Rhodora Houser, 77, nee Wainwright, died at St. Agnes hospital, Kewaskum, Wis., on Monday, May 11, 1943. She was born in Kane, Pa., and had lived in Kewaskum for many years. She was a member of the St. Agnes church. Her husband, John Houser, died several years ago. She is survived by several children and grandchildren.

Changes Noted in Feeding Experiment at Local Store

Marked changes already can be noted in the county nutrition council's feeding experiment, being conducted at Rosenheimer's store, Kewaskum. This experiment has been arranged to show the effects of right and wrong eating.

The experiment was started with white rats of the same age (three weeks), the same weight, and in good health. The rats grow and develop rapidly. A three-year-old rat would compare in stage of maturity to a ninety year old man. The rats eat the same kind of food as people and show similar effects of good and bad diet.

After one and one-half weeks, (one week in the life of a rat is about equivalent to six months in the life of a person), on the two different diets, those given a balanced ration are in excellent health, strong and full of activity, with glossy fur and bright alert eyes. They have nearly doubled their weight.

Those on ration two, or a food supply lacking in essential minerals and vitamins are small and scrawny with straggling looking fur. They are nervous and jumpy and have lost weight.

This experiment, although in its second week, already is showing the importance of a balanced food supply, namely, containing the essential minerals and vitamins.

Village Honor Roll Erected on Lay Lot

The new village honor roll purchased several months ago by the village board to honor the men and women from Kewaskum in the armed forces, was erected last Friday on the H. J. Lay Lumber company lot on upper Main street. The honor roll was put up a ways back from the street east of the Lay warehouse, where many people viewed and admired it the past week.

The honor roll stands 11 feet high and is nine feet wide. Made of wood, it was built and erected by the Cream City Outdoor Advertising company of Milwaukee. It contains a total of 60 names of those from this village who are serving their country. Several men and one woman have entered service since the roll was painted and their names will be added to the list. Topping the list of names is that of Robert Romaine, who was the first and only man so far in the war to give his life in the line of duty for his country. A gold star has been placed in front of his name.

The honor roll has a huge V design at the top of the V are the words "HONOR ROLL," followed in smaller lettering inside the V by the word "Proudly we pay tribute to those who answered the call to the colors." Across the bottom of the honor roll in bold lettering is inscribed "VILLAGE OF KEWASKUM." The names of the men and women in service are printed on the V. They are spaced so that new names can be placed between them. The roll is painted in red, white and blue and other gay colors. It also contains a large star. Present plans by the village board do not include the holding of a formal dedication of the honor roll.

Quarterly Report of War Chest Committee

Since its last report on December 11, the Washington county war chest has received an additional $2,486.46 in contributions up to March 31. Disbursements in the same period were made to the Washington County Council of Defense totaling $1,750. As of March 31, the total cash on hand in the war chest fund is $31,518.51. The reconciliation of cash is as follows:

Cash on hand Dec. 11, 1942	$30,782.05
Contributions received	2,486.46
Disbursements—Washington County Council of Defense	1,750.00
Cash on hand March 31, 1943	$31,518.51

Since the war chest was organized several worthy peacetime organizations and services have applied for financial support. However, the county war chest committee has recommended to the defense council that the war chest funds be used only for war activities and services. This was the understanding of Washington county citizens when they contributed to the war chest fund and, therefore, regular peacetime activities cannot be considered as eligible for war chest funds at this time.

Ceiling Price Panel Appointed For This County by State OPA

General Policy to Educate Both Retailer and Consumer; Elwyn Romaine on Food and Clothing Panel

A ceiling price panel has been appointed for Washington county by the state OPA. It will consist of three members: G. E. Otten, Barton, attorney; Mrs. Olga Perrin, West Bend, housewife; Edwin Pick, West Bend, knowledge of retail business but not now engaged in retailing.

In order to set up a program of education and understanding on price regulations, and how they apply to retailer and consumer, this new ceiling price panel has been established. It is not for the purpose of investigation. If every retailer in Washington county understands the regulations, he will be glad to co-operate. From now on distinct ceiling price programs will affect practically every commodity which enters into the cost of living. In some cases there are set ceiling prices as in the case of pork at present, and beef, lamb and veal after May 17. In other cases no definite price is set but a definite percentage of markup is established for both wholesaler and retailer over his net cost. This applies to groceries, vegetables for example.

Consumers are invited to call their war price and ration board or write them at West Bend to report what they believe to be violation of ceiling prices. All such reports must be signed and should be substantiated by a sales slip. The price panel will contact the retailer and determine whether or not the situation needs correction.

The price panel is part of the organization of the Washington County War Price and Ration Board. The complete personnel of the board is listed below by panels, each of which handles a specific problem. All board members donate their services, serving without pay or expense as a patriotic duty. All board panels with the exception of the price panel meet on Friday afternoon of each week. Meeting time of the price panel will be announced later.

How to Get Sugar, Now Available For Canning

How consumers may obtain sugar for canning and freezing this season's (March 1, 1943 to March 1, 1944) fruit crop was announced Wednesday by the Washington County War Price and Rationing Board.

Sugar for canning is being allotted on about the same basis as last year—that is, one pound for each four-quarts of the finished product with a maximum of 20 pounds per person. Any family can also apply for additional sugar to put up jams, jellies, and preserves at the rate of five pounds per individual. This is a more generous allowance than last year, when sugar for preserves was limited to one pound per person. A total limit of 25 pounds per person is thus set in the new regulations to be granted only in a relatively few cases where a large amount of fruit will be canned and preserved.

Application forms are to be mailed the week of May 17 to all households in Washington county. Applicants are to fill in the application blank and MAIL it to the ration board office at West Bend or Hartford. Applications will be processed and sugar certificates mailed out within five days following receipt of the application.

In order to handle the thousands of applications, the board emphasizes that you do not call at the ration office in person; APPLY BY MAIL ONLY.

Return your application when you are able to determine your requirements. Each application must be filled out completely. Applications will be received by the board office up until July 1.

Grade Schools Do Envious Work in Silk Salvage Drive

The pupils of the one room, state graded and parochial schools of the county did enviable work as collectors of silk salvage. They took the slogan "Not a pair of silk stockings left in our district" seriously and when the campaign closed on May 1, 732 pounds of silk stockings were collected. Mrs. Bernita Arnold of the Amy Bell school of Richfield was the first to report to Mrs. Dan O'Meara, director of the drive in the rural areas. Her pupils collected 16 pounds.

