KEWASKUM, WISCONSIN, FRIDAY, DEC. 26, 1941

NUMBER 13

Very Happy and Prosperous New Year to All Our Friends, Subscribers & Advertisers

Prizes Given in Contest on Saturday

The Kewaskum Business League has given a contest to shoppers. The drawing was held at 2 p. m. in the show window of the Main street fur store. The prizes were a vacuum cleaner, a radio, a sewing machine, a washing machine, a refrigerator, a stove, a car, a house, and a trip to Europe. The contest was very popular and many people came to see the prizes.

College Students Home to Spend the Holidays

Kewaskum students attending colleges and universities in other cities arrived home the latter part of last week and forepart of this week to spend the holiday vacation at their respective homes. Most of them will resume classes again on Monday, Jan. 5, when the local schools also reopen. Among those home for Christmas and New Year's are the following: Mona Mertens, La Crosse State Teachers college; Kathleen Schaefer, Stevens Point State Teachers college; Bob Rosenheimer, Marquette university; Rosemary Haug, College of St. Teresa, Winona, Minn.; Carroll Haur, St. Francis college; William Mayer, St. Francis seminary; Lorraine Honck and Mary Kleinschay, Fond du Lac Commercial college; Ralph Kramer, Plattville State Teachers college; Eva Mae Buss, Oshkosh State Teachers college. Many other students from the surrounding community are also home for the holidays.

RESULTS LAST FRIDAY
Kewaskum 44, Oakfield 16
North Fond du Lac 42, Campbellsport 22
Brandon 19, Lomira 12
In the last game until after the holidays, Kewaskum High school's basketball team handed the last place Oakfield quint their fifth straight setback on the local court Friday evening, 44 to 16. With the victory, Kewaskum's second in six starts, the team reached the half way point in the 1941-42 season.
The winners led throughout the game and were never in trouble. The high scoring of L. Petermann, Brauchle, Tessar and Schultz kept Kewaskum far in the lead. L. Petermann was high scorer with 13 points. Brauchle, Tessar and Schultz contributed 12, 11 and 9 respectively. R. Gerhardt paced the losers with eight points.
The Gibsonmen hope for a reversal in luck during the remainder of the season. In the first half two of the four defeats were by one point and another by two points. Kewaskum's next game is a non-conference affair against Milwaukee University school team on Jan. 9, when the team has a bye on the loop schedule.

Correspondent John L. Gudex Found Dead

John L. Gudex, 84, a Statesman correspondent many years and pioneer resident of Elmore and community, was found dead at his home at Cedar Lawn in Elmore at 7 p. m. on Tuesday, Dec. 23, after being seriously ill since Sunday when he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage. He was a member of the Holy Name society and was also secretary of St. Michael's congregation at St. Michael's at the time of his death.
Mr. Hoerig was born Dec. 6, 1897, at Lomira and came to St. Michael's with his parents in 1909 when he was five years old. He was married to Miss Rosalia Berg on Nov. 10, 1920, who survives, along with three sons and one daughter, namely Werner, Eugene, Gerald and Audrey, all at home. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Regina Hoerig, of Milwaukee; and a brother, Clarence Hoerig, also of Milwaukee.
The body lay in state at the residence from Wednesday afternoon until the time of the funeral. Funeral services were held at 9:30 a. m. Friday, Dec. 26, the pastor, Rev. A. J. Klappert, officiating. Interment was made in the parish cemetery. The services were largely attended.

Misses Louise Techtman, La Verne Bratz Engaged

At a pre-Christmas family gathering at their home at Rockfield Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dhein made known the engagement of two of their sons. Announcement was made of the betrothal of Harvey Dhein and Miss Louise Techtman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Techtman of this village, and Edgar Dhein and Miss Dorcas Haase of Milwaukee. Miss Techtman is a teacher at the Old Brick school, Barton. Both she and her fiancé are graduates of the Dodge County Normal school at Mayville. Miss Haase, a daughter of August Haase of Milwaukee, is a nurse at the Milwaukee Deaconess hospital.
Announcement was made on Christmas day by Hugo Bratz of near Fillmore of the engagement of his daughter, La Verne, and Albert Hron, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hron of this village. Miss Bratz teaches the intermediate grades in the Kewaskum school.

Mrs. Koch Chairman of Red Cross War Fund Appeal Here

The American Red Cross has marshalled a field force of more than 1,000 trained workers to meet the human needs of America's soldiers and sailors and their families. Atty. Henry O. Schwab, chairman of the West Bend Red Cross chapter, reported today in urging "over the top" support of the $50,000,000 Red Cross war fund appeal.
The West Bend chapter is comprised of the townships of Wayne, Kewaskum, Farmington, Barton, Trenton and Jackson, the villages of Kewaskum, Barton and Jackson, and the city of West Bend. The quota for this area is $100,000.
Backed by 1,700,000 volunteers throughout the nation, this field force maintains a vital communication link between the nation's fighting power and the home front, covering every U. S. Army and Navy port.
At the beginning of the war professionally trained workers in the field totaled 553, and the remainder were office assistants. Thirty of the professional workers were stationed at insular posts, including Alaska, Iceland, Hawaii, Philippines, Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, Trinidad, Newfoundland and Bermuda.
Under the new war time conditions, an immediate expansion of Red Cross personnel serving the armed forces must be launched in every section of the country. Even before the Japanese navy posts had climbed 555 per cent above a year ago.
With the assistance of the Red Cross chapter in the service man's home town, the field director is equipped to help in a friendly way in solving problems that may arise, including sickness and death or financial difficulties at home. A total of 250 male field directors and assistant field directors handle the problems of the able-bodied, while 205 professionally trained women are engaged in Red Cross activities in army and navy hospitals.
In army camps the program for the able-bodied is centered in Red Cross headquarters buildings being constructed at 45 camps. Ground has been broken on 42 of these structures, ten are nearly completed and the entire group is scheduled for completion in the first half of 1942.
At army general and navy hospitals the Red Cross maintains a program of medical social case work for patients and duty personnel and provides recreation for convalescents. Trained volunteers from nearby chapters assist in this work. A program of social service and recreation activities is conducted at army station hospitals, centered in the hospital recreation buildings, which the war department is constructing at each of 65 army station hospitals in the United States, Alaska and Puerto Rico. Fifty-five of these buildings already are in operation and the other ten will be completed within a matter of weeks.
Other services for the armed forces, conducted on a nation-wide basis, include enrollment of medical technologists, trained nurses, blood donors for the joint blood plasma reservoir, the furnishing of surgical dressings produced by volunteers, and the supplying of recreation equipment.

