New Suburban Gardener—I don't seem able to tell my garden plants from weeds. How do you distinguish between them?

Old Suburban Gardener—The only sure way is to pull 'em out. If they come up again, they're weeds.

No Parking Signs

Howe—So, you're going in for yachting this summer because it's not so expensive as automobiling.

Wise—Yes; a yacht can stand on a tack and there's no tire punctured.

Note to a Mother-in-Law

Dear Ma, take back your darling daughter. Teach her the things you haven't taught her. The simple things . . . like boiling water. Before I'm tried for wo-manslaughter!

I've tried to eat without a quiver. Her recipes—Oh, God, forgive her. Now back to you for keeps I give her. Before they send me "up the river."

Be Calm

"What is this stuff I just picked?" asked the city girl on vacation. "Heavens! That's poison ivy!" exclaimed the country boy. "Well, don't get so excited," said the city girl calmly. "I'm not going to eat it."

Unforgivable Error

Friend—And have you ever made a mistake that had serious consequences?

Specialist—Just one. I cured a millionaire in two consultations.

LENGTHY TRIP

"I hear you have sent your wife to the 'Thousand Islands'?" "Yes, an' I wish there were a million of 'em."

Simple

An electrician was examining an electric refrigerator which had been using too much electricity but the man could not find the reason. He idly asked the cook, "How do you like the refrigerator?" "I like it fine," she said. "I open the door and it cools off the whole kitchen."

New Siren

"I see that George has a new siren for his car." "What happened to his old girl?"

PRIVATE PURKEY ON 'MANOEVERS'

Dear Ma— Well I am just back from another manover with my outfit and I don't know whether you know or not on account of there was a dispute between the umpires. One ruled that we was exterminated and the other came up with a decision that we was not even touched. It is all on account of the flag system wch I gess you never heard of so I will explain it to you ma.

Of course we do not shoot each other in these here war games but at the same time nobody can tell how the fight came out if it is all forgot as just a cross country outing. So a lot of flags is used to denote where we are and what happened. All we jeeps do is obey orders and we don't even know what the main idea is. But the observers and umpires who have the whole thing worked out on maps get a idea what wood of happened if it had been a actual battle. Here is where the flags come in.

An umpire waving a blue flag indicates that you are smack in the middle of an area which is under artillery bombardment and that it is a very unhealthy spot to stay in. If he has a yellow flag it is supposed to show that you are under machine gun fire and that if you go any further into it you wood be shot full of holes in a real war. Another colored flag means that we are advancing thru a heavy smoke screen and so on. I heard that in this last battle somebody got all mixed up on the flags and it still is a question wch got mixed up most the officers or the referees. Anyhow one official said the flags meant my division had walked right through a area wch the enemy was giving the works and that we was mostly all dead or wounded. He said that in a real fight all of us wood have been legible to be buried as the Unknown Soldier. Another referee said nothing of the kind. He said he was a better judge of flags than the other fellow, and that from what he saw we had been safe all the time except from more bunions.

Of course for all I know one of 'em is color blind but I do not care as long as the generals do not order the game played over again.

Believe me I am glad the summer is almost over as the weather seems twice as hot in a army as it does anywhere else and it seems to me I have spent the last four weeks in a dust cloud. I never knew there was so much dust in America. It wood almost be a great break for me if I got lent to Iceland, except that I do not think I would like the long days up there.

Sergeant Mooney says the sun does not set at all in the summer in Iceland and that it is day time 24 hours. A 12-hour day is plenty for me, especially in the army. In a place where the sun does not go down I wood be afraid the bugler wood get all mixed up and start blowing me out of bed at midnight.

Well anyhow I am getting so used to tough brakes that nothing bothers me much no more, except when I do not get regular letters from you and Lillian and Doris and all the girls witch reminds me do you know where Lucretia Willsets has moved? All my letters to her come back.

Love, Oscar.

Beneficial Birds of Prey

Did it ever occur to you that the barred owl that hoots in your woodland at night, or the broad-winged hawk whose shadow floats over the hen-yard sends all the fowls squawking to shelter, may, in truth, be beneficial rather than harmful to man?

"When in doubt, don't," is an aphorism often offered to young people to be practiced in relation to careless speech; it could as aptly be recommended to those who shoot the bird first and find out about him afterward.

For his own sake, the farmer, the fruit-grower, the orchardist and the poultry-man should know the beneficial birds of prey so that he may not, unwittingly, kill some of his best friends.

The marsh hawk, for example, coasting on its long, narrow wings over fields and marshes, is hunting for some of the very pests which the farmer often has to destroy himself, with poison bait. This hawk is a slender, handsome bird, recognizable by his white rump. He is an untiring mouser and the greater part of his food consists of field mice, rabbits, ground squirrels, rats and snakes. Only occasionally he snatches young poultry. Should we begrudge an infrequent chicken dinner, as payment for his services?

