Wayland Tessar Leaves For Service in The Navy

Wayland Tessar, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tessar of this village, left for service in the navy with a contingent of men from Manitowish County on Tuesday, where the Tessars resided before returning to Kewaskum a short time ago. Mrs. Tessar and son Tommy took Wayland to Manitowish Sunday, from where he left for Milwaukee. The contingent then left for the naval training station at Farragut, Idaho, according to a card received by his parents Wednesday. Wayland was examined at Milwaukee last week Tuesday and volunteered for the navy when inducted. His pal, Delwin Olson of Manitowish, left with him for naval service. Tessar graduated from the Kewaskum high school in 1942.

LOCAL SELECTIONS LEAVE

Howard Backhaus and Edmund Thelen of this village, who were inducted into the army with a Washington county contingent of men July 16, left last Saturday for Camp Grant, Ill. to enter active service after their three week furlough. Both were still stationed at Camp Grant at this writing.

BONLENDER LEAVES

Othmar Bonlander of Milwaukee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Bonlander, St. Kilian, left Friday to enter military service. Mrs. Bonlander will now reside with her parents at West Bend.

HY. ROEHRDANZ, FORMER TOWN OF KEWASKUM FARMER, CALLED

Henry Roehrdanz, 86, of West Bend a resident of the town of Kewaskum most of his life and father of Mrs. Elmer Schaefer of Kewaskum, died at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Lemke, Jr., in West Bend at 1:30 a. m. Sunday, Aug. 1. He had been ailing for the past eight weeks but became seriously ill two weeks before his demise with a complication of ailments brought on by his advanced age.

The deceased was born Dec. 16, 1857, in the town of Kewaskum, and was married to the former Miss Ricca Windorf on Dec. 4, 1890. The couple resided on the Roehrdanz homestead in the town of Kewaskum following their marriage until about 20 years ago when they moved to their present home at 129 Edgewood lane in West Bend.

Surviving Mr. Roehrdanz are his widow; three daughters, Ella (Mrs. Elmer Schaefer) of Kewaskum, Linda (Mrs. Everett Jenkins) of West Bend; and Edna (Mrs. Rudolph Lemke) of West Bend; one son, Walter of West Bend; 12 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. One son, Leonard, passed away in infancy. Mr. Roehrdanz was the last of a family of 10 children.

Mrs. Math. Herriges, St. Michaels, Called

Mrs. Math. Herriges, 67, who with her husband operated a tavern and grocery store at St. Michaels for the past nine years, passed away on Saturday, July 31, at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, after having been confined there the past three weeks. Death resulted from a stroke.

Mrs. Herriges, nee Anna Schifferl, was born Dec. 30, 1875, at Chicago, O. Feb. 12, 1895, she married Math. Herriges at St. Michaels. Following their marriage they lived on a farm near Madison, Minn., until nine years ago when they moved to St. Michaels.

Deceased was the mother of five children, two of whom, along with her husband survive, namely a daughter, Mrs. Anna Rennels of Plattville, Colo., and a son, Fred Herriges, of St. Paul, Minn. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary Yaley of Chicago; two brothers, Joseph Schifferl of St. Paul and Ludwig Schifferl of Chicago, and four grandchildren.

Mrs. Herriges was a member of the Married Ladies' society of St. Michael's church at St. Michaels.

Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday morning, Aug. 3, at 9 o'clock from the Kaper and Gehl Funeral home, Barton, and at 9:30 a. m. at St. Michael's church, the pastor, Rev. Kastner, officiating. Burial was made in the congregation's cemetery.

Beatrice Backhaus Bride of Carl Dins

In a ceremony read at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, July 31, in the St. Lucas Evangelical Lutheran church in this village by the Rev. Gerhard Kniess, Miss Beatrice Backhaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Backhaus of the town of Auburn, Route 2, Campbellport, was united in marriage to Carl Dins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dins of near Dundee, Route 2, Campbellport, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Becker of Kewaskum. Miss Dolores Heberer rendered several vocal numbers.

For her marriage the bride was attired in white marquisette and wore a fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of gardenias, larkspur and asters. The bride was attended by Miss Vernice Backhaus as maid of honor and the Misses Dorothy Backhaus and Violet Birk were bridesmaids. Both wore blue marquisette with flowers in their hair. The attendants carried pink bouquets of roses, larkspur and asters.

Ronald Dins, brother of the bride groom, was best man.

Dinner was served to about 100 guests at the home of the bride's parents where an evening reception was also held with 175 guests being entertained. Mr. and Mrs. Dins are engaged near Waldo, where the groom is engaged as a cheesemaker.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Truttachel and Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy of Sheboygan Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Conger of Waldo, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vandoske of Madison, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stenschke of West Bend, Corp. William Lenz of Fort Bliss, Texas, Lieut. Delbert Backhaus of Camp McCoy and Miss Arleen Oss of Sparta.

REPORTS FINE RESULT IN JUNIOR RED CROSS WORK

Miss Clara B. Jaehnig, executive secretary of the West Bend chapter of the American Junior Red Cross reported to County Superintendent M. T. Buckley the result of the Junior Red Cross activities in the schools of this chapter.

In the report Miss Jaehnig outlined the activities of the rural and state graded schools. Every rural and state graded school in the West Bend chapter reported memberships. In addition of the 4217 total items sent to the Red Cross headquarters, the rural and state graded schools completed 900 there. This record is evidence that the rural teachers, pupils, and parents took a lively interest in supporting the Junior Red Cross work.

In a conference with a committee of teachers which was held Friday evening, it was the opinion of many of the teachers that the assignments were rather high, especially where the enrollment in schools consists of children largely below the fifth grade. However, since the demands for hospitalization of soldiers will increase as the war goes on, the teachers stated that they were willing to sacrifice to the limit to meet any demands made by the Junior Red Cross.

INSURANCE MEN MEET HERE

Members of the Mutual Insurance Managers' club, composed of secretaries and managers of mutual agencies insurance companies from various cities held a meeting in the offices of the Kewaskum Mutual Fire Insurance company on Wednesday.

Sister Amanda Leaves Holy Trinity School

Sister Amanda, who taught the lower grades at Holy Trinity school the past four years, will be transferred to duties elsewhere and will not return here this fall. She left this Friday morning for the mother house at Fond du Lac, where she went on retreat the same evening. Sr. Amanda will not find out until Aug 15 where she will be sent. At that time the sister will replace Sr. Amanda and will also arrive here. Besides teaching, Sr. Amanda had charge of the two choirs of the parish as well as plays and games of the pupils. Sr. Amanda was very well liked and children and parishoners alike will miss her. Sr. Georgia who teaches the upper grades, will be back again for another year.

Srs. Teresa, Basilia and Barromeo were here during the summer months, also left the past week. Sr. Basilia went to Beloit and the other two to their home mission at Two Rivers. Sr. Mercedes, a former pupil at the local parochial school and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Geip of the town of Burton, and Sr. Alexine are at the sisters' home at present. They will remain here until the new sister arrives Aug. 15.

On Thursday Sr. Helen called on the sisters and also visited her sister-in-law, Mrs. Sebastian Pfum of West Bend, at the home of Mrs. Peter Kohler and family here. She is an aunt of Mrs. Kohler. Sr. Helen stopped off here while on her way to Fond du Lac from Kansas, where she taught the past six years.

86th Annual County Fair at Slinger Aug. 27-29

Plans for the 1943 Washington county fair which will be held on the fair grounds at Slinger on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 27, 28 and 29, are well under way according to E. E. Skalskey, Washington county agricultural agent, who serves as the secretary of the fair. Members of the county board fair committee are Otto Koller, Barton, George Raebel, Ricefield, and Emil Gauger, Trenton.

Again this year the fair will be a free fair. There will be no admission charge to enter the grounds. Car parking, too, will be free. Ample parking space will be available on the Roecker and Rosenheimer properties adjoining the fair grounds.

The fair is sponsored as an educational institution for the youth of the county. The revenue needed for operating it is largely derived from county and state appropriations. While the fair is being held primarily for the promotion of youth activities, it is by no means limited to youth alone. Adults may exhibit in all departments, except the livestock department. Limited barn space naturally limits the amount of livestock to be exhibited.

Ellman Shows and Rides

The Ellman shows and rides will be on hand to provide amusement for those in attendance at the fair. The Ellmans have a reputation for their clean shows and dependable rides. The West Bend Moose and Civic bands will provide music for those who enjoy this part of county fair activity. Band concerts will be presented every evening and on Sunday afternoon.

Entry Day, Friday, Aug. 27th

The first day of the fair, August 27, will be entry day. All exhibits must be entered between 8:00 a. m. and 5:00 p. m. on that day. No entries can be accepted at a later date. Anyone wishing may make entries through the mails at an earlier date. All exhibits must be in place by Saturday morning.

Judging on Saturday, Aug. 28

Judging will begin promptly at 1:30 on Saturday, Aug. 28. The following departments will be judged on that day: foods, canning, colts, sheep, swine, baby beef, grains, vegetables and flowers. Dairy entries will be judged on Sunday beginning at 10:00 a. m.

Junior farmers and part-time vocational agricultural students may show colts at the fair according to this year's premium list. This should increase the number of entries in this department and make the showing a real county fair attraction. Any young man between the age of 20 and 25 years and living upon a farm in Washington county is eligible to exhibit as a junior farmer.

The fair is being streamlined to meet wartime requirements. Because of this the fair fulfills an educational need, and the use of gas and tires to attend the fair can be adjusted in the light of wartime conservation.

