Third was won by Oak Creek Chip, setter, owned and handled by Roy Johnson, South Milwaukee.

Other stakes run Sunday were the Women's handler and nonwinners events. Three winners were named in each event.

A gallery of about 500 watched the afternoon running of the open all-age over the 600 acre area. Fifty dogs competed in the six stake, two day trial.

This was the club's fifth annual fall shooting dog event. A challenge trophy, donated by Governor Heil, was awarded in the open shooting stake. A banquet was held Saturday night at the Forest Lake lodge.

Evelyn Volm is Bride of Robert J. Kleiber

Summer flowers decorated St. Bridget's church for the marriage of Miss Evelyn Rose Volm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Volm of Kewaskum, R. D. and Robert John Kleiber, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kleiber of Campbellsport, solemnized at 9 a. m. Monday, Sept. 7, by the Rev. Joseph Schaefer of Cleveland, Wis., uncle of the bridegroom.

The bride was gowned in shimmering white satin designed with full skirt, snug bodice, and long tight sleeves. Wide bands of chantilly lace were panelled down the front and continued around the long train. She wore a short full msty veil that carried out the same motif with the chantilly lace binding and was held together with a Juliet headpiece of seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

Miss Helen Volm, attending her sister as maid of honor, and Mrs. Roman Anders, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid, were attired in floor-length frocks of rose pink and Roman blue taffeta with snug bodices and full skirts. Hyacinth clusters adorned their hair and they carried large bouquets of white gladioli.

Little Marjorie Volm, sister of the bride, as flower girl wore a white satin frock trimmed with ruffles and a very full skirt. She carried a bouquet of white roses and blue and pink blossoms.

Al Volm, brother of the bride, was best man and Roman Anders was the groomsmen. Al Bertram, Jr., and Arnold Schaefer, Jr. were the ushers. Dinner was served to 40 guests preceding an afternoon reception. The home was decorated with gladioli.

Mr. and Mrs. Kleiber will reside at Campbellsport where the bridegroom is proprietor of

Dogs of War

Long a figure of speech, "dogs of war" has a real meaning, for Uncle Sam is drafting a K-9 corps for war duty. The army has called for two hundred dogs to be trained as the nucleus of a much larger corps, which will be used to guard food depots and other war establishments, accompanied, of course, by the usual human sentries.

Why a dog, you may ask, if there is already a sentry on the job? Well, a saboteur, for instance, might easily succeed in hiding himself from the human sentry in an isolated spot. But he would have a more difficult time fooling the keen sense of smell possessed by a dog.

Dogs for Defense, Inc., is the organization recruiting dogs for Uncle Sam. Rigid requirements are laid down for canine candidates for the corps. Such dogs as Dalmatians, Dobermanns, Afghans, and German or Belgian shepherds are the ideal types.

These photos show you the training of the first few dogs to be drafted for service in this war. Photos were made in New Jersey, where soldiers from Fort Hancock gave them their first taste of army life.

In other countries dogs have been used in war for years. Russia has an army of 50,000 dogs; Germany is believed to have a canine corps numbering 100,000; France used to have a big dog army, employing dogs even for hauling light guns.

At left, "Hans" learns to look where the finger points. If he misses anything with his eyes his nose will pick it up.

ON PARADE... The dogs are exercised and walked many times over the "beat" they are expected to patrol, as shown in the picture above. They learn that men in uniform have a right to be on this "beat," but others have not. So when on night duty the dogs are right on their toes for unauthorized prowlers.

Right: An Afghan and a German shepherd are learning to stand fast under fire here. The soldiers blaze away with their pistols while the dogs are kept in leash.

ROOKIE SQUAD... A captain and three military policemen are shown with four canine recruits. The dog second from the right is unfamiliar to most Americans. It is an Afghan, a real aristocrat of dogdom.

Wisconsin Quail Check
The bobwhite quail population on the 3,200-acre Prairie du Sac Pittman-Robertson experimental project in Wisconsin suffered a 54 per cent reduction last winter, according to the Wisconsin conservation department. This compares with a 48 per cent loss in 1941 and an average loss since 1929 of 42 per cent. Most of the losses were suffered in the New Year's storm, early in January. No artificial feeding is done on the area.

Cotton Fertilizer Test
Southern farmers usually have used 3-8-5 fertilizer mixtures, which means 3 per cent nitrogen, 8 per cent phosphorus, and 5 per cent potassium. Experiments, however, have demonstrated much better results by using a 6-8-4 mixture. A ton of 3-8-5 fertilizer applied to 3½ acres of land produced 3,250 pounds of cotton; but a ton of 6-8-4 with higher nitrogen content, applied to a similar acreage, produced 4,070 pounds.

MENTAL CASES

During the last war a medical officer, examining a recruit, reminded him that as he had had attacks of bronchitis, he would hardly be fit for overseas. The chest was clear but the physician pointed out that under stress and bad weather conditions the bronchitis might return and he would be a liability to the country. He was a superior type of individual and pleaded so hard that the medical officer talked the matter over with the captain of the unit he was joining. As it was thought that the outdoor life might "toughen" him, it was agreed to accept him as there was nothing against him but the "history" of the attacks.

The outdoor life at camp agreed with him, he had no attacks of bronchitis, and gained 15 pounds—the heaviest he had ever been. However, arriving in England the damp climate caused an acute attack of bronchitis and pneumonia and he had to be invalidated home without going to France.

Today every recruit has an X-ray film made of his chest before he receives the rest of his examination. Other tests are also made.

What about the mental condition of recruits? How can it be known how recruits will behave under the shock, danger, noise and surroundings of war?

This is going to be a difficult matter for the psychiatrist or mental specialist attached to the board of medical examiners. Thus Dr. Lauren H. Smith, physician-in-chief, department for mental and nervous diseases, Pennsylvania hospital, Philadelphia, says that the mental specialist ordinarily sees fully developed mental cases; we want him to use his skill to exclude, as far as possible, all those people who would be seriously damaged in their capacity for useful living by the circumstances of war.

