Leona Terlinden Bride of Charles Westphal, Jr.

Miss Leona Terlinden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Terlinden of Route 3 Kewaskum, and Charles Westphal, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Westphal, Sr. of Newburg, were united in marriage in a ceremony read by the Rev. George Barthels at Zion's Lutheran church near Kohlsville at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 26.

The bride wore a princess style gown of white velvety marquisette with a sweetheart neckline and tiny buttons extending down the back from the neckline to the waistline and a long train. Her fingertip length veil was lace trimmed. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, sweet peas and bachelor buttons.

Miss Ariene Terlinden attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing an aqua gown made similar to that of the bride. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the bride, and carried a colonial bouquet of roses, sweet peas, larkspur and bachelor buttons. The bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Westphal, sister of the bridegroom, was attired in a peach gown similar to that of the bride. She also wore a pearl necklace a gift of the bride, and carried a colonial bouquet of roses, sweet peas, larkspur and bachelor buttons.

Raymond Krenschler attended the bridegroom as best man and Arthur Terlinden, brother of the bride, was groomsmen.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to members of the immediate families at Zastrow's restaurant in West Bend. The newlyweds left on a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin and upon their return will make their home at Newburg.

The bride is an inspector at the West Bend Aluminum company and the groom is employed as a welder by the Grobs Manufacturing company of Grafton.

POKEL-GUTEKUNST

Mrs. C. J. Gutekunst, W. Blue Mound rd., Milwaukee, formerly of Route 1 Kewaskum, announces the marriage of her daughter, Dorothy, to Le Roy Pokel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pokel, N. 42nd st., Milwaukee, which took place on May 30 at Mount Calvary chapel in that city. Young Mrs. Pokel formerly taught at St. John's Lutheran school at New Fane, where her late father, the Rev. C. J. Gutekunst, was pastor for many years preceding his death. She attended Antigo Normal school and Prospect Hill, Milwaukee.

Buddenhagen On Navy's Official Casualty List

Twenty-one Wisconsin men were listed as killed or missing in an official navy casualty list issued last Thursday and all are presumed to have been aboard the United States coast guard cutter Escanaba, which blew up from an undetermined cause while on convoy duty in the north Atlantic and sank almost immediately. Four additional fatalities were listed with those issued previously, bringing the total to 25. The names of the men are: R. 2. Buddenhagen of Kewaskum, R. 2. Buddenhagen's parents were notified that their son was killed in action two weeks ago, and although it was believed he was aboard the Escanaba, his name was not listed among the casualties until last Thursday.

FIREMEN SET AUG. 15 AS DATE FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

The Kewaskum firemen this week set Sunday, Aug. 15, as the tentative date for their annual picnic to be held in the village park. The committee in charge has contacted the Milwaukee Road's Hiawatha Service Club and plans to engage this organization to furnish the entertainment for the event. This is a band of 45 pieces and is one of the finest in the state. The band also carries entertainers. Set Aug. 15 aside and plan to attend. Further announcements regarding the picnic will be made later.

G. KIPPENHAGEN ENGAGED AS BATHING BEACH ATTENDANT

The village board the past week engaged Marshall George Kippenhagen as attendant at the bathing beach in the village park for the protection of bathers and to keep order at the beach. The board was unable to secure a lifeguard this summer and because of the necessity of having an attendant at the beach Mr. Kippenhagen accepted the duties. He is at the park every afternoon and evening.

BIRTHS

NAUMANN—A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Naumann, R. 3 Kewaskum, at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, Wednesday, June 30.
SCHMITT—An eight pound son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Schmitt of St. Kilian Monday, June 28, at Jassger's Maternity home, Campbellsport.

Renewal of "A" Gasoline Rations by Mail Underway

Plans to renew motorists' "A" gasoline coupon books by mail under the streamlined renewal plan recently announced by the OPA beginning June 22 have been completed.

Car owners should file their applications, Form OPA R 570, as soon as possible so that the board may process them and mail out all new books before the present "A" rations expire July 21.

The mail renewal plan, which also includes renewals of the basic "D" motorcycle rations, eliminates the school house registration that was necessary when basic rations were issued last autumn. To get his new "A" or "D" books a car and motorcycle owner needs take only the following simple steps:

1. Pick up an application form at any of the 60 tire inspection stations in the county.
2. Fill out the form and mail it to the War Price and Rationing Board together with (a) the back cover of the present "A" or "D" book (properly filled out and signed) and (b) the current tire inspection record showing that proper inspections have been made.

The new application forms, like those used last year, will have a tire inspection record attached. In filling out the form, applicants should make sure that their serial numbers are accurately written in. These numbers may be copied from the old tire record as corrected at time of the last inspection, unless the applicant has acquired a new tire since then. In this case, he should write in the new tire number and attach a note explaining this to the board.

The back cover of the present ration book is required as part of the application because it is evidence that the owner held a properly issued ration and is entitled to a renewal, the chairman explained.

Any motorists who have not had at least one tire inspection by a qualified inspector will be denied a renewal.

Warns Youths to Register On Eighteenth Birthday

Colonel John F. Mullen, state director of selective service for Wisconsin, has reiterated former announcements pertaining to the duty and liability of men to register for selective service upon attaining their 18th birthday. The director said that some men are not registering promptly as required by the presidential proclamation.

Colonel Mullen said: "It is required that all men in Wisconsin shall present themselves for registration to the local board having jurisdiction over the place of their residence immediately upon attaining the age of 18 years. During the continuance of the present war, those who were born on or after January 1, 1925, shall be registered on the day they attain the eighteenth anniversary of the day of their birth; provided, that if such anniversary falls on a Sunday or a legal holiday, their registration shall take place on the day following."

The director warned that failure to register is a serious offense and may result in prosecution by the federal government.

ANOTHER OF EBERLE'S DOGS WINNER AT FIRST SHOWING

Eberle's Bomber, another young beagle hound owned by Joe Eberle, local beagle fancier, carried off top honors in the first show it was entered in at the 4th annual licensed dog show of the Lake Shore Kennel club at Hammond, Ind. Sunday. Eberle's Bomber is a brother of champion Eberle's Mickey, which dog recently won the top places in three straight beagle shows and gained enough points to become a full-fledged bench champion. Fifteen points are necessary before a dog becomes a champion. Eberle's Bomber was judged the best male in the Hammond show and then defeated the best female in the show to win the best of winners award. The winning gave the little beagle its first four points toward its championship.

80 SELECTEES ACCEPTED

Eighty Fond du Lac county men representing Selective Service Board No. 1 and 2, were accepted for the army and navy following physical examinations at Milwaukee last week Tuesday. Among those accepted for the navy were Alex M. Kucianskas of New Prospect and Sylvester Schaefer of Campbellsport. Those accepted will leave for active duty July 6 at Camp Grant, Ill.

Broken Piston Rod Delays Train Here

Chicago & North Western southbound passenger train No. 154 due here at 5:10 p. m. daily was delayed nearly an hour and a half Wednesday at the Main street crossing when a piston rod leading to a cylinder on the locomotive broke off. After making the stop the locomotive would not budge and all traffic had to be rerouted across the Second street crossing near the Kewaskum Aluminum company plant.

The southbound streamlined train due here at 5:48 p. m., which does not stop otherwise, was also delayed about 15 minutes. The streamliner pulled up in back of the stalled train, blocking off the Second street crossing so that all traffic was tied up. A switch engine from West Bend was summoned and pulled the passenger train onto a siding to allow the streamliner to proceed. The train remained on the siding until the northbound streamliner due here at 6:08 p. m. passed through. The northbound streamliner was held up at West Bend, where the streamlined train met. About 6:30 p. m. the switch engine towed the passenger train as far as West Bend, from where it was able to proceed under its own power again. The stalled trains at the crossing attracted many spectators.

County Selectees Leave For Duty at Camp Grant

Thirty-five selectees from Washington county left West Bend by train Thursday for Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill. to begin active training. The men were inducted into the army June 17 at Milwaukee. Those inducted into the navy on that date left earlier to begin training. This is the first contingent of men from the county to go to Camp Grant, all men previously having been sent to Fort Sheridan.

FURLOUGH EXTENDED

After July 5 selectees for the army will receive 21 days furlough following their induction into service. Marines will receive up to 14 days and sailors up to seven days before reporting.

CELEBRATE COMMUNION, WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A group of about 60 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Guldan and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gross near New Fane last Sunday in honor of the first holy communion of the former's son, Gerald Guldan. The celebration also included a surprise on the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pesch, for their 35th wedding anniversary. The following were present:

Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Pesch and family of New Fane, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hammes and daughter Joanne of West Bend, Father Schweizer of Campbellsport, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dais and family of Rubicon, Mrs. Mayme Scharf and family of Iron Ridge, Mrs. Frances Steichen, daughter Bernice and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dobrats of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. John Pesch of St. Michaels, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rosbeck and family of St. Kilian, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rosbeck and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Schraefnagel of Knowles, Mr. and Mrs. Roman Boegel of Theresa, Mrs. Roman Kuehl and daughter of St. Kilian and Mrs. Bertha Boegel.

An elaborate dinner and supper were served and the afternoon was spent in playing cards.

County Highway Dept. Helps Harvest Peas

County Highway Commissioner Harold J. Riley called a special meeting last Friday for all those interested in the pea harvest, to discuss the possibility of releasing highway workers to help save the farmers' pea crop.

The county committee composed of George Sell, chairman, John Van Beek, Earlton, and William Kuhn of Germantown favored the release of the men immediately.

At a general meeting Saturday forenoon the Washington county highway workers agreed to help in the pea harvest.

By 1 o'clock a few men were already at work. And by Monday morning more than thirty highway workers will be working in the field and at vineyards.

The extremely warm weather last week plus the lack of moisture in the soil has helped to hasten the maturity of the peas.

The help situation in the field and at the vineyards has not looked too good up until now, but will be eased by the response of the county highway workers.

County Agent E. E. Skalsky and Farm Labor Representative Leonard H. Winn, who have been working with the labor problem in the county, state that the highway workers and the many other volunteer workers throughout the county will help greatly in harvesting the early pea crop.

JAMAICANS TO HELP HARVEST VEGETABLE CROPS

The Hartford and Rockfield canning companies have placed their order for approximately thirty Jamaicans to help weed and harvest vegetable crops in the county.

With the shortage of all types of labor especially for weeding beets, carrots, and the harvesting of peas it has been necessary to try to secure all available help.

The Jamaicans are from the carrot and beet fields of Michigan and Indiana. Most of the counties surrounding Washington county already have Jamaican labor at work.

CITY EMPLOYEES RELEASED TO HELP WITH PEAS

The members of the West Bend City Council and Superintendent of Public Works Martin Bremser favored the release of a number of the city employees to help with the early pea harvest.

A number of men agreed to help in the fields and at the vineyards and have already started work in the West Bend area.

ELECT GERHARD KOENIGS CHAIRMAN OF DRAFT BOARD

Gerhard Koenigs, present board member, has been elected chairman of Local Selective Service Board No. 1, Washington county, to relieve Reinhold Kressin, present chairman, of the responsibilities until such time as he recovers from his recent illness.

