Rev. Beck Will Take Over Peace Church Pastorate Next Week

Rev. and Mrs. R. G. Beck and daughter Katherine are expected to arrive in Kewaskum next Wednesday or Thursday from St. Paul, Minn., to make their future home here. Rev. Beck has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Peace Evangelical congregation to succeed Rev. Richard M. A. Gadow who resigned last August to become pastor of St. Andrew's Evangelical church in Chicago.

Rev. Beck, who will preach his first sermon here on Sunday, March 1, at 9:45 a. m., was engaged as pastor on Nov. 26. Rev. Beck experienced a most successful ministry at St. John's church in St. Paul, where he resided for five years, resigning to become pastor of the Peace church.

He was born in Fond du Lac, where he attended grade and high school. He attended the Peace church in Fond du Lac and was confirmed there. In 1928 he entered the United States Navy and served a four year enlistment, being honorably discharged in 1930. After a year at Western Reserve university in Cleveland, Ohio, he entered Elmhurst college, Elmhurst, Ill., from which college he received his B. A. degree in 1934. After attending Eden seminary at Webster Grove, Missouri, he received his B. D. in 1937. Since that time he has been pastor at St. John's church in St. Paul.

Mrs. Beck is a native of Jackson, Wis., and was formerly known as Miss Adeline Gumm. Prior to her marriage Mrs. Beck was always active in church work, and easily found herself at home in parsonage life after her marriage. The Becks have one daughter, Katherine, aged 2.

The Peace congregation will welcome the Becks at a reception in the church basement on Monday evening, March 2, at eight o'clock.

WALTER LIETPERT OF KEWASKUM, Route 1, underwent a major operation at St. Joseph's Community hospital, West Bend, on Saturday, Feb. 14.

Miss Bernice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Dworeschack of New Fane, Route 1, Kewaskum, submitted to an appendectomy at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, Tuesday.

Mrs. Jos. Brodzeller of Kewaskum, Route 2, underwent a major operation at St. Joseph's Community hospital on Saturday, Feb. 7.

Vincent Schmitt of St. Killan underwent an appendicitis operation at St. Agnes hospital last Wednesday.

Miss Clara Hahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hahn of the town of Auburn, who underwent a gynec operation, has returned home from the hospital.

A Campbellsport justice court decision in which Marvin Kleinke of the town of Auburn was awarded a judgment against Raymond Maedke also of the town of Auburn, has been appealed to circuit court. The suit resulted from a collision between automobiles driven by the two men at the intersection of County Trunk Highway S and G near Kewaskum on July 29, 1941. Maedke, who alleged he sustained $130.35 in damages to his car was plaintiff in the original suit, and Kleinke was awarded the judgment on a counterclaim.

Mrs. E. Tranholm of Trenton, accompanied by Miss Audrey Koepke of Kewaskum, made a trip to Cheyenne, Wyo. to visit Pvt. Bennie Tranholm, who is stationed at Fort Francis E. Warren.

More families are planning to produce just as much of their own food as possible. Housewives feel that this is not only a good way to assure a variety of healthful foods in the menu but that it also helps out food costs.

58 People Enrolled in First Aid Course

A much larger group of people than had been expected have enrolled in the first aid course here. There are 58 members registered, including a group of local firemen who are reviewing the course and assisting Dr. R. G. Edwards with the demonstration.

At the first meeting last week Mr. Schowalter, chairman of the West Bend Red Cross chapter, and Miss Jaehnick, executive secretary of the chapter, were present to explain the course to the Kewaskum group. Because of a shortage of Red Cross text books the West Bend chapter is furnishing this group with mimeographed sheets of each lesson. The course is being received with much enthusiasm by all the members enrolled.

Members of the aviation committee for Washington county are as follows: Lloyd Lobel, West Bend, chairman; Ben Stanislaw, West Bend; Wm. Fischer, Hartford; W. E. Buchelt, West Bend; Walter Knapp, West Bend; Geo. Kissel, Hartford; Floyd Gessert, West Bend; Henry Regner, West Bend.

Service and supplies, the other new committee, is organized for protection of civilians and property. It has nothing to do with the production end of industries. Under its scope of activities will be transportation, communication, utilities, and food and shelter, in case of emergency. The service and supplies committee will have plans for transporting civilians and property. If railroad and bus lines should be inadequate or out of operation, plans must be made for substitutes. The protection of utility services; how they can be created in case of blackout; what citizens can do, and must do, if utility services should fail to operate; what substitutes could be developed; how repairs could be made—all of these questions and problems will have to be considered by the service and supplies section. When we refer to "utilities," we mean water, gas, electricity, sewage disposal, etc.

All communication services are tremendously important in time of emergency—and yet that may be the very hour when they are attacked by enemies from within. Some adequate means of protection must be anticipated before that hour arrives. All communication services, such as telephone, telegraph, radio and air lines, must be coordinated for quick and rapid action when necessary.

The following members of the service and supplies committee have an assignment that may be very important in a "dark" hour: W. E. Buchelt, chairman, West Bend; Geo. Sell, Fred Thiel, Clyde Jones, Hartford; Ira Godfrey, Walter Basset, Carl Schloemer, Raymond Endlich, Austin Hancock, Harold Riley, West Bend.

Under food and shelter, the responsibility of this committee will extend only to the transporting and locating of supplies. Actual distribution at a definite location will be handled by another group.

Aviation, Service & Supplies Committees Appointed in County

Last week the defense council rounded out its permanent committee organization with appointments for two new sections: aviation and service and supplies. With these two additions, the Washington County Council of Defense now has a total of ten committee sections, all of which are now functioning, and will continue to function for the duration of this war emergency.

The program of the aviation section will include regulatory measures, improvement of local facilities, cooperation with state and federal plans, and the securing of complete information for those who are interested in military training (pilots and mechanics). Landing strips along highways in various parts of the state, as well as civil air patrol, will also be considered. The civil air patrol is entirely a voluntary organization.

John Darmody Dies of Injuries in Fall

John Darmody, 55, of near Slinger, a former resident of the town of Wayne and brother of Mich. Darmody of St. Killan, died in St. Joseph's hospital, Hartford, at 8:30 p. m. Monday, Feb. 16, of a skull fracture he suffered Sunday in a barn on the George Rauh farm near Slinger.

According to Wm. Scherr, 40, of near Slinger, who was questioned by Sheriff Herb. Baehring, an altercation between the two men occurred Sunday. The men met in a Slinger tavern and an argument followed. They were parted and Scherr, with his wife and family left the tavern for their home. On their way they stopped at the Rauh farm, where Darmody was employed, to inquire about matters discussed at the tavern.

When Scherr arrived Mr. and Mrs. Rauh were in the barn milking, according to Scherr. After discussing the subject with them Scherr started to leave and then Darmody was brought home by a party. He entered the barn and the argument repeated according to Scherr, who said Darmody kicked at him and he pushed him aside. Darmody fell to the floor and struck his head on a concrete floor, causing the skull fracture.

An inquest was conducted on Friday night of this week at the Slinger village hall at 8 o'clock. Funeral services for Darmody, who was unmarried, were held at Slinger, Thursday morning.

HENRY A. ENSENBACH Henry A. Ensenbach, 69, a native of the town of Wayne and brother of Louis Ensenbach of Kewaskum, was found dead in the bedroom of his home in West Bend at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, Feb. 16. A resident of that city the past 20 years, he had been despondent for some time.

Mr. Ensenbach was born in the town of Wayne on Dec. 30, 1872, where he operated a farm most of his life before going to West Bend. He was married to Miss Caroline Haerle on Nov. 28, 1892, and the couple was divorced in 1910. They were the parents of six children, namely John of Milwaukee, Irene of West Bend, Clarence of Edgerton, Mrs. Alvina Westover and Mrs. Jack Meinecke of Neenah, and Mrs. Roy Winters of Peru, Ind. The former Mrs. Ensenbach is now Mrs. Caroline Schiellack of the town of Trenton.

