Maedke's son, who is employed by the Kewaskum Aluminum company, drove to this village to notify Deputy Sheriff Carl E. Schaefer, Fond du Lac county authorities were informed and by the time Capt. Anton Rafenstein of the traffic department of that county arrived at the farm the next morning the calves had been returned. Officers intended to question a suspect when he could be located.

Eternal War on Elements

Protection against the ravages of dust, salt air, moisture and storm, is a never-ending battle for engineers of the spectacular $35,000,000 Golden Gate bridge, which links San Francisco with northward Redwood Empire counties and the Pacific Northwest. The following series of pictures will give you an idea of the enormity of the undertaking.

Above: Twenty experienced painters working daily daub 8,000 gallons of paint annually on 100,000 tons of structural steel and 80,000 miles of tough wire cables in an effort to prevent deterioration of the world's tallest and longest single span suspension bridge. Right: Seven hundred forty-six feet above Golden Gate, two men inspect main "saddles" and weatherproof shrouds of the 36 1/2 inch diameter steel cables.

Sentinel of the Pacific, perpetual tribute to modern engineering skill, the Golden Gate bridge (above) tests the ingenuity of man to combat time and weather. A mighty battleship passes beneath the majestic structure.

Left: Hundreds of feet below the tops of the main cable towers, the 6-lane motor vehicle, plus two pedestrian walks, carry a heavy volume of traffic, 266 feet above the water, to and from Redwood Empire counties.

Looking through engineer's transit to determine horizontal and vertical deflection—said to vary as much as 7 feet during severe storms.

Thermometers record temperature which has a direct bearing on expansion and contraction of the bridge.

No Railroad for Him

English resistance to the railroads came principally from the landlord class. Craven Fitzhardinge, Berkeley, a member of parliament from Cheltenham, remarked: "Nothing is more distasteful to me than to hear the echo of our hills reverberating with the noise of hissing railroad engines running through the heart of our hunting country, and destroying that noble sport to which I have been accustomed from my childhood."

Fresh Water for Birds

Birds need water and, if the room is 32 degrees F., or above, it is advisable to supply fresh water every few hours. Water should be tepid or at least warmer than the room in which you keep your birds. If you have ever noticed birds you will note that if the water is very cold, one sip is enough; if the chill has been taken off, they will drink more. Figuratively speaking, they need their "eight glasses" of water daily the same as we do.

OUR COMIC SECTION

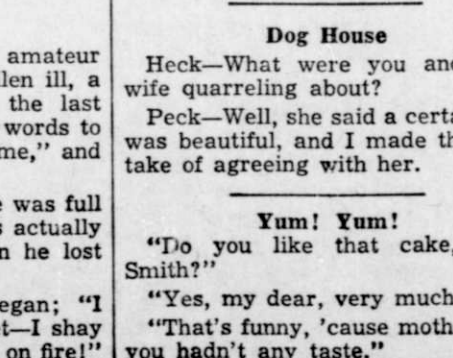

Jimmy—Kate's gowns always seem to fit her perfectly.
Myrtle—Yes, but as a matter of fact they don't fit her, she fits them.

As a member of an amateur dramatic company had fallen ill, a substitute was sought at the last moment. He had only six words to say: "I see a sheet of flame," and he soon learned them.

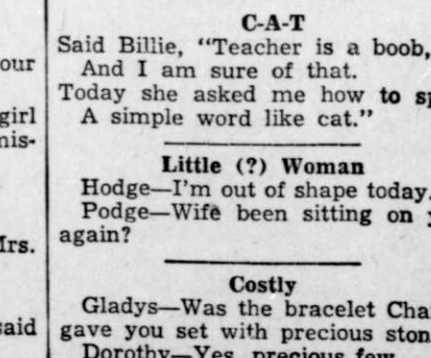

A supposedly haunted house had been converted into an emergency first aid post. The staff were so keen that the thought of ghosts didn't worry them.

Heck—What were you and your wife quarreling about?
Peck—Well, she said a certain girl was beautiful, and I made the mistake of agreeing with her.

Mrs. Nagg—I've talked to you till I'm tired, and what good does it do?
Mr. Nagg—None! You talk just as much as ever.

Said Billie, "Teacher is a boob, and I am sure of that. Today she asked me how to spell a simple word like cat."
Little (?) Woman Hodge—I'm out of shape today. Podge—Wife been sitting on you again?

THE STUDY OF A MINUTE MAN

The Minute Man came into being at Concord and Lexington. He was so called because the question of hours didn't bother him when trying to win a war.

With him a minute was 60 seconds and even if it ran into 62 he didn't demand overtime.

When his country wanted him, a minute's notice was plenty. He was so loyal he would even take your version of what time it was.

The Minute Man was a Minute Man and never a Four-Minute Egg. He realized that a minute is a long time when somebody's life is at stake.

He knew a minute was 60 seconds and not subject to change without notice. He knew there were 60 minutes in an hour but he acted as diligently as if he were afraid there might be only 59.

He stood ready to fight at a minute's notice but didn't squawk if he got only 30 seconds.

He never put off till the morning the bull's-eye he could make today.

He never heard of the word complacency, but if it had been explained to him he would have thought himself guilty if he had stopped to look around between shots.

His slogan was, "Don't shoot till you see the whites of their eyes!" but he gets 'em now when he senses the black of their hearts.

When life and liberty were involved he knew no form of compromise that didn't depend on marksmanship. The Minute Man hadn't even a half second for an appeaser.

He was no luxury hound even when the going was good, and when the going was tough he thought he was well fixed if he had a fair supply of dry powder and bullets.

He never left to any committee, agency or board anything he could do himself.

He never confused an attack with an appropriation.

To a Minute Man every minute counted in the job of licking the foe and he never argued over hours.

He didn't worry about the peace until he had won the fight.

It never entered his head that he could do his duty in a free-for-all fight by buying some stamps, appearing at a benefit or offering to spend two hours on a roof every other week, unless he was over 60. Nothing would have disturbed him less than a reduction in luxury transportation, less rubber in his suspenders and a room in which the temperature got below 70.