Public Assistance in County at All-Time Low

According to information submitted by E. A. Brumm, director of the Public Welfare Department of Washington county, public assistance at the present time is at an all-time low. During the past year, there has been a steady decline in all of the categories of public assistance. The employability of nearly everyone willing to work is chiefly responsible for the reduced number of recipients. Another contributing factor is the increased earning power of "responsible relatives" and all cases have been reviewed in this light the past year.

It is interesting to compare the figures of May 1943 against May 1942.

Case Load	1942	1943
Old Age Assistance	271	249
Aid to Dependent Children	58	44
Blind Aid	14	13
Direct Relief	57	25

It is safe to assume that the caseload of all categories of public assistance in Washington county is now stabilized, at least for the duration.

The Public Welfare Department of this county is directly responsible for the administration of the three social security aid programs,—old age assistance, blind assistance, and aid to dependent children.

In addition, they supervise direct transient and non-resident relief, local hospitalization, investigate eligibility for admittance to Wisconsin General hospital and other institutions for the county court, child welfare and juvenile court investigations, selective service investigations, veteran's service, and everything else pertaining to the welfare of the public.

The main office of the County Welfare Department is maintained in the court house at West Bend, with a branch office in Hartford.

Appointed Co-Chairmen For County of State War Fund

Basil L. Peterson of Hartford and Judge F. W. Bucklin of West Bend have been appointed co-chairmen for Washington county of the Wisconsin War fund, Robert L. Reisinger of Milwaukee, state chairman, has announced.

Mr. Peterson and Judge Bucklin will supervise the campaign to raise this county's quota of the fund which the Wisconsin War fund will raise in a state-wide campaign this fall. The drive will be part of a nation-wide drive to raise money for the organizations which comprise the National War fund. The national goal is $125,000,000.

The organizations serve needs on the military front and administer relief to war victims in the United Nations. They are USO (United Service Organizations), United Seamen's Service, War Prisoners Aid, United Nations Relief and Refugee Relief.

United Nations Relief includes the following organizations: Belgian War Relief society, British War Relief society, French Relief fund, Greek War Relief association, Norwegian Relief, Polish War Relief, Queen Wilhelmina fund, Russian War Relief, United China Relief, United Czechoslovak Relief fund, United Yugoslav Relief fund.

Refugee relief includes refugee relief trustees and United States Committee for the Care of European Children.

As is customary when a legal holiday falls on Sunday, the observance is on the following day, therefore the stores and most other business places in Kewaskum will be closed all day Monday, July 5.

COMPANY HOLDS PICNIC

The employers and employees of the Kewaskum Creamery company, their husbands, wives and families enjoyed a picnic in the village park on Tuesday afternoon and evening given by officials of the company. A softball game was played on the high school field, following which the group returned to the park, where games were played, contests held, prizes awarded and lunch and refreshments served. All had a most enjoyable time.

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

The following spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Volm in honor of their daughter Ruth's 13th birthday: Miss Adeline Volm of Kewaskum, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kohler, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Volm, Mrs. Alvin Volm, Walter Kohler, Betty Volm and Grace Volm, all of St. Kilian, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kohler and family of Lemira. All wished Ruth many more happy birthdays.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Matt. Weiss of West Bend announced the engagement of their daughter, Marie, to Orville Strachota, son of Mrs. Marie Strachota of St. Kilian, on Monday, June 28.

LOCKER CLOSED MONDAY

The Kewaskum Frozen Foods locker will be closed all day on Monday, July 5th, a legal holiday. Please arrange accordingly.

Tessars Return Here; Colvins, Others Move

The end of one month and the beginning of another created quite a bit of moving activity in the village this past week. On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Colvin moved from the Walter Klug home on West Water st. to West Bend, where Mr. Colvin purchased a home some time ago at 613 North st. The home vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Colvin was formerly owned by them. Mr. Colvin purchased the property from Carl Mertz and later sold it to Walter Klug.

On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Rosenheimer and family moved from the Jack Tessar home in the Rosenheimer addition into the Klug home formerly occupied by the Colvins. The next day, Thursday, Mrs. Jack Tessar and sons moved back to the village from Manitowish and are again occupying their home, vacated by the Rosenheimers. The Tessars are former residents and moved to Manitowish over a year ago when Mr. Tessar became employed there. Mr. Tessar at present is confined at the soldiers Home hospital in Milwaukee with illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rohlinger and family the past week moved from the Ernst Ramthun home on North Fond du Lac avenue into the Frank Kohn home on the same street and about a block south, which Mr. Rohlinger purchased recently from the Kohns. Mr. and Mrs. Kohn in turn moved into the home formerly occupied by the Alex Kudek family, located across the street and a little north.

Undercover Men Fix Planes Beneath Their Enemies' Nose

Even under constant enemy bombardment, United States soldiers must rescue, salvage, repair, and restore wrecked airplanes. This requires an unusual degree of ingenuity, maneuverability, and mechanical skill. At the Greenville, South Carolina, Service Group Training Center, members of the U. S. Army Air Forces are taught how to do this dangerous work under ingenious camouflage. In picture at top a medical unit rescues an injured pilot from a crash simulated for training purposes.

Cows add a realistic touch to the camouflage installations in the country scene at left. In the background is a parachute drying tent which appears as a silo from the air. Right: A doughboy in a sniper suit, camouflaged to blend into sylvan surroundings. In forest country this warrior would be totally invisible at a distance.

Does this crazy quilt pattern hurt your eyes? It does the same to an enemy bombardier. This pattern screen covers a damaged bomber so that repairs can be made without disclosing it to the enemy. Almost every device known to camoufleurs has been employed at the training center.

In top photo a repair shop building is disguised to appear as a haystack. Note wires at right leading into roof. Bottom: The plane is covered by a screen. The farmhouse and silo in background actually are engineering installations. Tanks, jeeps and seagoing vessels also are camouflaged to confuse the enemy. On the home front expert technicians have so disguised war plants that they appear as farm land from the air.

This bus is camouflaged. All glass has been removed from the windows.

Paradox of Climate

Despite the northern latitude, Finland's climate is moderate. South-west winds prevail. Coastal waters temper extremes. Winter rules about four months in the south; seven months in the north. Winter temperatures average 25 degrees F. in the south; 12 degrees F. in the north. Regional summer averages are 65 degrees F. and 53 degrees F. Seasonal variations in the length of the day are notable.

Can Only Best

Canning does not improve the quality of foods no matter what method is used, so it is desirable to use only those which are of good quality when preserved. Food will not spoil unless it is contaminated by bacteria or fungi. Thorough cleaning of vegetables to remove all soil particles; sterilization of jars, lids and rubbers; and processing the food according to directions will reduce the danger of food spoilage.

Prisoners of War Are Held in 17 States; Some Work on Farms and Public Projects

Defeated Men Happy About Hearty Food, Humane Treatment

Prisoners of war, principally from North Africa, are being shipped to the United States and placed in camps, there to remain until peace returns. Some 36,688 men have arrived, of whom 22,110 are Germans, 14,516 Italians and 62 Japanese, up to the first week of June, the war department announces. They are confined in 21 camps, located in 17 states.

These former enemy soldiers are being treated according to the humane requirements of the Geneva convention, of which both Germany and Italy are signatories, as is the United States. Japan has never accepted this agreement.

These men may be employed, within rigid provisions, on farms and public works construction, thereby possibly relieving the labor shortage in some regions. Another advantage of having these prisoners here keeps their friends and relatives in the homelands anxious about their welfare. This anxiety may help to insure honorable treatment of American prisoners in Axis camps. On the other hand, the reports which prisoners write home about the good food and decent living and working conditions here, should have a favorable propaganda value.

Germans are housed in these 11 camps. These are: Camp Breckinridge, Ky.; Camp Chaffee, Ark.; Crossville, Tenn.; Camp Gruber, Okla.; Hereford, Texas; Huntsville, Texas; Roswell, N. M.; Stringtown, Okla.; Angel Island, Calif.; Camp Blanding, Fla.; and Fort Meade, Md. There are some Italians at Crossville. Angel Island, Camp Blanding, and Fort Meade are temporary establishments.

There are 10 camps for Italians. These are: Camp Atterbury, Ind.; Camp Carson, Colo.; Camp Clark, Mo.; Weingarten, Mo.; Crossville, Tenn. (separate from Germans); Florence, Ariz.; Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; Ogden, Utah; Camp Phillips, Kan.; and Camp Wheeler, Ga. All these are permanent. The 62 Japanese are confined at Camp McCoy, Wis. (See map.)

Room for 55,000 in Camps.

The present capacity of these camps is stated as approximately 55,000. Present camps will be expanded, and new ones established as needed, the war department says. Most prison camps are located within army camps.

The commanding officer of the army installation is also the commanding officer of the prison establishment. Where the prison camp is not within an army installation, the commanding officer of the prison camp is designated by the commanding general of the service command area.

The standard stockade at each of the prison camps is an enclosure within a double barbed wire fence, with guard towers covering a narrow alley between fences.

This stockade is divided into three compounds, containing hut shelters, mess halls, toilet facilities and other installations to provide for 1,000 men. Within their respective compounds, the prisoners may circulate freely, but guarded gates restrict passage.

German and Italian soldiers, herded into huge barbed-wire enclosures after surrender in Tunisia lean on fence, weary and broken in spirit. Some appear to be crying. But the two grinning fellows (right) plainly show their joy that it's all over, as they anticipate transfer to Canada or the United States.

from one enclosure to another. Guards and administrative personnel are housed outside the stockade in nearby barracks and offices.

Will Work as Harvest Hands.

The office of the provost marshal general has found that many of the prisoners were tradesmen, including carpenters, stone masons, house painters, but the use to which their skills may be put is restricted.

Many others were farmers. Their use in farming will be confined to those operations which require a dozen or more men at one time, such as cotton picking and harvesting. Prisoners must be under guard at all times. Being soldiers, they cannot be placed in the custody of a civilian, and it is impracticable to send a guard out with small groups.

Other occupations which will employ large numbers of prisoners are road building, irrigation developments, dam construction and projects of a similar nature.

All of the enlisted prisoners, whether working or not, receive an allowance of 10 cents a day for the purchase of toilet goods or other articles from the stockade canteen. Their pay when working, 80 cents a day, is deposited in a credit account. The prisoner may withdraw, in the form of canteen coupons, one-half of each month's credit up to a maximum of $10 per month.

When working for a state or private contractor, the rate of pay is decided upon in advance between the employer and the camp commander. The rate, however, may not be less than that of 80 cents a day paid when the work is done for the federal government.

Officer prisoners are not compelled to work. If they choose to work, they are paid the same basis as the enlisted man. Regardless of whether or not the officers work, under the Geneva convention they are paid in accordance with their grade and in line with specific arrangements between the enemy powers. This pay for German and Italian officer prisoners is the equivalent of $20 per month for warrant officers and first and second lieutenants; $30 for captains, and $40 for those in the grade of major and above.

Sports and Reading Rooms.

Facilities for recreation are provided at all of the camps. Equipment supplied by the war department is supplemented in many cases by gifts from private organizations.

Because the prisoners naturally favor the sports of their own countries, standard army athletic equipment kits have not proved generally satisfactory.

