Death of Mrs. Louis Bath Occurs After Two Months Illness

NUMBER 32

It is with deepest regret that we write the obituary of Mrs. Louis Bath, 49, nee Remmel, beloved resident of this village, who passed away at St Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, at 10:50 p. m. on Tuesday, May 6, following an illness of two months. Gardeners

GARDENS OF QUALITY

THERE have been changes in recent years in garden practices that are worth reporting. Gardeners formerly allowed vegetables to grow as large as possible This procedure gave a higher yield in pounds, but very often it lowered the quality of vegetables.

Some vegetables, of course, like tomato, must be mature to be palatable; but carrots, cucumbers, beets, summer squash, turnips, radishes, and others are more tender and tasty when not much more than half grown. Gardeners are finding that it is wise to plant oftener than once or twice a year, to maintain a regular supply of proper-sized vegetables. Gardens prove more enjoyable, and more profitable when successive plantings of favorite crops are made every two or three weeks, providing garden-fresh vegetables for the table over a long season.

It is also true that few gardeners today save flower seeds. Fine flowers growing in the home garden often are cross-pollinated by others of the same species, making flowers grown from their seed inferior, and untrue.

Vitamin B₁ Of Value in Anemia Cases

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

TWO friends of mine died of pernicious anemia just a few years before Doctors Minot and Murphy (Boston) made this startling discovery that death | TODAY'S from pernicious HEALTH anemia could be COLUMN prevented by the use of liver. Since that time liver extract and extract of hog's stomach have been found effective in this formerly fatal disease.

While the cause of pernicious anemia is unknown, I know that severe emotional upsetments and extreme mental work or overwork had undermined the health of these two friends and that this might have been a partial cause of their death

by pernicious ane-

Just as mental or emotional strain can affect the organs of Dr. Barton the body - heart, blood vessels, stomach, intestine-so can they also affect the life stream. That more than the quality or quantity of the red blood cells are affected in pernicious anemia is shown by the fact that even after the blood becomes normal in the number and iron content of its red corpuscles, the patient may continue to have symptoms such as pain and exhaustion.

Drs. F. Sciclounoff and M. Naville, in the Swiss Medical Journal state that in a series of cases of pernicious anemia in which the blood was up to normal, the patients continued to have the symptoms. They administered thiamin chloride (vitamin B1) to 13 of these cases and found that this treatment can relieve and often cure the symptoms due to the disturbances of the nervous system. In favorable cases there was improvement in movement and in sensitiveness, and the pain stopped in a short time.

Nerves Prolong Symptoms. The thought then in pernicious anemia is that the nerves are apparently damaged to some extent, thus prolonging the symptoms even after the blood is restored to normal. The treatment to relieve these symptoms is the use of vitamin B1 (thiamin chloride) which, as stated before, enables the oxygen in the blood to get directly to the nerve cells. Foods rich in vitamin B1 and the best-but there therefore of help in conditions af- are those who mainfecting the nerves-neuritis, arthri- tain that it should tis, nervous exhaustion-are ham, bacon, peanuts, beef, liver, malted made at all. Pain in Chest Due to Effort

A S YOUNGSTERS when we played hard a pain would occur in the chest and we would have to stop playing or play more leisurely. This pain was due to the fact that we were playing so hard, or were so excited while playing, that too much waste-carbon dioxide-from the exercise accumulated in the blood.

Today, when adults get this tight or gripping pain in chest or under the breastbone, it is called angina pectoris. This is due, as with youngsters playing hard, to something preventing enough pure blood to flow through the little blood vessels carrying pure or unused blood from the lungs to the heart.

When this pain comes on from effort, stopping what you are doing or doing it less rapidly will in most cases cause the pain to disappear. In speaking of angina (pain) due to effort, Dr. Geoffrey Bourne, London, in the British Medical Journal, states that in the majority of cases rest is not needed; in fact, the patient should be encouraged to take regular exercise to increase the strength of his heart and lungs. If during the exercise pain occurs, exercise may be stopped for a time, but a gradual increase in the amount of work that can be done or exercise taken before the pain appears will be noticed soon.

Patients who are overweight, in whom this pain in the chest occurs, can be greatly helped by a reduction of their weight.

