Men Beneath the Wings

Important in the scheme of things to come are the men beneath the wings of our air fleets-the earthbound, overalled technicians who design and build the planes as well as the engines that power them, and the men who keep them in shape to take the air safely. This series of photos takes you to one of the schools where these experts receive their training-the Casey Jones School of Aeronautics, at Newark, N. J.

THE AUTO HORN SOLUTION Mayor LaGuardia of New York is in another campaign against automobile horns, but hizzoner makes the same mistake others make when he thinks anything can be done about auto horns except abolishing the darned things. The mere presence of a horn on an automobile transforms a driver into a speed maniac, a pig, and a order to: fathead with the manners of a dictator and the ethics of a gangster. . . .

He can own a revolver without the slightest yen to use it; he can possess a shotgun without the least impulse to use it, but put an automobile horn under his control and he becomes a potential assassin with all the instincts of a hungry hyena.

"It is the horn," said Elmer Twitchell today, "that gives an auto owner the Nero complex, shucks him of all remnants of civilized im-pulses and makes him a plain damned fool, filled with the idea that all he has to do is to press the button to make the whole world jump.

"I don't care whether it is a loud horn or a soft horn, a bass horn or a canary, a blaster or a boop-a-dooper, nothing can prevent the owner from making a nuisance out of it, and Mayor LaGuardia is suffering from drooping intelligence if he thinks otherwise.

"All the reckless driving, all the violations of automobile laws, all the disrespect for the rights of other users, and most of the auto accidents are due to the horn, and to nothing else. Take that horn off the car and the driver would be forced to depend on common sense. . . .

"Do you have to keep rubbing it in, all the time? I'm so low now I could walk out of this room without opening the door. You've been so fine to me, Mrs. Morgan, that I'm keeping on living just to pay you back. I might be lying over there in the laurel now, like that poor photographer."

"You got yourself out of the laurel. I didn't. And I didn't take you in for pay. I'm a mountain woman. What I want to talk to you about is, what comes next. What do you figure you'll do when you get loose from Ada and the zodiac?" He wrinkled his forehead and his Lucy Fields went home that night in an uneasy state of mind. She had worked for and loved Virgie Morgan loyally for several years, she would have defended Virgie passionately against any criticism, but now she had a feeling that Virgie's generous impulses had betrayed her. This young Wills might be a very fine fellow-but Lucy had a feeling that he would not be a success in the Morgan mill.

Stanley Daniels was coming to call. She would talk to him about it. But she was quite certain that he was not going to be pleased either.

But at night when she went home. she forgot Branford Wills in her excitement over Daniels' visit.

The house was in confusion, as always. Lucy hurried from room to room, opening the outer doors to get the smell of coffee and frying out of the house; ignoring her mother's peevish complaints, whisking and brushing, hiding away the bottle of liniment, the lurid calendars, and the handleless souvenir tea-cup filled with matches that decorated the mantel shelf. She washed up the dust of spilled (© Roger B. Whitman-WNU Service.) Applying Paint.

Q UESTION: What are the rela-tive merits of applying paint in a repaint job on exterior shingles with a brush and with a spray? Answer: On a rough and uneven surface, such as shingles, a spray will drive paint into cracks and crevices that a brush could reach only with great difficulty. The disadvantage of spraying is that parts that are not to be painted, as for instance, trim and porches, must be covered to keep the spray from striking them. The spray being a fine mist that is carried by the wind, even distant parts of the house may be accidentally coated. A professional painter finds the investment in a spray gun, air compressor and hose to be worth while, but an amateur with only occasional jobs to do will hardly find it so.

Rainwater Disposal.

Question: In a heavy downpour when water overflows the gutters, it gushes through my bulkhead, or foundation wall, into the cellar, entering over the top of the bulkhead door. Can I get a door that is waterproof?