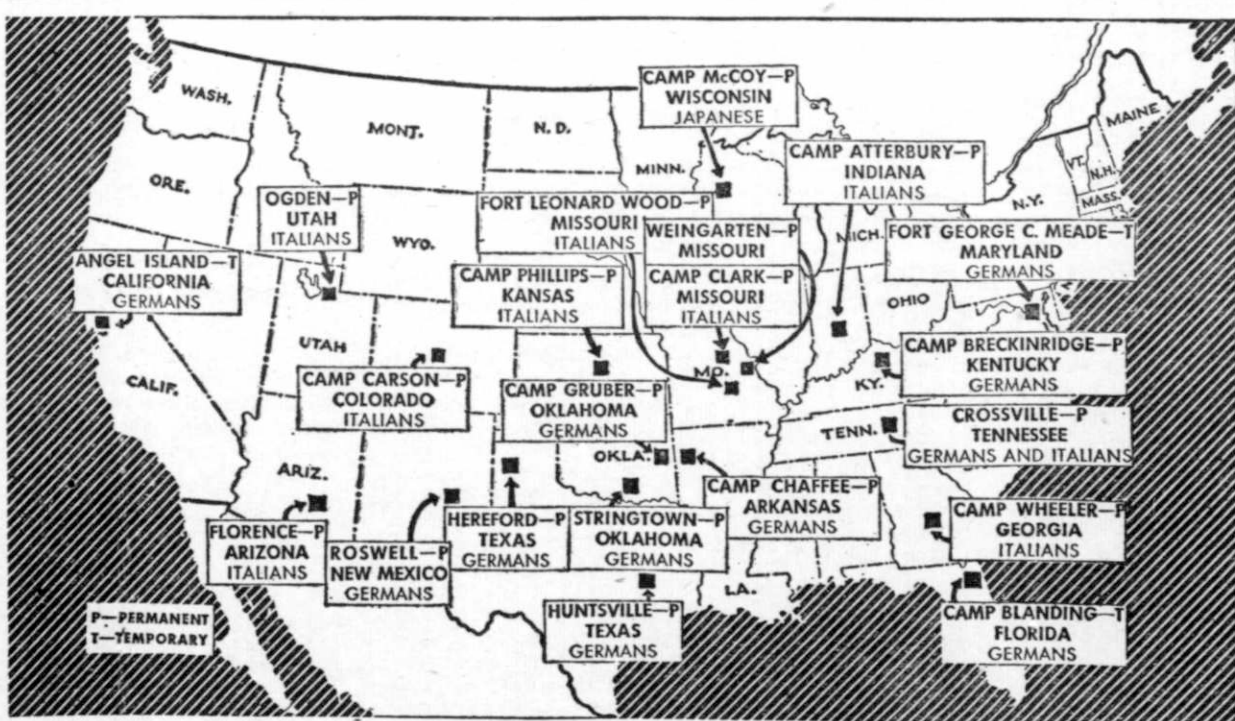

National preferences and tastes are taken into account in planning the meals for the prisoners. These menus, covering meals for a month, are prepared in the office of the quartermaster general. Substitutions may be made from a list of foods indicated as approximately equivalent in food value to any item on the specified list. For instance, the Italians at Camp Atterbury, Ind., asked for more bread and spaghetti instead of their meat allowance. The camp now gets more flour and less meat. The menu for a typical day at that camp consists of spaghetti, pork, potatoes, cole slaw, canned pears, coffee and thick crusted Italian bread. It is mentioned that the men leave their plates clean.

The administration of each prison camp follows a well-established pattern. A typical prison camp, for example, housing 3,000 prisoners, requires the services of 506 officers and enlisted men of the United States army. This detachment is made up of three military police escort companies, 21 additional officers, and three attached officers. These companies usually are rotated, one being on actual guard, manning towers and gates, while another is in alert and another is engaged in tactical and other training exercises or in supervising and guarding work details.

The prisoners are organized into companies of 250 men each, with each company under an officer of the army of the United States. In turn, battalions are formed within the camp, all under the camp commander.

Although the company commander is assisted in administering his company by enlisted members of the army of the United States, including a first sergeant, a mess and supply sergeant, a clerk, an interpreter and cook, the prisoners themselves are permitted to organize and administer their own affairs as much as possible. From their own ranks they may choose leaders to serve as their spokesmen in making requests or complaints to the company or camp commander. Cooks, barbers, tailors, cobblers and other essential personnel also are chosen from among the prisoners.

'Arctic Emergencies' Advises Fliers How to Survive Amid Snow and Cold

A guide to the Arctic Circle will now accompany every army air forces pilot required to fly across the top of the world, the war department announces. "Arctic Emergencies," a little orange-and-blue booklet, will be carried in each flier's emergency kit on future flights far north.

The booklet was prepared by the safety education division of the army air forces flight control command, and is a companion piece to "Jungle and Desert Emergencies," distributed early in May. Like its predecessor, it possesses an especially durable cover and water-resistant pages. Authorities on all phases of life in the Arctic were consulted in its preparation.

The guide tells how to make suitable goggles to ward off treacherous snow blindness, how to increase the warmth and protective qualities of regulation flying suits, what to eat and how to cook it.

Dietary tips for the flier forcefully grounded north of the tree line are plentiful and varied. They include the warning that polar bear livers are poisonous. Also, to the pilot who might be tempted to live on rabbits because they are abundant, the booklet points out that such a course will produce "rabbit starvation" and possible death.

Glass Stops Bullets, Insulates Tanks, Filters Blood Plasma

At least a thousand varieties of glass have war uses. Glass hollow-tube is used to build factories.

Multilayered plate glass, bonded by plastics, protects men in the armed forces in trucks, tanks, armored cars, battleships and bombers.

A single airplane has many different kinds of bulbs, even those which yield black light to render fluorescent controls and maps visible to the pilot, but "invisible to the enemy.

X-ray bulbs reveal defects in war materials and locate shrapnel and fractures in wounded men.

Optical glass probably plays the major role. First, there are the new wide-angle camera lenses.

Binoculars serve for general observation. The telescope is used by the signal corps. The bomb-sight serves on bombers. The periscope aids the partly submerged submarine.

Glass mats and woven glass ribbon and cloth serve as separators to insulate parts of storage batteries and electrical machinery. Special glass ribbon filters the dissolved blood plasma in hospitals. Glass sutures or threads for stitching or sewing up wounds have been developed.

Glass cloth is nonflammable. It may be waterproofed and used in tarpaulins to protect war equipment against moisture, rain and snow.

A definition of democracy is a state of mind in which every man is as good as every other man provided he really is.

Have you noticed that when you are angry with other people it's "indignation." But when other people are angry with you, it's just "temper."

The man who goes about saying he had never been born is the only one who regrets it.

A man has no right to his own opinions of the things which he knows nothing.

Women Dress to Please Selves, Incidentally Men

Do women dress to please men? An old question that loses its popularity. Women take pleasure in themselves with taste and discrimination, and they like to be at the art in competition with other women. And they like to be men—particularly those who are interested to be pleased.

Biologically, we must go far for an answer to prehistoric times when the human race was emerging from the animal stage. In nature it is the usual rule that the male is to be more resourceful than the female. No doubt men and women began to acquire the power of thinking things women first adorned themselves in imitation of the male.

Note that, in what we call modern civilization, among people who could afford the expense, women were usually more elegantly dressed than women until the time of the French revolution.

The Answers

1. Chinese.
2. The fierce unpredictable wind of Alaska which has upset minutely plotted attacks.
3. The year 1942. Authorities say 2,000,000 men of all nations were killed in the war during the year.
4. Approximately 250,000.
5. South Africa.
6. Mars (24 hours 37 1/2 minutes).

Admirals may be admirable, but that isn't where the word comes from. It comes from an old Arabic word "amir-al" meaning "commander of." That's what the Admiral is, the top-ranking officer in the Navy. Top-ranking cigarette with our Navy men is Camel—the favorite, too with men in the Army, Marines, and Coast Guard, according to actual sales records from their service stores. Camels are a top-ranking gift, too. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are. —Adv.

Kathleen Norris Says:

The Hardest Job

Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

Thousands of mothers never think of helping Bob and Betty with their lessons; they know that Betty and Bob get bad marks.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

It is always a mystery to me how any woman can choose to be a school teacher. Children are my favorite people, for company, for amusement, for holidays, picnics, birthdays, summer vacations. But when it comes to marshaling them in classrooms, keeping their uselessness quiet and their utter boredom amused, bringing the dull ones and holding in check the smarties who get the whole class into trouble, my heart fails.

HELP THE TEACHER
School teachers, despite the fine work they do, cannot take the place of a mother who fails to inculcate the rudiments of decency in her children. Getting tots off in the morning clean, rested and well fed is the duty and responsibility of every mother. She also must co-operate when her child shows bad manners to his fellow schoolmates and displays rudeness or ignorance in the classroom. Mother can make the teacher's work pleasant or hateful. It all depends upon how she raises her children.

I couldn't charge Mama for the pencils.

Teachers Must Endure Laxity.
"The truth is," this letter goes on, "the school teacher has no redress against the rudeness and ignorance of children. If they have had no home training, and the family standard of character is low, it is the teacher who pays. Often a woman who is socially acceptable, who is apparently a gentleman in all other relationships, will be exacting and ill-tempered when anything goes wrong at school, and to her anyone except her precious child is to blame."

Mothers Should Help Children.
But thousands of mothers never think of helping Bob and Betty with their lessons; they know that Betty and Bob get bad marks, and that that fussy teacher is always complaining to ask if they may not have extra coaching. Sometimes the hour of help every week will get the youngsters on the right way of studying, or a simple word of explanation will clear up a problem that has been holding a child back for an hour or that word, and no wonder on incomprehending, and mother has to fill in the gaps out of her own spare time.

"Today," continues this harassed Arkansas teacher, "a woman telephoned me in my lunch hour, keeping me exactly 12 minutes, while she told me not to let Betty-Lou take off her hair-ribbons. Betty-Lou is nine. I want her to learn to preserve her things," the mother said. Every day some mother telephones that her small boy is learning to swear; a situation with which no school has ever been able to deal; the only place in which that can be handled is home. Yesterday one of the teachers from upstairs came down to report that a mother had telephoned to say that for some girls at the school until six o'clock, would Miss Raymond mind keeping an eye on them? Grandma was quite ill, and Mama had to be with her every day. Just why two girls, of 14 and 15, couldn't be with Mama and Grandma Miss Raymond could not see; "This is about the worst yet," she said.

Mother Ordered Shampoo.
"But the worst yet was when two children, eight and nine, got into the habit of coming to school really dirty, with unwashed hands and uncombed hair. 'Mama isn't up when we start,' was their explanation. The teacher took them into the wash-room and cleaned them, for several days, meanwhile determining that she would go and see Mama. But before her crowded schedule left time for that she had a note from Mama, written incidentally on prettily monogrammed paper: 'If you have time at noon recess,' wrote Mama, 'will you give Emily's hair a good shampooing. Many thanks in advance.'"

