Speaking of stuffings: The old-fashioned bread dressing is easily adapted to many variations. Here is the basic idea: To 1 1/2 pounds of dried bread cut in one-inch cubes add 1/2 cup melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon white pepper, 1/4 cup minced onion, cooked, but not browned, and 2 tablespoons of poultry dressing. Toss lightly and stuff.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Custards can be enhanced by a bay leaf boiled in the milk.

It is not usually advisable to let prepared but uncooked vegetables stand for any time in water; it frequently causes a loss of mineral content.

Broiled vegetables brown better when dipped in salad oil or melted butter.

When unsalted fats are used to replace butter or margarine in baking, additional salt may be needed.

When carving a rolled or standing rib roast use a very sharp, thin-bladed, long handled knife. For the rolled roast cut thin slices across the top; for standing roasts cut in thin slices at right angles to the ribs.

A leaky chimney flue is one of the most expensive and troublesome ailments from which any house can suffer. If you suspect that your chimney harbors a leak, lose no time in making sure of it, and if there is a leak, even a small one, have it repaired at once.

The young man burning with love usually makes a fuel of himself.

He Got It

He sat moping over his cup of coffee and making sheep's eyes at the pretty waitress, until she was fed up.

Seasickness

Seasickness is rather a mysterious complaint, for the general health of a passenger on board ship does not seem to have much effect upon his resistance to seasickness. Science believes, however, that seasickness is concerned with the upsetting of an individual's physiological balance, which is controlled by what are called the semi-circular canals of the ear.

Subconscious Training

The ease with which the subconscious mind can train itself is illustrated by the case of a certain somnambulist, reports Collier's.

Chinese 'Rights'

In New York city, every Chinese who rents a store or some other business building claims that he has a "basic property right" in it and, therefore, will not allow another Chinese to lease it until the man has purchased this right, says Collier's. When such a demand runs into thousands of dollars, the owner is seldom able to rent the property again to a member of this race.

Hot or Cold?

PREPAREDNESS

A NATION at war must guard its health. One sure guard, and one of the best forms of preparedness is proper diet.

Since World War I, the American Red Cross has offered the nation's housewives nutrition courses, designed to teach both men and women how to eat and keep well and strong. But Americans felt that since they were the best fed people of the world, they must also be the best nourished. In that belief they were mistaken.

The army reported that one-third of all applicants for war service were being rejected because of poor health—bad teeth, heart trouble, poor eyesight, skin diseases—all traceable to undernourishment. America's mothers and housewives were shocked into action.

Within the past year, more than 250,000 women have won Red Cross Food and Nutrition certificates by attending these courses held by Red Cross chapters in more than 1,850 counties throughout the United States.

In these Food and Nutrition courses, women learned the importance of preparing and serving the right amounts of the right kinds of foods—foods which contained the needed health protective qualities to keep their husbands fit for jobs in the shipyards, the farms, the mines, the steel mills, and to build their children into physically stronger Americans.

Dancing High-Jumpers

Tallest tribe of men in the world is the Watussi, of Belgian Congo; average height, 6 feet 6 inches. The tribal dances are strenuous, and give them springy thigh muscles, which enable them to leap prodigious heights.

Some of their best performers can fly over a bar eight feet from the ground, and on one ceremonial occasion a whole platoon of them jumped seven feet, two inches higher than the present world's high-jump record!

All Styles of Furniture, Decoration Have Something Valuable to Offer

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN

We read with a smile the too-sure pronouncements of 19th century furniture designers by writers of a few years back. It was all bad, they agreed, skipping over what they felt to be a whole misguided era, decoratively speaking. In fact, these writers of the early 20th century were predecessors just as vastly superior as we do toward the 1900s.

A recent study of the farm labor situation shows that there is much underemployment in certain areas, and that manpower might well be shifted from such regions to areas where labor is needed.

Nov. 19-26 is Thanksgiving Harvest Observance Week

The week of Nov. 19-26 has been designated as Thanksgiving Harvest Observance week. Walter F. Katterhenry, Wisconsin's USDA War Board chairman, has announced the week as a time to offer thanks to Divine Providence for an unusually good crop year and pay tribute to farmers' efforts in producing food for freedom.

