

'Schools at War' Program To Help Smash Dictators

A national campaign is under way to enroll the nation's 32,000,000 school children in the war effort. This campaign, known as the "Schools at War" program, was launched by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in Washington, D. C., recently. Speaking over a national radio hookup and before 4,000 District of Columbia school children, Mrs. Roosevelt urged the boys and girls of the nation to dedicate themselves to active participation in the war effort through the Schools at War program.

Many of the Capital schools participated in the ceremonies which marked the opening of this notable campaign. The following series of photos will furnish more than one idea for other schools that are anxious to enroll their pupils in the important work of doing their bit towards whipping the enemies of freedom.

Victory Parade

A color guard composed of District of Columbia school boy cadets marches up Constitution avenue.

Scrap collection, another vital phase of school children's war activities, is the theme of this section of the Schools at War parade.

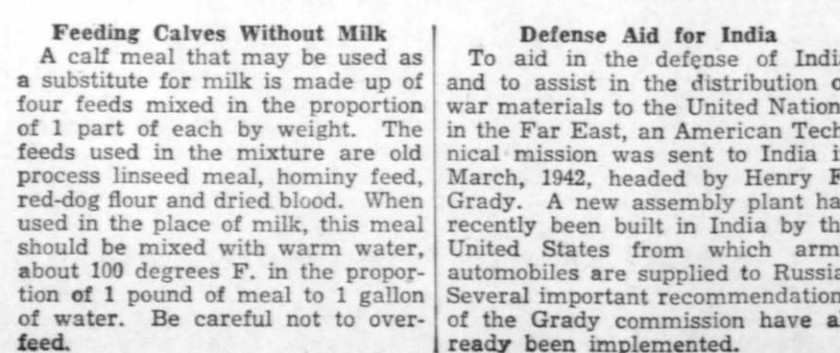

A healthy nation is a fighting nation, and the school children of America can do their bit by preaching and practicing the value of nutrition, as is being done by these school girls.

A regiment of cadets from a District of Columbia high school marches to the Treasury building for the ceremonies marking the opening of the "Schools at War" campaign.

The historical background of the country is portrayed here. The costumed youngsters represent the heritage for which we fight.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt (circle) speaks at the opening ceremonies.

Feeding Calves Without Milk
A calf meal that may be used as a substitute for milk is made up of four feeds mixed in the proportion of 1 part of each by weight. The feeds used in the mixture are old process linseed meal, hominy feed, red-dog flour and dried blood. When used in the place of milk, this meal should be mixed with warm water, about 100 degrees F., in the proportion of 1 pound of meal to 1 gallon of water. Be careful not to over-feed.

Defense Aid for India
To aid in the defense of India and to assist in the distribution of war materials to the United Nations in the Far East, an American Technical mission was sent to India in March, 1942, headed by Henry F. Grady. A new assembly plant has recently been built in India by the United States from which army automobiles are supplied to Russia. Several important recommendations of the Grady commission have already been implemented.

CARE OF GARDEN POOLS

SMALL garden pools can be left empty during the winter. Generally speaking, larger pools should be left filled, so that the pressure of the water will offset the pressure of the earth against the sides. If the sides slope, the pressure that accompanies freezing will be taken up by sliding the ice upward. If the sides are vertical, the pressure of freezing might crack them; but this can be prevented by floating logs or heavy timbers in the pool, extending from end to end. The pressure will be absorbed by the compression of the wood fibers. When a pool does not freeze solidly to the bottom the water beneath the ice does not go below 40 degrees, which is not killing to most varieties of fish. It is only when the pool freezes solidly to the bottom that the fish life will be imperiled. One good way to protect the pool during the winter is to cover it with boards on which dead leaves are piled and held in place by strips of chicken wire. Snow will make the insulation still more effective. The leaves should be omitted at one end of the pool, the hole that is left being plugged with a bag of dead leaves. In clear weather this can be taken up for the airing of the space over the water.

Leaking Chimney.
Question: My brick chimney goes through the attic at a slant, but is straight above the roof. In rainy weather water drips from the lower side of the slanted part, seeps through the floor of the attic and spoils the paper on the walls below. We have had the part above the roof covered with cement, and the roofer says that the flashing around the chimney looks all right. How can the leakage be stopped?
Answer: The trouble is probably in the joint between the upper end of the slanting part and the straight part above the roof. There may also be leakage through the cement covering and the brickwork above the roof; water leaking in will work down through the masonry outside of the flue lining. Your surest method of repair would be to rebuild the chimney from the upper section of the slanting part, so that the joint is tight. Flashings should also be renewed.

Hardwood Floors.
Question: Last year my hardwood floors were sanded, filled and given three coats of varnish. They are really beautiful, and I want to keep them so. I wax them quite often, but they seem to be going a little dark. How can I keep them light?
Answer: Wipe them with liquid wax—not water wax or non-rubbing wax. The darkening is in the wax now on the floor, which the liquid wax will soften and take up. Floors need waxing only twice a year or so, except in doorways or where the wear is heavy. Apply new wax at those points only when wax begins to show. Use paste wax in thin coats, and keep your floors in condition not by adding wax, but by frequent polishing. Do not clean the floors with an oiled mop.

Gas Pipe.
Question: The closed end of a gas pipe protrudes from my basement ceiling above the furnace. The smokepipe of a small water heater runs just below the gas pipe, which at times gets quite hot. Is there danger of fire or of a gas explosion?
Answer: Danger would come only from the ignition of a gas leak. You will do well to have an inspection made by the gas company, which will be done without charge.

Leather Upholstery.
Question: What can I use to clean a red leather armchair? What kind of paint or stain can be used to touch up the arms where the color has rubbed off?
Answer: You can clean the leather with saddle soap, to be had at any leather or hardware store. Follow the directions on the label. Worn places can be touched up with leather dye or with colored wax, to be had at a shoe repair store.

Match Scratches.
Question: How can I remove scratches of brimstone matches from a window pane?
Answer: Unfortunately, it cannot be done, for the heads of brimstone matches contain an abrasive that scratches the glass. The marks could be polished out by a plate glass dealer, but the cost would be greater than getting a new pane.

Removing Plaster Stains.
Question: Plaster was dropped on a new cement porch. How can it be removed?
Answer: Plaster can be softened by soaking with plain water, and can then be removed with a wire brush.

Maple Roots.
Question: How can I prevent the roots of a maple tree from growing under my foundation? Can a tree growing on a property line be cut down without the consent of either owner? This one is very close to my foundations.
Answer: You can dig a trench close to your foundations and cut off the offending roots. Ownership of the tree may depend on local ordinances. See your lawyer about it. A friendly understanding with your neighbor would be the best solution.

Kathleen Norris Says: Nancy Is the Most Unhappy of Wives

By Kathleen Norris

I met at a canteen dance the man who seemed everything wonderful in the world to me. Our attraction was mutual; Paul was a second lieutenant, handsome and popular.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS
NANCY ROBINSON considers herself the unhappiest young wife in all the world. She isn't that, but she has indeed a sad problem to solve, and one that probably won't be the only one of its kind, as these war years go by.

