Nazi Gains at Kiev and Leningrad Are Reported as Russians Continue To Claim Success in Smolensk Area; Cairo, Moslem Holy City, Is Bombed

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WORLD: Doubting Nazis

News analysts and those who speak in guarded tones of information received through diplomatic channels in Washington were letting it be known that for the first time since the start of the war there was beginning to be a general opinion that Germany would not be the winner in the present war.

Discounting the Nazis' spectacular victories, which had had many diplomats of conquered or menaced countries shaking their heads over the feeling of the "man in the street" of their countries as to the eventual outcome, the people, they had stated now, had changed, or were changing their minds about the situation.

Three main factors emerged as the reasons: 1. The unexpectedly strong resistance of Russia.

(However, reports from the front indicate that the Nazis' gains were continuing.)

2. The growing importance of American aid to Britain and the belief that this nation was drawing closer to actual participation.

3. Britain's growing mastery over the German air force, plus the ability of England to "take" the worst of the Nazi planes had to offer and to carry the fight back across the channel.

The fall of France, the low countries; German victories in the Balkans and Greece, had combined to spread the conviction through more distant points in Europe, Asia, Africa and South America, to say nothing of the United States, that nothing could stop Hitler.

Talk with diplomats in Washington had revealed that this conviction had gone—replacing itself with doubt.

GERMANS: Their Claims

On the basis of German claims, the Russians faced a certainty of the loss of Leningrad; also the certainty that the Russian oil fields in the Caucasus would be reached and made a theater of war on the south.

The battle of the North Atlantic, they claimed, also was progressing favorably, with half a dozen sinkings reported since the President's speech and action sending the navy in pursuit of Nazi raiders.

Washington announced no further losses after the Montana, but it was hinted at the capital that such reports might be withheld until a considerable time after their occurrence as "military secrets."

The Nazis based their assertion on Leningrad on the fact that they had reached the city's outer defenses, that Leningraders were dynamiting buildings, and that the city was being subjected to steady air bombing and artillery fire.

On the south, the Germans asserted two crossings had been made of the lower Dnieper, either cutting Crimea off from the north or threatening to do so, and that though the river was 1,000 to 2,000 yards wide, considerable numbers of troops were passing over, with nothing before them in the way of natural hazards until the Don river should be attained.

The menace to the Caucasus was deemed imminent, and some saw in this an explanation of Russian pressure on and criticism of Bulgaria, seeing in the latter country a hop-off point for the sending of water-borne troops to the Caucasus region.

RUSSIANS:

Painting a vastly different picture of the battle, the Russians claimed continued victories in the center over determined opposition, plus reports that the Nazis, through losses, had been forced to withdraw half a million men from France alone.

Far from accepting the loss of Leningrad as a matter of cost, the Russians told of retaking an island in Lake Ladoga from the Finns, and of the repulse of a German air and water assault on the island of Oesel off the coast of Estonia.

On the central front the Russians had asserted that they had advanced to a position where their armies could recapture Smolensk, held by the Germans since mid-July, and proudly claimed by them the "gateway to Moscow."

The menace to Kiev and the surrounding of Odessa on the south were admitted facts in Moscow, which had confined itself to stating in general terms that the defense was continuing. Yet the Reds maintained that if the drive in the center was successful the German position in the south would be untenable.

CAIRO: Holy City

The bombing of Cairo, a holy city to the Moslems, which Britain had said, early in the war, would result in the reprisal bombing of Rome, Italy's holy city, finally had taken place, with the death of 39 persons and wounding of 93.

Immediately the British press had started the outcry "Bomb Rome Now!"

Though Alexandria, the port of Cairo, had been bombed repeatedly, the enemy planes had never bombed the city itself, and this event, the first, was not immediately repeated.

Nor was there an immediate bombing of Rome. However, the silencing of the Cairo radio, and the failure of the daily communique to arrive had caused many to believe that the British answer to the Cairo incident might be the launching of the long-awaited drive into Libya.

MINERS: Hit at Lewis

Trouble within the fold of the United Mine Workers of America, John L. Lewis' personal labor union, and the basis on which he founded the C.I.O., was the latest labor difficulty to claim attention.

It resulted when a committee charged with discussing a possible strike ballot instead returned a 50 cent assessment against each member each month.

Union members immediately set up a new committee, which met at Shenandoah City, Pa., in the heart of the Allegheny hard coal area, and made an odd demand.

They ordered Mr. Lewis himself to come before them personally and without delay and satisfactorily explain the assessment, or that they would go on strike forthwith.