Every man, woman and child is urged to re-enact the spirit of the first Thanksgiving that marked the beginning of the freedom which we are now fighting to protect.

Katterhenry indicated that this year's farm production goals called for a total production greater than ever before in the history of this country.

"Our farmers recognized their war job; they realized that our freedom and that of other freedom-loving people was at stake. With the help of Providence, a grim determination, and plenty of ingenuity, they put their land, their labor and their farm machinery into the job," Katterhenry emphasized. They got the production we needed. They worked from sun-up until long after sun-down. Farm women and girls pitched in to replace farm hands who had entered our armed forces or war plants. In many cases, they used old, patched-up farm machinery, so that more metal would be available for vital war equipment.

Local Thanksgiving harvest observance will give everyone in the community an opportunity to offer their thanks to Divine Providence for a bountiful harvest and express their appreciation for the good work that farmers have done this year, Katterhenry pointed out.

EVENING WOMAN'S CLUB
The Kewaskum Evening Woman's club members heard a review of Margaret Stoen's novel, "The Sun is My Undoing," given by Miss Hulda Kohlbeck Monday evening. The report followed a short business meeting conducted by Mrs. D. M. Rosenheimer, president.

Mrs. Rosenheimer reported on the Nov. 6 afternoon meeting of the West Bend Woman's club, which she had attended as a representative of the home group. Plans for rolling bandages for the Red Cross are being completed, she revealed.

While the women sewed and knitted, Miss Kohlbeck recounted the life's history of Matthew Flood as told in "The Sun is My Undoing." It was traced back two generations to the old reprobate Hercules Flood and forward two generations to the quartette mulatto, Maria Pia.

In its many intertwining plots, the novel considered two vital problems—that of the abolition movement and that of the intermarriage of white and negro.

At the next meeting, Monday, Nov. 23, Miss Joan Franigan will discuss Douglas's "Forgive Us Our Trespases." The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. D. M. Rosenheimer from 7-9 p. m. All women are invited.

AEF Landing in N. Africa Forestalls Axis Invasion, Re-Opens Mediterranean

Large-Scale Action Launches 'Second Front'

When U. S. troops landed at Atlantic and Mediterranean ports of French North African colonies they effected the first big-scale American offensive of this war and thus launched the much-sought "second front."

Intent on wiping out all Axis forces in North Africa and opening the Mediterranean to Allied shipping, these forces were expected to work with the British troops driving westward from Egypt. Caught in the middle of a gigantic pincer movement was the retreating Axis "Africa Corps" under the command of Nazi General Irwin Rommel.

First word of the opening of the drive by the Americans came when President Roosevelt's announcement of it was made over the short-wave radio beamed at Europe. Speaking in French, the President told the citizens of France that the armies of the United States were coming to them as friends and that their objective was to wipe out the enemies of their country.

LIEUT. GEN. EISENHOWER
"We come . . . as friends."

At the same time the war department in Washington issued a communique on the same subject.

The White House pointed out that the action was taken to forestall an Axis invasion of this French territory because such an invasion would "constitute a direct threat to America across the comparatively narrow sea from western Africa." Also this action was begun to provide "an effective second front assistance to our heroic allies in Russia."

In charge of the large contingent of U. S. troops (soon to be joined by strong British re-inforcements) was Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of U. S. European land forces. His headquarters had formerly been in Britain. Assault landings were made under the cover of a huge naval and air armada. Thus the Axis got an answer to its "fishing for information" broadcasts of earlier in the week. These accounts reported heavy allied troop convoys gathering at Gibraltar and the Nazi intelligence wanted an answer from United Nations' sources. None was given and the reports were neither confirmed or denied until the President's message went on the air.

French Report Resistance To Landings

That the French were fighting back was first learned in this country when an official French communique announced that landing attempts had taken place and had been "repulsed" and "frustrated with heavy losses." First battles were reported by the French at Algiers and Oran.

Marshal Henri Philippe Petain Vichy-French chief of state, rejected President Roosevelt's plea to refrain from obstructing the U. S. action when he declared that "We are attacked and we shall defend ourselves. That is the order which I give."

Adm. Jean Francois Darlan immediately took charge of the defense for the French. He is commander in chief of all Vichy armed forces.