"Last February," she writes, "I met at a canteen dance the man who seemed everything wonderful in the world to me. Our attraction was mutual; Paul was a second lieutenant, handsome and popular; old friends of my family knew all about his people, and there seemed no reason for our delaying our marriage, which took place in April. I was then the happiest girl in the world, as I am now the most miserable!"

"Shortly afterward Paul was sent away to Central America; it was a hard parting, for we had had five wonderful weeks in a little beach home borrowed from a friend, and felt ourselves an ideally companionable couple. But I had expected it, and bore it as heroically as I could. In a few weeks a long letter came from Paul, then a shorter one, and several cards and notes. In my heart I felt that something was wrong, but nothing to really prepare me for the shock I received this morning, when a long letter arrived. In it my husband writes me that he feels that our hasty marriage was a mistake; that we were both too young. He is 26; I will be 21 in December. That does not seem too young to me.

Wants His Freedom.
"He assures me that there is no other woman in the case, but says he would like to be free. He says that since our marriage was a very quiet one, and I live in a small Nevada town, there need be no publicity, as he has not told any of his new friends that he is married, and I live alone with my mother, things can be 'sort of hushed up until every one loses interest."

"Paul has met some friends at his new post; they are evidently making a great deal of him, for he speaks of dinners and dances, and that in one Spanish-American family there are lots of brothers and sisters moving. Beach parties and singing every week-end; that sort of thing. He says he is very glad that a little scare I had about a baby coming turned out to be nothing, and that he will always think of Mother and me affectionately. I will give you the actual words with which he finishes his letter:

"It is up to you, of course, Nancy, to do as you think best. But under the circumstances I can feel that nothing but divorce is the solution. You may be sure that I will send you all the money I can, as much as your lawyer thinks right, and more, and always remember those happy days at Beachwood. We surely had a terrible crush on each other, but as we grew older we would be sure to grow apart, and the best thing is freedom for both now, no matter how badly we feel at breaking up things this way. So take a big kiss and a hug from your ex-hubby, and write me that you think this is the wisest way. If I had been at home it would have been different, but as it is I feel that my whole interest should belong to my country, without any distractions from home. After the war I intend to settle somewhere down here, so we may not meet again for a long, long time."

A long letter arrived.

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HERE is a hooked hearth rug that may some day grow up to room size. So far every female member of the family has hooked at least one square, and the males are all represented by materials with wax crayon. Loops of fabric strips were drawn through with a steel rug hook. Red was used for the curved lines shown at the upper left. Tones of brown for the flower and gray for the cherry background. Mixed colors for the rest of the design.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears has prepared a special pattern for the rug in today's sketch with detailed directions for hooking. So, even if you have never hooked a hooked rug, you can start now making squares for a rug of any size you want. Book 7 in the series of homecraft booklets contains 21 of these sketches with instruction text; also descriptions of the series. Send your order to:

FARM AND HOME WEEK PLANS CANCELLED

Because of transportation difficulties and crowded room accommodations for transients at Madison, it has been decided not to hold farm and home week at Madison this year. Instead, an abbreviated two-day program will be offered by the College of Agriculture in several centers out in the state. Announcement of dates and location will be made in the near future.

POULTRY MEETING TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 24

The income from poultry is a bit item on the average Washington county farm. Poultry raisers are interested in learning information which will help them meet the increased demands for more eggs and other poultry products needed to carry on the war effort. America is faced with a serious meat shortage for the duration of the war. We will have to reduce our consumption of meat and turn to poultry for an increased production. To give local poultry growers additional information on various poultry raising problems a meeting will be held in the county agent's office, post office building, West Bend, at 8:00 o'clock on Tuesday evening, Nov. 24. Prof. J. B. Hayes of the poultry department of the College of Agriculture will lead the discussion. Anyone interested in any phase of poultry growing is invited to attend.

tained by having the soil tested. The farmer is to collect and either bring or mail the soil samples to the county extension office, West Bend post office building. Farmers may bring in as many samples of soil as they wish. A reasonable number of samples, about one sample for every two or three acres, will yield more reliable information than if only one sample is selected from a field.

A good way to take the soil samples is to prepare a map of the fields to be tested. Then with an auger, trowel or common shovel collect the samples. About one cupful of soil is ample for a sample. Place the soil in a paper bag, box or tin can. Write the name or number of the sample and your name and address plainly on the container. Keep a record on your map of the area from which the sample was taken. We are prepared to test several thousand samples during the winter months. This soil testing service is free.

EMPLOY GOOD FARMING TO COMBAT BAT CORN BORER

No varieties or strains of corn yet known are immune to damage from the corn borer, according to crop specialists at the University of Wisconsin.

A few inbred lines show some resistance or tolerance. Experiments at the USDA corn borer research stations indicate that hybrids that have these lines as parents suffer less damage than others. However, already practically all Wisconsin hybrids now in production contain one or more of these borer-tolerant inbreds. The use of such hybrids will not alone eliminate borer damage.

Instead the crop specialists prescribe a "good farming" program to combat the invaders. No single practice will control heavy borer infestations, they explain. It will require that every farmer pursue unremittently any or all of the following practices which seem advisable for him:

Completely plow under, preferably in the fall, all refuse on the corn field.

Destroy by burning all refuse, corn stalks and cobs not turned under.

Use adapted corn strains at normal rates of planting.

Control measures have more value if all the farmers in the area cooperate.

County Seeks Flying Cadets For Pearl Harbor Squadron

Lloyd Lobel of West Bend has been appointed county chairman for "Fly For Navy Drive." As chairman of the aviation committee, council of defense, Mr. Lobel is well qualified to direct the recruiting drive for Washington county.

Headquarters for the recruiting drive for the naval aviation cadets is in the navy recruiting station, 4th floor, Plankinton bldg. Milwaukee. The local committee has been supplied with booklets entitled "How You Can Win Your Navy Wings," which are available to all eligible men between the eighteenth and twenty-seventh birthdays. If you are one of those lucky men who can pass the requirements, you have a big future as a navy flying officer. You must be unmarried and a high school graduate. In addition, you must meet certain physical standards.

The drive is now in progress and will terminate Monday, Dec. 7. Those enlisted from this state will be assigned to the Pearl Harbor squadron which will be dedicated to those marine and naval aviators lost on Dec. 7, 1941.

The navy is eager to examine every apparently qualified young man. If you are eligible to this top classification as a flying cadet, call or write Mr. Lobel, West Bend. The navy is 100% volunteers. Contrary to other services, the young man who tries to enlist as a naval aviation cadet and does not qualify in all respects is under no obligation but is free to try for any other service he may choose. Likewise, during the training he should be one of the few to fail, he again becomes a civilian and is free to choose his next step.

