The solemn jubilee Mass celebrated by Rev. Father Joseph Schaefer, pastor of St. Joseph's church, at New Fane, Wis., for the wedding of Mr. Andrew Strobel, 24 years old, of New Fane, Wis., and Miss Patricia Weber, 23 years old, of Kewaskum, Wis., was held at 10 o'clock last Saturday afternoon in the church. The bride was accompanied by her father, Mr. Andrew Strobel, and the groom by his father, Mr. Andrew Strobel. The ceremony was officiated by Rev. Father Joseph Schaefer. The bride wore a white gown and the groom wore a dark suit. The wedding was a private affair and only family and friends were present. The bride and groom were married in the church and then went to the home of the bride's parents for a reception. The bride and groom are now residing in Kewaskum, Wis.

County Scrap "Harvest" Postponed Until Later

The scrap "harvest," originally set in Washington county for this Saturday, Sept. 26, has been postponed until a later date, according to D. J. Kenny, West Bend, chairman of the Washington County Salvage committee. The farmers of the county are too busy with silo filling right now to adequately participate in the "harvest," says Mr. Kenny, citing this as the reason for the postponement. A second "harvest" day will be designated after silo filling is completed. Mr. Kenny declares. Meanwhile, however, those salvage committee members who have time to do so are urged to continue their work on inventories and solicitation of scrap. Right now, also, all of the implement and scrap dealers of the county are ready and willing to buy scrap, and the public is invited and urged to bring scrap to these salvage depots at any time it is convenient to do so.

The fact that the original "harvest" day has been postponed does not mean that solicitations for scrap will be stopped, according to Mr. Kenny. Solicitation will continue as usual. It is going in right now, and this fact is announced by window cards being sent out throughout the county and by handbills being distributed among the school children. Thus, all who can do so are urged to bring their scrap to salvage depots immediately.

Mrs. Chas. Mertz, Mrs. Wm. Kohn, H. Stern Among Those Called

MRS. CHARLES MERTZ, SR.
The sad news of the death of Mrs. Charles Mertz, Sr., 75, nee Hanna Milbrot, beloved resident of this village, was spread through the community on Wednesday, Sept. 23, when she passed away at her home at 9:40 a. m. as the result of a heart stroke. She was stricken while doing her house work and her sudden demise came unexpectedly. Mrs. Mertz was born March 3, 1867, on a farm near Theresa in Dodge county. Her marriage to Mr. Mertz took place June 3, 1887, in the town of Herman and the couple resided on a farm in that township until 1895 when they moved onto a farm in the town of Wayne, now occupied by their son, Armond and family. In March, 1920, the couple retired from the farm and with two of their children came to this village.

Mrs. Mertz was the mother of six children, only two of whom survive, along with her husband. They are Armond on the homestead in the town of Wayne and William of Casper, Wyoming. One son, Carl, two daughters, Elsie and Hertha (Mrs. Arthur Doms) and an infant son, Herbert, preceded Mrs. Mertz in death. Other survivors include six grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Herman Zibel of Mason City, Iowa.

Deceased was an active member of the Ladies Aid society of the Peace Evangelical and Reformed church many years, the members of which will attend the funeral in a body.

The body is lying in state at Miller's funeral home since 7 o'clock Thursday evening. Private services will be held at the funeral home at 10:30 a. m. on Saturday, Sept. 26, following which the body will be removed to the Peace Evangelical and Reformed church. The body will lie in state at the church from 12 noon until the time of public services at 2 p. m. The Rev. R. G. Beck, pastor, and Rev. Frank Lowenberg of Elkhart Lake will conduct the services. Interment will be in the congregation's cemetery.

The entire community is grieved over the death of Mrs. Mertz. Her passing is all the more keenly felt by the members of her family, to whom she was as fully devoted as anyone can be. She was genuine in character, kind, honorable and highly respected. May she be rewarded for her many years of hard honest work. To the bereaved survivors our heartfelt sympathy is extended in their time of deep sorrow.

MRS. WILLIAM KOHN

Fate administered another tragic blow to the William Kohn family of the town of Kewaskum on Monday, Sept. 21, when Mrs. Kohn, 58, passed away suddenly of a heart attack at 12:15 a. m. at her farm home located about two miles north of the village. Her death came as a great shock to her family and friends, although she had been ailing with heart trouble the past several years.

Her death was the third in the once happy family in the past six years, two of her sons having preceded her in death as the result of traffic accidents. Just a year ago, on Sept. 17, 1941, her son, Sylvester, 21, was fatally injured in an auto accident south of Germantown. He was a passenger in a car driven by Silvin Wiesner of Barton when the machine left the road, struck a tree and tipped over. On Dec. 31, 1936, Mrs. Kohn's oldest son, Arnold, 25, died at a Kenosha hospital of injuries received the same morning when the Kewaskum Creamery truck he was driving to Chicago crashed into a parked truck near Union Grove in Racine county. Besides these fatalities Mrs. Kohn's only daughter, Hildegard, was also seriously injured a number of years ago when she was struck by a car in front of her home.

Mrs. Kohn, nee Alma Muckerheide, was born May 5, 1884, in the town of Kewaskum. She was married to William Kohn May 3, 1910, at Holy Trinity church in this village, of which church she was a lifelong member. The couple moved to their present home about 28 years ago.

Deceased was the mother of eight children, of whom the two above mentioned sons predeceased her. The six children surviving along with her husband, are Clarence of West Bend, Pvt. Walter, who is serving in the U. S. army at Camp Swift, Texas, Hildegard, John, William, Jr. and Vincent at home. She is further survived by her aged mother, Mrs. William Muckerheide of the town of Kewaskum, two grandchildren, six sisters, Minnie (Mrs. John Thull) of this village, Amelia Muckerheide and Rose (Mrs. Oscar Thull) of the town of Kewaskum, Elizabeth (Mrs. Darwin Perkins) of Kenosha and Agnes Muckerheide of the town of Kewaskum, and three brothers, Henry, Walter and John Muckerheide, all of the town of Kewaskum.

