Meetings on Milk Program in County Schools July 21

Farm folks throughout Washington county will take part in neighborhood meetings in every school district in the county to talk over a county-wide quality milk improvement program. Representative dairy farmers from each of the school districts of the county and all of the dairy plant operators including many milk truck drivers met on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week to discuss the proposed program. Both groups highly endorsed it. It will next be presented to all dairy farmers at schoolhouse meetings on Tuesday evening, July 21, at 8:00 o'clock.

Just what is this quality milk program? Does it affect all dairy farmers of the county? The program is for the benefit of all of the farmers. Sufficient checks and inspections of farms have been made to show that a big majority of farmers really try to produce a quality milk that can be manufactured into any first class dairy product. Yet, everyone admits that there is room for improvement in the quality of some of the milk being delivered to our dairy plants.

The schoolhouse meetings are a part of a program already adopted and carried out in more than fifty other Wisconsin counties. Both farmers and dairy plant operators are in favor of this program because it is sound, reasonable, inexpensive and based on common sense procedure. Its main purpose is to be of help to both the milk producer and the plant operators. Both play an important part in the production of quality dairy products. Both must work hand in hand to help keep Washington county one of Wisconsin's leading dairy counties.

WHY A QUALITY PROGRAM IS NEEDED—Wisconsin dairymen need a statewide quality program for the following reasons:
1. To meet competition from other states, retain Wisconsin's dairy supremacy, and to hold its present outlets.
2. To support Wisconsin's dairy advertising campaign with high quality products.
3. To meet the sanitary requirements of the larger cities. Three-fourths of our total dairy products are sold outside of the state.

ATTENDS IMPORTANT HOME FURNISHINGS STYLE SHOW
One of the most important of the home furnishings markets was held at Chicago the past two weeks. Edw. W. Miller spent several days in Chicago attending this important market. Mr. Miller says that although many furniture manufacturers are in defense work to some extent and some items are restricted, the furniture industry as a whole is in a position to supply their regular dealers with good merchandise at reasonable prices.

Doolittle's raid on Tokyo, experts agree, caused the Japs to "lose face" among other things. The Japs, however, still are as two-faced as ever, and are likely to try anything. Because Wisconsin is closer to northern Japan or the Aleutian Islands than San Francisco is to Tokyo, the Wisconsin Council of Defense says the Japs may try to find their "lost face" here in Wisconsin—via the air raid route over Canada.

County Collects 145 Tons of Scrap Rubber

Washington county people sent approximately 145 tons of scrap rubber bouncing into collection centers in the county in the recent rubber salvage campaign, which closed at midnight Friday, July 10, according to Gerald H. Schloemer, West Bend, rubber salvage chairman for the county.

This is approximately 290,000 pounds of rubber, just 2 shade under 10 and one-fifth pounds collected for every one of the county's 28,430 residents. Mr. Schloemer says he is highly pleased and proud concerning this record, and he commends the patriotic spirit shown by Washington county people in this drive.

West Bend, according to Mr. Schloemer's figures, led in the collection, with approximately 52 tons. Next in line was Hartwood, with 30 tons. Kewaskum reported 18 1/2 tons collected, and 12 1/2 tons were piled up at German town. Slinger had 12 tons, Allenton 9 1/2 tons, Jackson 8 1/2 tons, and there was a scattered collection of 2 1/2 tons. This rubber is now being shipped out of the county to places where it will do the most good—to war industries manufacturing the equipment so vitally needed to whip the Axis.

D. J. Kenny, West Bend, chairman of the county salvage committee praises Mr. Schloemer and the dealers who had charge of conducting the rubber campaign. He also highly commends the fine response made by the people of the county. Mr. Kenny points out, however, that just because the campaign has closed, it will not mark the end of rubber collections in this county. From now until the end of the war, he says, the people must redouble their efforts to supply our nation's war industries with scrap materials of all kinds, including rubber. He calls the attention of the public to another story elsewhere in this newspaper pertaining to a new salvage campaign started by the war production board.

Chairman Rolfs Discusses County's War Bond Quota

Because of the great interest shown in the U. S. war bond campaign and also because of considerable discussion pertaining to the July quota for Washington county, Robert H. Rolfs, executive chairman of the war savings staff, was interviewed on this subject this week, and we bring our readers the result of this interview herewith. Question: Do you think the Washington county quota excessive and out of proportion? Answer: Our quota is high, no doubt about it. However, we must all recognize that this is not a thirty day war or a one time effort, but rather a constant, continuous, regular systematic laying aside of a definite part of our income for the entire duration, be that one year, five years, or ten years. The formula is not less than 10% and in many instances 15%-20%, and when possible even 25%. Furthermore, regardless of how much we do in the early stages of this effort, opportunities will exist and action will be taken to make adjustments and corrections of county quotas as the campaign progresses.

Question: How does our effort thus far compare with World War I? Answer: I'm glad you asked that question. We haven't even started yet to match that accomplishment. In a period of eighteen months of last world war this county supplied $3,600,000. Thus far we have only subscribed approximately one-half as much, although everyone knows and agrees that this war requires two, three and possibly four times as much money, effort, energy, and sacrifice.