The red-tailed hawk is widely distributed and of such striking appearance that everyone recognizes him as a hawk. Unfortunately, however, he has been labeled "chicken-hawk" and is, consequently shot on sight. Yet the preference of this great bird of prey is for rodents, reptiles, and frogs. Stomachs of a large number of these hawks, when examined, disclosed squirrels, chipmunks, harvest mice, common rats, house mice, jack rabbit, pouched gophers, skunks, moles, shrews, and many of the larger insects such as grasshoppers, beetles and crickets. I leave it to you—is he a useful bird, or is he not?

Then there is the red-shouldered hawk, also commonly called a hen hawk, which is in reality of great value to the farmer. It feeds on mice, birds, snakes, frogs, fish, grasshoppers, centipedes, spiders, crawfish, earthworms, and snails. About 90 per cent of its food, in fact, consists of injurious mammals and insects. In his role, instead of being wantonly destroyed, should be everywhere protected and fostered.

The sparrow hawk, which, under stupid bounty laws has been practically exterminated in some sections, is a true falcon and has been placed, by the U. S. department of agriculture, in the "mainly beneficial class" of hawks. A recent bulletin reports that "it is only in the nesting season, when the bird is pressed for time, that he commits any depredations on poultry yards, and that, of 46 of these hawks examined, 45 were found to have in their stomachs only grasshoppers, beetles, fur and bones of mice."

The barn owl, which resembles a monkey to such a surprising degree that he is frequently called the "Monkey-faced owl" seems to prefer the habitations of men. It is true that many of these owls live in hollow trees but their preference as dwelling places, seems to be for barns, church lofts, old mills, and outbuildings. The barn owl has a special liking for the pouched gopher which is nothing less than a curse to the lands which it inhabits, and he feeds also upon the cotton rat and the common barn rat, besides moles, shrews, and mice.

The little screech owl, so well known in practically all parts of the United States, feeds more extensively upon insects than do any of the other owls except the burrowing owl. The bulletin previously referred to says of the screech owl: "As nearly three-fourths of the owl's food consists of injurious mammals and insects and only about one-seventh of birds (a large proportion of which are destructive English sparrows), there is no question that this little owl should be carefully protected."

The great snowy owl, a large Arctic species, visits the United States in large numbers every winter. The bird has great size and strength and wages constant and effective warfare upon all troublesome rodents, feeding extensively upon white-footed mice, meadow mice, and rats. Rats seem to be to this owl, an especial delicacy, and this food preference, alone, should assure him the protection of man.

For further information concerning harmful and harmless or actually beneficial birds of prey, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Biological Survey Circular No. 61.

HOW TO PLANT CUCUMBERS

Prepare the hills—allowing about 50 square feet of space for each hill—several days in advance of planting, incorporating a shovelful of fertilizer in each hill. Plant the seed at the rate of a dozen seeds to a hill, covering the seeds to a depth of about an inch. Later, thin the plants to two or three sturdy ones to each hill. Two such sturdy hills will provide sufficient supply for the average family. There are many ways of preparing and serving this delicious garden dish.

THE WEASEL

The Arctic weasel, otherwise the ermine or stoat, is graceful, courageous and fearless, but with these attractions he is nevertheless, as Audubon says, "fierce and blood-thirsty, possessing an intuitive propensity to destroy every animal and bird within its reach." The weasel seems to kill just for the pleasure of killing, and has been known to kill 40 well-grown fowls in one night. It has a voracious appetite but does not consume all of its kill, and unlike some animals, does not return.

Fringe on Our Flag

There is no significance attached to the yellow fringe on the American flag. According to the war department it may be regarded as "fringe only, and is of no value or significance as a part of the flag."

The use of the fringe has long been a debated question, although the war department sanctions it, and the United States Flag association does not consider the use of the fringe as improper. Nevertheless, the first flag adopted by the Continental congress in 1777 bore no fringe, and many patriotic citizens feel the American flag needs no decoration.

Vanished Men
BY GEORGE MARSH

Around the campfires in the Canadian wilderness men began muttering over the mysterious disappearance of six frontiersmen who had hit the Chibougamau Trail and never returned. They were in terror of Jules Isadore and his right-hand man, Tete Blanche.

But Garry Finlay, brother of one of the missing men, marched into the forbidden country with two others and Flame, his giant airedale. Neither bullets nor poison could hold them back. At last, scorched by the leaping flames of a forest fire, they solved the mystery of the missing men and brought retribution upon the murderers.

READ "VANISHED MEN," NEW SERIAL BEGINNING TODAY

The Statesman has secured Western Newspaper Union's latest released serial, "Vanished Men," by George Marsh as its new story, which will run in weekly installments. Turn to the first chapter which begins in this issue. We can promise you that it measures up to the high standards of George Marsh's stories of the Hudson Bay country, for which he is justly famed.

"Vanished Men" is a story in which a man from the South did not believe the story that came out of the North. Yes, Garry Finlay suspected murder, and was determined to wrest the secret of his lost brother from the Northland, even if it cost him his life! It nearly DID cost him his life, time and again, but there was a beautiful girl at the end of the trail, which made all his perils and his sacrifices well worth while.