On Oct. 19, 1916, Mr. Ensenbach was married again to Mrs. Wilhelmina Buche, who preceded him in death on May 30, 1941. Two sons were born to this union. They are Floyd and Ray, both of West Bend. Deceased is also survived by two brothers, Louis of Kewaskum and Oscar of Theresa; two sisters, Mrs. Rheinhold Pribo and Mrs. John Krueger of Mayville, and a foster sister, Mrs. Robert Konrath of Mayville.

Funeral services were held Thursday, Feb. 19, at 1:30 p. m. at the Schmidt funeral home in West Bend. Interment was made in St. Paul's Lutheran cemetery at Lomira.

Woman Dies of Injuries in Car-Truck Collision Mrs. Charles S. Flanders, Fond du Lac, died at St. Agnes hospital in that city on Thursday morning of this week of injuries sustained in a collision Monday morning between an automobile and milk truck on Highway 41 near Neno. Injured also in the crash were two nurses of St. Agnes hospital, Dorothy Shikosky and Dorothy DelMarcelle, Fond du Lac. Miss Shikosky very frequently visits the Jos. Mayer family in this village and is quite well known here. Charles Shikosky, her brother, of Green Lake, R. 1, driver of the car, and Jeanette Mago, also a nurse of Fond du Lac, escaped injury. The injured were returned to the Fond du Lac hospital in a private ambulance.

Traffic Officer Wm. Johnson of Slinger, who investigated, said the Shikosky car crashed into the rear end of a milk truck owned by Peter Heister of Theresa, brother of Louis Heister of this village. The truck was driven by Walter Guellig, Theresa, an employee of Mr. Heister. Guellig had stopped at a farm about a mile south of Neno to pick up milk and Shikosky apparently was unable to stop on the slippery highway. The three nurses were enroute to Virginia for vacation and Mrs. Flanders, with whom they made their home, had planned to ride with the party only as far as Chicago.

The fatality was Washington county's fourth already this year.

BASKETBALL SATURDAY NIGHT The village basketball team will play Batavia in the high school gym Saturday evening, Feb. 21, starting at 8 o'clock. There will be no admission charge.

Leo Wietor in Train Wreck on Way to Camp

PFC. Leo L. Wietor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wietor of Wayne, who was recalled into service by the army on Feb. 7, writes that he was involved in a head-on train collision while on his way to Camp Polk, La. The crash occurred at Wilton, Ark. at 9:45 a. m. on Feb. 11 and Wietor escaped injury although he was thrown from his seat into the aisle. Sixteen persons were injured, one seriously, when the Kansas City Southern railroad's streamline train, the Flying Crow, on which Wietor was a passenger, collided with a freight train.

The freight locomotive was partly on a siding and partly on the main line when the Diesel-powered Flying Crow rounded a curve and struck it knocking the freight locomotive off the track. Four Camp Polk soldiers who were passengers on the Flying Crow were among the injured. The conductor, standing in the vestibule was injured when he was thrown from the train. PFC. Wietor's letter follows:

Service Battery 54th Field Artillery 3rd Armored Div. Camp Polk, La. Feb. 12, 1942

Dear Mr. Harbeck: Arrived at Camp Polk, La. on Wednesday evening, Feb. 11, after spending two and a half days at Port Sheridan, Ill. and two days traveling by train. Am assigned to my former unit, the 54th Field Artillery, and have the same job as chauffeur for the commanding officer. Sure had a busy day Thursday meeting all my former buddies at service battery.

The 3rd Armored Division has moved into tents, due to the new division that is being started, the 7th Armored Division. A lot of changes have been made in the past four months. Our former commanding officer, Lt. Col. Lucas, has been transferred to divisional headquarters and promoted to colonel. Major Brown is now in charge of the 5th F. A. and former Captain Leo Tockstein has been transferred to the 67th F. A. Lt. Davitt is now in charge of service battery.

The weather is nice and warm here there is no snow, and the nights are cool.

We were somewhat delayed on our trip to camp when the K. C. Limited, a Diesel streamliner met head-on with a freight train at Wilton, Ark. We were a bit shaken up and 16 passengers, including four soldier boys, were slightly injured, none seriously. I was reading a magazine at the time and was thrown over the seat into the aisle without suffering a scratch.

Am sending you a copy of the mishap. Am in the best of condition and hope the same of you. Regards to all friends in Kewaskum and vicinity.

Yours truly, PFC. Leo L. Wietor P. S. Please send the Statesman.

Training Youth for Jobs With U. S.

Thousands of young men and women are enrolling in training courses in vocational and trade schools — courses sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education. With this experience they will secure better jobs, or be qualified to participate in civil service examinations. The U. S. Civil Service Commission allows credit in many of its examinations for training received. These photos show trainee airplane mechanics.

All That Fluoresces—
All rock that fluoresces is not tungsten, a mining expert stated recently. Prospectors use fluorescent lamps when searching for the much valued defense ore, but some are fooled when they think that everything that glows under the lamp is tungsten. Besides tungsten ore, materials which will fluoresce include zircon, calcite, zinc, uranium, phosphate, anthracene, powellite and common sagebrush.

'Shall Not Pass'
Although the Suez canal's average width is about 250 feet, ships going through it are not allowed to pass each other in motion between the Mediterranean and the Bitter Lakes, or over about three-quarters of the 100-mile course. The ship facing the tide, which flows for seven hours and ebbs for five, is obliged to tie up while the other passes, for fear too much backwater will loosen the sandy banks.

"They don't bring plants from the hothouse to this wilderness and expect them to grow."

"I have no words in which to express my opinion of your infernal recklessness in coming to this wilderness!"

"You are doing fairly well. Stop pacing the floor as though you were an Alaskan bear and listen. I'll acknowledge that for a moment the silence, the wildness, the terrific expanse of land, sea and sky got me by the throat. I hadn't had the slightest conception of what the word Alaska stood for, this part of it. When later I thought of the clothes I had brought—trunks of the prospective wife of a millionaire, the table linen and bedding I had selected from my bountiful supply, for the first time in my life I touched the borderline of hysterics. I laughed till I cried. But I licked the fear-complex. I'm here."

She rose laughing, exultant, lovely. "And I have made good, yes? Haven't I, Mr. Grant?" she demanded of the man who entered the cabin with the husky at his heels. The dog thrust his nose into the girl's hand. Every hair of Blot, the black cat, bristled as though electrified.

"I'll say you have. What's he going to do?"

Harcourt looked from Grant's round, smooth face, with its belligerent green eyes, to Janice's. A man like Paxton wouldn't let such a lovely girl slip away. She was safe here. The outfit needed her.

"Jimmy Delevan goes."

At Grant's sharp protest and an indignant exclamation from Janice he held up his hand.

"Wait a minute! Your secretary stays, Tubby, but only as Miss Trent. And if she stays she will do exactly as I say." Ignoring her indignant protest, he went on: "Make up your mind to it—otherwise there is a boat going out tomorrow—and you go with it."

His jaw set grimly. How a feminine invasion could mess up a situation! His turmoil of mind was reflected in his voice.

"Does Jimmy Delevan go or does Miss Trent stay?"

"Miss Trent stays," the girl assured promptly.

"Then she is not to report for work until after the boat goes out tomorrow." Without waiting for an answer Harcourt crossed to the door.

As he walked toward his office his thoughts returned to Janice Trent. She had run away from her prospective bridegroom because she didn't trust him, yet loved him so much she didn't dare stay. His lips tightened.

The Hales would be off tomorrow. Millicent was sweet and much to be pitied, but she had claws, and he had a conviction that she would scratch deep and raggedly where other women were concerned. She had reigned as queen in this outpost camp. She would not abdicate gracefully.

At the door of his office he collided with a man coming out. His red face registered relief.