Resume on the Payment of Taxes Under New Law

Many tax payers throughout the county have raised questions on the payment of taxes because of the new law providing for semi-annual tax payment.
The interpretation by the department of taxation under this new law has been made and the resume of the new law, as interpreted by the Wisconsin Tax Commission, is as follows:

HOW TAXES ARE PAID

1. All taxes may be paid in full to the local treasurer during January and February, or
2. One-half of the general property tax on real estate can be paid without interest to the county treasurer in JULY (or before), provided the first half is paid to the local treasurer in JANUARY.
3. Personal property and other forms of taxes, including special assessments, cannot be paid in installments, except that the local governing body may by two-thirds vote authorize the payment of special assessments levied pursuant to Sec. 62.21, Stats., in the same manner as general taxes on real estate.

DELINQUENT INTEREST CHARGES

1. All taxes, except postponed second installments, remaining unpaid on March 1 are declared delinquent and subject to interest of eight-tenths of one per cent per month or fraction of a month from January 1.
2. Postponed second installments remaining unpaid on August 1 are declared delinquent and bear interest of eight-tenths of one per cent per month or fraction of a month from January 1.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH

Holy mass will be offered on Sunday, Dec. 28, at 10 a. m. at Holy Trinity church and at 8 a. m. at St. Bridget's church.
The schedule of masses for New Year's will be announced during mass Sunday. There will be an hour of prayer service on New Year's Eve from 11:30 p. m. until 12:30 a. m. Because of the war situation and plight that the world is in at present, the pastor urges members of the congregation to spend the hour ushering in the new year in church this year.

COUNTY NURSE LORBER RESIGNS HER POSITION

Mrs. Gertrude Lorber Wooton, Washington county nurse the past three and a half years, last week announced that she has resigned her position. She resigned so that she might join her husband, Clarence Wooton, who is an advanced aviation instructor at the Darr Aviation school at Ponca City, Okla., where he instructs English cadets. Her resignation became effective last week. Mrs. Wooton has been succeeded by Marion Walters of Mauston, Wis., who up to now was county nurse of Juneau county.

RECEIVES APPOINTMENT

Notice has been received that Anthony P. Runte, recent teacher in Washington county schools, has been appointed librarian of the National Training School for Boys at Washington, D. C. Mr. Runte won the 1939 Wilson Reference Award and also holds a position as CCC educational director.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

A marriage license has been issued by County Clerk Louis Kuhaupt to Albert Kissinger, West Bend, and Mary Ann Schmidt, Kewaskum. The wedding will take place at Holy Trinity church Saturday, Dec. 27.

COUNTY DEFENSE NEWS

A permanent office for the Washington County Council of Defense was opened last Friday at the public library in West Bend. The office is on the first floor, first door to the right inside the main entrance. The telephone number is 302 and Miss Margaret Weiss is in charge.
As outlined in last week's paper, this office has been established by and for the people of Washington county in order to co-ordinate all Council of Defense activities. If you have any ideas or suggestions, please mail them or leave them at the headquarters in the library building.
All volunteers for Council of Defense activities should contact this office. Individuals as well as groups are asked to offer their services here. Reporting to the headquarters office, there will be no confusion or needless duplication of work.
The services of the Council of Defense office are now being used by the China relief drive under the chairman, Mrs. Gertrude Lorber Wooton.

WASTE PAPER DRIVE

In response to the defense appeal the children of Holy Trinity school are conducting a waste paper drive in order to obtain all surplus paper which would otherwise go to waste. Residents are asked to please gather up their paper and save it for the children. Simply call the school and the children will pick up the paper on Monday. This is a defense move and all are urged to cooperate. Proceed with you toward the school and new stations for the parish chapel.

HOSPITAL NEWS

WASTED SAFE IN HAWAII

A premature but welcome Christmas gift—first word that their son is safe at Wheeler Field, Hawaii—was received Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Emil Werner of this village. The son, Gustav C. Werner, of the Nineteenth Pursuit Squadron, informed his parents of his safety in a brief special delivery letter. Werner has been stationed at Wheeler Field the past couple of years and this was the first word received from him since sometime before the war started. Wheeler Field is about 25 miles from Pearl Harbor, scene of the first surprise attack by the Japanese on Dec. 7. Werner stated in the letter that thus far the Lord has spared him but that he was busily engaged. He wrote that longer letters would follow.

KOHN HOME ON FURLOUGH

Ralph L. Kohn of the 15th Signal Service Company, Monmouth, N. J., arrived home Tuesday on a seven-day Christmas furlough to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kohn, of this village. Ralph has been stationed at Fort Monmouth since returning from Fort Richardson, Anchorage, Alaska, some time ago. He will leave for camp again on Saturday.

PRIVATE LUBITZ HOME

Helmuth Lubitz, Jr., stationed at Fort Leonard Wood in Missouri, arrived home last Friday on a furlough to visit over Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Helmuth Lubitz, of this village. Helmuth reports that he likes army life a great deal. He will leave on his return trip to Missouri Saturday.

