Mr. Buss, Others Called in Death

Richard Schmitt, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schmitt, was seriously injured at about 10:45 p. m. Saturday when a motorcycle driven by Clarence Schmitt, with whom he was riding, was struck by another motorcycle driven by Eldon Rauch on Highway W near Lake Bernice at Elmore. All of the young men are from Elmore, R. I. Campbellsport. Richard was thrown from the cycle in the crash which occurred as Clarence Schmitt, who was driving west on the county road, had almost completed a U-turn when he was struck by the other vehicle.

Richard is reported to still be in a serious condition at St. Agnes hospital. Fond du Lac, where he was taken after the accident. He sustained a compound fracture of the hip, deep lacerations on his leg, cuts and bruises and lost a great amount of blood. He was given a transfusion at the hospital Monday. Clarence Schmitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmitt, suffered a leg injury which will confine him to his home for some time. Rauch escaped with bruises.

Eberle's Princess Winner Again in Fond du Lac Show

Eberle's Princess, beagle hound owned by Joe Eberle of this village, president of the Wisconsin Beagle club, which already has won prizes all over the state and in neighboring states this year, again was top dog in the sporting hound group in the fourth annual dog show of the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club held Sunday at the county highway department garage on Dixie street in Fond du Lac.

Eberle's Princess was awarded three trophies and several blue ribbons at the show. Besides winning a trophy as the best beagle in the show the little dog topped a $25.00 trophy for the best dog in the sporting dog hounds group. Entered in this group were fox hounds, dachshunds, coon hounds, African and beagle hounds. Entries in the show totaled 276 and paid attendance was 475, which does not include trainers and handlers.

Features By Menominee Indians Expected to Draw Huge Crowds to Firemen's Doings on Sunday

Mammoth Parade to be Followed by Bigger, Better Picnic With Amusements, Concessions, Bands and Attractions; $100 Prize Drawing and Dance in Evening; Free Admission to Park

The Kewaskum firemen have worked hard and completed all arrangements to make their third annual picnic and mammoth celebration in the beautiful village park Sunday, July 13, bigger and better than ever. Barring bad weather it should be one of the biggest events ever held here and according to advance word from neighboring towns large numbers of people are eagerly looking forward to coming Sunday. The picnic has been thoroughly advertised and thousands of people are expected.

Because the firemen want everyone to have an enjoyable time admission to the park and parking will be FREE all day. The firemen have proven themselves capable entertainers and deserve the support of the entire surrounding community. Don't fall them Sunday, there'll be plenty of genuine entertainment, something doing every minute, no dull moments, so come early, stay all day. And don't forget the kiddies. They'll really get a thrill out of seeing the Menominee Indians whoop it up.

The festivities will start right off with a feature at 1 p. m. when the long, colorful street parade will get underway. The parade will be as big as any held in the past. Although not having as many outside bands and other units as the mammoth one at last year's Badger firemen's tournament, it will have more floats and other local units to make it fully as colorful and interesting. The line of march will extend for nearly a mile. Last year a special parade was held for the kiddies but this year they will join in the main parade with their colorfully decorated bikes, wagons and other vehicles to make one grand spectacle of it. Folks who saw last year's two parades won't want to miss the one Sunday.

The parade will form on the high school grounds. The line of march will proceed west on Second street, south on Fond du Lac avenue, east on Main street and then south on East Water into the park. All participating in the parade should be at the school grounds at 12:30 p. m. Local merchants have cooperated splendidly and many beautiful floats are assured. Others are invited. The firemen request the businessmen and residents to get into the spirit of things by displaying the flag and decorating their buildings.

The parade will include the officer of the day, banner and flag bearers, American Legion members, Boy, Girl and Brownie Scouts, many horses, ponies, and motorcycles, fire department equipment, Menominee All-Indian band, Little Jim Wolfe of Neopit and his Indian pow-wow group of 20 Indians, Kewaskum Community band of 35 pieces, floats and decorated cars, bicycles, wagons, etc.

The feature in the park during the afternoon and again in the evening will be the appearance of 50 Indians from the Menominee Indian reservation at Keshena, near Shawano. The famous Indian band of 25 pieces will play. The drum is led by a beautiful Indian girl brand majorette. Besides the band 20 or more additional Indians will put on a genuine Indian pow-wow and 11 other native dances. The pow-wows will be led by Little Jim Wolfe of Neopit. A real Indian wedding ceremony will be performed in which a young buck will take unto himself a squaw for his bride. Angus F. Lockaroud is director of the band and the manager is James G. Frechette of Keshena. Look-around is a famous director and musician and has played in bands all over the country and in foreign countries, as well as directing. This band is always in demand and the firemen were fortunate in securing them.

The pow-wow and dances will have all the Indians in buckskin and war paint. Dances to be staged include the Friendship, Snake, Pipe, Squaw, Harvest Time, Southwind, Brave Man, Squaw, Fish, Feather and Forty-nine dances. It is worth coming a long distance just to see these Indians perform and hear their blood-curdling war whoops. These Indians never appeared in this vicinity and will provide something different in attractions. The firemen have gone to considerable expense in booking them and know everyone will enjoy the feature. What's more the Indians' performances are free.

BUS, TEXTBOOK PROBLEMS UP FOR SCHOOL MEETING

The annual meeting of the electors of School District No. 5 of the Village of Kewaskum will be held at the high school on Monday, July 14th, at eight p. m. for the election of officers and for the transaction of such other business as shall come before the meeting. The following resolution will be placed before the meeting:

BE IT RESOLVED that the land used for street purposes and which is now designated as School street (running north between 1st and 2nd streets) in the village of Kewaskum, Washington county, Wisconsin, shall be conveyed by the school board of the village of Kewaskum to the village of Kewaskum, a Wisconsin municipality, for street purposes.

The school bus problem and the advisability of furnishing free text books will be thoroughly discussed so the meeting should be well attended.

KITCHEN SHOWER GIVEN IN MISS RUTH KOEPEL'S HONOR

Mrs. Marvin Schaefer of this village was hostess at a kitchen shower honoring Miss Ruth Koepsel of Milwaukee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Koepsel of Wayne, at the Koepsel home last Thursday evening. About 12 guests, including relatives, friends and classmates of Miss Koepsel from Kewaskum and neighboring cities were present. The game of "hearts" was played and prizes were awarded to the winners. This was followed by a dainty lunch. The bride-to-be, who will be married to Harold Casper of Milwaukee, son of Mrs. Bertha Casper of this village, on July 26, received lovely gifts.

CHURCH ICE CREAM SOCIAL

An ice cream social, given by the Married Ladies' sodality of Holy Trinity congregation, will be held on the parish school grounds next Wednesday evening, July 16, starting at 7 p. m. Soda will also be served. Everybody welcome.

PRIVATE SCHMIDT HOME

Army stationed at Fort Custer, Mich., spent from Friday until Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Schmidt. Privt. Schmidt recently returned to Fort Custer from a month's service with the third division at Camp Forest, Tenn.

During the afternoon and evening a grand picnic will be held in the park. There will be attractions, games, amusements, concessions and rides galore. Music will also be furnished by the Kewaskum band. In the evening a drawing will be held for the awarding of 15 big cash prizes, totaling $100.00. Tickets sell at 25c and include a chance on the prizes and admission to the dance in the opera house in the evening. First prize is $25, second $20, third $15, fourth $10, and there are 11 smaller cash prizes. The Wisconsin Aces will play modern and old time music for the dance starting at 9 p. m.

PLAY AT WALDO SUNDAY

Kewaskum plays another out-of-town game Sunday, July 13, at Waldo and the boys hope to win again from that team. The locals won the first one here, 7-8, but Waldo has improved. Besides they have a field with many handicaps but Kewaskum will be out to make them victim No. 2 this half. On the following Sunday the team returns home to play strong Adell, the team to

New Priest Arrives; Two Masses Sundays

The Rev. Aloysius Fellenz, whose transfer from St. Anthony's church in Milwaukee to Holy Trinity church in Kewaskum was announced by Archbishop Moses E. Kiley last week, arrived here on Thursday to take over his new pastorate and is now sharing the parsonage with Rev. Ph. J. Vogt. Rev. Fellenz will serve as curate at the local church. A newly ordained priest, Anthony Gundrum, has been named to replace Father Fellenz at St. Anthony's.

Local People Return From Vacation Trips

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Felix returned Sunday night from a two weeks' trip which took them through the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, and in Canada through the provinces of Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario. They visited relatives and friends in this state, Minnesota and Saskatchewan, Can. At the latter place they went through Lake Manitou Provincial park, in Manitoba through Riding Mountain National park, and in Wisconsin through Copper Falls State park.

Miss Inez Stollpflug, along with the Misses Edna Reysner of Beechwood, Wilma Ott, Lois Mugaun and Mrs. Verona Bartel of Cascade returned Saturday from a three week trip through the southern and western states. They spent quite a bit of the time in California at Hollywood and Los Angeles and also took a trip to Catalina Island. Many interesting places were visited.