"Been looking for you everywhere, Chief."

"What's wrong?"

"Hale! Had a slight shock. We radioed to Fairbanks to ask if we should take him to the hospital by plane. Answer came, 'No! Keep him there.'"

"We can't keep him here."

"Search me. Mrs. Hale says he'll go tomorrow if he goes on a stretcher—but the Doc will have the say."

moist doggy kiss upon Janice's hand before he followed at his heels.

She clasped her hands behind her head, tipped back in her chair, regarded the moss-chinked walls, the old-time Yukon stove, which made the modern filing cabinets seem blantly nouveau riche, the high desk at which the chief of the outfit worked when he was in the office. Through the open window she could see the kennels and the huskies in the yard, some rollicking, some soaking in sunshine, some yelping.

Months had passed since the night Bruce Harcourt had returned her slipper, had brought vividly to mind her childish adoration of him. When he had stepped out upon the stage of her life again he had seemed a divine answer to her prayer to know what was right to do. Their paths crossed. Immediately the pattern of her life was changed. Her trust, her belief in him, in his power to surmount obstacles, surged up from her subconscious where it had lain quiescent through the years. He knew what he wanted and went after it. Why shouldn't she do the same?

The way which had threatened to be rough with complications had smoothed out like a trotting-park when she had told them the truth at once. Gaunt Miss Martha's agate eyes had disappeared in a network of fine lines.

"If you're bent on keeping this job, tell Harcourt the truth, quick, or he'll send you back hummin'. Keep clear of Hale; he might—well, just keep clear of him, that's all."

Three weeks had passed since she had discarded her disguise and gone to the office in one of the sports suits of her trousseau. The engineers had greeted her with smiling courtesy, the workmen with sheepish grins. What explanation had Bruce Harcourt made to them? She had her own log house now, connected by a covered passageway with the Samp cabin. It had gone up as by magic after Bruce had decided that she might stay.

Bruce had commanded her to keep out of sight till Hale had sailed and then—Hale hadn't sailed. The physician from Fairbanks had decided that it would be better where he was, had warned him against excitement, letting his temper get the best of him. Was his wife in love with Bruce Harcourt? Was he in love with her? Had Millicent Hale been one of the lures which kept him in this northern wilderness? Did she resent the presence in camp of another woman of his class?

What did Bruce Harcourt think of it all? He was rarely in the office. One day he would be up the inlet in the launch to inspect the damage done by the rise of a stream, next he would be off with a section-gang and a steam-shovel; perhaps before forty-eight hours had elapsed he would be miles away inspecting the work of a ditcher. Not once had he entered the Samp cabin which had become the evening rendezvous for the engineers. Why didn't he join them? Why did he treat Tubby Grant's secretary with distant courtesy? Her leisure time was full. Jimmy Chester was teaching her to shoot; Tubby was patiently training her to be a fairly efficient photographer; the geologist with a hammer and a pickaxe showed her how to get at the secrets of the rocks and had concealed pebbles and rocks had concealed within them. What fun she and Bruce might have together.

The ring of the telephone brought her iridescent day-dream and the front legs of her chair down in a simultaneous crash. She answered the call.

"Office."

"Hale speaking. Is this Miss Trent?"

"Yes."

"Will you take pity on a poor duffer who's been forbidden to write for who's a letter or two for me?"

"Certainly, Mr. Hale. When?"

"At once if you will. I want it ready to go in the first plane that takes off."

"I will come."

Adolf—Adolf, I am here.
Yank—I'll be seeing you.
Yank—and sooner than you think! I hear you've been having a disagreeable winter.
Adolf—I can't be intimidated by weather.
Yank—That ain't the way I heard it.

Adolf—Bah! You're green and untrained. You represent a capitalistic nation. You are soft and flabby.
Yank—The voice is the voice of Adolf but the words are the words of Wilhelm.

Adolf—Where are you?
Yank—Wouldn't you like to know?
Adolf—I'll find out.
Adolf—You bet. From now on I'll be in constant touch.
Adolf—I suppose you realize you are up against an unbeatable army.
Yank—Nix on that. I read that news from Russia.
Adolf—Russia, phooey! I'm not finished with her yet.

Yank—Boy, how you wish you were! Lissen, Adolf, how's your nervous breakdown coming along?
Adolf—That was all newspaper talk. I have no nervous breakdown.
Yank—I'll see that you get one now! Are you still wearing that uniform you were never going to take off until you had licked the world?
Adolf—Jal Ja!

Yank—I didn't know cooties could stay so long in one place. Say, why don't you get wise and sue for peace?
Adolf—Me sue for peace! I've got the world under my heel.
Yank—All I got from that sentence was your name.
Adolf—What name?
Yank—Heel.

Adolf—Nincompoop! I consider you too small for me to notice.
Yank—If you think you look oversized you're crazy. How are your generals?
Adolf—Don't worry about my generals.
Yank—If you ain't worried why should I be?
Adolf—I'm itching to get a crack at you.

Yank—You're a poor judge of what causes those itches, Adolf. And, lissen, I've got a proposition for a partner of yours. It's an offer for Mussolini. Hollywood wants him in Keystone comedy revivals.
Adolf—He'd be no funnier there than he is here!

Yank—Why do you get all your partners out of vaudeville? Benito could have come from no place else. And now you're trying up with Japanese acrobats.
Adolf—You'd better not disparage my acrobats. They're putting on quite an act.
Yank—They crossed us by coming on during intermission. A year from now they won't even be able to get bookings in Perth Amboy.

Adolf—You amuse me.
Yank—You'll laugh all over when you see what I've brought over for you.
Adolf—What is it?
Yank—A bucksaw.
Adolf—What would I do with a bucksaw?
Yank—You'll find out!

One of the most encouraging signs at Washington is the gradual disappearance of all those boys who were suddenly thrown off the stalling standard.

An engineer says red lights should be used during a blackout. Not, we hope, in the theory that anybody pay attention to them.

TO YOUR Good Health

by DR. NATHAN S. DAVIS, III

RHEUMATIC VALVULAR HEART DISEASE

Valvular heart disease, which causes "leaky valves," is usually due to an infection of the lining of the heart and its valves (endocarditis) which develops as a complication of one of the "rheumatic diseases." Of this group, acute rheumatic fever is the one most apt to be complicated by rheumatic valvular heart disease. Other "rheumatic diseases" are St. Vitus Dance (chorea), scarlet fever, "growing pains," tonsillitis or sinusitis. The organism that causes the heart disease is a type of streptococcus.

During the active stage of the disease, the heart muscle and the covering of the heart (pericardium) are also involved in most instances. The scarring in the heart muscle may lessen its efficiency and scars in the pericardium may also limit its effectiveness. The "rheumatic diseases," with the exception of scarlet fever, do not confer an immunity and reinfections or relapses are quite common and may appear soon after or many years after the first attack. The heart is often again involved and may not be able to combat the infection as it did the first time and a very serious condition (subacute or malignant bacterial endocarditis) may arise on the scarred valves or the heart muscle may be so weakened that it can no longer function normally, and congestive heart failure with dropsy, may develop.

On the other hand, there may be no reinfection of the valve, and the patient may get along very comfortably with little if any limitation of activity, for many years. Finally, following a severe "cold" or other acute infection which damages the heart muscle, the symptoms of heart failure may develop. By that time, usually 20 to 30 years after the simple endocarditis healed, the patient is old enough to have some hardening and narrowing of the coronary arteries (those supplying the heart muscle) and the scarring of the heart muscle that results, to complicate the picture.