We are positive this new serial will please our readers so turn to the first installment now.

DEPARTMENT STORE KEWASKUM

Twenty-five Years Ago

(1916)

In real estate deals Rosenheimer & Day purchased the Jos. Stein farm in Town Barton and Nic. Haug, Sr. farm near St. Michaels, selling the latter to Mr. Stein. They also bought the Otto Magritz farm in Town Kewaskum at auction. In another deal Peter Drickon sold his farm near St. Michaels to Frank Himes of Campbellsport.

The lodge of Odd Fellows initiated five new members into their society, namely Edw. C. Miller, D. M. Rosenheimer, L. P. Rosenheimer, B. H. Rosenheimer and Dr. Karl F. Hausmann. After the initiation a banquet was held at the Republican House at which G. A. Kuechenmeister of West Bend was toastmaster.

Washington county is represented at the state university at Madison by 41 students from seven different towns, according to the university press bureau. Kewaskum sends Miss Olive Oppenorth, a junior in the College of Letters and Science, and Miss Irene K. Oppenorth, a freshman in the same college.

Ben Jensen and Alfred Meinecke of this village, both members of Co. A. 18th Infantry, stationed at Douglas, Ariz., the past two years, are amongst the soldiers ordered to cross the Mexican border to hunt Villa and his bandits. Mr. Jensen is a son of Mrs. Iva's Jensen and Meinecke a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Meinecke of here. Both boys enlisted at the time of the first crisis with Mexico two years ago.

A little girl made her appearance at the home of Henry Oppermann. Born also to Mr. and Mrs. John Pesch, twin girls, but they died shortly after birth and buried at St. Michaels.—New Fane correspondent.

Wm. Endlich received notice that he passed the state board of health examination for optometrist. He will receive his certificate in the near future.

The four weeks old son of Mr. and Mrs. Killian Ruppinger died.—St. Killian correspondent.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Food Shortage in Europe This Winter Means Thousands Are Doomed to Starve In Most of Areas Occupied by Nazis; U. S. Court Obtains Spy Confessions

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

What Price a Mad World!

The scene is a street in Uniondale, N. Y. The country is not at war. It is, however, arming for defense. Arming as never before. For the menace, it is charged, is world wide. And so an army pursuit plane leaves Mitchell field, New York, one day. A few minutes later it crashes in Uniondale street. You see the wreck still burning. You don't see three children burned whose clothes caught fire. The pilot of the plane bailed out.

INCIDENT:

U. S. S. Greer Attacked

When the news was flashed that a submarine attacked the U. S. destroyer Greer while the latter was en route to Iceland, the words "incident of war" leaped to the thoughts of many. Still, there were other "incidents" and they did not bring war. The Greer was not hit.

FOOD:

For Conquered

Most were agreed that the coming winter will find starvation walking the lands of conquered Europe. Germany took the bull by the horns by stating her position clearly. Not only, said Berlin, was Germany not going to feed the hungry in conquered Europe, but she felt at complete liberty to feed herself from the stores of conquered countries. If anybody was to feed conquered nations, let Britain and the United States, who control the seas, do it, declared Berlin.

As long as this was the declared Nazi policy, it was a certainty that the United States and Britain would do no feeding of these populations, for if the food was sent over, Germany felt "at liberty" to feed herself with it. The food would just be going into enemy hands and doing no good to the starving millions, it has been held.

Assuming that the Russians in conquered sections of the Ukraine had not been able to flee, but had been able to burn their wheat, as seemed likely from general reports from the area from both sides, then there were a few million Ukrainians in danger of starvation within the shortest possible time. Not were the people in France, Norway, and the low countries in any better condition, and with the exception of the Rumanians, the Hungarians and the Croats, reportedly fighting with the German arms, and the Finns, coming down from the north into Russia, most of Europe was going to be hungry.

JAPAN:

Full Mobilization

Ordering a full mobilization of his country, and at the same time, according to rumor, bidding President Roosevelt to visit him "in the Pacific on a Japanese battleship," Premier

MISCELLANY:

Berlin: German fashion dictators had decreed shoes of straw as an "ersatz" for leather. Rationing decrees that each person may buy only two pairs of leather shoes each year. Now, such is the demand for straw shoes (which wear out in four to six weeks) that the manufacturers are running out of straw.

Iran: British soldiers, advancing without resistance in this country, met a section of the Iranian army distant from Teheran. Under a white flag the British commander talked with the Iranian chief officer, asking that the troops get out of the way. The Iranian said: "We have received no armistice order. Do you mind if I telephone the Shah at Teheran?" The British waited while he telephoned. He came back, beaming and said: "You were right, my friend."

Spy

Lucy Boehmler, 18, who pleaded guilty in New York to charges of espionage for Nazi Germany. She is said to be part of a ring which visited various parts of the country to obtain military secrets.

LENINGRAD: Near Siege

Despite what undoubtedly has been one of the greatest defensive actions in world history, the Russian defenders of Leningrad had before them the question of a siege of the city itself, and the problem of whether they could hold the attackers back until cold weather comes to their rescue.

