

Spotting Saboteurs

Plant parasites and diseases which come to America from foreign lands cost Uncle Sam about 3 billions per year. But the U. S. is busy trying to stop these saboteurs. A chain of plant quarantine stations has been established around our borders where incoming plants must pass rigid inspections. These photos take you to one of these "agricultural Ellis Islands" at Hoboken, N. J.

George Becker, chief entomologist at the Hoboken plant quarantine station, pointing to an enlarged picture of a new beetle, which is found in plants coming from South America.

Close Work... It takes a microscope to spot some species of bug and blight saboteurs. Chief Inspector Emil Kostal is examining imported plant material here.

Lethal Chamber... Workers of the quarantine station are removing cases of plants from a lethal chamber, where the insects with which the plants were infected were slain with gas fumes.

Reserve Banks Privately Owned
The Federal Reserve banks are privately owned. They operate under the Federal Reserve system, established by act of congress in 1913. The capital stock of these banks is entirely owned by the member banks, which include all national banks, and such state banks and trust companies as have voluntarily applied to the board of governors of the Federal Reserve system for membership and have been admitted to the system.

Sleep Walking
Sleep walking, nightmares, night terrors, and to a slight extent, talking in one's sleep, are signs of emotional disturbance. If sleep walking or terrors occur in children, their parents should ask the family physician or school principal to recommend a specialist who can clear up the emotional trouble before it becomes ingrained and difficult to adjust. Adults who talk or walk much in their sleep should also consult a specialist.

ABOUT THE TIME OF YEAR THE DOG-TAX OFFICIAL PUTS IN HIS ANNUAL APPEARANCE

THE PAPERS OF PRIVATE PURKEY

Dear Mom:
What I can't understand about the army is that know matter what I say is the matter with me the doctor gives me the same pill. At first I thought it was just a mistake but now I no different becuz yesterday when I complained of an ulcerated tooth I got the same pill I been getting for headaches, cramps, soar throate and a sty. I wish you would send me some pills of any kind. It don't matter what they are so long as they are different from the one I get here and I am inclosing one so you won't dupericate it.

I don't think the draft army takes sickness serious and in a way I can't blame it becuz men have been showing up for sick call by the hundreds on account of there are so many beautiful nurses in the camp hospital and it is the only way to get near them. All these guys get is another pill so I gess to get into a army hospital you have to have at lease a broken leg but I think they would first try a pill on me for that two.

We have had some nice warm days witch is a grate relief becuz ever since I was drafted I feel like I have been in the Klondike and I never knew it wuz so cold outdoors in winter befoar. But the ground is thawing out and so is the drill sergeant and everybody is happier than at any time since our numbers came out in that glass bowl. We see robins most every day now and we have let the fire go out in the stoves which we get in the modern draft camp and some of us are even taking our uniforms and shoes off when we go to bed.

I hoap the war is over before next winter as I am strickly a warm weather fighter I am afraid. If there is ever a expeditunary force this war covers so mutch territory that it has all climates and I hope my division gets sent to Africa and not to no place where there is snow and ice. The more I think of the past winter here in camp the more I appreciate what G. Washington went thru at Valley Foarge. We didn't cross no river in no open boat with a horse in the middle to interfere with the rowing but that was about the only difference I gess but do not think I am squawking moom.

We have lots of visitors now and I wish you would come up next Sunday. Nellie Armstead wuz up last Sunday and Kitty O'Neil wuz up Saturday and I had a close call as they both mite have come on the same day. The caferteria for visitors is wonderful just like those nickle-in-the-slot places and while the food may not be no better than in the army it is fancier looking and the cooks take more panes with it. Eating don't interest me so mutch no more moom on account of I have been doing kitchen work so mutch I can't think of eats without thinking of washing dishes or peeling potatous. I got to peel potatous agin tomorrow witch I don't understand becuz their must be plenty of other soldiers who are as good at it as me but I keep getting picked on and the mess sergeant says it is part of my vocational training.

It is funny the garage ain't found no customer for my jallopy as it is in good shape and had only been driven 200,000 miles and I told the man that I would knock $4 off my asking price of $45 on account of three tires don't hold air long and the right handed door is off. I wish you wud call him up and ask him to get $30 for it as I need money and there is another delay in the army pay.

Your loving son,
Oscar.
P. S.—I wrote Olive Johnson but didn't get no answer so I wish you wud see if she has moved away or what. Do not worry about me as I am all right except for two crushed toes where a Army saucer fell on my foot.

White uniforms have been abandoned for sailors in the U. S. navy when working on ship, and khaki substituted. The yachting influence has just about disappeared everywhere.

NEVER BELIEVE 'EM WHEN THEY SAY:

Buck Private.—I've got a date with a swell dame tonight.
Old-Timer.—I'll never enlist again if I get out of this.

Mess Sergeant.—You're getting what the menu calls for.

POP

She Gets the Idea
"Ethel," said the young man timidly. "Did you ever think of marrying?"
"No, Harry," replied Ethel, looking demurely at her shoe. "No, the subject has never entered my mind—never at all."
"I'm sorry," Harry said, turning away.
"One minute, Harry," called Ethel quickly. "You know you've set me thinking."

Sleep Unhealthy
"I never felt so punk in all my life."
"Do any drinking last night?"
"Yes, and when I went to bed I felt fine. But when I woke up I felt terrible. It was the sleep that did it."

The Only Girl
Carol—I am sure there are many girls who could make you happier than I could.
Jim—That's just the difficulty; they could but they won't.

TOO EARLY
"Has your wife got her spring outfit yet?"
"No, she's waitin' to see what Mrs. Smith springs first."

Sinful Behavior
Judge—Stop, my good woman. You are wasting the time of this court. More than half of what you have said is irrelevant.
Mrs. Guppy—Well, I do declare! That's a vice thing, and here I've been a regular church-goer all these years.

Excuse
Boss—James, I wish you wouldn't whistle while you work.
James—I wasn't working; I was just whistlin'.

Debt Repaid
Two friends were on a train which was held up. As the hold-up man came through the train taking cash and valuables from the passengers, one of the men became more and more nervous. Finally, with the robbers only a few seats away, he put his hand in his pocket. Taking out a crisp green bill, he held it out to his friend.
"Here, Sam," he said, "here's that ten dollars I owe you."

Can't Fool Him
First Boy—Can you spell "blind pig"?"
Second Boy—Yes, easy! Blind pig."
First Boy—That's wrong; you've missed the two "i"s."
Second Boy—Well, have you ever seen a blind pig with two eyes?"

