Name Protection and Planning Committees Selected for County

Two more important committees were announced this week by the Washington County Council of Defense, one on protection and the other on planning.

Because of his activity and previous experience in organizing civilian defense in the city of West Bend, Mayor C. J. Schloemer was selected as chairman of the county committee on protection.

The new protection committee will work closely with the health and welfare group which was organized last week. Its first duties will be the development of auxiliary policemen and firemen throughout the county. At present, precautions must be taken against possible emergencies such as sabotage and air raid activities.

Adequate groups must be set up in every village and city in the county. Where necessary, instructions and training will be given to insure smooth operation under any condition that might develop from fire, air raid or sabotage. This committee will need alert volunteers immediately in order to carry out its plans effectively (see note on volunteers wanted under Council of Defense News). Following is the protection committee named:

- Mayor Clyde Schloemer, West Bend, county chairman; Mayor Cyril Lohr, Hartford; R. H. Wentz, West Bend; Sheriff Baehring, West Bend; Henry Gehl, West Bend; John Struthers, Hartford; Joe Marx, Hartford; Anthony Otten, Barton, president of village; Leo O'Rilly, Germantown, president of village; John Indermuehle, Jackson, president of village; A. P. Schaeffer, Kewaskum, president of village; Joseph Gundrum, Slinger, president of village.

The second committee appointed this week was the planning group which will make surveys and gather data on needs of the county. Its primary activity will be to provide this information for the Council of Defense.

First on the list for the planning group is the question of coal for next winter for cities, villages and other governmental units. How much will be needed? Will we have adequate facilities for distributing it? Another question is the number of new cars and trucks needed in 1942 by our government units in the county, townships, villages and cities. Included in this will be the county equipment for highway maintenance, snow removal, etc. The planning committee follows:

- Arnold Moeller, West Bend, chairman; Harold Riley, West Bend; Armond Houser, Hartford; Roy Stork, Slinger; Jos. Schmitz, Germantown; Mrs. Otto Lay, Kewaskum; Art. Schacht, Kewaskum. R. 2; Walter Gadow, Barton; Mrs. B. C. Ziegler, West Bend.

With the selection of the above committees on protection and planning, the Washington County Council of Defense completes a good portion of its organization. The many activities of the council will be carried out through these, and other committees previously appointed until a specific need for additional organization arises.

$1,000,000 in Stamps, Bonds Sold in County

One million dollars worth of U. S. defense bonds and stamps have been sold in Washington county. From all walks of life men, women, and children in the county have voluntarily accomplished this wonderful result in a very short time.

Robert H. Rolfs, executive chairman of the defense savings staff of Washington county, wishes to express his appreciation to all the people in Washington county for the fine way they have started the ball a-rolling.

$1,000,000.00 is a real start. Let us all resolve to make that just a stepping stone for continued effort. Buy bonds whenever you can—all of them you can. To win this war we need machines as well as men—your money buys machines that will bring VICTORY to all of us.

Get the habit of carrying a U. S. defense stamp book on your person at all times—buy stamps whenever you get a chance. Take stamps instead of change when you make a purchase. Fill up your book, turn it in for a bond—do your part in the fight for VICTORY.

Paralysis Fund to Aid Defense; Dance Friday

After conferring with President Roosevelt at the White House Sunday, Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced a radical departure in the use by local chapters of the national foundation for the 50 per cent received by them this year from the president's birthday celebration.

Mr. O'Connor stated that, to make a still greater contribution to national defense and national morale, the national foundation would permit chapters to use wherever necessary a part of the funds received by them this year to assist the dependents of any man in the military or naval service of the United States who becomes a victim of infantile paralysis while in the service.

Mr. O'Connor said that the trustees of the national foundation would issue regulations authorizing this expanded defense activity in the part of the local chapters.

In Washington county the annual drive for funds to fight infantile paralysis will be climaxed with a U. S. county-wide dance on Friday evening, Feb. 6, in the gymnasium of the West Bend public grade school building. Music for this dance will be furnished by the well known Joey Tantillo and his orchestra of Madison, featuring both modern and old time music.

Tickets for the big ball are now on sale throughout the county at 50 cents per person, including tax. In order to facilitate the sale of the tickets, A. A. Nimmer, West Bend, general county chairman, has divided the county into a northern and southern section, each having a number of precinct workers to take care of the sale of the tickets.

Mr. Nimmer himself will head the northern division and will have under him the following workers: Michael J. Goring, West Bend, chairman; Leroy Fischer, Newburg; A. H. Otten, Barton; Newton Rosenheimer, Kewaskum; Al. Koth, Boltonville and Fillmore; William Frank Jack-son; Roland Schmidt, town of Wayne; Jac. J. Goring, town of West Bend.

The southern division will be under the general chairmanship of Mr. Horace Kendall of Hartford, who will also take charge of the drive in the city of Hartford. Workers under her include Mrs. Louis Riech, Slinger; Mrs. Alfred Schwalbach, Germantown; Robert Laubenheimer, Rockfield; Dr. R. S. Fisher, Allenton. No appointment has as yet been made for the town of Erin.

In addition to the sale of tickets for the dance, a concerted lapel button drive for funds is being conducted through the schools and otherwise in the county. The buttons are being sold at a nominal sum, and all residents in the county are urged to buy one and to proudly wear it. All who can possibly do so are also urged to do their share in this great humanitarian drive by buying tickets for the dance. If the purchaser cannot attend the dance, he may feel free to give the tickets to some relative or friend.

"This war against infantile paralysis has an immediate and important bearing on our national defense program," said Mr. O'Connor. "While infantile paralysis does not ordinarily affect any great numbers of men of military age, it is one of a group of virus diseases about which we know very little. Other virus diseases are affecting the nervous system are serious menaces to men in army life. As the mysteries of infantile paralysis unfold, so, too, will we learn to control these and other closely related diseases."

Parish School Goes on Six Day Week; Hi School Don't

Holy Trinity school is one of the many Catholic schools of the Milwaukee archdiocese which will go on a 6-day week starting in February. As a result the school year will close May 21 instead of June 6 for the pupils. This earlier closing is in compliance with a request of John Callahan, state superintendent, and will enable children to help with spring farm work and in light defense industry, where there is a scarcity.

The number of school days will not be decreased. Regular classes will be held on these Saturdays: Feb. 7 and 21, Mar. 7 and 21; Apr. 18 and May 2. The Easter vacation will be shortened by five school days, giving the children a holiday only Good Friday, Apr. 3. The vacation had been scheduled for Apr. 3-13. Archbishop Moses E. Kiley approved the early closing date, announcement of which was made by Fr. Edmund J. Goebel, superintendent of archdiocesan schools.

