Eight-year-old son of Jackman, residing on the south side of the village, was injured when struck by a car on the highway. The car was traveling south when it struck the child. The child was taken to the hospital and is recovering.

Discharge 7 More Men of County From Armed Forces

The following Washington county men were honorably discharged from the armed forces recently because of physical disability or to take employment in an essential industry, as announced by the local selective service board:

David James Rolfs, 450 S. 8th ave., West Bend; Andrew John Bohler, 676-A N. Main st., West Bend; Clarence Roeber, R. 1, Germantown; Herbert Edwin Geidel, R. 2, West Bend; Raymond Conrad Wendelborn, 228 S. 6th ave., West Bend; George Sebastian Schmidt, R. 5, West Bend, town of Addison; Clement Joseph Purcell, R. 1, Hartford.

No More Discharges for 38ers
The selective service board received an order to the effect that no more men over 38 years of age will be discharged from the army unless their application for discharge was made before April 1. They will be retained in the armed forces instead but will be placed on inactive duty to take jobs in war industry or in agriculture. However, if later they are found not to be in these pursuits vital to the war they become subject to immediate recall to active duty.

Authorities Emphasize The Dangers From War Gas

In a state gas specialist school held recently in Milwaukee by the Wisconsin Council of Defense in collaboration with the U. S. Dept. of Chemical Warfare Service, emphasis was placed upon the dangers of war gas. The purpose of the school was to acquaint civilian defense personnel with chemical warfare practices and methods of providing protection for the public in an emergency. H. A. Schatz, county coordinator, citizens defense corps, represented Washington county at the meeting.

Major W. L. Gilliland, C. W. S., stressed the possibility of the use of gas in air raids and the necessity of civilians as well as the armed forces being prepared to withstand any means of attack that an enemy may employ. Regarding gas, he stated that it is a known fact that all counties now engaged in war are manufacturing and storing large quantities of war gas for possible use.

Major Gilliland further stated that war gas could be used in an attack upon a civilian community either alone or in conjunction with other means, but in the Middle West is probably would be used in conjunction with incendiary and demolition bombs with an attack. It was pointed out that chemicals in bombs may be used to contaminate important establishments, such as industries, so as to prevent their use or delay in repairing of damage caused by demolition bombs.

Probably the greatest danger in the event of the use of gas in an attack upon a civilian community is likelihood of a panic. However, this danger is minimized when people have a fair knowledge of war gases and what to do.

In stressing the importance of proper preparation against gas attacks, Doctor E. R. Krumbiegel, health commissioner of Milwaukee, advised the people to stay indoors and to keep calm in the event of an attack. "Any one coming in contact with poison gas should lose no time in taking a bath with strong soap and hot water," he asserted. "A quick bath will reduce poison gas dangers to a minimum."

For shelters, the basement was recommended with wet blankets to cover windows and doors. In cities, 500,000 population is recommended, preferably connected with a hospital or emergency medical station.

The office of civilian defense recommends the appointment of a senior gas officer and gas agent for each district of the citizens defense corps, who will work closely with the medical division.

GARDENING CLASS MEETING DATE IS CHANGED TO MAY 4

The gardening class which was originally scheduled for Thursday night, April 22, has been changed to Tuesday, May 4. RED CROSS DRIVE REACHED $25,606.42, 54% OVER QUOTA

The Red Cross war fund drive in the Hartford chapter area also exceeded its quota by more than 50%, hitting a total of $25,606.42. This is $2,762.76 over the assigned quota of $5,500.

Combining the West Bend and Hartford chapter results Washington county reached a total of $25,606.42. This exceptionally fine total is 54% over the combined quota of $16,600 for the two chapters in the county. It is another star in the long list of Washington county achievements in World War No. II.

No national figures are yet available on the Red Cross war fund drive but the headquarters office expects to have a definite tabulation sometime next month.

ON PAY DAY, BUY BONDS

Amount of War Loan Sales Short of Half Way Mark in County

The second war loan drive has passed the halfway mark in as far as time is concerned, but as yet has not reached the halfway mark here in Washington county as far as the money invested is concerned. Thus far with practically all large corporate subscriptions in, total sales are $553,000.00—with a quota to make of $1,100,000.00. An early tabulation of returns shows that in a good many instances people are doing an all-out job. Yet, on the other hand, some people still consider this a 10% drive. There must be an all-out participation of every man, woman and child throughout the county to put this thing across, and everyone should invest all they can—not as little as they can.

Louis Kuehlthau, chairman of the victory fund committee, has divided the county in ten districts for an all-out cleanup drive. The victory fund chairman together with war savings chairmen will head a committee in each of these districts for special follow-up solicitation to help put Washington county over the top. Each district has been assigned its quota and it is up to the chairmen of each of these districts to get the job done in the week remaining in this drive.

The break up is as follows:

District No. 1, city and town of West Bend—Louis Kuehlthau, Ed. Alterdorff, John N. Peters, $466,000.00.

District No. 2, city and town of Hartford, town of Erin—Basil Peterson, Armand Hauser, Thomas J. Manning, John H. Frey, $253,000.00.

District No. 3, village and town of Kewaskum—Maurice Rosenheimer, I. P. Rosenheimer, James Emmer, $69,000.00.

District No. 4, village and town of Jackson—Elmo Rosenheimer, Alvin Schowalter, Paul Bartel, $38,000.00.

District No. 5, village and town of Cermantown—Miss Emma Duerwaeren, A. Schwalbach, Eugene Bast, $89,000.00.

District No. 6, village and town of Allenton, town of Addison, town of Wayne—Joe Wenninger, Gerhard Eickman, Frank P. Wietor, $84,000.00.

District No. 7, village and town of Richfield—Richard Hackbarth, Albin Ebling, $15,000.00.

District No. 8, village and town of Slinger, town of Polk—William Kraus, Bull, Alfred Strauss, $61,000.00.

District No. 9, village of Newburg—town of Trenton, town of Farmington—Florian Isselman, Dr. H. F. Weber, Fred C. Weinreich, $75,000.00.

District No. 10, village and town of Barton—Arthur Labisky, Atty. G. E. Otten, John Van Beek, $63,000.00.

War bond rallies have been held throughout the whole county, with the exception now of West Bend and Hartford. On Monday night, Hartford held their rally and on Tuesday night the city of West Bend. In addition to that, on Thursday, April 22, in West Bend, and on Monday, April 26, in Hartford, the retailers put and are putting an all-out effort on the bond drive. All they take and took in on those days will be invested by the retailers in war bonds. An army jeep will be in Hartford next Monday to help along with the sale of bonds. Everyone buying a bond is entitled to ride in the army jeep.

