

Ray Buddenhagen, 18, Killed in Action at Sea With Coast Guard

Second From Kewaskum to Give Life in Service of His Country

Young Hero Had Received Two Medals For Work in Two Campaigns; No Details Given in Telegram Received by Parents Thurs- day Except That His Body Has Not Been Recovered; Twin Bro- ther Also at Sea

A telegram from the navy department, Washington, D. C., was received with deepest grief by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Buddenhagen of Route 2, Kewaskum, on Thursday morning of this week, informing them that their son, Ray Herbert Buddenhagen, 18, machinists mate second class, U. S. Coast Guard Reserve, was killed in action aboard a ship somewhere at sea. No details on how, when, where or in what action he lost his life were given, due to war restrictions, only that his body had not been recovered.

Buddenhagen was the second young man from Kewaskum who sacrificed his life in the performance of his duty and in the service of his country in World War II. The first from the village and also from Washington county to make the supreme sacrifice was Robert George Romaine, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn M. Romaine, seaman second class in the navy, who lost his life at sea in a similar manner Oct. 29, 1942, while serving on an armed merchant vessel torpedoed by a submarine. Another Kewaskum boy, Tech. Sgt. Joseph H. Walters, son of Mrs. Edna Walters of Route 2, Kewaskum, was reported missing in action with the air corps in the western European area last January.

Ray had been in service one year. He enlisted in the U. S. coast guard on June 9, 1942. He was selected to receive special training as a machinist at a government school at Fairhaven, Mass. Having completed his training he received a promotion to machinists mate second class. On the 27th of December he went on sea duty and since that time he received two medals of honor for meritorious service to his country. He was awarded one of the medals for his work in the African, European and Middle Eastern campaign, and the other for his work in the American campaign. Ray has a twin brother, Ralph Buddenhagen, who is also on sea duty with the U. S. navy.

The telegram, which told the Buddenhagen family the shocking news, read as follows:

Washington, D. C.
2:04 a. m. 17

Arthur Ernst Buddenhagen
Kewaskum, Wis.

The navy department deeply regrets to inform you that your son, Ray Herbert Buddenhagen, machinists mate second class, U. S. Coast Guard Reserve, was killed in action in the performance of his duty and in the service of his country. His body has not been recovered. In behalf of the coast guard I extend to you sincere sympathy. To prevent possible aid to our enemies please do not divulge the name of his ship or station.

Vice Admiral R. P. Waesch,
Commander, U. S. Coast Guard

Ray Herbert Buddenhagen was born in the town of Barton on April 11, 1925. He was baptized and confirmed in the Peace Evangelical and Reformed church, Kewaskum. He received his primary education at the Elm Grove rural school, after which he attended the Kewaskum high school. Prior to his enlistment, he attended the Vocational school in West Bend.

Surviving the young man besides his grief-stricken parents are two sisters, also twins, namely Mrs. Leslie Kurtz and Mrs. Benjamin Kurtz of Menomonie Falls, the former Beulah and Bernice Buddenhagen; two brothers, Floyd at home and Ray's twin, Ralph, in the navy, and his grandfathers, John Koehler of Route 2, Kewaskum. The Kurtz brothers are also twins.

Ray was a member of the Peace church here and was the parish's second member who lost his life in the war. Because of the impossibility to recover the remains, an appropriate memorial service will be held in the church on Thursday, June 24, at 6 o'clock in the evening. The Kewaskum American Legion Post No. 384 honor guard will participate in the service. The pastor of the church, the Rev. P.

G. Beck, will conduct the service.

Ray was one of the finest young men of this community. He was quiet, friendly and very well liked. In the line of duty he was a courageous boy and a fearless fighter who gave his life in the valorous defense of his country for the preservation of our liberty and freedom. Just a boy in age, he was a man at heart. Ray left school slightly more than a year ago at the age of 17 and with the permission of his parents enlisted in the coast guard although he did not become of age until his birthday two months ago. Our most heartfelt sympathy and that of the community is extended to the bereaved family and other relatives in their great sorrow.

How to Get Your Next Fall's Fuel Oil Ration

Allotments for next fall's fuel oil ration to home owners will be made by mail by the local War Price and Ration Board when the regular applications for renewals of the ration have been received and processed. The fuel oil consumer will receive by mail the simplified application form No. 1167. These forms, properly filled out, should be mailed back to the local board as soon as possible. The reason for doing this is that it is physically impossible for the oil companies to handle all the summer orders if the consumers wait until September and October.

The Office of Price Administration boards are making every effort to have the coupons for the 1943-44 fuel oil rations in the hands of the consumer by July 15. Any delays in getting in the applications are certain to create serious delivery bottle-necks when cold weather arrives.

In reviewing the applications, the board will consider the household's last year's request which is on file. The amount of this year's allotment will be determined by a revised table which has been sent to the local board by the OPA.

Eberle's Mickey had seven points toward its championship before entering the above shows. Fifteen points are required to rate a bench champion. The beagle won seven points at the two Missouri shows and the 15th point at Wichita.

Increase Appropriation For Kettle Moraine Park

Governor Goodland last week permitted to become law without his signature a bill increasing the appropriation for purchase of state forest lands in the Kettle Moraine area of Washington, Fond du Lac and adjoining counties from $75,000 to $150,000 a year. Headquarters for the area are at Maunthe Lake in the town of Auburn, northeast of Kewaskum.

The governor said: "There is involved in this measure a principle of government to which I do not subscribe, and that is the practice of allocating for a segregated project a specific amount from a general appropriation made for a statewide purpose. This is bad precedent and wrong government. Despite the questionable precedent involved I feel that I am not justified in vetoing the bill. The development of the Kettle Moraine area for future forests and resulting recreational purposes has unquestioned merit. The glacial moraines and rolling terrain, interspersed with swamps, streams and lakes, are unique and colorful. Lying close to the population centers, the area will afford an outdoor and recreational outlet to two-thirds of the population of the state."

Civic organizations, conservation groups and public spirited individuals throughout the area unanimously supported the bill. Included among the supporters of the program are the county boards through the area and residents of lake shore municipalities, who will be principal beneficiaries from the project.

The Kettle Moraine forest extends roughly from Whitewater to Chilton a continuous 100-mile strip of non-agricultural land in 16 counties. The state already owns blocks of land in the area. The forest area extends through Washington county.

"Man-Power Lunches" to be Discussed at High School

Lunches that satisfy and maintain health will be discussed under the subject of "Man-power Lunches" before wives and mothers of war workers Wednesday evening, June 23. New ideas for lunch box meals will be presented. The meeting will be held in the Kewaskum high school auditorium beginning at 7:45.

The purpose of this meeting is to help those preparing lunch box meals in making their task easier and to give them suggestions and help in preparing more tasty, satisfying, nutritionally balanced lunches. The importance of the homemaker's task is recognized. The problem of being able to prepare day in and day out meals with variety that satisfy and at the same time contain foods that assure better health and efficiency for the war worker is readily understood of anyone who has this task before her.