Standing, sitting and walking in an erect position, carrying abdomen drawn in, will often prevent this pain. When exercise cannot be taken, holding the abdomen in by means of a well-fitted abdominal belt will prevent or postpone the pain.

WO April weddings in the ■ Hollywood movie colony are still topics for conversation, one because it was so conventional, for Hollywood, the other because it was so unusual for that colony and just the accepted thing anywhere else.

The Yuma marriage of Constance Bennett and Gilbert Roland was Hollywoodian. It was Miss Bennett's fourth marriage, they drove to Yuma by themselves and the clergyman had to supply witnesses. The other, Deanna Durbin's marriage to Vaughn Paul, was a big church wedding, very beautiful, and motion picture stars who were friends of the bride and groom were invited but not featured as part of the performance. An achievement, in Holly-

During the next few months there will be a virtual parade of film players to the Latin-American countries. Spencer Tracy and Eleanor Powell are slated for good-will visits; Douglas Fairbanks Jr. will be a sort of good-will ambassador, and Marsha Hunt plans on spending six weeks in South America after she's finished 'Blossoms in the Dust."

"Citizen Kane," Orson Welles' first RKO Radio production, aroused

plenty of controversy long before it was released, and will be one of those pictures that people will argue about years after they've seen it. It may not be the best picture ever made, but certainly it is one of never have been

The first day she appeared on the "Manpower" set Marlene Dietrich announced that she'd take whatever punishment the script asked George Raft to hand her. That included his slapping her twice across the face, knocking her down a flight of stairs, then leaping after her and hitting her across the mouth with the back of his hand.

But George hit her harder than he intended, Marlene tumbled down the stairs (as per script), but wound up by severely spraining her ankle (which the script did not call for!).

Two more well known stage and screen players-Martha Sleeper and William Harrigan-have joined the cast of "We Are Always Young," Mutual chain's star-studded serial. That cast probably includes more "name" actors than any other serial on the air; among them are Jessie Royce Landis, Linda Watkins, Margalo Gilmore, Joe Laurie Jr., Horace Braham, Pert Kelton, George Coulouris, and William Janney, who's starred.

Andy Hardy's own, a squadron of RAF fighters, will soon take to the air. Mickey Rooney, the Hardy series "Andy," received a letter the other day from a young RAF flier who wrote "We're all young fellows in this squadron and we all think you're an o. k. sort of lad, so we've nicknamed our squadron (soon to see action) for you."

Stirling Hayward lost Madeleine Carroll in "Virginia," but he's slated to win her in "Dildo Cay." As originally planned, it was Dorothy Lamour whom he was to win, but she will be unable to finish her current assignment in "Aloma of the South Seas" in time to appear in the picture.

ODDS AND ENDS - Mutual's news analyst, Wythe Williams, is sponsored on more stations than any fellow analyst-has 100 stations . . . Robert Donat has leave from the British army to make "Pitt the Younger" in an English studio . . . Warner Bros. have bought a story called "Coffin for Dmitrios," and Columbia is making one called "Obituary"—and trying to think up a new title for it . . . As soon as Abbott and Costello finish "In the Navy" they'll begin "Ride 'em Cowboy" Shirley Temple will have a brand new nair-do when she returns to the screen, and her hair, growing darker as she's grown older, is brown instead of golden.

Hollywood has a new menace— "glamour blight." Director Robert Hawks said the other day that glamour, or wanting to be glamorous. has ruined more potentially fine actresses than almost any other factor. Ida Lupino, said he, didn't blossom out as a dramatic actress until she forgot about glamour. Deanna Durbin and Judy Garland have got along fine because they didn't bother with it. He's hoping it won't strike 16-year-old Joan Leslie, Gary Cooper's leading lady in "Sergeant

U. S. 'Aid-to-Britain' Shipping Losses Brings Convoy Issue Into Open Debate; 45,000 British Soldiers Are Saved As Nazis Complete Balkan Campaign

Both resolutions were defeated in committee, but only by a vote of 13-10, and this showed what strength the non-interventionists had gained. The resolution would have tied the President's hands most effectively, in the question of using the American navy to protect shipments to Britain and other defending democ-

to Britain by sea, and said that these ranged from 40 per cent to more than half. He then quoted a high defense official as saying, "they were nowhere near 40 per cent and were getting less constant-

However, it was still apparent that Britain preferred to send American aircraft across the ocean by air rather than on the water, and the President backed up this effort by announcing he was asking for a survey to get all the commercial air transports possible, presumably to ferry the pilots back and forth who were in the transatlantic shipping of warplanes to Britain.

