County Heads County Age Committee; Schmidt Named

West Bend, former commander of the salvage committee of the Washington county, has been named as head of the county conservation committee.
The committee is more important than any other group. Conservation for the future will become an important part of the war effort.

The committee will be taken shortly for the scrap iron and steel
paper. The Boy Scouts, already done an excellent job of collecting scrap paper, will be in charge of the new program.

Lift Publication Ban on Draftees; 21 Leave

Selective service has lifted the ban on publication of the names of registrants about to be inducted into the army or navy, according to Brigadier General Lewis B. Hershey, director. He revealed that a policy of restricting information about procurement of men for the armed services had been altered to this extent, but that no information should be given out on the number of men covered by quotas and calls.

The Washington county selective service board received an official communication late last week to the effect that names of those boys who left Tuesday, Jan. 13, might be published. As a result we are able to publish a complete list of the 21 selectees who left last week. In our last issue we published only the names of those from Kewaskum inducted. The entire group inducted at Fort Sheridan included the following: Edwin Frohmann, R. 1, Kewaskum; Sylvester J. Bales, R. 4, West Bend; Clarence Gumm Jr., R. 1, Jackson; Roland Geiger, R. 1, Rockfield; Alfred Elmernan, R. 1, Rockfield; Marvin Kirchner, R. 2, Kewaskum; Wallace Raddemann, Hartford; Marvin Zaring, West Bend; John Cas-ser, R. 1, West Bend; Lester Oettinger, West Bend; Clarence Kratz, R. 1, Slinger; Albert Horn Jr., Kewaskum; Francis Horn, Kewaskum; Sylvester Mueller, R. 1, Jackson; John Robbins, Allenton; John Monroe, R.
1, Hartford; Robert Vagelsing, Hartford; Arlin Rennie, R. 1, Germantown; Ervin Frank, Hartford; Pol-bert Barez, R. 1, Richfield; Norbert Brethkreutz, Hartford.

HRON SENT TO MICH. CAMP

Pvt. Albert Hron Jr. of this village, inducted with the above group, has been assigned to Barracks No. 42, Recruit Detachment, Hangar No. 7, Selfridge Field, Mich., according to word received from the recruit reception center at Fort Sheridan. Pvt.
Hron, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G.
Hron, was employed as a packer and billing clerk at the Kewaskum Aluminum Co. before being inducted. He was also a member of the local fire department. He attended elementary school in the village and also the local high school where he was active in baseball and basketball.

HORN, KIRCHNER TO TEXAS

Pvts. Francis Horn and Marvin Kirchner of Kewaskum, who also left with the above group, have been assigned to Camp Wallace, Texas, according to notice received by their parents.

COUNTY DEFENSE NEWS

Headquarters Office County Council of Defense Public Library at West Bend Telephone 302

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Volunteer clerical help is needed immediately by the Council of Defense. Girls and housewives who have had office experience are especially desired to help in gathering and tabulating information for new county projects. After you have decided what days and what hours you can devote to this work, then go to the Council of Defense headquarters at the public library in West Bend and register. These volunteer services will be given without pay.

TIRE RATIONING

The tire rationing board again wishes to emphasize the necessity of filling out the request blanks properly before coming to this body for tires. First, only the few eligible, as published in the last issue of this paper, need apply. Then, if you are determinately an eligible and need tires, fill out the blank and have your request checked by a tire inspector who will fill out a portion of the blank. Generally speaking, practically all motorists and most trucks are not eligible for new tires.

NEXT PAPER SHIPMENT FEB. 2

The Boy Scouts will make their next shipment of scrap paper, including newspapers, magazines and cartons, on Feb. 2. Call your Boy Scout or defense headquarters (Tel.
302) sometime before that date. The boys are anxious to ship another full truck load of 12,000 lbs. A new method of paying the boys has been adopted. At their meetings this week they decided that they should be paid 40% in defense stamps and 60% in cash.

WILL GIVE DEFENSE STAMPS AS PRIZES AT BINGO PARTY

On Sunday afternoon, Jan. 25, starting at 2 p. m. the Young Ladies' sodality of Holy Trinity parish, Kewaskum, will sponsor a bingo party at the school hall. Defense stamps will be awarded as prizes. The public is invited to attend. Here is an opportunity to spend an enjoyable afternoon and show your patriotism by helping your country as well as benefitting yourself.

Two Killed, 4 Injured in County Auto Crash

Washington county's chances of lessening its traffic fatality record in 1942 got off to a bad start when two persons were killed and four injured, one critically, in a collision at the intersection of State Highway 165 and County Trunk Highway F in the county a short distance east of Richfield Wednesday afternoon.

The dead are Adam Arnold, 58, retired farmer of Richfield, and Oliver Arnold, 28, his son, who has been operating the family farm in the town of Germantown. Injured were Mrs.
Adam Arnold, said to be in a critical condition in St. Joseph's hospital at Hartford; Mrs. Oliver Arnold, their 18-month-old baby and Harvey Kas-ten, 20, Richfield. Kasten sustained chest bruises and was not hospitalized.

The crash occurred two blocks west of the Arnold farm. The family was bound for Milwaukee, and their car was eastbound on Trunk P. Kas-ten, who had been at Goldendale assisting in rearing a town of Germantown snow plow, was enroute to his home, a mile away. He was going north on Highway 165. The two autos met at the intersection.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Arnold and their infant were thrown out of the car. Other motorists extricated Adam Arnold and his wife from the wrecked auto. The bodies of the two dead men were taken to an undertaking establishment at Menomonie Falls. Coroner Raymond Frank of Washington county said an inquest will be held next week.

INJURED WHEN AUTO TIPS

Bill McCarty, Campbellsport, R. D., who is employed by the Kewaskum Aluminum Co., sustained minor injuries shortly before midnight Wednesday when the auto he was driving struck an icy spot on a curve, swerved across the road, and rolled over in the ditch on Highway 55 just inside the north village limits near the Wm. Bruhn service station. The car, a 1936 Ford V-8 owned by a friend, rolled completely over once and came to rest on its side in a snowbank.
McCarty, who was alone in the machine, was traveling north on his way home from this village. A passing truck driver assisted the young man from the car and brought him back to town to summon a wrecker. Mc-Carty suffered a bad bump above his right eye, a cut and bruised left leg, and was quite shaken up. The top and right side of the body of the car were damaged.

TRUCK TIPS; HALTS TRAFFIC

Ice on the highway also caused an accident at about 9:30 p. m. Saturday when a transportation truck owned by the Green Bay, Chicago Lines turned over on Highway 55, north of Kewaskum just on the other side of the overhead bridge. Traveling north, the truck was rounding a curve when it hit a slippery spot on the road and began to swerve. The trailer on the truck slid around ahead of the tractor, causing it to turn over. The machine swung clear around so that it was facing south when it came to rest. Another truck came over the overhead and when the driver tried to avoid a collision with the turned over truck, his machine skid-ded over a jackknifed across the highway. Traffic was blocked until a wrecker straightened out the jack-knifed truck. The tipped truck was only slightly damaged and the driver escaped injury. The truck was lifted at the scene until Sunday morning when it was towed in by the Modern Service garage of Fond du Lac.

