By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"TT USED to be the boys who sowed the wild oats and the girls who stayed home," writes a heartbroken mother from a suburb near Toledo. "But in these days it seems to be the other way! My boys, now 24 and 20, both in the services, have been the comfort and pride of my life. Their sister, now 16, has given her father and me infinite cause for anxiety and is now in real trouble.

"We live in a college town; Betty-Lou was not fourteen when she came in to breakfast one morning bedraggled and exhausted, having danced all night at the country club and various night clubs. She had been drinking and was in a condition to horrify anyone who loved her. Only her father and I were home, and we did what we could. We reminded her, after she had had coffee, a bath and some hours of that hers is a comfortable, hospitable home, that we have always tried to give her every advantage, and that our hopes for her had been bitterly shaken by her behavior. I was obliged to tell her that hereafter when she told me she wanted to stay with a school friend I would telephone that friend to check on the matter. But both Joe and I regarded this as the recklessness of a defiant child, and while we watched her carefully, we did not take this first outbreak too seriously. Now I know that it was by no means an isolated instance. "That Christmas we took all the children east to ny mother's place, and there was a dance among the cousins to which I permitted Betty-Lou to go; she i.ad her first formal evening dress and was much petted and praised. At the end of the evening she and a boy of 21 disappeared; next morning, after a night of horror for us, they were found at a Baltimore hotel; the boy asleep in a chair in the lobby, Betty-Lou and another girl, a girl they had picked up at some night club, asleep up-

Expelled From School.

"When we came back we tried boarding-school, but last November, in her third half-term there, she was quietly dropped for repeatedly breaking bounds and disappearing for hours at a time.

"This Christmas-time her behavior was so reckless that night after night her father and I lay awake waiting to hear her return from various entertainments, sometimes at two or three o'clock, and sometimes in a state that showed us she had been drinking. Threats are no use; we cannot seem to reach her soul or heart at all. Yet ours is a good home, and we have always tried to keep about her decent and developing influences.

"Last night a young marine, 20 years old, called on my husband and me and said that he was 'willing' to marry our daughter if we wished it. Betty-Lou was at a movie with some young friends; we could only gather, from this young man's talk, that he felt obliged to make this suggestion. When Betty-Lou came in she denied everything, said that the boy was romancing, and that she wouldn't marry him under any circumstances. But his serious, apologetic manner made a terrible impression on both Joe and myself.

Designed to train officers for future duties in military government and liaison work, the school provides a highly intensified 16 weeks' course for qualified commissioned officers in the army of the United States and to a small number of civilians with specialized training. The members of this latter group are commissioned in the specialist reserve section, Officers Reserve corps, prior to their attendance at the school.

When the United States army captures territory from the enemy, it is the responsibility of the commanding general of that particular theater of operations to set up a military government over the occupied land. Hes becomes military governor and is in tain selected cities, countries and supreme control until such time as it is possible to re-establish a civil | tical experience in applying the pringovernment.

It is extremely difficult for the commanding general's regular staff to handle the countless details involved in the administration of a ment due to the press of their other duties and the specialized knowledge required in many cases. Thus Brig.-Gen. C. W. the war department, through the Wickersham school of military governments and other special schools, is training officer personnel to act as top administrative officers and as junior officers in military governments under the direction of a theater's commanding general. A pool of technical talent has also been established, the members of which are called upon to fill technical and advisory posts.

Instruction at the school of military government is of two types: a lecture program, and a program of

REPLACING FUSES

E ACH electric circuit in a house, and there may be several, is protected by fuses, which burn out when a circuit is overloaded. Replacement of a fuse for the restoration of the circuit is a simple mat ter, but in order to do this, it must be known which of the fuses protects the blown-out circuit. A home owner who is looking for something to do on a rainy day can spend some of his time by marking his fuse box to indicate the circuit controlled by each fuse. This may mean unscrewing a fuse and then going upstairs to see which of the lights will not go on by the throwing of its switch. A method that involves less running around is to use a small radio set, turning it on loudly enough to be heard in the cellar, or wherever else the fuse box is located. The unscrewing of a fuse that stops its playing proves the control of the circuit of the room in which the set is connected. The set is then moved to another room and the process repeated until all of the fuses are identified. A diagram of the fuse box can then be made, indicating the circuit controlled by each fuse.