The question of the 6-day week in the local high school was submitted to the school board but was rejected. The rejection is out of line with the defense plan. The 6-day week was not adopted in Washington county rural schools as a result of being rejected by county school boards, 16 to 7. Many rural schools in Fond du Lac county and other neighboring counties are remaining open Saturdays, however. In addition to the rural schools a number of neighboring high schools have adopted the plan. Both the Campbellsport and Random Lake High schools are holding classes Saturdays.

CREED FOR AN AMERICAN IN AN ALL-OUT WAR

I am through with compromise, half-way measures, crystal gazing and the idea that it's all done by mirrors.

I believe in my country's capacity to triumph, despite its tendency to argue, muddle, procrastinate and compromise.

I believe the "Never say die" spirit of America will completely supercede the "What's in it for ME?" motif; and that it's about time.

I believe the Spirit of '76 will submerge the Spirit of Every Man for Himself, Every Politician for the Main Chance and Every American for Softer Upholstery.

I believe in the American Way and I now believe it is the way upward and forward and not just a circular path around the artificial rosebuds.

I believe the country is beginning to understand that sacrifice is not merely something done with a goat.

I believe that patriotism is something beginning to show in the deeds of Americans and no longer something that was the main concern of orators during a five-minute interval at national conventions.

I believe that "The Star-Spangled Banner" is now a song to stir every American to the depths, and no longer a number reserved in the main for special school exercises, army and navy activities and for musical comedy climaxes.

I believe this is a war in which Americans see the issue more clearly than they have seen the issue in any war since 1776.

I believe that the hopes of Washington and Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln must triumph over the hopes of Hitler and Tojo and Mussolini.

SYNOPSIS

THE STORY SO FAR: Bruce Harcourt, Alaska engineer on a rare visit to New York to confer with heads of his company, finds a lady's slipper, black and white, in the middle of the street. He is leaving the city for the North. He tries to find a secretary for the camp but none of the men interviewed wanted to go to Alaska. He answers an ad asking for a girl who lost it to Janice Trent, a college chum whom he knew as a kid. Janice is to be married to Ned Preston, rich, but a bit too gay with the party and she was about to leave but changed her mind. The slipper, however, had dropped off. Bruce impulsively asks her to break off the marriage. But she tells him to talk of Alaska.

CHAPTER II

What had Janice meant by that? But Bruce kept blithely on. "I referred to the breaking up of the winter ice. We've been building a bridge. It spans a river which flows between living glaciers."

"It makes my teeth chatter. It sounds horribly cold!"

"Cold! I'll say it was cold. Snow storms were continuous. But it isn't always like that in winter. There are days when the banks of streams are vague and misty with young green and you can smell spring in the air. The summers are glorious. Scenic days. Ferns and brilliant long fruits and vegetables, double the size of those grown here."

"Do you live in a tent when—when on location?"

"By 'on location' do you mean when I'm at headquarters? A tent! I'm a house-walker. Three years ago a young architect joined the staff as a draftsman. Someone had told him into thinking that the experience in the frozen North would lengthen his life. He came with an outfit suitable for winter sports and a pair of pearl-handled revolvers. To keep him cheerful and occupied I suggested that he draw plans for a house for me, he was not physically fit for anything else."

"What is it like? I'm all excited." "He called it an H house. It is built of logs chinked with moss. There is a long room in the middle with the length of the rooms at either end going the other way." With a pencil he drew the letter on a card. "Like that. Stone chimneys at each end of the living-room provide places for the other two rooms. We use those in summer; in winter good old Yukon stoves are the only things which will keep us warm. Having gone so far in our plans we lost our heads and went into and added a modern kitchenette and a bath of each bedroom. Sent for books of price-lists and catalogues of fittings. The boy architect and I had the time of our lives selecting them. I spent money like a drunken sailor."

"Did the boy architect get well?" "No. 'Twas a tough break for him. He was the nephew of the Samp sisters."

"Your H house sounds marvelous!"

"I wouldn't have believed it could mean so much to me. When I could see headquarters behind my dog-team, I can see, perhaps through falling snow, smoke curling upward from the chimneys. The glow from lighted windows sets the icicles which fringe the eaves agleam. Snow piled around to the roof sparkles like an old-fashioned Christmas tree. Although I know that only my husky, Tong, and my house-boy, Frisco, are waiting for me, a sense of home-coming warms me to the marrow."

"In the silence which followed I heard the voice of a tower clock. She rose quickly."

"The kept you here talking and talking. If you don't hurry you will miss your train—I wish I wish I could make you miss it."

"She caught the glint of tears in her eyes as he laid the costly wrap across her shoulders. A tide of passionate desire to pick her up in his arms and run away with her possessed him."

"At her door he said unsteadily: 'You've given me a wonderful memory to carry back to Alaska.' The quick, almost frightened flash of her fingers touched his hand with flame."

"Don't marry him, Jan. Don't—!" She twisted one hand free to press it against his lips. "Don't say it. Then you'll never be sorry. Good-night."

"He kissed the slim fingers fervently. 'Good-by,' he whispered."

From a spur on an Alaskan mountain-side, Bruce Harcourt regarded the recently completed bridge which spanned the river. The break-up had lasted any hour, any minute. "It won't be long now before we know how good we are," he told himself. He turned at a hail. A man, almost as broad as long in his Eskimo parka, which hung down to his knees, was hurrying toward him. "Tubby! Back so soon? Boy, but I'm glad to see you!" Theodore Grant Junior's green eyes responded to the affection in the greeting. His face was rough from a shave, but his teeth showed beautifully white as he grinned. "I've got him, ba-gosh!" "Got who?" "Got who? Has your memory frozen up? The secretary. An assistant for myself, Theodore Grant Junior, accountant extraordinary for the branch of the Alaskan Expeditionary Force to crack a way through the great Northwest."

Your H House sounds marvelous.

"How did you get him?" "From an agency in Seattle. They sent him on the first boat. I'll bet the old tub had to plow and crush its way through ice. And keep your shirt on, Bruce. I brought the Samp girls."

"The Samp girls! Tubby! Have you gone plumb crazy?" "Now listen!" "Listen! Look here, does Hale know?" "Hale! What's he got to say about it?"

"Considering that he's chief of this outfit, considerable."

"Chief! Who's had to take his place most of the time this winter? You. He opened up high, wide and handsome while you were away. He got the Indians on their ears, driving them like slaves when he was sober and chucking their squaws under the chin when he was plastered."