The body lay in state at Miller's funeral home from where funeral services were held on Thursday, Sept. 24 at 9 a. m. to Holy Trinity church at

Second Phase Blackout in County Fine Success

Washington county experienced its second practice blackout last Thursday night. It was for a half hour duration with all lights extinguished except those of industrial plants, hospitals and institutions and railroad warning signals. The blackout started at 10 p. m. Only one or two minor violations were noted in this village.

The local blackout was made more realistic by having two fires during the test. Bonfires were started near the river and water tower and civilian defense members stationed in the fire house for this purpose were called off by bicycle messengers to combat the flames. A casualty was also provided for when one corp member reported a broken leg (all for practice). A fire squad treated the patient at the scene of one fire. A tight brace was put on the leg and the patient was hauled to the fire house for inspection. The county is now ready for a third stage, or total blackout. This can be expected at any time.

9:30 o'clock. The Rev. Arnold Muckerheide of Thorp was celebrant at the solemn requiem high mass, assisted by Rev. Aloysius Fellenz of West Allis and deacon and Rev. F. C. LaBowl, pastor as sub-deacon. Burial was made in the parish cemetery.

Mrs. Kohn was an honored member of the Ladies' Altar society of the church, the members of which recited the rosary at the funeral home and attended the last rites in a body. The funeral was largely attended.

Pallbearers were Jos. Schoofs, Nicholas Stoffel, Jos. Sukawaty, Arnold Amerling, John Botzkovis and John Metzger. The Kohn family has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in their time of great sorrow. Mrs. Kohn raised a fine family and she was a model wife and mother. Her many acts of self-sacrifice, patience, kindness and love endeared her to a large number of people. She had more than her share of grief in the loss of her two young sons and although heartbroken with sorrow she faced it as best a mother can. Death cannot erase her memory. To those who so abruptly left behind, our sincere condolences are extended.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to sincerely thank our many relatives and friends who so kindly extended sympathy and assisted us during our bereavement and the loss of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Wm. Kohn. Special thanks to Revs. Muckerheide, Fellenz and LaBowl, the organist and choir, for the many floral and spiritual bouquets, to the pallbearers, drivers, traffic officer, Millers, who had charge of the funeral and all who showed their respects by attending the funeral or calling at the funeral home.

Wis. Beagle Club's 20th Annual A.K.C. Field Trials Start Here

Order Given for Farm Machinery Rationing

Jos. T. Schoofs Appointed Member of County Farm Rationing Board of Three

The U. S. Department of Agriculture order of Sept. 17, temporarily "freezing" all farm machinery in the hands of dealers, was described by Chairman Guido Schroeder of the Washington County USDA War board as necessary to insure fair distribution of available equipment and its placement where it will do the most good in wartime farming production.

Administration of the farm machinery rationing program was delegated by the War Production Board to the Office of Price Administration, and re-delegated to the department of agriculture. County rationing will be handled by a county rationing committee composed of the county war board chairman and two farmers appointed by the county war board, namely, Emil C. Reetz of Jackson and Joseph T. Schoofs of Kewaskum. The two alternates appointed to the committee are Louis A. Frey of Hartford and Frank Wilkens of Farmington.

Farm machinery in one classification (Group A), which is scarce and especially needed to meet current agricultural needs, may be sold only upon approval by the county farm machinery rationing committee. Machinery in a second category (Group B) including items somewhat less scarce may be sold upon certification by the farmer to the dealer that it is required to meet current agricultural needs. A third classification (Group C), includes the smaller items that may be sold without restrictions.

Group A includes beet lifters, beet loaders, combines, corn pickers, disc harrows, feed grinders, fertilizer spreaders, grain drills, grain elevators, hay balers, lime spreaders, manure spreaders, milk coolers, milking machines, pickup balers, potato diggers, shredders and tractors (including garden tractors).

Group B machinery, which can be purchased upon certification to a dealer that it is needed for current production, includes most other farm equipment and machinery.

Group C, which is exempt from any form of rationing control, includes hoes, rakes, forks, scythes, shovels and all hand-operated and one and two horse drawn farm machinery and equipment not included in Group A. There are no restrictions on sale or transfer of used farm machinery, equipment or repair parts.

Eligibility requirements for Group A purchases include inadequacy of present equipment and inability to meet farm production goals by repairing, or by purchasing or renting used machinery, or by custom or exchange work. A purchaser must turn in replaced equipment and agree to rent or let others use the new machinery on specified terms and conditions. The purchaser must present a satisfactory reason if changing from horses or mule power to motor power, or from hand labor to machinery.

Walter Belger Has Narrow Escape From Monoxide Gas

Walter Belger of this village was overcome from monoxide gas in the garage at his home Saturday. He was told Walter was cleaning one of his cars while he had the motor running in the other. A door at the front of the garage was left open but was not sufficient to let the deadly fumes escape.

Mrs. Belger happened to notice her husband groping for the door and went to assist him. She succeeded in getting him outside where he collapsed. He was taken into his home with the help of a neighbor and a physician was summoned. Walter got over the effect hurriedly and was able to be up again the next day although it wouldn't have taken much longer for the gas to prove fatal.

ON PAY DAY, BUY BONDS

Dreds of trophies and ribbons and many championships at various trials and shows, are expected to score again. A large number of interested spectators and beagle enthusiasts are expected to attend.