No fuse should be unscrewed without first opening the house switch to avoid a possible short circuit from a slip or a mishandling. But it should again be closed, of course, before continuing with the test.

Noise Through a Ceiling Question: What can be done so that we will not hear the people upstairs when they walk?

Answer: Carpeting the floors in the upper rooms is one way. Fair results can be obtained by insulating the ceiling below. Apply a layer of insulating board directly on the ceiling, then fur down the ceiling, fastening the furring to the walls and not to the ceiling. Nail another layer of insulating board on the furring, or place a blanket insulation between the furring strips, and finish off with gypsum wallboard. is this girl, not yet 17, who knows neither law nor affection, who is as hard as flint, and who is going to go her own way no matter what we do.

The grief-stricken mother who writes this letter is faced with an alarming problem. Her young daughter, who has had all the advantages of a good home and devoted parents, has grown wild, unreasonable and headstrong. Without a doubt she is doomed to the greatest misery, once her little "fling" is over, unless something can be done to keep her from wasting her precious youth, then spending the rest of her hopeless life in vain regret.

This is a sad letter, and all the sadder to me because I know of no answer. Sometimes the kindest. gentlest, most intelligent of parents find themselves with a child whose cold, hard, reckless nature is a complete mystery and often completely inefficient parents have sons and daughters who are the greatest pride and honor to them. I know of one fine young lawyer, upright and intelligent and successful, whose mother deserted him and ran off with a lover, when he was only three, and whose father then made a most unfortunate marriage, which ended in his being taken away from the custody of his own people. And I know a brother and sister, both married now, both parents, both unusually fine persons, whose mother's life was an actual scandal, the children themselves having been dragged into court on one occasion to testify in a particularly unsavory

Our town had a Betty-Lou when I was a girl. A fluffy-headed little beauty named Bessy, who laughed at the prudishness and dullness of the other girls' lives, and boasted of her conquests when the rest of us were begging the virtuous mothers of the nineties please to let us wear corsets and put up our hair. Bessy got into an escapade with a married man when she was 17, had a bad scare and quieted down for awhile, married in haste at 19, was divorced two years later, surrendering her little boy to his father, and married again at about the time her contemporaries were blissfully considering their first marital venture. Then she was ill for a long time discovered that there could never be other children, divorced the second husband, tried in vain to get hold of her boy, a sensitive little fellow of 12 by this time, who loved his father and his stepmother more than he possibly could the wild and woolly Bessy. So Bessy, at 33, took an overdose of sleeping medicine, and the story was ended. Except for Bessy's father and mother, who lived many years remembering it

This Aerial Freight Line Has Flying Oil Tanker

The world's largest carrier of aerial freight is the TACA line (Transportes Aereos Centro-Americanos), which serves the seven countries of Central America with 56 planes, 30 radio stations, 126 offices and 200 airports, says Collier's. Each day over its 7,000 miles of scheduled routes, are carried such articles as dynamite, chicle, mahogany, foods, heavy machinery, household goods and work and meat animals.

Incidentally, it is the only airline in existence that owns a flying oil tanker.

U. S. Forces Gain Ground in Tunisia; New Food Czar Seeks Speedy Solution Of Acute Farm Production Problems; Russ Offensives Endanger Smolensk

For conspicuous heroism as leader of a marine fighting squadron in aerial combat with Jap forces in the Solomon islands, Maj. Robert E. Galer is presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor by President Roosevelt. The air hero's mother is shown helping to adjust the pendant on which the decoration hangs.

FOOD:

3-Way Attack

No stranger to farm problems, food production or the delicate job of dealing with recalcitrant congressmen was Chester C. Davis, recently appointed chief of the new Administration of Food Production and Distribution. Former head of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, Davis knew the ropes in Washington and how to keep from getting tangled in them.