WEEK'S WORKSHOP FOR RURAL TEACHERS BEING PLANNED

Plans for a week's workshop for rural schools are being made by the county superintendent of schools. To date, after a conference with a rural school committee of teachers, it was decided to hold the workshop for the in-service training of teachers on the week of Aug. 30 to Sept. 3.

Science, dramatics, child development, nutrition and health, and music constitute the curriculum for the meeting. These subjects will be presented by outstanding educators from Wisconsin, including such leaders as Roy S. Ihlenfeldt of the State Department of Public Instruction; Dr. L. H. Mathews and Miss Josephine E. Maloney of the Milwaukee State Teachers college; Mrs. Catherine K. Campbell and Miss Mercedes E. Cranston of the State Board of Health; Mrs. Laurette J. Piddle of the Children's Music studio, Milwaukee, and W. McNeel, in radio circles known as "Ranger Mac" of the University of Wisconsin.

WEDDING DANCE

A wedding dance will be held at the Lighthouse ballroom, 2 miles north of West Bend on Highway 55 Saturday, Aug. 7, in honor of Miss Hattie Pagel and Burton Krueger. Music by Al's Melody Kings. Admission 40c per person. Everybody welcome. 7-30-2

Campbellport War Worker Injured in Peculiar Auto Accident; Passing Motorists Stop to View Wreckage, Fail to See Victim in River

Arnold Nichols, 34, of Campbellport was taken to St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, Tuesday morning, the victim of a peculiar accident in which he lay for six hours in the Milwaukee river after his car had crashed into a bridge on County Trunk Highway near the Washington-Fond du Lac county line a short distance north of Kewaskum.

Nichols, employed in a West Bend defense plant on the night shift, left work at 2:30 a. m. Tuesday and started to drive to his home in Campbellport. He apparently dozed at the wheel of his car as he approached the bridge and the vehicle crashed into the right railing of the steel bridge.

He sustained seven rib fractures and a painful injury to one foot, although it had not been determined on Wednesday whether any bones had been broken. He also had a severe gash near one eye, requiring several stitches, but was reported in fair condition at the hospital Wednesday. Despite his injuries, Nichols was able to extricate himself from the damaged vehicle.

Apparently stunned, he walked to the rear of the car and then past the railing and fell down a steep embankment into the river. Fond du Lac county police said that he must have walked through the shallow water for about 20 feet and reached the shore, but could not crawl up a steep embankment. So he lay partially in the water and then apparently lost consciousness.

The damaged car was at the side of the bridge and a number of motorists stopped to view it during the next several hours, but failed to notice Nichols in the river. At about 9 a. m. Wallace Geidel of this village stopped to view the wrecked vehicle. He noticed blood on the bridge and a trail of it leading toward the river bank. Then he saw Nichols' clothing at the side of the river.

The victim had regained consciousness by that time and was able to climb up the bank with the assistance of Geidel and another passerby. He was brought to the office of a Kewaskum physician, treated and then taken to St. Agnes hospital. The victim had lost considerable blood but it was thought he would recover. One eye was swollen shut due to the severe cut on his head.

The Teacher Shortage —Are We Meeting It?

A serious threat to rural schools throughout the state and nation now obtains due to a shortage of teachers. This shortage was brought about by men being drafted and the high wage scale being paid in industry and by the government.

Washington county has met these difficulties by more adequate rural and state graded school salaries. The two superintendents of Washington county for two generations have been sympathetic with the policy of closing small schools. Of the 55 one room schools, 21 are closed and transported their children to other schools. This year 4 rural schools closed because of low attendance. This closing of schools has been an important factor in meeting the shortage of teachers. Washington county has the highest percentage of closed schools in the state.

Of the 64 teachers in the one room schools last year, 24 failed to return, and of the 15 state graded school teachers six failed to return. This shortage of six teachers in the state graded schools was supplied by a transfer of 4 rural teachers and two from outside the county. The rural school shortage was supplied by graduates of county normals and other teachers from outside the county and three teachers who returned to rural teaching after an absence of several years. At the present time all schools have teachers employed except one.

It will interest rural patrons to know that the new teachers come to the county with very strong recommendations from their teachers in the schools from which they were graduated.

Ration Point Changes Announced; Coffee Out

Consumers are reminded by the Washington County War Price and Rationing board that their shopping with ration point problem has been aided by the recent lengthening of the validity period of the blue stamps R S and T, which will be from Aug. 1 through Sept. 26. In the past the overlap ration period has run for one week after the first of the month. The longer overlap will be allowed in the future. The new ration table for the first time lists the point value of which home canned foods are sold. This has been a perplexing question for many home canners.

The red stamp rating of meats during August will be substantially the same under the new table received by the board except that the housewife will give two more points a pound for butter. The board stated that the reason for this is that the demand for butter exceeds by five per cent the amount allotted to civilians by the war food administration. He said many do not know that the WFA sets the food quotas and OPA acts accordingly in adjusting the point value to the supply and demand.

At midnight July 28 coffee rationing was suspended because the shipping operations from South America had improved vastly due to curbing of the submarine menace. This, it was pointed out, is an example where abundant supply will end rationing.

The local board will now receive applications from those who have not yet received their War Ration Book 3. These will be sent to the state office for issuance. The board will also receive books of those members of a family who have joined the armed services and excess books that have been received by consumers. Corrections in names and validation will also be made by the local board.

Barthol Becker Dies

Barthol Becker, 62, who for many years operated a farm in the town of Auburn north of Kewaskum, and a brother of Peter Becker of this village, was found dead at 4:15 p. m. on Friday, Aug. 6, at his home near Campbellport. No funeral arrangements had been made when his death was reported to this office. An obituary will follow next week.

MOVE INTO COLVIN FLAT

Mrs. Helen Krueger and son Burton this week moved from the former Matt Schmitt residence on Prospect avenue into the lower flat of the F. E. Colvin home on West Water street, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Hoyt and son. On Saturday Burton Krueger will be married to Miss Hattie Pagel and the couple, along with the former's mother, will make their home in the Colvin flat.

MRS. RAMTHUN HURT IN FALL

Mrs. Henry Ramthun of this village, suffered painful cuts and bruises on Monday afternoon when she accidentally fell down a basement stairway in her home. She had been canning pickles and was carrying a jar filled with water to the basement when she lost her footing. The jar broke and Mrs. Ramthun was cut by the pieces. Operation on her elbow required five stitches. Luckily she suffered no broken bones. She has been confined to bed this week with her injuries.

INFANT SON OF MR. AND MRS. ALEX BOETTCHER SUCCEUMS

John William Boettcher, 13 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Boettcher of West Bend, died at St. Joseph's hospital in that city at 9 p. m. Wednesday, July 28. Mrs. Boettcher is a daughter of Gustave Zamach, West Bend, and they are former residents of the town of Kewaskum. The little lad was taken ill on Sunday, July 27, and on Tuesday was taken to the hospital and operated upon the same evening. However, he died less than a day later of strangulation of the bowels.

SOFTBALL NOTES

Kathleen Norris Says:

In Time of War Prepare for Peace
Bell Syndicate.—WNU Features.

We had a family conference. We know this isn't going to last, and we face the fact that one or more of our three beloved sailors may come home invalided, and all three will like us better, when employment problems come, if we can help rather than burden to them."

KATHLEEN NORRIS

SET your affairs in order this year, if you can, and be able to look forward with perfect confidence to the year ahead.

It's the thing we all want. The sure of the future. The woman who can say whatever comes, I'm sure the man or woman to be married. No matter whether her ambitions run to a little farm where a few trees, two dozen chickens and a cow will help to pay expenses or to solid investments in stocks that will bring in a comfortable $200 a month, or rents, or whatever other source of income she may desire, there is no sensation in life as desirable as the one that involves a self-respecting, independent, comfortable old age.

Old age comes on fast. There are many years in which plans may be made. It has a way of coming with shocking unexpectedness, and to many, many men the moment of its arrival is going to coincide with the end of this war. When that comes thousands of young men are going to come home to find their wives and have solemnly promised each and every one of them to earn big money, and to have abandoned their old familiar ways to go to war work, are going to be dropped from the pay-roll for about $300 a month—some months—$900, and I took a part-time job that netted $125.

"Then came the war; all three boys into uniform long before Pearl Harbor, and Sister into uniform, too, as a riveter. Dad's pay was upped from about $300 a month to some months—$900, and I took a part-time job that netted $125.

"Well, then we had a family conference. We know this isn't going to last, and we face the fact, too, that one or more of our three beloved sailors may come home invalided, and that all three will like us better, when employment problems come, if we can be a help rather than a burden to them. So we decided the house to Sister, and Sister puts $100 a month into the debt on the house. The debt is owed to the government, which sent architects to us, and helped us turn our 14 big rooms into three apartments. They submitted plans, authorized the work, and they carry the loan. You see, we live in a coast town whose population has increased more than a hundred per cent since the war began, and living space is at a premium.

Buy Farms for Sons.
"Then Dad and I picked out three small farms that were going cheap because of labor shortage, and when our boys come home each one will be presented with an income-earning piece of property. These farms cost us an average of $12,000 apiece; all three are somewhat rundown now, but in good farm neighborhoods and capable of real productivity. Our payments on them come to a little more than $3,600 a year—they are already paid clear.

"This means that we live simply and cheaply. But we love it; the crampedness and dullness, the sacrificing and self-denial. We're living for the time when the boys come home, to take possession of their farms. We're living for the time when we can tell them that with two good tenants upstairs, and with our own earnings and savings, we needn't ever turn to them for help. They can marry, raise children, enjoy for long years the peace and freedom that they've helped win for us all.