Entry of 100 or More Dogs From Several States Expected for 5-Day Event; Bench Show Saturday Night; Special Prizes

The Wisconsin Beagle club's twentieth annual American Kennel club licensed field trials are again being held in Kewaskum and vicinity. The trials began Friday noon, Sept. 25, and will continue until Wednesday, Sept. 30. The fifteenth annual A. K. C. licensed specialty bench show, held under rules of the A. K. C., will be held Saturday evening, Sept. 26, at Joe Eberle's kennel, headquarters for the trials and show.

Last year 82 beagles were entered in the event, a smaller number than usual. Dogs from five states entered the competition. Beagle owners and fanciers judges and officers of the club began arriving in Kewaskum Thursday night and Friday morning and judging by the number of them, the entries should exceed last year's. An emergency exists this year in providing sleeping quarters for visiting beagle men because the local hotel rooms are occupied with defense and other workers. Arrangements for private rooms have and are being made.

The five-day tournament brings into competition these peerless rabbit dogs with different classes for 13 and 15 inch male and female beagles. All of the little bugle voiced hunting dogs must be registered with the American Kennel club. During the trials in the surrounding community the next few days the woods, fields and swamps will again ring with the merry music of the chase as the finest beagle hounds in the middlewest compete for honors.

Joe Eberle, president of the club and one of its most successful members with his dogs in past years, is again proving a worthy host to the members and is housing the dogs in his kennel. Other officers of the club besides Joe are Ed. Arthur, Dodgeville, vice-president; Erwin A. Kopp, Johnson Creek, secretary and treasurer; Jack Ellengren, Dodgeville, field marshal.

Officials at the trials and show are as follows: Ed. Pond, West Frankfort, Ill., and G. C. Wichmann, Ridgeview, judges of field trials; Elmer E. Hornmuth, Fond du Lac, bench show superintendent; Frank L. Fader, Neenah, bench show judge; Stanford Whittaker, Oshkosh, ring steward; Dr. E. L. Morgenroth, Kewaskum, veterinarian. The certificate of approval for special prizes and classifications under rules and regulations of the American Kennel club was obtained from P. B. Rice, secretary. The rating of winners classes for championship record will be published in the American Kennel Gazette.

Field trial entry fees are $1.50 in classes A, C and D. The entry fee in classes B, C, E and F is $3 and for the bench show $2. The usual listing fee of 25c will be collected for the A. K. C. on all dogs not registered. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded in each derby and regular class. Ribbons will also be awarded 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and reserve winners in each class. There are no cash prizes. Championship points will be awarded winners of first in classes B, C, E and F. A number of special trophies and prizes will be awarded. Wings for Glider Pilots

Before a student makes his first solo flight in simulated glider landing an instructor carefully checks with him to make sure that he knows just what to do. Here an instructor goes over "dead stick" landing rules with the pre-glider student.

NEWEST winged warriors of the army air forces are the G-men of the air—glider pilots—who will guide our huge troop-carrying gliders in the fore of democracy's great aerial offensive against the enemy. Gliding, until recently the sport of a few, has now become the serious war business of thousands of young men who are training to become glider pilots. Typical of the eighteen pre-glider schools now in full operation in the Middle West is the one located on the flatlands of Goodland, Kansas.

During the four weeks of preliminary training the student practices simulated gliding in small power ships, with the power switched off. He masters the technique of "dead stick" landing and in bringing his powerless plane down within a small marked area. In actual combat he will be called upon to cut loose from the towing plane thousands of feet up and miles away from his objective behind enemy lines. From then on he is on his own.

Glider pilot students leaving the operations office of the school, with parachutes strapped on.

The space marked reserved is for the army air forces silver insignia wings with a glider imposed.

This glider pilot training in the army air forces is open to men between the ages of 18 and 36, inclusive, who are graduates of civil pilot training schools, or who hold a civil aeronautics administration private air-man certificate which had not lapsed prior to January 1, 1941, or to former aviation cadets with at least fifty hours in army or navy type training planes, or veterans of at least two hundred glider flights.

Men who have had no previous flight training will be given an opportunity to qualify for glider pilot training if they are accepted for a complete special primary flight training in a civil aeronautics administration school.

These pictures depict stages of the training given at Goodland, Kansas.

Before the students are ready to make simulated glider landings, they are given meteorology and other subjects. Here students are shown the characteristics of a glider.

The idea is to land the glider as near as possible to this white marker. Here is how the marker looks to the student coming in for a dead stick landing.