For weeks the capital had expected some action in the increasingly critical food production situation. By relieving hard-pressed Secretary of Agriculture Wickard of his food administrator tasks and appointing Mr. Davis as sole food czar, President Roosevelt had created a new threeway agency, combining the Food Production administration, the Food Distribution administration and the Farm Labor administration.

Closer working agreements between congress and the food administration and a minimum of official friction in dealing with war-created farm problems were expected to result under Davis' administration. Observers agreed that Davis had one of the toughest jobs in history, but they were betting he would win.

AIR RAIDS:

Woe to Axis

Axis-held Europe will soon be subjected to 'round-the-clock air raids which newer, bigger and faster American bombers will carry three or four times the bomb weight of present Flying Fortresses.

This prediction was made in London by Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the U. S. army air forces in Britain. American forces, he said, are now ready to build up a striking power on a par with that of he Royal air force. Soon, he added. will begin the sustained offensive in which the Americans will strike at Europe by day and the British will bomb by night.

General Eaker disclosed that in a series of 51 raids, the U.S. army air force has lost fewer than 90

NORTH AFRICA:

Rough Road Ahead

The battle to clear the Axis out of Tunisia was going to take time. Rommel's army still had an offensive "kick." The struggle was likely to get tougher before it got better.

These facts emerged more clearly as the inexorable pressure of the Allied forces ringing the enemy was met by counter attacks which had regained for Rommel's army much of the ground lost when the British Eighth army sliced into the Mareth

DOCTORS:

Rural U. S. Praised

Praising the rural areas of the United States for having in many instances exceeded their quotas in contributing doctors to the nation's armed forces, the American Medical association declared that enrollments of medical officers in the army and navy are lagging because of the failure of young available physicians in large cities to volunteer for duty. This situation is particularly prevalent along the Eastern seaboard, the association's official magazine charged.

The fact that the armed services are not getting all the doctors they need was disclosed at a recent meeting with military authorities in Washington, the Journal of the American Medical Association said. The conference revealed that 6,000 doctors must be drawn from the civilian population this year.

FLOUR:

16 Millers Indicted

In Chicago a federal grand jury indicted 16 flour milling companies and the industry's trade association on charges of conspiracy to fix prices of packaged family flour-the kind ordinarily sold for use in homes throughout the United States.

The indictment charged that the defendants who mill 81 per cent of the 45,000,000 barrels of family flour sold annually met from time to time and agreed of price differentials to be applied to the various sizes of packages in which the flour is sold. Addition of packaging charges had the effect of increasing bulk prices charged by millers by more than 100 per cent in some sizes, the indictment alleged. The Miller's federation in a statement declared "there are no price agreements in the milling industry and there is no price fixing of family

RUSSIA:

Action Slackens

Although the tempo of battle on the Russian front had slowed down and action appeared to be drifting into a deadlock in several sectors, the Red army had continued its dogged drive through the spring slush and mud toward Smolensk.

Meanwhile German onslaughts designed to gain control of the upper Donets river valley had slackened following the furious resistance of the Russian defenders.

The Russian move toward Smolensk took the form of a north-south drive. The heaviest assault. A Soviet war bulletin reported sharp thrusts by the Red forces north of Dukhovschino, 32 miles northeast of Smolensk. At the same time a Russian column was reported moving toward Dorogobuzh, below the Moscow-Vyazma-Smolensk railway and 50 miles east of Smolensk. Fierce counter-attacks with heavy concentrations of artillery backing up infantry were being undertaken by the Germans, a Russ communique re-

To the south, the Germans were paying a heavy price in men and material for their effort to gain control of the upper Donets river basin. Nazi attempts to establish bases on the east bank of the river had been severely repulsed.

ABSENTEES:

Women Worst Offenders

Women war workers were charged with being guilty of almost twice as much absenteeism as men, in a report compiled by the National Industrial Conference board.