The monthly dues of the union members now had been boosted from $1 a month to $1.50, and the miners were up in arms and the union trouble within the union was said to be spreading.

NAVY: Building Cruisers

A new type of cruiser to chase Nazi raiders is under construction for the navy, it had been revealed, a report disclosing that work had started on six ships, each 27,000 tons, of a type never before built.

They are to be 17,000 tons heavier than any other cruisers now in the navy's possession, and only 8,000 tons lighter than our heaviest battleships.

They were being built at Camden, N. J., by the N. Y. Shipbuilding Corp.

They will bear the names of Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, Philippines, Samoa and Puerto Rico. The navy withheld all details concerning their speed or armament.

ALUMINUM: A Critique

Newspapers directed sharp criticism at part of the OPM when it was learned that of huge allocations made for the purpose of building plants to manufacture 600,000,000 tons of aluminum a year, only one site had been selected and not one plant had been placed even in construction.

The original plan, outlined by OPM itself, had been to have the plants in actual operation next April or May, when the shortage of the metal will become acute.

Instead, even if the work gets under way now (which it is not) the plants cannot be in production until next fall at the earliest.

Records of the senate defense-investigating committee revealed that there had been a rift between Jesse Jones, RFC head, and Harold Ickes, fellow cabinet member over the sole contract which has been signed—which gives the Aluminum Company of America the right to build plants that would produce about half the estimated yield.

Power clauses in this contract are said to be the quarrel's basis.

LIVE FERRY: To Soviet

A novel plan whereby Britain would send its aid in the way of bombing planes to Russia, ferrying the ships the 1,500 miles loaded with bombs which they would unload at targets deep in the Reich on the way, had been set forth.

This project was first suggested during the defense of Poland, but was abandoned because of the British unpreparedness and lack of any large bombing planes which it felt it could "expend."

HOOVER: Looks at War

HERBERT HOOVER "When Hitler collapses..."

Some criticism of President Roosevelt's foreign policy, especially his latest steps, had been voiced by Herbert Hoover, former President, who still was inclined to "go along with the administration" in the chief issues.

His own position on the war issues was this: 1. Build an impregnable defense.

2. Give material aid to democracies.

3. Bulwark our freedom at home and conserve our strength for the stabilization of peace "when Hitler collapses because of his own overreaching."

His criticism of the President's policy was confined to the alleged violations of the Neutrality act, which Capitol Hill had said would be the next target of the administration. He said:

"President Roosevelt was right in protesting against the firing on U. S. warships and the sinking of merchantmen. But the policy of edging our warships into danger zones, of sending American merchant ships with contraband raises the most critical of all questions."

NEW YORK: Traffic Jam

With all the biggest ships in the merchant trade either on the bottom of the sea or tied up at their docks, afraid to venture out, it was hard to believe that New York could be having a harbor traffic jam.

But such was the case when 104 ships of all nationalities except Italian and German paraded into port within 36 hours, leaving scores of them with nothing to do but to lie at anchor in the harbor, awaiting a vacant dock.

When one considered that an estimated 100 ships carried all the lease-lend aid to Britain since the plan was inaugurated, it gave an idea of the immensity of the cargo space represented in this merchant flotilla arriving in one American port on practically one business day.

PARIS: Reprisals

Typifying stories of unrest from occupied Europe had been the tales coming out of Paris of sniping of citizens at Nazis, and of the executions of "hostages," military prisoners held by the German forces of occupation.

The box score at one point stood: Nazis, two dead and several wounded; "hostages," 13 shot by firing squads—none wounded.

The second Nazi was shot to death after the 13 had been executed, and it had been expected that the shooting of hostages would continue. At that point not one of the alleged actual assailants had been apprehended.

The forces of unrest also had their 20-year-old son of Lieut. Col. Alfred Herteaux, vice president of the Vichy party.

Paris newspapers asked a woman who saw the second Nazi fatally wounded to come forward and help the Germans with their investigation.

She is reported to have told a subway ticket-taker she saw the assassination. But she then disappeared and could not be found.

The man was shot the same day that the 10 hostages were executed.

VERMONT: Goes to War

That rugged individualist, Vermont, of all the states in the Union, came to the conclusion that following the President's address she is now at war.

Both branches of the legislature adopted a resolution declaring that the United States had been in armed conflict since the speech on the subject of naval action in the Atlantic.

The approval of the resolution had this immediate effect: it put into operation a $10 monthly bonus for all Vermonters in the U. S. army, navy or marine corps.

A fund of $500,000 was set up for this purpose.