SCHMIDT HOME CHRISTMAS

Howard Schmidt of Fort Custer, Mich., son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Schmidt of here, came home for Christmas Tuesday on a five-day furlough. He will report back for duty at the camp on Saturday.

TRANSFER WEDDING AGAIN

Sergeant Otto Weddig, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Weddig of Kewaskum, who only two weeks previously was transferred from McDill Field, Tampa Fla. to Pyle Field, Fort Bragg, N. C. has again been transferred back to McDill Field, according to word received by his parents. Weddig, who enlisted nearly 17 months ago, had been stationed at McDill Field all the time except for the two weeks at Fort Bragg.

OTHERS GIVEN FURLOUGHS

A number of other young men in this vicinity are home on holiday furloughs. Among them are Pvt. OUR COMIC SECTION

THE PAPERS OF PRIVATE PURKEY

Dear Ma— Well I have done a lot of kidding and squawking in my letters but I gess that is all over now. After what them double crossing Japs did there is no longer no funny side to this training and all I want to do is get a crack at them. All the boys feel the same way. Up to the time they heard about them Japs stabbing Uncle Sam in the back under a flag of truce I gess they all felt the same as me that the war was too far away to bother much and that this army training was a pain in the neck. But it woke us all up like no bugle ever did.

I kind of felt that nobody would ever tackle this country on account of we got two big oceans to depend on and all that and I gess I never sweated in a maneuver without saying to myself this is the bunk as Hitler wood be crazy to get more trouble on his hands. I never thought that Japan would be even crazier. I hated the hikes, I hated the drills and inspeckshuns and I could not bathe a new crop of corns without burning up inside. But all of a sudden I feel different. Even my bunions seem patriotic now.

It's the same way all through my outfit. Jeeps who have been squawking eight hours a day look like they become fighting men over night. They know it is not all a lot of foolishness no more and any boy in camp will attack a tank single handed now if you just tell him there is a Japanese doll inside.

As for me personally ma I got a clear picture of what the country is up against for the first time and I wonder now that I did not get the right slant long before this. I gess it was just because I got snatched so sudden from all the comforts of civilun life that I didn't see straight. I was soar over giving up a box spring mattress, a personal alarm clock and the right to do what I pleased. But Emperor Hotsy-Togo or whatever you call him woke me up like nobody's business. I am so sore now that I am sorry I ever applauded Japanese tightrope walkers.

This war has all of a sudden become a great exciting show, ma. It don't seem just like a optical allusion no more. All the tanks don't seem like they was just a few things being demonstrated by a auto salesman. My rifle witch has just seemed something I wood like to have carried for me by a caddy has all of a sudden become my BUDDY! It's real and human. And my uniform even when it is wet and wrinkled now looks like the grandest uniform anybody could ever climb into. What has come over me I don't know for sure but I credit the Mikadoo with an assist.

I gess you will have to forget about me being home for Christmas. But I know what kind of a mother you are and I gess you feel just like I do about what has happened. I have done a lot of wise cracking about being leasod or lent but I don't care where they use me now, so long as it is where I can take a sock at the world's worst enemies of today, the double-talk nations witch jab a knife in your kidney while asking what you want for Christmas.

Well, I must close now. Do not worry. Everything will come out all right with the old Stars and Stripes on top.

Your loving son, Oscar.

P. S.—I serpose pop is trying to get into the army again now. Tell him to forget it and stay home and look out for you as I will do enough fighting for all three of us.

To investigate. Murder is suspected. It is thought that Isadore, rich fur man, has made a gold strike and aims to keep prospectors out. On the way to the Hudson's Bay post, they visit Isadore in his palatial home, meet his wife and dog. So long as the airdale felt his master's hand he would not make any noise with the gag in his mouth. But the instant he caught a strange scent his shaggy body would vibrate with excitement.

Less than a hundred yards from where Finlay and his dog waited lay the black bulk of shadow of the mainland. The water between was washed by moonlight. But, past midnight, as the moon arched into the west, the murk reached out toward the shore where Finlay waited. Shortly the strait between the islands would be smothered in blackness. Then, if the Montagnais had discovered the police hide-out, they would cross.

With his rifle on his knees, Finlay sat listening, his arm circling the fretting dog.

The night slumbered on. Time and again the dog's throat swelled, to be shut short off by the quick pressure of Finlay's fingers. At last the black bank of creeping shadow reached the shore where Finlay watched.

"They'll be moving soon, if they're over there," Finlay whispered.

Suddenly the dog stiffened, the hair along his neck and back lifting as he sniffed. Finlay's hands closed on Flame's nose and throat. "Wind something? Steady, boy!"

Then from the murk drifted a faint sound like a splash of water. "Ah, I hear it! They're coming!" muttered Finlay.

Again Finlay strained his ears, with caught breath, for a repetition of the sound. At last he heard what resembled the wash of ripples; as if something was swimming slowly across the strait. What could that mean? He cut the gag and leaped and the airdale tore through the alders up the shore. Instead of the brittle airdale challenge to unseen foes there was a splash as the dog plunged into the lake.

"It must be a swimming otter or beaver he's wined," muttered the surprised Finlay. "He'd roar at a canoe."

Shortly from the gloom rose snarls, the thrashing of creatures battling in the water, then muffled gurgles. Rigid, Finlay listened, praying for the dog he loved.

"Flame!" groaned the man on the shore. "What's happened to you boy? What did you meet out there?" Had he lost his dog? Had Flame gone out there in the blackness to his death? It was no canoe. But what was it? Garry waited in suspense, ears straining. Then something moved swiftly through the water to the shore near him, shook itself and bounded to his side.

"Flame, you old water rat, what did you strike out there?" Finlay hugged his dripping dog. "Are you hurt, boy?"

A rapid search of the dog's head and shoulders with groping fingers seemed to reveal no wounds. Garry threw a loop of a thong around Flame's jaw and waited with arm crooked about him.

