County Agent Notes

LATE POTATO BLIGHT AFFECTING CROP
In many sections of Washington county the late potato blight is seriously affecting the potato crop. The greatest damage appears to be on the late potato crop, the vines of which are still green and tender and readily affected by the fungus that causes late potato blight. The moist and foggy weather of the past few days has been exceedingly favorable for the reproduction of the blight fungus which are spread from plant to plant and from field to field by the wind and insects. Complete control of potato blight is very difficult to obtain when it is once well established in a field. However, its spread can be considerably checked if the field is carefully sprayed with a Bordeaux solution applied at the rate of 100 gallons per acre. In applying the spray care must be exercised to see that the spray completely covers the plants. This can be accomplished if the spray pressure is kept at about 250 pounds.
Bordeaux spray ingredients can either be purchased already mixed or it can be made by dissolving eight lbs. of copper sulphate and dilute to 100 gallons with 100 gallons of water. Add ten lbs. of slacked lime, stir, and strain carefully before using. The copper sulphate must be dissolved in a wooden container.
East Valley called at the John Roden home on Sunday afternoon.
Mrs. Joe Brodzeller, son Stanley and Miss Delores Bath attended the state fair at Milwaukee last Wednesday.
Miss Rose Theusch returned to her home after a few days' visit with her brother, Al, at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.
Primus Hilmes left on Saturday with a contingent of men from this county for the army induction center at Fort Sheridan, Ill.
Tech. Stanley Brodzeller of Fort Jackson, South Carolina, spent from Tuesday until Friday at his home here. He has been in the army thirteen months.
Johnnie Neuhoff, who spent the summer at the John Roden home, returned to his home at Milwaukee last week. He will enter the North Division high school next week.

DEFENSE HINTS
By flattening tin cans for salvage you also help flatten the Axis—beyond salvage.
By pooling cars and crowding as many war industry workers as possible into one, you not only save both cars and tires, but you also leave no room for Adolph and Tojo to crawl into the driver's seat.
By enrolling in civilian defense, the Wisconsin Council of Defense reminds us, we can show the Axis that we really are pushing the war effort along. And, if we all push hard together, we can push the Axis right off the map.

SCHOOL DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN! DRIVERS BEWARE!

DRIVE CAREFULLY

NO SCHOOL CHILD ACCIDENTS THIS YEAR AMERICA NEEDS THE YOUNGSTERS

By Fred W. Braun, The Safety Man
The opening of school calls for increased caution on the part of auto drivers. Unless you want to be responsible for the death or injury of a little child, you will heed the warning "School—Slow," and drive accordingly. The reduction in auto accidents due to the government's request that drivers slow down in cooperation with the move to conserve gasoline and tires proves that slow driving saves lives. If you've been cooperating with this movement and have slowed down, there's little to worry about, for the slow driver is invariably a cautious driver and school signs mean something to him. As a result, there should be a marked decrease in the number of school-child casualties this year. Let us hope so.
However, there's one phase of the hazard that requires special observance on the part of drivers. Youngsters who are just starting to school for the first time create the big danger. These kids do not "know the ropes." They are not familiar with traffic. They have had little or no instruction on how to conduct themselves on the streets except perhaps that which they received from their parents. Eventually they will be more self confident because of experience and training on safety they get from their teachers. In the meantime it is up to drivers to keep a sharp lookout for these little ones, especially where they are apt to dart out in front or from between cars.
It is hoped that a "no school child accident" record can be established this year—a record of so few casualties that our drivers can be proud of it and will want to maintain or lower it as the years go by. American lives are more valuable today than ever. Let us save them. Let 'em live!

Birth of a Bombardier

Would you personally like to bomb Berlin and Tokyo? From towns, cities, farms, factories and colleges thousands of American youths are answering "yes" and swarming into the world's largest bombardier college at Midland, Texas, to learn the technique. Scientifically selected to operate the secret, deadly U. S. bombardier, bombardier cadets are trained in 12 weeks to be the "most dangerous men in the world."

Where they are going is a military secret, but—a thousand bombardiers destroyed Cologne in a single night! And Uncle Sam's air force is training at least 25,000 bombardiers!

The tyro bombardier becomes familiar with his thrilling job with the bi-motored AT-11 training bomber. He watches mechanics who "keep 'em flying." At the bomb-loading dump, brawny ordnance men carry the kind of bright blue 100-pounders used for practice.

Each cadet drops as many as two hundred bombs during training—the equivalent of forty real raids. A scale model of Tokyo's waterfront industrial section provides a realistic target for bombardment, and really gives the boys something to shoot at.