Covering a "sample" group of 29 plants employing 106,620 persons, the report showed that in a single month 82,618 worker-days had been lost and that female employees averaged 1.16 days out of the month while male workers lost 0.65 day

Women showed a greater tendency to be absent for personal reasons, the survey disclosed. The board found that 50.4 per cent of their absences were in this compared with 47.8 per cent for men.

RAW MATERIALS: Allies Now 'Solvent'

William L. Batt, vice chairman of the War Production board, announced that the United Nations have now achieved "solvency" in raw materials and "are assured of sufficient amounts of all kinds to meet any military needs regardless of the length of the war.' "No material is being used faster by the United Nations today than is being produced," he said. "It can be stated with complete safety that whatever the length of the war, ample raw materials are available to meet our military needs.'

Batt credited the accomplishment to the combined raw materials board of the United Nations, established by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in their White House conferences in December, 1941.

A substantial part of this vast financing-the most stupendous in world history-will be loaned by people in ordinary walks of life. Financial experts point out that there are in liquid funds in the U.S. at present, more than 40 billion dollars which should go into the purchase of government bonds. Little Evidence Seen of Farm Land Speculation

Rural America Seen as Bulwark Against Post-War Depression: 'Nervous Gentlemen' Admit Possibilities of Speculative Wave.

By BAUKHAGE

Washington, D. C.

If you see a cheerful glow along the horizon of rural America these evenings, you'll know what it is-not but the happy light of burning mort-

The farmers of America have had their lesson. They aren't throwing their money around this time. They are paying their debts. They are becoming the solid citizens of the They are building a bulwark against a post-war depression that can save the nation financially,

Right now, the financial health of rural America is better than it has been in many a long decade. But certain nervous gentlemen are beginning to worry. Will the farmer keep to the straight and narrow or will he be tempted to put down an option on distant hills which are beginning to turn an alluring green?

Listen to what one of those cautious gentlemen in Washington, Frank Wilson of the department of commerce, has to say. Why, you may ask, does the department of commerce, whose job it is to look after the welfare of the city man, worry about the farmer? Well, when the farmer goes broke, the city man closes up shop. But, a word from Mr. Wilson:

"While the level of farm values throughout most parts of the Middle West has increased 10 to 15 per cent in the last year, and the transfer of farm properties has been greatly accelerated, there is, as yet, no evidence of the recurrence of the destructive speculation in farm lands which followed the First World war.

So far so good. But here is Mr. Wilson's postscript:

"Farm lending authorities throughout that area, however, admit that conditions are in the making from which a speculative wave might result unless price control measures can be effective in holding farm prices at or only moderately above present levels.

Mortgage Survey

The department of commerce made a survey of the farm mortgage situation in 19 states where the bulk of the food production for war is being made.

The federal land banks and the Farm Credit administration which a hawk has plenty of data. One out people." every ten-or more than 100,000 -farmer-borrowers from the 12 fed- | Washingtoneral land banks and land bank commissioner repaid his loan in full in

In the 19 states the department of commerce studied, according to the 1940 census, there were more than three million farms, more than half of all the farms in the country. Their total value is well over half the total value of farm lands in the country.

The survey of this territory, just made public, shows that in 1940, '41 and '42, indebtedness of farmers to the Farm Credit administration dropped a quarter of a billion dollars. This includes the drouth area in Kansas, one of the states hit hardest by the drouth, 10,000 farmers got out of debt and Kansas borrowers kept right on paying until they had deposited a million dollars in the 'future payment fund'' to anticipate labor installments. Similar statistics could be reeled off for other areas. One thing that has helped the debt payment is the inability to get into further debt-for automobiles and other commodities which just aren't Will that memory fade? Will the farmer's money begin to burn a hole in his pocket? Will those green pastures just over the hill begin to lure him beyond his means? As I said, the cautious folk in Washington are a little worried.

These are some of the danger signals they see: A possible rise in values which cannot be exactly predicted or explained. But which is always a possibility, if not now, after the war. Then there will be an accumulation of cash; there will be a lot of war bonds in the safe deposit box or in the old sock. There will be a lot of husky young sons returning from the war for whom fathers will want to pink and bulging hams. buy farms, there will be perhaps an increased demand for farm products sons in human geometry.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, | as new foreign markets are opened or the United States begins to help feed a starving world.