Blood Donors Fine Record is Slipping

It is reported that only about ten people volunteered during the past week to donate blood on Dec. 9th by calling the office of the chairman of the program at West Bend or the Red Cross offices. It is obvious that more volunteers do not make themselves known immediately our community will lose the high standing it holds at the present time in this program.

The chairman, R. J. Stoltz, wishes to point out to all readers of this newspaper that this program is directly connected with the saving of lives of the men of our community who are actively engaged in combat. While all programs connected with our "all out" war effort are most important, there is probably none that is more important nor is there one which should appeal more to the average person. Every donor knows that his donation is used to save the lives of those who are fighting so that we at home might continue our customary way of life.

Employees of various factories in our community are, it is reported, in the process of bringing us an enviable reputation for co-operation in this movement. As yet there is no report on the progress made in these factories in connection with the December call. The appeal the chairman wishes to make through this article is particularly directed to professional and businessmen, those who are retired, and housewives.

You are urged to volunteer now, today, by phoning 16 at West Bend, or by dropping a card addressed to the chairman or the Red Cross office there. On last Monday over 65% of the West Bend Legionnaires in attendance at their regular monthly meeting volunteered to donate blood on Dec. 9th. The American Legion again helps to show the way to real patriotism.

Farm Truck Certificate Date Extended to Dec. 1

The dates that trucks will be required to carry a "certificate of war necessity" has been postponed from Nov. 15 to Dec. 1 according to Guido Schroeder, chairman of the Washington County USDA War board.

Owners of all trucks have been required to make application for "certificates of war necessity" in order to be able to obtain gasoline, tires, and repair parts after Nov. 15. The new dates of Dec. 1 grants additional time that trucks may operate without restriction, but voluntary conservation of gasoline and rubber is urged of every truck owner.

Truckers, who have not received "certificates of war necessity" by Dec. 1, when gasoline rationing begins, will be able to obtain gasoline if their application for this certificate has been mailed to the office of defense transportation.

All farm trucks must have "certificates of war necessity" but the date is now Dec. 1 instead of Nov. 15. Mr. Schroeder emphasized.

Anyone who has not received his application should write to Russell R. Lynch, Underwriter's building, Milwaukee, and ask that a certificate be sent. In writing, give the name, address, business, county, state, license number, make, vehicle model, type of vehicle, body type, capacity, rated or seating, and reason for request.

During the past two decades, the yearly production of the average Wisconsin hen has been more than doubled. In 1920 production was 56 eggs a year for the average Wisconsin hen; by 1941 it was 124 eggs.

We Have MUCH to be THANKFUL For Thursday, Nov. 26th, is Thanksgiving Day. Despite worry about loved ones in the fighting zones, wartime restrictions on daily living customs and scarcity of many commodities we still have much for which to be truly thankful.

Let's remember, on Thanksgiving Day, that hard work, thrift and self-sacrifice established our priceless liberties and will maintain them. And let's give thanks that we are free . . . that our Army and Navy are manned by the bravest boys in the world . . . that Victory eventually will be ours because ours is the side of right and justice.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. North African Occupation Seen As 'Springboard' for European Front; Hitler's Seizure of Southern France Thins Axis Forces for Russ Campaign

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Territory in North Africa occupied by U. S. expeditionary forces under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be used as a springboard for offensive action against Italy, the Adriatic Balkans and possibly southern France, military experts believe.

BLITZ TIMETABLE: Beats Schedule

Two immediate jobs had remained for Gen. Dwight D. ("Iron Mike") Eisenhower's American invasion forces after they had completed their spectacular blitzkrieg of French Morocco and Algeria in the record time of 77 hours.

One job was to secure control of rectangular Tunisia, a French protectorate jutting northward into the Mediterranean and offering via strategic Bizerte an ideal stepping stone toward the Axis "soft spots" of Italy and the Adriatic Balkans.

The other job was to complete with their British Allies the nutcracker drive into Libya to smash forever Marshal Rommel's all but extinguished Afrika Korps.

The capture of Morocco and Algeria had given the Americans control of 1,300 miles of precious North African seacoast on the Atlantic ocean and the Mediterranean sea, including the key ports of Casablanca, Rabat, Oran and Algiers. Significantly enough, it was Adm. Jean Darlan, French chief of all defense forces who had given the "cease-firing" order to the French North-African colonies.

Neighboring Tunisia was of key importance not only because of its strategic value for future offensives against Hitler-dominated Europe, but because of the concentration there of Axis air-borne troops and combat planes. Hitler had not intended to give up North Africa without a struggle. His hold upon it would not have been possible without Tunisia. Possession of the port of Bizerte, best equipped French Mediterranean naval base, by the United Nations would mean that the Allies would have relatively easy access to Sicily and the Italian mainland and an effective springboard to nearby Tripoli, former "powerhouse" of Axis North African activities.

ROMMEL: 'Nutcracker Bait'

Like a gory prize-fighter backpedaling before a knockout punch, Marshal Rommel's shattered Afrika Korps had scurried across Libya pursued by General Montgomery's conquering Eighth British army.

The chase had been nip and tuck with Rommel trying to reach Tripoli, his main base near Tunisia in an effort to use his remaining strength to make a stand. But Tripoli meant no rest for Rommel, for oncoming American armies from Algeria in the west and Montgomery's battering ram from Egypt in the east would converge in a mighty nutcracker movement to annihilate Axis power in North Africa.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

LA VALETTA, MALTA: British forces in Malta opened a new air-drome with ceremonies presided over by Viscount Gort, commander in chief. Lord Gort said he was looking forward to the day when the island which has withstood so many Axis aerial attacks would become an advanced base for an offensive against Italy in movements from North Africa.

'BATTLE LUST': Urged by Gen. McNair

"Kill or be killed" was the alternative presented to the army ground forces by Gen. Lesley J. McNair, their commander, in a radio address that reached camps and outposts throughout the United States. Emphasizing that "our soldiers must have the fighting spirit," General McNair said: "If you call that hating our enemies, then we must hate with every fiber of our being."

HITLER: Seizes All France

Military observers agreed that Hitler's seizure of unoccupied France meant a further lengthening of his lines and a weakening of his forces.

The Fuehrer had no other choice than to try to close the "back door" to prospective Allied invasion by ordering his own legions southward to the Mediterranean and the Spanish frontier and those of his Italian "stooge" northward to the Riviera. Corsica, island birthplace of Napoleon, was likewise seized.

But Hitler's move into southern France meant that 20 to 30 Axis divisions would have tied down in occupation duties, thus weakening the English channel invasion coast and also his forces along the far-flung Russian front where action was at a stalemate. He had likewise enlarged the area where the Nazis would be sabotaged as they already have been elsewhere in occupied Europe.

Reports from Russia indicated the Nazis had already begun to withdraw troops to build up their defenses elsewhere in Europe. These were further substantiated by word from Greece indicating the arrival of fresh German units at key seaports.