These pictures tell how cadets from all corners of the U. S. become "lords of the bombsight."

Physical fitness is the prime requisite for cadets. Here they use practice bombs for "bombardier build-ups."

In ground school, a group watches an instructor using a model U. S. bomber and models of Japanese warships to illustrate a point.

Ready for bigger things, a cadet sits in the shark-nose of a B-18 bomber, awaiting the loading of the bomb bay by ordnance men.

Skimming low over a 30-foot target shack, a cadet at Midland army flying school sends missiles skimming into the ground whence they ricochet, rocket-like, into the pyramid-shaped structure.

Tyro bombardiers become familiar with the AT-11 training bombers.

Jeeps for Farming???
The army's jeep, or quarter-ton reconnaissance car, may get a job on farms after the war is over. Tests made by agricultural engineers of the department of agriculture show that the jeep can be highly useful as supplemental power for road use, for light plowing and for other field work, except for the cultivation of row crops. The jeeps, now being made for the army in large numbers, have 60-horsepower engines and four-wheeled drives.

Two-Way Radio for Police
Rapid development of two-way radio in municipal police departments showed that more than 45 per cent of the cities now have this facility. In 1941 the figure was 35.5 per cent and in 1940 only 26 per cent. Eighty-one per cent of all police cars have some radio equipment, as compared with approximately 75 per cent in 1941. The number of cities with radio equipment for motorcycles also increased—from 27.9 per cent to 31.1 per cent of the cities reporting.

RED RANGE

By EUGENE CUNNINGHAM

He staggered slightly as he stood beside Pancho.

"Good — Lord!" Con exploded. "Come on, boy! We've got to do things."

The child came out of the bushes, dragging the big Winchester, a sturdy, blue-eyed towhead, who seemed to Con so tiny that his manlike way was incredible. He staggered slightly as he stood beside Pancho. A flour sack was wrapped clumsily around his right arm.

He sagged wearily against Con and his face was hot against Con's hand. Pancho went on across the creek and looked down at the boy who had evidently come down to fill. Twenty yards beyond was the little adobe house. The door stood open.

Con set the boy down and swung off. At the door he stopped to look into a dusky, untidy room, that kitchen which he had promised Mrs. Tension to examine. In a corner sprawled the body of a tall man in faded chambray shirt and patched overalls, barefoot. Con went over to the body and looked down at the grim, beard-stubbed face. Only a glance was needed to see that he had died almost instantly, of a bullet near the heart.

In the other room Mrs. Gracey lay upon a home-made bedstead, breathing harshly through her mouth. She was fully dressed and her thin, work-hardened hand picked at a bandage as rude as that upon the boy's arm. She had been shot through the right shoulder.

The boy came in and leaned against the wall, with fever-bright eyes moving from his mother to Con. "She's awful sick, ain't she?" he whispered. "But you can get the doctor, now. I tried to get her to eat."

Con went at the run to Pancho, swung up and loped to the dropped bucket. When he came back with cold water he took a clean white shirt from his alforja and ripped it into bandages. He looked doubtfully at it, then shrugged.

"Well, no way to boil it and dry it, here. The thing is to get her down to the women."

He asked the boy if anything on wheels was here.

"Old spring wagon," the child said drowsily. "One horse. But Pa had to sell Coaly. He was our harness horse. And one shaft is busted and so's the seat. It's out back."

Con heard Caramba calling from the trail. He went out and waved the two up, to tell them quickly and shortly of the woman's condition. Caramba swore incredulously.

"Doc" ought to be at the house, time we hit there," Skeets said frowningly. "Topeka told Gale that Doc's due out to check up on Miss Tension's heart. Let's look at the wagon."

"I'm going to try cleaning up their bandages," Con told them. "I'll be out when I get done."

He washed the quiet woman's shoulder and she hardly flinched, then bandaged it cautiously. The boy's wound was a deep gash like that on Con's own thigh.

The old wagon was as dilapidated as most other things on this shabby place. They took off the wheels and greased the axle, wired and braced the snapped shaft, patched and reinforced the harness. Pancho went between the shafts without trouble and only put back his ears nervously when Con drove him experimentally about the yard.

The three of them lifted Mrs. Gracey gently and carried her, mattress and all, out to the wagon, packing it down against the back of the old clothes against road shocks. Then Con got on the seat with the boy beside him. Caramba and Skeets helped ease the wagon down to the more level range at the mouth of the narrow trail.

"I reckon you can make out," Skeets decided, there. "Me and Caramba better go on to Red Mesa like Gale said."

He looked curiously at the boy.

"Son, who was it that done all this?"

