, for although it looks like the modern bit of down, it feels like a lump of lead. It was used, it is said, to crush the ochre with which the Indians beautified themselves.

packages commanded the attention of buyers and the butter was promptly sold. The loss to the shipper was practically 8 cents a pound, or over $350 on the entire shipment—a loss that would have been avoided in the first place had the shipper packed the butter properly, and a loss that would have been greater had not the receiver done so.

The same principle applies to eggs, beans, or any other commodity, say the bureau's experts. If the packages present an inviting appearance, the sale is half made; for good-looking packages suggest contents of high quality.

Another Illustration.
Another illustration given by the bureau of markets is that of a country creamery that forwarded a five-tub sample shipment of butter to a commission firm and received an offer for future shipments. In the next shipment the creamery used second-hand tubs instead of bright, new, clean, attractive packages, such as were used in the five-tub sample. Although the butter shipped was uniform in quality and scored 92 points, the commission firm was unable to dispose of it as "extras," and the shipper was compelled to take a loss of 2 cents a pound on the shipment.

CARING FOR BREEDING BULL

Male Calf Should Be Separated From Heifers When About Six Months Old—Feed Skim Milk.

The bull calf intended for breeding purposes should be well fed during the growing period. An underfed breeding animal is never looked upon with favor. The male calf should be separated from the heifers when about six months old. If plenty of skim milk is available, it is well to continue feeding it until the calf is eight months old as it will stimulate growth greatly. Pasture in summer and clover or alfalfa hay with silage in winter constitute the best roughage. For winter a light grain ration of corn and bran or oats is desirable. The two most common mistakes made in handling bulls are excessive use when young as a result of allowing them to run with the cows and lack of exercise and too much fat when the bull becomes old.

VEGETABLES GROWN IN FALL

Some of Pickling and Canning Stock Missed in Spring or Summer Can Be Produced.

After the hot summer weather is passed, when the autumn rains have begun one should plan for the fall garden. There are many vegetables that will mature in a short time that are welcome additions to the bill of fare, and some of the pickling and canning stock that we failed to get in the spring or summer can yet be produced.

WELL SELECTED CORN SEED

Supply Should Be Set Aside at Time Crop Is Being Husked—Store in Dry Place.

The corn for seed should be selected and saved when it is being husked. Save no ears for seed which are not of medium size, fair, rows straight, even and of the standard color and borne at least two on the stalk. Seed corn should be spread out in the cranny or on the top floor of the barn, where it will keep dry.

PLAN TO MAKE YARD FOR POULTRY FLOCK

South Side of Building Is Favored by Experts.

Height of Fences Will Need to Be Regulated by the Variety of Fowls—Hexagonal Wire Netting Is Not Expensive.

If convenient, it is well to have double yards, for one may rotate green crops. Small yards may be sown to oats, wheat, rye, rapeseed, etc., but if large yards are available they can be kept in a permanent sod of bluegrass, alfalfa, or clover. While the fowls are using one yard the green feed in the other is getting a fresh start.

If the yards are to be on only one side of the house, they should be on the south side in order that the fowls may have the benefit of the first dry ground in early spring. It not infrequently happens that in localities where snow is abundant the ground on the south side is dry many days before that on the north side.

If the yards are to be in permanent sod and are to furnish green feed for the fowls, 70 to 80 square feet should be allowed for each bird. If part of the green feed is to be provided for otherwise, and the yards used mainly for exercise grounds, 35 to 40 square feet for each bird will be sufficient, poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture say.

Hexagonal wire netting, 2-inch mesh, is suitable for fencing and can be bought cheaply. Where several runs are adjoining, the fences may be boarded up at the bottom to a height of 2 to 2½ feet, or 1-inch mesh wire can be used in place of these boards, to prevent the males fighting one another. Height of fences will need to be regulated by the variety of fowls. The heaviest breeds, like the Brahmas, may be restrained by a 4-foot fence, while most of the other breeds can be kept in by a 6-foot fence. Some of the Hamburgs and leghorns, however, need a 7 or 8 foot fence. By clipping the flight feathers on one wing they can be kept in without much trouble. Gates should be provided in order to permit access from one yard to the next.

Shade of some kind should be provided, and this can often be advantageously furnished by planting fruit trees (such as pear, plum, peach, cherry and apple) in the yard.

STRIPED CUCUMBER BEETLES

Clean Garden of All Forms of Vegetation in Fall and Burn It to Destroy Harmful Pests.

The best way to handle the striped cucumber beetle is by cleaning the garden in the fall of all forms of vegetation and making a bonfire of it. The adjacent plots to the garden should also be raked and the rubbish burned. In this way many species of insects will be killed that would otherwise live through the winter. Many small gardeners leave the garden cleaning until spring and then wonder at the numerous forms of insect life. One day of cleaning and burning in the fall saves several days of insect picking during the spring and the loss of a number of plants. Some observers make the statement that one day in the fall is equal to ten days of fighting the young in the spring. Among the birds that have been seen eating the cucumber beetle on several occasions are the quail, English sparrow, wren, grosbeak and oriole.