He knew all the Indians were in the woods and not in his legislative bodies. He was brave and rugged but he thought one war at a time was enough.

He never called his fight a "defense" effort and was always out to lick the fellow who started the trouble.

He didn't need long and frequent speeches to make him understand he was in a battle.

In his most desperate minutes the Minute Man never gave any part of a minute to worrying about his morale. It would have taken too many hours.

The Minute Man was an all-year-round man every second.

NO DETOURS
I cannot buy a radio,
I've got to scrimp on gas,
My tires they are going fast,

County Agent Notes

POTATO SEED GETTING SCARCE

The supply of northern grown and of certified seed potatoes is limited this year. Several northern counties formerly producing many bushels of seed potatoes were unable to certify their seed stock last fall because of potato blight. Any one wishing to purchase northern grown seed potatoes should do so at once. They may not be available later on towards planting time.

FERTILIZER TESTING SERVICE

Soil workers will apply commercial fertilizers or lime this spring should have a test made of the soil before such fertilizer or lime is applied. Often applications are made on fields which really do not need these extra plant foods. Other times the improper fertilizer is applied. A soil test will tell you what additional plant foods your soil may need. Fertilizer recommendations accompanying these tests will suggest the more economical fertilizer to apply. Soil tests are made without charge. All one needs to do is to collect and dry the soil samples and bring them to the county extension office in the West Bend post office building. About one cupful of soil makes a suitable sample. Each sample should be so collected that it represents a good mixture of the soil in that part of the field or garden.

GOOD PASTURES—THEY ARE WORTH DOLLARS

War emergency demands for large increases in the production of milk, livestock, and livestock products call for a program of increased production of forage crops and pastures. Leading farmers from all sections of Washington county, meeting at Schuck's hall at Ackerville on March 27, expressed the opinion that good pastures were a source of the cheapest and best feed for livestock. Our June gross or permanent pastures, however, produce only limited amounts of forage, unless an abundance of nitrogen is added to the soil. In past years nitrogen rich fertilizers were available, and the dairy farmers with the help of these could greatly improve the quality of such pastures. Such fertilizers are available in only very limited amounts this year. Hence some other way must be found of adding nitrogen to our grassland soils. This can best be done by renovating the pasture and reseeding it to a clover or alfalfa mixture.

To renovate the field is dug up with a cultivator or spring tooth harrow, then compacted and seeded. O. R. Zeanman of the College of Agriculture, who was the principal speaker at the Ackerville meeting, suggested that a good grass seed mixture for renovated pastures be made up of about six lbs. alfalfa or sweet clover depending on the farmer's personal preference, three lbs. of medium red clover, three lbs. of timothy, four lbs. of broom grass and one and a quarter bushels of early oats. In such pastures the alfalfa and the sweet clover will supply the necessary nitrogen for the other grasses.

Golden grass was strongly endorsed for mid-summer pasture for the more heavy and fertile soils. This is a quick growing annual crop belonging to the sorghum family and will yield forage during July and August than any other supplementary pasture crop. The speaker also pointed out that any pasture land can be made to increase its forage yield if it is not over-grazed. He recommended the dividing of all grazing land into reasonable size strips and pasturing these strips in rotation. This practice has increased the forage yield considerable wherever tried.

COUNTY PLANNING COMMITTEE SUGGESTS NEED FOR EXTENSION ACTIVITIES

More than twenty of Washington county farmers and homemakers met in the county extension office on Tuesday evening to discuss the more important agricultural, homemaking and rural problems of the county. This information will be used by those in charge of the extension program as a basis of determining what stresses of extension work should be given minor attention during the present war emergency.

PREVENT HOG LOSSES

Heavy and unnecessary losses now prevalent among hogs must be reduced if the animal fats needed for the war are to be produced.

James Lacey, animal husbandman at the College of Agriculture, reports that losses in the heavy hog producing countries often are as high as one pig for every three farrowed. Anemia, or thumps, he says, is the cause of much of the trouble and is not due to lack of exercise, as was formerly thought, but is due to lack of copper and iron in the feed.

Pigs kept indoors on concrete or wooden floors, he observes, have no access to copper and iron prevalent in the soil and so may develop anemia and iron. Pigs kept in recover rapidly from thumps when turned out-of-doors. The recovery is made because the young animals secure the needed copper and iron from the soil.

Today, when pigs cannot be allowed on the ground of parasite-infested pens, soil is brought to the pigs in the pen. Clays and loams are high in copper and iron, and if taken from some area where pigs have not been kept for several years, there will be no chance to bring parasites to clean litters. A few shovelfuls every two or three days will do the trick.

If clean ground is available growing pigs will do better if allowed to run outside. They will not only secure the necessary copper and iron but, will benefit greatly by the direct sunlight. Direct sunlight will also reduce the amount of mineral needed in the ration.

U. S. Heartened by Naval Offensive Against Jap Bases in South Pacific; Air Attacks on Port Darwin Continue As Allies Strike Back in New Guinea

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Dr. Herbert Vere Evatt, left, Australian minister for external affairs, being greeted by Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles and Richard G. Casey, British minister of state in the Middle East, at the Washington airport. The selection of Casey, former Australian minister to Washington, to serve in the British cabinet, raised a controversy between Australian Prime Minister John Curtin and Winston Churchill. The Australian government disavowed Casey as Australian representative.

ATTACK:

Navy Strikes Twice

A double-barreled attack by a navy task force, the same which had struck with devastating force on the Marshall and Gilbert islands, had been delivered on Wake island and Marcus island, the latter only 950 miles from Tokyo.

The latter attack scared Tokyo so badly that the city ordered blackouts for several days afterward, it was announced.

The delay in announcing these attacks apparently occurred because, in the first instance, the navy force was on the way from Wake to Marcus, and didn't want to "telegraph its punch" on the latter island.