August Ebenreiter, Sr. and Roman Smith returned Wednesday from a two week auto trip through the western states. They visited many places of interest, including Yellowstone National park and a card received at this office Monday which was mailed July 4, stated they were taking in the rodeo in Montana.

MILLERS ATTEND CHICAGO FURNISHINGS MART NOW ON

Its market time again in the home furnishings industry, and Edw. E. and Fred Miller were to Chicago from Monday until Thursday attending the world's largest home furnishings market being held at the American Furniture Mart July 7-19. Millers inspected the new furnishings presented by more than 550 manufacturers and selected furnishings which will go into homes in Kewaskum and community.

Advance word from the market center indicated an increased showing of modern furniture. "I also anticipate a trend toward designs of American inspiration such as Colonial, Early American and Federal American and a simplification of English and French styles in keeping with American life and homes," Edw. Miller commented before leaving. "We feel this is one of the most important markets the industry has ever held," Mr. Miller stated as he returned from Chicago. "In these times we must understand conditions, buy carefully and know the market in order to give our customers the benefit of good merchandise at conservative prices. Only by attending the market, the center of the home furnishings industry, can we keep closely in touch with all phases of the industry. In Chicago I brought living room, dining room bedroom furniture, lamps, bedding, carpeting and linoleum, and selections were made only after a complete survey of the entire market."

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Leo Kaas of the town of Auburn, who has been confined to his home since being injured some time ago, last week was removed to St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, where he is now undergoing treatment.

Problem Child

A young wife, wishing to send an announcement of the birth of her first child to a close friend in a distant city, telegraphed: "Isaiah IX, 6" which passage begins, "for unto us a son is given."

Her friend, unfamiliar with the Scriptures, said to her husband, "Margaret evidently has a boy who weighs nine pounds and six ounces, but why on earth did they name him Isaiah?"

Mutual Interest

"Don't worry, I'll soon have your husband well and back to work again."

"I'm so glad."

"So am I, because the sooner he gets back to work the sooner he'll pay my bill."

Endless

"Does your wife talk much?"

"Say, if I were suddenly stricken deaf and dumb, it would probably be six or eight weeks before she'd find it out."

"What luck, ma, here's our old nest and most as good as new."

Attitude Unchanged

"When you broke the engagement of course you returned the diamond ring he gave you."

"Certainly not! I don't care for Tom any more, but my feelings have not changed toward the ring."

Too Much Change

"Isn't Sally going to marry Billy?"

"I don't know. She says she hates to give up the dollar and a half she's going to look like Niagara Falls in full flood."

VITAMINS AND WORKERS
("A Minneapolis factory has been feeding its workers vitamin and halibut oil pills to protect their health and give them more pep."—News item)

I
A happy factory is ours—
We do not mind the daily toil;
We like the boss and he likes us—
It's largely done by liver oil;
We work and do it with a song,
Our faces are a sea of grins;
No task is ever hard for us—
We do it all through vitamins!

II
A carefree family we are—
We skip and frolic to our work;
We chortle as we punch the clock—
And never feel the urge to shirk;
We gaily sing, tra la, tra loo,
And do our tasks quite merrily—
We feel affection for the boss
Through vitamins from A to Z.

III
We thrill to hear the wheels go round—
We dash around like busy bees;
The corporation can not do
A single thing that will not please;
We hate to hear the whistle toot;
To tell us that it's time to quit;
The little pills we daily take
Make each one love to do his bit.

IV
An extra hour doesn't count—
We feel no urge to watch the clock;
When there's an extra task to do
We have the wallop and the sock;
What if we labor overtime?
What if the perspiration flows?
A little oil of halibut
At noontime keeps us on our toes.

V
What if the time for lunch is brief?
There is the thrill of getting back
And finding vitamins to give
To us the vigor that we lack;
The joy of honest toil we feel,
Reacting to its many thrills—
A worker isn't quite himself
Without his capsules and his pills.

VI
To agitators we are deaf—
We pay no heed to what they say;
Their arguments are quite unheard—
Thanks to the vitamin called A;
Should we be urged to call a strike,
The impulse we proceed to kill
By paying no attention as
We blithely take another pill.

VII
So three cheers for our gracious boss!
And three more for the good old shop!
We find that working is such fun—
It pains us when we have to stop;
In vitamins we put our trust
Instead of union concepts new;
How happy would we workers be
If all our leaders took 'em too!

—Malcolm Burdette.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

Dampness in Wallpaper.
QUESTION: We have no basement. Bricks of our fireplace are on a cement foundation four feet square and 18 inches in the ground. Moisture seeps up and dampens the wallpaper on either side of the fireplace opening. Before repapering, how can this be corrected?

ANSWER: As the fireplace is new, it is quite possible that the trouble will end when that mass of concrete has dried out. Continuous burning of a fire in the fireplace will speed up the drying. Oilcloth on the walls under the wallpaper should be one answer, but will not be necessary after the concrete and brick-work have dried out.

Finish for Cellar
QUESTION: I wish to finish off a cellar, and on the walls I plan to use white cement. Can you advise me as to what to use to tone the white cement to an ivory or cream? Can you also recommend some inexpensive finish for a cement floor?

ANSWER: Special mineral colors are used for coloring concrete walls, and the material is available in fairly large containers. You can get a prepared cement composition paint which is colored and will also act as a damp-proofer. This can be obtained at most of the mason material yards. Casein paints are also used for the purpose. The least expensive method of finishing a basement floor is painting with special paint of either synthetic resin or with a rubber base. Asphalt tile makes an ideal floor covering for basement floors and is not very expensive. This should not be confused with linoleum.

A Building Plot
QUESTION: I am planning to build a four-room house on one floor. I have found a building plot at a very desirable location, but am afraid that it is mostly rock and will be expensive to excavate for a cellar, etc. Is it more expensive to cut through rock for a foundation? While I don't need a cellar, I am afraid of dampness in the floor. Is it possible to build a house without a cellar, that will not be damp?

ANSWER: It is more costly to cut through rock than to dig out the soil. Many small houses are now built without cellars. If a concrete floor is properly laid and the necessary precautions taken against dampness, you should have no trouble with dampness. The Portland Cement association will send you free bulletins on this subject. New York office at 347 Madison Avenue; Chicago office at 33 West Grand Avenue.

Damp Cellar Walls
QUESTION: The cement block walls of my basement are very damp during hot weather from condensation. I am advised that lining the room with insulating boards, leaving a one-inch dead air space, would overcome the trouble. Would there be enough dampness to cause rotting? Answer: Condensation will be prevented by any kind of a lining to keep the air out of contact with the cold masonry. For protection against moisture, coat the masonry with hot tar or liquid asphalt before putting up the furring strips and insulating board. If there are leaks or seepage through the concrete block walls, these should first be made watertight by patching. Iron cement would be useful for this.

Cellar Floor
QUESTION: We wish to paint our new cellar floor for the first time, but before painting it we would like to know how to fill in the cracks that have shown up in it.

ANSWER: Widen the cracks with a cold chisel, making them at least one inch deep. The under part of a crack should be made as wide or wider than the surface. The edges should be made rough for the new cement to bond. Clean out all loose particles of sand and cement. Soak the interior surfaces of the cracks with water, then pack in hard with a stiff well-mixed mortar of one part portland cement and three parts clean sand. Keep damp for several days.

Wood Floor Over Concrete.
QUESTION: Would it be advisable to cover the cement floor of a basement with a wood floor? Answer: That will be all right if you first cover the cement floor with a layer of waterproofing; for instance, a thickness of heavy waterproof felt stuck to the cement with tar or asphalt. The wood floor can then be laid, either on wood strips, or better yet, in a bed of asphalt cement, known as "mastic." An alternative would be asphalt tiles, laid on the cement in a bed of asphalt. These tiles can be had in colors. The job can be done by any experienced linoleum layer. Asphalt tiles are not to be confused with linoleum.

Lawn Roller
QUESTION: My metal roller used to roll our lawn was left standing full of water. This resulted in having the seams open up (due to freezing) and I wonder if there is any way we could repair this damage. Could you suggest something as a practical solution for us? Answer: The seams can best be closed by welding. It will give you a watertight roller. You can find a welder in your locality by looking in your local classified telephone directory, or by asking at a garage, or other repair shop.

ATTACK ON AMERICA

BY GENERAL ARBUD WHITE

INSTALLMENT ELEVEN
from the air; Washington was bombed and the President killed. National forces were ordered mobilized, but they were ill prepared for immediate action. General Bull, area commander of the army in Texas, reported to General Hague, chief of staff at Washington, that he was being attacked by greatly superior forces. General Hague ordered him to resist the enemy's advance at all costs. Bull hastily prepared plans with the help of General Mole, division commander. Suddenly the American outpost was attacked by a strong force crossing the Rio Grande.