HINTS FOR SUMMER WEATHER

Extra Care Should Be Taken to See That Young Chickens Are Not Injured by Hot Sun.

In hot weather, special care is necessary to prevent chicks from being overheated by exposure to the sun, confinement where ventilation is bad, or overcrowding. The brooder should be under shelter, with good circulation of air around it, and the number of chicks should not be greater than it will accommodate comfortably under hot weather conditions.

FALL GREEN BEANS FAVORED

Superior Vegetable for Canning or Pickling—Red Valentine Is Always Tender.

Fall green beans are just the thing for canning or pickling as the continuous cool weather is less apt to cause them to spoil. The Red Valentine is a favorite variety for fall planting as they come quick, are always tender and stringless, and yield heavily.

LOCATION OF FARM HOME

When planning to build a farm home, say specialists of the United States department of agriculture, select a location near good trees, so that their shade may be used and enjoyed by the family every day during the summer. It takes so long to grow good trees that existing ones should be cherished and utilized to the fullest extent.

The Eton Jacket.

The little Eton jacket made of pompadour ribbon is very attractive when worn over a sheer white frock; so is the wide sash with suspenders of narrower ribbon, matching in coloring and design. And, if one prefers to use ribbon very sparingly, a wide sash, made with a large bow but no streamers, and narrower ribbon of matching design, run down from the shoulders to the sash under the lace of the waist of a dress, make a frock distinctive. By this use of ribbon a

FALL FROCKS MAKE THEIR ENTRY

Now that it is a settled fact that one piece dresses for fall share popularity with suits, for general and street wear, it is agreeable to find that the new models on display are very trim and neat looking. There is a vogue for intensely feminine styles, and this promotes the liking for frocks to take the place of suits on the street and elsewhere. Suits themselves are rarely built on severe lines, although there is never a time when a plain suit, beautifully tailored, need make any excuse for itself, it is always good. But the fall season promises a variety of styles and ornamentation in frocks that are of substantial materials and destined to do much service.

All these circumstances pave the way for such smart examples of the one-piece frock as that shown above. They are made, as suits are, of dependable wool fabrics in dark colors—serge, twill, broadcloth, duvetyn and the like, and a little study of these models will impress some new style points on the mind. SWAN SONG OF SUMMER HATS

SUMMER hats, so far as designers of them are concerned, will soon be a thing of the past, for designers are always looking forward and fashioning headwear for the days to come. But they force their thoughts away from summertime reluctantly; one is sure of that when the last of their efforts—the hats of late summer—make their appearance. They seem to be the most exquisite of all millinery, real poems of apparel—like the faded last song of the swan—sweetly terminating in a bow. One can imagine it in white or in any pale tint and picture a thing of beauty to the mind.

In the hat at the right lace hair braid is applied to a straw shape in a different color. For trimming it has a hand and rosette of narrow black velvet ribbon, the rosette resembling a blossom. It is centered with a jet onchocorn and each of its loops is tipped with a jet bead. There are two hanging ends of velvet ribbon, at the end of each a little jet ornament. A mere description cannot do justice to this handsome decoration of velvet ribbon.

The hat at the left is a broad-brimmed straw or taffeta surrounded with a white floral wreath, particularly lilies of the valley or lilacs. With such hats the white draped veil gives the final note in daintiness and coolness.

very simple white dress, made of one of the embroidered robes now sold in all the shops, can be given a slightly different appearance each time the dress is worn.

WOMEN IN RUSSIA MUST WED

Immediate Divorce Decreed for Women Married Four Years and Still Childless.

Moscow.—Russia is again resorting to compulsory marriages and love colonies in order to increase the dwindling population. The latest edict of the soviet orders all women between the ages of eighteen and forty-five to marry immediately, notifying the branches and introduced to bachelors who are willing to prove their patriotism.

The communist leaders offer to take care of the education of all children more than three years old. Many Russian maidens are said to be fleeing the country in order to avoid the wholesale marriage order. Several have married, only to leave their husbands immediately after the ceremony. The soviet officials announce that the order controlling the family life in Russia will be rightly carried out.

Terrible Tortures From Itching Skin Diseases

No Sure Relief Until the Cause Is Removed.
When the blood becomes infested with millions of tiny disease germs that attack the skin, then the fiery irritation and intense itching will remain with you until these germs are removed from the blood.
Genuine relief therefore, can only be expected from a treatment that goes right to the seat of the trouble, and strikes at its cause. Such a remedy is S. S. S., the reliable old blood purifier that kills the germs of disease, and sends a new supply of rich red blood coursing through the veins.
S. S. S. has been used successfully in some of the worst cases of eczema and other skin disorders.

