A man and wife suffered injuries last Sunday morning on Highway 55, less than a mile north of Kewaskum, just a short distance north of the overhead bridge, when automobiles driven by William Haas of Kaukauna and John Cooney of Bellwood, Ill. collided on the road. The Cooney auto tipped over on the highway as a result of the impact and the Haas machine was sent down a 30 foot embankment alongside the road.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Haas suffered cuts on their legs and foreheads and a number of bruises. They were treated by a local physician. Occupants of the Cooney car escaped injury. Both autos suffered extensive damage and were towed to garages here.

Marlin Koehner of West Bend, a resident of Kewaskum until recently, escaped injury when the Chevrolet auto he was driving left the road and turned over in a ditch south of West Bend Thursday evening. The accident occurred when Koehner fell asleep at the wheel of his car. The auto, which was badly damaged, was towed to a local garage.

Vote Recount Gives Dogs Trustee Office

Norbert Dogs was declared elected as the third trustee on the village board in place of Herman Belger as the result of a recount taken Saturday of the votes cast in the spring election on Tuesday of last week. The other trustees elected for two-year terms are F. E. Nolting and K. A. Honeck. The three other trustees elected last spring hold office for another year.

In the original count of the votes Nolting received 97, Honeck 94, and Belger and Dogs were tied as the third member of the board with 93 votes apiece. To settle the tie a special meeting of the village board was held on Wednesday morning of last week, the day after the election, and lots were cast. Belger's name was drawn from the ballot box and he was declared elected.

According to law there must be a 10-per cent recount can be demanded. Dogs was the loser and therefore filed a petition for a recount on Friday. The recount must be made by the election board the day after such petition is filed, which was Saturday, April 5. After the recount the final result for trustees was as follows: Nolting 98, (decrease of one vote); Honeck 94, (equal vote); Dogs 94, (increase of one vote); Belger 91, (decrease of two votes). The recount showed the same number of votes as the original for the three defeated candidates, namely Clifford Stautz, 88; Clarence Mertes, 73; Edw. Weddig, 54.

Many other dogs were entered in the event.

Eberle's Princess was shown again on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at St. Paul, Minn. On Thursday morning Mr. Eberle received a telegram informing him that the dog gained three more championship points at St. Paul as the best beagle in the show and also as the best dog in the hound group, including all breeds of hounds entered. The professional handler in charge of the beagle wired congratulations along with the announcement of the dog's success in the show.

PAINTERS LAW REPEALED

The senate last week concurred in the bill repealing the painters license law which had been in effect since 1937. If Governor Hell signs it (and it is almost certain that he will), anyone may again go out and do painting. Journeymen painters who formerly could not take contracts on their own hook, but had to work for a man who had a master painter's license, will be very much pleased by its repeal because they can now go out and contract for themselves.

KILL INCREASED SALARY BILL
The assembly last Thursday by an overwhelming vote killed a bill which would have increased the salaries of assemblymen and senators $50.00 per month for the first 6 months of their term.

THE REASON FOR THIS PROPOSED INCREASE WAS BECAUSE IT COSTS MORE MEMBERS MORE THAN THE $100.00 PER MONTH WHICH THEY RECEIVE, TO LIVE IN MADISON DURING THE PERIOD WHICH THE LEGISLATURE IS IN SESSION.

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION

The assembly last week endorsed a bill which, if passed by the senate and signed by the governor, will exempt

Tavern League Plans Picnic Here in June

Plans are now progressing for the Washington County Tavern league's annual picnic to be held in the Kewaskum park on Sunday, June 15. It is not too early to mark this date on your calendar. The league's picnic was also held here last year and was a fine success.

An order for large 14x10 inch cards is now being printed in this office for the cards to be posted in the member taverns of the county, announcing that a free coupon will be given with each 50c purchase at the tavern from now until the day of the picnic. Each coupon entitles the bearer to a chance at the prize drawing on the day of the picnic.

The regular monthly meeting of the tavern league will be held next Monday, April 14, at 2 p. m. in the Moose hall in West Bend. The officers are requesting that every member of the league attend as final arrangements will be made at this meeting for the picnic. Other important business will also be settled. Further details on the picnic will be announced later.

Britain's School of Experience

Today the homes of England are "military objectives," and British babes are born and reared in battle lines. The Gypsy Hill Training college, in southeast London, met the problem of what to do with babies whose mothers and fathers were engaged in day-long war effort. How these children learned to help themselves is shown in these pictures.

These little fellows are dishing out the breakfast porridge—oatmeal to you—and are so intent upon the task that the photographer might have been a piece of the miniature furniture.

A specially constructed low sink enables this little curly-top to fill his wash-basin without having to stand on anything but his feet. And here is a little laundress using her pint-size mangle to do a job of pressing. Small as it is, it does the work efficiently.

A little dinner party in session. The children look after themselves, food being served by children to the music of a little piano that plays nursery rhymes.

After play the children go to work with soap and water and their little scrubbing brushes. The wash benches are toy size. Mother used to supervise the tooth-brushing and gargling of this little lady. Now she does all that solo, and seems to enjoy it.

Bock Beer
Bock beer originated from the German word bockbier, which is a corruption of Einbecker bier, from the town of Einbeck. Bock beer was first made at Einbeck, near Hamburg, Germany, between 1203 and 1256. It became so popular that it was shipped throughout Germany and exported to London, The Netherlands, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Russia and even to Asia Minor and to Jerusalem.

Puppet Government
Napoleon, in the only peace he ever made with Great Britain—that of Amiens—sought the surrender of French exiles. The demand was indignantly repelled. To give up these men to certain death "would be," said Charles James Fox, "the worst and basest act I am capable of conceiving." But such an act came easy to the puppet government of Vichy which, in relation to Hitler, has no will but the will to obey.

Pupil—An old-fashioned dance.

No Etiquette
Wife (to husband at dinner)—You won't read that book on etiquette and now look at you! Here's the dessert and all you've got left is a butter spreader.

Why Go?
Wife—Oh come on. Do come to Mrs. Baker's with me, Tom. She'll make you feel so at home.
Husband—Then what's the use of going?

Dear Ma:
Well, ma, I now feel so tired and sore all over that I guess I am in the pink of condishun. All feeling is gone from my feet and my legs are numb from the knees down so the drilling and marching don't hurt me no more wch shows how well trained I am. But the officers keep drilling me just the same and pay no attention to me when I tell 'em I have had enuff.