However, as recruits are examined first at their own villages, towns or cities, the local physician is able to give information as to how the recruit conducts himself in the community and can advise whether the recruit is suitable for overseas or home service only, from the mental and emotional standpoint. Doubtful cases can always be sent on to the Medical Advisory board.

Thus it can be seen that two individuals whose blood pressure is the same, can go for a holiday of two or three weeks and on their return the blood pressure of one is higher than the blood pressure of the other. Questioning brings out the fact that the one whose blood pressure is higher than when he went away has "rested" all the time while the other has been active. The one who rested all the time admits, however, that as he was outdoors all the time he had a great appetite and as the food was good he had eaten more than was his custom and his weight had increased several pounds.

That lack of exercise and increase in food intake increases the blood pressure is pointed out by Dr. H. O. Gunewardene in his book "Blood Pressure and Its Sequelae (results)", who states that physical inactivity—taking no work or exercise—plays an important part in high blood pressure conditions in India. High blood pressure rarely occurs among rickshaw runners who take violent exercise with long and exhausting hours, whereas high blood pressure is notably common among certain social groups who lead sedentary (sitting down most of the time) lives, with overeating.

The thought is that as we grow older, we have less desire to exercise and when the heart is affected or failing, too much exercise can put a strain on the heart and on the blood vessels. However, in the normal individual some exercise should be taken daily—a few bending exercises and a brisk walk—if the heart and blood vessels are to get their own needed exercise of their elastic tissues.

QUESTION BOX
Q. What would cause me to have a sharp pain in chest and a thumping in chest?
A. The pain may be due to gas, nervousness, or even to a heart condition. Consult your physician.
Q. Would an excessive flow of saliva following a meal be considered an indication that an abnormal thyroid condition is present?
A. An excess of saliva is more likely to be due to nervousness, or some stomach disturbance.
Q.—The doctor has ordered cod liver oil for my baby. Do you have any suggestions about how I should give it to him?
A.—Strange as it may seem most children like cod liver oil and will take it readily. If you do not like it, be constantly on guard not to show your aversion. Your attitude will have most to do with his liking or disliking it. Lay the small baby across your lap and give him the oil from a spoon a little at a time. As soon as he is old enough to sit up give it to him in this position.

Organize Household Smoothly
To Be Ready When Emergencies Arise

you're very super-super good, things will run as well without you as with you. If things go in a ragged way with you, they'll practically fall apart when you let go.
As for the equipment every household should have on hand for illness, the list isn't such a long one. But we think it should include both glamorous and sternly utilitarian items. Among the glamorous numbers, we'd include frivolous (but washable) pillow cases to froth up mountains of pillows for propping up comfortably; a truly delicious blanket cover of lace and crepe or else a quilt made of flowered nightgown satin. Among the utilitarian "musts" for a pleasant illness are: a bed tray; a good light for reading and such like that makes no glare and is adjustable; a wash basin, a crooked glass sipper, lots of fresh towels and tissues, along with the usual quota of important unmentionables.

The Touch of a Friendly Hand

A gentleman went into a jeweler's shop and asked to be shown some precious stones. The shopkeeper brought forth a tray containing, among other stones, an opal. As it lay beside the others it appeared dull and altogether of little value.
Then the jeweler took it in his hand and held it for some moments, and again showed it to his customer. Now it shone and flashed with all the hues of the rainbow. It needed the warm touch of a human hand to bring out its color and beauty. There are human lives about us that seem cold and dull and lusterless. Perhaps because they need a helping hand from some of us!

Leaving a Record
No action, whether foul or fair, is ever done, but it leaves somewhere a record, written by fingers ghostly, as a blessing or a curse, and mostly in greater weakness or greater strength of the acts which follow it.

County Agent Notes

CORN, ALFALFA AND SOYBEAN SILAGE

During recent years many kinds of silage have come into use. Silage not made merely from corn, but also from alfalfa, soybeans, sudan grass and many other crops. Any of these crops ensiled with or without the use of corn will keep well, if properly handled, and make an excellent livestock feed. If grass or hay crops are put into the silo without mixing them with corn a preservative should be added. The grasses do not have enough starch to permit proper fermentation. Thus extra starch or carbohydrate material can be supplied by mixing about 150 lbs. of ground corn and cob meal with each ton of silage put up, or 200 to 300 lbs. of molasses meal will serve the same purpose.

Many dairymen wishing to put up extra silage for winter feeding find it advisable to mix corn with either soybeans, alfalfa or the other grasses. If corn is mixed with these crops on a half and half basis, good preservation usually results. The addition of more corn will increase the carbohydrate content and improve the preservation. Ensiling soybeans with corn is one of the best ways of utilizing this crop. It is also the most profitable way to utilize grass crops not needed for hay purposes. Putting the soybean or hay silage into the bottom half of the silo will lighten the pressure against the silo walls which may be a desirable factor in the care of older silos.

FEED THE FARM FLOCK "CAFETERIA STYLE" AND SAVE LABOR
Let the farm flock feed itself—cafeteria style. It saves work, now that farmers are short handed, and it gets the job done on time.

All that is needed is a feed hopper. In it all the feed including mash, shelled corn, oats, wheat and oyster shells may be fed.

When supplying all feeds by hopper, as much as 25 feet of feeding space should be allowed for mash and 10 additional feet for grain for each 100 birds. That means 15 feet of hoppers where birds can feed from both sides or a total of 30 lineal feet of feeding space for each 100 birds.

Pullet flocks should be shifted to hopper feeding before being placed in the poultry house and continued on that feeding throughout the winter.

Poultry flocks should be carried on full feed at all times if they are to lay best and be most profitable. Some poultrymen make the mistake of limiting the mash fed the growing flock with the hope that it may delay egg production and avoid a false moult during the winter. Short rations, however, are usually harmful.

Now that the government has made wheat available for feeding purpose, full use of it both in home-mixed mash mixtures and as grain for laying flocks is urged. Wheat may be used to replace both the bran and the middlings in a mash, or it may be used only to replace the middlings. When used as grain, as much as 50 per cent may be wheat.