At one of the bond rallies in Allenton, town of Addison, on Friday, at which one of these army jeeps co-operated, $22,500.00 worth of war bonds were sold in 15 minutes—a remarkable record over there. Joe Wenninger and Gerhard Eickman, chairman over at Allenton, as well as Roy Richter, 30 Minute Men over there deserve a lot of credit for the fine job done.

Remember—THEY GIVE THEIR LIVES—YOU LEND YOUR MONEY! That means each and everyone of us. The time is drawing close when the drive is over. If you haven't done your part as yet or if you can raise your subscription go to your local bank, your post office, or your building and loan association, or order through your rural mail carrier and buy your bonds now. WE SHALL WIN THIS WAR NOT BY DOING MERELY WHAT WE ARE TOLD TO DO, BUT BY DOING ALL THAT WE ARE ABLE TO DO AND ALL THAT WE CAN FIND TO DO, AND THAT IS THE LEAST THAT WE CAN DO FOR THOSE WHO ARE DOING MORE THAN WE CAN EVER HOPE TO DO THE LONGEST DAY WE LIVE!

ADDS BRING RESULTS

Arrangements have been made to show the new Red Cross home nursing film entitled "You're on Your Own" throughout the West Bend chapter.

Accompanying the film at West Bend will be Miss Nancy Crompton of Milwaukee, who will briefly outline the urgent need for having one person in every home trained in home nursing in order to better guard the home front. The Red Cross has issued a call for one million students in this important training. Only through such training can we hope to maintain the civilian health of the nation during the war period.

In the West Bend chapter of the Red Cross, Mrs. E. R. Vornholt, home nursing chairman, reports that 169 women have completed the course and about 50 students are in classes at the present time. Thus this instructive picture which covers all the fundamentals thoroughly will be a splendid opportunity to review the many subjects in home nursing work. In addition, the public is invited to see the film for which there will be no charge. Among the subjects treated are isolation procedure for communicable disease, daily care of a bed patient, including administering liquid medicines, applying compresses, changing bedclothes, backrub, thermometer care, disposal of waste, and many other home nursing procedures.

Showings of the film will be made by the chapter at the following times and places. Home nursing committee members will give you information about the course and enrollment at that time:

Monday, April 26—Wayne, Wietor's hall, 8:00 p. m.

Tuesday, April 27—Jackson, fire hall, 8:00 p. m.

Wednesday, April 28—West Bend, Wisconsin Gas & Electric Co. recreation room, 7:30 and 8:30 p. m.

Thursday, April 29—Newburg school, 8:00 p. m.

Friday, April 30—Kewaskum high school, 7:30 p. m.

Saturday, May 1—Boltonville school, 8:00 p. m.

Following is a list of the 28 women who have completed the home nursing course in Kewaskum. If you are one of these or a present class member, it is very important that you attend and urge your friends and neighbors to come with you.

BUTZKE—A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Butzke of Route 2, Kewaskum, who reside just outside of the north village limits, at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, on Saturday, April 17. Mrs. Butzke is the former Miss Lucille Backhaus.

ERNST—A daughter was born on Thursday, April 15, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ernst of Route 1, Kewaskum, at St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac.

SCRAP HARVEST PRODUCES 36,000 LBS. IN KEWASKUM

Final figures show that a total of 36,000 pounds of miscellaneous metal were brought in to Kewaskum by citizens of this community in the recent spring scrap harvest held from April 1 to 10, according to Theo. Schmitz, local salvage chairman. Considering the amount of scrap metal which had been collected in previous drives, this was a surprising total. The total for Washington county is expected to reach about 450,000 pounds.

KEWASKUM SWAMP ON FIRE

A large area in the Kewaskum swamp south of the village was on fire last Thursday evening. The following morning the fire seemed to be out, although the peat bogs smoldered on indefinitely. The flames lit up the sky and could be seen clearly in this village and for miles around.

Every time you get your pay, buy Defense Bonds and Stamps.

Have You Looked for Worm Out Silk, Nylon Stockings?

During the next ten days Washington county will close its drive for silk and nylon stockings. The slogan of the local committee is "after May 1st not a silk or nylon stocking to be found in the county."

Plans have been made to contact every home as a reminder to pick up your old and worn out silk and nylon hosiery. But don't wait for someone to come. Look through your closet, store-

GIRL SCOUTS TO CANVASS

The Girl Scouts will make a house to house canvass in the village next Thursday afternoon, April 29, for nylon and silk hosiery.

Remember that our gunners need the silk and nylon stockings for powder bags. When used as powder bags, it is possible to recharge and refine the guns without wasting time to clean them again. It is just another one of the many items which we must salvage in order to win this war.

Garden Club to Hold Open Meet on Victory Gardens

On Friday evening, April 30, an open meeting will be held by the West Bend Garden club for all those interested in victory gardens. It will be held in the basement of the Ev. and Reformed church, 5th and Walnut, at 7:30 p. m. E. E. Skaliskey, Washington county agricultural agent, will be on hand to answer questions and give gardening information.

Everyone is welcome and all victory gardeners are urged to make a list of their gardening questions before coming to the meeting.

All victory garden plots which have been plowed have now been allotted to individual gardeners. All other plots will probably be ready within the next few days and the gardeners will be notified accordingly.

Dog Trials at State Park Have 65 Entries

Sandy Island Rex, a pointer, won the open all-age feature stake in the annual spring bird dog trials sponsored by the Wisconsin Amateur Field Trial club at the Kettle Moraine state park near Kewaskum Sunday. Owned and trained by Cliff Genrich of the West Allis Training and Kennel club, Rex made three finds. Second prize went to Uncle Tom, a pointer, owned by J. Hart of Chicago. Lucky Nellie, a setter owned by Fred Bazzett, Milwaukee, was third. The meet, which started on Saturday, had 65 entries. The judges were Bud Prohl of Hammond, Ind., and Harry Slink, Gary, Ind.

Lucky Nellie also finished third in the nonwinner run, which Reginald Kingray, a setter owned by H. R. Haushalter of Campbellsport, won. Jack, a pointer, owned by Fred Kennedy, West Allis, was second. Other results:

Local Women at Red Cross Home Nursing Institute

In the interest of furthering Red Cross home nursing in the West Bend chapter, nine home nursing instructors and committee members attended a home nursing institute at the Plankinton Hotel, Milwaukee, April 12. Those in attendance were: Mrs. Melvin Gunn, Jackson; Mrs. Lehnman Rosenheimer and Mrs. Marvin Schaefer, Kewaskum; Mrs. G. Emberson, Mrs. Ray Haebig, Mrs. R. Lake, Mrs. H. Meyer, Mrs. W. Volmer and Mrs. E. M. Vornholt, West Bend.