Doctors in describing the murmurs that are characteristic of healed rheumatic valvular heart disease, call them "systolic" if they occur while the heart is contracting and emptying; "diastolic" if they occur while it is dilating and filling. But all murmurs are not due to valvular heart disease or to other conditions that may cause "leaky valves." Most of the murmurs that occur while the heart is filling with blood during diastole, are due to organic change in a valve; but many of those occurring during systole, while it is emptying, are functional and of no consequence. Too many people have in the past been led to believe they had heart disease when the only indication was a systolic murmur. Many in their teens and early twenties whose hearts are perfectly normal have such murmurs. Some of them may be due to congenital abnormalities which are so slight that they in no way limit the functional capacity of the heart.

Yet such a functional murmur may make it difficult to get life insurance; may prevent participation in athletics or in the armed forces because they sound so much like those due to organic disease. Whichever type you may have, don't worry about it as long as you can carry on your ordinary duties without discomfort. When you find that it does interfere with such activities, see your doctor and live as he tells you to.

"Pain is the fire alarm of danger, but stopping the alarm does not put out the fire."

QUESTION BOX
Send questions to Dr. Nathan S. Davis III, Winnetka, Ill. (Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

Q.—What would you advise to relieve excessive belching? F. G.
A.—Stop swallowing air. Eat more slowly, chew your food longer.

Q.—What would you advise to relieve excessive perspiration of the feet? H. K.
A.—Wash them thoroughly every night. Change socks or stockings daily and preferably wear wool ones. Don't wear the same shoes two days in succession.

Q.—What causes extra-heart systoles? D. S.
A.—Usually a spot in the ventricle is sensitive and causes the ventricular muscle to contract before the regular stimulus reaches it.

Q.—Does smoking on the part of young boys or especially young girls have any detrimental effects on the health? M. O.
A.—It makes them nervous and interferes with appetite and with digestion. Young people and old ones are more susceptible to the effects of tobacco than are those who are mature.

FARM BUILDING MEETINGS

Two farm building and remodeling meetings will be held in Washington county, on Friday, Feb. 27. These are meetings to which you may bring your farm building problems. Max J. LaRock, farm building specialist, of the College of Agriculture and L. O. Hanson, a representative of the Portland Cement association, will be present to discuss timely building topics. Briefly the program follows:

Farm Building Plans including Insulation, Ventilation and Remodeling, by Max J. LaRock.

"Silo Construction, Repairs and the Making and Storing of Grass Silage," by L. O. Hanson.

Colored movies, slides and illustrative materials will be used to make the discussions instructive and interesting.

If you are interested in knowing how you can renew the acid eaten inside of your silo, or how you can keep your poultry house floor dry, or how grass silage can best be made you will want to attend the farm building meeting.

To give all farmers of the county who are interested an opportunity to attend, two meetings will be held. One meeting will be held on Friday afternoon, Feb. 27, in the city hall at Hartford. This meeting will begin at 2 o'clock. The other meeting will begin at 8 o'clock in the evening and will be held in the village hall at Jackson.

machine on the farm and order all the repairs that will be needed this year. These should be ordered now, not later, since federal officials have explained that allotments of materials for repairs a few months from now will depend on the volume of repair orders received now. Unless orders are sent in immediately the repair parts may not be available later on.

The check-up which Duffee urges is a complete systematic examination of each and every machine. "Examine all bearings, shafting, gears, chains and sprockets, cutting mechanisms, canvasses, etc., and replace all parts where there is any doubt at all as to whether they will last through the season."

POTATO AND SOIL IMPROVEMENT MEETINGS FEB. 24

At the suggestion of a number of Washington county potato growers, two potato improvement meetings to discuss cultural practices and the need for as well as ways of obtaining new seed stock will be held. Soil erosion problems will also receive emphasis at these meetings. The speakers will be J. G. Milward, potato specialist, and O. R. Zeaman, soil conservationist. Both are from the College of Agriculture, Agricultural Agent E. E. Skalskey will speak on the seed potato situation. Any one wishing to secure new potato seed stock will find it profitable to attend the nearest of the two meetings. The afternoon meeting beginning at 2 o'clock will be held in Boettcher's hall, Kohlsville, and the evening meeting beginning at 8:00 o'clock will be held at Schuster's hall, Rockfield. Both meetings will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 24.

BEGIN ORCHARD CARE EARLY

Fruit growers should make a special effort this year to prune out all dead, unproductive, and weak branches. High dense tops should be lowered and pruned back so that some sunlight may penetrate the interior of the tree. All branches thus removed should be immediately taken from the orchard and burned. This precaution will destroy countless numbers of scab spores and many insects which hibernate beneath the bark of the tree.

When pruning out all branches close to the main limb, make the cut so that it will be flush with the main limb. It is well to cover all cuts with a good tree paint such as asphaltum.

When pruning do not remove all of the annual growth twigs. Remove only those that are crowding each other. These sprouts are valuable especially on the lower branches. They can be trained and in a few years be made to bear fruit. They bear larger and better fruit than the older slow growing branches on aged trees.

Nursery stock such as apple, cherry, plum and other fruit trees as well as berries, grapes, etc. should be ordered early in order to obtain the best stock. Those who plan on using a nitrogen fertilizer should also make their purchases as early as possible.

EXTENSION WORKERS OF SOUTHEASTERN WISCONSIN MEET AT WEST BEND

A district meeting of agricultural and home economics extension workers was held in the Wisconsin Gas & Electric building in West Bend on Thursday of this week. All agricultural and home economics agents in southeastern Wisconsin counties were in attendance. Ray Pallett, Miss Blanche Lee and I. W. CHECK AND REPAIR FARM MACHINERY NOW

"Every piece of farm machinery in condition, right down to and including greasing and oiling, ready to start before spring work begins."

That is a big order as well as something new for folks to be working at now and to finish before spring, but that is what Floyd Duffee, head of the agricultural engineering department at the College of Agriculture, says should be done if folks are to solve the machinery and labor shortage.

Due to the need for metal in the war effort, Duffee says that it is not just a matter of "repair" but it means that "we will need to thoroughly recondition, rebuild and adjust every machine that is at all serviceable and every machine that is not needed on that farm should be made available to a farmer that does need it."

The first order of business for this season then is to check over every

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

Navy Reveals Damage to Jap Isles; Senate Again Acts on Price Control; LaGuardia Quits OCD, Landis New Head; Normandie Creates Problem for Navy

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

RAID: On Japs

After two weeks of censorship the Pacific fleet command allowed news men to disclose the amount of damage inflicted by the U. S. navy in their spectacular attack on the Japanese Marshall and Gilbert islands.

These reports indicated that with the loss of only 11 U. S. aircraft, plus a minor bomb hit on one cruiser, and with a small loss of life units of the American fleet accomplished the following:

Destroyed four military air bases. Destroyed two military villages. Destroyed four radio stations. Sank at least 16 Jap ships, including a modern cruiser, two submarines and a 17,000-ton liner.

Damaged at least eight other Jap ships.

In addition to an undetermined number destroyed on the ground, the Japs lost 38 aircraft, including fighters and bombers.

Described as almost perfect timing and executed with speed and daring the raid was the first big answer to the often asked question, "Where is the fleet?"

CONSUMERS: Face Living Costs

It was apparent that the price control bill, which had prevented inflation of certain farm prices, was going to be subject to changes that might bring a big rise in the cost of some items.

The senate agriculture committee had unanimously approved a bill to weed the "frills and furbelows" out of the program.

Senator Byrd, Virginia, keynoted this move by demanding that the OCD send his committee a list of all OCD employees getting over $3,000 a year, and outlining their specific duties.

Other divisions were on the island, keeping communications open, and it had been reported that reinforcements for the Japs were constantly arriving, thus steadily increasing the pressure on the American-Filipino army.

The anti-aircraft fire of MacArthur's men had continued good, the bag of seven planes in one day comparing favorably with other fronts where the United Nations had many more serviceable aircraft than did the defenders of Luzon.

Captured prisoners and other methods of gaining information revealed that five Japanese divisions had been identified as taking part in the battle, which would bring the estimated strength of the Japs actually on the front battle-line at close to 100,000 men.

