An hour later, as he went back to work after lunch, he saw Tom Pruitt again. Gun slung over his shoulder, Tom was slogging down the muddy road. His shoulders were slumped and his legs moved heavily as though he were very weary. Tom turned off the road presently and struck directly across the ridge, following a dim trail through the crowding laurel. The path was steep and tangled, having been made by game. It crept beneath tall, knotty thickets of rhododendron, and skirted open places, keeping to the shelter of the undergrowth. It had been trodden out by creatures wishing to hide, and it suited Tom, for he had

"sitting-room" was cold. The upper floor still smelled of camphor and alcohol and Ada Clark's starched, scorched uniforms. But it was very still. Lossie had cleaned up the sick-room and put a clean counterpane on the bed, very flat and white. It looked lonely. Marian's room was empty, too, and Virgie felt irritated at that. You spent your best years raising young ones, you gave them the best of everything and all the freedom in the world. You were a good parent and what did you get? A cold house, empty and forlorn, nobody to talk to, nobody to give a darn if you dropped over from weariness or got pleurisy from dressing in a cold room. Even in her own mind Virgie was only half aware of the real cause of her irritation, the pressing apprehension half ignored, which was her anxiety about Tom Pruitt.

She sat and stared gloomily into the fire, wondering what had happened to the old man and what he meant by wandering off, anyway, without a word to any one-the old mule-head! Sat, all unaware of the drama that had been enacted that day, on the cold slope of the ridge above Hazel Fork, a drama with only one witness. That witness was young Bill Gallup.

Bill Gallup had been driving the maintenance truck along a rutty mountain road.

The road followed the slash ribbon over the slope of a ridge where the steel towers and wires of a main transmission line linked up the eager plunge of mountain torrents with the deeper surge of the commerce of the world. Through the low growing brush of the slash he saw a tall figure approaching-a man who carried a gun. He slowed the truck and waited. Mountain men were sensitive for all their harsh exteriors and to pass on without stopping to pass the time of day might give offense that could bring down on a power concern the vindictive and sadistic enmity of a whole family connection. Bill called, "Howdy, neighbor," and trod the brake. The engine instantly sighed, gurgled, steamed, and died. The man with the gun came nearer and Bill saw that it was old Tom Pruitt.

"Hello, Tom," he greeted. "What are you fixing to hunt up here, this time of year? That looks like a bear gun to me." "Yeah," he said, "this here's bear gun. I been toting it round over the ridge yonder. Thought I mought maybe could see me a varmint. I was just shackling down to all about. Oh, yes- get me a bite to eat. parting the twigs soundlessly, lying still for a long interval, his gaze fixed on the slope below. There was an indentation in the half-frozen ground and into this his elbow fitted easily, because in that place for two days it had rested.

The ground was cold and Tom's body ached after a half-hour in the cramped place, but he shifted his limbs, flexed his hands, and shrugged his collar up about his neck, always keeping his eyes on a spot far below between the tall poplars. The light grew cold and thin, the trees stirred and worried as trees do when night begins to climb the mountains. A dry twig fell, a crossbill swung across a lighter space, stopped for an instant on the bark of a cedar, turned head down, and began its angry cry. All the frostpowdered drift of leaves stirred briefly, in a raw breath of wind, then was as swiftly still. Old Tom tensed a little. For forty years he had been a woodsman. He knew all the signs. Something was abroad in this quiet winter forest. He had waited two days and a night and now his waiting was at an end. He pulled himself up slightly, dropped his hat and rested his left arm upon it. The gun came up and was steady. The cool palm-worn stock and breech were smooth under the old man's hand. Its weight gave him the feeling of power and dominance that belongs only to kings. For a long interval he made no move. Then in a flash the crossbill hurled itself to the top of the tree, screaming. Bark sifted down. And far down the slope Tom Pruitt saw what he had been watching for for forty long hours.