"Just the same why the dickens did those two women leave the Waffle Shop at headquarters, which is remote enough, to come out here to this wilderness of snow and ice?"

"That's what I asked them. Martha inveigled me into the shop to talk it over. Heaped my plate with the hottest, crispest waffles, dripping with melting brown sugar and butter, Bruce—butter, filled my cup with honest-to-goodness coffee and reminded:—"

"Mary and I can't do missionary work with books, but we can with food. One of the biggest forces which prods men on to devilry is the trash they put into their stomachs. That bridge you're building is a big thing for the country. I've been talking with the men who worked on it. They claim that 'twill stand or fall in the spring break-up."

"Martha argued that we wouldn't be here long, that she and Mary would like to see the interior, and on and on ad lib, ad infinitum. That she wanted to keep our courage up with good food. She has the missionary spirit, all right."

"Waffles and brown sugar! Real coffee! Harcourt's opposition oozed. 'Now that they are here, they will have to stay. I can't spare a man to take them out. Got your secretary located?'"

"The Samp girls have taken him under their wings. He's no cave-man. Even in his parka and mukluks he's as slim as a fishing-rod. He's got a little mustache like the black on a yellow chicken's back, down curly hair—big crimson spots on his cheeks."

"I get you, T.B. That's why he was willing to leave the land of lights and movies."

"A workman came running toward them. 'Chester,' he said, 'sent me to tell you the false works has suddenly moved!'"

Harcourt's face whitened. The false works! The two thousand piles which had been driven forty feet into the bottom of the river! "How much! Quick!" "Fifteen inches! Sudden as the crack of doom!" "Where's Hale?" "Gone back to headquarters with his dog-team. Said everything was O.K. Didn't need him; he'd take the boat out to Seattle to get Mrs. Hale. Said you'd had your leave, he'd take his."

"Gone! Without letting me know! Get every man out, Tubby!" Harcourt started on a run. In the prolonged nightmare which followed, Bruce Harcourt felt as though he were his own double looking at a great available engine was turned into every available feed-tube. Men chopped seven-foot thick ice away from the piles. A stinging needle-pointed Arctic night settled down. The river rose. The forest quiet was broken by the chop, chop of picks. The piles must be kept free. Hundreds of cross pieces were unbolted. The shifting in place began. No man relaxed his vigilance until another stood ready to go on with his job. If he thought of anything but the bringing back of the bridge into place, Harcourt thanked God for the Samp sisters. They were indefatigable. They made the men stop for hot coffee and waffles put together sandwich fashion with succulent brown sugar. Once he glimpsed a boy hovering in the background. The new secretary?

Melting. Chopping. Coaxing. Melting. Chopping. Coaxing. The hours dragged on.

Inch by slow inch the span settled back on its concrete bed. Haggard, exhausted, with two days' growth of beard on their faces the engineers watched the last bolt driven in. From the distance came a faint rumble. It increased in volume. Grant clutched Harcourt's arm. "It's coming!" he whispered through stiff lips.

The rumble increased to a roar. The river had broken loose. Carrying ice and timber before it, it swept along on its mad rush to the sea.

Rigid, tense, the two men watched the wreckage and ice sweep by. The bridge stood immovable against the onslaught. Grant's eyes were unashamedly full of tears.

"You've done the trick, Bruce. This day will mark a crisis in your life and Hale's."

"What's the name of that secretary of yours, Tubby?" "Jimmy Delevan."

"Delevan? Did he help during the late excitement?" "Sure he did. He was everywhere. Perhaps not so helpful in some spots as in others. One of the men found him freeing a snowshoe rabbit which had been snared. When he explained that the rabbits were the chief source of feed for the dog-teams, Jimmy Delevan went quiet white, walked off without answering, but with the rabbit clutched tight in his arms like a baby."

Three shrieks of a small steamer's siren echoed and re-echoed among the snow-tipped mountain tops.

"E-o-a-a! B-o-a-a-t!" The cry set in motion Eskimos and Indians, countless uncanny echoes. Dogs responded with wolfish wails.

"I never watch that boat come in but I wonder what turn old Fortune will give her wheel," observed Grant at his elbow.

"Its arrival is packed with significance, Tubby. So many on this last frontier have pasts."

"I'll bet the wheel turns for Hale this time. He and the Mrs. are coming in on this boat. It's six weeks since we fought to save that bridge. He went off to Seattle before he knew that it would stand the break-up. I'm mighty sorry for his wife, but—our reports went by air, must have reached the authorities weeks ago."

"I made mine as charitable as possible, considering the fact that a flaw in construction imperils hundreds of lives and wastes thousands of dollars."

"I'll bet you put on the soft pedal, Bruce. In the interest of cool and impartial accuracy, Jimmy Chester—ba-gosh, how he hates Joe Hale, if he is his brother-in-law—and I didn't. In my capacity as accountant for the outfit I reported unvarnished facts. Here come the mail-bags and Stephen Mallory. It's good to see the Domingos again. I'm glad we're back on the coast, even if we are hundreds of miles from civilization. I wonder how long we'll have to stay in this raw place?" "Until we have developed a railroad terminal. The authorities have decided not only to extend the tracks north but to connect the Alaskan system with Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles. That's what I've been doing these last six weeks. Even got a piece of track laid as an object lesson. Left Jimmy Chester in charge. He's a human dynamo, in spite of the fact that he looks like a stage Romeo. Part of this outfit is to scout by plane and report bridge possibilities. That means that next winter we'll begin pier-setting again. How's the new secretary working out?"

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Encouraging news is that we may keep our rubber heels, and if we have to travel on them, instead of on rubber tires, it won't be the fault of Small, Still Voice of Of Scientists Now Dr. Elmer More Audible W. Brandes, head of the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture.

For many years, Dr. Brandes has been exploring rubber jungles, wherever he can find them, studying rubber-yielding plants and staking out for the government useful data and techniques. Currently, he tells the house agriculture committee about the urgency of planting large areas of the guayule shrub. This time, the committee is listening more intently. Germany is far ahead of us in synthetic rubber production.

On occasion, Dr. Brandes has worked up a pleasant friendship with head-hunters, and should be able to get on friendly terms with congressmen. It was in August, 1928, that he landed his hydroplane in a jungle river in New Guinea. It scared the wits out of the pygmy head-hunters. But the genial and conspicuously unarmed Dr. Brandes lured them into his camp by friendly gestures and they became friends and co-operators. He has flown many thousands of lone jungle air leagues on many research expeditions to Central and South America, Asia and the Pacific islands. In July, 1940, congress provided $500,000 for a study of crude rubber in the Western hemisphere. Dr. Brandes flew to Brazil and is now offering to congress the result of his researches there.