"I didn't know 'em. I was asleep and I woke up because somebody was yelling outside the door for me to open up. Pa ask him who it was and he said something and Pa told Mom it was all right. He opened the door and—pow! pow! Pa fell

Turn a Meal Into a Banquet With Blueberry Muffins (See Recipes Below.)

Prepare for Week-Ends

Lazy days with first signs of fall in the air, wilted appetites and the whole family home for the week-end are a heavy drain on the homemaker. If she expects to spend any time with her family, Madame Housewife must scurry around and plan a preparedness campaign which will stock her refrigerator with foods that can be pulled-like the traditional bunny out of the hat—and still keep her reputation as the "best cook around here."

Remember, you can do more for your table by arranging Concord grapes tastefully with a few golden pears, bluish red apples on rich brown leaves or in well polished pewter, copper or brass vessels than rare, expensive flowers that your family does not know how to appreciate. Then, of course, if you have a few yellow or deep red chrysanthemums in your fall garden, let them fall gracefully in and out among their own leaves in a burnished bowl, and you leave nothing to be desired.

Here's the mouse which you can have as a main dish. Make it the night before and it's already to serve just with unrolling:

Chicken-Ham Mousse. (Serves 6)

3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups chicken broth
1 1/2 cups ground, cooked chicken
1/2 cup ground, cooked ham
1/4 cup salad dressing
1 minced scallion
1/4 cup whipped cream
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin

Add salt to egg yolks, then broth. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until mixture coats a spoon. Pour over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool. Fold in remaining ingredients. Place strips of green pepper, sliced olives, sliced hard-cooked eggs on bottom of oiled mold. Pour in mousse. Let chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce and garnish with romaine, endive and tomato wedges.

Dispositions will all be the merrier when you serve these bran-blueberry muffins because the B-vitamins, often called morale builders, in the bran and the magnesium in the blueberries, which is reputed to create kindlier feelings toward your fellow men, really get together and do their best for the system.

All-Bran Blueberry Muffins. (Makes 12 small muffins)

2 tablespoons shortening
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup all-bran
3/4 cup milk
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup fresh blueberries

Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in all-bran and milk and let soak until all moisture is taken up. Sift dry ingredients and add blueberries. Add to first mixture and stir just until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin tins until two-thirds full and bake in a moderately hot (400-degree) oven about 30 minutes.

Julienne Salad Bowl. (Serves 6)

1 cup cabbage
1 cup carrots
1/2 cup green pepper
1/4 cup red radishes
Garlic

Curly endive or shredded lettuce
Shred all the vegetables fine. Arrange mounds of them in a bowl, and toss french dressing over them. Rub the bowl in which they are served with garlic.

Baked Bean Rarebit.
1 can baked beans
1/4 pound American cheese, grated
3 slices bacon, fried crisp
1/2 green pepper sliced

Mix beans, green pepper and crumbled bacon with grated cheese and pour into a casserole. Bake in a moderate oven 35-40 minutes. A cake that's a tasty sugar saver is this one:

Whipped Cream Sugarless Cake.
2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
2 1/4 teaspoons double acting baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or shortening
1 cup light corn syrup
2 eggs, unbeaten
1/2 cup orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup cream, whipped

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift dry ingredients together three times. Cream shortening, add orange rind, and then syrup beating well after each addition. Add 1/4 of flour and beat until smooth and well blended. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each. Add remaining flour in thirds alternately with orange juice, beating after each addition for best results. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in a moderate (375-degree) oven 30 minutes. Cool. Spread whipped cream between and on top of layers.

Sunday—"Swiss Avenue," once a fashionable street in my home town, was so named because elegant ladies drove along in state on pretty afternoon. And invariably they'd be dressed to kill in what was then the most stylish material of all, dotted swiss.

Monday—The wedge heel is only the beginning of what we're in for in the shoe line, according to the gossip of the trade! Furniture heels are coming "in" and what's more, they'll be inlaid, carved and spool turned. You may be walking on Chippendale or Duncan Phyfe's as well as sitting on them.

Tuesday—The bathrooms in the Cornelius Vanderbilt mansion on Fifth avenue were so splendid that the wall coverings are now on exhibit in a museum. These include rare wall papers and some hand-painted panels.

Wednesday—In a newly erected house, built at a total cost of $2,600,

A CYCLE OF HUMAN BETTERMENT

ADVERTISING gives you new ideas, and also makes them available to you at economical cost. As these new ideas become more accepted, prices go down. As prices go down, more persons enjoy new ideas. It is a cycle of human betterment, and it starts with the printed words of a newspaper advertisement.