Question: Because of what appears to be an excessively high quota for this month, does the possibility exist for our county being discredited in comparison with other counties because we do not exceed the quota by a sufficient margin? Answer: Absolutely not. United States treasury officials have assured me that when the final chapter is written, every single individual, every community, every county and state will be placed upon the honor roll exactly where they belong. We will be judged by our actual accomplishment, not by our ability to oversubscribe small quotas.

Question: Are you personally satisfied with accomplishments thus far? Answer: While I personally believe Washington county has made as much or more progress thus far than any other county in the state of Wisconsin, nevertheless, we have a long way to go. Thus far we've gotten organized and I must say the good people of this county are conscious of their responsibility, and in my humble judgment, from all statistics available, I believe fully ninety per cent of our citizens are participating. Many are doing their full share and more, some

Kewaskum Creamery Gets Minute Man Flag

The Kewaskum Creamery company recently was presented with a Minute Man certificate and the privilege of displaying the Minute Man flag, certifying that 90% or more of its employees are buying United States war bonds and stamps through the payroll savings plan.

The employees of the creamery recently have been approached to join the "10% Club." In order to be a member of the "10% Club," it is necessary that the employee accept at least 10% of his or her earnings in war savings bonds or stamps. The Kewaskum Creamery company is rightfully proud of the record made by its employees in that 100% of its employees are purchasing either war savings stamps or war savings bonds on the payroll savings plan, and 41 out of the 43 persons now employed at the creamery are members of the "10% Club."

According to the present record, the employees of the creamery are purchasing well over 10% of the company's payroll in war bonds and stamps. We believe the employees of the Kewaskum Creamery company are deserving of much praise for their attitude and acceptance of the government's program, and the creamery is the first concern in the village of Kewaskum reported to have received its Minute Man flag and to have attained the enviable record herein set forth.

Mrs. Harter Dies

Mrs. Catherine Harter, former resident of Kewaskum, Wis., died this Friday evening, July 17, at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, after a long illness. Mrs. Harter broke her hip several years ago and had been confined to the hospital ever since. No funeral arrangements had been made at the time of going to press. A complete obituary will follow next week.

This year's spring pig crop is the largest Wisconsin has ever had—2,500,000 head. At real sacrifices, however, analysis of the pledge campaign convinces me that a great many will have to step up their purchases considerably if we are to meet our full obligation in this greatest crisis our country has ever faced in its entire history. Everything hangs in the balance. Our homes, our farms, and most important, our very lives.

Question: Do you think we will have compulsory savings or a special war tax if the bond campaign does not produce sufficient revenues? Answer: In my personal opinion, this month is probably the acid test. This national figures indicate that the American public is stepping up its purchases of war bonds. Again I must say, subscriptions are not heavy enough, but everyone is working intensively to bring the national figure to one billion per month commencing this month. If we meet the reasonable figure set by our government, I am sure we will be spared the compulsory saving plan. It's up to us. We are being tested.

Question: Do you think Washington county will make its July quota of $302,900.00? Answer: That question must and will be answered by the good loyal patriotic citizens of Washington county. I personally have faith that the answer to the enemies of democracy who would destroy our way of life, take away from us our religious liberties and enslave us and our children, will be such that the subscriptions will pour in from now on in ever increasing amounts so that our government and our citizens will be proud of their accomplishment. I like to consider purchases of war bonds as insurance which costs us absolutely nothing. By buying bonds, we insure our homes, our farms, our families. We pay the premium when we buy the bond, but we get the premium back with interest and the insurance has been free and has not cost us a single cent.

My final answer on the quota is that even if Washington county bought twice, three, or four times as many bonds as anyone thought they should buy, they would be twice, three times or four times as well off as any other county when the war is over. You can't buy too many bonds. The more you buy the better situation you will be in when the re-construction starts. Buying war bonds is not giving, it is saving, by investing your money in the safest, soundest investment in the world, the U. S. government. You have never heard anyone say, "Don't save so much." Buy as many war bonds as you can. This is our land, our country. Let's keep it ours.

Former Resident of Town Kewaskum Dies

Arnold H. Bartelt, 41, resident of the town of Kewaskum most of his life, passed away at 11 a. m. Monday, July 13, at the Washington county home, West Bend, where he had been an inmate since 1932. Death was attributed to heart disease, with which he had been seriously ill the past two weeks.

Mr. Bartelt, who was unmarried, was born May 12, 1901, in the town of Kewaskum and was a resident of that township until going to West Bend 10 years ago. He formerly made his home just south of the village. The only immediate survivors are two half-brothers, Roman Backhaus of the town of West Bend and Robert Bartelt of the town of Auburn.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 p. m. Thursday, July 16, from the Techtman Funeral home here and at 2 p. m. at the St. Lucas Evangelical Lutheran church. The Rev. Gerhard Knies officiated and interment was made in the parish cemetery. Pallbearers were Freddie and Roy Schultz, Edwin Hammen, Calvin and Robert Bartelt and Carl Backhaus. Our condolences are extended to the bereaved survivors.

Waste Fats Wanted in Newest Salvage Drive

The war production board Monday opened a non-stop national salvage campaign, with the goal being the amassing for war use of all the nation's scrap metal, old rubber, and waste fats. This newest salvage drive will be "for the duration," according to information received from the WPB by D. J. Kenny, chairman of the Washington County Salvage committee, West Bend.