The Newburg public school made the best record, 23 pounds of an one room school. Sacred Heart of Allenton made the best record of any parochial school with 34 pounds of stockings collected. Holy Trinity of Newburg was next with 30 pounds. Allenton and Newburg have both public and parochial schools. From the two schools Allenton contributed 45 pounds and Newburg 53 pounds.

The pupils of the Kohlsville school collected all kinds of silk to the amount of 66 pounds. Their contribution of silk stockings was very good. The pupils of the Germantown graded school made the best record for the state graded schools of the county. They collected 51 pounds. The average for all schools was ten pounds.

The pupils and teachers of all the schools who have made this drive such a success are to be commended for their work.

6 Young People Hurt in Auto-Truck Crash

Six young people, all from the vicinity of Campbellsport, were injured seriously, early Monday when a car in which they were riding crashed into the rear of a milk truck parked on a main street in Campbellsport.

The driver of the car was Elton Ludwig, 18, of Campbellsport, R. 2, who sustained serious cuts on the head and a sprained ankle. The most seriously injured was Raymond Butzke, 18, Campbellsport, R. 2, who was taken to St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, with a fracture of the skull. His cousin, Melvin Butzke, 19, Campbellsport, R. 3, sustained cuts and bruises. Other passengers were William Mielke, 22, Campbellsport, R. 3, who had contusions and lacerations; Betty Flynn, 16, and her sister, Neta, 13, Campbellsport, R. 3, both of whom sustained cuts and bruises and the latter a broken arm. All except Raymond Butzke were treated by a Campbellsport physician. The latter is a son of the Lahti Butzkes, is a brother of Elroy Butzke of Kewaskum.

Fond du Lac county highway police said that the Ludwig car, which was eastbound, had travelled about 40 feet on the macadam shoulder at the south side of the street and struck the right rear corner of the truck, which was loaded with cans of whey. It pushed the truck about 25 feet and went underneath the body being almost completely demolished. The truck was owned by Joe Reinhold of Campbellsport.

Victory Gardeners Busy With Seeding

In spite of the unseasonably cold weather, victory gardeners in Kewaskum have been seeding their early vegetables. To date quite a number of garden plots have been allotted by the victory garden committee. These, of course, are in addition to the regular gardens which most citizens have available in their own back yards. Much of the available plowed garden space was assigned and in work by the end of last week. There are a few empty lots still to be had if they are wanted. However, the applicant must make his own arrangements to have them plowed. If you are interested, apply to Mrs. Otto E. Lay, telephone 2273.

Get Out the Quack

There are many new gardens this year on sod and among these a good portion are thickly infested with quack grass. Before seeding, it is advisable to hoe, dig, pull or rake out as many of the quack roots as possible. When your garden time is limited and when you have quack spread pretty well throughout your garden, it is probably easier to cut it out just below the surface. This can be done by filling your hoe to a sharp edge, cutting down the quack as it shows up. By doing this and keeping your garden well mulched you will discourage the quack within a few weeks and the roots will die.

THE ARMY EXPECTS TO MAKE EARLY AND PROFITABLE USE OF THE PLOUGH AND THE RAKE AND HOE

Victory gardeners will grow at the camps where suitable soil is handy to the living quarters, and provide a share of the vegetables the soldiers require for their mess. They'll produce whatever the men in the service prefer, or on expert advice, whatever crops seem best suited to the location of each particular camp, sweet corn, tomatoes, radishes, peas, and beans. Army gardeners have flourished at many permanent posts, and now they are to be on a larger scale.

Space Your Plantings

At the open victory garden meeting of the West Bend Garden club on April 30, E. E. Skallsiey, county agricultural agent, stressed the advantages of well spaced plantings. He warned against having all of your lettuce or all of your peas ripen at one time. It is far better to plant a portion of your greens and other vegetables now and allow for later seedings. In this way, you can have fresh lettuce, radishes, peas, carrots, etc. throughout the summer season. Otherwise, you have only a few weeks of fresh lettuce before it gets tough and goes to seed. The same thing applies to sweet corn and other garden crops.

SERVE ROAST DUCK LUNCH

Special roast duck sandwiches will be served at Louis Heisler's tavern Saturday night and Sunday, May 15 and 16. Visit Heisler's for a delicious lunch.

Too Early for Tomatoes

It is still too early to set out your tomato plants in this area. Tomato plants especially are sensitive to frost and until the last week in May, we cannot be too sure that we are out of the frost season. The gardener has little to gain by setting out plants before the temperatures are high enough to insure a steady growth. Then if frost does come, you have the difficulty of covering adequately during the coldest nights.

First of Series of Food Meetings Here Thursday

"EAT FIGHTING FOODS" is the subject of the first of a series of meetings for homemakers being arranged by the county nutrition council. The meetings in the form of demonstrations and illustrated lectures by nutrition leaders are being conducted to assist the housewives of the county in meeting the present day problems of meal planning for health under rationing and food scarcity. The initial meeting for Kewaskum will be held Thursday, May 20, at 8:00 p. m. at the Kewaskum high school.

Thursday's demonstration will include a discussion of the foods needed for all around good health and the planning of meals under the rationing system, yet to contain the essential food values. Specific meals built around point rationing will be discussed. Other subjects will include meat alternates and alternates of other scarce or rationed foods, how to make meals attractive in spite of less variety, preparation of alternate foods in an appetizing manner, conservation of food values through proper cooking, and application of the daily food rules for fitness.

Every homemaker is urged to attend this demonstration. Recognizing that good health depends largely on what one eats, the homemaker's job is a most important one. The health and strength of our home front is her responsibility. The demonstration is a part of the national program to assist in fulfilling this responsibility under present day conditions.

MURDER AT PIRATE'S HEAD

By ISABEL WAITT

W-N-U RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Judy Jason, in telling the story, receives an anonymous letter enclosing $300 and asking her to get on an abandoned boat and to return the next day. Judy bids her mother and goes to the church and gets it, only to find,

In an old chest, the body of a man identified as Roddy Lane. The body disappears a few hours later. A fish shed burns, apparently killing an old man named Brown who is supposed to have lived there. When the anonymous letter disappears, Judy tells Victor Quade, while exploring the "Pirate's Mouth" for clues, Lily Kendall sees something which frightens her. With Victor, Judy is looking for her bag.

Now continue with Judy's story.

CHAPTER XII
I thought it a wild cry coming from the sea.

"Just a gull, probably. They sound like that," she was half-way up the stairs.

"No," he reiterated. "Nobody's been down there, evidently."