Significantly, Hitler had first stopped his occupation forces 30 miles short of the French naval base at Toulon, designating it as a "camp retranche" to be by-passed and set apart from occupation. Center of speculation since the 1940 armistice, the French fleet comprising 62 warships was the prize at stake with the Axis standing on the near side of the Mediterranean and Allies on the other. Now an Allied "collaborationist" in Africa, Adm. Jean Darlan had added his voice to that of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a request for the French fleet to join him in Algeria.

ALLIES OPTIMISTIC: Channel Thrust?

From both sides of the Atlantic official optimism over the war's future outlook was expressed by leaders as a result of the Allied successes in North Africa.

President Roosevelt predicted the Axis' inevitable defeat, and welcomed the increasing number of Frenchmen who are joining the United Nations' cause.

In London, Prime Minister Churchill for the first time since the bleak days of 1940 told the British public to rejoice. Mr. Churchill pointed out that a direct thrust across the English channel was coming in due time. He suggested that the day would be nearer as soon as it was evident that Germany was becoming "demoralized." The prime minister said that the Allied drive in Africa had as its primary objective the "exposure of the underbelly of the Axis, especially Italy, to heavy attacks."

The extent of the armada that had carried American and British forces to the shores of North Africa was disclosed by adviser Lytton, British minister of production, who said that 500 transports and 350 warships had comprised the mammoth invasion fleet.

HAVANA: President Fulgencio Batista of Cuba will pay an official visit to the United States, arriving in Washington December 8, it was announced here. The Cuban chief executive will confer with President Roosevelt and then visit various American cities. General Batista will make the trip on the invitation of President Roosevelt and will be a White House guest overnight.

MOSCOW: Publication of an exchange of messages between the government heads of Turkey and Soviet Russia on the occasion of the 19th anniversary of the creation of the Turkish republic was regarded here as an indication of greatly improved relations between the two countries. Premier Stalin sent to Prime Minister Saracoglu his congratulations and best wishes for a "flourishing" Turkey and received a reply expressing gratitude and friendly feelings. President Michael Kalinin exchanged telegrams with President Inonu of Turkey.

DRAFT: Inductions Soar

Induction of 18 and 19-year-olds into the nation's armed forces by January 1, 1943, appeared certain as the senate finally approved legislation lowering the selective service induction age. In order to fill military requirements up to the first of the year, local boards throughout the country indicated they would soon have to begin drafting childless married men.

Final impediment to the law's passage was hurdled when a group of senators decided not to press their attempt to require a full year's training for all the 18 and 19-year-olds before they could be sent into combat service overseas. The house had previously approved a measure eliminating this feature.

Meanwhile, selective service headquarters disclosed that local boards had been advised that "increasing demands of the armed forces require that a large number of men in essential activities who are liable for service be released for induction."

This meant that war plants would have to release key workers for the army and navy.

RUSSIAN FRONT: Nazi Drives Stalled

Communications from Moscow took on an increasing note of optimism as the Russians maintained that the German offensive against the Red lines from the Baltic to the Black sea had been smashed for the year.

Southeast of Nalchik where the German drive for the strategic Trans-Caucasian military highway had stalled, the Russ defenders continued to repel attacks. Elsewhere in the Caucasus the Reds were holding the Nazis well in check. Soviet armies continued to keep a German force encircled in the mountainous vicinity of Tuapse, Black sea base, and thwarted every enemy attempt to break through.

The defenders of Stalingrad continued their heroic resistance. While small enemy detachments infiltrated from the south these were thrown back. Meanwhile Soviet troops northwest of the city continued to harass the Germans.

SOUTH PACIFIC: MacArthur Pincer

Slam-bang warfare continued in the air and on the ground in the South Pacific, with American and Australian forces pressing the Japs hard on New Guinea and at Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands.

General MacArthur's headquarters reported that at Oivi on New Guinea, Allied forces were using pincer tactics to squeeze the Japs out. Australian columns had cut off a

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR . . . Pincer squeezes Japs.

Japanese retreat by means of a flanking movement. The Japs effort to cut their way through to the rear had been stopped by American troops down by aerial transport to the vicinity of Buna, 55 miles north-east of the Oivi battleground in the Owen Stanley mountain area.

At Guadalcanal, American troops met enemy attempts to recapture Henderson airfield by an offensive that threw the Japs back several miles. An example of spectacular heroism in the Guadalcanal fighting was cited by a navy department release recounting the feat of Marine Pvt. Albert A. Schmid, whose companions in arms say he killed more than 200 Japs in a single night, while manning a machine gun.

From Washington came a navy communique announcing the sinking of seven more Jap ships in the southwest Pacific by American submarines.

U. S. ARMED FORCES: To Total 9,700,000

Armed forces for the United States totaling 9,700,000 by the end of 1943 were envisioned by President Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt's estimates included an army of 7,500,000, a navy of 1,500,000 and marines and coast guard forces totaling 700,000.

The bulk of future additions to the military forces will go to the army, whose present strength is 4,500,000, the President pointed out. The navy will be augmented by 500,000 and the marine corps and coast guard by 300,000 men during the next 12 months.

On the basis of calculations that it requires nine workers to support one fighting man in the field, the President's estimates would mean that a working force of 87,300,000 men and women at home would be needed to back up the armed forces.

BEEF: Civilians Get Less

Smaller helpings of beef will be served at American dinner tables for the remainder of this year as a result of the Office of Price Administration's order decreasing a 10 per cent cut in the civilian beef quotas for the quarter ending December 31. Reason for the curtailment was reports from military and lend-lease authorities that the armed forces and lend-lease were getting less meat than needed.

General Breton Supplies Complete Dramatis Personae

General Breton makes up for the general lack of a dramatic personae. He's a whole cast of characters all by himself, as he commands our air co-operation in the attack—with the widest and readiest grin, one of the stiffest wallops and unquestionably the most flexible vocabulary in the army. He swears in four languages, with rare improvisation and in a rasping voice which is said to be miraculously effective in hopping up fighting men. He is the commander of the U.S.A. Middle Eastern air forces, transferred from India last July.

One might call him the Larry MacPhail of the Army, as he is both zestful and exultant with a fight on, or the chance for a fight anywhere in the office. He particularly seemed to enjoy commanding America's first offensive in the war in the Far East. That was on April 2. Heading the bombing mission from India to the Japanese-held Andaman Islands, he jockeyed his B-17 right into the thick of the fracas and by all accounts had the happiest day of his life, as the Japanese were given a handsome pasting.

He hit the road to glory after a stiff jolt. He had just been transferred to the command of Clark field in the Philippines when the Japanese came, with no time to get things air-shape. The blasting of his planes and men in the hopelessly uneven contest was terrific and General MacArthur, ordering no more sacrifices, sent him to Australia with his air force and then to India. From his new base, he swarmed all over the battle area, fighting with General Chennault's Flying Tigers and, all in all, made a magnificent comeback.