YOUNGSTER MADE WORD GOOD
Though, as it Turned Out, It Was at the Cost of Some Personal Discomfort.

Marshall, who is five, lives in a fat building. He is a real boy and although he has a rear yard and a sand pile in which to play, his mother has more or less trouble keeping him off the streets. A neighbor saw him across the street one morning and the next day called his attention to the fact that he was out of the zone mapped for him. He was one of the busy ones about a vegetable wagon. "Yes," he said, "I had to get some things." The next morning he asked his mother for the market basket. He immediately disappeared and soon returned, accompanied by the vegetable man. In the basket were three pounds of potatoes, a box of berries and two cantaloupes. Mother had to settle whether she needed the goods or not. At any rate, Marshall made his word good with the neighbor that he had to get "some things." When questioned by the same neighbor about his shopping expedition he said: "Yes, and mother spanked me, too."

WISCONSIN STATE NEWS

Madison—C. B. Ballard, Frank Riley and Chase Holz, anti-Tittmore Equity men, now members of the Non-partisan league, have filed the articles of incorporation of a new farmers' organization, which, it is said, they hope will supplant all the other farm organizations. The Wisconsin State Union of the United Farmers of America, Madison, is the name of the new organization, which is formed without capital stock. Among the objects given is: "To bring about a thorough unification of all farm organizations and progressive farmers on a truly cooperative plan and to provide for their most effective unity of action."

Rhineland—About nine years ago a small circus which had a large number of trained South American rats of various colors, exhibited in Rhineland. While several of the rodents escaped from their quarters in the side show and secured themselves in the foundation of an old church building. There they began to rear their young and as their population increased they sought shelter under nearby buildings. Today there are thousands of these strange rats here, white, black, brown, spotted and striped.

La Crosse—The third organization of its kind started in La Crosse, the Western Savings and Investment association has filed articles of incorporation. Twenty young men who have joined the organization will save $25 per month apiece and invest the money in securities. The La Crosse Savings and Investment association, oldest organization of this kind in the city, in six years has saved $35,000 and, including money it has borrowed, has investments totaling $60,000.

Madison—Forbidding honey from outside the state to be sold in Wisconsin unless it is marked to show that it is not Wisconsin grown honey, the State Division of Markets issued orders requiring every person engaged in selling honey, whether as packer, wholesaler or retailer, to label honey shipped in from another state or honey which is blended with Wisconsin honey. Exception is made as to honey brought in and sold in the original package.

Marinette—Journalism has been added to the courses of study at the Marinette high school in the general revision of studies announced by Supt. Paul Neversman. Besides the general studies, the course in journalism requires printing in the first and second years, typewriting in the third and the formal study of journalism in the fourth. The Marinette high school is the first in the state to adopt journalism as a course.

Appleton—Combined Locks, Outagamie county's newest village, will elect its first officers on Tuesday, Aug. 21. The village was incorporated less than two months ago. It has a population of approximately 500. The village is entirely dependent upon the Combined Locks Paper Co.'s big paper mill which employs nearly every man in the town. The paper company is building 12 homes for its workers.

Madison—Madison soldiers of the late war are giving consideration to the purchase of a park as a soldiers' memorial. A committee has been appointed by Maj. George F. O'Connell, head of the local branch of the American legion, to give consideration to this question. It is proposed to buy a strip of lake shore on Lake Monona in the workingmen's section of the city.

Ashland—Joseph Tibideau, aged 61 years, bridge building foreman for the Northwestern railroad, was instantly killed when he was run down on the viaduct by a passenger engine on the way to the roundhouse. He was dragged 20 feet. Mr. Tibideau had been in the employ of the Northwestern road for over 20 years.

Rice Lake—At the special election held to decide whether or not the city should purchase the local plant of the Wisconsin Minnesota Light & Power company, the proposition carried by more than three to one. The vote polled was unusually light, being less than half of the vote cast at the spring election.

Watertown—The machine shops, blacksmith shops and tractor erecting shops of the March Tractor Co. closed down for two weeks, while officials of the company rearrange the interior of the plants to handle the manufacture of a new model tractor.

Mantowoc—Miss Clausine Lueps suffered a broken collar bone and three other girls received minor injuries when their auto overturned when Miss Johanna Lueps, the driver, lost control of the machine.

Racine—The city of Burlington is to have a police woman and she will be a woman whom the residents of that city will not know until such time as she desires to show her authority. The county board of supervisors in special session decided to grant the petition of residents of Burlington for the appointment of a police woman or probation officer to serve from June to November of each year. Who the police woman will be is not known, but she will not be a resident of Burlington. The appointment will be made by Judge Burgess of the municipal court.

Merrill—The Merrill city council has engaged a leader, Vincent Bliss, for a juvenile band, by which it is intended young men may gain a musical education. They will be supplied with musical instruments during their membership in the band.

Baraboo—William Schwartz of the town of Westfield lost twelve pure bred registered Holstein cows, when lightning struck the barbed wire fence near which they were standing, and electrocuted them.