We are sleeping five to a tent, but I am not getting any two much rest on account of the old saying that two is company and three more is at least two buddies who want to tell stories or argue about ways and means to get promoted to be a kernel or something. And we have a radio fan-tastic in our tent who thinks the best programs come after everybody else is asleep. This guy is such a nut that if he was out in No Man's land he would carry a portable so he could hear a broadcast of what he was doing.

Another fellow in my tent don't sleep at all. He just sits on the edge of the bed moaning. It seems he was on a trip to see his best girl who lives 50 miles from his home town when he got a call to report for draft inductshun at once and he is still squawking. I also got a tent-mate who was a union man in Pittsburgh before he was drafted and he keeps making speeches trying to convince us that we shud picket the general's tent and demand more money and less drilling.

We have movies every night in a big tent, but I do not like them much as it makes me soar to see all those fellers in citizen close lolling around on couches and sitting in the moonlight with beautiful girls when they should be in some camp learning how to take a gun apart and guard a latrine. But they do not make me as soar as news pitches of congressmen when they was still chewing the fat over that lease-lend bill. I don't even know yet whether I am going to be lent to Europe or just leased or what?

It sure has been a cold winter to be in a army, but the old sarge who was in the last war says we shud of been around then and we wud not be kicking now. We have wood-burning stoves in tents here and he says in the last war he never saw a stove from the time he got his draft summons until he got home three years later. They also have boilers so we can have hot water in this camp which he says nobody had except Pershing and Alexander Woolkott in the last one. When we got here we wuz given a safety razor five blades a cake of shaving soap and a toothbrush and we luffed like everything and sed we must be going to the opera or sum place like that as in the last war soldiers shaved with there bayernets and only cleaned their teeth when they had a friend who was a Y. M. C. A. secretary and carried a spare.

He says we are all getting better considerashun in draft camps today than he got in the best hotels on furlow in 1917 and he showed me a pitcher of an outfit in the last war witch backs him up when he says we are dressed like duds in comparison. He says that in those days they just chucked a bundle at you when you reported at camp and that whatever you found inside you had to put on as a uniform, even if it was just a slip cover off a piano. And he says he spent 18 months in France with a burlap bag over his head because the sergeant told him it was the regulashun army hat. So when I feel like kicking I just listen to him talk. Well there is not much more to say now. One of those new Ford pigme trucks arrived here yesterday. It is all made of armor steel and all I want when I get back home again is one of these to use in Main Street traffic and pay no attention to those taxi cabs what try to shove me around.

Your loving son,
Oscar.

WAITRESSES
I never leave the slightest tip. For girls who let the gray drip.
Merrill Chilcote.

Walter Brennan recently got the award for the best piece of support acting in pictures last year. And well did he rate it. There's an actor so good he will probably never be starred by Hollywood.

Mario Naldi says a dictator is a fellow who is always putting his best feud forward.

The Bible still leads all books in total sales in this country. There has rarely been a time when all other reading seemed so trivial in comparison.

Rosalie Kiesler says that Mother Nature submitted a flower arrangement to an annual horticultural show but was disqualified because she didn't belong to a garden club.

NEW IDEAS
For Home-makers
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Do YOU remember how fashioned comforters were two layers of fabric with material between and every four or so in rows the three layers were caught together with a stitch of wool yarn which was then tied twice.

clipped to make a fluffy tuft that is exactly the way modern today's smartest chair covers made. A cover of this kind deemed this old rocker and vealed its hidden charms.

The cover is plain, dark green glazed chintz tufted with dark green yarn and three dark green fringe is used at the bottom. A long zipper at a center back closing. Each tuft of the cover was fitted on a chair in the muslin lining and these pieces were used as patterns for cutting the fabric. The cotton which was used to be 3/4-inch smaller all round. After the pieces were tufted shown at the upper edge, the seams were then made on the side to catch the edges of the tuft in place.

NOTE: Are you planning to make covers this Spring? Mrs. Spears and I tell you exactly how. Best directions for fitting and finishing covers for chairs and davenport. Shows you how to make a pattern also how to arrange openings for chairs of unusual types, and anchor slip covers so they will stay in place. Books are 10 cents. Send order to:

House Launches 'Rearmament Inquiry' As Labor Disputes Continue Tie-Up Of Plants Vital to Defense Program; Balkans Hold Center of War Scene

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

When the CIO called its strike at America's largest industrial plant—the Ford Motor company's River Rouge plant—the plant was closed and 85,000 workers were on the idle list. Above photo shows mounted police trying to hold off pickets during one of the violent strike battles.

STRIKES: Dominate News

While the question of whether or not the United States was "in the war" or not continued to be debated by editorial writers, there was no question but that the nation was in a labor war, daily growing more and more serious, with outbreaks of violence hitting the front pages with a bang. Congressional action in the situation came when the house voted 324 to 1 for an investigation of the re-armorment program with special emphasis on strikes which hamper the defense program.

The C. I. O. held the strike spotlight, the three major disturbances consisting of various types of trouble involving unions of that organization. These included the Ford strike, the Allis-Chalmers strike and the soft-coal strike.

After sailing along for 11 weeks with little happening except unsuccessful negotiations, the Allis-Chalmers dispute broke into serious violence. This followed closely on two developments, statements by Knox and Knudsen urging that the plant be reopened, and the action by the company in putting 500 rehabilitation men to work, and then throwing open the doors to "those employees who wanted to come back."

About 1,250 out of 7,800 on one shift reported, and then the government of Wisconsin stepped in to attempt to give returning workers protection through embattled picket lines. The result? The plant had to close down again, Governor Heil's car was stoned, 48 persons were injured in a police-strikers' battle, and the Governor informed President Roosevelt that the trouble was beyond all state, county and city police to keep order.

'Biggest' Plant

Hardly had this cry reached the President from Milwaukee when C. I. O. workers struck at the largest single industrial plant in the world, Henry Ford's River Rouge factory, employing 86,000 persons. Almost immediately there were reports of violence at this factory, owned and operated by the only big industrialist who never has had a union contract.

The basis of the battle in the Ford plant between strikers and management was a matter of 10 cents an hour more or less to bring the Ford wages, until recently higher than in competing auto factories, up to the General Motors-Chrysler level.