Like northern New England, Leningrad weather is described as "nine months of winter and three months of early spring," and this spring-tide has now given way to the autumnal rains, which will shortly be supplanted by winter's heavy snows.

The Russo-Finnish campaign at the beginning of the war demonstrated that mechanized warfare doesn't pan out so well in the snow and ice and the Reds are hoping that if they can hold out through the rest of this month, they'll get a progressive breathing spell along the whole front that will permit American aid to materialize, and a reorganization of their defense.

It was evident, not only from the Soviet but from the German communiques that the Russians were putting up a magnificent resistance all along the line, that Budenny's army got across the Dnieper without being completely knocked out as the Germans had forecast, and that General Timoshenko in the center is carrying on a protracted and more or less successful counter offensive.

This statement was a far cry from his July 30 position that all Japan wanted was peace and prosperity in the Pacific, to "close out" the China affair, and to be friendly with the United States.

Dispatches from Washington said that diplomatic advances had been sent to Tokyo, probably the cause of Konoye's action, stating that this country was going to "stand firm" on its right to send lease-lend aid to Russia through Vladivostok, and to continue to send such aid as long as peaceful relations exist between Russia and Japan.

The same day Nichi Nichi, influential Japanese paper, defied the United States to "place any obstacle in Japan's rightful sea routes in the name of freedom of the seas." It continued: "Japan will not hesitate to take steps against any obstacle such as this."

Complicating the issue at about the same time were two Russian seaplanes, carrying 47 Soviet airmen, flying over the Bering sea on their way to Washington to join the Russian mission to this nation's capital.

While Moscow disclaimed anything but a peaceful intent for this trip, another Japanese paper, the Times and Advertiser, took alarm at it, stating it was "an effort to establish a warplane service between the United States and Russia."

This newspaper said that Japan felt itself now encircled by the British and Americans on the south, through these countries' aid to China and the Dutch East Indies, and that any "effort to encircle Japan on the north" would be a matter for grave study.

Starvation already was stalking the land in August, he said, when he escaped via Lisbon.

Medical men said this hunger would not point definitely to revolt, however, for starving people soon lose their ability to fight or to resist even the inroads of their own hunger. Starvation carries with it only apathy, finally coma and then death, they declared.

SPIES: First Trial News readers turned their eyes to New York where 19 out of 33 members of an alleged German spy ring went on trial on charges of espionage. The other 14 pleaded guilty, which made it improbable that the full story of their guilt would be told. But the trial of the 19, prosecutors in the federal court said, "would unfold ramifications beyond belief." U. S. Attorney Kennedy said that much of the information in the possession of the prosecution had been obtained from those who had pleaded guilty.

One of these, Everett Minster Roeder, 47, pleaded guilty to "obtaining information and sending it to a foreign power." He worked in the plant of the Sperry Gyroscope company, makers of the famous secret bomb-sight of the United States army—one of the country's most prized war possessions.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—It was quite by accident that little Dorothy Dale of Kansas became a sorceress and overthrew the Wicked Witch of the East and freed the enslaved Munchkins. We wondered why Lucy Monroe, the "star spangled soprano," kept reminding us of all this and now it is all clear.

Miss Monroe's mother, Anna Laughlin, was the first Dorothy Dale, in "The Wizard of Oz," with Fred Stone, and when the daughter made her musical comedy debut in "Louie the Fourteenth," in 1925, old-timers in the audience, this one among them, were moved to poignant and all but tearful memories by the winsome daughter's resemblance to her mother.

Little Dorothy Dale was forever young, still in a land of enchantment—that was all there was to it.

The sorcery of Miss Monroe, opera, concert and radio star, is, unlike that of Dorothy Dale, quite premeditated, and involves a somewhat wider outreach in world liberation, but at a time when people are hoping that somebody will pass a miracle. She has become our national patriotic songster and song-leader, here and there and everywhere, and at the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the Philadelphia Municipal stadium recently, she led the series of "community sing" in a series of great public invocations of old-time patriotism throughout the country. More than 30,000 persons attended the first one at Washington several weeks ago.

The "star spangled" phase of Miss Monroe's career began in 1937 when she was made official soloist for the American Legion. This stirred in her deep patriotic fervor which found a response in her audiences everywhere.

She is an eighth-generation American, trained as a singer entirely in this country. She made her Metropolitan debut in "La Boheme," in the spring season of 1937.

IN THE first World War, facing a hurry-up job of army morale-building, they slammed Irving Berlin into a corner and told him to dish up a few red hot morale Broadway Is Out, Osborn In, to Back songs, right Up Army Morale are a couple of lines from the first one: "Don't you worry, mother darling, Although the skies are gray, For there's always a little bit of sunshine, In the Y.-M.-C.-A."

This time they pick for the bucking-up job a eugenist, population expert, conservationist, business researcher, corporation executive, art connoisseur, banker, and traffic expert—all in the one distinguished person of Frederick Osborn, of New York. The war department names him as head of its morale branch, with the temporary rank of brigadier general.