The meeting will be in charge of a competent leader, well known in the field of cooking and who has been active in assisting preparers of war workers' meals. The ideas and suggestions offered will be practical and easily followed and will take into consideration the problems of today, with the scarcity of foods and rationing.

Recipes, simple and easily followed, with lunch and meal suggestions will be provided.

These meetings are sponsored by the nutrition committee of the Washington County Council of Defense as a part of our government's nutrition industry program. It is hoped that a very large number of wives, mothers and others who prepare meals for war workers will attend.

Similar meetings will be held at the following places:

June 21—Germantown, Village Hall
June 22—West Bend, McLane School
June 24—Hartford, City Auditorium
June 24—Slinger, High School
All meetings will begin at 7:45 p. m.

CLEANING RUGS

Soiled carpets, rugs and upholstery can be cleaned by shampooing with soap jelly. Ordinary shampooing will come out easily, but obstinate and unusual stains should have professional care.

Using a soft brush, work the jelly on the fabric in a space about 12 inches or so across. After time for loosening the dirt, wipe with a clean, damp cloth.

After cleaning, the fabric should be dried quickly. A rug should be supported on boxes and old chairs, so that air can get at the back, as well as the front.

Dry Wells

Question: In putting in dry wells for gutters and downspouts, how far should they be from the house? How big should they be? How much below the cellar floor level?

Answer: They should be at least 15 feet away from the house, so that water soaking into the ground from them will not work back into the cellar.

Storing Books

Question: I wish to pack and store part of my library. Should the books be wrapped individually? How can I protect them from insects?

Answer: Store them in wood boxes lined with waterproof paper. Individual wrapping is not necessary.

Mohair Furniture

Question: Can furniture upholstered with mohair be safely stored? Answer: Yes, furniture can be satisfactorily stored in a reliable storage warehouse.

Unheated House

Question: We own an unheated house near the seashore which is difficult to rent. We would like to put in some kind of an inexpensive heating plant. What do you suggest?

Loose Chair Legs

Question: The glue that holds together the sides of the legs of a mahogany chair has loosened. How can this chair be tightened? Answer: Take out the loose chair legs and rungs, clean off all glue, then spread a generous amount of casing glue on the parts to be glued.

Steel Windows

Question: Where can we get storm windows and screens for steel casements? Answer: Your best chance is to get them from the manufacturers of the windows.

Housewife Looks to Farmer's Almanac For Predictions, Tried and True

ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN may have placed a silencer on the weather man, but thousands of housewives are still going faithfully by the predictions in the (Old) Farmer's Almanac (est. 1792). Besides weather forecasts, the almanac is a fund of useful information that every householder could wish.

The editors of the Farmer's Almanac are as ruggedly individual as the New England their publication reflects—they are full of a nice, simple perversity. For example, they advise that you should throw away your leftovers because an M.I.T. professor claims their vitamin content is seriously deteriorated in 24 hours—and further along the good advice that "it is bad economy to try to save on the salaries of your school master or minister at the expense of the good education of your children and the spiritual well-being of your neighbors!"

Old Dobbin hasn't completely disappeared from Wisconsin farms. Although horse numbers are at the lowest level in years, there are still close to half a million head in this state, or an average of two and one-half head on each farm.

County Agent Notes

SELF FEEDERS CUT COST OF PRODUCTION

Self-feeders save labor in hog feeding and provide hogs with feed any time they want it. When hand-feeding, cannot be carefully planned and as carelessly carried out, the use of the self-feeder produces quicker and more economical gains. Hogs, by instinct, will balance their own rations if given the chance.
 Self-feeders have to be made to withstand rough use, and be fairly rain proof so as to protect the feed when used outside. Mounting such feeders on wooden or concrete platforms will pay for itself in the amount of grain saved.
 A careful study has been made of the food habits of swine, and the results used in planning the Wisconsin self-feeder. In construction the front is a little higher than the back so that the cover of the feeder will shed rain. Through space is divided in foot-wide sections, each one accommodating one pig at a time. The feeder holds about ten bushels of grain and is ample for a flock of about 25 growing shoats.
 Complete plans for the construction of such self-feeders can be obtained from the county agricultural agent's office. They are available upon request.

FARM AND HOME LINES

Prices of milk cows in Wisconsin are reported to be the highest on record. April prices were $24 per head higher than in 1942.
 Wisconsin farmers this year seeded an acreage of canning peas 54 per cent greater than the 10-year average.
 Freshly harvested vegetables are higher in nutritive value than those which have lost that first freshness, say nutritionists at the University of Wisconsin.
 Total milk production in Wisconsin in 1942 reached 14,239,000,000 pounds—the first time in the state's history that milk production exceeded the 11-billion mark.
 Unless grass is short there is no point in turning chicks out on it, say University of Wisconsin poultrymen. A good way to keep it short is to let the cows in at night to graze, then turn the chicks out on it in the daytime.
 Pasturing chicks on short, tender green grass will overcome cannibalism quickly, reports J. G. Halpin, head of the University of Wisconsin poultry department.

HOW TO DESTROY LAWN ANTS
 Many lawns and gardens have been troubled with ants this spring. Not only do the ants destroy vegetative growth, but they disfigure flower gardens and lawns with their mounds. A number of inquiries have come to us as to methods of control.
 The black or red species of ants that make small rings of soil on lawns and sidewalks can be exterminated by pouring boiling water or old crank case oil into each burrow.
 Lawn ants can best be destroyed by the use of carbon bisulphide. To apply this chemical, make small holes about four to six inches deep in the mounds and pour into each hole about 2 tablespoonfuls of the carbon bisulphide. Then cover with a wet burlap sack or an old rug or other air tight material. Keep covered for about 24 hours. The fumes will destroy the ants.

PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING FARM MOTORS
 In accordance with a recent war production board ruling fractional horsepower motors can be obtained for farm use without a A-1-c priority rating. To obtain such motors farmers need to give the dealer a written statement saying that he needs the equipment in operating his farm.

A POTATO BLIGHT EPIDEMIC MAY AGAIN BE IN THE MAKING
 If the moist weather conditions of the past month continue into this summer there will again be an ideal set-up for an epidemic of late blight. Some potato fields are already showing the presence of this disease. Its appearance at this early date indicates that potato blight can again be active.
 Blight can be controlled if control measures are begun early enough in the growing season. Potato growers should begin their spray program now. Bordeaux mixture and commercial preparations containing fixed copper have proved quite effective for blight control when applied while the potato plants are still healthy. Dusting with pyrethrum dust which contains copper is also an effective control measure.
 E. E. Skallskey, County Agent.

Now that tin is needed for the war effort, carrot juice is being dried and wrapped in cellophane.