Twin Beds Unnecessary
"Twin beds are all very well," said the blushing bride to the salesman in the furniture department, "but there is no use buying them until we get the twins."

Assortment of Frills, Jabots to Highlight Summer Fashions

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Colorful frills, frills! The call for frills and jabots and cascades of ruffles is as strong as ever in the wardrobe of the fashion-conscious woman throughout all fashion seasons.

Therefore, if you like to do dainty work, meet opportunity at your feet. Make your own frills, for, as every woman knows, nothing can add the exquisite touch as well as a frill to the neckline, whether it be hand-rolled hems, deft hemstitching or wee hand-run tucks.

It is almost unbelievable what a tremendous assortment of frills can be made from a yard or so of crisp, heavy organdy, exquisitely sheer muslin, or other dainty fabrics.

Take a look at the collection of frills here illustrated. By designing simple moments to the fascinating pastime of handrolling hems, ruffling, and tucks and so on, you can very easily fashion a wardrobe of fashionable frills. Being particularly handmade, they will wear perfectly.

The spotlight of fashion is on sheer organdy frills, either in collar form or as a dress as an actual frill. It does not take long to handroll a ruff. Like the one pictured in the circle in the upper left corner, you can edge it with a ruff of self organdy or lace. You should have at least one big frill in your collection.

A dramatic collar and cuff set, as the girl seated is wearing, is almost indispensable when it comes to accenting a navy or black dress. Note the new low-cut "plunging" neckline of the collar. The collar is lined with self organdy. Cut the frills, seam the wide frill in between, then turn and press and you will have no fraying edges. You can either hemstitch the frill or finish with a tiny rolled hem. Make the frill very full so that it will fall in sprightly ripples, as pictured. The same working directions apply to the cuffs. You can launder these collar and cuffs as often as you wish, and they will come out like new.

Simple indeed but very effective is the organdy frill worn demurely about a round snug-fitting neckline, as sketched. Emphasize the frilly effect with ruffling on the sleeves, as illustrated in the picture.

Bolero jackets take on a new look this season when they are collared with a frilled ruff, made of gleaming white organdy that goes rippling down each side of the front opening as the sketch here portrays. Try it! With scraps of the organdy left over, make yourself a scalloped collar with a wide frilled ruffle as suggested in the sketch.

Perhaps the most intriguing news of all is the frilled lingerie cascade that travels from the neckline to the hemline of the now-so-fashionable slim princess frock. The sketch in the group pictures the idea. To get best results, cut the ruffling on circular lines, and, if you finish the edge with a hand-rolled hem you will be delighted with the sheer loveliness of this cascade that falls from a sailor collar of the organdy on down to the very hemline of the dress.

Make a white organdy cascade to baste in the front of your simple basic gown. Duplicate this frill in pastel blue or pink or orchid organdy to wear "on occasion" with your afternoon dress.

Building a Cottage.

QUESTION: I am planning to build a small cottage, doing all the work myself. Starting now, I plan that in two months I can finish the externals, and complete the interior at leisure. Does this seem too short? My idea is a one-room cottage, with a garage, altogether about 17 by 25 feet. Can you suggest a list of books containing instructions for the different trades that will carry me through to the end of the project?

ANSWER: If you have had no experience in building, you are tackling a job that is bigger than I think you realize. I greatly doubt if two months would be enough for the exterior. For information on concrete, write to the Portland Cement Association, 347 Madison Avenue, New York city. The National Lumber Manufacturers association, Washington, D. C., has a very good pamphlet on the details of house framing. The large mail order houses issue instructions on plumbing and wiring. You should visit every house under construction that you can find, to see how the different materials are being put together. Before you start, you should be sure that the local building authorities approve of your plan and will let you go ahead.

New Shingles Over Old.

QUESTION: Should old wood shingles be removed before putting new ones on top? Are shingles that come in strips as satisfactory as single shingles?

ANSWER: New shingles should go on top of the old, not only to save the cost of tearing off and of clearing up the mess, but for the advantage of a roof with double thickness. Strip shingles are satisfactory, and should cost less in labor to apply.

Buying Furniture.

QUESTION: Where can I get information on what an inexperienced buyer of furniture should look for when he's out to get a bedroom set?

ANSWER: Much of the information you need is contained in a government bulletin entitled "Furniture Selection," Report No. 18, of the National Committee on Wood Utilization. Write to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, enclosing 10 cents in coin.

House Painting.

QUESTION: Which is the better time, spring or fall, to have a house painted?

ANSWER: A house should be painted during a dry spell, and at a time when the thermometer is at 50 degrees or higher; however, there should be no painting during hot weather. In spring, the paint is likely to be marred by flying insects, which are not so likely to be on hand in the fall.

Cracked Marble Floor.

QUESTION: How can I fill in or repair marble floors of halls four feet wide? In one case one side has dropped a little. We cannot put in a new floor.

ANSWER: The marble floor should be taken up and relaid. A new bed of cement can be put down that will bring the flooring to its proper level and will take up the crack. To a good floor man the job should be simple.

Defective Oil Burners.

QUESTION: Each of the burners in my range burner works perfectly by itself, but when both are on, one of them floods. What can I do about it?

ANSWER: As there may be any one of several causes, your surest course is to report the case to the store where you bought the burner, or to the manufacturer. Curing the trouble may need an examination by a service man.

Replastering.

QUESTION: We are doing some remodeling, and need to replaster several spaces about four by eight feet. What is mixed with the lime for a finishing coat, and in what proportion?

ANSWER: You can get ready mixed plaster from a dealer in mason materials, and will find it more satisfactory than a mixture to be made at home.

Oily Rags.

After using oily rags, it should be borne in mind that they may become a cause of spontaneous combustion. Oily rags should not be thrown into a corner or shut up in a closet; for they may develop enough heat to flame. After using, they should either be hung up in the open air where they can dry without developing heat, or else destroyed by burning.

Grease-Spattered Wall.

QUESTION: After removing grease spattered wallpaper, how should a kitchen wall be treated so that grease will not appear on new paper?

ANSWER: Wash the wall with a solution of washing soda in water, about half a pound to the gallon. Follow by rinsing with clear water, and allow to dry before papering.

Kitchen Table Top.

QUESTION: I have a long kitchen work table top of wood. It is unfinished. Please suggest the most practical finish to use on it. I would like a top that would prevent easy staining.

