Last Rites For Crash Victim; Driver Held

Funeral services for William Gessner, 25, son of Mrs. Emil Gessner of Route 1, Kewaskum, who was instantly killed at 6:45 a. m. Thursday, Sept. 25, in an auto-truck collision on County Trunk G near Gessner's home in the town of Auburn, were held on Sunday, Sept. 28, at 2 p. m. at the Techtman funeral home in this village. The Rev. Albert Meiller of Silver Creek officiated and burial took place in the Beechwood cemetery.

Pallbearers were Marvin Kleinke, Lawrence Uelman, John Heberer, Wilson Oppermann, Henry Oppermann and Andrew Sponzel.

Gessner was killed when his car collided with a milk truck owned by Adolph Heberer and Son of New Pano, which was driven by Arthur Heberer, an employee. The victim was alone in the car and died of a crushed skull and fracture of both legs and arms. Surviving are his mother, two brothers, two sisters, a grandfather and grandmother.

Arthur Heberer, the truck driver, was charged with negligent homicide under a new state law in a warrant issued in municipal court at Fond du Lac Saturday, according to the Fond du Lac Commonwealth-Reporter. He was released on $1,000 bond on Wednesday of this week, pending the hearing set for Oct. 14. The report of Fond du Lac county highway police who investigated the crash indicated that the truck occupied the left side of the road on a curve. The complaint charges that the defendant operated his truck in a negligent manner but not wilfully or wantonly causing the death of another.

The complaint, signed by Capt. Anton Rafenstein of the Fond du Lac county highway police was filed under a new section of the traffic code created by the 1941 legislature. It provides for a jail sentence of not more than one year and a fine not to exceed $1,000 or both sentence and fine for negligent homicide definition. The charge may be the result either of speed or careless, reckless or negligent driving. The charge was filed by Capt. Rafenstein after a conference between Coroner A. C. Florin, District Attorney S. Richard Heath and the investigation officers of Fond du Lac county, at which the defendant was questioned concerning the crash.

Five men representatives of the Wisconsin Historical society out of Milwaukee spent Monday at the Statesman office checking over our files for possible historical events and data. They checked the complete files from the first publication 46 years ago up to the current issues. Working together, they were able to complete their work in one day.

Private Joseph H. Walters, son of Mrs. Edna F. Walters of Route 2, Kewaskum, was one of a total of 29 soldiers who made up the latest class to receive certificates of graduation from the radio communications school of the U. S. army air corps at Scott field, Ill. Pvt. Walters and classmates are now ready for actual tactical work with the army's fighting aircraft.

These graduates have been assigned to different posts throughout the country for practical use of the schooling in all phases of radio operation which they received at Scott field, according to Col. Wolcott P. Hayes, commandant. About 300 men are graduated from this radio university of the air force every two weeks.

Private Jacob C. Schlosser of Kewaskum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jac. Schlosser Sr., who was inducted into military service under the provisions of the selective service act the past summer, was one of two Wisconsin men released Monday from active U. County Pupils Take Part in Dental Program Again

The sound film, "Smiles Have It," was shown by Mrs. Gertrude L. Wooten, R. N., county nurse, in various schools in the county, including the South Side and St. Killian schools in Hartford, the Kewaskum graded school and St. Mary's school in Barton. This picture on teeth was shown at the beginning of the county dental program for the current school year.

The dental program is the same as previous years. The school children are given a blue dental card at school. This entitles them to a free dental examination by their own dentist. After their corrections are completed, they are given a certificate of dental examination (a pink dental card) by their dentist to return to their teacher. Several schools in the past year have had 100% dental examinations.

Dental disease is the largest single cause for rejection for draftees in the United States army. In view of this fact, we should make every effort to correct these defects in the young children or still better prevent these defects.

At the time the shop there was opened all new equipment was installed. Mrs. Bruesel and friend were to Land O' Lakes on Tuesday and moved this equipment to this village, where most of it has been installed in her local shop. Miss Dorothea Mantel of this village, who managed the northern shop for Mrs. Bruesel, has returned to her home.

Rev. Frank La Buwi New Pastor of Holy Trinity Parish Here

Young Priest Assigned by Archbishop Kiley to Take Place of Late Fr. Vogt Comes to Kewaskum from Westport; Rev. Felenz to Leave

The Rev. Frank C. La Buwi has been assigned by His Excellency, the Most Rev. Archbishop Moses E. Kiley of the Milwaukee archdiocese as the new pastor of Holy Trinity Catholic congregation in this village. He has taken over the pastorate left vacant by the death of the Very Rev. Dean Philip J. Vogt, pastor the past 45 years, which occurred on Sept. 17. Father La Buwi, a native of Hartford, Wis., has been transferred here from St. Mary's of the Lake congregation at Westport, Wis., R. D. Waunakee, located near Madison.

Father La Buwi, who is 33 years of age, was assigned to the local parish last week and announcement of the same was made for the first time Sunday morning in the church by the Rev. Aloysius Felenz. The new priest had his personal belongings moved to Kewaskum on Wednesday from Westport and has been reading mass each morning since. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Pauline La Buwi, who will serve as his housekeeper in the parsonage. Miss Mary Schiefs, housekeeper for Father Vogt for many years, left to make her home with her sisters, the Misses Etta and Lena Schiefs in the village.

Rev. La Buwi, who entered the priesthood 10 years ago, attended and was ordained at St. Francis seminary, St. Francis. He sang his first holy mass at St. Killian's church in Hartford. His first pastorate was at Cudahy. After one year there he was appointed to St. Aemelian orphanage in Milwaukee, where he spent five years. From there he was transferred to Westport, where he held a pastorate the past 4 1/2 years.

Father Felenz, a son of Holy Trinity parish, who was sent here temporarily as curate two and a half months ago from St. Anthony's church in Milwaukee, will be transferred to a new parish according to advance word from the archbishop. Up to Thursday afternoon of this week Father Felenz had not received notification of his new appointment but he expects to be assigned in the very near future. As a result St. Matthias church in the town of Auburn, which was designated as another mission of the Kewaskum parish when Rev. Felenz came here, will probably be reverted back as a mission of St. Matthew's church, Campbellsport. For the present there will be but one mass read on Sundays again in the church here instead of the two during the past 2 1/2 months. The schedule of masses can be found in the church notice elsewhere in this issue.

Due to the advanced age of Father Vogt, Rev. Felenz was sent here to assist him only as long as he was able to continue as pastor. With the death of the beloved father his work was done. However, during his brief stay here, Father Felenz accomplished much and won the hearts of every one of the members of the congregation. He was very well liked and it will be with deep regret of the parishioners to see him leave. In obtaining the information for this story we had the pleasure of meeting Rev. La Buwi and we are sure the congregation will welcome him. He comes well recommended and members of the church and mission at St. Bridget's are sure to like him very much.

Local Team Given 3rd Place Awards at K-M Banquet at Falls

Large Crowd Attends League's Annual Dinner Tuesday Night; Prominent Men Speakers Featured

The annual Kettle Moraine banquet was held in the dining room of the Pitz tavern and bowling alleys at Sheboygan Falls Tuesday night. It was a great night for the league. A much larger crowd than was expected attended the affair and it was impossible to seat all present in the dining room. Representatives of the Kewaskum team the past season attending were President Philip McLaughlin, Francis Kudek, G. G. Theusch, Kilian Honeck Jr., Harold and Ralph Marx, Willard Prost, Byron Bunkelmann and William Harbeck, players, and Albert Iron Jr.

Campbellsport, 1941 champions of the league, was officially crowned. Stan Hodge, manager of the Belles, received in behalf of his team the beautiful gold trophy awarded to the first place team by the league, plus 17 individual medals for the players, and the handsome Sheboygan Press trophy. Erving Nimmemann, Campbellsport, league secretary, presented the league trophy and Frank Baranl of the Sheboygan Press presented the Press trophy. Second place trophy went to Adel, managed by Sam Hess. Three teams were tied for third—Cascade, led by Gilbert Nimmemann; Kohler, managed by Lew Bauers, and Kewaskum, managed by Wm. Endlich. As the latter was not present "Bones" McLaughlin received the individual medals for Kewaskum. Equal third-place awards were presented to each of the three teams.