Now continue with the story.

its regimental reserve line. A second attack launched against that line, if it succeeded, meant inevitable defeat.

Into the melee came rushing American reserves, a co-ordinated counter-attack by the 3d Battalion of the 23d and the 2d Battalion of the 9th. They hit with a vigor that halted the menacing enemy masses. Their semi-automatics, pouring death as fast as fingers could work triggers, gave to the attacking American battalions the infantry weight of twice their numbers.

Van Hasek's men fell back, dug themselves into fox holes, waited. A lull came into the firing. The artillery roared on, machine guns, light cannon chattered and boomed. Now the volcanic eruption of battle lost something of its volume. The cries of the stricken could be heard, plaintive wails of "First aid!"

Van Hasek had lost the first round. He had committed the brush folly of underestimating his enemy. In his haste to blast his way through to San Antonio his conceit had led him to disregard sound tactical principles. No matter if the enemy had done the same thing by making a stand, the next move now was up to Van Hasek.

At the division command post, General Mole had slept through the morning preparation fire. Only by vigorously shaking him had his aide been able to rouse him out of his sleep. Dosing himself with strong coffee, Mole coolly watched the development of attack. The Van Hasek strategy had a right to suppose that the Second would hold lightly and run off to successive delaying positions.

Anxiously, Mole and his staff scanned information as it came in over the field wires and from observation planes. Van Hasek's tortuous columns still were moving up from Laredo. But no fresh movement of reserves was located in the immediate American front. Both the Brownsville and Eagle Pass columns were several hours' travel from striking range of either flank. Casualty reports came in, roughly computed, by noon. One hundred and seven officers, most lieutenants. Nineteen hundred men. A fifth of his command gone, many of them officers and men with whom he had served through long years of peace.

But discipline held up, and a stern, stubborn fighting spirit pervaded the ranks. That word came from the commanders of infantry who had taken the brunt of the losses, it came from the artillery regiments which were still being pounded by long-range artillery.

CHAPTER XII

As succeeding battle reports from the Texas front poured into Washington over the radio, Captain Benning was assailed by growing restlessness at his own inaction in the face of momentous events. Throughout the day he had lloled about the cafes along Connecticut Avenue looking for the Van Hasek staff spies, Fincke and Boggio. Evening found him holding the bag.

That red-weller of the 11th Infantry's retreat from Laredo had been reported in meager but graphic detail along with the heroic stand of the 5th and 12th Cavalry Regiments. Captain Bull's achievement in piloting his men through the storm of Van Hasek's air attacks had stirred the country.

Benning and Bull had been classmates at the Military Academy, had gone to the 11th Infantry together as subalterns. Benning had served with the 11th for nearly a year until he went to the air corps, from which service he had been snatched for military intelligence duty. Breathlessly he followed every scrap of available information on the 11th.

Benning was picking at his dinner at the Mayflower when there came a final flash on the Bull incident.

"You heard this afternoon of the gallant young officer, Captain Bull of our infantry," the broadcaster announced. "You recall that, although wounded in the cheek, he ignored his own wound and saw his men through to the Second Division south of San Antonio."

The announcer paused, his voice shook with feeling as he read a brief dispatch from San Antonio that brought the incident of Bull to tragic consummation:

"Captain Henry Bull, 11th United States Infantry, died early this evening of wounds received in action. Captain Bull collapsed a few minutes after reaching the hospital and died this evening without having regained consciousness."

For a long time Benning sat looking across the blur of somber faces in front of him, then he left his unfinished dinner and went out into the street. The soldier spirit flared into revolt within him against this soft spot of his own present duty when there was a man's role on the border.

He walked to the Shoreham to get himself in hand. Even Flagwell's assertion that the Coalition spy nest was more dangerous to the country than Van Hasek's present invasion brought him small comfort. But he finally reminded himself that he had a job to do and not until he had done it would there be hope of transfer back to the line of the Army.

Washington, the whole country, was in a state of furor. All day Benning had been shut off from the War Department with its staggering problems, black uncertainties, and crushing workload.

Official reassurance was being fed out over the radio to those sections of the country outside the immediate reach of Van Hasek's invasion. They were told there was no immediate danger of new air raids. The Army was pushing through its interception nets and extending its intelligence service to bring timely warning well in advance of any further raid.

New Orleans, Galveston, and other cities were being organized against air raids that could not be circumvented for the time being. It was a matter of avoiding crowds, of getting underground against demolition bombs and gas. People who could leave those cities were urged to take refuge in towns and hamlets until the danger could be brought under control, although tens of thousands needed no such warning and were pouring into the country with their effects as they could carry along.

In New York, Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and other great centers of population, organization against air attacks had been feverishly undertaken. The Middle West and West were told there was no present need for alarm. However, some highly alarming, if unconfirmed, reports of a mysterious brewing of mischief in the Orient, had the coast cities on edge.

Mobilization of the four existent Regular Army and eighteen National Guard infantry divisions was reported sixty per cent complete. The Third Army was to concentrate in Texas as rapidly as possible, but the War Department refused to give out military details. No censorship of military news had been clamped down as yet and the press was printing, without restriction, whatever news it could get.

Benning ordered an elaborate dinner at the Shoreham. Though he had no appetite, he made a pretext of eating while he kept under observation those who came and went.

Before starting on his rounds, Benning had stationed Lieutenant Jones, an intelligence assistant, on Massachusetts Avenue apartment had dined and danced with Mrs. Boggio, whose instructions were to hold Boggio under close observation and let Benning know as quickly as possible if the Italian appeared.

Seven-thirty o'clock passed, the Chief of Staff of the Army would soon be on the air in a nation-wide hookup. New dispatches came in from San Antonio.

Flash—"Bombers reported approaching New Orleans, Galveston, and Houston. The Government's in- and intelligence service and intercept nets and intelligence warning will give prompt advance warning if any planes fly north of Texas. Everyone is urged to remain calm."

Several persons got up from table at this news and anxiously left the room. Others kept determinedly in their seats, a few affected nonchalance composure. Into the dining-room at this moment came Fincke, his face lined in a surly scowl. He sat down at a table across the room from Benning.

CRISP, COOL SUMMER SALADS (See Recipes Below.)

AT HOME TO SUMMER

In a recent poll, 37 per cent of the thousands of homemakers receiving questionnaires expressed a desire to be experts at salad making . . . 43 per cent wanted to know how to make food look glamorous.

This report gave me an idea. Salads, besides being healthful and givers of vim, vigor and vitality, offer a splendid opportunity for variety for variety they can be used as the appetizer or "starter" course, the main dish, a dessert, or they may accompany the dinner course.

So, besides giving you timely tips on the art of salad making, I'm going to explain literally dozens of ways in which you creators of daily menus can give "oomph" to your tasty dishes.

The characteristics of a good salad are simple and fairly easy to accomplish; namely, it should be well chilled before serving; have an attractive arrangement, and a pleasing color combination.

Salads in summer are as important as swimming or tennis or golf. They give an opportunity to add color and gaiety to the table.

Your choice of ingredients will depend upon what you have planned for your main course and dessert, provided your salad is to be a side dish or an appetizer.

There are many varieties of fruit salads. They are excellent by themselves or as an accompaniment to a main course of sea food or meat and a pastry or cake dessert.

Good to eat, wonderful to look at and substantial is this salad of orange slices and prunes, stuffed with cottage cheese. (See picture at top of column.)

"Orange Prune Cheese Salad." On a bed of lettuce circle 10 to 12 orange slices. At the side arrange 3 cooked prunes which have been stuffed with cottage cheese.

With a sharp knife peel oranges, removing all outer skin and inner membrane down to juicy meat. Cut in thin, even slices. California oranges, which are firm-meated and practically seedless, are excellent to use.

Serve with a sweet french dressing, made with lemon juice. With a hot bread and beverage, this salad makes a well-balanced home or party luncheon.

LYNN SAYS:

Don't be timid about putting your own personality into your salads. Here are some suggestions which may help you become famous for your salads . . .

Try: Fluting bananas by running the prongs of a fork lengthwise down a peeled banana, then slicing it crosswise.

Adding chopped, broken or whole walnut kernels to fruit, vegetable and meat salads.

Using fruit juices to thin mayonnaise and to mix with french dressing.

Adding a fruit gelatin, sliced or cut into glistening cubes, to a fruit salad.

Brightening the edges of lettuce leaves by dipping them in paprika, or adding chopped parsley to the edges of pineapple slices.

Adding a little lemon juice or vinegar to sweet cream for salad dressing—makes a quick substitute for sour cream.