"Your key. Here it is, Miss Norcross." I tossed it to her as she came part way upstairs.

"High is waiting for you. You two go along. You, too, Mr. Quade. I'll be all right now. The pain's gone."

Let her think what she wanted to; it couldn't be helped. By the time we reached the piazza our guests were ambling toward the bridge.

Uncle Wylie had already gone down, my aunt said, scolding because I put off setting the luncheon dishes out.

"No, no. You don't think—? I've got to know. You couldn't believe I'd touch—"

"Of course not, my dear girl. Some friend has not only made a tool of you, but now is trying to implicate you further."

"Looks like it. Not sure of course."

"Victor's stride increased. 'Good grief! Look—that first car is coming back again!'"

"The car with my uncle in it! And the truck was rapidly disappearing down the long curving Neck."

"No, no. You don't think—? I've got to know. You couldn't believe I'd touch—"

For Mr. De Witt, I said, "he could have made them hear way down to Rockville."

Victor gave an exasperated grunt. "Spilt milk, Judy. All of us together might. But the chances are, every accident is a tragedy."

"Well, for the love of Christ!—why didn't you say so? Drive on!" screamed the minister.

"Didn't say so because she—she leaks!"

Their car made the difficult about face on the narrow road, and I held my breath while Uncle Wylie followed suit.

I was wondering why my uncle hadn't spoken about his boat before. He could repair any leak that ever sprang.

"You might have rigged up a breeches buoy!" she accused.

"There! She'd struck it. If nobody came to the bridge, if the boat couldn't be made seaworthy right away, couldn't we rig a breeches buoy of some sort?"

"I loathe steamed clams," Bessie Norcross grumbled, when she heard my aunt's luncheon alternative.

NEW YORK—For a man who once had hardly two coppers to click in a patched pants pocket Ralph W. Gallagher is singularly carefree as he tosses a few hundred million into the national war kitty. The permanent royalty-free transfer to the government of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey's patent rights covering Buna-S rubber must be worth all of that.

Once Had Hardly Two Coppers; He Now Flips Millions

It is, of course, not precisely Gallagher's own money, and it isn't cold cash. But any auditor would mark it down as real money, and certainly as president of Standard, Gallagher must feel a sort of ownership.

And every once in a while he must feel like pinching himself and asking: "Can this be I?" Because when he started he certainly never saw the high peak which is now his satisfying perch. It was then that he had, more or less, the patched pants.

He was 16, his mother was newly a widow, and he was hunting a job. He got it with one of the units of Standard Oil sprouting those days wherever a job-hunter looked.

Shortly he was working 12 hours a day and going to school on the side. Then he switched to another unit, the East Ohio Gas company, and by and by was president. The final pay-off was the presidency of New Jersey Standard a few months ago.

The election capped a climb for 47 years in which he had never once been off the master payroll. On the way he came to be a foremost authority on oil and natural gas production, and lost a little hair.

He May End Up The Famous Son Of Famous Father

He has traveled in Asia Minor, the United States, Canada, South America, India and Africa.

He is Richard Kidston Law, son of that political rocket, the late Andrew Bonar Law who was only a little less great than Lloyd George in the last war and the days of pointless peace that followed.

The present Law is fair proof that in this well-advertised attempt to do something for the road-weary victims of Hitler's catastrophe, Britain is really trying.

He is not the stuffed frock coat that might have been sent to the parley. His title of chairman of the British delegation is not his best. He is also parliamentary undersecretary of state for foreign affairs; one of Churchill's stalwarts.

A youngest son, Law is only a lively 42 years old, married, with two sons not enough grown for the current fighting. His formal education came from Oxford, but his travels added to this. For a time he lived in the United States and worked as a newspaper reporter, in New York and Philadelphia.

Unlike Dickens, he likes Americans in their native state and in England now he keeps an eye out for United States soldiers. He takes them sailing and hiking. They are, he has reported, "doing nicely." So is he.

FIRST-AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is war. Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have . . . as well as you possibly can. This column by the home-owner's friend tells you how.

Floors Have Darkened

Question: I have hardwood floors that are about six months old. They were shellacked. When the floors were new I applied paste wax on an average of once a month.

Answer: The floors have been overwaxed, and the thick layer of wax has picked up dust and dirt.

To clean the floors, moisture a piece of cheesecloth thoroughly with liquid wax (not self-polishing) and go over the floors with this, turning out a clean part of the cloth frequently.

Work with clean cloths only. Then apply a thin coat of paste wax and polish the floors by rubbing well.

Floors should be waxed about twice a year. Around doorways it may be necessary to do this more frequently.

Chimney Cleaning

Question: My furnace burns anthracite coal and I have a wood burning fireplace in frequent use. How often should the chimneys be cleaned? What is the best way?

Answer: The burning of hard coal does not leave much of a deposit in a chimney. For your fireplace, open the damper and hold a mirror in such a position that the length of the flue is reflected in it.

He is usually needed once every three or four years. For cleaning, close the opening of the fireplace with a piece of heavy canvas or otherwise.

An old fire chain is then let down the top of the chimney and swung around as it descends. This will scrape off all soot and any possible loose obstructions.

Ready-pasted wallpaper is proving a boon to homemakers during these days of shortage of all types of labor.

Applying the wallpaper is simply a matter of unrolling it on the wall.

Rough Farm Road

Question: I have a road leading up to my farm that is about three-tenths of a mile long, all upgrade, and about eight feet wide.

Answer: The road should be leveled off and made smooth. In some communities you can get a road contractor with road equipment who could do this work properly and quickly.

After smoothing the road, an asphalt binder should be put over the gravel. Your local road commissioner can give you the names of road contractors and makers of asphalt binders.

Radiator Size

Question: What is a formula for determining the correct size of a steam radiator for a room?

Answer: One formula allows two square feet of radiation for each two square feet of glass, one square foot of radiation for each 20 square feet of outside or exposed wall, and of each 20 feet of cold ceiling, and one square foot of radiation for each 200 cubic feet of contents.

Increase this by 25 per cent for a north or northeast room. This formula is only a foundation; it should be varied according to house construction and to local conditions.

Magazine Feed Boiler

Question: Will you give me your opinion of a magazine feed boiler using buckwheat coal on a one-pipe, hot water heating system?

Answer: It is an economical and satisfactory type of boiler, requiring little attention. Make certain, however, that the boiler is large enough.

Chimney Connection

Question: Will it be O. K. to connect an oil heater to a chimney already connected to a coal stove on the floor below?