He was born in Washington in 1891, was educated in science at Michigan State college, Cornell and the University of Michigan, taught at Michigan State and entered the government service as a plant pathologist at the Puerto Rico agricultural experiment station in 1914. He served in the World war, as a second lieutenant, in France.

THERE is one section of the populace which won't be bothered much by all this rationing of food, clothes, automobile tires and household goods. It is the group which is, for the most part, a stranger to such luxuries. One of them asked me for a dime today. "We gotta work fast," he said, "before the government gets all the loose dimes."

If, as reported, morale is good among people who are hungry and cold, the Salvation Army has helped, and will help, greatly to this end. And rating many new stars in his crown, or cap, is Col. John J. Allan, just now becoming the Army's lieutenant commissioner for 11 central states, with headquarters at Chicago.

When, as a young man, getting started as a jeweler, John James Allan decided to give his life to the Salvation Army, he disguised himself as a derelict, when he went down into New York's Bowery. He shared their flophouses, wore ragged clothes and took his hand-out where he found it. "Condescending to men of low estate," in the scriptural phrase, he found reciprocal understanding when he shared their troubles. That was the start of his career of kindly and aggressive friendliness as an evangelist, and champion of the down-but-never-outs, and as a cornetist for the Bowery and for King George of England—at a command performance in 1904. He was for three years a soloist with Reeves American band of Providence, R. I.

He is the father of the United Service Organizations. It was on October 11, 1940, that he met with executives of the Y.M.C.A., the Knights of Columbus and the Jewish Welfare organization for united effort among the soldiers, and out of this meeting came the U.S.O.

He is married, the father of five children. He was born in Hazelton, Pa., in 1887, his mother having been born near Nottingham, England, a stone's throw from the home of General Booth.

In the World war, he was senior chaplain of the Seventy-seventh division in France, the first Salvation Army chaplain in the American armed forces. He won the French Croix de Guerre and later received the rank of major chaplain of the U. S. army. In 1925, he entered the army reserve corps, and his "Colonel" is a military title. He was in Salvation Army work in Newark from 1923 to 1925 and thereafter in Columbus, Ohio, for eight years, managing the Greenwood Lake Camp for Children. He never trumpets himself, but the Army does.

FORTY-TWO years ago, there was a testimonial dinner for Mark Twain at the New York Press club. Arthur Brisbane's speech made everybody cry. The next speaker was a comedian, with Weber and Fields. He said, "You may think I'm a clown, but I'm going to make people cry, too." Many tears later had paid tribute to that man, David Warfield, just awarded the New York Academy award for distinguished service in the theater. Also a citation for "courtesy and gentle kindness."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Water should never be poured on burning fat. It will spread the blaze. Flour will extinguish the blaze.

To remove brown stains from light-colored ranges, dip a cloth in turpentine and apply to stains. With a little pressure the stains will come off.

Always cut toast in small squares when making cream toast. It is much easier served out in this way.

Apply paint remover with a brush. When paint begins to curl remove with a putty knife. Remover takes time and cannot be hurried.

Always store baking powder in a tightly covered container. If it is exposed to the air some of the strength will be lost.

The unsightly ring left by cleaning fluids, when used to remove spots, may be avoided by placing under the spot a pad made of thick absorbent cotton.

County Agent Notes

EGGS ESSENTIAL TO PROPER NUTRITION

"Keep 'em laying" is going to be a good poultry slogan for the coming months. Eggs like milk have a priority rating of number 1 on our food list. They are essential to proper nutrition in the diets of our soldiers and our workers. Besides they are one of the foods which can easily be exported. The American poultry flocks are essential to victory, so "Keep 'em laying."

Below is a suggested laying ration for the winter months: Ground yellow corn, 25 lbs.; ground oats, 25 lbs.; wheat bran, 25 lbs.; wheat middlings, 25 lbs.; meat scrap, 25 lbs.; dried milk, 5 lbs.; alfalfa meal, 10 lbs.; soybean meal, 10 lbs.; cod liver oil, 2 lbs.; salt, 1 lb.

SHORT COURSE BANQUET AND REUNION PLANNED

The annual joint banquet and reunion of the Washington and Ozaukee county short course graduates will be held in West Bend during the third week in March. Further plans for this meeting will be announced at a later date.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN FARM AND HOME WEEK FEB. 2-9

Many Washington county farmers are planning to be present on one or more days in Madison attending the Farm & Home Week program at the College of Agriculture next week. The theme of the week's meeting will be "Produce for Victory." The university invites you to come. It has spared no efforts in preparing a very much worthwhile program.

DAIRY FEEDING SUGGESTIONS

Feed prices are advancing, but the price of feeds is still such that it will pay to feed rather liberally. A good 16% protein ration can be mixed today for $32.00 to $36.00 per ton, and even cheaper where ear corn can be purchased at around $26.00 per ton.

Bran has been high in price and is not nearly as good a buy as linseed meal or gluten feed. The price on soybean oil meal has advanced considerably since early December, but is still a good buy on many local markets.

In energy feeds, corn, corn and cob meal, and hominy feed are the best

Suppose we have good alfalfa hay and corn silage for roughage. If we want to supply the cow's needs with home grown feeds entirely, it will require 12 lbs. corn and 4 lbs. oats, in addition to 12 lbs. hay and 25 lbs. silage to furnish enough protein to meet her requirements.

On the other hand, if we feed the same amount of hay and silage and balance the ration by using some high protein feed, we find that the requirements are met with 6 lbs. corn, 3 lbs. oats and 2 lbs. soybean oil meal. In this case 2 lbs. of soybean oil meal replaces 6 lbs. corn and 2 lbs. oats. In the first case, the dairy ration costs 40 cents, while in the second case it costs only 30 cents, figuring retail prices for feeds on Jan. 1.

On this basis there is a feed cost of $1.00 to produce 100 pounds of milk with the unbalanced ration, and only 75c with the balanced ration.

FARM AND HOME LINES

Vegetables are vital for health, economy, and security. Every well-planned farm will have a garden in 1942.

Many Wisconsin farmers are having their soils tested this winter so they may be ready next spring to apply the fertilizers that may be needed.

Wisconsin farmers are girding themselves for a year of unprecedented feed and food production—but much of the job will have to be done with the old farm machinery and equipment which is already on hand.

Wayne Morris, recent star of "I Wanted Wings," became a member of Uncle Sam's Navy in May, 1941, when he was appointed to the rank of Ensign.