As the Ford strike brewed and broke, 400,000 workers in the soft-coal industry, John L. Lewis' personal C. I. O. union, stopped work pending negotiation of a new wage contract to take the place of one which had expired.

This newest strike brought from President Roosevelt the "hope" that this walkout would not be of long enough duration to endanger the national defense.

But the government, which had put Dr. Dykstra in charge of a labor mediation board, and which had dumped the Allis-Chalmers and other strikes in the lap of this new organization, seemed to the public to be making little progress in getting the full manpower of the U. S. to work on national defense.

It was being plainly said in Washington that unless there was some immediate amelioration of the labor problem, some form of national defense labor law would find favor with the President.

To millions of hours of work lost in January, February and March, April started out even worse, with more violence, more men idle, and defense work still more disrupted. Though plane production was moving ahead, though the Harvill strike was halted, releasing parts for Pacific Coast plane builders, the general tone not only had the public worried, but was causing unrest and unhappiness among draftees, many of whom had been forced out of good jobs to work in uniform for $21 a month.

BALANCING ACT: Ended

Prime Minister Count Paul Teleki was known to many of his Hungarian co-patriots as the "great tight rope walker." For it was he who, as premier of Hungary, had allowed his country to become aligned with Nazi Germany but had fought constantly to keep the nation from falling completely under the spell of Hitler. Now the great balancing act is ended. For Premier Teleki, facing what he termed a "hopeless future" took his own life.

JUGOSLAVIA: Ready for War

It was apparent that Yugoslavia was on the threshold of war, or if the nation was bluffing, it was willing to carry the bluff to the verge of actual hostilities.

Nazi reconnaissance planes flew over a key city of southern Serbia and there was a brief air raid alarm. This was considered a good intimation that the Nazis meant business and that the 75,000 soldiers amassed on the eastern frontier would be increased and would be the nucleus of an attacking force.

It was interesting that most of the press attacks on the Yugoslavian situation in Berlin were directed at British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, whose series of visits to the southern Balkans and Turkey and Greece were followed by Yugoslavia's firm decision to stand by Britain and Greece, even at the cost of bloodless revolution.

The Berlin papers referred to Eden in the most caustic terms, and it was apparent that even as Berlin blamed Eden for the Yugoslavian situation, so Eden would be getting credit for it in Britain.

The crucial point in the Yugoslavian situation, was whether the Serbs and Croats would get together and achieve a united front. Macek, the leader of the Croats, was still in the new cabinet as vice premier, but there was some doubt as to whether he would stay.

He was one of the signers of the Axis pact in Vienna, and one of the few to remain in the government after the overthrow. For some reason that was not immediately clear, Simovic, the head of the government, appeared to be anxious to keep Macek, but the latter was apparently anxious to get out and put some other Croatian in his place.

Political observers said that Macek, while permitting his followers to support Simovic, was finding it personally embarrassing to serve in Simovic's cabinet.

The Germans in their attacks on Yugoslavia in the press, were making a build-up for immediate military action on the ground that all sorts of atrocities had taken place in Yugoslavia.

U. S. SEIZURES: Crews, Ships

Sensational was the American seizure of all German, Italian and Danish ships in U. S. ports and the jailing of 875 seamen of German and Italian nationality.

Comments from the Axis ranged all the way from Virginia Gaidya's direct threat that another such act would meet with "reaction" without a declaration of war, to others from Berlin and Tokyo on somewhat a milder basis.

The general Axis reaction was that the seizing of the ships was an unjustifiable breach of international law, but Cordell Hull quoted book, chapter and verse to show that the seizure was entirely justified under a precedent established by Italy, no less, in 1897.

In that instance Italy seized neutral and belligerent ships and later either returned them or reimbursed the nations. The American plan was to put the Italian and German ships into the U. S. hemispherical service, and to turn the Danish ships over to Britain. The use of Italian and German vessels to replace American bottoms would release them for Britain also, it was pointed out.

AID: Over Billion

The lease-lend aid to Britain had passed the billion dollar mark by the first of the month, according to President Roosevelt's announcement on his return from a brief fishing trip.

The President declined to identify what countries would get the supplies or to itemize them, but he said they would go to more than one country, and that there would be many categories of goods for each of them.

Early Start

America's 1941 Forest Fire Prevention campaign got off to an early start when Secretary of Agriculture C. R. Wickard accepted a painting by James Montgomery Flagg to be used on 300,000 posters now being distributed by the Forest Service. "Forest Defense Is National Defense" is this year's slogan and aims toward an aroused patriotism to cut down the huge annual fire toll.

ITALIANS: Still Losing

On the African front, British successes continued, Cairo reporting that British Imperial forces had cornered nearly 100,000 Fascist troops in East Africa.

The major action was on two fronts, the Eritrean front, where Asmara, the capital of Eritrea, fell to British soldiers. The survivors of this battle were estimated at 40,000 who had been in the battle of Cherer, and who had escaped from there to fight again at Asmara.

They were now said to be trapped with their backs to the sea, and the British navy blocking retreat.

In Ethiopia, the British forces were striking inland toward Addis Ababa, capital of the country, on the heels of the retreating army of the duke of Aosta. The duke's original forces at Addis Ababa were estimated at 40,000 men. This army was being added to by small garrisons who were withdrawing toward the capital and other parts of Ethiopia and it was expected that when the battle of Ethiopia finally was staged the total of Fascist troops would be around 60,000.

The fall of Asmara was accomplished with little fighting, the British army being met by a delegation which was carrying a white flag.

Even while the British were claiming to have 100,000 Fascists trapped in Africa, the Italian high command, now and then, was stating that "Italian and German troops" were conducting successful engagements. One of these announcements was made at the same time that the British announced the fall of Asmara. The chief interest in these claims was the inclusion of German troops, showing that the Nazis had some forces in Africa.

That these reports had good foundation in fact came later when the British admitted that their troops had withdrawn from Bengasi, a Libyan stronghold they had formerly captured in their sustained military drive.

FRANCE: And Refugees

Somerset Maugham, in a series of uncessant articles describing the fall of France, laid considerable stress on the mistreatment of refugees from Alsace-Lorraine as at least a partial cause of the French collapse.

Now France found itself facing growing bitterness and unrest among about 30,000 foreigners in refugee camps in the unoccupied portion of the country.