WISCONSIN PANKS HIGH IN CORN AND BEAN CANNING
This year Wisconsin will rank third in the production of sweet corn for canning and fourth in the output of snap beans for canning, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture.

About 157,000 tons of sweet corn may be harvested in the state this year, which would be the record crop for Wisconsin. The sweet corn for canning crop this year is expected to be 30 percent larger than in 1941 and more than four times as large as the 1931-40 average.

Approximately 60,500 acres of sweet corn for canning were planted in Wisconsin this year. This is 12,000 acres more than were harvested in 1941. The prospective yield per acre is slightly higher than a year ago.

QUALITY MILK PAYS GOOD DIVIDENDS

If poor seed and weeds from one farm were mixed with good seed from another farm, it would spoil the entire crop. Similarly, if poor milk and cream from one farm is mixed with good milk and cream from another farm, it will be difficult for the plant to make a good finished product and operate at a profit, according to the state department of agriculture.

Higher operating costs in the manufacture of butter will result if poor raw material is used, because more neutralizer will be needed to reduce the acid in sour cream. With the help of proper neutralization the creamery attempts to avoid excessive loss of fat guard against undesirable flavors and improve the keeping quality of butter made from high acid cream. The cost of the time, labor and materials necessary to make a good quality butter under these circumstances may be considerable.

With cheese, also, higher operating costs occur when poor milk is received due to the fact that longer time must be spent and greater care observed in working the curd, more starter is needed to bring about the proper consistency and chemical composition, and more fuel is used to heat the curd and carry on the manufacturing operations. Lower yields and lower prices will further reduce the returns.

All this work can be minimized and a more uniform high grade product which will bring higher prices can be secured if good milk and cream are delivered to the plant. Farmers who produce good milk are requesting cooperation from the other patrons so that all milk delivered to a dairy plant will be of a quality that will enable the dairy plant operator to make a No. 1 product from it.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

FDR Plans Nationwide Gas Rationing With 35-Mile Speed Limit for U. S.; Double-Time Pay Banned for Duration; British Renew Madagascar Occupation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

When the U. S. marines accomplished their history-making offensive in the Solomon Islands, amphibian tractors churned South Seas water to carry them to their first attack to win back Jap-held territory since the start of the war. The tractor is in the background as these marines dug in at the beach soon after the battle's opening. The area was soon cleared of the enemy.

GAS RATIONING:

President Acts

For weeks silver-haired Bernard M. Baruch and co-members of the President's special rubber committee had labored over the problem of what to do about the nation's steadily diminishing rubber supply.

When the committee handed Mr. Roosevelt its report, the President was ready for action.

First, he announced that "as rapidly as arrangements can be made" he would put into effect a set of recommendations submitted by the committee, including nationwide gasoline rationing and drastic restrictions on civilian motoring.

Made public in the President's announcement were additional steps recommended by the committee which included:

A 35-mile speed limit for passenger cars and trucks; an average annual mileage of 5,000 miles per car, permitted only for "necessary driving"; release of more rubber to the public for recapping old tires to maintain necessary civilian driving; imposition of gasoline rationing nationally on the basis of 5,000 miles per year per car; compulsory periodic tire inspections; voluntary tire conservation pending establishment of gas rationing.

Submitted with the committee's recommendations was the blunt declaration that rubber conservation was now a matter of "discomfort or defeat."

MADAGASCAR:

'Full Occupation'

Even as communiques revealed that the British had opened a general offensive against the west coast of Vichy-held Madagascar, the state department in Washington announced that Great Britain with the full approval of the United States had decided to undertake "further military operations" in the Madagascar area.

British action was taken to eliminate reported refueling of Jap submarines in secret harbors and Nazi espionage in connivance with Vichy agents.

Significant of the close military collaboration between Britain and the United States and their indifference to Vichy France opposition, the state department announcement declared:

"The full military occupation of Madagascar by British forces will not only contribute to the successful conduct of the war against the Axis forces, but will be in the interest of the United Nations."

DOUBLE-TIME PAY:

Curbed by FDR

"Penalty double time" pay for millions of industrial workers was abolished for the duration of the war when President Roosevelt signed an executive order banning the practice for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The President's action thus invalidated contracts in which employers were required to pay workers double time for work on Saturdays or holidays, even though these days fell within the regular five-day work week.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had taken the step in line with an understanding previously arrived at with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Philip Murray, president of the CIO.

The order was signed at almost the final hour of a deadline set by the United Automobile Workers union, of the CIO. The UAW which had voluntarily surrendered such double time had protested that rival organizations had not made the same sacrifice. Enactment of the order thus eliminated a possible labor conflict.

'GET TOUGH' ERA:

Bolstered by President Roosevelt's new offensive against inflation, a "get tough" era enforcing the OPA's price-control regulations was forecast by Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

"Our tolerance is exhausted," Henderson declared in a speech in New York city before the Research Institute of America.

Denouncing "chiselers," the OPA chief asserted that "ignorance of regulations is no longer an excuse for price, rent and rationing violations."

RUSSIAN FRONT:

Nazis Rule Air

The gloom of Russia's military predicament was darkened when correspondents in Moscow were permitted to cable the news that the German air force had secured virtually undisputed sway over the beleaguered city of Stalingrad, key industrial and communications center of the Volga area.

In the Caucasus area the news had likewise been adverse, for the Russian high command acknowledged that fighting had reached the "outskirts" of Novorossisk, last remaining naval stronghold on the Black sea.

The only comforting aspect was that the Nazis were paying costly prices in men and equipment for every foot gained.

In the Caucasus area the news had likewise been adverse, for the Russian high command acknowledged that fighting had reached the "outskirts" of Novorossisk, last remaining naval stronghold on the Black sea.

The house's action set a new precedent, for never before in time of war had the armed forces been able to vote away from their home districts.

Affected by the new law was every citizen serving in the army or navy, including members of the Army Nurse corps, the Navy Nurse corps, the Women's Army Auxiliary corps.