As to the second attack, the need for delay was probably one of two factors, either that the navy force was moving on elsewhere, or else it was on its way back to Pearl Harbor for refueling and resupplying, probably the latter, as the dispatches came from there.

Considerable credit for the four attacks, as the latter two must be considered part of the general onslaught which included the Marshall and Gilbert islands, was given to the commander of the force, Vice Admiral W. F. Halsey.

In the first two the navy had lost a number of planes, but in the latter two battles, the only losses were two planes, both shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

Surprise had been an important factor in both attacks, because at Wake Island three four-motored seaplanes had been found and destroyed before they got into the air, and at Marcus island no air strength of any kind was found.

It began to explain the need for censorship—for the Japs had a nearly completed airfield on the island, and certainly would have had planes there if they'd known our forces were on the way.

Ringside View

One reporter, riding on an aircraft carrier, reported that its planes dumped 12 tons of high explosives on Marcus island alone.

His ringside view of the significance of the battle was that it had shattered an important link in Japan's chain of island bases connecting the country with its southwest Pacific theater of war.

Marcus also had been referred to in dispatches as "Japanese Hawaii," being a base not only potentially great for planes, but for ships as well.

The Wake island attack was not completely a surprise, as the navy surface ships encountered a Jap submarine seven miles off the island, and before she was sunk with one broadside, she was able to flash word to the shore that the "Yanks were coming!"

The Marcus island attack was in the darkness, but the Wake island battle was in full daylight, the shelling starting at 7:05 a. m.

Just how little good a blackout does was shown at Marcus island, where a flight of bombing planes was sent over the island with flares, lighting their objectives, and the first few hits started such huge fires that the other bombing flights need not be flared.

Shortly after the attack on Marcus started the radio station went off the air abruptly. It had been struck by a demolition bomb and shot into the sky.

NYA:

Senators Argue

The press, plus Senators McKellar and Byrd, continued its attacks on the NYA and the CCC, though President Roosevelt said that they both had their places in the war scheme and that he favored their retention.

The senators argued that the primary reason for the creation of the two agencies was to do something for youth during the depression and unemployment years. They are not needed now, they said.

The President, however, said, in a letter:

"I feel that the youth agencies have a definite place in the all-out war effort. The 1943 program for the NYA is to train 600,000 youths for war industries and other essential work."

As to the CCC, he said it was not generally known that the employment of these young men in many instances released soldiers for active duty.

He placed the official stamp of his disapproval on the McKellar bill to wipe them out.

INDIES: New Losses Reported In Battle of Java

The battle of the Indies was over, but not dead, for in the daily news came dispatches, some good, some bad, telling more about it all.

One, for instance, had raised the toll of the Battle of Java Sea for the United States by admitting the loss of two more "four-stacker" destroyers.

That they had partially escaped had been learned when the announcement said that they had last been heard from in the waters south of Java.

The Battle of Java Sea had been fought almost entirely north of Java.

Favorable were the dispatches which had begun to filter through showing that Bataan was not the only point in the southwest Pacific where land resistance was continuing, for the Japs were reported being forced to retreat from some of their positions in Sumatra.

That the Aussies were cognizant of this fact had been seen in Prime Minister Curtin's message to the Dutch to hang on, that aid was coming to them in the form of an Australian and American offensive.

It was of the same tone as MacArthur's words to his men at Bataan, fighting under General Wainwright, that "I came through the Jap lines, and I'm coming back again."

CONDUCT:

Strange Union Case

One of the strangest cases in the annals of war work and organized labor had occurred in Detroit, where a girl had been accused by her fellow-workers.

This young woman, Genevieve Samp, 25, had a war job in a Detroit plant, and the charge was that she had been guilty of "conduct unbecoming a union member."

Technically she had been guilty, the union said, of causing trouble by disparaging the efforts of her fellow workers.

Members of the union had said if she was absolved, those bringing the charges would face trial.

The girl said this was what occurred: She had had the job of packing in boxes certain gadgets which came down a series of chutes from automatic inspection machines.

The other girls were handling two chutes each, she and one other girl were handling three each. Miss Samp said "One girl squawked about me being a job-killer." She said she told the girl it was easy to handle three chutes. Wise-cracks went back and forth, she said, and she was suspended.

PARTS: And Profits

after being organized in 1940 with $500 capital had furnished the nation's readers a brief scandal, then a silver-lined aftermath.

Testimony before a congressional investigating committee revealed that the concern distributed $650,000 to workers last Christmas, and that Jack's secretary was paid $39,356 last year and $18,295 for the first ten weeks of this year.

Some of this Washington could understand, but they questioned payment to the company's comptroller, a young man who came to work for $3,600 and 46 days later was handed a bonus of $11,000, and a few weeks later given another $1,200 bonus and a $1,200 salary raise.

The partners came back from Washington, announced a voluntary cut of their profits to 8 per cent, and that their own salaries would be cut to $15,000 a year each.

Their employees welcomed their return from Washington with loud cheers, and the banging of their tools on their benches when the partners said the bonus system to employees for heavy production would be continued.

MISCELLANY:

Chungking: The Chinese troops and British troops, battling to hold a united front in North Burma, had been at least temporarily separated by a Jap spearhead drive near Toungpoo.

New York: By radio, a station here picked up the report from Berlin by a Japanese spokesman that "Japan may now be considered on the defensive."

Washington: The nation's leaders had agreed to keep the debt limit (at least temporarily) at $125,000,000,000.

Bern: Bulgaria is beginning to feel Nazi wrath, Swiss sources said, and Germany had warned King Boris that his country had not been doing its share against the Russians. There is much blood sympathy between Bulgars and Russians.

Washington: China, in the midst of war with Japan, nevertheless found the money to pay the last installment of a $22,000,000 loan from the Export-Import bank.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—We have mislaid the name of the philosopher who said all adult nations were "time-binders"—that alert sense of historicity, looking studiously, if not pensively, backward as well as forward. Brig. Gen. William H. Bisbee, taking a bow this day as the oldest man in the new Who's Who in America, suggests this salutary exercise. He was 102 last January 28. He fought in four wars, and the story of what he and his country have been through gives a hint that perhaps someone smuggled a rabbit's foot into that arcana of the national archives at Washington.