In some places, there is evidence of the tendency toward speculation a prairie fire or the neighbor's barn, now. Lenders in Iowa are offering money against Iowa farm land as low as 21/2 per cent. Speculation in livestock is going on in some places. But there is no trend now toward the wild buying of World War I. "And," says Mr. Wilson, "if the tremendous gains in the farm indebtedness situation can be held, the capacity of the great agricultural areas of the nation to absorb the flood of products that will come to all markets after the war will be tremendous."

The financial fate of post-war America is pretty much in the hands of the farmers. Let's hope he won't let it (and his spare cash) slip through his fingers.

Two-Way Attack On 'Beveridge Plan'

When the administration's "Beveridge plan" for increased social security and post-war adjustment was made public, congress proceeded to make it plain that they intended to pigeon-hole it. The general impression was that it was laid away be-cause it was too "socialistic" to suit the right wingers or even some of the middle-of-the-roaders.

But do not think that all the opposition came from one direction. The first adventure of the new social security program was, in reality, very much like the "Charge of the Light Brigade" for there were "cannons to right of them" and also "cannons to left of them" which volleyed and thundered. As I said, the offensive from the right was taken for granted. But the attack of the left wing, while not as vocal, seems to be just as vehement. There is proof in a press release which probably was released by very few pa-pers. It comes from the "People's Lobby" in Washington, an institution which believes in "public ownership of natural resources, basic industries and essential processing and distributive agencies.'

But the "People's Lobby" thinks the President's plan is nowhere near socialistic enough. In fact, it is just "another trick . . . to try to lull the people into a sense of false security while economic royalists continue, through ownership, to dictate the has been watching this situation like standards of living of the American

Geometric City

The other day, I heard on a radio broadcast the statement that Washington was a geometric city. We have so many squares and circles and other geometric figures-Dupont circle that I pass every day, Lafayette square with its historic memories (not to mention its squirrels) where I spend my extra seconds; the Octagon house, built by a wealthy friend of George Washington, where society was lavishly entertained in the early 1800s, now preserved by the American Institute of Architects which bought it to preserve its stately beauty as well as to house their offices; the sprawling Pentagon building of the army, "a city with a roof over it." With this in mind, I was suddenly impressed with the new patterns imposed on Washington since the war. the human figures, two of which I watched over my lunch in a restaurant the other day. At the next table were, not circles nor squares but human loops and bulges.

One was a slim man in eyeglasses. His nose was a loop, his smooth hair was looped back over his forehead. His gestures were looped, the back of the wrist bent and higher than his fingertips as he dangled his cigarette-I could only think of the paws of a lackadaisical pup begging for a sweet.

His partner was Mr. Bulge. The bulge began below the wrinkle in his vest and it was the only thing that kept him far enough away from the table to save his bulging nose from reaching the soup I could hear him inhaling. His hands bulged like the padded arms of an overstuffed chair in a hotel lobby. His cheeks were

There was a unanimous decision that he should go ahead. Even Mr. Quincy appeared to have less animosity. He banged the rail with his cane.

"I've been hoping, Mr. Quade, if away. Now you've done it, and dentials. Can you do it?"

billfold, but stuffed it back again. 'Guess you've got me. Thought I had a statement from my publisher, but I must have left it at home when I dumped the rest of my pockets. That's a good one. You'll have to take me on faith, mingled with doubt, of course-unless it's in another pocket in the trailer. Shall we go see?" He shrugged. "Personally I can think of a dozen more important-"

"Well, I can't. You come to the Head and hell busts loose. Give Judy and Norcross the keys to your trailer and let 'em look. Only take a jiff." Mr. Quincy tapped the end each sentence with a cane.

