HOLSTEIN BREEDERS MEET AT JACOB NEHRBASS HOME, ROCKFELL

The summer meeting of the Washington County Holstein Breeders Association was held at the home of the Jacob Nehrbass family, of Rockfell, on Thursday evening, June 24. The meeting began at 8:00 o'clock with a demonstration on official Holstein-Friesian classification. Following an inspection of the Nehrbass herd, a brief speaking program and some motion pictures pertaining to the Holstein-Friesian herd were presented.

All county Holstein breeders were invited and urged to attend this meeting which had been planned in the interests of wartime conservation to replace the annual black and white show.

Drive to Increase Payroll Buying of War Bonds to 50%

The county payroll savings committee, headed by Walter Malzahn, chairman, is conducting a drive to increase all payroll allotments for war bonds at least 50 per cent. On Tuesday night, all manufacturers as well as retailers of eastern Washington county met in West Bend. On Wednesday night those of the western part of the county all met at Hartford. At these meetings plans of action were discussed by all those present. The meetings were attended by the head of each business represented as well as by an individual in each plant who would be specifically responsible for the success of the plan.

For the past year, invest 10 per cent of your earnings in war bonds has been the slogan of the payroll committee. This is no longer sufficient under today's conditions. The object of the payroll committee is to get at least 15 per cent and in many cases 20 or 25 per cent of payroll invested in war bonds. The call today is to invest every penny every one can in war bonds each and every month. Washington county so far has done a remarkable job, but the job today is necessarily one of greater magnitude than it was six months of a year ago. As our war machine becomes larger, our investments in war bonds must become larger.

Each industry and each retail store will conduct their own drive among their employees. Every person on payroll in Washington county will be visited personally during the next couple of weeks. Every plant that has a hundred or more employees will have the man designated in their organization as a special agent of the United States treasury department who will handle all the details of the campaign. This man will receive a special appointment from Washington and will act as a representative of the United States treasury department at the plant at which he works.

Naturally the need for investing in United States war bonds today is greater than ever before. And, with the many things that are impossible to buy today, the money available for investing in war bonds should be greater than ever before. The fact that our income taxes will now be deducted from payroll should not interfere with war bond buying in the least. This "withholding" tax is not a new tax. It's the same tax that we paid last year. The only difference is that it is being withheld from our pay check each and every week so when the year is over our tax is paid and we do not have to scramble around for money to pay our taxes next March 15—it is an easy way to pay our tax.

It is important that everyone realize that this is not an added tax in any way. It is the same tax, but it is collected as we earn our money.

It is quite interesting to take a typical example of what this "withholding" tax actually amounts to. Let's take an example of a man who is married and has two children and earns $45.00 a week. Up to July 1, he had to set aside his money for taxes—now it is being deducted from his pay check. Previous to July 1 there was a deduction of $1.60 every week for his victory tax. After July 1, his victory tax, as well as income tax deduction each week will only amount to $1.80—just 20 cents more than he paid before—$1.80 a week, which figures 4%. There shouldn't be any cases with figures like this where a man can say that his taxes are too high and he can't put money in war bonds.

The need is great. If you are on payroll anywhere be ready when you are contacted to increase your payroll deduction for war bonds. The more you save today the better off you're going to be when this war is over.

FIRST BROOD CONTROL OF CODLING MOTH OR APPLE WORM

Codling moth bait traps show that the codling moth made its first appearance rather late this year. The first catch was recorded on June 7. Since warmer weather has set in, more moths are flying, and this indicates that eggs may hatch late next week and that a spray should be applied here in the early part of the week. In more northern areas or in orchards within the cooling effect of the large lakes, moths emergence is somewhat later and the sprays should be correspondingly later.

Most farm orchards as well as commercial orchards which are being sprayed have already received two codling moth sprays this season: the calyx and the 10-day sprays. Some commercial orchards have received a 20-day spray (20 days after the calyx) and will receive another application from 30 to 35 days after the calyx application date.

The 20-day spray is generally considered an extra spray. It is not needed in so-called worm-free orchards but can be of definite value in badly infested orchards.