General Fought 4 Wars; Commanded By 5 Presidents

"Filthy days of war," the general once wrote, "walking through creeks barelegged to save our tattered clothes."

He enlisted in the Civil war after Bull Run, when Washington was somewhat less orderly and rational than a squirrel-cage. He knew not only mud, rags and latrines, but the stark horrors of blood and hunger, weariness and desperation, and the maddening disorder of bureaucracy and graft in Washington.

For 25 years, after 1865, he fought Indians, along the trails out from Leavenworth and pulled 100 arrows from the body of his fallen friend—99 for torture and one for a vital spot—an old Indian custom. In the Pangasinan province in the Philippines, he trailed guerrillas through jungle slime, and caught and hanged 30 of them. That rounded out his four wars—Civil, Indian, Spanish-American and Philippine Insurrection.

In 1900 President Theodore Roosevelt made him a brigadier general, and he retired the next year, to coast along through serene and sunny years in his native New England, at Brookline, Mass. He is a handsome, white-bearded, soldierly old gentleman, honored on each birthday by a representation from the war department at his party.

He was born and reared in Woonsocket, R. I., and was a young merchant of Delaware, Ohio, when he answered Lincoln's call. In addition to Lincoln's, his army commissions were signed by Presidents Johnson, Cleveland, McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

HUGO GROTIUS, the Dutchman who laid the foundation for what is now somewhat apologetically known as international law, backed down a lot on hard and fast principles, in his later books, but he never quit trying. That was early in the Seventeenth century. The Dutch carried on from where he left off and pretty much put their trade mark on international law.

Premier Peter Gerbrandy, of the Netherlands government in exile, extolled and amplified Grotius, as professor of international law at the University of Amsterdam. He now says the Dutch not only will keep on writing law but will keep on fighting the lawless, in their lowlands home or in the Pacific island jungles. He is a devout Christian who professes an unshakable belief that the word, bravely defended, becomes flesh.

The professor was never conspicuous in affairs of state until a year or two before the Nazis came. He sounded many warnings of trouble ahead and when it came, disclosed amazing capacity for quick and effective action, always a jump ahead of the supposedly practical men.

He pulled together the all-inclusive coalition government and became the head of ten ministries, representing five closely-knit parties. He was the big surprise which bad times so often bring forth.

He is not ascetic, but, instead drinks good Holland gin and smokes good cigars, being a connoisseur of such commodities and a foe of sumptuary legislation. He is a plump, agile, rosy, roly-poly little man, who likes to argue and philosophize and have a good time at one and the same time.

A pipe addict was reproved by a critic. "Smoking a pipe will destroy your memory, turn you to meditation rather than action, and make you altogether useless," he said.

"Can you imagine Adolf Hitler smoking a pipe, fading the house in a crap game, or fetching a long swipe in the German equivalent of Sweet Adeline?" asked the pipe-smoker. "No, you can't. No seasoned pipe-smoker ever started a war and none ever will. Grim, sadistic ascetics like Hitler start wars because they never had a good time and want to get even."

Grotius got into the same kind of argument with the blue-nose Menonites who thought international law depended on wearing off everything. In asserting the human side of international law, Grotius frequently was compared with Erasmus, whose plea for a sane world order was based on his "Humanism." When Luther appealed to Erasmus for help, Erasmus wrote: "You are primarily interested in fighting. The fighting accomplishes nothing unless it comes of humane understanding. This you lack. You will accomplish nothing."

Administration Worried By Specter of Inflation

Idle Dollars Source of Concern as Secretary of Treasury Studies Methods to Prevent Spiraling of Prices.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1243 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

At the great pillared building next to the White House, on whose classic roof the soldiers walked night and day, they have almost forgotten the red letter day in their history, March 15—when the greatest harvest of taxes ever collected poured in the vaults of the United States treasury.

In his office overlooking the park Secretary Morgenthau is already deep in another problem. He knows that his tax collecting venture of 1942 was a failure in one respect. It left 97 billion dollars rattling around in the nation's pocket and only 6 1/2 billion dollars worth of things to spend it on.

In spite of tax increases, defense bond sales and a tendency of some people to put something in the bank the experts say there will be left about 20 billions of dollars with no place to go. That is a prescription for inflation, for idle dollars will compete for scarce goods. Some inflation we are going to get no matter what is done to stop it. That means higher prices where they will hurt and the prospect of the bump that follows the boom when the things that go up have to come down.

You could see how worried the administration was when the President, who has had a lot to say about spiraling of wages and prices but has never actually done anything to stop wage increases, admitted at a press and radio conference recently that a plan for putting a ceiling on wages was under study.

Mrs. Roosevelt had let the cat out of the bag in her column and the President couldn't very well deny the soft impeachment. Regulation of wages is one partial check on inflation. Another is an iron-bound price control so tight that people just couldn't use their money to bid up costs. Another is taxation so heavy there wouldn't be any more money to spend than there are goods to buy.

None of these extreme courses is likely to be taken. But there will be higher taxes. Mr. Morgenthau is worrying about that now. Trying to work out an equitable levy.

There will be some price control. There will be increased effort to sell defense bonds. There will be more rationing, some pressure to keep down wage rises. But there will be some inflation.

The result will be to bring the war home. But what will really make the American people aware that we are in a period of sacrifice is not paying more for what they get but not being able to get the things we are able to pay for. Some things can't even be rationed because there won't be anything to ration when the army and navy get what they need.

Lines! Assembly and Otherwise

I remember learning in school that a straight line was the shortest distance between two points. Easy to define, hard to draw without a ruler.

The next lines that interested me were the ones on the gridiron. Then there was World War I and there were the "front lines." And as a private then the other line which interested me most was the mess line. Very important.