The fact that every home must be prepared to take care of the sick and to maintain health in this emergency with 20,000 nurses and 40,000 doctors already serving with the armed forces was again emphasized by outstanding speakers, Miss Helen Planagan, Miss M. Schladweiler, home nursing field representative; Dr. R. Cary, Marquette university; Mrs. Mary McEneaney Milwaukee county Red Cross home nursing chairman.

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. R. Vornholt and the additional staff of certified instructors: Miss Lucille Bauer, Mrs. G. Emberson, Miss Virginia Forbes, Mrs. Melvin Gunn, Mrs. E. Lake, Mrs. Maurice Rosenheimer, Mrs. Kenneth Marsden, Mrs. Marvin Schaefer, Mrs. G. Strothoff and Mrs. L. Thorson, the West Bend chapter is proud to report that the quota set aside by the Midwestern area has already been met. However, the national goal of "one person in every home trained in home nursing" is a goal still to be attained.

Be sure to watch the local papers for further announcements on home nursing activities in your chapter.

WARNING TO DOG OWNERS

Dog owners of the village are warned to keep their animals at home and tied up. Many dogs are running loose, damaging and destroying shrubs, flowers, gardens and other property. People spend much time and effort planting victory gardens and they don't want them to be damaged and dug up by dogs but to help the war effort. All dogs found running loose will be dealt with according to law and shot. Severely injured dogs will be disposed of so read this warning. Article 3, Section 174.10 of the Wisconsin statutes reads as follows:

"Any dog found or discovered on the premises of its owner and unaccompanied by its owner or some person in control of it shall be considered an unlicensed dog and a private nuisance and may be seized, restrained, impounded or disposed of as provided by this section by any one during said time and before it returns to the control or premises of its owner."

Kathleen Norris Says: For America's Sake Stop Fussing

Reel Syndicate—WNU Features.

"Just keep serene and cheerful, and ask him not to pronounce upon the dinner's merits or deficiencies until he's eaten it."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

ALL this fussing about food shortages seems to me unworthy of the people of the greatest nation in the world.

What we ARE the greatest nation in the world is more evident every day. Our ideals are the best, our purposes in war and peace the most fair, and our people the most fortunate. There are millions of men and women in the world who would thank God their days for a chance to go to America. And there are very other countries to which these oppressed, starved, exiled folk would care to go.

Why it seems to me beneath our dignity to keep all this talk about food. We'll all have plenty of food; nobody's going to be hungry. But what we must remember is that we are the most colossal war effort in our history, and for awhile questions of farm labor and farm production, market labor and market prices are going to get all mixed up, be mis-managed, cause confusion and inconvenience. Everything will get straightened out and organized, and we'll be wiser again. Someone made a statement the other day that the four million Victory gardeners and small, are being raised all over the country; that vegetables, anyway, for some 20 million persons who depend on markets last year.

Delicious Meat Substitutes. Wouldn't hurt us at all to cut down on ONE real meat meal a week and piece out the others with cheese, oysters, shell-fish and real fish, the lesser meats; chipped beef, sausage, tongue, tripe, kidney, head, pig's feet, ox tails. All are endless and delicious varieties. A fish chowder is a meal in itself, and so is asparagus plentifully served with croutons and scalloped in a cheese sauce. Or cauliflower, or even the hum-bun.

Write the boys that all this talk of rationing isn't serious; and give them a list of your new culinary achievements; the egg and codfish dish that Daddy likes so much, the big puddings stuffed with fruit that have come back in fashion. For remember, desserts can be full of vitamins and calories, too. I've revived old-fashioned suet puddings for special occasions; crumbs and suet, and as much again of chopped fruits, spices, a little corn syrup to sweeten it, a little prepared flour, one beaten egg to bind it, and there you are! You can make combinations of ginger root and raisins, dates and figs, cranberries and jams, apricots and corn meal, prunes and orange peel and candied pineapple. They scent the house as they bump away in a boiler for three long hours, and at dinner leave the family gasping for less good food!

My mother had a famous one of apples, cornmeal, ginger and suet; she cooked the cornmeal stiff first and then put the other things in; and there's an Indian meat pudding for which I never did have the recipe, but it's as American as Donald Duck and full of nutrition, too. Canned milk whipped like cream, for sauce; or sauce can be hot water, butter and sugar, with flavoring added.

To send a message of strong hope and comfort to our boys, to bring them home one moment sooner, you and I would live on oatmeal porridge and skim milk for the duration, wouldn't we? Generations of Scots have grown strong on that fare. Get the word through to the fighting fronts that we are getting along magnificently, that the sacrifices we have to make aren't half enough, that we know what they are doing for us, and that every last one of us is doing what she can for them.

Everyone in our town is planting a table garden. A favorite garden walk of mine is to be fringed with corn stalks this year, instead of delphiniums and stocks. Take baskets of this stuff to your city friends when you go to dinner, and rivet their souls to you for life. Big vegetable salads only need a few shrimp or prawns, a little crab-meat or the shredded meat of a boiled hen to be complete meals; now that peaches and tomatoes are on their way to us we can have the foods that still are the most delicious in the world.

JUST GLOBAL

The scene is any home of the post-war period, if the global mood goes on unchecked and aviation continues to develop by leaps and bounds.

Father—Where everybody, dear? The house seems so quiet in the last hours.

Mother—Oh, nothing special. I hadn't noticed it.

Father—But all the kids—where are they all of a sudden? They were here a moment ago.

Mother—Oh, the children! They're just running around the neighborhood between now and lunch.

Father—Where's the Junior?

Mother—Junior went out just a minute ago—to Moscow, I think, he said, someplace like that.

Father—He went to Moscow yesterday.

Mother—But it's all right if he goes again today, isn't it?

Father—I don't like him going there every day, you know. Where's the Alton?

Mother (nonchalantly)—She put on her hat and coat, so I guess she ran over to Brazil or Dakar. I think she said something about Dakar—but one never knows. She's so restless.

Father—Where's Walter? I just saw him in the yard.

Mother—Walter had an hour or so on his hands and he took a run over to see that Stevens girl in Asia.