Answer: If your chimney has two flues in it, you can use one for each fire with perfect success. If there is only a single flue, you might be running the risk of interference with the draft. This would certainly be the case with two coal fires on a single flue. But with one coal fire and one oil burner on a single flue, you would probably find that it would work all right.

ITALY AND INVASION ETIQUETTE

("Pamphlets urging Italians to be polite to invaders have been circulated in Italy.")—News item.

Italy doesn't want any misunderstanding about this invasion. She knows the danger she faces if it is slowed up too much.

She wants the invaders to feel at home. This is one of the most important invasions any country ever faced. And no country ever had more reason to want it to come off all right and with all possible smoothness.

"I've got some inside lines in Italy," said Elmer Twitchell today, "and my sources of information tell me the Italians want our invasion to be a 100 per cent success. They don't want any half-hearted welcomes. They hold that any Italian with the best interests of his country at heart will show the invaders every courtesy, and throw in a few flowers."

"After a country has had the Nazis around a few weeks it will welcome any change, however unusual," he continued. "There are thousands of Italians learning the words and music of 'Yankee Doodle Dandy' right now so they will be able to sing and play it when we are sighted anywhere near shore. They're so sick of what Hitler has done to their country that even Mussolini is getting impatient at the Allies for holding off so long."

Twitchell may be right. There are some signs of it. This department has just received a report that rules of Invasion Etiquette are being circulated all over Italy, the purpose being to see that no Italian does or says anything that might give an invading party the notion its arrival is not fully appreciated.

We hear the following rules have been adopted:

1. Blocking streets or sidewalks to invaders must be avoided.

2. All persons near any doorknob which when invaders appear shall bow respectfully, give a cheery greeting and step to one side in order not to interfere with the speed invasion.

3. All questions by invaders shall be answered politely. Italians asked for directions should, whenever possible, not only give them fully, but accompany the invaders to the desired point.

4. It shall be considered good etiquette to invite an invader into the house.

5. Italians observing any attempt by Nazis to slow up the invaders shall oppose such attempts.

6. In rushing to the waterfront to welcome invasion all slow moving natives shall keep to the right in order to permit swifter moving people to pass.

The baseball season is on. Broadcasts will be made to troops all over the world. And fighting morale is certain to be built up. There will be more than one case where a Yank, after making some heroic charge and capturing a bunch of Heines against great odds will be asked, "How did you do it? What did you think of as you went over the top?"

And the answer will be, "I was thinking about that lousy decision the ump made against the Yanks in the ninth and it made me sore."

There is no question of the influence of baseball at the front. The yen of every American soldier is to strike Hitler out, nab Mussolini off first and get Tojo trying to steal home with the bases full.

BROADWAY STUFF

An outdoor circus is being opened in the heart of Broadway, which considers itself the center of sophistication. This department predicts that it will be a sensational success and make its promoter rich.

Mazda Lane makes a pose of pretending that it has outgrown country tastes, thrown off the corny appetite and become hard-boiled and blasé. But the hay is thicker in its hair than in any similar area on earth.

The chance to go for pink lemonade, popcorn, jumbo peanuts, balloons and a small-town circus atmosphere right off the Main Stem will be irresistible. Gangway for the boys who have outgrown all that sort of thing!

Americans are urged not to go far for vacations this summer. But don't let this encourage you to swing a hammock too near the home garden.

SPRING NOTE

The baby chick craze has reached unprecedented heights. Even department stores are selling them. Few homes are without them this spring and it is a rare apartment that has no chicks chirping behind the baby grand. Animals Not Stuffed Despite their appearance, many animals in museums are not stuffed, says Collier's. In the American Museum of Natural History in New York City, for example, all the mammals in the North American Hall, including bison, moose, elk and musk oxen, are mounted on hollow forms and are so light in weight that they can be lifted easily.

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes fail in their work—do not let Nature interfere—fall to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Horse and Cattle Owners!

Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war. Glycerine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. County Agent Notes

FARM LABOR NEEDS

Many farmers are still without sufficient help for the coming summer months. The past cool and dry weeks of spring have given a large number of farmers an opportunity to plant their early spring crops with the limited amount of labor available for farm work. With the harvest season approaching considerable additional help will be needed to take care of the increased work farmers will be required to do. The county agent's office will attempt to procure all of the available labor within the county and to distribute it to farmers needing additional help. Plans also include getting surplus labor from other counties like Milwaukee county when the schools close for the summer months.

Farmers who desire additional help should contact the county extension office, post office building, West Bend, and make application for farm help. Dependable and experienced farm help will be hard to secure. It is expected, however, that there will be a number of older men and high school boys available.

TO LAUNCH NATIONAL POULTRY CONSERVATION PROGRAM

A national program to increase the production of poultry and eggs is being launched in Wisconsin with C. Howard King, poultry and egg marketing specialist in the state department of agriculture, serving as state chairman.

Two serious bottlenecks stand in the way of poultrymen meeting the 1943 production goals through the usual method of merely raising more chickens. Mr. King declares. One is the lack of ample equipment such as brooding equipment, colony houses and laying houses. The other is the scarcity of protein rich feeds which are very necessary in the egg production program.

Poultry goals this year are 8% above what they were last year. With little additional equipment and with a curtailed feed supply, all unnecessary poultry losses must be avoided. The national program is aiming to help the poultry industry attain their 1943 goals through the issuance of timely reminders on how poultry losses can be curtailed. If these losses can be reduced but five per cent, it would mean 200 million dozen more eggs and 100 million more pounds of meat for home consumption.

INSTALLING NEW ELECTRIC SERVICE

Under recent rulings of the War Production Board farmers who wish to have electrical service installed may make application for such service. A total of 75 pounds of wiring material and the necessary fixtures and accessories may be obtained for wiring the farmstead under the new preferential order granting priority for this purpose.

NEWS NOTES

—BY—
ALICE BILSTEIN
County Home Agent

LET'S CHECK JARS AND CANNERS NOW

The first tender, green shoots are appearing in Washington county garden, promising an abundance of fresh vegetables for tables all summer long. That means the canning season is close at hand, too.

First step in your canning program this year—and a mighty important one, too, says Alice Bilstein, home demonstration agent—is to be sure you have all the things you need for canning where you can lay hands on them quickly, and to be certain they are all in good condition.

A pressure canner is a prized possession this year, for only a limited number of them are being made. If you're lucky enough to own one, now is the time to be sure the pressure gauge and exhaust are in first class condition. If any real repairs are needed Miss Bilstein suggests you contact the factory which made the canner for help.