"Of course our economical living necessitates sacrifices. We do our own work, have sold the car, save our old clothes, and are crowded in our four rooms.

"You've so often written of this sort of thing," this letter ends, "that I thought you might like to know that it was an article of yours that started us."

Like to know! Why, a letter like this gives courage, rouses admiration, wherever it is read. America would be the richer if it had a million families like the Marvins of Vallejo, Calif.

One may come home invalided.

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE first picture which Katharine Hepburn will make for M-G-M under her new long-term contract will be "Without Love," in which she starred on Broadway last season; it's by Philip Barry, who wrote "The Philadelphia Story." It's one more version of the old, old tale about the young woman who marries with the understanding that the marriage is to be purely one of convenience, and then discovers that she loves the man, after all.

Until about two months ago Dick Haymes was just a chap who sang with a band—Harry James, Benny Goodman's and Tommy Dorsey's, in that order. As vocalist with Dorsey, he'd had a share in "DuBarry Was a Lady," when it was made at Metro last spring. Recently his star began to rise; he had a successful night club engagement, cut two tremendously successful records, was given stellar billing in the air's "Here's to Romance." He'll probably sign with a major studio before you read this. Somebody at Metro realized that the lad was hot stuff, and ran "DuBarry" for a look at him. Every scene he appeared in had gone to oblivion on the cutting room floor!

"For Whom the Bell Tolls" still heads the list of what New Yorkers are talking about—with the war excepted, of course. The general opinion seems to be that it is by far the best picture that has come along in 1943, worth sitting for nearly three hours to see. You'll enjoy it more if you've read the book, since it had to be changed a bit to conform to the Hays code. But on the whole it is remarkably true to the story. The cast is excellent; it was nothing short of inspiration to give Katina Paxinou the role of "Pilar." The photography, in technicolor, is some of the best that we have seen.

The 350 soldier actors of "This Is the Army" were forbidden by the war department to talk to actresses on the Warner lot while making the picture. Joan Leslie, the leading lady, couldn't understand their indifference to her. They sent a second lieutenant to her dressing room, finally, to say "My men want you to know that by unanimous vote they have chosen you as the motion picture star they'd most like to meet." After that Joan felt better.

RKO Radio announces that stage, radio, night clubs and little theaters have been combed to provide the studio with new film talent having possibilities of stardom. Edward Small, whose pictures are released by United Artists, announces that he has signed Tony Devlin, 16-year-old student of a Los Angeles high school, the first of a list which he hopes to recruit from high schools and colleges for possible motion picture careers. The talent search is on!

A complete file of the London Times for the period of the great blitz of 1940 was received by Warner Bros. for source material for the Ida Lupino-Paul Henreid picture, "In Our Time." One of the issues included an account of the death of Stanley Lupino, Ida's father, who was killed in the blitz. The famous actor was serving as a defense volunteer. Incidentally, you'll hear Ida humming one of her own songs in the picture; paid $25 for it, she sent the money to the Hollywood Canteen.

About a year ago Russell Wade was picked right out of a group of extras by RKO and given a term contract. He'll be featured in "Ghost Ship."

ODDS AND ENDS—Good standing in a Barry Wood fan club requires the regular purchase of war bonds and stamps. . . Wallace Beery and Marjorie Main will again be teamed, in a Metro comedy called "Rationing." . . Johnny Galt's recipe for writing a song hit—"Take a number composed of one of the old masters and decompose it." . . Despite his Montana background Gary Cooper's no shark at poker; playing it for two days for scenes in "Saragat Trunk," he tried—vainly—to draw an inside straight. . . The War Shipping Board's taken "Action in the North Atlantic" for use as a training film. . . Mildred Harris is playing an atmosphere bit in "Saragat Trunk."

Red Skelton played to one of the largest audiences on record during his recent tour of Texas army camps. In less than seven days the Metro comedian made 18 personal appearances.

During rehearsal breaks of his own NBC show Johnny Mercer dashes across the hall to hear Ginny Simms rehearsing her "Johnny Presents" program. He's been signed by Metro to write music for "The Harvey Girls"; Ginny will introduce the new Mercer numbers.

Follow Rules to Make Canning Easy
(See Directions Below)

Fruit Canning

It's time now to begin putting up fruits for next winter and fall to help stretch those ration points and to make sure your family is going to get the two fruits a day required by the nutritional yardstick.

Be wise and watch the fruit trees or berry vines or markets—wherever you get your fruit—to see that you get it for your canning at just the ripe stage. Fruits should be firm-fleshed, ripe but not over-ripe and in prime condition. Remember canning does not improve any product; it merely preserves it for later use, so it follows that you get out of the can only what you put into it.

Methods for processing fruit for canning in order of their desirability are hot-water bath, pressure cooker, steam cooker, open-kettle. Although many homemakers prefer the open kettle for the fruits, the degree of spoilage is so high and the vitamin loss so great that it is less desired than processing in the jars.

Hot Water Bath.

For a hot water or boiling water bath as it is sometimes called, utilize a large deep vessel. Fit it with a rack of some kind that will hold the jars ½ inch from the bottom of the canner. Be sure the vessel is deep enough so that when the jar is immersed in the boiling water, the water comes to within 1 to 2 inches over the top of the jar.

Place jars on the rack, allowing free circulation of air between the jars. The water should be kept boiling during the entire processing period. If it boils down, particularly during some of the lengthy processing times, add sufficient boiling water to keep it at the proper height.

Oven Canning.

Many homemakers like to use the oven for canning fruits and tomatoes. This can be successfully if the oven you are using is thermostatically controlled and will keep the required temperature of 250 degrees.

Lynn Says:

Canning Pointers: Most fruits are canned by the cold pack method, but apples, pears, pineapple and quinces are pre-cooked in their syrups to give them that lovely, transparent look. Most homemakers are using the light syrup—three cups water to one cup sugar—for canning.

If you can't afford any sugar, use fruit juices in place of the sugar, and then sweeten the fruit when ready to use. Or, if you can't make up all the jellies and jams because of lack of sugar, put up the juice and make it into jelly during the winter when you do have sugar.

Honey syrup may be used in canning fruits, but expect to have a slightly different flavor to the fruit and somewhat darker appearance.

Use a large kettle in cooking honey syrups because they have a tendency to boil over and foam while being cooked.

This Week's Menu

- Cold Cuts
- Old-Fashioned Potato Salad
- Sliced Tomatoes
- Radishes
- Garden Onions
- Hot Baking Powder Biscuits
- Cherry Pie
- Beverage

The jars should be set on a rack, at least 2 inches apart—starting with a cold oven. The jars should not be allowed to touch the sides of the oven. If a second batch of jars is going in after the first batch, the oven does not have to be cooled.

After the jars are placed on the rack, turn on the switch or light the oven. Start counting processing time as soon as the oven is turned on. Temperature should never exceed 250 degrees. Higher temperatures cause liquid to boil out of jars and evaporate.

Fruits for canning are most often cold-packed, rather than hot-packed as are non-acid vegetables. Select fruit only in prime condition, ripe rather than over-ripe. Wash it thoroughly, then prepare as for table and pack in jars. Fill with hot syrup to within *Pre-cook fruit in light syrup (3 cups water and 1 cup sugar boiled together 5 minutes), for 3 to 5 minutes before packing in jar.

**Precook fruit 5 to 10 minutes in syrup before packing in jar.

Many homemakers who will be unable to put up all the jellies they would like this summer may put up fruit juices and make them into jelly later. Canning fruit juices either for jelly or other uses is a fairly simple matter, and processing is usually done in a hot water bath, at a simmering temperature, 180 degrees F.

Flavor of the fruit juices depends upon the fruit selected. The juice of fully ripened fruit should be used. Partially ripened fruit lacks flavor whereas over-ripe or bruised or decayed fruit will make sterilization more difficult.

If you have a canning problem, write to Miss Lynn Chambers, Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Desplaines Street, Chicago, Ill. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

Little Belle
ANY little girl would be happy as a lark in a dress like this. Note the sweetheart neck and perky sleeves.
Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1796-B designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 1/4 yards 35-inch material.

Likely Hercules Knew Nothing About Cave Man
The aproned figure at the sink gazed sadly at the accumulation of plates and dishes, pots and pans. Was this all that marriage meant?
A heavy sigh, a rolling up of sleeves, and the kitchen was soon filled with the clatter of washing and scouring. The toiler paused from time to time to listen to the steady thrash of a typewriter in the next room.
Suddenly the noise ceased, and a large, spectacled woman, lofty of brow, appeared in the doorway. "Hercules, darling," she said, addressing the little man, "I never can remember—do you spell 'cave man' with or without a hyphen?"

Bright Basque
YOUNG set favorite—the basque topped dirndl that will be seen everywhere this summer. Gay, cool, becoming.
Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1802-B designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 28, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 12 (30) requires 9 1/4 yards 35-inch material; 6 yards ric-rac. Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers. Send your order to:

Lavish Swoops for Curtains Out; Use Tricks to Avoid Skimpiness

By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN
Gone are the days when the easiest recipe for most decorating problems was bountiful yards of beautiful fabrics for the windows. Used to be the worst room headaches could be usually cured by full ample lavish swoops of curtains.

Now the trick is how to make curtains that don't look skimpy despite a curtailment of yardage. And how to make new curtains out of old ones.

An important warning here though—whatever your temptations, don't make skimpy curtains. If you haven't enough material for full enough curtains, make sash curtains. If you haven't enough material for full enough side draperies, have only a swag across the top or a valance.