Well, this may give the mothers of certain young children a few ideas. My own addition to these letters is a hint to the effect that it isn't always a good idea to let children realize that Mama is against Teacher, that Teacher is wrong and ineffectual and unimportant and even ridiculous. Children need politeness and discipline and a certain amount of humble obedience. It doesn't hurt children to learn that sometimes injustices and thefts and losses are due to their own carelessness and boastfulness, and cannot be righted by Mama's sharp reproof to Teacher.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

A LARGE detail of American soldiers stationed now at Accra, on the Gold Coast of West Africa, sat through a driving rainfall to see one of the "global" premieres of "Stage Door Canteen." Lt. Col. Flynn L. Andrew, who returned recently from an extended tour of the fighting fronts, reported on it. This was one of simultaneous showings of the picture on 38 battle fronts. It took place in an open-air theater, and a sudden rainstorm dampened the audience considerably, but not their enthusiasm.

Frank Sinatra, who's achieved such spectacular success in a year, has signed with RKO Radio; his first picture will be "Higher and Higher," in which he will be co-starred with

FRANK SINATRA

Michele Morgan. Meanwhile, he's doing fine with his new radio program—"The Frank Sinatra Show," 45 minutes a week of joy for fans who've made him "America's favorite male vocalist."

Victor Borge goes into the army in September. Not content with doing his Blue Network show and working in a picture on the MGM lot, he recently opened as a nightclub entertainer at one of Hollywood's favorite spots. He explains his passion for work in this way—"I'd like to do a year's theatrical work in three months." Looks as if he'd manage it.

Jack Whiting subbed for William Gaxton on the CBS Playhouse "The Gay Divorcee" and did a fine job, but his heart wasn't in it. His stepson, Douglas Fairbanks Jr. was in New York on leave, and Whiting was to have been godfather that day at the Fairbanks baby's christening.

"For eight years we've been hearing 'Time . . . marches on!' but not seeing the speaker. In the March of Time's latest film, "Invasion," he'll appear on the screen in person; he's Westbrook Van Voorhis.

Ginny Simms has stepped into the lead in the Metro musical, "Along with Me," and Eleanor Powell, who had been mentioned for the role, steps out; she asked for a release from her contract, which had nine months more to run. According to the dancer, she wants to devote more time to army camp entertainment, which is wonderful news for the boys who'll benefit.

After signing Anita Louise to a long term contract, Columbia has given her a leading role in "Restless Lady," which will be a comedy thriller rather like "A Night to Remember." Evelyn Keyes, Edmund Lowe, Allyn Joslyn and John Hubbard head the cast.

Arturo Toscanini's two July United States treasury department concerts—the 18th and the 25th—will be attended by army, navy, marine and coast guard enlisted men and officers. The men of the Maritime service will be guests at the September one.

Robert Sterling, on furlough, visited the "Cry Havoc" set for some bride, Ann Sothern; the scene was a base hospital on Bataan, with 200 extras in army uniforms, and an assistant director tried to herd Bob in with 'em, not recognizing him.

When Rody McDowall met Irene Dunne for the first time, on the "White Cliffs of Dover" set, he brought her messages from civic leaders of ten cities; he'd just returned from a bond-selling tour that took him through 17 states, covering some of the territory that she took in on a similar tour last year.

ODDS AND ENDS—Groucho Marx is being egged on by Chico and Harpo to join them in another film comedy; he says if he does it will be his third farewell screen appearance. . . Charles Bickford, who supports Cary Grant in "Mr. Lucky," sells the government all the hogs he can raise on his 120-acre farm in Massachusetts. . . Dick Powell will play opposite Lucille Ball in "Meet the People" . . . Mary Livingston was recently voted "Sweetheart of a Flying Skull Squadron" by American Air Force men in North Africa. . . Opinion in the trade is that Jack Carson's new CBS series breaks all the established rules of comedy shows.

Now that they've seen advance prints of "Thank Your Lucky Stars" practically every picture producer in Hollywood is after Dinah Shore! She's gone to work for Goldwyn in "Up in Arms," and will make "Shine on, Harvest Moon" for Warners.

James Craig, scheduled to do love scenes with Hedy Lamarr in "The Heavenly Body," was out of luck; had a sore shoulder, due to an old football injury, so Director Al Hall turned the embracing scenes into conversing ones.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Use a Water-Bath for Canning Tomatoes, Fruits (See Recipe Below)

Try Canning!

Many homemakers who have never done so before will be hard at work doing some old-fashioned "putting up" this summer. Not only will it be economical to put up your own Victory garden's surplus, but also it will be a vital step in stretching those precious points next winter.

Canning's simpler today and much of the spoilage that occurred formerly can be prevented if the homemaker checks the causes of spoilage. There's a reason for every type of spoilage, and what's more important, every one of them can be prevented if she's careful.

First, it's not smart to use left-over produce that you wouldn't eat at the table. Select only prime fruit and vegetables in perfect condition. Best quality goes into commercial canning, and so it should for home canning. Get out into the garden early in the morning to get vegetables and fruits and can immediately, or if you market, tie a bandanna over your hair and go out early in the morning to get your produce while it's still fresh.

Cleanliness is another important factor. Remember that food spoils for other reasons than that the jar is not air-tight. More spoilage than you ever dreamed of can result from not washing the food properly and discarding bruised or imperfect vegetables and fruits. Be sure to peel the food, if it is to be peeled, so that no dirt and the bacteria that lurk in it get rubbed in the product as it is peeled.

Work as quickly as possible with the food once it's started on its way to the can. Flat sour, which occurs in vegetables, can often develop in vegetables, for example, if the jars in which the pre-cooked food is placed stand too long before processing. Too much delay in handling food from one step to the other

Lynn Says

Successful Canning: It is easy to do the right thing with foods to be put up in cans if you know the principles and follow directions. Follow the slogan, "Two hours from garden to kettle." Use only fresh, firm, ripe rather than over-ripe produce. Wash all foods carefully before attempting any preparation.

Check jars, rubbers if used, and caps along with equipment before you start canning. Work at the range as much as possible to save time between steps. Have sterile jars on one side of range, chill them from kettle on stove (or from colander near stove, if using fruit which is not pre-cooked), and place immediately in water bath or pressure cooker or oven.

Jars should be washed in a pan of soapy suds and scalded, inverted on a clean towel until used.

Beets. Use small, uniform beets. Wash carefully. Leave the roots and stems long. Boil 15 minutes. Plunge into cold water, remove the skins and pack into clean jars. Add 2 teaspoons of salt and sugar mixture to each quart jar if desired. Fill to within 1/2 inch of top, with boiling water. Put on cap, screwing band firmly tight. Process in hot-water bath 120 minutes or in pressure cooker 40 minutes at 10 pounds.

Decorator Talks About Gardens, Slipcovers, Wallpaper in Diary

By ELIZABETH MacRAE BOYKIN
Monday—People hover and gloat over their gardens as they do their children, and bore other people about even with both. When it's one's own garden (or child) there is endless fascination about simple adoration. But other gardens (and children), like scenery, are nice to look at but dull when forced upon the spectator to be exclaimed over indefinitely.

may cause a great loss of vitamins and mineral.

Processing Foods. Fruits and vegetables need processing which means the application of heat to the product for a certain definite period of time. You just can't put fruit into jars, seal and store and expect them to stay in perfect condition.

Water-Bath Method. In some cases, when pressure cookers are not obtainable, a water-bath may be used for vegetables and meats. However, the water-bath is more preferable for tomatoes (which are acid), and technically a fruit) and fruits.

To make a water bath, use a large wash boiler or deep vessel fitted with a rack made of laths, perforated material or galvanized wire. Have a tight fitting cover.

Place prepared jars on the rack which must hold them at least 1/2 inch above bottom of the canner. The water bath should be filled with boiling water which comes at least an inch or two above the tops of the jars. Jars on the rack should not touch each other. Start counting processing time as soon as water around jars begins to bubble, and keep it boiling during entire processing period. If necessary, add boiling water, if it boils away, for the water must always be boiling at least an inch above the tops of the jars.

Here are some recipes for common fruits and vegetables:
Tomatoes. Scald tomatoes in boiling water 1 minute. Soak in cold water 1 minute, peel, core, quarter and pack into clean, sterile jars. Add no water. Add a teaspoon of salt to each quart of tomatoes. Put on band and screw band firmly tight. Process in hot water bath for 35 minutes.
Peas. Shell, grade peas, using only prime quality. Pre-cook 3 to 7 minutes depending on size. Pack loosely, adding hot water to within 1 inch of top. Adjust cap and process in pressure cooker, 60 minutes at 10 pounds, or 180 minutes in hot water bath.

Beets. Use small, uniform beets. Wash carefully. Leave the roots and stems long. Boil 15 minutes. Plunge into cold water, remove the skins and pack into clean jars. Add 2 teaspoons of salt and sugar mixture to each quart jar if desired. Fill to within 1/2 inch of top, with boiling water. Put on cap, screwing band firmly tight. Process in hot-water bath 120 minutes or in pressure cooker 40 minutes at 10 pounds.

Household Hints

For a spring dessert how about rhubarb shortcake? Serve rosy rhubarb sauce over slightly hot biscuits made with a bit of sugar added to flour.

When stubborn particles of meat and vegetables stick to the inside of the grinder, run a small piece of dry bread through the grinder. The bread acts as a chaser, and saves work in the dishpan.

Mayonnaise used on sandwiches should be thick enough to prevent its running out at the sides.

One-fourth teaspoon lemon juice added to each cup of heavy cream will hasten whipping.

The setting of a jelly can be hastened by placing the mold in a pan of cold water.

A cloth dipped in linseed oil and wiped over a polished surface will improve the appearance.

A piece of wax tied in a rag, and rubbed over the hot iron before ironing, will help it to run along smoothly, and prevent its sticking.

Ducks Grounded, Millions Die; Beavers to Rescue

Wild ducks are temporarily "grounded" in late summer of each year, usually in August. At this turn of the season the young have not yet learned to use their wings and, in molting, the mature birds have lost their propelling wing feathers. Some years millions of ducks die during this period when nesting grounds suffer drought and birds are stranded away from water. Beavers often come to the rescue . . . save thousands of ducks by damming up outlets to lakes or streams.

County Agent Notes

HOLSTEIN BREEDERS MEETING

Approximately seventy-five interested Holstein dairymen, their wives and children were in attendance at the Washington County Holstein-Friesian breeders' meeting at the Jacob Nehrbass farm on Thursday evening, June 24.

Robert Geiger, fieldman of the National Holstein-Friesian association and Art Collettine of the College of Agriculture were introduced by County Agent E. E. Skalsky after his brief review of the purpose of the meeting.

Mr. Geiger and Mr. Collettine demonstrated how to classify an animal by establishing a numerical figure on the basis of 100 by comparing the animal to the "true type" Holstein.

Farmers, wives, and children then took a hand at classifying a few animals.

The showing of slides and a movie concluded a very successful meeting.

FARMERS NEED YOU NOW!

Washington county farmers are making a sincere plea for volunteers to help in the fields at haying, harvesting, and other vital work this summer.

On farms and in towns there is a tremendous lot of work to be done this year. The supply of workers is short. But our food production must not be allowed to suffer.

The agricultural extension office has enlisted and placed a number of volunteer workers. The need for such help is certified by the speed with which they are set to work. Haying and pea harvesting especially calls for every available worker now.