NINETY-FIRST BIRTHDAY OBSERVED BY NIC. HESS

A number of relatives and friends were entertained at the home of Nic.
Hess and his daughter Josephine in this village Sunday in honor of Mr.
Hess' 91st birthday anniversary. A delicious 6 o'clock dinner was served, which was followed by a pleasant evening of cards. The venerable man is in good health and active for his advanced age. After an enjoyable evening these present left for their homes with the wish that Mr. Hess might observe many more happy birthdays.

STOCK FAIR WEDNESDAY

Monthly stock fair will be held on upper Main street next Wednesday morning, Jan. 28. Farmers, bring in your livestock.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH

Deposits Increased Nearly $200,000 at Bank; Has Fine Year

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Bank of Kewaskum was held on Friday, Jan. 16, with a total of 369 shares represented either by person or proxy.

President M. W. Rosenheimer reported a very successful year for the bank. Deposits increased nearly $200,000. Dividends of 8% were paid and a substantial sum was added to the undivided profits account.
Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, M. W.
Rosenheimer; vice-president, N. W.
Rosenheimer; cashier, Paul Landmann.

Directors elected were N. W. Rosenheimer, A. L. Rosenheimer, Jr., Paul Landmann, M. L. Meister and M. W. Rosenheimer.

"LIGHTED WINDOWS" NEW SERIAL STARTING TODAY

"Lighted Windows," by Emilie Lar-ling is the new serial story starting in this issue. It is as interesting a story of Alaska as has appeared in a long time and we are glad to have scheduled it.

Cinderella had nothing whatever to do with the slipper which Bruce Par-court, an Alaskan engineer, found in the middle of Fifth Ave., New York.
But, like the Prince in the fairy tale, Harcourt was determined to find the owner of that slipper. And he did, through a lost-and-found ad. Strangely enough, the owner was Janice Trent, grown-up "tomboy" sister of an old college chum, Harcourt fell in love with the young lady on the spot, but she was engaged to one Ned Paxton, millionaire playboy, and he (Harcourt) was to leave that night for Alaska.

We are quite positive on one point.
Our readers will like this crisp, clean, bracing story of Alaska. Start reading it now!

HOSPITAL NEWS

Lois, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keller Jr. of this village, was taken to St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend, Monday for blood transfusions and medical treatment. She is reported to be seriously ill at the hospital.

Mrs. Berthold Ebert of R. 1, Kewaskum underwent an appendectomy last Wednesday at the same hospital.
She expects to return home Sunday.

Mrs. Louis Martin of R. 2, Kewaskum submitted to a major operation on Thursday morning at the hospital.
Mrs. Kilian Reindl of St. Kilian underwent an appendectomy at St.
Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, last Thursday.

Mrs. Jos. Schwind and baby daughter, Alice Mary, returned Monday from the Milwaukee Children's hospital, where the infant was operated on Saturday, Jan. 10.

John Schrauth of Elmore underwent an operation at St. Agnes hospital last Wednesday.

BADGER FIREMEN'S BANQUET AT RANDOM LAKE THURSDAY

The Badger Firemen's association mid-winter meeting and banquet will be held at the Random Lake auditorium Thursday, Jan. 29. Kewaskum is one of the 29 member departments and a sizable delegation from here intends to attend. At the afternoon meeting the date for the annual will be selected by delegates. It is scheduled for West Bend but may be changed because of the war. Other business will be transacted. An attendance of 400 people is expected at the evening session.

Produce For Victory

Wisconsin farmers have important work to do. The job was assigned them on Dec. 7. Their answer will come from the fields and pastures, from flocks and herds, in fact from every square foot of available soil on each and every farm.

Washington county farmers hold an important position in Wisconsin as producers of wartime food products. They have been asked by their government to contribute in ever increasing amounts, food products most important in the feeding of our armed forces, our civilian population and our partners fighting on the side of democracy.

The Wisconsin College of Agriculture is planning a five-day intensified program to assist rural people to adjust and make their plans to produce for victory. You are invited to attend. The program will be enriched by your attendance, your participation, and your counsel.

These meetings will be held on Feb. 2-6 inclusive at the auditorium of the College of Agriculture, Madison.

Frank Becker, Kin of Local People Killed

Frank F. Becker, 41, Woodland businessman, and relative of people in Kewaskum and vicinity, was killed outright when the car he was driving was struck by a truck at Highways 60 and 67 near Neosho at 9:30 a. m. Sunday. Mr. Becker's wife is the former Amelida Remmel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Remmel of near Theresa. Mr. Remmel is a cheesemaker. The Remmel family also is related to a number of people here and visit in the village often.

After stopping for an arterial sign Becker started forward and the wheels of the car slipped on ice. The machine skidded into the path of the truck, driven by Delbert Heschke of Menomonie Falls. Becker's body was hurled 30 feet. Two companions, Wilfred Niesius, 23, and Peter Kiefer, 60, Woodland, were injured. The three were on their way to church services at Neosho. Mr. Becker had remained home with the children while his wife attended services at Woodland, and left to attend services at Neosho when she returned.

Becker was secretary-manager of the Woodland Lumber & Grain Co., former secretary of the Wisconsin Feed Dealers association, a member of the Wisconsin Lumberman's association, Knights of Columbus, Esige and Holy Name society. He was also secretary of the Dodge County Skatleague. Surviving are his wife, Am-elida; two sons, Franklin, 4, and Lewis, 5 months; three brothers and two sisters. Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Wednesday at St. Mary's church, Woodland, and burial was in the church cemetery.

The following local relatives of either Mr. or Mrs. Becker viewed the remains at Woodland Tuesday evening: Mr. and Mrs. Al. Wietor, Mrs.
Rose McLaughlin, Louis Bath Sr. and son Louis, Miss Mary Remmel and Mrs. Don Harbeck. Mrs. Wietor, Mrs. Harbeck and Mr. and Mrs.
Frank Felix also attended the funeral. Many people from St. Kilian and vicinity also viewed the remains and attended the last rites.

MRS. MARGARET GOTTSACKER

Funeral services were held at 8
a. m. Monday, Jan. 13, from the Gerend funeral home in Sheboygan and at 9:30 a. m. from Holy Name church there for Mrs. Margaret Gottsacker, 79, a former resident of New Fane, who died Wednesday, Jan. 7, in a Sheboygan hospital after an extended illness.

She was born Jan. 6, 1863, at Wau-cousta, the daughter of Charles and Katherine Gottsacker. In her youth she lived near New Fane, R. 1, Kewaskum, and later went to Milwaukee, where for over 18 years she was employed as a saleswoman in the mercantile establishment of J. Hausman and Son and Gimbel Bros. department store.

On April 30, 1902, she was married to Frank Gottsacker, editor of the National Democrat and former postmaster of Sheboygan, who died in office Nov. 27, 1918. Mrs. Gottsacker succeeded her husband as postmastress for the unexpired term.

MRS. THOMAS BUTLER

Mrs. Thomas F. Butler, 73, town of Scott native, passed away Tuesday evening, Jan. 13, at 10:15 o'clock at the Plymouth hospital after two months' illness.