Presently the silence was split by a demoniacal wail which lifted like an eagle's screaming whistle to die in thin air. The startled Finlay clung to his aroused dog, clamping a hand over his nose. What in the name of all the fiends in hell was that? wondered the kneeling policeman. The voice ceased and silence again pulsed over moon-drenched forest and lake.

Shortly the night was tainted by the bellows of some tortured brute voicing his agony. It was followed by mad roars of rage which echoed back and forth between the forest walls of the strait.

Holding his struggling dog Finlay knelt on the shore as the mystery was solved in his active brain. Shortly he heard the thud of wood on wood fading rapidly into the distance. He released Flame who plunged up the shore roaring his challenge to the hidden owner of the magic voice.

"By the way they are beating it from that howling Windigo, those Montagnais won't stop until day-light!" Finlay laughed until he was tired.

"They're superstitious all right! Blaise, the Windigo! The giant who eats Indians! But where did he learn how to do this? What a voice! What a voice!"

"That you Garry?" called Red, stumbling through the bush. "Where's that foxy Blaise? Ever hear squawling to beat that? They were waiting at the island to come across but he scared them stiff. Those paddles were hitting the lake sixty a minute. Our Blaise, the big voice—the ventriloquist!"

"How you like dat song?" With Flame at his heels Blaise moved down the beach and joined his friends. "Wabistan tell me those Montagnais have fear of Windigo. So I seeng dem de Windigo song."

"Blaise, you're some prima-donna! You always claimed you could sing. Now I know it," said Red. "A swell idea to scare those Montagnais! Just what is a Windigo, anyway?"

Blaise chuckled. "Wal, de Injun tink de Windigo is beeg, w'at you call giant, who eat Injun and is ver' bad faller. He like to holler at night and scare dem. Most bush Injun is scare of Windigo and will not go into country 'ere he live."

"They certainly thought a man-eater was loose and hungry to-night," said Garry. "You had me guessing hard, Blaise, when you first opened up. Now before we get out of here I want to take Flame back into the bush and look him over with a torch."

"What's happened?" demanded Red.

Finlay described the dog's strange battle in the water. Then they went back where the light from an electric torch would be masked from the lake and looked the airdale over.

"He's scratched, Garry," said Red.

Brassard peered closely at the surface scratches which crossed Flame's shoulders and forelegs. "No claw or tooth mark dem mark," he grunted.

"It was a knife, then," said Finlay. "You think a Montagnais was swimming across the strait? But few of them can swim."

"We put cano' in and have a look," said Blaise.

Then the camp they found Moise Wabistan waiting and told him the story. Then the Peterboro, followed by the birchbark, passed through a patch of moonlit water before entering the bank of shadow. From the bow Finlay pointed to something floating ahead of them. "What's that?"

The canoe slid up to the drifting object. Kept aloft by air bladders of moose entrails, fastened under the arms, was the half-submerged body of a man. Blaise reached down and turned the drowned body to stare into an evil, grinning face. "What you tink?" he demanded, meeting the peering eyes of his friends. "Tetu!"

"Tetu? The side-kick of Tete-Blanche?" gasped Red. "Ah-hah! And good t'ing, for sure!"

"He was coming across to hunt for us when Flame went out and met him, nose to nose, and the best man won," said Red. "Good old Flame!"

Flame pull him undair and drown him before he stick a knife in him," added Blaise. "Dat smart chien. I navare saw so smart. He know more dan most man. But he get foolish w'en he smell beaver castor, eh Flame?"

It was the first week of August. For days the heat, like river mist before sunrise, had hung in the windless forests of the Nottaway country.

"Are you game for a swim, Lise? I'm stifled with this heat. There's an urge in me to mangle my curves with some nice, cool lake water," yawned Corinne Isadore.

"I'm crazy to but since that day at the beach I've been ordered to keep away from there," replied Lise.

"I fixed that with Jules this morning. The king says we can go. Have you noticed him since he returned from that trip? He's worried, Lise. He mumbles and raves in his sleep. One night he kept saying: 'What's their game? What's their game? We've got to get 'em, quick! If they see that plane and get back to Montreal, it's all over!'"

Lise stiffened in her hammock. Had Tete-Blanche got them already? "What could he have meant, Corinne?" she asked with seeming artlessness, wondering just how much of the other knew.

"It sounds as if they were hunting for Garry Finlay and that darling Malone boy, doesn't it—as if they were going to put them out of the way? Lise, I'm terribly frightened."

"I am, too. You saw the Indians who stopped here, yesterday?"

"Yes."

"There were twenty of them. They were hunting for the survey party."

"How do you know?"

"I heard Tete-Blanche talking to them. They acted drunk. Corinne, Jules is giving the Montagnais liquor and it's against the law."

"Jules swears that Finlay's a spy sent from Montreal to jump his gold strike on the river. I suppose that's the reason for it all."

"Has Jules ever talked to you of his gold strike?"

"No. He treats me like a baby. But I'm sure he's secretly shipped a lot of gold south. He's made much money."

"Yes, he's made money. Money's his god."

"But what's going to come of all this? It makes me shiver to think of it. Three men have been shot. What will the police do when they learn of it?" Corinne's great eyes were wide with apprehension. "Where's it going to end? If Finlay stays here and tries to find Jules' gold strike, Tete-Blanche'll kill him. It's horrible!"

Ring in the New Year—Buffet Style (See Recipes Below)

New Year Patterns

Brand new ideas for a brand New Year! What better way to usher in the year than a table laden with something really new, provocative and colorful? So here's the menu and here are the recipes each with a new slant that will put you as a hostess in the higher brackets for smart entertaining.

Whether the buffet is planned for the eve before or the day itself, this menu is designed to give you as little last-minute busting as possible. Just see that your table's set properly and the food cooked beforehand. The combination will do its stuff.