Here is where most aid for farmers is coming from: Industrial workers and other city men who can spend vacations, week ends, and after hours at the important rush jobs of farming; farm boys and men who have an occasional day they can spend off their own farms and helping a neighbor; men who have been classed "3-F" in draft examinations but are willing and able to help harvest the 1943 crop of feeds and food; high school youths; rural youths and farm women are also helping widely in the fields, this summer as in years past.

Farmers should continue to the requests for the help they need. This county agricultural extension department has placed 15 full-time and 15 part-time workers in the past two weeks, but a good many more are needed. Production and harvesting are the most important links in the whole food chain. Our farmers can use every available bit of help in getting crops in.

FIRST BROOD CONTROL OF CODLING MOTH OR APPLE WORM

The cool weather of May and the forepart of June delayed the appearance of the codling moth which is the parent of the apple worm. However, the past two weeks of very warm weather has caused more moths to fly. This means that the eggs will hatch in a few days and that a control spray.

Most farm orchards which are being sprayed regularly have already received two codling moth control sprays this season. These sprays were: the calyx and the ten day sprays. All of these orchards will receive another spray about 30 to 35 days after the calyx spray was applied. There is a 26-day period or even longer when the fruit trees do not receive a spray in the regular scheduled spray program. Since apples and other orchard fruits are a much needed food and the local crop will not be overly large this year, every attempt should be made to produce as much clean fruit as possible. Therefore it would pay well to apply a twenty day spray at once, and follow with another spray in about 10 to 12 days. This extra application will more than pay for itself in orchards where the apple worm was a problem last year.

For the 20-day spray use the following solution: 1 1/2 gallons of liquid sulphur, 2 lbs. of lead arsenate 100 gallons of water.

This spray will help to control codling moth, apple scale, and brown rot of plum.

VICTORY GARDEN PEST CONTROL

TO CONTROL: (Flea beetles, leafhoppers, potato bugs, early blight and late blight on potatoes, tomatoes, etc.), use Bordeaux mixture combined with an arsenical (arsenate of lead, calcium arsenate), Paris Green, etc.)

SYMPTOMS: Early blight forms many small brown spots with target-board markings on the foliage, and causes the leaves to die prematurely. Late blight, another fungus disease, winters over inside the potato tubers and blights the tops and rots the tubers during wet weather in August and September. It also causes a dry rot of the tubers in storage. Flea beetles are tiny, black, hard-shell beetles that jump when disturbed. They injure the tops by eating many small, round holes in the leaves. Leafhoppers are very small, light-green, soft-bodied insects that crawl away (young ones) or fly away (old ones) when disturbed. They suck the juice from the leaves and cause them to curl and dry up. They are worse in late July and during August. Most of the damage from the common potato bug, or Colorado potato beetle, is done by the young, that is, the reddish hump-back slugs.

PROCEDURE: All these potato pests are controlled by spraying at 10 to 15 day intervals with Bordeaux mixture 4-4-50 containing two pounds of lead arsenate or calcium arsenate to 50 gallons of spray or 2 tablespoonfuls to a gallon; or by dusting at seven to ten day intervals with a coppe dust containing lead or calcium arsenate. Begin the applications when the plants are four or five inches high and continue them as long as the vines are green. If the potato bug alone is to be controlled, use lead arsenate or calcium arsenate as a dust or spray, following the directions on the container.

HINTS TO POULTRY FLOCK OWNERS

An answer to the feed problem does not seem to be available. About the time that one ingredient ceases off a little, some other one becomes scarce. It was protein. It is still proteins in part plus corn.

If we can accept the opinion of the men that handle feed, we can feel certain that feed will continue to be scarce. It will need to be stretched to the limit and used most efficiently.

Here are some things that may be done:

1. Cull closely and regularly. Culling applies to both the laying flock and the growing flock. It means the removal of all hens as they go out of production. It means the removal of all slow growing, undersized pullets and cockerels.
2. Promote good health. Only birds in good health can efficiently use feed. Maintain health by keeping close to a good sanitation program. It is easier to keep a bird healthy than it is to make a sick bird well.
3. Maintain good pasture for the young flock. Pasture to be usable must be short, young, fresh and succulent. Keep it clipped.
4. Avoid waste. Mash spilled around the feeders or through torn bags is feed thrown away. A change in the size and type of feeder that will compare to the size of the growing flock will mean better utilization of feed.
5. Use grain feed to stretch the mash feed. Grains may be hopper fed.
6. If you are short of oyster shell it will be necessary to change over to a good high calcium grit. The oyster shell shortage seems to be due to transportation.
7. Market Leghorn broilers not later than a 2 pound weight. Market meatless, can, freeze, or use at home now.
8. External parasites become popular in hot weather. Check the birds

Twenty-five Years Ago

(1918)
 Mr. and Mrs. John Groeschel of this village received a letter from their son, August Groeschel, who is at Yokohama, Japan, where he is install- ing a malting system. The letter tells all about his ocean voyage and life in Japan.

Val. Peters and family moved into their new home on Fond du Lac ave- nue.

Arthur Schmidt of Town Auburn is employed at the L. Rosenheimer store.

Jos. Kaiser, pioneer of Town Scott, died at the Soldiers' Home in Milwau- kee. He was a veteran of the Civil War, being a member of the 17th Wis- consin Volunteers and was with Sher- man on his famous march to the sea. Mrs. Phillip Prandel, 55, nee Hansel- man, native of Town Wayne, died in Milwaukee. John Theusch, 74, of Campbellsport, formerly of Town of Kewaskum, and father of Joseph Theusch of the town, died.

TWENTY-SIX YEARS AGO

(1917)
 Registration day for the army was held in the village and town and passed off smoothly. Sixty-one young men registered in the town and 46 in the village. Ervin Koch of the village was first to register.

Clarence F. Hill of Fond du Lac and Miss Goldie Romaine of New Pros- per were married.

Albert Naumann, who joined the army May 1, writes as follows: "I am in good health now and like army life very well and the country out here is just grand. Nice and warm and the best place I ever saw, with all the beautiful scenery. I belong to the heavy coast artillery at Ft. Washing- ton, Md. and all we got to do is drill six hours a day. With best regards to all my Kewaskum friends."

Miss Lorene Remmel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Remmel, and Louis Bath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bath, both of this vil- lage, were married at Holy Trinity church. Miss Emma Seefeldt, daugh- ter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Seefeldt of Town Kewaskum, and Frank Revillus of Hartford were wed at the St. Lu- cas church. Miss Rose C. Wick of Town West Bend and Joseph Welzien of this village were married at Holy Angels church, West Bend.

Misses Alma Homlek, Pauline Lo- big and Belle Wiekeman, teachers in our public school, left for their homes to spend the summer vacation.

Wisconsin produces about one- fourth of the national output of dried skin milk for food. Fully 120 million pounds were produced in the state last year.

The War Food Administration has assured farmers that they can expect to have reasonable supplies of rope, binder twine and other cordage for harvesting their crops this year.

Freedom

Always Worth Fighting For!

July 4th this year finds millions of American boys in the armed forces fighting for Freedom in all parts of the world.

As we observe Independence Day let's remember that Freedom is well worth the sacrifice our Nation is making for its preservation. It is our most prized heritage. Whatever the cost, we will fight to keep our own land free... to remove the dictators' yoke from oppressed peoples everywhere and insure a just peace.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allies' Italo-Balkan Moves Factor In Baffling Axis on Invasion Plans; U. S. Moves to Solve Corn Shortage; Russ War Stepped Up on Orel Sector

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

MEDITERRANEAN: Balkan Powder Keg

The summary closing and opening of the Turko-Syrian frontier within a 48-hour span by the Allied command had presaged new and important military moves, as the Mediterranean area from Italy to the Balkans had tensed for oncoming action.

Increasing evidence that the Axis' much-vaunted Balkans bastion might be a powder keg instead came in the form of reports from Ankara that Rumania had sounded out the Allies on armistice terms.

Reports from Axis sources had reflected increasing official bafflement over the Allies' next moves. After telling its listeners of "many landing craft concentrating from African coasts toward Pantelliera and the massing of a million troops for an Italian invasion," the Rome radio had broadcast a report that "large British forces were concentrating along the southern frontier of Turkey."

Observers for months had known that large numbers of Allied troops had been training in Syria. Lying in the eastern corner of the Mediterranean, Syria offered an effective base for operations against Crete, the Italian-held Dodecanese islands, Greece proper or other Axis points in the Balkans.

BUREAUCRATS: Congress Compliments

The much-criticized home front government bureaucrats were given a friendly pat on the back and a virtual clean bill of health when the house appropriations committee approved appropriations of $2,939,441,504 for 18 civilian war agencies, including the Office of Price Administration and the Office of War Information.

OIL PACT: Navy Cancels Deal

The tempest over the navy department's contract with the Standard Oil Company of California for operation of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve subsided when Secretary Frank Knox announced cancellation of the agreement.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

SHIRTS: New York laundries indicated that the dirty shirt may become fashionable there when they announced they would not accept more than 5 shirts per family a week.

BATTLE COST: The conquest of Pantelliera cost the United Nations only 40 airmen, Maj. Gen. George E. Stratemyer, chief of the U. S. air staff, reported.

PAY LOAD: Britain's latest version of the four-engine Halifax bomber carries added fire power, a maximum load of 5 1/2 tons of bombs and has been improved in all-around performance, the British ministry of aircraft production disclosed.

PILFERING: Thefts of United States government property, measured by convictions and recoveries have approximately doubled in the last 11 months over the similar period the year before, the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed.

TAXES: 50 Billion Goal

Secretary Henry Morgenthau disclosed that the treasury would trim its request to congress for more new taxes down to $12,000,000,000 in place of the $16,000,000,000 originally planned. Nevertheless, this would be enough to raise the public's overall tax bill during the 1944 fiscal year to $50,000,000,000.

Declaring that the Treasury's goal was to pay half the annual war costs "as we go," Mr. Morgenthau estimated that this goal is $4,000,000,000 less than President Roosevelt's January budget objective.

Treasury recommendations for raising the additional revenues were slated for submission to congress before its proposed summer recess.

RATIONING: Eight New Plans

Louis J. Kroeger, OPA rationing official, disclosed that eight new rationing programs are being prepared by the Office of Price Administration and may be instituted within the next year.

Mr. Kroeger told a house appropriations committee that two of the ration plans will be placed in force immediately, but that six others, including coal rationing, are contingent on directives from other government agencies.

The government's action came as the War Food Administration and Commodity Credit Corporation received a request from the Corn Industries Research foundation for either complete lifting of federal price ceilings on grain or the imposition of ceilings on hogs. Meanwhile J. B. Hutson, director of the Commodity Credit Corporation, said that 25 million bushels of privately owned corn in grain elevators would be seized for plants manufacturing by-products for war uses, unless "crops can be moved off farms."

RUSSIA: Orel to Forefront

A stepping-up of land activities was reported on the Russian front, with especially heavy fighting here, Russian troops defending a strategic newly won bridgehead were reported to have beaten off eight German counter-attacks.

It was reported that strong formations of Soviet planes had broken up German formations supporting Nazi tank and infantry units. The Germans, however, were reported bringing up reinforcements in an effort to forestall the possibility of Russian flanking movements against Orel, strategic Nazi-held base midway between Moscow and Kharkov.