Oconto—The great Stiles Lena drainage canal is about half completed. It is one of the largest drainage projects ever attempted in the state of Wisconsin. The district comprises a drainage area of some 10,000 acres, between the village of Lena and Stiles on the north and south and Oconto Falls on the west. The canal, of which there are three, are 15 miles in length, 16 feet wide and eight feet deep. In time these drainage canals will transform thousands of marsh lands, now only the habitation of cat tails into some of the most valuable agricultural land in Oconto county.

Birchwood—Evidently the Johnsons throughout Northern Wisconsin think more of becoming a sheriff than they do of securing any other office. In Washburn county James A. Johnson of Shell Lake, is a candidate for sheriff on the Republican ticket. In Sawyer county, adjoining Washburn county on the east, John S. Johnson is candidate for sheriff and in Barron county, west of here two miles, J. H. Johnson is a candidate for sheriff. In Barron county, also, J. A. H. Johnson is a candidate for county surveyor.

Stevens Point—The power plant of the Consolidated Water Power & Paper company in this city is to be connected with the consolidated mills at Eron, making a high line running all the way along the Wisconsin river, from Eron to Merrill. Work of constructing the high line from Eron to this city is progressing rapidly. Completion of the line will put the three mills of the company at Grand Rapids, Eron and Stevens Point in direct connection electrically.

Marinette—Marinette was recently sold to the Goodyear Rubber Co. Not Marinette, Wis., but a town of the same name in Arizona, a few miles from Phoenix. The big rubber concern recently purchased several thousand acres of land near Phoenix for cotton raising purposes and the deal included the town of Marinette. This town was founded by Marinette people, who about fifteen years ago, purchased the land for investment purposes.

Eau Claire—Miss Lols Johnson, an employe of a Minneapolis bank, passed through the city on a walking trip to Fond du Lac. She spent six days walking here from Minneapolis, a distance of 304 miles. She accepted occasional lifts along the way and sometimes rode on street cars but not on the railroad, though she plans to return that way. She was traveling alone and with great enjoyment.

Menasha—Gerald Cornell, Chicago, has been visiting at the Mackinnon home on First st. Mr. Cornell was at one time rector of the St. Stevens Episcopal church in Menasha, but has been for four or five years an actor, playing in Fair and Warner and The Masquerader. Mrs. Cornell an English girl, formerly Miss Ruby Gordon, acts with her husband.

Wisconsin Rapids—The ordinance forbidding the parking of cars on the principal streets of the city for a longer period than twenty minutes created so much friction that it was materially modified at the last meeting of the city council. It now applies to about four blocks where dangerous corners are liable to cause accidents.

Odanah—Between $15,000 and $20,000 is being expended on the Hurley-Ashland highway via Saxon and Odanah. Most of the work is now being done on the road through the Bad river reservation between Odanah and Birch. This road is 17 miles shorter between Hurley and Ashland than the state highway via Mellen.

Marinette—Dist. Atty. A. T. Murphy preferred a charge of first degree murder against Emil Rason, night watchman at the Sawyer-Goodman factory, after a coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by strangulation in the case of Douglas Miller, who died after a struggle with Rason in the company's yard.

Appleton—Appleton, one of the prettiest cities in the state, will endeavor to retain its beauty and is now considering the employment of a city planning expert to prepare plans for future expansion and to keep industrial plants out of desirable residence districts.

Wisconsin Rapids—The Prentiss-Wabers Stove Co. of this city is shipping its Auto-Kamp Kook Kits to all parts of the world. From a small beginning it has in two years become one of the important industries of central Wisconsin.

WAS TO BE MORE YELLING
Safe to Say That Father's Prediction Turned Out to Be Absolutely Correct.

The sweetly peaceful scene in the little sitting room was suddenly disturbed by a loud yell, and the honored guest sprang wildly from the chair into which he had just sunk, while the daughter of the house felt her face grow pale.
She had had hopes from this visit. Alas, poor girl, were they to be blighted?
But father took the matter—and his graceful apology he removed the bent pin from the chair and the aforesaid small boy from the room.
"Now look here, Charles," he said sternly, in the back yard, "why did you do it?"
"It was an experiment, father!" faltered the liddle.
"An experiment!" snorted father. "The only man who has visited your poor sister for years, and you go and drive him away!"
"Well, dad," explained the boy, "he advertises that he is a painless dentist, and I wanted to find out if it was true, and it wasn't. You should have heard him yell!"
"Yes," was the father's grim comment. "And some one else is going to hear you yell now!"