However, in orchards where the apple worm (not the maggot) was abundant the last year or two, it will pay well to apply it, using the same spray mixture as RECOMMENDED for the 10-day and 20-day sprays. This extra application can do much in reducing first brood side worms in heavily infested orchards. It should be followed by the "30-day spray" about 10 days later.

Because of the prevalence of scab in many orchards, it is well to use lime sulphur as in earlier sprays but at reduced concentration—1 1/2 gals. in 100 gals. water.

In orchards where scab is under good control at this time, one of the milder fungicides such as flotation sulphur may be substituted for the liquid lime sulphur, using it at the rate recommended by the manufacturer.

CANKER WORM CONTROL

The scorched appearance of many fruit and shade trees in the southern half of Wisconsin is the work of the spring cankerworm, an insect which has defoliated and seriously weakened hundreds of trees in this county the past few years.

Proper spraying of the trees will help to keep the pest in check. A good spray to apply to the foliage at this stage in the development of both the leaves and the cankerworm is one containing four or five pounds of arsenate of lead to 100 gallons of water.

The small, greenish or brownish cankerworms can be readily identified because they form a loop when crawling and suspend themselves from branches on silken strands when disturbed.

DAIRYMEN PLAN MORE AND BETTER MILK HOUSES

An unusual number of milk houses will go up on Wisconsin farms this year, according to Engineer Max LaRock of the University of Wisconsin. There are already between 50,000 and 60,000 milk houses in use in the state.

Washington county is planning on building more than a score of new milk houses this summer according to E. E. Skallskey, county agricultural agent, who has made a survey of the milk house construction intentions of local dairymen.

LaRock reports that he has had more inquiries about milk house planning this season than for a number of years. Milk houses are included on the list of "production" buildings for which farmers are allowed a liberal building priority.

The Wisconsin engineer is urging farmers, though, to study post-war plans in building milk houses.

"Consider future market requirements," he is advising. "It might also be well to decide whether you'll be altering or modernizing your barn at some future time, and if so, how these changes will affect milk house location and planning."

Concrete blocks are being much more widely used now than in previous years, LaRock reports. This type of light-weight masonry has a higher insulating value than the regular sand and gravel block.

A number of farmers are arranging their milk cooling tanks so that overflow water can be piped to the stock watering tank.

"Sudan grass poisoning" is not common, and is easy to prevent. All it takes is to keep the cows off small stunted grass.

Household Appliances Will Last If You Treat Them With Respect
ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN
The fixer-upper around the house who worked with a bent hairpin or a nail file is an ante-bellum curiosity these days. For if now-precious household appliances are going to last you through until peace comes, you must know your stuff before you start to tinkler with unreplaceable conveniences. And the word of the wise is, "When in doubt, don't."

Good citizenship and good house-keeping demand that this year you inspect, clean and make essential repairs to your home beginning with a fire-retardant roof and going through the place right down to the cellar, eliminating all fire hazards. And American women are learning. Here, for example, is your fine, white kitchen range, either gas or electric. You're learning to care for it as you do your best Sunday-go-to-meeting china. You no longer use coarse cleaning powders; you spurn steel wool (even if you could get it which you can't); you keep your eyes peeled for stray spots of vinegar, lemon and the like that cause discoloration.

Load of Heavy Bombers
Heavy bombers of the latest U. S. type weigh about 40,000 pounds and are capable of carrying 4,000 to 8,000 pounds of bombs for an estimated distance of 3,000 miles. They carry 11,000 gallons of gasoline—or 3,000 gallons more than the ordinary railroad gasoline tank.

Hubby's Caution Seriously Cramped Wife's Efforts
"It's rumored about that Mrs. Grampus hasn't spoken to her husband since she got her First Aid certificate, more than a month ago," gushed Mrs. Giblegaber.

Penitents Still Wearing 'Tickle Shirts' in Britain
One of Britain's oldest and strangest industries, hair shirt-making, is surviving the war. In remote convents, nuns are still engaged in making the shirts for people who wish to do their penance with realism. Monks and very pious people wear the shirts, which are uncomfortable and painful.