That this was a big industry and getting bigger was seen by the new revelations of the prices being paid to American pilots for doing the ferrying. Some of these salaries were quoted at $1,500 a trip, which didn't seem so much, but it was a good deal for a day's flying, and some of the bombers were making it in 12 hours.

Of course, there was the wait before you got back to earn another $1,500, but the pilots were getting astronomical "waiting salaries" as well. But there were signs that as American production was stepped up, this business was beginning to get out of hand, and that there was a woeful shortage of planes capable of bringing the pilots back to Amer-

There also was revealed another British immediate request for a quantity of mosquito torpedo boats, and also the fact that American supply was short, for Secretary Knox said, "We'll let them have some, and more as we finish them up."

Highlights . . . in the news

Washington: President Roosevelt himself opened the government's multi-billion dollar defense savings campaign by buying the first bond himself. The ceremony was broadcast from coast to coast.

New York: Jesse Jones announced that the government debt would go to 90 billions, and that America, which had no sacrifices as yet, would be making them "and plenty

London: Belgian circles reported that Germany is holding 128,000 Belgians prisoners of war. London: British bombers claimed sinking or damaging 42,000 tons of Axis coastwise ships in a week. The British announcement said "evidently the Nazi rail strain is being relieved by the use of coastwise shipping in more favorable weather." Chungking, China: Capt. James Roosevelt of the marines bobbed up in Chungking, watched the Japanese carry out an air raid on the city, praised the public's morale, and announced that he was going to fly to northern Africa to observe the war there. He said to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, "I'm here to learn." Toronto: Canada's income tax has been doubled for the lower income brackets, and those with $1,000 taxable income now pay 15 per cent, with 5 per cent additional for each thousand above the first. Exemptions are $700 for single and $1,250 for married persons.

Los Angeles: A reported threat against the life of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt brought an immediate order for secret service guards for the wife of the President. She, however, left Los Angeles conspicuously unattended, and said that the in that scheme were almost painthreat "didn't bother her" at all. | fully apparent.

GREEK:

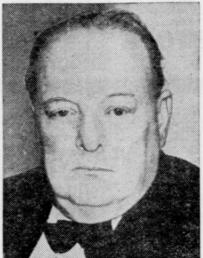

Bill Presented

The debacle in Greece seemed to fight in the senate picked up when be "small potatoes" as far as men the Tobey and Nye resolutions were and munitions were concerned, as compared with Dunquerque, but the pattern turned out to be almost iden-

> There was little question but that the fighting had been as hard at one place as at the other, with probably more successful work done by the British in Greece than they did in France. It seemed that the Greeks were better co-operators than the French, whose morale was utterly shot long before the British began to fall back, and had to contend with clogged roads and fleeing millions.

> But Churchill let the commons have the "Greek bill" of expenses as soon as he knew what it was, and announced he would permit a full debate on this motion:

A vote of confidence in the conduct of the war by the British government-and a vote of approval on the giving of aid to the Greeks. Churchill said the British had put 60,000 soldiers into Greece, including one division each (about half of the total force) of Australians and New

He said that of this number there were about 3,000 casualties (killed and wounded and missing), about 45,000 "got away to fight on other fronts," and 12,000 were still unaccounted for. This, presumably, included those left to screen the retreat (suicide battalions); and those lost at sea in sunken transports.

The prime minister said "British losses were small compared to the losses inflicted on the Germans, who on some occasions for two days at a time were brought to a complete standstill by forces one-fifth their

He said, further, that the conduct of the troops, especially the rear guard, merited the highest praise, and that the British demonstrated that prolonged air bombing by day and night had no power to shake their discipline or their morale.

Some members of the house wanted to know if the 45,000 had fled to Crete or had reached their own bases. Churchill said he believed the latter to be the case. He admitted that the army in Greece had been forced to abandon or destroy all of its heavy equipment, which could, of course, not be removed.

He was highly positive, however, not only of the escape of 45,000 men, but hinted that the other 12,000 "unaccounted for" probably would die or be taken prisoners-but might, possibly, escape somewhere else temporarily.