Allie McBride was born in the town of Scott Jan. 23, 1868, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip McBride and resided there until 1890 when she moved to Chicago. On Jan. 27, 1908, she was united in marriage to Thomas F. Butler. Since then the town of Mitchell has been their home. The deceased was a member of the Altar society and Lady Order of Foresters of St. Michael's church in Mitchell.
Survivors are her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Gerald Wiltzius, of Gary, Ind.; one son, Phillip, at home; one sister, Mrs. James Loftus, New Holstein. Five brothers and one sister preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock from a Gentine funeral home, Plymouth, and at 10 o'clock at St. Michael's church, Mitchell. The Rev. Cyril Donahue of Marquette University, a nephew of the deceased, sang the opening hymn and preached the sermon. Rev. C. J. Schouten, pastor, was present in the sanctuary.

BIRTHS

SMITH—Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Smith of this village are the parents of an 8 1/2 pound daughter, born at their home Tuesday morning, Jan. 23.
SCHULTZ—Born to Mr. and Mrs.
Reuben Schultz of the town of Kewaskum, an eight and one-fourth lb. baby girl on Friday, Jan. 16. Mr.
Schultz was formerly Miss Sylvia Klein.

Birthday Ball Ticket, Button Sale Under Way

Tickets are now on sale throughout the county for the big, county-wide dance which will be held in the West Bend public school gymnasium Friday evening, Feb. 6, which will mark Washington county's annual observance of President Roosevelt's birthday anniversary.

For the ninth consecutive year the president, himself a victim of infantile paralysis and who first conceived a nationwide war against the disease, has granted the use of his birthday as a means of focusing attention upon the annual drive for funds for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The tickets for the dance are selling at 50 cents per person, and the sale is being conducted under a county committee setup headed by Arnold A. Nimmer, West Bend, county chairman. Names of the committee members are expected to be made public in next week's issue of this newspaper.

Music for the dance will be furnished by Joe Tantillo and his orchestra of Madison, a well known aggregation of musicians who feature both modern and old time music.
They have played at numerous dances in this vicinity and have won popular acclaim wherever they have appeared. Their presence should help swell the number attending the dance.

In addition to the dance, a button sales campaign will be conducted through the schools of the county.
The buttons will be sold at a nominal cost. It is expected that the ministers of the county will call attention to the annual "fight infantile paralysis" drive on "Infantile Paralysis Sunday," Jan. 25, under the sponsorship of the churches and synagogues of America.

In connection with the annual drive for funds, Edna Ferber, famous author, adds her appeal as follows:

"There would be little sense or use in fighting and sacrificing for the preservation of the democracy known as the United States of America if,
in that fight, we were to lose the institutions and emotions of humanitarianism.

"Soldiers are important, sailors are important, aviators are important, ships, guns, tanks, planes, rubber oil, metals are suddenly vitally important. But, when the world is sanguine and good again to live in, all these will assume once more their proper relation to life. Then only we shall know whether we have retained the right to call this way of ours a civilization.

"The old, the feeble, the children, the sick, the crippled, the needy must be cared for no matter what additional tasks war has brought to each of us. Boys and girls are important; hospitals for civilians are important;
free clinics, charitable organizations, food, sun, rest, education, fun are important.

"The fight against infantile paralysis is one of the vital and constructive battles that must go on, no matter how fierce and bloody the worldwide battle of destruction may be.
We must fight and give for war. But we must work and give for the fundamental and life-preserving institutions that have been built up in the name of democracy and humanity."

PLAY ALL-STAR GAME

On Sunday afternoon, Jan. 18, a large crowd of dartball enthusiasts witnessed keenly contested series of games between the leaders of the Lutheran league, New Fane, and a picked team of all-stars at Batavia.
The all-stars team consisted of the two leading batters from the five remaining teams of the league, namely Adell, Kewaskum, Sherman, Center, Batavia and Town Scott. The stars trounced New Fane in all three contests, 13-4, 7-3 and 13-7. The all-stars also outthrew the leaders in every game, 21-10, 16-10 and 22-12. The winners batted .444 to New Fane's .283.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Kewaskum Aluminum company was held at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 20, at the office of the company. Notices to this effect were sent out to stockholders by N.
W. Rosenheimer, secretary.

Organize Health and Welfare Committee; Dr. Edwards a Member

The health and welfare committee for Washington county has been organized through and sponsored by the Washington County Council of Defense. It will have two major purposes: first, to prepare an organized group for meeting an emergency of sabotage, accident, large scale fires, etc., and secondly, to plan a public health program.

Making up the membership of this committee are physicians from all parts of the county as well as representatives of health and welfare agencies as follows:

Dr. A. H. Heider, chairman, West Bend; Dr. F. W. Sachsse, Hartford; Dr. H. F. Weber, Newburg; Dr. H.
E. Froede, Jackson; Dr. R. A. Dehlman, Germantown; Dr. R. G. Edwards, Kewaskum; Dr. R. S. Fisher, Allenton; Dr. S. Driessel, Barton; Dr. H. Meyer Lyuch, West Bend; Dr.
Thos. Laughlin, Hartford; Dr. Gregory Hoffman, health officer, Hartford; Dr. P. M. Kauth, Mrs. E. R.
Vornholt and Henry O. Schowalter, West Bend; Mrs. Graver Frey, Hartford; Miss Marion Walters, county nurse, and Miss Virginia Forbes, city nurse, West Bend.

This committee will enlist the services and cooperation of all existing agencies, such as the Red Cross, city and county nurses, and other welfare workers. After preliminary plans have been worked out for serving emergency needs, the group will turn its attention to a public health program.

In both of these efforts, the committee's effectiveness will be only as great as the cooperation from each and every one of us. When the orders and suggestions are given out in the near future, lend a hand. They will be designed for your welfare and your protection.

Kewaskum 13th Highest in Badger Bomber Fund

Up to Tuesday noon Kewaskum still maintained its position as 13th highest in the state in volume of donations to the Milwaukee Sentinel's Badger Bomber Fund. At that time village residents had contributed a total of $40 towards the fund to give Uncle Sam a Wisconsin bombing plane. Up to Saturday Kewaskum was 8th highest out of all its cities

Brown Boys in Blue

The navy department has established naval reserve officers training corps at various colleges throughout the nation. Typical of these is the unit at Brown university, Providence, R. I., where the navy has a key base at nearby Newport. These photos take you to Brown, and show you how the Brown boys in blue are learning the arts of the seagoing warrior to man the fortresses of floating steel that are our first line of defense.

Like the generations of Brown sons who have fought in every one of America's wars since the Revolution, these young men are determined to share in America's victory effort.

Loading and firing of naval guns is practiced in this loading machine. Dummy shells are used. This is a job where teamwork counts.

Naval instructors who teach the Brown boys their gunnery simulate conditions at sea by means of a device that makes the target heave and toss.