Burlap Shortage Expected

By ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN
Knitting isn't the only flurry with yarn that the war is causing. Another pinch is a prospective shortage of burlap which comes from Scotland and India. We use burlap in manufacturing linoleum—and so far we haven't perfected a cotton substitute, but experiments on that are under way. In the meantime, there is enough burlap on hand in this country to run the manufacturers till fall at least. Burlap has also been important in the manufacture of rug under-cushions or linings, but here cotton has served quite satisfactorily as a substitute.

The threat of carpet wool shortages has set all the manufacturers of synthetic fibers on the trail of satisfactory substitutes. Rayon in qualities suitable for rugs has been developed and such rugs have been on the market for a year or so. Now a nylon fiber for pile carpets has been patented—it's said to be crush-resistant, hard wearing and tremendously interesting in texture.

Sweet French Dressing.
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 cup red jelly or honey
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika

Shake or blend well before serving. Makes 1 1/2 cups. Lemon juice gives this dressing just the flavor needed to make the orange, prune and cheese combination the perfect salad.

Keeping cool during summer months is a problem, solved most successfully by eating properly. Plenty of the protective foods, such as eggs, milk, fruits and vegetables—all excellent salad materials—should be eaten.

When the mercury soars skyward and appetites are on the wane, nothing tastes quite so good as a chilled, molded mixture of fresh vegetables or fruits, placed on a bed of crisp greens and garnished with a tart, taste-teasing dressing.

Lime Cucumber Salad.
1 package lime gelatin
1 1/2 cups hot water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons scraped onion
Dash of paprika
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 cucumber, diced

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, then add vinegar, salt, scraped onion and dash of paprika. Chill until beginning to thicken, then fold in chopped pimiento and diced cucumber. Chill until firm and serve on salad greens with a garnish of mayonnaise.

Since it's open season on salads, homemakers who like variety will be interested in several types of salad dressings. Here are two which will do much to bring out the full flavor of your tasty concoctions.

Thick French Dressing.
1 cup salad oil
1/2 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon mustard
1 tablespoon sugar
3 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon gelatin

Mix dry ingredients; add oil and vinegar. Beat thoroughly. Put the gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water and dissolve in 2 tablespoons boiling water. Cool; add dressing. Beat thoroughly about 15 minutes and allow to stand until a good emulsion is formed. Use fruit juice instead of vinegar for fruit salad. Use more paprika if a darker red is desired.

Egg Dressing.
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
5 tablespoons vinegar
1 egg yolk
1/2 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 cup salad oil
1 teaspoon salt

Mix ingredients and shake well. Add beaten egg yolk when ready to serve. Half lemon juice and vinegar may be used.

Harvest Goes Streamlined with the NEW 4-FOOT McCormick-Deering COMBINE

THINK of it—you can harvest and thresh your crops, yourself, without any extra help and do a much better job! What this new 4-foot McCormick-Deering combine does on the small farm. And you can get it at a price that's on your pocketbook! This new little combine is a power-drive operation with a 1-pow tractor. It gets a real thrill stepping with this baby combine.

getting the entire harvesting job out of the way at the rate of 8 to 15 acres a day. And it will handle any threshable crop you have.

You can't beat the No. 42 as a money-maker. It saves grain, and saves on equipment, twine, and threshing expense. It saves food and work in the kitchen because it's a one-man outfit. Harvest the modern way—with Harvester's new 4-foot combine. See us about it, now.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

'Scorched Earth' and Guerrilla Fighting Is Soviet Answer to German Thrust; Revenue Bill for Defense Spending Provides Many Additional New Taxes

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

This is the scene in the Brooklyn (N. Y.) federal court as 25 members of the huge spy ring were arraigned by the government. Called "one of the most active, extensive and vicious" spy rings in the nation's history, 26 men and 3 women were arrested throughout the country. Most of them were of German descent. They were charged with transmitting vital defense information to a foreign government. Three men in foreground are lawyers.

ORDEAL: By Communiques

Following the first couple of weeks of the Russo-German war some wag of the airwaves referred to the conflict as an ordeal—for the public—by communiques.

In the absence of any possible direct war correspondence, that is exactly what it developed into, ever-lengthening communiques by both sides, so much at variance that the public could do little but guess.

As the German columns advanced Premier Josef Stalin urged upon his people a policy of "scorched earth" to be coupled with universal guerrilla warfare. He warned of the "grave danger" of the Nazi successes and acknowledged the forward movement of German troops. He asked his people to destroy everything that might be of value to Germany if it could not be saved behind the retreating Soviet columns.

Only at certain points did the reports of the two high commands coincide, and these were so exceptional that they were more to be honored by their absence than their presence.

Speaking of an important town on the southern front, the Germans said, "We captured Lwow," and the Russians said, "We left Lwow." And even in that point of coincidence there was a variance which left much to guesswork.

Yet from the very names of places it was possible to take a map and see a picture of the German plan emerging, though it was impossible by the same token to picture the Russian defense.

The picture was that of a giant clutching hand, with the wrist to the north and the fingers outstretched—though which way the joints of the fingers would flex themselves could not be foreseen.

Three fingers were stretching toward Moscow and Leningrad, and two were extending southward into the rich Ukraine. Two or three of these five shafts showed signs that they might form pincer movements, snipping off and surrounding bodies of Red troops here and there along the battlefield.

Already the Germans had claimed such success east of Bialystok, stating that 100,000 Russian soldiers had participated in a mass surrender, and that everywhere the Russians were on the run.

The Red communiques stated that their lines were holding intact, and that at some points the Russians were fighting far behind the most outstretched German points, and that some of these actions might work out badly for the invaders.

Yet, military observers pointed out, such occurrences were of the very nature of the Nazi blitz technique, and that in France, in Greece and on other fronts, including the town of Tobruk in northern Africa, groups of defending troops often were left behind in the swift advance, later to be encircled.

The Greek army of the east was trapped in just such a way, and though it held out and fought for considerable time, it was forced to surrender in the end.

It was impossible, however, to see just what the Russians were accomplishing in their defense, for the "town name" reports showed continued German advances, and the capture en route of important points.

Riga, Latvia, an important Russian naval base, was reported taken; Minsk, the so-called gateway to Moscow, was said to be surrounded; and one of the Nazi "fingers" had shot past Minsk on the north to Smolensk, and on the south to the Bobruisk sector, thus tending to bear out the German contention that Minsk, if not already taken, was doomed. Also that the Nazi legions could be said, at least technically, to be two-thirds of the way from their starting point to the capital of the Soviet.

DISASTER: The death of 37 merrymakers off the Maine coast when an excursion-fishing-boat blew up brought in its wake an investigation.

The party set out, was caught in the fog on Casco bay, and never returned. A dozen bodies, some of them charred with fire, were found floating by searching craft.

Witnesses told of gasoline drums on deck carrying more than 150 gallons. Others said that the boat had twice before been sunk, raised and refitted.

TAXES: And Spending

The tax structure by which the congress intends to raise additional revenue to the tune of $3,500,000,000 during the coming fiscal year was practically complete.

In addition to the huge amount expected from the new income tax structure, the congress tax-makers had agreed that business would have to yield about $1,360,000,000 more than the $3,000,000,000 it is now raising.

Excise taxes were to be increased by a 10 per cent tax on electric fans, cooking appliances and similar articles; a 10 per cent tax on rubber products not including footwear and auto tires or tubes, which are on other tax schedules; 10 per cent on electrical and metal signs; 10 per cent on washing machines for commercial laundries; one-sixth of a cent a bottle on soft drinks (4 cents a case); 10 per cent on retail furs; another 10 on toilet preparations; a "use" tax on vending machines that pay off in tokens; $5 for vending machines which dispense articles; 10 per cent on optical instruments other than eyeglasses; 10 per cent on office and store machines.

Thus the boil-down of the tax structure was this: Excise taxes (like the above) $867,000,000.

Income levies including excess profits, $2,468,500,000. Estate and gift taxes $113,700,000. Giving a total of close to the $3,500,000,000 sought.

This enabled the public to get a generalized sort of picture of what is coming to the American way of life, at least from a tax standpoint during the next tax year.

SHOCK: To British Scarcely less shocking to the British than the arrival of Hess on Scottish soil was the news that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell had been relieved of his command in Africa and the Middle East.

General Wavell had been Britain's Number One hero, the only man who had won for the British an important victory and one which challenged the imagination.

Wavell's men had driven through Cyrenaica and had taken it away from the Italians, capturing more than 100,000 prisoners on the way. True, the Nazis had come across the Mediterranean and had taken all this territory away from him, including the trapping of a number of thousand of the Wavell troops.

It also was true that there had been a good deal of criticism of Wavell at this time. It also was being remembered that he had been given at least a part of the responsibility for the disaster in Greece and Crete.

Although the war ministry simply recounted that Wavell had been transferred to the high command in India and that his place had been taken by Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, a Scotsman, the general feeling in Britain was that it was a shocking demotion.