The Nazi communiques announced the Greek war over, the formation of a "new government" similar to that of occupied France, and the affair officially at an end.

RUSSIA:

At Crossroads

Indication that Soviet Russia is facing a situation that is becoming less and less healthy for the Soviet's peace of mind came when it was officially announced by Moscow that 12,000 German troops, well equipped with tanks and heavy artillery, had moved into Finland by water with the evident intention of staying there. The official announcement coupled with this move by the Nazis, at least former allies of Russia, with the decision by Russia not long ago not to permit further shipments of arms and munitions over her railroads, or through her country by air

Just what the German objective was in Finland was not immediately apparent, but it was evident that if the Germans intend to go on southward through Turkey and Syria into Iraq and Iran, the Germans will certainly bottle up the Black Sea for Russia, and few believed the Soviet would stand for that without fighting, perhaps on the side of the Turks, perhaps alone.

This is the eventuality that most friends of an eventual defeat for Hitler and Mussolini and Japan have looked forward to, and Churchill hinted at it not long ago.

It also should be remembered that Germany, during the years of the Nazi-Soviet rapprochement, had (to use a baseball or football term) "scouted" the Russian military machine-and should know better than anyone else how good it really was,

and how to fight it. There was another school of thought among the observers, who thought that perhaps Germany's next objectives would be to "clean up" all of Europe, and the "holes"

Mother of '41

Danville, Ky., by marriage a great-great granddaughter of Isaac Shelby, Revolutionary war hero and first governor of Kentucky, is the American Mother of 1941. She was extended this honor by the American Mothers' committee of the Golden Rule foundation, which annually sponsors the American Mother. Cited as being "representative of the best there is in motherhood," Mrs. Diehl is the mother of four grown children-all girls.

COPPERHEADS': And FDR

The "Lone Eagle," Charles Augustus Lindbergh, once more landed on Page One as the first American news story.

Lindbergh, who had first associated himself with the non-interventionists and later with advocates of the theory that British victory was impossible and German victory certain, carried his views to the American public until finally President Roosevelt took cognizance of them in a press conference, mentioning Lindbergh by name and in no complimentary terms.

Lindy countered by resigning his commission in the air corps reserve, and accompanied it with a personal letter to the President which he released to the press as soon as it was written, and long before the President received it.

The war department accepted the resignation. The President received the letter. Lindbergh received from Presidential Secretary Early the hint that perhaps he would like also to return to Hitler a decoration he had received from Der Fuehrer some years back.

The open controversy had its backers on both sides, both public and private. The non-interventionists immediately made of Lindy a martyr, and at a subsequent public meeting, Senator Nye, leader of the 'keep out of war' bloc in the senate, along with Senator Wheeler, made capital of the incident by addressing his hearers as "fellow-Copper-

The copperhead reference was President Roosevelt's, used in the press conference anent Lindbergh. Lindy's name was cheered to the echo at each of these meetings, and the leaders of the movement were quick to seize on him as a martyr.

Opponents of Lindbergh's attitude were glad he resigned his commission but took the stand that he ought to be silenced and deported, in fact there were few limits in the suggestions that emanated from various sources backing up the President in his questioning of the flier's patriotism.

Along came the Hugh Johnson incident to fan the flames and to give the anti-administration movement more stature. General Johnson, holding, like Lindbergh, a reserve army commission, was denied a reappointment by the President. Johnson had been authoring an anti-administration column which had been widely distributed in the press.

He, a former New Dealer and a former head of the NRA in the early Roosevelt days, had been busy in anti-Administration circles, mostly in magazines, prior to the last election, and had continued with a newspaper column.

The army had certified Johnson for reappointment, so in refusing to allow the commission to go out, the President went against his army chiefs' advice, and further stated that as there was no likelihood of Johnson's actively serving, he wanted to spare the commission for somebody that would.