For boiling-water bath canning a boiler with a home-made rack and a close fitted cover, or a round utensil such as a deep kettle or a water-bath canner with close cover and rack will be used. The boiling water bath, says Miss Brady, must be deep enough to allow for water two inches over the top of the jars, and for its boiling without boiling over.

Miss Bilstein says every effort is being made by manufacturers and government officials to be sure that there are plenty of jars and covers and rubbers to go around this year. But so new wide-mouthed jars will be made this year and you will be wise to order now any covers and rings you need. Miss Bilstein suggests you first estimate how much canning you need to do this year, then check over all jars, covers and rings you have, counting those still on the shelves with fruits and vegetables which will be emptied before the end of the canning season. Then order what you need. Weed out those that are cracked or chipped or can't be used for some other reason.

All important cheese producing areas of the country continue to show a sharply lower output than they did a year ago. Declines range from 16 per cent in Wisconsin to 56 per cent in the north and south Atlantic states.

A Salute TO THOSE WHO FLY THE ARMY AND NAVY "E"

A symbol of patriotic effort, the Army and Navy "E" is Industrial America's most coveted prize. Having earned it speaks volumes for any plant. And earn it one must—by long hours of hard work; by unflagging enthusiasm for the job to be done; by almost fanatic devotion to the cause for which we are all fighting.

There is something else, too, that every producer must have—the cooperation of the railroads. They bring to industry the materials to be fabricated for war use. With rails extending even into the remotest of raw material regions, they pick up the precious "wants" of industry and carry them right to industry's doors... then later haul to camp or seaport the processed materials and supplies so necessary in fighting a victorious war.

"North Western" is one of America's railroads engaged in the transportation of war essentials. We are glad to play a part in this mighty effort—and proud not only to serve those who fly the Army and Navy "E" but also all others who are engaged in freedom's cause. These industrial fighters will continue to have our enthusiastic cooperation, and the service we render will be limited only by the supply of materials we are able to secure to keep our rolling stock in top condition.

Women of This Community
We Salute You

You've scrubbed floors; you've washed clothes; you've fed a family; you've nursed babies. You've done all the things that are traditionally known as "women's work."

Now you will be faced with another call. Your country is going to ask you to help with the canning crops. You have no fear that you, together with the men and the boys and the girls of this community, will rally to the call.

Because there is a shortage of help
—a shortage so acute as to be a gen-erine crisis, it is going to be necessary for this entire community to pitch in together to handle the canning crop when they are ready.

The canned peas and corn that we ship from Theresa are fighting foods—foods that go to war. For more than every other can will be shipped direct from here to our government for our armed forces or our brave allies. Perhaps some of these very cans from here will get to some of our own boys who have left homes in this community to fight the forces of evil that are abroad in the world. Stranger things have happened. But at any rate they will go to some other boys who will benefit just as much.

You've lived around here too long for us to presume to tell you what kind of work it is—this harvesting of the vegetables in the fields and canning them in the factories.

Because you know you're going to work long hours; because you will give up your freedom for many weeks during sunny, summer weather; because you will come home, night after night, worn in body and spirit; because you know it and still have the will to do it
—we salute you.

"Food," our President said in his farm mobilization proclamation, "is no less a weapon than tanks, guns and planes."

IN LOVING MEMORY

In sad but loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Wm. Doms, who passed away one year ago, May 14, 1942:

One year ago you left us.
The blow was great, the shock severe;
We did not know the end was near.
Our hearts are heavy laden,
To see your vacant chair;
To see you sitting there,
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never;
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.
Sadly missed by William Doms and family.

Eko, assistant chairman, also attended the meeting.

At the invitation of Mayor George Cakes of Oshkosh, who is chairman of the Winnebago County Council of Defense, Mr. Ziegler spoke at a meeting to all members of the defense and service corps. Approximately 1,100 people attended this open meeting which was held in the vocational school auditorium in Oshkosh. Ziegler outlined the policies, activities and objectives of the state council of defense and how it was attempting to co-ordinate the county councils in the state into a strong, active defense group. Dr.
Otto Eisenschiml also talked to the group on protection against war gas.

Preceding the public meeting at the vocational school, Mr. Ziegler met with members of the Winnebago Council of Defense where he was impressed with the interest and progress in the citizens defense corps activities.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Everyday Human Bondage

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

"Even if it's going home to dear sympathetic Daddy and Mother your path isn't all roses. They may have stood by you gallantly through your trouble with Dick but afterward they grow critical."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS
"MARRIAGE is an institution," some woman said in a play long ago, "and I hate to live in an institution."

She might just as well have said that life itself is an institution, and that we all, married or single, hate the bondage and the limitations that life imposes on us.

To be sure, to the unhappily married man or woman the unmarried ones seem more free. They can get away from the hateful little apartment with its whining and its untidiness, its bills and its discomforts generally. They can at least go to hotels, where a maid is paid to keep the bathroom in order and where cool coffee can be sent back to the kitchen.

That's the theory. But it is a miserably faulty theory, and a miserably unsatisfactory solution of the living problem. In marriage, and in marriage alone, is there true happiness for young persons, and it is only because they don't know how to stay married that all the failures arise. It is a tragic truth that almost all the men and women who obtain divorces would cancel those divorces and try over again with the same mate, if they could, and that a second and third and fourth marriage only produce variations of the first fiasco, and infinitely and fatally complicate the lives they touch—children's lives, old persons' lives.

Society's Unwritten Law.
When a man, like the comparatively young man who recently made an eighth marriage, tells the attentive press that he is sure that he has found the ideal wife at last, there is no law to stop his matrimonial career. But there is surely an unwritten law that covers such a case, and to belittle the sacred relationship of marriage with such flippancy ought to put him outside the pale of friendship with decent folk forever.

Most engagements are built on sexual attraction, and in the early years of most marriages it plays an important part. This is a truism so flat that it is superfluous to put it into words. Yet very few women, and no men, grasp the truth of that simple statement. The part of it they understand entirely omits the words "in the early years."

Every bride feels that the glory of young wifehood is so exquisite, the thrill that true marriage brings to her husband and herself is so overwhelming, the ecstasy of their first months together so perfect, that nothing can ever change.

"I haven't changed," wrote a four-years wife to me pathetically. "I love him just as much as I ever did, or more. But he likes an occasional evening away from home now, he likes me to ask pretty girls to the house and flatters them."

Nature has so arranged things that by the time that the first wild glamour of possession has worn off, for the man, the woman shall be absorbed in even more vital joys, the supreme joys of motherhood. But today's men and women very often put off those joys altogether, or at least delay them fatally, thereby completely defeating their purpose.