Washington Credit President's Farmer Tenant Has Trouble All His Own

Newsman Quoted Mose Smith, Who Works 140-Acre Hyde Park Farm, and He Doesn't Like It at All.

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. I suppose the landlord-tenant problem is as much a piece of news as the dog-biting man. So when a famous landlord made the following remark about a certain farmer, I decided the matter ought to be looked into:

"I don't know whether I like being called a landlord," said the landlord. "I say this, though, that if I have to be a landlord, and if he has to be a tenant, I would rather have Moses (Smith) as a tenant than any man I know... he has not cut down the trees; he has not burned up the house; and the fields are in better condition than the day he came. And, incidentally, from my point of view, all the time that Moses has been here, he has never given me a headache."

That is what President Roosevelt said about Moses Smith. So I dropped in and had a talk with Mr. Smith when I was up at Hyde Park recently.

This is what Mr. Smith said to me: "The President is the best landlord in the United States. I've rented from him for 22 years and he has yet to find fault. Whenever he gets a chance he comes over here to say 'hello' and 'good-by,' but he doesn't find fault. And I've made mistakes, too. Nobody is perfect."

And Smith sounded sincere. There is nothing self-conscious about his relationship with the President—to Smith, Franklin Roosevelt seems simply the son of a landlord who has grown up to inherit the functions of his mother and who, purely incidentally, has become President.

When I got out of the car in the driveway beside the neat little white farmhouse with its pillared porch, Smith walked out to meet me. He is a typical up-state New York farmer. He was dressed in two-piece overalls—he told me he had just "dressed three fowls" and I knew that morning he had been spreading fertilizer. Bright brown eyes looked out under the wide brim of his straw hat—the kind "Ding's" farmers wear. He took it off and I saw that his hair was not gray as I judged his years would indicate, but weathered a bit, like good lumber that has been exposed to sun and wind and rain.

House Expands Backward. We did not walk over the 140 acres which make up the place. They are typical of that part of the country, some pretty hilly, some flat—soil that is spread not too deep over the hard rock, of the sort that makes the Palisades. Flat field stone has provided the stone walls and material for the buildings.

Smith asked me in out of the sun which was filtering through the great trees in the yard. We went in the back door which was handiest. "It's a long way," he said, "from the parlor to the kitchen." It was. The house had expanded backward evidently instead of spreading out. Convenient in winter though, not so long a path to have to shovel to the barn.

We sat down in the parlor and the conversation started on the landlord-tenant subject. Smith had reached the point where he was telling his side of the story: "Now the President drove over here a little while back, Smith went on, "with the Princess Juliana. He told her about this house being over a hundred years old and I told him about the well-water. It had gone bad. So he said to go ahead and dig a new well."

Smith showed me the new well. It is 140 feet deep, drilled through the rock. Smith was proud of it. Up Dutchess County way they have a pride in old things that are good. "It will last a hundred years," Smith said with obvious satisfaction.

Two Things Worry Him. Smith does general farming—raises wheat, oats, corn, potatoes and vegetables and keeps 14 cows. He has a good home market close by and he raises enough vegetables for himself.

There were two things which were worrying Smith when I talked to him. One which every farmer worries about these days—getting help. And another which is the particular worry of a tenant of a President.

Every year the Home club meets on the Smith lawn, a group of some four or five hundred Hyde Parkers (incidentally I understand these people are really the ones the President likes the most). This year something happened that worried Smith.

As host he made an introductory speech. He told me that he looked around and saw there weren't any microphones and concluded that as long as this was a home gathering he could say what he pleased without being quoted in the papers.

He got a little excited, he told me, and said something about wishing the interventionists would go up on a mountain and talk themselves to death. Next day he was shocked to see his words in print. And he got a lot of letters protesting.

He explained to me very earnestly that he didn't mean to say that anybody could not say what they wanted to under the Constitution.

"I suppose it's all right that they should," he said, "but it just seemed to me that when these people talk that way and show dissent in the country they just encourage those people in Europe to prolong the war."

"That's all I meant to say," he concluded, "I never had any idea a reporter would go and put it in the paper."

Smith does not think they should have put it in the paper at all—even if he is the tenant of the landlord that he is.

Since Uncle Sam has turned junkman and is crying for scrap iron, attention of the defense agencies is turning toward some of those rusty rails which used to be bright and shiny before the flivver and the truck took away their business.

A quarter of all the iron scrap which goes into the manufacture of steel normally comes from the railroads and scrap makes up 50 per cent of the basic raw material of steel. According to recent reports, 98 per cent of all traffic is carried on 70 per cent of the mileage of the railroads of the country. The roads would be glad enough to get rid of the rusty rails which carry little or no traffic and the government would be glad to tap this source for tanks and ships and guns if it were available. However, when formal steps are taken to abandon a branch line there is usually a strong protest from the citizens of a community through which it passes.