Lindbergh, in his letter to the President resigning, had made quite a point of the fact that as an inactive army officer, he had felt permitted to use the freedom of speech in attacking the administration's foreign policy, but that if the President was going to impugn his patriotism-why then he was going to

INVASION: 'Bugbear'

The end of the Greek campaign and the slowing down of the North African fight, if it was not at the stalemate point, brought the old British bugbear of an invasion attempt to the fore again. It was a bugbear but a bugbear with a silver lining, if that was possible, for most of Britain dreaded the days of waiting more than the actual attempt, so sure were the people that it would be smashed. It was more or less with good reason that Britons felt the time for such an attempt was at hand, with the public morale perhaps at its lowest following the defeat in Africa and Greece, and the weather at its

There were other signs. London was being abandoned as an air raid target, and the bombers kept hammering at the east coast towns. Also the German big guns resumed their hammering of Dover, and there were reported concentrations of small craft again in the "invasion ports" along the channel.

Rural Boys 'Make Good' As President's Advisers

Harry Hopkins and Leon Henderson Have FDR's Confidence in Policies Vital To U. S. Welfare.

By BAUKHAGE

Washington, D. C.) WASHINGTON. - America faces

its second crisis under Roosevelt. Whether America knows it or notand by the time this reaches print the last doubt may be removed—the President knows it now. The first crisis was the peak of the economic panic. The present one is the valley of allied fortunes.

The WPA and the NRA were two of the institutions which the President created to meet our economic problems in 1933. Since then many an outstanding member of the New Deal palace guard has had his hour to strut and fret upon the stage and then be heard no more. General Johnson and his blue eagle—now a mere columnist; Donald Richberg, his successor, back with his law books; the professors, Raymond Moley, once in the state department, today behind an editorial desk in the seat of the scorner, and Rexford Guy Tugwell, still loyal, but silent, a partner of industry. We might under the lend-lease law, and Leon Henderson, officer of price administration and civilian supply.

The two men are alike in characteristics except that both were poor farm boys, both have a New Deal slant on life, and neither has much interest in the art of a Fifth avenue tailor.

There is no doubt that the defense euphemistic label for this anything but negative undertaking, has passed out of the joint power of the dollara-year men and into control of these two staunch supporters of the Roosevelt administration.

The rise of Harry Hopkins' influence has been steady, interrupted only by periods of ill-health. His relationship with the President started from a sympathy of viewpoint concerning the duty of government toward its underprivileged. It has front of his two-story cottage. The grown into an intimate friendship, bastioned by propinguity that comes from sharing the same rooftree and many leisure hours, before nine in lamp in one. the morning and after six at night, since May of last year.

That was when Hitler's blitz across the low countries showed the President that the possibility of peaceful intervention in the cause In an hour thousands of governof democracy in Europe was over. In his despair, he called his friend to the White House for a week-end of comfort and counsel. Hopkins has been there ever since.

Perhaps the barefoot boy driving a neighbor's cows up a dusty lane some four decades ago dreamed of the White House-every boy has a chance to be President we know. But how many boys dream of being a President's chief advisor and bossing seven billion dollars' worth of supplies for democracy?

Harry's father was a harness maker. He had a harness shop in Grinnell, Iowa, and it was in Iowa because Mrs. Hopkins was ambitious for her children and there was a college there. Harry earned cows, and then worked in the shop. Later he worked his way through college. Money never meant much for other people—in the Red Cross | my old-fashioned eyes.

When the blue eagle folded its wings, Henderson plowed his own furrow and got out of the way when he was not needed but always managed to bob up when he had a chance to say something important. He predicted the "bust" as he called it—the slump of 1937. In 1938 he warned against price rises. He kept warning. Prices went up. Now he is czar over prices.

Early Morning In a Nation's Capital

Six o'clock in the morning. From a Saturday to a Monday spring changed to summer in Washington, buds turned to blooms and bare branches burst out into fullleaved green.

In a city, the first walk under this newly spread canopy of green is a strange delight. There is nothing quite like it. Leafy curtains shut out the harsh, cold stone and steel about you as a drawn shade shuts out the night from a lamp-lit

At six in the morning there are so few people on the streets that the folks you pass seem as friendly as a neighbor you meet on a lonely lane. The red and green traffic lights still have their eyes closed and only the yellow bulbs blink sleepily at you as they have all night. But these days the sun is well up and as you walk west to east the light strikes you square in the eyes. It always reminds me of a prairie town and that always reminds me of how I was reminded of my prairie town when we used to be marching eastward in the dawn of a murky French morning when the sun suddenly burst on us and made us long for the old, wide-brimmed campaign hat instead of the little cloth rag of an overseas cap. You don't Between old, transmogrified residences rise the new apartments. Here and there are a few that sprang into being when 1917 filled the city with war workers.