Mail Deliveries Speeded Up by New Branch Number
 The new method of speeding up mail deliveries, through addition of a branch post office number to the address on mail for delivery in large cities, is being placed in operation rapidly. Reports from many cities indicate that it has been received enthusiastically by the press, postmasters, business concerns and the public.
 Within a few days after initiation of the plan, under instructions of Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, nearly all the postmasters in the large cities affected had assigned postal unit numbers to their branch offices, millions of residents had been advised of the number to be added to their addresses, and a considerable volume of mail already was carried to the numbers assigned.
 The new system speeds up the preparation of mail for distribution to branch offices and permits much more rapid handling of mail by inexperienced postal clerks, thousands of whom have been employed to replace personnel who have gone into the armed forces and into war industries.
 Rapid increase in volume of mail and the loss of some thirty thousand postal employees to the armed forces made it necessary to adopt the plan in the interest of accurate, efficient mail service and for the relief of postal personnel who are carrying an extremely heavy burden of work.
 An example of the new type of address is:
 John C. Smith
 222 Maitapan Ave.
 Boston 8
 Massachusetts
 The number after the name of the city indicates the branch post office (or "postal unit") through which delivery is made. Each resident of the large cities is asked by his postmaster to add the postal unit number to his return address, and to notify all to whom he writes that his address is not complete without the number.
 Residents of small cities, towns and rural regions should inquire of their correspondents in the large cities concerning the number assigned to the city residents' branch post office so that the mail may be expedited. The degree to which mail will be speeded depends upon the extent to which the numbers are used by mailers.

FARM AND HOME LINES
 Potato specialists at the University of Wisconsin report that the best late variety for Wisconsin, even in the light soil area of the central part of the state, is the new Sebago.
 The estimated number of tractors on the nation's farms January 1, 1943 was over 1,900,000, which is close to 100,000 more than January a year ago.
 It's hard to beat alfalfa pasture for pigs, say feeds authorities at the University of Wisconsin.
 Textile scientists have found that the attic, because it gets hot in summer, is not a good storage place for fabrics.
 In a recent check of farm machinery in field operation along a central Wisconsin highway, 70 percent were horse drawn and 30 percent tractor drawn.
 Farm research workers are finding that many steep hills, if managed right, can supply good pasture.
 This year Wisconsin will reserve for government use over half of the food packed in its canneries.

BUY WAR BONDS

Figure It Out Yourself. How can you effectively join in saving all the little children of the world from human slavery, death and injury from the Nazis and Japanese? Put more and more of your pay into war bonds every payday. Your savings will go to war in the form of war equipment and other munitions. How much more should you put into war bonds? The only ones who can answer that are—you and your family. It's up to you to decide just how much more you'll do to win the war.
 If you were fighting in the Solomons or in Africa or forcing a landing in Europe you'd like to feel that the folks at home were back of you—all the way—you'd be proud of your family and your friends if you knew they were buying war bonds not at 10 per cent or 15 per cent, but with every cent beyond that which they need for necessities.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

French Unity Speeds Victory Plans; Mediterranean Under Heavy Attack by Allied Naval and Air Concentrations; Chinese Crush Jap Yangtze Offensive

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. Army air force, delivers a diploma to his son, Cadet William Bruce Arnold, a member of the 1943 graduating class at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

FRENCH UNITY: Worth Waiting for

Although General Giraud and General DeGaulle at first could not agree any better at close range in Algiers than they had at long range between Africa and London, Allied leaders were confident that factional gulfs would be hurdled and long-hoped-for French unity would be consummated.

This optimistic view was justified when a "French committee of national liberation," headed jointly by Generals De Gaulle and Giraud, was formally established to "pursue the war at the side of the Allies until total victory over the enemy powers."

Comprising a seven-man group which eventually will be expanded to nine, the new liberation committee will direct the French war effort until France is freed and able to elect its own government. In addition to the co-presidents, Giraud and DeGaulle, the committee includes Gen. Alphonse George and Jean Monnet, named by Giraud; Rene Massigli and Andre Philip, appointed by DeGaulle; and Gen. Georges Catroux, designated by both presidents.

That the new committee meant business was immediately apparent by personnel replacements that eliminated French-African officials with former Vichy ties.

COAL: WLB Sustained When President Roosevelt, acting as commander-in-chief, tersely ordered the 500,000 striking mine workers back to work after a 30-day truce had been ended by another walkout, he had left the next move squarely up to mine union chief John L. Lewis.

In his brief statement the President did not consider the possibility that his order might be ignored. But measures of a stern and effective nature were open to him and the force of public opinion was marshaled overwhelmingly behind him—in the event of continued mine work stoppage.

The President's order had completely supported the War Labor Board which Mr. Lewis and his United Mine Workers had defied, setting forth plainly that "just as soon as the miners return to work, the disposition of the dispute . . . will forthwith proceed under the jurisdiction of the War Labor Board."

ARGENTINA: Neutrality at Stake? While close censorship had veiled early reports of the "military movement" in Argentina, observers were confident that it concerned the course of the nation's future international policy—whether the government would pursue its trend of benevolent neutrality toward the Axis, or would follow the rest of South America in breaking with the Axis.

The military reaction gained added significance, coming as it did on the eve of the Conservative party's national convention preceding the Presidential elections. For this convention had been scheduled to proclaim Senate President Robustiano Patron Costas as its candidate. Costas had been endorsed by "neutrality-minded" President Ramon Castillo.

BONDS: The average American family should invest 25 cents of every dollar of income in war bonds, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau declared.

COAL: Stocks of all anthracite coal in Canada were ordered frozen according to an order issued by J. McG. Stewart, coal controller of the war munitions department.

PATRIOT: Dr. Stanislaus Stronski, former Polish minister of information, is working as an unskilled laborer in an English war factory at $16 a week, it was disclosed in London.

NIGHTMARE: Deprived of all his African colonies, Premier Mussolini has incorporated the office for colonization into the ministry of corporations, the Rome radio announced. The staff of the former department will take other jobs, the announcement declared.

CHINA: Japs Lose 30,000

As Chinese forces had continued to press back the Jap invaders in the middle Yangtze valley, a report from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's headquarters disclosed that the drive in Central China toward Chungking had cost the enemy more than 30,000 casualties in a two-week period.

The Tokyo radio admitted the reverses in a report announcing that the Jap invasion forces had retired to previously prepared positions. Principal theater of Chinese gains was the Yangtze river in southern Hupeh province and northern Hunan. Here General Chiang's forces wiped out encircled enemy units and seized huge stocks of supplies and equipment, a communique said.

As a first step in the recapture of strategic Ichang, the Chinese had regained possession of all points around Changyang, strongly held "doorway" to Ichang.

MEDITERRANEAN: Mussolini at Bay Mussolini's defenses at sea had been no more impressive than in the air when Allied forces struck at the island approaches to the "soft underbelly" of Italy.

Target of the first assaults was the island of Pantelleria, closest of Italy's Mediterranean outposts to Africa. Here Allied warships made heavy bombardments that were unopposed. The Italian fleet that had been reported on the alert had made no effort to come out and fight for Pantelleria which already had been shaken by Allied bombers.

In none of the attacks did the Allied fleet suffer casualties. The only resistance offered was from the ineffective Italian shore batteries.

Only 45 miles from the tip of Tunisia's Cap Bon peninsula, Pantelleria was an easily reached target for Allied air forces. As wave after wave of bombers swept over the island blowing up port facilities, other Allied planes kept up a damaging series of forays against Sicily and Sardinia.