ANSWER: Clean the top of all grease and dirt by scrubbing it well with clear water. When the wood is dry, apply a soaking coat of wood preservative. After allowing the oil to soak into the wood for an hour or so, wipe off the surface oil. Then apply a coat of varnish. After three applications, the top will be highly resistant to staining.

BREAD TRICKS APLENTY!

(See Recipes Below)

'BREAD 'N' BUTTER'

Those new loaves of white bread featured on grocery store counters and in bakeries everywhere these days look just like the loaves of white bread you have been buying for years. But they're different—they've been "vitaminized."

"How?" you ask. Through the use of enriched flour—a wheat flour which contains added vitamins and minerals.

It was the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States department of agriculture which suggested, when flour standards here were under discussion, that fortified flour should contain a specified amount of vitamin B1 and of iron, and that nicotinic acid, riboflavin and calcium should be added.

Because American dietaries lack chiefly B-vitamins and iron, the accent was placed here. The law is that each pound of Enriched Flour must contain at least 1.66 milligrams of thiamin (B1); 6.15 milligrams of nicotinic acid (pellagra-preventing vitamin); and 6.15 milligrams of iron.

So, now in addition to being the most versatile and economical energy-yielding food, bread also provides, in economical form, additional nutrients essential to health.

And, since bread is the one food that probably appears more often than any other on the family menu, I'm going to give you a variety of new and interesting uses for this "health food."

A good sharp knife, a loaf of good baker's bread and your imagination will do wonders in developing, in your own kitchen, delicious creations that make your menus full of new life and interest.

Bread Patty Cakes.

Cut three rounds of sliced bread. Cut holes in two of them and place on the first slice. Brush with a mixture of egg and milk (1 egg slightly beaten plus 1/4 cup of milk) and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Bread Buttercrusts.

Remove the crusts from a loaf of uncut bread. Cut lengthwise slices from the loaf. Trim the slices so that they are about 1 1/2 inches wide and the ends pointed. Brush with

It's Picnic Time

Has winter made you forget the wonderful, carefree afternoons spent along sparkling streams or in sunny meadows, munching hot dogs, dipping into baked beans and ice cream? It's time to plan Sunday excursions and be lazy by eating off paper plates, with paper forks. And next week Lynn Chambers will delve into picnic atmosphere. Watch for her recipes of good things to eat out-of-doors!

Pinwheel Sandwiches.

Trim the crusts from a whole loaf of uncut bread; cut in lengthwise slices. Spread the slices with any desired spread of a creamy consistency. Roll the bread firmly the narrow way. Small stuffed olives, nut meats or hard cooked eggs make an attractive center for the roll. The rolls should be tightly wrapped in waxed paper and chilled in the refrigerator before slicing.

Croustades.

Trim crusts from two or three slices of bread, making even-size squares. Remove the centers from all but one slice. Dip in melted butter, and put together to form square cases for creamed food.

Checkerboard Sandwiches.

Remove the crusts and spread the slices with soft butter, and any sandwich spread of paste consistency. Then, alternating the slices, make two stacks of three slices each—one with a whole wheat slice between two white slices and the other with a white slice between two whole wheat slices. Next, cut the two stacks into half-inch slices. Spread with soft butter and another flavor spread, and alternate them again, making stacks of three-layer slices each. Press the stacks together, wrap each in wax paper and place in icebox to harden the butter. When ready to serve, cut crosswise into thin slices to give the checkerboard effect.

Sandwich Loaf.

Trim crusts from a sandwich loaf of bread and cut in four lengthwise slices. Spread each slice with soft-buttered filling. For the three different fillings necessary, use any good combinations of flavor and color, such as minced ham and pickle, a yellow cheese mixed with finely-chopped green pepper, chives, parsley or watercress, and chopped tomatoes and cucumbers, or a tuna or salmon mixture. Each of these fillings should be mixed with mayonnaise or softened butter so that it spreads easily. The loaf may be made several hours ahead of time if wrapped in waxed paper and kept in a cool place. Prior to serving, it is iced on top, sides and ends with cream cheese softened to spreading consistency with water, milk or mayonnaise. Garnish with slices of Stuffed Olive Sprigs of Parsley or Endive.

For serving, cut in thick slices. Serves 10 to 12.

LYNN SAYS:

Do your menus meet nutritive requirements, and appetite appeal, too? Careful, now. Here are 10 points on which to check your meals for appetite appeal:

1. Avoid repeating the same food in one meal.
2. Avoid serving more than one strongly flavored or highly seasoned food in a meal.
3. Avoid using too much of one type of food in a meal—such as spaghetti as a main dish and rice pudding for dessert.
4. Use as much texture contrast as possible—have some soft, some solid, and some crisp food in each meal.
5. Get flavor balance in your menus by serving some sweet, some bland, and some acid foods each meal.
6. Serve some hot and some cold foods each meal.
7. Serve foods whose colors look well together and avoid serving colorless foods in one meal.
8. Try to get contrast in size and shape in the foods served.
9. Serve leftovers in a new form.
10. Avoid serving the same food combinations too often. Serve some other tart fruit with your pork, instead of the stand-by applesauce.

Old Furniture Yields Needed Dollars

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN

A resourceful woman in a very average American community had a good idea that she has turned into needed dollars. Starting in her own attic, her business has now grown into a rented space in the business section. Her merchandise is second-hand baby furniture, carriages and such.

The idea came to her when she was on a clearing-out spree and wondered what to do with an outgrown high chair, play pen and cart. Certainly plenty of people ought to be able to use them—but who? And many attics around town must be full of perfectly good baby equipment—"just in the way and gathering dust." In a flurry of enthusiasm, she cleaned her pieces up, gave them a going over with fresh enamel and got her husband to replace lost screws, fix the wheels and casters. Then she advertised them in the classified section of the local paper and sold them the next day.

At a Profit.

That inspired her to scout around among her friends for more cast-off baby stuff which she bought, renovated and sold at a profit. Her attic "did" very well as a work shop in the beginning, but as she became established she needed more space and a more central location. Now she keeps a very full stock of second-hand baby furniture, carriages, pens, scales and such like—which are very dainty and clean by the time she's done them over.

Many women, wishing for a way to augment the family income, could carry on such a business right from home. Or the local P.-T. A. or the Woman's Society of the church could make money by starting a shop like this—they could get the old things donated, share the job of renovating them, take turns selling and clear a nice sum regularly for their organization.