This notwithstanding the war ministry let out the rumor that perhaps Wavell was being given a more important task, the preparation of the defense of India should the Russian resistance collapse and find the Nazis blitzing in that direction.

MILLIONS: Get Deferment Just as all youths who reached their majority since last registration day walked to their local boards to register, a 30-day deferment was granted to all draftees over 27 years old.

This was frankly a measure to keep them out of the armed forces until congress could pass an amendment to the selective service act exempting them.

Army officers were said to be back of the move, pointing out that of all the young draftees under their tutelage, those in the upper half were of far less value than the youngsters, and that the ideal draftee is a youth of 21.

Thus the American army was to be made a young man's army entirely, and the blanket deferment relieved the minds of many thousands who had received their questionnaires, had arranged their personal affairs and were only waiting for the "axe to fall."

Army Tour

No shot is too tough for the veteran billiard champion Willie Hoppe (right), who is setting up a difficult arrangement on the wing of a giant bomber when he and Welker Cochran visited a San Diego, Calif., plane plant. Hoppe is starting a tour of army camps soon as a part of the war department recreation program.

PLANES: A Slouddown?

Observers on the economic and defense production fronts in this country seemed skeptical of the OPM outlook that "grand mass production" of medium and heavy bombers would be under way early in 1942.

The OPM plan calls for the auto makers to build airplanes in a number of small sections, like wings, fuselages and tails, etc., and ship these sections to large assembly plants in Omaha, Kansas City and Fort Worth and Tulsa, where they will be put together in assembly-line fashion.

That was the motor industry's answer to large-scale production of bombers.

Now those who feel that this objective will not be reached until some time in 1943 point out how the aluminum shortage can possibly play hob with the best laid plans.

They say that when a plane weighs 10,000 pounds, it actually takes 13,600 pounds of ingot aluminum to do the job because of the weight loss through scraps.

These scraps cannot be melted down into airplane metal again because of the number of different alloys required.

The observers who feel that OPM is being too optimistic also point out that the scrap losses under the automotive plan of plane building are likely to be more than in regular plane factories, where the workers have more experience and will make fewer mistakes.

They also feel it is going to be a huge problem for the big plane manufacturers to operate in cities as far distant from each other as Baltimore and Omaha, for instance, and still maintain a cohesive and clever organization.

However, present plane production, gloomy as this outlook might be, took a step upward when North American Aviation got back to its scheduled 10 planes a day, and the 1,500 soldiers who had been stationed near the plant were sent away to more distant points.

The wage structure finally decided upon turned out to be 60 cents for beginners for the first three months and then 75 cents minimum after that point, and on up to $1.50 an hour for more skilled workers.

KNOX: And His Speech

Secretary of Navy Knox, in his Boston address stirred up an outbreak on congress which threatened to bring out an impeachment resolution and found administration supporters reportedly working under cover to prevent this outcome.

In the address the navy secretary hinted that "the time had come" for the navy actively to sweep the German menace from the seas, and spoke of the Russo-German war, occupying Nazi attention, as a "God-given opportunity" to insure the arrival of lease-lend aid to Britain.

Leading non-interventionists, headed by Senator Wheeler of Montana, leaped on this speech with all their power, declaring that the navy secretary was stepping beyond his powers and seeking to get President Roosevelt to order a "shooting war" between the navy and the German submarines and surface raiders.

The question, when immediately put to President Roosevelt brought from him a denial that he thought American participation was necessary at this time, and holding out continued hope that this country could remain out of the war.

Another Question

Tied into it all was a question of fact, for Senator Wheeler had reported rumors that an actual incident or two of the sinking of German ships of war by American naval vessels had been circulating.

To this, on the following day, Secretary Knox flatly issued a sharp denial. He said that no American vessels on Atlantic patrols had engaged in convoying, had become involved in combat, had suffered any loss of life in their crews, or any loss of equipment.

BRIEFS: Providence, R. I.

Twenty-three-year-old Eleanor Young, society girl, and her man companion were instantly killed when their private plane crashed trying to make a landing in the fog on Matunuck beach.

New York: Intercepted radio messages from Germany accused Britain of violating the borders of Spain. Such reports often precede German invasion of so-called neutral countries.

Russian Help Welcomed Despite Communist Bogy

Problem of Defeating Hitler Held Paramount; Dykstra Returns to Wisconsin University; Train 1,520,000 Defense Workers.

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—It was one of those Washington mornings when the clouded sky above lets in the damp, heavy heat and an aching glare on wall and pavement even though it shuts out the sun itself. The German armies were smashing through Poland and into the Ukraine. With the Luftwaffe roaring eastward for a change, British bombers were blackening skies and shaking the earth of northern France and industrial Germany.

A British military and economic mission, we knew, was sitting down with the Soviet leaders in Moscow, offering them utmost aid in their fight against Germany.

The papers were crying over a drop in American airplane production, still reporting strikes in defense industries and, very casually, at his press conference, the President had announced that the United States would aid the Soviets as much as possible.

Later, I sat in the office of a perturbed government official. "How," I asked, "can you reconcile to the American people the anti-Communist feeling in this country and aid to Russia?"

He paused and looked out over streets, black with staggered shift of government workers on their way home—in another hour there would be another echelon of hurrying men and women, in another hour, another—recruits in the army of defense.

Americans Dislike Communism. Finally, he spoke: "Of course," he answered, "that is the problem we have to face. We know that most Americans feel as unsympathetic towards Communism as they do toward Nazism. And the subversive activities of the Communists in this country have aroused strong hatred against Moscow. Our attitude on that score has been plainly stated."

Then my friend quoted the statement made by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, shortly after Hitler's speech declaring war against Russia.

Mr. Welles had stated: "... doctrines of Communistic dictatorship are as intolerable and as alien to our own beliefs as are the principles of the Nazi dictatorship... but the immediate issue that presents itself to the people of the United States is whether the plan for universal conquest... which Hitler is now desperately trying to carry out, is to be successfully halted or defeated."

Then the man across the desk from me said: "In other words, when your wagon gets stuck in the mud, you don't look too closely at the man who helps pull you out."

What the government would like, I suggested, would be to have the Nazi gingham dog and the red calico cat eat each other up.

"Perhaps," he laughed, "that would be the best solution. But it isn't as simple as that. The pup seems to have so much stronger jaws, in this case, that we believe it might be wise to furnish the cat with an extra claw or two."

The trouble, I suggested, is selling that idea to the American people. He agreed; but he added that there were certain things which ought to be understood in regard to subversive Communist activities in this country.

Subversive Activities Overestimated. "Let's take for granted," he said, "that we would have nothing to do, if we could help it, with the fellow who is helping us pull our wagon out of the mud. But we do want to get the wagon out, so there isn't much choice."

"Now, as things are today, a Communist is not likely to do as much harm as we may fear," the official went on. "There are three reasons for this statement: In the first place the government has subversive activities under much better control than generally known."

"In the second place, pressure is now being brought to bear effectively on the labor unions to promptly remove all members of any subversive organizations from their memberships."

"Thirdly, in all probability, now that Russia needs our help, the Party line will probably order any obstruction of the American defense program to cease. Communist leaders here have already indicated that this is their new program."

"And then, it can be definitely stated that the Communist situation in this country has never been as bad as certain publicity-seeking gentlemen have painted it," the government official seated across the desk concluded.

Dykstra Returns To Wisconsin University C. A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, has gone back to his campus and his cloistered halls beside that shining lake in the Middle West. He did a historic job here in Washington, as director of the Selective Service system and first head of the National Defense Mediation board, two great jobs that required all, as Stevenson put it, that a man has of fortitude and delicacy.

Mr. Dykstra, as readers of this column know, did not get his knowledge of men and government solely from books. He was a successful city manager of Cincinnati, he held positions of civic responsibility in Cleveland, Chicago, and Los Angeles. But he was chosen to head the draft because of his deep and sympathetic understanding of American youth. When he left Washington, I asked Mr. Dykstra for an exclusive two-paragraph valedictory, just for the Western Newspaper Union readers. This is what he said about his experience as head of selective service:

"My experience with selective service convinced me that the young men of America are neither soft nor indifferent. They can be counted upon to give a good account of themselves. Moreover, public acceptance of selective service has proved to be much more favorable than was anticipated."

Dykstra is an optimist, but not one who can't see the hole as well as the doughnut. "My experience on the Mediation board," he told me, "makes me optimistic that labor and management are developing a better understanding and a more co-operative approach to a developing industrial jurisprudence. On the whole there has been a minimum of recalcitancy on both sides. The appointment of Davis is absolutely right."

Train Workers For Defense Industry One record of achievement in the defense program has come out over a hundred per cent better than promised, and you hear very little about it. Much of the credit goes to a little, dynamic man, from out where the tall corn grows.