All we needed was direction. Nosooner-said-than-done stuff, to relieve the tension. The two of us ran up the pasture to the lovely new trailer. I'd never been inside one before. Compact? Why, it had everything. Everything but the publisher's letter. We locked it up again and hurried to report. "No letter," Norcross said. "Puts you on the same spot with me. Mr. Quade." 'Except that he did have a typewriter. And-and there was a sheet of paper in it," I said. Hugh Norcross said accusingly: "Go on, Miss Jason. Tell what ne'd written." "It said-it said-there was just title in capitals."

"Yes. And the title was-'Murder on the Bluff!" Hugh finished at entertaining servicemen than at for me. "Now was that a coincidence or was that a coincidence?" Thaddeus Quincy thumped furiously. "Either he's the maniac or it lets him out and he is Vidor see? I move we let it lie and go around where we can keep an eye on him, anyway. What were the dozen more important things you spoke of a moment or two ago?'

Albion Potter leaned forward, wide-eyed. "May I say something?" He seemed awfully self-conscious, speaking up before us all. "It's about-you'll think me foolish, at a time like this, perhaps-but-butdon't forget, he took my turpentine. If I'd only discovered it before I went to town I could have bought some more." I saw Victor give him a half glance, then turn his attention to Bessie Norcross. "The fire does make that missing turpentine seem more portentous. You-you didn't try to clean that spot off your white coat with a little of Mr. Potter's turpentine, did you, Miss Norcross?"

"What spot?" Bessie twirled around to look where we were all looking. There, sure enough, was a big, black, greasy-looking smudge, fading away into yellowish rings. "Good grief! How did I get that on there?" She pulled at the offending skirt and murmured regretfully: "My new white coat!"

Hugh stared fixedly at the spot. "That's my doings," he said. "Sorry. 'Fraid I made it worse, Bess."

Lionel Barrymore was in a dangerous spot a while back, and it wasn't one of those things that are part of a scenario, when the actor knows he'll be rescued. Driving home, he miscalculated the depth of flood water near his ranch, and found himself sitting in his stailed car in water up to his neck. The swift current started moving the car toward deeper water. But neighboring farmers came along with chains and hauled the car back onto the highway. The car was ruined, damaged.

When Robert Ryan joined the army he knew that he'd have a job when he came back; he has a contract with RKO that assures his return to the screen at the war's end, at a salary exceeding the one he was getting when he left. His work in "Bombardier" and "The Sky's the Limit" was responsible for the scrapping of the old contract and the writing of the more favorable new one.

Rowe was born on one of those deep black Iowa farms where any man can learn a lot about food because it is so abundant. He needed the big University of Minnesota to finish his education although he studied first at Iowa State. At Minnesota he moved a step along toward his present eminence as a food expert. He learned to cook. He hired out as a waiter to get the meals he couldn't afford to buy, but when he dropped a tray of glasses the lords of the University cafeteria figured he would do less damage in the kitchen. If he dropped a roast it could be brushed off, and they hoped he'd hang onto pies.

After Minnesota he taught for six the defensive. That's right up their years at Massachusetts State college. He has been with the government since 1941. He lives in Kenwood, Md., with his wife, son and daughter, Verna, Marvin and Shirley Ann. He has a round mild face and an easy manner that ought to keep him from looking old for quite a spell. He is in his middle thirties.

A few years back Sir Austin Chamberlain, brother of Munich's Neville, called Mr. Eden a first-class second-rater. The Chamberlains are gone now and the second-rater is the No. 2 man of Britain. Only Churchill stands above him. Eden got into politics as soon as he finished at Oxford after the war. He was old Stanley Baldwin's white-haired boy. He has been in the house of commons since 1923, but his real start dates from the time he was named secretary to the secretary of state for foreign affairs. He zoomed after that and now is himself the secretary for foreign affairs. This is his second turn at the job.

ONE of tallest generals in any army helps the Americans push against Rommel's men on the side opposite from where Leclerc fights. Should Take Much This is Brig. Gen. Everett Tape to Bind Gen. S. Hughes. Hughes' 61/2 Feet He stands a bit over six feet five inches in his army shoes.