When asked what he thought of the United States Navy, Morris said, "I think every man who is considering joining a military service should look into the 'chance of a lifetime' which the Navy and Naval Reserve offer to get into the big-pay field of the future—aviation. In the Navy you can attend the finest flight training schools in the world, and receive instruction from Navy pilots who introduced dive bombing, aircraft carriers and catapult take-offs to the rest of the world. Also, there are opportunities in Naval Aviation for men who don't want to fly. They can be trained as aviation machinists, metalsmiths, photographers, observers, or they can receive instruction in many other trades. It's a great life in the Navy."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

President Sketches World Strategy; Australia Is Periled by Japanese Army Invasion of Its Key Island Outposts; Nelson Speeds Up U. S. War Production

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state and head of the U. S. delegation to the Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is cheered by spectators as he waves his hat from the Tiradentes palace, scene of the historic meeting.

BLUEPRINT: Of World Battle

While the nation girded itself for victory production on a scale never hitherto dreamed of, and while American soldiers were arriving on foreign fields ready to do battle until victory, while still others were filling the news with their heroic exploits, President Roosevelt gave newsmen a hint of the "blueprint of battle."

The President, following the close of the Churchill conferences, and the safe return of the British premier to London by airplane from Bermuda, had told little to newsmen save that there was a complete accord among the united nations.

Now he had begun to give them the picture, a portrait of battle carried on simultaneously in every part of the globe by the soldiers of all nations working in concert with each other.

Thus were found American aviators fighting in the Singapore area, with the Dutch in the East Indies, in the Philippines, over the Seven Seas, and most lately arriving in Britain and other points for service.

The President said one could look at the map of the world and assume that the anti-Axis group was doing something at almost every strategic point.

He said that joint technical committees were busy, covering the subjects of production, of transportation of produced supplies to every part of the globe, also to the assignment of fighting men and machines to points where they were most needed.

While all of his information had been of a general nature, the nearest he came to giving out details was when he said that excellent progress was being made in strengthening the Allied forces in the Pacific.

This latter statement was taken by the press to be an attempt by the President to allay Chinese fears that the Allies were not going to make a vigorous enough battle against the Japs.

The President had finished a conference with Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, lieutenant governor general of the Netherlands Indies. Dr. Van Mook came out of the conference room beaming.

JAPS: Extend Fronts

The Japs, far from being licked or even stopped, were constantly extending their front, and with reports of their continued advances spreading out with attacks on all fronts, came dispatches telling of two new ventures. These were the invasion of New Guinea and the Solomon island area; and an invasion of Burma by the Siamese as a measure to aid Japan.

Indicating a threat to Australia itself, the New Guinea invasion was paced by air attacks and a movement of naval forces. The Solomon islands lie in a chain northeast of Australia and east of New Guinea.

The Burma invasion had started at Myawaddie on the Burma-Thai frontier. This lies at the northern end of the Burmese panhandle bordering the puppet country.

It had not been unexpected, and General Wavell's headquarters some time before had told of Chinese reinforcements to the Burmese troops, apparently sent there for just such a contingency.

The invaders also seized the port of Tavoy, which bisects the panhandle and gave the Jap-assisters a good advantage in opening the fighting.

Jap fliers were reported to have occupied a flying field at Tavoy, and roared out to attack with bombs the important cities and ports of Moulmein and Rangoon.

MOZHAISK:

The Reds, while continuing a terrific battle all up and down the long eastern front, took a moment out, as well they might, when Mozhaisk fell to their assaulting fresh Siberian soldiers.

The city was in flames when the Russians entered, but it was a sweet victory for them because it represented the main stronghold of the Nazis from which their "farthest east" drive had been launched. It was from Mozhaisk that the Nazis had driven nearly to Moscow.

'March of Dimes'

Alma F. Borgmeyer, clerk in the mail room at the White House, opens mail bags jammed with "March of Dimes" letters addressed to President Roosevelt and designed to aid in the fight against infantile paralysis. The mail was reaching its peak just before the President's Diamond Jubilee Celebration on January 30.

SUB ATTACKS: Intensified

Submarines, probably German U-boats, were pressing their attacks along the East coast of the United States, but the Navy department had reported that strong counter measures were being taken.

The whereabouts of the navy's chief strength was being kept a closely guarded secret, but all authorities from the President down continued to insist that the navy was extremely active, and was disposed in such a manner as best to meet present threats.

The sinking of a Japanese cruiser by navy bombing planes was announced, and there had been a number of sinkings of supply ships, some of them close to Japan.

Most dramatic had been the exploit of PT-boat division commander Lieutenant Bulkeley, who shot his own boat at 80 miles an hour into the Bay of Olongapo, sent a 5,000-ton Japanese vessel to the bottom and escaped unscathed.

Bulkeley's boat, a 77-foot speedster, carries heavy machine-guns and 18-inch torpedoes. He was being hailed as a hero almost on a par with Colin Kelly.

The cruiser sinking lacked details, but the navy said it was sent to the bottom 100 miles off the island of Jolo, one of the nearly 8,000 isles of the Philippine group.

Where the American bombers which did this trick and achieved other victories were based was a closely guarded secret, but there were many possible bases in territory within reach of the location where the sinking occurred.

PRICE CONTROL: 'Joker'

The price control bill, sulking in the house and senate conference under the baleful displeasure of the President, continued to bog down as prices continued to soar.

The farm relief "joker" in the bill had met with condemnation, not only from the White House, but from many leading agricultural centers, and this remained the main point of controversy in the bill.

In the meantime, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard came out with a statement that there probably would be a shortage of sugar, just after all the refinery men had gone out on a limb with the opposite prediction.

Sugar hoarders, and other purchasers of foodstuffs were continuing to storm grocery stores and cartoons were published under the caption "This little pig went to market" showing hoarders at their deadly work at the grocery counters.

Administration circles were at their gloomiest over the situation, one source saying "we had hoped to get an improvement over the house bill when we got to the senate, but the senate bill was worse than the house bill, and now most of us would be calling it a victory if we could get the house bill enacted."

A Strange 'Open Secret' Blocks U. S. and Britain

Large Forbidden and Mysterious Area in Pacific Is Believed to Shelter Most of Japan's Naval Strength.

By BAUKHAGE

National Farm and Home Hour Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

There is a strange open secret about the war against Japan which concerns a mysterious area in the Pacific ocean and about which very little is known even to our high command. Its existence explains why a little island nation is holding at bay the two greatest powers in the world—Britain and the United States.