The appointment may or may not have something to do with the recent disquieting magazine articles about unrest in the new army. General Osborn has been occupying, as a dollar-a-year man in Washington, as a consultant in various endeavors and has been chairman of the army and navy committee on joint recreation. Hence it is possible that his appointment to the army post had been decided upon before the recent flare-up about discontent among the National Guard and selectees.

Whatever the appointment may mean, the choice of a civilian for this office sets a precedent. General Osborn replaces Brig. Gen. James A. Ulie. Furthermore there is disclosed here a trend away from showmanship as an old-line, dependable morale builder. Billy Rose of Broadway was back in New York a few weeks ago, after a session with the army morale-builders. He was all fussed up. "Nothing happened," he said. "They told me my blueprints were wonderful, the ideas were wonderful and I was wonderful. Then they said good-by. That's all I expect to happen."

General Osborn, never a hooper or spoofer, is 51, the son of W. C. Osborn, distinguished New York lawyer, and an alumnus of Princeton university who started a career of business management in 1912. His book, "Preface to Eugenics," published last March, reveals uneasiness about the falling birth rate and the urgency of nice people having more children. He has six. Always in deadly earnest, he's farthest north from Broadway, and Irving Berlin's little bit of sunshine in the Y.M.C.A. Possibly a highly technical war demands that kind of morale-builder.

THERE'S still more disillusionment for old-timers in a note on Frank J. Wilson, chief of the United States secret service, just now urged law enforcement officers to have careful regard for civil liberties. Nobody was ever more unlike the bearded secret service agent of hay-mow literature than Mr. Wilson. He is a quiet, professional, scholarly, persistent citizen. He is the man who spun the web which netted Al Capone. His bureau has been delving quietly and effectively, with highly gratifying results.

'Morale for Defense' Is National Problem

Lack of Rhythm Marks American Efforts to Arm; Wider Use of Plastics in Industry Would Benefit Farmer.

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

If you've ever watched a slow-motion picture of a high-diver, a professional golfer, or any other trained athlete in action, the thing that strikes you first is the perfect rhythm.

As one just-returned American who was comparing notes with me remarked: "Canada seems to be taking the war in her stride."

Certainly Washington is not. Today the one topic in the capital is—"Morale for defense," how to achieve it. And very few people can say how. Morale by speeches doesn't work so well because speech is free and there are always "un-morale" speeches, too. Morale by committee doesn't seem to work. There are plenty of committees. They solicit funds for advertising. Ads appear in the metropolitan papers. One greeted my eye this morning, the first line of which read: "The next few weeks may decide what will happen in America in these next weeks. You can make people see the truth about the peril you face, that your family faces, that this whole nation faces . . . But can you? Or do you want to?"

Civilian Defense Effort. A few days ago, as some of you may have heard me mention over the air, I sat in a little group in Washington where a very earnest, very emphatic man was talking about this very thing. He was an army officer in a branch of the service that is tied up very closely with the civilian defense effort. He is at his desk from 7:30 a. m. to 6:00 at night. I never heard a talk that sounded less like what the average person thinks a professional soldier says when he "sounds off."

"If things go the way they are going," he said (he referred to the lack of civilian support of our defense effort) "it will be fine for me. I'll be a major-general. But you civilians and your children will have to pay for a bigger and bigger army the rest of your lives. In the end, there will be nothing left of life as we have known it in America."

Waste Found But No Graft. Senator Truman, Democrat of Missouri, has been checking up on how efficiently the defense program was being run. Among other things, he reports that a million dollars have been wasted because of lack of plans for training the huge force of men which was inducted into the army. This applies specifically to housing the soldiers.

As a matter of fact the army wasn't expecting any such number as was suddenly placed on its hands. They had to hurry, and haste makes waste. But there is one consolation. The senator found no graft.

Checking Up on Air Propaganda. When I was broadcasting the early days of the war from Germany, it always gave me a strange feeling to sit in the government-controlled radio station in Berlin and listen to the foreign broadcasts coming in. I knew that it meant penalties as high as death for the German citizen to listen to what I was hearing. Of course, German radio officials monitored the stations.

Today the American government is monitoring foreign broadcasts. Not because they care whether the Americans listen or not—not very many do—but because, to quote from a statement by the Federal Communications commission: "Today almost every political, diplomatic or military move is presaged by shifts in propaganda treatment. Consequently through study of propaganda trends, it is often possible to predict such moves . . . the altered tone of foreign broadcasts gave the first indication that Germany was about to invade Russia, and that Japan intended to occupy Indo-China."

Propaganda by air, the FCC says, uses "the old devices of exaggeration, 'suppressions, distortion, appeals to selfish pride and interests, and exploitations of prejudices and jealousies."

Remember that when you tune in on a foreign broadcast.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

A Nazi plane crashed off the Norwegian coast. A fisherman put off in his boat and when he returned alone, he was asked, "Were none of the fliers alive?" The fisherman answered, "One said he was, but you know you can't believe those Nazis."