O. A. "Tom" Kroops donated hats to the following three leading batters: Tony Helminger, Adel, .521 average for the season; Long, Kohler, .472; and Boerger, Cascade, .455.

Officials of the league, players and guests filled the large dining room to capacity. Otto F. Stielow, circulation manager of The Sheboygan Press, was toastmaster and he turned in a fine job with suitable comments on America's great national game and humorous stories or jokes of the variety that might be expected at a stag event of this kind. Ben J. Cascade, league president, welcomed the guests and expressed his pleasure at the excellent attendance. He also thanked the board of directors for their cooperation and congratulated Campbellsport. He paid respects to the sportsmanlike play of the other teams and thanked members of the Sheboygan county board of supervisors who attended the meeting.

In introducing Mr. Kroops, principal speaker, Mr. Stielow said that what Mr. Kroops has done for baseball in Sheboygan and surrounding counties can never be measured adequately. When he announced that Mr. Kroops had again given the league a fine donation, the room cracked with clapping. Though Mr. Kroops' talk was brief, it was full of interest and informative comment. Baseball is one of the finest sports for the American people, Mr. Kroops said. Every member of the K-M league is making a valuable contribution to his community. "What would these communities be without baseball on Sunday afternoons?" he inquired. "Things would be very dead." He congratulated the winning teams and praised the league. Mr. Kroops also devoted some of his talk to the Sheboygan Indians of the State league which team he represents.

Judge A. J. Hedding of Milwaukee, one of the most consistent supporters of the league, defended the "lowly umpire," in his remarks, saying that if the umpire were ever caught in dishonest practices the game of baseball would never survive.

Others called on by Mr. Stielow to "take a bow," were: Gene Knowles, Greenbush, vice-president of the league; Denis Schreckmel, Greenbush, former loop prey; Frank Scherer, president, Kohler; Baseball association; James Gannon, town Greenbush, chairman, Sheboygan county board of supervisors; A. C. Drappers, Sheboygan county highway commissioner; Otto Kaufmann, Jr., secretary, Sheboygan Baseball association; Walter Pangel of the College Athletic Supply company, and "Big John" Kohler, Campbellsport, who, like most of the speakers, told a number of funny stories of the parlor (?) variety. The banquet closed with Mr. Kohler's annual version of "The Jersey Bull," a lengthy funny story that made the group roar.

C. E. Broughton, editor of The Sheboygan Press, and Joe Hausor, manager, Sheboygan Indians, sent written regrets for not being able to attend.

OUR COMIC SECTION

PROOF ENOUGH

The young salesman was looking very depressed on his second day in his new job. "Come, come," said the sales manager, "don't look so down in the mouth. I know it's difficult at first. When you've had a little more experience you'll get along all right." "It isn't that," said the young man. "When I got home last night I practiced that sales talk on my wife and now I've got to buy her a vacuum cleaner!"

One Good Reason

"Just tell me one good reason why you can't buy a new car now," said the persistent automobile salesman. "Well, I'll tell you, man," replied the farmer. "I'm still paying installments on the car I swapped for the car I traded in as part payment on the car I own now."

Maybe Not for Long

"Your wife is a blonde, isn't she?" "I believe so. She's at the hair-dresser's now."

"Too Good"

Lecturer—Will those who know nothing whatsoever of this subject kindly stand?

After a slight pause one student rose to his feet.

Lecturer (grimly)—So you know nothing, eh?

Student—It's not quite as bad as that, sir, but I hated to see you standing there alone.

Sympathetic

Mother was telling stories of the time she was a little girl. Little Harold listened thoughtfully as she told of riding a pony, sliding down the haystack, and wading in the brook on the farm.

Finally he said with a sigh: "I wish I had met you earlier, mother."

Financial

Professor—When water becomes ice, what great change occurs?

Student—A change in price.

BE CAREFUL!

"Keep away, Jimmy, that's what they knock flies out with."

Dust-Cloth

Question: How can I make a dust-less dust-cloth?

Answer: Soak flannel or thick flannel in a mixture of 2 parts paraffine oil and 1 part turpentine; wring out, and hang up to dry.

Attention, Knitters!

Question: My trouble has nothing to do with ailing houses, but this is a real SOS, nevertheless; please help me. I have made a pair of white French Angora mittens which shed fuzz on everything. Is there anything I can rinse them in, or is there any remedy for such shedding?

Answer: Wool experts tell me the fuzzing off will be permanently cured if the angora wool is put into the refrigerator and left there for 48 hours or so. The stunt is worth trying.

Heat Pipe Underground

QUESTION: My property consists of two parts, front and rear. Oil burner has to furnish heat for the two. Heating plant is in front and connected to rear by two pipes, two inches in diameter. The pipes are sunk 3 1/2 feet deep and run 24 feet to the rear. These pipes were insulated with plain asbestos covering when they were laid four years ago. I was told if I insulated the underground pipe correctly there would be less oil consumption. How can I do this correctly?

Answer: Ordinary asbestos pipe covering should not be used for underground work unless it is placed in a waterproof box, or covered with a heavy asphalt-saturated felt, over which a heavy coat of liquid tar or asphalt is applied. Most of the well-known manufacturers of insulating pipe covering make one that is suitable for underground work. Your local heating contractor should be able to get information for you on this type of covering.

Cold House

Question: My six-room house is heated with warm air. I get no heat in the upstairs rooms; can barely feel heat coming out of the register with my hand. Other rooms are no better. Furnace is in good condition, and I always run a good fire. What is wrong?

Answer: Warm air cannot flow into a room unless the cool air ahead of it is permitted to escape. There should be means by which cool air from the rooms can get back to the furnace for re-heating. Cool air intake of the furnace jacket should be connected to a large register in the floor of the downstairs hall, or some other central location, so that the furnace is supplied with air from the house instead of cold outdoor air. Any good heating contractor can do what is necessary. There should be at least an inch of space under all inside doors through which room air can flow out and back to the furnace.

Damp Walls

Question: My sun-porch was built last summer with bricks on cinder block and plastered inside. It was finished with wallpaper. These walls are always wet. Can you help me out?

Answer: The moisture on the walls is from condensation. If you will put your hands on those walls you will find that they are very cold, compared to the inside walls of the sun porch. Condensation takes place when the damp house air is cooled by contact with them. The only remedy is to cover the walls with something that will not be cold; insulating board, for example, or plaster on lath on furring strips. Condensation will continue as long as those walls remain cold.

Noisy Oil Burner

Question: How can I lessen the noise made by my oil burner? The cellar floor is concrete.

Answer: Your first move should be to have the burner examined by the people who installed it to locate the cause of the noise, which may be worn and loose parts, or something that is set in vibration when the burner is in action. Rubber or cork supports under the burner may reduce the noise. In some cases stiff insulating board on the cellar ceiling will absorb the sound. But this can be determined only when you have learned where the noise originates.

Cold Rooms

Question: Last summer I replaced my furnace with a larger one, but a large hall and an upstairs room are still cold. Heat begins to come when we open the living-room door downstairs. What can you suggest?

Answer: It may be that the cold air return to the furnace is in the living-room, and does not act when the living-room door is closed. You should have the installation inspected by the company that put in the furnace, for it is evident that something is wrong with the layout of the piping. If the company cannot figure out what is wrong get someone who is more expert.

Sticking Zipper

Question: The zippers on my arctic stick so badly that I can hardly move them. Is there any way to loosen them up so that they will run easily? S.O.S.!

Answer: You can loosen up those zippers with graphite. I rubbed powdered graphite on mine, and now they work almost with one finger. If you have no graphite, rub the zippers with the lead of a soft pencil.

NEW WAYS FOR YOUR BAKING DAYS
(See Recipes Below)

BREADS—QUICKLY

Crisp, hot rolls? Cinnamon filled rolls? Muffins golden and plump standing high in peaks? Scones spread with jam or jelly? Why, of course, they're yummy, and what's better, they can all be made in a jiffy. With the cooler weather setting in, your homemakers can return the hot breads and rolls into your schedules.

Is there a bake sale or a bake sale included in the fall and winter schedule of your church or club activities? Nothing will fill the bill so nicely as a few trays of freshly baked biscuits, rolls, and scones.