Intense Love Soon Burns Out.
The purpose, I mean, of being able to reveal uninterrupted in the marital relationship. There is no quicker way to destroy it. The rule is the same as that of other appetites. Controlled, made only a part of a happy life together, indulged reasonably, physical love between a man and woman can last a lifetime. But it can also be burnt out in a few months' time, and that is what hap-

"I haven't changed."

NO SOLUTION

Kathleen Norris again repeats her statement, made many times before in this column, that divorce is neither the right nor the lasting solution of marital difficulties. And she points to the tragic example of the frequently married and never happy people who are always seeking the perfect mate, the tailor-made marriage. You must work for a happy marriage, just as you must work for a strong financial position, or an enviable social position, or good grades in school. And, falling short of perfection or unqualified success, you must remember that divorce is still no solution.

pens over and over again with those men and women who are rich enough and optimistic enough, and let it be added, dumb enough, to marry four and five and six times, imagining that the will-o'-the-wisp conjugal bliss is somewhere, waiting to be found ready-made.

When a man and woman are balanced, normal folk, aware that life has a thousand interests and delights other than that of sex; when they rejoice in the companionship that marriage brings, the mutual dignities and home making, the privileges of parenthood, then in the place of that first awed ecstasy of possession, that first ignorant, eager seizure upon life, comes something far rarer and finer; true married love, true appreciation of what is the great miracle of human hearts in this world.

Otherwise the first chill wind of reality destroys their marriage and leaves them forlorn indeed. When flattery and passion, novelty and excitement have had their day, a certain blankness descends upon the lovers, they don't know what's happened to them.

Patience, Humility Help.
Whereas, if they had character, if they had had good training, good homes, good example behind them, they would start fresh. They would replace excitement and passion and novelty and flattery with patience, humility, sympathy, courage. The man would analyze his own nature, asking himself seriously what the qualifications of a good husband should be; the woman should repeat to herself the wife's litany.

"That I may never do anything to make him love me less. That his home may always be the place he most wants to come. That he may trust me to spend our money wisely, keeping everything in proportion. That the years may find us growing only closer and closer together, depending more and more upon each other. Amen!"

But how many young men and women take that attitude today? How many say: "I was wrong. I'm sorry I was rude to your old friend. I'm sorry I wasted that money. I'm sorry I forgot to telephone your mother."

Even if it's going home to dear sympathetic Daddy and Mother your path isn't all roses. They may have stood by you gallantly through your trouble with Dick, but afterward they grow critical. Your mother audibly admires your cousin Ellen, who stuck to Joe Masters through thick and thin. You hear your father saying pityingly to some old friend at the telephone: "No, Louise is back with us. Yes, too bad! Broke her mother's heart. Yes, hard on the small boy. Oh, I guess so. Faults on both sides!"

You can live with anyone once you master the secret of living with yourself.

If your marriage has come to a bad time, give that man of yours another chance. Because even if you leave him, and break up your home, you'll have to live with somebody. If it's a new mate, in five years you won't know the difference, as far as happiness goes, between him and the first. If it's living in a small apartment and working to support yourself, and putting Dicky into a boys' school, there is a bitter heartache—bitter loneliness—ahead than any you've ever known snug in your little house with your kitchen and garden to work in.

War Brings America Knowledge of How To Eat Properly; Once Lowly Vitamin Now Important Item in Balanced Diet

U. S. Finds It's Protein and Not Meat That Counts; Most Nutritive Cuts Once Scorned By Housewives; Heavy Meals Necessary for Workers.

By AL JEDLIKA
Released by Western Newspaper Union.
Time was not so very long ago when all of this nutritive and vitamin talk sounded kind of silly.

That was the time when almost everybody thought that vitamins were something that came in capsules or pills; when women figured that they knew all of the tricks of the culinary trade, and when we all liked food for its taste and gave little consideration to its minerals, proteins, carbohydrates, etc.

Plates were heaped with potatoes and meat; if there were any kids around, few vegetables were served because they didn't like them; and then more potatoes and more meat, and finally a great big slug of pie, was put down to top off a good meal.

If the Little Woman came home from some cooking school all worked up about the science of food and its preparation, the head man dampened her enthusiasm by gently but firmly advising her that all that vitamin and mineral stuff was good enough to keep the world going.

In fact, the head man argued convincingly, hadn't the world been living on potatoes and meat, etc., since man's memory runneth, and hadn't she, as well as he, been raised on the old standbys—and, what was wrong with them? Nothing! of course.

But that was before December 7, 1941. A lot of things have happened since then and one of them is Mr. and Mrs. America's attitude toward the vitamin and its entourage. Meat and other rationing have thrown us on the defensive and it is now a question of stretching foods, finding substitutes and all of the time seeking to maintain nutritive values.

The upshot of the whole thing is that we might emerge from the war with a more intelligent knowledge of food, of the purpose of its varieties, and consequently be in a position to guide our healthy growth by exact standards.

If we were to be awfully enthusiastic about the situation, we might say that scientific nutrition may be the one big development following the war, just like the automobile came into its own in 1919. But a lot of people who will find it hard to reform their old eating habits probably would argue to the death that we were wrong, because the airplane will be the thing with peace.

Must Find Proteins.
Since meat rationing came along, food experts have been pointing out the necessity of seeking other sources of protein. In so doing, they have consoled us no end by their reminder that, after all, it's not the meat that makes meat valuable, but the protein it contains.

Eggs have some meat value.

"Meat is necessary to our diet because of its high protein content," writes one nutritionist. "... Therefore, other foods high in protein can be made to do as well.

"One of these," the nutritionist continues, "is fish. Perhaps during this war our domestic cheese will come into its own. From the simple cottage cheese to the fancy Swiss, it equals in quality any in the world and could be used to great advantage, being superb as a food because of the high quality of its proteins."

Soybeans have been found to be extremely high in protein and economical in production. It has been estimated that the same amount of protein as in meat can be raised from soybeans at about one-tenth the cost.

Other high protein foods include white, navy and kidney beans; black peas, peanuts and peanut butter. Peanuts never have been taken very seriously except at ball games maybe, but with the emphasis on their decided food value and the industrial use for their oil, they have come into extensive cultivation in the South.

Nutritionists have been careful not to put all of their eggs in one basket, however.