A car had stopped on the woods road. Two men got out and walked up the rutty track and presently a third man followed. Tom was troubled at that. He had not counted on a third man. But he lay motionless, watching. The three began climbing the slope, stopping at intervals to study the trees. One was obviously the conductor of the expedition, making gestures, calling the attention of the others to the lifting majesty of the trunks, the spread of branches. Tom Pruitt followed this man with a narrowed eye, precise and remorseless, over the sight of the resting rifle. They came closer. The leader moved ahead, turning back at intervals to direct the gaze of the others upon the lay of the land, the absence of underbrush, the ease with which this virgin stand could be timbered. As though he heard every word Torn Pruitt knew what this man was saying, though their voices reached him only as low murmurs through the forest stillness. High in the tree the crossbill was agitated. Men born to the woods, Tom thought with scorn, would have known enough to look around, known crossbill's tree. But these men did

But even her stout spirit was not braced 'against such a fierce acceleration of tempo.

She stumbled up, gray-faced. "Where is he?" she demanded. "How do you know he killed a man? Killed who?"

Marian was steady, though her eyes were big and terrified.

"He doesn't know who it was, Mother. He shot somebody. They were trying to steal his timber over on Hazel Creek. Now he wants us to take him over to jail. Bry and I don't know what to do. Bry thinks Tom is crazy."

Lossie was standing, staring blankly at the door.

"Get my coat," Virgie ordered. "I'll talk to Tom. We're not in a big enough mess-he would have to do a thing like this!"

Marian protested. "It's no use to talk to him, Mother. He's so excited when he tries to talk it doesn't make sense and his teeth chatter. Bry doesn't want to drive way over to the county-seat tonight. Couldn't we telephone the sheriff?"

"We won't telephone anybody. I'll handle this. Bring Tom in here. He didn't kill anybody. Tell Bry to bring him in.'

"I don't believe he'll come in. He didn't want us to stop at all. He said if we wouldn't take him to jail that he'd get out and walk."

"Give me that coat, Lossie. I'li tetch the old fool in here myself." Virgie fumbled into the sleeves. She was a strong woman but now she felt numb all over and her knees were fluid and cold. She walked out into the winter dark, holding her jaw grimly to keep her teeth from clacking. "What's all this, Tom Pruitt?" she demanded, as she came up to the silent car, standing there in the dark with headlights burning dimly. "What's all this foolishness? Tom seemed to heave himself up with an effort. His long, gaunt body straightened, in the shadows. His breath hissed over his teeth. "They was in my timber, Mis' Morgan. I was watchin' for 'em. I get one. I'd ought to got them all. I would 'a got all of 'em but my old gun jammed. It hadn't ought to jammed, neither-I had it cleaned out good. Them cartridges Bryson sold me wasn't no good." (TO BE CONTINUED)

APPEAL: But Not for Men

German army, was silent. Across the Waters

Winston Churchill in an address to the empire, but phrased also for U. S. consumption, said the British did not need American armies-this year, next year or ever as far as he could foresee. But England does need munitions, he said. "Give us the tools, we'll finish the job," he appealed.

There was indication that the tools were arriving. In January U. S. factories had a quota of 700 warplanes and at midmonth expectations were that the quota would not be met by 30 per cent. But this was an error. Survey showed 1,000 planes were produced. If half of them went to England, as the President promised, England was getting what it needed. The amounts will increase

But Adolf Hitler was carrying out his threat to "torpedo" American help to Britain. The planes are being flown to England, via Iceland. German bombers raided Iceland and bombed the airfield there. Iceland is 1,000 miles from the closest German air base. In four more hours the swastika-emblemed craft could reach the North American continent.

Senate Goes On

In Washington the house passed the lease-lend bill for aid to Britain. The senate began discussion with the expectation that talk would not cease before the end of February. "If this keeps up," said Senator Glass, "the Germans will be here before we get done debating."

Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON .- There is a peacemachine in Washington, all oiled and ready to start the moment the last gun is silenced in Europe. From it may come a plan which the democracies can offer the world as an alternative to the totalitarian way of life. This peace-machine is not new, but it has never been given a fair trial. Cordell Hull has the patent. It may never be allowed to function, but it is a cheering thing, to know that it is there. It is simply reciprocal trade agreement machinery which Secretary Hull is insisting shall be kept as nearly intact as possible, ready to be put into operation the moment the tanks are moved out of the way. For Mr. Hull believes firmly out of all the uncertainties which surround this uncertain world, when the war is over one thing is going to happen: Either the system of free intercourse among nations is ing to exist in the world, or the totalitarian system will dominate.

Changing Viewpoint.

More and more, people are coming to feel that there cannot be a world economically half-slave and half-free. Unless all nations can be united under a system of mutually profitable trade, totalitarian methods will be forced upon all nations and it is axiomatic that when a government begins to create artificial restraints in the field of business, gradually you will be forced to curtail political and social freedom, too. The Nazis know their system is not the best system, though they don't admit it to the people. Germany's great economist, Hjalmar Schacht, admitted as much before the war. The system of free enterprise, he said, was the best system, but Germany, because of her "emergency" had to adopt its own system. He did not say that this emergency was created because Hitler, in order to carry out his theory of domination, had to spend the nation's wealth, its goods and its labor, on a huge unproductive armament industry. Of course, lack of free trade intercourse before Hitler's advent had helped to impoverish Germany. Hull's Theory.

Secretary Hull believes that the roots of war grow in the soil of evil economic conditions, that war canin mutually profitable trade. He says that today, as he has always said it, although his reciprocal trade agreement program has been burned to ashes in the flames of war. But he is keeping his machinery oiled and is ready to start it again if he gets the chance. It may well be the foundation-stone of the peace to come, if his policies are permitted to dominate that peace. The story of Mr. Hull's battle for his beliefs is a fascinating one. It was the result of a lifetime of study. Because of his knowledge of economics, which has astounded foreign statesmen with whom he has come in contact, he was chosen for the post he holds. His first effort and his first failure took place when the London economic conference, called shortly after he came into office, broke down. He took that defeat in his stride, eliminated from the government Raymond Moley who opposed him at the conference and packed his bag for South America. The result was the first reciprocal trade treaties with our southern sister nations. Slowly he built on until finally came the agreement with Great Britain, taking in a huge area of the English-speaking world. Then, just as he was winning supporters to his cause, war came and the structure was smashed. But it did not smash the faith of Cordell Hull, and it is on this faith that he is building the hope for a better world to come, a faith and a hope that is refreshing amidst the gloom of the pessimists who refuse to see any lenge. light beyond the battle clouds that

ed. And the war has to some degree changed the farmer's program. In normal times the crowded islands depend largely on other lands for their food. Now the rich meat and dairy products of Scandinavia are cut off, there are not enough ships to spare from the war supply trade to permit much shipment of foodstuffs. But since wheat is vital, animals must give place to grain As a result, millions of acres of grassland in Britain are being turned into wheatfields. In normal times, live stock was the chief agricultural product, but, according to recent reports to the department of agriculture, Britain is fast becoming wheat-growing nation. As the 'Wiltshire farmer," whom I quoted recently in these columns, said, 'farming goes on much as usual except that the harvests are heavier and the city youths are called in to help in the fields, replacing the men of military age who have been called to the colors. And meat is scarce.'

Of course, air raids have affected the farmer little because the attacks are concentrated on cities and factories. Live-stock losses, according to a recent report to the foreign relations division of the department of agriculture, have been less than were expected. Sheep and cattle, because they have a tendency to herd, have been killed in greatest numbers. Horses and hogs, being greater individualists, have suffered least. Cattle in barns are safest.

When an animal is killed by bombs, the farmer is compensated by the food ministry only in proportion as the carcass is valuable as food. There is no compensation for unedible casualties.

Canada's Wheat Problem.