The extent to which the Mediterranean was becoming an Allied lake was indicated by a report announcing that the Allied destroyers had sunk two merchant vessels and an escorting torpedo boat and driven a burning Italian destroyer ashore.

TRADE PACTS: Two Years More Final approval by the senate of President Roosevelt's reciprocal trade agreements program came after administration supporters, aided by some Republicans, defeated five amendments that would have restricted the President's authority. The house had previously voted favorably.

The President had originally asked for a three-year extension. But because this would throw the policy into the next presidential administration for more than a year, both house and senate measures cut it to two years. The senate's action, however, meant that members of the United Nations could be assured that this government's present trade policy would be continued until June 12, 1945, or nearly five months after the next presidential inauguration.

DRAFT CROP: The draft called Sherman Jenkins' sons one at a time until it took all 12, the Clarkdale, Miss., farmer disclosed. The boys range in age from 19 to 39.

PRIVATEES: Seventy-two oil industry executives donated fatigues and spent a day living with soldiers at Fort Belvoir, Va., who are fighting in a war powered by oil.

BUILDING: Contracts awarded for private construction showed a decline of more than 23 million dollars during May as compared with corresponding month a year ago, according to a compilation by the Engineering News-Record.

LEND-LEASE: Checks totaling 25 million dollars have been received by the lend-lease administration from Gen. Henri Giraud as part of the government's essential supplies sent to North Africa by the United States, Edward R. Stettinius announced.

RUSSIA:

Nazis Try Air

The question, "Where is the German air force?" received at least a partial answer when Moscow announced that 500 Nazi planes had raided the important Russian position of Kursk, 120 miles above Khar'kov. The Soviet communique reported that 123 of the raiders had been shot down, as against a loss of 30 Red planes.

Termining the battle as one of the greatest air actions of the war, the Russians disclosed that the effectiveness of their anti-aircraft defenses caused the Germans to jettison their bombs, thus missing military objectives but causing civilian casualties.

Meanwhile, a German report announced further Russian offensives in the Kuban valley of the Caucasus. The Nazis said that five Red tank brigades and several infantry divisions had launched a new drive northeast of Novorossisk, last remaining German stronghold in the Caucasus.

The struggle in the Kuban valley, however, was but one phase of operations from the Caucasus to the Arctic sea that might well determine the way-as-you-go system.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO: July 1 Deadline After five months of congressional wrangling the pay-as-you-go income tax bill sped through the senate after passage by the house.

Meanwhile treasury officials had organized the machinery to start the collection-at-the-source system that will take 20 per cent above personal exemptions of each paycheck of 40,000,000 American workers beginning July 1.

Representing a compromise between Democrats and Republicans, the legislation promises an increase in individual income tax revenue to about $16,000,000,000 in the new fiscal year beginning July 1. Under the bill's provisions, all of 1942 taxes of $50 are forgiven and a reduction of 75 per cent on the remainder over $50 is allowed.

AIR POWER: U. S. Pounds Japs On widely separated fronts from the Aleutians to Burma, the Japs felt the increasing force of Allied air power.

With the campaign for Attu now a matter of history, American airmen concentrated their attention on Kiska, the main Japanese base in the Aleutians. The navy department reported that planes continued to bomb and strafe the hard-pressed Jap positions.

In New Guinea Flying Fortress and Liberator bombers gave the key Jap air base located at WeWak, a series of heavy raids, dropping incendiaries and explosives on four fields which form part of the WeWak system of airdromes. The Japs retaliated by sending bombers to raid targets in the upper Lakekamu river, 35 miles southwest of Allied-held Wau.

In Burma, American airmen struck at enemy supply lines between Burma and China, dropping 12,000 pounds of bombs on the important Shweli suspension bridge northeast of Mandalay and attacking railroad installations.

POSTWAR PLENTY: Food Parley Pledge Collaboration of 44 United Nations countries in building a post-war world of plenty was pledged by delegates attending the United Nations food conference in Hot Springs, Virginia.

The machinery for achieving this goal of plenty would be an international organization, the delegates indicated at the conference's closing sessions. This organization would take the form of a permanent world agricultural authority.

Agreement of the delegates to promote the creation of this international agency was hailed as the conference's most significant accomplishment. Undersecretary of Agriculture Paul H. Appleby, vice chairman of the United States delegation declared the conference had been "highly successful."

BEEF: Point Values Upped Dwindling supplies of beef were cited by the Office of Price Administration as the reason for a boost in ration point values.

Beef-eaters found that point values on steak cuts such as porterhouse, sirloin or T-bone were up three points. Roasts were up an average of two points, while the largest single increase was on dried beef, which rose four points, or from 12 to 16 points a pound.

Housewives were given consolation in the announcement that decreases in many cuts of veal, lamb and mutton, pork and variety meats would make it possible for them to substitute these items.

WAR BONDS: Machinery Overhauled Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau announced the merger of the victory fund committee and the war savings staff into a single organization to be called "the war finance committee."

The new group will handle all future war financing drives, Mr. Morgenthau said. The war finance committee will be set up on state lines and operate under state chairmen who will report directly to the treasury, he added.

LEND-LEASE: Sharp increases in lend-lease shipments of meat to Allied countries, with special emphasis on pork were reported by Edward R. Stettinius Jr., lend-lease administrator.

Mr. Stettinius estimated that current shipments amount to about a quarter of a pound of meat per week for every person in the United States.

Meat shipments totaled 577,300,000 pounds in the first four months of this year, most of which went to England and Russia.

NEW YORK.—Now here, now there, old friends put their brushes to the still incomplete picture of Brigadier Orde Charles Wingate.

He's Getting to Be More and More Like Daniel Boone came out of a thin fringe of silky whiskers and a belt full of Jap scalps. He is related to Lawrence of Arabia. Certainly his three-months long commando raid was the only taste of victory that the British enjoyed in their newest try for the eastern shore of the Bay of Bengal.

Before this war Wingate was deft, politic in handling Arab-Jewish mixups in Palestine. In 1940 he flew to Abyssinia and steamed up the natives against their Roman overlords. The force he mustered finished off 40,000 Italians and when prim, trim Haile Selassie returned in triumph to Addis Ababa, Wingate rode beside him on a white charger.

General Wavell, commander-in-chief for Burma, himself called Wingate there and then stood clear while the 39-year-old brigadier trained stolid men of Lancashire, tough little Gurkas and loyal Burmese into the jungle commando which wrecked airfield, blasted ammunition dumps and bridges and cut railroads behind the Japanese lines.

Wingate's marriage was a sort of commando raid in reverse. Lana Paterson, pretty and 15, sighted him on a Mediterranean liner when he was 30. She announced on the spot that he was the man she would marry. They were married when she was 17.

PLAIN FRANK BANE is a rationing expert. The system on which the people of these still well-fed United States buy victuals is one he worked out along with Leon Henderson and a few other high-flying experimenters. But Bane, they say, was the hardest worker.

It was work that he did after office hours because he had, still has, one full-time job. He is director of the Council of State Governments, headquartered in Chicago, and, according to Governor Stassen of Minnesota, is the best administrator in the country.