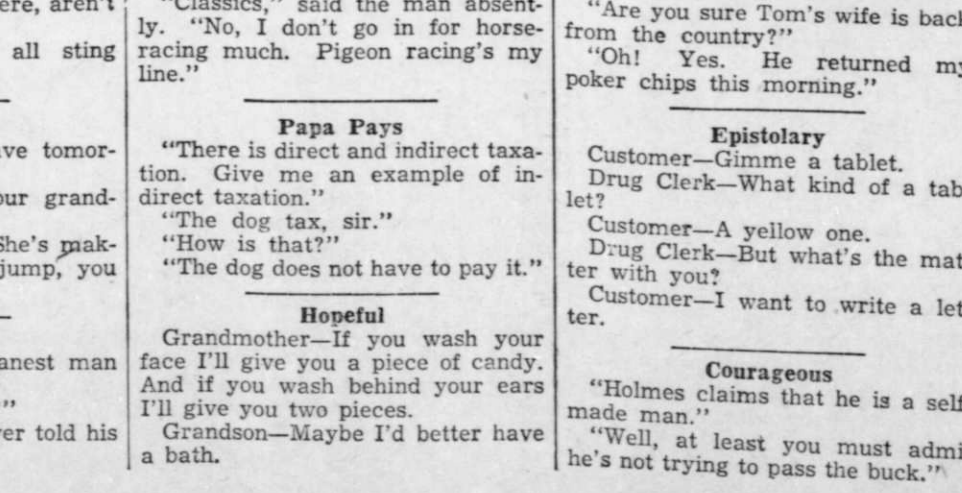

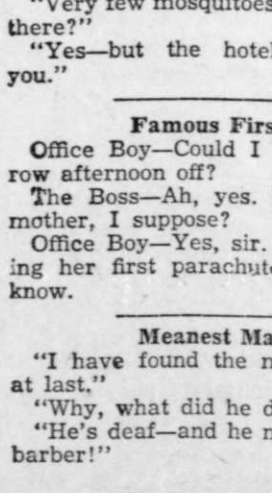

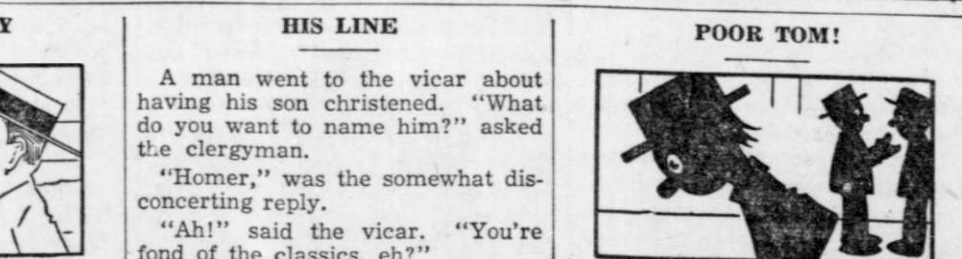

Made from another plane flying alongside the students, this picture shows the training plane just as the glider pilot turned off the switch for a gliding approach to one of the auxiliary landing fields.

Ohio Stocks Ruffed Grouse
Ohio has completed stocking 429 ruffed grouse obtained from Alberta and Wisconsin, according to a recent announcement. They have been distributed on game management and demonstration areas in various parts of the state that have been closed to hunting for at least two breeding seasons. Each bird released has been banded and marked with a red, white or yellow feather in its tail to facilitate checking movement and survival.

Everyone a Soldier
The working men and women of America will march to their places on the war production line from many rallying points. Seven to eight million it is estimated, will come from peacetime industries, 400,000 to 600,000 from the farms, 400,000 from doctors', dentists' and lawyers' offices, 1,500,000 from the ranks of the unemployed and 2,000,000 from the home—housewives, youths and retired workers. Every one of them a soldier of production.

I BELIEVE in nationally advertised brands. They are trusted friends in my house, for national advertising is a pledge of quality... a guarantee of the maker's good faith.

I believe that manufacturers who win millions of friends through advertising will never betray these friends by lessening quality... demanding unfair prices... or by substituting inferior ingredients.

I am going to show my approval by observing Nationally Advertised Brands Week*. I urge you all to join me in asking for nationally advertised brands that week... and every time you go into a drug store. It is the surest way to safeguard the health and happiness of your family.

"She saw a killing," said Con smoothly.

CHAPTER XVII

Perch was staring from Janet's saddle and way look all around the country to see if any of the others were coming back. Nobody was in sight except Janet. He went to the cowboy; to turn him over. Apparently, one bullet had struck through the heart, but he had struck not three inches from the cowboy's head.

"Chickie!" Con said bitterly, "Nobody wanted to be killed against the sorrel, but over the ridge that had sheltered her."

"I could see his hand going back," she said in a flat voice. "You just sat there—"

"Now, what'd you do, that got her that way?" he inquired. "Come charging up, talking to herself like a mad hen, led the reins and rolled out of that hull and just skittered for the house. Wouldn't pass the time of day with me—"

"She saw a killing," Con said smoothly. "Four Helligo-off-with-your-stuffers thought the bay stallion and his mares would look better farther over. Happened, we ran smack into 'em and—"

Perch listened to his colorless account, mouth sagging.

"If that don't beat five of a kind! Four of 'em on you and they had to yellow dog it and one's counting the grass roots and two more leaking. I reckon one of the Mex' boys better ride in with a message to Janton. Maybe we better send a boy to Tivan, too. Let Nevil Lowe in on the business. He might want to come out for a looky."

Con was afraid of that very possibility, he thought sardonically. Let Nevil appear on the Wheel and he must disappear—either permanently, or without rousing the suspicions of Perch and the rest. So he seemed to consider the matter.

"Why, no use sending a boy clear to Tivan," he disagreed. "Topeka sent Nevil Lowe word of the Gracey murder, you know. He may be on the way here, right now."

"Oh! If Topeka sent word about that, then you're right. I thought he changed his mind. All right! I'll just notify Janton. And a couple of the peons can go up and put your rustler under grass. His horse is still there, huh? Well, if we let the Mex' take his outfit, they'll fight for a chance to bury him. Which carbine is the one that fellow dropped?"

"In my scabbard. One of the peons can have it. It's so worn it's not worth a sack of shucks. It—"

Movement at a corner of the corral caught his eye. He looked that way at the little man who was rising. Con stared frowningly. Perch looked, too, then laughed.

"Just old Step. Don't let that way of his bother you, Twenty. He's like a mole: crawls along under the ground a piece, then pops up. He—"

"Never talked nobody to death, anyhow," the little man said snarlingly. "You get a good look at these rustlers, Twenty?"

Con described them as well as he could. The little man had faded blue eyes under graying red brows and the locks of hair straggling from under his battered hat were of the same grizzled reddish color.

"Nobodies," Step summed up in curt grunt. "Outside Gloomy and them Raniers the whole pack at Helligo nowadays is nobodies— and nobodies! I'll send out the Martinez boys to bury that rustler, Perch. If you want to give the carbine away, Twenty, Ramon Martinez ain't got one and it'll make you a friend for life."

With Con's nod he took the old carbine from the scabbard and went off with odd lurching step—that still seemed to interfere very little with the speed, the ease and silence of his walking.