The daily bill for this camp was a million francs, and yet this small sum was cutting such a hole in the national pocketbook, that the administration was figuring ways to reduce it.

Included in the 30,000 in these camps, were statesmen, authors, journalists and artists. In addition, there were some 60,000 more, in labor camps and camps built for foreign soldiers. These included Jews, anti-Nazi Germans and Spanish Republicans. For them, 19 relief organizations, most of them American, were working to do what they could to make life more livable.

Oddy, the best internment camp in France is operated by the Mexican government for Spanish war veterans. The heaviest penalty for breach of discipline is to be thrown out. The Mexicans operate on a budget of less than seven francs per person daily.

Farm and Homilies . . . By Baukhage

The cotton and steel shortage in Britain is threatening morale. A shortage of corsets—made of cotton and steel—is expected. A woman doctor has come out with the suggestion that a roller towel can be used as "ersatz." But a male doctor protests. He says the battle lines are not the only ones that must be securely held if the nation's morale is to be preserved.

The other day I called a taxi and told the driver to "take me to 'the Capitol—house side.'" "Do you mean the house office building?" he asked. "No," I answered, "the house entrance to the Capitol building." "Is there a house in the Capitol?" he asked. It seemed incredible that a mature man did not know that the Capitol house was a senate. So I simply said: "You're a newcomer." "No," he said, "I was born here."

Washington Outlook Government to Encourage Greater Food Production

Prepare for Increased Aid to Democracies; Newspaper Men From Small Town 'Make Good' in Washington.

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 'H' Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Before long the government will take steps to give the American farmer an incentive for raising more animals and increasing the egg and milk output for this arsenal of democracy, it can be safely predicted at this time. Furthermore, with the incentive will undoubtedly go some type of guarantee, as in the case of the manufacturer, that the farmer will be protected at least from possible loss of such undertakings. At most, he might even be guaranteed a profit.

Here is the background of the situation, details of which government officials are not ready as yet to make public: Food is as much a munition of war as guns. The United States in pledging its aid to democracies is starting to send food supplies to them.

Important Food-Weapons.

One of these food-weapons is wheat. We have plenty of that grain. The department of agriculture estimates that at present there are more than 525,000,000 bushels in excess of domestic needs.

Another food weapon, and a vital one for fighting men, is the proteins—meat, milk, milk products, poultry and eggs. Rationing of these products is becoming severe in England. American agriculture does not have surpluses of these things. But farms are the factories where they can be produced, and we do have surpluses of one of the chief raw materials for the process, namely, corn. Present estimates indicate that the corn surplus will reach 700,000,000 bushels by October 1.

How many more cows, pigs and chickens do we need in order to be able to feed ourselves as well as the fighting democracies? That is a hard question to answer. The department of agriculture calls it an "imponderable." It also admits that if everybody in this country right now were getting a square meal we would not have enough of the protein foods to go around.

Hence, the plans-in-the-making to encourage American farms to "manufacture" proteins in the interest of national defense.

Rural Newspaper Men 'Make Good' in Washington

Two small town boys, both trained on weekly newspapers, have made good in the radio world in Washington and neither of them can get the country out of his blood and is proud of it.

One is a lanky, red-haired Hoosier, Robert M. Menough, and the other, scholarly looking D. Harold McGrath, who grew up in the Cripple Creek mining district in Colorado. They are the superintendents, respectively, of the new house and senate radio galleries.

"My favorite newspaper," says Bob, "is the oldest in Indiana and the one I used to work on. It's the Salem Democrat."

McGrath, who has owned two weekly newspapers, says: "I have made seven auto trips from coast to coast in the last seven years and I noticed that the weekly newspaper is on a much more solid basis than it was when I was a publisher 25 years ago. I still think the weekly is the best read news publication in America."

Bob is the veteran of the two in radio because it was the house of representatives which first recognized that radio men needed the same facilities that the members of the long-established press gallery have if they are properly to cover the doings of congress. So in May of 1939 the lower chamber appropriated money for a superintendent and an assistant and amended its rules so that radio newsmen had their own little corner—a pew raffled off from the visitors' gallery right next to the newspaper men's seats above the speaker's rostrum.

Senate Follows Suit.

The senate, being a more ponderous body, followed suit some months later.

When the question came up to the speaker of the house as to who would be his choice for the superintendent on his side of the Capitol, there wasn't any question about Bob Menough's qualifications. He has a well-known figure around the Capitol ever since he came to Washington.

Probably before this reaches the public the entire administration of the defense program will be changed. The Office of Production Management which official birth was celebrated with much fanfare as the organization which was to run the whole defense program, is now about to become just one of half a dozen departments of the new set-up.

Dignified Connecticut avenue in Washington which was once the parade ground for top hats and trailing gowns on Easter and almost as gay a promenade on every sunny Sunday, is almost entirely commercialized. One of the most embarrassing changes took place when a famous hairdresser opened a shop just above the statue of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. Now the bearded poet is forced to watch ladies under a permanent waver all day long. Just another instance of the "evils of commercialism."

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

ington with Representative Crowe from his own Indiana district. Although his family roots go clear back to the beginning of Salem, Ind., history, there is a little uncertainty which makes him a little uncertain as to who he really is. It seems that four generations ago two little boys were stolen from two different families, the Menaughs and Hinsleys, by the Indians. One was four and one was five. Later, a trapper reported that he had heard that one of the boys, he didn't know which, had died. Still later, the other boy returned to the village. But which boy? Six years has passed. The little fellow had an Indian name and he had forgotten his own. Both families claimed him and finally a public trial was held and he was awarded to the Menaughs. Bob is a great-grandson of that boy.

High School Start.

Bob started newspaper work in high school, buying an old press and setting the type himself. Later he worked on the Salem Democrat, the oldest newspaper in Indiana. He says that his greatest thrill came in speaking on the first national broadcast celebrating the opening of the radio gallery on June 26, 1939, an honor shared by your correspondent.

McGrath, head of the senate side started work in 1910 at the age of 16 as a reporter, succeeding Lowell Thomas on the Victor (Colo.) Record. The Record was a four-sheet daily and McGrath was to have other reformatory training in Boise and Wallace, Idaho, before he got the urge to own a weekly.