Administrator Bane's story is that he earned Stassen's praise by doing next to nothing. He delegates all assignments and sits back until the hired hands drop in to say the job is cleaned up. This system gives him plenty of time for story-telling which he likes, and for rocking chairs, one of which he demands in any home his wife sets up.

His stories, his rocking chairs, help explain why every new acquaintance, along about the second meeting, drops all handles and calls him Frank.

Fifty now, he has been married for 25 years. He was born in Virginia, went to Randolph-Macon college and Columbia university and served in the last war as a cadet pilot before he buckled down. Prior to landing with the Council of State Governments he was a football coach, a school principal and superintendent and took a whirl at welfare work.

THE Rt. Hon. Sir Archibald Sinclair's paternal grandfather was a blinking old codger out of Dickens by Poe who saw calamity in every cobblestone and lived fearfully on herring and hominy for all that he was a baronet.

The maternal grandfather, however, was an American who piled up much of the wealth Sir Archibald now enjoys, and his spirit must be the one that moves the British secretary of state for air to speak so hopefully of the air offensive against Germany.

Sir Archibald's mother was pretty Mabel Sands of New York. She went to London in the eighties with letters of introduction from the Vanderbilts, her kinfolk; married, and died when her son was just days old. Her husband died, too, and young Archibald was raised by relatives, tutors and guardians, all watched sourly by the herring grandfather. He was educated at Eton and Sandhurst, decorated in the last war, then turned to politics.

Sir Archibald is 53 years old now. He has two sons and two daughters of his own, and there are close to 100,000 acres around Thurso castle. For more than 21 years he has been in parliament and for many of those years he has been leader of the Scottish Liberal party. He has had his present post since the desperate summer of 1940.

More than one full month has passed since the big Allied planes stepped up their sweeps over Germany. Pilsen and Mannheim are still carting off their rubble while Dortmund and Dusseldorf smoulder.

To older Nazis the blockbuster's echoes must recall the booming artillery overtures to major assaults in 1914-18. The bombers seem to be playing an overture, too, and the second front could be nearer than even optimists hope. Though Sir Archibald has not gone yet beyond "air offensive."

Victory Inevitable Despite Deadly, Undeclared War

Optimistic Americans Fail to Realize Enemy's Strength in Experienced Men, Naval Forces and Air Power.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

"But, General . . ." The other day I said that after a long and enlightening talk by a high army officer who was patiently and painfully trying to show us why, despite the recent victories of the Allies, we still had a formidable enemy to meet, a dangerous, deadly and undefeatable enemy. Victory, of course, is certain (eventually) but serious reverses, setbacks and sacrifices are still before us, he had said.

I believe my own exclamation, "but, general" is typical of some of those "buts" which have arisen in your minds.

America is the super-duper land of inventive genius, business genius, organizing genius, mass production, high standard of living, assembly line, giant industry, efficiency, wealth, central heating, apple pie and unlimited opportunity. True, we got our first real drubbing at Pearl Harbor but we came back; the British were licked at Singapore, too, but they won the battle of Britain. Later, we collaborated in the smashing victory of Tunisia . . . the Russians beat 'em at Stalingrad, the Chinese have held 'em off for what seems a lifetime. Why, then . . . ?

The general looked a little weary but he went on politely—I can't quote all he said but will give you the parts the OWI says is "okoh." "The enemy has the biggest, most effective fighting force in history." "Biggest? But America and Russia . . . and Australia?"

Armed Strength Figures (U. S. Army official): The enemy still has 17 million men under arms. The German soldiers and their satellites, some a little ragged, still total 17 million trained men. The Japs have at least three million in uniform. These (the good and the bad) combine to make "the biggest most effective fighting mass ever assembled in history." Remember, the enemy has been years building this force, and the civilians in these militaristic countries have sacrificed all the things necessary—things we wouldn't even think of rationing, including liberty and decency.

In cold numbers, the enemy still outnumbers us in land forces. And even today, after Midway, Guadalcanal, Attu, Tunisia, Stalingrad, and the bombings, the enemy is still well equipped, well trained, well co-ordinated, can operate under adverse conditions and in the face of terrific hardships which our troops are just now beginning to master.

That is a brief sum up of the enemy land forces from a military man's point of view. As to the enemy naval forces. The Germans have, though you may not have realized from recent news, a small but highly specialized navy still afloat, plus the sub!

The submarine is still the biggest Allied problem. Submarines are tough animals now. Our own are tough enough and these animals are the German specialty. Depth bombs have to go deep to do any more than break the glass in the shaving mirrors and instrument facings. Even depth bombs to get one sub. Now the subs can crash dive, shiver and rise to fight back, and they can't be seen! They are mounted with guns, they can stand up to an escort ship, at least a corvette, and it takes a destroyer or a fast cruiser to catch them even when they stay on the surface where they can return fire. The small stout (30 caliber) bounces off their scales.

Japan's Navy The surface ships which Germany has are not so much of a factor. But Japan's navy is still to be reckoned with. It is not destroyed but it has to be before we can achieve victory in the Pacific. Just taking islands won't do the job—and see how long it took to take an island, first Guadalcanal; now (almost at this writing) Attu.

Airforce: America now leads the world. But remember Germany was the first to build a supreme "luftwaffe" and that luftwaffe and the men who made it are not all dead.

Swedish Foreign Minister Christian E. Guenther, declaring that "no neutral power can maintain an absolute balance between warring camps" told an audience at Eskilstuna that Sweden was making "concessions" to Germany "in a higher degree than to the western powers," the Swedish Hoerby radio said in a domestic broadcast reported to the Office of War Information.

The famous liar, Baron Muenchhausen, is a Berlin favorite today. A motion picture entitled "Muenchhausen," a color film "depicting the adventures of this remarkable Baron" is the No. 1 box-office success in Berlin and has had "the greatest success of any German film."

Certificates of Service will be awarded to the 3,500,000 persons who work on farms this year in the U. S. Crop Corps, and to those who work in canning and other food processing plants.

A Danish newspaper dispatch reported to the OWI that the Danish Royal Theatre's performance of George Gershwins' operetta "Porgy and Bess" had proved such an "overwhelming success" that it had been held over for a special repeat performance.

yet, Japan's vaunted Zeros which could outmaneuver us because of their lightness, it is true, exploded at one shot. They have been improved. Germany has improved a number of her models, too. She is holding back many for defense. The enemy army, as a whole, is better trained by experience than our men. But those of our men who have had equal training and experience are as good or better, man for man, although not yet perhaps, officer for officer. Remember, Germany and Japan bred an officer class. We trained a few professional officers, limited their prestige, resources and opportunity. The majority of our officers in wartime come from civilian life. They are good, when they get the training and the experience.

As to the fighting man. Well, we've stood up to Hitler's finest in Africa at bayonet's length—we've beaten the crawling Jap at his own game, jungle fighting.

Long Range View But still we have those odds which I (or rather the general) mentioned when we look at the long range vista. They are the things which the general brought up in answer to the "buts"—I'll name the "buts" in a second. The point is he showed me why it can't be done tomorrow—why we civilians have to be patient. He showed me what we have to do before we get over that "ridge."