Meanwhile inability to ship her wheat to the mother country is providing a serious problem for the Canadian farmer. #### SPRING:

In the Balkans

Spring and Adolf Hitler came to the Balkans. The fuehrer's great criticism of World war tactics was that Germany permitted itself to become involved on two fronts at the same time. He has always avoided this.

Whether his movement into Bulgaria and toward the Dardanelles was an indication that he did not intend to move against England immediately was not clear. But it seemed apparent that Germany's next campaign would be toward the Mediterranean.

For months hundreds of thousands of German troops have been moved into Rumania. The revolution that ousted King Carol put Nazis in control of the government. These native Nazis quickly put themselves under order of Germany. Rumanian oilfields and railroads became subject to their direction.

First news of the infiltration of German soldiers into Rumania came in a speech by Winston Churchill. Sofia denied it, but within 24 hours neutral sources made it known that thousands of German soldiers in uniform, but wearing civilian overcoats, were passing the border into Bulgaria. Then came swarms of Nazi transport planes with parachute troops. Bulgarian railroads suddenly restricted civilian traffic.

Bulgaria had depended upon Russia for protection. It was a false hope. Moscow sent an envoy to tell Bulgar ministers not to expect them to fight. Bulgaria and Turkey, who ed killer of the Russian secret police had spoken big but not mobilized the OGPU (pronounced Oh-Gaytheir troops, suddenly began to talk Pay-OO) had arrived in America.

But Not at Once

Demands for vacations with pay rejected, executives of 14 railway labor unions have notified President Roosevelt that a vote to strike will be taken during February. There will be no strike at once. The existing agreement between the unions and the nation's Class 1 railroads, hiring about 750,000 men, provides for mediation machinery. But even that period is likely to be exceeded, George M. Harrison, head of a committee of union leaders, said about 30 days will be necessary to take the vote. Should a strike be authorized by the ballot, Harrison would fix the date for it. MISCELLANY:

I When Jacksonville, Fla., sees snow it's a rare day. Until this year the last flakes were seen in 1936. Since 1871 there have been just 10 days on which snowfall was recorded. This year is one for the record, snow arriving in thin flakes on February 9 and continuing for almost an hour.

I Mr. and Mrs. Nick Brown of Fargo, N. D., became the parents of quadruplets. As commercial offers came in, their father went into court and had the family physician and himself named guardians. The court also will pass on any contracts or agreements offered by agents. I The Larkins and the Weirichs of Memphis, Tenn., like to keep their marriages in the family. Several months ago two of the Weirich brothers married two of the Larkin girls. Now Hazel, last of the Larkin girls, has married-you guessed it-Virgil, last of the Weirich boys. In Canada's dense Northwoods, stretching from the U.S. border to Hudson bay, airplanes with pontoon landing gear are used like taxicabs. There are no roads for automobiles and no airfields for planes, but the tens of thousands of lakes always provide a landing place. So airplane accidents in Canada are rare. The worst in the dominion's history came when a plane crashed into a lakeshore near Armstrong, Ont. Twelve were killed. On the same day a U. S. bomber fell near Lovelock, Nev., with eight casualties.

AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman (© Roger B. Whitman-WNU Service.)

Closing a Summer House. HEN closing a house for some time in cold weather, there are several precautions and preparations to be made. The following are some of them: water supply pipes should be thoroughly drained. First, shut off the water, then open all faucets. Water supply pipes should be disconnected at the point where water enters the house. Some of the pipes may still contain water, however; for there are apt to be places where a pipe sags, from which water cannot drain out. These places should have the water blown out by an air pump applied to the different faucets. A quart or two of kerosene should be poured into each sink, washbasin, and other plumbing fixtures to fill the traps. The kerosene will not freeze, and sewer gas will be prevented from entering. Remove as much water as possible from toilet bowls with a sponge before pouring the kerosene. Syphon jet toilets have cavities containing water that cannot be removed with a sponge; these should be emptied with a syringe. Hot water or steam systems should be drained and left empty. If there is a wet return passing under the floor, this should be disconnected, for it will not empty through the boiler drain-cock.