Other divisions were on the island, keeping communications open, and it had been reported that reinforcements for the Japs were constantly arriving, thus steadily increasing the pressure on the American-Filipino army.

Whether carelessness, sabotage or Fate was responsible, the 83,000-ton Normandie, former luxury liner and now the naval auxiliary Lafayette, lay on her enormous beam-ends in 40 feet of water and 12 feet of mud at her dock in New York, an $80,000,000 salvage job for the U. S. navy.

Twenty-two hundred men were at work inside of her, changing her over from peacetime to wartime uses when a welder's torch started a fire. Within minutes it was out of control.

The long, narrow peninsula of Malaya, difficult terrain, had apparently presented enormous invasion problems. The Japs had solved these by using small boats, many of them commandeered or captured, and sending small, well-armed, and highly mobile detachments, first down the east coast, then down the west, making landings by night, and infiltrating behind the defenders.

Each time the British were able to make a swift withdrawal, and to salvage their main forces, but each time they lost ground, until they were finally driven back across the Johore causeway into the Singapore island.

Literally scores of "bites" had been taken out of each coastline by this Japanese technique during their advance southward. At the same time the Japs had sent another large force to drive westward from the top of the peninsula in an effort to cut off the Burma road, but more important, to protect their own rear.

Miami: A federal judge refused permission for a Standard Oil company to reimport tires sold to Cuba and equip their rolling stock with them.

Washington: The U. S. Chamber of Commerce requested soft coal users to build up their stocks as large as possible.

Washington: President Roosevelt defended the Farm Security administration as an agency essential to a successful war effort, but said he was highly displeased to learn that the FSA had been paying poll taxes for poor farmers in the South.

Churchill had revamped his cabinet, and though the changes he made were not received with much favor, his own personal popularity continued unabated, and the general sentiment seemed to be to let the future decide whether the changes were worthwhile.

Arrival in New Zealand of the first units of Admiral Leary's naval forces heralded, according to newsmen who accompanied the fleet, the establishment of a supply line for the United States.

It also was revealed that the attack by a fleet task force of the Japanese mandated Gilbert and Marshall islands was a part of this general movement which was believed to be bringing the American strength more closely to the field of battle.

Many felt that victories so far won by Nippon were entirely a reflection of certain elements in warfare such as mastery of the air, naval supremacy at the scene of action, time spent working out the invasion in advance of the striking moment.

Chief hope at present of the Dutch in captured territory was the report of successful guerrilla action which had really been the answer to the loss by Japan of any real victory in the war with China. One Dutch authority had said:

"Nowhere do the Japs feel safe. Our men behind their lines are picking them off, two today, ten tomorrow, and the toll is mounting and steady. This guerrilla war is being fought in an incessant downpour of rain."

Although there was little evidence of a slackening of the general Japanese advance through the island empire of the Southwest Pacific, it seemed that as the days wore on, the main battle lines were drawing closer together.

Standing upright in a hail of bullets at Dakar, in the three-day battle of September, 1940, he shepherded to safety a number of members of the French chamber of deputies, trying a bloodless seizure of the key port of French West Africa. He was seriously wounded by a bullet in his thigh, when ordering his command to resist arrest. His party gained the shelter of their escort ship. Since then he has been steadily rising in authority in the Free French world campaign. His career is a thread of high romance in a tale still in the weaving.

As a matter of fact, the British have taken him seriously for many years. They have chased him on foot and on horseback, with planes and armored cars, with an army of 40,000 soldiers, and with everything but bloodhounds. But he has always slipped just out of reach. He has been known as "The Holy Man of the Suleiman Mountains," and among the tribesmen the legend grows that he can do a clever disappearing act when the police are closing in.

Although he is now only 41 years old, he has been a practicing hell-raiser for 20 years, one of the best in the business. He grew up in the bazaars of Peshawar in northwest India, a coolie, and the son of a camel driver. He has led border tribes in several violent uprisings, notably in 1931 and 1932. His Pathian raiders have been notoriously bloodthirsty.

News reports are that Axis agents are gearing him in widely organized radio campaigns.

A FIGHTING priest, becoming an admiral, is assigned command of the French possessions in the Pacific, by the Free French National committee in London. As a priest, he is the studious and ascetic Father Louis de la Trinite of the Carmelite friars. In his naval command he is Admiral George Thierry d'Argenlieu. He was imprisoned by the Germans at Cherbourg in June, 1940, and, while being taken to prison camp, leaped from a train, escaped to London and became a member of the Free French National council.

Recently an office friend of mine was showing a huge bomb splinter he had picked up at Pearl Harbor after the bombardment. A New Yorker who was present remarked: "Strange to meet the old Sixth Avenue L in this shape."

When it was learned that the only witness to the death of Nazi General Von Reichenau, who was reported officially to have died of apoplexy, was the Gestapo, Bob Armstrong, one of my former colleagues, suggested that what the general died of was Gestapoplexy.

The Government Printing Office is rationing itself. The wrapper in which the Congressional Record is wrapped has been reduced one-third. Now if congressmen would only ration their words.

Undersecretary of State Welles told a press conference reports of the Greek famine had been reaching this government for a long time by first hand observers.

—Baukhage

Matsuo Kato, representative of the Japanese Domei news agency, was standing with an American newspaper man at the Press Club bar here in Washington. The American said: "You ought to be grateful to us for sending all this scrap over to you, Kato."

The Jap hesitated and then without the vestige of a smile, answered: "Oh, yes. Maybe we send it back to you soon."

The remark sounded more amusing at the time than it does now.

SPY RAIDS: On West Coast

TWO BUDDHIST PRIESTS TAKEN

Weren't always praying . . .

More and more Japanese continued to be caught in the nets spread along the West coast by the FBI.

The spy raids were being carried out almost daily by the G-men, who in one raid got 20 alleged spies and saboteurs and a truckload of ammunition and weapons.

Chief concentration of the raids was in Pacific coast counties where there were large military establishments.

At Salinas, Calif., following the questioning of several Japs taken into custody at a large lettuce farm, one of them turned out to be a former chief of police in Tokyo.

Another was formerly a high official in the same police force.

A raid on a Buddhist temple in Monterey county yielded three priests. All of them had been in this country only a few months.

In a sporting goods store, about to purchase firearms, a former Japanese bootlegger with a police record was taken into custody.

It was here that a whole truckload of ammunition, rifles, shotguns, etc., was seized, together with the proprietor, a Japanese.

In 45 places searched, the yield was, among other things, 60,845 rounds of ammunition.

TEA: Panic Buying

A new U. S. agency had been formed to handle the tea situation which developed after grocers were appalled to find customers ordering tea in five-pound lots.

The panic in buying followed similar lines to that in sugar, and which had resulted in the setting up of a sugar rationing plan.

As more or less a natural outcome of the news from the tea-growing areas, WPB began to get reports of "five-pound tea buying" from all sections of the country, and it was regarded as essential that rationing be adopted if the buying panic had not been stopped voluntarily.

In the sugar situation, cases of prosecution began to pop up, one chain store manager, trying to make a sales record for himself, having disposed of 31,000 pounds of sugar, allegedly to illicit still operators. He was fined $500.

DUTCH: Under Pressure

Complaints from the Netherlands East Indies command that too much of the naval force of the United Nations was engaged in "non-combatant work" came as the Dutch faced a pincers movement against Sourabaya and the fear of a frontal attack on Java generally.

It was evident, said the Dutch leaders, that a giant pincers move was being directed at Java when the Japs landed in Celebes island, which formed the tip of the right flank of the Javanese defense line.

At the same time Axis sources had reported that the Japanese were demanding the surrender by the Dutch of all the East Indies, together with their oil supplies, in return for which the islands would be technically left as Dutch possessions.