Heaviest fighting was reported in the vicinity of Mtsensk, 30 miles north-east of Orel.

Russian air forces continued their efforts to disrupt Nazi supply concentrations by striking at four railroad junctions over which German supplies and reinforcements must move for the Bryansk-Orel-Smolensk area. The junctions were Roslavl, Unecha, Vladislavovka and Novozybkov.

PACIFIC: 13-to-1 Record

With all indications pointing toward major sea and land engagements looming in the Pacific, air activities still held the center of the war stage in this theater.

Most dramatic of all engagements was that fought out over the Solomons when American planes shot down 77 Jap aircraft over Guadalcanal while losing only six of their own. This 13-to-1 score turned in by American combat fliers in the Solomons who have heretofore included army, navy and marine pilots was regarded as the best ever recorded in a single air action anywhere.

But Allied planes were not idle elsewhere. Liberator bombers made their second heaviest raid of the war on Jap-held Kendari, on Celebes island, 850 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia, damaging airbases and destroying planes parked on the ground.

In China, a military spokesman for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek charged that the Japanese again were employing poison gas in their operations in Suiyan province. Meanwhile Chiang's forces claimed new successes, including the recapture of strategic towns south of the Yangtze river.

WAR GOODS: Allies Double Axis

How United Nations' war production is forging fast ahead of the Axis was told by WPB Chairman Donald Nelson.

The United Nations, he informed a house appropriations committee, are now producing $125,000,000,000 worth of arms and war supplies a year—almost double the Axis rate of $65,000,000,000.

He said that American military production will reach a peak rate of $90,000,000,000 a year in 1944.

TOJO

In his dual roles of premier and war minister, hard-bitten Hideki Tojo frankly told the Japanese people that all signs pointed toward an all-out Allied offensive in the Pacific where, he admitted, the Japs had been forced back to defensive positions.

In an address to the Japanese diet as premier, Tojo warned that the war situation was "increasingly tense" and that the United States and Britain were displaying signs of a new offensive.

Philosophy of Governments Set Forth in New Fantasy

Antoine de Saint-Exupery's Delightful Fairy Story, "The Little Prince," Holds More Than Artistry for Adult and Child Alike.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

On a June day, when a gentle breeze brought the scent of new-mown grass in through the White House windows, President Roosevelt sat at his desk and read slowly to a group of correspondents from a typewritten sheet. It wasn't a formal document but it was a historic one—its purpose was to remind the Italian people that the military campaign against them which had just scored another Allied victory, Pantelliera, was the result of the misconduct of their rulers. The message has been variously interpreted since, but to me, it contained one significant point—the reminder of the coming birth of a new nation; the new Italy which will emerge when the chains of arrogance and brute aggression which bind her are broken. There has been much talk about post-war policing of the re-made world; little thought of the philosophy which will underlie the forms which the reborn governments must follow. To me, such a philosophy is set forth in a work of pure fantasy. A hopeful note for nations and men is sounded in this delightful fairy tale by an author who found spiritual rebirth in the tragedy of the fall of his own nation.

I refer to Antoine de Saint-Exupery and his latest work, "The Little Prince."

Those who have read his "Night Flight," "Wind, Sand and Stars" and "Flight to Arras" are not surprised that he could create a fairy tale as delicate as this. Reviewers have disagreed as to whether it is for children or for adults. I believe it is for both, like "Alice in Wonderland." But the adult will find in "The Little Prince" something more than artistry and the children will sense that, too, I think.

Saint-Exupery is a brilliant aviator who built up night flying for the French airlines in South America. He fought against the Germans—"Flight to Arras" is the remarkable book which tells of that experience. He is now back with the French army in Africa, scene of the opening of "The Little Prince."

The Prince's Story

"Six years ago," the author says, "I made a forced landing in the Sahara alone, a thousand miles from help, and faced the necessity of repairing my motor by myself within the number of days my drinking water would last. The first morning, I was awakened by a determined but gentle voice which said: 'If you please, draw me a sheep.'"

So Exupery learned the story of how the Little Prince had found out what is really important in life.

The Little Prince is at once a delicate work of fancy, something so sheer that at moments he seems to float like a piece of thistledown before your imagination—again, he has all the reality of truth itself, he is eternal childhood, all that is gentle, and confiding and lovable, with the faint shadow of sorrow on his winsome face, he is the tug at your heartstrings that comes when youth looks at you in wide-eyed confidence, reaches up to take your hand—the same reminiscent tug when you look back and see the surprised and longing sorrow in the eyes of your own lost youth.

The Little Prince lived far away, it seems, on a tiny planet with three volcanoes so small that he cooked his breakfast on one of them. A flower came to his planet and the Little Prince loved her and cared for her but he couldn't understand her and so he left to try to find out why. He finally reached the earth, and here the fox taught him.

"I am not tamed," the fox said, "I cannot play with you," the fox said, "I am not tamed." The Little Prince did not understand. He told the fox that he was looking for friends and asked him what tame meant.

Philosophy of a Fox

"It is an act too often neglected," said the fox, "it means to establish ties. . . . to me, you are still nothing but a little boy who is just like a hundred other little boys. And I have no need of you. To you, I am nothing more than a fox like a hundred thousand other little foxes. But if you tame me, then we shall need each other. To me, you will be unique in the whole world. To you, I shall be unique in the whole world."

"I am beginning to understand," said the Little Prince, "there is a flower. . . . I think she has tamed me."

"If you tame me," the fox went on, "it will be as if the sun came to shine on my life. I shall know the sound of a step that will be different from all others. Other steps send me hurrying back underneath the ground. Yours will call me like music out of my burrow. And then look: you see the grain fields down yonder. I do not eat bread. Wheat is of no use to me. The grain fields say nothing to me and that is sad. But you have hair that is the color of gold. Think how wonderful that will be when you have tamed me. The grain which is also golden will bring me back the thought of you. And I shall love to listen to the wind in the wheat. . . ."

The fox gazed at the Little Prince for a long time. "Please—tame me," he said. "I want to very much," said the Little Prince, "but I haven't much time, I have friends to discover and a great many things to understand."

"One only understands the things one tames," said the fox, "men have no more time to understand anything. They buy things already made at the shops but there is no shop anywhere where one can buy friendship, and so men have no friends any more. If you want a friend, tame me. . . ."

And so the Little Prince did, and another day when he came back, the fox said: "It would have been better if you had come back at the same hour. If, for example, you come at four o'clock in the afternoon, then at three o'clock I shall begin to be happy. I shall feel happier and happier as the hour advances. At four o'clock, I shall already be worrying and jumping about. I shall show you how happy I am. But if you come just anytime, I shall never know at what hour my heart is to be ready to greet you."

But finally, the Little Prince had to go. "Ah," said the fox, "I shall cry."

Source of Comfort

"It is your own fault," said the Little Prince, "I never wished you any sort of harm; but you wanted me to tame you." "Yes, that is so," said the fox. "Then it has done you no good at all." "It has done me good," said the fox, "because of the color of the wheat fields."

And there, I think, perhaps some of you may find comfort—in the memories that come from the wheat fields, for the common and the beautiful things that remind you of someone from whom, perhaps this war has parted you.

That is only a flash I have given you of the story of "The Little Prince" which is not written for children only but for those who have the faith of little children and the understanding to see how tragedy can bring forth something which can light the long shadows which it leaves—out of the tragedy of his nation and the searchings of his own soul came this charming fantasy from the pen of the soldier-writer with the secret he learned from the Little Prince who learned it from the fox—

"It is only with the heart that one can see rightly; what is essential is invisible to the eye."

Diary of a Broadcaster

A postcard signed by a fictitious name, dated the day Pantelliera fell, contained this statement: "Italy so far has got the best territory of the world: most of France; the richest prize of the war: Jugoslavia; the greatest strategical area in the world: Greece and her islands. Italy will dictate the peace, save the U.S.A. and get two-thirds of Africa, meanwhile Mussolini is Supreme everywhere. Italy got all and lost least, can fight 1,000 years."

MURDER at PIRATE'S HEAD

By ISABEL WAITT WNU RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Judy Jason, who is telling the story, received a mysterious letter enclosing a photograph and a bid for an abandoned church to be destroyed the next day. She finds, in a chest, the body of a man identified as Roddy Lane. Lily Kendall is found dead, with Hugh Norcross's scarf around her neck. Judy accidentally brushes against the wet paint on a picture of the church just finished by one of the guests, Albion Potter. Under the picture of the church is a portrait of Lily Kendall's niece, Gloria Lovelace. Potter is revealed as a famous movie director, Albert Parker, whose wife ran away with Roddy Lane. Now continue with Judy's story.

"Judy," he said to me, the night before they left, "she's headed for another breakdown right this minute. I'm taking her off on a cruise so she can't make a fool of herself here. When we get back—and this has all died down—there's something I want to ask you. Will you write me, dear?"

CHAPTER XIX
"Call me," Victor said. "You called me the night he came to the Head. Didn't you? But a mortis man had set in, in judgment. How did you describe the sea there?"
"You'd cut the phone wires earlier?"
"Before going to town the first time—after supper, that is. And the boats were hatched the night Lane died, when I got the gas for my pyre. Norcross, your club I'd picked up where De Witt had left it. Used it as a blind to confuse the issue. Also your sister's coat. It was lying in the hammock all last night. I wore it part of the time, in case I should be seen running through the darkness. Sorry about the spot. I really tried to cleanse it."
He gave the oars a shove into the sea. The police boat was within hail, and shouting at us. We didn't shout back. The drama unfolding before our eyes left us paralyzed.

gressed; didn't rattle. I hid behind some bushes while you investigated the shack where the light was still on. The minute you passed, did I hustle! You'll find the thick glasses if you hunt in the brush."
"You'd cut the phone wires earlier?"
"Before going to town the first time—after supper, that is. And the boats were hatched the night Lane died, when I got the gas for my pyre. Norcross, your club I'd picked up where De Witt had left it. Used it as a blind to confuse the issue. Also your sister's coat. It was lying in the hammock all last night. He gave the oars a shove into the sea. The police boat was within hail, and shouting at us. We didn't shout back. The drama unfolding before our eyes left us paralyzed.