After tomorrow, we can consider: "The enemy hasn't the initiative the Americans and British have. When things don't go according to plan, they are likely to "bust." We won't. The enemy has had its best men in the army a long time—its replacements are not as good as ours will be.

Much of the enemy-held territory has a hostile population which will work with the Allies against the enemy when we move in. Japan and Germany will fail on critical materials before we will—we can beat them at their own game of "ersatz," too; witness synthetic rubber.

We can manufacture and build faster because we have more to do it with than they have. Our home front is farther away from the battle front—and it is more in sympathy with the government, despite political difficulties.

But remember the "buts."

War Stimulates Changes in Education One of the many changes which the war has stimulated is the change in education. Education is going to count more after the war. Many boys will come back partially trained in trades and professions which they can follow if they have the additional theoretical and practical instruction necessary to arm them for the stiff competition which is expected.

As a result, college entrance examination requirements will be greatly altered for many of these men will lack the traditional prerequisites. Reform in this field is one of the 11 major objectives, discussed in a report of the commission on liberal education of the Association of American Colleges.

"If an educational program is to be of genuine service to the men and women of the post-war world," the report of the college committee says, "it must perform two functions simultaneously. It must take them as they are and appeal to their immediate desires and special needs, and it must provide for their common and enduring needs in a post-war society."

It will be recalled that the boom after the last war created the coon skin collegian and the flapper coed. The word "collegiate" had a meaning then which took it far ahead from the cloistered learning. The crop of students—veterans—will be more serious. They must be taken more seriously. They must have aptitude and achievement tests rather than book-learning examinations; there must be more individualized instruction, more tutorial and seminar methods, special attention must be given to co-ordinated instruction that will aid in the transition from army or industrial life to peacetime community and family relations and the responsibilities of citizenship.

MURDER at PIRATES' HEAD

By ISABEL WAITT

W-N-U-RELEASE

The Once Over by H.I. Phillips

ALL-OUT ARLENE ENCOUNTERS A DIFFICULTY

All-Out Arlene says that the business of releasing a man for front line duty isn't always what it is cracked up to be. "The boy I want to release for combat was in no hurry and he gave me a little trouble," said Arlene today.

"The main purpose of the women's military services is to free men for fighting," she explained. "And in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred it works out okay. But the dogface they detailed me to free had a swell office and he liked it. I reported and announced that I was releasing him. 'From what?' he asks me. 'You talk like I was a member of the Brooklyn outfield.'"

"I'm releasing you from home duty for combat," I told him. He wants to know what combat. I tell him his guess is as good as mine. Then he demands to know who's talking and I explain I'm a WAAC. "You've heard of the WAACs?" I ask.

"In a general way," he replies. "But I thought they were just being drilled to learn how to live in one hat and like it."

"You're behind in your education," I explain. "Our main purpose is to relieve men like you."

"He tells me he will be relieved if I go away and forget the whole matter."

"I ask him: 'Don't you want to be free for combat?' and he says: 'I wanted to when they first stuck me in this mystic maze of desks, telephones and filing cabinets but I've got used to it. Try the third office down the hall on the left. Maybe there's somebody there who can't wait.'"

"The more I try to explain the tougher he gets. 'Listen, sister,' he says to me, 'I have made no application to get released for anything. Nobody's brought up the subject so far except you. And who are you? I never saw you before, girlie. You blow in here in a natty uniform all set to take over my home work while I grab a gun and start looking for hand-to-hand combat, almost without warning.'"

"He is all upset about it. 'You girls are getting yourselves in wrong with this yen to free the office help for front-line battling,' he argues. 'A lot of guys who always liked dames are suddenly beginning to hate them. You and your releases! Now scram, sister, and forget this combat stuff before we take to hand to hand fighting right here on the premises! Beat it! Just leave your card. If I ever want to be released I'll let you know.'"

"What did you do?" we asked Arlene. "It must have been embarrassing."

"Oh, he was just kidding," she explained. "It was a put up job. Just when I'm starting to dress him down, he busts out laughing and admits all. He not only turned over his desk to me but left some sandwiches for me in the top drawer."

"VANISHING AMERICANISMS" "It's drive down to the beach, honey."

"Drive over and see us some time; we're only 40 miles away."

"You make up your mind where you want to go for a vacation and I'll make all the arrangements."

"We'll go up in the sedan; George and Hilda can come up with the dog in the beach wagon."

"Punishment Threatened for Luke-warm Nazis."—Headline. Are there some who still think they're hot?

Kathleen Norris Says: Give Your Troubles Time

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

"I met a very remarkable man... I learned through him for the first time in my life what true love can be."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

THE one cure for all our troubles is the hardest one for us to accept. It is time. Nothing is harder than to patiently endure painful or difficult situations, and wait for time to help them. Time works slowly, but it works inevitably. There are no circumstances in your life today that the slow unrolling of the weeks and months and years is not going to change.

You will change, too. Many of your ideas will change, softening and shifting. So that what seems to you a completely insufferable burden today may prove to be tomorrow's blessing. The person who seems your enemy now, the person whose very presence renders you miserable, may turn out to be truly your friend in the time to come.

Looking back at your life you can see a thousand instances of this, but it is much harder to look forward and believe that the future will follow the same pattern.

We all make mistakes. We get ourselves into wretched mix-ups; we find ourselves in positions when there seems no honorable way out. Someone has to be sacrificed; someone has to be hurt; the natural instinct is to break up everything, end this particular set of troubles as fast as possible—no matter what follows!

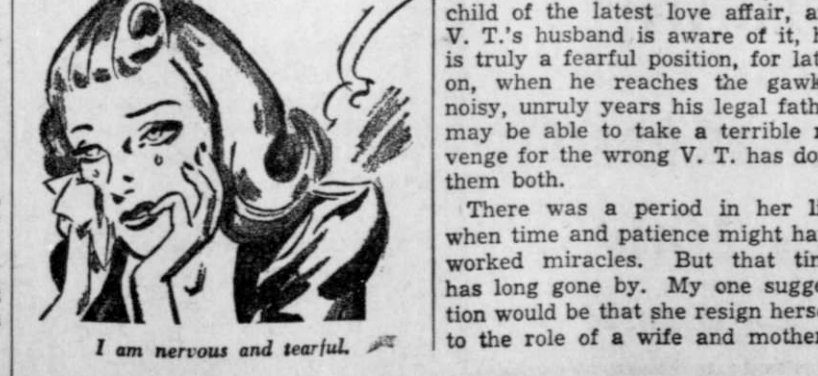

Time Straightens Out Troubles. And as a result the troubles multiply and grow worse; presently there really is no way out. Except time.

If some of the hundreds of women who are contemplating divorce today; desperately arranging to be separated from their children; appealing to their friends for sympathy and their families for help, would only quiet down, compose their nerves, strengthen their spirits to bear injustice and discomfort for awhile, and leave the cure to time, we would not only be a much happier nation, but a much stronger one.