Answer: There is on the market MAKE up this smart tailored a bulkhead door complete with sides that is made of sheet metal and that dress in a refreshing Spring is practically waterproof. A dealer print, or bright-colored wool, or in building materials should know dark flat crepe with bright buttons. about it, or can find out about it It will give a real lift to your from the Architects' Samples, 101 spirits and look gay as a holly Park avenue, New York city. But berry under your winter coat. instead of checking the effect, I should think it would be better to get after the cause by increasing the size of the gutters, giving them more slope, or doing whatever else is necessary to improve the drainage that they give. Making Storm Windows. Question: Being quite adept with tools, my husband wishes to make storm windows for our house. Is this too difficult a job for an amatuer? He has made screens, etc. Answer: There is much more to the making of storm windows than of screens. All corners must be tightly mortised and the crossbars for the panes of glass must be firm. This work requires machine tools, for to make all the joints by hand takes most careful workmanship and is a long job. However, he should be able to buy the frames at a sash and door mill in the rough, with the idea of doing the glazing and mak-

"People who work for me have to be of use." Virgie rose, briskly, and gave her corset the usual disciplinary jerk. "Well, good-by-I'd better get to work. You'll have a quiet day. Lossie's got washing to do and Marian is organizing the Little Theatre."

"Your child," said Mr. Wills, "does not like me." "There are times," Virgie grinned dryly, "when she doesn't admire me a whole lot, but maybe we'll grow in grace." She went downstairs and out to her muddy old car. She was wondering, as she drove toward the town if she had been a sentimental old fool. Tom would say so-and so would Marian. But Marian had had the idea in the first place. She said nothing to Tom about young Branford Wills. Tom wanted to carry on the pulp business with a double-bitted ax and a wheelbarrow. He was rooted, hating change, fearing it. She was exasperated with him anyway.

Her exasperation increased when she found Bill Gallup waiting for her. Lucy was typing at a furious pace, as she always did whenever a man sat in the chair beside Virgie's desk. "Hello, Bill," she said, as she spiked her limp hat and bumped her brief-case down. "Are you back again to try to talk me into throwing away a good old boiler that has been tooting our whistle for going on thirty years?" "No." Bill punched out a cigarette. "I'd like to see that ancient kettle go into scrap, of course, and you've got to come to it sooner or later. But I'll wait. Wait till a couple of engineers and a fireman or two go out through that rusty roof of yours. But that isn't what's on my mind today. I wanted to talk about a tract of hardwood timber over across the ridge on Little Fork. I found out that Pruitt has a first-mortgage lien on it." "What about it?" "Some eastern timber grabbers are after it. Fellow named Cragg stayed at my house last night. I heard, after he left, that they have raided a piece already over on the Tennessee side—moved in and cut it off quick before the different claimants could get together and get court air backs. He could not action. They have papers usually and out the gate, along a hard path by the railroad tracks. The path turned sharply up a gullied hill through a gap in an old fence and Tom turned, too, heading for the little unpainted house on a knob behind the town, where for forty years he had lived.

He unlocked the heavy padlock and opened the door, into a wide, dark room that smelled of ashes and unaired clothing and ancient grease. Over the fireplace hung two long rifles, polished and shining in a place where nothing else was clean. Tom took them both down, opened a tin

Three days passed and Tom did not come back.

Virgie grew anxious and irritable, snapping at every one, exasperated at Tom.

"The contrary old mule!" she stormed, as she poked at the fire. 'What's he pouting about, anyway? After I go to a lot of trouble to save his timber land for him, he goes off in a sulk! Afraid he'll have to go to court, I suppose."

Lucy Fields, sitting meekly at her desk, chirped an agreement. "Do you want me to go to Tom's house. Mrs. Morgan, and see what has happened to him?"

"No, I don't. It's a mile and all You'll go traipsing around uphill. in that thin coat and get pneumonia, and then where will I be? I haven't got enough trouble, ship-ments late and stove full of ashes-" 'I'll have Jerry clean those out.

Question: Two years ago our rough-finished cement stucco house was painted, the paint being a casein mixture. Some years before, the house had been painted with a mixture containing oil. The new paint almost immediately began scaling. What is the reason? How can the condition be remedied?

Answer: It may be that the previous painting filled the pores so completely that the new paint could not penetrate and get a bond. For another thing, the casein paint may not have been intended for outside use on stucco. Were I in your place I would talk things over with the company that did the paint job.

Buckled Tar Shingles.

Question: My garage roof is covered with tar paper composition shingles, with a sanded surface. Some of the shingles have buckled and the sanded surface and color have worn off. They have been nailed flat, and the roofer now suggests painting the shingles a uniform color. Is this practical? What type of paint should be used?