Special Care of Baby.
That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.
Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.
A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disgraced by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.
Make a mental note of this:—I, important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

Miracle of Ingenuity.
The air turbine of I. T. Nedland, a North Dakota artisan, is less than one-twentieth of an inch in diameter and weighs only one-fifth of a grain Troy. It has eight parts, the casing being of gold and the motor of steel. The motor, which has six slots, has a diameter of .002 inch; the shaft, .007 inch. Mounted on a hollow pedestal the turbine is driven at a high rate of speed by a jet of compressed air entering at the bottom. This seems to be the tiniest of all motors, being smaller than the same maker's electric motor and steam engine, each of which is reputed to be the smallest machine of the kind in the world.

Puts I Will In You Easy to Get Strong
Everyone wants more pep and surely needs it this hot weather. Hot weather takes away the appetite and makes one feel listless, lifeless, miserable, even when you have a strong stomach, but for those who have weak stomachs, it is really a dangerous, trying time.
Be on the safe side this kind of weather and help nature all you can, by taking an eatonic tablet about half an hour before you eat and one or two an hour after you eat; it will be of wonderful benefit. Eatonic simply takes up the excess acids, poisons and gases, and carries them right out of the body. With the cause of the trouble removed, of course you will feel fit and fine—full of pep all the time. Eatonic will cool feverish mouth and stomach and give you a good appetite, even in hot weather.
Get a big box at your druggist's for a trifling cost and let eatonic help you for a few days; then you will never be without it. Adv.
Face Looked Familiar.
Dinah was a product of New Orleans, a big, plump "yaller gal," who could cook the finest dinners for miles around. One day a new butler appeared upon the scene, and Dinah's mistress noticed that she took a great interest in the man.
At last her mistress could stand her curiosity no longer and asked: "Dinah, do you know that new man?"
Dinah took another long and scrutinizing look and then slowly and reluctantly replied: "Well, I dunno, Miss Alice; but I think he was my first husband!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ORDER THE STATESMAN TODAY

The Power of the Hour

MECHANICAL power is stepping swiftly into the breach that has been formed by restless, dissatisfied labor. This is true in the city and it is true on the farm.

Today Titan 10-20 Tractors are the labor-saving power of the hour on the farms of America. Everywhere, reaching to the farthest boundaries of agriculture, you will hear the steady chug-chug of these tireless toilers. They are displacing men and horses and getting more work per day from available farm labor. Soon summer fallowing will be under way in many sections of the country, and there you will find Titan 10-20 Kerosene Tractors working faithfully from sun-up to sun-down, undisturbed by heat or flies, turning the hard-baked ground in the interests of bumper crops.

New Titans are scarce just now, due to unprecedented demand, and the fact that every user of a Titan 10-20 is a booster is the best of reasons for you to act at once to secure one of the very few available.

Come in and let us show you why you should buy a Titan 10-20 Tractor.

A. G. Koch, Kewaskum, Wis.

TO GUARD INTERESTS THERE

Lloyd George Tells House He Noted Wrangle That If He Attacked Russia It Would Be on His Own Responsibility.

The vessels are under orders to proceed to Danzig, the free city on the Baltic.

The threatening situation in Poland has jeopardized the lives and interests of a large number of Americans who are scattered in various parts of Poland.

Some of them are officials of this government, sent to observe the situation of that part of the world, and others are commercial representatives.

There still was no indication that the American government was seriously considering recognition of General Wrangel.

London, Aug. 18.—Premier Lloyd George stated in the house of commons that the government had made it clear to Gen. Baron Wrangel, anti-bolshevik leader in South Russia, that if he further attacked the soviet forces he must do so on his own responsibility.

Yellow Men Sleep

By Jeremy Lane

He hobbled ahead, and many walked close beside the white men, but there was no talking. If the miners were curious, they were silent. If they were as distrustful as they appear...

Con smelled canals. There was a ledge where the walls sloped back to meet the lowering roof, and in the wedge-shaped space between, the white men were permitted to conceal themselves.

"I talked with Helen about these men," said March. "They are the sons of captive mothers and fathers. Their blood is pure, or has already been duplicated in the city. That is their crime; they are not blended, or necessary to the blend, and so, as outcasts, are sentenced to the work here. The women are not all deformed, and the children are not always born dwarfs.

"The devil's own scheme," said Con. "There are pure Japanese here, pure Persian, the Lord knows how many different elements not desired for the purposes of empire."

"I thought of their grievances and made the most of that. It appears that they have at different times cherished the idea of a revolution; our Arabian friend was one of the candidates for leadership, years ago, he says, but his legs were too bad. They had to give it up. Isn't that the bitterest humor?"

"I hope we can make good your promises," said Con. "I hope they can protect us."

"Curious game, isn't it?" mused Levington. He was thinking now of Princess Helen.

"You're not much elated over our deliverance," objected the elder conrade.

"Walt Whitman said that if a thousand perfect men were to appear before him he wouldn't be surprised."

"Is that the way you feel?" laughed March.

"Yes. That's one book Helen ought to have. Walt could show her what's the matter with Tau Kuan."

"You might do that yourself," said the father, and the conversation lapsed.