Late, that afternoon, Con found himself free of small chores about the corral, and he thought of Step. There was an unopened pint of whiskey in Con's bunk, brought out from Onopa. He got the bottle and slipped it into his shirt, then hunted the adobe house which Step lived in alone. The door was open and Con moved to stand in the door. Step sat comfortably upon a bench plaiting rawhide strands. He nodded and Con went inside.

"Perch was telling me you take a jolt sometimes," he drawled. "I happened to have a bottle of Onopa's strongest—"

Con leaned to pass over the pint. Step drew the cork deftly and lifted the bottle. He drank a third of the whiskey and handed it back. Con took a short drink and returned it.

"I brought it over for you. Perch told me a li'l bit about you. You must've seen plenty!"

Con waited for him to lower the whisky. He drank it as if it had been coffee, faded eyes a little brighter, weathered face softening slightly. There was something about him that compelled respect. Not only had he been a good man, Con thought, but—he was now a good man!

"I'll be sixty-five if I hang on till beef roundup's over," Step said, in a meditative tone. "Let's see you draw that cutter."

He put Con through his paces, made suggestions that instantly increased his smoothness and speed of movement, then got from his colchun, a bed roll with mattress, a pair of white-handled Colts that gleamed dully from constant care. For a half-hour he showed Con gunplay, what he called "limbering stunts" designed for nothing but developing dexterity, and "hideouts" of a dozen kinds.

"You won't never be fast as I am," he said in answer to Con's marveling remark. "No reason to be! You was faster'n nineteen out of twenty cowboys. I'd say you're faster'n ninety-nine out of a hundred, with just the three-four changes you made in the movement. Now, there's some awful big li'l things about killing a man, when you know you have got to kill a man: First place, if you go into a gunplay wondering whether to kill him or just hurt him, you'll wind up biting the daisies from the bottom. Make up your mind about that before you start. Then you'll get down whatever you aimed to do—fast and slick."

"My old uncle told me something like that, and my experience has proved it. He told me never to make a motion to draw until I was dead-certain I had to draw, because an uncertain motion is a ragged, slow motion. He said, if you draw, do it fast and shoot at the end of it."

"He had the gunslick idea! Another thing: Don't think one second about what the other man's going to do to you! Keep your mind on what you're going to do to him."

There was much more of the same grim, expert advice, with a wealth of examples drawn from nameless battles of unnamed men over a half-century. When the bell-like clanging of the cook's triangle signaled supper, Con stood and stretched.

"I certainly do thank you for a college education! And I'd like to get a lot more of the same. Eating with us?"

"Nah. I like Mex' cooking. One of the Martinez women fixes me up with everything I want. See you from the day you roped the colts. Not many I do. Topeka's the only one on this place I call amigo and I've known him thirty years."

But as he passed the kitchen door of the big house, Mrs. Tenison called him and he went that way with the carefully blank face he was learning to turn upon the world.

"Come in and eat with Janet and me, when you've washed," she ordered him. "No arguments! I need a man at the table."

So he splashed and combed and surveyed his battered face in a mirror, then went resignedly to sit down opposite Janet. Mrs. Tenison did most of the talking, while they ate at the big, handmade Spanish table.

"That poor woman was conscious for a few minutes, awhile ago," she told Con. "She says she didn't know the men who killed her husband. She's asleep again. I think she'll do, now. He thinks he's going to ride with you."

Janet looked everywhere but directly at Con and he followed her example. Mrs. Tenison seemed not to notice.

"I hope you don't feel put out about staying here. I hope you stay with from now on. If—my boy had grown up with us, to be about your kind of boy, I would have been proud of him. He was a— a brave little boy, at four."

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

CRACKING PLASTER

Question: I have three rooms where the plaster is cracked. In one room it is split at least one-quarter to three-eighths of an inch in width and runs the length of the room. In the other rooms, it is cracked where the walls and ceiling join. What should I use to plaster these cracks so they won't open again? I have used patching plaster, but it cracks open again.

Answer: If the cracks are widened and cut back to the lath, then filled with a patching plaster, the repair may be permanent. When cutting out the crack the opening should be wider at the lath, so that the new plaster will lock itself in. Joint cracks in plaster might be successfully filled by removing the plaster at each side of the crack for a distance of about six inches. A strip of metal lath bent to fit the joint between wall and ceiling is then nailed on and the corner replastered.

Cracking Walls

Q: Our frame house, brown and Colonial yellow, is on a tile foundation. Why should the walls crack? We repair the plaster and redecorate, but the walls crack again in the same places. What color should the foundation be painted? Should the blocks be outlined with color to imitate mortar?

A: Continued cracking of the plaster in the same places undoubtedly is due to settlement of the foundation. The footing may not be broad and strong enough for the density of the earth that supports it; the house may be built on filled-in land which is not yet fully settled. You will do well to have the foundation examined by a competent mason or builder. Finish the foundation blocks with cement paint in natural color. Outlining of the blocks will not be necessary.

Cold Floor

Q: I have a small drug store with no basement, which I heat with an oil burner. The cement floor is always cold, no matter how warm the room is. How can this be corrected? Could the cold air be carried off with a chute going through the roof from the floor level?

A: Your best method would be to cover the present floor with waterproof felt stuck down with asphalt or tar, and with a wood floor laid on top. The new floor boards need not be nailed; they can be stuck down with "mastic," so that the head room will not be decreased. Your idea for getting rid of the cold air from the floor would not work.

Sewer Check

Q: In order to prevent the backing-up of the sewer in my basement during heavy rains, I plan to install a standpipe open at the top, and about four feet high. I am wondering if this would have the effect of placing a strain or pressure on the underground part of the sewer.

A: Instead of a standpipe, ask your plumber about a check-valve, which is intended for that particular purpose. It permits the normal flow of water from your drain pipes to the sewer, but prevents the flow of water in the opposite direction.