Lots of people, brought up on the rule of abundant yardage, will at first glance throw up their hands at today's problem. But on second glance they'll pick up scissors and measuring stick and embark on some challenging adventure in curtain making. For there are several ways of making pretty curtains with less material . . . or with simple inexpensive fabrics for the windows that simply must have lots of yardage.

Made-Overs.
First, the question of curtains that can be made without using so many yards. Those will be sill length to begin with, and they can be sash-type, curtains, either double or single. Double-sash curtains enable you to control the light from either top or bottom and can be used without side draperies and with or without a valance across the top. Single-sash curtains for the lower pane only are pretty for many informal rooms and are practical in combination with top-to-sill length side curtains made on rings to swish back and forth.

POTATO FIELD DAY AT KRESSIN FARM SUNDAY, AUG. 8

The Washington county potato field day will be held on the Kressin farm on Sunday, August 8. The program will get under way promptly at 2 p. m. The Kressin farm is located 2 1/2 miles northeast of Rockfield on the Germantown-Jackson town line road.

Many interesting facts concerning the growth, general appearance, yield, drought, and disease resistance of the trial plots will be revealed. Several new varieties will be shown and discussed. Farmers are invited to bring along any potato specimen or diseased plants about which they may have questions.

INSECT CONTROL

The present summer has seen little difficulty in controlling victory garden insects. Because of the hot dry weather the potato crop has been damaged seriously by the flea beetle and the leaf hopper. Spraying or dusting with Bordeaux mixture is the surest and best method of control.

Vine crops such as cucumber, squash, and melon will be subject to insect attacks in the next few weeks. These can best be controlled as follows:

Cucumber beetles: These are one of the worst pests of vine crops. They destroy plants by their feeding and the spreading of wilt and mosaic diseases. Control by dusting with a rotenone or pyrethrum dust.

Squash bugs: This insect when present in large numbers lives by piercing and feeding upon the juice of the plants. The most satisfactory method of control is the application of frequent pyrethrum dusts. Best results are obtained if the dust is applied as soon as the insects are hatched. Hand picking of the egg masses is also a good means of controlling this insect in smaller gardens.

Melon aphids: These aphids cause curling and dwarfing of the plant leaves. Finally the entire plant wilts and dries up. Control is to apply a nicotine dust. This dust is made by mixing one tablespoon of nicotine sulphate or black leaf 40 and one pint of hydrated dusting lime.

FIREBLIGHT IN ORCHARDS

Fireblight has been rather serious in many orchards this year. Since it is bacterial and resides in the cambium area of the bark, the only thing that can be advised is to cut away the blighted portion of branches, limbs, and twigs and to remove the cankers elsewhere in the tree. Preferably, this should be done in the dormant season any time after the leaves have dropped. It will be relatively easy to find the affected portions even though there are no leaves remaining on the trees, as the sunken dead bark of the cankers is darker than the surrounding live bark. As you know, the cuts should be made so that the wound will be in non-affected wood. A cut six to eight inches below the canker is satisfactory in most cases. The trees usually recover quite rapidly through new sprout growth below the affected portions. This new growth may escape reinfection if the blight cankers were removed from the tree during the dormant season.

CLOVER AND ALFALFA SEED

The seed of small seeded legumes is badly needed. 1944 seedings of alfalfa, red clover, alsike, white clover, and timothy will be almost entirely dependent upon the 1943 harvest of these seeds. The carry-over was very small. Any fields of these not critically needed for hay or pasture should be given a chance to produce seed. As the fields come into bloom watch them closely to determine if there is a satisfactory seed set. If not they can still be harvested for hay or used for pasture. Remember that your 1944 seedings may be dependent on 1943 home produced seed. A price support plan will be in operation to insure good prices or any surplus seed you may harvest.

SHARE MACHINERY IF NECESSARY TO SAVE CROPS

Today America is sharing food and ammunition with her Allies. This sharing is saving many American lives. On many farms this good neighbor policy can do just as much good. Farm equipment and machinery which you may have and which your neighbor may need can be put to good use in helping him to harvest and save his crops. Likewise he may have equipment that you well can use on your farm. Because of smaller harvests throughout the nation this year than what we had last year, and with at least a 15 per cent increase in livestock numbers, very little commercial feed will be available in the near future. Farmers should grow as much of their own feed requirements as they possibly can. Talk with your nearby neighbors. Find out what equipment they have that may help you, and find out what equipment you have that they may need. Then put it to use. That's the home front way of winning the war.

RENTAL CHARGES FOR FARM MACHINERY

There are farms in the county that do not have sufficient modern farm machinery to carry on all farm operations. Machinery is frequently borrowed from a neighbor or custom work is employed. The Wisconsin Crop Reporting Service has carried on considerable research to determine fair rates. A few of the more important ones are given below. Rates are given on the acre basis as paid in 1942.

Corn picking.....	$2.21
Cutting corn.....	1.79
Plowing with tractor.....	1.39
Discing with tractor.....	.98
Digging potatoes.....	2.21

OLD GRAIN BINDERS

The Wisconsin state fair management is conducting a contest to locate the oldest grain binder in the state which is still being used to harvest crops. In a recent news article E. Skallskey, county agricultural agent, asked Washington county farmers to report any old binders which were still in use. So far six farmers have written in concerning the binders they used to harvest the 1943 grain crops on their farms. The first letter received came from Hubert J. Fritz, Kewaskum, Route 2. He writes that he has a Milwaukee Steel Junior No. 10 five foot cut binder that is 50 years old or older. It has a wooden wheel with steel spokes and "does just as good work as a new one."

Henry Kohl, West Bend, Route 3, writes that he is still using a binder bought in 1899 and is now cutting its 45th season. He thinks that it will give service for five or more years. The binder cost $105 when new and this price included two sickles, one 12 lb. bag of twine, and canvas to cover the machine from his father in 1907 and in 1927 sold it to his son. Thus it has done service for three generations of the Kohl family. Mr. Kohl concludes his letter by saying "When we put the binder back in the shed after the harvest is over, I just feel "let's say, very well done old pal and let's hitch up together again next year!"

Hubert P. Klein, Kewaskum, Route 2, writes that he has a McCormick right hand grain binder that is 29 years old and just finished cutting his grain with it.

Clarence Volkman of Jackson township (Cedarburg, Route 2) reports that they have an old Deering binder which was purchased in July, 1902, and that he is now using it to cut his 41st crop. He has used it to harvest the grain crop each of these 41 years. William A. Krause, Rockfield, Route 1, has reported the oldest binder so far. He reports that they are still using a Minneapolis binder purchased by his grandfather in 1885 and that it has been in constant use since. He writes that it is cutting grain nicely this year, its 59th season's crop.

A letter was also received from the Rev. A. J. Klappoetke, formerly pastor of the Catholic church at St. Michaels, saying that his brother who lives at Montello, Marquette county, is still using a Milwaukee grain binder which may be about 48 years old. This binder has cut about 25 acres of grain every year including the present season. Wm. Graef, Richfield, reports that he is still using a grain binder purchased in 1912. He uses it to cut all his grain.

If there are any other old binders in the county, let's hear from you.

SAUERKRAUT MAY BE MADE RIGHT IN JAR

Wisconsin homemakers who want to have sauerkraut next winter are going to make it themselves this year. For the commercially canned sauerkraut has almost disappeared from the market, and even if you are to buy it in bulk, chances of getting it are limited. Just because you live in an apartment or a house with little storage space is no reason for not making sauerkraut. You can make a jar at a time if you like—and the results will be even higher in vitamin C than if made in the old-fashioned way, in a barrel or crock.

This type of sauerkraut—made in a jar or two at a time—is known as kitchenette sauerkraut, because it can be made in even a tiny kitchen. Use any type of two quart jar or other jar not suitable for canning, except those with self-sealing covers. Test jars for leaks. Sterilize jars, covers, and a spoon to be used in packing the sauerkraut.

Early cabbage is as good to use as the late varieties, but Alice Bilstein, Washington county home demonstration agent, says to be sure the heads of cabbage are good and firm. Trim off the outside leaves and remove any discolored spots. Rinse the heads in running water with stem end down, and drain. Shred cabbage into large pan or bowl. A two quart jar will hold about three and one-third pounds of shredded cabbage. To this amount add two and one-half tablespoons salt and if desired a teaspoon of sugar. Mix well.

- FANS

A small can of oil will go a long way towards making your appliances outlast the war. Bushings and bearings for some appliances are hard to get—and appliances are almost impossible to replace. Keep your appliances well oiled and keep buying WAR BONDS.

Please Return Empties Promptly

Because of the shortage of materials it is almost impossible to get new beer kegs and cases.

When our customers hold empty kegs and cases longer than necessary we find it very difficult to give prompt delivery service.

Therefore, we will regard it as a special favor if you will return kegs and cases as soon as they are empty.

Attention Victory Gardeners
 The large Horn worm or tomato worm has been discovered in a few of the local victory gardens. It is an ugly looking pest which is found on the stem or foliage. It can strip a plant in two or three nights, leaving only a skeleton of the plant.
 Because of its color, the tomato worm is rather hard to see. However, it can be discovered by the occurrence of strippings and by excrement under the plant. Usually the worm does not occur in large numbers and can be hand picked. It is quite large in size and is as thick as an ordinary lead pencil and sometimes grows to be as thick as a thumb. In length it runs from two to four inches. It is harmless to man and, therefore, it is recommended that the worm be hand picked. You can also destroy it by applying arsenate of lead to the plant's leaves but if you do this you must be sure to wash the tomato fruit before using.
CABBAGE WORMS
 The cabbage worm generally becomes quite prevalent at this season of the year. The first sign of its presence will be holes in your cabbage leaves. This worm can be easily eliminated by the use of rotenone or pyrethrum.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Capture of Palermo Pockets Axis Army in Sicily's Northeastern Corner; Allied Activity in Pacific Is Intensified; Nation's Employment Reaches 38 Million

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

American fliers moved closer to the Japanese mainland when they bombed Paramushiro, which lies below the Kamchatka peninsula of Japan, 1,200 miles from Tokyo.