Empty or take away any bottles containing liquids that might freeze. Clear out all food and garbage.

Roll up your rugs with plenty of moth crystals and moth balls inside, and wrap tightly in heavy paper. Cover the furniture, and put moth crystals and balls on the seats of upholstered chairs and sofas. Blankets and woolen clothing should be put in tight chests, preferably lined with sheet metal, with plenty of moth crystals and balls. A pound or two of the crystals and balls scattered in each room on furniture and on the floor will discourage mice, chipmunks and other small animals. Cover the top of the chimney with a box, securely fastened on, to keep out birds and small animals, and for protection against moisture. Shutters should be tightly closed and fastened, and windows without shutters should be boarded up.

Be sure that all fires are out, not even a spark remaining.

Question: I have three slabs of one-inch polished slate, set in as a mantel facing. Insofar as I am able to determine, these slabs are not keyed into the masonry, and I don't see how the smooth surface offers any bond for the mortar. The problem, therefore, is to avoid disaster with the first fire. I propose to drill through the slate and secure the slabs at top and bottom with anchors and screws. If I use a carborundum drill or burr, should the

A frock of this type is almost a necessity for a young gad-about who takes week-end trips and who is "dated" for informal daytime affairs. Fashioned of light blue jersey, it has a basque top with scalloped edges, and the jersey is gored in soft flattering lines for skirt fullness.

Important background for jewels is the beautiful evening sweater shown to the right above. It is in strawberry pink wool chenille yarn. The ribbed drape at the hips with front zipper closing and the long sleeves make it particularly new and smart.

The pretty dress below to the left in the group is a cream beige wool. Its gathered neckline, front peplum effect and jevel buttons are outstanding style points.

Plaid and striped woolens promise to be better than ever this season. Their coloring will be, for the most part, pastel. An interesting color note about the smartest of plaids is that so many feature the new yellows and golden hues. The clever tweed spectator suit which you see on the seated figure claims distinction in that it goes in for voguish vellow and gold, patterned

New Treatment Effective for Face Neuralgia

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON (Released by Western Newspaper Union.) HAVE seen an operation to give the patient relief from the terrible pain in the face called tic doloreux or trifacial neuralgia. I have TODAY'S never forgotten it and greatly won-HEALTH dered at the time COLUMN if there was any pain severe enough to require such an extensive operation.

Fortunately the use of injections of various substances often gives relief for months and years so that fewer of these operations are now performed. What appears to be a great advance in the treatment of this severe face neuralgia is reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association by two physicians, Drs. Henry Dorsook and M. Y. Kremers, and a dentist, Dr. C. G. Wig-gins of Pasadena, Calif.

Observing the re-lief given by vitamin B1, in neuritis Dr. Barton and arthritis, and in an attempt to find something less severe than operation, they decided to use vitamin B1 in a number of cases of the doloreux.

The treatment may be divided into two parts: (1) active treatment, and (2) change in the diet with the addition of certain foods. The active treatment consists of injections into the veins daily of thiamin chloride (vitamin B1). In about 25 per cent of the cases, liver extract was also injected because the patients did not respond satisfactorily to the vitamin B1, alone.

Low Starch Diet.

The diet treatment consists of a high vitamin, low starch diet, and in some cases 1 ounce daily of rice, polishings were given by mouth.

There were 58 patients treated, of which 37 were markedly improved, 15 improved, three slightly improved, and three not improved.