Suitor Found the Girl of

That Understanding Type

For months he had been her devoted admirer. Now, at long last, he had collected up sufficient courage to ask her the most momentous of all questions.

"There are quite a lot of advantages in being a bachelor," he began, "but there comes a time when one longs for the companionship of another being—a being who will regard one as perfect, as an idol, whom one can treat as one's absolute property; who will be kind and faithful—"

To his delight he saw a sympathetic gleam in her eyes. "So you're thinking of buying a dog?" she said. "Do let me help you choose one!"

Are Women Better Shoppers than Men?

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electrical refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise and delight her family? Where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them—and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads advertisements, too!

RUPTURE
Shield Expert Here Again
E. J. MEINHARDI, widely known Expert of Chicago, will personally be in Sheboygan, Wis. at the Foeste Hotel, Friday only, May 23rd, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. and 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

MR. MEINHARDI says: The Meinhardt Shield is a tremendous improvement—well known for producing immediate results. It prevents the Rupture from protruding in 10 days on the average—regardless of size or location of Rupture and no matter how hard you work or strain. It has no leg straps or cumbersome arrangements. (No Surgery or Injection Treatments used.) Mr. Meinhardt has been coming here for 15 years.

Caution: If neglected—Rupture may cause weakness, backache, constipation, nervousness, stomach pains, etc., or sudden death from strangulation.

Men having large Ruptures which have returned after Surgical Operations or Injection Treatments are also invited. When all others fail—see MEINHARDI. He will be pleased to demonstrate to you privately without charge. (Only men invited.) White only.

Defendants.
The State of Wisconsin, to said Defendants, and each of them:
You are hereby summoned to appear within twenty days after service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and defend the above entitled action in the court aforesaid; and in case of your failure so to do, judgment will be rendered against you according to the demands of the complaint, of which a copy is herewith served upon you.

This action affects the title and is brought to maintain and establish title in the plaintiffs in and to the following described parcels of real estate, lying and being in the County of Washington and State of Wisconsin, to-wit:

PARCEL 1—That part of Lots 1 and 2 Block 3 of Nicholas Guth's Addition to Kewaskum, which is bounded and described as follows: Commencing at the northwest corner of said Lot 1 and running thence southeasterly along the westerly line of Lots 1 and 2, 159.20 feet, thence northeasterly 21 feet to an iron pin, thence northerly 120.50 feet to a point in the north line of said Lot 1, which said point is situated 99 feet east of the starting point, thence west on the north line of said lot 99 feet to the place of beginning.

PARCEL 2—That part of Lot 1 Block 3 of Nicholas Guth's Addition to Kewaskum and that part of the southwest quarter of the Northeast quarter of Section 9, Township 12 North of Range 19 East, which is bounded and described as follows: Commencing at a point in the north line of said Lot 1, which point is situated 99 feet east of the northwest corner of said Lot 1, thence east along the north line of said Lot 1, 51.00 feet, thence south 103 feet, thence west 21 feet, thence southwesterly 30.50 feet to a point 120.50 feet southerly of the starting point, thence northerly 120.50 feet to the place of beginning.

PARCEL 3—That part of the Southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of Section 9 Township 12 North, Range 19 East, which is bounded and described as follows: Commencing at a point in the north line of Lot 1 Block 3 of Nicholas Guth's Addition to Kewaskum, produced east, which said point is situated 150 feet east of the northwest corner of said Lot 1, thence east 45 feet, thence south 103 feet, thence west 49 feet, thence north 120 feet to the place of beginning.

Use Less Paint

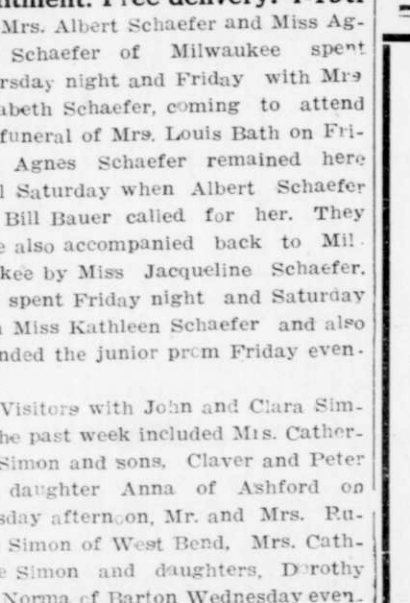

LOWE BROTHERS HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT contains less per square foot of surface painted and outlasts ordinary paints—both of these merits are due to its high quality. Some low-grade paints analyzed by recognized laboratories were found to contain 63% of water and other evaporating liquids. This left only 37% of film-forming solids to protect the surface. Low Brothers High Standard Liquid Paint contains 90% of protective film-forming solids. Be sure of better results and more pleasing effects before you paint. Come in and see Low Brothers Pictorial Color Chart showing actual painted reproductions of new and modern color schemes.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Washington Debates Use of Convoys As British Shipping Losses Mount; Stalin Becomes Premier of Russia, Openly Assumes National Leadership

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

A split in administration policy over the new tax program was indicated when Leon Henderson (above), government "price czar," testified before the house ways and means committee...

CONVOYS: Battle of Atlantic

Mounting British losses in the battle of the Atlantic put the issue of convoying strictly and squarely up to the administration in Washington...

of the Japanese with the eastern coast of South and Central America, as it would force these vessels to go around Cape Horn.

STALIN: In Saddle

One of the most interesting developments, yet one on which the analyst could almost "write his own ticket," was the assumption of Josef Stalin of the premiership of Soviet Russia.

The dictator of the Soviet has never before held political office, operating entirely behind the scenes, with others to wear such togas as may be passed around.

The commentators took every possible view of Stalin's assumption of personal office as head of the Russian state.

These views ranged all the way from an "about face" on the war, with Russia about to take an active role against Germany and Italy in the Near East...

It was a step down for Molotov, who went from premier back to foreign minister, a post he held before. Molotov was, perhaps, the finger pointing to the real reason for the change.

For it was the signing of this treaty that made Britain and France realize that their hope of encirclement of the Axis by land was vain...

The only official announcement came from Stalin, who said that Molotov was being relieved only after his own "repeated requests."

London was inclined to a somewhat more rosy view of the situation than that of Kerensky, saying: "Soviet Russia has refused to sign a further German pact, and has openly taken the stand that Bulgaria was wrong in so doing..."

No positive statement there, but a general view that the whole move is inspired by Soviet disquiet over German advances toward the Black Sea.