This forbidden territory includes a group of scattered islands covering a sea space about 2,000 miles from east to west and a thousand miles from north to south. It is the hiding ground of the Japanese fleet. Military people believe that most of Japan's naval strength, not in actual use in protecting troop ships on the way to Malaysia, is sheltered there. And this sea stronghold is a tower of strength against the American navy, against aid to the Philippines, Singapore and the Netherlands Indies.

This area lies about 2,000 miles from Hawaii and extends westward from the Japanese mandated islands of the Marshall group which lie south of Wake island to the eastern extremity of the Caroline group (also Japanese mandates) a few hundred miles west of the Philippines. Guam, once ours, now Japan's, is within the area.

Accurate Reports Difficult to Obtain

"For ten years," a British diplomat said to me recently, "only one of our people who got into that area ever came out to report what he saw."

Americans have similar tales to tell. In 1939 a fishing boat from the island of Saipan, one of this group, was wrecked near Guam but, when an American ship started to return the survivors, a Japanese ship stopped them at sea and took off the survivors.

It is known, however, that for a decade great quantities of cement and other building materials, endless stores of food and war supplies have been pouring into that zone where it is believed that among the nearly 2,000 islands lie at least 50 bases. There are no known large harbors but there are plenty of submarine and air bases and big ships can be fed and watered and supplied with munitions for an indefinite period. From these spawning grounds Japan can strike in all directions, threatening the sea routes from our western shores to the southwestern Pacific.

Here is the hornet's nest from which the swarms of enemy air and sea craft are making their sorties against the reinforcements from America which are the only hope for Singapore and the Netherlands Indies.

Already the Philippines are virtually a part of this nest. As soon as the Japanese had secured beachheads in the archipelago, they made temporary air bases and the narrow waters which might give entrance to American supply ships were made impassable. Even if American supply ships could have reached the islands in time to save Manila and relieve General MacArthur, they could not have penetrated the narrow waters protected by land-based planes. American bombers—our pitifully few bombers—did some damage to the Japanese here, but bombers cannot fight long against protecting interceptors and fighters. The little fighting planes can fly only a few hundred miles. We have few airplane carriers and it would be risky business to send them past the hornet's nest. Carriers are about the most vulnerable things afloat.

Japs Were There 'Fastest with Mostest'

The Japs applied the ancient principle of being there "fastest with the mostest" of everything, and the carefully built "hornet's nest" was created to the utter indifference of the American public in spite of the futile warnings of military men.

In February of 1941 the navy asked for $5,000,000 to improve the harbor facilities of Guam. Congress turned down the appropriation. "It is not a wise thing for the American navy to go 6,000 miles from home when we do not have a single thing to defend in that territory..." was one of the arguments against this appropriation. In the

When a supreme allied council is framed to decide the post war policies of the nations "associated" against the Axis, it will probably be located in Washington.

It's about time for the conservatives in the country to find out what they want to conserve and then take steps to conserve it," says Mariner Eccles, head of the Federal Reserve board.

The curtailment of passenger automobile production is expected to create an unprecedented demand for bicycles and it is possible that as many as 2,000,000 will be sold during 1942, according to estimates by the department of commerce. Bicycle manufacturers have agreed to reduce the average weight of their product and discontinue the use of ornamental features requiring chrome, nickel, copper and other metals needed for defense production.

Final steps have been taken to effect closer ties of transport and communications between the United States and Mexico, placing in daily operation three main aerial trunklines connecting the two republics.

If you want to call Adolf Hitler, his number is Berlin 11-6191. If you forget it you can look it up in the new British Who's Who. It's still listed.

Egyptian wheat, the kind with tops that look something like sorghum, makes fine chicken feed. So William Tennille, young Georgia farmer, planted two pounds of Egyptian wheat seed provided him by the FSA county office. A quarter of an acre returned four pounds of feed. In midsummer he chopped off the tops of the wheat stalks, mill fed the whole wheat to the chickens. The chopped stalks sprouted new heads, yielded a second crop.

Wooden Ships for Men of Iron

Away out of the focus of the spotlight men are doing a job which though not spectacular, is vital to the security of this nation. They are the men who are building the little wooden ships that have the unusual job of keeping our waters clear of mines—trawlers that are manned by men of iron. At the Snow shipyards in Rockland, Me., things are humming. These pictures, made at the Snow yards, give you an idea of the work that goes into a wooden ship.

Two shipwrights work on a keel here. In the background hulls in various stages of construction.

Old-timer Howard Gordon, who has been a ship's carpenter since 1898. He is honing his ax to a razor edge here.

Old-timer Ray Rubshaw is working inside the framework of hull under construction. He is dubbing or smoothing out and setting up the ribs for planking, using an adz.

Greasing the skids before launching a completed wooden ship. Pounds and pounds of grease are smeared on the skid to make the sliding of new craft easy and to counteract friction.

Trim and clean as a hound's tooth, a new wooden ship for the navy takes to the water without fanfare. No time for ceremony.

Hear Own Heart Beat

The small arteries which pass near the ears carry the pulsations of the heart, and in a quiet room the rhythmic thump-thump-thump of the heart can be heard readily. Some people become frightened upon noticing this for the first time, and imagine they have serious heart trouble. Most city people have never heard their own heart-beat because it cannot compete with the outside noises.

'Who's to Be Boss'

The struggle over "who's to be boss" is the "greatest" of family trouble, according to Abraham Myerson, Harvard medical school psychiatrist. "The democratic ideal of equality in the home," he says, "is greatly interfered with by traditions of male superiority and dominance, though it is probably true that efficiency in domestic life is best served by the dominance of one person."

Look At and Eat, Too... Orange Sponge Cake (See Recipes Below)

Snacks, II

I serve to guests who are in an evening of bridge or for a chat? This is a question I've heard many hostesses ask, especially often during colder weather when visiting time real-ly favors again. The answer is a delectable cake or coffee or hot drink.

Evening Snack Ideas

- *Orange Sponge Cake
- Coffee
- Mints
- *Gingerbread With Whipped Cream
- Hot Spiced Tea
- Salted Nuts
- Orange Pumpkin Pie
- Hot Mulled Cider
- Chocolate-Covered Nuts
- *Lemon Cake-Pie
- *Mulled Fruit Juice

- *Recipe Given.

top of cake. Chill in refrigerator.

Gold Topping.
1/4 cup cold water
1 tablespoon gelatin
4 egg yolks
3/4 cup sugar
1 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
4 egg whites
3/4 cup sugar

Decorate with fresh orange sections just before serving. Gleaned from an excellent chef, this Lemon Cake-Pie is a good combination of a cream pie and cake. Because of the delicate lemon flavor it will prove interesting to serve for those evenings when friends just drop in for a bit. Made just according to directions, it's guaranteed to bring plenty of encom- penses!