SOUTH PACIFIC:

Japs Persistent

Australia felt again the chilling threat of a Japanese approach, as Nipponese and Allied armies had fought for control of the Port Moresby area—only 375 miles from the northeast tip of the Australian continent.

In a drive which had started late in August from the Kadoka area, north of the Owen Stanley mountains, the Japs by infiltration and flanking methods against the Australian defenders had pushed southward through the highest pass in the range toward their coveted goal.

Meanwhile, in answer to General MacArthur's plea that each American kill one Japanese apiece, Yankee forces resumed the offensive in the Solomon Islands. A communique indicated that the positions originally seized by the American marines had become so well established that they could now be used as a springboard for delivering further hard blows at the enemy.

BRIEFS:

LONDON: Sir James Grigg, secretary of state for war reported to the house of commons that up to the present date, the government had been notified that 77,190 British war prisoners were in Axis hands. He said that figures did not include prisoners taken in Malaya or most of the other Far Eastern theaters. The number of these had not been determined.

OTTAWA: Canada has extended a $10,000,000 credit to Soviet Russia for wheat and flour purchases in the Dominion under an agreement signed in London, it was announced by the trade and commerce department. The credit will be retroactive to cover the cost of all Canadian wheat and flour shipped to the Soviet Union during recent months through the British ministry of food, the announcement stated. Covering a three-year period, the credit will be repayable in four equal semi-annual installments in two years that follow its fulfillment.

LUXEMBOURG:

Defies the Nazis

Plucky Luxembourgers gave the lie to Nazi propaganda that they were voluntarily acquiring German citizenship and entering the enemy armed forces, by staging a general strike—the first in a German-occupied country.

The pint-sized duchy, which has a population of but 269,913, is nevertheless one of the world's most important steel producing regions. The exiled Luxembourg ministry in London reported that German authorities had declared a state of emergency and threatened striking workers with death.

Repressive measures were imposed throughout Luxembourg when the strike which started at Schifflingen, spread to other towns. Sabotage against railroads in the tiny country was reported widespread, with workers putting equipment out of order.

TRUCKS AND TAXIS:

Face U. S. Control

The operation of 5,000,000 commercial motor trucks, 150,000 busses and 50,000 taxi cabs will be placed under government control by November 15 as a measure to conserve transportation facilities for war purposes, it was announced by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation. Passenger cars and motorcycles were exempted from the new regulations.

The ODT's order directed operators of commercial vehicles to obtain a "certificate of war necessity" to obtain fuel, tires, tubes and accessories.

Mr. Eastman said the certificates for commercial vehicles would require a tire check every 5,000 miles, or every 60 days, whichever occurs first, to assure proper inflation and repairs. Certificates, he indicated, will be issued to all types of trucks, vehicles built primarily for transporting property and passengers and others available for public rental, such as ambulances and hearses.

The objective, he said, is to limit their use to operations necessary to the war effort, or to the essential domestic economy.

FRANCE:

Pétain Is Warned

Edouard Herriot is one Frenchman not afraid to raise his voice in blunt opposition to Vichy. Jules Jeanneney is another. Both command respect in Unoccupied France, for Herriot is mayor of Lyons and a former premier and Jeanneney a former cabinet member. Both were leaders of the last parliament of the Third Republic.

Thus Frenchmen everywhere listened when these two delivered a solemn warning to Marshal Pétain and Pierre Laval that France may suffer "convulsions" if the Vichy government attempts to draw the nation "into war against our Allies." In an unprecedented letter indicating the present regime, Herriot and Jeanneney implied that despite the French defeat in June, 1940, and the armistice with Germany and despite the rise of Pétain and Laval, they still consider France bound by the treaties of alliance with which she entered the war.

TANKS VS. PLANES:

U. S. Passes Axis

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, had good news for the nation when he announced in Cleveland that American tank production had reached "an impressive figure" and that Uncle Sam was now turning out more planes than Germany, Japan and Italy combined.

Answering criticism of American war material, Patterson said that in speed, range, toughness of armor and hitting power, the U. S. medium tank, either the M-3 or the M-4, "is superior to the best German tank," as "proved in combat in Egypt."

Combat records, he declared, also had proved the Curtiss P-40 better than the Jap Zero planes.

SEA SAGA:

Wakefield Rescue

A grim drama of the sea, abounding in tales of heroism was unfolded when survivors of the burned naval transport Wakefield were landed at an Atlantic coast port.

Formerly known as the liner Manhattan, one-time queen of the U. S. merchant fleet, the Wakefield had been severely damaged by fire, but more than 1,600 passengers and crew members had been removed without loss of life.

The navy reported that the charred hulk of the 24,000-ton ship had been successfully salvaged and towed to an Atlantic coast port. Survivors said the rescue had been effected by warships protecting the convoy in which the Wakefield was traveling.

Passengers included civilian workers relieved of duty at a northern base. One survivor described how a company of marines clambered aboard the burning vessel, loaded their rifles and announced that anyone causing a panic would be shot. The rescue was accomplished without any untoward incidents.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
Consolidated Features.—WNU Release.

NEW YORK—The Boiler-makers' union of Oakland now admits women to full fraternal membership. It wasn't our fault, but our timing was bad in heading into this war, this observation being not altogether a non sequitur.

There's a news paragraph today about a pretty chorus girl working in a defense factory. She's a slender, pretty little thing, and when you contrast her with the chorus girls of other days, you realize that our entrance cue for a war was back in the time of Billy Watson's "Beef Trust," when every girl on the stage looked as if she could shoot dice with anvils. That was the time to open the Boiler-makers' union to the ladies—not now, when no girl is happy unless she has the running gear of a katydid.

The chorus girl is Dora Salva, 22, blonde, running a big "clicker" machine for I. Spiewak & Sons, North Bergen, N. J. She juggles 24 dies and shifts a lot of levers, for a full eight-hour stretch, bringing through laskinlamb suits for army and navy pilots and bombardiers. She recently received the Award of Merit of the Laskinlamb institute for turning out 50 flying suits in one day, a record to date for any one person.