Although cakes and pies can be baked at home by individual members, these hot breads can be made, so to quickly right in the church kitchen because they need only a few supplies and a few minutes to make. They'll give your display a complete array of baked goods and will also be a good substantial contrast to the fancier displays. To make things easy, serve them in cases (if you can spare them) to save time in making displays.

If you're planning a sale of bakery goods, have one section of a table made for selling individual pieces of cakes, pie, cookies, or a roll. People realize how delicious a roll is, they can hardly resist buying a loaf.

In a good starter, consider the possibilities of the humble baking-powder biscuit.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- Baked Pork Chops
- Scalloped Potatoes
- *Butterscotch Rolls
- Apple Sauce
- Baked Squash
- Beverage
- Waldorf Salad
- *Oranges in Syrup
- *Recipe Given

*Butterscotch Rolls.

Make baking-powder biscuits as given in the recipe above and pat on floured board. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle generously with brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll as for jelly roll and cut in 1/2-inch pieces. Put 1/2 teaspoon of butter and 1 teaspoon of brown sugar in each muffin pan and lay the pieces of rolled dough on top of them. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees).

Plain Muffins.

(Makes 1 dozen)

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
3/4 cup milk
4 tablespoons melted shortening

Mix the dry ingredients. Add the milk to the egg and mix with the dry ingredients. To this add the shortening. Stir till just mixed. Fill greased muffin tins quickly with two tablespoonfuls to each pan. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for 25 minutes.

The muffin recipe may also be baked in a square pan and topped with the following: 2 tablespoons sugar rubbed with 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons butter. Rub until crumbled in appearance and sprinkle over the top of batter before baking.

Do your meals need toning up or do you want to make your bakery goods sale a smash hit? Either way, these scones will do the trick:

Holiday Fruit Scones.

(Makes 2 dozen scones)

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter or shortening
1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1/2 cup finely cut, seedless raisins
2 eggs
1/2 cup light cream.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, sugar, and sift again. Cut in shortening, add orange rind and raisins. Reserve about 1/2 of one egg white for glaze. Beat remaining eggs well, add cream, and then add to flour mixture. Stir the whole mixture vigorously until it forms a soft dough and follows the spoon around the bowl. Turn out immediately on a floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll 1/2 inch thick and cut in small triangles. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Brush tops lightly with reserved egg white, slightly beaten, sprinkle with additional sugar. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) 10 minutes or until browned. Serve with jam or jelly.

*Oranges in Syrup.

(For 6 people)

Peel 6 oranges, remove all skin and membrane with knife, but leave orange whole. Make a syrup by boiling the following ingredients 10 minutes: 1 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup pineapple juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 cup sugar. Place oranges in this, boil for 1 minute. Remove to serving dish. Chill thoroughly, sprinkle with coconut before serving.

LYNN SAYS:

Quick breads require less attention than yeast breads, but there are a few pointers about them you ought to bear in mind. Beware of overmixing the batter or dough. For the baking powder variety work the fat into the flour or mixed dry ingredients only until mixed. Then stop, add the milk with a few whisks. Mix in the milk with a few whisks, but do not overmix unless you want tough, leathery biscuits. The secret of good muffins is to mix the batter only until blended. Even the egg should be slightly beaten. If you want the muffins high in peaks, add a 1/2 teaspoonful or two of extra flour to the recipe. Honey, jam and jelly are indicated for muffins as spread pick-ups for meals. Always measure ingredients unless you have the extraordinary ability of guessing accurately. There is such a thing, but it is rare, to remember to use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measurements are level unless otherwise stated. Ovens for most quick breads are hotter than for the yeast varieties. Set the meter correctly when heating and do not put batter or dough in until the oven has reached the desired temperature.

SILK SHORTAGE WON'T BE A SHOCK

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN

Expecting a half dozen pairs of silk stockings in the wrong sizes and in strange colors won't make much of a dent against silk shortages, as the war digs in and the defense program tightens. Luckily for home-makers, the silk embargo won't be such a shock in decorative articles because relatively little silk has been used of recent years in popular priced merchandise. The lack of silk will affect luxury items, such as fine damasks and the synthetic silks, such as rayon, nylon and acetate, have been so plentifully available that the final break is hardly easy. Where the pinch of a stiffer curtain, which will also be affected by the curtailment of certain chemicals needed for processing them. However nylon for window curtains, as well as other synthetic materials, are growing in use. We're minding linen shortages much more than silk in the home furnishing world. While Irish linen is still coming through, this covers mostly linen damasks and linen huck towels. There is none of the linen we used to get from Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Russia to use for printing either draperies or table cloths. (The small per cent of printing linen we got from Ireland still trickles through).

The reason that we're getting practically our full quota of Irish linen is because Great Britain has curtailed practically all use of it for home civilian use—40 per cent being allotted for military needs, and 60 per cent allotted for the American market. In order to bring in dollar exchange. This is about what we normally want. Prices on Irish linen have not been allowed to sky-rocket, as during and after the last war. Though some slight increases have been necessary—a dozen table napkins that were selling in 1920 for $13.75 can be bought today for $6.70.

NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

An Old Desk Transformed

HERE is the corner of a smart living room with a color scheme repeating the tones in a piece of embroidered applique work. No one would ever guess that the simple modern desk between book cases is a transformation of the fancy oak affair sketched at left. The top part has been sawed off and a plain board added. The plywood door is hinged to the book cases so that the bottom of the desk is completely covered. Desk and shelves are painted to match and the harmonizing stool is made of a box padded and covered.

NOTE: A framed piece of needlework has both decorative and sentimental value. Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book 2 gives directions for making original designs; also 42 of the popular embroidery stitches. Transfer pattern No. 204 for the poppy, cornflower and wheat design in today's sketch is available. Book and pattern are 10 cents each, and should be ordered from:

First Coalman

The popular legend is that coal was discovered by Joseph of Arimathea who, near Glastonbury in A. D. 67, found a black lump and took it to the monastery where it was thought to be a stone and thrown on the fire. It became known as "seacoals," and was first used generally as fuel in 1228.

It is now established that coal was used in Great Britain much earlier. Sir Cyril Fox, director of the National Museum of Wales, while excavating in the neighborhood of Bridgend, England, came across two cairns, both of the Bronze age. One had buried in it two adults and a child, and fragments of coal found with each set of remains show that coal was used in these cremation burials.

The largest piece of coal taken from the earth was raised from a colliery at Abram, near Wigam. It weighed 11 1/2 tons after being squared for transit. It was sent to the International Exhibition of Chicago in 1893 and eventually was presented to the Permanent Museum at Chicago.

Artificial Silk

The U. S. leads in the production of artificial silk. The "big five" nations which turn out all but a small share of the world's supply of this product are, in the order named: the United States, Japan, Germany, England, and Italy; with annual output scaling from three and one-half million pounds for the U. S. down to one million pounds for Italy.

An Important Statement About Rubber in National Defense

AND WHAT YOU AS A CAR OWNER AND A LOYAL AMERICAN CAN DO ABOUT IT

Among the strategic raw materials so vital to national defense, rubber is one of the most indispensable.

Airplanes, scout cars, tanks and trucks — as well as thousands of vehicles necessary for transportation in defense industries — require tires, tubes, and hundreds of other products made from rubber.

And while no other nation in the world has such vast natural resources as the United States, all of our rubber must be imported across thousands of miles of ocean.

Map showing routes that rubber travels to the U. S.

With world conditions as they are today, we must face the growing possibility that this country may be cut off from its principal sources of rubber supply.

Realizing the dangers of a single source of supply, Harvey S. Firestone began years ago the development of a huge million-acre tract of land in Liberia for growing rubber. Today, an ever-increasing amount of highest-quality rubber is being shipped to Firestone from these plantations.

At present, this country has on hand or in transit only enough crude rubber and finished products to last 13 months at present rate of consumption.

Comparison of rubber supply on hand and amount needed for one year at present rate of consumption.

Every month part of the rubber imported is used by the government to build up a reserve. The remainder is allotted to the rubber companies who must FIRST manufacture products needed for defense. They then use the rest to make the thousands of rubber products needed by automobile and other manufacturers and by the public.