Here is the case of "V. T.," a woman of 34, who has so hopelessly tangled her domestic problem that no matter what she does several innocent persons are going to suffer. The innocent persons are a boy of 14, two small girls of 7 and 5, and a little boy of 2. All these are "V. T.'s" children, by a first husband whom she divorced ten years ago, and by the second husband, whom she apparently is divorcing now. "V. T." is a pretty, intelligent, normal woman, but she certainly has done her best to wreck all these lives, and is on her way to wrecking a few more. She wants to know what the "solution" of her problem is, as if one could toss off a cut-and-dried solution for a situation that has been moving in the wrong direction for 15 years!

"I married at 18," says her letter. "Of course it was too young and of course I was unhappy! My baby was born before my nineteenth birthday, and born lame—this was as bitter a blow to my husband and me that by mutual consent we left the baby to most of the time with his mother, who has him still. Judson was a college athlete, holding several championships, and to have his child crippled was a continual grief to him. He and I were divorced when Stanley was four; I went abroad with my chum and we stayed in Paris for a year, studying. I then met Bob and we were married; I then little girls were born, we had a nice home and a circle of friends."

Finds Genuine Love. "However, when Jo-Ann was two I had a serious illness following a miscarriage; they were afraid I was

A Closet for Your Sewing Equipment

MANY women who have learned to sew for the Red Cross are also sewing for themselves. They are thinking of sewing as a craft and taking pride in their tools. Many who do not have space for a sewing room are planning efficient closets to house equipment.

Here is a model sewing cupboard from my new book Better Dressmaking. There have been many requests for dimensions and here they are.

The cupboard is six and one-half feet high; four feet wide and twenty inches deep. The dress form compartment is five feet six inches high and twenty-four inches wide. The ironing board compartment is four feet ten inches high and eight inches wide. This leaves ample space for shelves for the pressing cushions shown at the top; the sleeve board; iron; water pan and sponge; stout slide-in boxes for findings; notions and patterns; and a lower shelf for fabrics. The construction throughout is of half-inch plywood.

NOTE: If you are in need of more closets and storage space you will find directions in BOOK 1 for a linen closet built into waste space. Also in BOOK 8 there are directions for making door pockets to use every inch of space in your clothes closets. Booklets are 15 cents each. Send requests for booklets direct to:

any traces of it. She's covering for you, and you're doing the same for her." A whisper came between us. "Shut up, Judy! Go on with the act, Norcross. Know you're innocent, but it'll throw the real you-know-off-guard." Then aloud Victor said, so that the others could all hear: "Now that Norcross has cleaned his slate, can any of the remainder of you throw any light on various angles? Might keep some of it from the authorities, if it had nothing to do with the crimes—that is."

"I saw my aunt turn her back and knew the teeth were being plunked in again. 'Mr. Gerry and I will not mind their questions. I'll own up to destroying the pipe. Best most wives burn up a smelly pipe or two. It's silly to think, even if it dropped out of Wylie's pocket at the fish shed, it could have set the fire. Burned him, wouldn't it? Why don't you come clean about your daughter, Mr. Quincy? Can't do any harm now.'"

Thaddeus Quincy pounded the steps with his cane. He was sitting in his chair down at the foot of them, and now his face seemed strangely contorted as he glared at my aunt.

"'Couldn't you leave her out of it!' he thundered. He had a motive, too! He had a stalwart come. He could get around alone, for hadn't I blundered into him in the church aisle? Had his daughter been another of Roddy's victims? And why hadn't my aunt told me? A new respect for her came over me as Mr. Quincy sputtered: 'She had nothing to do with this. Six years ago, my only child fell in love with and married that cad, Lane, while I was in Baden-Baden taking the cure. I was only gone nine months, but I never saw her husband until night before last, when he walked into the dining room here. He'd gone through the little money my daughter had deserted her from her mother and deserted her for another woman before I came home. You can't imagine the refined cruelty he practiced on the little girl, before she went to Reno and divorced him. Now she's happily married again. You can see why I don't want her mentioned. She waited three years for him, and when he came crawling back after the Lane Bank scandal, she saw reason and divorced him."

Hugh flamed. "It wasn't my sister! Bessie wouldn't have anything to do with another woman's husband."

"If she knew it," Quincy added. "Don't have a fit, Norcross. It wasn't the sister. Happened out West. The woman—I won't mention her name—but she dabbled in magazine illustrating. She was married, also, at the time. Deserted her, too. Led her a terrible life, I've heard."

There was a motive a yard wide—a man who's abused his daughter ought to be killed. Mr. Quincy himself said so, the next breath. It was lucky Lane had kept out of his sight.

"But I didn't kill him, nor that pestiferous Miss Kendall. I'll admit I came to the Head to try to get back my daughter's $10,000. Roddy told her, after he'd been drinking one day, he had a personal bank hidden at the Head, but not in the Castle. He'd fooled the police at the time of the search; but if she'd taken him back he'd get it and repay her. The depression left us—especially her and her twin babies—she'd remarried after the divorce—hard up. I'd seen no mention of Lane in the Rockville paper. I determined to come to the Head and have a look-see. The auction of the church set me thinking. That would be the very place to hide wealth, in an unsecured church. So I came. I didn't know whether Lane was still afraid to show up here, or had taken the money away or not. My daughter refused to have anything to do with him or his money."

"He did. Me, I'm poor. I bid, but it was a relief when you got it, Judy. That would give me access without suspicion. No, it's clear as a brook: The recluse died by accident. The bridge collapsed. Norcross avenged his sister. And Miss Kendall fell. All we have to do is wait for the police, who should arrive in—" he took out his watch,—"about fifteen or twenty minutes."

Victor's hands pat-a-caked silently. "Very, very interesting, Mr. Quincy. And the wind tied the blue scarf around Lily's neck?"

"You should know. I wasn't down there. We'd all left the church and gone to the bridge. You stayed a while, didn't you?"

"Yes. With Judy." Did Lily's death coincide with the gull's cry? I felt sure it had. Victor changed the subject. "Why? Anything to add, Potter?"

The artist jumped, his wide eyes bulging wildly. "Me?" He shrugged. "Not a thing. Came here to paint, and a fine chance I've had! Never saw or heard of the place before. Went to Rockville first, just as you did, Quade, and a fellow said, when I bought some linseed oil and turpentine, 'If it's scenery you want, go to the Head.' So I came and liked it, and now wish I hadn't." It was the longest speech I'd ever heard from him.

The minister wasn't saying a thing. He stood by the rail, his sermon forgotten, gazing out toward Rockville. But he faced us quietly when Victor spoke to him.

"And you, De Witt, want to add a word?"

"You mean my prison record? It'll doubtless be raked up. I'll just say this: 'I lost money in the Lane Bank failure—several thousand dollars. I came here summers—Rockville, I mean—and preached there, as well as in New York. Because of a scandal, I was ousted from both churches. Some of the funds for maintenance were missing. PFC. MAYER SERIOUSLY ILL AT CAMP PICKETT HOSPITAL

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Mayer received a telegram from the war department Tuesday informing them that their son, Pfc. Carl Mayer, is seriously ill in a hospital at Camp Pickett, Va. with a contagious disease. Further details were not given. In reply to their request for more information, Mr. and Mrs. Mayer received another telegram Wednesday stating that their son was slightly improved.