Miss Salva was decorating the front line of "Crazy With the Heat" not so long ago, and before that she was in the World's fair patriotic spectacle, "American Jubilee." With the war on, she sidestepped USO engagements and found her factory job, figuring flying suits were more important than entertainment. Chorus girls are traditionally realistic and she says she works for "pay and patriotism."

There is a cadence in machine operation in which the conditioned rhythms of music and dancing would fit nicely. This no doubt was one of Dora's assets in winning the production award. She's good box-office for I. Spiewak & Sons. They recently doubled their production.

IN THE Bible phrase, one would have to go to and fro on the earth to find a team like Henry J. Kaiser, the demon ship-builder, and Two Go-Getters Howard R. Hughes, the airplane designer and picture-producer. They get together to get those 500 cargo planes out of the suspense file and over to the war front. They indicate a short-cut to action.

At the age of 18, young Mr. Hughes, now 37, inherited $17,000,000, along with the Hughes Tool company of Houston, Texas. His money took wings, in the form of his first moving picture, "Hell's Angels," a World War aviation opus. But it landed with a net increment of $3,000,000 and ever since he has been this country's most interesting blend of romance and business.

He kept right on with his tool-making, but in July, 1938, he highlighted it around the world in a plane in less than four days. His uncle, Rupert Hughes, the novelist, first lured him to Hollywood, where he made more pictures, taking time out to build his own plane plant and duplicate many of the hazardous feats of the movie fliers. After his world flight, the Federated Advertising club of Chicago voted him fourth in its list of the 11 outstanding men of the year.

Born and brought up in Houston, he attended the fashionable Fessenden school of Boston, the Thatcher school of Ojai, Calif., and Rice institute of Houston. Yes, he has no diplomas. Craving action on something or other, he always walked out on school before they could tap him for Class day.

He is six feet, three, loose-gear and lanky, with dark, stringy hair, and he is an absent-minded dresser who never worries about the crease in his pants. He has the biggest yacht on the Pacific coast—or did have—but he gets his big thrill out of pitching horseshoes. Hollywood gossip columnists have had quite a romp, getting him engaged to this actress or that, but he is still unmarried.

We noted here recently Donald Roebeling, up to his knees in folding money, who hid out in the Florida swamps for seven years and brought through the marvelous amphibian tank for the marines. His grandfather built the Brooklyn bridge and his father is a builder and inventor. Mr. Hughes' forbears were the same kind of people. His father's revolutionary pipe drill built the family fortune. There's a mother lode of this kind of genius in America and naturally it's going to yield cargo planes, or anything else needed to win this war.

GEN. GREGORY K. ZHUKOV, commanding the central front drive for the Soviets, takes this war personally. He doesn't like Germany. His appointment as chief of staff in June, 1941, was Hitler's go-ahead signal for the attack. General Zhukov was the man who saved Moscow last fall, and has received considerable attention as the man who cleaned up much of the bungling and disorder of the earlier Russian armies. He's tough and stubborn, bald, solemn and hard-eyed, and a ruthless task-master.

Nazi Break With Russia Foiled Sabotage in U. S.

Hitler Held Responsible for Wrecking Germany's Elaborate Plans to Blow Up Vital Points in U. S.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

A mystery that has perplexed many laymen and some officials in Washington with respect to the manner in which the government has forestalled a mammoth Nazi plan can now be explained. There will be no official confirmation of the explanation but it comes to me from what are frequently described as "informed sources"—which really means "a man who has never lied to me so far."

In a sentence: The man who wrecked elaborate Nazi plans for blowing up munitions plants, railway terminals, bridges, electric light and power plants in the United States was none other than Adolf Schickelgruber, Hitler himself.

He did it when he tossed the Ribbentrop-Molotov pact out of the window just after Nazi armies had launched their surprise drive on Russia.

To understand what a job the fuhrer did for himself we must remember that for years, with the methodical care of the German mind, a detailed plan had been worked out for the sabotage of American industry. Even during the last war there were some terrible and effective pieces of sabotage accomplished by a comparatively untrained and unregimented crowd of German spies. The famous Black Tom explosion which wrecked the huge New Jersey plant not far from New York city, was an example. An international mixed claims commission finally awarded huge damages to the United States for that act.

But the Nazis began where the Kaiser left off. They had schools for the training of saboteurs especially selected from Germans who had lived in the United States and were lured back to Germany and either bribed or intimidated into undertaking the work of destruction in territory with which they had become familiar.

Details of this training came out in the secret testimony in the recent trial of the Nazi saboteurs in Washington. But much of it was ancient history to the department of justice. And the way the advance information came into the hands of our intelligence officers was this:

While the Germans had their pact of friendship with Russia, Nazi agents were busy making friends with Communists all over the world in the hope that they could use them for subversive activities. The Communists naturally did not turn a deaf ear and Hitler's agents told all.

Then came the double cross, German attacked Russia, and Communist and Nazi who had always hated each other thoroughly gave vent to their real feelings. The plans which the Nazis had confided to the Communists were turned over to the governments of the United Nations.

The United States also had been picking up a little information about the German sabotage methods in other ways—such as by planting a man or two in the German Gestapo. These men learned, from one source or another, that the Germans had hired safe crackers in this country to steal the blue prints of factories from insurance companies, which always demand a detailed description and plan of all buildings they insure. The plans were stolen, photographed and returned. That is one trick. Many other little devious tricks and enterprises were revealed by dint of our own investigators and with the help of the Communists who had offered an exhaustive data, the Federal Bureau of Investigation was able to take the necessary steps to break up the complicated plots and counter-plots to wreck American industry. So far there have been very few, if any, major cases which have been branded as sabotage in this country, thanks to Mr. Hitler.

On Pronunciation
You may not know it, but nobody thinks broadcasters know how to pronounce the names of foreign places. Some write in and tell us about it and even the news services

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

The WPA has just completed a survey of automobile graveyards for the War Production board.

There are still a number of men who have rushed into Washington to do war work who honestly think the sun rises in the East river and sets in the Hudson. They work on the basis that if New York never heard about it, it doesn't exist.