Washington, while silent as to the real significance, if, indeed it was known at all, saw three possible outcomes:

- 1. That Russia would merge the Communist party and the State into one whole, with Stalin at the head. 2. That Stalin would take over all power in the face of a German threat. 3. That Stalin would discard the old policy of Russia doing as she pleased, and surrender to complete collaboration with Germany.

BERLIN: German contacts in Iraq reported that the Iraq army was sadly short of ammunition, and charged the British, whom they are fighting, had left them short of bullets, not having delivered any ammunition in the past 18 months...

OAKLAND, CALIF.: The blind aid in the U. S. defense by working on pillow cases and trousers for soldiers. They also are making brooms for the army. One factory has $35,000 in orders.

Highlights in the news

LONDON: The exploit of a boat-swain of a sunken British destroyer was told. The man, swimming away from his sinking ship, encountered four German fliers in a rubber boat. He swam toward them, and when they threatened him with revolvers, he stabbed the boat with a clasp-knife, sinking it.

Joins Army

Hank Greenberg, brilliant Detroit outfielder, has been drafted into the army where he joins fellow Americans from every walk of life.

WAR: Vital Phases

It was evident that the war was entering several of its most vital phases, with Britain standing alone, though with constantly increasing American aid.

The battle was three-fold—the air fight over England, with the channel crossing threat behind it; the pincers move on the Mediterranean, especially Suez; the Battle of the Atlantic.

Over England

Hammer blows being struck at Britain by the Luftwaffe no longer were being shrugged off in dispatches as "some damage being done" or "some casualties feared," but dispatches from England told of most serious damage to Plymouth, which was practically ruined; to Liverpool, to Belfast, to the Clyde-side, all of them much more vital to Britain's defense than the smashing attacks on London and the Thames estuary.

Apparently paying little attention to the industrial Midland section of England, Hitler thus was centering his attacks on ports, ports and more ports, apparently seeking to tie in the battle of England with the battle of the Atlantic, rather than to concentrate on a general air blitz against England's factories and her industrial production.

Another development was the constant increase of day fighting over the channel, regarded in many quarters as a trial balloon to an invasion attempt as soon as midsummer calmer weather should arrive.

As always, the defense of Britain found its echo in this country, and the change in the method of Luftwaffe attacks on England found President Roosevelt issuing an urgent appeal, practically a command, to the air industry to concentrate on the production of the largest possible bombing planes.

OPM said that America should produce 20,000 military planes in the 12 months to come, but Mr. Roosevelt seemed to feel that a change in type would be needed.

In fact, he conditioned the eventual mastery of the air by Britain on the American production of these very large bombers, and said that they must be built even if it means enlarging plants further.

MEDITERRANEAN: Also Important

The battle of the Mediterranean was no less vital and no less active than the battle of England. For on the eastern front the British found themselves, after the withdrawal from Greece, with new problems on their hands.

The Iraq coup left them with the possible loss of the Mosul oil fields, and the all-important pipeline from Kirkuk to Haifa falling into the hands of the Nazi-inspired Iraq government of Gailani.

The British swiftly landed an expeditionary force, shot it inland, and sent reinforcements. Yet it was obvious that the trouble in Moslem Asia Minor was on the increase, with the French in Syria frankly throwing up their hands and saying that they were unable to quell disturbances on the part of Arabs there.

And so did Egypt, but though there was religious unity in those directions, there was little unity of purpose, and it looked as though Britain would have to fight for her oil or give up and get oil somewhere else.

The prospect also was dark because of the menace of German aid to the Iraq, which might make the pipeline untenable even if the British get full control of it.

SAILOR: Round-Up

Considerable excitement was occasioned by the immigration department's roundup of all German sailors on charges that they had "overstayed their leave."

The government never has been strict with them. But it was significant that the roundup followed a Washington release by many correspondents which stated that there has been a systematic sabotage of regular shipping.

The next day after the publication of this story, all Nazi seamen on shore were promptly arrested.

Most analysts said that it was a case of two and two making four.

There had been several scores of these men in the United States since the fall of 1939, when the oil company employing them had ordered them all off their ships.

Wickard's Policies Studied By Farmers, Consumers

Both Groups Decry Price Fixing Program; Wayne Coy Appointed to 'Chaperon' Federal Defense Budget.

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard has discovered that he has been elected chief devil by the leaders of two large groups of Americans—farmers and consumers. You know you cannot be a successful group leader of any kind unless you have a devil to fight.

And so the otherwise genial gentleman who runs the department of agriculture has learned something new. It is something that all news and editorial writers and all radio commentators know: namely, that if you can make both sides in any controversy mad you can sleep with a pretty clear conscience because that means you are walking a fairly just and middle course.

In Secretary Wickard's case the farm group leaders say he is forcing down prices. They say he has deserted his own and gone consumer-minded. They say this because he announced on April 3 that the government would support prices of hogs and poultry and eggs in the open markets at certain prices. These prices are somewhat below the level of the so-called "parity prices" and that is one reason why he is a devil to farmers.

Parity prices, as all farmers know, were established in the twenties and were written into the agricultural adjustment acts in 1933 and 1938.

These prices were established in this way: The prices the farmer had to pay for the things he bought and the prices which he got for the things he sold in the years 1910 to 1914 were averaged. That ratio thus established was accepted by farm leaders as a goal to shoot at in the long fight in the twenties when agriculture tried to obtain legislation which would give it an equitable share in the national wealth. Later the parity figures were recognized by congress in the drafting of the agricultural acts, the purpose of which was to obtain for the farmer a decent return for his efforts by adjusting supply and consuming power as a part of the recovery program following the depression.

Desires Higher Prices.

Now Secretary Wickard wants prices to go up. He does not say how far. All he says is that the government will support a price up to a figure which, admittedly is below the parity prices but higher than they were when he made the announcement and as high as his advisors felt the present situation required.

He has received plenty of complaints and what is more he has encouraged complaints by saying that he would take full responsibility for his action.

Now we know that one man's meat is another man's poison. Prices that are not high enough for the farm leaders are too high for the consumer group leaders. It gives them a fine opportunity to get together and chant: "In a crisis you mustn't boost prices."

The dead cats from both camps fill the air and all Secretary Wickard has to do is duck with a quick eye and a clear conscience.