Recently a representative of the Interstate Commerce commission was holding a hearing at a town distant from Washington. Many persons from the community were present as witnesses protesting the abandonment of a branch road which went through it.

There was a dispute as to how much the road was used by the community so the ICC representative asked all those who had come to protest against the abandonment of the line who had come to the meeting by auto, truck or bus to raise their hands. All the hands went up. None had used the railroad.

With the call for more steel for national defense, Washington is looking with hungry eyes at the rusting rails.

Quite Attractive Now. Since Uncle Sam has turned junkman and is crying for scrap iron, attention of the defense agencies is turning toward some of those rusty rails which used to be bright and shiny before the flivver and the truck took away their business.

R. A. F. Fledglings Train Here

This is John Staples of London. He is one of a hundred British boys being fashioned into pilots for the Royal Air Force at the Lakeland school of aeronautics. There are some 550 such students in the U. S. altogether, all of whom are getting expert training far from the bomb-rocked airdromes of the homeland.

Staples is typical of these sky fighters to be. Their average age is 23, and they are drawn from all walks of life. Air cadet Staples was given this Uncle Sam bunny mascot by Florida admirers.

Young Britons who came to America because they wanted to fly and fight with the Royal Air Force are shown marching down the hangars after an instruction flight.

Over in the bomb-cratered homeland they call it "tonic," but like the pop they get in the canteen at the Lakeland school better than the home product.

Above: This is the catfish first introduction to watermelon. Billie Jones, an expert, sub, is showing the Britons the proper technique in disposing of Florida watermelon.

Marching to the mess hall for breakfast.

Handbag Aids Cause. A handbag made by hereditary court craftsmen for the empress of Ethiopia and taken to London when her country was taken by the Italians has aided the Red Cross. The empress gave it to the organization, which sold it to a dealer. In materials alone it is valued at $532. It contains 18 ounces of the finest gold. Craftsmanship doubled its value, both sides consisting of exquisite gold filigree with mountings of wrought gold symbols.

Keep Potted Plants Dry. If you find that your potted plants dry out too quickly after watering, try placing a clay pot inside the larger pot and filling the space between with peat moss. You can buy this material in garden supply or nursery stores. There should be a hole in the bottom of the outside container so that in which the plants are growing. When thoroughly saturated with water, the spagnum moss will hold the moisture around the clay pot.

WAFFLES AT NIGHT—GUESTS' DELIGHT!
(See Recipes Below)

WAX IN EAR

Often Cause Of Dizziness

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN a feeling of dizziness occurs there are many who feel that this is one sign of heart disease and rush to their physician or call him to their home. Dizziness is not a sign of heart disease; the first symptom of heart disease is getting out of breath easily.

The cause of dizziness is usually some disturbance of the liver or the ear. The sluggishness of the liver itself or the slow emptying of the gall bladder or both is a common cause of dizziness. Eating a couple of slices of bacon or a large cube of butter is often sufficient to cause a complete emptying of the gall bladder and freedom from dizziness.

When, therefore, dizziness occurs and you have not, or have not recently had, a cold, nor eaten too much rich food, these other conditions should be remembered.

That a common ear condition—wax in outer ear canal—can cause dizziness is stated by Dr. J. De Swiet in Medical World (London). Other causes mentioned are hardening of the ligaments which hold the little ear bones together so that these three bones become as one solid bone; the use of quinine or salicylates, and the inflammation of the middle ear—otitis media.

When, therefore, dizziness occurs and you have not, or have not recently had, a cold, nor eaten too much rich food, these other conditions should be remembered.

First, wax should be removed. Wax is usually removed by putting hydrogen peroxide and water, equal parts, into the outer ear (some physicians put in olive oil), letting it remain there for four or five minutes. The wax then can be removed by use of hot baking soda solution (sodium bicarbonate), a teaspoon to a pint of water, driven into outer ear by means of a large powerful syringe. As most homes do not have a powerful syringe, it is usually better to go to your physician or to an ear specialist to have the wax removed.

Many cases of dizziness are due to Meniere's disease (dizziness, nausea and vomiting). Avoiding salty foods, such as salt, canned, preserved meats and fish and others and avoiding or cutting down on table salt, usually brings relief.

In severe attacks of dizziness morphine may be necessary to stop the attack.