Coffee will probably be rationed soon. Perhaps we could make a deal with the British—if they gave up some of the coffee they don't care so much for, for some of our tea, we might all get on better.

Many people scoff at congressional investigations. But you notice that it wasn't until after the soft voiced Chairman Truman of the senate defense investigating committee threatened to blow the lid off that Donald Nelson began to get tough and purge the WPB.

try to help us. When an item comes over the news ticker about Rzyhev or Chumby they obligingly put the pronunciation in brackets.

The other day the news services had something to say about disturbances in Lyons, France. Now I've been hearing about Lyons all my life and I know perfectly well that Lyons is pronounced like two lions in the zoo. It is part of the same city is spelled by the French without the "s."—Lyons—and I've visited that ancient and attractive city and I know how the French pronounce it.

So when the ticker said "Lyons (pronounced Lee-on)" I got the same feeling as when I once heard two Frenchmen disputing whether Washington was called "Vashington" or "Vassington."

Lyons, if you want to be pedantic, is not pronounced "Lee-on" or anything like it. If you want to pronounce it the French way, you'll have to study French. As for me, I'll go on saying Lyons, and I'll continue to say Paris—not "Pah-ree," and Rome, and Vienna and The Hague and Cologne and Athens, although I know that the natives don't call any of those cities by those names.

Notes From a Broadcaster's Diary

Is the government farm-conscious? It is. I am going to risk a gentle indiscretion and quote a suggestion from a high government source to broadcasters. It is part of an appeal to encourage enlistment in our merchant marine that must have one hundred thousand skilled workers for the shipyards in 1942; must have 120,000 experienced seamen. Here is the suggestion:

"Take care to specify that the Merchant Marine does not want men engaged in farming or war production work. They do their share now. Any change would bring more harm than good. It does, however, want the young, the strong, the adventurous for seagoing jobs, and the skilled capable workers for the shipyards . . ."

And the government wants the skilled farmer to stay on the farm where he is: Food will win the war and write the peace.

The Whole Truth

The Nazi regime is not usually credited with doing much to encourage truth. Hitler himself spends many paragraphs in "Mein Kampf" telling about the importance of being a good liar. But, strange as it may seem, according to a tale that is whispered behind the closed doors of state department offices, the Nazis have struck a blow for verity. Here is the tale which may never appear in the official communiques of our ministry of foreign relations.

When Germany declared war on the United States last December, after Pearl Harbor, there were still several hundred Americans, men and women, living in Paris. Many of them had lived there for 20 years, getting their American passports renewed periodically. Some of the ladies, it seems, took advantage of these periodic renewals to lop a couple of years off their age now and again.

And who would grudge the ladies a few years stolen from the calendar, especially in Paris? But the gentle prevarication bounced back with a vengeance. For when the Nazis announced that women under 60 would be interned in concentration camps, while older women would be allowed to remain at liberty, a certain number of American women suddenly discovered that the age shown on their passport was erroneous. They hurried to the Swiss consulate, which had charge of American interests, and swore out affidavits to the effect that they were not, say, 45, but 62.

Not all of these belated amendments were accepted by the Nazi officials—gallant for once. The consequence is that the rigors of the Nazi internment camps are now being suffered by women who, if they had been less coquettish about their years, would now be free.

RED RANGE

By EUGENE CUNNINGHAM
EUGENE CUNNINGHAM W.N.U. RELEASE

He rode a little forward, lifting his hand.

Some of them horses I seen come along as colts and branded and rode. Just follow 'em and remember they'll be doing what they think I'd want 'em to be doing.

"You take care of Old Folks," Skeets called as he whirled his horse. "Be seeing you!"

"Be seeing you!" Caramba echoed, grinning at Con. "You take care of yourself, boy!"

He spurred after Skeets and from the edge of a ridge his high yell carried to Perch and Con:

"Aiiih-aiih-aaaiih! Yeeeh-pah!"

"Happy jigger," Perch commented, grinning. "Well, once I was a young sprout like that, full of vinegar; interesting to myself and other folks. Most cowboys don't get old—don't live long enough! But the ones that do, they ought to look ahead and figure on owning his own outfit, yes, sir! No use and no sense of ending up like me or old Steep."

"Who's Steep?" Con asked idly.

"Ain't you seen him around the place? He keeps to hisself a lot. Got him a li'l adobe alongside some of the Mex' help. Putters around. He's crippled in one leg account of some horse rolling on him, one time."

"Step" mostly Gafford's his go-by. I wouldn't be surprised if old Steep one time rode more high lines than he rode range. But old as he is, I wouldn't say it loud!"

They ate the steak and eggs and fried-apple pies for supper and played a few hands of mild stud poker afterward. The next morning the doctor went back to Onopa. Con harnessed the doctor's heavy black horse to his buggy and asked about Mrs. Gracey and the boy.

"The kid's all right. Keep him in bed for a day or two and he'll be pawing the air to get out. But his mother—it's a matter of her constitution. If she should happen to take a turn for the worse, Mrs. Tenison will send one of you in for me. I'll come as soon as I can."

When the doctor's buggy had disappeared, Perch suggested that Con ride to White Rock Pasture for a routine look at the horses there. Con saddled the black he had ridden once before. As he shoved his carbine into the scabbard, Janet spoke behind his back.

"If you'll catch me that sorel," she said, "I'll side you. I've just got to get out of the house for a while!"

The horses went nose-to-nose across the yard and Con opened a gate in the wire fence, let Janet pass and closed it behind them. Then they foxtrotted out over rolling range with the hills far ahead of them. Con looked stonily before him.

"What's to be done about hunting down Gracey's murderer, do you know?" Janet asked him suddenly.

"Unless word was sent to your brother, and he does something—not a thing!"

"From what that amazing little boy said, you have an idea about the murderers; who they are."

"Monk Irby. Friend of Slash Ox-weld's. But nothing will be done from Onopa. Gracey and Constable Janton were on the outs. He's glad that somebody did what he didn't have the nerve to do. He told me so."