Dr. W. J. McCormick, Tortonto, relieves cases of arthritis by means of vitamin B1. Dr. McCormick points out that it is the inability of the oxygen to reach these nerves that causes the pain. Vitamin B1 enables the oxygen to penetrate the fat or covering of the nerve and give relief. It might be well for all who have painful joints, muscles or nerves to eat more foods containing vitamin B1. Some foods rich in vitamin B1 are whole wheat bread, brewers' yeast, peanuts, beef liver, almonds, bacon and ham.

ning Room No Longer Stereotyped BETH MacRAE BOYKIN | spirit that pervades provincial revivals this year is a prosperous mida dinner of dignity dle-class formality that has its own sort of unpretentious self-respecting charm. Among the most favored of this furniture, is the French provincial, more properly called the French manor house furniture, for it has a cultivated abundant air about it which makes it highly suitable for the simple yet sophisticated gement of a din- pattern of life in our country today. Another important trend in provincial furniture revivals is that toward English country furniture, likewise with a certain dignity and a fine feeling of line that takes it enensemble with tirely beyond any comparison with crude peasant styles. This furniture as well as the French provincial mentioned above are slated to take the place of early American in style aportant trend in news. It is probable that the mechanic who set the slate in place has erected the facing according to the usual practice. The slate slabs are usually made up with dowels embedded in the back. wet.

Question: My house is brick, not yet a year old. Windows are steel casements, with cast cement sills. Water leaks around windows so badly that plaster is discolored. How can this be prevented? Steel windows are rusting.

Answer: Leakage is most probably through the joint between the casement frame and the brickwork, and can be prevented with caulking compound, forced in with a caulking gun. Should the joint be covered with a wood moulding, which is likely, this should be taken off to expose the joint, and to permit the compound to be forced in. On returning the moulding to position, it should be on a bed of caulking compound, for final assurance that the joint is tight. Kinds of Wood.

Question: Where can I get information on the different kinds of wood used in a home workshop? Answer: You can get booklets from the National Lumber Manufacturers association, Washington, D. C. There is a chapter on this subject in the book "Home Craftsmanship" by Emanuele Stieri. The makers of tools for home workshops issue booklets that include this subject, which can be had from tool dealers or direct. Rusty Iron Lantern.

Question: I have an old-fashioned iron lantern, which has been wired for electricity, to hang outside my porch. It has become very rusty. Please tell me what is the correct treatment to remove the rust and weatherproof the lantern?

Answer: Clean off the rust by rubbing with kerosene and steel wool. Wipe clean with benzine, being very careful of fire. Then finish with two coats of flat black paint. (Do the benzineing on a cloudy day, outdoors.)

Lots of Color in Sight

On Spring Style Horizon Look to your colors! You can align yourself with the pastel enthusiasts or you can go colorfully South American. There is a convincing argument in favor of either. Speaking of the lighter colors, of course you will want at least one, if not several, of the perfectly charming and most flattering pastel wool frocks. Chapters could be written about these fascinating frocks.

A favorite decorative touch for these pastels is the trapunto quilted effect.

When it comes to the startling South American color technique, not even the rainbow or the whole color spectrum is exceeded in the bright hues of red, yellow, purple and blue that are amazingly combined in daring contrast.

There is also a decided showing of vivid russet, brown, tangerine and similar shades in the new color schemes for spring. Lots of purple is used with cerise.

Emphasis is noted on beige this spring, and chamois is a smart new color for coats.

The military vogue appears again in an attractive evening cape or coat that is a copy of those worn by officers in the army and navy. Attractive and practical glove guards consist of a gold chain fastened to your bag, and so designed it will hold your gloves tight.

W HEN we were examining for the last war and the recruit was of average weight or near average weight for his build and no tuberculosis could be detected by the usual methods-striking the chest with the fingers to learn the sound, or listening with the stethoscope to get breathing sounds-the recruit was considered to have sound lungs. An editorial in the Canadian Medical Association Journal states that "there is no need to extol the value of the X-ray in the physical examination of the lungs. To those who spend any time in the tuberculosis institutions it is only too evident that by the routine methods of "sounding" and "listening" one is apt to miss much. In other words, no matter what methods are used, the examination of the chest for military purposes should be carried out by the X-ray.

What would be gained? An enormous sum of money would be saved the country by preventing the entrance into the army of those whose unfitness is not detected by the ordinary or routine methods. The Xray should become an "ordinary' method.