Leans. Silently it progressed, from one shadow to the next. When the thought caught on a rocky point, the warrior below would whirl his end of it, and the tether would go free. The snake paused with trembling rage at the disturbance, then went on.

Levington had drawn his turban down over his neck, with face pressed to the rocks. But he could not withhold a glance at the approaching snake, and his heart beat heavily with terror. He steeled himself to hold perfectly still. The eyes of the reptile were upon him, now within two yards of his head.

There was no hesitation. The snake was looping, gliding onward across the ledge. Con's soul was gripped in horror, but if the searching party had reckoned on forcing the fugitives to betray themselves by some outcry or sign of fear, they had failed. Neither American had so much as winked while the stouthearted writhed past without striking.

The hunters passed on to the next cavern.

CHAPTER XI.

"You Are Making Me Unhappy."

Con heard his friend breathing once more, exhaling pent air. They waited some time before moving out of the tight place.

"A merry little worm, wasn't he?" whispered Con.

"Are you chilled?" asked March, whimsically.

"You are chattering, too," retorted the young man.

"I wonder if they left any of those behind, for our benefit?"

"I saw only the one, so I know it was real," said Levington. "Gobi police dog. I'll never forget the glance he gave me—yellow diamond eyes. And, do you know—?"

"He had a smell," whispered Levington.

March laughed quietly and said he did not doubt that.

"There was a house in Dowagiac," continued Levington, "a very old house. The walls were full of murder, and worse. A poor lady lived there, with a number of miseries, such as jaundice and eczema. Her apron was always torn. She didn't do the murder. It did her. I was small then. I remember the broken plaster that came down upon the beds, which were gray and active. Jumpy—dishes under the stove and under the table—the cats whose fur was stiff with garbage, and the grasshoppers that hung on the parlor curtains. Well, in that house, there drifted this same cold, poisonous smell."

Andrew March was very grave now. "I do not doubt that, either," he said.

Levington worked his way further out of the crevice, to a position better for breathing, although still in the shadow. He rolled over upon his back, and drew up his knees, with a deep sigh.

"That house would be proud of me if they knew, and if I was able to bring back a straight story of this country, the source of the world's koreh."

"You hold still!" "Like stone," said Con. "She do not strike you at all?" "Passed both of us," said March. "You are cherished of Allah," declared the sailor. "They have taken away four of us."

He granted a world of meaning. The sailors were pushing the miners for complicity. Perhaps the tale of the white men's "murder" did not impress the searching party.

"What will they do to the Arab?" "Break leg," said the fourth. "Maybe starve."

Andrew March shuddered, and the strange one below volunteered: "My men do not like."

Levington saw that two white strangers causing great trouble for the miners could not become very popular. March also understood. He said simply: "Take me before your men."

"Is there anything you can say?" asked Con.

"Only what I told them before," replied March. "We represent a nation that is as eager to punish Tau Kuan as these workers can be, if we can get back there to tell the story. I can make that clear, at least."

"They may not be in a mood to listen," March smiled sadly. "Moods," he began, but shook his head.

The three men passed into the larger portion of the cavern, where the red-dish roof was marked with the flare from the burning gas below. Several women cried out sharply at sight of the white men and fled like timid animals to their rock-pockets up the walls. Their skirts were brief and dainty. Several very young children darted after their mothers to the safety of dark familiar haunts—too young to have been "spoiled." It was only a period of months before they would be taken into the city, to be molded into slaves in the houses of the soldiers, the circulation of their blood retarded, their very souls distorted. Returning to the mines a year or more after, they would be lost and strange and as if orphaned, among their own kin. Their family life did not receive sanction of the state.

The frightened women left food behind them. Jars stood close to the fissure from which came the fire. The contents had been prepared for baking. Con bent down to sniff at the open jars. March and the Arab passed on together, and Levington waited, feeling himself useless in such a conference. He was more interested in finding an exit.

To the left was the passage leading to the foot of the slanting shaft. He noted a long vine that came down over the loose gravel like a guide-rope. Con climbed into the enlarging daylight toward the top. Sunlight, the old enemy, was beguiling. He was thinking that in Tau Kuan they have either too much sunshine or too little. The pale, haunted faces of the children below troubled him. An intense light was blinding him from above. A flash of desert days came over him oddly, a swift reminiscence of pain and thirst, gone in the space of one upward step, yet leaving a dryness in the throat. Con realized that the only trees within a thousand miles were the half-grown oaks outside the casements of the princess.

Now the air changed in his nostrils and he caught again the hot, sweeping currents of the sand. When the green blots left his eyes he raised his head above the level of upper earth and stared away. The city, less than a mile distant, was shimmering behind heat-waves, at moments dimmed by clouds of dust that rushed across the valley. He squinted to find the path they had taken last night through the fog, with the sleepers rising to find them.