"I never have thanked you for what you did the other night," she told him abruptly, so that he twisted his head to stare. "You know how much I thank you for that other time, at our house, for saving me from Dud. That was the bravest thing I ever thought about it as being brave. It just seemed like one of those things that'll cause a lot of trouble, but—need to be done. That must be one of the manadas ahead."

"Bay stallion and his harem were crossing a flat below them. He saw the riders and threw up his head defiantly.

"Are those the cowboys from the line camp?" she asked.

"Don't think so," Con replied, staring at the tight little knot of men coming over a rise toward the mares. "I wish I had a pair of glasses."

He rode a little forward and lifted his hand. They saw him, but came on. One man got a carbine out. The others made significant motions toward their belts.

SIZE AND DEPTH OF RETAINING WALLS

A RETAINING wall supporting a terrace or bank of earth is under pressure from the earth behind it, and must be corresponding by strong and solid. The higher the bank behind it, the stronger and heavier the wall must be. The base of the wall should go to or below the frost level to avoid trouble from the heaving of the earth due to freezes and thaws. The exposed face of the wall should be vertical, and to gain strength, the back surface should be sloping so the wall is much thicker at the bottom than at the top. Should water be allowed to collect behind the wall, the earth will become soft and mushy, and in settling, the pressure against the wall will be greatly increased. This can be avoided by providing half-inch holes in the lower part of the wall through the mortar joints, by which water can drain out. If the wall is low, a few holes will serve, but for a higher wall, there should be many of them.

Frozen Leaders.

Q: Due to the last heavy snowfall, the leaders over my open type front porch froze, and when the snow melted, caused a downpour of water to leak through the floor of the porch and into the cellar. Three weeks ago I used a roofing compound of tar and filled in all the cracks possible under the porch. This evidently was not sufficient. Could you suggest a method that can waterproof the porch floor?

A: One method is to fill in all cracks, crevices and openings with roofing cement, especially the joint between the wall and the surface of the porch floor (not the underside). Leader pipes can be kept from freezing by the installation of a ball-shutoff unit in the top opening. Your roofer should be able to supply it.

Linoleum Table Top.

Q: In my kitchen I am using a gate-leg table for a work table. I covered it with linoleum, using a black linoleum paste, but find that the edges have become loose. Can you recommend a glue that will be waterproof?

A: Instead of a glue, use metal edges, which are intended for securing linoleum to the tops of tables and cabinets. You can get it through a hardware dealer. For a waterproof glue you could use roofing cement, thinned by gentle heating.

Moths in Upholstery.

Q: I find moths in my davenport. Would it be advisable to call in a professional exterminator, or should I have the davenport upholstered? Maybe it would be better to discard it entirely.

A: If the davenport is badly infested, the moths may have gone through to the padding. In that case, you can have it investigated by a professional who is equipped for that service.

Wall Board Cracks.

Q: We are building a breakfast nook in our attic flat, using three-quarter inch wall board. The ceiling sants, and its corners have an extra slant. How can we fill the joints between the sheets of wall board? Plaster does not do, and we hate to put strips all over.

A: Consult the maker of the wall board as to the method that he recommends for that particular job.

Cleaning Asbestos Shingles.

Q: We have white asbestos shingles on our house. They are getting very dirty and we were wondering if there would be any way to clean them.

A: Scrub the walls with a long handled brush, using a handful of trisodium phosphate in a bucket of water. Grocers sell this chemical under various trade names. Rinse off with your garden hose.

Racks Pull Out.

Q: My bathroom racks will not stay up, as the walls are plaster-board. Would you tell me how I can keep the screws from falling out?

A: Instead of screws, get what is known as "toggle-bolts," which are intended for just your purpose. Get them at a dime or hardware store. They will grip well in the plaster-board.

Smelly Tobacco Pipe.

A friend makes a suggestion for getting rid of the smell of a rank tobacco pipe. Pour a cup of boiling hot water through the barrel. This washes out the nicotine and softens the residue, which can then be scraped out. With a little de-natured alcohol to follow, the pipe, he says, becomes as good as new. This tip should make life easier for troubled housewives.

Insulation Under Floor.

Q: I have an extension below which there is a dry, low, enclosed excavation about three feet in height with two windows, one opening into the cellar for heat, and the other to the outside for ventilation. Would it be satisfactory to put insulation between the floor beams with corrugated cardboard cartons nailed to the underside of the floor beams?

A: Yes; results will be satisfactory. But to keep out any possible moisture, apply a coat of liquid asphalt or tar over the cardboard.

Potatoes?

A nourishing food, Mr. Hitler!

WE HAVE potatoes in America. We also have fruits, meats and green and yellow vegetables. For every crop you harvest with forced labor, we have a larger crop grown by men who work hard from dawn until dark because it's their land, their country. You've never met an American farmer—or his wife—have you, Mr. Hitler? Too bad. Otherwise you might have thought twice before you started this war.

Our cellars are used to store foods, not as bomb shelters. But our boys know the meaning of bombs. How did you like that first air raid, with not a single U. S. plane lost? Those boys didn't live on potatoes—they had meat, milk, fruits, vegetables... all the things we have at home. American food follows them to the corners of the earth.

How can we do it? American women are doing it—home-canning for the home front and saving money for War Bonds at the same time! Do you know how much of it they're doing? Well... what would you give for FOUR BILLION JARS of home-canned foods, Mr. Hitler?

Horse and Cattle Owners!
Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war. Glycerine is taken out of this fat and Oil from dead animals and this is made into T. N. T. for high explosives, and only Rendering Plants produce these products; as all dead animals buried or used otherwise are a waste to our country. Call your Renderer, Wm. Laabs, to collect your dead animals and you will be paid a fair price for them. Renderers can not pay an inflated price as there is a ceiling on all of the products of rendering plants. Call at your nearest Phone West Bend 75 or Campbellsport 25F1 and reverse charges when you call. Yours truly, Wm. Laabs, Renderer.

ON THE OFFENSIVE

AMERICA!