The alternative was a one to three year term in the state prison at Waupun. Urge Farmers to Boost Output -The University of Wisconsin agriculture extension service said it believed wartime demands would cause shortage in easily transported foods and advised Wisconsin farmers to step up production of pork, eggs, beans, tomatoes and dairy products. More Cattle on Feed - An abundance of feed and favorable prices for cattle have resulted in an increase in the number of cattle on feed in Wisconsin, according to the state department of agriculture. Wisconsin feed lots have about 15 per cent more feeder cattle than a year Must Carry Draft Card-Amendlations making it mandatory for every draft registrant to carry his registration certificate at all times and to present it upon request of proper authorities was announced by Walter J. Wilde, state director of selective service.

Artillerymen Train at McCoy -Twenty-five hundred soldiers, including 1,400 Negro troopers, arrived at Camp McCoy from Fort Custer, Mich., to begin work with heavy guns on the McCoy artillery range. Death Claims John J. Esch-John J. Esch, 80, congressman from the seventh Wisconsin district from 1898 to 1920 and former member of the interstate commerce commission, died at his home in La Crosse. drivers' license bill providing for more stringent regulation of Wisconsin motorists was passed by the assembly, 73 to 10, and sent to the senate for consideration. The bill would require all motorists to obtain a new drivers' license by Nov. 1. New licenses would cost $1 and would have to be renewed every four years at a cost of 25 cents.

Many Draftees Turned Down-Percentage of Wisconsin selective service candidates rejected by army medical officers reached a new peak in April, state induction board headquarters in Milwaukee disclosed. Of 4,214 men sent to Milwaukee by local draft boards throughout the state during the month, 689, or slightly more than 16 per cent, were rejected after physical examination. This compares with 14 per cent in March, 9 per cent in February, and a national average of about 10 per

In an effort to obtain more definite proof, Colonel Flagwill sent Captain Benning, daring American intelligence officer, to the U. S. ambassador in Paris. Here he was told to impersonate Lieutenant Bromlitz, a former American officer who

"Sit down, Bromlitz," the other said without lowering his eyes. "I'm Van Hassek.

The Van Hassek uniform was the simple brownish-tinted cotton khaki of this new Mexican army. At the collar was a silver crescent, insignia of a lieutenant general. The only other ornaments on his severely plain uniform were a glittering order of merit at his left breast and, under it, the iron cross.

Some moments passed in which the only sound was the heavy ticking of an immense German clock and the vague hum of traffic in the street

"Perhaps you can tell me, Bromlitz," Van Hassek mused without change of voice or posture. "Yes, perhaps you can tell me."

A faint smile passed his thick lips as he went on: "I've just come up from the Salon de Espera on a lower floor of the palace where I've installed a hospital. Perhaps I should refer to it as my laboratory. In any event, no one ever leaves it alive, but they are only spies and traitors who must die by one means or another. For some months I've been watching them at the moment they leave the world, yet I'm more mystified now than ever. So you tell me, Bromlitz, if you can, is death the end of us?"

"Your pardon, Excellency," Benning answered. "I'm not a chap-

The other chuckled, and with a vitality in his mirth that was not that of an ailing man.

"The profession of arms is so vast and intricate, Bromlitz, I've given up all hopes of mastering it in detail," Van Hassek rejoined. "Besides, I find occasional diversion in other lines of thoughts. So many, many people must die of violence within the next year or two that I've been trying to satisfy myself whether that will be the end of them."

"You mean that many will die in war, I take it, sir," Benning suggest-

"Millions," Van Hassek answered, stifling a yawn. His pudgy arms thrust into the air over his head, his heels stretched forward, and he squirmed erect in his huge chair. "You were, I'm advised, an American army officer," Van Hassek said, now speaking briskly in German. "I'm told there are serious charges standing against you in the United States.

Benning said: "I hope you'll not judge me by that, General Van Hassek. Despite my past misfortunes I'm a soldier, sir, and hold the view that there is no other profession worthy of a man. That being so, when circumstances beyond my control placed a price on my head in one country, haven't I the right to find service in another?" "Ja, a soldier is always a soldier, Bromlitz," Van Hassek answered with an approving nod. "I enjoyed my three years in China as much as my station in Vienna; and Mexico is even more to my liking because there are big events shaping up. Tell me in your own way, Bromlitz, what you think of the Ameri-

Accepted as an officer by Van Hassek, Benning tries to obtain valuable military information for the U.S. army. Something he learns startles him. What is this great discovery?