Answer: Yes, it is practical. Some of the asphalt shingle manufacturers make an asphaltic paint for the purpose of coating asphalt shingles. The paint will renew the dried-out oils in the shingles.

Outdoor Fireplace.

Question: Where can I get plans and descriptions of outdoor fireplaces?

Answer: Get a copy of the "Barbecue Book," which can be had from the Sunset magazine, San Francisco, for $1. This contains the best information that I have seen on outdoor fireplaces and grills and the whole subject of barbecuing-including recipes.

'No Quarrel With America,' Says Hitler, But 'Aid to Britain' Ships Will Be Sunk; New Japanese Envoy En Route to U.S.; Congress Continues Lease-Lend Debate

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) ed by Western Newspaper Unio

FORT DIX, N. J.-Taking advantage of a snowfall along the eastern seaboard, members of the 44th Division's ski patrol glide down a hill in their first maneuvers in this huge army encampment. Warfare knows no seasons, so Uncle Sam must prepare to fight under any condition. The patrol pictured here was organized by Lieut. Eric Wilkner, formerly of Lapland, Sweden, but now of New York's 113th infantry.

EIGHT YEARS: Of Hitler

On the eighth anniversary of his assumption of power, Adolf Hitler told his people and the world that U. S. aid for Great Britain "will be torpedoed" and that "Europe will defend itself" in case "those people" (meaning Americans) enter the

A cheering crowd of 20,000 gathered at the Berlin Sports palace for the speech heard the German dictator tell of Nazi plans to defeat England in the coming months. He said that Germany had "armed and armed and armed" and that anyone seeking to destroy that nation would get a rude awakening. He told also of Germany's preparation of military surprises that will be used in the coming battles. He said that enemy hopes for revolts in Italy because of Italian setbacks were in vain. The British were challenged to invade the continent.

Hitler declared that 1941 "will be the historical year of a great new order in Europe." He said also that Germany has never been against American interests.

BRITAIN'S NEED:

Congress Considers

There was a growing feeling in congress that unless the President's measure to permit him to lend or lease material supplies to Britain was passed soon, the Germans would arrive before American arms.

should happen to his artificial eye. It is not his eye, however, which is most likely to fail him. Back home Foreign Minister Yoskue Matsuoka, also educated in an American college through the kindness of American charity, did not wait for the admiral's arrival in Washington. Matsuoka declared to the diet that he considered U. S. policy "outrageous," in that it objected to Japanese control of the western Pacific. He said that the fate of world civilization depends wholly upon America's attitude and refused to accept the theory of U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull that the invasion of Manchuria by Japan was the first step in destruction of world peace.

HISTORIC CITY: History Repeats

The town of Derna, now in Italian Libya, has an historic place in American history, for it was at this village where ended one of the most courageous exploits of the American army. The year was 1805 and the United States was at war with Tripoli, after refusing to pay tribute to that nation in order that American ships would not be molested by pirates on the open sea. "Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute," had thundered Charles C. Pinckney a few years before and the slogan was repeated now. William Eaton, a captain in the American army who had been attache to Near Eastern countries, found himself in Alexandria, Egypt. There he recruited a motley crowd of about 40 Americans, several hundred Greeks and as many Arabs. On March 8, he started across the burning desert toward Derna, a city of 10,000. The campaign experienced untold hardships, was almost without food or water, several times faced revolt in its own ranks. But by cool bravery Eaton dragged his army 600 miles across the sands and attacked Derna. On April 27 the city fell to the American army. The war ended soon afterward and Eaton returned home to be forgotten. As March approached this year another army which started in Alexandria stood before Derna, now a city of 65,000. British troops with modern mechanized columns, lines of communications and trains of water, had put to rout an Italian force

DEBTS: U.S. Needs Money

Congress is ready to consider plans to increase the national debt limit and raise additional funds to finance defense efforts already authorized. The present debt limit, set by congress, is $45,000,000,000. Chairman Doughton, of the house ways and means committee, introduced legislation to raise this limit to $65,000,000,000.

They also suggested congress establish the debt limit at a sum only necessary to cover the necessary borrowing immediately in "Financially," the report sight. said, "the government is in a wilderness

DRAFT: Harsh Words

In England the government has had the power since the early days of the war to draft manpower and capital for defense. Virtually the same powers were voted to President Roosevelt under the selective service act. In neither country has there been much of a crackdown on industry, the force of the law being sufficient to compel co-operation of recalcitrant plants.