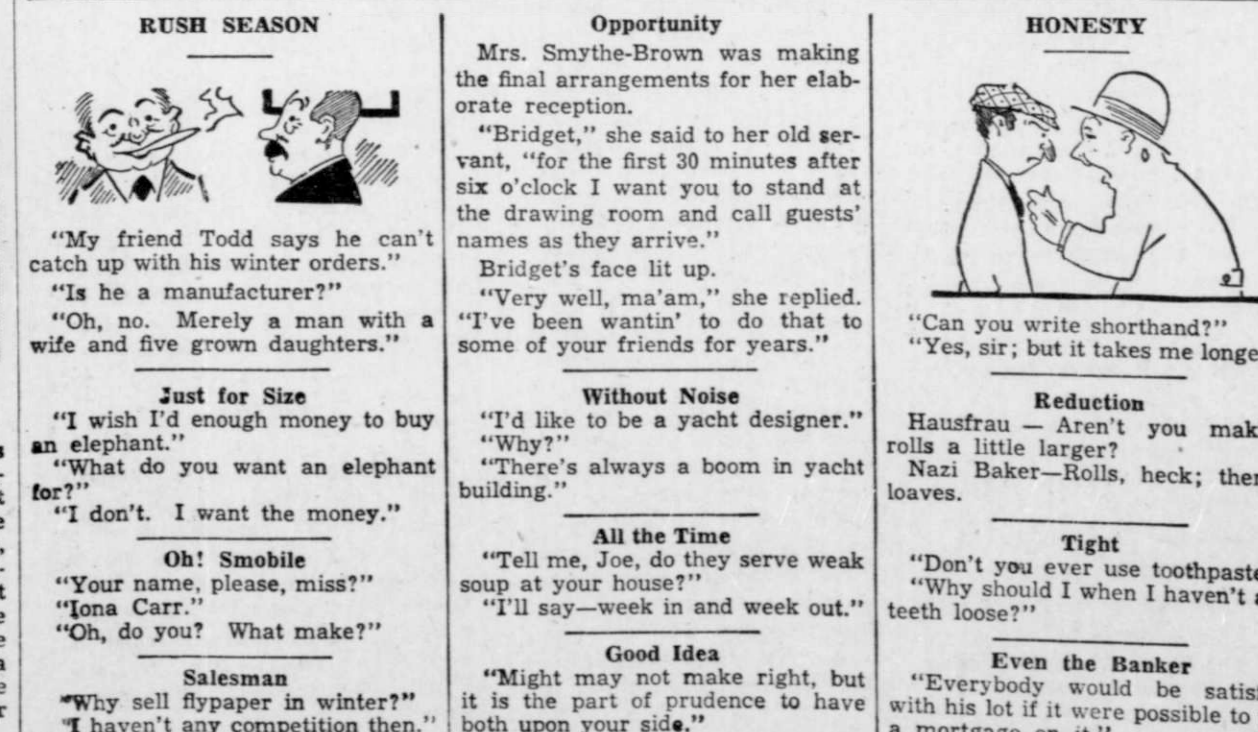

"TIN FISH" . . . Studying the after part of a torpedo, one of the most intricate of naval weapons.

'Re-used' Wool
One specification of wool is "re-used wool," meaning a fabric produced from renovated or treated old coats, suits, sweaters, old woolen rags, etc., assembled by junk-dealers and various social agencies, and sold to the factory to be entirely sterilized and remade. Here, the fibers are short, worn, have lost their springy quality, and, as a consequence, their accompanying virtues of good wool—namely, warmth with lightness and long wear.

Mesa Verde Cliff Dwellers
Southwestern United States abounds with evidences of pre-Columbian Indians. Most important ruins of American cliff dwellings are found in Mesa Verde National park, a 77-square-mile area in southwestern Colorado. Cliff Palace, largest of the ruins, is located in a huge cave, hundreds of feet above the canyon floor. It is no palace, but a community house containing more than 200 rooms and 22 sacred or ceremonial chambers.

The Once Over by H.I. Phillips
THE PAPERS OF PRIVATE PURKEY

Dear Ma:
Well from what I read in the papers and hear on the radio I gess the boys in the army are a lot cooler then the folks back home in civilyun life. I hope you and pop half not had a breakdown listening to all them air raid warning tests and trying to follow all the different orders. The army has one thing on the civilyun, it don't have to work in so much confusion.

I got your letter about dad being a air warden. I knew he wood want to do his bit but I half to laugh when I think of him ordering anybody to keep away from windows as he is always in a window looking out most of the time.

I wish you could realize what a change has come over the boys here. They now want to fight anywhere and most anybody will do. But they put Japs at the top of their list. The more news we get about the treacherous stuff at Pearl Harbor and the brave work of our boys the soarer we get. Sergeant Mooney when he read about the Japs using a two-man submarine said it was probably no sub at all but just one of them barrels they juggle in the circus. And he says even two Japs in a sub would only be about half a man anyhow.

They surprised us all right but they got a surprise coming and how. I just heard a definition of an isolationist. A isolationist is a fellow who thinks a net under a trapeze is foolish on account of he is only a spectator anyhow.

Well I see where the draft age is to be extended to 44 which disposes of any idea I may get out soon witch I don't want to do no more anyhow. A few weeks ago I was kicking like all the rest of the boys and asking what was the sense of all this time in a army with nobody to fight but now that we got more people fighting us at one time than ever before it all is different.

You may laugh mom but this is a fact that we ain't been worrying half about what happens to us in the war lately as we were worried about the folks back home with all them mayors broadcasting orders at once. I could picture you rushing around shopping for sandbags and pop having a fit because he couldn't find out how to shut off the gas in case of a raid. Still you better follow instructions as best you can as nobody can tell what may happen only I wish the mayors could be as calm as the people. I tuned in one night when Mr. LaGuardia was talking. It was such a cool calm talk I almost felt the war was over but you could of knocked me over with a feather when he wound up his talk by saying: "Well, I don't expect any attack TONIGHT. The weather is unfavorable." What a crack that was. I hope it did not scare you any.

There is a lot of rumors around camp and I think something is up, but I don't know where we may get sent. Nothing would surprise me and I don't care no more where I go as long as it gives me a chance to do my bit for the greatest country on earth. And I hope when we see action it won't take no umpires to find out who won.

Well take care of yourself, do not let those air raid hints scare you too much and say a prayer for me now and then as this is the kind of war when they will all be needed.
Your son,
Oscar

THE INNER CALL
"Hitler says an inner call caused him to take supreme command."—News item.) He orders this and orders that—He leaps into the newest brawl; He rages, acts or stands quite pat . . . According to "the inner call."
He hastens to his mountain place . . . Or leaves it with no word at all; He gallops, or he slows his pace . . . Responding to "the inner call."
He makes a plan, then cuts it out; He quits the front to hire a hall; He turns from confidence to doubt . . . It's all a case of "inner call."
Oh, on some future day he'll find He's bashed his head against the wall; The reason will then be defined . . . 'Twas nothing but that "inner call!"

"Both Germany and America had depressions. But while a German experience an immense regeneration of labor, trade and art, Roosevelt did not succeed in altering anything."—Adolf Hitler.
As Elmer Twitchell asks, "What's that guy smoking anyhow?"
Elmer Twitchell says he understands that when the war hit that country the Wild Man of Borneo hoisted the white flag, came in on the run and asked protection from civilization.
R. L. Roelofs Jr. says it was pretty embarrassing for a woman to get a Japanese kimono for Christmas.
What's become of the old-fashioned man who could make a New Year's resolution to keep out of trouble, and think he stood a fair chance of keeping it?
We hope that when the Japs are licked and the peace terms are being read to her somebody will add "And may all your children be acrobats."