*Lemon Cake-Pie.
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 lemon

Blend the sugar and butter, add beaten egg yolks, milk, flour and the juice and rind of the lemon. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour into an unbaked pie-crust. Bake in a slow (325-degree) oven 35 to 40 minutes. The top will be like a sponge cake and underneath there's a soft, firm custard.

Gingerbread is a favorite for after-dinner bridge type of entertain- ing. Gingerbread made with boiling water gives the cake a special kind of feathery texture which is certain to charm. Most of the time you like to serve gingerbread with whipped cream, but you can vary this if you add crushed peppermints to the cream before serving.

*Old-Fashioned Gingerbread.
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup molasses
1 beaten egg
1 1/2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon baking powder
3/4 teaspoon soda
3/4 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Pour water over the shortening and add sugar, molasses and egg. Add sifted dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Bake in a waxed-paper lined square pan in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 35 minutes. Cool before turning out from pan. For variation, 1 package of semi-sweet chocolate pieces may be added with the dry ingredients if a chocolate-flecked cake is desired. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Current Fashions Stress New Use of Daring Color Contrast

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

AT FIRST this matter of using two or three colors together in daring contrast was regarded as an adventure that would give a new slant to fashion. It was a deliberate departure from traditional color technique that might reasonably be expected to prove a mere passing fad. However, this courage on the part of designers to start something new has not only added zest to fashion, but has developed a movement that is being carried over from one season to another with increasing enthusiasm.

This spring the fashion program fairly vibrates with breathtaking color contrasts that defy staid and sedate ideas as to which color goes with which.

In every phase of fashion, from bathing suits to sweaters and from simple daytime dresses to dress- ily afternoon frocks and pretentious "formals," designers are courage- ously handling color in new ways with an artistry that is winning tremen- dous applause.

To demonstrate the brilliant and audacious spirit style creators ex- press in their use of color, note the daytime dress shown to the left in the group illustrated above. The dress in this instance is of narrow wale corduroy with sleeves and col- lar of bright red wool jersey. A patch pocket has a striking heraldic design embroidered in multi-colored yarns.

By the way, this idea of contrast- ing sleeves might serve as an in- spiration in stretching a limited budget to meet the exigencies arising in present war times when econ- omy is a virtue every woman is urged to practice. For example, there's that dress hanging in your closet, "perfectly good," yet seem- ing to have outlived its usefulness. The sleeves show wear at the el- bows. Why not rejuvenate this poor outcast with a new pair of sleeves in a bright, contrasting color? To complete the costume, add a belt, and, perhaps, pockets in the same bright color. You might even go so far as to do the contrast sleeves in a tri-color scheme, cerise for the top, gold for the center and purple for the lower arm portion, repeating the colors in pockets and neckline details.

Smartly typical of the new vogue for contrast is the dress shown to the right in the picture above. It has a definitely "peasant" feeling in its use of vivid colors and its trim- ming in a flower of self fabric. There's something about the mid- dy-blowse fashion done in red, white and blue that makes an irresistible combination. The pattern for the two-piece outfit, centered in the group above, with its easy-to-follow instructions, is especially interest- ing if you sew the modern way. If you aspire to be your own seamstress, your local sewing center will in- struct you, at little or no expense, in the making of such expert dress- maker details as buttonholes. Crisp white rayon fabric is used for the middy blouse and cadet blue for the skirt. Bands of vermilion red accent the collar, cuffs and pockets and can be made in "jig time" with an edge stitcher sewing machine at- tachment.

And don't forget about the newest bathing suits. They have sprightly little skirts of ruffles, each in a dif- ferent color. A bandanna for the head repeats the color scheme. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Flour Sack Dress

Imagine! A dress as attractive as this actually made out of ordinary cotton flour sacks! You'll need three large cotton bags for this charming frock. It is no trick at all to dye them a deep red and for trimming use beige colored yarn (dyed with coffee liquid). Add real pine cones for buttons and you have a dress for the farmerette that any city cousin would look upon with under- standable envy.

Slim Skirts Have Soft Draped Lines

There's excitement coming in the way of skirt silhouettes. To say that they are versatile is to put it mildly. In the fashion picture there will not only be pleated skirts but there is an important trend toward pencil-slim draped effects. Very smart, too, are the new wrapover effects, many of which tie on without any other fastening. The surprise is the skirts that are flounced in a new way. These will be repeated again and again in wash dresses. Also in long evening tafetas.

Ballerina skirts are making front page news, and the young set is wearing them like the dirndl.

Color Goes to Work—In New Defense Uniforms

Color is being advocated through- out the fashion field. Those who are studying conditions say that for defense work, particularly, bright color is essential to morale. The gabardines, denims and other cot- tons used for uniforms, field work and various defense activities will not only be thoroughly practical and functional, but they will spread a good measure of cheer.

Spring Hats

Flattering hats, many of them flower trimmed, will be worn from now on into the spring. The flower- trimmed calot is a favorite. The little sailor, of straw or felt, will also be shown. Many fabrics will feature back drapes over the hair.

Child's Slacks

Very practical and cunning for little tots are pinafore slacks with matching bonnets that are made with a view to stressing the "pretty" look. Chambray and seersucker are favored fabrics for these suits.

Tips Picked Up in World Fashion Centers

Diagonal pleats make a smart ver- sion of the "self trim" idea. Why not fasten your collar edges to your dress with tiny, jeweled clips or pins. Although black and navy still head the list of favorites for spring street wear, other popular colors, judging from the advance showings, will probably be peach, aqua, a sort of champagne shade and all high, vivid shades.

In Charge

"No; my wife was with me."

Flesh and Bones
"Have you a hobby? Do you ride a horse?"
"Yes, but I'll have you know it's no hobby!"

The less people know, the harder it is to keep it to themselves.

Equalizing
"My new girl friend's very bright. She has brains enough for two."
"Then she's just the girl for you."

Same With Difference
Trying to give a friend a definition of "oratory," a Negro said: "If you says black am white, dat's foolish. But if you says black am white, an' bellers like a bull, an' pounds de table with both fists, dat's oratory."

It seems as though the usual unusual weather has been more unusual than usual.

Modest, Indeed
Mrs. Black was vigorously powdering her face before going out.
"Why do you go to all this trouble?" asked her husband, who was waiting impatiently.
"Modesty, my dear," was the reply. "I've no desire to shine in public!"