A drummed with baskets and a driver was coming out at the big gate. Out to the south was a motionless horseman, the sun flashing from his silver and steel. He seemed to be guarding the horizon. He was one of the scores who sought a trace of the fugitives. But nearer, along the road, was a third rider, canteering between the green grasses. Con's heart beat violently. He recognized the gray cloak of his princess.

She rode under the full blaze of high morning sun. The pony moved briskly. The watcher was puzzled as to why she came out in the great heat, leaving the shelter of the palace tiers. She was alone, save for the far figure of the sentinel. She was mounted perfectly, and this was comforting to Con, who longed for more signs of her western self. She reached the cut in the hill, the head of the ravine, and there drew rein. Vividly he recalled that it was the point of their first meeting, where her uplifted right arm had saved him, while with the left she concealed her face.

He swore to himself that he was presumptuous in imagining she had ridden there for any reason connected with himself, unless she too was seeking to discover the white disturbers of the empire and give them over to the vizir. Con argued with himself that she had come to the ravine before she knew he existed, that probably she rode there each day for a constitutional, since there was nowhere else to go. Yet his emotions had their final say.

Lifting himself out at the mouth of the shaft, he glanced up and around. The sun was scorching. If he attempted to move along the face of the hill he would draw the eye of the sentinel and the end would come quickly. Con's turban and blouse were white and he felt that he must be glowing like a gem on the dome hillside. Greater than this difficulty was the fear that Helen would ride on or turn back before he could reach her. Nothing short of a word from her would suffice, although he could not recall that he had anything to say.

The shortest way out of sight was up the hill and over the crest, and Con began to worm upward as rapidly as possible. The sand he loosened must have made a long stream downward, a perfect mark if the sentinel glanced that way. At the top, Levington was breathless, but not from exertion. He was in furious excitement. Just a little way down the hill on the further side, and he stood erect to look. Helen was still at the head of the ravine. He bolted for the road that led up to her. When he was quite close, a thud caught him, a pleasant thud. It was the old gentleness where women were concerned, the familiar fullness in the throat and the shyest look that ever comes into the eyes of an adult male. But here was also a new driving force, a reckless impulse. He would have speech with her, princess or no. She did not see him. The sun was liquid silver upon her, and the heat he was aware that she did see him. They occupied the positions respectively of their first meeting, yet now the footing was different. Con ran up the road toward the pony. He crept up the side of the bank and found it convenient to kneel beside a boulder. He bowed. "I wanted to talk with you," he said. "You are looking for you," she replied.

"Your father is conferring with the Arab foreman and the miners." "I know you were safe, for there has been no rejoicing."

"There isn't going to be, on our account." "I wondered where you were," she said.

Her voice was almost dreamy, a twilight in the midst of a blaze of sun. Con was fascinated by the play of light beneath the brim of her hat, and she seemed not to rebuke his glances.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The mountain of success is steep and rough. Who gains the summit climbs a weary way. And, though brave feet grow stronger with rebuff. The rocky path a coward's steps may stray.

A HOT WEATHER LUNCHEON.

Even in warm weather a hot soup is enjoyed, especially those made of fresh green vegetables, such as peas, spinach, vegetable oysters or celery. Cucumbers soup may not be so well known but it is a most appetizing one.

Cream of Cucumber Soup.—Have ready one cupful of stewed cucumber, rubbed through a sieve. Take the liquor in which the cucumber was cooked, reduce it to half a cupful, boiling, and set aside. Put into a muffled one tablespoonful of butter, season with salt, pepper and when the butter is hissing stir into it two tablespoonsful of flour. Stir until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan. Add three cupfuls of cold milk and stir constantly until it boils. When the mixture is as thick as a thin cream sauce add the cucumber and the half-cupful of liquor. Mix thoroughly, boil up once and serve.

Eggs a la Bourgeoise.—Cut slices of bread half an inch thick and trim off the crust; lay on a buttered platter and butter, season with salt, pepper and when the butter is hissing stir into it two tablespoonsful of flour. Stir until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan. Add three cupfuls of cold milk and stir constantly until it boils. When the mixture is as thick as a thin cream sauce add the cucumber and the half-cupful of liquor. Mix thoroughly, boil up once and serve.

Creamed Fish With Potato.—Prepare creamed salmon as usual and put a layer of the fish in a baking dish, cover with a layer of cold, mashed potato, then add another layer of fish until the dish is full and the potato on top. Dot with bits of butter, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake brown in a hot oven.

Macaroni With Codfish.—Take one cupful of cold-boiled macaroni, add one cupful of cold-boiled codfish flaked fine. Put into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with salt, pepper, grated cheese and sufficient milk to moisten. Bake until brown.

Potato Border.—Make a rim of mashed seasoned potato around a well-buttered platter. Fill the center with creamed fish, cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven until the crumbs are brown.

Cheerfulness and content are great beautifiers, and are famous preservers of good looks—"Barnaby Rudge."