Timely Warning on Dangers of 'Pep Pills'

DURING the college examinations in my student days, I noticed one of the students with a most peculiar expression on his face and remarked to another student that Blank must be much afraid of the examinations. I was quietly informed that Blank was using a stimulating drug to brighten him up and keep him awake.

Many physicians and others were amazed to read last spring that students at universities in the United States and Canada were using stimulating drugs—pep pills—during examinations. This was done in some cases with full knowledge of the university authorities who "recognized" that as the students were likely to be nervous and upset, a pep pill would prevent them from collapsing during the examination.

A timely warning of the danger of the "pep pill" is to hand in the Journal of the American Medical Association from Coroner Lowell C. Smith, M. D., Lafayette, Ind., who reports the death of a student during a written university examination. The cause of death was a greatly dilated heart. He had eaten a large meal just before the examination.

His examination paper, as far as he had completed it, was studied by the professor in the subject who stated that the student "was writing a very good paper and had made very good progress in the examination during the hour which he had written." He was a good student, a splendid athlete, and had passed life insurance examinations less than a year before.

The lesson is that with body and mind tensed and tired, there is always danger from the use of a stimulating drug.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—Is it possible for a fibrous tumor to shrink, or maybe disappear after a time, or must an operation always do away with it?

A.—Fibroid tumors are treated according to symptoms which arise. If small and not growing may receive no treatment. If large may be removed to relieve pressure or if there is a possibility of turning to cancer. Better follow your physician's advice.

Q.—Will you kindly point out to me the difference between sacro-iliac sprain and lumbago?

A.—If you have more pain when you are on your feet than when sitting or reclining you may have a sacro-iliac sprain. If pain is worse when you are at rest, there is likely some infection. The injection tonsils, intestines, varicose veins is in general use and is regarded as quite satisfactory. Most surgeons now tie off the large vein near the groin.

Q.—The wool situation is probably the most pressing. Very little fine carpet wool comes through from Tibet, the East Indies and elsewhere. Domestic wool is available and besides, it's too expensive. South American wool is available but it isn't of the quality. Actually most rug manufacturers still have supplies of the old wools in their warehouses. They are selling it with the South American wool in mixtures they are sure to be satisfactory. The price for rugs has been developed to a very satisfactory point.

Drastic Millinery Changes For Autumn Fashion Parade

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

PREPARE to see drastic innovations in millinery fashions this season. Perhaps the most significant and startling is the new cover-up look that is achieved through curtain drapes, snood fantasies and various other intriguing devices.

There is an endless number of new silhouettes on the fall program, which carries the assurance of every one, being becomingly hatted this season. Basic hats are all on the list, so you can be utterly conservative in your choice. You will find your favorite beret on the list, all types of draped turbans, pillbox shapes galore, bonnets from Dutch to frontier-woman types, sailors wide of brim or not, mushrooms and clothes (very face-framing this year) also calots in versatile pleasing interpretations.

However these simply give start to the current millinery story. The big thrill is the revolutionary interpretations that daring designers are giving to the various type hats, through amazing back—curtain effects, cover-up devices and picturesque drapes. This all seems to convey a new message of "more hat than hair" in direct contrast to the long bobs showing as heretofore.

Below to the right, in the group illustrated is a very new pompadour pillbox type made of sheer felt that achieves outstanding distinction and sophistication, via a coarse-mesh net snood draping, so voluminous it extends over the shoulders. Note also the decorative metal band ornament, from beneath which, the snood emanates in gathered fullness.

Another hat that is making conversation in the fashion world is the profile beret. The hat below to the left, is typical of this new trend.

The dramatic pose given to dashing berets, to achieve a smart new look is perfectly demonstrated in this model, which is a black skirt-felt shape worn to accent the new profile silhouette. That there are many ways of wearing the popular beret, adds to its popularity this season. Not only is the profile beret outstanding but emphasis is also given to huge berets worn back on the head in pompadour fashion.

A tremendous revival of feather trims is announced, which is another "reason why" hats take on a different look these days. Not only does fashion place "a feather in your cap" but entire hats are made of feathers. And a perfect riot of feathers enliven the new fall felts, while dressy headgear will flaunt feathers in gayest mood. The little hat above, to the left, is typical of little feminine millinery confections, that call for cunning veils and the use of hatpins.

One characteristic feature of town and country wide-brim felts, is that crowns go towering to any height, as you see in the model pictured in the upper right corner. In this instance, a striking hat-and-bag ensemble has been achieved with two-toned felt, bright blue and red glove stitching. Blue and red combinations is a "last word" message broadcasting from fashion centers, not only for hats but for the entire costume.