Father—What Stevens girl in Asia?

Mother—The Burma Road one, I think.

Father—She's quite a nice girl.

Mother—Oh, did you meet her?

Father—Of course. Don't you remember she was at that dinner we went to night before last in Fuchow?

Mother—What a bore that party was. I wish we had gone to the other one.

Father—What other one?

Mother—We were invited to bridge with the Biffels in Sebastopol the same night. If I'm going out for a whole evening I like Sebastopol.

Father—Where's Jennie?

Mother—You know very well where Jennie goes every day.

Father—Where?

Mother—to school, of course.

Father—What school now?

Mother—Mrs. Crumpell's Academy in Madagascar.

Father—I thought she was at Mrs. Bertin's school in Zanzibar.

Mother—No, she took her out of that. She hated being so close to home.

Father—Where's the baby?

Mother—You still call Millicent the baby—she's almost five years old now.

Father—Where is she? I haven't seen her since breakfast.

Mother—The two little children next door came over and wanted to take her some place to play.

Father—Where did they go?

Mother—Oh, Chidsey, you're so old-fashioned and provincial.

Father—Where did they go?

Mother—I'm not sure. The Collins child wanted to go to some park in India; the Adams girl preferred French Morocco. They'll be back presently.

WAR IS WAR!

Attempts to link up the global war with various merchandise is getting more and more amusing. We saw one that made us dizzy the other day: a dress house proclaiming the "Four Freedoms Models." There was the "Freedom of Religion, the Freedom From Want, the Freedom From Fear and the Freedom of Speech models."

We were intrigued by the "Freedom From Fear" frock; asymmetric lines in a deep throated neckline and graceful draped skirt with multi-colored background.

And the "Freedom of Religion" wasn't bad. "A button down the front dress with a pull-through bow at the neckline. In all colors," the ad said.

And then there's the "Freedom Red Lipstick" believe it or not.

There's a terrible oversight in the new OPA meat chart. No point value is fixed for butchers' thumbs.

Coming complaint: "I'm so hungry I could eat a chart."

Ima Dodo asks, "If I ask for meat and get it do I yell 'Bingo!'"

Query from any husband: "Do you think points grow on trees?"

"Mrs. Roosevelt will then attend a Conference To End Discrimination, to which admission will be by invitation only."—New Haven Journal-Courier.

Oh, well, maybe just a little discrimination.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is with Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have as well as you possibly can. This column by the homeowner's friend tells you how.

CELLAR CLOTHES CLOSET

Question: Last fall I built a cedar closet in our cellar to keep clothes protected from moths. Now I find the clothes kept there have become moldy. Our cellar is a little damp, but the walls of the closet are at least five inches away from the concrete walls and floor. How can I protect the clothes and get rid of the mold?

Answer: You possibly might be able to do a moistureproof job on the clothes closet by insulating all surfaces with insulation board; then cover all exterior surfaces with heavy asphalt paint. But my advice is to give up the idea of storing clothing in the damp cellar. You would find it much more practical to lay in several garment bags, the kind with zippers, if you still can get them, and store your garments upstairs. First, of course, all clothing should be cleaned thoroughly and the bags provided with plenty of "paradi" (moth flakes) and moth balls.

Furnace Smokes
Question: Our furnace has been smoking for the last two or three years when the door is left open. The damper that is supposed to control that part does not seem to function. Have had it gone over by furnace men, but they do not seem to be able to cure the trouble. It draws well when the door is closed, and heats properly. What is the trouble?

Answer: When a furnace is in operation all doors should be closed. When draft is necessary the damper in the asphalt door should be opened, but the door itself should remain closed. If the damper does not operate properly it may need replacement. Ask the maker of your furnace to send you a copy of his instructions on the proper operation of the unit.

Painting Brick

Question: I plan on painting a cottage built of common brick, over which there is a coating of cement. This cement has been painted several times. However, some of the paint has peeled off in spots. Some of the cement has cracked and fallen off, which since has been repatched. What sort of paint would be best to use on this cottage?

Answer: Since the walls presumably have been painted with an oil paint, use a good quality outside house paint. Or if your local paint dealer has a good brand of oil base brick and cement coating you use that. If the old paint has peeled badly, it may be necessary to remove it first before repainting.

Roots in Sewer

Question: After having my sewer pipe "rodded" out, the workman informed me that the pipe was matted with tree roots and would require digging up. An oil treatment was suggested. What do you advise?

Answer: A pound or two of copper sulphate, dissolved in a pail of warm water, then poured down the sewer may be more effective than oil. Of course, if the pipe is matted badly with roots, it may be necessary to remove them first, then use the chemical to prevent further growth. If you can locate a plumber who has a root-removing machine, with rotary knives, the job can be done without digging up the pipe.

Insulated Furnace

Question: Our hot-water furnace when installed was covered with asbestos cement about one-half inch thick on the sides, and one-quarter inch on top. Foully netting was attached first, and asbestos cement was put on. Can I improve on this?

Answer: Yes; insulation on all parts of the boiler should be about one inch thick. It can be applied over the present insulation.

Insulation

Question: Is it possible for a layman to insulate a two-story family brick house? If so, what materials are needed?

Answer: If the house has an attic space under a peak roof, insulation can be put into this space by a layman. But if the roof is flat a professional should be engaged to do the work.

Paint for Cement Block

Question: I want to paint and brighten up my cement block garage. Could I use ordinary cement, mixed and thinned with water, for this? I want to apply the material with a brush.

Answer: I should prefer a cement based paint, which is an excellent commercial preparation containing a binder.

Black Stovepipe

Question: I am moving my oil heater into a room finished with ivory colored rigid insulating wallboard. The black stovepipe looks rather bad, with this light color for a background. I would like to know what kind of ivory-colored paint I could use on it that would not discolor or burn off?

Answer: Most light-colored paints discolor when subjected to high temperatures. It might be advisable, however, to try coating the pipe with one of the radiator and range enamels.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

A single 10-ton ponton bridge sets up 3200 pounds of rubber and 2.01 pounds are used for each roll of adhesive plaster made for the Army's medical corps.

We've heard a lot about tire swiveling lately, but the practice would become more common if every driver realized that equalizing wear on all tires increases tread mileage as much as 50%.

With conservation in mind keep your rubber goods in a cool, dark place, preferably away from direct heat, or exposure to sunlight, oil and grease.

To make the bullet-stopping pneumatic tanks of a Flying Fortress require 1600 pounds of rubber.