Snack on a Frosty Night—Broiled Wienies (See Recipes Below)

Wintery Snacks

The cold, frosty evenings with their full program of basketball games, sleigh ride parties, skating and other winter-time amusements call for piping hot, hearty snacks to take care of brisk appetites. While in warmer weather, the family could raid the ice box, now the problem is slightly different, as hot food, satisfying but still simple, is in demand.

Broiled Wienies. Select two to three skinless frankfurters for each person to be served, and wash them nicely for the girls and the men and boys. Split the frankfurters and insert a strip of American cheese. When almost ready to serve, pop into the broiler and cook until cheese melts and browns.

Hot Potato Salad. (Serves 6) 4 potatoes, boiled with skins on 1/2 cup finely chopped onion 2 hard-cooked eggs, diced Salt and pepper
6 slices bacon, broiled until crisp Peel potatoes and cube. Add remaining ingredients. Just before serving, mix with this hot dressing:

Cooked Salad Dressing.
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon yellow mustard 1/2 tablespoon flour
1 egg yolk
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon butter

Blend dry ingredients, then add egg yolk and blend until smooth. Add water, then vinegar, stirring constantly. Cook over boiling water, stirring all the while, until thick. Remove from fire, add butter.

Spaghetti is and has been for some time now one of the reigning favorites among hot dishes to serve in the evening. Here's one dish you'll like because it's both tart and satisfying, with plenty of cheese and sauce baked right into the long strips of spaghetti:

Baked Spaghetti. (Serves 8) 1 pound package of spaghetti 2 small onions, chopped fine 1/2 pound beef, ground 1/2 pound sausage (in the bulk) 1/2 pound mushrooms
1/2 teaspoon pickling spice
1 teaspoon salt
4 small cans tomato sauce
1/2 pound grated American cheese Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water 12 to 15 minutes. Drain and run cold water through it. Sauté onion, ground meat and sausage in oil until brown. Add mushrooms, spice, salt and tomato sauce. Simmer slowly for 40 minutes. Put thin layer of spaghetti on bottom of buttered casserole. Then add a layer of sauce, then cheese, another layer

Lynn Says:

Here are a few quick snack ideas you'll like to paste in your notebook: Baked beans garnished with brown bread, cream cheese sandwiches, placed around the bean pot. Toasted English muffins with an egg fried or poached with ham are high in favor.

CHAPTER I

Fifth Avenue. In that quiet hour before dawn. In the middle of its polished surface, like a dark isle in a glistening ribbon of river, rested a slipper. Black, satin, buckled with brilliants.

Bruce Harcourt stopped short. He turned the bit of satin over and over in his hand. It was warm. The feel of it sent a curious glow through his veins. It must quite recently have covered a slender foot. Dropped from the now distant automobile?

He thrust the disturbing bit of foot-gear into his top-coat pocket, gravely regarded the glittering avenue before he entered the Club door. Twenty-four hours more of this and he would be on his way to the wilderness. Soon he would be seeing only forests, glaciers, fields of snow, rails, steam-shovels and the paraphernalia of engineering.

He was not sorry to go back. His college classmates who had given the dinner for him tonight wouldn't believe it, though. What was she like? Dark? Fair? Hard? Tender? Morning and his last day in New York. He stretched his long, lean body. His last day in New York and a full one. Before he left on the midnight train he had to keep innumerable business appointments, confirm orders for materials, and hire a secretary. Why couldn't Tubby Grant have found one for himself on the coast?

Returned from his shower he regarded the slipper on the dresser. Would the owner advertise? He'd take a look at the evening paper. The following eight hours proved more crowded and the search for a secretary more futile than he had imagined. The mere mention of the word Alaska set the prospects he interviewed into shivering refusal.

"Tubby'll have to get one for himself on the coast," he concluded as he opened the door of his room at the Club.

He shook out the evening paper, located the Lost and Found column and ran his finger down the list. "Here it is!" He read the advertisement through twice.

LOST. Monday evening on Fifth Avenue, black satin slipper with rhinestone buckle. Reward, if returned at once to J. Trent, 0001 Madison Avenue.

J. Trent, J. Trent. He heard that combination before. He turned the name over and over in his mind. Click! It slipped into place. Janice Trent! Billy Trent's sister "Jan." He remembered her as a leggy child of twelve when he had spent his last college vacation before the war at the Trents' country place. She had exasperated her brother and himself by tagging after them on fishing expeditions. Darn shame that he and Billy, who had meant so much to one another, had drifted apart. He had gone to Trent's office at once upon his arrival in New York, only to learn that he was out of town.

He stared unseeingly at the advertisement. Last night at the dinner when he had regretted Billy's absence, Silsbee, the class gossip, had confided:

"Trent's a little gob of gloom these days. Can't blame him. His father played the market, lost practically everything he had and passed it on. His sister Janice is to be married in a week. Marrying a multi-millionaire is a way with the ladies. The two are at a prenuptial blow-out in this very hotel now. Confidentially, Billy heard that Paxton—that's the prospective bridegroom's name—had been making whoopee in an adjacent city and he has gone to investigate. Gosh, how do these sheiks get away with it!"

An hour later, in answer to his ring, a trim maid admitted him to the Madison Avenue house, a slice of old-time aristocracy sandwiched between new-time shops. He gave his errand, not his name. As he waited in the cheerless reception room, where pictures leaned dejectedly against the walls, where chairs were shrouded in ghostly covers, and furniture was crated, he heard the murmur of voices in a room beyond, the imperative ring of a telephone. Someone answered. Harcourt looked at his watch impatiently. Would J. Trent keep him waiting while she gossiped? He couldn't help hearing the frost-tinged voice.

"No. . . . It was unpardonable. I shall not see you. . . . Don't come. . . . I have said my last word of that before. Good-by."

The receiver clicked on the hook. Could that have been a prospective bride speaking, Harcourt wondered. Her voice had given him the creeps. Of course there could be two J. Trents in the City of New York, but—

"You have my slipper?" He curiously regarded the girl on the threshold. Little Janice Trent grown up. The same boyish croak in her voice that he remembered. Who would have thought that the angular child would develop into beauty? Her glinting brown hair waved softly close to her boyish head. The ardent curves of her lips showed vividly red against her pal-lor.

"If this is yours." The long, gold-tipped lashes flew up. Her eyes were the color of bronze pansies, slightly beaten by the rain of recent tears, he surmised. Incredulity, amazement, certainty followed one another in her voice.

"Why? Why, you are Bruce Harcourt!" Impulsively she extended her hands. The satin slipper dropped to the floor as he caught them.

"Then you haven't forgotten me?" "Forgotten you! How could I? Remember how I tagged you and Billy and how furious you boys were when you drove off to the Country Club? I was ready to scratch out the eyes of any girl you looked at. However, no matter how obdurate my brother remained, you always relented, and said, 'What's the difference? Let her come along, Billy!'"

She was eager, radiant. Her fingers seemed to cling to his. His hold tightened.