The Siren
The leader of the Fire Service called at the house across the way.
"Pardon me, but are you the lady who was singing?"
"Yes, I was singing. Why?"
"Well, lay off the top notes, please. We've had the fire en- gine out twice!"

Queer Town Names

If you study a large scale map of the United States, you will find many places with queer names. For instance, respectable villages are called by such odd names as Hard Cash, Boomerang, Bird-in-Hand, and Dynamite. In other parts of the United States, towns are named after various foods. Apricot, Grape, Fish, Coffee, and Cereal are a few. Then there is Fry, What Cheer and Peculiar. England, too, has its queerly named places, such as Seldom Seen, Never Seen, Billy Row, Brass Side, Black Boy, Early Nook, Cow Tail, Kicking Cuddy, Friar's Goose, Light-a-Pipe, Pov- erty Hole and Out-of-Sight.

Few More Years Would Have Toughened Uncle

The oldest inhabitant had celebrated his hundredth birthday and the reporter of a local paper called on him for an interview.

"To what do you attribute your longevity?" the reporter inquired. The centenarian paused a moment and then, holding up his hand and ticking off the items on his fingers, began: "I never drank alcoholic liquors, or over- ate, and I always rise at six in the morning."

"But," protested the reporter, "I had an uncle who acted in that way, yet he only lived to be eighty. How do you account for that?"
"He didn't keep it up long enough," was the calm reply.

Chocolate and Cocoa

Chocolate is richer and more nutri- tious as a beverage than cocoa, although both originate from the seeds of the tropical Theobroma cacao tree. In chocolate the cocoa beans have been ground and caked together, with all the fat content retained. In cocoa, the beans have had much of the fat pressed out of them before they are ground and powdered.

NEW LIBRARY BOOKS

The students of K. H. S. were very excited last Friday when the new library books came out. Everyone scrambled to the desk to get his favorite book.

There are seventy-one books and they are almost all fiction. Such famous authors as Edna Ferber, Kathleen Norris and Daphne du Maurier wrote some of the novels. There are a few light fiction and humorous books, too.

Most of the stories are the latest novels written. Some of them are "Wings Over West Point," "The Middle Button" & "Saratoga Trunk." Such books as "Rebecca," "I Married Adventure," "How Green Was My Valley," "The Light That Failed," "Goodbye Mr. Chip" and "Jamaica Inn" were made into movies.

With this fine selection of books on the shelves no one should be idle during school hours.

On Monday, Jan. 26, everyone in K. H. S. was seen smiling, practicing for those pictures that were to be taken that day. Mr. Sinclair of Minnesota came, bringing his picture-taking equipment, to snap that best pose and big smile. The girls were seen with crisp, new hair bows and the style of hairdo that was most becoming to each of them.

The seniors especially wanted their pictures to be the best because each one, this year, has the honor of getting his individual picture in the Chieftain, the school annual.

Pictures were also taken of the various athletic groups, the girls' chorus, the cheer leaders—but the students are now waiting patiently for the best day yet to come—the day the developed pictures arrive from Mr. Sinclair. Here's hoping that everyone's is "the best."

RESULTS LAST FRIDAY

Brandon 27, Kewaskum 24
No. Fond du Lac 39, Oakfield 14

Kewaskum went to Brandon last Friday and lost 27-24 for its sixth defeat in nine Tri-County starts. It was another game typical of Kewaskum this season. The team played and fought harder than most teams but could not connect for baskets at a time when it counted.

The defense fell apart for a time in the second quarter when Brandon scored 9 points to give them a 17-12 lead at the half. From then on the game remained the same with Brandon in about a 3 or 3 point lead all the last half. Tassar stood out for Kewaskum with 16 points scored on 7 field goals and 2 free throws. His general play throughout the whole game made him the outstanding man on the floor. Kewaskum outscored Brandon from the field 11 to 9.

By this time the team realizes that the loss of Roger Stahl, senior letterman, who did not come out for the squad this season, was very costly to their chances. He was one of the team's mainstays in scoring last year. Out of the team's six defectors, two were by one point, one by two points, one by three and one by five points. These defeats were heart-breaking to take and with another seasoned man like Stahl on the team all or most of these close games might have been won. Possibly Kewaskum could even been in second place now instead of second last.

Attention -- Farmers

If you're going to need help—now—in spring—or this summer—we want you to tell us and we'll help you find it.

Go to the office of the Washington County Council of Defense in the West Bend Public Library building and fill out a "Farm Help Wanted" card. Tell how much help you will need, when you think you will need it, and how much you can afford to pay. We refer to day work or part-time work only. We can't serve as an employment agency for permanent help, but we will try to find day workers if you'll tell us what you need.

There are many men and women who want to help the farmers, but you must sign up first, so that we will know the need. Sign up today! Plan ahead!

Twenty-five Years Ago

Wm. Bohlmann, resident of Town Auburn many years, died at his farm home.

Postmaster-Editor Geo. H. Schmitt attended the convention of the Wisconsin State League of Postmasters at Marshfield and was again honored by being re-elected secretary of the association.

EXTRA! Local boys respond to ration's call. Carl Guth, barber; Edwin Backus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Backus, Jr.; Ralph Petri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Petri of Wayne, and John Tassar, employee in Wm. Schaub's garage, were at Fond du Lac where they enlisted with Co. E, Second Regiment of Wisconsin.

The next day the boys were busy bidding farewell to parents and friends. The citizens turned out at large to bid them goodbye and business places and residences were decorated in honor of the boys. Business was actually suspended for an hour before their departure. They left with their company from Fond du Lac for Camp Douglas where a general mobilization of the Wisconsin National Guards was held. More than 100,000 national guardsmen in 46 states were under orders to mobilize for Mexican service by President Wilson, constituting virtually the entire militia strength of the U. S. Orders were issued when it became apparent that threatening conditions in northern Mexico were not improving. How soon the local boys will be sent to the border remains for officials to determine. Warships are getting ready to hurry south and stand by Mexican ports to protect Americans. No offensive attack on Mexico is contemplated. President Wilson only wants stronger forces to defend the border against bandit raids and be prepared should Carranza troops carry out their threats to strike at American forces engaged in chasing bandits south of the border.

A Chevrolet car driven by Fred Buss collided with Edward Miller son of Mr. and Mrs. Edw. F. Miller, riding a bicycle, near Heppes' Delicatessen store. Fred brought his car to a stop at once when he saw what happened but the car had passed over the young lad's arm. The bike was demolished. The lad had to be pulled from under the car but was unhurt except for bruises.