Pertholium Argentum is what botanists call Guayule (pronounced Y-U-Loe), a scrubby desert shrub of Central America and Northwest U. S. which is being developed for its rubber content.

This Is Everyone's Year to Bring in the Harvest

A short time ago, Lieutenant General Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, made the following remarks over the National Broadcasting company network. These remarks give a clear conception of the attitude of the army toward food. They bring home to us here how great a responsibility we have when the time comes to pack our local canning crops.

"An army can go no further than its longest supply line. Our troops are well fed, well clothed, well equipped, salute the farmers—the labor, and management. These active partners of the quartermaster and all the personnel of the quartermaster corps have kept our supply lines humming.

"In this war, food is as important as munitions. I think this story will tell why.

"In Guadalcanal a few weeks ago two hundred American soldiers found themselves isolated on a vital hilltop. They had taken the hill brilliant days ahead of schedule. Having taken it, they could hang on with no food and water, or withdraw. They decided, of course, to hang on. By the end of the second day, they were still fighting and still holding on. Meantime, the quartermaster at base headquarters was working desperately to get water and food to them. The crew of a Flying Fortress volunteered to make the tricky flight. The Fortress came in slowly, 150 feet above Jap guns. Her crew was all set to parachute water, tins of cheese and beef, powdered eggs, powdered lemon and orange juice, and canned Vermont turkey to our men below. Shuttling across the hilltop, the Fortress, a perfect target for the enemy, landed her cargo safely and returned without loss to her crew. That cargo included beef from Montana, cheese from Wisconsin, fruit from Oregon. This was a real special package from home to those fighters in Guadalcanal. It reminded them that the home folks are with them everywhere. I am proud of that Fortress, of those Guadalcanal fighters, and of all the workers who help to provide such needed supplies.

"It will soon be spring again—the season for planting. Farmers, all workers in foods, all Americans who help the quartermaster corps must make this the richest harvest in history.

"Never has food been of so crucial importance. In France the herds are slaughtered, Poland's fields are barren. In Athens children drop in the streets from want. The blight of hunger is all over Europe.

"We must raise food, process it, ship it, get it to American soldiers who are fighting to make this a decent world.

"Let us pray to God for good weather for our crops. Then let each American do his part to raise food, and to save food by rationing. This is everyone's year to bring in the harvest."

FARM AND HOME LINES

Home production of foods serves a double purpose—it assures farm families of proper nutrition, and it releases commercially canned foods for the armed forces and those unable to grow their own.

Farmers who slaughter animals for home use only need not obtain permits, according to a report, but they need a permit for all meat sold.

For best results, rolling cutters should cut about one-half inch wider than the plow bottoms, and at least one-half the depth of the furrow, say farm engineers at the College of Agriculture.

Last year 25,000 members of home makers clubs in Wisconsin canned 7,500,000 quarts of fruits and vegetables; stored 12,000 tons of fruits and vegetables; and preserved 22,000 tons of meat for home use.

A home made electric hay hoist is used by Joe King of Boscobel to save labor on his farm. Built from scrap parts, the hoist is driven by a one-horsepower electric motor, requiring but one man to operate it from the load.

The seriousness of the crisis for the Axis was reflected in Italian communiques which admitted that Italo-German forces were being steadily overpowered along the entire Tunisian front.

FRANCE: U. S.-Britain Agree

When British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden announced he had invited Secretary of State Cordell Hull to visit London and said he was satisfied there is "complete agreement" between Britain and the United States on the "future policy toward France," he took a long step toward settling the troublesome North African political situation.

Seemingly on the point of settlement, the problem had been intensified once more when the Fighting French took umbrage at Allied Commander Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's delay his projected visit to Algiers for conferences with Gen. Henri Giraud.

Military men had viewed the Eisenhower request as a perfectly logical action. With the battle for Tunisia at its height, the time was not right for political discussion, since the entire time of the French, British and American leaders in North Africa was occupied in winning the campaign.

BLACK MARKETS: Meat Supply Scarcer

Black markets were blamed by the department of agriculture for the reduced marketing of livestock for slaughter in recent weeks.

In recent weeks, a department report noted, government buying agencies and civilian consumers dependent on federally inspected plants have experienced difficulty in obtaining meat. While the report did not disclose how great a reduction in inspected meat supplies stemmed from the black market operations, it described it as "fairly large."

Meanwhile seven meat packing firms operating in the East and Middle West were indicted by a federal grand jury in Newark, N. J., on charges of conspiracy to violate meat price regulations and meat quota restrictions.

EUROPE: Axis on Alert

The defense of Europe against the forthcoming Allied invasion was increasingly occupying the attention of Axis leaders, reports from the continent indicated. The Germans were said to be undertaking anti-invasion maneuvers in Belgium and Holland. Intelligence reports reaching Allied governments said the German and Italian high commands had met at Brenner pass to discuss the defense of Italy.

MANCHESTER: The little man who pays the taxes will probably have to dig deeper into his pockets to find the money to help pay for new British taxes payable under the new United Kingdom budget, it was indicated by a statement made here by Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer. Britain's total expenditures last year were 22,400,000,000 pounds. The government raised 50 per cent of this sum from revenue, and borrowed the remainder—except for a 900,000-pound gift from Canada. Higher taxes on amusements loom, Wood said.

35 BILLION: U. S. Must Recapture

CHESTER C. DAVIS '... spending power a peril.'

The government will have to recapture $35,000,000,000 in surplus spending power if present price and wage controls are to combat inflation effectively, Chester C. Davis, food administrator declared.

A banker as well as an agricultural leader, Mr. Davis recommended higher federal taxes and sharply increased investments in war bonds to relieve the strain of "too much purchasing power" on a declining supply of consumer goods, including food and other living items.

"This is no 10 per cent war," he declared, referring apparently to the treasury's campaign to get 10 per cent of salaries invested in war bonds.

KEYNES' PLAN: To Sideltrack Gold

Following closely on the heels of the United States treasury's proposal for a $5,000,000,000 postwar international stabilization plan came Lord Keynes' proposal for a world credit institution "designed to expand world trade and serve as a genuine organ of truly international government."

Unlike the American plan, the British fiscal expert's program would subordinate gold as the post-war international medium of exchange. The announcement of Keynes' proposal made in a British white paper said "the purpose of the clearing union is to supplant gold as a governing factor, but not dispense with it."

Financial observers viewed the Keynes' plan as a trial balloon. Their idea was that a compromise between the American and British viewpoints would be ultimately arrived at.