He paid a hundred dollars down and fifty dollars a month for the Kellogg (Idaho) Record. Equipped with one job press, one Cotrell flatbed newspaper press and lots of hand type.

"Mrs. McGrath and I," he says, "learned to peg type and with the help of one printer got out the paper until I joined the army in 1918."

After the war he secured the Jerome County (Idaho) Times which he ran until he sold out in 1922. He came to Washington with Senator Schwellenbach of Washington and with him until he took over the gallery job.

Minority Party in U. S. Is Still Important

I walked along the corridor of the Capitol building, turned down a narrow hall, got into a still narrower elevator and went up to the second floor. Opposite the elevator door is the office of a small town editor. The office was not a newspaper office and the editor was not editing at the moment—he has to do that by remote control most of the time nowadays for his newspaper is located in North Attleboro, Mass. He is Joe Martin, minority leader of the house of representatives and beginning his second term as chairman of the Republican national committee.

The subject of our conversation had to do with what a minority party does when a national emergency exists and partisan politics is supposed to be forgotten. Chairman Martin told me the Republican party has plenty to do.

"The Republican party has two big jobs ahead of it today," this Scotch-Irish Yankee said. "The first job is to keep congress from getting ahead of the people."

"I've been out in the country," he answered, "and I know the people don't want us here in Washington to do anything that will get the nation into war. If it weren't for continual unspectacular work on the part of the minority, especially in committees, the country would be in far worse shape than it is today."

But a still bigger task lies ahead, Joe Martin told me. "Our second job," he said, "is to prepare for the situation when the chaos of the World War which has produced the present emergency is over. Then it will be the responsibility of the Republican party to get back the democratic processes which are being sacrificed today by the emergency grants of power to the executive."

Of course, Chairman Martin believes the country will turn to the Republicans then, as what he calls a stabilizing force. Meanwhile, he says they must continue to police the majority party policies.

Badger State 'Happenings'

Takes Sheboygan Falls Space—The Michigan Products Co., Michigan City, Ind., which has large government orders for steel products, has taken space in Sheboygan Falls. It will employ about 200 men.

Tax Payment Change Voted—A constitutional amendment to permit the collection of real estate taxes by optional methods, including installment payments, was approved in a state-wide referendum.

Death Record Is Low—Wisconsin, now in the fourth year of an intensified campaign to control venereal disease, ranks fifth among states having the lowest death rate from syphilis, the state board of health announced.

Extend Mortgage Moratorium—The senate concurred in a bill to extend the real estate mortgage moratorium law until April 1, 1943. The measure was originally enacted in 1935, and has been reenacted by all succeeding legislatures.

Decrease in Auto Plates—The state motor vehicle division's Milwaukee office said that 153,521 license plates for 1941 were issued to buyers before the deadline at midnight April 1. Registration last year for the same area was 173,713.

Would Exempt Homesteads—Sentiment for liberalization of old age pensions was manifested when the assembly engrossed, 75 to 14, the Nelson-Niemuth bill to exempt homesteads up to a value of $5,000 from old age assistance liens.

Legion Invites President—An official invitation to President Roosevelt to attend the national American Legion convention in Milwaukee in September has been extended by Milo J. Warner, national commander, in a visit to the president.

Fowler and Callahan Win—Two veteran incumbents, Justice Chester A. Fowler of the state supreme court and John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction, were returned to office in the April 1 election, according to incomplete returns.

Power Purchase Defeated—Edgerton voters capped eight years of bickering by terminating negotiations for municipal purchase of the Wisconsin Power and Light company electric utility. The proposal was defeated in a referendum vote, 843 to 594.

Vote Down Salary Boost—A bill by Fehlbauer, Wausau, which would have given lawmakers $50 extra for every month up to six they are in session, was defeated by the assembly, 63 to 22. Legislators receive $100 per month salary, regardless of whether they are in session.

State WPA Quota Cut—The April quota of WPA employment in Wisconsin has been set at 38,600, a reduction of 3,300 from the March quota, but there will be no need for arbitrary lay-offs because private industry has provided more jobs, Administrator Mark Muth announced.

Too Busy to Hold Festival—Cherry blossom time in Door county will go uncelebrated by a festival this spring. Door county Chamber of Commerce members have decided that Sturgeon Bay is too busy with defense work and war orders to really put on a worthwhile celebration.

Bill to Bar Communists—A measure to bar the Communist party from the ballot in Wisconsin was passed 23 to 8 by the senate after long, anti-war debate. The vote, with two exceptions, was strictly along party lines with all Republicans and Democrats voting for the bill and all Progressives against it.

Workers Forget Ballots—Because ward workers forgot the state referendum ballots on installment payment of real estate taxes, voters in one ward in La Crosse had no chance to help decide the issue. The unopened bundle of ballots was found later in the ballot box in which they were delivered by the county clerk.

Income Taxes Show Gain—State Tax Commissioner Elmer Barlow reported to Gov. Heil that income tax collections during the first three months of this year were 35.9 per cent greater than collections for the same period of last year. The report showed that comparative collections were $16,041,347 in 1941 and $11,802,788 in 1940.

Bayfield County Debt Free—Ludwig Traanall, Bayfield county clerk, announced that the county was entirely free of debt for the first time in 45 years. The slate was wiped clean with the payment of $27,000 in short loans owed to banks in Washburn, Bayfield and Drummond. The last of the county's bonded indebtedness was retired when a $3,000 payment was made on a $111,000 bond issue of April 1, 1922, to finance highway construction and improvement.

Assembly Passes Tax Bill—The administration's $20,000,000 tax bill, approved 23 to 8 by the senate, was given preliminary approval 72 to 21 by the assembly. The measure continues for two more years five expiring taxes—the two cent cigarette tax, the emergency taxes on gifts and transfers, the surtax on incomes and the 3 per cent dividend tax. An amendment to raise $1,000,000 biennially through a 10 per cent tax on all cigars selling for more than five cents was rejected by the close vote of 47 to 45.

State Senator Fined—Senator Nelson appeared in superior court in Madison on three charges—speeding, failing to stop at an arterial and driving his car without 1941 license plates. He was fined $5 on the first two charges and Judge Roy H. Proctor deferred sentence on the third.

Autoist Seeking Aid Killed—A Kenosha motorist seeking aid for his stalled automobile on Highway 41 near Kenosha was fatally injured when a car he attempted to stop skidded and rolled over, crushing him.