WHAT TO HAVE FOR LUNCHEON. For a warm weather luncheon, and this means one easy to digest and not too heavy, try a fish dish for the main course, a salad and a light dessert with an iced or a hot drink as one prefers.

Curried Salmon.—Chop a small onion very fine and fry brown in one tablespoonful of butter. Mix one teaspoonful of curry powder with one tablespoonful of flour and a pinch of salt. Stir into the butter. Add slowly one cupful of hot water, stirring briskly. When the sauce is thick add one cupful of flaked salmon and cook until well heated.

Current Pie.—Take a pastry shell and fill with the following: Mash one cupful of currants with one cupful of sugar or use the same quantity of fresh currant jam, prepared by using crushed currants and sugar in equal measures, or slightly less sugar. Add two beaten egg yolks, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a quarter of a cupful of water; mix well and cook until smooth and thick. Cool, fill the shell and cover with a meringue made from the beaten whites with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Brown in the oven and serve at once.

Peas and Carrots.—Clean and dice enough carrots to make two and one-half cupfuls. Steam until tender; put through a sieve; add butter and flour, one tablespoonful each; one beaten egg, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper and a grating of nutmeg. Press into a ring mold, cover with greased paper and steam twenty minutes. Fill the center with cooked seasoned peas and garnish with parsley.

Tomato Hors d'Oeuvre.—Arrange slices of tomato cut one-half inch thick on thin rounds of broiled cornmeal mush. Cover the tomato with a paste made of cottage cheese mixed with a few chopped nut meats and add a seasoning of chopped chives and radishes. Garnish with radish roses or with olives. Serve at dinner.

Worth Cultivating. Is it not a thing divine to have a smile which, none know how, has the power to lighten the weight of that enormous chain which all the living in common drag behind them?—Victor Hugo.

Washington's Peculiar Hobby. George Washington's principal diversion was training baby foxes. He was fond of fox hunting. He took the animals home, and trained them in all kinds of tricks, which he often exhibited to friends.

Start of the Umbrella. As a shade from the sun the umbrella is of great antiquity. Sir Gardner Wilkinson has engraved a delineation of an Ethiopian princess traveling in her chariot through upper Egypt, where the car is furnished with an umbrella.

Change of Time. On her wedding day every woman thinks that life will be one grand sweet song, but later, when she has to sing to a pair of twins—well, it's a different tune.—Exchange.

LOOK OUT FOR THE CARS

DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that sign at a railroad crossing?

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing?

Maybe you think, Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise."

Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."

Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world. The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continually advertising—and they are continually doing a good business.

If it pays to run a few ads around about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.

Hard for Normal Mind to Understand What Actuated the Hoarders of Great Riches.

Thomas Cooke, known as "the Islington miser," who lived a life of poverty, saving and petty trickery in Islington, a borough of London, England, left a fortune of more than $300,000 for his heirs to squabble over after his death.

Among other beggars who left fortunes after death was Jeremiah Monahan, upon whom, when he was about to be buried in St. Louis, was found a key to a safety deposit box.

The Fish Was Drowned. The yarn of the frozen fish which came to life when placed in the cooking pot by the V. A. D. was told to a naval officer, who promptly capped the tale with the following: "An interesting experiment was tried some time ago."

Several parties that pitched their tents at Round Lake for the summer have departed for their homes, and heartily recommend the lake to be an ideal place at which to spend their vacation. They could always catch a meal of fish whenever desired and intend to come again next year.

WISCONSIN'S GREATEST STORE

invites you to visit Milwaukee during
STATE FAIR WEEK, AUG. 30 To SEPT. 4

This is a picture of our store as it will appear when the units now under construction are completed, which will be probably late in 1920. The store will then have a frontage of 165 feet on Grand Ave., 422½ feet on Fourth St., and 90 feet on Sycamore St. The new unit at the Fourth and Sycamore Sts. corner will be eight stories high. This addition will give us approximately 50 per cent more floor space—or a total floor space slightly in excess of ten acres.

We invite you to make this store your headquarters during your visit to Milwaukee and the State Fair, which from all reports will eclipse any previous fair in the quantity and quality of both exhibits and entertainment features. Our rest rooms, writing rooms, check room—are all yours to use as freely as you wish.

The lunch room will serve you good food quickly, at very moderate prices. The telephones and post office are for your convenience.

We are Selling a Million Dollars Worth of Goods at Cost to Us this Year —and have reserved quite a liberal portion of it for State Fair Week, so that our friends from out of town may have a chance to share in it. Let our advertisements in Milwaukee papers be your shopping guide while in Milwaukee—by spending in this store, you may save enough to pay for your trip to Milwaukee.

A STORE FULL WEDDING GIFTS

FLOUR and FEED

An Old Fault Finder.
An irritable and fault finding disposition is often caused by indigestion. A man with good digestion and bowels that act regularly is usually good natured. When troubled with indigestion or constipation take Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They also cause a gentle movement of the bowels.—Adv.