Small Garden Fruits

In spite of the fascination inherent in the thought of having "one's own vine and fig tree," the matter of planting fruits on a small holding should be entered into with care. There are, however, a few small fruits which are rather easily grown and which come into bearing in a short time after planting-such for instance as blackberries, raspberries, strawberries and grapes. Plantings of these small fruits should be established as soon as possible after the vegetable garden has been planned and started.

It is wise to begin slowly with any fruit until one becomes familiar with its care. For the average family, 100 to 150 strawberry plants is enough for a beginning. RASPBERRIES

Raspberries are adapted, naturally, only to sections where the temperature does not ordinarily go lower than 15 degrees below zero. However, in very cold states, such as North Dakota and Minnesota, the fruit is successfully grown by laying the canes down in the fall and covering them with earth, uncovwealth and manpower are taken into ering them in the spring.

moisture. The plants should be set out in early spring, as soon as the soil can be worked. If the soil lacks humus, manure or decaying vegetable matter should be worked into it. Blackberries should be set in rows six to eight feet apart, the plants three to four feet apart in the rows. Blackberries require yearly thinning; if all the suckers are allowed to grow they will produce a dense thicket of canes. As with raspberries, some form of support is required.

GRAPES

One row of vines-eight or ten vines planted 12 feet apart-will supply the average family. One-year plants are generally used for planting. They must be supported on trellises or arbors and should have a reasonably rich, well-drained soil. At the beginning the soil should be enriched with fertilizer, and later the ground should receive top dressings of fertilizers and mulches of straw and other coarse materials.

For information as to varieties of small fuits to choose, and as to pruning and care, send ten cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1746.

PROTECTING POULTRY

Since the hawks and owls, in most cases, are valuable to the farmer in the destruction of insects and rodents, it is not desirable to slaughter them. For the protection of breeding flocks, therefore, the best plan is to keep sitting hens housed, and, when the brood is hatched, to keep both hen and chickens in a movable pen with attached wire. enclosed range. The coop should be entirely enclosed and so constructed that the hen and brood can be safely shut up at night. . . .

RESPIRATION I. PLANTS

Plants, like an mals, breathe continuously, day and night. When an animal breathes, he takes in oxygen and gives off carbon dioxide; when a plant breathes, it takes in carbon dioxide and gives off oxygen.

BLACK WILLOW

This, from the point of view of the lumberman, is the most important of all the willows, since it is the largest of them all. Its wood is used for boxes, charcoal, veneers, and artificial limbs.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE By ROGER B. WHITMAN

(@ Roger B. Whitman-WNU Service.)

QUESTION: Would it be advisable Hot Water Supply. to install a coil to heat water in the firebox of my oil burning furnace? The burner is of the rotary type. Is such a coil difficult to install, and does it in any way affect the heating of the home? There are 11 in our family, and we require an abundant supply of hot water.

Answer: I do not advise putting water heating coil in the firebox of a furnace, and especially in one with an oil burner. If your heater is hot air, you had better put in a separate pot stove, or laundry stove in which the temperature of the water can be controlled. You can get pot stoves that feed coal by a magazine or by a stoker, which are very satisfactory. It is quite possible that the modern type of storage water heater burning gas will serve your purpose. These are economical, and if you have not done so, I recommend asking your gas company for figures.

Damp Plaster.

Question: In damp weather the wall plaster in my old house sweats so that the paper becomes badly stained. Re-sizing and papering the walls does no good. Can we protect the paper by putting thin waterproofing on the plaster? Answer: Your house suffers from a trouble that is common to old houses; the placing of the inside plaster against the brick walls. With no air space between, as would be formed by putting the plaster on lath on furring strips, the plaster is chilled by contact with the outside walls, and sweating is the result. The trouble will continue as long as the plaster is colder than the house One remedy is to line the walls with stiff insulating board, or to re-lay the plaster over lath on furring strips.

Easing Out Skunks.