Two meats that lend themselves especially for good-looking platters are tongue and corned beef. Because of their color, flavor and texture they can't be too highly recommended for a platter such as I've suggested. Here's how you prepare them:

Beef Tongue.
1 smoked tongue
Cold water to cover
4 bay leaves
4 peppercorns
1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 onion

Wash tongue and if salty let stand in cold water overnight. Place in kettle with seasonings and let simmer slowly until tender, from 3 to 5 hours. Remove brine, pull off outer skin, cut off root. Let cool in brine. Serve thinly sliced, either hot or cold.

Corned Beef.
4 pounds corned beef
Clove of garlic
Paprika

Wash the meat in cold water. Soak an hour in cold water if salty, then drain. Place in a kettle and cover with water. Cook slowly 3 to 5 hours. When thoroughly cooked, cool, rub with garlic and paprika. Heat thoroughly in oven before serving. Slice thin and serve on platter with beef tongue.

Crisp and chewy cabbage done up as a cole slaw is a good accompaniment for the tongue and corned beef platter. To make your table really attractive, serve in a red cabbage scooped out and filled with the creamy mixture of cole slaw.

Cole Slaw.
(Serves 8)
4 cups finely shredded cabbage
1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
1/4 cup finely chopped celery
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
1/2 cup sour cream or mayonnaise

Combine vegetables, seasonings and sour cream or mayonnaise. Fill scooped out red cabbage and serve at once.

Apricot-Strawberry Gelatin Mold.
(Serves 8)
2 packages strawberry-flavored gelatin
1 No. 2 can apricot halves
1 No. 2 can pineapple pieces
4 cups water (juice from fruit to make up part of this amount)
Heat 2 cups water and pour over gelatin. Stir thoroughly, then add remaining water. Pour part of gelatin mixture over apricots laid at the bottom of a mold. Let jelly mix pineapple with remaining gelatin mixture and pour over first layer in mold. Let jelly until firm. Unmold and serve on crisp lettuce with sweet french dressing or mayonnaise combined with whipped cream sweetened with honey.

The dessert problem for this type of buffet is easily solved by a light, delicate cake frosted with chocolate and decorated with numerals to carry out the theme of the New Year: "Fortune Cake."

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 cups cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
4 egg yolks
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream shortening, add sugar, then beaten egg yolks. Whip until light and fluffy with Dover egg beater. Add flouring, then flour sifted with baking powder, alternating the adding of the flour with the milk. Beat well, place in greased and floured layer-cake pans. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven 35 to 40 minutes.

Surprise item in this cake is its custard filling:
2 1/2 tablespoons flour
1/4 cup sugar
Pinch of salt
1 cup milk, scalded
1 slightly beaten egg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Mix flour, sugar and salt. Stir in milk. Cook in double boiler until thick (about 15 minutes). Add hot mixture to egg slowly, then cook about 2 minutes longer. Cool, add vanilla and spread between layers of cake.

You'll need a whizz of an icing to do justice to Fortune cake. Take 2 cups of confectioners' sugar and blend in 4 tablespoons butter. Add 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate which have been melted over hot water. Then mix enough hot milk into the icing to smooth it out, flavor with 1 teaspoon vanilla and spread cake.

Modern Furniture Reflects Our Time

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin

Once more the so-called modern designers have come forth with what they regard as the final answer to the problem of a universally appealing style for modern furniture. There have been a good many of these "final answers" during the past few years. Each exhibition has a fine contribution to make to the theory and practice of modern decoration and so we are always interested to examine them all.

But we don't feel that modern furniture has yet really gotten into its stride. Most of it starts with a conscious effort to be different, to discard everything of the past. That naturally results in some pretty bizarre effects.

So modern must stand on its own feet as a style . . . and compete in beauty as well as in usefulness with the traditional designs. We feel that it has a place in today's living—to reflect the spirit of our times, and to revitalize our design.

Modern decoration as a whole has done this—the fabrics, the ceramics, the metals, the glass have found an appealing modern vernacular. But furniture has not been so fortunate in finding its way. We see in use everywhere modern textures in rugs and hangings, modern designs in printed fabrics, modern pottery, glass and metal but relatively little modern furniture is used.

The reason, we think, is that the furniture designers have tried to make too sharp a break with the past. Good design evolves out of all that has gone before—that's why fabrics, ceramics, silver and glass in modern spirit has been successful . . . they have had, of necessity, to grow up through their past.

The success of modern furniture in Sweden can be understood when you study its step-by-step development from the simple farm furniture of the country, but we fancied it up too much when we imported those same Swedish ideas and tried to make them grow suddenly.

BRVAO for the new silhouette—shaped by this long, torso-molding top, low waistline and full, swirling skirt! If you are out to get the world by the tail you simply must have one of these dirdl frocks—and it is typical of the young spirit of the times that you'll probably be your own dressmaker and turn out this style perfectly for yourself! Pattern No. 1479-B offers nothing fancy—merely that perfect button-front top with its immaculate, snowy white collar, short sleeves set in with a smooth straight shoulder line and a skirt gathered on at a slinkily low waist.

It's a dress of stiff fabrics, faille, taffeta or moire if you desire swish. Or, if you prefer flaming colors, make it in a soft wool crepe.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1479-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) with short sleeves, bias skirt, requires 4 1/2 yards 35-inch material, straight skirt 2 1/2 yards 54-inch material. One-half yard 35-inch material required for dickey collar. Perhaps Official Was't Very Good at History

A famous alienist met a certain prominent official. After some discussion on the mentally unsound, the official asked:

"Doctor, how do you really tell if a person is insane?"

"Oh, we merely ask a few ordinary questions which ordinary people can answer correctly."

"What type of questions?"

"Well," replied the alienist, "this sort of thing: Captain Cook made three voyages around the world and died on one of them. Which was it?"