He is John Studebaker of Iowa, commissioner of education, and he is the drive behind the federal program of training for defense industries. Commissioner Studebaker promised congress last October that the vocational training groups of the nation would produce 700,000 workers trained for service at lathe or bench by June 30, 1941. He now reports that 1,520,000 have actually been trained. Moreover, although the one-third more than the regular program was undertaken, the cost of the Washington end was only about 1 per cent, and less money was used for the entire project than congress had originally appropriated—an achievement in these days!

The average cost of training, per man hour, was 21 cents, and 97 per cent of the total amount of money spent in the training was spent in the local community. That was part of the Studebaker idea—keeping the training decentralized—using the local schools, shops, equipment and teaching force—leaving the running of the program to labor, industry, and the local school officials. This not only proved efficient but it served to bring labor and industry together on a thousand advisory committees which were formed all over the country. Labor and industry each furnished 3,500 members of these committees. The rest were made up of consultants. Five hundred systems provided the machinery to carry out this task, and they worked 24 hours a day to do it.

All studies which have been made, says Thelma McKelvey, labor division, OPM, indicate that women have been found satisfactory in virtually every kind of job ordinarily filled by men.

Camera Falsehoods

Probably nothing is more untrue than the statement that the camera cannot lie. Actually the camera can be made to say anything the photographer wants it to say, provided he is skilful enough. Various devices are used, such as the wide angle lens mirrors, and double or multiple exposures. This series of photos is composed of camera lies, most of which are quite convincing.

Right: Dorothy Edwards, queen of the rose parade in Pasadena, Calif., becomes a real fairy queen in this impressive trick shot.

Two-Way Wind: There is a touch of the surrealistic about this view of San Francisco's Golden Gate. The wind appears to be blowing the yachts one way and the suspension bridge tower another. This is a matter of angles and double exposure.

Right: This chair is not hanging from the ceiling. Chair and sitter were lodged on a big sheet of plate glass beneath which the lensman did his work.

Behind the door what you see is a picture of New York's lower east side for a moment. This is a "double exposure" shot. The man in the picture is a member of the "Gone With the Wind" cast.

'Gone Up the Spout' The expression "gone up the spout" originated in pre-Civil war days. Most pawnshops of the period had a metal chute which extended from the shop to the office, on the floor above, where the safe was located. When articles were pawned they were ticketed and placed in a receptacle and pulled down the chute or spout, to be deposited in the office safe. Since many pawned articles are never redeemed, the allusion is obvious.

Process of Deduction Not so long ago a Jersey attorney was taken by surprise by a feminine witness who announced that the man against whom she was testifying had been gambling. "How do you know that?" asked the attorney. "Because he handled the dice," she replied. "Because he had been gambling by the way, he had been drinking, and he didn't know the difference between the chip and a coin."

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

When Mayor LaGuardia of New York city forgot about the farmer in drawing up the plans for civilian defense, department of agriculture officials immediately protested. As a result the farmer will have a chance with the rest of the civilians. Just remember the city folks had to get a cow for the Bronx zoo, just to prove to Gothamites milk doesn't come out of a tree like rubber.

All the tall tales don't come out of Washington. It is reported that in Montezuma, Ga., Mrs. Christine Baldwin planted some Paul Neyron roses last fall which bloomed heartily in the early spring. A short while later, according to the Hoschton (Ga.) News, she found the rose bushes were covered with blackberries.

The president of Antioch college where they teach students to do things as well as think about them did not have any commencement exercises this year. He held a conference on Progressive Action and Post-War Reconstruction, instead.

In the field of industrialized agriculture too many young children are employed under conditions far different from those which adults associate with the healthy life of farm children of their own youth.

Knit Swim Suit Should Be Included in Vacation Plans

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It is evident that women are increasingly impressed with the value of swimming for beauty. Not only do beaches at seaside and water sports, but many have created attractive, pretentious modern swimming pools which offer infinite enjoyment to their communities. Then private estates have picture swimming pools where they indulge in water sports.

You will find handknit technique of heavy cable stitch in stunning colors, the stripe effects such as white with red or with navy being especially intriguing. There is also a strong revival of wool jersey. These stress dressmaker styling which now is so pronounced throughout the entire swim suit program. Most of the jersey suits have practical zipper fastenings.

Designers are turning out perfectly charming suits dressmaker-fashioned after the manner of the Balmain type of waffle pique centered in the group. Note the coin dot banding. Dot trimmings are very smart this season. Floral prints and various cotton weaves make front page fabric news for swim suits and beach togs. The more audacious the coloring, the more daring the patterning, the smarter! This is especially true of the gay and fascinating Hawaiian prints now so fashionable. The sarong drape skirt in exotic prints with bra top showing bare midriff is a leading style. Novelty types are often styled with "grass skirts" inspired by Hawaiian native design. A lei necklace of flowers added, is the final glamour accent.

Bathing suits of elasticized fabric are to be had by the score. The newest thing in these types is two-color effects done in white with bright colored dots or inset vertical bands. All-over shirred lastique insures a sculptural figure fit. Bright applique of gorgeous flowers on white jersey is especially effective with a long matching beach cape. There are endless cunning dressmaker-styled gingham shantung and crinkled seersucker suits. In knits and lastiques girls love the suit that zips up the back from the waistline to give a perfect fit.

Plus Glamour

The newest black sheer dresses are finished off with edgings of fine black lace. This use of black lace trims is being played up to the point of being recognized as a most important vogue. Not only are dress-up black sheer frocks feminized to a most fascinating degree with lace frilled at throat and sleeves, on pockets and here, there, and everywhere to add glamour but the movement has been taken up by milliners who either make the entire hat of lace or trim with it. Big brims edged with lace frills are one of the new and entrancing lace expressions.

Cool Summer Outfits Of All Black Are New

You can dress in all black from head to foot and still look cool and summery. This is the miracle style creators have wrought. Briefly outlined the plan is sheerest of sheer black frock, hat of black sheer, gloves of the lace sort and black stockings so cobwebby sheer they are almost transparent. The newest black sheer dresses are finished off with edgings of fine black lace. This use of black lace trims is being played up to the point of being recognized as a most important vogue. Not only are dress-up black sheer frocks feminized to a most fascinating degree with lace frilled at throat and sleeves, on pockets and here, there, and everywhere to add glamour but the movement has been taken up by milliners who either make the entire hat of lace or trim with it. Big brims edged with lace frills are one of the new and entrancing lace expressions.

Enormous Brims Versus The 'Pretty' Little Hat

The problem is up to millady whether she will go hatted this summer in the flattering little frivolous flower concoctions she loves to wear or whether she will top her costume with a hat of enormous brim and look chic and sophisticated. Each type is attractive and the fashion-right way is to include both in this summer's wardrobe of hats.

Picked Up in World Fashion Centers

Jersey combined with sequins is fashion news today, with smart women. Fancy leather bows on your shoes are removable, leaving a plain pump beneath. The lovely cotton prints that await your selection in the shops are not only made in the U. S. A., but owe their design to picturesque spots in our country that influenced the designers.

TESTING'S under way at Paramount for "For Whom the Bell Tolls"; Charles Laughton, Akim Tamiroff and Oscar Homolka have been considered for the role of "Pablo," but the burning question is—who'll play "Maria"? It calls for beauty, but even more for the ability to act.

We hear that Paulette Goddard heads the list of the girls to be tested; seems as if it would be a superb piece of miscasting if she got the part. Ingrid Bergman's our choice—and the author's.

Ginger Rogers has signed for three years more with RKO; she's been there for eight years. She did "Flying Down to Rio" then, and her dancing with Fred Astaire in that little number made them our leading dance team in pictures. She wisely insisted, at last, on acting as well, and worked up to "Kitty Foyle," which she didn't want to do, we hear, but which proved to be her greatest success. She's just finishing "Tom, Dick and Harry" now, and they say around the lot that it's a worthy successor to "Kitty Foyle."

Ginger Rogers

Orson Welles isn't making any announcements about his second picture for RKO Radio—he kept mum about "Citizen Kane" too, remember, and executives were pretty startled when they found out, too late, what it was all about and it looked as if they might have trouble if they released it. Instead of a trouble-maker, they had one of the best pictures of all time on their hands! Welles has admitted that he will write, produce and direct this new picture, and will star in it.

Joseph Pasternack, who guided Deanna Durbin through her successful screen career, has signed a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; it looks as if he might do for Kathryn Grayson what he did for Deanna.

Hollywood just didn't give a whoop about Victor Mature until he made a highly press-agented appearance in the New York stage success, "Lady in the Dark." He doesn't act much in the play, just looks tall, dark and handsome. Now it's announced that two motion picture companies want him; one, Twentieth Century-Fox, has bought his contract and will feature him in two pictures a year. The first will be "Bovary Nightingale," co-starring with Alice Faye.