NEW YORK.—Our old friend Lucien Burman, the author of the leading magazine, is off by clipping River Nipalario Had Nipalario On Career, Won writing assignment. One of the exciting traveling adventures promoting five cents for the ride which started his career. Mr. Burman will be general Wavell's army and the Gaulle forces, accredited by the magazine and a syndicate.

Mr. Burman's first trip was "Steamboat Round the World" which he did with Will Rogers appeared in the wood, and then got under with some more river boat magazine stories, riding the rivers, incidentally, but not heavily in both his travels, arriving, as disclosed by Mr. Burman once told me.

"I quit my job as a reporter the Morning World to write. I wrote plenty of them and kept on making extraordinary round trips to the publishers. Last day when I passed a shop, with some freshly baked plums. The time went by plunger.

"After the banquet, I went home, spending time in plans for making a fresh start in life. There was a letter in the Pictorial Review, they liked my story, and 'The Mist,' and 'The Mist'.

"My dime was gone, and the buns had been eaten up. I was too weak to walk to the zinc office. There just was much mileage in four hours going in and out of the Greenwiche Village studio. On her, told her my story suggested that she invest in my egg-edged career.

"She said it looked liquid, but she, too, was liquid assets—but she cents in stamps which she was glad to risk. I consented stamps into a five-cent post stationery store, and bought a subway ride. The magazine people gave me a check $600." Of course he went back and married the girl.

Mr. Burman was badly hurt in the World War and walked with crutches for several afterward. He returned to New York and was graduated in 1920.

SIR ARTHUR SALTER, economist and philosopher, has been building a bridge of peace between Britain and the United States.

British Heavy-Duty Thinker Forecasts 'Bridge of Ships' ministry of shipping, he is to help build a "bridge of ships" between Britain and the United States.

When he delivered the lecture, five years ago, he was some sharp criticism of the American press on the subject that he was assuming that about our fraternal cooperation with Britain. He urged us to try to join other nations in offering off war and instability. We could do this by generous entanglements in commitments. Our intelligence of banking, finance, foreign policy and economics heard and applauded, but were not disturbed as the somewhat of Sir Arthur.

Sir Arthur is a shrewd, little man. He is short, vigorous and alert, and cannot be called a "bridge of ships" with a skeptical mind. He is able him to score his prophet. However, he is a "hunching" man. He is a statesman. When he is in a state of inspiration, he is a prophet. He is a prophet of the sky—preferably a prophet of the sky. This seems to be a fact of disjuncting right effect sequences and "extraneous perceptions" of all good "hunch" men.

As professor of politics at Oxford, he regarded as practical the supposedly policies of the Baldwin government. He was alarmed at Adolf Hitler's rise to power. He was a middle-of-the-roader with right or left degrees in the way of salvation. He is a man of principles, and adheres to them. As to this "bridge of ships" started his career in the and might have some practical ideas at that.

GOOD TIDINGS FOR THE EASTER BREAKFAST (See Recipes Below)

EGGSTRANDS! The passing of winter and the dawn of spring comes the joyful season, bringing with it new hope and new life. Why not exchange good tidings in the form of an Easter Sunday breakfast?

Your Easter breakfast the first of the year—the whole family, and perhaps, gather leisurely around a table laden with your favorite early-morning breakfast.

Decorated Easter eggs that appear in the basket above.

You'll agree that even the most aristocratic rabbit should be proud to claim these original eggs. Decorating them is both easy and inexpensive. You'll need large white eggs, a package of dyes from the Five and Ten, a spoon-shaped wire hook with an end to use as a handle (for dipping eggs into the dye), rubber cement and stickers.

Buy gold and silver stars, dots in various colors, small red hearts, linen reinforcements that are really meant for loose-leaf notebooks, flower seals such as tulips, and red and blue legal seals.

After the well-known hard-boiling process you use your imagination about covering the eggs with stars and dots. Then try arranging hearts in four-leaf clover patterns, or turn the points outward and stick them around a center dot, as flower petals. All-over designs of blue legal seals and stripes of the red ones, pasted so closely that they overlap a bit, are quite effective. There are endless arrangements, and you have the advantage of being able to soak off and replace designs until you are pleased, without wasting an egg.

What to do with the Easter supply of hard-cooked eggs? I'm coming to that. . . Coarsely chopped or sliced hard-cooked eggs in superbly seasoned cream or white sauce become CREAMED EGGS. They will give luncheon and dinner menus a lift when served on crisply fried cornmeal slices, potato cakes, or waffles.

Creamed Eggs.
6 eggs, hard cooked
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne or nutmeg
Melt butter, add flour and stir until smooth. Add cold milk. Cook and stir constantly until thick. Remove from fire and place over hot water. Add seasonings and sliced eggs, cut lengthwise. Stir carefully. Serves 4.

new in decorating styles? That's as important to us as dropping shoulders and bouffants. ## New Treatment For Pin Worms

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ONE of the distressing ailments of young children is pin worms as the intensive itching gets gradually worse toward evening and is at its worst at bedtime. During the night there is sleeplessness or a disturbed sleep with night terrors. The child loses weight and his blood becomes thin.

The prevention of infection or aggravation of the symptoms can often be effected by keeping the fingernails clean and cut short and washing the hands many times a day.

Getting rid of these tiny worms which look like short pieces of white thread is sometimes difficult. In my student days we were taught that giving tablets of santolin and calomel and enemas of an infusion of quassa chips was considered the most effective treatment.

For many years the routine treatment in children's hospitals has been enemas of infusion of quassa chips every morning for 7 to 10 days. Two ounces of quassa chips are put in a quart of water and the water allowed to boil down to one pint. The water is then strained free of the chips and used as an enema. This whole process is repeated each morning for the week or 10 days, water being allowed to cool.

The New Treatment.

A new treatment that may take the place of these other methods is gentian violet now used in staining organisms and injection of vessels.

Drs. Max J. Miller, Laurent Choquette, Wilfred Audet, R. F. Kelso and J. A. Guenet in the Canadian Medical Association Journal report their results in the use of gentian violet in tablet form in 29 school children, ranging from 6 to 13 years of age. The tablets were given over a period of 10 consecutive days, the children 6 to 9 getting two 3-20 grain tablets three times a day, and those 10 to 13 years of age getting a 1/2-grain tablet three times a day. These gentian violet tablets cleared away the pin worms in 26 of the 29 cases.