Hughes has cussed at red tape all his army life and it is his odd luck to be made Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's deputy commander in charge of train ing, supply, hospitalization and personnel, all bound round with red tape. In the battle zone the loss of any military property can be blamed on a lone enemy shell; a little one will do. In the supply area everything must be signed for, and if the papers aren't kept there is weeping all the way back to Washington.

The artillery got him first and he served in it down in Mexico and then down in the Philippines. In the first World war he was decorated for meritorious service, but he landed in the service of supply and patch. so trained for his present post.

For a while he was the golf champion of the United States army, and he finds great pleasure in hunting. Traveling is also one of his favorite pastimes. While on leave in Europe, he retraced Napoleon's campaigns. With his men he seems stiff, but he is actually more shy than hard.

Among friends he is quiet, at his desk methodical. In conference he of the "Bachelor's Children" since is unexpectedly quick of thought and his speech is direct and wellphrased. He has just received the DSM for organizing the service of supply in England.

The chief machine used in preparing sisal and abaca fiber for rope was invented many years ago by a priest in Mexico. It separates the fiber from the rest of the plant leaf by scutcheon wheels. At the same time, the fiber is washed.

ELMER TWITCHELL AND

THE VICTORY GARDEN Elmer Twitchell issued a communique today announcing that he has launched his spring Victory Garden drive again. "I never won a victory over it yet," he said sadly, "but I am going to try once more.'

"I can't give you much time," he told reporters, "I'm going over the whole situation to check up on gains and losses in my campaigns so far, find out where I am, consolidate my forces and decide on my 1943 tactics.'

"What's your tactical position?" a reporter asked.

"I'm not positive," he replied. This is only my second summer in the field. Last summer it was touch and go most of the way, with a pretty serious defeat at the finish. I held my own until August when overwhelming forces just about ruined

"Are you more confident of victory this season?" "I am stronger than I was a year ago. I've trained hard all winter. I've got some new weapons and I have the will to win."

"Do you intend to wage a defense or offensive war?" "I found out last summer that you can't get anywhere with a Victory Garden on the defensive. Those damned bugs love it if you stay on alley.'

paign.

"Don't forget," Elmer resumed, "that all these garden pests and blights were in a much better position than I was when the fight started. They had been doing nothing else but waging an all-out war for years. I was green at it."

"Was it the element of surprise that bothered you?" he was asked. "Not so much surprise as the power and determination of the enemy.' he replied. "And of course their reserves are inexhaustible. I'd lick 'em and think I had wiped out the last bug, and up would come another battalion of 'em. That sort of thing gets pretty discouraging." "Who do you think was your toughest foe?" a reporter asked. "I thought General Aphis was tough early in the season but later the Mexican Bean Beetle proved

"I threw them all back up to midsummer, but then General Cutworm attacked in force, using blitz methods. He was supported by waves of corn borers, potato bugs

"How about your chemical warfare?" he was asked.

"Oh, I gave 'em all I had, but they had too many fresh shock troops to throw in. But do you know what really broke down my morale last season?" "The neighbors' chickens," concluded Elmer. "That was what got me. I thought they were neutral. They were Fifth Columnists!"

THE 2nd WAR LOAN DRIVE IS OF

Start punching from your pocket!

Washington County Quota $1,130,000

America's war machine is growing --- growing!

It's getting ready to deliver a tremendous, irresistible wallop that will smash the Axis flat --- once and for all.

But brother---that punch has got to start from your pocket! And now's the time to let it go!

Uncle Sam is asking us to lend him 13 billion dollars this month. 13 billions of extra dollars --- over and above any War Bond buying that you'd be doing anyway! Money to buy ships and planes, money to feed and clothe and arm and train the millions of your fellow Americans who will deliver this punch--- who are ready to work and sweat and die to keep the place you live in safe.

Uncle Sam is asking you to back them up. He's asking you to lend the money they need by investing in War Bonds.

In the next few weeks, you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are giving their time and effort to this Drive.

But don't wait for him. Today---now—go to your nearest bank or Post Office or place where they sell War Bonds. And for your Country's sake---for your own sake—invest all you can!

There are 7 different types of U. S. Government securities --- choose the ones best suited for you!