Secretary Wickard says he can't conceive of a satisfactory future for the American people if we ignore the one-third of our land which is, or should be, forest. In other words, we can't get along without "the Sticks."

In Canada it is forbidden to sell sliced loaves of bread. A whole loaf is better than no bread at all, even if you have to slice it yourself.

Attorney General Francis Biddle's great-grandfather was the country's first attorney general. Next to being one yourself, that's something to brag about.

Exhaustion A Cause of Pneumonia

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

A CURRENT movie shows an elderly physician and his assistant trying to find why every patient with pneumonia does not recover instead of only 98 per cent. Why should even two per cent die? As I followed the movie I had in mind the great number of cases of pneumonia that accompanied and followed the influenza epidemic of 1918 and 1919, when physicians felt that a recovery of 90 per cent in pneumonia was satisfactory.

That the death rate should be reduced to about 2 per cent by the use of new drugs, sulphathiazole and sulphapyridine, is a wonderful accomplishment, yet, as the picture teaches, why shouldn't all cases recover? The fact that pneumonia often followed the flu is not because of the flu in itself, but because the flu exhausts the patient, particularly his heart, that when another infection, a serious infection like pneumonia, occurs, the patient may not have enough strength left to fight it.

We have all known of cases where the husband had pneumonia and the wife not only waited on him practically day and night but had to carry also the worry about him in her heart. The husband recovers but with the danger past the wife is stricken with pneumonia and, being worn out with her nursing and anxiety, fails to survive. The same may occur when the wife is stricken first and the husband, worn and worried, develops pneumonia and passes away. The loss of rest, and not eating enough food, while nursing or worrying about the patient, is a big factor in lowering the physical strength and the resistance to the disease.

Exposed to Attack. The point is that it is the tiredness and weakness of the body that enables pneumonia organisms already in the system, or in the air of the sickroom or home, to successfully attack the body and the symptoms develop.

The thought for all of us, then, that when a cold hangs on, when we are attacked by flu, when we've been working hard and are very tired, we are in just the right condition for pneumonia organisms to get their hold. The prevention of pneumonia, then, is proper rest and plenty of nourishing foods.

Blood Transfusions Now Safe Routine

"Blood transfusion should no longer be regarded as a desperate emergency measure, but as a safe routine procedure supplementing other forms of treatment for numerous diseases."

I am quoting Drs. Noah Fabricant and Leo M. Zimmerman, Chicago, in Hygeia: "Modern knowledge of typing blood and new methods for preserving and transferring blood have greatly decreased the dangers that once attended blood transfusion. There are four group types known and it is possible to determine by simple and reliable tests into which classification a person's blood falls."

What is known as the Blood Transfusion Betterment association was formed in 1929. Persons in every walk of life apply to the hospital or clinic to have their blood tested and then typed. They leave their address and telephone number and when their type of blood is needed they report immediately. To qualify a donor must be registered with the department of health, be of normal weight (at least 150 pounds), have a normal blood pressure, and show a negative Wassermann test.

The latest development is blood "banks" by which blood is drawn from the donors and kept in a refrigerator until it is needed. By this means "precious hours are not lost while prospective donors journey over long city distances and the willing donor is no longer rejected because his blood is not the right type."

These blood banks with their supply of "ready" blood of each type mean much to the physician.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What organ is affected when there is a painful distress just beneath the breast bone accompanied by belching?

A.—I'm sorry but I try not to diagnose any particular case. While belching is often due to a sluggish liver, painful distress and belching coming on three hours after meals "regularly" may be an ulcer. Your physician can arrange for X-rays to help locate the cause.

Q.—I have reduced my sugar intake to the amount contained in one baked apple daily. Apparently my blood cannot even consume this amount. Could you suggest a remedy, other than insulin?

A.—1. Better consult your physician. Sugar is a good food for energy and you should not reduce it too much. 2. Insulin allows the blood to use up more sugar instead of having it thrown out of the body. 3. Physician can test for amount of sugar in blood by use of a copper solution.

MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR LEFTOVERS!
(See Recipes Below)

TRIMMED TO TEMPT . . .

Leftovers on purpose! There are so many delicious ways of using leftovers, why not call them "planned aheads"? Casseroles, meat loaves, salads, soups and so on will do much to turn the tag ends of day-before-yesterday's dinner into mealtime "come-ons."

The trick is not to serve the same old hash or stew in the same old way, but to give leftover foods fresh faces with fresh recipes. Like many thrifty homemakers, you, too, can discover the economy, both in time and money, of buying and preparing a large roast, or more than enough vegetables, with leftovers in mind.

Here's a roll call of leftovers and how to fix them—proof that "day-after" foods can be not only good, but delicious!