"Oh, I say," objected the official, "I'm afraid I've forgotten which one it was."

Tenderness of Life

What seems to grow fairer to me as life goes by is the love and grace and tenderness of it, not its wit and cleverness and grandeur of knowledge—grand as knowledge is—but just the laughter of little children and the friendship of friends, and the cozy talk of the fireside, and the sight of flowers, and the sound of music.

ings to do

THE ONLY SO FAR: Bound for the Hudson's Bay post, they visit Isadore in his palatial home, meet his wife and

dog. So long as the airdale felt his master's hand he would not make any noise with the gag in his mouth. But the instant he caught a strange scent his shaggy body would vibrate with excitement.

Less than a hundred yards from where Finlay and his dog waited lay the black bulk of shadow of the mainland. The water between was washed by moonlight. But, past midnight, as the moon arched into the west, the murk reached out toward the shore where Finlay waited. Shortly the strait between the islands would be smothered in blackness. Then, if the Montagnais had discovered the police hide-out, they would cross.

With his rifle on his knees, Finlay sat listening, his arm circling the fretting dog.

The night slumbered on. Time and again the dog's throat swelled, to be shut short off by the quick pressure of Finlay's fingers. At last the black bank of creeping shadow reached the shore where Finlay watched.

"They'll be moving soon, if they're over there," Finlay whispered.

Suddenly the dog stiffened, the hair along his neck and back lifting as he sniffed. Finlay's hands closed on Flame's nose and throat. "Wind something? Steady, boy!"

Then from the murk drifted a faint sound like a splash of water. "Ah, I hear it! They're coming!" muttered Finlay.

Again Finlay strained his ears, with caught breath, for a repetition of the sound. At last he heard what resembled the wash of ripples; as if something was swimming slowly across the strait. What could that mean? He cut the gag and leaped and the airdale tore through the alders up the shore. Instead of the brittle airdale challenge to unseen foes there was a splash as the dog plunged into the lake.

"It must be a swimming otter or beaver he's wined," muttered the surprised Finlay. "He'd roar at a canoe."

Shortly from the gloom rose snarls, the thrashing of creatures battling in the water, then muffled gurgles. Rigid, Finlay listened, praying for the dog he loved.

"Flame!" groaned the man on the shore. "What's happened to you boy? What did you meet out there?" Had he lost his dog? Had Flame gone out there in the blackness to his death? It was no canoe. But what was it? Garry waited in suspense, ears straining. Then something moved swiftly through the water to the shore near him, shook itself and bounded to his side.

"Flame, you old water rat, what did you strike out there?" Finlay hugged his dripping dog. "Are you hurt, boy?"

A rapid search of the dog's head and shoulders with groping fingers seemed to reveal no wounds. Garry threw a loop of a thong around Flame's jaw and waited with arm crooked about him.

Presently the silence was split by a demoniacal wail which lifted like an eagle's screaming whistle to die in thin air. The startled Finlay clung to his aroused dog, clamping a hand over his nose. What in the name of all the fiends in hell was that? wondered the kneeling policeman. The voice ceased and silence again pulsed over moon-drenched forest and lake.

Shortly the night was tainted by the bellows of some tortured brute voicing his agony. It was followed by mad roars of rage which echoed back and forth between the forest walls of the strait.

Holding his struggling dog Finlay knelt on the shore as the mystery was solved in his active brain. Shortly he heard the thud of wood on wood fading rapidly into the distance. He released Flame who plunged up the shore roaring his challenge to the hidden owner of the magic voice.

"By the way they are beating it from that howling Windigo, those Montagnais won't stop until day-light!" Finlay laughed until he was tired.

"They're superstitious all right! Blaise, the Windigo! The giant who eats Indians! But where did he learn how to do this? What a voice! What a voice!"

"That you Garry?" called Red, stumbling through the bush. "Where's that foxy Blaise? Ever hear squawling to beat that? They

LAYING FLOCK HINTS

The price of eggs for 1942 bids fair to be reasonably good. This is encouraging news to poultrymen. The demand for eggs for home consumption and for national defense purposes will prevent any surplus accumulating on the market. But higher egg prices are only a part of the picture for the poultryman. He must guide his business by the margin between feed prices and egg prices which at present are none too favorable.

Here are a few hints which may help increase egg production:

Keep the laying flock culled. Each day at feeding time remove any bird that appears out of production. Maintain at least 60% production average. Watch the weight on the laying flock. Loss of weight will usually mean a drop in production and either a partial or a complete molt. Recovery from a molt is most apt to be a long period of no production.

Maintain feed consumption at the right level. On cold days make several trips to the laying house. Each time stir the mash in the feeders or add a small amount of fresh mash. Curiosity will make a few birds step up and feed. Maintenance of mash consumption will help carry flocks over cold periods without a slump.

Take the chill out of the water on cold days.

Reducing the amount of water a flock consumes will also likely result in increased production.

Keep a trough, rack or hopper filled with alfalfa leaves, chaff or hay. Constant access to this feed is particularly necessary since most rations are none too high in protein.

FARM LABOR SHORTAGE

The farm labor problem will be more acute during the coming year than it has been for some time. Dependable and capable hired help will be very hard to find. In fact any kind of reliable labor will be difficult to get during the existence of the present emergency.

Farmers can do considerable in helping to solve the farm labor and the farm machinery problem by cooperating with each other. Work that requires extra help can be cooperatively done by two or more neighbors exchanging help. The same holds true of the use of farm machinery. Such exchange of labor and machinery is being carried on in many communities and has proved mutually beneficial.

Here's another suggestion. These warm December days can be utilized in making repairs on farm buildings and farm machinery. Farm machinery is going to be hard to buy next spring and any repair work that will keep any farm implement in service another year or two will be just that much help to our national defense program. Now is the time to do such repair work and all farm implements should be carefully checked over. Then when an other planting season is here, and delay will be caused by the fact that the machinery is not ready.