First reports from the field reaching the newly established "Allied Headquarters in North Africa" indicated that the opening U. S. assault landings on the beaches of North Africa near two main objectives were successful.

Much evidence of careful planning was revealed in the clock-work arrival of all parts of the huge task force. While it was believed that most of the troops engaged in the maneuver had been stationed in Great Britain there was nothing to indicate the route taken nor the time of their departure from their training bases.

Forecast Developments

When military experts began to study the broad implications of this offensive it became clear that the first job would be put down any resistance on the part of the Vichy-controlled French. This had to be taken care of. Next came Rommel. It now became evident when the British forces began their full-scale campaign out of Egypt and started pushing the Germans and Italians back toward Libya they knew that there was something of a major nature brewing to the west.

And the winning of Africa goes even further. Once the historic Mediterranean falls into secure Allied control, Italy faces invasion. Strategists could see this hand-writing on the sands of Africa.

Italians had been reported as already badly demoralized by the initial success of the British drive in Egypt. Meanwhile part of the plan seemed to be the pounding of northern Italian cities by British bombers.

Naturally there was nothing official to indicate that Italy was doomed to invasion but the threat was plainly there.

Crack U. S. Troops First to Arrive

Experts described this drive as perhaps the longest overwater military operation ever attempted. Crack U. S. combat troops, rangers (air borne units) and the best of American fliers were among the first to arrive.

However it was learned in London that newspapers there had known for some time that something of major importance was afoot as far as U. S. troops were concerned. The secret was well kept however. But the tip-off came several weeks ago when top-ranking officers of the American forces were not to be found at their usual stations.

According to one source many of the troops themselves didn't know where they were headed until a few hours before they began piling into their square nosed assault boats and headed for the beaches of Casablanca, Algiers and Oran.

Zero-hour came at dawn with landings being made at numerous points although they were several hundred miles apart. Troops from every state of the union were in the opening drive. First sign of action came to the French colonies when low-flying planes swooped over their cities and showered them with leaflets signed by General Eisenhower and containing President Roosevelt's plea to accept the U. S. action calmly and peacefully.

Then the marines set out in their barges, the Rangers started floating down onto Vichy territory with U. S. fighter pilots standing by to take over airfields captured by the ground troops or ready to strike out in their phase of the offensive.

In North Africa, Vichy had stationed some 150,000 troops, pledged to fight any invader.

President Roosevelt's Shortwave Broadcast

Here are some of the highlights from President Roosevelt's shortwave broadcast:

"Americans, with the assistance of the United Nations, are striving for their own safe future as well as the restoration of the ideals, the liberties, and the democracy of all those who have lived under the Tricolor.

"We come among you to repulse the cruel invaders who would remove forever your rights of self-government, your rights to religious freedom, and your rights to live your own lives in peace and security.

"We come among you solely to defeat and rout your enemies. Have faith in our words. We do not want to cause you any harm. We assure you that once the menace of Germany and Italy is removed from you, we shall quit your territory at once . . .

"The French government and the French people have been informed of the purpose of this expedition, and have been assured that the Allies seek no territory and have no intention of interfering with the friendly French authorities in Africa.

"The government of France and the people of France and the French possessions have been requested to co-operate with and assist the American expedition in its effort to repel the German and Italian international criminals and by so doing to liberate France and the French empire from the Axis yoke.

"This expedition will develop into a major effort by the Allied nations and there is every expectation that it will be successful in repelling the planned German and Italian invasion of Africa and prove the first historic step to the liberation of France."

General Eisenhower also issued a proclamation in which he assured the French in North Africa that the United Nations had only the objective "to defeat the enemy and to free France."

Broadcast in French, his message directed the French forces to "avoid any possible misunderstanding" by signaling their co-operation by methods he outlined . . . "By day, fly the French tri-color and the American flag, one above the other . . . By night, turn on a searchlight and direct it vertically towards the sky."

'Stay Where You Are'

He also gave orders for naval and merchant marine units to "stay where you are" and ". . . make no attempt to scuttle your vessels." Coast guard and aviation units were also instructed on how to conform to the American command. General orders were ". . . you must obey all orders given to you by my officers."

Eisenhower told the French that "We come . . . as friends, not as enemies. We shall not be the first to fire."