SICILY: Pocket Axis

The second stage of fighting in Sicily found the Axis forces retreating from the western reaches of the island as the Seventh American Army of Gen. George S. Patton moved into rapid occupation of the territory.

The Yanks' seizure of Palermo sealed off the Axis troops in the northeastern corner of Sicily. As Patton's army hemmed the remaining Axis forces of approximately 100,000 men in from the west, Gen. Bernard Montgomery's British Eighth Army pounded at the enemy's line at Catania.

Units of the celebrated Hermann Goering division put up a stiff fight on the outskirts of Catania. In this section, the broad Catania plain is criss-crossed by several rivers, making tank and motorized operations difficult; and many shallow creek beds and thick grain fields gave German machine-gunners good cover for defensive fire.

While the fight raged in Sicily, British naval and air units bombarded the sole of the Italian boot at Crotona.

CIVILIAN GOODS: Increase Possible

The government's effort to get a more effective production for the war might result in a modification of certain programs and free materials for civilian goods, War Relocation director James F. Byrnes said. That, however, is a hope and not a prediction, Byrnes cautioned.

Byrnes' statement came on the heels of a revelation that the munitions program was being cut down in some lines because our growing air power was amply protecting Allied industries abroad from destruction from bombing, and thus reducing their demand on U. S. plants for material.

According to Byrnes, the various war agencies are studying their purchasing programs, to confine procurement to articles most useful in the light of recent combat developments. Where cancellations or reductions in orders may be feasible, the possibility exists that material spared will be used for civilian goods.

EMPLOYMENT: 38 Million at Work

As the labor department announced that over 38 million people were currently employed in non-agricultural establishments, the war department revealed that it had authorized the release of 4,500 men from the army for work in copper, zinc and molybdenum mines.

According to the labor department, current employment was 1,663,000 over that for the same period a year ago. Despite the fact that the manufacturing and public utilities and transportation industries put on 162,000 workers recently, total employment was only 66,000 more in May of this year. Since May, the construction industry has laid off 99,000 men.

The war department said failure of the metal mines to secure the necessary amount of workers left only the army as a reservoir of men with the requisite skills for the pits.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

NEWSPRINT: The price of newsprint paper on which newspapers are printed, will be raised $4 a ton, on September 1 by order of the Office of Price Administration.

"INVASION" MONEY: Government printing presses are turning out specially designed paper money for use of American servicemen in countries they occupy.

PRISONERS: Many more prisoners of war are coming to prison camps in the United States, the war department says. At present, 267,000 are held in North Africa. Thousands more are being captured in Sicily.

TURKEYS: So that American fighting men get plenty of turkey meat this Thanksgiving and Christmas, the War Food Administration has asked raisers to provide 10 million pounds in August and September for shipment.

SOUTH PACIFIC: Range to Dutch Indies

Ranging 1,200 miles to the west, American heavy bomber formations struck at the Japanese east base of Surabaya in the Dutch East Indies. Tumbling down on an oil refinery, docks, warehouses and railway installations, 500 pound bombs caused heavy damage, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said.

The action marked the first air raid on Surabaya since that former Dutch base was pounded by the Japanese early in the war.

The raid on Surabaya was part of intensive Allied activity in the South Pacific area. As American troops worked closer through heavy jungle to the Japanese air base of Munda on New Georgia islands in the Solomons, medium and dive bombers and fighter planes kept up a rain of explosives on the embattled enemy troops guarding that strong-hold. In one day alone, American airmen made 250 raids on the Japanese positions.

ROME: "Priceless Treasures"

"Declaring . . . Despite the precautions that may be taken it is almost impossible to avoid, on this sacred soil of Rome, the destruction of venerated edifices," Pope Pius XII deemed it . . . our duty once more to raise our voice in defense of the priceless treasures that constitute the ornament of Christian and human endeavor, following the Allied bombing of the Eternal City.

In citing the historical, cultural and religious importance of Rome, the pope said . . . All that we put before competent authorities on several occasions in clear terms, recommending to them in the name of human dignity and of Christian civilization the inviolability of Rome.

REDS: White Bulge

Throwing the full weight of their might into the drive, the Russians bore down on Orel from three sides, while embedded German troops fought desperately to prevent being cut from the rear.

"Anti-Nazi German National Council," the German high command to overthrow Hitler and negotiate a peace with the Russian government. Although presumably composed of former German army officers, the "national committee" bears a liberal sprinkling of former leaders of the Communist party of the old reichstag.

At Orel, the Nazis were holding a big bulge eastward, from which they could strike out against the rear of the Red's northern or southern armies. Russian troops made notable progress cutting across much of the bulge in the north, but the Germans were offering stiff resistance on the southern fringe.

For their part, the Germans made no effort to minimize the power of the Russian drive. They continued their strategy called for a continuation of the struggle so as to wear down the Red's strength.

LABOR: Demands Roll-Back

Meeting in the White House, organized labor served notice on President Roosevelt that it would not continue support of his anti-inflation program unless prices were rolled back to the September 15, 1942, level.

Charging Price Administrator Prentiss Brown with having failed to execute the government's roll-back program, labor representatives declared they would open a pressure campaign for his removal from office unless current prices set in motion to push current prices back.

FARMS: 1.3 Per Cent Idle

A total of 76,704 farms with an acreage of 6,484,292 lay idle in the United States when the national census was taken in 1940. The number represented 1.3 per cent of all farms in the country.

New England and the Middle Atlantic states showed the greatest percentage of abandonments, with one out of every 20 farms idle. This compared with Iowa's report of one out of every 2,000.

Abandoned farms averaged 85 acres against the 174 acres for operating tracts. Depleted soil and crop failures accounted for one-third of the vacancies, and there were many departures for employment in industry.

Almost 57 million acres of land lay idle on producing farms, census figures also showed.

CASUALTIES: Light, So Far

War and navy department casualty lists issued for the first year and half of the war totaled 16,556 men killed in action or from wounds, and 31,343 missing. The missing, it was explained, may either be dead or prisoners, but final tabulation must await the war's end.

Casualties were almost equally divided between the services. Of the known dead, 8,412 were navy, marine and coastguardsmen, while 8,144 are army men. However, the army's record of 21,076 missing doubled the navy, marine and coast guard's figure of 10,267.

As the services' casualties were the death of Maj. Gen. William P. Uphur of the marines and Capt. Charles Paddock in the crash of a naval plane near Sitka, Alaska. General Uphur was commanding the department of the Pacific for the department, who had served on General Pershing's staff in the First World War at the age of 18, was world famous as a sprinter, having set 94 records from 1920 to 1929.

POULTRY: Army Takes Over

Under the second war powers act, the Office of Price Administration ordered the detention of poultry trucks on eastern highways and the requisitioning of their stock for the army.

OPA took the action, it said, after black market operations had interfered with the army's purchase of poultry in the Delaware, Maryland and Virginia area, largest fowl producing section in the East. According to OPA, much of this meat was being sold to dealers over the price ceiling.

Dealers from whom the poultry was requisitioned, were paid the prevailing ceiling price.

MINERS: Seek Contract Approval

With the War Labor board rested the task of determining the fate of the new contract entered into between Illinois' United Mine Workers and bituminous coal operators, providing for a daily payment of $1.25 for difference over such underground. Differences over such compensation was the chief cause of three walkouts, leading to government seizure of the pits.

In addition to providing portal-to-portal pay, the new two-year contract outlays strikes and lengths the 35-hour week to 48 hours. Under present conditions, the miners now receive $7 daily for a seven-hour shift, but the new pact would award them time-and-a-half for the eighth hour each day and for the full eight hours on the sixth day.

Besides WLB approval, the agreement is dependent upon the Office of Price Administration's authorization of an increase in coal prices to offset the wage settlements.

LABOR: Demands Roll-Back

Meeting in the White House, organized labor served notice on President Roosevelt that it would not continue support of his anti-inflation program unless prices were rolled back to the September 15, 1942, level.

Charging Price Administrator Prentiss Brown with having failed to execute the government's roll-back program, labor representatives declared they would open a pressure campaign for his removal from office unless current prices set in motion to push current prices back.

The labor leaders said further delinquency on roll-backs would lead them to repudiate the wage stabilization program, in which wage increases have been limited to 15 per cent over the January, 1941, levels. Living costs have jumped approximately 21 per cent since that time, they said, outstripping income by at least 6 per cent.

WAR BONDS

With 23 billion dollars already raised from non-banking investors since last December, the government announced plans for a new 15 billion dollar war bond drive to start in September. Individuals, corporations, insurance companies and other non-banking sources will be eligible for the purchase of the various denominations of savings bonds, notes and certificates.

In the two previous drives, banks bought over 10 billion dollars of securities.

In the next drive, the state war finance committee will make a number of people buying war bonds. Volunteer salesmen will concentrate on house-to-house canvasses.