A feature of the latest campaign will be a drive to collect every drop of grease and every ounce of fat from the kitchen of every home in the country and put them to work blasting the Axis in explosives. All housewives are urged to save waste fats and greases for this patriotic purpose. Meat markets are co-operating and are paying 4 and 5 cents a pound for the waste, depending upon its condition.

The need for waste fats and greases is urgent. War in the Pacific has greatly reduced the supply of vegetable fats from the Far East. It is necessary to find substitutes for them. Moreover, fats make glycerine, and glycerine makes explosives for us and our Allies—explosives to down the Axis, destroy their planes, stop their tanks, sink their ships. Housewives can help fill this great need. Don't throw away a single drop of used cooking fat—bacon grease, meat drippings, frying fats—every kind you use. After you've got all the cooking good from them, pour them through a kitchen strainer into a clean, wide-mouthed can. Keep in a cool, dark place. Do not use glass containers or paper bags.

Take the waste fats and greases to your meat dealer when you've saved a pound or more. He is co-operating patriotically. He will pay you for your waste fats and get them started on their way to the war industries. It will help him if you can deliver your fats early in the week. See him, also, for printed suggestions on what you can do to help in this salvage drive to win the war.

In addition to the campaign for waste fats and greases, a thorough collection of useful scrap materials will be made from now until the end of the war. Metal scrap, including iron, steel, aluminum, copper, lead, nickel, tin, zinc, and antimony will be gathered by regular junk dealers. In 29 cities campaigns are being organized by municipal authorities. An intensive search for rubber will be continued, despite the drive just ended. The WPB reports that more than 25,000 farm implement dealers will help to recover scrap from rural areas in a "national scrap harvest" to start about Aug. 1. Iron and steel manufacturers have raised a $1,000,000 fund for a national advertising campaign to stimulate the collection of metal and other scrap, and glycerine producers and associated industries have raised another $500,000.

The important fact about this campaign, Mr. Kenny stresses, is that it will be an "all out" effort from now on until the end of the war. Waste material, "junk," of all kinds is needed for war industries. Practically all the "junk" around your house—anything metal or rubber, rags, manila rope, burlap bags—can be used in making essential war materials. Give your "junk" collection to a charity or sell it to a junk dealer.

Bond Sales Show County May Reach $302,900 Goal

The tempo of U. S. war bond sale, so far this month would make it appear that Washington county would reach its $302,900.00 goal for July, according to Robert H. Rolfs, executive chairman of the Washington County War Savings staff.

Mr. Rolfs has been speaking each night throughout the county in connection with the showing of the defense council films. In all of his talks he has stressed the importance of everyone doing all they possibly can by investing every dollar they can in war bonds. The people in Washington county have done well in the past, but must realize the need is greater today, and must more than double what they have been doing to meet the quota set up for Washington county.

Although the first half of July has opened up well, the same tempo must continue throughout the month. With industry lining up in the "10% Club" in good fashion and with most companies in Washington county having close to 100% of their employees on the payroll allotment plan for the purchase of war bonds, they are doing their part to reach this goal.

Farmers, professional men and others who are not on a regular pay roll have a moral obligation to set up a system of their own for the regular purchase of war bonds. Their goal and everyone's goal should be to invest as much as possible in war bonds. Mr. Rolfs further stressed in his talks the necessity of thinking in terms of $100 bonds and $100.00 bonds—not in 10c and 25c stamps. War stamps are important for some to enable them to build up for the purchase of a bond, but too many use the buying of stamps as a way out for thinking that they are doing their share, when they should and could afford to buy a $25.00 war bond as easily as a 25c stamp.

On Thursday night Mr. Rolfs spoke at Jackson, and on Friday at German town which ended a two week speaking tour. The attendance at all of the showings throughout the county of the defense council films has been very gratifying, enabling both the council of defense and the war savings staff to reach a great number of residents in the county.

2 Men Badly Hurt in Crash After Dance

Two men sustained serious injuries early Monday morning when a car in which they were returning to their homes after a dance at Round Lake left County Trunk Highway F east of Dundee and turned over in a field.

The victims, who were taken to the Memorial hospital at Sheboygan, were Elwin Ford, 20, of Cascade, the driver, and Clarence Weinhold, 22, of Walden. Ford sustained severe lacerations and a broken shoulder and his companion suffered a severe cut over the right eye and other cuts and bruises. Fond du Lac county highway police reported that the car owned by Louis Ford, the driver's father, failed to negotiate a curve about 200 feet west of the Sheboygan county line at 12:55 a. m. The vehicle went off the road and into a field for 100 feet, rolled over several times sideways and then ended over, coming to rest on its left side.

LOCAL MAN'S CAR BURNS

A Chevrolet auto owned by Lloyd Flynn of this village was almost totally destroyed by fire Tuesday night on County Trunk Highway G about six miles north of Kewaskum. Trouble in the motor is believed to have originated in the carburetor caused the car to catch fire while it was being driven by Flynn. The car began burning after flames were seen shooting out of the exhaust pipe. Flynn stopped the machine and he and his wife, who was with him, left the car in time to escape the flames. A local garageman was called and he attempted to check the flames with a hand extinguisher but the fire had too good a start. The interior of the car, rear tires and all of the windows were completely destroyed and the paint burned off the body. The front tires and front end of the car were all that escaped damage. The Flynn's reside in the Mrs. Robert Backhaus home on Second street.