Dutch sources said, however, that no Japanese proposal would be entertained, and they continued their "scorched earth" policy of destroying all oil installations before abandoning any property to the Japs.

Despite the costly losses inflicted on the enemy in Macassar strait last month, the Japs evidently had been able to make successful landings there.

Chief hope at present of the Dutch in captured territory was the report of successful guerrilla action which had really been the answer to the loss by Japan of any real victory in the war with China. One Dutch authority had said:

"Nowhere do the Japs feel safe. Our men behind their lines are picking them off, two today, ten tomorrow, and the toll is mounting and steady. This guerrilla war is being fought in an incessant downpour of rain."

CLOSER: Draw Lines of War

Though there was little evidence of a slackening of the general Japanese advance through the island empire of the Southwest Pacific, it seemed that as the days wore on, the main battle lines were drawing closer together.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—In the years between the two world wars, Dr. Winifred V. Richmond of St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington, D. C., devoted intensive research to war psychology on the mind and personality of the young. She became a leading authority in this field and, in her work today offers unique and highly informed conclusions as to how to safeguard children, particularly adolescents in the intensifying psychological war.

Stabilize Parent, Rather Than Child, Psychologist Says

The problem, she finds, is largely the stabilization of parents rather than the young. She cites primitive cultures. Primitive man takes his horrors in his stride. He has a physical and emotional equipment to meet them. He doesn't crack up, and neither do his children. Young children get emotional security from their elders. Such is Dr. Richmond's drift in her many books and articles, the latest of which is her newly published book, "Making the Most of Your Personality."

Within the last few decades she has examined countless children in the twilight zone of near-emotional and psychological collapse. She has saved or helped to save many of them. Her findings are compiled in her latest book, addressed to both parents and adolescents. Safeguarding the children in the "war of nerves" is her campaign.

She is a devoted, gray-haired woman of science, born in Elizabeth, W. Va., in 1876, holding degrees from Ohio and Clark university. She taught 15 years, starting her career in a one-room country school, and moving on to the teaching of mental hygiene, and in wide fields of research, in many universities.

Another workout among the wild tribes of Afghanistan and northwestern India, having used his incendiary talents for years before the start of this war.

Kipling's "Man Who Would Be King," operating in the same territory, was just an old story in the mind to compare to the emaciated wild-eyed little man, with his hair dyed bright red and a yell that gives everybody a nervous breakdown for miles around. His dish is "scouring the Infidel British." He is the "Avenger of the Church of Islam," an ace troublemaker for the Germans and Japanese just now, with his skill in provoking murderous religious wars. The British take him seriously, as his inflammatory range is such that it might necessitate the withdrawal of troops from Burma and Bengal to guard the Khyber pass.

As a matter of fact, the British have taken him seriously for many years. It is an open secret that the high commands of the United Nations have agreed to postpone the hope of a general offensive for a year—possibly two.

Circumstances have forced the re-writing of the old military adage which says "The best defense is offense." The axis powers were prepared for war before they started fighting. The United Nations had to prepare after they started fighting. The axis powers choose their own time and place for battle. They have the initiative. For the United Nations, because they have no choice, the best offense is defense.

Besides preparation, the axis powers—Germany and Italy in Europe and Japan in Asia—have another advantage, geographical position. That is, their supply lines radiate out from their own or occupied territory, to the fronts on which they choose to fight.

Although the total naval power of the United Nations is greater than that of the axis, it is so widely spread that it cannot contact the enemy at any one point where the enemy is not superior. In places where the enemy lacks ships it more than makes up in air power.

When the United Nations have trained and equipped land forces and have constructed naval air forces superior in quantity to the axis they will have an even greater advantage than mere numbers of effective man power. Then they will be able to take the initiative and when the axis is placed on the defensive, the latter powers will have one of their advantages of today turned into a disadvantage, namely, their geographical positions. They will become prisoners to sea power.

Sea power will cut them off from the resources necessary for the armies and navies to carry on war, and food and fuel for the civilian populations to carry on life.

Raw Materials Will Count

The United Nations can build superior land, air and naval forces because they control more raw materials.

So, military experts say, the task of the United Nations is to remain on the defensive, wasting down as much of the enemy's power as possible while building up their own. Holding as much ground as possible, but sacrificing territory which they do not need now in order to save manpower and supplies which they do need now. The territory can be won back by the United Nations. The manpower and supplies which the enemy loses cannot be replaced.

This is not a popular kind of warfare. It is the kind that makes the people rise up and demand new leaders to bring them quick victories. It makes armies and navies restive. It is bad for morale. But it is the only kind of warfare that the United Nations can engage in now. More haste on the battlefield will make less speed toward final victory.

According to this plan, the defenders of the Philippines, of Singapore, of the Netherlands Indies, must fight as long as they can. But their comrades cannot risk too much to help them. At least they cannot risk offense which might temporarily distract the enemy.

So we must expect more enemy victories. While we make over our civilian way of life into a military way of life we must expect to hear the cries of the defeated and the dying. While we sacrifice the things which the axis civilians began sacrificing long ago, we must expect our soldiers and sailors to sacrifice their lives.

The longer the war lasts and the fewer men and supplies we risk until we have so many equipped men and supplies that we can afford to risk them, the sooner our victories will begin. The longer we make the war now, the shorter it will be in the end.

Business Men Gets A New Friend and Adviser

Back in the hectic summer of 1933 when the Blue Eagle was spreading its wings—the NRA, if you have forgotten—had a strange experience.

I was standing in the corridor of the department of commerce where the NRA had its headquarters. The place was seething with business men all trying to find out what they could and could not do under the Blue Eagle. There were offices of information and guides and deputies and building guards trying to direct each worried business man to the place where he could (try to) find out what he wanted to know.

On this particular day a little man came in. He looked confused. He was most humble. The guards eyed him suspiciously and treated his request with doubt if not scorn. Finally he turned to me. "Sir," he said, "could you tell me—"

"What does your firm produce," I started to ask.

"Oh," he replied with a brightened look. "I'm just a consumer."

Today it is the producer and not the consumer who claims that he has been getting the run-around in Washington. Cognizant of this the President has turned to the man who established Washington's first national information bureau, as a result of needs of the NRA. His name is Lowell Mellett. He is one of those "anonymous advisors," one of the executive assistants to the President, a former newspaper man and friend of newspaper men. He runs the Office of Government Reports. His office sees all, knows all, that is happening in government. It publishes the United States Government Manual, one of the most comprehensive current guides to the government departments and agencies ever issued.

So now Lowell Mellett is going to head the clearing house of government information. When his Office of Government Reports is expanded, as it is to be under new orders from the President, this institution will be the guide, philosopher and friend of the wandering business man. No matter what your business with government is, you will come to Mr. Mellett's office and tell him your troubles. He will get hold of the man who knows the answer. That will save shoe-leather and patience, time and money.

Hereafter when you come to Washington you can tell your troubles to Mellett.

Curfew Law For Washington?

The department of justice has ordered a nine o'clock curfew law for alien enemies in the "vulnerable zone" which is a belt stretching from Oregon to Los Angeles and extending 150 miles inland. Strange lights flashing on the seacoast, weird stories of bombs that came near exploding under bridges and aqueducts, were the things that compelled this move.

But lights that go on and off late in the still night right here in Washington have been reported, too. But there are no alien enemies who are causing this temporary illumination in the witching hours, but hard-working japs employed by your Uncle Sam, according to Representative Wilson of Indiana.

Mr. Wilson says that all this must be stopped. He declares that these girls are promulgating the theory of "too little and too late"—too little sleep, too late hours. And so he has sponsored a plan for a curfew for government workers.

The tire shortage means more footwork. The National Council of Motor Truck Owners met recently in Washington to discuss the problem of delivering everything from the morning milk to the evening Sun when there won't be enough rubber to carry the load.