It was much later that I heard about assembly lines. Mass production I heard about at the same time. Assembly lines and mass production were the things that were putting America first as the world's business man. They were the things that gave our workmen and our farmers and our clerks and newspaper men and firemen all a chance to go to work in gas-buggies while some of our counterparts in Europe and Asia still walked, or drove oxen.

Assembly lines. The Second World War came along and America was way behind its enemies in preparedness, in production of war materials. We had led the world making nice things, things that made life easy. We were way behind when it came to making death easy.

The other day I was invited to take a trip to California with other newswriters to see something else. It was just before the last draft conscription for military service—conscription of the assembly line. That ingenious institution which has been used to turn out the nice, friendly, peacetime gadgets has been adapted to turn out a huge, unfriendly, wartime machine, the "B24," ace of bombers, the biggest thing ever made on an assembly line. Made that way not because it was cheap but because it was fast.

People had been saying that if we could only make planes on the assembly line we would soon catch up with and pass the Axis which had been making planes while we were still saying we didn't have to worry about Europe's wars. But, they said, planes were too big, or too complicated to turn out this way. As usual, however, American genius which made typewriters and electric ice boxes and flippers and radios, found a way to make the big bombers by the same method.

Come with me and visit the Consolidated Aircraft plant in California.

It's hard to get in because the government doesn't want the enemy to know what is being done. You have to get a pass and you have to get by soldiers and armed police and secret service men and special guards. You have to walk by a lot of very business-like looking gunpits and anti-aircraft.

When you get inside there is a cheerful bustle. The workers all look like homefolks, all U. S. citizens. I'll skip the part of what happens first in the "sub-assembly" and take you right to the head of the main assembly line. There is a low platform on wheels. The wheels fit a wide gauge track. Great cranes swing three ungainly shapes into place, until all rest on the platform. One is the airplane's "nose." Another is the center wing section. Another, the fuselage (the tail).

The parts have been built separately and they are just empty "skins" of metal sheets over the bracing struts. They are brought together and a huge steel framework, the "mating jig," closes over them, unites them. The crane lifts the jig away. There is left the empty body of the great plane. Later, when it rolls off the other end of the assembly line it will have a 110 foot wing spread and will weigh 28 tons.

Now it rests, with stubby wings, hollow and impotent, on its rolling platform. It is on the first "station" in the line. The moment the mating jig has departed with its blessing the crew of workers assigned to station No. 1 leap upon it.

From now on I cannot reveal the details of what happens as this growing structure moves on from station to station and at each one a new crew adds the things that are needed until the empty shell has become a throbbing creature, able to mount into the air and sail away.

This strange warbird with all its intricate fittings from the delicate wiring in its switchboxes to its huge engines feels the expert touch of a woman's hand at many stages of its growth. There are some things that women can do better than men, some things that some women can do as well as some men. I am thinking of a husky former farm girl I saw balancing a riveter that it was all I could do to lift.

"I was the one who always had to fix the tractor on the farm," she told me, "I've found the work I like."

Another grandmotherly old lady worked at the delicate wiring of the switchbox.

She looked as contented as if she were crocheting.

One hundred thousand parts, exclusive of the nuts, bolts and rivets, go into these great machines. Four hundred thousand man-hours of work go into each. I wish I could tell you how often one of those bombers rolls off the end of that assembly line. I can't because it is a military secret.

All I can say is "many" a month. I was going to say "plenty" but that would not be correct. We are not making "plenty" and we won't be until we have so many and so many fighter planes to protect them and so many ships to carry them and that they outnumber the enemy every time we choose to attack.

But we have the means of making "plenty." We have already harnessed that means to the war chariot, the army and the navy have taken over the "lines," and we are on our way.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

¶ The army has no ants in its camps, according to the construction division of the office of the quartermaster general. A new simple metal anti-ant shield does the job.

¶ In 1941, the industrial output of the United States for war needs was 79 per cent and for civilian needs, 21 per cent. In 1942, the war output is 83 per cent and that for civilians is 47 per cent.

¶ The bill to create a women's auxiliary army corps is up before congress which would permit women between the ages of 21 and 45 to serve with the army in non-combat jobs, such as telephone operators, air raid wardens, librarians, dieticians and pharmacists. The women's corps would be in uniform and live in barracks.

¶ Many Far Eastern experts believe that after this war no matter how it turns out the white man will be barred from Asia unless the great nations like India, Japan and China become democracies.

¶ The United States army and navy have been snowed under with applications for commissions from men who want to serve in the public relations divisions.

¶ The Moros, fiercest fighters of all native Philippine tribes, resisted the Americans until the last. Now they have sworn to join with MacArthur's forces and fight the Japanese to the death.

¶ Sufficient burlap and osnaburg to go more than eight times around the world has been purchased by the supply division, corps of engineers, and will be used for making sandbags, the war department has revealed.

¶ For each automobile not made this year enough zinc and copper is saved to make brass for 2,400 brass cartridge cases for the .30 caliber ammunition used in machine guns, Springfield, and other armament using the metal.

Arthur's Australian Campaign Heightens Spirit of All America

General Douglas MacArthur

General for fighting mad people is he...
You are going to see some real fighting. That is what thousands of persons said, some of whom have said it to you, when word was flashed from Australia that General Douglas MacArthur was down there to assume supreme United Nations command in that region.

Since the war in the Pacific region began, the story of the war has been continually, and dishearteningly the same with one exception.

War reports and radio accounts have related of continual retreats and reverses by the Allied armies. But the brilliant exception to all this is the story of General Douglas MacArthur.

That "MacArthur is the man for the job." A student on his way to his class at university said that if anyone can successfully "slap the Japs," MacArthur is the one that can do it. A not too busy auto salesman said that the general's appointment was the most important move since the United States was stabbed in the back.

Such opinions as these of Mr. and Mrs. America reflect—it is almost certain to say—the opinion of this nation, and all Allied nations as a whole. Even in London, the newspapers there, commenting on the first time that a foreign general has taken command of defense in British dominions, had nothing but encouraging, hopeful, and optimistic words.