"Where did you find the slipper?" "Winking and blinking in the middle of Fifth Avenue before dawn this morning. I have been consumed with curiosity to know how it came there."

Her fingers seemed to cling to his. His hold tightened.

A flame of color tinged her face. She freed her hands.

"I started to get out of a roadster. I had opened the door, put one foot out to jump when—"

"Reckless child! Go on, when?" "When I—I changed my mind." He had the sense of a door closing between them. "It's wonderful to see you. I had been told that you were in Alaska."

"Have been for years. I'm starting back tonight."

"Tonight! What a shame that Billy is away. You will stay and dine with me, won't you? This house is a mess. We've sold it and are clearing it, but we still have a cook."

"I have a better suggestion. Dine with me—unless—I was told last night that you were about to be married. Perhaps you are not free."

"I am free to do as I like." The color which the surprise at his identity had brought to her face faded.

"I'd love to go, only let it be some quiet place where we can talk."

"Anywhere you say. You know your New York better than I."

She had selected an hotel up town. They talked of her family, the loss of her mother and father, of Billy, of the changes in it, in the fashion of plays, of books, of clothes since he was last in New York.

As the gray-haired waiter set the coffee on the table and withdrew to a discreet distance, Harcourt suggested:

her hands—ringless, he noted in surprise—lightly on the table, as she answered his question with another. "Ever met Ned Paxton?" "No." "Then you wouldn't understand. He has attracted me unbelievably, while something deep within me protested, 'You know that you don't trust him.' Moth and candle stuff, I suppose. He has hurt my heart and my pride, yet when he smiled and explained, I would hope my intelligence—instinct, rather—forgive him and remember his good qualities. He has them. Old people adore him, children like him—but he doesn't get on with dogs. Why am I telling you all this, I wonder?"

He answered the troubled sweetness of her eyes, her mouth, so proud, so unhappy, more than her words.

"Because you've reached the point where you've got to talk. You used to tell me everything when we went fishing together. Remember?"

"I remember what a pest I was. But let's not talk any more about Jan Trent. I'm fed up with her and her problems. How did you happen to go to Alaska? Tell me about it. It sounds so bracing and crisp and clean."

Harcourt lighted another cigarette. "I wish that it always conveyed that impression. I've fought and died trying to get a secretary for our outfit. I'll bet I've interviewed fifty of them, short and tall, lean and fat. The mere name of the country sets an applicant's teeth chattering."

"I should think there'd be dozens of girls crazy to go."

"Girls! What would we do with a girl in our outfit? We go hundreds of miles into the interior. Ours is no coast cinch. I'm after a man."

"Are there no women there?" "Of course, wonderful women in the cities, cultured, chic, keenly conversant with world conditions; others on remote farms, nuggets of gold, if rough ones; but not in our business. That is not quite true. There are three: Millicent Hale, wife of the chief engineer of the department to which I'm attached, and the Samp sisters."

"Samp! What a curious name. What do they do?" "Two years ago Mary and Martha Samp appeared at our headquarters on the coast at the mouth of an inlet, and established a Waffle Shop."

"Can they cook?" "Cook! I'll say they can. The men crowd the shop every night. They would do anything for those two women, who look as though they might have stepped out of the comics of a colored supplement. Martha, the elder, is lean and gaunt, with a tight little top-knot of rusty hair, speaks her mind no matter how welcome or unwelcome her conclusions may be. Mary is round and plump, with big, innocent blue eyes which seem to be eternally interrogating life and being eternally surprised at the answer. They brought an enormous black cat, Blot—he does look like spilled ink when lying on the rug. The Eskimos and Indians who work for us regarded him with the amazement they might have bestowed upon an elephant, don't quite like him."

"And the chief's wife—Millicent, you called her?" "She has a double interest in headquarters. Her brother, Jimmy Chester, is third engineer. He is devoted to her. She is a pretty but pathetic little woman. She has—"

"You needn't describe her. Calling her 'little woman' was as enlightening as sticking up a danger sign on thin ice. I recognize the type. Your description sounds delightfully homesy. Not at all like what I thought life in Alaska would be."

"Life—human life in Alaska—is no different from life in other places. People are born, die, marry and divorce, love and hate; the last two a little harder perhaps than when nearer civilization. There are as many people there to the hundred with ideas and ideals as anywhere else."

"Tell me more. Tell me about the country, your work, everything." She was like an eager child begging for another story. "It will keep my mind off my problems."

Her problems! Paxton, of course. Impulsively he spoke to the little girl he had known.

"Be a sport. Acknowledge that you've made a mistake. Don't go on with this marriage, Jan."

Her eyes were intent on a slim finger tracing the pattern in the damask cloth. "Are you suggesting that I back out at the eleventh hour? Think of the stacks of presents! Think of the publicity! Forget me. Tell me about Alaska."

With the sensation as of knuckles smartly rapped, conscious of deepening color, Harcourt acknowledged, "My mistake! Alaska is a big subject."

"Begin anywhere. Can you get into the northern country at this time of year? Will you go by boat or dog-sleds?"

"By plane. You people in the States don't realize that the development of airways in Alaska is one of the romances of aviation."

"Then you are an aviator as well as an engineer?" "Rather more engineer than aviator at present. I combined the two professions overseas. Tonight I go to confer with the Crowned Heads of our department. I'm due back at camp before the spring break-up."

"What is that?" You see, my curiosity is insatiable. It isn't all curiosity," she admitted, in a voice half eager, half mysterious. "I'm a girl."

POULTRY MEETINGS TUESDAY, JANUARY 27
The third series of meetings of the poultry school will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 27. The morning meeting will be held at the Jackson village hall at 10 a. m. and the afternoon meeting will be held in the Alherton firemen's hall at 2 o'clock. The subject of the meetings will be on poultry marketing and will include such topics as factors affecting egg size, quality, and egg marketing. The preparation of eggs and poultry products for the markets, marketing methods, and channels of trade will also be discussed. Motion pictures, slides, and exhibit material will be used to present the subject matter.

FARM AND HOME WEEK AT COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE, MADISON, FEBRUARY 2-6
"Produce for Victory."
This is the challenge which the Wisconsin College of Agriculture is placing before Wisconsin farmers and homemakers in inviting them to Farm and Home Week at the College of Agriculture Feb. 2-6.
Many separate sections covering important farm activities which will be affected by the "Produce for Victory" program are being put into shape for this important statewide five-day conference. Repairing of farm machinery, producing the family food supply, filling defense needs from the farm woodlot, homemade poultry equipment, feeding calves when milk is scarce, and many other timely questions will be considered during the week.
Out of state speakers invited to address Wisconsin farmers include R. M. Evans, administrator of agricultural adjustment and conservation, Washington, D. C.; Harry O. Wells, assistant director AAA north central division; H. E. Babcock, Co-operative Grain League Federation Executive; Harry Gardner, Soil Conservation Service; W. E. Krauss, Ohio agricultural experiment station; Albert S. Goss, master, National Grange, Washington, D. C., and others.
While farmers are giving attention to production problems, homemakers will have programs dealing with family health and welfare. On display throughout the week will be exhibits of clothing and textiles, foods and nutrition, family food supply, rural handicraft, and others.
Features planned for the week include the state drama festival, a concert by the University Pro Arts string quartette, honorary recognition, and the Little International Livestock show.
The dates, again, are Feb. 2-6, inclusive.