Under the Keynes' plan the clearing union would have executive offices in New York and London. It would operate as a bank of nations, with creditor nations allowing their balances to accumulate as deposits, while the union would lend these deposits for short periods to debtor nations, just as a commercial bank operates.

Who's News This Week

By Delos Wheeler Lovelace

Consolidated Features.—WNU Release.

NEW YORK.—For many a long year if you'd asked any member of the Boy Scouts of America, who was the Chief Scout, he'd have told you, Dr. James E. West.

Million Scouts Hail Him as 'Chief' and Now It's for Keeps

Now the title has been made official, and Dr. West has been promoted to a rank held previously by only one man, Ernest Thompson Seton, another lover of the outdoors with a powerful interest in boys.

Dr. West joined the Boy Scout movement January 2, 1911. It was in its infancy in the United States then. He took the job of Executive Chief on a six months' trial basis. He stayed 32 months, finally relinquishing the post February 1 last.

On Dr. West's 65th birthday in May, 1941, President Roosevelt told him: "To you belongs much of the credit for the effectiveness of Scouting in this country."

Dr. West's great interest in youngsters was spurred by the difficulties of his own boyhood. His father died when he was very young, and his mother, when he was six, there were no near relatives, and the boy grew up in an orphan's home in Washington, his native city. To add to his problems, he was crippled and on crutches. He saw to it that he had a good education, though, and he worked his way through the law school of National university. He was practicing in the capital when Scouting called him.

That wasn't his first task in behalf of youngsters, however. His efforts gave Washington its first juvenile court, and in 1909 he persuaded President Theodore Roosevelt to call a White House conference on the care of dependent children.

He has had four children of his own, two boys and two girls. Both boys became Eagle Scouts. While in command, he saw his beloved Scouts grow into an organization more than a million strong.

FACT finding is the task assigned to Jonathan W. Daniels as he joins the staff of White House administrative assistants, and that will be an old story for him. He has been doing just that for 20 years now. His first stint in that line came as a cub reporter on the Louisville Times. There he harvested his initial facts from a police sergeant who had been a Confederate soldier. He had learned about newspapers long before that, however, from his father, Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh (N. C.) News and Observer and secretary of the navy under Wilson.

Young Jonathan started out to be a lawyer. He even spent a year at the Columbia law school after graduating from the University of North Carolina. He never practiced, though. He had been rubbing elbows too long with printer's ink. After trying his wings in Louisville, he returned home to work for his dad.

Later he wrote a novel, "Clash of Angels" it was called, and it helped him win a Guggenheim Fellowship and a couple of years' study in Europe. When the elder Daniels shifted his activities to the United States embassy in Mexico City, his son moved into the editor's chair.

In World War I Daniels gave the orders to a young assistant secretary of the navy named Franklin D. Roosevelt. Now it will be the other way around.

DR. C. E. M. JOAD used to be chairman of the National Peace Council (British) and a member of the Brains Trust, that London radio-cinema-rilla whose I. Q.s all came out of the top drawer, but here he is urging over the Atlantic cable that every man be allowed five wives. What peace is likely to come out of that idea, and who would expect a Brains Trustee to trot it out!

Dr. Joad, who is also a philosopher and peddles long-haired notions from a chair in the University of London, argues the war will leave so many women without mates that they must be provided with substitutes, even piecemeal ones. Oldsters will remember that the same argument followed the last war but no substitute replaced the time-defying practice of pairing off.

Like Shaw, who goes along the same road far enough to insist that any woman should prefer a fifth share of a first rate man to a whole share of a fifth rate man, Joad throws off his recommendation from behind a barricade of whiskers. Grayish whiskers now, because he is 52.

This five-to-one scheme is just his latest explosive declaration. His many speeches, and his books of which he has written enough to supply a small army, all went boom under society, or science, or government, or something, or somebody.

A while back he scolded science for producing in abundance the means to the good life, without teaching us how to live it. His present proposal may be his own attempt to teach the lesson he says science omitted.

Castor Oil in Demand

Big demand for the oil extracted from castor seeds has developed out of war industry through the use of castor oil as a lubricant for airplanes operating at high altitudes. It likewise is used as a hydraulic fluid in retractable landing gear.

United Nations' Conferences First Real Test of Solidarity

Russia Seen as Vital Factor in World Organization or Disorganization; Mutual Understanding Essential to Worth-While Peace.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

Well, what of it. California never threatened to secede because of New England's blue laws or New York state because of the way they turn out divorcees in Nevada.

The important thing is, what are Russia's intentions concerning other nations? On my desk, there is beginning to accumulate the literature of the various little nations—Poland, Latvia, Finland, who are already starting to plead for the restoration of lost territory or sovereignty.

Anti-Communist feeling is strong in America. You will hear tales of how Stalin expects to make a deal with Germany, how he expects to turn France communist the moment the country is freed from Germany. You will also hear the assurances of people like Mr. Cowles who say: "Stalin no longer feels that the survival and development of the Soviets depend on world revolution."

That Russia wants to be allowed to go her own way, to work out her own salvation and once she has assurance that a combination of other nations will not arise against her, she will be only too content to live and let live.

I was talking with a seasoned and pretty cynical observer who has seen the seamy side of foreign relations at close range for many years. He is suspicious of Russia, equally suspicious of Britain. But even he said to me:

"Before we talk too much about the obstacles in the way of an international understanding, let's find out what the British and Russian and other statesmen really want."

The Goal

That is all the gentlemen in the senate are asking, who are working so ardently to obtain the passage of the Ball resolution which would put the United States government on record as favoring the creation of an international organization to keep the peace, of assuring United States' co-operation in policing the world against any aggressor.

There were few people who, when this United Nation was born, believed that it could live. It did Norman Angell, in that exceedingly cogent book of his, "Let the People Know," concludes one chapter with these words:

"In the old days, we felt impelled to burn a man alive if he did not attend our church. Never, men were sure, could those of the true faith live at peace with heretics. But they found that men of different faiths could live together; that they could keep their differences, yet be loyal to each other in the achievement of their common purposes. Religion is not less than nationalism. What is possible in the one field is possible in the other."

Whether we agree with Mr. Angell or not, there seems to be no sensible reason why we shouldn't try to find out if he is right. Peace is worth the effort.

Broadcaster's Diary

The other day, I received a letter that shows that commentators are of some practical use in the world after all. It was from a lady from Long Beach, Calif., who wrote:

"I wanted to phone for a plumber one day last week. Each time I tried to use the phone, two women were talking (about nothing) on the '3-party' line. I tried every five minutes for nearly two hours, never saving anything, only picking up the phone and having to hang up again."