Fame After Career Ended.
Fame came to General MacArthur after his career had ended! For it was in 1935 that he retired from the army after making a "name" for himself as officer of World War I, and decorated for conspicuous courage. His decorations are reportedly more numerous than any other officer in the service.

Back in 1903 he was graduated from military academy, heading his class. Ever since then he has been showing his fellow officers and his men under him that he is "one of the men" who knows how to fight.

Son of a Civil War hero, Lieut. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, General Douglas went with his father as an aide when he went to Tokyo on a General MacArthur has taken his new command in Australia and then push back, the Japanese drive, Maj. Gen. Jonathan M. Douglas, shown talking with Gen. MacArthur, has been appointed to the command of the forces that outflank, despite 20 to 1 odds, the Jap forces on the Bataan peninsula in the Philippine Islands.

Like Father, Like Son

Both father and son, Arthur and Douglas MacArthur, showed great strategic talent. One of the father's Civil War tactics of battle eventually became a war department standard officer examination. The son's strategy in the Philippines is well known to all newspaper readers, who have been following his brilliant leadership.

Both, when very young were hampered in their attempts to get into the army. Arthur MacArthur's difficulty came at the time of the Civil War—when he was just 16. His father thought he was too young for the army, Douglas MacArthur's trouble in getting into the U. S. Military academy was due to spinal ailment. History, today, knows that both of them got what they wanted. And now, Arthur MacArthur's son, Douglas, also has a son who is right in the heart of a battle sector—where, it seems, most MacArthurs want to be.

Future General??

Little four-year-old Arthur MacArthur, son of General and Mrs. MacArthur, is starting early in a possible war career. Besides having a famous general as a father, Arthur's grandfather, a Civil War veteran after whom he is named, commanded a Manila brigade in 1898 when U. S. forces captured that city.

When war broke out in the Philippines little Arthur and his mother, the former Miss Jean Faircloth of Murfreesboro, Tenn., were reported safe on the island. The next word that came through as to their whereabouts was when their arrival in Australia with the general and his staff was announced.

mission in 1905-'06. On three different occasions he saw extended army service in the Philippines. In 1935 he went to Manila as the commonwealth's president, Manuel Quezon's military adviser.

That his advisory capacity to President Quezon was of a successful nature is now seen in the successful manner in which American troops, Philippine scout professionals, and Filipino reservists, under his command, fought.

So, at the age of 50, after many years of active service, it looked as though General MacArthur's military life was at an end. It seemed that he was then destined for obscurity after being chief of staff for five years. But, it has often been stated, that it is the seemingly little incidents in a person's life which eventually develop into significant, extremely important matters. What would have happened had MacArthur, upon being "retired," not been sent to the Philippines to shape up a military force there is impossible to say.

Once again, MacArthur's life is showing that fact is oftentimes more interesting than fiction. Here, in MacArthur, you see a story book soldier, cool, even tempered, poised, admired by his staff and men, preparing to do a titanic job despite heavy odds against it.

Mrs. Douglas MacArthur
It is now up to her husband...

Even the general's air-flight of 2,000 miles to Australia had a touch of the dramatic to it. For the zone over which he and his officers and aides flew in two planes, has been conceded as being the "hot spot" of the southwest Pacific. This is the zone where both enemy and Allied planes are continually on the alert. Fighters, bombers, and interceptors, always ready for battle. When you look at a map and see the territory you will fully realize that MacArthur will not lose any of his boldness. It is such daring, skill, and calm that has put all the confidence of the Allied nations' people directly on his shoulders. The Yanks, and Aussies, being what they are in temperament, and disposition as to being ready for a fight at all times, now have a man as their leader they know will not fail them.

Congressmen Behind Him, Too.
That this attitude even goes for officials and congressmen in the nation's capital is noted in the comment of various congressmen on the day that MacArthur's safe arrival was announced in a special official war department communique. Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) said that Australia now has real leadership... that he was very happy to know that MacArthur was down there where a man such as he is needed.

Rep. Joseph J. Mansfield, (D., Texas) put in a comment which all Americans fully understand. He said that MacArthur is sure going to "raise hell" with the Japs providing we can keep him supplied with a continuous line of supplies and men.

House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin (R., Mass.), said he was happy to hear of the famous soldier's appointment. He further added that such an appointment will add to the confidence of the American people.

The day that MacArthur's appointment, and successful flight to Australia was announced, the President in his press conference also had words of encouragement for the American people. He said that the purpose of the transfer was not to develop further defensive measures, but primarily, and definitely to "win the war." President Roosevelt said at that conference that he felt, too, that every American man and woman held the same admiration for the fighting, brilliant general that he held.

Maj. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, close friend of MacArthur, and his right-hand man in the Philippines, is still there in the Bataan peninsula to carry on against the Japs. There, the odds are still 20 to 1, or even more, against the American forces, but Wainwright will carry on. For he, former commander at Fort Myer, Va., is remnant at Fort Myer, Va., is regarded by the army as familiar with his capacities and abilities as with his capacities and abilities as a lieutenant of modern warfare. Officer Wainwright began his career as a lieutenant in the Philippines.

Toasted Bunnies Parade for This Easter Dinner!
(See Recipes Below)

Easter Time

As gay as red tulips with food as fresh and appealing as spring itself is the Easter dinner menu I have planned for you today. It's simple and economical as is in keeping with the times, but with spring-like accents that lurk in the fragrant mint leaves, spring lamb, green peas, crisp, bright salad and in the distinctive ice cream.

With Easter on the wing, winter is definitely on the way out, and our thoughts naturally turn to lighter foods and delicate, pastel table settings. For Easter brings out your loveliest white cloths or pastel yellows. As flowers jonquils make an inexpensive but effective centerpiece. Or, for something more dramatic, try red tulips in the center of the bowl banked on all sides by white snapdragons.

"Leg of Lamb Roast"

The paper thin covering or "fell" on your leg of lamb does not affect the flavoring of the cut and need not be removed until just before serving. In fact, when left on, it keeps the roast in better shape, cooks more quickly and keeps the juices well within the meat.