'We Are Attacked'

MARSHAL HENRI PETAIN

Rejecting President Roosevelt's plea that the French should not "obstruct" American and British military action in North Africa, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, chief of state in Vichy, France, stated that "France and her honor are at stake. We are attacked and we shall defend ourselves."

Work Or Fight

"Sooner or later we will have to come to it."

This was the assertion of Donald M. Nelson as he appeared before the Senate military affairs sub-committee hard at work on its study of the manpower mobilization problem. The statement referred directly to the possibility of a national selective service rule whereby every citizen would be required to either work or fight.

Nelson urged a longer work week and better management to increase productivity.

In these views Nelson found the committee to be in agreement. Also they concurred with the view expressed by the President at his press conference that further study will be necessary before definite recommendations on such legislation can be forthcoming. But the President made it plain that he would oppose any extension of working hours that would interfere with efficiency. He indicated that a work week of about 48 hours was desirable.

While the situation did not yet appear to be critical (except in dairying and other agricultural pursuits), the manpower problem will get more serious as time goes on and more men are drafted into the armed services. Right now, said the President he did not know any factories shut down due to a shortage of manpower.

In many rural communities U. S. citizens were worried about what was going to happen in the spring when another crop must be planted. For now, with harvest ended many farm and small town youths (who had temporary deferments) were off to the wars.

Wage Freeze Called 'Tough'

Only in "exceptional cases" will wage and salary increases be approved by the government, the War Labor Board announced in a far-reaching policy statement which virtually freezes wages and salaries of $5,000 and below at Sept. 15 levels.

The WLB has control over all non-agricultural wages and over all salaries less than $5,000, other than salaries of supervisors or professional employees. The treasury department has jurisdiction over supervisory and professional salaries less than $5,000 and all salaries of more than $5,000. The secretary of agriculture has jurisdiction over farm wages.

Explaining the government's wage policy, William H. Davis, chairman of the WLB, said the "Little Steel" wage formula, permitting increases up to 15 per cent above Jan. 1, 1941, levels and hereafter applied by the board in all recent applications for increases, will be strictly interpreted.

"The board is laying down a policy which, we think, is pretty damn tough," Davis said. "We are going to authorize increases very, very sparingly and then only if it is conclusively shown that they are essential to the prosecution of the war."

He pointed out that because many employees already may be receiving wages higher than the prevailing scale for their industry, wages will not necessarily be raised 15 per cent to cover the increase in the cost of living since early 1941.

BRIEFS:

ROCKET—A new anti-tank rocket is reported to have contributed much to the defeat of the Axis in Africa. The rocket is said to be fired from a rifle and when a tank is hit, the rocket burns through the tank wall and explodes on the inside.

EXHIBIT—The two-man Japanese suicide submarine, captured at Pearl Harbor and nicknamed "The Tojo Cigar," has been turned over to the War Savings staff for a coast-to-coast tour to promote the sale of war bonds and stamps.

GIFT—The Bank of France claims that it has turned over $200,000,000 in Belgian gold to the Nazis on orders from Marshal Petain.

MARKSMEN—Since the beginning of the war, gunners on British merchant ships have destroyed 98 enemy aircraft, probably destroyed 42 and damaged 98 others.

HIDDEN—Dr. Anthony Jurasz, dean of the Polish medical school at Edinburgh University, Scotland, disclosed that wounded Nazi soldiers are being detained in Polish hospitals rather than being sent home where they "could tell the story of the Russian front."

TRANSFER—Equipment for dehydrating coffee to meet part of the needs of the armed forces has been transferred to Brazil, the Board of Economic Warfare has announced. Dehydrated coffee can be shipped in one-seventh the space occupied by green coffee.

Women Purchasers Can Aid U. S. Farmers

Fitting Family's Diet With Farm Production Helps U. S. War Effort

America's 6,000,000 farmers today aren't feeding a mere 132,000,000 citizens of the United States. They are also responsible for filling huge gaps in the food supplies of most of the free world—the uniformed and civilian.

This is a large order.

They will need all the help they can get from the consumer at home if they are to continue to fill steadily growing lend-lease orders from the United Nations.

The consumer is a woman.

If you're a man, you'll probably say, "Hey! What about me?"