Shock Treatment For Mental Cases

WHEN the shock treatment by insulin and Metrazol was first used some seven years ago, some physicians began treating many types of mental ailments. As this method of treatment was recommended for only certain types of mental cases, there were naturally many cases where the treatment was a great disappointment to the patients, their families, and the physicians themselves.

When should mental patients be given the shock treatment?

Dr. G. Wilse Robinson Jr., Kansas City, in Clinical Medicine and Surgery, states that he and his associates divide their patients into two groups, those above and those below 40 years of age. They find that Metrazol is more effective in those over 40 (and especially if the symptoms began under 40) and insulin in those under 40. Early cases of day dreaming should have insulin shock, but where there is marked depression present, Metrazol should be used, alone or in combination with insulin. The use of Metrazol and insulin combined seems to be effective in cases in which either insulin or Metrazol alone have failed.

Dr. Robinson points out that while there are points of difference among physicians regarding shock treatment, nevertheless all agree that if the symptoms are recent, or in the early stages—not more than six months—good results may be expected by shock treatment. The shock treatment is 2 1/2 times as effective as former methods and time spent in hospital has been shortened by six months on an average. The death rate of this type of case in mental hospitals is about 5 per cent per year, whereas the death rate in those treated by the shock method is about 2 per cent.

Shock treatment should be given only where there is competent supervision as convulsions can cause serious complications.

Remember, shock treatment is given in "selected" cases.

Wool Blankets

This is a digest of a co-operative project carried on by the bureau of animal industry and the bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture, to determine the serviceability of four different blends of wool when the wool was made into blankets.

BLENDS USED IN THE TESTS

The new wool used in the experiments was chosen from purebred flocks of Corriedale and Rambouillet sheep. After shearing, the wool was shipped to New England and manufactured into four lots of blankets, each lot differing in the blend of wool used, the blends being designated as follows: 1, 2, 3, and 4, and blended in the proportions designated herewith: Fabric No. 1 consisted of Rambouillet wool, one part fine and one part 1/2 blood; Fabric No. 2 was of Corriedale wool, two parts 1/2 blood to one part 1/4 blood; Fabric No. 3 was of Corriedale wool and reworked wool in the proportions of 1 part 3/4 blood Corriedale to two parts reworked wool; Fabric No. 4 was entirely of reworked wool. Warp and filling were identical in all blends.

METHODS USED IN TESTING

The blankets were put into use in the Veterans' Diagnostic Center, U. S. Veterans' Administration, in Washington, D. C., where they had the sort of treatment to be expected in an institution of that type. They were used in the post-operative ward where they necessarily received 24-hour-a-day use, and, since they were laundered after each patient was dismissed the comparisons of relative wear could be made in a shorter time than would be possible under home conditions. Twenty-four blankets of fabric No. 1, 14 of fabric 2, 9 of fabric 3, and 16 of fabric 4 were put into service under identical conditions. A record of the date upon which each blanket was laundered was kept by the laundry superintendent and one blanket of each lot was removed at intervals to note whatever physical or chemical changes had taken place.

Tests were made for shrinkage, breaking strength—both strip and grab methods—bursting strength, thread count, weight per square yard, thickness, air permeability, and heat transmission.

At each test period, sulphur, nitrogen, moisture, ash, methylene blue absorption, scale breakage, and resistance to bacterial attack were tested. The purpose of these tests is apparent except that it should be said that as wool becomes damaged it absorbs increasing quantities of methylene blue—hence the methylene blue test.

RESULTS OF THE TESTS

A comparison of the new three-eighths-blood wool with reworked wool for strength and stretch, developed that the new wool had a breaking strength about the same as that of the reworked wool, but that it had a stretch of 47.14 per cent as compared with 25.65 per cent in the reworked wool blend.

Fabrics 1 and 2, when compared for whiteness, amount of nap, weight and thickness, were found to be of equal value; fabric 3 showed a yellow tinge, a lighter weight, and less thickness; fabric 4—made entirely of reworked wool—was unsatisfactory. It had no nap, had insufficient weight for durability, and was darker than fabric 3.

LENGTH OF SERVICE

Although it was planned, at first, to allow the blankets to remain in service as long as they were usable, the study progressed so slowly that all were withdrawn from service after five years. During that time, 18 of the original 63 were lost, consequently data concerning them is incomplete.

One of the blankets made from fabric 4 was serviceable for only 9 washes; the remainder from that blend were usable for service varying up to 16 washes; for blankets made from fabric 3, the average length of service was 31 washes.

At the end of the five-year period, no blanket made from either fabric 1 or fabric 2 had been withdrawn because it was worn out—all were still serviceable. One blanket of fabric 1 had been washed 52 times—indicating a satisfactorily long life-time for blankets of this blend in ordinary home use.

It must be admitted that in the matter of shrinkage, none of the blends was satisfactory, since none of them, at the end of the five years, was adequate to cover a single bed.

For further information concerning the results of this experiment, which is of importance to all housewives, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Technical Bulletin No. 572.

BLENDS USED IN THE TESTS

The new wool used in the experiments was chosen from purebred flocks of Corriedale and Rambouillet sheep. After shearing, the wool was shipped to New England and manufactured into four lots of blankets, each lot differing in the blend of wool used, the blends being designated as follows: 1, 2, 3, and 4, and blended in the proportions designated herewith: Fabric No. 1 consisted of Rambouillet wool, one part fine and one part 1/2 blood; Fabric No. 2 was of Corriedale wool, two parts 1/2 blood to one part 1/4 blood; Fabric No. 3 was of Corriedale wool and reworked wool in the proportions of 1 part 3/4 blood Corriedale to two parts reworked wool; Fabric No. 4 was entirely of reworked wool. Warp and filling were identical in all blends.

METHODS USED IN TESTING

The blankets were put into use in the Veterans' Diagnostic Center, U. S. Veterans' Administration, in Washington, D. C., where they had the sort of treatment to be expected in an institution of that type. They were used in the post-operative ward where they necessarily received 24-hour-a-day use, and, since they were laundered after each patient was dismissed the comparisons of relative wear could be made in a shorter time than would be possible under home conditions. Twenty-four blankets of fabric No. 1, 14 of fabric 2, 9 of fabric 3, and 16 of fabric 4 were put into service under identical conditions. A record of the date upon which each blanket was laundered was kept by the laundry superintendent and one blanket of each lot was removed at intervals to note whatever physical or chemical changes had taken place.