"One of the times, I heard one of them say 'some woman wants the line but I pay for it just as much as she does!' You, Mr. Baukhage, were just about to finish your regular broadcast, my writer goes on, 'and some imp of mischief from my youth returned to my 50-year-old heart as I suddenly connected that remark with the closing words of your program 'You had about two minutes yet to go, so I hurriedly plugged the portable radio into the electric socket which is near the phone table and just at the right moment lifted the receiver of the phone. Yes... they were still talking... so—just as you said: 'That's all, and thanks very much, I put the phone mouth, close right next to the radio—snapping the line off at the right second. Then, I listened on the phone and heard one woman say in an actually meek voice, 'I guess we have talked pretty long. See you later. Good-bye.'"

"After I stopped laughing, I called the plumber but you helped me, so I do think you deserve to be thanked. Also for a real laugh."

French farmers have been ordered to plant grain on the same number of acres they had under cultivation in 1937-1938 or pay a fine.

A plan is being discussed in Latin America to make President Roosevelt an honorary citizen of the Americas in "recognition of his treble activity in favor of the salvation of America and humanity."

The definition of hamburger on the point table sets a precedent, in that it marks the first time that the federal government has undertaken to give specifications that retailers selling to consumers are required to follow for this popular type of ground beef.

An acute paper shortage has brought about a sizeable curtailment in the publishing of German classical literature but German book stores are still getting plentiful supplies of Adolf Hitler's bulky "Mein Kampf" and other Nazi propaganda works.

The Japanese government has advised the International Red Cross that it distributed 230,000 letters from home to American and United Nations prisoners of war in 1942. Five thousand four hundred letters were delivered to prisoners in the Philippines; 7,500 to Shanghai; 21,500 to Hong Kong, 200 to other parts of China; 4,500 to Zentsuji, and 800 to other parts of Japan.

Expecting a record-breaking home-canning season, because of rationing, WPB has taken action to see that there are plenty of glass jars, plenty of rubber rings and covers to seal those jars, and a doubled supply of pressure cookers, needed to process such non-acid vegetables as beans and corn.

The bees' wartime jobs, according to the department of agriculture—in order of importance—are: (1) Pollination of legume seed crops, fruits, vegetable seeds, and other crops. (2) Production of beeswax. (3) Pro-

'Aqualized' Paper By interlocking the paper and "spot welding" them together, industrial scientists produce paper that is strong when wet. This stands up no matter how long and, when soiled, may be washed with soap and water and again.

"Aqualized" paper, as it is called, is being used for potato bags, vegetable can linings, locker bags for trousers, etc., and, because of its strength, releases burials of the more urgent war material.

ATTENTION
Horse and Cattle Owners!

Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war. Glycerine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. T. for high explosives, and only Rendering Plants produce these products; as all dead animals buried or used otherwise are a waste to our country. Call your Renderer, Wm. Laabs, to collect your dead animals and you will be paid a fair price for them. Renderers can not pay an inflationary price as there is a ceiling on all of the products of rendering plants. Call at your nearest Phone West Bend 75 or Campbellport 25Fl and reverse charges when you call. Yours truly, Wm. Laabs, Renderer.

You Women Who Suffer From

CHILLY FEELINGS

Heed This Advice!

If you—like so many women between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, weak, dizzy, nervous feelings, distress of "irregularities", are blue at times—due to the functional middle age period in a woman's life—try taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. It's the best known medicine you can buy that's made especially for women.

Pinkham's Compound is famous to relieve such distress. Taken regularly—it helps build up resistance against such annoying symptoms. It also is a fine stomachic tonic.

Thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported benefits. Time and again Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound has proved some women's happiest days often can be during their "40's". Also beneficial for younger women to help relieve distress of female monthly functional disturbances. Follow label directions. Worth trying!

A Bill That Has to Be Paid

One of the oldest laws of life is that we pay for everything we get. The lowest form of payment is the money we put down for the goods we buy—such as a package of cigarettes, groceries or anything else that we want.

That is payment in its most everyday form. Other things we receive have to be paid for too, the law being that if you desire something very badly you will pay the price for it. It means that if you set your heart on being rich you will pay the price in lack of freedom, worry about money, etc. It means if you value life in the city highly you will pay in noise, dust and confusion for whatever advantage the city may bring you.

There is no way to escape this law of life. If you don't pay willingly, you will pay some other way—and miss the joy of knowing you have balanced the books.

There is one bill that has been laid before all Americans for payment—an account that started December 7th, in a place called Pearl Harbor!

On that day several thousand of American soldiers and sailors lost their lives. Since then thousands more have died, and this will go on until we've licked our enemies.

These men have died for America, for you, and your children. And the law of life is that those for whom they died will have to make some kind of return, to even up the sacrifice. Some of us are buying war bonds; some of us are working hard in war plants, and some of us are fortunate enough to be able to help on the vital food front.

Now, there is a crisis in this particular operation of the war. We have plenty of facilities for growing food and canning it but we are short of help for harvesting and canning.

Keep 'em rolling! We mean dollars!
Buy U. S. Savings Bonds and Stamps for the U. S. A

This means that many of us who never thought of harvesting and canning as our job, will have to pitch in and help. Much of the canned output of food in 1943, at least 50% and probably more, will go to our army and navy and allies. What's left will go to feed ourselves. This huge output will require that almost every man, woman and child in this district go out and do his share.

There before you is your obligation. These Americans who are fighting and dying for this country—some of them voluntary enlistments, some of them draftees, it doesn't matter which—are protecting you, and the millions of other Americans.

The debt is on our shoulders. It's squarely up to us to pay back the obligation, and we of this country have a great opportunity to straighten out our debt.

Let's be sure that we all pitch in, and do our share for the food front—that's one way to help pay back those thousands who have given the most precious thing of all, their lives for their country.

SGT. SCHMIDT SENDS FINE LETTER ON LIFE IN CHINA

Following is another interesting as well as humorous and educational letter received by the editor from Staff Sgt. Howard N. Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt, who is stationed somewhere in China with the army signal corps. Sgt. Schmidt explains China as being a strange and mystic land and tells of the customs, sights and events there. The letter was passed by army censors.

Somewhere in China
March 15, 1943

Dear Bill:

Have some spare time, so I thought I would drop you a few lines to say hello to you and to our friends back in the old home town which I miss very much. Also thought you would be interested to hear about some of the things that we see over here in the Orient every day and which might be of interest to you.