While pointing out the food value of vegetables, one expert explains: "... 'Ersatz' dishes of beans, peas, lentils and the like are foods having a lower biologic value than meat itself. They are sometimes referred to as meat substitutes, and they are useful, but one should make certain that milk, eggs and cheese are included in the menu to furnish biologic values similar to meat, chicken and fish."

To obtain a balance in diet for necessary nutrition, another expert steps to the head of the class with the suggestion that milk, leafy green or yellow vegetables, potatoes, citrus fruits, tomatoes, whole grain or enriched cereals, meat or meat alternates and occasionally an egg be included in the day's meals.

Meats Also Have Vitamins.
This expert had in mind the fact that besides protein, meats also possess vitamins and minerals; so that in finding protein substitutes, it is also necessary to supply vitamin supplements.

Vitamin B1 and vitamins B2 and G are present in meat, chiefly in pork. To make up for any losses, whole wheat bread, enriched bread or cereals and milk may be eaten instead.

Some nutritionists believe that

Study food on nutrition basis.

Americans have never known how to shop for meat. One says that the most nutritious parts of every carcass are seldom chosen at all, but go into making fertilizer or feed.

Blood, lungs, stomach, pancreas, kidney, brain, sweetbreads and hearts—these are among the items which the housewife passed up with untroubled conscience on her shopping tours.

One nutritionist remarked that the meat packers who knew the peculiarities of the people, put choice tidbits like those mentioned above into their canned dog food. As a result, he says, much dog food was superior in nutritive value to some of the meat canned for human consumption.

"There is one thing we shall do well to remember," the nutritionist declares, "and that is there is no evidence to support the theory that when we buy expensive cuts of meat we are buying more or better protein than the cheaper cuts would provide us.

"Generally speaking, American habits of choosing, buying, preparing and serving meats have been wasteful of both food value and money. Americans in the main have scorned the animal organs and the cheaper cuts of muscle meat, tasteful and nutritious though these may be. Many people habitually spurn fat meats. On the other hand, we rush to buy the cuts which include a large proportion of bone and gristle, which represents waste."

Find Adequate Diets.

The National Research council in a recent report on nutrition asserted that inadequate diets and malnutrition in varying degrees occur frequently in all parts of the country.

Diets of many industrial workers appeared to be below the level of what is required for optimum nutrition—and all because foods are not chosen wisely!

Nutritionists figure that the noon meal must include approximately one-third of the day's requirements of protein, minerals, vitamins and calories for heavy workers.

Good breakfasts are essential and between-meal lunches are helpful in overcoming fatigue during the day. Between-meal lunches of foods providing minerals and vitamins and about one ounce of easily digested carbohydrates are the most beneficial.

If the housewife has received one, she probably has received a thousand suggestions on how to get the most out of food these days. But when these suggestions are considered from both nutritive as well as economical viewpoints, it will be considered that most of them have something on the ball.

For instance: It's the style to eat potato skins. Baked potatoes or potatoes cooked in their jackets have a lot of good minerals just beneath the skin, so when they're thrown away we're not getting the greatest nutritive value for our money. And this brings up the subject of eating the greens under salads. Valuable minerals and vitamins are stored there to be had for the eating.

The sugar supply should go far further now because it's considered good manners to stir tea and coffee vigorously after adding sugar, so we can get its full sweetening value. This will be even more important when iced tea days appear—if we have the iced tea.

We used to eat bread and gravy when we ate alone, or put aside our "Sunday" manners, but now it's the style to eat gravy on hot biscuits, muffins and bread. Every homemaker is being asked to save all drippings and to serve them as gravy to extend the good meat flavor and add nutritive value to the meal.

Everyone likes to eat around the bone of a juicy broiled lamb chop or a piece of fried chicken, and now we're not only told that it's permissible from the standpoint of manners, but we're encouraged to follow this procedure because it's the trend in the style toward patriotic eating. Every particle of meat is precious these days.

Learn to Carve.

Not the very least of the suggestions is one directed toward the head man as well as the little woman. Nowadays, if Papa does the carving at the table, Papa is advised to learn how to carve.

It seems there's more to carving than merely wearing the badge of authority; indeed, good carving avoids waste, assures uniform slicings (important to the preservation of harmony in every home) and affords extra servings.

Perfectly elementary in itself is the fact that a sharp knife is essential to a good carver. And equally elementary, a good carver should take enough interest in his tool to assure its care. Thus, knives should not be let loose in a drawer where other metal can dull or nick the blade. A properly sharpened knife can be kept keen for a long time by a dozen strokes with a steel before use.

In carving any cut of meat, it is desirable to understand the anatomy of bone structure of the cut to be carved and to remember that meat should always be carved across the grain. Steak, because it is tender and the meat fibers are already relatively short, is an exception to the rule.

Youth Took Lesson on Heart With Feet Down!

"Charles," said the sharp-voiced woman to her husband on the train, "do you know you and I had a romance on a train?"

"Never heard of it," said Charles. "Don't you remember it was a pair of slippers I presented to you the Christmas before we were married that led to our marriage?"

You remember how nicely they fit, don't you? We were going to a picnic, you had your feet on a seat, and when you weren't looking I took your measure. But for that pair of slippers I don't believe we'd ever been married."

A young man sitting opposite with a girl, immediately removed his feet from the seat.

HERE'S WAY TO BUY BONDS—GET MORE SLEEP!

An extra hour's sleep in "the near side" of the evening was recommended as a war thrift measure by the National Thrift committee. With small wage earners facing the necessity of buying more and more war bonds, the National Thrift committee issues the warning that drastic economies on the home front are automatically curtail many extravagances, in the opinion of the committee.

Spring cleaning of budgets is recommended by the committee as an aid to the purchase of more bonds by every family. Recognizing that most budgets are as full of old habits at this time of year as closets are cluttered with clothes, the committee suggests a family conference upon items to be discarded for simplified living, with consequent saving. Out-moded budgets, the committee says, are unpatriotic in war time, and the fact that certain things have always been in them, is no estimate of their value. A serious family conclave over expenditures of the first quarter of the year is sure to result in discovery of ways to save money.

"The first thing that clutters up a budget," says the committee, "is debt. Loans, installment payments, charge accounts and delinquent bills are a heavy tax on any income. Obviously, the only way to get clear is to pay off."

Steel Mills Roar Day and Night Producing for War

Twenty-five hour days, eight-day weeks, and a 53-week year would have been needed in 1942 for the steel industry's furnaces to have produced for the war effort much more than the 86 million tons of steel actually produced.