Well, mister, you're practically nobody when it comes to deciding what you'll eat and what you'll wear. Women buy 80 per cent of the food and 75 per cent of the clothing. Further than that, they influence almost all customer purchasing.

This is where the housewife can offer one of the greatest contributions to winning the war. She can see to it that the diet of her family fits in with farm production and the shortages created by the war. She should be informed on the problems involved in producing the goods she wants and getting them into her hands.

As the buyers for some 34 million households from coast to coast, women have a tremendous responsibility to the families they feed and clothe.

During 1942 the farmer has marked the highest production level

CONSUMER'S CREED

I will buy what is plentiful.
I will buy what is fresh.
I will buy what is produced locally.
I will buy what the government asks me to buy through the Victory Food Program.
I will not hoard or waste food.

in history. At the same time, annual income payments nationally have increased some 20 billions of dollars.

But crop goals met and passed, and an income increase of over 17 per cent, don't mean that the housewife can go out and buy whatever she wants and as much as she wants.

Since Pearl Harbor, the consumer picture has undergone radical changes. "Scarcity," "ceiling price" and "rationing" have become common words.

Food is no longer readily available if the housewife has the price to pay. Some of her old-time staples are on the "scarce" list, items such as tea, bananas, coffee and sugar.

Off-the-farm consumers, the urban group, comprise over 75 per cent of the population of the United States.

Foodstuffs and clothing combined account for about 40 per cent of every dollar spent by the average urban family.

It is therefore obvious that at no previous time has women's good management in buying been more important.

Give Consumer Protection. Urging consumers—and remember that means women—to take heed of the farmer's problems, brings out the little-known fact that the U. S. department of agriculture in return does not forget consumer protection in its farming for freedom program.

When the housewife buys fresh vegetables from day to day, she isn't likely to think much about the fact that the vegetables arrived on season schedule, that they were in sufficient quantity and that the price was "right." It's only when those conditions didn't exist that she might begin to wonder how her table is served.

Then she would learn that by taking the "long view" for both farmer and consumer safety, the overall agricultural program results in uniform distribution of farm commodities, an even flow of goods into Marketing his produce is the final step in the farmer's program of supplying the American table.

Paint Your House Gutters, Downspouts

Gutters and downspouts, if damaged or ruined by rust or corrosion in this wartime period of metal scarcity, are likely to result in high discomfort to the owner, to say nothing of the further damage that may be caused by inability to carry the water from rains away from the house. Many a home owner who has failed to give attention to these important parts of his house has been dismayed to find them full of holes and leaks, and sometimes actually collapsing. Such neglect is a sad waste at any time, but in wartime, with such items becoming practically irreparable for the duration, it becomes a near tragedy. The best insurance against such loss is thorough removal of all surface rust and corrosion, followed by prompt protection of the metal by painting or varnishing. All gutters and downspouts should be painted.

California University Dean Says Fewer Girls Working on Outside Jobs

"Among the changes in student life since Pearl Harbor is a decrease in the number of university girls working at outside jobs," says Helen M. Laughlin, dean of women at the Los Angeles campus of the University of California. "Last semester 22.56 per cent of the women students, about one in five, were earning part of their maintenance. A third of these were working in excess of three hours a just took it for granted. Curtailment of shipping, due to the war, cut off important sources of raw materials, of which sugar is one. At the same time, industrial uses of sugar have increased.

Today's price ceiling on sugar, however, is lower than might have been expected. For this the buyer can thank a sugar program which provides payments to growers that are helping them step up production.

Conservation on the farm may seem a far cry from top quality lettuce or potatoes or green beans. It may seem even farther from tender meats or milk rich in butter fat. And farther still from lower prices.

But farmers know, and consumers should be aware, that soil-building and soil-conserving practices mean larger yields and better quality. Well-nourished land produces better crops than depleted soil.

Wholesomeness guaranteed.

Regulatory laws administered by the United States department of agriculture directly affect homes and consumer income and buying power. Consumers are protected against mis-branding, substitutions and swindling by the Pure Food and Drug act. It provides a safeguard for wholesome foodstuffs, thereby protecting both health and pocketbook.

Research activities of the department are equally related to consumer interests. Sixty-five research "laboratories" have experiments constantly in process.

They don't just develop cloth from milk and plastics from soybeans. They also determine methods of increasing production and strengthening the quality of farm products.