From Pittsburgh, he went to the Naval academy in 1907 and transferred to the signal corps, our fledgling air service, a year after his graduation in 1911. He fought in the air at Verdun, was shot down at St. Mihiel and came out of the war with the Distinguished Service cross, the Purple Heart, the Legion of Honor ribbon and the Croix de Guerre. Last September, in honor of his exploits in the Pacific, there was added to these the Distinguished Flying cross.

PAUL C. SMITH, quitting the OWI to join the marines, hits this enterprising outfit with a fast running start and should catch their cadence nicely. He is the young speed-ball newspaper careerist of San Francisco, a West coast mariner of the last few years, who not only supercharged the San Francisco Chronicle, as its general manager at the age of 29, but outshone many of the graybeards of the town in labor mediation, civic enterprise and battles for the public weal in general.

Halley's Comet of Newspaperdom Is Now Leatherneck

He joined the OWI in December, 1941, and became chief of its news bureau last August. It was to be expected that he would join the marines. He saw many of the global aspects of this war long before it started. The marines go places, globally, and that's always his big idea.

Mr. Smith, the Halley's comet of recent newspaper decades, never went to college. From his take-off at Seattle, his home town, he worked in lumber camps, coal mines and on farms in the northern United States and Canada and later formulated and applied much of this experience in newspaper work.

In 1923, when he was 20 years old, he made a few cautious plays in the market, did well enough, and ventured into investment banking in San Francisco and New York. This turned him toward financial writing and his first connection with the San Francisco Chronicle. He became its financial editor and its general manager in 1937.

In 1938, Mr. Smith toured Europe with his friend Herbert Hoover, and returned, in March, with some ominous prophecies. He said war was surely coming "in from one to five years." The United States, he said, "will pay the price along with the rest of the world. It is no longer a question of whether or not we pay, but a simple question of how much." An interesting forecast in view of what the marines are paying in Guadalcanal. Mr. Smith was one of the few journalists who saw and reported what was happening in France.

"Democracy in France is in a coma if it isn't dead," he wrote in April, 1938. "Will it be revived, or will it be buried to the tune of trumpeting feet and hearty hails to some totalitarian saviour?" There were several such bull's-eye prophecies in the questions he raised on his return from that European tour. He acted accordingly, vigorously fought the isolationists and now reaches for a gun. He is slender and active, with a long head, physically and figuratively, and with a sky-piece of compact, wavy dark hair. He is unmarried.

Second Front in Africa Points North to Italy

Underground Anti-Fascists in Italy Want Strong Brand of Democracy for Aiding the Allies; Seek U. S. Pledge.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

According to a number of people in Washington, of whom your correspondent is one, the most startlingly important event of the war may be taking place and nobody, including the enemy, will admit it. A second front has been opened, the first carefully planned and meticulously timed offensive against the Axis since the war started has begun in Africa. There are diplomatic developments as well as military which, some believe, indicate that the path to victory will lead through Rome.

Of course, you couldn't get even a whiff of official confirmation for such a presumptuous assumption from anyone higher than a first sergeant. Nevertheless, there seems to be quite a bit of circumstantial evidence to support the observation of such a development. At the same time certain happenings in the diplomatic field add their touch of verisimilitude to what the military might say was a bald and unwarranted, if not unconvincing statement.

Such military information as I might offer, which has not been a part of official statements, would not be wise to print. But it is permissible to recall that the Germans claim that the British have a million men under General Alexander's command in Africa. The official accounts of the number of American ground planes in almost continuous activity over a huge area indicate that the American air force in Egypt is not inconsiderable, even in these days of giant armies and armadas.

Apprehension in Tunisia

There are diplomatic reports of apprehension on the part of the populace of Tunisia, a vital strip of territory lying along the coast of the narrow waters that separate it from Sicily, the Axis stepping stone from Italy to Africa, which hint that activities may extend even further west than Libya.

These are some of the outward signs which are there for all to see. From a military standpoint Italy is the weak sister of the Axis partnership. From the standpoint of anti-Nazi-Fascist internal subversive organization she is perhaps the strongest ally for the United Nations. An African offensive might logically end in an invasion of Italy.

The recognition of these anti-Fascist underground organizations as important elements in the general Allied offensive against the Axis can be taken as a straw showing which way the tide of war may be flowing. And they are being recognized.

One very significant development was a recent statement from London, which at first blush simply seemed to dampen any hopes that the king of Italy might be a force in bringing about a separate peace with Italy. But this negative suggestion, when taken together with certain other indications, has quite another meaning. The London report indicated that the king was no longer the "prisoner of Mussolini" he had been pictured, but really the friend of Fascism. This seemingly gratuitous statement may well have been offered as a piece of firing data for the diplomatic marksmen indicating that they must change their sights. And an inkling of just what must be done in order to obtain the support of the elements in Italy which can be of service to the Allied cause comes from an objective report on the underground in Italy. This report, originating with anti-Fascist sources in the United States, clearly analyzes who these people are, what they have already accomplished and what must be done to get their co-operation. A realistic program is laid down by inference which will not be at all palatable to the conservative or the conventional masters of official intrigue among the United Nations.

According to this report from anti-Fascist sources the underground in Italy is now composed largely of young men, born and educated in Fascism, who are working entirely from within its framework. They are members of the party because they have known no other party and no other government through their mature years. They are members of the armed forces because they are loyal to Italy.

According to the report which I mention, made by supposedly authentic and authorized representatives of the anti-Fascists, the underground movement in Italy is powerful and effective; it has accomplished a weakening of civilian and military morale; publishes a large and efficient anti-Fascist press; has organized political meetings and combat groups in nearly every Italian town; has brought about unity for the first time in Italian history between the working class and the intellectuals. It has caused general inefficiency in the army, caused sabotage in the campaigns of Greece, Albania and Libya and effectively sabotaged war industries.

Strong Brand of Democracy

The members of these groups, the young men who grew up under Fascism, are not revolting to bring about a status quo ante—they are revolting against the status quo for definite aims. They want a new democratic order. The members of the Italian underground are thoroughly determined to overthrow Fascism wherever it exists. But they demand a concrete, complete, sincere statement of the program of the anti-Fascist forces before they will join them, since they risk everything in revolt and think they might simply gain new chains for old if they faced a typical political peace.

They want, specifically, a clear-cut statement of the peace aims of the United Nations. They want these aims stated without equivocation or couched in the fine generalities of the Atlantic Charter. And they want to be sure that they have the guarantee of the United States as the administrator of those terms with freedom to build the kind of an Italy they want.

There is something of a parallel between these Italian demands and the revelations, or what the conservative diplomats would call the indiscretions, of Wendell Willkie when he called for assurances of the non-imperialistic designs of the United Nations. Willkie, as is his wont, used a blunderbuss instead of a scalpel to obtain his end, but he did clear up the atmosphere on the subject of what Russia and China thought about the need of extending the scope of the Atlantic Charter. The realistic Jan Smuts, prime minister of South Africa, echoed this sentiment a few days after Willkie's report to the nation. Others are repeating the demand for a full statement of peace aims.

they have known no other party and no other government through their mature years. They are members of the armed forces because they are loyal to Italy.