STATE CONSERVATION COMMISSION OF WISCONSIN Order No. FR 536
IN THE MATTER OF establishing a certain described water area on Engmanns creek in Washington county, Wisconsin, as a fish refuge.
Section 1. WHEREAS, in accordance with the power and authority delegated to the State Conservation Commission of Wisconsin by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of subsection (7) of section 23.09 of the Wisconsin statutes, the aforesaid State Conservation Commission of Wisconsin has caused careful and extensive investigations to be made relative to the necessity of establishing a certain described water area which is known as and which constitutes a part of Engmanns creek in Washington county, Wisconsin, as a fish refuge for the purpose of providing safe retreats in which fish may breed, propagate, and replenish adjacent fishing waters, and Section 2. WHEREAS, upon the evidence presented to it after such investigations, the State Conservation Commission of Wisconsin verily believes that in order to promote a more successful program of increased fish production and particularly to conserve and perpetuate an adequate supply of fish in the above named and adjacent water areas, thereby insuring to the citizens of this state better opportunity for good fishing, as well as increased recreational values, the aforesaid State Conservation Commission deems it necessary to establish such a fish refuge on Engmanns creek in Washington county, Wisconsin, more particularly described in Section 2 of this order.
Section 3. HEREBY, THEREFORE, IT IS ORDERED AND DECLARED by the State Conservation Commission of Wisconsin, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of subsection (7) of section 23.09 of the Wisconsin statutes, that the following described area located in Washington county, Wisconsin, is hereby created and established as a fish refuge, and it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to take, catch, capture, kill or fish for fish, in any manner or at any time in, on or along the following described water area:
ENGMANNS CREEK—That part of Engmanns creek and tributaries lying in section 15, township 11 north, range 19 east.
Section 4. IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that all regulations incorporated in this order shall be effective beginning January 31, 1942, until this order is rescinded, and that said order be published in the Kewaskum Statesman of Kewaskum, Wisconsin, the West Bend News of West Bend, Wisconsin, and the West Bend Pilot of West Bend, Wisconsin, at least one week prior to the date upon which it becomes effective.
Section 5. THIS ORDER was made and passed by the State Conservation Commission of Wisconsin at a meeting duly called and held by said commission in the city of Madison, Wisconsin, on the 18th day of December, 1941.
Section 6. IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Director of the State

FARM AND HOME LINES
Wisconsin farmers harvested nearly twice as large a crop of red clover seed this past year as in 1940.
Now that the government has taken over two-thirds of the usual imports of burlap for sandbags and other war uses, farmers are being urged to take extra good care of feed, fertilizer, and other bags used on the farm.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of Mrs. Louisa Schaefer, who passed away on Jan. 15, 1941:

Peaceful be thy silent slumber, Peaceful in thy grave so low;
Thou no more will join our number,
Thou no more our sorrows know.
Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the day of life is fled,
And in Heaven with joy to greet thee

Where no farewell tears are shed, Sadly missed by the surviving children.

Fashion Revives Long Pearl Necklaces and Gleaming Jet

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It might be aptly said that a woman is known by the jewelry she wears. Certain it is that jewelry has a way of showing refinement of taste, or a love of the spectacular, or a desire to belong to a group or to the fashion of the moment. It is the jewelry that holds on to the fashion of quiet elegance. The woman who has an inherited sense of dignified glamor is ever the answer to the jewelry preferences. This season the style prestige of pearls ascended to a new high. The big news that is adding to the pearls is the return to favoring ropes of pearls with matching bracelets and earrings in the style of the ensemble shown to the left in the illustration. The fact that in this instance pearls worn with a black wool knit sweater is also important news. It was when jewelry worn with a black knit sweater was taboo. Now it's smart thing to do.

Some of the new ropes of pearls, some are unbelievably long, some are reaching below the waistline. With a siren-slim satin formal they are the "word" in smart jewelry. The mother's pearl choker is worn by her smart and stylish granddaughter. Centered in the group illustrated above you see a modern girl wearing a three-strand matching bracelet and pearl necklace. The ring is a little gold with a diamond knot.

It has been said of pearls may be said of jet. The revival of jet is going on record as a gesture of style significance. Jet resembles worn with winter

Winter-White

These Buttons Snap On And Are Simple to Use

It is most assuredly a button season. The newest use of large pretentious buttons is to ornament as well as provide fastenings for the dainty pastel wool jacket suits so popular for immediate wear under fur coats and later to wear without a wrap on a balmy spring day.

You can get all sorts of buttons. The newest among them is the button with a snap-on base. You draw this portion up through the button-hole and then clip it to a handsome over button that looks more like jewelry than a mere utilitarian fastening.

Wrap Around

Some new coats have sleeves cut all in one with the yoke or body of the garment. And they are so fashioned as to wrap around to one side. They concentrate on quality fabric, and when unfurled, as most of them are, they call for a stunning fur muff matched with a flattering fur hat.

Evening Capes

Capes that have a new look because of the embroidery lavished on them in the way of yokes or tuxedo panels down the front are the "last word" in evening wraps. They are, for the most part, made of velvet or fine cloth, and they may be either floor length or hip length.

Frothy White

Again we have with us, with more to follow as spring gets well under way, the little dark-toned or black dress that is enlivened with "oodles" of frothy white at the neckline and wrists. The new white neckwear is entrancing. Also pastel accessory items are coming out in new lingerie versions.

Guest Scuffs

Your boudoir slippers along with your slippers when you go away to the weekend. But you probably have learned the modern trick of "guest scuffs" as they are called. These are part of the equipment of the guest room in many homes.

Packed Up in Studios of Style Designers

About buttons—this time they are plastic. The new suspenders trimmed with blue and red and striped and striped. And especially, wear them with a white sweater, for that red, blue and blue look.

The designer who designed the suits you are seeing shortly did so with eyes on spring and the other on the enormous cleaning bills, for they are increasingly popular.

TO YOUR Good Health

by DR. NATHAN S. DAVIS, III.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE HIGHER IN THE WINTER

Did you know that blood pressure, especially high blood pressure, is apt to be higher in cold weather? Dipping one hand or foot in ice water and keeping it there for a few minutes will also cause the blood pressure to rise. Mental and physical exertion, nervousness and excitement have this effect. All doctors know that the blood pressure reading obtained when a patient is first examined is often materially above that individual's average or normal blood pressure. Many have had difficulty in getting life insurance because of nervousness at the time of the examination caused their blood pressure to rise above normal.

Did you know that high blood pressure in itself causes almost no symptoms? People who have it may have shortness of breath on slight exertion and tire easily but this is due to the associated straining and weakening of the heart muscle. Kidneys may become weakened and may cause constant headaches due to hardening of the arteries in the brain or to the decreased function of the kidney. Dizziness is due to hardening of the arteries to the internal ear or to the nerves supplying it. Most of the symptoms are due to hardening of the arteries which is not the cause of the high blood pressure even though it is more marked in those who have it.

Condition Often Found.