Intensification of the government's program to sell to individuals reflects its desire to mop up as much excess purchasing power in the pockets of the people as possible, the committee says, going to the banks, where borrowing has the effect of putting additional money into circulation.

Who's News This Week

By Delos Wheeler Lovelace

Consolidated Features.—WNU Release.

NEW YORK.—Our newest battleships mount such firepower of such diverse calibers, that they can pound a mountain to rubble or plunk a bird at fifty feet.

No Longer Raise Sitting Ducks, but Screaming Eagles

Blandy puts it another way. He says they have finally caught up with the parade; meaning they are no longer, as was Britain's Repulse, a sitting duck for any dozen dive bombers.

Of all our admirals Blandy should know. He is chief of the bureau of ordnance and has been fathoms deep in gun design and manufacture, fire control, armor and projectiles for a quarter century.

At Annapolis he was top man of his class and even then tops in ordnance. He has the Class of 1871 graduated to prove it. He was barely awarded when he wanted to marry. She was Roberta Ames, just about Washington's prettiest in 1913. However, he was sent on a cruise and the wedding waited for almost a year.

His present post, at fifty, is the cap stone on a single-minded career. Besides that, he holds commendations for increasing the accuracy of fire of his destroyer squadron. And while he was gunner officer on the New Mexico she won pennants, gunnery "E's," trophies and cups, everything in sight.

EVER SINCE THE METEOR WAS BEGAN

Since the meteor was begun in the thick of things on the diplomatic front in Europe. Now that events that are moving toward a climax on that beleaguered continent, he's coming home to head the European division of the state department. With him he's bringing plenty of knowledge gained first hand both in France and England.

For a time after the fall of France, as charge d'affaires he ran the American embassy in Vichy. That was after Ambassador Bullitt left and before Admiral Leahy checked in. After the naval man's arrival, Matthews sat in on all the talks with Petain and the late Admiral Darlan, serving as interpreter for Leahy. Late in '41 he was shifted to London and he was counselor of the U. S. embassy there when the call home arrived.

This forty-four-year-old native of Baltimore is a career diplomat. He received his initial assignment just three years after leaving Princeton and its quadrangle club in 1921. He was sent first to Bucharest. Later he turned up in Bogota, Colombia. Jefferson Caffery was there at the time, and he liked his young aide so well that he took him along with him when he was ambassador to Cuba. Those were hectic days down in Havana and some things once attacked Matthews' automobile, but fortunately he was elsewhere at the time.

Bespectacled, he has a round and boyish face. It's a studious face too, as befits a man who is going to help steer his country through dangerous diplomatic shoals in the days to come.

Fear of Farm Land Boom Adds to Inflation Worry

Official Figures Show Agricultural Unit Values Have Increased 20 to 24 Per Cent in Year.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

TELEFACT

WAR RAISES VALUE OF FARM REAL ESTATE

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

For many months now, government offices and conference rooms, no matter how they might echo with glowing reports from the home or the battle front, have never been quite free from a ghost. It hovers in the corner and sends chills down every spine—it is the ghost of Old Man Inflation, trying to come back to the scene of his crimes in the roaring twenties.

The Office of War Information has just issued a warning that this specter may appear in his most fearful form if we are not careful. The fat pay envelope is the inflation danger you hear most about. But there is a worse one, namely, a farm land boom. So far, there has been no spectacular rise in farm land prices, but a dangerous trend has been discovered in some states and the bureau of agricultural economics is decidedly worried. Here are some figures.

As of March 1 of this year, increases in farm land values over those of the previous year were 20 to 24 per cent.

In September, 1941, I wrote in these columns: "And the burning question is how to stop the conflagration before it starts. The chief danger is another prairie fire of farm land speculation such as started in Iowa in World War I . . . Today, two years after the present war started, farm land prices are up 1 per cent . . ."

Remember, that was written in September, 1941. Well, steps were taken to prevent speculation then and they met with success. However, as we have seen by comparing figures, land prices in some states have now increased considerably. That is natural for much has happened since 1941. In 1942, as the Office of War Information points out, "for the first time in 20 years, the annual average of farm prices reached parity with other prices." Since the outbreak of the war, the average of farm prices has risen more than 90 per cent, and farm income by about 80 per cent, while the average prices paid by farmers, including interest and taxes, has increased about 25 per cent.

Farm income was around $7 billion dollars in 1941—it will be about $22 billion for 1943.

That means, of course, that the farmer has money to spend and it is natural that land values would rise to some degree. As I said, they have gone up as high as 24 per cent in some states and less than 6 per cent in only six states. Those figures, says the bureau of agricultural economics "bear watching!" It is also reported that bankers in some parts of the Middle West believe that in some cases, the land values have risen beyond their real worth based on the long-time earning capacity of the land. That, if it is true, of course means that right now some farmers are buying land that won't pay for itself.

It is reasonable to suppose that they are not members of that unhappy group of 85,000 farm owners who met Old Man Inflation under foreclosures in the decade that ended in 1939. If they are, they deserve to suffer again. But the unfortunate thing is that when the farmer loses, the rest of the country does, too. We have struggled through minor industrial panics, as we used to call them, but things are in such a way that there is no stopping until everybody touches bottom.

The article which I wrote in Washington a meeting here in 1941 reported a meeting here in Washington of mortgage bankers, insurance people, farm organization representatives and others who were urged by the Farm Credit administration to make normal appraisals of land. Apparently they did a pretty good job. Meanwhile, an educational campaign was started urging the farmer, instead of rushing out and buying land with the first money he got as income increased, to pay off his debts. It was next year (1942) the net reduction of mortgages was 360 million dollars as against an average of 120 million reduction over the three preceding years. Of course, there is nothing Old Man Inflation hates worse than seeing debts paid up.

Another thing which has helped the present situation is the fact that the farmers who are buying land now usually put up a large initial cash payment. In other words, they are avoiding future debts and that is another thing, of course, which is equally unpleasant to Old Man Inflation.

There is nothing to stop the farmer from speculating in land if he wants to, buying on a margin the way the gamblers used to do on the stock exchange. Now such transactions are considerably limited by law but there is no law to keep a farmer from gambling if he doesn't know any better.

The Japanese Domei agency disclosed that Emperor Hirohito had sent a message of "congratulations" to Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, Vichy chief of state, "on the occasion of Bastille day."

Under wartime operation, railroad freight cars must travel about 16 per cent farther on the average haul.

Commander), squadron commander; Lieut. R. B. Kelly, second-in-command; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox Jr. Lieut. Kelly, sent to the tunnel hospital on Corregidor, learned from the wounded there how badly the war was going for us. Cavite, our big naval base, was gone and our air force nearly wiped out. While he was there the hospital was bombed. Ensign Akers is telling some of his experiences before Manila fell.

CHAPTER V
like the party?" I asked. "Wasn't it any good?"
"I don't know," she said. "I didn't go to the party."
"Weren't you asked?"
"Yes," she said. "I was asked. But it was New Year's, you see, and I thought it might be nice here."

"Not very many nice things happen to you during a war, but this was about the nicest that ever happened to me then, or any other time. It made me feel so good that between the two of us, we managed to get Charlotte cheered up. She had got back on duty presently, and she managed to sneak us out a couple of fairly cold bottles of Pabst beer, to celebrate on. But Peggy had been preparing. The island was on two meals a day, but she'd managed to hold back a couple of apples and a whole box of marshmallows. That was our New Year's Eve supper, and I'll bet that yours, wherever you had it, couldn't have tasted any better."

"Running any kind of romance, no matter how mild, was a real problem on Corregidor. About the best place to sit was right down where we were, at the tunnel's mouth. But the road ran right in front of it, and every five minutes an army truck would burgle tactlessly around the curve, shining its dimmed-down headlights right on you. Then for another three minutes you were choking with dust. If you got tired of this and tried to go for a walk, you'd hardly get started when you would realize that eleven thousand men were trying to sleep all over that little island, and if you went far, you would step on most of them in the dark, and not many of them would thank you for it. There wasn't an unoccupied square foot anywhere."

"We proved that later on when the doctor prescribed walks for me—to build back my strength, because I'd lost thirty pounds—and Peggy was assigned to go along. The troops swarmed on that island—every pond was crowded with them bathing, and I would always have to go ahead to take a look over hills and be sure Peggy wouldn't surprise them."
"Meanwhile Bulkeley was reporting to the Admiral daily and was formulating a plan—which he would talk over with me, as I was his second officer—for what we would do when our gas ran out. We had damned little left, and the army couldn't spare us any."
"Our first plan was, when we got down to our minimum, to get out to Australia. The navy patrol bombers had planted caches of gasoline among the islands like stepping-stones, and the Admiral gave us their location. But the first stepping-stone was Singapore, and the Japs were working their way down the peninsula, closer and closer to it. Could we get there first? Of course we wouldn't leave the Philippines until all of our torpedoes were gone and we had just enough gas left to make the final run. But then, as you know, Singapore fell and also the southern islands—Celebes and Zamboanga. The route with the cached gas was closed—that plan was out."

"So then we said, who wanted to go to Australia anyway? Our job was to defend Manila Bay—wasn't that our part in the war plan? Yet even then it kept coming up: suppose the worst came to the worst and Luzon folded up—the whole archipelago—even Java—what then?"
"Then Bulkeley here hit on a real plan. When our gas was down to just what we could carry on our decks, instead of waiting around to get captured by the Japs, we'd take our boats to China to continue the war. At first glance you'd say that was crazy—the Japanese holding most of the Chinese coast—but not the way the skipper had it thought out. He knew China from the years he'd spent out there on a gunboat while I was there on a destroyer."
"The Japs were closing in on Hong Kong—that was fine for us! We'd make our dash—shoot our last few remaining fish at their gathered transports just where they least expected an attack, and then head north toward the region of Swatow.