Paint for Laundry

Q: What kind of paint should I use for my laundry, which has a brick wall and a wooden partition? The paint should be inexpensive but good.

A: You can use cement paint for the masonry wall. This can be had in colors as well as in white, and is intended for just such a purpose as yours. You could use casein paint for the wooden partition. This is less expensive than oil paint, can also be had in colors, and can later be used as a base for oil paint, if desired.

Plywood Floor

Q: My kitchen floor is plywood. The builder says it was well nailed, but to me it seems loose, with a vibration and knock. Should the floor have been glued down?

A: Plywood is not satisfactory as a flooring material, for the surface is likely to scuff and splinter with use. Gluing should not be necessary. It should be quite enough to nail the flooring solidly to the beams. Plywood is an excellent base for linoleum, and if properly laid there should be no trouble.

Kitchen Wallpaper

Q: Can ordinary wallpaper with a white background be so treated as to be practical for use in a kitchen without having the background discolor?

A: Ordinary varnish will have a yellowish effect on the whites, but there are varieties of varnish that are nearly clear. Also large paint stores should know of a kind of liquid wax intended for the protection of wallpaper, which is practically colorless.

Rebuilding a Chimney

Q: Can condensation be prevented in a chimney that is used for gas burning? Bricks are old and soft, and at the top are crumbling away from being soaked continually. I intend to rebuild from the attic floor up, next summer. What is the best method?

A: The chimney should be rebuilt from below the level of the attic floor. Use hard-burned bricks and include a good quality fireclay flue lining. Inform the gas company of what you intend to do, and get their advice.

The customer was obviously very angry as he strode into the watch-repairer's shop.

To the customer that was the last straw.

"I know all about that!" he raved. "But you have the impudence to display a notice in your window that watches will be repaired while you wait."

With a smile, the watchmaker retorted: "Well, you're waiting."

What's Happened To Yours, Mussolini?

GONE to feed Nazi soldiers? Something's wrong with that picture, Mussolini. Maybe you did start out with ideals, but you got into bad company.

We have spaghetti in America—plenty of it. We send some abroad to the United Nations. We also send great quantities of tomato juice, fruits, vegetables, meats . . . and still have enough left for the home front.

Yes, it's a job. We've never tried to feed half the world before and some equipment is lacking. Our food-canning industry is taxed to the limit. But we have the finest women in the world, Mussolini; they're fighting this war with kettles and spoons, pressure cookers and home-canning jars . . . preserving food at home, each for her own family. You see, it not only means a low food cost and a balanced diet—it means that commercially-canned foods can be loaded on hundreds of "food ships" for our fighting sons and brothers.

That's typical of America, Mussolini—this nation of weaklings. Come over and learn a lesson.

MILK PLANT OPERATORS MEET TO REDUCE TRUCK MILEAGE
At a meeting on Monday evening Sept. 14, called by Guido Schroeder, chairman of the Washington County War Production board, the milk plant operators in Washington county made preliminary plans to reduce their tank mileage.

In order to obtain tires after Nov. 15, it will be necessary for the milk plants to consolidate their routes, thereby eliminating any overlapping of mileage. Another meeting will be held on Sept. 28 to take action on consolidation. In addition to Guido Schroeder, Professor Froker, director of agricultural economics at the University of Wisconsin, spoke to the group about experience in this work in other counties. He mentioned the fine results obtained in Pierce county through the cooperation of all the milk plant operators in reducing truck mileage.

CITIZEN'S WAR HANDBOOK "WHAT CAN I DO?" READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

Every American who is not in a fighting uniform will find a specific answer to the oft-repeated question, "What Can I Do?" in a new OCD booklet of that name. This new booklet is just off the press and a supply has been received by the Washington County Council of Defense. "What Can I Do?" is enlivened by 64 witty illustrations by Gluyas Williams as his patriotic contribution. Everyone from accountants to barbers—65 different occupational groups—are given personal suggestions on how they can fight the war on the home front. Housewives and boys and girls are given tips on war tasks, too.

The office of war information has given the booklet's message a double "A" priority rating for national radio programs the first half of September. About 20 national magazines will feature it in illustrated articles. The national "Victory Display Committee" is asking its local committees in 400 cities to cooperate with local councils in arranging civilian defense window displays built around the "What Can I Do" theme.

Local clubs, schools, organizations and other groups are urged to request copies of the booklet for their members. "What Can I Do" is the answer to those many individuals who have been repeating this question the last few months.

FARM SHORT COURSE SCHOLARSHIPS

Each year the regents of the University of Wisconsin make available a number of scholarships to prospective farm short course students. These scholarships carry a value of either $75.00 or $45.00, and are awarded largely upon the merits of an award written by the applicant. Applications for scholarships close Oct. 10th.

The purpose of these scholarships is to aid deserving young men in training themselves for positions of responsibility in agriculture, and for rural leadership in their home communities. Not all who apply for scholarships are granted them. Those who qualify must be deserving and show leadership ability. Those to whom they are awarded are assured of a substantial part of the expenses incidental to taking the course.

The farm short course, which this year opens on Nov. 16th, represents a rich experience for the young men who will attend. It will make possible a more capable leadership in rural Wisconsin. Due to farm labor shortage, many young men who normally would continue their schooling will be obliged to remain at home. Any young man who wishes to continue with agriculture, and who can possibly find time to attend the University of Wisconsin farm short course, should try for one of these scholarships. Remember, all applications must be received by the county extension office before Oct. 10th.

FARM ORGANIZATIONS AND THEIR RELATION TO AGRICULTURE

Farmers as a group are interested in learning what services farm organizations can render to agriculture. They have heard and read about such leading farm organizations as the Grange, The Farmers Union, The Farm Bureau and other farm organizations. They know that these have a large membership. They are interested in learning what benefits come to agriculture from these farm organizations. To give Washington county farmers this information...