New Firestone synthetic rubber factory

Fully aware of these serious conditions, Firestone has taken many steps to conserve and increase America's supply of rubber. In cooperation with the government, Firestone is now building another factory for the manufacture of synthetic rubber. This will greatly increase present capacity.

As a further step in conserving rubber, Firestone scientists and engineers recently developed the new wear-resisting Vitam rubber compound, which enables car owners to get much greater mileage from their tires and thus save more rubber.

HOW EVERY CAR OWNER CAN HELP CONSERVE RUBBER

Today's conditions stand as a challenge to the loyalty and patriotism of American motorists. Here are a few common-sense rules of tire care which will save millions of pounds of rubber annually for your country — and save money for you.

UNDERINFLATED TIRES WASTE RUBBER

Look at this chart — if a tire with 30 pounds of recommended air pressure is run at 25 pounds, 32% of normal mileage is sacrificed! Save money and save rubber by having your tires checked every week.

SPEED WASTES RUBBER

Chart shows excessive speed is the greatest thief of tire mileage. An increase in speed of 50% may mean a 50% increase in the cost of operating your car.

QUICK STARTS AND SUDDEN STOPS ARE COSTLY

In quick getaways, wheels spin against the pavement, wasting rubber. Sudden stops cause your wheels to slide. Save rubber by starting and stopping slowly.

CHECK WHEEL ALIGNMENT AND HAVE BRAKES BALANCED

A wheel only 1/2-inch out of line is dragged sideways 87 feet per mile, scraping off tread rubber. Unbalanced brakes are equally wasteful of tire mileage. Save rubber by having your wheel alignment and brakes checked regularly.

CHANGE TIRES FROM WHEEL TO WHEEL EVERY 5,000 MILES

The diagram at the right shows how the tires on your car should be changed from one wheel to another every 5,000 miles. This plan of inter-changing tires saves rubber by eliminating uneven tire wear.

SAVES YOUR TIRES... SAVES YOUR CAR SAVES YOUR MONEY!

In every community there is a Firestone Dealer or Store that will gladly perform these services without one cent of cost to you.

INSPECT YOUR TIRES AND CHECK THEM FOR CORRECT INFLATION

Your tires will be properly inflated free at any time. Nails, glass or other objects are removed from the tread. Breaks in the tire body are located so that they may be repaired before damage occurs. These simple precautions increase tire mileage.

TEST YOUR BRAKES WITH THE MOST ACCURATE MACHINES

Balanced brakes prolong tire life. Firestone electric brake machines scientifically balance each wheel. Your Firestone Dealer or Store will gladly test your brakes free.

CHECK YOUR WHEEL ALIGNMENT WITH MOST MODERN EQUIPMENT

Pigeon-toed wheels that waste so much rubber and gasoline can be quickly aligned. Your car should be checked regularly for alignment — another free Firestone Service.

INSPECT AND TEST YOUR BATTERY

Your Firestone Dealer or Store will gladly test the battery free upon request. And their efficient equipment will tell the exact condition of each cell so that you may avoid annoying road delays.

TEST YOUR SPARK PLUGS

Unless your spark plugs have full firing power they waste gasoline. Your motor will fire unevenly and cause increased wear on running parts. Have your Firestone Dealer or Store test your plugs every 4,000 miles. There is no charge!

SAVE RUBBER BY RETREADING YOUR SMOOTH, WORN TIRES

If your smooth tire has a safe body, a rugged, tough, long-wearing, non-skid Firestone New-Tread can be applied at amazingly low cost, which will give up to 80% of the mileage built into the original tread. This is one of the best ways to save rubber.

It will help save rubber for defense and money for you

WHEN YOU NEED NEW TIRES... IT'S ALWAYS GOOD JUDGMENT TO BUY THE BEST

One of the most effective ways to save rubber — and at the same time save money and save precious human lives — is to equip your present tires with Firestone Life Protectors, the new-type tubes that out-wear three sets of ordinary tubes.

With Firestone Life Protectors on your car you can drive your present tires safely thousands of extra miles without fear of blowouts, because these tubes make a blowout as harmless as a slow leak.

And after your present tires are worn out, replace them with the safest, longest-wearing tires that money can buy — the new Safi-Sared Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY ANNUAL MEETING AT WEST BEND

The Wisconsin Horticultural society will hold its annual meeting in West Bend on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 13 and 14. The society will meet in the recreation room of the Wisconsin Gas & Electric company building. Fruit growers from all sections of the state will be in attendance.

The annual banquet will be served on Thursday evening, Nov. 13, by the Ladies' Guild of the St. John's Lutheran church.

Leading authorities on fruit growing in Wisconsin and Eastern states will address the meeting. An excellent show of the newer varieties of apples and other kinds of fruit will be one of the main features of the convention.

Washington county fruit growers and others interested in fruit should attend the meeting and banquet of the State Horticultural society.

The tuberculosis area work of Washington county is being directed by Dr. H. J. O'Connell of the state department of agriculture.

The state and federal departments of agriculture appreciate the splendid cooperation rendered by Washington county farmers in the conduct of these tests in past years and this cooperation is of great assistance to veterinarians making the tuberculin test. It helps the department to perform the work more efficiently and far more economically when cattle owners do their part to help the inspectors.

The state and federal departments anticipate the same fine cooperation that has characterized the tuberculosis work in Washington county during the past years.

McCormick - Deering Milkers

Keep the Bacteria Count Down

Dairy men who have had long experience with mechanical milkers praise the McCormick-Deering for its features of sanitation. They report producing milk with a lower bacteria count than ever before, due to the fact that the McCormick-Deering is so easy to keep clean. The fully enclosed, no-oil, no-spring pulsator; the two-piece teat cup assembly; the replaceable cylinder in the pump; the vacuum tank; the positive vacuum regulator and vacuum gauge; the one-piece sanitary pail cover; and the anti-freeze stall cocks are other features of real importance on the McCormick-Deering Milker.

A demonstration will be arranged for any time you say.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving remembrance of our dear husband and our beloved father, Charles Prost, who died Oct. 3, 1940:

Day by day we saw you fade and gently pass away.

Yet in our hearts we always hoped That you would longer stay;

If love and care could death prevent Your days would not so soon be spent.

Although life was desired, It could not be;

Eternal rest was meant for thee, But forget you, no we never will.

We loved you here and we love you still.

It was a bitter pain, a shock severe To part with one we loved so dear.

Oh we think of you dear husband and loving father

And our hearts are sad with pain; All this world would be a heaven

Could we have you home again, Just one year ago you left us,

How we miss your loving face But you left us to remember

None on earth can take your place, Sadly missed by his wife, Mrs. Chas. Prost, and sons and daughters-in-law.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Repeal of United States Neutrality Law And Arming of Merchant Shipping Cited as Administration Objectives In Battle to Keep Sea Lanes Open

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ARM SHIPS: Asks Roosevelt

The revision of the Neutrality act to permit the arming of U. S. merchant ships had followed in order of the presidential requests after the sinking of the Pink Star, another taken over Danish vessel, near the spot where the Sessa and the Montana went down.

This vessel, first actually to be sunk since the President's shoot first message, was taken as Hitler's reply to this country's attitude on freedom of the seas.

Shortly thereafter the White House campaign to get the neutrality law changed began, with many statements by members of congress that it was believed congressional consent would be given.

Observers in the national capital remembered that the arming of U. S. merchant vessels in World War I was followed by actual entry into the war in less than a month. It was deemed certain that anti-interventionists would fight to the last ditch against the proposal.

The immediate Berlin reaction to the new Washington move had been that the sinking of the Pink Star was entirely in accord with international law, that the vessel was armed, was convoyed by enemy craft and was carrying the flag of Panama, not of the United States.

But Rome had come forward with this statement: "Axis ships will defend themselves against any armed U. S. merchantmen they meet on their courses." That was written by Virginia Gayda, chief Fascist editor.

CUT PROFITS: Says Morgenthau

One step to insure an "all-out" American effort in behalf of the national defense, will be to cut all corporate profits to not more than 6 per cent of invested capital.

This drastic recommendation had been made by the secretary before the house banking and currency committee, when he urged speedy approval of the price control bill.