Dear Ma— There is not much to write about and anyhow even if there was the top large word not give me time enough to write about it.

I see where we declared war on the Balkan states Bulgaria, Rumania and Hungary. When it first came over the radio that we declared war on three states extra it sort of jarred me on account of we were already fighting so many states.

Well, mom, do not worry about me as from all I hear it is softer being here in the army than being a plain civilian. The situation back home is very heart-breaking to me.

Gosh, mom, I guess you and pop take more orders right now in a day than I get in the army in a week.

I hope you are all fixed on priorities also whatever they are. Everybody seems to be having them. Sergeant Mooney says I need not worry about having them as I had them when I was a boy.

PEPTIC ULCER

When London was threatened with bombs many parents, at the request of the government, sent their children to America or to distant points in England.

This can be readily understood when we remember that the children are with their parents during a bombing and are sharing a common danger.

Another instance of how the nervous system can gradually accommodate itself to danger is reported by Maj. C. A. Hinds, London correspondent for the Journal of the American Medical Association.

While it is admitted that poor cooking, irregular meals and irregular sleep may be factors in causing peptic ulcer among soldiers, the nervous element before the men become accustomed to danger is the biggest factor.

Questions Asked By Blood Donors

Now that there is need of blood donors in both civil and military life, the questions arise as to how much blood a donor may give at one time, how soon thereafter is his blood back to normal so that he can give another lot of blood.

Observations were made on a total of 200 blood donors who have given blood for 636 transfusions at the University hospital. The list of donors was composed almost entirely of medical students, the resident staff and employees, so that the subjects were young men who were available for follow-up study.

The average time required to replace the iron in the blood was about 49 1/2 days. When a smaller amount of blood was given recovery to the normal amount of hemoglobin occurred in less time.

Star Dust

By VIRGINIA VALE Released by Western Newspaper Union. LARRY PARKS, young Columbia Pictures' leading man, and eight other lads who are making their first bid for screen fame have taken over the 26-room house once owned and occupied by the late Thomas Meighan.

The sponsors who, seven years ago, were farsighted enough to see the potentialities of an obscure radio couple and build them into the famed Fibber McGee and Molly, give radio another innovation this summer; they're substituting a

John Nesbitt and Meredith Willson Metro news commentator and a musician in a half-hour replacement program while Fibber and Molly vacation. The commentator is John Nesbitt, the musician, Meredith Willson.

Walt Disney, whose "Bambi" will soon be released through RKO, has acquired the screen rights to Major Alexander P. de Seversky's "Victory Through Air Power," and will make it into a feature picture for exhibition sometime this fall.

Imagine Charles Boyer producing and acting in something called "Flesh and Fantasy." It will be his first production for Universal; he'll star in one episode, Edward G. Robinson in another, and let's hope they change the title!

Capt. Hewitt Wheelers, the army flier who was cited by the President for his exploits in the Pacific war, will play himself in a short subject, "Beyond the Line of Duty," which Warner Brothers will produce for the army air corps.

This shortage of leading men has proved too much for Harold Lloyd. He's produced two pictures for RKO, "A Girl, a Guy and a Gob" and "My Favorite Spy" and has left the studio. His next picture would have been "Butterfingers," a football comedy.

Samuel Goldwyn will select six of the loveliest and most talented secretaries of Washington, D. C., for roles in "They Got Me Covered," co-starring Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour. The story brings out the part that Washington secretaries play in helping to run the government; it's said that they arrive in Washington at a rate of 5,000 daily!

The biggest all-star lineup ever gathered for a summer radio show is the one that Bob Hawk's sponsors have booked for Friday nights; it's a 60-minute show featuring Xavier Cugat's orchestra, Lonnie Boswell and Margo Lanny Ross and a new comedian, Herb Shriner.

Historical in the News

By VIRGINIA VALE Released by Western Newspaper Union. Kentucky's 150th Birthday RECENTLY the post office department issued this new three-cent commemorative postage stamp to honor the 150th anniversary of Kentucky's admission to the Union. It was quite appropriate that there should be reproduced on it the Thomas Gilbert White mural in the state capitol at Frankfort, which shows Daniel Boone, long rifle in hand, standing on a promontory high above the Kentucky river looking out over the beautiful valley where the capital of the future state was to be located.

For if ever two names have become synonymous in the minds of Americans those names are "Kentucky" and "Daniel Boone." Dan'l Boone was the pioneer par excellence, the trail blazer who led his people to the Promised Land beyond the Alleghenies and there laid the foundations for the first truly "Western" state.

Before ever the white man came, the Indians who roamed its forests, its canyons and its fertile valleys gave it the name of Kan-tuck-kee, which means "the dark and bloody ground," because it was the scene of interminable warfare between half a dozen tribes of fierce red men. It was a "dark and bloody ground" indeed during the period of early settlement, but when it was over there came another romantic period—the era of the antebellum South, of "My Old Kentucky Home." And even today the memory of that era still lingers, conjured up whenever Kentucky's kick-name is mentioned.