Just recently Pfc. Mayer was transferred to Camp Pickett from Camp Gordon Johnston, Fla. A postcard, showing post headquarters at Camp Pickett, was received at this office from Carl last week end, telling of his transfer and new address. The message on the card read as follows:

Hi Don and Bill;
Just a card to let you know my address—Pfc. Carl Mayer 3626641, Co. B, 116th Inf. A.P.O. 28, Camp Pickett, Va. Boy, sure is good to get out of Gordon Johnston. Pickett, from what I have seen, looks O. K. At least not so much sand around. That's all. Don't forget the Statesman.

Carl
Before being transferred to Camp Pickett, Pfc. Mayer was honored by being awarded a sharp-shooter's medal at rifle practice on a range in Alabama. He had already received a marksmanship medal previously.

PROST REPORTS INJURY

Mention was made last week in this column of a telegram received by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Prost of the town of Kewaskum, informing them that their son, Ellsworth, seaman first class in the navy, had been injured and returned to the east coast where he was a patient at St. Albans hospital. The telegram did not state the nature of his injuries but the Prosts received a letter from their son the past week in which he wrote that he was injured aboard ship when a cable snapped and one end struck him on the head. Although quite badly injured, he is recovering nicely.

MARINE AT EL CENTRO

Horse and Cattle Owners!

Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war. Glycerine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. T. for high explosives, and only Rendering Plants produce these products; as all dead animals buried or used otherwise are a waste to our country. Call your Renderer, Wm. Laabs, to collect your dead animals and you will be paid a fair price for them. Renderers can not pay an inflationary price as there is a ceiling on all of the products of rendering plants. You Women Who Suffer From HOT FLASHES then CHILLY FEELINGS
Heed This Advice!
If you—like so many women between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, weak, dizzy, nervous feelings, distress of "irregularities", are blue at times—due to the functional middle age period in a woman's life—try taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound of course. It's the best known medicine you can buy that's made especially for women.
Pinkham's Compound is famous to relieve such distress. Taken regularly—it helps build up resistance against such annoying symptoms. It also is a fine stomachic tonic.
Thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported benefits. Time and again Lydia Pinkham's Compound has proved some women's happiest days often can be during their "40's". Also beneficial for younger women to help relieve distress of female monthly functional disturbances. Follow label directions. Worth trying!

to stay in the camp. I am to be transferred again soon. I always got the paper through my old company but they too are moving out. In fact they left today. I sure want to keep on getting the paper. It always feels good to know what is going on at home.
Well, Bill, I am not too much of a writer. Anyway, I think you know most of the things about this camp from the other boys. Maybe when I get transferred I can tell you more about the camp I get to. So I shall say goodbye.
Your friend,
Math.

Emergency Farm Help Plans Made in County

Washington county is taking definite steps to provide emergency farm help for farmers who might need such help to save their crops.

The farm labor situation in the county will need constant attention if its food production program is to be maintained. Many farmers of the county have been working long hours to keep their farm operations going, but there will soon be an even greater need for farm help to harvest the peas, hay, and grain crops. It was the general opinion of the various businessmen, professional men, and farmers present at a farm labor meeting held in the court house, West Bend, on Wednesday evening, June 9, that a very worthwhile plan could be worked out to help ease the farm labor shortage in case a farmer would need emergency help to prevent the loss of a crop.

The seven principle trade centers within the county were represented at the meeting. County Agent E. E. Skalkskey opened the discussion by reviewing the present labor situation as it is related to their important task of producing food for the fighting forces and the home front. Following the introductory statements, many others were called on to discuss the help problem in their own farming area and to suggest what might be done to meet it. These remarks led the group into a general discussion and ideas and plans were brought up to lead every group present to believe they could return to their own trade centers and develop a program to fit their own needs.

The volunteer groups which the trade center committees suggested setting up can be thought of as victory farm volunteer corps which will be made up of any individuals who could work on a short notice from a farmer for a few hours to help save the crops. An average hourly wage will be asked of the farmer calling for this volunteer help.

Basil Peterson of Hartford gave a constructive outline of how they are attempting to secure and place help by use of a card system designed for both farm and factory workers. The West Bend committee is also developing a card system of their own to secure volunteer help. Other communities will make a house to house canvass to secure the needed labor. Guido Schroeder, who is a member of the state farm labor committee, remarked that many crops such as peas, hay and grain needed to be harvested during a certain time or else there would be a partial loss of the crop's value. John Schwalbach of Germantown said the help was scarce down there but that they would attempt to set up a volunteer corps. L. Frey of Hartford, Paul Bartelt of Jackson, and W. I. Grubbe stated that the farmers are willing to pay what they could afford for workers to help harvest a farm crop.

Leonard H. Winn, farm labor representative and assistant agricultural agent, stated that a willingness to co-operate by rural and urban people should prevail in times like these and that it would do much to give confidence and assurance to the farmer that everyone is backing him in his food production program which is necessary to the prosecution of this war.

The procedure for securing volunteer help will be to call the chairman of each trade center committee whose names will be announced at a later date and place a request for help with him. This labor source is to be considered as emergency help only.

Mr. Winn, whose office is located in the county agriculture extension dept., West Bend post office building, is working full time to help the farmer and the local canning factories obtain the help that will be needed. It is hoped that many of the requests for help can be filled by full time laborers and thereby reduce the necessity of calling on the volunteer help to a minimum.

Twenty-five Years Ago

A team of horses tied in front of A. A. Perschbacher's blacksmith shop, belonging to Wm. Schief of Pwé Corners, became frightened by a passing auto, tore themselves loose and ran away north on Fond du Lac ave. at break-neck speed. When passing the Chas. Buss home they swerved to the side of the street and struck a tree. The impact caused the team to fall and they became entangled in the harness. No damage was done to the wagon but one horse had to be placed under the care of Veterinary George Brandt.

A serious accident was narrowly averted in the village when a young man from Milwaukee, driving an Indian motorcycle, collided with a Ford auto driven by David Rosenheimer. Luckily Mr. Rosenheimer was driving slow, which saved the motorcycle from serious injury.

Mrs. Edmund Ryan, nee Mary Ann Corcoran, 67, native of the town of Wayne, died at Fond du Lac.

Mrs. Henry Kauffung, former resident of Kewaskum many years, died at West Bend.

TWENTY-SIX YEARS AGO

(1917)
Edw. C. Miller, Ervin Koch and John Schaefer received nine cans of wall-oved pike from the fish hatchery at Oshkosh, which they planted in Forest Lake. They expect to receive some strawberry bass, rock bass and pickerel in the near future.

Six boys and three girls received their diplomas at high school commencement exercises held in the opera house, namely August Bilgo, Pearson Brown, Louis Oppenorth, Ralph Schaefer, Leo Marx, Harry Schaefer, Hulda Quandt, Malinda Raether and Lorinda Schaefer. A program was given. Leo Marx was valedictorian and Hulda Quandt salutatorian of the class.