Here was the way the secretary had expressed himself: "The only way that can be done is through another tax bill. We feel that during this emergency a corporation should be satisfied to earn 6 per cent of its capital, and that everything above that should go to pay for defense expenditures."

Expressing his disapproval of a wage ceiling, Mr. Morgenthau had said: "In free countries labor is not a commodity, human beings are not property, and they should not be treated as such."

This stand was opposed to that of Bernard Baruch, who regarded labor simply as an item of cost, and who declared it would be impossible to set ceilings on prices and not set ceilings on labor costs which went to make up those prices.

FARMERS: Asked to Produce

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard had called on the American farmer not only to produce more food to satisfy expanding demands in the United States, but also to provide enough for England to defeat Hitler.

RUSSIANS: Backs to Wall

Discounting any resistance the Russians might have put up in the center, and disregarding the Red estimates of the cost of German attacks, it had become evident that the Nazis, finally, were gaining two of their three major objectives—Kiev and Leningrad—and that the Red forces had their backs to the wall.

The Kiev disaster in the south was finally admitted by Moscow, which had issued statements declaring the leadership of Marshal Budenny to have been "incompetent."

In the south the Russians had faced a heterogeneous opposition, troops from Hungary, Rumania and Italy joining with the Nazi blitzkriegers in the early battle.

There were many who believed, however, that the Russian severe reverses in the south did not occur until the Nazis removed some of their best troops from the central sector, giving back in that area, and bolstering up their drives in the Ukraine and on the north.

At Leningrad the Germans had reached the point of claiming that street-fighting had started, while the Finns, by no means admitting themselves out of the battle, told of the capture of an important power source for the Soviet's second city.

Actual support of the Russian war effort by members of the Royal Air Force finally had been reported, however, the R.A.F. fighters having managed to get their planes to the Russian front at an unannounced point, and going into action, reporting the destruction of seven Messerschmitts with the loss of only one British fighter plane.

This was the first actual fighting force placed at the Russian assistance since the start of the German invasion about 100 days previously.

WINDSORS: Visiting U. S.

On the way to Canada to see his 4,000-acre ranch he hadn't visited in 14 years was the duke of Windsor, former king of England, and his American wife, the former Wallis Warfield of Baltimore.

They came over from the Bahamas in a specially chartered airliner, and spent the first night at Miami, and then had gone to Washington to lunch with the President, and enjoy the hospitality of the capital, and 212 personal bodyguards while in Washington.

Their itinerary included Chicago, Alberta, back to New York, and

HURRICANE: Season Here

The season of tropical storms arrived with a bang, a heavy storm striking Houston, Texas, head on, just three days after the equinox.

Millions of dollars' damage was done—the weather bureau, having charted many hurricanes correctly, making a mistake on this one, and informing the Texas metropolis of half a million souls that it was safe just 24 hours before the storm hit it right in the center.

SHIPS FRED: Strikers Back Down

Strikers among the seamen of the A. F. of L. "Seafarers' Union" had called membership meetings to discuss the "sensible thing to do" with regard to 25 strike-bound ships.

The immediate action was to free three of them at once. Also the unions voted to accept governmental mediation with regard to the rest. The government had taken possession of three other ships and had sent them to sea with Maritime Commission crews.

But the labor picture nationally was not as bright as it had been, for the mediation authorities were confronted with an overwhelming strike vote against Consolidated Aircraft, holding three-quarters of a billion dollars in defense contracts.

SCHENCK: Entertainer

The great movie probe in Washington took an amusing turn when Nicholas Schenck, MGM president, was called to the stand for two days of questioning, kept the spectators in stitches, and confused many of his inquisitors by his answers.

Schenck, maintaining that there was no "eight-company" trust in Hollywood, admitted several instances of family ties between rival companies—and then, just when the attorneys thought they had him—he blandly said that was just the trouble—that members of these families wouldn't do business with each other.

The film magnates had maintained that there was no "get into war" propaganda, but that pictures were made strictly with entertainment value in mind, and in accordance with the feelings of the majority of the nation about the dictatorships and aggressions.

The committee had tried to show that the big companies could assure the financial success of a picture, whatever its entertainment value might be, and that the entertaining picture brought in by an outsider could not succeed if the big companies didn't want it to.

This Schenck flatly denied. He said: "I might wish it were true—but it isn't."

JAPAN: Watching Reds

What Nippon finally would decide to do about the far eastern situation would finally be decided by the position of the Russo-German war after winter sets in, had been the view expressed by observers in India.

They had held that if Russia was to continue her defense and if there was nothing resembling a wholesale collapse, then the Japanese are not likely to risk an assault on Vladivostok.

The Japanese imperialists were pictured as bluffing, watching and waiting from week to week to see which way the war car would jump on the Russian front.

Japan already had been pictured as embarrassed on erd by the lack of credit, and frightened at the prospect of a complete shut down on vital raw materials such as rubber and oil.

Also Japan, it had been held, was realizing that the British were growing stronger and stronger in the Pacific, that the United States was turning a stern face in that direction, both of these making Nippon's position more precarious.

ARGENTINE: Cracks Down

Argentina, following a long period of "cracking down" on Nazi infiltration, moved still more strongly in occupying all military airports of the country with regular detachments of army troops.

The congress was investigating Nazi activities in the country and it had been the feeling that the troop occupation might have been the result of revelations of a Nazi plot.

A lieutenant-colonel, a captain and a lieutenant, all in the army air corps, were arrested summarily, and the committee conducting the investigation admitted that they were held because of their alleged involvement in a gigantic air plot.

Government Warns Against Fever of Land Buying That Would Start Another 'Unhappy' Economic Cycle for U. S.

By BAUKHAGE National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H. Street, N. W. Washington, D. C. Farm income—cash income—will be nearly $11,000,000,000 this year. That is two billions greater than last year.

Money to burn! And the burning question in Washington is how to stop the conflagration before it starts. The chief danger is another prairie fire of farm land speculation such as started out in Iowa in World War I. First there were wash sales. They were publicized. Real sales began which sent farm prices up to the blue skies and which ended by making a farm mortgage the cheapest form of wall paper.

Two years after that World war started, the prices of farm land rose 5 per cent. Not much later they leaped a hundred per cent and more. The eventual collapse was forerunner of the depression.

Today, two years after the present war started, farm land prices are up 1 per cent. That isn't so bad but the government is already worried enough to consider it worth while trying to start a back fire in the hope of preventing a recurrence of the unhappy cycle which began 25 years ago.

When Governor Black of the Farm Credit administration called in the farm mortgage bankers, the insurance people, farm organization representatives and others in the rural real estate field he simply reminded them that when the government loaned the farmers the money to bail them (the mortgagors) out last time, it was done on appraisals based on normal values. Now it is up to the real estate people to make their appraisals on normal values, too. That means on figures based on the relationship between farm products prices and other prices established for the years of 1914-1918.

A million farmers who were loaned money by the Farm Credit administration during the depression have repaid their mortgages. Those farmers are keenly aware of the danger to agriculture and to the whole economy if a fever of mad land-buying starts again. They will help stop it, if they can. The government will do all in its power in the way of education—meetings will be held—the house organ of the Farm Credit administration which has a million circulation will carry the warning. The real estate operators have indicated that they will cooperate.

Whether money to burn will burn the farmer is still uncertain. In the end, stopping another drunken orgy of land speculation and the terrible headache afterward depends on the word-of-mouth message of the individual. The burned child fears the fire but there is always someone to urge him to risk a blister for the delicious chestnut he sees roasting on the coals.

Policy—Orders—Action—Silence

"As Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy I order the following policy carried out at once: our patrolling vessels and planes will protect all merchant ships—not only American ships but ships of any flag—engaged in commerce in waters which we deem necessary for our defense. American naval vessels and American planes will strike the first blow against Axis submarines or Axis raiders on the surface of the sea."

This communication in substance was transmitted to the office of the secretary of the navy from the White House a few weeks ago.

There it was immediately translated, first into naval language and then into code. Over land wires to the wireless towers near Annapolis it was flashed to ships of the United States navy on the seven seas . . .