High blood pressure are almost invariably found in the course of routine physical examinations for insurance or for periodic health audits, or when the patient has consulted the doctor because he has a cold, indigestion or some other complaint that is not due to high blood pressure.

Dark Cellar Stairs

A NEIGHBOR of mine was recently badly hurt by a fall down the stairs leading from the kitchen to the cellar. Knowing those stairs, I could understand her accident, for going down them was like stepping into a tunnel. The family had planned to "do something about it," but the accident happened before they got around to it. For full safety, an electric light should have been put in the ceiling, although this would have meant somewhat complicated wiring. As an alternative, white paint could have been used—and plenty of it. In the first place, the treads of the steps at the top and bottom could be painted solid white, while white bands an inch or two wide could be painted along the front edges of the remaining treads. These would have shown the position of the steps, even in a dim light. In addition to this, the sides and the ceiling of the stair even could also be white. Had this been the accident would have been prevented, and needless to say, the saving in doctor's bills would have paid for the improvement many times over.

Rough Plaster Walls

Textured walls and sand finished plaster can be very attractive when they are new, but are likely to give trouble later on because of difficulty in cleaning them. Also, home owners may become tired of the effect, and would prefer to have papered or smooth plastered walls. The walls can be smoothed with powdered whiting, mixed with strong glue size to a stiff paste of the consistency of wall plaster. On sand finished walls, this is applied with a trowel in a layer only thick enough to cover the rough finish. The new plaster can be smoothed with a trowel or with a rubber squeegee, such as is used for window cleaning. Needless to say, the old finish should be cleaned as well as possible with a stiff brush and a vacuum cleaner, before putting on the new coating. A roughly textured plaster wall should be gone over with coarse sandpaper wrapped around a block of wood, to take off the highest of the rough points. The depressions can then be filled with the same whiting-and-glue size paste, to be applied with a trowel and given a smooth finish.

Wood Flooring

A home owner who is planning to build a game room in his basement asks about laying a wood floor over the present concrete floor. One thing to guard against in this is damage to the wood floor by dampness in the concrete. Any concrete floor laid on the ground, even over a bed of cinders, picks up moisture. A wood floor laid on top is likely to buckle and eventually to rot. The necessary waterproofing can be provided by covering the concrete with heavy paper or building felt, stuck down with tar or liquid asphalt. An even better method is to lay the wood floor on the concrete, without nails, by the use of an asphalt cement compound called "mastic." This provides a waterproofing layer that binds the wood strips to the concrete as well as to each other, so that nailing is not necessary. This method of floor laying is in common use for such conditions, as is well understood by floor contractors.

Dark Room

Question: The walls of a living-room are paneled in dark wood; the ceiling is beamed, with light paper between. The room faces north-east. Windows are dormers, a little more than a yard long. The room is dark. Can you suggest any way to lighten it?

Answer: The most obvious way is to paint the paneling white, or some light color, and the ceiling beams as well. Unless the paneling is very choice wood, the change should be attractive. If the natural finish must be retained, the paneling could be bleached, although this would be a more tedious job. Wood bleaches can be had at a good paint store. Window draperies should be thin and light in color. Floor covering should be light. Large wall mirrors will also help.

Floor Finish

Question: Our old floors were sanded 11 months ago, and have darkened on the parts around rugs that are exposed. How often should they be washed and waxed? Will they darken with frequent washings and waxings? What can I do to keep them light?

Answer: Wax is not enough of a protection, for dirt will work through and get into the wood. After cleaning the darkened places, you should finish them with a seal or with varnish before waxing; waxed hardwood floors should not be washed. Dirt should be taken up with liquid wax.

Storm Windows

Question: Is there anything new in the way of storm windows? I have the usual kind, and putting them up and taking them down costs about four dollars.

Answer: Storm windows are now made with metal rust-proof frames that are permanently attached to the outside of window frames. Both glass and insect screening are provided in frames to fit the openings, and can be taken out or put in from inside the room, with but little effort. Dealers in building materials should know of them.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

Dark Cellar Stairs

A NEIGHBOR of mine was recently badly hurt by a fall down the stairs leading from the kitchen to the cellar. Knowing those stairs, I could understand her accident, for going down them was like stepping into a tunnel. The family had planned to "do something about it," but the accident happened before they got around to it. For full safety, an electric light should have been put in the ceiling, although this would have meant somewhat complicated wiring. As an alternative, white paint could have been used—and plenty of it. In the first place, the treads of the steps at the top and bottom could be painted solid white, while white bands an inch or two wide could be painted along the front edges of the remaining treads. These would have shown the position of the steps, even in a dim light. In addition to this, the sides and the ceiling of the stair even could also be white. Had this been the accident would have been prevented, and needless to say, the saving in doctor's bills would have paid for the improvement many times over.

Rough Plaster Walls

Textured walls and sand finished plaster can be very attractive when they are new, but are likely to give trouble later on because of difficulty in cleaning them. Also, home owners may become tired of the effect, and would prefer to have papered or smooth plastered walls. The walls can be smoothed with powdered whiting, mixed with strong glue size to a stiff paste of the consistency of wall plaster. On sand finished walls, this is applied with a trowel in a layer only thick enough to cover the rough finish. The new plaster can be smoothed with a trowel or with a rubber squeegee, such as is used for window cleaning. Needless to say, the old finish should be cleaned as well as possible with a stiff brush and a vacuum cleaner, before putting on the new coating. A roughly textured plaster wall should be gone over with coarse sandpaper wrapped around a block of wood, to take off the highest of the rough points. The depressions can then be filled with the same whiting-and-glue size paste, to be applied with a trowel and given a smooth finish.

Wood Flooring

A home owner who is planning to build a game room in his basement asks about laying a wood floor over the present concrete floor. One thing to guard against in this is damage to the wood floor by dampness in the concrete. Any concrete floor laid on the ground, even over a bed of cinders, picks up moisture. A wood floor laid on top is likely to buckle and eventually to rot. The necessary waterproofing can be provided by covering the concrete with heavy paper or building felt, stuck down with tar or liquid asphalt. An even better method is to lay the wood floor on the concrete, without nails, by the use of an asphalt cement compound called "mastic." This provides a waterproofing layer that binds the wood strips to the concrete as well as to each other, so that nailing is not necessary. This method of floor laying is in common use for such conditions, as is well understood by floor contractors.

WRITE A LAST LINE TO THIS JINGLE

HERE'S WHAT YOU DO

It's simple. It's fun. Just think up a last line to this jingle. Make sure it rhymes with the word "grin." Write your last line of the jingle on the reverse side of a Raleigh package wrapper (or a facsimile thereof), sign it with your full name and address, and mail it to Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., P. O. Box 1799, Louisville, Kentucky, post-marked not later than midnight, January 31, 1942.

You may enter as many last lines as you wish, if they are all written on separate Raleigh package wrappers (or facsimiles). Prizes will be awarded on the originality and aptness of the line you write. Judges' decisions must be accepted as final. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded. Winners will be notified by mail.

Anyone who enters (except employees of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., their advertising agents, or their families), all entries and ideas therein become the property of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation.

HERE'S WHAT YOU WIN

You have 133 chances to win. If you send in more than one entry, your chances of winning will be that much better. Don't delay. Start thinking right now.