If you would capture the essence of this commonwealth, with whom the whole nation is joining in celebrating its 150th birthday this year, you can do no better than to read "The Kentucky," the latest volume in the "Drivers of America" series, published by Farrar and Rinehart. In the preface, the author, Thomas D. Clark of the faculty of the University of Kentucky, writes:

The Kentucky is not alone a river or a drainage system, it is a way of life. In fact, before it injects its merry flood deep into the ceremony of having their horns comes several ways of life. It would be an extremely imaginative person indeed who could stand down at its mouth and conjure up the story of the river and its numerous tributaries. How much humanity this story contains is difficult to explain. The pattern is both varied and complex.

Other rivers, much more pretentious in length and certainly so in girth, go drifting nonchalantly past large industrial cities. Or they daily along through wide and pleasant bottom lands. They can boast loudly of romantic days when men raced proud steamboats to the sea, or of the grand parties played at rich pavilions in both national and international politics.

No unusually proud paddle wheels have churned the waters of the Kentucky, nor have any proud steamers been humiliated in the ceremony of having their horns stripped from them because they were defeated. No momentous international decisions have interrupted the course of its history. Yet the Kentucky is not a humble stream; rather, it is bold in its course. Like its buckskinned pioneers of another era, it wears its silver buckles at shoe tongue or knee, but it is American along every inch of it, and it personifies the American dream of rugged independence and self-determination.

THE HUNTERS OF KENTUCKY We are a hardy, free-born race. Each man to fear a stranger's hand. What'er the game we join in chase, Despising time and danger; And if a daring foe annoys, What'er his strength and forces, We'll show him that Kentucky boys Are alligator horses.

NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

UPHOLSTERY repair work is rather costly hand labor. However, if you can clear a corner where you may work on it a little at a time, it is easy to do. Use boxes or an old table to rest the piece on at a comfortable working height. Remove the outside covering first, keeping it whole to use as a pattern; then remove padding, springs and webbing, writing down everything you want to remember about how they were placed; also the amount of webbing used. When the last tack is out, re-web the bottom of the seat, as shown, with strong new webbing and a homemade stretcher.

NOTE: You will find some upholsterers' tricks clearly sketched in Book 7, and the new Book 8, of the series prepared by Mrs. Spears for readers, shows you how to make a simple chair frame. To get a copy send your order to:

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living life itself—a constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

Your hands are precious to yourself as well as to the war effort. Don't reach into moving machinery to remove clogged hay from the mower blades or loosen a choked shredder.

Sheep respond exceedingly well to good pasture. Of all livestock lambs are best able to get into market condition on pasture while fed a minimum of grain, say animal husbandmen at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

Eighteen runaway horses are no conducive to calmness during an air raid, explains the Wisconsin Council of Defense. At all times, even when harnessed for work or driving, horses should wear a neck rope or halter with shank six to eight feet long. At the first sign of a raid, unhitch your horse and tie him to the back of the wagon or plow. If no better tethering place, such as a tree, is available, never fasten the horse with the reins.

The demonstration plots on both farms contain plantings of a number of the more common varieties of potatoes planted by Wisconsin growers. A visit to the field day assigned to each of these two plots will give local growers an excellent opportunity to see for themselves the advantages and disadvantages of growing the different varieties. A good speaking program is also being planned for each of the two meetings.

IN MEMORIAM

In fond memory of our beloved husband and father, John Gatzke, who died three years ago, on July 20, 1939: Friends may think we have forgotten. When at times they see us smile. But they little know the heart-ache. Our smiles hide all the while. For days of sadness still come o'er us. Tears in silence often flow. When we think of how you died In harvest time three years ago. Sadly missed by Mrs. Emma Gatzke and children.

Twenty-five Years Ago

A letter was received by Frank Heppel from Edwin Backus, with the 2nd regiment, stationed at Camp Wilson, San Antonio, Tex. Edwin writes that he expects to come home within a month; also that the weather is warm, that he was on an excursion to Corpus Christie on the Gulf of Mexico on an excursion and that he witnessed several polo games.

The 10-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bartelt of New Fane passed away. Daniel Schrauth of St. Kilian received the news of the death of his son Anton's wife at Fond du Lac.

Moses will give you the highest prices for your scrap iron, rubber, paper, hides and furs a specialty. Leave orders at Wm. Ziegler's, Kewaskum.

Albert Seefeld is busy harvesting hay.

Wm. P. Metz is at present employed at L. Rosenheimer's store as freight and general errand man.

Wm. F. Schultz was at Milwaukee, where he served on the jury of the federal court.

Chas. Weddig and Fred Hinkel left for Brooke, Ind., where they will be employed for some time with the Seth. Day ditching crew.

The board members of the Kewaskum public library held an old-fashioned spelling bee at the library. Forty-five contestants participated and words of every day use were chosen. Principal Simon selected the words. Mrs. David Rosenheimer captained one team and chairman L. D. Guth the other. The last two to stand up were Hulda Quandt and Loraine Casper and they both went down on the word "pleurisy." The prize consisted of free use of all rental books at the library for a year and no fines to pay for a year if the books are kept more than two weeks.