Tests were made for shrinkage, breaking strength—both strip and grab methods—bursting strength, thread count, weight per square yard, thickness, air permeability, and heat transmission.

At each test period, sulphur, nitrogen, moisture, ash, methylene blue absorption, scale breakage, and resistance to bacterial attack were tested. The purpose of these tests is apparent except that it should be said that as wool becomes damaged it absorbs increasing quantities of methylene blue—hence the methylene blue test.

RESULTS OF THE TESTS

A comparison of the new three-eighths-blood wool with reworked wool for strength and stretch, developed that the new wool had a breaking strength about the same as that of the reworked wool, but that it had a stretch of 47.14 per cent as compared with 25.65 per cent in the reworked wool blend.

Fabrics 1 and 2, when compared for whiteness, amount of nap, weight and thickness, were found to be of equal value; fabric 3 showed a yellow tinge, a lighter weight, and less thickness; fabric 4—made entirely of reworked wool—was unsatisfactory. It had no nap, had insufficient weight for durability, and was darker than fabric 3.

LENGTH OF SERVICE

Although it was planned, at first, to allow the blankets to remain in service as long as they were usable, the study progressed so slowly that all were withdrawn from service after five years. During that time, 18 of the original 63 were lost, consequently data concerning them is incomplete.

One of the blankets made from fabric 4 was serviceable for only 9 washes; the remainder from that blend were usable for service varying up to 16 washes; for blankets made from fabric 3, the average length of service was 31 washes.

At the end of the five-year period, no blanket made from either fabric 1 or fabric 2 had been withdrawn because it was worn out—all were still serviceable. One blanket of fabric 1 had been washed 52 times—indicating a satisfactorily long life-time for blankets of this blend in ordinary home use.

It must be admitted that in the matter of shrinkage, none of the blends was satisfactory, since none of them, at the end of the five years, was adequate to cover a single bed.

For further information concerning the results of this experiment, which is of importance to all housewives, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Technical Bulletin No. 572.

Wool Blankets

This is a digest of a co-operative project carried on by the bureau of animal industry and the bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture, to determine the serviceability of four different blends of wool when the wool was made into blankets.

At Least Stern Parent Had Son's Rapt Attention

Father had decided that he must administer a strict lecture to his six-year-old son. The boy had been naughty, but did not seem to appreciate the fact, and it was with some reluctance that the parent undertook a scolding.

He spoke judiciously but severely; he recounted the lad's misdeeds, and explained the whys and wherefores of his solemn rebuke. His wife sat by, duly impressed.

Finally, when the father paused for breath, and, incidentally to hear the culprit's acknowledgment of error, the lad, his face beaming with admiration, turned to his mother and said: "Mother isn't father interesting?"

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

FORENSICS
On Thursday of last week the local forensic contest winners went to Lomira to the sub-district contest. It was an unlucky day for our contestants because not a one received a place in the contest.

We hope that next year there will be more out for forensics and that they will be able to get a few more awards.

NORTHERN VACATIONLAND
TECHNICOLOR MOVIE

"This Amazing America" Title of Interest Packed Picture

Among the featured spots of amazing beauty shown in the new technicolor motion picture, "This Amazing America" are scenes from the north country's famed vacationland. Seven months were spent on location by the large party of technicians, stars, and producers. Much of this time was spent in Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin the past summer where many unusual scenes of woodland and lakeland beauty were captured in full color.
A theatrical version of the same film has been completed and is being shown in theatres throughout all parts of the country. This version called "Wayside Wonders" includes in the cast the well-known announcer Harlow Wilcox.
"This Amazing America," the three-reel picture, is now being shown by Greyhound's traffic representatives and film distributing companies to schools, churches, lodges, military and army corps areas, Parent-Teacher groups, conventions, etc.
The picture is based upon the wanderings, squabbles, adventures, and romance of a very dissimilar couple. The leading man in the picture is a young college professor who knows lots about history and geography but very little about girls. His co-star is a very attractive young southern girl who knows less than nothing about either history or geography, but she does know a lot about men and wants to know more about one particular man.
The action of the film opens in a radio broadcasting studio, where a typical "This Amazing America" Quiz-See is being held. The professor with a perfect score of one hundred wins the contest. The little southern girl also has a perfect score, only hers is zero. Both are given free trips by Greyhound completely around the country. At the beginning, the professor is none too pleased at the prospect of his traveling companion and tries to get rid of her on any and all occasions, but she has other plans in mind.
Distribution of the film in this territory is under the direction of J. L. Williams, Minneapolis, General Traffic Manager of Northland Greyhound Lines.

Twenty-five Years Ago

While Clarence Weibert, aged 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jac. In another accident, Arnold, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ramthun of the town, broke his right arm.

While Walter Liepert and Aug. Voeks, Jr. were washing a chicken house for Julius Etta in Town Farmington their outfit froze up. It was necessary to thaw open the machine and while doing so the hose attached with a 200 lb. pressure bursted, the white-wash forcibly striking Mr. Liepert in the left eye. Luckily the eye was saved by a physician.

Aug. F. Firks, 90, pioneer resident of New Fane, died at his home there. Last summer Mr. and Mrs. Firks celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. He leaves 10 children.

The Statesman automobile contest was a great success. The six judges, under the chairmanship of Peter Schrooten, spent 2 1/2 hours counting the ballots before the winners were named. Winners of the first five big prizes were: 1. Five-passenger Ford touring car, won by Fred Schief, Kewaskum; 2. High grade victrola, won by Carl Schaefer, Kewaskum; 3. 26-piece chest of silverware, won by Mrs. J. P. Walsh, New Prospect; 4. High grade gold watch, won by Miss Margaret Schill, Elmora; 5. High grade gold watch, won by Arthur Groeschel, Boltonville. The next four winners received sterling breakfast sets. All others who failed to win prizes received a 25% cash commission on all new subscriptions. Hundreds of new subscribers were added to the Statesman's list. After the final count a banquet was given by Editor Geo. Schmidt at the Republican hotel for the judges, candidates and contest managers.