Food is carefully analyzed by experts so that their vitamin and mineral content can be accurately figured. Nutrition studies set up minimum food requirements show how they may be met at the least cost and what available foods may be substituted for those on the scarce list or headed that way.

Steering Food Purchases.

These nutrition studies are of particular interest to the housewife. She is faced with the problem of providing her family with enough to eat to maintain health and efficiency.

Something known as "acreage allotment" is now being used to increase production of certain crops needed for the war, a part of the change-over from normal peacetime farming to all-out war production. The farmer is converting his fields to war production just as surely as the manufacturer turns his machines from automobiles to airplanes.

Production without adjustment would be inexcusable waste at any time. In wartime it is criminal.

What Crop Reserves Do.

Probably Mrs. Average Housewife wouldn't be able to tell you what an Ever-Normal granary is—but she's enjoying the advantages of living under a farming system that provides for crop reserves. In recent years, lots of wheat, corn and other products have been stored against a time when crops might be smaller or demands greater. When drought once pushed corn production as much as 40 per cent below normal, meat prices skyrocketed and consumers suffered hardships. But now with the Ever-Normal granary's stored reserves of more than 25 per cent of a normal year's crop, there is plenty of feed to convert into meat, eggs, and dairy products.

"Crop insurance" has a formidable sound, but it is a simple procedure that pays big dividends to the consumer as well as to the producer who meets the premiums. Such insurance keeps farmers in business producing needed goods by guaranteeing them, for example, some wheat or cotton income every year even if a crop fails. This protection gives farmers the assurance they need to go in for production of critical war crops.

That's consumer protection for everybody, even if it doesn't occur to the woman who buys a loaf of bread. Housewives are currently faced with the necessity of cutting down on sugar, once so much a part of their regular purchases that they must steer her food buying so that supplies may be used to the best advantage and at the same time provide the highest consumer satisfaction.

The individual buyer these days must think always of her purchases as they relate to those of the 34 million other American housewives—what the result would be if that buying were multiplied by 34 million. Would it create new scarcity or make a scarce food non-existent? Or would it have the effect of utilizing the foods that are available in abundance?

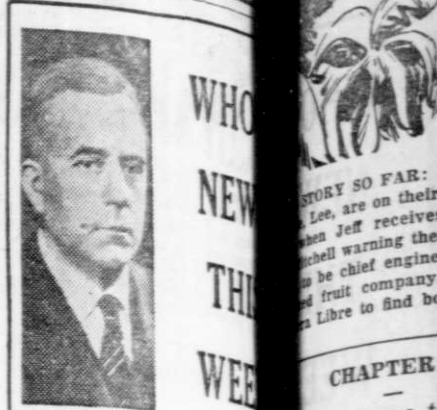

Alarm over possible increased food costs has been evidenced by some homemakers. The retail cost of a basket of foods, representing annual family purchases, amounted to $405 in September, 1942, an increase of $73 over the price of the same foods in the period from 1935-39, but the cost was still $10 lower than in 1929.

Workingmen's families today can buy a basket of specified food products for the smallest share of family income on record since 1913. In September, 1942, it required only 22 per cent of the family income. During the preceding five years the same food basket accounted for 27 per cent of the income. Average family income has been rising more rapidly than food prices during the last three years and through the first 10 months of 1942. Reasons include higher wage rates, more hours of work per week with over-time payments, and more persons employed.

The family averaging five persons this fall reached a wage level 57 per cent higher than the pre-war average for 1935-39.

This seems to indicate that the housewife's food problems will not be those of capacity to buy but rather of the market's ability to supply her needs.

Reaching her goal—just as the farmer meets his production goal—will mean that scarcity of some particular type of food will be a matter of concern to any American, so long as he is able to eat what he needs.

ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVED WITH COMMUNITY SING

Kewaskum high school pupils and teachers celebrated Armistice day with a community sing led by Miss Hulda Kohlbek, during general assembly in the morning. Old favorites of the last war and popular ones of this war were sung in addition to the patriotic "Star Spangled Banner" and "America." Shirley Backus and Harriet Stoffel, students, accompanied the singing on the piano.

Tribute was paid to all the various sections of the United States armed forces in the singing of "Caisson Song" (artillery), "Anchors Aweigh" (navy), "Marine Hymn," and the "Army Air Corps."