Mix 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon dry mustard, 3 tablespoons flour with 1/2 cup cold water. Spread this over the leg of lamb. Roast uncovered in a moderately slow (325-degree) oven 30 to 35 minutes to the pound. Spread with currant jelly the last 20 minutes. Baste meat every 15 minutes.

Apricot Garnish.

Use canned halves of apricots or stewed halves, well chilled. Place a nugget of mint jelly in the center

Lynn Says:

The Easter dinner I planned for you is economical but doubly so because you can make good use of the leftovers.

Cut the remainder of the roast off the bone, grind it with a fine grinder, 1/2 onion, the potatoes and green peas. Place in a buttered dish, bake until heated. During the last seven minutes of baking break eggs whole on top of lamb mixture and serve as soon as eggs have cooked.

If you have just a little of the cranberry apple sauce left, cut it into small cubes and serve as a relish. For salad, use leftover apricots from the roast garnish and fill the center with cream cheese and nuts and serve in lettuce cups with your favorite dressing.

If you have a few leftover green peas from dinner toss them together with a few carrots, shredded for a change. You can cream these, or mix them with a few bits of crumbled bacon. For variation you might try a few tiny peas to make enough for a vegetable dish.

Rolls though leftover go over well even the next day. You can slice, toast and butter them. If you like them whole, simply put in a covered casserole with a few drops of water and allow a few minutes to heat through.

Dessert? This is easy. Spoon the ice cream on vanilla wafers, top with another wafer, more ice cream until all is used. Chill for an hour or so and serve sliced with a dab of whipped cream if desired.

*Cranberry Apple Salad. (Serves 6)

- 1 package lemon gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1/2 of a pound can of cranberry sauce
- 1 apple
- 1/2 orange
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Dissolve the gelatin in boiling water and chill until thickened. Crush cranberry sauce.

Grind apple and orange, leaving skins on. Combine cranberry sauce with fruits and lemon juice. Add to gelatin. Pour into molds and chill until firm, or pour into a refrigerator tray and cut in squares when ready to serve. Serve on crisp lettuce with creamy mayonnaise.

*Honey Rolls.

- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/4 cup fat
- 1 cake compressed yeast softened in 1/4 cup lukewarm water
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 egg
- 4 cups flour

Scald milk, add fat and honey. Add yeast, salt and 2 cups flour. Then add remainder of flour to form a soft dough. Knead lightly until smooth. Let rise twice, then form into rolls. Let rise until light. Bake in a hot (400-degree) oven about 20 minutes.

Easter dinner with the traditional leg of lamb, peas and mint jelly touches demands a distinctive and at the same time a harmoniously flavored dessert. Almond flavoring is perfect foil, guaranteed to please, in this creamy, quickly prepared ice cream. No sugar required! *Almond Ice Cream. (Serves 6)

- 1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 1/2 teaspoons almond extract
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 1/2 cup finely shredded almonds

Mix sweetened condensed milk, water and almond flavoring. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture.

Freeze in a freezing unit until half frozen. Scrape from tray and beat until smooth but not melted. Add almonds. Replace in freezing unit until frozen.

For the Easter bunnies you may use day-old sliced white bread. Cut the bread with a bunny-shaped cookie cutter. Spread all sides of the cutouts with sweetened condensed milk, then roll in dry, shredded coconut, broken fine. Brown under broiler at low heat, watching very carefully, or toast over coals if you prefer by placing the bunnies on a fork. These taste like coconut frosted angel food.

HIGH PRICES Do Not Go WITH ADVERTISING

Advertising and high prices do not go together at all. They are extremely incompatible to each other. It is only the product which is unadvertised, which has no established market, that costs more than you can afford to pay.

Whenever you go into a store and buy an item of advertised merchandise, it doesn't make any difference what you are getting more for your money—more in quality and service—than you would get if you spent the same amount for something which was not advertised.

INTERMEDIATE ROOM NEWS

The fourth grade had China day last week. We all dressed as Chinese people do. We had stories, poems and topics about China. Mrs. Hintzman taught us a Chinese song. At 3:30 we had rice, which we ate with chop sticks, and tea. Many of us brought things to school made in China. We had all our stories, poems, time lines, outlines and pictures about China on our bulletin board.

We made science booklets last week in which we can write about our science experiments which we do each Friday. The fifth grade is now working on a unit on weather. They are finding out what affect water has on land and what causes rain and snow.

“Pledge” Campaign in Cities, Villages of County to Begin Soon

The “pledge” campaign for the purchase of U. S. defense bonds and stamps will soon get under way in all cities and villages in Washington county. All income earners will be called on to fill out a pledge which gives the U. S. Treasury Department information in regard to how much will be saved in U. S. defense bonds or stamps by everyone each week or each month of each year. The “pledge” is not an order—it is just an indication of what you intend to do. If you are already on a payroll deduction plan, you must still make out a pledge—one does not replace the other.

The need for money is great—“pledge” all you can afford to save. Money is needed to buy the implements of war. Be ready to pledge when you are called on.

Washington county is one of the leading counties in this U. S. defense bond effort. Other counties are looking to us, are watching our operation—let's keep up the good work by going out 100% in this “pledge” campaign.

In the townships in Washington county the canvass is practically completed. Dr. H. F. Weber, chairman in the town of Trenton, was the first one to turn in his “pledge” books for his initial canvass. Others are now completing their work so, shortly, the 13 townships in our county will be 100% “pledged,” which will leave the cities and villages to finish up the job to put Washington county on an all out “pledge” basis.

Sales of U. S. defense stamps and bonds in the county is continuing very well. Recently, in West Bend high school, $246.50 worth of U. S. defense stamps were purchased by the students in one afternoon. That's a remarkable accomplishment—the students and the teachers of West Bend high school should be proud of this record.

The school effort throughout the county has been one of continued accomplishment. Plans are now being laid to continue it even through the summer vacation. War does not take a vacation—neither can our saving effort take a vacation.