TVA 'Demountable Homes'

And now, under the grim necessity of war, comes the demountable, movable home that can be moved from post to pillar, and which is built on an assembly line as the craftsmen of Detroit used to build automobiles. Uncle Sam got his idea from the Tennessee Valley Authority who first used the demountable home.

On the assembly line at Muscle Shoals, Ala. The houses being built here are made in uniform-sized, portable sections, and can be put together in about four hours.

Here is the first "slice" of a demountable house being put in place on its permanent foundation. The lady of the house will be able to cook dinner in her new kitchen within a few hours.

The lady of the demountable house finds that, except for soap and towels, the bathroom is all ready for the master to take a tub when he comes home. Framework of a demountable house of the type built for TVA and now adopted by the government. The wheels enable the house to be rolled along the assembly line.

Workers are preparing to load a section of a demountable house on a trailer truck (right) at the end of the assembly line.

Everything but pork chops! A few hours after the first section of the "demountable" was put in place, milady enters the kitchen and finds it completely equipped and ready for business.

Completeness of the demountable house shown here.

Porches Into Nurseries
This year when the birth rate is rapidly increasing and a housing shortage exists in key areas, many families are converting porches into nurseries. Attractive pastel-colored rooms can be quickly and inexpensively built with insulating panels. These panels are especially adaptable to a baby's room, because they possess acoustical qualities which will deaden noise from the street and other rooms in the house.

Silt Deposit at Dam
It is estimated that the average volume of silt carried by the Colorado river into the reservoir at Boulder dam will be 137,000 acre feet annually. This will decrease with upstream development. Provision has been made for a silt pocket which will store from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 feet of silt. At the end of 50 years it is estimated that 3,000,000 acre-feet of silt will have been deposited there.

"He is outside in the darkness; he will kill you."

CHAPTER VII

quarter-mile from San Paramore called a Gonzales ahead to him, while they talked to Con about the fact that Con had been talking at the saloon. Apparently, his informant knew all about official business at Con Cameron and Con was the same.

"What about what Ramon's mind?" he asked. "Can't you hear 'em talk, you'd say in the Territory they are the hefty busca- 'em tell it. You and your country boys."

Dud whirled her deftly away from Gonzales and out among the dancers. She pressed close against him and looked wisely into his face.

Dance after dance Con kept her. Then Gonzales disappeared. He sat with her after the eighth or ninth dance, beyond the little bar. Jeff and his girl joined them for a drink and cigarette. The two girls chattered—chiefly about Gonzales' fury.

Then a shabby Mexican appeared at Con's side out of the crowd. Con found his face vaguely familiar and tried to place him.

"I am your friend," the man whispered. "You gave back my money. Now, I pay; Gonzales will kill you. He is outside in the darkness. He will kill you, he has said to men at the door. So I slipped away to give you this word."

"I'll fix him!" he grunted. "I'll give him all the trouble he can pack!"

He shook his head at Jeff, who was getting up from between the two girls.

"Stay out of it," he said grimly. "This is my war."

He went with Jeff trailing across the end of the big room and to the side door. Someone muttered out there—a nervous sound. Then, from the right, away from the lounging group, there was the roar of a shot and a blast of flame. A bullet twitched Con's hair like a finger.

Automatically he drew his Colt, just as he had done a thousand times in practice. As it came level, pointing at the spot where that flame had blossomed, he let down the hammer, thumbed it back and loosed a second shot. Then he twisted inside the room.

The music stopped. The dancers cried out excitedly.

Then someone outside yelled that Gonzales was dead.

Con watched them carry Gonzales in. There was something about the sagging figure that reminded him of a dead rattler. A hand tugged at his sleeve. He turned to face Jeff and take the tin cup Jeff held out. He lifted it and gulped down the drink, coughed and wiped his eyes.

snarled in his ear and caught the girl's sleeve. "Es mio! She is mine! You take another—"

"You are his girl?" Con asked in halting Spanish, holding her wrist. "I am yours, if you want me—and you can keep me!" she said.

Con whirled her deftly away from Gonzales and out among the dancers. She pressed close against him and looked wisely into his face.

gallop and went racing to a house on the edge of San Marcos. In the pale moonlight he saw a dark mass of horsemen, not fifty yards away.

"Get back!" he yelled at them, sliding the Winchester out. "We've got you surrounded! Back, you nit-wits! Back!"

As he began to shoot, holding low at the horses' legs, Jeff's voice lifted in a yell, picking up the phrase Con had used. The mass of riders seemed fairly to blow apart as the carbine rattled. But a horse went down, and another. Scattered return shots came from the sides of the road.

"Come on," Jeff called to him. "Big and Kinky's gone!"

He spun Pancho, and together they thundered away, with other horses pounding ahead of them. Out of San Marcos they galloped, with lead whining wispishly about them but not too close. They overhauled Big Yager and Kinky Odom; passed them with an encouraging yell. But a mile of alternate darkness and moonlight had been covered before Con saw Dud, Quill Hogan, and Catfish skylined.