Wars are won by attacking, not by sitting in a fort.
And today America is taking the offensive against the Axis with bombing, non-stopable moe and materiel!
We're taking the offensive, too, against the enemy of home—the inflationary 8th column that blows prices sky high.
You can help in both fights by saving at least 10% of your money in U. S. War Bonds every day. Attack the Axis with your dollars today.
You can start with as little as a 10c War Stamp and you can get a $25.00 War Bond (maturity value) for only $18.75—at your local post office, bank or other convenient sales agency.

SALVAGE DRIVE NOW IN FULL SWING; MEETING CALLED BY T. SCHMIDT

county vice chairman in charge of the southern half of the county. D. J. Kenny, general chairman of the county salvage committee, is directing the drive, assisted by the vice chairmen already named, sub-chairmen and sub-vice chairmen, implement and hardware dealers, and scrap dealers.

Mr. Kenny says that every effort will be made to complete solicitation for scrap materials throughout the county during the course of this and next week. He announces that a WPA truck manned by three men and sent out by the state salvage committee, is already at work in the rural areas making a farm-to-farm canvass for scrap. The truck began work Monday in the town of Farmington, and those in charge of it are paying $7 a ton for mixed metal scrap of all kinds, including wire fencing, auto fenders, etc., and are picking it up right at the farms.

Collection depots to which residents of the county, farmers in particular, may deliver their scrap on "harvest" day, Sept. 26, have been established. People, especially farmers, will be urged to haul their scrap to these points, where local dealers will weigh it and pay for it on the spot at prevailing prices already agreed upon, as listed in this newspaper last week. The scrap depots are as follows:

Allenton—Weiss Hardware company Farmers' Mercantile company.
Hartford—Schauer Bros. Hardware store, Leach & Christensen store.
Jackson—Hoge & Gunn store, O. P. Butzke Hardware & Implement store.
Kewaskum—Rosenheimer's store, Koch's store, Persehbacher's garage.
Boltonville—Erwin Degner service station.
Germantown—Duerrwachter's store.
Newburg—John Loehen Implement store.
Slinger—R. A. Burg garage, W. A. Langenecker Implement store.
Wayne—Washington Forester garage.

West Bend—H. E. Cooley & Sons West Bend Motor company, Sears Roebuck & Company.

In addition to the implement dealers named, the following scrap dealers are participating in the campaign and paying the established prices: Al. Luff and Otto Richter, West Bend, and Ben Bezner and L. Berlowitz, Hartford.

All types of scrap material are needed, but there is a particular need for scrap iron, other metals, and rubber. Everything made of these materials and not in use should be gathered up. Discarded farm implements, broken parts, worn hoes, shovels, broken hammers, nails, wire, broken household utensils; tires, inner tubes, hoses, belting, gloves, rubber boots and soles, in fact everything made of rubber; copper and brass; such aluminum articles as pots and pans, vacuum cleaners washing machines; utensils which contain zinc, like refrigerator, lamp bulbs lead, such as found in old batteries; tin pans, and other metal articles.

Burlap bags, manila rope, old rags also are wanted. Housewives should not forget to sell waste greases and fats to their local meat dealers.

The prime purpose of this drive is to "harvest" before and on Sept. 26 all scrap now scattered about the nation and Washington county, particularly on the farms, and deliver it through regular channels to the war factories. The nation desperately needs scrap to use in building planes, guns, tanks, ships, and other weapons for our fighting men at the front. Let's not fail them on scrap "harvest" day, Sept. 26.

Bonds buy bombs. Stamps buy bullets! Buy U. S. Defense Bonds and Stamps every pay day!

OUR DEMOCRACY

FOR THE CHILDREN'S FUTURE

PARENTS IN THIS COUNTRY NOW KNOW THAT MOST CHILDREN WILL LIVE TO HAVE A FUTURE—A BETTER FUTURE THAN THEY ENJOYED. THAT'S ONE OF THE REASONS FOR THE INCREASE IN THE NUMBER OF LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES AND SAVINGS ACCOUNTS.

CHILDHOOD DEATHS FROM DIPHTHERIA, FOR EXAMPLE, HAVE BEEN CUT MORE THAN 75% SINCE 1920, AND SIMILAR ADVANCES IN MEDICINE WILL BE MADE IN THE FUTURE.

THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY AS A WHOLE, CHILDHOOD DEATH RATE HAS BEEN STEADILY DECREASING, AS MORE AND MORE PARENTS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF MEDICAL PROGRESS AND FACILITIES.

Twenty-five Years Ago

The high school re-opened with a total attendance of about fifty. Sometime during the night fire completely destroyed the barn belonging to John Angler on the former Jullus Geler farm east of Kewaskum near S. Michaels. Destroyed also were the contents consisting of 5 cows, 1 calf, 2 horses, 25 pigs, hay, grain and machinery.

Louis Bath is quite seriously ill with pneumonia. Elizabeth Quade, also quite ill with pneumonia, is improving. Ferdinand Raether, who had been laid up for some time with a bad burn on his chest caused by escaping steam at the malt house, resumed his duties.

Miss Lorina Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Schaefer of the town of Kewaskum, was united in matrimony to Arthur Petermann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Petermann of the town of Auburn by Rev. Mohme at the Ev. Peace church.

Edw. C. Miller was the lucky one in winning the National Harmonola given away free at A. G. Koch's store. For six weeks every customer who purchased $1.00 worth of goods was presented with a key free. One of the key-given was the mysterious one fitting the lock of the Harmonola. Mr. Miller drew the lucky key and won the $200 machine.

William Terlinden, 32, lifelong town of Wayne farm resident and brother of Albert Terlinden of this village, died at his home 4 miles northwest of Kewaskum, Mrs. Wm. Diehl, 46, nee Katis Johannes, a native of the town of Wayne, died at Milwaukee. She was a daughter of Mrs. Mich. Johannes of this village. Thomas H. Stone, 43, Milwaukee, cousin of Mich. Johannes Jr. of this village passed away. J. M. Clifford, railroad builder and Milwaukee road official and native of the town of Scott, Sheboygan county, died at Green Bay, Peter Hess died at his Barton home. He was the father of Wm. Hess of New Fane and Mrs. Christ Raasch of Wayne.