Sportsfelts are very wide of brim this season and have a nonchalant swagger picturesque about them that is most intriguing.

Luxury Blouse

Evening and dressy afternoon blouses stress the luxury note more importantly than it has been for many past seasons. This distinguished blouse has an elaborate embroidery treatment expressed in multi-colored sequins, beads and metal threads. The use of rich and glittering embroideries for the new evening jackets follow the same trend. The new deep armhole seams so modish this fall, present endless opportunity to introduce ornate embroidery schemes.

Sweater V Necklines

Sweaters have become a campus and schoolgirl hobby. The fashion that stands pre-eminently forth as a favorite is the long torso pullover sweater with a deep V-neckline. The "big idea" aside is to wear this sweater in lightweight soft cashmere yarns over a smartly styled tweed skirt.

Tips Picked Up in World Fashion Centers

New are the purses covered with tiny white beads in floral patterns. For short-sleeved dresses, let your next shirt-waist be one of the soft long-sleeved sheers. There is a small black crepe purse for that wicked black formal gown hanging in your closet. Bombs have not stopped production in England and many numbers from there will be exhibited this fall.

Two-Piece Effect For Fall-Winter

The two-piece effect whether simulated or actually so, is outstanding this season. Sometimes the skirt is seamed to a long-torso middie-like top so that it has the appearance of a two-piece, though it really is a one-piece. This type is particularly slenderizing to the figure inclined to curves.

Then the new tunic costumes interpret the two-piece vogue, being actually two-piece versions and not camouflaged. Tunics are running a big vogue, some straight-lined, others with a flare. Peplums sewed on at the waistline make another interesting approach to the modish two-piece fashions. Youth seeks the peplum effects for they are especially adapted to slender hips but the more mature figure glories in the straight tunics and long torso bodice tops.

Fall Fashion Program Includes Lace Neckwear

Emphasis on lace neckwear accessories continues as important fashion news. The fact that classic simplicity is the rule for daytime dresses of sheer wools and smart velveteens, has caused a revival or rather sustained interest in lovely feminine lingerie neckwear touches. New in the present showings are deep lace-trimmed collars with half sleeves of matching lingerie to be sewed into bracelet-length sleeves.

Sequins and Appliques Trim Fine-Mesh Veils

Veils will be very ornate this season, with glittering accents of sequins or appliques of tiny felt flowers. Some are dotted with tiny suede stars. Very fine mesh veils prevail, some of which are bordered with spangles, others having rows of heavy chenille to finish them off.

Engaging Colors in Fall Coats

"You see, children," she said, "a beautiful well-dressed woman walks along the street, but she is proud and does not greet anybody—that is the rose. But behind her comes a small creature with bowed head—"

"Yes, miss, I know," Tommy interrupted. "That's her husband."

SIMPLIFYING THE TAX BLOW

The senate finance committee recently voted for the Simplified Chart system for helping the public determine its income tax. It now seems certain that the Do-It-Without-They-Dizzy-Spell idea will become law and that the new arrivals within the income tax classifications will almost be admitted on a Pay-As-You-Enter system.

Secretary Morgenthau says that with the rank and file of taxpayers "it ain't the money; it's the confusion." He contends that a man in the lower brackets should be able to go to a post office, glance at a chart and find out what he owes Uncle Sam without going nuts.

When the income tax was limited to the Upper Brackets and only took in a small proportion of the people, it was all right to let them suffer. There seemed no reason why they shouldn't be given the works, up to and including the headache, the spots before the eyes, the night-sweats, the nervous breakdowns and the mad call for lawyers.

But the Every-Man-An-Einstein policy is to be dropped now that the income tax laws have been eased so that anybody can get in.

Uncle Sam knows that if the rank and file of his citizens were ever asked to go through all that trouble making out an income tax blank, there would be what Willie Howard calls a "re-wolt." Either that or more mental collapses than our institutions could handle.

Hence the "Not A Headache In A Carload" type of tax collection.

It is all right as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough. We think the tax blank should be made prettier. And carry a page of funnies.

We submit the following extra suggestions for making tax paying more painless:

1. Make the tax blanks prettier and include a page of funnies.
2. Preface each blank with the words "Don't Bother Reading This. See Your Postmaster."
3. Include postmaster for return.
4. Have the mailman leave each blank with an apology and explain that it's just too bad.
5. Forbid lengthy discussion of the tax blank in the home. Let the husband say, "I guess I'll run down to the post office and have my income tax apprehensions attended to," and let the wife limit her comment to "Okay. I hope it's nothing serious."
6. Have the post office chart printed in colors and throw in a couple of movie shorts in the corridor.
7. Require the postmasters to serve hot coffee and sandwiches.