Jeff and Con overtook them. Dud and Catfish seemed to have better horses than any of the others—including Hogan. Or, Con thought, perhaps the beaten man was not in condition to get the most out of his mount. He lagged farther behind and made some indistinct answer when Dud yelled at him to keep up. The four spurred away from him, then became three when Catfish's horse slowed. As a trio, they slackened pace to a walk in the foothills of the Lobos and listened and let the blown animals get breath.

"Well, sir!" Dud drawled cheerfully. "Nevil Lowe, he will be a disappointed young sheriff, tonight. Who was that shooting, after we left town? Big and Kinky?"

"Like hell!" Jeff answered before Con could speak. "That was Con, stopping the posse."

"Listen!" Con grunted suddenly. "They're not so far behind right now. What do we do?"

"Why, I reckon the smart thing is to set right here and see about things," Dud answered.

They sat minute after minute, smoking, listening to the flat rattle of shots until the sound died and only the small night-noises of the hills could be heard. Dud grunted impatiently and moved his horse. Con checked him with a word.

"Wait! Somebody's coming. It might be our bunch."

"Just one horse," Jeff announced. It was Catfish and he was panting as if he, not the horse, had been running, when he came up to them. Dud called a sharp question.

Vegetable Preparation and Processing Guide

Stock Those Shelves

Well-justified pride is yours if you can gaze at the summer's crop of vegetables, nicely put up on your canning shelf for, comes the winter, you have but to open one of those brightly colored jars with tomatoes, peas, beans, beets or carrots or any of the other vegetable favorites and part of that well-balanced meal is planned on its way to the table.

Safest method for canning vegetables is by the pressure cooker. Your concern here is to be sure to process the exact length of time the vegetable requires, as indicated by the table at the top. If not properly processed, the food will spoil.

Selecting Vegetables. Young, tender vegetables, freshly gathered, give you the best finished product. Canning cannot remedy tough, over-mature produce, so do not expect it to. Nor, should you expect to can what you cannot dispose of at the table while fresh.

Commercial canners use vegetables grown to order, not leftovers, so it behooves you, homemakers, to take a tip from them.

Cleanliness is important. You'll enjoy letting cool water trickle, trickle, trickle over the vegetables to free them entirely of every trace of soil. Any soil left on the vegetable can carry bacteria, and thus be a major factor in spoiling an otherwise good product.

Process the jars of vegetables as soon as they are packed, never allowing them to stand around until you get to the serious business of canning.

Spoilage Factors. Mold, yeast and bacteria cause food spoilage. They lurk in air, soil and water and must be destroyed by proper processing if the food is to keep in perfect condition.

Then to assure food keeping well, pure the jar cover is fastened as tightly as possible. This you can do by any number of available devices.

It is also important when packing the jars, after vegetables have been precooked and you are spooning them into the jars, to wipe off any excess before fastening on the cover. Any small particles which lodge between cover and jar will cause spoilage.

Lynn Says:

How many jars will it take? That's the question many home canners are asking when it comes to figuring the number of jars she should have.

Here are hints on some of the common canned goods:

Tomatoes: 3 pounds yield a quart jar.
String Beans: 1 bushel yields 17 to 20 quart jars.
Greens: 1 bushel spinach yields 13 jars; 1 bushel dandelions yields 15 pints.
Corn: 100 ears of golden Bantam makes about 14 pints.
Beets: 12 pounds yields 6 pints in the stalk, 2 pint jars, if cut in pieces.
Peas: 1 bushel pods yields 14 pints.

"We'll make that son pay for it, boy!" Dud assured him fiercely. "Don't you never think we won't make Nevil Lowe remember tonight. Come on, now! No use crying about it."

They rode in silence by twisting trails to the cabin. Nobody was in talking mood when they reached the place. They rolled into their blankets, but Catfish took his to the point used as lookout. He said that he was not sleepy; he would stand guard.

Cooling the Jars.

Proper cooling is important to the good keeping of canned food. Do not set them in a draft, but rather away from one, with jars far enough apart to allow a free circulation of air around them.

Stacking the jars or covering them with a cloth does not allow for free circulation of the air. Jars should not be packed in boxes or in the canning cupboard until they are properly cool.

When the jars are cool, test to see if they are sealed properly, by taking a spoon and tapping the lid gently. If they give off a clear, ringing sound, they are properly sealed. If the sound is low and dull, there's a leak somewhere, and you would do best to re-can the food, and prevent spoilage.

Sterilizing Jars, Caps, Lids. To dip the jars, lids and caps in hot or warm water is not proper sterilization. Before placing in sterilizer, wash all caps and jars and lids in soapy suds, then rinse thoroughly. Place in a pan on a rack or on a cloth laid on the bottom of the pan and pour warm water over them. Bring to a boil and boil for 15 minutes. The equipment may stay in the hot water longer, until you are ready to use it.

Speed is Necessary. The time from which the vegetables or fruit are picked and canned should be pared down to exceed not more than two hours. Changes take place in the composition of the food which makes it less desirable for canning, each hour it is allowed to stand without being canned.

Packing the Food. Sandwiching the food down in the jars too tightly prevents the heat from getting around it and will result in improper processing. Especially important is a fairly loose packing with vegetables like corn, peas, greens and lima beans.