A recent survey of steel producers by the American Iron and Steel institute has revealed that the more than 1,200 steel furnaces in the country were either in production or else undergoing routine maintenance work 99.7 per cent of the year—a high rate of activity by a wide margin.

In normal operation, a steel furnace is out of actual production about 10 per cent of the time to allow for necessary relinings and small repairs. Allowance is made for these occurrences when furnace capacity is rated.

During only 0.3 per cent of the year were the furnaces shut down for abnormal or emergency reasons such as shortages of scrap in the early part of the year, extraordinary repair jobs after breakdowns, labor disputes, absenteeism and floods.

With Our Men and Women in Service

This week we have four letters received from Kewaskum men and a woman in the service in widely scattered areas of the world—England, Africa, China and Texas in the good old U. S. A. The three letters from overseas were mailed about a week ago but were received at almost the same time.

CGTS. HEISLER, KOHLER IN ENGLAND SEND JOINT LETTER

Below is a letter from Staff Sgt. Franklin Heisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Heisler, and Staff Sgt. Earl J. Kohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Kohler, telling of their celebration when they met recently in England. They enlisted in the service together and hadn't seen each other since leaving Jefferson Barracks, Mo., more than a year ago. The letter was probably written while they were together in London.

Merry Ole England
April 21, 1943

Dear Bill:

You never can tell where you meet people. We met in London the past week end and certainly had a grand reunion. It's been over a year since we parted at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and neither one of us ever thought we would meet again thousands of miles from home. So do you blame us for celebrating?

And celebrate we did! Yes, we don't know how many toasts we had to the old home town, and we certainly didn't forget Kewaskum and our many relatives and friends. We are both fine and doing our best for a quick victory and a return ticket home. England is O.K. but not like the good old U.S.A. — raids and air raid sirens certainly make you think of home.

We both get the Statesman and certainly enjoy it, even though it is a couple months old. Anyhow, sooner or later, we get the home town news.

We are looking forward to meeting again in the near future. Let's hope our plans work out. Until we can have another little rendezvous here in Britain, we wish all our relatives, friends, and acquaintances the best of health and luck in the world. We are definitely looking forward to the grand reunion with everybody when this nightmare is over.

Your best wishes to all.

Yours,
Staff Sgt. Franklin Heisler

PFC. TECHTMAN WRITES OF TRANSFER IN NORTH AFRICA

Here's a letter from Pfc. Harvey Techtman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Techtman, in which he mentions that he has moved from the place at which he was first stationed in North Africa. However, his address is still the same.

Kewaskum Statesman,
Kewaskum, Wisconsin.
Hello Don and Bill:

How are you? I'm fine and getting along swell. This warm weather is nice and the boys don't mind having it.

We have moved from the place we were stationed at when we first came here. We had a nice trip and saw some very interesting scenery. Would like to write you all about it but you know that's forbidden by censorship regulations.

We used to visit in the city of Orléans quite often. We attended the movies and stage shows at the Red Cross evenings. Sometimes we would just walk around to see some of the sights in the city. They have some very modern buildings.

I hope this war will soon be over and the boys can all return to their respective homes. Then we can tell about all of our experiences. I remain

They have a show in town that has modern movies not more than 10 years old, for only a few weeks ago I saw "Mary Queen of Scots." That's about 6 years old I guess. Well, anyway, hello to the gang and to the other members of our Gas House Gang. I'm looking forward to our meeting after the war. Bet you are too. Well, so keep the chin up, flaps waving and let's hope for a speedy victory.

AFC. ELSIE BRUHN WRITES ABOUT LIFE WITH THE WAACS

Afc. Elsie Bruhn, daughter of Herman Bruhn, who is stationed at Denton, Tex., sent a letter to the editor to be transmitted to all of her friends in this community. She writes about her duties, recreation and surroundings with the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. Afc. Bruhn was recently transferred from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., to Texas, where she is receiving specialist training. The letter:

Denton, Texas
April 29, 1943

Dear Friends:

I have tried to write a letter to all of you several times but I am kept so busy with my training I don't find time for much else.

I have been here two weeks and have been studying very hard. We are taking a very concentrated course and must finish it in six weeks. Normally it is given a 12 month period.

Our routine life here is very much like camp life although we live in dormitories here but sleep on army bunks. There are six of us in this room and we have three double deck bunks and two large lounges, and the mess hall is very nice. Even have flowers on the tables. I still have four of my bunk mates from Oglethorpe. We get along fine. We have a grand bunch of girls here.

This college is beautiful. It's very large and the grounds are lovely. Most of the buildings are red brick with lots of trees and shrubbery around. The roses are in bloom and they are gorgeous. The weather here is often warm. We go swimming in our outdoor pools instead of P. T., if we like and do like it. We are in uniform all of the time now but can wear civies during free time and over the week end.

We are not very far from Camp Howze and over the week end there are lots of soldiers here. They usually have dances on Saturday nights and we go out in buses chaperoned by lieutenants. I have attended one of them and enjoyed it very much. We are having a party here this Saturday night.

We do not go out during the week as we have study periods every night and we sure can use them.

Perhaps some of you may get a chance to see the news reel showing the President and Col. Hobby at Oglethorpe. We were so disappointed at having to miss seeing them. We left three days before they came there. One of the girls from our old Co. 6 was assigned to the band there and she was in the band for the parade.

All in all I like it very much and though we work very hard we are all in much better shape physically and have lots of fun, too.

I enjoy the Statesman so much and I can realize now how much it must mean to the boys overseas, or much farther away from home than I am.

I also realize how good it feels to get letters from home and if you really want to do a little bit more to make a soldier a lot happier, drop him a line.

I appreciate very much all the letters I have been receiving. Although my correspondence has been very poor it is because I do not find time to write at the present time. Wishing all of you the best of health I am,

Sincerely,
AFC Elsie E. Bruhn

"UNCLE SAM, HERE ARE MY HANDS!"

"The best thing that ever happened to me was to be born on American soil. To help now is small return for my freedom."

"Here, then, are my hands, my strength and my heart!"

With your hands you can repay, in some measure, for the freedom you have always enjoyed . . . and help to preserve that freedom forever! You can, if you have the heart and the will, help destroy the brutality that is now loose in this world. There is no more effective way than by harvesting and packing the 1943 crops right here in the Theresa community!

Remember this: food is a powerful weapon and canned foods are the "fighting foods," the foods that go to war. Food will win the war. It will write the peace.

You can do your share now by guaranteeing to you government that you will not fold your hands again until the last acre of peas and corn is canned — and on its way to our fighting men! You will be paid, for your work of course.