Dusty Hot Air Heat

QUESTION: I have installed a new hot air furnace with four vents to rooms for heat. Everything is working well except for the fact that the air, being taken from the cellar, is laden with dust. This dust comes into the rooms through the registers. We seem to be living in a sort of western dust storm most of the time. Is there some way we can filter the dust out of the air before it reaches the living rooms?

ANSWER: Your best move will be to install a filter unit, which comes equipped with a fan to force the air through the filters. Your local heating contractor can give you information. It would also help to make a dust catcher for the registers. This is a simple job, consisting of putting one or two thick pieces of dark muslin mosquito netting inside the register. Take off the grille, and cover the end of the pipe with the netting, which will be held in place when the grille is put back in position. When the netting becomes clogged, replace it with new, or else clean the soiled netting. The material is inexpensive.

Cold Bathroom

QUESTION: My warm air furnace does not heat my second story bathroom, although other rooms on the second floor get plenty of heat. Pipes to the bathroom and one of the other rooms are close together in the wall, but while plenty of heat comes up one of the pipes, there is very little in the other. The heating contractor cannot locate the trouble. What do you think it might be?

ANSWER: If there is no difference in the connection of the pipes to the jacket of the furnace, one possible explanation is an obstruction in the pipe. During installation the pipe may have been plugged with newspapers or otherwise to keep out dirt, and the plugging forgotten. You can check on this by dropping a weight on a string through the pipe opening in the bathroom to note whether it strikes an obstruction.

Noisy Motor

QUESTION: The motor of a large oil burner makes a terrific noise. What is the remedy?

ANSWER: An electric motor that is in good condition should run almost without noise; noise is due to worn bearings or to some other part that needs replacement or repair. With an oil burner, noise is more likely to be due to a blower or pump, and is usually from wear or misadjustment. A machine that is naturally noisy can usually be quieted by setting it on blocks of cork or rubber to absorb the vibration. Any piece of machinery that develops noise should be looked over by a competent service man to locate the cause and to remedy it.

Cold Floor

QUESTION: A concrete floor laid on the ground is covered with a wood floor and surfaced with linoleum. It is miserably cold during the winter months. Can this be corrected?

ANSWER: Concrete laid on the ground picks up dampness and is cold. Wood laid over it is likely to rot, and the condition of this wood floor should be investigated. To protect the floor against coldness as well as dampness, the wood floor should be taken up, the concrete covered with a layer of waterproofing, and then with a layer of insulation, such as corkboard or something similar. The linoleum can be laid on top.

Draft Adjuster

QUESTION: One oil burner engineer tells me that an automatic draft adjuster would effect a saving in oil, and another engineer tells me that the amount of oil saved would not pay for the installation of the unit. What is your opinion?

ANSWER: The saving in fuel will depend on the improved efficiency of the heating unit. If the unit is working well the way it is, there would be no particular advantage in putting in a draft adjuster. But if the boiler was originally designed for burning coal, and then was converted into an oil burning unit, the draft adjuster would be of help in improving the heating efficiency.

Pounding Radiator

QUESTION: My radiator pounds and makes a loud noise as steam gets up. What remedy would you suggest to eliminate this noise?

ANSWER: This condition can usually be corrected by raising the radiator. Place blocks of wood, one-quarter inch thick, under each leg of the radiator. An additional quarter-inch thick block may be needed. Be sure the radiator is standing level and not tilted either way. See that the radiator valve is either fully closed or wide open.

Weatherproofing Windows

QUESTION: Which is more economical: storm windows or metal weather-stripping for windows on a sun-porch? If metal stripping is very much cheaper, can I install it myself? Are there several brands to choose from?

ANSWER: To make windows really weatherproof both storm sash and weather-stripping are advisable. You will probably find the storm sash less expensive than the weather-stripping. There are many brands, but it is advisable to have an experienced mechanic do the job.

Practical Novelties For You to Cut Out

MISCELLANEOUS cutout designs are here to tempt hammer and saw into use. At top, left, is a very practical item—the "Leave a Note" bungalow. In wood makes this, and it is to be placed behind the front door. Pad and pencil inside the hinged door invites friends to leave word if they call when you are away. Practical, too, are the doorknockers—the red-headed woodpecker and the horse. And kitchen or dining room will welcome this clever cottage flower holder and the matching shade pulls.