A meeting was held in the court house in West Bend on Friday evening, Sept. 25th. The meeting began at 9:15 o'clock. James C. Green, secretary of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation was the principal speaker. He is well informed in the role farm organizations contribute to agricultural policies.

DON'T OVERDO LIGHTS FOR LAYING FLOCK

"Daylight saving," adopted by the nation for the duration, may convince humans that they have more daylight but it won't fool the chickens. So, as the period of longer darkness comes along, many Wisconsin poultrymen will turn on artificial light to bring or keep egg production up to a desired level.

Barry Hayes, poultry husbandman of the University of Wisconsin, is suggesting three precautions when using artificial light in the poultry house:

Lights should be used only if needed. (Not all flocks need extra light). Absolute regularity in the schedule of lighting is necessary; and Don't overdo. (A total day, including normal light, of 12 to 13 hours, is enough).

In common with many others, Hayes has observed that hen flocks can be brought back into production after moulting more quickly by using lights. Where pullets have been brought into 50 to 55 per cent production and are showing a normal increase, he considers lights unnecessary. If the production is below this figure, then lights will help to bring it up.

Where morning or night lights are used a 60-watt bulb is used midway between the roost and the front of the house. Lights must be turned on and off at precisely the same hour each day. If lights are used at night, a dimmer must be used, to give the feeling of dusk. Lights in the morning may come on with no warning. If morning lights are used, feed and fresh water must be ready when the lights come on.

4 Ways to Save

Light in Your Home

- 1 Keep lamp bulbs clean and dust free. Wipe them frequently with a damp cloth and you'll get much more light from your present lamps. This will make seeing easier and protect your eyes from strain.
- 2 If lamp shades are dark or turned yellow inside, you may be losing as much as 50 per cent of the light. Clean and brush your shades regularly. If they are too bad, replace them with new ones.
- 3 Place lamps to make light more useful. By arranging furniture, one lamp can often serve two or more people effectively. Be sure, however, that it is not too far from either one.
- 4 Turn off lights when you don't need them. Electricity and eyesight are both vital today—conserve them. Be sure you have enough light to read, sew, or study, but don't leave unnecessary lights burning.

OVER the TOP with YOUR MILKERS!

It's good business and practical patriotism to milk your cows to capacity these days. You have capacity milking power in your own grain but it needs the balanced feeding help of a reliable supplement like Purina Cow Chow. We can help you step your cows up to capacity and keep them there by grinding your grain and mixing it with just enough Cow Chow, according to give you a feed of top producing ability. See us with your grain and see the difference it makes, at such low cost, in a balanced mixture that's absolutely dependable.

A Code For Loyal Americans

I will regularly make the necessary sacrifices that will permit me to buy War Bonds and Stamps.

I will pay all taxes on the date due.

I will systematically save so that I'll anticipate my taxes.

I will not buy those things I do not need because I know such hoarding will cause inflation. Such funds as I might have for such purposes I will use to pay off debts or save for tomorrow.

Horse and Cattle Owners!

Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war. Glycine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. T. for high explosives, and only Rendering Plants produce these products; as all dead animals buried or used otherwise are a waste to our country. Call your Renderer, Wm. Lasb, to collect your dead animals and you will be paid a fair price for them. Renderers can not pay an inflationary price as there is a ceiling on all of the products of rendering plants. Call at your nearest Phone West Bend 73 or Campbellsport 25F1 and reverse charges when you call. Yours truly, Wm. Lasb, Renderer.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of John A. Schultz, who passed away two years ago, on Sept. 21, 1940:
We miss thee from our home, dear father
We miss thee from thy place,
A shadow o'er our life is cast,
We miss the sunshine of thy face,
We miss thy kind and willing hand,
Thy fond and earnest care,
Our home is dark without thee—
We miss thee everywhere.
Sadly missed by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sponzel, and granddaughter, Margaret Sponzel.

Kewaskum HIGH-lites

Activity tickets for the first semester have been made available to the students of Kewaskum high school. Under the triple-pay plan established three years ago, students may subscribe for one of the following tickets:

1. $1.00 (plus 10 cents tax)—includes admission to all activities held during the first semester.

2. 75c (plus 5 cents tax)—includes all activities held during the first semester except basketball games; instituted for students unable to come into town for the games.

3. Individual tickets for each activity. Those participating in plans 1 and 2 save approximately fifty per cent of the total cost of all admissions included in each, according to Miss Margaret Browne, supervisor of the activity ticket program.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

On Friday a pre-conference football game and the all-school initiation party provided two opportunities for pupils to use their tickets. At 2:30 p. m. the initial lineup of Kewaskum's 23-man squad jogged out to meet their opponents from St. Mary's Springs on their home field. Coach Mitchell's boys play six-man tackle football in the Tri-County conference (Washington, Fond du Lac, and Dodge counties). Our conference schedule is:

Friday, Oct. 2—Kewaskum at Lomira, 2:30 p. m.
Friday, Oct. 9—Oakfield at Kewaskum, 2:15 p. m.
Friday, Oct. 16—Kewaskum at Campbellsport, 2:30 p. m.
Friday, Oct. 23—Kewaskum at North Fond du Lac, 2:15 p. m.
Friday, Oct. 30—Brandon at Kewaskum, 2:15 p. m.

INITIATION HELD

Initiations were in order Friday when the upper classmen officially welcomed into their body the 33 incoming freshmen and seven new faculty members in charge of the sophomore class. The evening's program consisted of stunts by the initiates, dancing, and refreshments.

NEW CHIMNEY

"Something new has been added" in four different departments of the high school. Most obvious of these is the addition of a new chimney. The structure is 15 ft. high and 5 ft. square.