COUNTY-WIDE SALVAGE DRIVE NEXT WEEK; COLLECTION HERE SATURDAY

The merchants at Germantown have compiled an outstanding list of prizes to be awarded lucky winners at their “salvage for victory” day on April 8. Similar plans were expected to be made at a meeting of the retail committee of the West Bend Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening.

Every farmer and each city and village home owner is requested to gather together now any items of salvage he can find about his place. Search your home or your farm. Look in the sheds, the garage, in the basement, and in the attic. Don't forget the fence corners. No item is too large or too small—bring them all to the collection place nearest you.

The farmers are especially urged to participate in “salvage week,” since it is the belief that many will find old machinery parts, worn out tools, discarded chains, and the like which will be of inestimable value in creating war supplies so badly needed. They are particularly urged to bring such scrap materials to the shipping points already listed.

It is expected that at least two of the scrap dealers will be on hand during each of the four field days to purchase the scrap materials. They will pay established and fair market prices previously agreed to by them and the county salvage committee. Therefore, there will be no need for haggling over prices.

Township, village, and city committees are already making a check of the estimated scrap available in the county. This is particularly being done among the farmers, and the people of the county are being impressed with the patriotic duty that is theirs in furnishing the scrap materials so urgently needed now. “Slap the Jap with scrap” and “let's get in the scrap now and win the scrap quick” are among the slogans being adopted.

Heading the various township, village, and city committees are the following, with the chairman named first and the vice chairman second:

Addison town, Ed. Gutjahr, Mrs. Joseph Wenninger; Barton town, Paul Cypher, Mrs. Henry Jansen; Erin town, John Cleary, Mrs. Walter Roemer; Farmington town, Hugo Hauch, Mrs. James McKee; Germantown town, Clarence Connell, Mrs. Al Klumb; Hartford town, George Schaf, Mrs. Arthur Lichtenweiner; Jackson town, Alfred Schmidt, Mrs. Clarence Gumm; Kewaskum town, Alfred Seefeldt, Mrs. John Reinders; Polk town, Christ Mellus, Mrs. Fred Binner; Richfield town, Walter Boettcher, Mrs. Math Noegel; Trenton town, Ed. FILMS TO BE SHOWN

On Thursday, April 9, a program of free sound motion pictures has been arranged for the general public. The program is being sponsored by the city of West Bend and all persons in the county who are interested in the civilian defense program are invited to attend.

In order that everyone will have an opportunity to see the films, three showings have been arranged. The first showing will be at two o'clock Thursday afternoon (April 9) at the West Bend grade school recreation room. In the evening two showings will be made at the high school, one at 7:30 and the second at 9 p. m.

Five films will be shown. They are: “Fighting the Fire Bomb,” which shows the correct procedure to follow in handling magnesium bombs; “London Air Raid,” which portrays the terrible effects of incendiary bomb attacks on the city of London; “Gorfer Trouble,” which humorously depicts things not to do in case of an emergency; “War and Order,” which deals with the organization of auxiliary police in London; “Air Raid Wardens,” which explains the duties and work of these essential civilian defense workers.

TURN IN OLD TIRES

If you have old tires, which are so worn or damaged that they are unfit for retreading or recapping, you are urged to turn them in immediately to your scrap or junk dealer.

Farmers, particularly, are asked to make a search for such worn out tires. This scrap rubber is very important in augmenting the nation's rubber supply.

VICTORY GARDEN PROGRAM

The West Bend Garden club, in charge of victory gardens in West Bend, has planned an open meeting to be held in the grade school recreation hall on Friday evening, April 10, at 8:00 p. m.

E. E. Skalsky, county agricultural agent, will be the speaker. His subject will be “Planning and Care of Home Gardens.” John Reis will give a number of vocal selections. Slides of gardens and flowers taken in and around West Bend by the West Bend Photo club will be shown by A. L. Merriam.

Everyone in Washington county who has or is interested in a home garden is urged to attend this meeting.

Frank Kohn and friends of Kewaskum were callers here. Frank is an lumber as most youngsters for he can dance a jig, two-step and hop waltz all at the same time. Some dancer, Frank.—New Pines Correspondent.

Tractor operators should keep in mind that tractors top the tragedy list on the modern farm. “Operate yours with care and caution,” urge safety officials.

Two new tomato varieties for the home garden, Victor and Bounty, somewhat better suited to northern Wisconsin conditions than the varieties now in use, have just been added to the recommended list.

Twenty-five Years Ago

The local real estate men, Rosenheimer & Day, with the able and faithful assistance of B. H. Rosenheimer, had a busy week buying and selling farms. The amount involved is estimated at over $100,000. For the first time in the history of Kewaskum and locality one transaction was a farm that sold for $200 an acre. It was the Rosenheimer & Day stock farm, known as the Schield farm, and was sold to Christ Hammen. They also purchased the Louis Petri farm at $175 an acre and sold same to Wm. Turk of Beechwood, also trading the latter's farm; purchased Christ Hammen farm with personal property and sold same to Art. Dubbin; purchased a lot of Otto Dorn in Milwaukee.

Miss Mabel King resigned her position as saleslady at the A. G. Koch store. She is succeeded by Miss Esther Belger.

As work was being resumed in starting the L. Rosenheimer Maltting plant after being shut down a few weeks for repairs a mishap was experienced when their pumping equipment broke down, necessitating another shutdown. In order that the firm could give the village electric light service it was necessary to haul water for the boilers from the river. The fire engine and all the fire hoses were used an entire day in filling the tanks, during which time the engine was kept pumping seven hours.

While serving his rural route, Fancher Colvin's Ford auto caught fire and was quickly destroyed. The fire was first noticed near Carl Block's place at Beechwood. He immediately stopped the engine and just had time enough to save the mail. Mr. Colvin continued his route with Art. Koch of Beechwood in his Jeffrey.

Otto Dickman bought a car large enough for himself and wife in the center, then the children all around them and there is still plenty of space for comfort.—New Prospect Correspondent.