And, incidentally, he is getting a few moribund felines that are really for Leon Henderson whose job is price fixing under the OEM. Mr. Henderson announced that farm machinery should not sell for any more than it did in the first quarter of this year. And immediately the department of agriculture received a flood of letters which, instead of saying "hurrah for our side," said that Mr. Wickard was letting his colleague, Mr. Henderson, get away with murder by fixing the cost of farm machinery at what the writers say is already exorbitant.

And so nobody is exactly happy but the unhappiness, according to the Wickard (including his own) is fairly equitably distributed!

President Appoints Coy To 'Chaperon' Budget

A little over a decade ago a young Hoosier from the town of Franklin moved to Delphi, Ind., not with the idea of becoming a Delphic oracle but to run a newspaper. He bought the Citizen and met a lot of other citizens around the court house and over at the post office.

Today, former assistant Federal Security Administrator Wayne Coy is executive assistant to the President of the United States with the job of chaperoning the biggest peacetime defense budget in history. He was recently made liaison officer for the Office of Emergency Management.

Mr. Coy has just moved from his office in the Federal Security Administration building into a corner of the state department, with one end of the hall screened off for a secretary. But his quarters do not concern him. He is used to making himself at home where he can hang his hat.

Just what a President's executive assistant does is not easy to describe. He is supposed to have "a passion for anonymity" and likewise a passion for keeping quiet. His function is to take as many details of the President's mind as possible, through his messages and give other officials as many right answers as possible. In other words, help them settle problems about which otherwise they would insist on talking to the President.

Before a budget is accepted there must first be hearings before the bureau of the budget where the various departments present their needs. Then there are the congressional committee hearings. Today, with a whole new layer of defense agencies spread over the regular departments and divisions and sections it is easy to see that Mr. Coy, as liaison man for the whole Office of Emergency Management which is the over-all holding company for defense has plenty on his hands. He knows his budgets for he worked in the bureau of the budget himself and he had already had plenty of administrative experience before he reached Washington.

Supported McNutt. Everybody in Indiana knows that Wayne Coy was the man behind McNutt. He left the Delphi Citizen to become McNutt's secretary when "handsome Paul" was governor of Indiana in 1933.

When the governor became high commissioner of the Philippines, Coy went along. He returned to run the presidential campaign for his boss. Earlier, when he was state relief administrator, he had met Harry Hopkins. At the Democratic convention in Chicago last summer he met him again. This time Harry was engineering the third-term nomination and Coy and his boss had to step back. But Coy and Hopkins are still close friends. That helps in the present job with Hopkins, virtual first assistant to the President. Harry can answer a lot of Wayne's questions without bothering the Chief.

Wayne Coy started out when he was in high school to be a newspaper man. He was a reporter on the local paper in Franklin before he became a publisher in his own right in Delphi.

I talked with him as he sat in his temporary office in the state Federal Reserve building with its marble panels and its indirect lighting—quite a contrast to the office of a weekly newspaper. Naturally I asked him if his editorial experience had been any help in his present job.

"Here in Washington too many people forget the people in the country seats. My experience has helped me to visualize programs in terms of people. That helped me especially when I was in the Social Security administration. It helps you to see that your administration is carried on the federal government is to carry on at the state level. At this point a secretary popped in. "Brigadier General Watson on the phone," she said. "Hello, Pop," said Coy. I knew this was going to be a very private conversation. Presidential Assistant Coy was going to talk with Presidential aide Watson (known to his intimates as "pop") about affairs of state. I left the ex-editor to his new job.

LEAVES from Uncle Sam's Notebook

Perennials No one would question the value of the annuals for low borders along garden walks, for plantings in formal beds, or for the production of cut flowers; the very fact that they are annual, and that, therefore, a new choice in colors, in the size of plants, and in fragrance and bloom can be made each year, is one of their charms: Nevertheless, many garden-lovers simply do not have time to devote to the yearly choosing of seeds, the yearly planting and care demanded by the annuals, and for such the perennials are especially suited.

The herbaceous perennials (so-called because their stalks are not woody as are the stalks of shrubs, but are soft and fleshy, and die down every year with the recurrence of the frosts) are suited to many locations. They are used among shrub plantings to give color and brightness; they are happily placed along walls and fences which provide a background suited to their dignity and charm; some of them do well in shade, others in full sun, and still others are especially adapted to rock gardens or as borders about lily pools and fish ponds.

SOIL AND CULTURE From perennials, as from nearly all garden plants, the results in growth and bloom will vary directly with the richness of the soil and the care taken in its preparation. The garden or border where they are to be planted should be spaded to a depth of at least two feet and should be enriched with a liberal supply of well-rotted barnyard manure. It is well to add, also, a quantity of ground bone, tankage, or cottonseed meal. Perennials make a heavy growth of stalk, foliage and bloom each year and must be supplied with the wherewithal for such growth. I the spot where planting is to take place is definitely poor in drainage it will be necessary to drain by artificial means, but as a rule it is sufficient to place at the bottom of the prepared soil a layer of stones or broken pots to prevent water standing around the roots.

SPRING VERSUS FALL Whether to transplant in spring or in fall depends upon local conditions. If winters are mild and where the soil is light enough so that it will not heave badly under frost, fall planting is advisable; if, on the contrary, winters are severe and the soil is subject to considerable heaving by reason of frost, no transplanting should be done until settled weather in spring. In cold climates, a mulch is needed for protection from excessive cold and in such localities it is advisable to leave the dead tops and stalks where they lie, to hold mulches and snow, deferring the cleaning up of the planting until spring. This sort of treatment may leave your garden looking a bit frosty during the winter, but it will result in better growth and bloom the succeeding year.

WHERE TO PLANT Since perennials, to show their greatest beauty, need some sort of background, the usual plan is to plant them against low stone walls or fences, in the narrow space between a walk and the wall of the house, flanking the walls of outbuildings, or against a vine-covered trellis used to screen some unsightly view. What could be lovelier than a row of flaming hollyhocks bulwarked by a gray wall of stone or cement? Or a vine-covered pergola banked with phlox, with day lilies, or with the handsome Rudbeckias—the "black-eyed Susan"? Or a narrow border between the service walk and the north side of the house, where wild perennials—ferns, anemones, wild blue phlox, crow-foot violets and columbine grow with all the air of having chosen the spot for themselves? Or what could so gladden the heart of the owner as to go out, in the very earliest spring, to find the bulbs, planted among the shrubbery or along the garden fence, already sending up their bright green shoots? The writer has seen, in northern latitudes, gay narcissi and hyacinths blooming unabashed in the snow of a late spring storm. Then too, the perennials, spreading as they do, and growing more vigorous year by year, give a charming air of permanence, an atmosphere of home, sweet home, to any place to which they have been welcomed. After perennials have become well established, new plants may be had by frequent root division and replanting, and operation which must be performed in the spring.