Victor Mature

Old timers among the movie fans will remember Raymond Hatton; probably they'll also declare that "The Whispering Chorus," in which he starred for De Mille, was one of the best pictures ever made. Well, Hatton is working for his old boss again in "Reap the Wild Wind."

W. S. Van Dyke, the ace director, has been on active duty with the marine corps for the past year. Now he's returned to the Metro lot. And what do you suppose his first assignment will be? "The Female of the Species"—a long cry from the Marines!

Did you happen to hear "Man on the Street" on the "Manhattan at Midnight" radio show about a month ago? Within 24 hours after the sketch was presented five motion picture studios were after it. Paramount won out; Bing Crosby and Mary Martin will co-star. They've just completed "Birth of the Blues," with Carolyn Lee and Brian Donlevy.

People who've heard Bob Hope rave on the radio about Madeleine Carroll have decided that he must know her well enough to get autographed pictures of the blonde star for them. She's on location in the West Indies, so they've been pesking him for the photographs. He doesn't mind; he just got a lot of her pictures, autographed them with his own name, and had them mailed.

ODDS AND ENDS—Wayne Morris got leave from the Navy Department to finish "The Smiling Ghost" for Warner Bros. before he became an ensign. . . NBC is preparing a new series, "Boy Meets Band," for its singer-bandleader, Ted Steele, who used to be an NBC page boy. . . Though Bing Crosby can't read a note of music, the boys in John Scott Trotter's band say he's a swell conductor. . . Metro will push "Hunt up the leader" as a result of Marsha Hunt up the ladder in "Dust" . . . her work in "Blossoms in the Dust" . . . Service men who want to and can see Hollywood stars broadcasting should apply to Charles Posner of the United Service Organizations.

What do you suppose Raymond Gram Swing stocked up with as preparation for that Clipper trip to England? Razor blades and nylon stockings! Elmer Davis, and nylon returned from abroad, advised him that razor blades are hard to get in England, and that his friends wives there would be grateful for the stockings! As for that "must" for a copywriter, a typewriter, he could mentor, at home and just pick one up almost anywhere. Swing will broadcast Monday and Friday evenings over the Mutual network.

Operations On Elderly Individuals

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WITHIN a very short space of time I had three elderly patients undergo operation, two for gallstones and one for an enlarged prostate-gland situated at neck of bladder. All three made good recoveries despite the fact that their ages were 72, 74 and 79, respectively.

Dr. A. W. S. Hay, Winnipeg, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, states that the expression "too old for operation" is heard too often; that age is not a question of years but of the physical and mental condition of the patient.

"No one can say of a man of 75 that he is too old for operation until one has studied that patient not only from the standpoint of the disease to be removed but also from the general standpoint. And without making such a study, one is not justified in condemning the old gentleman to continued misery by refusing surgical aid solely because of the added risk due to his age. A death rate of 10 to 30 per cent is very much less to be dreaded than months or possibly years of misery."

Favorable Conditions. Of course, most elderly individuals should not undergo operation to remedy slight defects or discomforts but there are conditions which can be corrected with a great degree of safety under hospital conditions. What operations may justly be advised for elderly people? Dr. Hay names the following groups:

1. Emergencies (to save life from immediate danger).
 2. Operations where the patient can make his own choice between trying to withstand pain, such as gallstone colic, by use of quieting drugs, or by operation.
 3. To overcome some severe physical disability such as a large hernia (rupture).
 4. Malignant disease—cancer.
- One fact that has been brought out by investigations into the results of operations on elderly patients is that in "emergency" operation the death rate is not greatly higher than it might have been in younger patients having the same conditions present.

Heart Symptoms On Slight Effort

TWO things can cause the heart rate to increase while you are at rest: holding your breath or getting nervous about the increase in the rate. Sometimes you find that after an effort that is really not severe—parking your car, or other effort—you are breathless and wonder if your heart is failing. The cause of your breathlessness is not due to the mental and physical effort of parking your car or lifting an object but because you "held your breath," breathed in no air and did not breathe out the already "used" air in your lungs.

Army medical officers are finding that a number of recruits are afflicted with "heart" symptoms on slight effort. These symptoms are called "effort syndrome" (combination of symptoms) which consists of nervousness, exhaustion, discomfort in left side of chest, palpitation, giddiness and breathlessness on exertion. Most of these cases are due to nervousness and the balance due to lack of oxygen.

Middle and long distance runners and swimmers learn to regulate their efforts so that so many strokes or strides are done between breaths. A 100-yard runner or swimmer takes a deep breath before his race and takes no further breaths till the race is over or the distance covered. The point then is that while the pulse rate should, under ordinary circumstances, be at 72 to 84 at rest, holding your breath or nervousness can send it up to over 100 beats. Similarly, breathlessness can be due to nervousness and holding the breath.

A cold in the head or eating too much acid food can likewise cause an increased heart rate and breathlessness due to inability to get enough oxygen to the lungs, or too much oxygen is being used to burn up acid foods.

QUESTION BOX

- Q—I am worried about my weight. Everything I eat seems to make me fat. I am not a heavy eater. I eat nothing but fruit until dinner in the evening.
- A—Your best plan would be to eat a good breakfast and a light lunch and dinner. You can thus work off the breakfast during the day. Taking the big meal at night gives you no chance to work off the fat. Try this for a month and cut down on all your liquids.
- Q—Kindly tell me the cause of spastic esophagus and colon. Please suggest remedy.
- A—Spastic esophagus and colon is due to nervousness and emotional disturbances. Trying to acquire calmness is the treatment.
- Q—What causes my thighs to suddenly appear lumpy and flabby? I am 5 feet 3 inches tall, weigh 112 pounds, and am 25 years old.
- A—If you have not been on a reducing diet or sitting more than usual, consult your physician. If there is loss of strength, condition may require great care and rest.

Crops for Green Manuring. The growing and plowing under of various green manure crops is practiced for the purpose of (a) adding humus to heavy soils, (b) restoring fertility to soils that have been over-cropped, and (c) adding nitrogen bacteria to soils otherwise poor in nitrogen content.

PROCEDURES IN GREEN MANURING

It is obviously an expensive procedure to withdraw land for an entire season from the production of a cash crop, devoting it instead to the production of a crop which is to be plowed under for green manure. Such action is seldom justified unless the succeeding crop is to be a permanent one such as an orchard or a tree plantation where it is necessary to green manure the land in order to establish a satisfactory seed bed for seedlings or young trees. Consequently, there are four possible types of green manuring which should be considered: namely, (1) Using the crop exclusively for green manure, as indicated above, involving the loss of a cash crop for an entire season; (2) planting a crop for green manure, inter-mixed with the regular cash crop, as is frequently done when the entire crop is to be hogged off in the fall; (3) planting a green manure crop in mid- or late summer, following the harvesting of a regular cash crop; and (4) planting legumes in rotation, harvesting for seed or forage, and using the stubble or after-growth as a plow-under. Some of the crops most commonly used in the United States for green manuring are listed below.

1. Common alfalfa is one of the best-known crops for this purpose. It is a perennial, and is grown primarily for hay but is very effective as a green manure crop. In orchard sections, particularly in the apple orchards of the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast areas, it is used extensively as a cover crop. In truck-growing sections in the Southwest it has been found indispensable for rotation with lettuce, cantaloupes, and other truck crops. When it is grown in orchards the entire crop is left to mat down as a mulch, but, in order to reduce fire hazard, it is advisable to disc the land in late fall or winter. Discing also helps to control rodent and insect infestation. In three-foot rows, alfalfa requires three pounds of seed to the acre. If it is planted broadcast or drilled in, 15 to 20 pounds per acre are required.

2. Buckwheat, a crop known for centuries in Asia and Europe, is useful on thin or acid soils. It will grow on very poor soil and may therefore be used to improve the fertility of over-cropped fields. As a rule it is not necessary to lime a field for the production of this crop. Buckwheat is a tender annual and can not be planted until all possible danger of frost is past. In northeastern United States, where it is used most extensively, plantings for the best results are made in late June or early July, at the rate of 35 pounds per acre, if the soil is in good condition; up to 60 pounds, if the soil is very poor.

3. Cowpeas is one of the most usual green manure plants to be found in the southern states. It makes a valuable forage or seed crop in addition to its use for green manure and is, moreover, adapted to a wide range of soils. All varieties of this plant are tender and should be planted only after the soil has become well warmed in the spring. If it is planted in rows three feet apart, about 26 pounds of seed per acre should be used; if it is sown broadcast, the requirements are 80 to 100 pounds of seed per acre.

4. Red Clover is one of the best-known of all green manure crops. It is sometimes planted in fields set aside for summer fallow, but more commonly planted for a combination hay and green manure crop. When so used, the first growth is cut for hay and the second plowed under. Sometimes, however, a seed crop is harvested, following the hay crop; in that case the stubble only is returned to the soil as a fertilizer. Red clover is well known for the nodule-forming bacteria that live on the roots and store the much-needed nitrogen in the soil.