"Oh, Hughie! Come close my trunk straps."
Victor Quade was standing in the doorway. Had he seen Hugh kissing my hand? Evidently he had, for as Norcross hurried away to his Lady Simon Legree, Victor said, "How touching. Did I interrupt something beautiful?"
"Hugh was saying good-by."
"Parting is such sweet sorrow! Going to miss him? And me?"
It had come then. Victor was stepping out of my life. I couldn't conceal that I cared, and didn't try. Of course I shall miss you—both. When people have been through all we have together—
"Exactly. Judy, what'll you do with the old church?"
I shrugged. "Sell it if I can, I suppose."
"Will you? That's what I hoped. I'll buy it. Grand place to write mystery stories. So full of—at atmosphere. Do you know shorthand?"
My heart gave a great bound. "No, but I could learn."
"Bless you! You'll have to. But we'll try to get through this one straight to the machine. Type, can't you?"
"After a fashion. Why?"
"Because, now that the police have wound up this case, I want to get busy right away. You remember my title—'Murder on the Bluff'? Not bad, do you think?"
"Not good, either. Not distinctive enough. 'Murder at Pirate's Head' doesn't sound so—so much as if it had been used before."
Victor's hands gave a loud clap. "I knew it! You'll be invaluable to me. You'll help me, won't you? Mrs. Gerry'll have to get a new hostess. We'll turn the church into a studio. Trailer always annoyed me, too much in it. A man likes to pace while he writes."
"I'd love to help you, Mr. Quade."
"Why Mister me now, after all we've been through, Judy? Vide, my friends call me—Vidor Quinn."
"You'll always be Victor to me," I said, and saw how pleased he looked.
"This case will write itself," he said, "all but one thing. What did Potter do with the gun—throw it into the sea the second time? Hardly think so. He seemed pretty nervous about those fingerprints I guessed at."
"Wait," I said, recalling the green head near the hollow stump. The head had been in the mixed string which had caught on Potter's button when we were going over the auction, and I remembered that he'd run for the Eleanor after he'd started tearing down toward the willow. As the idea clicked I got Victor to hunt down the path. We searched thoroughly and found Lane's revolver hidden in the hollow stump. The handle green head must have clung to his coat by the broken strand and dropped when he bent to stop the gun from his pocket.
"That," Victor said, "fixes everything. Potter was afraid to hurl this into the sea lest he miss again or have someone see him."
"Everything except the fingerprint he left in my powder compact. I didn't see any."
"Naturally," and how his teeth gleamed as Victor grinned at me. "Bless you! There wasn't any." [THE END]

"Get up and fight like a man!" I cried.

The water had crept up until it seemed as if Albion Potter must drown where he sat.
"Jump for it, man!" begged De Witt.
But Victor said not a word. The police boat was almost upon the Eleanor. Would it reach there in time? Just as I was wondering, she slipped into the sea.
Hugh Norcross yanked off his coat, but Victor and Uncle Wylie only exchanged understanding inclinations of the head. The minister began to pray—"Dust to dust! Ashes to ashes!"
Bessie grabbed Hugh's legs and hung on. Aunt Nella and I stood weeping together.
After the wash of the boat—well, I won't go into it. We saw him again for a moment. Then a few bubbles floated on the water.
"Better so," Victor said.
"He's paid his debt to society," Hugh said.
"Vengeance is mine! saith the Lord," murmured De Witt.
It was Aunt Nella who brought us down to earth with, "Lookit!—what he done to Wylie's nice boat!"
The police launch came chugging up after it was all over. From then on confusion reigned at Pirate's Head. I think I answered a million questions, not that it did any good. But the town had to bury Roddy Lane!
Bessie Norcross, despite all that had happened, grew sentimental. She wanted to take charge of his funeral. Hugh wouldn't let her.

LOW BACK PAIN

For many years cases for low back pain and sciatica have been put in two classes (a) those due to infection—teeth, tonsils, gums, gall bladder and other organs and (b) those due to injury—lifting a heavy object, a misstep, swinging at an object (often a golf ball) and missing it, a fall, braking a car and other accidents. The injury usually causes a strain or sprain of the ligaments and other structures surrounding the joint between the last one of the spine and the hip bone. This is called sacro-iliac sprain.

During the past three or four years we are learning that many of these cases called sacro-iliac sprain are really cases where the little cushions or disks between the bones of the spine have been broken through or ruptured by the same type of accident which causes the sacro-iliac sprain. It is only after the usual treatment—manipulation under an anesthetic and use of a brace—has failed to give relief that ruptured disk is suspected. Each spine bone is called a vertebra and the disk or cushion between them is an intervertebral disk.

Dr. W. E. Dandy in Annals of Surgery, Philadelphia, points out that rupture of the intervertebral disk accounts for an overwhelming percentage of the heretofore incurable and untreatable low back pains and sciaticas, mis-called sacro-iliac strains and arthritis of the spine. Formerly iodized oil was injected into the spinal canal, but this does not always show the rupture even when present. Then as it was found that practically all (96 per cent) of ruptured disks were situated between the last and second to last spine bone in lower back, the iodized oil method is not absolutely necessary, particularly because it is known that a "concocted" disk occurs in 25 per cent of cases. Dr. Dandy has been able to make the diagnosis of ruptured disk 63 times just by examination without use of iodized oil.

Cases of ruptured intervertebral disks are now successfully treated by operation. However, there is the other side of this matter; that is that many patients and some physicians also, may now make the mistake of thinking that most cases of low back pain and sciatica are due to ruptured disks. As a matter of fact, sacro-iliac strain occurs more often than does ruptured disk and manipulation, rest and use of a brace bring about a cure.

Watch for Early Diabetes Symptoms

There has come to me a copy of the Diabetic Digest, published quarterly by the Philadelphia Metabolic Society. This magazine has spread information among physicians so that physicians would be on the lookout for early and unrecognized cases of diabetes. Thus the level of treatment of this disease has been raised in Philadelphia and vicinity.

1. Two and five-tenths persons per day die and have diabetes mentioned in their death certificate.
2. One person dies in diabetic acidosis (coma) almost every other day.
3. Almost twice as many persons died of diabetic acidosis (coma) as died with infections of various natures without acidosis.
4. One-half of the persons dying with diabetes did not know of their disease until their last illness.
5. More persons died with diabetes of causes other than diabetes (but having diabetes) than died of diabetes alone.

QUESTION BOX

- Q.—I have blue marks on each arm. How can I get rid of them?
A.—These blue marks may be tiny broken veins. They will do no harm. They may be removed by electrolysis or surgery.
- Q.—I am 24 years old and I take spells. When these happen I seem to get in an electric state all over. Is this serious?
A.—As you do not become unconscious, spells may not be serious. Ask your physician about them.
- Q.—I have a little boy whom the doctors have termed a Mongolian Idiot. They have advised me to have him put in a home. Are they right?
A.—The doctors have given you the advice you should follow. The boy cannot be helped at home. He will really be happier among other children of his own mental ability than with bright children. He will learn to sing and to play there.
- Q.—Please suggest a permanent cure for freckles.
A.—There is no permanent cure for freckles.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

A reader has been preparing a list of things to do when a house is in need of attention. The list is as follows: "When preparing a partially empty can of paint for storage, first clean all paint from the sealing surfaces of the can and lid to insure an airtight closing of the lid. To prevent the trapped air in the can from evaporating the paint solvent, shake the can vigorously for a few seconds to saturate the trapped air thoroughly with the solvent. Thus, when the can is stored the air cannot absorb any more solvent and film cannot form. Stand the can upside down for storage, so that the joint around the lid will be sealed.

Condensation on Walls
Question: Some time ago my stucco house was brick-venered. No air space was left between the walls. During rainy or humid weather the walls sweat and stain the wallpaper. Is there a preparation which can be applied over the plaster to prevent sweating? If so, can the walls be painted or papered over this solution?
Answer: No kind of paint will stop the condensation. The answer to your problem is insulating board applied over furring strips to provide the air space that now is lacking and to minimize differences in temperature. It will help to dry out the air of the house if you leave the fireplace damper open during rainy weather. Additional ventilation also would help.

Finishing Circle for Cars
Question: What is the minimum diameter necessary for a turning circle in front of our house to accommodate any type of car? We plan to make an island in the center containing an old millstone.
Answer: For large passenger cars the radius of the outside curb should be 28 feet, and the radius of the inside curb 16 feet. This will accommodate small trucks.

Remodeling
Question: Where can I get leaflets on the remodeling of old houses?
Answer: Send five cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., and ask for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1749, which has the title "Modernizing Farmhouses." You can also get information from your local office of the Federal Housing Administration.

Oil in the Flue Passages
Question: I have heard that spraying the flue passages of a boiler with oil will prevent rusting during the summer months. But won't this oil cause an explosion when the heat is turned on in the fall?
Answer: Not unless the flue passages are soaked too heavily with oil. Running a low fire for a half hour or so will evaporate the surplus oil.

Remodeling
Question: Where can I get leaflets on the remodeling of old houses?
Answer: Send five cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., and ask for Farmers' Bulletin No. 1749, which has the title "Modernizing Farmhouses." You can also get information from your local office of the Federal Housing Administration.

Preparing to Paint
Question: I wish to paint our window frames on the outside, and am rather pressed for time. The frames are quite dirty. What is the quickest way of cleaning them so that I can paint them immediately after?
Answer: It might be enough just to brush the dust off. If not, you could use a wire brush and wipe with turpentine.

Cracked Boiler
Question: Can a crack in a cast-iron boiler be welded satisfactorily?
Answer: Yes, it can be. You can get mechanic with a portable welding outfit to come and do the job. Inquire of a heating contractor, a steamfitter or a plumber.

Protecting Tools
Question: How can I keep my tools from rusting? I keep them in both a metal and wooden toolchest in a damp basement.
Answer: After using, rub them all over with vaseline. Before using again, wipe well.

Roiled Hot Water
Question: Our hot water comes from a 30-gallon tank heated by a pot stove. When the water gets extremely hot it is very dirty. How can we avoid this?
Answer: That comes from overheating. At a hardware store or the store of one of the mail order companies you can get a regulator to attach to the pipes or to the tank, by which the water is prevented from being heated to the point at which a sediment forms. Set the regulator to 130 degrees or so, hot enough for household uses.

AS BENITO SEES IT

(The war looks different to Italy than it did three years ago, the Rome commentator said.)—New Item.)

How different the picture is! How changed the war today! The more I look at it I ask, "How did it get that way?" The difference is so complete I wonder more and more, As I survey it, can it be The very same old war?

It seemed to me so very good— Each prospect seemed to please That day in nineteen-forty when I said, "I'll take a piece." Then it was bright and shiny-new With all so very pink. I thought I had a guarantee The darned thing wouldn't shrink.

It looked like such a splendid war If snapped up then and there! There seemed to be no drawback when I said, "Cut me a share!" . . . I didn't wait to have it wrapped, But took it on the fly— And now I'm getting lots of time To sit and wonder why.

It seemed to suit my tastes so well— It looked a perfect fit. But that was three long years ago— Now take a look at IT! It went to pieces at the seams And stood no treatment rough; The seat fell out of it at once, It was such shoddy stuff!

No part as represented was! Behold the awful wreck! I guess I made an error when I failed to double-check; "The customer is always right," Ran Salesman Hitler's song . . . But now I've seen an instance when THE CUSTOMER WAS WRONG!

THE DOUBLE-TALK OF OFFICIALDOM
We are checking on this: Letter handed to new girl for filing in wrong cabinet. Letter received and contents noted: We skimmed through the first paragraph. Thanks for calling the matter to our attention: Where do you get the idea we have time to listen to such squawks? Your interest is deeply appreciated: But not to the point where we could bother to read your letter carefully.

Follow this through: Take it out to lunch with you and don't bring it back. Please look into this immediately: Fold this letter 12 ways, cut through with shears and make the parts into spittals. Your views are correct in essence: And so are your old man's! We respect your opinion: What are you trying to say anyhow? Take this up with the proper department: File and forget.