It is early morning. A thin steely light spreads across the horizon as the U. S. destroyer "Blank," a part of the Atlantic patrol, rides the easy swells. On board, the smooth routine goes on with its clock-work monotony. But there is the ghost of a grim smile exchanged between the captain and the executive officer—they have both read the coded message recorded by the wireless operator a little while before.

Three minutes later the ship is galvanized from galley to crow's-nest.

A strident gong has sounded. The bos'n's whistle is trilling high above the wash of the waves and the whirr of the engines for the word has come down from the lookout: "Torpedo track sight. Starboard bow.—4-0!"

The gong sounds—that might mean any emergency but before there is time to wonder the order rings out— "All hands to general quarters."

Before the gun crews have ripped off the site covers, the executive officer has reported to the captain: "Battle stations manned, sir."

The "torpedo track," a ribbon of white moves forward toward the destroyer at the rate of 1,000 yards a minute. But the tube of high explosive itself, which is sending up the tell-tale "track" of bubbles is 40 yards ahead of the nearest one that shows—it takes some time before those bubbles can reach the surface.

The bearing of the torpedo is verified and the destroyer swings and leaps "full-speed-ahead" to meet it. Not because the captain wants to contact the whirring death-bolt head-on, but because there is less chance of a hit if the ship shows its beam instead of the length of its hull as a target. And the objective of the destroyer is a spot as nearly over the point where the submarine is submerged as it is possible to estimate it. That point is reached for the torpedo has missed its mark while ears are glued to the sound-detector straining for the noise of the sub's engines.

"Release depth charges." Down go the "ash-cans," one after another; mounds of water rise; the sound detector is deafened. The destroyer, turning sharply, returns to the spot and releases another series of charges.

The roar dies in the detectors. There is silence.

And that is the end of the story. Perhaps it is the end of the submarine. It is quite possible that no one will ever know what happened until after the war—perhaps not then. And even if some tell-tale piece of equipment is blown from the inside of the sub and reaches the surface, that does not mean that the public will know. At least not for a long time.

Seasonal Glory In National Capital

Washington is standing on the threshold of its seasonal glory—"October's bright blue weather," the month of beauty in the capital.

Already the early morning sun comes down in soft blue bars and August's heavy carpet of shadow on pavement and lawn is thinned to a lacework pattern as the leaves shrivel and drop.

Gardens have faded but there is one hardy bush (Rose of Sharon?) which blooms before the more modest doorways. A cross between a hollyhock and a morning glory it is harder than either.

The city wakes with a new vigor now that the tropic days are over. Women government workers are out with a brisk step for a last stroll with dogs or babies, whichever they possess, before they go off to the "office." Landladies straggle homeward cheerfully with their bags and parcels. But trolley cars still lag and jerk, packed to the doors with the new thousands who crowd the sagging city with the clerks of Mars.

Suez Canal Symbol Of British Power

Symbols are often more powerful than facts or things in influencing the public. The Suez canal has always been considered Britain's lifeline. It is the symbol of Britain's sea-power, of the bonds that hold the Empire together, of British achievement.

And yet the canal is as much French as British, both in construction and control. What is more, months ago it became of highly questionable value because for weeks at a time it has had to be closed as a result of attacks from the air.

Long ago shrewd Britons realized that they must prepare for the eventuality of the loss of the Suez. At least five years ago a book was published pointing out that in case of war Britain must be prepared to protect ship routes around Africa.

Bottle Babe of the Wild

Abandoned by its mother, a day old moose was found in the near Marlen river, Ont., Canada, by a party of American fishermen who turned it over to their guide, George Hughes. The moose was named Wendell, after an American who is popular in Ontario.

George Hughes lifts the lost babe gently as he takes it back to camp for introduction to some food delivered through a pacifier.

The baby moose knows exactly what to do with the bottle offered by the guide.

Pete, fourteen-year-old Belgian police husky looks on as the pup watches the new member of his family sleeping.

Pete waited until the new arrival at camp had a sound sleep, then took over as nurse, washing the moose as a mother would her pup.

Wendell needs plenty of rest—and gets it.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

▲ A high government official said the other day (privately, of course): "If 50 per cent of the people working on defense in Washington were fired the work of the remainder would be more efficient." Oh, make it 33 1/3 per cent!

▲ Some 6,700,000 pounds of pots and pans collected in the aluminum drive are now being processed into fighting planes.

▲ A nationwide campaign for more "crackerbarrel conversations" is about to be started. Federal Security Administrator McNutt has called on Commissioner John Studebaker of the office of education to help organize public forums all over the country on the subject of problems arising from the world crisis.

▲ Four listening posts of the Federal Communications commission tune in from 600,000 to 900,000 words from abroad daily to check on foreign propaganda.

▲ The army and navy buy 1,750,000 pairs of shoes a month.

▲ "My colleagues have undoubtedly observed that the color of the walls of the senate chamber is the same as that of caskets."—Senator Andrews.

▲ Warning to politicians: Nobody has ever been elected on his opponent's platform.

▲ The big brass bell on fire engines is domed. The brass is needed for defense.

▲ War causes strange reactions. English children are now organized to interfere with that noble inheritance of the country gentleman, the appointed time and carefully shoo the fox away from danger.

▲ Americans stationed at lonely outposts have worked out ingenious pastimes. American construction crews in British Guiana go boating in the largest boat in Trinidad, homeick Americans walk on asphalt lake. In Alaska, troops pan gold in the sands.

Who Are Richest Men?

Changing economic conditions make estimates of the world's fortunes extremely difficult. Some authorities list Edsel Ford, John D. Rockefeller Jr., and John D. Rockefeller Sr. as the three most often described as the richest men in the world. There is an important state. There is an important state. There is an important state. There is an important state.

THE STORY SO FAR: Bound for the... six men lost... on the Nottaway river. Red... Garry, Finlay, brother of... Blaise, half-breed guide... Nottaway posing as surveyors.

terboro rounded a long point and the maple blades trailed. "There it is!" exclaimed Finlay. "Let's have a look at Monsieur Isadore's outfit!" He raised his binoculars and gazed curiously at the group of buildings on the distant shore. "Why, Red, he's got living quarters fit for a king! Have a squint!"

Malone took the proffered glasses and studied the fur post miles across the ridge of black spruce. "Fanciest log job I've seen east of the Rockies!" muttered Red. "This Isadore's no piker. Must have some fur trade with that whiskey as bait. Take a peek, Blaise, at the outfit you're going to break in two with your bare hooks."

Shortly Blaise returned the glasses with a grunt. "Ah-hah! Big place! Some day fox bark in dat clearin' and h'owl nest in de chimney." "They will," agreed Finlay, "if we're worth our salt. See that group of islands about a mile offshore? We'll camp right there, leave Blaise and Flame, and, like polite surveyors in the bush, pay a call on Isadore."

"Right-o! And, as a hospitable fur man, he ought to ask us to supper. I hanker to set my tusks in some red sturgeon meat. But will he have the gall to look us in the eye after hearing Batoche's story?" "He will, if I'm a good guesser, he'll be so keen to look us over after thinking us taken care of, that he'll welcome us like prodigal sons."

"Come on!" urged Red, making the water boil behind his paddling. "This job begins to look interesting."

After a clean-up and shave Finlay and Malone left Blaise at their camp on the island and started for the post less than a mile distant. As they approached the shore the log residence of the trader compelled their admiration. Through his glasses Finlay was studying the pretentious group of buildings flanked by a line of cabins scattered along the shore. "Notice the servants' quarters! Why does he need so many men?"

"Yeah, and pipe those buoys off the landing! They must have a flock of York boats, but where are they?" "I noticed them! That shed with the canvas walls, what's that for? It looks like a hangar."

"Search me, boss! This outfit tickles my curiosity." The stir of people in the post clearing indicated that the approach of the Peterboro was creating unusual interest. In front of the big log house a group of three were leveling glasses on the approaching boat. Down at the landing men were evidently discussing the strangers. Garry raised his binoculars. "Two women in sporting togs, Red, giving us the once over! The man with them must be his big game, Czar Isadore, of Waswanipi."

"A bird just left the landing," exclaimed Malone, "and called Isadore away from the women! By the way he's waving his arms he's having an argument. Now he's gone back. Did you notice it?" "Do you know who that was?"