ORDER COMMERCIAL FERTILIZERS EARLY

The year 1942 will be a good time to increase the production of agricultural food stuffs. But farmers should keep in mind that this expansion should not necessarily be brought about by buying or renting additional land, but rather it should be brought about by better and more careful farming of the land you now till. To farm this land better you may want to buy commercial fertilizers to use with your next spring's plantings. Farmers are advised to place their orders for commercial fertilizers early so as to make sure of their supply for spring application. Through the liberal use of lime and commercial fertilizers the production of farm crops can be appreciably increased as many field demonstrations have proved. More than 400 such field demonstration plots were held in the state during the past year. Prof. C. J. Chapman of the college of agriculture who supervised these test plots reports that 66% of them not only produced increased yields, but yields sufficiently big enough to show a good profit over and above the cost of the fertilizer.

The national defense program has resulted in curtailment in production of certain commodities needed in the manufacture of high grade fertilizers. Shipments of potash from mines in New Mexico and California may be still further curtailed due to the present war situation. All boat shipments from gulf ports to the Atlantic seaports have been completely cut off.

Due to shortages of 45% superphosphate, a large tonnage of which is being shipped to England under the lend-lease program, it is becoming increasingly difficult for manufacturers to meet the demand for high grade mixtures such as 0-20-20, 3-18-19 and 4-16-4—all of which call for the use of 54% superphosphate in the manufacture of these higher analyses. There will be no 45% superphosphate offered for sale in Wisconsin or any of the middle western states this coming spring. Difficulty may be experienced even in supplying the demand for straight 20% superphosphate which calls for the use of small amounts of 45% in building up lower analysis superphosphate to the 20% grade.

ADD LIFE TO FENCE POSTS

With steel now on the priority list for national defense many Washington county farmers will turn to their woodlots for their season's supply of fence posts. The question, however, with many farmers is how long will these newly cut posts last.

Reports upon methods now being used to add service life to fence posts. F. B. Trenk, state extension forester, says that for such trees as poplar, ash, basswood and soft maple trees of cordwood size the zinc poison method of treatment is quite practical. The system, he says, works well on trees of most species except the oaks, hickories, hard maple and the cedars.

This method of treating fence posts was developed by the United States Forest Products laboratory at Madison, and uses zinc chloride which is poisonous to insects and to organisms that cause rot. It will add many years to the life of even such fast rotting woods as cottonwood or popple. He explained, however, that the posts to be treated must be strictly fresh and green, and the bark left on, since dried or split posts will not take the chemical by this method.

Although the time usually recommended for the treatment is when the sap begins to flow in the spring, which is before the field work starts, it has been found practical to do this work in the winter provided the treatment is done in a building or room that is kept above freezing.

HAVE YOUR SOIL TESTED

Before freezing weather sets in farmers have an excellent opportunity to collect soil samples for having soil tests made. If commercial fertilizer or lime will be purchased for next spring it will be profitable to have soil tests made so that the amount and quality of a commercial fertilizer for a given crop can be determined. Commercial fertilizer is expensive and should only be applied after a careful soil analysis has been made. It is recommended that a sample be taken from about every two acres in a given field, and that this sample be a mixture of the upper eight inches of ground. About one handful of soil makes a good sample.

Safety Assured for Tiny Tourists

Tiny tourists sometimes grow restless on long motor trips and their limitless energy and curiosity require double checking to insure that every safety precaution is being taken by their parents. With the entire rear compartment of the family Chevrolet as his personal playground, this youngster assumes a favorite perch that ordinarily would be dangerous. However, a simple adjustment, easily made by Chevrolet mechanics, converted the rear door handle to a safety-action handle, which "free wheels" and does not open the door. After the lock is adjusted to safety position, as indicated in the inset, the lock button is depressed and the inside handle then will not open the door, rendering it "child-proof." Release of the lock button enables the driver to open the door as usual.

IF YOU SUFFER FROM FEMALE PAINT WHICH MAKES YOU WEAK, CRANKY

Nervous—TAKE HEED! If you have all or any one of these symptoms: do you suffer headache, cramps, backaches, nervousness, weakness, irritability, distress of the blues, a bloated feeling—due to functional monthly disturbances? Pinkham's Compound Tablets (with added iron). Pinkham's Tablets are made especially for women suffering from these troubles. Thousands of girls and women report remarkable benefits. Taken regularly—Pinkham's Tablets help build up resistance against such annoying ailments. Pinkham's Tablets are especially helpful in building up strength, thus aid in promoting more strength. Follow these directions. WORTH TRYING!

DON'T LET CONSTIPATION SLOW YOU UP

When bowels are sluggish—when you feel irritable, headachy and even when you do an effort—do as millions of women do. Chew FEEN-A-MINT, the new chewing gum laxative. FEEN-A-MINT looks and tastes like your favorite gum—you'll like its fresh mint flavor. So you'll like its fresh mint flavor. So without being disturbed—just chew FEEN-A-MINT at bedtime. It's gentle, effective relief. You'll feel better, full of your old pep again. It's a sure supply of FEEN-A-MINT costs only 10¢.