For further information concerning herbaceous perennials, send 10c to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1382.

COVER CROPS FOR TRUCK GARDENER For truck crops it is advisable to select a type of cover crop which will produce a rapid, luxuriant growth early in fall, will then serve as a winter mulch and can be turned under in February or March.

HANDLING BABY TROUT Did you know that a baby trout must not be touched with dry hands? To do so is to rub the slime from his speckled sides and this will result in the death of the tiny fish.

THE VISION OF BIRDS It has been demonstrated that the vision of birds is far superior to that of mammals, including man. To approach wild birds it is, therefore, necessary to take advantage of every bit of cover and to keep a screen of branches or grasses before the face.

PREPONDERANCE OF INSECTS It is said that the number of species of insects in the world is greater than the number of species of all the other animals taken together.

gross and the general public failed to realize the significance of the troops. To obtain more definite proof, Captain Benning, American intelligence officer, went to Mexico City where he posed as Bromlitz, former American army officer who had been captured in Paris after turning traitor to the United States. After a brief interview with Van Hassek, leader of the foreign armed forces in Mexico, Benning was accepted as a staff member. Here he strove to gain the confidence of Fincke, an enemy officer. Now continue with the story.

Mademoiselle, now that your identity has been established to our satisfaction, you're welcome in Mexico. If your Heinie doesn't treat you as he should, my little cabbage, just you come back and report the facts to me!"

Mademoiselle threw her arms gratefully about Van Hassek's flabby neck and kissed him on his cheek. Then she turned to Benning, linked her arm in his and gleefully took him out of the room. In the street Benning called a taxicab and drove to the Alameda, where he picked out a seat under a shady cypress.

"What is it you want here, mademoiselle?" he bluntly demanded. "Information," she replied crisply. "Naturally, my government sent me."

"I should have guessed they had something like this in mind," she complained. "But why do you wish yourself off on me?"

"There are excellent reasons," she answered, regarding him with a level smile. "For one thing we are both after the same information and ought to be able to help each other."

Benning had decided that inevitably he must accept the French girl as an associate, since he was already in the palm of her hand if by caprice or stupidity she betrayed his masquerade.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

However, if tonsils are not infected, they are really assets to health as they act as filters and prevent harmful organisms from entering the blood. Thus tonsils have been likened to the strainer on a water tap. If the strainer is clean and free of dirt, it prevents dirt getting into the drinking water. If the strainer gets clogged with dirt, then some of this dirt can get into the drinking water and cause trouble.

Findings on Tonsil Removal. At frequent intervals, Dr. Albert D. Kaiser, Rochester, N. Y., has been publishing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, his findings as to the effects of removal of tonsils on the health of the child. As chairman of the Section on Children's Diseases, he presents figures for the last 10 years. He finds that about 50 per cent of children today have their tonsils removed, which, in his opinion, is too large a percentage. From his findings he suggests:

Where tonsils are enlarged and frequently inflamed, giving rise to attacks of tonsillitis and enlargement of glands of neck, tonsils should be removed.

Where there are attacks of tonsillitis followed by rheumatic symptoms, tonsils should be removed.

Such infections as the common cold, middle ear and sinus are not usually prevented by removal of tonsils.

Remember, large tonsils should be removed if they are interfering with breathing.

Pros and Cons Of Pasteurization

THE headmaster of a preparatory school that obtained its milk from its farm was urged by parents to have the milk pasteurized.

In an attempt to get at the amount of loss of vitamins by pasteurization, the headmaster wrote various health departments and private chemists. From some he obtained figures showing only 5 to 10 per cent loss of vitamins by pasteurization and others as high as 50 per cent.

All replies admitted, however, that pasteurization made the milk safe to use, which could not be said of unpasteurized milk. The headmaster, after due consideration and in conference with his dietitian decided that safety was more important than food value, particularly in his school, because any loss in vitamins in the milk was more than made up by the great amount of fresh fruit and vegetables from the farm.

What are believed to be reliable figures about loss of vitamins by pasteurization (heating the milk) appeared recently in an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association. From experiments in laboratories of high standing, the figures show that from 20 to 25 per cent of vitamin B1 (useful for tired nerves, lack of appetite, and rheumatism) vitamin C (which prevents scurvy) and iodine (which prevents early goiter) was lost by pasteurization. All the other nutritive or food substances of milk are apparently not affected by pasteurization.

From the above it can be seen that pasteurization destroys some of the vitamins are correct, but the loss, 20 to 25 per cent, is not as important as the safety of the milk. As Dr. Gilman Thompson pointed out some years ago, unclean milk causes more illness than any other one thing.

QUESTION BOX
Q.—Is diverticulosis considered an uncommon ailment? Please suggest a remedy.
A.—Diverticulosis is not uncommon. No symptoms in most cases. Paraffin oil to keep wastes lubricated. Severe cases may require operation.
Q.—Is it possible for nerves to cause actual pain in arms and legs?
A.—Symptoms are likely due to neuritis; could be caused by some low infection of teeth or other part.
Q.—What would you suggest to remedy hyperacidity? I am troubled with it continuously.
A.—Dizziness, gas indigestion are due in most cases to a sluggish liver and gall bladder. If you are thin, nervous and a worrier and have hyperacidity you should have X-rays and see if an ulcer is beginning to form.
Q.—My two-month-old baby has a hydrocele. Is this a serious condition and how can it be remedied?
A.—It is not a serious condition. Operation can be done at any time convenient to you.

Little Herbert Was There To Give the Game Away!

On arriving home father found a foreign coin resembling a quarter in his small change, so he went out to do a little shopping, taking Herbert, aged five, along. He went to the grocer's, and the grocer, looking at the coin, said with an air of surprise, "Why, this is not United States money!"

So the man went to the drug-gist's, and there tendered the coin. The druggist informed him that the coin was of foreign extraction. "Good heavens, so it is!" exclaimed the father. "I wonder where I got that?"

"Don't you know, dad?" spoke up Herbert. "That's the one the grocer wouldn't take!"

NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

A SIMPLE MANTEL FACING AND IRREGULAR LINES FOR CURTAINS, PICTURES AND SHELF ARRANGEMENT

WALL SPACE BROKEN UP IN TOO MANY RECTANGLES

SMALL windows and book shelves at the sides of a fireplace often create a monotonous series of rectangles. Watch out for them for they play an important part in decorating plans. You see them here in the small sketch—six of them—window; over-mantel space; window; book shelves; mantel; book shelves.

The only architectural change shown in the large sketch was a mantel facing built of three boards and simple moldings. This broke up one rectangle. Irregular lines softened the angles of two more. A large picture or mirror over the mantel just added still another rectangle, so small prints were hung with ribbons. The arrangement of vines, books and bibelots on the shelves took care of the rest. It required a lot of experimenting but as soon as it was discovered that irregular lines were the key to the problem all went smoothly.

NOTE: Directions for cutting and making the swag draperies shown in today's sketch may be found on page 17 of Book 1, in the series of service booklets offered with these articles. Also book 7 is now ready for mailing. It contains more than 30 of these home-making ideas with step-by-step directions for each; as well as a description of the series. I HAVE had the opportunity of examining the boys in three private preparatory schools and in one school where boys were of the underprivileged class. I found that the great majority of the boys in the private schools had had their tonsils removed, while the majority of the underprivileged boys still had their tonsils.

Today, physicians are not advising the removal of tonsils so readily as in previous years. The fact that tonsils are large or white spots does not now mean removal. Where tonsils are large, show evidence of infection and the child has frequent sore throats, removal is advised. Infected tonsils are a liability as they can cause infection.

However, if tonsils are not infected, they are really assets to health as they act as filters and prevent harmful organisms from entering the blood. Thus tonsils have been likened to the strainer on a water tap. If the strainer is clean and free of dirt, it prevents dirt getting into the drinking water. There was a catlike animation in Van Hassek's one straight eye that puzzled Benning. The peculiar smile on the general's thick lips was equally baffling.

"Sit down, Bromlitz, I want to talk to you," Van Hassek invited. "Tell me, are you very much in love?"

Benning blinked at the amazing query, then smiled back with a shake of his head. "There was a young lady in Luxembourg, eh?"

Benning's mind instantly picked up the Van Hassek purport and he confessed, "Yes, Excellency."

CHIEFTAIN
The Chieftain was completed last week and is now on sale. Each year we try to improve it by adding some new feature. This year the cover designs were made by Mildred Backhaus while general editorship was done by Rita Feltenz. Under the directorship of Miss Browne, to whom it was dedicated, the Chieftain staff pasted over 5,000 pictures and cut a great many stencils. The entire product is worthy of praise.

GIRLS' CHORUS
The girls' chorus was happy to learn that they received an A rating as a result of the district contest at Plymouth last Saturday. Despite the fact that it was the morning after the prom, the girls put forth every effort to do their best and somehow feel that they succeeded.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB PARTY
With the completion of another year of singing, a party will be staged by the girls' chorus on May 27. The entire group will go by bus and train (the bus won't carry all of them) to the show in West Bend. Under the direction of Misses Lorenz and Dachenbach, the chorus work this year has been enjoyed very much by all those participating.

BALL TEAM BEATS BELLES
AGAIN IN TWO HIT GAME

K. H. S. traveled to Campbellsport and again beat the Belles, 3 to 1, Smith holding the Belles to an infield hit. At the end of the fifth Coach Gibson gave Brauchle his first test of pitching, and Whitey also held the Belles to one hit. Brauchle also took batting honors with three for four.

Runs batted in—Brauchle, Krautkramer 5, Reindel, Errors—Krautkramer, Tessar, Darmody, Strupp, Bremser, Heldt.

DID YOU KNOW
That Phyllis Horn got a grand idea in the restaurant at Plymouth, but it didn't work?
That "Hank's" car has a new nick-name? (Sway-back) No kidding.
That two senior girls had an interesting chat with Miss Busch at Plymouth?
That the prom wore out many of the K. H. S. girls? It was very noticeable Saturday on the way home from Plymouth.
That "Kraut's" car got the shimmies on the way to Plymouth? (or was it "Kraut")?
That the Chieftain is being auto-graphed?
That Ollie tripped the light fantastic at the prom with Lillian?
That Bobby B said he was still dancing when he drove to Plymouth on Saturday?
That Shirley enjoyed dancing with a certain boy from Campbellsport?
That Constance likes to dance with a certain boy named Henry Kemp?
That the senior class play is this Friday and Saturday?

INTERMEDIATE STUDENTS
ENJOY TRIP TO MADISON
Everyone enjoyed their trip to Madison very much. The twenty children drove to Madison in four cars. Our drivers were Mrs. Schaefer, Mrs. Kadinger, Rev. Gadow and Mr. Rose. We arrived in Madison about ten o'clock, at which time we went directly to the stock pavilion for the rehearsal for the festival. At twelve o'clock we ate our dinner on the campus directly across from the stock pavilion. At 1:15 we had to be back in the pavilion. Our broadcast took place at 1:30. At 2:00 we all walked up to observatory hill to hear Mr. Wentworth play the carillons. He played some of the songs we learned this year.

Our next stop was at Villas zoo. After we had seen many of the animals we spied the camels. Here we discovered they were giving free rides. Many of us had rides on the camels which proved to be quite an adventure.
We wrote letters to Prof. Gordon this week telling him about the good time we had in Madison.
Marilyn Krueger received an honorable mention card from "Let's Draw" for her picture "Making Faces."

29 MILLION!
A record never before approached!

★When the 29,000,000th Ford rolled recently from the assembly line, an all-time record for the industry was set. 29,000,000 units built by the same management and all bearing one name—a name that has become one of the best-known trade-marks in the world!
It is significant that this achievement comes at a time when our country is making a mighty effort to re-arm swiftly. For to further that effort, to help speed it along in any possible way, we have offered the vast facilities of the Rouge Plant and every ounce of our experience.
As you read this, a new $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine plant, started only last fall, is nearly completed. A new magnesium alloy plant, one of the few in the country, is already in production on lightweight airplane engine castings. Work is right now under way on a new $18,000,000 plant for mass production of big bomber assemblies. Orders have been filled for military vehicles of several types, including army reconnaissance cars, staff cars and bomb service trucks.
In the midst of this activity for National Defense, building the 29 millionth Ford car is simply one part of the day's work.
The public has acclaimed the 1941 Ford car as the finest in Ford history. Ford Dealers are enjoying their greatest sales and expecting their best year since 1937.
It is good to be producing the things America needs, and to be setting records on the way!