If liquid boils away or evaporates during processing, do not replace this other liquid before sealing the jar. Even though all the vegetables or fruits are not covered with juice, they will keep perfectly well, provided the contents are cooked properly and sealed well.

Since tomatoes are technically a fruit and are acid, they are canned differently from vegetables.

Tomatoes. Scald tomatoes in boiling water 1 minute. Soak in cold water 1 minute. Peel, core and pack into sterilized jars. Add 1 teaspoonful of salt to each jar and cover with boiling water or tomato juice to within 1/2 inch of the top. Put on cap, screw tightly and place in pressure cooker for 10 minutes at 5 pounds, in a hot water bath for 35 minutes or in the oven for 75 minutes.

If the directions for the vegetables you wish to can are not given in today's column, or if you have any vegetable canning problems, write to Miss Lynn Chambers, explaining your problem to her. Address your letters to her at Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Desplaines Street, Chicago, Illinois. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply. Yes, you get pleasure from eating oranges and drinking their juice. And you also get vitamins you need.

Oranges are the best way to make sure of vitamin C! Few foods supply much. It's easily lost in cooking. Yet you need an abundance daily, as you do not store it. Oranges also have vitamins A, B, and G; calcium, and other minerals.

Careless Paint Job Looks That Way; Patience Makes Job Worth While

by ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN

A slap dash paint job on furniture usually looks just that way. We're sorry we can't tell you airily how to splash a paint brush around and end up with a little masterpiece. But like everything else, it takes pains and patience to do a really good job. If you're willing to concede that point, then you'll find that it isn't really hard to do.

Having decided that a job worth doing at all is worth doing well, the next thing to think about is whether the furniture you have your eye on is worth the effort. Because, frankly, a lot of stuff people spend love and time on is junk to begin with and an ocean of paint won't make it anything else. It doesn't hurt to recall the fact that some of the world's most formal and beautiful furniture, especially in 18th century England and France, was painted, in short, that one can go Louis XV as well as Greenwich Village in planning a paint job. So be critical

THE POWER OF THE PRESS

Manufacturers and merchants sense the power of the press. Early they began using it to carry their advertising facts and ideas into homes. And they found it a most profitable way in which to tell their story to buyers. And the buyers in turn found it profitable to deal with those who were willing to state in print the values and services they offered.

ATTENTION

Horse and Cattle Owners!
Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war. Glycerine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. T. for high explosives and into Rendering Plants produce these products, as all dead animals buried or used otherwise are a waste to our country. Call your Renderer, Wm. Laabs, to collect your dead animals and you will be paid a fair price for them. Renderers can not pay an inflationary price as there is a ceiling on all of the products of rendering plants. Call at your nearest Phone West Bend 75 or Campbellsport 251 and reverse charges when you call. Yours truly, Wm. Laabs, Renderer.

"The kitchen brigade can clean up Hitler"

Don't wash dishes under the faucet. Use good sudsy water in a pan—with a rinse of hot water. It's healthier—and thrifter. Between-plates running water is wasted water and wasted money. Remember: water power is efficient power.

Save your pennies for U. S. SAVINGS STAMPS—to scour Hitler off the map. Every U. S. SAVINGS STAMP AND BOND is added energy in America's war effort.

CONSERVE FOR VICTORY

Patriotic Quick-Quiz
Prepared by Motor Vehicle Department State of Wisconsin

QUESTIONS

1. Why should a car motor be "warmed up" gradually before being driven hard?
2. Health experts say, "See your dentist twice a year." Can you name two good reasons why you should have your car checked often and kept in top running condition?
3. Do you know how oil and grease effect rubber?

ANSWERS

1. When a motor is cold, the oil is not in contact with all the parts. Therefore it is harmful to "razz" the motor to drive it hard before the motor oil is circulating freely.
2. Keeping your car in good mechanical condition will help to (a) preserve it and prolong its years of good service, and (b) prevent serious traffic accidents which sometimes result from mechanical failure, such as shimmying and poor brakes.
3. Oil and grease cause rubber to deteriorate. Oil and grease should never be put on rubber parts or on auto mobile tires.

Sleeping sickness outbreaks have developed in five Wisconsin counties so far this year among horses—Chippewa, Eau Claire, Polk, Fond du Lac and Dodge—says Dr. V. S. Larson, division.

Wisconsin milk haulers could get along with at least 1000 fewer trucks, if routes were better planned and trucks loaded more efficiently, according to a survey recently made in one Wisconsin county.

Only sure way to treat sleeping sickness in horses is by EARLY vaccination, says Dr. B. A. Bcaeh, Wisconsin veterinarian.

If you are caught during an enemy air raid, nearest sheltering place possible, advise the Council of Defense. Advise to machine gun positions out in the open.

HELP CONSERVE METALS BY "EXTRA CARE" OF APPLIANCES

All metals are needed during these times by Uncle Sam. They are being used by him in America's fast-moving war production. Help Uncle Sam by saving and taking care of the metals in your electric appliances. The manufacture and sale of new appliances has been curtailed.

You can do much to prolong the life of your electric helpers. Keep moving parts properly lubricated. Clean them often. Keep electric cords from kinking and don't pull on the cord when taking a plug from the wall. Ease the pressure on wringer rolls when not in use. Handle appliances carefully at all times and give them regular check-over.