Modification of Navy Physical Requirements
A relaxation of physical standards for enlistments in the U. S. Navy and the naval reserve was announced this week by the navy department. In commenting on this action, the navy department announcement stated that numerous men who in past months have sought to enlist and have been rejected on the basis of minor physical defects will, because of the modification of physical standards, be encouraged to re-apply for enlistment in either the regular navy or the naval reserve for the duration of the emergency.
The navy department has requested that any person knowing of young men who had been barred from enlistment in the navy or the naval reserve because of minor physical reasons should bring this modification in physical requirements to the attention of these young men.
Applicants with varicose veins will be accepted under the changed standards, this varicose condition to be corrected, if the condition is painful, at the naval training stations to which the new recruits are sent. Hydrocele, another defect that formerly ruled out numerous applicants, will be corrected, if necessary, after enlistees arrive at training stations. Applicants suffering from hernia will be accepted provided their L. Q.'s are 75 or better. Recruits suffering from hernia will be treated at the training stations and will be enrolled for schooling during their periods of convalescence.
Other physical defects which formerly prevented men from being accepted as recruits, but which now are waived, are seasonal hay fever; correctible nasal deformities or nasal deformities of such a degree as not to interfere with duty; undernourished and underdeveloped applicants, providing the condition is not due to organic disease; and minor surgical defects which can be corrected within a month. Applicants who possess 18 natural serviceable teeth, with at least two molars in functional occlusion and not more than four incisors missing, will be acceptable. Dental treatment will be given at the training stations.
Any applicant who has been rejected because of any of the defects noted above is urged to re-apply for enlistment in the navy or naval reserve immediately.
All applicants accepted with defects requiring correction will be hospitalized. After correction of these defects recruits will be returned to their training stations at the earliest practicable time.
These modified physical standards will apply for all applicants for enlistment in either the regular navy or the naval reserve with the exception of applicants for enlistment in classes for prospective commissioning.

FARM AND HOME LINES
Good pastures in the future will carry more and more of the load of supporting America's live stock population, predict agronomists at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.
Records show that the cash from marketing a hog is only enough to buy about half as many pounds of meat at retail prices. This means that families which produce, slaughter, and preserve their own meat are being well paid for their time and effort.
Dairymen who have only low quality hay to feed this winter may overcome their handicap by supplying the protein it lacks through suitable grain mixtures, explain Badger extension dairymen.

MEMORIAL
In memory you will linger
Dear one for all the time,
We will always, always miss you
For you left us here to pine.
Up in heaven your Father's waiting
For you dear one of mine,
And you will be waiting there for us
we know
Soon will come our time,
Then will be the happy meeting
When dear ones unite,
In God's Kingdom in heaven
We will meet you in delight.
Sadly missed by his sorrowing wife and children, Mrs. John Spoerl, Sr. and family.

INFLUENCE OF WEATHER ON HEALTH AND DISEASE

Everyone knows of people who can predict a change in the weather because rheumatic or previously injured joints become stiff and painful.

CAUSES FOR MILITARY REJECTION

Table with 2 columns: Cause, Percentage. Includes Teeth (19.32%), Eyes (13.25%), Cardiovascular System (6.18%), etc.

infections, bronchitis and pneumonias are most prevalent from November through April but the probable connection between the high incidence and the lack of ultra violet rays from the sun during these months is not appreciated.

It has long been known that a stimulating climate, one in which weather and especially temperature varies greatly causes civilization to reach the highest levels.

The cattle know when to leave their pasture, but a foolish man knows not the measure of his own appetite.

A.—Buttermilk and lemon juice are harmless and not very effective.

LEAVES from Uncle Sam's Notebook

New Ways With Nuts

As all housekeepers know, nuts show a decided tendency to become rancid, and the rancidity may develop not only in shelled nuts, but even in those still protected by their shells, if they have been kept for some time.

In order to prevent such spoilage, and also in order to have the nuts always ready for use at a moment's notice, it is quite practicable to sterilize them and store in vacuum-packed containers.

MAKING NUT BUTTERS

The ingredients for making a half-pound of such butter are: 1 tablespoon of bland table oil, one-half teaspoon of salt, and 2 cups of blanched and roasted nuts.

Teeth 19.32%
Eyes 13.25%
Cardiovascular System 6.18%
Musculo-Skeletal Defects 4.90%
Mental and Nervous 10.48%
Ears 9.52%
Hernia 5.28%
Lungs 5.00%
Venereal 4.44%
Feet 3.64%
All Others 17.99%

Most everyone knows that chestnuts may be used to advantage in dressings for fowls, but many cooks do not know that various other nuts may be so used.

NUT LOAVES

In making a nut loaf remember to have among the vegetables commonly used in the mixture, either celery, green peppers, or carrots, in order to secure a crisp texture.

That Old Black Lace Shawl Is Right in Style This Season

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHEN those cherished bids to yuletide parties begin to arrive, when those coveted invitations to smart afternoon affairs await acceptance, then it is that fancy turns to visions of pretty clothes that will make you look your prettiest.

To these ever-recurring "what-to-wear" problems, lace, always a gallant flatterer, brings one of the happiest solutions fashion has to offer this winter.

Head Lines

Treat your face like a picture, and wear a hat as a frame to enhance its beauty. A hat is a line, a silhouette, and through the hat a "square" face may be made to appear oval, which is supposed to be the perfect type.

Tips Picked Up in World Fashion Centers

Why not wear a single stunning jewel with your simple afternoon dress? The covered-up look gives a new twist to evening clothes.

Twenty-five Years Ago

Henry Scholler pleaded guilty in circuit court at Fond du Lac to stealing a robe and was sentenced to two years in Waupun. Scholler is the man who created some excitement a month ago by breaking out of the Fond du Lac jail and eluding police two days. He was caught by Marshal Geo. F. Brandt of this village.

Deaths the past week included Mrs. Wilhelmina Schimmelptennig, 85, prominent Town Ashford woman, former resident of Town Kewaskum and Town Auburn; Mrs. Lorenz Guth, 61, West Bend, mother of Charles Guth of this village; Julius Dettman, 64, old Town Scott resident, which occurred in Milwaukee; and Jacob Knoebel, Sr. of Town Wayne, father of Mrs. C. C. Schaefer and Jacob Knoebel, Jr. of this village, who served in the Civil War as a volunteer in the Wisconsin 26th regiment. He was one of the soldiers who fought in the battle of Gettysburg, where he was wounded and disabled for one year.