According to the report which I mention, made by supposedly authentic and authorized representatives of the anti-Fascists, the underground movement in Italy is powerful and effective; it has accomplished a weakening of civilian and military morale; publishes a large and efficient anti-Fascist press; has organized political meetings and combat groups in nearly every Italian town; has brought about unity for the first time in Italian history between the working class and the intellectuals. It has caused general inefficiency in the army, caused sabotage in the campaigns of Greece, Albania and Libya and effectively sabotaged war industries.

The successful completion of the Revolutionary War resulted in the designation of a national day of thanksgiving.

G. Obbler, caught in the act of broadcasting a "flee for your lives" warning to his unsuspecting kin-folk, heard that not only is he going to get the ax, but also thousands like him. He doesn't know it, but his "goose is cooked" in so far as his life on this earth is concerned. Maybe you'll see him on Thanksgiving day. In a different pose.

glasses and coffee cups seem to be in the way.

Food, and plenty of it before you. Enough food there to feed at least eight times more starving Frenchmen, or Poles, or Russians in territory under Hitler's oppression.

Something to be thankful for—there it is!

What do you suppose Hitler's "Master Race" in Germany would say about the "New World Order" if they had half the food in front of them that millions of Americans will have on Thanksgiving day.

Another thing: If you don't like what your congressman is doing you are free to say so. You might even write him a letter and tell him just what you think, and what you think of him. If you don't like the way the war is going you say so. You'll argue in public with someone who disagrees with you about national, state, or local political activities. Suppose you had this inherent right taken away from you. You'd be thankful for it then. So why not now?

Put yourself in the place of a conquered people or imagine yourself living in an Axis country. In those places freedom of speech is limited to saying, "Yes, yes," when permitted to hear the master's voice.

Suppose the only church service you were permitted to attend was that one in which the "gospel" of the dictator was spouted by a party sycophant. Suppose your church was no longer the house of worship you remembered it, but a meeting place, a club for those who were members of the dictator's gang.

Suppose you couldn't worship your God the way you wanted to, because of observation of Thanksgiving is this: We are able to carry the war back to the enemy, and carry it back hard and furiously to him wherever he is.

In the early days of the Revolutionary war the soldiers, the officers, the great majority of citizens didn't have to ask: "What are we fighting for?" They knew. For the enemy was here, on this continent. They saw him. They fought him up and down the Atlantic coast.

In addition to being practical men, these early colonists were dreamers. They dreamed the great dream which has been realized today with this nation stretching from one ocean to another—from our northern neighbor, Canada, to our southern neighbor, Mexico, both of whom are now fighting a common foe with us.

Rationing, increased taxes, sons and husbands in the armed forces—this is what confronts the whole nation as the first wartime Thanksgiving in almost a quarter century is observed.

Those who ask themselves what they have to be thankful for will think at first that there is no answer.

But common sense and logic will prevail. A glance at almost any newspaper will convince the reader that freedom of the press is more than an expression in America. So greatly valued is this freedom of the press in occupied Europe that thousands are risking immediate execution by the Gestapo to print underground newspapers with messages for the unification of the oppressed. These newspapers, proving the value of a free press, are often no larger than a handbill, but the importance of their message cannot be overemphasized.

But maybe your mind doesn't run in such a channel. Maybe you still will not be convinced as you sit at the table on Thanksgiving day. There before you are mountains of food—turkey or goose or chicken; creamy potatoes, cranberries, all kinds of vegetables; cakes, pies, puddings, desserts. So much food that the plates, knives, forks,

TO YOUR Good Health

by DR. JAMES W. BARTON

HIDDEN HUNGER

Some months ago the Canadian Medical Association, with funds provided by insurance companies, published a little book called "Food and Health," a copy of which was to reach every home in Canada. This little book told of food values, the needs of the body for various kinds of food, the cost of an "all round" meal for families of various sizes and other useful information about food and health.

The National Nutrition program, through the United States Federal Security agency, includes a motion picture on nutrition entitled "Hidden Hunger." We all have a job to do these days and part of our share in the nation's wartime effort begins with our choice of foods.

A recent nation-wide survey showed that two out of five of us suffer from hidden hunger—live at half speed, because we only feed parts of our body and let the other parts starve. The body needs 40 different food elements to feed its various cells—some elements to feed muscles, others to feed the brain, others for the cells by which we see, feel and hear.

I will not reveal the plot of the film story by which we will all be taught "to use food wisely and thereby stop extravagant waste of our abundant food stuffs and at the same time get ourselves an equal chance for health the way we got ourselves an equal chance to vote."

If the American people will only buy and cook well-balanced meals those now suffering from hidden hunger (not the hunger coming from an empty stomach but the hunger in a body that has been fed the wrong kind of food) will be brought back to health and efficiency.

What is the amount and the kinds of food a man should eat every day to be hale and hearty?

"One egg, one pint of milk (three-fourths to one quart for growing children); two vegetables (green, leafy or yellow) and a potato; an orange or tomato juice and another fruit, three or four slices of the right kind of bread (whole wheat or enriched white); two tablespoons of butter or margarine, and meat."

What Causes Bad Breath?

A few years ago I followed a controversy as to whether bad breath was due to food particles left between the teeth or to some disturbance in the stomach and intestines.

It is admitted that bad breath can be caused by mouth and nose conditions such as infected sinuses; an orange or tomato juice and another fruit, three or four slices of the right kind of bread (whole wheat or enriched white); two tablespoons of butter or margarine, and meat."

Drs. Burrill B. Crohn and Rudolph Dross, of the American Medical Association, state that heretofore patients with bad breath have consulted nose and throat specialists and dentists who searched for decaying teeth, infected gums, and infections of throat and sinus. The teeth, the gums, the tonsils and sinuses are the cause at times only and cases due to nose and throat conditions are becoming less in number due to better knowledge of the importance of a healthy mouth, throat and nose.

Experiments were made as to the best method or methods to prevent the odor of garlic on the breath. These research workers found that it was not the mouth nor the stomach that was responsible for the odor of garlic on the breath but the intestine, particularly the small intestine into which the partially digested food is poured from the stomach.

Why is the small intestine responsible for bad odors on the breath, because oil of peppermint and oil of wintergreen were also used in the tests and these two oils acted exactly the same as garlic?

These research workers state that halitosis is due to the fact that fat foods eaten are not handled properly or are not handled completely by the liver and it is these incompletely digested fat foods, lying in the small intestine, that cause the odor. They point out that patients with peptic ulcer taking much milk daily often have a bad breath. "If these patients are given a diet of cereal, eggs, and lean meat, the odor disappears."

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

MARSHA HUNT has learned how to find a movie actress in a big city. Recently she and Ann Rutherford were both in New York, and both on personal business trips, so they hadn't given the M-G-M office their addresses. So, though they wanted to meet, they couldn't locate each other. The day before returning to Hollywood for "The Human Comedy," Marsha, besieged by fans asking for autographs, asked one if he knew where Ann was staying. "Sure—right on the floor above you!" he replied.