NEW TEXTBOOKS

Ninety-three new textbooks were purchased for distribution to the pupils. Miss Margaret Flanagan explained, "The unexpected enrollment of 153 made it necessary to secure additional texts so that all students may have books to study from." In accordance with the system established last year, each pupil pays a deposit of $1.00 at the beginning of the year. This is refunded at the close of school minus the cost of any wanton destruction or marring of books.

NEW FOOTBALL UNIFORMS

New football uniforms consisting of pants, shoulder pads, and hip pads were distributed to the five boys who swelled the squad from 13 to 23.

MALE VOICE GROUP

Thirteen "stout-hearted men" have banded together under the baton of Miss Hulda Kohlbeck in an effort to organize male voices into a musical group. Tuesday they selected "Stout Hearted Men" as their theme song with the hopes of swelling the ranks to "ten thousand more." This is the first time that the high school boys have organized a male chorus. They practice Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Girls' chorus as organized for this year is divided into two sections: Freshman and sophomore girls, Wednesdays; junior and senior girls, Mondays; full chorus, Fridays.

ELECTIONS HELD

Elections ran rampant in the high school this last week. Most significant were the elections to student council: President—Robert Brauchle, Senior representatives—Bernice Meyer, Lorraine Eberle, Gerald Stoffel, Joy Zanow, Junior representatives—Ronald Dins, David Bartel, Harriet Stoffel, Sophomore representatives—Ralph Koth, Shirley Backus, Freshman representative—Dooris Mae Stahl.

The student council is a representative body of students selected by their fellow pupils to discuss the problems of the individual pupils, groups of pupils, and to present these to the faculty with suggestions for their solution.

Officers elected for the respective classes are:
Seniors: President, Lynes Fellenz; vice-president, Leonard Peter; secretary, Gerald Stoffel; treasurer, Joy Zanow.

Juniors: President, David Bartel; vice-president, Laverne Siegfried; secretary-treasurer, Marjorie Bartel.

CHEER LEADERS

Since three cheer leaders were "holders" from last year, only one new one was elected, Marjorie Bartel. The other three are Rachel Brauchle, Lilian Werner and Mary Bremser.

County Behind in War Bond Quota for Sept.

During the first half of September the United States war bond sales in Washington county amounted to $51,000.00. Washington county's quota for the month of September is $180,000.00. In other words, during the first half of the month only 28% of the month's quota on war bonds was purchased by the residents of this county.

During the last half of the month 72% of the quota will have to be sold, or in dollars and cents, $129,000.00 worth of war bonds will have to be purchased by the people of this county in order to make the quota. Washington county people made their quota in July which it was $302,000.00. In fact, they went $21,000.00 over the quota at that time. When the quota was $234,000.00, in the month of August, the people of this county went over the quota by $7,000.00. Now, from all appearances, when the quota is small, $180,000.00, from indications the forepart of this month, it looks as though the quota will not be made.

Robert H. Rolfs, executive chairman of the Washington County War Savings staff, makes a special appeal at this time to all of the people of this county who haven't bought their war bonds during the month of September to be sure to do it. There still are a few days remaining in this month, and the quota can be made if everyone participates and buys his war bonds regularly.

Washington county has never failed in the job that they have had to do. And in this all important effort of raising money to buy guns, airplanes and ships for our fighting men, we cannot fail. If you are not on a payroll allotment plan, go to your bank, your post office, your savings and loan association today and buy your war bonds and put Washington county over the top.

Recently there was a misinterpretation in the press of a statement made by Secretary Morgenthau in regard to the buying of United States war bonds. We will not repeat that statement, but we will call to your attention Secretary Morgenthau's last statement, in which he informed the American public that he still believes that the war bond effort can be successful on a voluntary basis. He believes as he always has that the American people will voluntarily buy the war bonds necessary to win this war. Some people may have thought that they would put off buying bonds this month thinking that perhaps the compulsory savings system would be established throughout the country because of what Secretary Morgenthau had said. This will not occur at the present time. Secretary Morgenthau thau is going to continue on a voluntary basis. He is not recommending any compulsory basis for participation in this war savings bonds program. That means that you and I and everyone must recognize our duty, and make every day, every market day, bond day. It's up to all of us to do the job that has to be done in the American way, on a voluntary basis. That's the challenge that Secretary Morgenthau gives to us Americans. He has faith in us, and we must confirm his faith in us by doing the job, each and everyone of us here in Washington county.

The month of September was set aside for a concerted drive throughout all industry in the county to get all employees participating on a pay roll allotment plan for an average pay roll deduction of at least 10%. The campaign is under the direction of Walter Malzahn, chairman of industry in the county. All employees of the various firms in the county are being personally solicited for their participation in this effort. Beginning right after Oct. 1 a honor roll will be published in the four county papers, listing all firms whose employees are participating 100% in the pay roll plan. This listing will be published every week.

On Monday, Sept. 21, at 6:30 p. m. a meeting of all rural mail carriers was held at the Linden Inn. This meeting was called to study ways and means to get a wider distribution on sales of war bonds in rural areas.

TO THE VOTERS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY

Please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the generous support accorded me at the polls on September 15, 1942. I am genuinely sorry to have disappointed so many of you by failing of renomination to the office of State Senator from this district. But Mr. Panzer's lead in Dodge county, the other county comprising the district and which is twice as large as this county, was just too much to overcome and I wish Mr. Panzer every success. However, I am consoled by the wholehearted endorsement accorded me by the people of my own county. I never forget it.

Please remember that I will be your State Senator until January 13, 1945, and that I stand ready to serve you in my official capacity until then and will do so with the same willingness and promptness as if I had been renominated. My office will be open and I will still be a good servant of the public until my term expires. Thanks again.

Gratefully yours,
J. M. PETERS,
State Senator, 13th District.