"No." "That was Batoche. I spotted him by his walk." "The scar-faced rat!" "We'll check up before we land," said Finlay, casing his glasses. "You've got extra shells in your pocket and the spare gun on your hip."

"O-kay!" "No identifying papers! Not a scrap to show who we are?" "Check!" "Our orders are to map this chain of big lakes, then the lower Nottaway, joining the main party in September."

"Right!" "Now we haven't scratched the surface of this situation. So far it's been pure guesswork. We believe we're dealing with a cold-blooded killer and a clever one. When we land here today to buy flour and bacon, what is he going to do? Batoche has told him that he wiped us out in the Long Sault. So our appearance has whipsawed him. That was probably the cause of the argument we noticed just now on the shore. Isadore's a worried man for he's in a jam with Ottawa if any of us get out alive."

"I'll say he's worried," agreed Red. "If Batoche tells him what happened at the railroad, he knows dore, it is thought, has made a gold strike and aims to keep prospectors out. Finlay and Blaise are wounded in an ambush on the Nottaway. Proceeding, they saw a band of Indians approaching in their canoes.

"We'll suspect that scar-faced crook. Although we can't see Isadore personally with that ambush, he realizes we can make it hot for him, for Batoche is his man."

Red nodded gravely as he studied his freckled list. "To save his bacon," he said, "three more men have got to disappear on the Chibougamau Trail."

"That's the picture, Red." "He'll ask us to supper; that's certain. He'll want to look us over before he makes his plans."

"We'll do some minding, ourselves. Then, after tonight, it's a case of wolf eat wolf, our brains and our luck against his." Finlay's face grew bitter as he stared across the miles of quiet water to a blue ridge. "He got Bob! I'm going to get him!"

The Peterboro slid in to the stony beach where two men now awaited its coming. Up at the trade-house others watched while the girls in front of the house laughed as they talked.

"Welcome to Waswanipi, gentlemen!" A man of medium height with a black moustache and hair graying at the temples of a hawk-like face advanced with outstretched hand as Garry and Red left the canoe. "We see so few white men here that your visit is an event. I am Jules Isadore. This is my head man, Pierre Labelle."

"I'm Finlay, in charge of the survey," said Garry, shaking hands with the two men. "My assistant, Neil Malone! We need flour and bacon, Mr. Isadore. I suppose you can sell us some?"

The eyes of the two clashed in a look of mutual appraisement. "Delighted to see you, Mr. Finlay, and you'll join us at dinner? It will be a treat to my wife and daughter to talk to two handsome young men from the outside."

Garry laughed. "If the ladies will pardon our woolen shirts and bush clothes, we'll be glad to accept your hospitality, Mr. Isadore. You have a magnificent place here," he observed.

"The marten and black fox did it," Isadore answered. "We beat the Hudson's Bay at their own game. It's been a gold mine."

A gold mine! Garry's blood heated with his sudden anger. Was Isadore fishing—trying to draw him out so early? He watched from the tail of his eye the wooden face of Isadore's head man as he threw out: "Speaking of gold, they tell me there's a big rush on for the Chibougamau." But Labelle's face was vacant of expression.

"So I hear," replied Isadore. "Last year and the year before some poor fellows tried to get in by the Waswanipi but were drowned. Bad river that!"

"You're a cool proposition, Isadore," thought Garry. Then he said: "Yes, so your man Batoche told me at the railroad."

As Garry limped beside him, Isadore commented: "Hurt your leg?" "Yes, slipped on a rock and twisted my knee!" Finlay watched the other from the tail of his eye but the trader gave no sign.

"Too bad!" Then Isadore's face lit as they reached the waiting girls. "Well, here's what makes life possible at Waswanipi. Corinne, this is Mr. Finlay and Mr. Malone, on the government survey. My wife, gentlemen, and my daughter, Lise."

Garrett Finlay was startled by the dark beauty of the two girls. "Welcome to Waswanipi, Meestair Feenlay and Meestair—what was it?—Malone?" said the elder and smaller of the two with a slight accent as she extended her hand with a burst of smoldering eyes.

Red Malone beamed like a boy with a new toy into Corinne Isadore's vivacious face, framed by a blue-black bob.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Although the answers to the famous inquiry of Pontius Pilate aren't all in yet, we assign a man to discover and tell us what is truth. Dr. James P. Baxter III, president of Williams college, takes on this office, for Col. William J. Donovan, co-ordinator of defense information. His job will be to screen out from the mine-run of world information the dubious, tricky or deceptive items of propaganda or distortion and deliver to the President and the state department the chemically pure raw material for policy-making. This "fact-filter" appears to be news in world statecraft.

In the midst of a long address which Dr. Baxter delivered in 1938 was the following pertinent utterance, foreshadowing his new undertaking: "The first element of defense is truth. Inculcation of the zeal to get at the truth, no matter what the cost of time and effort, characterizes real education."

Is it possible that this led Colonel Donovan to his truth-seeker? In the above address and on several later occasions, Dr. Baxter denounced "defeatism," and has been a spirited advocate of a "militant democratic faith," which would not wait until it was enslaved before fighting back.

After his graduation from Williams college in 1914, Dr. Baxter tried Wall Street for two years, with the Industrial Finance corporation, and then returned to Williams and Harvard for master's and doctor's degrees. He taught history at Colorado college and Harvard and became president of Williams in 1937. With him on the new truth-filtering board are six other professors, all skilled researchers in the entomology of the propaganda bug. They have as an unofficial precedent the extensive researches of the Institute for Propaganda Analysis.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT would have approved highly of his fellow townsman of Oyster Bay, Col. Van Santford Merle-Smith, just now arriving at Sydney, Australia, as the newly appointed naval attaché. He is tall, handsome and physically impressive, always looking for action.

At Princeton, young Merle-Smith "hit the line hard" as a backfield football star; as a hell-for-leather cavalry officer on the Mexican border, and in the World War, he mixed in the fighting wherever he could find an opening, was wounded three times and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross; he had a fling at statecraft, at The Hague and in our state department; he engaged in the rough-and-tumble of Wall Street, winning every bout, and as a yachtsman could make more out of a hat full of wind than anybody on the Long Island shore.

All in all, his career would make T. R. flash a couple of octaves of teeth and yell "Bully!" He is the son of the late Dr. Wilton Merle-Smith, who was pastor of the Brick Church of New York, and has long been active as one of the leading Presbyterian laymen. After his graduation from Princeton in 1911, he took his law degree at Harvard in 1914. He was a member of the American secretariat at the Paris peace conference, and in 1920 was appointed third assistant secretary of state.

For several years after 1935, his yacht, Seven Seas, was showing her heels to competing craft, but more recently Colonel Merle-Smith has been shore-bound by ill health. He practiced law with a distinguished New York firm, in the immediate post-war years, and entered the investment banking field about a decade ago. He is now a member of the advisory committee of the New York Trust company.

Colonel Merle-Smith in all probability will find action even in the Australian navy.

GEN. JORGE UBICO is named by a "constitutional congress" for his tenth consecutive term as president of Guatemala, his incumbency to continue until 1949. He was first elected for a one-year term, survived two revolutions, and then set aside the constitutional limitation against more than one term. He is hard-boiled and diligent, brilliantly educated and strongly pro-United States. He is startlingly like Napoleon in appearance, with a haircut like the little corporal's, understudying Napoleon in attitudes, dress.

His busy little gestapo has rooted out a lot of graft and inefficiency and he has established a probity department in his cabinet. He has gotten on nicely with our state department and with American business interests. He received military and technical education in this country. The son of a locally famous Guatemalan statesman, he rose to power through provincial and national offices. Known as "the Little Napoleon of the Tropics," he concentrates, as did Huey Long, on free school books, good roads and agriculture.

Waters of the Earth

Almost 72 per cent of the earth's surface is covered by water. The superficial area of the earth includes approximately 139,440,000 square miles of ocean and 57,510,000 square miles of land, on which there are approximately a million square miles of lake and river surface. It is estimated that the oceans of the earth contain 323,000,000 cubic miles of water. The deepest place is the Milwaukee Depth north of Puerto Rico, 30,246 feet. The average depth of the ocean below sea level is 12,450 feet, or about five times the average height of land above sea level.