Salmon a la Ring.
4 tablespoons butter
4½ tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
½ pimiento
½ small green pepper
2 cups flaked salmon
2 egg yolks
½ cup mayonnaise
Salt and pepper to taste

Melt the butter, blend in flour, add the milk and cook slowly, stirring constantly until thickened and smooth. Add green pepper and pimiento cut into strips. Add flaked salmon. When hot, add egg yolks which have been beaten, cook a moment, then fold in mayonnaise and seasonings. Heat again and blend thoroughly. Serve this mixture in the center of a rice ring which has been turned out on a serving platter or chop plate. Garnish with the buttered peas and sprinkle with paprika.

Rice Ring.
Cook 1 cup of rice in 8 cups of boiling salted water. Cook rice until tender and fluffy. Remove from boiling water and rinse well with cold water. Drain thoroughly.
1 cup parsley, chopped fine
1 onion
½ green pepper
1 cup whole milk
2 tablespoons any well-flavored cheese
4 eggs
Salt and pepper to taste

LYNN SAYS:

When brown sugar hardens so that it cannot be measured accurately, spread it in a shallow pan and heat it slowly in a 275-degree F. oven. If too high a heat is used, the sugar caramelizes. Stir and mash it with a fork. Only enough sugar to be used at one time should be softened, as it hardens again as soon as it is cold.

To sour one cup of milk, put one tablespoon of vinegar in a cup and fill the cup with sweet milk. Stir well.

To clean silverware, mix one tablespoon soda and one tablespoon salt with one quart of water. Boil the silverware in this in an aluminum kettle until the tarnish is removed. Rinse and rub dry.

Give the baby his cod liver oil in the bath tub to avoid the brown stains on blankets and clothes that are so hard to remove.

BETTER HOUSING COMES OUR WAY

By ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN
Whatever happens abroad . . . whoever time proves right in the violent political disagreements at home . . . the world conflict now raging has already put an indelible stamp upon American life. And so far, it's for better rather than for worse. For the monumental housing program now under way by the government will assure better living for thousands of Americans. Thus far, more than 96,000 new homes are planned for, of which over 15,000 are already built. These average around $3,300 in cost and are planned scientifically to provide maximum comfort and convenience for this sum. They are assigned to defense workers according to the size of the family—the rent is 20 per cent of his income. If there are no children he'll have a one-bedroom house—with four children, he'll get a three-bedroom house.

Architecturally these houses conform to their locale . . . on the Atlantic coast, the colonial type of house prevails; in the Far West, the California ranchero style is highly practical and adaptable. The living rooms average in size 15 by 11 feet, the bedrooms 12 by 10, the kitchens 15 by 9½, the baths 5½ by 7. There is rarely a dining room. Closets for two are provided in each bedroom, with a guest closet, a linen closet and a utility storage space besides. Stove, refrigerator and heating unit are furnished, and some houses have linoleum in the kitchen and venetian blinds.

The furnishing though is up to the families themselves. Some bring along some of their old stuff . . . but mostly these families are in the market for whole new repertoires of furnishings.

And the whole works shouldn't run over a thousand dollars—in accord with the theory that the furnishings should cost about a third of the whole cost of the home.

HISTORY

—OF THE—

Village of Kewaskum

BY
William J. Mayer
KEWASKUM
Student at
St. Francis Seminary

Fire, in the days of frame buildings was a serious menace. A village or city of wood lived at the mercy of this element. A small blaze could easily grow into a conflagration, and a municipality could only hope to hold fire loss at a minimum by the organization of a capable fire-fighting company.
The Kewaskum fire department was started about 1884. Nicholas Remmel was chief until 1898. On January 10, 1898, Ordinance No. 9 formally established the K. V. F. D. Mr. Remmel and his brother Math. made the first pump, which was used until 1898. This pump, which required about six or more men to operate, gave service at the village fires. (Today the department still keeps the pump, which is held in high esteem in the village garage). At that time the fire department consisted of sixty members. Thirty men comprised the engine company and bucket brigade, and thirty the hook, ladder and hose company. They did some very effective work. One instance of this was shown when Mr. Jacobitz's blacksmith shop burned. The shop was located opposite the H. J. Lay Lumber Co. main office and in between buildings so close that one wondered that the whole sides of these buildings on either side were not burned. But through the cooperation of nearly every businessman who was a member, the other buildings were saved.

(Picture—International, 500 gallon rotary pump, 1938).

The first fire apparatus was housed in a frame building which was later razed to make room for the new village hall, which is more modern. This building is used by the village board, the public library and the fire department.
A stationary rotary 400 gallon pump was installed at the Kewaskum flour mill in 1904 and a connection at the L. Rosenheimer Malt & Grain Co. malt house as well. A hose cart and hook and ladder wagon were added to the fire department in 1905. A Watrus gasoline pump, horse or man drawn, was then added in 1912 which gave good service. Some years later a Ford Model T fire truck was purchased. In the year 1930 the department asked the village board to purchase a motorized engine. They bought a Reo, 300 gallon centrifugal front mounted pump, second hand. In the year 1938 the department recommended the village board to provide the department with a real fire engine. They bought an International motor, equipped with a 500 gallon rotary pump, fully equipped, from Peter Pirsch Co. of Kenosha, Wis.