But now England is talking of trafting labor to man its factories

They agreed to set a time limit on the President's powers, they were willing that a clause should be contained in the bill to prohibit convoy by U. Further they would not go and efforts to make the proposal ineffectual by further amendment met firm resistance. Meanwhile supply and military experts held conferences with the new British ambassador, Viscount Halifax, whose arrival in America was unprecedented. He came on the H.M.S. MISSION:

Failure Expected

Kichisaburo Nomura, admiral of Japan, is a graduate of the United States naval academy. During the World war he was Japanese naval attache in Washington and a close friend of the then assistant secretary of the navy, Franklin D. Roosevelt

Now Admiral Nomura, admittedly a pro-American among Japanese, is en route to Washington as the new ambassador from Tokyo. He sailed, he said, on what promised to be "a mission of failure." Younger men, offered the job, turned it down. They said it would be sure to end their political careers. But Admiral Nomura is a man of courage. He lost an eye when a bomb was thrown and killed several other politicians. He received a glass eye from the empress herself. Before he left Tokyo he had a duplicate made, in case anything

Shock in Italy

In Rome there was no confirmation of the rumor that Marshal Rodolfo Graziani had been relieved of his Libyan command. But the Graziani rumor was not the most startling. There were stories of uprisings in Turin and Milan, of troops joining in the demonstration against Mussolini, of anti-Fascist speeches in the market place and of obscene words written on posters containing Mussolini's picture.

All this was denied, but more persisted. They said Germans had taken over the Italian censorship of postal, telephone and telegraph services. That three Italian generals had been shot, that thousands had been arrested by secret police, that revolt was halted only when German troops took over.

and in Washington there has been threat to use the power on one or two industries. Most vocal of these instances was at a meeting of the lumber and timber products defense committee when Leon Henderson, defense commissioner in charge of price control, warned that prices must be cut sharply and production speeded. Henderson said there had been some improvement. He said prices in December dropped to $35.01 per 1,000 board feet but would have to come down to $25, or the government would take over. "I've had all the arguments, excuses and explanations I want and a whole lot more than I need," he said and stalked from the meeting.

With the approach of spring the draft will be speeded. The objective is 800,000 men in camp under the selective service law before June 1. Between now and then the monthly drafts will reach about 100,-000 men.

I Discovery of a new comet visible to the naked eve was reported by Dr. John S. Paraskevopoulous, of the Boyden observatory in South Africa. I There is a shortage of small coins in the United States, which may be some improvement over the years when the shortage mostly was noticed in dollars. Last year the U.S. mints poured out 1,209,078,982 coins with a face value of more than $50,000,000. But there still are not enough. Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, says the increase demand is due to the rise of coin-vending machines.

I say the pattern was preserved, I mean that all the Triple A wanted to do was to cut down production to the point where demand and supply approximately balanced. "The policy of the congress as stated in the Agricultural Adjustment act was to restore to American farm products, as rapidly as practicable, the same purchasing power in terms of things farmers buy that those products had in the five-year period (1909-1914) immediately preceding the World war."

So if you were told to plow under your cotton this year, this did not mean go out of the business of raising cotton for good. You were supposed to get payments so you could stay alive until it paid to raise more cotton again.

Now a New Pattern.

But now a new pattern has been drawn. It is based on the belief that the major foreign markets are gone for good-or at least for so long that they cannot be reckoned on any longer. Some farmers will just have to face the fact that they must make permanent shifts in their crops

Here is the key phrase of the new policy in a sentence taken from the annual report of the department of agriculture recently published: "Growing unneeded crops is sheer waste of labor, of capital, of soil, even if temporarily the products can go into storage under government loans.' This change in agricultural adjustment policy was not heralded in advance. But little by little hints have been dropped as to what is coming. Secretary Wickard sounded a muted warning that the definite trend in foreign trade was downward in his recent speech at Purdue university. His Supplementary Cotton plan followed as a step in the direction of reducing the cotton surpluses, shifting acreage to food | ing anybody.

Hull is legally correct. But all the old rules are off. Undeclared war is the popular stunt these days. It is the way the totalitarians do it and we are being forced to take over a lot of these measures in order to fight fire with fire. The job will be to scrap them all when the trouble is over.