A dash of romance of this war was added by the singing of "Johnny Doughboy Found a Rose in Ireland," the song which has been prophesied by many as being equivalent to "Over There." "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition" was sung with gusto.

Among the well-loved songs were, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," "K-K-K-Katy," and "Over There."

HOWARD SCHMIDT WRITES TO PARENTS FROM INDIA

Excerpts from a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Schmidt from their son, Sgt. Howard Schmidt, from somewhere in India on Nov. 8 are:

Greetings and best wishes from your son and far away India. Everything over here is fine, including myself. Never felt better, and I like my work.

The other afternoon I took a bike ride into the surrounding country and took in a few sights, as well as the taking of several pictures, which I am sure will interest you very much. While riding around probably the one thing that caught my eye most was a native village that I passed through. It sure is strange how they do their work outside of their huts, most of it along the streets, for you see them cooking, eating, cleaning their clothes, and working on their crude wagons and other small articles that they may possess. Another thing worth watching was one of the Indian farmers plowing, for he was using a plow constructed out of a couple of timbers that was being pulled by a yoke of oxen. Speaking of oxen, it seems to be the popular means of transportation over here, and you go to see a few camels, but not near as many as I did see at the other place where I formerly was stationed in India. They use the oxen with all sorts of carts, which are constructed by hand and look like the carts of old day back in America. You have perhaps seen pictures of them with the wheels made of planks and held together with pegs or rope. They really are quaint and crude, but make a nice picture. There are still plenty of horses used for taxi service only instead of the four wheel buggy that we were used to, they have two wheel carts that are called "longas."

We are getting a little American beer which sure tastes swell and the price is good for we get it from the post exchange. Other drinks are far in price for what we are used to in India, but still plenty in comparison to what it costs back home. Our food has been very good and I am sure that I am doing it justice, for it is so much better than I was having that it feels just like home. I am getting used to this country and now am beginning to pick up bits of the language which sure sounds odd as for their writing, I don't ever believe I will be able to see through it. Of our food here the thing that I enjoy most of all is the milk. It is good after going about nine months without any, and I drink my share of it.

Record War Bond Sales Is Goal Of Women At War Week Nov. 22

WASHINGTON, D. C.—America's women in the cities and on the farm, war factories and in their homes—are determined to make Women At War Week the greatest War Bond selling effort since Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sounded the keynote for the Treasury Department Women At War Week, Nov. 22 to 28, with an appeal to women to save on "things" to provide money for War Bonds.

"We women want to work hard, we want to be a part of this strenuous period because unless we are, we will not be able to face the men when they return and claim our share of the future responsibility for building a peaceful world," the First Lady declared.

"The overall direction of Women At War Week rests with the Women's Section of the War Savings Staff under the leadership of Miss Harriet Elliott, Associate Field Director, and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Chief of the Special Activities Unit.

From coast to coast women in every community have made plans for torchlight parades, fashion shows, teas, rallies, store window displays, Stamp and Bond booths, pageants, civic sings, balls and mardi gras. In each locality administration of the one week drive rests with the local War Savings Committee which has worked out activities adapted to their areas.

Mrs. Morgenthau, in a special message for Women At War Week, declared that the spirit of America's pioneer women lives today more strongly than ever. "The average American woman began to rise to new heights on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941," Mrs. Morgenthau said. "This winter the average American woman will be spending less in order to save more to invest in War Bonds and Stamp and Bond drives. She will not, please God, ever have to fire a gun or fly a bomber. But she will, please God, always do everything she can to help buy anything—and the best of everything—that fires or flies or floats in this terrible war."

During Women At War Week volunteer War Bond women will wear an armband similar to the one being attached to the sleeve of Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr. Harriet Elliott.

Glycerine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. T. for high explosives and only Rendering Plants produce these products; as all dead animals buried or used otherwise are a waste to our country. Call your Renderer, Wm. Laabs, to collect your dead animals and you will be paid a fair price for them. Renderers can not pay an inflationary price as there is a ceiling on all of the products of rendering plants. Call at your nearest Phone West Bend 75 or Campbellsport 25FI and reverse charges when you call. Yours truly, Wm. Laabs, Renderer.