And, speaking of autographs—Virginia Weidler's new picture, "The Youngest Profession," is about them. In it William Powell will appear as himself; he's Virginia's screen idol, and her efforts to get his autograph lead to a series of hilarious situations.

Success Story: In 1940 Margaret Hayes was voted the best artists' model, then the best photographers' model. She's made some pictures—had the feminine lead in "In Old Colorado" and a featured role in

MARGARET HAYES

"New York Town," and Goldwyn picked her for a principal supporting role in "They Got Me Covered." Now she's in New York for three radio shows and a Broadway stage production!

Dick Powell teaches a class in navigation between his scenes in "True to Life" at Paramount. He's an expert yachtsman, and some of the younger members of the company who are preparing themselves for flying and marine service in the war asked him to do it.

Neither Claudette Colbert nor Rudy Vallee cares for eggs in the raw—but for a scene in "The Palm Beach Story" they each were to swallow three "prairie oysters," concoctions of raw eggs, Worcestershire sauce, etc. The property man promised to fix up something that would look like the genuine article but avoid the raw egg difficulty. He did—but the substitute was apricots in root beer!

It looks as if Warner's "Air Force" might turn into one of those star-maker pictures. John Garfield and Harry Carey are the only time-tested stars of the production; the youngsters of whom Director Howard Hawks has hopes are Gig Young, John Ridgely, Arthur Kennedy, Charles Drake, Ray Montgomery, Ward Wood and James Brown. The first two have an edge on the others.

Arch Oboler, writer-producer of the weekly show "Lights Out," has a new book of radio plays, "Plays for Americans." As he's a top-notch writer for radio, aspirants can't do better than get a copy and study it. Sponsored by the Association for Education by Radio, the plays, through agreement with Oboler, are available to any group free of royalties for the duration of the war.

Jack Pearl used to sign his name to letters, and beneath it "World's Greatest Liar." Now it's changed to "World's Second Greatest Liar." In explanation Jack says, "I couldn't be champ with Adolf around." Phil Baker ends notes with "Bye-bye. Buy bonds!"

Brenda Marshall and Osa Massen, of "Background to Danger," each has a parent in a country occupied by the Axis. Miss Massen's mother, sister and brother are in Denmark. Miss Marshall's father was managing a plantation in Negroes when the Japs moved in.

ODDS AND ENDS—Ida Lupino is probably the only stage or screen star who was born during an air raid—it happened in London during a Zeppelin raid, in World War I. George Reiff has been dicker for a motorcycle; Warner Bros. isn't keen about his riding one, but he's got to have some way of getting to the studio. He's working in "Background to Danger"; if there's anything in a name the motorcycle ought to help get him in the mood. Judith Anderson has learned that the ambulance she donated to the British army is being used in Bristol; her brother, with the British forces, told her.

William L. Shirer is a college graduate, author of a best seller, a nationally syndicated columnist and one of radio's best-known news analysts—but his local registration board made him take a literacy test to prove his right to vote—because he couldn't produce his diploma from Coe college in Cedar Rapids. He's lived out of a trunk for the last 14 years, he was due in New York for a broadcast and had to hurry, so the test was postponed, and he's got to wait till next year to vote for the first time.

The Once Over

RESTAURANT SCENE

Waiter—You wanna order now or after you make up your mind what I can't get you?
Customer—I'll look over the menu first.
Waiter—Don't hurry; we probably haven't got it anyhow.
Customer—There's as many things on the menu as ever.
Waiter—That's just to hold your interest.

Customer—How is your porterhouse steak?
Waiter—Pretty good; how is yours?
Customer—Listen, could you pick me out a good one?
Waiter—Extra thick?
Customer—Yes.
Waiter—Nice and juicy?
Customer—That's it.
Waiter—Very tender, with lots of gravy?
Customer—Exactly.
Waiter—You want it medium well done, with no bone?
Customer—That's the idea, garcon.

Waiter—We're all out of it!
Customer—But why lead me on like that?
Waiter—I have to consider your morale.

Customer—Well, lemme see . . . you used to serve a fine English mutton chop here.
Waiter—I recall it, too. You wouldn't care for some boiled cod, would you?
Customer—I guess you can bring me a couple of regular lamb chops . . . and please stop laughing.
Waiter—Those were the good old days, weren't they?
Customer—What were the good old days?
Waiter—Away back when you could order chops in a restaurant without having anybody laugh at you.
Customer—This is most annoying. Haven't you any chops here?
Waiter—If we had any chops we would call in a pianist and write a song about them. Today's special might interest you. It is broiled mackerel.

Customer—I don't like fish.
Waiter—You WILL!
Customer—Ah, I see what I want. Roast beef!
Waiter—Would you mind repeating that?
Customer—You heard me.
Waiter—Yes, but it brings back such lovely memories. Say it again, please.
Customer—Very well . . . roast beef.
Waiter—Thanks, now we can go on with your order. How would you like some filet of sole, an egg dish or maybe some chicken?
Customer—I'm ordering this dinner!
Waiter—You're not ordering; you're just hoping. I could bring you some very nice haddock.

Customer—I've a good mind to leave here and go to another restaurant.
Waiter—If you expect to get any meat you may have to leave here and go to another country. I'm getting tired of you. I'll give you five minutes to accept fish or chicken.
Customer—Now look here . . .
Waiter—Listen, how will you have it, boiled or broiled?
Customer—Have what?
Waiter—The swordfish.
Customer—I give in. War is war.
Waiter—Good. And if we're out of swordfish you'll get chicken a la king.

TAX HEROES

The OPA has ruled that the price of a glass of beer should not be increased to meet the new tax. The tax is an extra $1 a barrel or one-third of a cent per bottle. If the cafes can sell you a smaller scuttle of suds at a higher price they'll do it, thinks Bibulous Barry, who declares that life's greatest annoyance is the "smallest glass of beer in town for 15 cents."

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

The government's goal is to produce synthetic rubber at a rate of more than 800,000 tons per year by the end of 1943.

Even without a war program requiring tremendous quantities of rubber, the U. S. used 646,000 tons of rubber in 1940.

Any tire made in the last two or three years is good for eight to ten years if not worn out in service.

In 1933, 900 farm tractors were sold with rubber tires and 3,000 steel wheeled tractors were changed over to rubber. Six years later 161,500 rubber tired tractors were bought by American farmers and in addition 48,300 were converted to rubber wheels.

Following a steadily advancing position, the life in the U. S. has roughly doubled in each of the past decades.

Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war. Glycerine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. You Women Who Suffer From

HOT FLASHES then

CHILLY FEELINGS

Heed This Advice!

If you—like so many women between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, weak, dizzy, nervous feelings, distress of "irregularities", are blue at times—due to the functional middle age period in a woman's life—try taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. It's the best known medicine you can buy that's made especially for women.