But in the real sense we are not at war. No Americans under the American flag are shooting anybody under any other flag. And that is something. And a high official of the United States government has made it clear that that was what the President had in mind when he said that he had never considered using American warships to convoy supplies through the war zone to Great Britain. It has been predicted frequently that convoys would be our next step. Well, this official explained that the reason the administration was against the use of convoys was because "when a convoy gets into the war zone there is likely to be shooting and shooting comes awfully close to war."

Statement's Significance.

It seemed to me significant that this statement was made on the same day that former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, testifying before the foreign affairs committee on the lease-lend bill, said almost the same thing in other words. It almost looked as if the two spokesmen had gotten together beforehand. That was the same day, as some of you may remember, that I had said earlier on the Farm and Home hour that I could find no indication in Washington that any steps were being taken to get us into the war. My observation was a coincidence. Perhaps the conjunction of the other remarks was, too. To the men who were in France

WHEN a youngster has fre-quent colds, parents may feel that removal cf the tonsils might prevent these colds. Experience has amply proven TODAY'S that the removal HEALTH of tonsils does not prevent colds ex- COLUMN cept in some cases where the cold always begins with a sore throat.

There is present throughout the world today a feeling that tonsils should not be removed unless it can be definitely shown that they are to blame for the symptoms present. Thus in the Hospital for Sick Children, London, 2,729 operations for removal of tonsils were performed in 1938, as compared with 4,730 operations

Dr. Barton in 1930.

In discussing the removal of tonsils and adenoids, Sir Lancelot Barrington-Ward at the Royal Society of Medicine, said that the tonsil was in his experience much the more dangerous element. The structure of the tonsil allowed organisms to remain dormant or quiet, but nevertheless active, leading to chronic general poisoning of the system or flare-up into acute inflammation from time to time.

Adenoids, on the other hand, acted simply as an obstruction to the breathing or by a low grade infection causing inflammation of the ear or the glands in the neck.

rarely heard or seen, serves as such an antidote when impulsive action is indicated. He is the somewhat dimly outlined Dr. Lauchlin Currie, graying at 37, clothed in gray, as though in protective coloring, a shadow-shape in the Washington fogs of doubt and uncertainty.

Dr. Currie not only delves into mountains of detail, as did Hay and Nicolay for Lincoln, in another critical hour in March, 1860, but he is a deep fount of economic doctrine. He has not been credited with the inspiration for the lease-lend bill for aid to Britain, but it is interesting to note that in April, 1938, he put forward a plan to solve railroad troubles by a leasinglending procedure in which the roads would get equipment much in the manner in which Britain would get war goods under the new bill.

As the "last of the brain-trusters," he is an advocate of the full utilization of technical resources by clearing them of financial entanglements and commitments, so far as possible. The late Thorstein Veblen foreshadowed these techniques. Dr. Currie is a native of Nova Scotia who became an American citizen in 1934. He joined the New Deal in that year, three years after taking his doctorate at Harvard, as an assistant economist under Jacob Viner of the treasury department. Later he was taken over by Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve board as an assistant in the division of research. He is not only the President's personal economist, but his liaison man in economic matters, appointed as one of those six White House assistants, "with a passion for anonymity," which passion seems fairly authentic in his case. He was a teacher at Harvard and an industrial consultant in Boston before going to Washington.

All of which is a reminder that the average man's wife is his personal economist and that she frequently is an "antidote to the poison of enthusiasm."

SOME people have a talent for making guests comfortable and they are not always the people with big houses and what used to be called a "spare room" for company. I thought of this one morning as I sat propped up on a perfectly comfortable folding cot eating breakfast from a tray. When not in use my cot was

Authority for 1,300 Years

The hundreds of books on health, medicine and drugs written by Galen, the famous Greek physician of the Second century, formed a complete system of medicine that prevailed throughout most of the world for almost 1,300 years, says Collier's. In fact, his work on "Anatomical Operations" was the most authoritative book on the subject until 1811.

Angina Pectoris

 $A_{\rm not\ only\ frightens\ the\ patient}^{\rm NGINA\ pectoris-breast\ pang}$ but frightens the entire family, as these "heart attacks" are distressing to endure and even to watch. There is a strangling, vise-like pain in the chest over the heart or under the breast bone which is brought on by physical effort (exercise) or emotional disturbance. It lasts but a short time, during which the patient stands in whatever position he happens to be in at the time and as he stands he has the feeling that if he makes the slightest move it may be his last.