"Of course the Japs held that coast too, but Bulkeley had worked out an answer, all in the utmost secrecy. He'd gotten in touch with Colonel Wong, the Chinese military officer. Wong had cabled Chungking to investigate the vicinity. Chungking cabled back that it could be done."

"They said the Japs held the Swatow region thinly—at no point did they go more than ten miles inland. So, at an agreed time, and at an agreed rendezvous on the coast, Chungking would send a raiding party down to fight its way to the beach and meet us."

"There we would burn our boats—now useless with all torpedoes expended against Jap targets. The Chinese couldn't hold that point long—but long enough to hustle us through that ten-mile land strip onto free Chinese soil. There trucks would take us to the nearest airfield, we would fly to Chungking, and from there a four-motored American ferry-transport plane would bring us back to the States."

"Where was the flaw? We couldn't see one, unless somehow it leaked out. Besides myself, only four living people knew. They were DeLong of our squadron, Captain Ray, chief of staff, Colonel Wong, and of course the skipper here, who had worked out every detail."

"But before we left we knew there would be plenty of action ahead for us here, and I told Bulkeley I was crazy to get out of this hospital, and asked for his help. If they'd let me get back to duty, I'd agree to anything—promise to soak my hand for so many hours a day—anything they said, just to get back even on a semiduty status."

"So we staged it for the next morning, when the ward doctor would be dressing my hand at about the same time the head surgeon made his rounds. We tackled him. I made my talk, and he seemed to waver. 'Tell this bird you need me,' I said to the skipper. 'We really do,' said Bulkeley, but just then Peggy overheard and queered the whole thing. 'Certainly not!' she said. 'You can't let him go back to duty with his hand wide-open! That swung him back. "Duty," he growled. "Who said anything about duty? Two weeks of it and you'd lose your whole arm!"

"I tried to argue—point out that if the MTB's went out on a mission, I could hold on with one arm as well as two, but Peggy had done it, and now he wouldn't listen."

"I don't know," she said. "I didn't go to the party."
"Weren't you asked?"
"Yes," she said. "I was asked. But it was New Year's, you see, and I thought it might be nice here."

And that if I hadn't been so damned stubborn in the first place, and had got that hand treated in time, I'd never have come to the hospital, and never met her, and she would never have been able to break up my plan to get out, so it was all my fault!"

"She's always had that cute way of seeming to storm at you and dress you down, so that you ended up mad at anything long."

TO YOUR Good Health

FRESH AIR AND RAW VEGETABLES

It is unfortunate that just at the time when wartime gasoline rationing is making it necessary for many to do more walking, some of our health authorities are advising the middle-aged particularly, that they do not need daily exercise. As mentioned before, these health authorities have in mind that many of the middle-aged with falling heights, high blood pressure and other ailments have also the idea that daily vigorous exercise is absolutely necessary for their health; in an endeavor to take this exercise they put a strain on heart and blood-vessels. These authorities would not suggest that the healthy man or woman of middle age should not take a daily walk at a leisurely rate.

Not only does the daily walk give the heart regular and rhythmic work to do, but it means the breathing in of more fresh air. Man was made to live outdoors, and his organs show this, but hours are spent indoors and minutes only are spent outdoors by most of us.

In the Journal of the Royal Institute of Public Health and Hygiene, Great Britain, Dr. Wilson Jameson, chief medical officer, ministry of health, says:

"Fresh air and fresh salads—take all you can of both should be a helpful maxim." Dr. Jameson urges people to spend as much time as possible in the open air in order that metabolism (the breaking down and building up process of the body) and bodily efficiency may be increased. The working processes of the body, the most efficient results from these processes, can be achieved without vigorous exercises.

Thus another high authority warns against exercise, but here again it is against "vigorous" exercise. No Britisher "ever suggested that walking is not helpful to everybody."

Coming back to fresh air and fresh salads, this parting advice is given: In view of the fact that if we were short of anything it is of vitamin C, it will be of great value if people will form the habit of eating a certain amount of raw vegetables with meat or almost any vegetable can be eaten raw provided it is finely chopped just before the meal.

While this raw vegetable daily, even though finely chopped, might not agree with nervous and emotional individuals, practically all others would be benefited by it.

Many practicing physicians can well remember the importance attached to heart murmurs during their student days in medicine and for some years afterward. Thus, in final examinations at college or for state board or provincial certificates, the location of the murmur on either side of breastbone, between what ribs, or distance from breastbone, whether murmur occurred during or after the first or second beat, were all considered vastly important, although the treatment of all murmurs was very much the same.

It was felt that after Dr. James Mackenzie pointed out that murmurs in themselves were not important, that it was the strength of the muscular walls of the heart that meant heart strength or weakness, the words "heart murmur" would gradually disappear. Not so, however, and today a physician mentioning the presence of a murmur always qualifies it by saying that a heart murmur always means just a small leak in one of the valves which will do no harm because the heart muscle is strong. Unfortunately this word "murmur" and "leaking heart" fastens itself on the mind of many patients and they begin to worry about their hearts.

It sometimes happens that a patient will consult a physician complaining about his heart and there are present also a murmur or some irregularity in the beat. He will complain of shortness of breath, pain under breastbone and a feeling of weakness. The physician examines the heart, notes the murmur or slight irregularity, and if not careful to make an exercise test, X-ray examination and an electrocardiogram, may treat the patient for serious heart disease. What the physician does not know is that the patient has been worrying about his heart for months, and may, unintentionally, exaggerate to some extent.

QUESTION BOX
Q.—What is the value of Thiamin, Riboflavin, Nicotinamide?
A.—These are forms of vitamin B. They increase appetite, relieve pain of neuritis.
Q.—Will you please tell me whether Alfamint tea is helpful or otherwise to a person suffering from arthritis.
A.—I'm sorry, but the preparation mentioned in your letter is not an official remedy and I do not know what it contains.
Q.—What causes aching on the right side at about the waist line?
A.—Aching at waist, right side, could be due to gall bladder, appendix, kidney disturbances, also pleurisy and other ailments. May be gas pressure as there is a right-angled curve of large bowel in this region.
Q.—Please advise me as to where I would find a competent skin specialist in Philadelphia?
A.—There are a number of competent skin specialists in Philadelphia. Your physician can refer you to one of these specialists.

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is war. Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have. . . as well as you possibly can. This column by the housewife's friend tells you how.

STONE FOUNDATIONS
IN PUTTING up a building of any sort, it is never wise to have wood in direct contact with the earth. Sooner or later trouble will be sure to come from the rotting of the wood through dampness or from attack by termites or other insects. Some kinds of wood such as cypress and redwood are resistant to trouble from rotting, but in time, even these are not entirely immune. In anything but a shack, the parts in contact with the earth should be of masonry, with well made poured concrete the first choice. When alterations to an old building or regrading around it may bring the wooden parts into contact with soil, it is best to replace the woodwork with concrete. Sometimes it is possible to protect the wooden parts with a concrete wall, but for safety, this should be waterproofed with a coating of tar.

SOUNDPROOFING
Question: I live in an old house with a party wall. My neighbors begin their day when I am ready to retire. Is there any way I can have a room insulated against sound?
Answer: Thorough soundproofing is not possible, but fair results may be had by lining the noisy wall with a double layer of insulating material. Fur out the wall with 2 by 4 inch studs, nailing them in place at the floor and ceiling. Nail a one-inch (or thicker) insulating blanket between the studs and then cover the wall with an insulating wall-board.

Shingle Stain
Question: What is the formula for mixing shingle stain?
Answer: Mix in the proportion of four parts raw linseed oil, two parts coal-tar creosote and one part japan drier. For colors other than brown, tint with color-in-oil thinned with linseed oil to the above formula.

Lumber for Bookcase
Question: I wish to make some wall bookcases. What wood could I use other than white pine? Would maple be too hard for me to handle?
Answer: White pine is easiest to work with. Maple, birch or oak can be used, but these woods are harder and cutting would not be so easy.

Fuel Oil Stains
Question: How can stains of fuel oil be removed from asbestos shingles on the outside of a house?
Answer: Wash repeatedly with a solution of washing soda in water; three pounds to the gallon.

Painting Screen Door
Question: Which side of a screen door should I paint so that people cannot see through it from the street?
Answer: For best results and appearance, paint both sides.

Painting Over Casein
Question: What should I do to walls which are now finished with casein paint, before applying oil paint?
Answer: A clean surface is all that is necessary.

Tin Roof Leaks
Question: Paint on my tin roof has curled up at the joints and rain leaks in. Should I replace this tin with other types of roofing or can it be repaired?
Answer: Soldering open joints may stop the leakage. Remove the old paint, clean the metal and apply a prime coat of good quality red lead paint; allowing a week or more for drying. Finish with a good quality outside house paint in a light color. If the tin is in good condition I see no reason for replacing it.

The Once Over by H.I. Phillips

OUR OWN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON VACATION GAS

Q.—What is meant by a single round trip to a cottage?
A.—Don't begin this by getting into an argument.
Q.—Instead of driving to a vacation place 15 miles away and return it is okay if I drive to one 30 miles away and leave the car there until the war is over?
A.—If the garage people don't object.

Q.—What is the meaning of the clause "for vacation purposes for which adequate alternative transportation is not available?"
A.—That is put in to make it harder.
Q.—What is "adequate alternative transportation?"
A.—Boy, will the ration board get into arguments over that one!