I am not sure if I have already written you about the celebration that they had over here for the Chinese New Year or not but I will skip over it again just to make sure. It was some celebration, there were parades of all sorts going on for several days that they held the celebrations and in these parades were just about everything you could think of. I know that some time or another you have seen pictures of parades in China with the large dragons that are carried by many people and how they weave them around in the streets. Well, so it was during the parade. There also were people dressed up in different costumes walking around on stilts and all sorts of other funny little get ups that these Chinese think are tops in entertaining their fellow countrymen. The swarms of people that watched them would make New Year's Eve on Times Square back home look like a crowd at a ball game in our town compared with the crowds over there. Never in my life have I seen so many people get into one place at one time and the funny part of it is every time you go to town they are there.

The average native of this part of China does some sort of farming and they have their many little paddies. Everything is grown in paddies here and it is very common to see the paddies flooded with water for the rice paddies and that I imagine you know is one of the main foods of China. There are also many green paddies grown here. Their system of irrigation may be interesting for all it amounts to is small ditches through which the water passes and you see the people with some sort of bucket and pole arrangement standing on the banks and dipping the water out of the ditch and placing it in smaller ones that run around the paddies. They do not plow up these paddies but rather they have a hoe-like tool which they use to break the soil. It don't take them long to cover a field this way for these paddies are not very big.

As you go down the streets or roads you see many different means of hauling things around. There are lots of pack horses and small carts which are made very crude and are being pulled by water buffalo. Then the most common is the way the people carry their things. They have a piece of bamboo or some other sort of wood which they carry across their shoulders and from either end of it hangs a basket or bucket which is filled with either their produce or their personal belongings. As they carry this, they have a half walk, half running gait which I think is typical of the Chinese race and one that you will remember from seeing pictures of them walking around in their everyday work.

The valley in which we are now living is one that is filled with the graves of Chinese people and it has sort of gotten the name "Valley of Graves" from the boys that have been and are living here now. They have a funny sort of grave at that for they do not dig it in the ground but rather put the body in their crude boxes on top of the ground and then make a big mound of dirt over it. This way I think they have more good land than any other way but that is their way of doing it and they should know what they are doing although I doubt it most of the time.

I suppose you have heard from Dad about the prices over here and the money situation. It is a mixed up one if I ever saw one. First of all we get all the way from 20 to 50 Chinese dollars for one of our American dollars and the prices thus seem terrible. For instance you go to a restaurant to get a supper (they do have some fair ones) and order a chicken dinner, the chicken costs you $85, the coffee $16, and the sweets around $10. If you want extras they cost accordingly. Orange juice runs at $20 for about a six to eight ounce glass. And drinks, well, if you can stand them you pay from $90 to $250 for a quart bottle of wine and for good American whiskey as high as $2,500. Some of the brandy we get once in awhile costs $950 a fifth. Not bad, eh Bill? American cigarettes in town cost around $70 or $80 a pack and a haircut and shave costs you $10. So you see these prices, even with the big exchange, are plenty high even at $20 to $1. That reminds me, I ordered a glass of gin the other night and it cost me $125 for a one ounce glass. It was the first and last I bought in China for in American money that was $2.50 and a little more than I think it to be worth. We have no beer of any sort here and believe me we could use a little. We tease each other that after the war the people will think us nuts

CPL. BATH TOURS HOLLYWOOD; VISITS LOS ANGELES FRIENDS

In a letter to his folks here, Cpl. Louis N. Bath, son of Louis Bath, Sr., who is company clerk of Co. D, 78th Inf. Tng. Bn. at Camp Roberts, Calif., tells of a recent interesting trip to Los Angeles and Hollywood. At Los Angeles he visited friends, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Klein, former Kewaskum residents and Statesman subscribers, and also made a tour of famous places in that city and Hollywood. The letter follows in part:

April 9, 1943

Dear Folks:

Visited Los Angeles this week. Just arrived back in Camp Roberts this morning. Had three days. I spent most of the first day traveling—starting at 7:15 a. m. and getting to my destination at about 8:00 p. m.

My destination was as you might have guessed, the residence of Wm. F. Klein, who asked me to visit him on a leave a few months ago. They were really hospitable. I enjoyed the stay and the visit to Los Angeles and vicinity very much.

One evening Mr. Klein took me around Los Angeles and Hollywood with his auto. We saw famous spots in Hollywood like the Trocadero, Ciro's, and a place where famous movie stars have foot and hand prints in concrete and prints like John Barrymore's profile. You probably have heard of this spot many times. We saw Chinatown in Los Angeles. I went alone during the daytime and saw some interesting sights. I saw University of Southern California and a giant stadium near where I believe Southern Cal. and UCLA play football. Near this was the museum which took quite a lot of time to go thru.

Yesterday afternoon I spent at Santa Monica by the Pacific ocean. It was very windy and the ocean was rough. In fact, the wind almost blew us over. I saw a funny incident yesterday when someone had a small fish on the end of a fishing rod and reel line—apparently as bait. There were some pelicans present, and one of them grabbed the fish. The fisherman reeled the line in, pelican and all, up to him. The pelican and the line parted company at the pier, and the pelican hit the water (belly flop).

It took about ten hours to come home last night and sat with a marine. Mr. and Mrs. Klein were very nice. Saw National Broadcasting and Columbia Broadcasting buildings. Passed Metro Goldwyn Mayer studio.

Did not see any movie stars that I knew. Best place to see them is in a movie house on the screen I guess.

Sincerely,
Louis

when we ask for a little kerosene to drink to get our stomachs back in shape.

Yes, Bill, China is indeed a funny country and a strange one, too. I thought that India was a strange and mystic land but I guess China has lots more than that. In spite of everything, though I like it lots better up here in China than I did in India. The people seem to be nicer and they do not bother you as much as the Indians did. And to the average Chinese people, which are a small race of people, the American boys are big heroes and they would like to be as big. I read in a little paper that during the New Year celebrations the little boys went out behind a sign or house and jumped up in the air three times. This is supposed to make them grow big like the American boys that have come to protect them. Since I have received my old 35 mm. camera I have taken lots of shot; which I am sure you will enjoy and which I look forward to showing all the friends back home when, if ever, I get back.

Think I will close for now and hope to hear from you some time. Give the best of regards to all the others back home. Keep the home fires burning, thumbs up for victory, and cheer-o.

Your friend, Howard

To the other boys in the service from home, hi, and thumbs up.