Modern streamlined war may have changed the arms and methods of Uncle Sam's soldiers, but it hasn't changed the Army man's smoking preference. For more than 20 years Camels have been the Army man's favorite cigarette. Today, actual sales records show Camels not only are the favorite with men in the Army, but with men in the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard as well. With men in the service giving cigarettes first place in the gift line-up, it's natural that local tobacco dealers are featuring "Send a Carton of Camels" as the ideal gift for the service men from the folks back home.—Adv.

PEP MEETING
On Friday, Sept. 25th, the first pep meeting was held in Kewaskum High school. A skit entitled "Anchors Aweigh" was given by the members of the student council and the class presidents, under the direction of Miss Browne. The skit brought out the fact that co-operation, sportsmanship, and many other traits were necessary in our every day life. After the skit was given, the cheer leaders took over and cheers were given. Our coach, Mr. Gibson, said a few words about the football game which was to be played at Sheboygan Falls that evening. The school song was sung and school was dismissed.

MAGAZINE CAMPAIGN
The annual magazine campaign sponsored by a publishing company began Sept. 6 and extended to Sept. 19. During this time the pupils sold four different magazines.

The student body was divided into two competing sides—Reds and Blues—under the leadership of Patti Brauchle and Evelyn Weddig respectively. Ray Vyvyan acted as assistant to the two captains. The goal set at $100.00 was exceeded by $10.00. The Reds will receive a five pound box of candy as a reward for selling more than the Blues. The student who sold the most subscriptions was Patti Brauchle, who will receive a girl's wrist watch. The school's commission will be put in the activity fund.

PEACE CONGREGATION, EVANGELICAL—This congregation was founded in 1898, and in the same year the church was erected. The first church council consisted of the following: Mr. Karl Doms, President; Mr. L. D. Guth, secretary; Mr. Christ schaeffer, Sr., treasurer. The pastors who served this congregation were: Revs. R. Bruenwald, A. Frankt, H. Erber, (Carl Quickert, Washington County, Wisconsin, Past and Present, 1, 211), F. Mohme (1910), H. L. Barth, E. Irion, John Fröhne. Rev. Richard M. A. Gadow, the present pastor, has served the congregation since July, 1923. (Information obtained from Rev. Richard Gadow).

THE KEWASKUM STATESMAN—The first number of this weekly appeared October 5, 1895. It was published by Charles E. Krahn and very ably edited by George Nugent. After a service of many years, the latter resigned, and for a number of years Mr. Krahn was the editor. On April 10, 1909, George H. Schmidt bought a half interest in the paper. Shortly afterwards, August 29, 1910, he bought the other half and changed the size of the paper from an eight column folio to a seven column quarto. The paper again changed hands; this time it was purchased by Mr. Don J. Harbeck and Mr. Art. Schaefer. Upon the latter's death the entire interest was purchased by D. J. Harbeck, the present owner. (Carl Quickert, Washington County, Wisconsin, Past and Present I, 224).

The location of the paper has been changed at various times. At one time it was located in what was the former Eagle Hotel, at the intersection of Main street and Fond du Lac avenue. Its present location is on the north side of Main street, opposite Holy Trinity parochial school. (Information received from Mr. Don J. Harbeck).

PARKS—In the beginning of the 20th century Kewaskum had two large sized parks. Both of them were situated along the Milwaukee river. One was called the North Side park and the other the South Side park. In July, 1906 Joseph Eberle Sr. leased the North Side park from August Bilgo Sr. The same summer Mr. Eberle built the hall which was a hundred feet long and eighty feet wide. (Ibid). The following summer the first homecoming was held in Kewaskum. From the beginning the North Side park enjoyed great popularity. During the homecomings or special celebrations held in the park, excursions were run by the Brotherhood, which was a firemen's lodge. Sometimes these excursions had sixteen to twenty coaches. These specials usually arrived at 8:30 a. m. and left in the evening about 11:00 or 11:30 p. m. About two thousand people attended these excursions. At one of the homecomings, a crowd of ten thousand people took over the North Side park. The park offered amusements for young and old alike. Ferris wheels, merry-go-rounds, tip-the-bottles, hit-the-nigger-and-get-a-cigar, and numerous other attractions made the park a unique recreational center. Boating was also another accommodation offered in the park. The park was closed during the summer of 1920. The large hall was sold to the Kewaskum Aluminum company and is today used by them as a storehouse. Indeed, the park was a place where adults and children might enjoy wholesome recreation. The dam flooded the lowland about the park and formed a sort of a lagoon or small pond as may be seen from the map, page 144. Many of the older people can still tell of the good times that were had there. Large crowds of people came out to Kewaskum on "specials" from the north and south. At one time the railroad ran two specials from Milwaukee and one from the north because of the large number that demanded passage to Kewaskum. (Three pictures—Scenes taken of North Side park about 1906-1915.

(Two pictures—Excursion arriving, Mr. Joe Eberle Sr. man in white hat). (Picture—Picnic in North Side park).

The South Side park had its share of pleasure seekers too. Charles Miller said that during the "heyday" of these parks a blacksmith built a flat, boat that would carry fifteen or twenty persons and for the small sum of 5c one could ride from the North Side park to the South Side park. This must have been before Mr. Eberle took over the North Side park because there was no information obtainable concerning this flatboat during 1906-1920. (Information obtained from Mrs. Joseph Eberle).

Today a P. W. A. project has again restored some of the former beauty to the South Side park. P. W. A. has built a dam and constructed a new park on the west side of the Milwaukee river. Today this park is again beginning to receive some of the attention of former days. It now has permanent stands, completed the past two years, a permanent handstand, lavatories, and a shelter house which is used for Bingo or any other attractions. The park can also boast of a swimming pool lighted by two thousand watts at night, where young and old can enjoy themselves. In conjunction with the construction of the park, the efforts exerted by the Kewaskum fire department under the direction of their able chief, Mr. Harry Schaefer, cannot be forgotten. Many hours of hard labor were put into the park by the men under his guidance.

Not only is the park a place where one can go for a pleasant afternoon but it can also boast of a good fishing spect. Along the banks of the river various kinds of fish, from the rock bass to the mighty pickerel fall victim to the enchanting bait of the sportsman's rod.

"DO'S" AND "DON'T'S" FOR FLUORESCENT LIGHTING

DO IT!
Use fluorescent lighting to increase the intensity and improve quality of industrial lighting. Use wherever high intensities of light are required for prolonged periods of time. Use whenever more light from existing wiring capacity must be obtained. Use when a close reproduction of natural daylight is necessary. Use wherever cooler footcandles are required. Use for inspection lighting.

DON'T !!
Don't use fluorescent lighting in closets or storerooms. Don't turn them on and off any more than absolutely necessary. Don't use circuits where voltage is too low. To project light long distances, don't use fluorescent equipment. Don't install an inadequate system. The initial investment is too costly to permit experimenting. Don't install fluorescent lighting without investigating local or national code requirements for such lighting equipment.

For 1942—a Beautiful New

FORD

"6" OR "8"

IN THESE UNUSUAL TIMES we invite you to inspect an unusual new car—new in its beauty, its comfort, its choice of two fine 90 horsepower engines, 6 cylinders or 8.

See it and you sense at once that here is new style that will stay good for years. On a lower, wider chassis, we have designed new long, low, wide and modern lines.

Interior treatment is entirely fresh, distinctive, pleasing. The beauty of this Ford will more than hold its own in any company.

Inside, the car is big—wide across the seats, generous in knee-room, leg-room, elbow-room.

On the road this year you find the "new Ford ride" still further advanced in its softness, quietness, steadiness and all-round comfort.

At the wheel, you will find driving easier than ever. Steering, gear-shifting, action of the big and sure hydraulic brakes have all been made smoother and easier.

In quality, the car is sound to the last detail. Defense requirements have all been met without a single reduction in the basic and lasting goodness of the Ford mechanically. Some new materials have replaced old ones, usually at a greater cost to us, but in every case the new is equal to or better than the old.

If your family needs a new car, go see and drive this Ford. For what it is today and for what it will be through the years ahead, we believe that you will find in it more and better transportation for your money than you have ever found before.