Angina pectoris is often caused by the heart muscle (the muscle which pumps the blood from the heart to all parts of the body) not receiving enough blood from the little blood vessels which supply the heart muscle with blood from the general supply as it circulates throughout the Naturally, if the heart body. muscle does not get enough pure blood it cannot work, that is, pump the blood from the heart to all parts of the body, and so no movement is made by the patient to make the heart muscle do any work until it gets a little more pure blood into it with which to continue work.

These attacks of angina pectoris are really "life savers" because the individual learns what is likely to bring on an attack-heavy work, excitement, a fit of anger or other emotional disturbance-and so by living carefully he is enabled to live a useful and often a long life.

Most angina patients carry little pearls (thin glass tubes) of amyl butter pastry and bake in a hot nitrite, that can be easily broken in oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) for a handkerchief and inhaled, which soon ends the attack.

American Gloves Wash Beautifully

American-made gloves, doeskins, suedes and mochas wash beautifully, and here's the way it is doneexactly the way our manufacturers of leather gloves tell everyone to wash them.

Make a bowlful of good thick suds with lukewarm water and a pure mild soap or soap flakes, being sure that every bit of the flakes is dissolved. Then putting on the gloves, wash them just as though you were washing your hands. Next rinse them in clear lukewarm water and then make another bowlful of lighter suds for the final time. If they happen to be glace-finished gloves, capeskin or pigskin, the final rinse should be clear, cool water instead of soapy water.

Rolling and coaxingly pushing the gloves off your hands, put them in a turkish towel, pressing out the excess moisture. Then stretch out the fingers a bit, blow in the gloves and lay them on a turkish towel to dry-never on a radiator or other hot surface. Just before they are dry, finger press them, working the leather, especially inside the gloves, with your fingers so as to make it soft and pliable.

And that's all there is to it! You can even wash your colored gloves if the leathers have been tanned in this country. Put a teaspoon of vinegar in each basin of water as this helps keep the color. Some of the color may bleed out, but if your gloves are not badly soiled, so that you can wash them quickly, the amount of color that comes out won't make any difference and it

Just one warning! Don't ever rub soap on your gloves. And don't use a brush on soiled spots as this roughs

ing with enthusiasm for free France and for democracy and civilization in general, science or no science. Her previous trips over here had made her a favorite in this country and her charm, intelligence and beauty have been eloquently extolled.

Her burning black eyes might be called "an antidote to the poison of indifference." She qualified in science, at the Sorbonne, but turned to music in 1926, a gifted pianist, praised by her friend Paderewski. With all her other gifts, she is an athlete and a first-rate bowler.

And with all that, women rave about her clothes. Writing has supplanted music as her chief interest and she has been highly praised for her biography of her mother, published in 1938. Her proficiency in higher mathematics rounds out a perfect score for one of the most highly esteemed of our gang-plank celebrities.

ERICA MORINI, whose recent concert drew an overflow crowd to the Town Hall, frequently has been called "The greatest woman violinist." She doesn't like it. While she notes that there have been, in nearly three centuries, only 73 distinguished women violinists, as against thousands of men, she insists that the lag is due only to the fact that women have been too busy with homes and children to bring through their talents. She thinks the above accolade is patronizing to

When Adolf Hitler's tanks rolled into her native Vienna, the comely young violinist moved out, with her $45,000 Stradivarius. It was in 1921 that she first came to New York, a child prodigy in pig-tails, making her American debut with the New York Philharmonic in a recital which one critic termed "the greatest violin sensation since Kreisler." Her father was Italian, one of a long line of musicians, but none so gifted as she. She defies snobs and highbrows by playing Victor Herbert and Stephen Foster along with the violin classics.

BERNT BALCHEN, stubby, blond Norwegian, arrived in New York on a hot day in June, with Commander Byrd, carrying a duffle bag and rifle and wearing a suit tailored out of jar seal. The story of his later pole-vaulting with the commander, and his two years in Antarctica is well known. He became an American citizen in 1931.

The news today is that he is methodically flying patrol bombers from Bermuda to England. He resigned from the Norwegian army at the age of 18 to become a flier.