Recently an office friend of mine was showing a huge bomb splinter he had picked up at Pearl Harbor after the bombardment. A New Yorker who was present remarked: "Strange to meet the old Sixth Avenue L in this shape."

When it was learned that the only witness to the death of Nazi General Von Reichenau, who was reported officially to have died of apoplexy, was the Gestapo, Bob Armstrong, one of my former colleagues, suggested that what the general died of was Gestapoplexy.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

'Modernizing' Old Style Houses
SOME neighbors of mine have a brick house built about 60 years ago. It is square and chunky, with nothing in its design to make it attractive. It is of the period when ornaments and jigsaw work were the fashion, but that today makes it look hopelessly out-of-date. Its occupants knew that it could be made prettier, but were undecided as to how to go about it. They finally made a business of driving through all of the surrounding suburbs on the lookout for houses of somewhat the same proportion, that might give them ideas of what to do. It did not take them long to make up their minds. All of the jigsaw and ornamental work was stripped off, and the porch roof and columns were replaced by woodwork of modern design that they found at a lumber yard. The front door had been hardly more than a rectangular hole through the wall. This they replaced with a stock entrance of Colonial design, with a fan-light and side-lights opening on an entrance of the same design. This, and the trim of the house, which had been an ugly yellow, was repainted white. The effect of the house was completely changed. Instead of being an eyesore the house became one of the most attractive in the neighborhood, with a dignity that had been entirely lacking. The whole job took only three weeks, and the cost was less than a thousand dollars.

Rayon Fabrics Make Lounging Apparel to Fit Modest Budget

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WE'RE all so busy these days, we appreciate more than ever the few precious hours when we can relax. Smart, flattering clothes for stay-at-home moments add immeasurably to the enjoyment of playing at being a lady of leisure. Thanks to the many fine rayon fabrics now available, there is luxurious lounging wear this season within the reach of every woman's clothes budget.

Unless you have explored the possibilities of dramatic at-home costumes, you will have no idea what they can do for your looks and your morale. Whether you're a busy wife and mother, or a tailored career woman, or a defense worker who has worn a uniform or practical, functional clothes, a graceful lounging costume will transform you into a clinging vine in the twinkling of an eye. For informal entertaining, for instance, such formal fabrics as crush-resistant rayon velvet, soft rayon satin, and svelte rayon jersey are draped and molded into gracious hostess gowns and strikingly trousered. Bejeweled or unadorned, dramatic or appealing, these lovely styles reflect the trend towards luxurious effects.

For a quiet evening at home, or a quiet morning or afternoon, there are enchanting styles in house coats, lounging robes, and negligees that are not only comfortable but look as well in the dining room as they do in the boudoir. Rayon jersey and velvet reappear in these fashions, as do rustling rayon tafetas, smooth rayon crepes and smart spun rayons in novelty weaves. Wrap-around coat types are popular for the girl who likes her housecoat to do double duty as a dressing gown. The shirt-waist or round-necked styles look like frocks but have long concealed or zippered closings and may be slipped into with the greatest of ease. Any college girl who happens to be the possessor of a cozy quilted lounging coat of crisp rayon taffeta in a gay plaid like that pictured to the right in the above illustration will be the envy of her classmates as she fits about in the dormitory or cuddles up in a big "comfy" chair in her room. The tailored collar may be worn snugly closed on cool mornings and the wide skirt flares nicely from a slim sashed waistline. For extra warmth there are adaptable breakfast coats and lounging robes in luscious rayon taffeta, moire or satin, cosily quilted and cut on flattering fitted and flared lines with nice tailored details. For luxurious lounging the quilted housecoat centered in the picture above uses soft rayon satin in a colorful floral print. A snug set-in waistband with double-breasted buttoning accents the full, flared skirt. In a more intimate mood, matching gown and negligee sets in pastels and white are exquisite in fine rayon crepe or satin with lavish lace trim. With luxurious rayon fabrics providing exciting grandeur, glamour is the keynote for at-home fashions shown to the left in the picture above. This distinctive and gracious gown combines two high-fashion notes in its dramatic use of suave rayon jersey for fluid molded styling, plus a glorification of the sweater jacket for informal evening wear. In striking Chinese red, the soft rayon jersey is swathed snugly about the bodice and draped in sleek folds for the full, full skirt. Long sweeping lines are complemented by full bishop sleeves caught tight at the wrist. Brilliant red stones set in gold gleam from every square of the matching knit wool bolero with its shoulder-accenting cap sleeves. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Broken Roof Slates

Roof slates are secured by nails going through the upper ends, the nail heads being hidden by the slates of the course next above. There is always a little looseness in slates, and there may be breakage when the slates are rattled by a heavy wind. In replacing a slate, the nails cannot be reached because of the slates above. By one method a strip of sheet copper is used, eight or ten inches long and two inches or so wide. This is secured by nails at one end about half-way up the space left by the missing slate. The new slate is then put into place and is held there by bending the free end of the copper strip over its lower edge.

There is sometimes leakage through a slate roof when a heavy wind blows fine snow or rain under the slates. This can be prevented by raising the lower edge of each slate enough to put a dab of roofing cement underneath to secure it to the slate of the course below. This job is best done in warm weather when the roofing cement is plastic and spreads easily.

Cigarette Burn

Question: A mahogany table has been burned by a cigarette. I tried to remove the spot by rubbing with steel wool, but this left bare wood. How can this be refinished?

Answer: If that ever happens again, scrape the charred wood with a razor blade, which is better for the purpose than rubbing with steel wool. For a finish, put on two or three thin coats of quick drying varnish with a camel's hair brush to build up the depression to the level of the surrounding finish. Each coat of varnish should be hard before putting on the next.

Knotty Pine Finish

Question: How can knotty pine be finished to obtain a soft-mellow appearance?

Answer: The usual finish is liberal wiping with a half-and-half mixture of linseed oil and turpentine. After an hour or two for soaking in, wipe the surface dry. Repeat in two days. This will not check the mellowing that comes with age. Another good finish is penetrating wax, which can be had clear or tinted with wood colors. Either finish can be followed by waxing.

Damp Cellar

Question: Ten years ago I had my basement ceiling and sidewalls covered with chemically treated cement to keep water from seeping through. This has been satisfactory until now. I am having trouble again. What can I do to keep my basement dry? Answer: Age and dampness have destroyed the effectiveness of the cement. As this has lasted for ten years it has done very well, and your best move will be to have the treatment repeated.

Finish for Tile

Question: Last summer we put down a porch floor of quarry tile six inches square, with red mortar joints. At the time it was rubbed with linseed oil, but now it has smeared and the color is no longer pretty. How can it be brightened? Answer: Wiping with turpentine should clean the surface, which seems to be giving the trouble. With the tile clean and dry, put on two or three coats of paste wax, each well rubbed.

Headroom Above Boiler

Question: I have had my rotary oil burner taken out of the old coal burning furnace and installed in a new boiler designed for oil burning, and hope to save oil. I have read from time to time that there should be 18 inches headroom from top of boiler to the steam main. I should like your opinion as to how this installation will work out. Answer: The distance is figured from the boiler water level and not from the top of the boiler. This distance should be at least 18 inches.

For Leisure

The Stocking Future? It Couldn't Be Brighter

Just because there is a lull in the silk supply and a possible shortage of nylon because of "priorities," there's no reason to worry about hosiery futures. The inflow of stocking fashions that make use of cotton, lisle and spun rayon meshes is most heartening. You will be wanting a pair of the new tweed rayons to wear with your spring suit. Lisles and cottons come in ribbed effects and in small checks. We will probably be wearing dainty white cotton hose this summer, too. The thinnest of thin navy sheers are smart with navy suits. And nylons in a lace weave are also scheduled for summer.

Bolero

Here's good news for bolero lovers. It looks as though the bolero is going to win out as a special favorite this spring. One of its newer uses is with all "round pleated skirts. When it is worn with long-torso and slim princess dresses the bolero is very, very short.