Question: We have a family of skunks living peacefully under the porch of our house. So far, everything is O. K.; but one never knows. I have been told that they can be eased out quietly by means of a liberal sprinkling all over the ground with moth flakes. Before using I wish to make sure whether or not the flakes are non-inflammable. Answer: The flakes are safe to use. If they were inflammable they would be risky to use in tightly closed containers for the storage of clothing. I have been told by those who know, that skunks have a strong objection to bright lights, and will break up housekeeping if an electric light bulb is hung where it will invade their privacy.

Asphalt Paint.

Question: Can asphalt roofing be painted with other than asphalt paint? Can I use a lead paint, if the roofing is first covered with shellac? Answer: Because the asphalt expands and contracts more readily than an oil paint, the oil paint is not advisable. This paint would eventually show cracks because of this difference in expansion. Shellac would not help. Use a paint with an asphalt base. Two-Car Garage. Question: I would be very interested in any information you can give me about building a two-car 20 by 20 foot wood garage in the Answer: You can get a pamphlet on garages from the Southern Pine association at New Orleans, La. This booklet will give you some worthwhile information on the construction of garages.

Bathroom Walls. Question: We are installing a basement bathroom. What inexpensive, but practical materials can we use for enclosing it? Answer: You can use plasterboard on a framework of two by fours. The inside surface must be protected against dampness, which you can do by covering it with heavy table oil-cloth, or wall-cloth finished with oil paint, hung with casein glue.

Yellowed Ivory. Question: How can yellow stains be removed from the ivory keys of a piano?

Answer: If the yellowing is of long standing, and has gone all the way through, nothing can be done. If it is only on the surface, try the effect of rubbing with powdered chalk dampened with denatured alcohol; bleaching with peroxide and hydrogen might also be effective.

Preserving Books. Question: Is it wise to put moth flakes or balls in a fine mahogany bookcase to keep book lice from the books? There are probably 500 books, and to sun all of them seems like a terrible job.

Answer: Yes; use the kind of moth killer made of paradichlorobenzene. Sprinkle generously around the back of the shelves, as well as the front.

Cleaning Artificial Leather.

Noting a reference to cleaning artificial leather, a correspondent recommends the removal of dust and dirt by washing with any mild soap and water. Then, after letting it dry thoroughly, "go over it with a soft cloth dipped in egg-white, and let dry. The stickiness will disappear. When egg white is first ap-will dry smooth." Breaking up the egg white by beating makes it easier to apply. Egg white is also an excellent finish for real leather.

LUKE AND ELMER ON SACRIFICE

Luke-I suppose you've heard the President's warnings on the sacrifices every American man and woman will have to meet now that the all-out aid program is in full swing. Elmer-Yes, and no truer word was ever spoken. But I doubt that more than one American in a thousand appreciates it. Luke-I hope it don't come to a point where I have to stay home

Americans who don't mind sacriflcing as long as it don't make 'em lay up the big car, shorten up the pleasure trips or cut down on the night club par-

Luke-Ain't a guy got a right to his own idea of what a sacrifice means?

Elmer-Not up to the point where he thinks it's strictly a baseball

Luke-You don't expect people to go around demanding a chance to sacrifice, do you?

Elmer-Not yet, but I think it will be strictly a routine impulse before the year is over. Mr. Roosevelt gave a plain warning in strong language, but he people still need to be stirred up to a full appreciation of what it all really means. This country has been in an atmosphere of marathon waltzing, express speedways, de luxe settings, special upholstery and bottle feeding for so many years that too many people still think it's a sacrifice to get up the first time the alarm goes off instead of waiting for the repeat.

Luke-I guess maybe you're right. I know some fellers who would think they was making the sacrifice of a lifetime if they had to work twenty minutes overtime in even a soft job like judging a Miss America contest. Elmer-And I could point out a lot of 'em who could applaud every word the President said on sacrifice and then set up a yelp if on their way downtown in an imperial limousine they got held up three minutes by a defense parade

Luke-I read where some guy made a squawk the other day because a new defense aviation base was so close to his golf course that it made him nervous while putting.

Elmer-You can find plenty of people who think a major sacrifice is involved if the government gives priority to the shipment of bombers as against pool tables and electric music boxes

Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

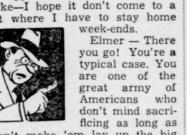

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!