For extensive information concerning green manure crops, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1750.

FARM FIRE PROTECTION

Since most farm buildings are beyond the reach of effective fire-fighting equipment maintained at public expense, such home fire-fighting equipment as may be attainable, such as chemical extinguishers. Certain precautions should also be observed, such as keeping supplies of oil, gasoline and kerosene housed at safe distances from all buildings. Where such supplies are stored, the use of open lights, carelessness in smoking, and the backfiring of cars and trucks, frequently cause fires.

AMPHIBIAN CHARACTERISTICS

The tongue of an amphibian when it is present—is attached just inside the front of the lower jaw, with its tip pointing down the throat. It is a curious fact, too, that although the amphibians love the water, some have been found to frequent salt water.

WILD-LIFE CONSERVATION

Minnesota was one of the first states to adopt the conservation of wild-life as a part of its official 4-H club program.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—The army could use a few top-flight Broadway playwrights, particularly those who have had war experience. But it already has its own David Belasco. War games, to condition our new army of 1,400,000 men for real combat now provide the utmost in dramatic realism. There are machines to simulate faithfully the screaming of Stuka bombers; there will be the roar of gunfire—with blank cartridges, of course; there will be parachute attacks, machine gunning from airplanes, and every possible device to keep the boys from forgetting that "they're in the army now."

Gen. Lesley James McNair, chief of staff of general headquarters, a small, keen, alert man who seems omnipresent in the army camps, is the impresario in this army's biggest and most serious venture in applied theatricals. He has had long experience in war games and has convincingly portrayed them as invaluable rehearsals for the real thing, not only for the instruction imparted but for the unconscious, reflex conditioning of nerves and sensitivity to the now heightened tumult of war.

When the nucleus of a general headquarters staff was formed July 25, 1940, General McNair was put at the head of it. That subsequently placed in his hands the intensified and expanded war-training maneuvers, far exceeding anything ever before attempted, and last September he took over the entire training program of the rapidly increasing army.

It is regarded as an undertaking of the utmost importance and President Roosevelt recently promoted the army Belasco from major general to the rank of temporary lieutenant general. His knowledge of war is by no means confined to make-believe. He fought with the field artillery in France and won the U. S. Distinguished Service medal and the French Legion of Honor. He is a native of Minnesota and was graduated from West Point in 1904.

THIS writer went to the wedding of a young woman friend a few weeks ago. The bridegroom was a tall, loose-gearred, bespectacled young man with an enraptured chattering grin and a thick thatch of brownish hair. The bride told us he was a scientist. We should have known that he was Russell Varian, the inventor, with his brother Sigurd and several other associates, of the Klystron radio generator which American technicians say is better than anything the British have in their new plane-spotting system and which has made blind-flying, in fog or night, like a trip around the block in a baby-carriage.

Russell Varian worked his way through Stanford, odd-jobbing for the professors. His brother Sigurd was a flight captain with the Pan-American Airways on Mexican and Central American routes. One day Russell got a letter from Sigurd in which Sigurd said he was tired of ramming around in fog and night and they ought to get together and work out a radio beam which homing planes could really follow. Russell thought that was a good idea, so Sigurd brought him his savings of $4,000 and the boys set up a workshop at Halcyon.

Their facilities just wouldn't do. Dr. David L. Webster, head of the department of physics, at Stanford, provided a laboratory, gave them effective aid in every possible way and made them research associates of the university, but the university could provide no funds. Sigurd's $4,000 dwindled to $47. The young men were living sketchily when the Klystron came through. A representative of the Bureau of Civil Aeronautics put them in touch with the Sperry Gyroscope Co. Sperry hurriedly plunked down a check for $25,000 and built a laboratory for Russell in Garden City, Long Island.

Russell came to New York. His radio beam had guided him straight to Miss Jane Martinson, a comely research worker in biochemistry, niece of Miss Bessie Beatty of the current radio team of "Betty and Bill." It was a case of love at first sight on the part of both. Hence the wedding, just a fortnight later, in the East Nineteenth street residence of Adolph Berle, now occupied by Miss Beatty. Bride and bridegroom, both tireless hikers, had their vacation togs ready for a long outdoor and honeymoon tramp through New England.

As to the founding of Halcyon, birthplace of the gadget, there is a story as follows: A man in New England received word from the ether that he must get in his buggy, start driving, and follow his buggy whip. The whip, dipping this way and that, guided him across the country to the California coast. At the seashore he drew up, established a farm, and there was Halcyon, peopled as the years passed, by Transcendentalists, Theosophists and others of various cults who also believed they had arrived by divine guidance.

Home Lessons Cure for Dance-Floor Apologies

Learn Steps From Diagrams. "THE Excuse-me's"—this unhappy pair of dancers should be called. Every other step they take in the smart Westchester brings crushed toes, bumped knees and a flood of apologies.

Such accidents don't beset your dancing if you practice steps at home. Then you glide easily along, make a hit with your partners. And simple to learn steps from diagrams. . . . Have fun at dances, win admiration! Our 32-page booklet gives diagrams and directions for basic steps and variations of the waltz, Westchester, fox-trot, shag, rumba, Samba, Conga and tango; also the Peabody and Lindy Hop. THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, allayed out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won worldwide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

II. PIONEER BEGINNINGS
(Illustration—Old map of Washington and Ozaukee counties)

The country about present day Kewaskum was at first included in the township of West Bend, "as was set forth in an act of the Legislature of January, 1846."—(J. B. Gregory, Old Milwaukee County, Vol. 11, 1105). On February 11, 1847, Town 12 was set off and became a separate corporation under the title of North Bend, receiving its name from the Milwaukee river which, with a winding course, flows through the town.—(Western Historical Company, History of Washington and Ozaukee Counties, Wisconsin, 436). In 1844 William P. Barnes and his wife settled in the town, and they are considered the first settlers. The first meeting in the town of North Bend was held on April 6, 1847, in the home of the Barnes'. Twenty-six voters congregated. The minutes of the meeting are still extant. They read as follows: At the annual town meeting held at the house of William P. Barnes, in the town of North Bend, Washington Co., T. W. April 6, 1847, the friends who were there organized by calling Harry N. Strong to the chair, and appointing Joshua Bradley clerk. The meeting being called to order, the following motions were made and carried in the affirmative:

First—That the next annual town meeting is to be held in the house of Ferdinand Dalglin, on Section 21.
Second—That the town officers receive for their services $1 per day, where the price is not fixed by law.
Third—That the town raise one-eighth of one percent, for the benefit of schools in the town.
Fourth—That we, or the town, raise one-eighth of one percent, to be applied to roads in the town.
Fifth—That Samuel Ladd serve as Overseer of Highways in the town of North Bend until others are appointed.
Sixth—That we raise $75 to pay officers and to bear the necessary expenses of the town.
Seventh—That the Supervisors accept no account unless it is itemized, dated and sworn to.
April 9, 1847.

John S. Van Epps, Town Clerk
(J. B. Gregory, Old Milwaukee County, Vol. 11, 1105).

In 1849 a still further subdivision was made and the name, North Bend, was changed to Kewaskum, in honor of an Indian Chieftain.
Two elections were held in the same house and in the same year. September 6th for territorial and county officers, and November 29th for delegates to the constitutional convention at Madison, in which the fundamentals of the state-to-be Wisconsin were laid. The first election in the newly baptized town of Kewaskum was held on April 2, 1850, in the home of Nathan Wheeler. It proved to be void because it was held outside of the town limits, and the elected chairman, J. T. Van Vechten, was refused the vote in the session of the County Board. Matters, however, were righted in another election. (Carl Quicker, Washington County, Wisconsin, Past and Present, Vol. 1, 31).

Local names—whether they belong to provinces, cities, and villages or are the designation of rivers and mountains—are never mere arbitrary sounds devoid of meaning. Almost always they may be regarded as records of the past, inviting and regarding a careful historical interpretation.

What is now the village of Kewaskum was first called Myers' Mill, taking its name from the sawmill built there by J. H. Meyers. Kewaskum was named by Jesse Myers from an Indian chief who had his camp here in 1850.

NOTICE! ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING

Notice is hereby given to the qualified electors of School District No. 5 of the Village of Kewaskum that the annual meeting of said district will be held at the high school on Monday, the 14th day of July, A. D. 1941, at eight o'clock p. m. for the election of school district officers and for the transaction of such other business as shall lawfully come before it.
Dated this 7th day of July, 1941.
Paul Landmann, Dist. Clerk

(Stennett, A History of the Origin of the Place Names, 90). There are several opinions as to the proper translation of the word "Kewaskum." According to one interpretation Kewaskum means "returning track" or "going on the back track," "retracing his footsteps," or a man able to turn fate whichever way he pleases. (J. G. Gregory, Old Milwaukee County, Vol. 11, 1089).