Pinkham's Compound is famous to relieve such distress. Taken regularly—it helps build up resistance against such annoying symptoms. It also is a fine stomachic tonic. Thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor—have reported benefits from this compound. It's proved some women's happiest days often can be during their "40's". Also beneficial for younger women to help relieve distress of female monthly functional disturbances. Follow label directions. Worth trying!

Wisconsin is one of five potato growing states in which production estimates were lower in October than in September. Blight damage was the principal cause of the lower estimate.

More farm people than ever will be filing tax returns next March, say economists, because the total farm income this year is headed for a new high, while personal exemptions are likely to be lower.

KEWASKUM HIGH-lights

CHORUS REHEARSALS CHANGED

Due to the first aid course which is being offered to the juniors and seniors of Kewaskum high school each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 3:00 to 4:00 p. m., it was found necessary to combine the girls' choruses in one large group, announced Miss Hulda Kohlbeck, chorus director.

Ordinarily juniors and seniors meet on Monday and freshmen and sophomores meet on Wednesday. Now the two are combined, all altos meeting on Monday, all sopranos on Wednesday, and combined sections on Friday.

This will necessitate some changes in the tentative Christmas musical program which had been planned. The male chorus will support the girls' chorus in the performance.

Since the male choruses practice on Tuesdays and Thursdays during seventh hour, and since many of these boys are also enrolled in first aid, it is impossible to use this time for the girls' chorus. A heavy curricular schedule leaves no other period free for rehearsals.

BASKETBALL PRACTICE UNDER WAY

Basketball practice started Monday during 6th and 7th hour in the high school gymnasium, according to Coach E. Mitchell. (23 boys reported). They are: Lettermen Bob Brauchle, Jim Bartelt, "Dexter" Petermann, Home Schaub and Bob Schmidt, and also Ralph Koth, Clay Stautz, Jerome Stautz, Wilmer Bunkelmann, Merrill Krueger, Don Mertes, John Geidel, Lloyd Bruessel, Glen Backhaus, Harold Seefeldt, Ronald Dins, Roger Schleit, Don Koerble, Leland Schaub, Lyle Binder, Francis Koug, Gerald Stoffel and Dave Bartelt. Lynes Fellenz and Erhardt Schultz, both lettermen, will join the squad later in the season after they have fully recovered from injuries. Both were injured on the football field and Schultz recently suffered a brain concussion in an auto accident.

STUDENT COUNCIL NEWS

At a special meeting held Monday afternoon the student council elected five members to attend a meeting of school councils that was held Thursday, Nov. 19, at Oshkosh. Those elected are Robert Brauchle, Bernice Meyer, Harriet Stoffel, David Bartelt and Shirley Backus.

Because of crowded conditions each school had been asked to send only five of its council members.

At the executive board meeting of the Wisconsin State Student Council association it was decided that the Madison convention would be discontinued this year. In its place, the state is divided into five districts with meetings at Wausau, Menomonie, Richland Center, Racine and Oshkosh.

A committee consisting of David Bartelt, Gerald Stoffel and Bernice Meyer was appointed to plan a Thanksgiving party for the entire student body.

The following suggestions were also made by the council members: that new pencil sharpeners be obtained for the assembly, that each room be provided with a flag, and that school parties be held for all the students in the afternoon instead of evening due to gas rationing.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

Kewaskum's football squad were hosts to their fathers at a banquet served Tuesday evening by the Home Economics department. Guests of honor were the village president, Charles Miller; the school board members, M. W. Rosenheimer, president; A. P. Schaeffer, treasurer; and Paul Landmann, secretary; football captain, Bob Brauchle, and his father, Dr. Brauchle, Coach E. Mitchell, and Supervisor, principal Clifford Rose.

After the dinner Bob Brauchle officiated as toastmaster. Mr. Landmann complimented the squad on its clean playing and stressed the reasons why high schools favor football as a school sport. Following Coach Mitchell's review of the highlights of the 1942 football season, Mr. Miller sketched the changes which have taken place in high school sports. Representative speaker for the team, Dave Bartelt, extended the team's thanks to Coach Mitchell, the school board, and the Home Economics department.

Under the supervision of Miss Joan Flanagan, the entire personnel of the Home Economics classes had prepared and served the banquet. They were assisted by Miss Margaret Flanagan, Miss Georgia Simmons, and Miss Hulda Kohlbeck, who decorated the tables with patriotic decorations of red, white, and blue streamers and candles on the table carried out the V for Victory formation of the tables. Clusters of flags formed the center pieces.

Dinners were taken over to Erhardt Schultz and his grandmother so that they might enjoy the banquet at the same time the other boys did. Schultz, confined to his home by an automobile accident, was an outstanding player on the football team this year.

The menu for the banquet was:
Tomato Cocktail
Whipped Potatoes and Meat Leaf
Buttered Beans
Cottage Cheese and Jello Salad Rings
Radishes and Pickles
Buttered Buns
Chocolate Cake and Ice Cream
Coffee

Record Christmas Mail is Expected; Must Send Early

The post office department now is starting the most gigantic task in its history—the movement of a deluge of Christmas parcels cards and letters, while maintaining the regular flow of millions of pieces of mail daily to and from our armed forces all over the world.

Indications are that the volume of Christmas mail will be the largest on record. Already in September, latest month for which figures are available, retail sales had reached a level second only to the record month of December, 1941, according to the department of commerce. And sales are rising. Such heavy purchases always presage heavy mailings.

If thousands of our soldiers, sailors, marines and civilian friends are not to be disappointed at Christmas time, the public must cooperate by mailing earlier than ever before and by addressing letters and parcels properly. The best efforts of the post office department alone cannot be enough. In view of wartime difficulties faced by the postal system. The public must assist.

About 25,000 experienced postal workers already have been taken by the war services. Arrangements are under way to add thousands of temporary personnel to postal staffs, but this manpower is hard to find and is inexperienced. Facilities of railroads and air lines are heavily taxed by movement of huge quantities of war materials and personnel. Extra trucks are almost impossible to obtain. Winter weather, hampering transportation, is beginning.

The free-mailing privilege granted to members of the armed forces has raised their mailings some 30 per cent, it is estimated. Expansion of those forces also is adding rapidly to the postal burden.

The deadline already is past for mailing gifts to army and navy personnel overseas with assurance that the parcels will arrive by Christmas. The New York post office reports that in late October, 35,000 such parcels were handled daily in that office alone.

The post office department is making strenuous efforts to avoid such a terrific jam as it faced in 1918 under similar conditions, during the first World War. It can succeed in those efforts—and avoid many heartaches for its patrons—if the public will cooperate by mailing early.

Hello Bill!
Just a few lines to let you know of my change in address, also that I am still enjoying the paper. I have had some in less than three weeks' time. I also had a letter from my friend, Ralph Kohn. When it is noon where he is it is midnight where I am. I don't think we could get any farther apart from each other. Your paper sure is getting around this world, isn't it? There isn't much more I can write only that I am still in the best of health and hoping that everyone in Kewaskum is the same.
So long, Otto