Shots That Tell
The American navy is employing shells which carry highly colored dyes in the nose of the shots. When these shots strike the water, spouts of red, orange, or green rise as high as 20 feet from the surface of the ocean.

African Sergeant Major Is Permitted Four Wives

Among the troops who helped to drive the Italians out of Ethiopia in 1940 were sturdy native soldiers from the African Gold Coast.

The British carefully refrain from interfering with their customs. About half of them are Moslems, others Christians, but their marriage customs are peculiarly their own.

Some of the non-Christians may have as many wives as they choose in private life. But in barracks they are "rationed" according to rank; that is, one wife for a private, two for a sergeant, and four for a sergeant-major.

The Gold Coast soldier is about average height. He goes to school for an hour a day under British tutors, and serves under British officers. He lives in cement and white plaster barracks that are pin-bright. His boots shine like glass and he is scrupulously clean.

Greeting Among Arabs

In North Africa, the ritual of greeting among Arabs demands that the man "looking down" should speak first, irrespective of his social status, says Collier's.

Thus, the man on a camel greets first the man on a horse, the horse-back rider nods first to the man on a donkey, the donkey rider bows first to the pedestrian and the pedestrian first to the man sitting down.

Never, never put electrical appliances into water to clean them.

A damp cloth and a mild abrasive are sufficient in most cases. Guard wires against dampness.

Start root vegetables in boiling, salted water, about one teaspoon of salt to a quart of water.

So that they will not appear spotted, iron shantungs and pongees dry.

When drying a sweater or sweat shirt, use a wire coat hanger and bend the ends almost together while putting the garment on the hanger or removing it. This prevents stretching the neck of the garment.

Baked ham is glorified by pouring honey over the ham before browning. It gives a delicate brown color and a delicious flavor.

Hubby's Caution Seriously Cramped Wife's Efforts

"It's rumored about that Mrs. Grampus hasn't spoken to her husband since she got her First Aid certificate, more than a month ago," gushed Mrs. Giblegaber.

"You don't say!" returned Mrs. Cackleclack. "What seems to be the trouble?"

"Well, before she took up First Aid, almost every day her husband came home from work with a bruise, cut, or other kind of injury," informed Mrs. Giblegaber; "but now that she has her certificate, he hasn't suffered as much as a scratch, and she's convinced he's being careful on purpose!"

Farming Under Difficulty

Farming in England has been most difficult since the outbreak of the war. To prevent plagues from landing in planted plots, many farmers have erected posts every few feet across their fields.

In some instances the military has dug trenches or tank traps from one end of the farm to the other. Grain cannot be stacked in large piles, and cattle cannot be kept in large herds for fear of their being destroyed by mass bombings. In spite of these and other ills, the United Kingdom has produced approximately 65 per cent of her own food requirements.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Several strands of wire placed from end to end lengthwise over the poultry feed trough will prevent chickens from getting into the trough with their feet and wasting and contaminating the feed.

No one particularly likes to iron curtain ruffles. Why not dip the curtains into cleaning fluid, two gallons for six pairs of curtains? If they are hung in the air to dry, and care is exercised, they will not require pressing.

To clean water bottles fill rather more than half full with hot soapy water and add some torn-up pieces of used blotting paper or brown paper. Let the bottles stand for two or three hours, shake up well, and rinse thoroughly with clean cold water. After they have drained, polish them gently with a fine glass cloth.

Square corners on small linoleum rugs or mats often become broken and unsightly. Cutting the corners round will prevent this and make your rugs stay new much longer. When so treated they will lie flatter on the floor and will not be kicked about so easily. To make sure the corners you cut are uniform, trace a cutting line on the rug first with a saucer or pie plate.

Gilt frames can be cleaned by dipping a soft cloth in milk and rubbing gently over the soiled spots. Repeat several times if necessary.

No job is so important that you cannot take time to do it safely.

A cushion or pad underneath a rug not only makes it feel softer and warmer but will also make the rug last longer.

Save time—fuel—other foods, too!