If, then, the army is considering the use of the X-rays as an "ordinary" method of the examination of the lungs, what about the rest of us?

When there is a tired feeling, loss of weight, persistent cough with or without an afternoon rise in temperature, it would be good sense to stop taking cough medicines and tonics and ask your physician about the X-ray examination of the chest. It is not expensive to one regularly employed and is free in most communities to those who are not employed.

QUESTION BOX

Q.-What causes pain in back, pain both sides of abdomen, and pain in back when straightening up? This is a serious health situation and your advice is needed.

A. - Pain in back and pain straightening up could be due to rheumatism or arthritis. Pain on both sides of abdomen could be due to several conditions-gas pressure because there is a double or S curve at both sides of abdomen low down. Other causes could be some disturbance in the reproductive organs.

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do.

Why not be smart - do what thousands of women have done to get off pounds of unwanted fat. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys-cut down your caloric intake-eat wisely and satisfyingly-there need never be a ingry moment!

Keep this plan up for 30 days. Then weigh yourself and see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Just see if this doesn't prove to be the surprise of your life and make you feel like shouting the good news to other fat people. And best of all a jar of Kruschen that will last you 4 weeks costs but little. If not joyfully satisfied-money back. •

GRAMMAR ROOM

Friday afternoon we had a valentine party in our room planned by the seventh graders. Games were played and prizes were won by Shirley Backus, Junior Kaniess and Rachel Brauchie, After distributing the valentines we enjoyed refreshments. The seventh and eighth graders have begun their drawings for the Helen Mears art contest. This year the subject is: Murals depicting local historical events, local industries, and local scenic points of interest. We were happy to hear the Kewaskum graded school on the honor roll of

JOHN J. LAY In a letter to this office from Carlton

E. Lay of 2075 E. 3 st., Long Beach, Calif., word has been sent of the death of his father, John J. Lay, native of the town of Wayne, which occurred recently at his home in The Almado, Long Beach, He had suffered a stroke two years ago and another five weeks before his demise. Residents of this community will recall that Mr. Lay was born in the town of Wayne, the son of Jacob Lay and brother of the late Henry Lav. He married Miss Carrie Schmidt of Campbellsport and moved to Clintonville, Wis., where he owned a furniture business. After 23 years of business and as one of the original stockholders of the Four Wheel Drive Auto company, he retired and moved to Milwaukee. In 1929 he moved to Long Beach because he liked the climate and parks there. Carlton informs us that several years ago he drove his father and mother to Canada and they returned through Yellowstone Park, Shortly after he became confined to his home and neighborhood He writes that his dad would have liked to have again visited his old home, relatives and friends, Carlton writes: "If every lad had a dad as true and loyal and whose word was bond, as my dad, this would be a wonderful world."

tivities and the tactics of lobbyists at Madison, Governor Heil in his inaugural address struck boldly at pressure groups which make a practice of geting signed committments from legislative candidates before election on important laws to be brought up at the next session. After the candidate has been elected and takes his seat in our lawmaking body, these pressure groups appear and emind him of his signed pledge. The unfortunate lawmaker who has been hooked in this manner is then forced to vote in favor of these pressure groups despite his better judgment. It is estimated that these "lead pipe" methods have been responsible for the passage of about half of Wisconsin's "rotten" legislation. To respect their pledges and assist them in re-election. many legislators vote for bills that they know are bad.

We are now working on a bill to be introduced in the near future which will make the soliciting of committments from legislative candidates a crime, punishable by fine and imprisonment. Some of the lawyer members of the legislature question the constitutionality of such a measure. Another suggestion is to disqualify any candidate who signed sugh questionnaire. KOSTUCK BACK

Mr. Kostuck, the only blind person ever elected to our legislature, is back on the job again. He has been re-elected six consecutive times and represents Portage county. He is a very able legislator and has the enviable record of never having missed an attendance roll call in his ten years as an assemblyman