Spring Tid-Bits

Pottery, shells and wooden blocks decorate the jewelry counters already laden with accessories for spring. There are pale beige shell necklaces and bracelets, shell brooches, wooden beads the color of sunlit sand, and some giddy wooden cylinders wrapped with cellophane.

Sequins

Colorful sequins add glamour to evening prints. A few dressy afternoon prints also reflect the sparkle of sequins. You'll love the new prints with huge realistic roses on black or navy grounds.

Picked Up in Studios of Style Designers

Have you seen the bright colored gabardine slacks, dresses and suits? It's no longer necessary to wear uncomfortable shoes for the sake of fashion, because they are no longer fashionable. The spring collections feature shoes designed for comfort. The fact is, however, that one of the most light-hearted designers of women's hats is getting out what he calls a "safe and sane" collection.

LEAVES from Uncle Sam's Notebook

WNU Service by HARRIET MAY WILSON

A Bit About Sheep-Raising

The first thing which any agriculturist asks himself when he contemplates any new enterprise is, "What may one expect, reasonably, as a return from such an enterprise?" It may be said, therefore, that in a government bulletin which was revised in 1934, it is stated that "the gross annual returns from ewes of breeding age may be expected to range from $4 to $10 a head, depending upon the percentage of lambs raised, the weights of the fleeces, and the values of these products. With ewes of any one of the medium-sized mutton breeds, 115 lambs per 100 ewes can be raised. . . . The wool returns vary from 7 to 11 pounds per ewe, the larger mutton breeds yielding more, as do also the fine wools. It is, as a matter of fact, impossible to say that the average flock will yield any given profit, but the bulletin just quoted says, further, that in comparison with cattle and swine, sheep can be made to yield practically the same per returns on the value of the land, if well cared for and if kept on lands reasonably well adapted for sheep.

BUILDINGS AND FENCES REQUIRED

The main requirements in practically any part of the United States, for success with sheep, are barns which are dry and free from drafts. If lambs are to be dropped after cold weather is past, it will not be necessary to provide warmth. Naturally, protection must be given from winter rains and heavy snows, but the best results will be obtained if ewes are given access to dry beds in the open. Sheep, in an enclosed place, have a tendency to bunch, with the weaker ones going down and being trampled—hence the advisability of open quarters. As to fences, they should be of woven (not barbed) wire, or boards or rails. For a full discussion of barns, sheds, and dog-proof fences for sheep, secure (for five cents) Farmers Bulletin No. 810, "Equipment for Sheep Raising." This may be had from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C.

THE LABOR REQUIRED IN RAISING SHEEP

Although the amount of labor required in sheep-raising is small in proportion to that required with other livestock, the growing of sheep should not be engaged in with the idea that they can get along without attention, or with a mere minimum. The flock can never be neglected if it is to be kept in good and productive condition. Moreover, it must be expected that at lambing time constant care—often, day-and-night care—is required. It should be noted, however, that the raising of sheep is a department of livestock raising to which women seem particularly adapted.

SELECTION OF STOCK AND SIZE OF FLOCK

For the inexperienced sheep-raiser, it is the part of wisdom to begin with grade ewes and a pure-bred ram. The breed chosen will depend largely upon the pasture and feeds which are available and upon the system of farming to be followed. It is extremely advantageous that all—or nearly all—of the farms in a given neighborhood keep the same breed of sheep. Like many other farm enterprises, sheep-raising can be done effectively and profitably by means of co-operative associations.

Concerning the size of the flock

It must be said that the beginner will be wise to start with a small flock. The smallest number of ewes which can be handled profitably is about 30, and, in most cases, a flock of 60 can be handled more economically than a smaller number.

WHEN TO START THE FLOCK

As a rule, ewes can be procured most readily in late summer or early fall, which makes that season of year most favorable for starting a flock. Moreover, when they are purchased at that time of year they can be fed economically for some time on meadows, stubble fields or late-sown forage crops.

WINTER FEED FOR THE FLOCK

Sheep should be supplied with leguminous feeds such as clover, alfalfa, or cowpea hay and feeds of that sort will not require to be supplemented until near lambing time. Succulent foods such as roots or silage are desirable for keeping the ewes in good health but in feeding silage care must be taken to prevent the feeding of moldy, spoiled or frozen silage.

If further information is desired, send five cents to Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., asking for Farmers' Bulletin No. 840.

THE CACTUS DAHLIA

The cactus dahlia is so called because of its resemblance to the scarlet-lowered cactus, Cereus speciosissimus. This beautiful dahlia appeared as a variant in 1879 and immediately aroused interest.

THE ALLIGATOR

The name, "alligator" is a corruption of the Spanish words, "el lagarto," meaning "the lizard." However, scientists say that the alligator is really just as closely allied to the birds as it is to the lizards.

FERN OR WILD GARDENS

Any portion of the garden where the soil is well-drained, usually acid, retentive of moisture and well-filled with leaf mold will make a good fern or wild garden, especially if it is partly shaded. Ferns and wild flowers do well in such a spot.

BLUE-FOX FUR

A recent government bulletin specifies that if a pelt is "prime" the under side will be fairly white or cream-colored and will show some "life" when it is handled.

WOMEN REPRESENTATIVES ADDED TO COUNCIL OF DEFENSE COMMITTEES

The organization of the Washington County Council of Defense was completed last week with the addition of women representatives throughout the county.

The principal duty of the new members at the present time will be to give such advice and information as they may be called upon to submit to 'drive' chairmen. Also, they are to consider ways and means by which the council of defense may give the most help in our war efforts.

As stated in the original objectives and purposes of the Washington County Council of Defense, it will continue to function as a co-ordinating and supplementary organization to back up all war emergency projects. The new members, along with the original appointees, will stand ready as a group, or as individuals, to swing into action in case the need develops in order to complete any drive or special assignment. Every individual member, therefore, must be ready to lend a hand and do what is necessary on any defense project thereby providing an insurance that no emergency project in Washington county will fail.

The executive committee which previously consisted of 12 men has now been enlarged to include six outstanding county women, bringing the total of the executive committee to eighteen.

Those selected for this committee are: Mrs. Otto Lay, Kewaskum; Mrs. Fred Baxter and Mrs. Elmer Eberhardt, West Bend; Mrs. F. W. Sachse and Mrs. Gilbert Mahr, Hartford; Mrs. John A. Schwalbach, Germantown.

Women were also appointed to represent every precinct in the county as well as important women's activities. A complete list of these new council of defense workers are as follows:

VILLAGES—Kewaskum, Mrs. Clifford Rose; Slinger, Mrs. K. F. Prefontaine; Jackson, Mrs. E. L. Rosenheimer; Germantown, Mrs. Harold Schaezel; Barton, Mrs. C. C. Kirchner.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS—1. Mrs. Charles Miller, Kewaskum; 2. Mrs. Oliver Reese, Hartford; 3. Miss Lillie Westemberger, Hartford; 4. Mrs. C. A. Collins, West Bend; 5. Mrs. E. J. Altendorf, West Bend.

With the completion of the council of defense organization, we believe that Washington county has one of the strongest county councils in the state if not in the nation. Every individual does his part on his particular committee or committee; we are confident that our county will do more than its part in every home front activity. Through the cooperation of every citizen as well as committee worker, we will succeed. No assignment will be impossible. Let's go forward together.

ADDITIONAL APPOINTMENTS TO PERMANENT COMMITTEES

The committee of health and welfare has been enlarged to include representation from the dental profession. The new members are: Dr. Walter Monroe, Hartford, and Dr. J. P. Baumgartner, of West Bend. This same committee, Mrs. Gilbert Mahr was also appointed to co-ordinate the volunteer nursing activities in the city of Hartford.

Herbert Lapien from the town of Hartford and Elmer Eberhardt from the city of West Bend were added to the county planning committee.