The following men were chiefs of the fire department from its inception:
Nicholas Remmel, 1884-1898
Nic. Mertes, 1898-1915
Edw. C. Miller, 1915-1916
John P. Schaefer, 1916-1920
H. W. Ramthun, 1920-1922
Chas. Groeschel, 1922-1931
Harry Schaefer, 1931—
The department consists of thirty-two members, including chief and assistant chief. The present chief is Harry Schaefer, a young but able bodied man, who knows what is to be done when a situation presents itself. The assistant is Arnold Martin who too is an able man in his position. This is his second year as assistant chief. Clifford Stautz is foreman, Norbert D. G., assistant foreman, Bernard Sell, treasurer, and John H. Martin, secretary.

Recently a committee conferred with the town board of Kewaskum in regard to fires that are out of the village limits but within the town of Kewaskum. They decided to guarantee expenses of the fire department at such fires in the future. (John H. Martin, "History of the Kewaskum Fire Department," The Kewaskum Statesman, July 19, 1940).
THE KEWASKUM DAM—Since time immemorial, people have diverted water by dams or used water so impounded to do their work. The Pharaohs of old built dams and to this day those ancient rulers are known for this art. Today our presidents have their names perpetuated in these great monuments of steel and stone financed by the public treasury.
The Kewaskum dam served the lowly purpose of operating the mill saws of the lumber mill and later on turned the stones of the flouring mill.
Information concerning the erection of the first dam across the Milwaukee River at Kewaskum is lacking. Conjecture has it that Jesse Myers built the first dam and since then it has been enlarged and re-enforced until its destruction in 1915. Today logs still protrude from the river giving grim but unquestionable evidence of the dam of yesterday.

A large, substantial dam was built, when no one knows, which was washed out in the year 1915. From the pictures found of it, it seems to have been a mighty structure. It supplied power for the operation of the sawmill on one bank, and a grist mill on the opposite bank. Today large stones and boulders, and a small portion of the wall are the only evidences of this dam.

4-H club booths at the county fair exceeded those built by clubs in former years.
The educational type of booth showing a club practice or teaching a lesson was the most popular. Food booths explaining the need of a good diet were especially well planned says Miss Bilstein, county home agent.

Ratings on the booths were made in the following groups: Excellent, good and fair. Some clubs built more than one booth and so received placings in more than one class.
Those that placed in the excellent group were: Myra Bright Stars, Germantown Royal Hearts, Kohlsville Pioneers, Ever Ready, Ever Ready, Slinger Happy Workers, Hartford F. F. A.

Good ratings were received by: St. Lawrence Wah-Hoo, B-Hap-E, Kohlsville Pioneers, Jolly Farmers, Fillmore Peppy Peppers, Barton Robin Hood Forestry Band.
The following groups placed in the fair class: Good Luck, Barton Peppy Workers, Lake View, Oak Grove, Victory Center, Hartford Happy Hustlers, North Trenton.

According to all records the exhibits in home economics excelled those in previous years both in quantity and quality. Miss Catherine Stewart, Fond du Lac home agent, judge of clothing and the dress revue, commented, "The quality of workmanship, choice of material and design in the dresses was exceptionally fine." Over half of the 125 girls enrolled in the 4-H clothing project in Washington County participated in the dress revue.
Winners in each class were:
Wash Dress (Open to girls under 14)—1st, Elaine Casper, Newburg; 2nd, Lois Mae Kuhn, Rockfield; 3rd, Mary Ann Peters, R. 1, Slinger; 4th, Dorothy Krebs, R. 2, Hartford; 5th, Lois Mae Nehm, R. 1, Slinger; 6th, Mary Ann Schneider, R. 1, Germantown.

OF ALL THE WEIRD AND BIZARRE PRACTICES OF THE INDIAN MEDICINE MAN—HE DID OFFER TO SUCCEEDING GENERATIONS, A LIQUID THAT HELPS SOOTHE THE ACHE OF MANKIND AND AIDS WOMEN TO BEAUTY—WITCH HAZEL!

LEGEND HAS IT, AMONG THE INDIANS, THAT A BEAUTIFUL MAIDEN APPEARED IN THE STREAM FROM A BOILING CAULDRON OF WITCH HAZEL SHRUBS—AND TO HER AID THEY ATTRIBUTED THE SHRUBS' MAGIC HEALING POWERS!!

HIGH QUALITY WITCH HAZEL WAS FIRST DISTILLED COMMERCIALY BY THE DICKINSON FAMILY IN 1866 AT ESSEX, CONN. WHERE THE INDUSTRY THEN FLOURED STILL FLOURISHES. ESSEX HAS BECOME THE WITCH HAZEL CITY OF AMERICA.

ASIDE FROM ITS MANY OTHER BENEFITS, ATHLETES HAVE FOUND THAT A GOOD QUALITY WITCH HAZEL IS VALUABLE FOR MASSAGE AND STIFFNESS OR SORENESS DUE TO UNUSUAL EXERCISE!