Miss Griggs, see who handles this matter: Take this letter and snag it on the first spike. It will be called 'Chamber of Horrors' and will review the monsters of Dracula, Frankenstein, The Mummy, The Mad Ghoul and The Wolf Man."—Hollywood news item. COMPLAINT
How splendid every morning would be if There was no bleak necessity to shave; (I sooner would be jumping off a cliff Or meditate the comforts of a grave!) The razor blades, too sharp or, often, dull, They either cut you, else leave half your hair, Or if you're lucky to look beautiful One moment, soon another beard grows there!

What blight is this on humans, that we must Forever scrape, while ever it comes back! A thing unsown, unwished, yet, though we bust, We get, and must combat as some wolf-pack! The earth finds peace in winter—which is sound; While we grow whiskers all the seasons round!

There must be a pretty difficult traffic crisis in Washington when the north and southbound administrators meet the ones going east and west. The army has developed a machine gun that will fit into a woman's handbag. Nothing has made so many husbands so nervous in years.

'Twas Too Late Then for Stammerer to Take Time

As the train sped on its way, the shy-looking, little man leaned forward and tapped the big man opposite on the knee. "Your b-b-b—" he began, and it was obvious he was making a big effort to control his stammer. The other man smiled gently. "Now, take it slowly," he said. "Yes, b-b-but your b-b-b—" the little man gulped. "No hurry, old chap," said the big man, winking at the others in the coach; "just take a deep breath and—" Crash! His words ended in a yelp of pain as his bag up in the rack overbalanced and struck him squarely on the head.

CPL. PETERMANN SERIOUSLY ILL; MOTHER VISITING HIM

Mrs. Art. Petermann of the town of Auburn and Miss Dolores Schneider of West Bend left Monday evening for New Orleans, La. to visit their son and friend, Cpl. Oliver Petermann at the La Garde General Hospital. Cpl. Petermann is reported as seriously ill following a very delicate operation for a mastoid of the ear near the brain. The mastoid resulted from a bursted ear drum which Oliver suffered while on maneuvers nearly a year and a half ago. He has been in the hospital the past three and one-half months. Mrs. Petermann and Miss Schneider expect to stay a week or ten days.

You Women Who Suffer From HOT FLASHES then CHILLY FEELINGS

Need This Advice!

If you—like so many women between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, weak, dizzy, nervous feelings, distress of "irregularities," are blue at times—due to the functional middle age period in a woman's life—try taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. It's the best known medicine you can buy that's made especially for women.

Pinkham's Compound is famous to relieve such distress. Taken regularly—it helps build up resistance against such annoying symptoms. It also is a fine stomachic tonic.

Thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported benefits. Time and again Lydia Pinkham's Compound has proved some women's happiest days often can be during their "40's". Also beneficial for younger women to help relieve distress of female monthly functional disturbances. Follow label directions. Worth trying!

PVT. KNOEBEL PLACED IN ARMY RESERVE, RETURNS HOME

Pvt. Henry "Slippery" Knoebel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knoebel of West Bend, has been placed in the army reserve for being over the age limit of 38 years and returned home the past week from Port Dix, New Jersey, where he was stationed. At present he is again staying with Mrs. Mary McLaughlin in this village, with whom he formerly made his home. Pvt. Knoebel, who was in the medical corps had been in service the past 9 months. Being in the army reserve he is subject to recall at any time. Henry will be engaged in war work.

BYRON BUNKELMANN, FRED MILLER MEET IN AUSTRALIA

Mrs. Edw. F. Miller received a letter from her son, 1st Lieut. Fred Miller, the latter part of last week in which he mentions that he and Pvt. Byron Bunkelmann, M. P., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bunkelmann, Jr. met in Australia, where both are stationed. Lieut. Miller writes that you can't imagine how thrilled and overjoyed the two were to see each other. He adds that they had a great deal to talk about and had a real visit and reunion together. The two pals were employed together by Millers, Inc. before entering active service and had been searching for each other for a long time before they finally met. Lieut. Miller returned to Australia after contracting malaria while in New Guinea. He left for service in October, 1941, and Pvt. Bunkelmann followed in June, 1942.

SGT. WEDDIG, VETERAN OF AFRICAN CAMPAIGN WRITES

Another interesting letter was received by the editor Sunday from Staff Sgt. Otto Weddig, son of John Weddig, who is in action with the army air corps in North Africa. Sgt. Weddig has been overseas for over a year and went through the entire African campaign against the Germans. Enclosed with the letter are several clippings from "The Stars and Stripes," servicemen's newspaper published for the boys serving overseas, and a "carte postale" (postcard) showing a "vue generale" (general view, we take it) of the city of Constantine, Algeria. Over the city is shown a huge bridge connecting two mountainous peaks. Otto writes as follows on the card:

"This is one of the many beautiful sights in and around Constantine. I saw P-39s and P-40s race under that big bridge. It must be eight hundred feet or more from the center of that bridge to the very bottom. I'll tell you more about this city when I get back."

ATTENTION Horse and Cattle Owners!

Dead animals are essential to help win the war as they are processed into a high grade feed for Poultry, Cattle and Hogs which in return produce essentials which we must have to win a war. Glycerine is taken out of all Fats and Oils from dead animals and this is made into T. N. T. for high explosives, and only Rendering Plants produce these products; as all dead animals buried or used otherwise are a waste to our country. Call your Renderer, Wm. Sgt. Weddig:
June 4, 1943
North Africa

Dear Bill:
Having a little time today I thought it time to drop you a few lines again. Today we are celebrating our first anniversary overseas. A year ago today we pulled away from the good old U. S. A.

Now that this African campaign is over we do get a day off every once in a while and are able to travel around the country to different spots of interest. Several weeks ago I visited an old Roman city that is now in ruins. This old city was to have been built about two hundred years before Christ. It sure was interesting to see how the Romans built things in those days. Since then I have also visited several of the larger cities over here. They also have many beautiful and interesting things to see.

I am enclosing a very interesting post card and also a few clippings from "The Stars and Stripes," our weekly newspaper, which I thought were really good. Here's hoping this finds you and all the rest in the hometown in as good health as I am.

Your friend, Otto

P. S. It was 115 degrees in the shade yesterday.

One of the clippings enclosed by Sgt. Weddig with his letter is about a new pocket guide printed by the war department for distribution to American soldiers overseas. The guide, "A Short Guide to the United States," is designed to help veterans of the African and other campaigns who adopted native customs in Africa, China and England, adapt themselves to the quaint ways of the home folks when they return to America again. Because we, too, think the clipping is good, we are reprinting the article from "The Stars and Stripes" below.

GUIDE TO U. S. READY FOR HOMECOMING VETS

The War Department's trusting belief that its famed pocket guides, predicated on the old saw of "When in Rome, do as the Romans do," would assure the social success of American soldiers who adopted native customs in Africa, China and England has boomeranged in amazing fashion.

Now comes "A Short Guide to the United States," designed to help veterans of the African and other campaigns adapt themselves to the quaint ways of the home folks when they invade America again. Extracts from the new booklet were enclosed in a letter from Sgt. Max Savitt, who is with an ordnance outfit in this theater. Sgt. Savitt didn't know the source of the clippings except that they were sent him by his family. The guide's book, which would be distributed on board ship on the way back to the States, would read something like this:

"Americans usually open a conversation with strangers by asking, 'Well, what's new?' Whatever you do don't reply saying, 'Allez.' The only correct answer is to say, 'Well, what's new with you?'"

"The American monetary system is rather confusing. Regardless of their denomination, five, ten and 20 dollar bills are all the same size. A 'nickel' (worth only two and one-half francs) is almost twice as large as a 'dime' (worth five francs). Two dollar bills are taboo, and the natives are extremely superstitious about them.

"In some parts of the United States eggs in powdered form are unobtainable, and you will have no choice but to eat them directly from the shell. However, it is advisable to boil them first.

"In the rural districts, it is also difficult to get dried vegetables, owing to a lack of dehydrating equipment. You may be shocked to see beets, turnips, cabbage and potatoes displayed in the market places in their natural state, with bits of soil still clinging to them. Yet when washed and properly prepared, these vegetables can be quite palatable. The natives seem to thrive on them.

"In restaurants, cafes, pharmacies and other public shops you will usually see three or four natives huddled in a corner over a strange contrivance with small iron balls, lights, and bells which keep ringing furiously. This is known as a "pin-ball machine" and takes the place of a national lottery. No one has ever been known to win, however, and Americans are very sensitive about it. Nev-

SEAMAN VYVYAN WRITES

This office received a letter the past week from Ray W. Vyvyan, 2nd class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Vyvyan, who is stationed at the U. S. Naval Air Station, Brunswick, Maine. Ray recently was transferred from the Sea Bees back into the regular navy, which he prefers and likes very much. His letter follows:

Brunswick, Maine
June 23, 1943

Dear Don and Bill:
I received the Statesman for the first time in several weeks. It was my fault of course. I have been moving around and seeing the country. The thing that caused it was my transfer from the Sea Bees to the regular navy. The Sea Bees was a swell outfit but I like the navy better. The Sea Bees will be the most popular branch of the service after this war. Their history cannot be told now because it would give the enemy a lot of information. The Sea Bees build everything necessary to the maintenance of a naval operation base. Many times they have landed before the marines. They are taught to defend what they build. Their nickname, "shovel-gunners," explains it quite well. The navy has something in it that you can't sense in the air force. I never found that in the Sea Bees, that is why I transferred back again.

I am now on a naval air station. It is a new camp and is still under construction. We are training a bunch of Limeys (Englishmen) here. They are a swell bunch of fellows. I am working as a dispatcher in the operations office. That takes in air traffic control. It is very interesting work. I work twelve hours a day every other day. I have liberty the day I don't work. I went to Boston this last week end. It is a nice place but I think all the fellows from town in the service would just as soon see Milwaukee.

You may want to put some of this in the paper. It's okay. I will try to write more some other time.

As ever, Ray, U.S.N.

TAKES SPECIALIST COURSE

Selected for specialized training in the navy, Edward C. Bunkelmann, 29 son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bunkelmann, is beginning an intensive 16-week course in the service school for machinist's mates at the U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill.

Bunkelmann has been at Great Lakes since entering the navy.

Comprehensive courses of instruction coupled with practical experience in handling the tools of his respective trade will prepare this Bluejacket for doing a better job when he gets his chance to fight on one of the warships in Uncle Sam's fleet. He will also get periods of advanced seamanship, military drill and physical hardening. Upon completion of this training, he will be eligible for advancement to a petty officer rating.

The nation's highways, too, are doing their part for victory. In addition to the large volume of military traffic, the bus lines carried more than 650 million passengers in 1942—nearly six times the population of the U. S. And still more are riding this year.

These millions are not traveling for scenery or pleasure. Most of them are selectees, military personnel, and war workers. Others are farmers, nurses, teachers—people in nearly every walk of life whose trips in some way or other are essential to the national welfare.

Greyhound is putting all its efforts, experience and resources into helping perform the biggest transportation job of all time. That is why our service to you now cannot always be what we would like to give, or what you have come to expect of Greyhound. We appreciate your patriotic consideration of these conditions created by the war.

But when victory is won, travelers will be rewarded. Then you can look to Greyhound for a brand-new chapter in comfortable, convenient, easy-to-use highway transportation.