Jig, coping or keyhole saw may be used in cutting these articles from wood—bright enamel for painting them. Pattern 29310, 15 cents, gives outlines and complete directions. Send your order to:

XIII. SOCIAL AND CULTURAL LIFE

CHURCHES—When Kewaskum's pioneers had reared their first hastily flung-up shelters for themselves and their beasts, their next concern was to establish in their home the institutions and conventions of their old home. So, next to their quest for food was the quest for God and His worship. They knew that "Not alone by bread doth man live but by every word that proceedeth from the mouth of God."
 The Kewaskum pioneers were recruited from all walks of life, of many nationalities and creeds. Hence, it could be that another grouping of the composite picture of any one of our northern cities. For this reason, also, was represented that multiplicity of creeds that in our country, at least, thank God, can give side by side in peace.
HOLY TRINITY CHURCH—Prior to the year 1861 the Catholics living at Kewaskum were obliged to journey to neighboring parishes in order to attend to their religious duties. In that year, however, two lots were presented to the Catholics of that place by Mr. Matthias Altenhfen, upon which a medium sized brick church was erected. From 1861 to 1868 the congregation thus formed was attended as a mission by priest from Barton, among them being the Rev. Father Reinold. The first priest to take up his residence at Kewaskum was the Rev. John Mueller, who came here in 1863 and remained just one year. At that time the mission of St. Michaels was attached to the parish in Kewaskum. Father Mueller's successor was the Rev. Father Ruckengruber, who remained from August, 1869, to April, 1870. Then the Rev. Henry Boers had charge for three months, and his successor, the Rev. Father Schmitz, remained but sixty days. The Rev. Nicholas Stehle then came to Kewaskum, remaining here for five months. In July, 1871, the Rev. Edelman took charge of the parish and continued to administer the duties of the same until the fall of 1877, when he returned to his native country, Switzerland. His successor was the Rev. Grome, later the rector of St. Joseph's congregation in Milwaukee, who entered upon his duties in Kewaskum in 1878 and remained for seventeen years. While pastor of this congregation he built an addition to the church at an expense of $1,000, a school house costing $3,000, and a parsonage at an outlay of $3,000. In July, 1895, the present pastor, the Rev. Philip Vogt, took charge of the parish. (Editor's note—Father Vogt passed away last week Wednesday and the present pastor is Rev. Aloysius Fellenz). In 1898 the congregation consisted of about seventy families. The parochial school, although at first conducted by lay teachers, is at the present time under the management of Sisters of St. Agnes.
 The congregation of St. Bridget's at Wayne, in Washington county, is attended as a mission from Kewaskum. This congregation was organized in 1856 and was at first attended from Kewaskum and later from St. Killan by the Rev. Fathers Schumacher and Jacobs. Since 1878, however, it has been permanently attached to Holy Trinity congregation at Kewaskum. The parochial school connected with this mission is conducted by Sisters of St. Agnes. In 1896 the congregation was composed of fifty-one families. (Heming, Harry H., The Catholic Church in Wisconsin, 441-442).

ST. LUCAS CONGREGATION, EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN—As early as the year 1847 the Missouri Synode sent out its candidates to contact the Lutherans in Wisconsin. One of these candidates arrived in Washington county and established his headquarters in Kewaskum. At the time, however, he found very little material with which to establish a congregation. In 1863, due to the influence of Pastor F. F. Opitz the Evangelical Lutheran congregation came into existence. The congregation was alternately cared for by Pastor Denninger, Sr. and Pastor Schillings. In 1875 Pastor P. Hilpert of the town of Wayne, who at the time had charge of three other congregations, attended these people for nine years. In July, 1884, Rev. Greve served as pastor, although he was not ordained until January 11, 1885. At this time the congregation numbered sixty-two members. The folk-wing summer school was built. In 1898, at the cost of $1200, a home was erected for the pastor. August 20, 1902, the congregation totalling eighty members celebrated the 25th jubilee. The day was marked by morning and afternoon service. Mr. Pirks of Racine with his cornet choir accompanied all the congregation's songs, while a mixed choir under the auspices of Rev. Greve sang hymns appropriate to the occasion. In 1934 the congregation joined the Wisconsin Synode. In 1913 a contract, issued by contractors Warwick and Vandanda of Green Bay, was accepted by the following appointed committee: W. Quandt, A. Wesenberg, B. Hauschild, O. Haback, H. Stark, John Klein, Sr. and Rev. Greve, for the sum of $10,550 to be used in the erection of a larger church. Its dedication took place on February 1, 1914. After serving his people for thirty-nine years Rev. Greve requested his release from service in June, 1923. He delivered his