Q.—When is alternative transportation really "available"? A bus runs to my vacation place but it is always crowded. Does that constitute adequate transportation?
A.—Lissen, save time by seeing your legal staff.

Q.—What is all this certification business? How do I certify that I have enough gas, or coupons for enough gas, for a vacation trip?
A.—You must put it in writing.
Q.—Won't OPA take my word?
A.—You've been an A card holder long enough to know your word is never taken.
Q.—Do I really have to certify my speedometer reading before I leave?
A.—Yes, sir. The OPA wants to start you off on your vacation under the usual suspicions or not at all.

Q.—Must I certify that I have a vacation place to go to?
A.—Positively. You might be fooling the OPA.
Q.—How?
A.—By just using the gas without going on a vacation.
Q.—What would be the difference. It would be the same gas wouldn't it?
A.—There you go quibbling again.

Q.—If I am driving to my cottage and inspectors hold me up as a pleasure driver what do I do?
A.—You show them a "vacation validation" certificate. This makes the vacation valid.
Q.—But does it make me valid?
A.—On an A card you can never be quite valid.
Q.—I have a cottage 20 miles away. A neighbor has a better one 40 miles away and wants me to spend my vacation with him. If we pool our gas we could make this trip using less fuel than if we took separate ones. Would this be permitted?
A.—Probably not. It sounds too reasonable.
Q.—After reading all the requirements I do not feel like going on a vacation by car. Must I?
A.—So you're running out on us after all this trouble!

ADOLF DECIDES ON A NEW UNIFORM
("I am putting on the uniform of a soldier, never to take it off until Germany is victorious everywhere." Hitler in 1939.)
Tailor—Ah, Herr Hitler, what can I do for you?
Hitler—I need some new clothes.
Tailor—I hadn't expected you so soon.
Hitler—That goes for me, too. But it's an uncertain era. Anyhow this uniform hasn't stood up the way it should.
Tailor—After all, you've had it ever since 1939. Has it had steady wear?
Hitler—Has it!
Tailor—Is this the one you put on when the war broke out and said you would never take off until it ended with victory?
Hitler (sadly)—Ach, yes!
Tailor—Well, there's a limit to the wearing quality of any material. It looks pretty worn everywhere except in the seat. That's as good as new.
Hitler—That's easily explained: I haven't had any chance to sit down in it.
Tailor—Were the pants always as baggy as this?
Hitler—I'm not sure whether they were that loose to begin with or whether I've shrunk.
Tailor—Well, let us go on. Now about the length of the pants?
Hitler—Make them a lot shorter than the old ones.
Tailor—A lot shorter? You don't want running pants?
Hitler—IZZAT SO!!!

Things You Make

TRANSPLANT a bit of the forest to your garden—wood cut-outs of this trio do the trick. The shy baby deer and his friends, the rabbit and squirrel, all come on pattern Z8884. They are to be cut from plywood, wall board or thin lumber with jig, coping or key-hole saw, painted according to directions and placed outdoors to add their bit to the surroundings of your home.

The price of the pattern is 15 cents. Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers. Send your order to:

Depths Much Greater Than Heights on Earth
The surface of the earth comprises approximately 196,950,000 square miles. Of this 139,440,000 are water and 57,510,000 are land. The fertile soil on the earth amounts to about 32 million square miles. The average elevation of the land above sea level is 2,800 feet. The average depth of the ocean below sea level is 12,450 feet. The highest point of land is Mt. Everest in Indo-China, 29,141 feet. The deepest part of the ocean yet discovered is off the island of Mindanao in the Philippine group—35,400 feet. There is a difference of 64,541 feet or nearly 12 miles between the deepest part of the ocean and the highest point of land.

In the Breadbasket
Stories about progressive schools continue to roll in, one being concerned with a little boy who proudly brought home a picture of Abraham Lincoln which he had mounted on a piece of cardboard.
"Did teacher tell you anything about this man?" the boy's father asked. The little boy said yes, she had. Well, did he remember what she had said? The little boy beamed and replied: "She said: 'Paste him in the middle.'"

LT. KRAUTKRAMER, ARMY NURSE IN AFRICA, WRITES

The editor received a letter this week from 2nd Lt. Jeanette Krautkramer of the army nurse corps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Krautkramer of Kewaskum, R. 3, who is stationed somewhere in Africa. Miss Krautkramer censored her own letter. She mentions some of the cities in Africa she has visited and is looking forward to seeing Italy. Her address, minus the unit identification, follows: J. Krautkramer, 2nd Lt. ANC, A.P.O. 763, %Postmaster, New York, N. Y. Here's the letter:

July 20
Dear Bill:
How about a subscription to the Statesman? I'm just way behind on the Kewaskum news. Please go ask my little mother to pay for it cause I just don't have any money.
This place isn't fit for man nor beast. Why anybody wants to fight over it is more than I can see. Even the weeds don't do well here.
Visited Mateur, Bizerte, Tunis and Carthage. Am looking forward to seeing Italy.
How about publishing the addresses of the boys overseas? I am sure some of them are very near here.
Greetings to all.
Sincerely,
J. Krautkramer

EDITOR'S NOTE—It wouldn't help to publish the addresses of the boys overseas because censorship regulations say we are not supposed to print the unit identification.

WIETOR GETS MEDALS FOR SHOOTING, TALKS ON RADIO

In a letter Tech. Leo Wietor of Indianapolis Gap Military Reservation, Pa., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wietor of Wayne, writes of being entertained by a movie star and giving a talk about Wisconsin over a radio station. He also has received medals in competition firing of gun. The letter follows:
Sunday, July 25, 1943

Dear Friends:
Well, it's about time I wrote you a few lines of my experiences out east here in Pennsylvania.
Am still getting advanced training and working out field problems, also doing technical work in the motorized section, etc. Also did some stuff in competition firing on various guns and received several medals.
During the past week, movie actress Judy Garland was at the Gap to entertain the men in service.
Also received a letter from Sgt. Howard Schmidt, who is stationed in China somewhere. Howard writes that he is in fine shape and getting along swell. Best of luck to Howard.
Am spending a week end at Harrisburg and had the honor to talk about Wisconsin over Station WKBO, Harrisburg, while attending a program there.
Will sign off now, thanking you for the service of the home paper, and best regards to all friends.
Yours truly, Leo

Twenty-five Years Ago
(1918)

The Kewaskum branch of the Enger-Kress pocketbook factory of West Bend is now running full blast. Seven employees started work on the opening day and two days later a force of 12 were employed. Herman Gilbert is the capable manager.

The county road and bridge committee, consisting of Chas. Friday, Hartford, Frank Salter, Erin, and Emil Backhaus, Kewaskum, together with Town Chairman Gerhard Fellenz, Supervisors Wm. Ramthun and Fred Klein of the town of Kewaskum, State Highway Engineer C. Weymuth and several members of the local Advancement association, made a trip of inspection over the St. Michael's road. The road was found in a poor condition and Mr. Weymuth advised the members to re-locate a new road. County and state aid amounting to $1,000 was appropriated last year for the road. The proposed new road would be considerably shorter and eliminate all the hills. It would be of great benefit to farmers and this village. The Advancement association voted $400 for funds for the road and a subscription was circulated among our businessmen. A total of $1,000 was raised by this method.

Adolph Glass plowed three acres of land from 4 o'clock in the morning until breakfast with his new tractor. If there is anyone who can beat that they will have to get up earlier than Mr. Glass.—Beechwood correspondent.

A new ovation has been added to the playgrounds of the public school in the form of a slide for the children. This form of amusement is similar to the ones used in large cities and is proving very popular among the pupils. The slide was donated by the Kewaskum Woman's club.

TWENTY-SIX YEARS AGO
(1917)

The state national guardsmen were called to colors by President Wilson, who issued a proclamation drafting the state militia into the federal service. With the order several local boys who enlisted in the army received orders to report for duty. Men called are Adolph and Maurice Rosenheimer, Co. A Signal Corps; Walter and Carl Schaefer and Theo. Schmidt, Signal Corps, Wisconsin National Guard, and Fred Schaefer, Jr., Co. F, Cavalry. All left except Ted Schmidt, who is ill and will join the ranks as soon as health permits. The men went to Milwaukee for entrainment to Camp Douglas. Ralph Petri, John Tessaran, Edwin Backus will leave today for its nation-wide war bond tour for the U. S. Treasury Department.

Captured Jap 2-Man Suicide Sub to Visit Camp

America's first trophy captured after the attack on Pearl Harbor—the Japanese two-man suicide submarine—will visit Washington county at West Bend on Monday, August 30, on its nation-wide war bond tour for the U. S. Treasury Department.

The submarine is mounted on a tractor-trailer, 84 feet long, and will be paraded through the streets to the exhibit location, 6th avenue at Main st., where it will be on display between 10 a. m. and 3:30 p. m.

The nation-wide tour of the submarine started Navy day, October 27, from San Francisco and has been so effective in its stimulation of war bond and stamp sales as the submarine was supposed to have been in the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

The submarine, after its capture, was taken apart at Pearl Harbor by the U. S. navy for study, and photographs were taken and blueprints made of the many parts. The submarine was then shipped to the Mare Island Navy Yard at San Francisco and put back together. Parts cut in both sides of the hull, including steps and catwalks past the public might view the only means of entrance—a 15 1/2 inch opening atop the tower.

The only requirement for the purchase of war bonds or stamps. All banks, post offices, savings and loan associations, and shing on county will have available to all war bond purchasers a war bond of $10.00.
